Nixon Leaves on Tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon left the White House today on his 15,000-mile trip to the Middle East with the hope that it will "contribute to the lasting peace that we as Americans are so deeply dedicated."

Nixon spoke briefly under a warm sun, on a muggy day, on the South Lawn of the White House as he headed for his historic journey to four Arab countries and Israel. It is the first trip by an American president to three of the four Arab countries and to Israel.

The President, with his wife Pat standing beside him, told an assemblage of diplomats and top government officials on the White House grounds that he was undertaking this trip much as he did previous visits to mainland China and the Soviet Union.

Nixon said this trip like previous trips to Peking and Moscow was "a journey for peace."

Those visits, he said, "had a profound impact on building a structure of peace for the whole world," and this trip "will take us to a portion of the world that has known nothing but war" for many years.

The President said "we realize that one trip will not solve differences that go back centuries" in some instances, but "we believe a beginning has to be made."

The President declared: "We believe this trip, like the other journeys we have taken, will contribute to that lasting peace which we as Americans are so dedicated."

Before heading for Cairo on Wednesday, the President and his party—including a large retinue of newsmen—will stop off for two nights in the quaint Austrian city of Salzburg. This will give the party time to get accustomed to the so-called jet lag. There is a seven-hour time differential between Washington and the Middle East stops on his schedule.

In his departure statement at the White House, Nixon said "we have been proud to play a part" in what he said was a beginning to peace in the troubled Mideast, referring to the U.S.-negotiated troop disengagement agreements between Israel and Egypt and Israel and Syria.

The President said his visits to Israel, Syria, Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Egypt would "provide an opportunity to affirm support" for peace Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger negotiated between the warring Israeli and Arab forces.

It will also afford opportunity to "explore ways we can have new and better relations with each" of the countries and to try to forge better relations among the nations in the area.

In an ebullient mood on the eve of his departure, Nixon told a gathering of political supporters that the trip will be "long and difficult" both physically and diplomatically. But he said the goal was to "build on the progress" already achieved in silencing the guns on the Egyptian and Syrian fronts with Israel.

He will be the first president to visit Israel, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Jordan. Egypt, the first country to push for a Nixon visit, was host to President Franklin D. Roosevelt during World War II.

Accompanying Nixon was Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who will be making his seventh trip to the Middle East since the end of the Arab-Israeli October War, and a large crew of press assistants.

In advance of the trip, Syrian President Hafez Assad indicated that the United States and Syria would formally announce a resumption of diplomatic relations while Nixon is in Damascus.

In Cairo, where the President arrives Wednesday, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat will arrange a mammoth salute to Nixon with flowers, a gun salute and hundreds of thousands of cheering Egyptians along a four-mile motorcade.

At home, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Sunday (on CBS' Face the Nation) that the Nixon journey was "fraught with danger" and questioned his traveling at a time when the House Judiciary Committee is moving into a crucial stage in its impeachment inquiry.

But House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill said he thought the trip would be worthwhile and would not interfere with the impeachment hearings.

The 61-year-old President confidently told 1,400 wildly cheering supporters at a luncheon sponsored by the Committee for Fairness to the Presidency Sunday that he will serve out his term and will leave the White House with his head high on Jan. 20, 1977.

Nixon was buoyed by the emotional pep rally and said a "strong American presidency is essential if we are to have peace in the world."

Defending his refusal to turn over Watergate tapes to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski and to the judiciary committee, Nixon said: "I shall do nothing to weaken this office."

He also joined the other speakers, principally Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., in jabbing the news media. "As Senator Curtis implied," said Nixon, "what we say here will be little noted by the media."

Curtis accused "certain members" of Congress and the press of encouraging the "impeachment syndrome" and called them the "get Nixon crowd."

The Nebraska senator also attacked the Watergate grand jury, which is predominantly black and which named Nixon as a co-conspirator in the cover-up. "It can hardly be described as a cross section of America," he said.

Security arrangements were a worry for the Secret Service throughout the Middle East. Under ordinary circumstances, Lebanon, a perennial friend of the United States, would have been included on the tour, but the presence of 400,000 Palestinian refugees was a deterrent.

Bicycle Rodeo Winners

Sporting decals instead of blue ribbons, these bicycle rodeo winners line up in the corral at Verplanck School after having navigated a skill course and passed a bicycle inspection sponsored by the school PTA. Some of the 34 entries did not pass the inspection because of faulty equipment. There was one unicycle in the rodeo. The riders were marked on a 70-point score. The winning entrants and their scores, from front to rear, are: Kindergarten, Kristy Moran, 47, first place; Brenda Kinkowski, 46, second; Dean Moran, 38, third; Grades 1 and 2, David Gaston, 58, first; Donald

Gaston, 57, second; Michael Grigsby, 53, third; Grades 3 and 4, Cindy Almeida, 64, first; Scott Russell, 47, second; Leslie Frasher, 38, third; Grades 5 and 6, Joan Cycenas, 54, first; Michelle Laramie, 53, second. (Herald photo by Bevins)

Fire Points Up Hazards Of Storing Gasoline

A 1967-model motorcycle owned by Richard Green of 14 Knox St. was badly damaged in a Saturday afternoon fire in his basement, a blaze which firemen say points out the hazards of storing gasoline in a home.

Manchester Town firemen responded to the 1:52 p.m. alarm with two engines and a ladder truck, and were confronted with a "lot of heat and smoke" in attempting to quell the cellar fire.

Firemen, using Scott air packs (breathing apparatus) to enter the cellar, stopped the flame in time to prevent any structural damage, but smoke damage was reported in the first floor of the two-story, four-family dwelling.

Deputy Fire Chief Roy Startton said the fire apparently started as a result of gasoline igniting in the motorcycle's fuel tank. A hot water heater near the motorcycle might have exploded if the fire hadn't been extinguished in time, he said.

"There was enough gasoline there to blow the whole house off its foundation," Fire Chief John Rivoso said after the blaze, calling attention to hazards of storing gasoline.

Gasoline should never be stored in a home, he said, and neither should vehicles or appliances with gasoline tanks be stored in a home.

If townspeople have to keep gasoline on hand, Rivoso warned, storage should be kept to a minimum; should be in Underwriters Laboratories-approved metal containers; and should always be outdoors, away from possible ignition points such as a water heater or furnace. (Herald photo by Bevins)

Homeowners Win Court Round

By DOUG BEVINS

The Buckland Homeowners Association appears to have won the first round—concerning legal technicalities—in their court appeal of zone changes granted by the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) for MAP Associates' massive, mixed-use development at Buckland.

The first round—a highly technical defense attack on the homeowners' case—resulted last week in a Court of Common Pleas ruling favoring the plaintiffs.

Judge Donald P. Dorsey, in written decisions, denied a defense motion to erase the matter from the court docket and over-ruled a defense "plea in abatement" which might have ended the legal challenge on technicalities relating to the filing of a recognition.

MAP Associates' lawyer Allen Duffy had alleged that the recognition—a statutory requirement binding plaintiffs to orders of the court—was filed improperly.

The defense motion sought to dismiss the appeal on that basis, and the plea in abatement sought to dismiss the appeal on the basis that (according to the defense) the plaintiffs weren't allowed to file a new recognition to correct the improper filing.

The plaintiffs, represented by Atty. David Wichman in court arguments last month, contended that they had a right to "amend" their appeal by filing a new recognition, and Judge Dorsey agreed.

The zoning appeal is now expected to go into hearings on actual merits of the case, now that technical aspects have been aired, but court dates have not been scheduled.

Being challenged by the homeowners are March 4 PZC decisions which rezoned 256 acres of Rural Residence Zone tobacco land to Business 3 Zone (80 acres), Industrial Zone (38 acres), and Comprehensive Urban Development Zone (138 acres).

The plaintiffs in the appeal are William C. and Catherine Anderson, Larry E. and Minna J. Noone, David L. and Geraldine H. Thompson, Winfred R. and Shirley M. Pointer, Earl P. and Doris C. White, James L. and Julie A. McAuley, William F. and Elisabeth J. Case, Raymond G. and Elaine E. Smith, and Douglas S. and Celia E. Henderson.

Defendants in the action are the PZC; MAP Associates, an investment partnership led by developer Arthur M. Fischer of New York City; the Hartman Tobacco Co., which owns the Buckland acreage; and other persons who have a financial interest in the development site: Saphonie Begine of Manchester; Leon Schweir, Edward Schweir, Eileen Schweir, and Albert Schweir, all of South Windsor; and Sterling Olmsted of Wilmington, Ohio.

Regional Market Target of Protest By UFW Backers

HARTFORD (UPI) — About three dozen demonstrators supporting the United Farm Workers marched outside the Connecticut Regional Market in Hartford early today to protest the sale of boycotted lettuce and grapes.

The regional market is a distribution center where fruit stands, restaurant suppliers and small supermarkets buy produce trucked in from other areas, including California and Florida.

George Sheridan, a spokesman for the farm workers, said the demonstration was part of a nationwide effort to win union contracts including controls on dangerous pesticides and ending child labor.

The demonstration was organized, Sheridan said, to inform store owners of the boycott and to warn them if they persist in selling boycotted grapes and lettuce they can expect pickets outside their stores.

Sheridan said supporters have been distributing leaflets at A&P stores in New England because the food chain is the only major one not cooperating with the boycott.

The campaign against A&P as well as non-cooperating small stores will continue, Sheridan said.

Nixon Lawyers Face Busy Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although President Nixon will be out of the country this week his Watergate attorneys will have plenty to keep them busy.

The House Judiciary Committee continues its investigation of alleged White House spying. Nixon faces a possible contempt citation for refusing to supply evidence for the Ellsberg trial and the Supreme Court may decide to release the Watergate grand jury's report naming the President as an unindicted co-conspirator.

Federal Judge John J. Sirica lifted his seal from the grand jury material Friday after the President's lawyers, citing previous disclosure by the news media, said they wanted the full report made public.

In addition to the list of indicted participants, the material includes details of

Nixon Turns Down Panel Tape Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon refused again today to comply with a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 45 White House tapes and documents, saying there would be no end to the impeachment panel's request "unless a line were drawn somewhere."

He added: "Since it is clear the committee will not draw such a line, I have done so."

The President's response to the subpoena, issued May 30 on a 37-1 vote by the committee, had been expected in view of Nixon's statement May 22 — in turning down an earlier subpoena — that he would not comply with any further demands.

Nixon's reply, in a letter to Judiciary Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., was made known at the White House shortly after the President departed on his Middle East trip and just after the 10 a.m. deadline set by the committee for surrender of the materials.

Hot, humid and partly sunny today with chance of a thunderstorm or two in afternoon or evening. Highs around 90 except lower along the Sound. Warm, humid with showers or thunderstorms likely tonight and Tuesday morning then partial clearing and less humid Tuesday afternoon. Lows in low 70s to upper 60s and highs in upper 70s to some mid 80s.

the evidence that led the grand jury to conclude Nixon had a part in the cover-up.

The final decision on release of the material will be made by the Supreme Court, possibly today, because it took custody of the documents when it agreed to hear Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's suit for the release of more subpoenaed evidence.

Nixon could also be found in contempt of court by U.S. Judge Gerhard A. Gesell for his refusal to give former assistant John D. Ehrlichman access to personal files.

Gesell said last week that Nixon's refusal "borders on obstruction... (and) is totally offensive to all our concepts of justice."

Ehrlichman, the former chief domestic adviser, contends the files are essential to his defense against charges growing out of the burglary of the office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist by the White House "plumbers."

Both court actions could have a major impact on the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation.

The committee, which continues its hearings this week, may vote to open its doors and will also decide whether to serve more subpoenas for White House tapes. The White House, which already has refused to comply with subpoenas for 98 tapes, maintains Nixon will not turn over any more tapes to the committee. Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, James

D. St. Clair, is also expected to reply to Sirica's decision to turn over to prosecutors a portion of a Sept. 15, 1972, tape of a meeting among Nixon, John W. Dean III and H. R. Haldeman. Sirica delayed implementing the order over the weekend to give the White House time to respond.

In other Watergate-related news: —GOP National Chairman George Bush said Sunday both major political parties should merge their national organizations with the personal campaign organizations of their 1976 Presidential candidates to avoid any future Watergates.

Storms Hit 'Tornado Alley'

By United Press International
Those who live in the country's midsection known as "Tornado Alley" are hardened veterans of weather catastrophes but Red Cross volunteer Peggy Gien spent the weekend with tears in her eyes.

"It's hard to believe what I've seen," she said while operating one of four disaster relief centers set up in Tulsa, Okla.

It was a weekend of killer tornadoes, torrential rains and flash floods in portions of Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. As the last vestiges of the weather system moved peacefully eastward Sunday, the official death count stood at 25, hundreds were left homeless and property damage was expected to exceed $40 million.

President Nixon declared Arkansas a major disaster area paving the way for federal funds to finance relief and recovery efforts. The governors of Kansas and Oklahoma asked for similar aid after the governors of all three states toured the devastated areas.

Arkansas reported four persons drowned in the storm. Oklahoma said it had at least 15 deaths and Kansas counted six dead.

It began Saturday night with a tornado ripping the roof of a crowded nursing home at Drumright, Okla., and cutting a mile-long, three-block wide swath through the community of 3,000. But the violent weather quickly spread to other sections of the state and to Kansas.

At Emporia, Kan., a tornado cut a mile-long path through the town, destroying all but five of a 103-unit trailer park and wrecking 22 businesses in a shopping center.

Five of the city's victims were found in the rubble of the mobile homes. The sixth body was found in an apartment near the shopping center.

By the time the storm system reached Arkansas, the twisters had died out but a deluge in the form of more than a foot of rain sent creeks and rivers over their banks into homes.

Two persons drowned in El Dorado, Ark., Saturday when their car stalled on city streets and was swept away. Two youths were killed Sunday near Magnolia, Ark., when raging waters swept away the gravel embankment under a culvert.

Farther west at Guthrie, Okla., a creek swelled by almost five inches of rain drove about 100 families from their homes Sunday.

State officials said it could have been much worse in Oklahoma had tornado warnings not gone out as early as they did.

Six died in Drumright and eight other Oklahoma cities reported fatalities, including Tulsa which recorded its first deaths attributed to tornadic activity in its history.

Oral Roberts University at Tulsa suffered extensive damage to an administration building and a new aerobics complex.

SLA Members No Martyrs

It was almost inevitable that the death of six SLA members in the Los Angeles raid of May 17 would be seized upon by bleeding hearts as martyrdom of a dedicated group of young protesters and further evidence of police brutality and oppression.
The spectrum of these have ranged from the grieving father of Camilla Hall who guessed they felt they had to do something dramatic to Mario Savio, Berkeley firebrand of the Sixties, who was resurrected from much deserved oblivion to give his pontifical view of the affair and its impact.
The misdirected former Berkeleyites who died in the police action seem to have been long on protest and short on programs of any social significance.
They made their brief gesture of extorting two million dollars from the Hearst's for food for the poor and that program was overrun with leftists and racists trying to get something for nothing for themselves which is hardly an act of social significance.

They lost interest in the poor and turned down $4 million dollars in funds which the Hearst Corporation had pledged if Miss Hearst were returned unharmed. Even she, in her new found cause, made no effort to return to so that the poor might be fed.
Their greatest consistency seemed to have been in getting publicity for themselves, much like the two pitiful youths who perpetrated a bank robbery to see themselves on television.
The future of social progress is dim indeed if it is in the hands of this type of the juvenile bravados or their lachrymose mourners who have convinced themselves that the SLA was striving to overcome the mourners personal frustrations.

Municipal Power System

Forty-two small municipalities in New York state have municipal power companies. They buy power through the New York Power Authority, which is required by law to give preference to municipal systems. The state-owned power authority operates generating stations throughout the state, including the Moses-Saunders power dam site on the St. Lawrence river.
To the northeast of the dam is the town of Massena, population 14,000. It has been served for 74 years by the Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, considered "a good company." Early this year, the company installed a 7.5 per cent increase and then asked for another 16 per cent increase. That proved the irritant that set the town to have a referendum on a $4.5 million bond issue with which it would buy the power company facilities and operate them municipally.
The town voted in favor of the bond issue by 3,640 to 2,180. The reason the overwhelming vote is important is that Massena's action is expected to have a domino-effect throughout the state and, if it does, perhaps in other states as well.

Will Massena's action spur other communities, frustrated and angry about rising electric costs, to consider taking over utility systems and operating them on a municipal level?
For instance, Massena pays $21 for 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity. Plattsburg, with 18,000 people, which buys its power from the state power authority, and sells it through its municipal system, charges $9.65 for the same amount of power.
Niagara Mohawk, which serves 1.2 million users over a 24,000 square mile area, is not taking Massena's action lying down. It fought the referendum. Now it says the $4.5 million bond issue will not buy the facilities, that the cost, including interest, on the bonds for 30 years, will come to $8.3 million. Any town that follows Massena's lead will have to figure on the bitter opposition of its utility companies.

Controls Create Shortages

In a recent offering of oil and gas leases by the Department of the Interior for tracts offshore of East Texas, bidding was considered spotty, even though more than $1.5 billion was bid by oil companies for about half of the tracts which were up for lease.
Government price restrictions on natural gas was given as the reason for the slow bidding. Oil and gas companies are loathe to put up the kind of money needed for bids under artificial price controls.
And it is understandable. In addition to the vast sums of money required for leasing, offshore drilling is a very expensive proposition. Some of the rigs take $40 to $50 thousand per day to keep them going.
An individual or corporation is required to gamble the money required when the end product cannot be sold in a free market.

The end result of the governmental policy of price control is to maintain shortages which contribute to the emergency type situation which we had during the months of the Arab oil embargo.
Controls, other than the free market, brought on the shortage of beef last year. Producers held cattle off the market since their prices were below aggravated shortage.
When controls came off supplies flowed and prices came down quickly. Meat is one of the products which is down in price today.
One day we may learn that the control of natural economic forces does not rest in government.

Nixon In the Mideast

NEW YORK — What President of the United States was saved by his secretary of state? If history teachers put this question to their students someday, the answer may be: Richard Nixon. What we don't know yet is how much salvation. How far will the saving of Richard Nixon by Henry Kissinger go? Kissinger can certainly help the President but can he save him?
The Nixon version of his trip to the Middle East, in the wake of diplomacy, is that it is the normal thing for the President to do. By that reasoning, Kissinger was the agent of Mr. Nixon was the principal. With the agent ending the current phase of the mediation, his boss steps in to get his share of the applause at the footlights of history.
The trouble with this version is that there is another play being enacted — a strange, scarcely believable, tragic-farce, political-moral drama called Watergate, which has reached the courts and will probably in time reach the U.S. Senate sitting as a court.
Yet the truth is also that Mr. Nixon, quite understandably, wants to use the Kissinger diplomatic triumph to help him in his own Watergate ordeal. He has waited, hoping, for this moment. In the old Greek and Latin writings, a god rolled up in a chariot or stepped out of divine cloud to rescue the besieged and beleaguered protagonist. They called it "god from the machine." Mr. Nixon clearly wants to use

Today's Thought

Conversational prayer is popular with young people but all of us can benefit from it. Rosalind Rinker's book "Conversation with God" tells about it. It is Biblical, see Matt. 18:22. In conversational prayer we grow and become honest. If you mean "I," don't say "We."
Private personal prayer is necessary, too, but praying together makes you bold to ask for things you dare not alone

Capital Fare

Kissinger Gets Things Done

WASHINGTON — We just might have a pretty fair facsimile of a hero of our hands in Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. He would look awful on a white charger, but he brought the best mind in more than a decade to the State Department, he is not afraid to work up a sweat, and he gets things done.
It is, of course, dicey to nominate Henry the K for a place alongside Talleyrand. By the time this comment is printed the killing may have erupted again in the Middle East. Still, his accomplishment in bringing the war between Israel and Syria to an end was nothing short of remarkable, and he's already earned a lot of space in the history books.
This is good. We have needed a hero for a long time, even though most of us are chary of using the term, and Watergate made the agreement mean concessions by both sides. For example, Israel gave up all the territory captured in the October war, and Syria dropped her demand that Israel return Children are also working on the outdoor classroom, cutting small stumps and brush from the area. The classroom is equipped with several rustic benches which will make it a most enjoyable place to hold classes as the end of the school year becomes increasingly warmer.

The arboretum located in back of the school is also equipped with benches and has several picnic tables. Plans for finishing the arboretum include an herb garden and labeling of plants, trees, rocks and shrubs. Bird houses and a bird feeding station will be built and located in the area.
The nature trails are named by the students themselves. The children have tentatively decided to call the trail to the pond "Mallard Meadow Trail."
Andover is one of the few schools in the state to have such an extensive outdoor nature area. Other schools with the same interest will be visiting Andover schools nature areas in the near future.

able to take a brochure from the outdoor classroom. These brochures correspond with the labels on the trail to give the children a basic background of the various trees and plants. Chamberlain Lane was named for and dedicated to Mrs. Doris Chamberlain, principal of the Andover Elementary School.

Right now the children are working on the trail which leads to the pond. They have carried large baskets of wood chips to lay the trail for others to follow.
Students are keeping count each day of how many baskets of chips they have put on the trail. They try to beat the total of the previous day and some compete with friends or with themselves to beat previous records. When the trail is completed they will know with many baskets of wood chips it took.
The wood chips were donated to the school by the town after the cleanup of the December ice storm.

Revenue Sharing Cut Discussed

BOLTON
Donna Holland

Tel. 646-0375
The expected shortage in revenue sharing funds that the town will be receiving and the proposed new town library were discussed at the last Selectmen's meeting.
Those present at the meeting wanted all townspeople to be aware of the anticipated shortage.
Bolton's amount for the fifth entitlement period will be $26,158. The town had anticipated receiving $60,198. The decrease is due to data change.
The total amount Bolton has received $9 far from the revenue sharing program is $120,707. Bolton will receive $15,047 for the final quarter of the fourth entitlement period and $26,158 for the fifth entitlement period making that total received $161,912.
The amount Bolton will receive for the sixth and seventh entitlement periods is unknown at this time.
Bolton residents at a Town Meeting in February approved construction of a new town library for not more than $271,000.

Due to the fact that the town has already obligated itself to the library, revenue sharing funds are being cut and because bids for the library have not been sent out so it's not known how they will come in, town counsel is researching the entire matter.
The group present at the Selectmen's meeting felt that the Public Building Commission should go ahead with the bidding as soon as town counsel has reviewed them.
The project is expected to send bids out at its next meeting, scheduled for June 11.
The group also felt that if the present plans are interrupted for any reason a stand-by secondary project for using revenue sharing funds should be ready for presentation to the town in order to save the funds the town has so far received.
The town counsel is also researching the revenue sharing matter. When the town counsel finishes his research on the library attending the Selectmen's meeting would like to meet again.
Those at the meeting were: selectmen, Aloysius Abratt, chairman of the Board of Finance; several finance board members; John Smythe, chairman of the Library Board; Douglas Cheney, chairman of the Public Building Commission; and Alan Wixted, architect for Mankey Associates who drew plans for the library.
As the library project stands now the full architect's fee will be $23,500. If the library project is stopped before bids are sent out the fee would be $17,625.
If the project goes out to bid and is then stopped the architect's fee would be based on a percentage of the lowest bid received, believed to be 10 per cent.
State Senator Dave Odegaard, upon request of the selectmen, presently checking into the possibility of the town receiving state grant funding for the library.
Opinions varied as to the possibility of this as revenue sharing funds have been designated for the project. It was not known if both fundings could be used for the same project.

Some members of the Taxpayers Association attended a recent meeting of the Rham Central Office Committee (COC). Andrew Mulligan, spokesman for the group, brought a list of 27 questions concerning the operation of the COC to the meeting.
Chairman Rod McFarland answered all of Mulligan's questions in detail. The major concern expressed by the taxpayers Association in the lack of a public hearing for the COC portion of each budget, brought a list of 27 questions concerning the operation of the COC to the meeting.
Mulligan suggested that the budget of the central office become a part of the Rham budget. However, he was told that this was done the superintendent's office would then become a function of the regional system and that was not the intention of the original compact.
The compact, the agreement made by the four Boards of Education (Rham, Hebron, Andover and Marlborough) was set up to provide the services of the superintendent for each board. It was not set up to provide a regional superintendent for the non-regionalized elementary schools.
Mulligan asked for copies of several COC documents including the superintendent's contract. He was told that the group, similar to the Boards of Education, did not provide copies of such documents.
He was further told that he could copy the papers himself or a copy would be made at his organization's expense.
At the outset of the questioning Mulligan had made the statement that none of his

If there's a gasoline shortage most of the South Windsor residents questioned on a proposal to be used to Veterans' Memorial Park and a concerted effort to Spring Pond, located within the park, in order to make swimming healthier toward the end of the summer.
The council recently raised its participation prices to the park, increasing family membership from $6 to $10 per season; daily admission for residents from 10 cents to 25 cents; daily entrance fee for non-residents from 50 cents to $1 and the individual season price from $2.50 to $5.
Swimming lessons remain at $2 per person.
Last year the park counted over 20,000 persons over the 16-week summer season and the council feels this figure will be higher this year, especially since the gasoline situation will keep people closer to home.

However, due to increased threats of a gas shortage this summer the council intends to pursue the busing question, Smith said.
Recently Veterans' Memorial Park has been a matter of council consideration. This year the council approved an extensive filtration and chlorination job to Spring Pond, located within the park, in order to make swimming healthier toward the end of the summer.

The request for Windham High School to back formation of a hockey club has apparently been turned down since school officials feel there are other priorities right now.
Supt. Clarence Edmondson told the Board of Education he had discussed the possibility of forming a hockey program at Windham with Windham School Superintendent Norman Ketter.
Parents had recently appeared before the local school board seeking help in the matter. Citing the fact that Columbia has an excellent hockey program, all teams have their own equipment and parents transport the children to the hockey rink.
Edmondson indicated Dr. Ketter felt if the Windham board took the hockey program under its jurisdiction it would be responsible for the financial aspects. He said a coach would be under contract and would be paid a salary. Katter added there would be transportation fees, referee fees and ice time fees.
Edmondson said Katter was concerned about the hours of ice time. It was his feeling this would cause a problem as far as transporting some students and some would be eliminated from the program.
A matter of priority, said Edmondson, is to get the Katter feels Windham lacks in girls' sports and if any money is available for new programs he would encourage the board to provide more girls' sports at this time.

The request for Windham High School to back formation of a hockey club has apparently been turned down since school officials feel there are other priorities right now.
Supt. Clarence Edmondson told the Board of Education he had discussed the possibility of forming a hockey program at Windham with Windham School Superintendent Norman Ketter.
Parents had recently appeared before the local school board seeking help in the matter. Citing the fact that Columbia has an excellent hockey program, all teams have their own equipment and parents transport the children to the hockey rink.
Edmondson indicated Dr. Ketter felt if the Windham board took the hockey program under its jurisdiction it would be responsible for the financial aspects. He said a coach would be under contract and would be paid a salary. Katter added there would be transportation fees, referee fees and ice time fees.
Edmondson said Katter was concerned about the hours of ice time. It was his feeling this would cause a problem as far as transporting some students and some would be eliminated from the program.
A matter of priority, said Edmondson, is to get the Katter feels Windham lacks in girls' sports and if any money is available for new programs he would encourage the board to provide more girls' sports at this time.

Cooperative Teaching Parents Night Program

RHAM DISTRICT

Anne Ent Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

Parents of incoming seventh graders at Rham High School will have an opportunity this evening to review the new cooperative teaching program for seventh graders next year and to meet the teachers. The special Parents Night has been scheduled for 7:30 at the high school.

The eight teachers involved in the program will work in two cores, each consisting of a language arts, science, math and social studies teacher. Each core of teachers will be responsible for approximately 100 students.

In a recent presentation of the program to the regional board, Glen Frank, assistant principal, stressed how a student's interests, abilities and need are more likely to be discovered when he is taught by four teachers working closely together.

Frank also pointed out how cooperative teaching can more readily identify student abilities but at the same time do away with labeling students in straight ability grouping. In addition, the program will afford much greater opportunity for directed activities and extra help.

The eight teachers who are involved in the program have already been working voluntarily on the program and will continue to do so throughout the summer. It is expected that funds from the curriculum activities fund will be used to cover summer work.

The teachers are tentatively planning for a possible variation of the length of the basic studies classes (no bell ringing) and establishing a set back time for the seventh graders.

The eight teachers involved in the program are: Eleanor Willey and Diane Webb, English; Wayne Mosher and Anne Bellavance, science; Frank Newman and Robert Reme, math; and Ernest Nocentini and Robert Hanover, social studies.

In addition, seventh graders will be taught by subject matter specialists in foreign language, art, music, personal consumer ecology, industrial arts and physical education.

In summarizing the new program, Frank said the school is continually "exploring new methods to help us understand children and have a greater awareness of the assets and skills of the children."

It is hoped that the cooperative interdisciplinary teaching approach will give greater insight to understanding children's needs and problems," he said.

Like Old Times for Yankees at Shea Stadium, 50,093 Fans, Last Inning Rally, Lyle Winner

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was like old times for the New York Yankees Sunday, with a big crowd cheering. Sparky Lyle coming out of the bullpen and a ninth-inning game-winning rally to celebrate Manager Bill Virdon's birthday.

The difference was that the scene was Shea Stadium, home of the Mets, and that could be the most significant fact of 'em all.

The Yankees had been going so badly attendance-wise at their temporary home that they were wondering if they could draw a crowd with Raquel Welch playing second base in a bathing suit. But a crowd of 50,093 turned out for "Bat Day" Sunday and they saw a game which should bring at least some of them back.

The Yankees went to the ninth inning trailing, 3-1, but staged a three-run rally to win the game. Lou Pinella and Rick Dempsey singled home the first two runs of the inning and then Graig Nettles, who homered in the sixth inning, knocked in the winning run with a single.

And there was Lyle, who comes out of the bullpen to the strains of Pomp and Circumstance, leaving the dugout with his fourth straight victory of the season.

The Oakland A's defeated the Milwaukee Brewers, 5-4, the Texas Rangers edged the Baltimore Orioles, 3-2, the Boston Red Sox beat the Chicago White Sox, 10-6, the Detroit Tigers downed the California Angels, 5-3, and the Cleveland Indians topped the Kansas City Royals, 8-6, in other American League games.

Bobby Darwin tripled home the Twins' first run and hit a key single which contributed to their third tally but Billy Campbell couldn't hold the lead in the ninth. The crowd was 23,000 more than the Yankees had drawn this season during which they are playing at Shea while Yankee Stadium is being refurbished.

A's 5, Brewers 4 Sal Bando and Deron Johnson hit homers to help spoil Milwaukee's Jacket-Day promotion, which drew a crowd of 46,812, and earn Ken Holtzman his seventh victory of the season. His Holtzman went 6-2-3 innings, with Paul Lindblad finishing up, while Jim Slaton suffered the loss. Pedro Garcia honored for the Brewers.

Rangers 3, Orioles 2 Jim Fregosi drove in two runs with his fourth homer and the Yankees won their eighth game of the season. Nolan Ryan hit his sixth home run of the season. John Hiller replaced Lerrin LaGrew in the seventh inning and limited the Angels to one hit the rest of the way to earn his 10th save. Ryan, struggling through an erratic season, allowed 11 hits and five walks while striking out six.

Indians 8, Royals 6 Homers by Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan were the big blows for the Indians, who handed Steve Busby his sixth loss against seven wins. Steve Kline went only five innings but received credit for his fourth victory compared with eight losses.

Stargell Snaps Slump By Hitting Grand Slam

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Stargell may have left his heart in San Francisco but the Pittsburgh Pirates hope he didn't forget to bring along his bat for tonight's game in San Diego against the Padres.

Stargell broke out of an 0-23 slump with his ninth career grand slam Sunday and also smashed a two-run homer to lead the Pirates to a 14-1 rout of the Giants. Pittsburgh's 17-hit offense was also greatly aided by Richie Zisk, who hit for the cycle and drove in five runs.

Stargell, who has been visiting players' don't like to hit in Candlestick Park because of the wind," said Stargell, who grew up in nearby Alameda, Calif., where he was an eighth grader in high school. "But I've always liked it here. I think I've had some success, too. Of course, I never expected to drive in six runs but I was due for a good day."

Astros 11, Mets 1 Terry Crowley and Johnny Bench hit two-run homers and Joe Morgan chipped in with a solo shot as Cincinnati used a seven-run seventh inning to defeat Philadelphia. Mike Schmidt and Mike Anderson each hit three-run homers for the Reds. Don Gullett pitched the first six innings for the Reds to pick up his sixth win in nine decisions. Bench's homer and a two-run single by pinch-hitter Hal King were the big blows in the Reds' seven-run inning.

Fregosi Enjoying Big Year

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Texas veteran Jim Fregosi is a major contributor to the league-leading team batting of the Rangers and is one of the reasons the team is in the thick of the Western Division race. Naturally enough, the six-time all-star infielder doesn't agree with people who think Billy Martin's upstart ball club is going to fold in July.

"That's what people are saying we're going to do," said Fregosi, after his fourth home run of the season beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-2 Sunday.

"We have eight people hitting the ball well for us and I think we're going to be in the fight all the way, even though it's eventually going to depend on whose pitching does what."

Fregosi is playing an even 3-0 with third base against left-handed pitching and third base against right-handed pitching.

Week That Wasn't For Chicago WSox

CHICAGO (UPI) — This was the week that wasn't for the Chicago White Sox. It's not that they performed poorly. Rather, it's a case of playing under what probably will turn out to be the worst conditions to confront a team.

Following Sunday's 9-6 loss to Boston, the Sox sat back and pondered what had hit them. A 16-inning game Wednesday night against the New York Yankees, a four-hour game Thursday night against the Yankees, followed by four-hour games against the Red Sox Friday and Saturday night have left the players in a heap.

Even the hard hitting Dick Allen, who single-handedly has carried the Sox through their last 15 wins, admitted that "nobody could be expected to play under these conditions and be expected to play up to par."

In the back of the players' minds was an hour and 10-minute delay Friday night because of a fire in a ground floor concession stand.

The total time elapsed for the four games came to 19 hours and 15 minutes.

"The biggest problem of course is having to wind down after a game, but when you can't get home till two in the morning, it means lying in bed for two or three hours," Allen said. "I used to have a lot of adrenalin and while the pressure doesn't bother me, I don't know if my old heart can take it any more. I certainly don't want to be put into the position of complaining, because you have to accept these things. The point is, I don't know if athletes can take the physical pounding."

If Allen had a lack of sleep, he did not show it this week, as he collected four home runs, and drove in 11 runs. In fact, Allen has now driven in 2 runs in his last 15 contests. And against Boston this year, Allen has been playing well.

In the six games concluded Sunday, Allen has collected nine hits in 23 trips to the plate against Boston, including four home runs, and has accounted for more than one-third of the 37 runs the White Sox have scored against Boston pitching at Shea.

Perhaps the long hours also agree with teammate Ron Santo, who in the last two games against Boston drove in seven runs with three home runs and collected three other hits.

"I guess I feel like Allen does, because it sure is hard to unwind after a game when you don't get home until after 2 a.m. But this is a business and I don't think we as ballplayers should complain," Santo said. "I'm just happy that I'm swinging the bat better and helping the Sox."

Arc d'Triomphe Win Dream of Galbreath

NEW YORK (UPI) - It's no more than a dream at the moment, but John W. Galbreath of the Darby Dan Farm has high hopes today that one of his horses will win the Arc d'Triomphe. The Arc is one of the world's classic races. Galbreath had a good chance once but his horse failed him. Now he has designs on France's great race with Little Current, fifth in the Kentucky Derby but a seven-length winner of both the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes on Saturday.

The horse was retired from racing. The Stakes will be run at Saratoga on Aug. 17. Little Current will get a rest and then start preparing for that job. "He'll fire when you want him to and I don't think there's any 3-year-old around that can match his final three-eighths of a mile." Little Current only has had three races this year, the Everglades Stakes at Hialeah and then the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes. Little Current won both races by seven lengths and although jockey Miguel Rivera handled him differently in each contest, his sudden acceleration carried the colt to impressive victories. In the Preakness, Rivera drove Little Current along the rail and burst through a narrow opening to take command. In the Belmont Stakes the Puerto Rican rider stayed on the rail to gain contention. But then he swung the colt wide for the drive through the home stretch. Each time Little Current took command in a flash. In another blink of the eye he was out in front all by himself and steadily pulling away.

Martens Scores First, Second in State Meet

Taking a first and a second place at the State Open Track Meet Saturday at Ludlow High in Fairfield was East Catholic's Joe Martens. Martens placed second in the 100-yard dash and won the 440-yard run in a meet record 49.6 as he lunged at the tape and just did nip Skip Connelly of Andrus Ward.

Jeff Lumpkin of Manchester High took fourth place in the 220-yard dash. Lumpkin was the only Indian trackster to qualify for the Open Meet. Hartford County Conference member Xavier High of Middletown snapped Hartford Public's hold of the team title winning the crown by one-half point. Hartford had won the Open Meet the previous five years.

Rutherford Cradling Lion's Share of $$$

NEW YORK (UPI) - Johnny Rutherford, who survived a crash eight years ago that broke both arms, is now cradling the lion's share of the purse on the USAC championship circuit. The affable Texan earned a quarter-million dollars for his McLaren team two weeks ago by winning the Indianapolis race. On Sunday, Rutherford again picked up the top prize - this time $17,268 - by capturing the 150-mile Rex Mays Classic in Milwaukee.

Rutherford, the Atlantic, jubilant Jody Schechter of South Africa won his first Grand Prix race in two years on the Formula One circuit by leading from start to finish in the Swedish GP at Anderstorp. With the new bond of USAC-SCCA cooperation, there's a chance Rutherford and Schechter will hook up wheels in the near future.

Grid Strike Threatened

CHICAGO (UPI) - The National Football Players Association will go on strike if a new agreement is not reached with club owners by July 1. "We have 12 days of negotiations with the owners between now and July 1," Edward R. Garvey, the association's director said at a Sunday news conference. "If nothing is settled by that time, we will declare a strike."

Garvey said the owners are scheduled to resume talks in New York Tuesday for the first time since the union presented 63 demands to the bosses. The owners responded with a quick no to all demands. "A federal mediator was to be present at the Tuesday talks."

NCAA Track Laurels Captured by Tennessee

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) - There was a modest move afoot last week by track and field coaches to change NCAA regulations and forbid foreigners to participate in the annual track and field championships. The meet, some said, should be only for Americans. "If we get beat," said UCLA coach Jim Bush shortly before the 53rd NCAA championship last weekend, "I hope it is by Tennessee, because they don't have any foreigners."

Foreign competitors won 25 per cent of the points gathered and two of the contending teams were made up almost entirely of foreigners. Eight of UCLA's 56 points came from a French pole vaulter and 31 of third place Brigham Young's 41 points were produced by natives of other countries. The most superlative performance of the meet was turned in by Ghana's James Gilkes, who is attending Fisik University. Gilkes ran a 19.9 220-yard dash Saturday which tied the fastest time ever run.

Record Round Score Nets Green $30,000

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Four summers ago, an unhappy fledgling assistant pro, Hubert Green, was dusting shelves and sweeping floors in the pro shop of a weeping country club, too new and too busy to be able to play at the nearby Whitmarsh Valley Country Club. Sunday, Green walked away with a $30,000 check for winning the $150,000 IVI Golf Classic at the Whitmarsh course that, he jokingly claimed, he "couldn't afford to play" when he was a young assistant at the nearby Merion Golf Club.

The 27-year-old Green, now the second leading money winner on this year's PGA tour, shot a blistering 17-under par 72-hole total of 271 Sunday, a record for this tourney, and ran away with the $30,000 and his third tour victory of the year. Green shook off the hot and humid weather and an early double bogey to shoot a four-under par 68 for the four-stroke victory over Hale Irwin, who approached early he was "playing for second place and that's what I played for."

Green, starting the day with a two stroke lead, played every hole calmly and methodically to card six birdies and only one double bogey for the victory that increased his money winnings to $156,165, second only to U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller. Miller was two strokes behind Green when they started the final round but a double-bogey on the par-three third hole, when his drive sailed over the green and out of bounds, quickly put him out of contention. Miller wound up with an even-par final round of 72 to finish in a tie for third with sophomore pro Tom Jenkins at 277. Two strokes back of them was defending champion Tom Weiskopf, who had a final round 69. Mike Hill was at 280 while Joe Imman finished with a 281. Jim Dent, Tom Kite and John Schlee were back at 282 while Masters champion Gary Player finished with a 285 total. Green, who served only three months as an assistant pro at Merion in 1970 and was ineligible to play in area PGA tourneys, said he "considered himself a local son of some type" and was happy with the victory. His double bogey came on the par-four eighth hole when his drive just caught the left rough and then his approach shot flew over the green. After having to chip twice to the green, Green got in on five and sank an eight-footer. But Green, who had birdies on the third, sixth and seventh holes, recovered to birdie the 11th, 15th and 17th to make good his prediction on the course that he would "whip" the tournament record.

Legion Idle Tonight, Enfield Quits Zone

Tonight's opening Zone Eight baseball game at East Catholic High between Manchester and Enfield has been canceled. The latter nine has dropped out of play due to financial problems. This zone has been cut to six teams, East Hartford, Ellington, Rockville, Windsor, Windsor Locks and Manchester. Coached by Jack Holik, who will handle the reins on a fulltime basis for the first time, the Legion will look like the Manchester High outfit with few exceptions.

The locals play Zone Eight games Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Holik said that his pitching staff shapes up with Bidwell being the No. 1 man. Bidwell compiled a 6-1 win-loss record with Manchester High which reached the Class AA Division quarter-finals. Kopsel, Ken Irish, Bruce Ballard, John Varca, the only southpaw, and Groves, an All-Charter Oak Conference selection, coach Staff Varca is a sophomore from Bolton High. No results of the three exhibition games played last Friday, Saturday and Sunday were turned in for publication.

Fund Lack Hampers Red Tide Monitoring

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL, CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The arrival last week of the "red tide" — which affects shellfish and can cause paralytic poisoning in humans — caught New Hampshire by surprise because the 1973 legislature refused funds to monitor the clam flats.

The first word New Hampshire public health officials had of the dangerously high levels of red tide came from Maine.

We were notified at 1:15 p.m. last Friday by Maine that (shellfish) harvesting areas from Casco Bay south in Maine and from Gloucester Bay north in Massachusetts were being closed because of Red Tide readings from 200 in Massachusetts up to 599 in Maine," said Gilman Crowell, director of consumer protection in the New Hampshire Division of Public Health.

Crowell telephoned Dr. John Sauer, marine neurobiologist at the University of New Hampshire. They agreed that as New Hampshire had no recent samples from its own waters "and it would be too costly to go out and get them right now," New Hampshire would join Maine and Massachusetts in closing clam flats.

closed and cut the state about $50,000 in clamming licenses, according to Bernard Corson, director of Fish and Game. And it brought a lot of pressure on Crowell from people who wanted the flats open for sport fishing. No claims taken in New Hampshire may be sold. All are taken on individual "sport" licenses, with 12,000 sold in an average year at $4.50 apiece.

The politicians from that area were down our neck last year to get us to open the clam flats. We told them we would not. They promised me all kinds of money to police the area. You know what I got? Nothing," Crowell said. "It would take just a few thousand to monitor appropriate status year round."

A tiny organism called Gonyaulax tamarensis lacks the human nervous system when ingested by eating infected shellfish. It can cause a tingling sensation, nausea, cramps or death, by blocking the nerves which control breathing.

Gonyaulax tamarensis at Crowell is in no rush to open the flats in New Hampshire. "We'll have to have at least two readings below the 800 before we'll open," he said. Readings this week in New Hampshire waters ranged from 110 to 499.

He ordered several samplings this week, and plans weekly samplings until the red tide disappears again.

What Crowell really wants is regular samplings all year around. He already is mounting a campaign for funds, noting "the cost would be a drop in the bucket to do it."

Justice Study Started

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — An in-depth study of the entire Rhode Island criminal justice system, aimed at bringing all its facets into line with standards set by the American Bar Association and the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, has been started by the Special Legislative Commission to Reform Criminal Procedures.

Sen. Joseph W. Walsh, D-Warwick, said the three-month study will be followed by a commission determination of what additional legislation, if any, is needed to further improve administration of justice.

"Since the commission was established in 1971, it has had outstanding success in getting legislation enacted to reform specific problems in the administration of justice in Rhode Island," said Walsh, the chairman. "By actual count, 17 of the 17 measures introduced in the General Assembly under commission sponsorship or recommendation have become law."

MR. BUCKLEY

May 9, 1974, was a great day for the children at Buckley School. It was the day the man for whom their school is named accepted an invitation to visit them and be honored by them. An afternoon's itinerary of planned programs in different classrooms culminated with an Arbor Day program and the dedication of a sugar maple tree to Dr. William E. Buckley, who, at the age of 82, shoveled the first spade of dirt on the young roots.

In front of the school bearing his name, Dr. Buckley, his sister, and school principal Vincent Ramizi attend the planting of a tree dedicated to Buckley.

Dr. Buckley and his sister, Ellen Buckley, are escorted to different classrooms by Michelle Plante, principal guide, center, and David Stepper, to be honored in special programs.

Dr. Buckley pauses to autograph a copy of his book, "A New England Pattern: The History of Manchester, Connecticut," at the request of Nicole DePietro, center, and Laura Coulter, as guide Michelle waits.

"Yes, I always liked school," Dr. Buckley tells a group of attentive kindergartners. He told them how he used to build the fires in the one-room school he attended as a young boy.

Dr. William E. Buckley—educator, historian and author.

Highway Death Tolls Decline Despite Speeding Violations

DONALD E. MULLEN, United Press International. A UPI survey of highway officials shows death tolls are down across the country even though many drivers are exceeding the 55 mile an hour speed limit. Tennessee reported 475 deaths this year, compared to 561 at this time a year ago. In North Carolina, 588 persons have died in traffic accidents this year, compared with 761. Sgt. Mike Feldhausen of the Washington State Highway Patrol said although speeding arrests have doubled over 1973, "We're 77 deaths below a year ago."

Democratic Primary Battle Possible

HARTFORD (UPI) — Still the favored candidate, Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., could face a September primary if either of her two male challengers gets more than 20 per cent of the delegate votes for the gubernatorial nomination this summer. Attorney General Robert K. Killian Friday refused to accede to the wishes of Democratic party leaders that he bow out of the race for governor and accept a spot on the ticket as lieutenant governor. "There have been suggestions that I graciously withdraw and accept some spot other than governor on the ticket this fall," Killian told a regional party forum in New Milford Friday.

Zullo told a Democratic group in Hamden "If I have the opportunity to do before the broad mass of Democratic voters, I will be the nominee after a primary in September." A Zullo campaign aide, June Carroll, also said the Connecticut Women's Political Caucus should reconsider its endorsement of Mrs. Grasso on grounds that she did little on behalf of women's rights while she was secretary of the state. On the Republican side, Rep. Robert Steele's campaign for the gubernatorial nomination got a substantial boost when veteran lawmaker Nicholas Lange, state senator from West Hartford and co-chairman of the power Appropriations Committee, announced that he would not seek re-election in order to campaign for Steele. And Sunday, state Welfare Commissioner Nicholas Norton endorsed the congressman from the state's Second District, particularly applauding Steele's refusal to accept contributions of more than $100 from any individual. Steele may now have a decisive edge over Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio, also seeking the GOP nod.

In other matters: —H. William Shure, the New Haven attorney chosen to head up a staff to carry out a legislative investigation of the state leasing system, promises there will be no Watergate type leaks in the probe. Shure was an assistant minority counsel to the Senate Watergate committee. —The Democratic State Platform Committee plans to get grassroots opinion in drawing up its document. Rep. Audrey Beck, D-Mansfield, co-chairman, said hearings will be held on a variety of topics in communities around the state before the July convention to get voter input.

Drug Benefit Plan Adopted

HARTFORD (UPI) — A new program approved by the legislature this year will allow state employees and their families up to $500 a year in prescription drug benefits. The state workers will get the benefits, beginning Aug. 1, expected to cost the state $1.9 million a year, under an amendment to their Blue Cross health insurance policies. State Comptroller Nathan G. Agostinelli and Attorney General Robert K. Killian have approved the plan which is awaiting a final okay from state Insurance Commissioner Thomas White. Agostinelli said White is expected to approve the increased benefits. The prescription drug provision is a breakthrough in health benefits for state workers in the Northeast. Agostinelli said, the benefits were sought, he said, to bring coverage for state workers in line with private industry.

Teacher Tells Bennet Students Of Life in the Shadow of Hitler

"I was about your age when I broke out in the Netherlands and our family moved there from Germany to escape the Hitler regime."

Mrs. Ruth Klemens of 232 Ferguson Rd. began an account of her World War II experiences by relating to her young 8th grade listeners at the Bennet Junior High School Thursday afternoon.

A member of a Jewish family, she told how her family never dreamed there would be any trouble once they moved to Holland. "The Dutch people were beautiful," she said. "Everything there was so peaceful and nice."

But underneath the outer calm, she said the older people, particularly the refugees, were worried. The unhappy situations in Germany were on the increase, she said.

Even then, she said, being young, she thought of war as being "another adventure."

Her family talked of moving to London, but did not because the Dutch people felt very secure, she said.

She recalls vividly a time in 1940 when, in the night, her mother woke up all the children saying, "We're at war!"

There were air raids, shell fragments in the street—it was scary and frightening, she said. "Suddenly we were a part of the war."

She described the placid silence of the Dutch and the refugees as very little food. The Germans march into their town, and the belief of the Dutch that "it still couldn't happen here."

Then the hardships began, she said. First, there was no news. Then there was food rationing. Eventually, all refugees had to have an ID card (identification), and had to register for food coupons. Later, the prohibitions for the Jewish people alone began to be imposed—limited education, no public transportation, no bicycles, no radios. She said she used a scooter that "I pushed with one foot" to go to school.

pickings up others along the way, to Switzerland. Later, when they reached Marseilles in France, they boarded the Gripsholm and came to the United States.

In concluding her account of her family's experiences during the Hitler regime, she said "It's hard to forget and it's hard to forgive, but we have to make an effort."

The presentation climaxed a study of World War II by Team B-8 at Bennet conducted by Donald Pogg, Ray Cozola, Mrs. Nancy Miller, and Mrs. Carol Auer.

Over Wiretapping 'Innuendos' Kissinger Threatens To Resign Position

SALZBURG, Austria (UPI)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger threatened today to resign unless what he called a campaign of "innuendos" based on his involvement in national security wiretap cases was stopped immediately.

Kissinger, holding a news conference during President Nixon's first stop on his trip to the Mideast, said a campaign against him appeared to be coming from the House Judiciary Committee, which is studying possible presidential impeachment.

Speaking in a hoarse, cracked voice from an inn outside the Schloss Kleßheim Palace in which he and the Nixons are staying, Kissinger described what he called "the impugning of my honor" and added:

"If it is not cleared up, I will resign."

"This is a question of my honor and I told the President what I was going to say and he agreed," Kissinger said.

Kissinger suggested that his name could be cleared by an act of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which heard his original testimony on the background of wiretaps placed on telephones of some of Kissinger's former aides at the White House before he became secretary of state.

The matter of wiretapping Kissinger's aides while he was head of the National Security Council came up when the Senate

Carlyle-Johnson Strike Settled

The 13-week-old strike at Manchester's Carlyle-Johnson Machine Co. ended today when members of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machinery Workers, AFL-CIO, voted to approve a two-year contract agreement reached after lengthy negotiating Monday.

Picket lines were withdrawn after the 45-strike union membership meeting at 11 a.m. Monday.

The contract agreement, ratified by 35 union members at this morning's meeting, grants an 11 1/2 per cent wage increase for the first year of the contract and contains provisions for suspending wage negotiations at the end of the year.

The agreement was reached tentatively Monday afternoon. Company and union representatives met for 13 hours last Friday, recessed, and resumed negotiations at 10 a.m. Monday. The tentative agreement, which both sides said

Bentley School Parents Air Funding Complaints

Unscheduled business occupied Monday night's Board of Education meeting for an hour before the board could begin its regular meeting agenda.

Representatives from the Bentley School PTA and its president, John Tinney, were there to present their grievance concerning money in the proposed school budget, $6,500, which had been originally allocated for resurfacing playground. Recently the money was re-allocated for use in establishing better fire safety conditions in the schools as the result of a report in May from the state fire marshal stating fire safety deficiencies at Bentley School.

tinney, who said he had a "group of irate parents on his neck" over the situation before the board could begin its regular meeting agenda.

In spite of accusations that the Board of Education and the Board of Directors were giving the parents of Bentley School the "run-around," board chairman Allan Thomas explained there was little they could do, that basically the problem was money.

Repeatedly, the PTA representatives were reminded by members of the board that the people from the Bentley School area appeared at the Board of Director's public hearing in April stating

Regional Center Hearing Tonight

The Manchester Board of Directors will conduct a public hearing tonight on a proposed $1.4 million Regional Occupational Center on four acres at the northeast corner of Hillstown Rd. and Waterfall St. Following the hearing it will consider placing the proposal for a Nov. 5 town-wide referendum.

Its meeting will be at 8 in Nathan Hale School, Spruce St.

A second public hearing tonight is on a proposed $100,000 appropriation for sanitary sewers in Garden Grove Rd., Erie St. and a portion of Keeney St. The appropriation would be financed by issuing temporary notes. The notes, in turn, would be paid from assessments against abutting property owners.

The cost of building and furnishing the "Trade School for the Handicapped" would be 100 per cent reimbursed by the state upon completion. The town would be responsible for an estimated $50,000 in interest costs. Operating costs for the facility would be borne by the 15 area towns participating and sending students to it. Within five years of completion, it would be owned by the Town of Manchester.

The board will take actions tonight on several proposed appropriations and allocations (all public hearing items last Tuesday), including $37,000 from the Whiton Library Trust Fund for a Bookmobile for Manchester.

It will consider a proposal by Town Manager Robert Weiss for partial termination of a contract the town has with the Eighth District (for fire protection in outlying areas) and for construction of a new firehouse in the Buckland area.

The board has voted to meet only once in July and in August—the second Tuesday each month. As a rule, it meets twice each month—the first Tuesday for public hearings, and on the second Tuesday for actions.

Adler Bid $2.2 Million For Bennet Renovations

A Ridgfield, Conn., contractor is the apparent low bidder for renovations and additions to Bennet Junior High School. Ray Adler Inc. submitted a price of $2,215,310 Monday night, at bid openings in the Manchester Municipal Building.

Although bid forms had been obtained by seven contractors, only three submitted bids — Ray Adler Inc., the J.S. Nasin Co. of Wallingford and Jack R. Hunter Inc. of Manchester.

Nasin's price is $2,312,360, and Hunter's $2,229,000. Prices submitted by all three contractors on 18 alternates may, if any of the alternates are required, raise the base prices. However, Ray Adler Inc. still would be the apparent low bidder.

All three prices are well within estimates. The Bennet work is part of a $5.6 million appropriation approved in a townwide referendum last November — with $2,719,000 for Bennet and $2,881,000 for renovations and additions to Iling Junior High.

Bids for the Iling work will be opened June 18 (next Tuesday) at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Building. Paul Phillips, chairman of the Bennet project and committee, said today an award of a contract for the Bennet work will be made after the Iling bids are opened. Mankey Associates is the architect for the Bennet project and Lawrence Associates for the Iling project. Both are Manchester firms.

Phillips, commenting on the Adler price, called it "very favorable."

He said, "Even with the addition of architects' and engineering fees, furniture and equipment, some alternates and our recommended contingency fund, we still will be within the limits of our referendum estimate ($2,719,000)."

"I must commend Mankey Associates and the members of the Town Building Committee for their hard and untiring work in these plans."

Nixon Confers With Kreisky

SALZBURG, Austria (UPI)—President Nixon got a report today from Chancellor Bruno Kreisky on the Austrian leader's recent Mideast visit, then turned to completing preparations for his own historic "Journey for peace" beginning with a lavish arrival in Cairo Wednesday morning.

Away from the cares of Watergate and the impeachment proceedings at home, Nixon related and recovered from "the lag" at Kleßheim Palace a baroque, 18th century mansion on the outskirts of Salzburg before starting on his five-nation trip.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon would hold his first meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat at Qubba Palace in Cairo Wednesday afternoon.

Sadat, an admirer of the President and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, has planned a big welcome complete with a 100,000 cheering Egyptians as partial thanks to Nixon for the United States' crucial role in bringing a ceasefire between his country and Israel.

Heat Wave Relief Promised Today

WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) — The National Weather Service predicted relief today from the record-setting heat wave that pushed the thermometer to 97 degrees at Bristol, Conn., today.

It was the hottest June 10 on record and the hottest day of 1974 for Connecticut residents.

The weather service said that today's temperatures should be in the 80s, a far cry from June 11 of last year, when the thermometer went up to 98 degrees.

Although Monday was unseasonable, it was apparently not too inconvenient for most Connecticut residents.

Northeast Utilities said New England suffered no power shortage and maintained normal voltage levels throughout the day. Consolidated Edison reduced voltage in New York City by 3 per cent in order to divert power to New Jersey, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

State police reported no traffic jams, even though motorists are plagued by countless incidents of stalling and overheating during rush hours.

Retiring Teacher Honored

Mrs. Gladys Jones opens a gift of jewelry, one of many gifts presented to her by Charles Genovese, Buckland School PTA president. The big box contained a fruit basket centerpiece.

The occasion was Sunday afternoon at the school where parents, friends and students honored Mrs. Jones upon her retirement from teaching 14 years in the first grade.
