They Agree Feds Spend Too Much

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's top economic adviser and two senators agree that federal spending is too high, and Sen. William Proxmire says it is the fault of the military.

Proxmire, in a speech prepared for Senate delivery, today charged Budget Director Roy Ash with making "a weak and vacillating effort" to cut the fiscal 1975 budget.

The Wisconsin Democrat said Ash could make an "all-out fight" to trim the budget and reduce inflation by cutting military spending, but that the administration considered the defense and military foreign aid "a sacred cow."

Herbert Stein, who is resigning as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers this fall, blamed the public for inflation and said new tax increases might be forthcoming unless the government curbed its spending.

Stein said on CBS "Face the Nation" that the administration would try to practice the "old time religion" economic policy of a balanced budget, strict spending limits, tight monetary policy and no tax reductions.

Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., agreed in an interview on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

"I think that it is absolutely necessary for the United States to put its financial house in order," Curtis said. "By that I mean return to a balanced budget now if we are going to halt inflation. We cannot go on increasing the debt, engaging in deficit financing without igniting all the other forces of inflation."

The current budget contains a predicted deficit of more than $6 billion.

President Nixon's new economic counselor, Kenneth R. Rush, told U.S. News and World Report that the White House was working on a plan for voluntary wage restraint and that the administration hopes wage settlements for the rest of 1974 would "remain in the range of 7 to 8 per cent at most."

Grasso Urges Postponement Of Hearings

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., a leading gubernatorial candidate, asked that utility rate hike hearings set to begin today be postponed until a consumer counsel is appointed to the Public Utilities Commission.

Hearings on what are expected to become the most hotly contested applications for utility rate hikes in state history were scheduled today by the PUC, but no consumer lawyer has been appointed as required by a new law.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill today asked permission to intervene in the hearing to urge utility cost-saving proposals that could alleviate any rate hike.

Meantime, a coalition of consumer groups opposing the rate increases planned a noon rally at Bushnell Park. A number of gubernatorial candidates have indicated they would speak in opposition to the requested rate hikes.

Rate hike requests have been eyed suspiciously in the past, but the energy shortage and rising fuel cost adjustments tacked on to monthly electricity bills have brought on a landslide of opposition this year.

The Hartford Electric Light Co. (HELCO) and Connecticut Light and Power Co. (CL&P) have claimed the rising cost of fuel and the need for capital required for future construction have forced them to seek the increases.

HELCO wants the state to allow it to raise revenues by 15.9 per cent annually, and CL & P wants to be allowed to a 13.7 per cent increase.

Wheat Farmers Hold Back, Betting on Higher Prices

By JESSE BOGE
United Press International
Some wheat farmers in the Southwest and West are betting they will get higher prices if they hold on to their wheat.

It has happened before with the wheat for future delivery on the Chicago Board of Trade selling for $2.61½ to $2.74 a bushel a year ago. Friday, the same deliveries ranged from $4.44 to $4.38 a bushel.

Adding to the farmers' expectation was the belief that the next crop report will show the hard winter wheat crop was below expectations.

"In the past two years, they have sold and watched the market go up later," Bill Nelson, executive vice president of the Texas Wheat Growers Association in Amarillo, said.

"Having had two years of a little better prices, he (the farmer) can afford to take a little more risk, Nelson said. "That's what they're doing."

So far, the farmers decision to wait has not had any immediate effect on bread prices to millers and commercial bakers.

"The cost of living average retail bread price rose every month of last year until it hit a high of 34.3 cents per loaf last April," a spokesman for the American Bakers Association in Washington said. "When it remained there in May we felt it had become stabilized. We'd like to see it remain there."

Arguments Start In Historic Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski told the Supreme Court today that the bedrock issue in the fight over President Nixon's Watergate tapes is "who is to be the arbiter of what the Constitution says?"

The historic oral arguments began before the justices into the uncharted area of Nixon's power to withhold evidence on Watergate, Jaworski had the lead-off presentation to the eight-judge bench and told a packed courtroom:

"He (President Nixon) may be right in how he reads the Constitution. He may be wrong. If he is wrong, who is there to tell him so? What then becomes of our constitutional form of government?"

The court has never before ruled on a such direct confrontation between the executive and judicial branches, and there was no indication when the justices would make their decision after the three hours of oral arguments today.

Jaworski ran into trouble from the start on the question of the Watergate grand jury's having named Nixon an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up.

Justice William O. Douglas led off the questions before Jaworski had been up five minutes, asking what the grand jury's naming of Nixon had to do with the tapes and records of 84 conversations Jaworski wants in the September trial of six of Nixon's former aides and associates.

Five other justices jumped into the fray, with Jaworski telling them that revealing the grand jury's action against Nixon was necessary to get a full picture of the conspiracy and thus to obtain an order from U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica for the evidence.

Douglas said the grand jury was sending material to the House Judiciary Committee which is conducting an inquiry into whether grounds exist for the impeachment of Nixon, but Jaworski responded: "The grand jury sent nothing incriminating to the House Committee."

Jaworski agreed with Chief Justice Warren E. Burger that the fact that Nixon was named as a co-conspirator was not enough itself to demonstrate as a basis for obtaining the presidential tapes and conversations.

Justice Lewis F. Powell said Jaworski had said in his brief filed with the court that naming Nixon foreclosed the President's claim of "executive privilege" as a reason for refusing to yield the material. Powell said Jaworski was claiming that the naming of the President reduced him to the status of any other defendant.

Jaworski said the claim of "executive privilege" is not foreclosed, but the situation is such that the claim is "inappropriate." "It is a factor that is important. That's why we lay stress on it," he said.

Moments later, Jaworski returned to his central argument that Nixon is subject to court order.

"This case goes to the heart of our basic constitutional system," Jaworski said. "In our view, this form of government is in serious jeopardy."

Presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair was presenting Nixon's case after Jaworski had concluded.

The arguments were heard by three Nixon appointees—Burger, Powell and Harry A. Blackmun; one Franklin Roosevelt appointee, Douglas; two Eisenhower appointees, William J. Brennan and Potter Stewart; one Kennedy appointee, Byron J. White; and one Johnson appointee, Thurgood Marshall.

The ninth justice, William H. Rehnquist, removed himself from the case because of his close past ties with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, one of the six cover-up defendants.

The conversations sought by Jaworski for the cover-up trial range from those held three days after the June 17, 1972 burglary at the Watergate through the March 21, 1973 talks about secret money to buy the silence of Watergate defendants, to April 26, 1973 when Nixon perhaps discussed the significance of the tapes with his former top aide, H.R. Haldeman, one of the six men scheduled to be tried in September on the cover-up charges.

Those tapes requested by Jaworski could be highly crucial to the impeachment inquiry if, as the Watergate grand jury found in naming him an unindicted co-conspirator, Nixon was "a member of the conspiracy to defraud the United States and to obstruct justice."

St. Clair has contended that Jaworski's office is merely a "conduit" for the House Judiciary Committee, which has been unable to get White House compliance with numerous subpoenas of its own. Nixon previously said the committee could have whatever information Jaworski had obtained, and he did not object to a transfer to the committee of large amounts of grand jury evidence.

Even if should Jaworski prevail before the Supreme Court, the subpoenaed material could not be made available to the committee before it plans to start voting on any articles of impeachment.

Under a previous ruling by District Judge John J. Sirica, Jaworski could not see the evidence until the judge screens it for irrelevant and sensitive material—and that could take weeks.

But Nixon has not ruled out non-compliance with a Supreme Court order to yield the material. In another tapes case, he said last year he would comply only with a "definitive" decision — without clarifying what he considered "definitive."

Should Nixon refuse to comply, that could bring intensified pressure on the House to vote for impeachment — the same sort of pressure brought to bear by public reaction last October to the so-called "Saturday Night Massacre" in which Nixon dismissed Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox and Attorney General Elliot Richardson and Deputy Attorney General William French Smith left their jobs rather than fire Cox.

The President has relied on "executive privilege" as grounds for rejecting Jaworski's subpoena for the September trial of six former aides and associates charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States and obstruct justice.

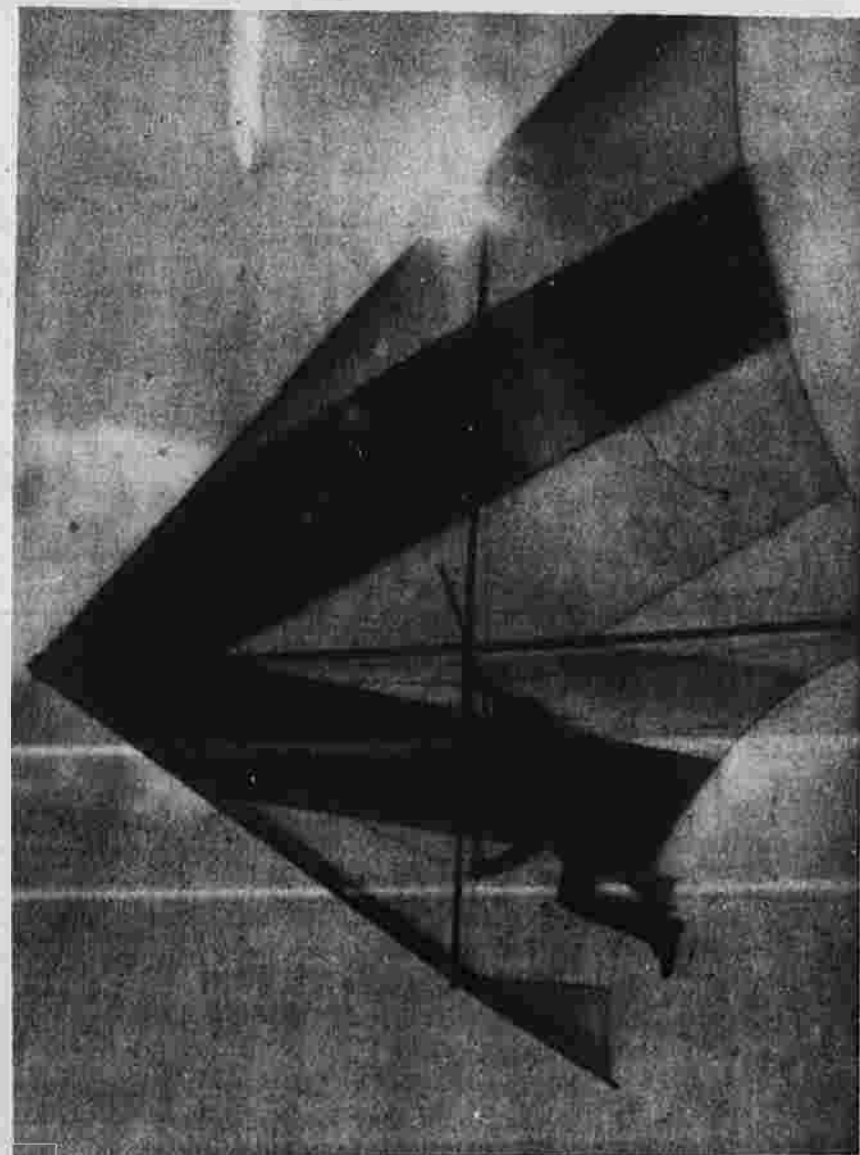

After U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica ordered the material produced May 20, Jaworski succeeded in getting the Supreme Court to bypass the U.S. Court of Appeals here and proceed on a speeded-up schedule.

Later St. Clair convinced the justices they also should look into the authority of the grand jury to name Nixon as an unindicted Watergate coconspirator. Sirica refused to expunge the President's name.

The record of the Sirica hearings on the 64 conversations is under seal in the Supreme Court, which denied requests by both Jaworski and St. Clair to make it public. The defendants, who include former presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and former presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman, opposed disclosure.

St. Clair also asked the court to examine and disclose to him the record on which the grand jury relied in naming the President. But the court said it would consider that request after the arguments.

The court directed the lawyers to refrain from mentioning in their oral presentations anything that is in the sealed record before the court.

Republican Candidates Speak In Town Tonight

It will be "Speakers' Night" for Manchester Republicans tonight, when one candidate for the GOP nomination for governor and two for U.S. senator address the Republican Town Committee.

They will appear at 8 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

Appearing will be House Speaker Francis J. Collins of Brookfield, dark-horse candidate for the gubernatorial nomination; and State Sen. Herbert V. Camp Jr. of Ridgefield and former Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward J. Koslowski of Milford, two of the three declared candidates for U.S. senator. The third, State Rep. James H. Brannen III of Colchester, also was scheduled to speak tonight but had to cancel, due to the demands of his job. He is an airline pilot.

To this date, only two of Manchester's 19 delegates to the July 26-27 GOP State Convention have taken positions on gubernatorial candidates. State Comptroller Nathan G. Agostinelli, for a time a candidate himself, has endorsed Congressman Robert H. Steele of Vernon. State Sen. David O. Odgaard has endorsed Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio.

Manchester Republican chairman A. Paul Berte said he doesn't expect any formal announcements of endorsements to come out of tonight's meeting.

Family Food Bill Is $43.90 Weekly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weekly grocery bills for a family of four on a low-cost diet rose to $43.90 in May, up 50 cents from April and $2.20 more than at the beginning of 1974, government estimates show.

The May food cost estimates also showed that food price inflation since January has hit low and moderate income families harder than high income groups.

Under the low-cost diet plan, a family would get 11½ pounds of meat, poultry, and fish weekly. In the moderate-cost plan, a family would get 17½ pounds, and the liberal diet plan would permit 20½ pounds.

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Ten high school students are claiming the world's record for marathon basketball playing after a 48-hour duel which they purposely ended at a 2,534-2,534 tie. There wasn't to be an overtime to determine a winner.

They played continually, with only restroom breaks. There were no substitutions, no officials and virtually no style, as they downed soft drinks on the court and spent much of their time lying on the floor dribbling or methodically taking turns keeping the game going.

Gary Crowton, 17, was high scorer with 1,116 points.

Meat Good Buy

Despite how discouraging it is for a housewife to survey the meat counter at her store, the fact is that some of today's prices for beef cuts have been reduced as much as 60 cents a pound since February.
Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has been emphasizing that "meat is a whole of a good buy," adding that "you may miss your chance if you don't get it now." He expects meat prices will rise again in the third quarter, July, August, September, but will level off in the fourth. It is at least an encouraging note that Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners may not need to be meatless.
Although it seems unbelievable, again, to the family shopper, meat is one of a very few foods which have dropped in price from what it was a year ago. Other staples than meat have soared more than 16 per cent during the last period. Dried beans, a protein often substituted for meat, has doubled in price.

If consumers act on Dr. Butz' tip, they could help empty the cold storage lockers and the pre-slaughter pens, thus possibly ending the logjam of beef.
Housewives and men shoppers have found it easy to pass up the beef counters these past months as the cuts offered have been outrageous for the prices charged. Nothing has caused so much resentment among providers, protein is their families' life.

Coed Prison

The only state prison in the nation where men and women are allowed to associate on the premises has been pronounced a great success by the prisoners, the 40-year-old superintendent, and other prison officials.
The superintendent, Mrs. Dorothy Chase, reasons that the residents are going to have to cope with a man-world when they get out, learning to get along with the opposite sex will help with their adjustment to society once they are released.
When a reporter said the Massachusetts Correctional Institution, at Framingham, with its swimming pool, green lawns and trees, looked more like a country club than a prison, Mrs. Chase invited her to come and work there. "This is tough living. It isn't an easy life. And there are discipline and regimentation behind the fun."

Massachusetts taxpayers don't complain about the facilities and the coed angle. They are more worried about the homosexuality in other institutions. At Framingham, men and women are in separate quarters but can stroll together, swim, and dance together.
Various social and other events, such as high school graduation parties are scheduled. There have been two weddings. Women wield a humanizing influence.
Perhaps if these young men and women, many of underprivileged backgrounds, had had opportunities for study, parties, athletics, etc., in their home communities, they wouldn't have become criminals in the first place. Framingham may keep them from being so, in the second place.

Baby Sales — Slavery

An Eastern lawyer, who specializes in private adoptions, has been quoted as saying, "The hunger for children is tremendous. There are thousands of people looking."
Outside highly legal and investigated adoptions, public or private, babies, particularly white children, are being sold for extremely high prices in a "black market" across the nation. Five baby sellers in Los Angeles are being charged with violations of the "slavery prohibition" laws and for having prepared false documents. They were allegedly selling children for $10,000 to $15,000 per child. Others allegedly pay as much as $25,000.
The horror of this practice has led some lawyers and physicians to recommend outlawing "independent" placements. But, as everyone knows, public adoption services, necessarily working bureaucratically, have thwarted many a child and his (her) would-be parents in their yearning to love and be loved. Some answer must be found.

It is a shocking anomaly that women and men line up for abortions and sterilizing procedures by the thousands, while children are being desperately sought as a deep human need by many other thousands. Or, are these longing parents really "other"? Among them are surely some who, perhaps ignorantly or immaturely, threw away their treasure and now want to replace it? Tears never cease for those who cannot.

Today's Thought

"May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that you may abound in hope." Roman 15:13
God alone can fill us with lasting joy and peace. There is joy and peace in believing what He has told us in the Bible, and there is unrest and sorrow in not believing what He has revealed to us. We easily feel that life should be full now and also eternal, but we do not know how to accomplish this feat. It keeps occupying us. The Bible is therefore given to tell us that if we are filled with all joys and peace in believing what God has told us, in Christ we will abound in hope. Our lives will overflow with the hope God has given us in Christ.

Max Lerner Comments Jefferson

NEW YORK — In this summer of our discontent, with a presidential impeachment hanging over the months following Independence Day, the massive figure of Thomas Jefferson looms as a standard against which to measure the leadership of the present republic.
Jefferson was America's first philosopher-king. All Presidents are king of a sort: their power is fabulous and inescapable; only some presidents use it better than others, and some (as we have been discovering) abuse it worse. It is rare to find a philosophic mind in a President.
You can count them on the fingers of one hand. Jefferson was the supreme instance, one of the leading philosophers of his time, but also the greatest of its political practitioners. And John Adams, his predecessor in office — granted, cranky, yet a considerable thinker; and James Madison, Jefferson's successor — not the kind of fighter and star Jefferson was, but soldier and more disciplined in his thinking.
Add Abraham Lincoln — rough-hewn, unschooled, but a towering figure as political thinker as well as doer: Round out the quintet with Woodrow Wilson, who was not really on the level of the rest — a college professor rather than an original thinker.
Jefferson is mostly remembered and revered because he wrote the Declaration of Independence, but he was a complex, tangled, little-understood man, less of a saint and more of a sinner than we usually take him for.

Capital Fare Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Apparently all is sweetness and light between the White House and blunt-speaking Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, but only because Saxbe refused to resign a few weeks ago.
A source close to both President Nixon and Saxbe who has a high batting average for the accuracy of his information said today an emissary from the White House called on Saxbe after the attorney general had criticized Nixon for divulging Grand Jury information to White House staff members.
The aide, the source said, told Saxbe the President was "very unhappy" about Saxbe's criticism and his constant references to the Watergate scandal as "the greatest cloud in our history." Nixon, according to the aide, said he could understand if Saxbe "felt uncomfortable" as a member of the Administration and he would "entertain" an offer from Saxbe to resign for reasons of ill health.
According to the source, "Saxbe laughed in the face. He said he was perfectly comfortable in his job and as a member of the Administration and that he wouldn't think of resigning." However, the source said, Saxbe told the aide the President could always fire him and "I'll leave town quietly without giving anybody the rough side of my tongue."

Three days passed, the source said, and then Saxbe was invited to pay a call on Alexander M. Haig Jr., White House Chief of Staff. Saxbe had settled himself into a chair in Haig's office when Haig leaned over and told him:
"Don't pay any attention to what some of these flunkies around here say to you. The President is perfectly satisfied with your performance. He realizes you're a guy who always speaks your mind and although he sometimes doesn't enjoy what you say, he has never had any intention of asking you to quit."
In reply, Saxbe laid out on the line, the source said. The attorney general said he didn't like embarrassing the President, but he would continue to speak out about Watergate and its effect on people's confidence in their government. That route, he said, was the only way the country could "salvage something" from the scandal.
Since that meeting with Haig, Saxbe has hammered away at the theme of morality in government and fairness in law enforcement. "Saxbe is doing the Republic a great service," said the source, a high-ranking and highly respected member of Congress. "He is calling a spade a spade, which is what Nixon should have done long ago, and I think he's persuading a lot of voters that they should not blame Republicans — or for that matter anyone but the people involved in Watergate — for the dirty tricks that have been played."
The source happens to be a Republican, but he is deeply disturbed that the voters will come to believe they can't trust politicians of either party.
"I don't get any satisfaction out of hearing people say the Democrats are just as bad," he said. "That's damaging to the principle of self-government. People must understand that only a few officials were involved in Watergate, and it helps when a Republican attorney general speaks out in condemnation of those jerks and refuses to join in any cover-up by keeping silent."
A White House source who occasionally speaks for President Nixon would neither confirm nor deny the report that a Nixon aide had suggested that Saxbe resign. "Commenting on something like that is not one of my responsibilities," he said. "But I'll tell you one thing that while Saxbe's statements sometimes irritate the boss, Saxbe's job as of today is in no danger. The President doesn't give the sack to people for saying that a scandal is a scandal."

Reading Program Begins

BOLTON
Donna Holland
Correspondent
646-0375

A summer school supportive reading program will begin Tuesday and will continue daily through Aug. 5.

Approximately 35 participating students will attend school for one-and-a-half hours each day.

Raymond Allen, superintendent of schools, said if the program goes well it will probably be expanded next year.

The program is being funded under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Baseball Picnic
The annual baseball picnic held recently for all participants in the town baseball program and their families was attended by nearly 200 persons. The boys farm league and the girls softball league played games with their peers. A team of Little League players played against and defeated a team of Pony League members.

Parents of the ball players also had a game going and it was reported that the kids were having more fun, the kids or their parents.

Volleyball and other sports were also enjoyed.

More than anything else, though, the younger ball players enjoyed the free unlimited ice cream and soda.

Church Project
A United Methodist Church youth project for its annual fair that will be held on Nov. 9 will be a post office booth.

Church members are asked to mail small, unique, inexpensive gifts, approximately 50 cents, to the church while on vacation. The gifts should be wrapped in plain brown paper.

Grade 8 Promoted

Donna Holland
Promotion exercises for Bolton Center School Grade 8 students began with the school band playing "Latin Satin" and an invocation by the Rev. J. Slanton Conover of the Bolton Congregational Church.

David Teller, a member of the class, greeted the faculty, parents and members of the student body.

He said the promotion marked a significant step toward adulthood, showing that the students could accept the responsibilities of being eighth graders and that they were ready for the responsibility of high school.

Teller's greeting was followed by essays delivered by Leslie Ferguson and Christopher Placco.

Miss Ferguson's essay was on the future of the class. She spoke of the education the students had been given through Grade 8 and the many modern developments and of future developments.

Leslie told her fellow students they would be offered two great responsibilities in high school—a driver's license and the right to vote.

She said they would have to make decisions as to their future and what they would contribute to the world.

Placco told the students it was time to stop fretting over what might have been. He said it was time to look forward to a new beginning as high school freshmen.

Placco said the students would broaden their horizons and make new friendships with the teachers and other students at the high school.

The class will be read by Douglas Ovan.

John Eagles, principal, presented the class. Siegmar Blamberg, assistant principal, read the names of all class members.

Certificates were awarded by Raymond Allen, superintendent. He encouraged parents to continue their involvement, their interests and their participation in their children's school as the students entered high school.

Allen said, "We want, need and will look for this next year and in subsequent years."

The school chorus sang "Day is Done" and "Climb Every Mountain."

The benediction was by the Rev. Mr. Conover. The program ended with the school band playing "Waltz Medley."

Swin Program
The first half of the town swimming program is underway today at Gay City State Park in Hebron.

Classes will run from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Louise Ryan.

Gymnastics
The summer gymnastics program under the direction of Richard Nietupski got underway today at Bolton Elementary School.

The South Windsor Athletic Boosters Club in conjunction with the South Windsor Recreation Department has set the last two weekends in July for the date of the first annual Booster's Invitation Girls Softball Tournament.

Quarter final rounds will be played on July 20 and 21 with the semi-finals and finals on July 27 and 28.

Games will be played at the Avers and Nevins recreational complex starting at 1 p.m. each day.

In addition to the area towns competing, members of the Northern Connecticut League including Enfield, Somers, Windsor Locks and Longmeadow have been invited along with the East Central Connecticut Girls Softball League.

Teams will consist of 15 ballplayers between the ages of 12 and 15 years old and will play by the conventional softball rules.

The deadline for final roster submission is July 15 in order for final pairings to be drawn.

The Public Safety Dispatch Center in South Windsor will center be obtaining recording equipment, according to Fire Chief Philip Crombie.

The equipment which will be capable of recording all fire and police radio and telephone messages "will be invaluable for training and response time analysis," according to the chief.

In previous years the Woman's Club has donated recreation equipment to both the Police and Fire Departments. Chief Crombie indicated that the Woman's Club is providing half the cost of this equipment, and the recorder could not have been acquired without these funds.

"Exact times of all calls can be pinpointed and the dispatcher can play back an excited telephone call to obtain an address or other vital information with this equipment," said chief Crombie.

Delivery and installation is anticipated early in the fall.

Plan Programs
The newly elected officers of the Young Wives Club met recently at the home of Patricia DeFeso, club president, to prepare their program for the coming year.

Other officers attending were Kaye Haworth, vice president; Patricia Hatala, reporting secretary; Judith Olzacki, treasurer; and Gail Murray, corresponding secretary.

Areas of interest such as interior decorating, easy entertaining, gynecology, and gardening information, will be some of the topics covered at the monthly meetings beginning in the fall. Also, activities for couples such as bowling, bridge, and a gourmet club are available.

Newcomers to the South Windsor area are invited to attend the meetings. Anyone interested may contact Claire Kennedy, at 644-950.

Names Slate
The Ladies Auxiliary of the South Windsor Little League has elected Marge Kimmy as president and Eloise Andrus as vice president.

Other officers elected are Mary Lou Kapchunos, secretary, and Irene Hintz, treasurer.

Committee chairmen have not been named yet. Any member of a Little League player can volunteer her services by calling any of the new officers.

Appointment
The South Windsor Town Council has approved the appointment of Marcia Andrus of 15 Grace Rd. as a member of the library board of directors. She will fill an unexpired term ending Nov. 30, 1975.

Michael Silver has achieved the distinction of being Troop 28's first Eagle Scout under the "new improved scouting program." The new program went into effect this year and, among other things, requires a scout to earn 24 merit badges, rather than 21 previously required.

Mike proudly displayed 32 badges on his merit badge sash at the Eagle Court of Honor held at the Gilead Hill School. The ceremonies were conducted by members of the Long River Council District staff and included Carl Gustafson, district chairman; Joseph Gallagher, district executive; Frank Ennis, district commissioner; Jackie Ennis, district training chairman; and Bill Anden, assistant district commissioner.

Mike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kearns of Oak Dr., is a Grade 7 student at Rham High School. He has held many leadership positions in the troop since becoming a scout four years ago. He has been den chief, instructor, assistant patrol leader, patrol leader and senior patrol leader. He is a member of the Order of the Arrow scouting fraternity and has earned the 50-Mile Afoot-Afloat Award.

To complete the community service requirement needed to become an Eagle Scout, Mike renovated and beautified a courtyard at Rham High School.

The way we were When we were using this hearse we used to close the furniture store when we had a funeral. Everyone did double duty. That was 70 years ago. 100 years ago Clarence and Ernest Watkins did everything themselves. Today, the third and fourth generations of Watkins are on hand to serve at any time. Together with William Lennon and Roy Thompson, they form a team that dedicates itself to service in the old fashioned way.

Bike Riders To Get Violation Warnings

Police Chief James M. Reardon today issued orders to all patrolmen to stop bike riders violating the law. Juveniles (people under age 16) will not only be given a warning but a letter detailing their violation will be sent to their parents or guardian "so that corrective action can be taken in the home." Adults will also only be given warnings, the chief said. But if this program does not correct bike rider abuses of the law in Manchester, he said the patrolmen would begin issuing summonses to the adults to appear in Circuit Court 12 to answer to a judge. In other words, the police would then be following the same procedure they use with motor vehicle drivers.

Chief Reardon said he is taking this action in response to complaints locally about the violations of the law by bike riders and to the greatly increased rate of accidents in the state involving bike riders. The local police staff worked out the details of this program recently hoping it would be the most effective while also being fair to the bike riding public. The violations listed in the letter to the parents of juvenile violators are: • Violating traffic signal light. • More than one person on a bicycle. • Violating stop sign. • Clinging to a moving vehicle. • Riding at night without light or reflector. • Riding on the wrong side of the street. • Riding more than two abreast. • Riding on a sidewalk (unsafely). Other violations would be written into the letter. The letter ends with: "By working as a team, you and your police department can prevent the injuries and heart-breaking which can occur by careless operation of bicycles by our young people."

Strauss told reporters that the Democrats expected to collect $8.3 million of the $7 million in pledges received during the 21-hour CBS television marathon June 29-30. Of that, $2.3 million went for air time and production costs, and two-thirds of the remaining $4 million net will go to state Democratic parties. The national party will get slightly less than $1.5 million, Strauss said, and a large portion of it will be spent on day-to-day party operations, the 1974 mini-convention in Kansas City in December, and the fall campaigns. Some of the funds will go toward retirement of the party's long-term debt, now down to $2.5 million from its $9 million peak after the 1968 election.

School Enrollment 6,977

VERNON The Vernon public schools had an enrollment of 6,977 pupils as of June 10. The staff consists of 554 full-time professional and non-professional employees plus about 100 part-time employees. These figures are from a report released today by Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools. The breakdown by grades is as follows: 1,733 in grades K-1; 138, Grades 2-8; 530 in Grade 9; 3,400 in six elementary schools housing Grades K-5. The remainder of the total number are students in the Regional Vocational Agriculture Center and Regional Center for trainable retarded children. These centers also come under the jurisdiction of the Vernon Board of Education. Dr. Ramsdell said curriculum offerings in the system range from basic programs of study to Readiness in pre-school programs, to introduction of mini-courses at the high school level and Adult Education programs.

Students from the middle and high schools are offered field laboratory work at the Bermuda Biological Station and the Talcott Mountain Science Center, as well as cultural visits to points of interest. As of last year the Board of Education introduced a comprehensive program for exceptional students. This encompasses programs for emotional, physically handicapped, retarded and gifted children. Art, music and physical education programs are also included at all levels and continuing curriculum revision has been endorsed by the board and summer workshops for this purpose have been approved, for the staff, for the past five years.

Six years ago the board introduced, in the elementary schools, an organizational pattern known as Continuous Progress Education. The program, which individualizes the educational process for each child, has been very successful. In addition, an Individually Guided Education (IGE) program has been introduced in two elementary schools and units of team teaching are operating at the middle school and high school levels. Dr. Ramsdell said the total budget approved for 1974-75 school year is $8,907,693 and in addition to locally funded programs, state and federal programs are also utilized. Dr. Ramsdell also noted that the schools cooperate actively with area institutions of higher learning. This includes a Cooperative Teacher Intern Program with Eastern Connecticut State College, an Administrative Internship Program with the University of Connecticut, a cooperative library technician program with Manchester Community College, the cooperative training of professional personnel with Central Connecticut State College, University of Hartford, Smith College, Trinity College and several other universities and colleges. The superintendent's office, corner School and Park Sts., Rockville, is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., with the exception of a 30-minute lunch period at noon.

Little League Tournament Starts Tonight at Waddell

Champions have been crowned in all three Manchester Little League and tonight two of the winners will have the honor of opening the 1974 Town Tournament. Paired in the first game at 6 o'clock in the double elimination play will be Army & Navy, American League with a 14-2 record, against Ansaldo's, champs in the International loop with an 11-5 standard. National League winners, drew an opening night bye. Tonight's winner will face Miles Wednesday night. All games will take place at Waddell Field. Saturday in the final International League games at Verplanck, with the championship up for grabs between Ansaldo's and the Oilers, both went down to defeat. Stevenson's upended the Oilers, 11-2, and the Contractors took it on the chin when the Royals rallied for five runs in the sixth inning for a 9-8 decision. Ansaldo's entered the final day with an 11-4 record and the Oilers a game behind at 10-5. An Oiler win and the Oilers would have necessitated a playoff for the crown. Stevenson's, winning for the seventh time in 16 starts, got off the mark fast with three runs in the first, had three one-run frames only and a fifth in trimming the Oilers. Cliff Bickford slammed two homers and a single and Eric Klavins homered to pace the Garagemen in the morning battle. Lionel Lessard's two singles led the Oiler offense. Saturday afternoon, two four-run frames for Ansaldo's were not enough for the aspid-minded Lawyers to overcome. Shawn Ireland singled and doubled for the Lawyers with Shawn Spears adding two singles. The winners were outhit, 9-6. Leading the losers was Pat Silver with a homer with the bases loaded. He also singled. Eric Gauruder contributed two singles to the cause.

Errors Hurt Yankees Again

Rangers Not Ready to Fold, No Pep Talks from Martin

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — For two nights in a row, Texas had looked like the Rangers of 1972 and 1973. But on Sunday night they looked like the up-to-date version. The New York Yankees, however, looked as if they were completely afraid of the ball and it cost them the game. Texas whipped the Yankees, 3-2, thanks to some clutch fielding and a series of New York lapses that produced unearned runs. That broke a three-game Texas losing streak just at the time the Rangers appeared near the collapse of a lot of people had been predicting for them since the season began. Texas manager Billy Martin, however, assessed no more importance to Sunday night's win than he has to any other victory. "I'm not a guy to give the players a rah-rah pep talk to try to break them out of a losing streak," Martin said. "You might as well be talking into the wind. They are grown men and they know what they are supposed to be doing." "Oh, I may talk to a couple of key players and let them pump up others, but I don't believe in pep talks."

Martin, admitted, however, that he had been quite impressed after the back-to-back losses to New York in which the Yankees had produced 23 runs and Texas had scored five. After last night's game I just sat in the dugout for a while," he said. "And five or six players just sat there with me. They knew we had a better ball club than we had shown. They have pride." Steve Hargan picked up the win for Texas, his fourth in a row, to boost his record to 7-4. Hargan received fine support in the outfield from Cesar Tovar and Joe Lovitto, each of whom made two fine catches, and in the infield by Len Randle, who stopped two hard hit ground balls at third base. Yankee pitcher Pat Dobson now 6-11, also pitched well and deserved a better fate. In the third inning with two out, Dave Nelson beat out a slow infield roller and that was followed by a high bouncing ball hit by Alex Johnson toward shortstop Jim Mason. Third baseman Graig Nettles cut in front of Mason, however, only to have the ball glance off his glove. That was scored a base hit.

Pitchers Not Doing Job, Red Sox Manager Upset

BOSTON (UPI) — As far as Darrell Johnson is concerned, it's a very simple problem. "The pitching just can't continue to give up that many runs," said Johnson after his Boston Red Sox split a doubleheader with the Kansas City Royals Sunday. They lost the first game 11-9. "When you get nine runs you're supposed to win," he said. "The pitchers just didn't do the job. I'm going to think about it and see if we can't cure some of the problems." The problem in the first game was the failure by Diego Segui and Bob Veale to preserve an 8-5 lead furnished by Rick Miller, who hit his first career grand slam in the sixth inning. Miller enjoyed his best game as a pro, adding a double, three singles and five RBIs to his third homer of the year. Johnson declined to say what changes he had in mind, but made it clear that unless his pitching staff, though in pre-season to be among the league's strongest, improved, things would begin to happen. The 5-3 second game win snapped a five-game losing streak which saw the Red Sox lose the lead in the American League East. They are now 1 1/2 games behind the Cleveland Indians.

Pirates Finally Moving But Murtaugh Cautious

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates are on the move, but Manager Danny Murtaugh thinks it's too early for the experts to label them as the team to beat in the National League's Eastern Division. "We're not looking anywhere until we get to the 500 mark," Murtaugh said Sunday after the Pirates beat the Houston Astros, 6-4, in 10 innings for their eighth victory in their last 10 games. "We're still seven games below that." True, but the Pirates also have moved to within six games of the first-place St. Louis Cardinals—and that's four games better than the second-place Cincinnati Reds are in relation to the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers in the West. Jim Hooker carried a 4-2 lead into the ninth with the help of two homers and three RBIs by Richie Zisk only to have the Astros tie the score. But reliever Fred Scherman walked Willie Stargell to open the 10th and Bob Robertson followed with a two-run homer, his ninth of the season, to provide the margin of victory. Dave Giusti, who pitched the last 12-3 innings, received credit for his third victory. The Dodgers swept Montreal, 4-1 and 5-3; the Reds whipped the Cardinals, 2-1 and 11-2; Philadelphia downed St. Diego, 9-3; Chicago shaded Atlanta, 4-3, and New York blanked San Francisco, 6-0, in other NL games. Dodgers' St. Expans 1-3

Mike Marshall saved both games and now has appeared in 17 of the Dodgers' last 20 contests and 57 for the season. His late-inning relief enabled Tommy John to raise his record to 13-2 in the first game. Marshall then earned the save in the second game despite yielding a two-run ninth-inning homer to Willie Davis. Mets 6, Giants 0 Tom Seaver, who retired after five innings after a straining his left hip, and Bob Apodaca combined in a three-hitter for the Mets, who routed Ron Bryant with a five-run first inning featured by Teddy Mantz' three-run triple.

California Still Winless With Williams Managing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Williams left more than Charlie Finley behind when he moved down the California coast from Oakland to Anaheim. He got another harsh reminder of that on Sunday when the California Angels, still winless since Williams took over as their manager a week ago, lost for the eighth successive time. "The novelty clearly has worn off." "There will be moves shortly," Williams said after the latest defeat, Sunday's 6-2 setback to the Cleveland Indians. Williams left unclear exactly what he meant by

"moves" but said: "We'll probably have an announcement tomorrow." The problem Williams is finding is that it's not as easy to correct the Angels' mistakes as it was with the world champion A's. Sunday, in the sixth inning, he reminded Frank Tanana, his young starter, that he had thrown a lot of home run pitches in late innings and that it shouldn't have to happen again. "But when Williams looked to his bullpen, he didn't see Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles. The people he saw instead were named Skip Lockwood and John Cumberland, and so Tanana stayed in the game. Suddenly in the eighth inning, Cleveland hit three homers, two of them off Tanana and one off the hastily summoned Lockwood. That was goodbye balgame. The pitching Sunday came from Jim Perry, who needed ninth-inning help from Mil Wilcox to raise his record to 6-7. The hitting came from John Ellis, George Hendrick and Oscar Gamble, who hit the three homers in the eighth that snapped a 2-2 tie.

Elsewhere in the AL Sunday, Boston beat Kansas City, 5-3, to end a five-game losing streak after the Royals won the first of a doubleheader, 11-9, in 10 innings; Milwaukee beat Minnesota, 8-5, before losing 5-3; Baltimore defeated Oakland, 4-1; Chicago topped Detroit, 3-1, and Texas edged New York, 3-2. Brewers 3-3, Twins 5-5 Milwaukee third baseman Don Money set a major league record by playing in his 78th consecutive game without an error this season. He's 19 shy of the two-season record of 97 set by San Francisco's Jim Davenport in the 1960's. Mike Hagan and Darrell Porter drove in three runs apiece for the Brewers in the first game. Steve Brye doubled home the go-ahead run and then scored an insurance run in the 11th inning of the second game.

Orioles 4, A's 4 Homers by Paul Blair and Don Baylor put the Orioles ahead of Oakland for good. They wrapped it up with two in the eighth on triples by Blair and Bobby Grich and a single by Tommy Davis. White Sox 3, Tigers 1 Bart Johnson, making his first appearance since being called up from the minors on Friday, pitched a two-hitter — his first complete game in the major leagues since 1971. Ken Henderson's bases-loaded single in the sixth provided Johnson with all the support he needed as he struck out nine.

Olympic Committee to Meet And Select Pan-Am Members

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — The United States Olympic Committee meets here this week to choose both a head coach and a way of selecting a team for next spring's Pan American Games scheduled for Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Also likely to be high on the USOC's agenda is a review of the United States' performance against the Soviet Union in last weekend's dual track and field meet — a performance that saw the U.S. men win, as usual, while the American women lost, as usual.

"They were all class athletes and a gutsy bunch," was the tribute paid to the U.S. team by men's coach Jimmy Carnes of Florida whose open performance certainly helped put him in the running for the Pan American Games coaching position.

The U.S. men, thanks to three winning efforts from Tennessee sprinter Reggie Jones and meet record performance from Rick Wohlhuter in the 800 meters and Dick Burke in the 5,000 meters, outscored the Soviets, 17-10, for their ninth triumph in 12 dual competitions against the Russians.

We will need at least 115 points from the men for them to win," Carnes predicted the day before the start of the two-day meet which drew a remarkable total crowd of 65,000 at Duke's Wallace Wade Stadium despite rain on both days.

And we will need at least 130 points from the men to win the combined scoring total," Carnes added, knowing full well the Soviet women were virtual shoos-in for their 11th team win.

The Russian women, paced by Lyudmila Bragina's world record of 8:32.1 for 3,000 meters, lived up to their favorite role by winning nine of the 15 female events to coast to an easy 90-67 victory and help the Soviets to an overall 192-184 triumph, their ninth combined win.

"The training facilities in the United States are not comparable to those in Russia," noted U.S. women's coach Will Stephens. "But we are making headway. The women do not do as well as the Russians because the training and discipline methods are below those in Russia."

Of the six American women triumphs, the most impressive one was turned in by 15-year-old Mary Decker of Garden Grove, Calif., in the 800 meters. The 49-pound teen-ager, who usually dines on spaghetti before a race, lowered her own meet mark by six-tenths of a second to 2:02.3.

Wohlhuter, a 25-year-old insurance adjuster from Chicago and a good bet to break the world mark in the men's 800 meters, produced 1:44.0 clocking for his specialty while Burke, a 25-year-old high school teacher from Rochester, N.Y., was timed in 13:26.1 for 5,000 meters.

The meet produced two controversies and protests, the first of which the U.S. lost on Friday when Tom Byers of Ohio State claimed he was tripped while leading the 1,500 meters. But the Americans gained some consolation on Saturday when the apparent Russian winner of the 3,000 meter steeplechase was disqualified for interference and Jim Johnson of Seattle was awarded first place.

Doug Brown was favored in the steeplechase but the American record holder from Tennessee fell while trying to clear a barrier.

Probably the most pleasant surprises for the Americans were provided by Sam Colson of Lawrence, Kan., who scored a stunning upset by winning the men's javelin with a toss of 285 feet, 4 inches, and Mac Wilkins of Portland, Ore., who took the men's discus with a heave of 200 feet, 6 inches.

But neither the 260-pound Colson nor the 204-pound Wilkins were enough to balance out the well trained Soviet women.

Dream Came True Connors, Evert Plan '75 Return

WIMBLEDON, ENGLAND (UPI) — Wimbledon tennis men's singles champion Jimmy Connors followed girlfriend Chris Evert, the women's singles champion, home to the United States today — leaving with a promise they will return to try to become the first married couple to win the titles in 1975.

Miss Evert, 19, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., returned Sunday with the Wimbledon women's laurels and $16,800 prize money for swamping Olga Morozova, the first Russian woman to reach the final, 6-0, 6-0 for their favorite role.

Connors, 21, gained the men's title and $24,000 by beating 39-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia in the finals Saturday, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4 — making him the youngest Wimbledon champ since 1956.

Resting Sunday after the traditional Wimbledon Ball where they danced the first dance to "The Girl That I Marry," Connors said they would announce later the exact date of their planned November marriage.

Reflecting on his overpowering win over Rosewall, who played Wimbledon when Connors was still a toddler, the young champ said he had dreamed of winning "the greatest championship in the world" since he was six years old.

Connors used a strategy developed by his coach Pancho Segura. It called for him to take the ball on the rise, drive flat and deep and, at all odds, keep the ball in play using the lob to force his man back on the net.

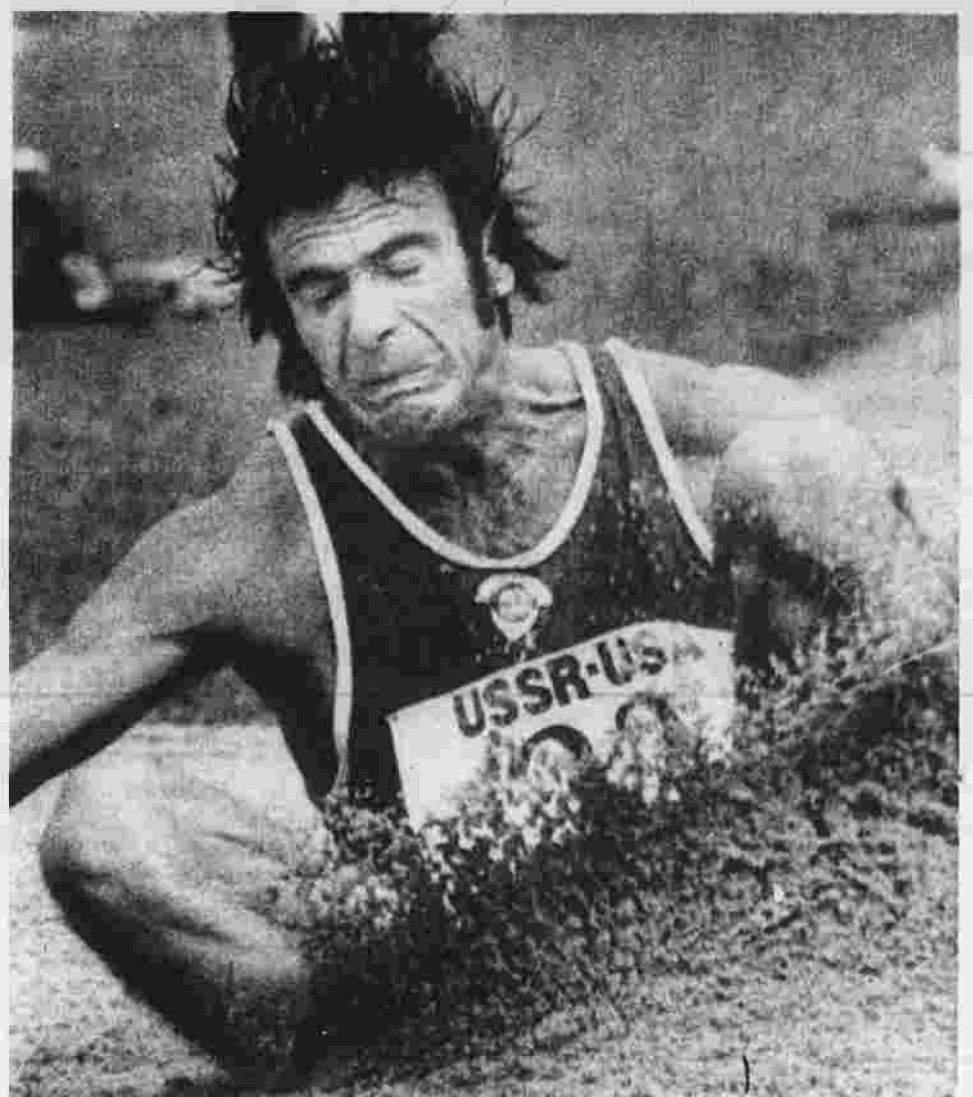

Connors tested the technique in a quarterfinals with defending champion Jan Kodes who showed it could be penetrated with short angled ground strokes.

Rosewall knew it also, but said he had suffered an inexplicable "complete letdown" in the crucial match and couldn't find his game.

"I felt I was a little too young to win it," said Miss Evert, who frankly admitted her serve and volley "need work."

Owen Davidson of Australia and Billie Jean King beat Mike Farrell and Lesley Charles of Britain 6-3, 9-7 in the mixed doubles. John Newcombe and Tony Roche of Australia beat Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 in the men's doubles.

Eyonna Goolagong of Australia and Peggy Mitchell of Pacific Palisades, Calif., defeated Helen Gourlay and Karen Krantzcke of Australia in the women's doubles 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Branick and Rich Riordan each homered twice in the loss. The latter was three for four. Bob Kowalski and McArdle also homered.

World Soccer Cup Title Won by West Germany

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Gerd Mueller, kneeling on the field, held jubilation in a gesture of joy, arms raised in relief and jubilation, told it all as the final whistle sounded. West Germany had won the World Soccer Cup. Mueller — "Der Bomber" — probably had more reason than most to be happy about the result. It was he who scored the winning goal, for the 21st time in his international career, giving the home side a 2-1 victory over Holland.

The flying Dutchman, before a capacity 75,000 crowd in Olympic Stadium, came down to earth with a bump Sunday.

The happy-go-lucky, orange-shirted individualists were not able to put together the flowing, open lathal football that took them from nowhere to favorites.

West German Manager Helmut Schoen said Holland was too confident.

Johan Cruyff, the Dutch captain, had another explanation: "We played like schoolchildren" for much of the time.

Cruyff said he would never play in another World Cup. At 31, he said, he would be too old. And he never wanted to leave his family — wife and three children — alone again for so long.

It was a bizarre match, more guarded than any sporting event has ever been, watched by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, exploding with a penalty before a West German had touched the ball, equalized with another penalty, and all over — in goals at least — by half-time.

For the winning Germans, there was a fortune in advertising contracts for each player. For the Dutch, the chance to fight again — though experts doubted another such team could be assembled.

The start was sensational. From the Holland kick-off, Superstar Cruyff — at $2.2 million the world's most expensive player — sped toward the West German goalmouth, only to be hacked down by two jittery defenders.

No German player had touched the ball. Neither had Johan Neeskens when he took the penalty, awarded by English referee Jack Taylor against a baying partisan crowd.

"I was scared," said Neeskens. "The Germans were shouting to (goalkeeper) Sepp Maier where I usually placed the ball, so I changed direction. Fortunately, he went the wrong way."

The Dutchmen failed to capitalize on their advantage, playing woefully, distract football, and it was no surprise when the flying Hoenzenbein was tripped in his turn and a composed Paul Breitner leveled the score from the spot.

Slowly, the Germans gained the upper hand, but the match was evenly poised when Mueller, probably the deadliest striker in the business, gathered an off-the-defender ball and steered it past a leaden-footed Jongbloed.

That was enough. Two minutes later it was half-time and Cruyff was being booked as he walked off the field for insulting the referee.

Though Holland might at any time in the second half have come back and scored, the experienced West Germans, helped by a little bit of luck and some cagey goal-keeping by Maier, fought off the orange cascade and won their second World Cup.

"Our team was the best in what counts most in present day football," said Schoen afterwards. "That is the determination to fight and run for 90 minutes. Holland was too confident before the match. This helped us to win."

Probably, however, it is Holland, rather than West Germany, which will be remembered as the team of 1974. It was a team that arrived unheralded and low in the betting odds. It set the tournament aflame with its first match — a flowing 2-0 victory over Uruguay, then proved this was no fluke with scintillating football against Sweden and Bulgaria as West Germany labored against Australia and lost to East Germany.

Holland, guided by the master Cruyff, improved as the contest went on, smashing Argentina 4-0 and East Germany 2-0 before knocking out the champion, Brazil, in a savage encounter by the same margin.

But West Germany was now getting better game by game and at Munich, where it counted, was the better team.

Together the two sides vindicated the new European concept of "total football" — all 11 players involved as much as possible in the play, now getting better game by game and at Munich, where it counted, was the better team.

Poland, third placed, underlined the fact of disbelieving South Americans by coasting to a lack-luster runners-up win against the former champions, clearly now playing outdated and unpopular football.

Sneed Never Trailed In Milwaukee Open

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Ed Sneed hadn't been doing well on the golf tour this year, but the Greater Milwaukee Open was his tournament and the rest of the golfers "were playing for second."

Sneed, 29, became only the second golfer this year to lead a tourney from start to finish when he collected the $26,000 first prize with a 12-under par 276 score in the $130,000 GMO Saturday.

"It was his tournament, all right," said Grier Jones, who made a late challenge but wound up finishing second. "The rest of us were playing for second. He played good all the way and he deserved to win."

Jones finished at 290 for $14,820 while Chuck Zender, Dave Hill and Chuck Courtney tied at 281 for $6,890 apiece. Larry Hinson, Lee Trevino and Tommy Aaron finished at 282 for $4,225.

Sneed, whose wife Nancy is expecting a baby within three weeks in Columbus, Ohio, played nearly flawless golf in the final round — as he did throughout the tournament. He matched an eagle by Jones to clinch the victory even though he was unaware Jones was closing in.

"I'm more excited about this than the Kaiser International last year," he said. "The Kaiser was a breakthrough for me but I've played poorly since then and this gives me lots of confidence."

Jones said, "No one gave the win to Ed — he took it."

The 20,121 crowd Saturday set a GMO single day record and the total attendance of 54,361 was also a GMO record.

14 Dolphins Picket At Training Camp

MIAMI (UPI) — The striking National Football League Players Association mustered only 14 pickets for the start of the world champion Miami Dolphins' training camp, but Ed Podolak said he was satisfied.

The Kansas City Chiefs running back noted that only two of the 14 veterans — none of them regulars scheduled to begin practice Sunday — actually crossed the picket line.

"I'm pleased. I think we had a good showing today with the Dolphin veterans. Fourteen were supposed to report and only two came. And I think we had a good showing on the picket line and we have promises for more pickets," he said.

Kermit Alexander, Philadelphia Eagles defensive back, the other out of town representative of the Players Association on the picket line, conceded the Miami picket line was barely one-fourth the size of that at San Diego last week. "Although this group is smaller, I think there are more players living around San Diego."

A total of 54 Dolphin rookies, free agents and veterans had been scheduled to report at Bigsbye College Sunday. All 40 rookies and free agents arrived as scheduled. But the only veterans were Henry Stuckey, a defensive back from the University of Missouri signed as a free agent in 1972 and running back Tom Smith from the University of Miami, seventh round draft choice in 1973.

The atmosphere was reasonably friendly.

Coach Don Shula escorted Podolak, Alexander, Dolphin guard Larry Little and Doug Swift, the Miami club's player representative, into the training camp to make the Players Association pitch to the rookies, free agents and veterans. Nothing much came of that.

"The response in essence was no response. We made our presentation and called for questions and only one question was asked," Podolak said.

That query came from Stuckey, who inquired how the Association would view a neutral attitude toward the strike. "We told him, 'There is no such thing as a neutral position,'" Podolak said.

Podolak said he thinks there might have been more questions if Shula and the Dolphin management had not been in the room during the Association presentation.

The picketing was without incident. Pickets wore shirts inscribed, "No Freedom, No Football." They carried printed signs reading, "Players are People, Not Property." Joining them on the picket line, with a hand lettered sign reading, "I Am a Dolphin Fan. I Support the Players Strike" was David Lipner, 75, who said he was "an old union man."

Legion Winner Once, Loser Twice on Trip

Journeying to Vermont for three games in two dates last weekend, the Manchester American Legion baseball team returned with mixed results. The Post 100 team belted Fairhaven, 24-1, Saturday while Sunday it dropped a pair to Rutland, 6-2 and 5-0.

Manchester, leading Zone Eight with a 5-1 mark, beats Ellington tonight at 6 at East Catholic. Dave Bidwell (3-1) draws the mound assignment.

In the win over Fairhaven, the hosts scored first in the bottom of the opening frame on two singles sandwiched around an error. Manchester bounced back with nine runs in the top of the second on seven singles, one sacrifice, two walks and a double off the bat of Bruce Peck.

The locals added single runs in the fourth and sixth frames and put up 13 runs on the scoreboard in the fifth. Five hits, 10 walks and five errors produced the runs.

John Koepsel notched the win striking out 12 and allowing just five hits. Ray Sullivan went three-for-five with five RBIs. Dennis Quinn was two-for-three and four RBIs. Peck was two-for-three and three RBIs and Ron Soucier and Tim Thibodeau each added a pair of blows.

In the 6-2 loss, Manchester scored first as Sullivan opened matters with a double. Bob Odeid laid down a perfect bunt moving Sullivan to third and Jack Maloney's single chased home Sullivan.

Manchester added its final run in the third as Sullivan bunted for a base hit, took second on Odeid's sacrifice and moved to first on a passed ball and Maloney repeating his first inning performance singled Sullivan home.

Rutland scored six runs in the sixth on four hits, four errors and a hit batsman.

Errors hurt Manchester in the nightcap against Rutland as the hosts scored two in the second and third innings benefitting from miscues. The win crossed in the sixth on two errors, a wild pitch and a passed ball.
