GOP Sunday Picnic To Lure Candidates

The campaign fund-raiser for local Republicans will be a County Fair Sept. 14 at Mt. Nebo, with 25 booths already reserved and with kiddie rides already contracted for. The rain date will be Sept. 15.

Manchester GOP treasurer Charles McKenzie reported Monday night the town committee is entering the fall campaign with a $387 balance.

Mrs. Mildred Demmon has resigned from the town committee because she is moving to Florida.

The GOP town committee will meet Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room to endorse candidates for judge of probate, state representatives (Assembly Districts 12 and 13), both entirely within town boundaries) and Milford, candidates for the U.S. Senate nomination; State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli, State Rep. David Odegar and State Rep. Donald Genovesi, all of Manchester; and several others.

Nursing Scholarship Benefit

Mrs. Phyllis Hufford, president of the Manchester Registered Nurses Association, is being shown a sword by J.D. Dunning (Captain Bluntschli) while Ann Scurrey (Louka) and Debbie Thomas (Raina), seated, look on. The characters in costume are members of the cast of "Arms and the Man" to be presented Friday by Summer Theatre III at Manchester Community College on Bidwell St. For the benefit of a nursing scholarship fund annually to a high school graduate planning to follow a career in nursing. The nurses association has purchased the entire house for the performance. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door. (Photo by O'Hara)

Schwolsky May Remain On Housing Authority

A. Paul Berte's resignation from the Manchester Housing Authority (MHA) last week creates a vacancy likely to be filled by Richard Schwolsky, whose MHA term expires this month.

Both are Republicans, and it is expected that town directors will appoint a Democrat to fill a new five-year term which will start when Schwolsky's term expires. Schwolsky will probably then fill Berte's spot, which runs to July 1975.

It is uncertain who will be appointed to represent the MHA as liaison with the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee, a post held by Berte since that committee was formed. Berte also submitted his formal resignation from that committee.

Berte submitted his resignation last week, citing personal reasons and additional job responsibilities. He is an attorney with the local firm of Marie, Keith & Clendaniel, and he also heads Manchester's Republican Town Committee.

Schwolsky, a real estate consultant, has headed the MHA's

MPOA Opposes Squire Village Rec Plan

A proposal for a town-supported summer recreation program at Squire Village, a Spencer St. apartment complex, is being opposed by the Manchester Property Owners Association (MPOA) executive board. MPOA president Frank Utakis reported today.

Schwolsky, a real estate consultant, has headed the MHA's committee searching for a site for the planned 40-unit, state-funded elderly housing project. It's likely he'll continue to lead the site selection committee.

Political makeup of the MHA was 3-2 Democratic. Berte's resignation, A. Paul Berte, a Democrat will probably be appointed because minority representation rules allow a 4-1 political makeup.

Democratic members of the MHA are Chairman Pascal Mastrangelo, Vice Chairman Dr. Joseph Danyliw, and Mrs. Ada Sullivan.

Football Physical Set

Any boys who have not yet registered for football may register that night and have a physical as long as they are accompanied by a parent.

Cambridge Firm Plans To Save Tower of Pisa

Cambridge, Mass. (UPI) — A local firm says it has an idea to save the world famous Leaning Tower of Pisa which could turn it into something resembling an upside down Brooklyn Bridge.

The Italian government's "Commission of Vigilance for the Stability of the Bell Tower of Pisa" is offering $85,000 in an effort to find a way to stop the famous tower from toppling.

Democrats Will Honor Six Saturday

The Manchester Democratic Town Committee will hold a testimonial dinner-dance Saturday to honor six distinguished friends — continuing a custom it started last year and which it hopes to perpetuate each year.

The six to be honored are Matthew M. Moriarty Sr., Dr. William E. Buckley, Mrs. Katherine Bourn, Beldon H. Schaffer, Pascal Mastrangelo and Mrs. Ann Larivee. All have given dedicated service to the town and to the Democratic party.

The event will be at Willie's Steak House on Center St., with a social hour at 6 and dinner at 7 p.m. Dancing will follow. Tickets are $25 per couple and may be obtained from Herbert Stevenson or Paul Phillips, co-chairmen.

Moriarty has distinguished himself as a community and civic leader — long noted for his unselfish contributions of time and effort to almost every phase of Manchester's community life.

A lifelong Democrat and, for many years, a member of the Democratic Town Committee, he has helped the fledgling campaigns of many candidates who reached top political office.

Sponsor of numerous teams participating in town sports, he is equally known for his effort for educational organizations. He is co-founder, past chairman and a member of the Advisory Council of Manchester Community College; chairman of the advisory board of Howell Cheney Technical School; on the advisory board of Albertus Magnus College, a member of the Connecticut State Advisory Board for Distributive Education; and a member of the Connecticut Co-Operative Committee for Trade, Industry and Technical Education.

He is a trustee and executive board member of Manchester Memorial Hospital and an incorporator of St. Francis Hospital. He is a recipient of the American Legion's Americanism Award and the

Quotas Down Grading College Staffs

The insidious and debilitating effect of federal grants tied to affirmative action programs in the nation's colleges and universities is resulting in lower educational standards and weakened faculties according to a report just made public by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education.

Dr. Richard A. Lester, author of the report, says that an insufficient number of qualified applicants in the two groups is resulting in colleges playing musical chairs with their faculties in hiring from each other.

Lester also makes the charge that many of those hired from the minority groups are being paid more than qualified white male teachers, with resultant undermining of morale in that group.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is responsible, since it requires some 1,500 colleges with federal contracts to develop affirmative action programs to increase minority group representation in their faculties.

As we have stated before we consider the term affirmative action as a thinly disguised euphemism for preferential hiring and the establishment of quotas which tend to lower quality while achieving a so-called statistical balance.

The groups covered in the HEW inspired programs are blacks, women, American Indians, Asian-Americans, and Spanish-surnamed Americans.

Lester remarked caustically that affirmative action programs should not be employed to determine if women and minority-group members were capable of teaching such areas as medieval history.

The commission report is reminiscent of the case of the recent case of Mark DeFunis against the University of Washington. In that instance DeFunis, although highly qualified, was passed over for admission to the university's law school, while more than 30 less qualified minority applicants were accepted.

Unfortunately, the Supreme Court did not make a decision in the case, saying the action was moot since DeFunis had already finished his law work at the university under a special order by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Affirmative action and quotas were characterized by Dr. Lester as a more suitable for occupations such as typists, brick layers or punch press operators.

Several large cities are under judicial order to hire minority applicants for fire and police departments in a ratio of 50 per cent until such time as the complement in these forces reaches a statistical balance with the percentage of the population.

Watering down the quality of college and university faculties cannot result in anything except mediocre teaching and the graduation of pupils with a college sheepskin who are woefully under educated. The harm which it can do to generations of students is incalculable.

We have no doubt that there are qualified teachers in the minority groups specified. And they should be represented on faculties of higher learning.

But it is sheer nonsense to specify quotas or statistics when qualified candidates are unavailable. Thousands of students will be the victims of this policy.

Humphrey is alleged to have used the trust and several campaign committees to "launder" the money so that it would not be traceable to him.

The party nominee, Sen. George McGovern, is charged with carrying over $340,000 in funds from his unsuccessful candidacy in 1972 and using the money to be re-elected to the Senate after he had been defeated for the presidency.

McGovern also is reported to have negotiated campaign indebtedness down by about $35,000. This may be construed as being an illegal campaign gift by a corporation.

Even New York Mayor John Lindsay, liberal favorite is accused of having accepted an illegal gift of $10,000 from two construction companies, who later received a $1.7 million city contract.

Questionable campaign practices do not seem to be solely a Republican problem.

Today's Thought

Blessed is the man that walks not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stands in the way of sinners, nor sits in the seat of the scornful; but his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law does he meditate day and night. — Psalm 1:1-2
Life is an individual matter. The direction one chooses is personal. This Psalm indicates two ways of life which an individual may choose, one to be avoided and the other to be carefully sought. There is enough in the life in Christ which God has prepared for us to spend a lifetime discovering its beauty and depth and not exhaust it. This life is rooted in Christ, the author of life, and he unfolds it for us as we daily inquire into Him. As you increasingly know of Him, you will increasingly delight in knowing Him.

Nurses Sought Time To Unionize

To the editor:
Now that the Board of Directors of the Manchester Public Health Nurses Association, Inc. has been freed from their agreement not to speak for publication, I would like to comment on a few of the statements made by Miss Larabee, on behalf of the staff in your Open Forum July 2.

I, too, now can acknowledge the "public's right to know." After Mrs. Bates' voluntary resignation on May 17, to be effective June 30, the entire staff, nursing and clerical, warned they would walk out June 30. As the board's first concern is, and always has been, the best possible home health care for the people of Manchester, it was essential that an emergency plan be set up to take care of all patients as of that date. This was done.

As is well known to the people who tried to help as moderators in the talks between staff and board, the staff, apparently, wanted nothing but to gain time necessary to petition the Connecticut Nurses Assn. to unionize. The talks went in circles.

In their categories of education and experience, the MPHNA staff are among the highest paid in the state. The starting salary is $8,650, with yearly increases. In addition, they have a pension plan, fully paid by the corporation, as well as disability insurance. It is difficult to imagine what they will bargain for. They work a 37 1/2-hour week for a four-week salary. The parents of some were also as charitable. Although that's passed, I felt that they should learn the game and did my best to teach them what I knew.

This year I was asked to umpire a few times and I did. However, it was the last straw and the following is in no way exaggerated.

As a matter of fact if the editor doesn't print one of the words, I hope he'll blank it properly and you can reason it out for yourself.

My son's team could go nowhere in the standings for one thing. Number 2, I don't care who wins. I realize that the majority don't agree with that but that's not important to me. Doing your best is important, but winning, no. There can be but one winner.

I started get some static from the players in the first inning. If it was a strike, they groaned from all over. I came on very strong and called time, shouted loud and clear at one boy who was making remarks and told him that I'd call the game and for him to sit there and shut up.

His mother yanked him from the game, told his coach that he'd said nothing and told me to go to hell. Another parent said, "He's a child, you have no right to talk to him like that!" Apologize. Someone else said, "You're an animal!"

I went as I usually do to see two sons play ball. A man asked, "What's the matter, can't you take it?" I offered him the gear but he refused. As the game proceeded, I heard, "Higher. And you almost got him." As the second, third and believe it or not the fourth, hit the protector, I was reminded of the Romans cheering as the lions slaughtered the slaves.

Protest Ship's Retirement
PARIS (UPI) — French unions called today for a strike aboard the luxury liner France in a bid to save the world's largest cruise ship from retirement and keep alive a vanishing era of slow and elegant travel.

Dismay spread across Paris Monday when the French Line announced its luxurious "caviar and champagne" liner would go out of service in the fall as a poverty-stricken victim of steep fuel prices and the jet age.

The National Federation of Maritime Unions asked the 2,500-member crew of the 14-year-old ship to occupy the vessel in a strike until "a merchant marine policy responding to the needs of our country is organized."

The announcement of the liner's impending death came while the France was at sea. The cruise ship was scheduled to sail into New York Harbor Thursday.

Tornadoes Sweep Southeast
United Press International
Tornadoes swept across the Southeast early today and record heavy rainfall swamped northern California.

At least one person was injured when clusters of tornadoes ripped through Minnesota, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Texas and New Mexico. Authorities said most of the twisters raced through nonpopulated areas.

Winds reaching 81 miles per hour blasted Albany, Minn. A tornado near Beaumont, Tex., followed in the wake of one inch of rain in one hour.

The heaviest rainfall ever recorded during July hit northern California as a storm moved from the Pacific towards the interior. Downtown San Francisco reported .61 inch of rain—the most ever recorded during July since the National Weather Service began keeping records in 1886.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After more than four hours of cross-examination, Watergate prosecutors have been unable to get John D. Ehrlichman to in any way change his story that he had no prior knowledge of the Ellsberg break-in.

Franco Sentencing Set
BANGOR, Maine (UPI) — Convicted murderer Robert Franco, 28, of East Hartford, Conn., was expected to be sentenced here today to a mandatory life prison term.

Franco was convicted Saturday of the murder of Theodore Townsend, 27, of Bangor, who was gunned down on the street last November in a dispute over an illegal drug shipment payoff.

Defense attorneys Marshall Stern and Jerry Goldsmith have asked the court for time to file several motions, including ones for a new trial, a directed verdict of acquittal, an appeal and a request for a stay of execution of sentencing.

The attorneys said they filed the motions after learning that threats allegedly had been made against Franco by inmates at Thomaston State Prison, where Franco would serve his sentence.

Franco's family in Connecticut has also asked that he be transferred to a Connecticut prison so they can be nearer to him.

Under the mandatory life sentence, Franco could be eligible for parole within 12 years.

Holiday Toll Now 18
United Press International
A total of 18 persons died accidentally over the Independence Day weekend in Connecticut, perhaps the highest toll for a long holiday weekend in state history.

Three drownings on Sunday went unreported until Monday, making the 1974 death toll two higher than an unofficial record of 16 deaths set on the July 4th 1972 weekend.

Stock Market Drops to Three-Year Low

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rising interest rates and continuing inflation sent the New York Stock Exchange on a slide Monday to its lowest mark in more than three years. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 21.20 points to 709.57, the lowest level since Nov. 23, 1970.

In Cleveland, the Central National Bank announced it was hiking its prime interest rate to a record 12 1/4 per cent. Previously, economists had said the prime interest rate would peak at 12 per cent.

The prime interest rate is what a bank charges its big corporate customers, and it is viewed as a barometer of the nation's money supply. A year ago the prime rate was about 7.5 per cent.

The market, unsettled for weeks by steadily increasing business loan demand in a tight money market which has pushed lending rates to new highs almost weekly, has been particularly susceptible to unfavorable interpretation of both actual news announcements and rumors.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, said in a television interview Americans would have to exert much more discipline over the next few years in the fight against inflation. While there are no plans for a tax increase at present, he said, one would be considered if government spending were not reduced.

With commercial and industrial loans soaring to an unprecedented $1.1 billion last week, falls in the money market was of federal control over bank lending unless the demand could be stemmed. While these rumors may or may not be grounded in substance, just their circulation in the market was considered indicative of the apprehension which prevails in the financial community.

Deputy presidential press secretary Gerald L. Warren told a White House news briefing Monday the administration was not considering a tax increase or new economic controls, but favored cuts in government spending and voluntary restraints.

Puerto Rico Tourism

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — The lady at one end of the roulette table at the fancy El Juan Hotel was middle-aged, of ample proportions — and confused. So the stick man did the delightfully unkind thing.

Specifically, he actually stopped play for a few minutes while he quietly explained the rules to the lady and then listened patiently while she told him about a neighbor in Des Moines who had won $100 at blackjack the night before. He also presented her with a booklet, "The Casinos of Puerto Rico," for further study.

His conduct unbecoming a gambling bell employee is one facet of the island's determined new campaign to expand its tourism industry, which now, curiously, accounts for only 8 per cent of Puerto Rico's Gross National Product. As the casino manager explained: "We recognize that tourists want to have fun when they're rickshing their dollars on roulette or craps, and they're not going to have fun if they don't understand the game they're playing."

Man and boy, I've waged the milk down in a lot of casinos in my day but the El San Juan's elegant joint is the first to encourage its stick men and dealers to deliver off-the-ruff lectures in gambling while the big rollers fidget. After all, it costs the casino money to interrupt play: in the Des Moines lady's case it meant the loss of at least one spin of the wheel and when the wheel stops spinning it's like coffee-break time on a Ford assembly line.

What has happened here is a revival of the old custom that made some hotels around the world great. It is called politeness to guests. From top management, word obviously has gone down that the paying customers are to be treated as people, not bodies. A guest is treated by the room clerk and the head waiter, not merely tolerated.

Accordingly, it is indeed curious that tourists now contribute such a small percentage to the island's economy. Hotels such as the El Juan are spacious, often elegant, and comfortable.

Service is good to superb, the food is good — especially the native dishes — and your waiter actually seems glad to see you.

It is also curious that the summer months are slack in Puerto Rico. The average midday temperature here during the summer season is a reasonable 80 degrees. One day the newspapers reported that San Juan was cooler than New York, Chicago and Rome. Moreover, for the tourist who can't tolerate one bead of perspiration on his brow, practically every nook and cranny is air conditioned.

If this sounds like a plug for the Puerto Rican tourist industry, it is — but for reasons of pragmatic national chauvinism. Puerto Rico is just as much a part of the United States as Minnesota. More importantly, its economic well-being is important to the U.S. because the island buys a whopping $2.5-billion worth of state-made goods every year. That means jobs in state-side factories, and profits for state-side businesses.

So it is good to know that the Puerto Rican tourism industry has launched a $1.2-million advertising campaign to get tourists from New York, Boston and St. Louis down here in the summer season — when, incidentally, rates are lower. Hotel waiters and cab drivers also buy state-side merchandise, and a boom in tourism here means they'll have more dollars to spend on such goods.

Meanwhile, the Tourism Development Company has signed up with an outfit specializing in hotel staff training to conduct a course for hotel employees in what is rather pretentiously called "altitude improvement." This says the tourism bunch are still trying hard, which is also good.

However, I am not sure the lady from Des Moines was dissatisfied with the "attitudinal training" given that stick man. With her gaming guide before her, she went on to win $22, and departed — smiling.

Volunteer No More
To the editor:
I volunteered for the last time. In time there won't be any volunteers and for a good reason.

For those that don't know me, I coached rookie league one year and farm league four years. I had the idiotic idea that all the kids should play every night. I even went so far as to play all kids three innings each, good or bad. The poor player thanked me under his breath and the good player condemned me because he only played three innings. The parents of some were also as charitable. Although that's passed, I felt that they should learn the game and did my best to teach them what I knew.

This year I was asked to umpire a few times and I did. However, it was the last straw and the following is in no way exaggerated.

As a matter of fact if the editor doesn't print one of the words, I hope he'll blank it properly and you can reason it out for yourself.

My son's team could go nowhere in the standings for one thing. Number 2, I don't care who wins. I realize that the majority don't agree with that but that's not important to me. Doing your best is important, but winning, no. There can be but one winner.

I started get some static from the players in the first inning. If it was a strike, they groaned from all over. I came on very strong and called time, shouted loud and clear at one boy who was making remarks and told him that I'd call the game and for him to sit there and shut up.

His mother yanked him from the game, told his coach that he'd said nothing and told me to go to hell. Another parent said, "He's a child, you have no right to talk to him like that!" Apologize. Someone else said, "You're an animal!"

I went as I usually do to see two sons play ball. A man asked, "What's the matter, can't you take it?" I offered him the gear but he refused. As the game proceeded, I heard, "Higher. And you almost got him." As the second, third and believe it or not the fourth, hit the protector, I was reminded of the Romans cheering as the lions slaughtered the slaves.

Bike Ordinance Considered

Presently paved bikeways come under the town's sidewalk ordinance, which requires the walks be maintained and cleared of snow by abutting property owners.

However, residents from areas where bike paths are being proposed are opposing the construction of such paths, contending they do not wish to clear the paths as well as their sidewalks.

Such a bike path is now proposed for Pierce Rd., where a road resurfacing project is also being considered.

Pierce Rd. residents are opposing the project while the council is not unanimously in favor of making the town responsible for maintenance and clearing of the paths.

Betty's Notebook

By BETTY RYDER
Woman's Editor

Planning menus to suit the occasion takes a great deal of time and thought—long before the preparation actually begins.

Just picture the task facing Arno Schmidt, executive chef at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City, who creates menus for all the hotel's restaurants, plus those for special social functions and gourmet dinners.

"When making a menu for a special occasion the first consideration is the ideas and wishes of the patron. All parties have a theme, a specific purpose for a celebration and it is necessary for the chef to find out about it as much as possible," Schmidt said.

In a note from his diary, he says "When working on a menu with a committee or a patroness a special relationship of trust and understanding must be developed. I think something like the relationship between an interior decorator and his client. The wishes of the patron are of supreme importance, but professional experience will point out the practicality and desirability of certain dishes."

For example, the chef says a dish eaten in a charming bistro in Paris last December might not necessarily lend itself to a ballroom dinner party in May; a stunning dish on the front page of a magazine might not necessarily appeal to a large group of guests.

After the basic concept has been discussed, the budget established, the size of the group, time of the year and type of service taken into consideration, he usually starts off by suggesting main courses. According to Schmidt, "the main course is the most important part of a menu, the fulcrum on which the whole menu rests."

No wonder the French call it the piece de resistance. After the main course has been established I start thinking about the fish course. This must be a distinct difference in flavor, color, texture and cooking process. Next comes the soup. It must contrast sharply but nicely with the fish and main courses. For example, a fish course containing a creamy sauce cannot be preceded by a creamy soup or, on the other hand, chicken consommé would not be suitable if the main course consists of poultry."

After the soup has been firmly decided, the rest of the menu must fall into place. The vegetables with the main course should compliment the meat, should not be too filling, look pretty on the plate (not two greens or reds together) and must not appear anywhere else on the menu. Last but not least comes the dessert. A perfect meal is harmony. It should not be filling, literally, there must be room for the dessert. Good food and wine give a feeling of well-being which can pleasantly dull the senses. For that reason, the chef says the dessert must be spectacular in order to be remembered. It should reflect the season and the occasion and should if possible contain very few calories.

Decorating Clinics Available
What best describes your state of mind in the morning? Do you wake up cheerful? Or do you never want to get out of bed? Or are you a real groggy?

When your husband comes home from work, does he give you a mad, passionate kiss and tell you how great it is to be home? Bury himself in the newspaper? Eat dinner and run out again?

These are just two questions from the entertaining (but helpful) Decorating Clinic that forms part of the Armstrong Indoor World Presentation, a series of programs on home decorating hints and buying guides available to women's clubs in this area, starting in September.

The consultant, after summer training at the company's decorating in Lancaster, Pa., will be available to put on a series of four programs for local women's clubs. Interested women's club program chairmen may book the free programs for the fall meeting schedule by dialing a toll-free number 800-447-4700.

McCarty-Pinney

Karen Lee Pinney of Hebron and Peter J. McCarty of Manchester, exchanged wedding vows July 6 at St. James Church, Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Pinney Jr., of 182 London Rd., Hebron. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Patricia McCarty of Manchester and the late Felix J. McCarty.

The Rev. Eugene Charman of St. James Church performed the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white gladioli and daisy pom-poms. Mrs. Jane MacCarone of Manchester was organist and the Mary Joy Singers of Wadsworth performed.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an organza gown designed with scoop neckline with ruffled panels and angle lace with pearl clusters, lace sleeves and attached chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil was trimmed with matching lace and pearls. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of stephanotis yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Miss Kathy Pinney of Hebron, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a romance blue gown designed with elastic shirred bodice, white collar trimmed with lace and long sleeves edged with white lace. She wore a white straw picture hat accented with matching satin ribbons and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of yellow and white marguerite daisies and baby's breath with matching beehive streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robin Christmas of Glastonbury; Mrs. Laurie Mallin of Vernon; Mrs. Wanda Vibberts of Manchester, the bride's cousin; and Miss Karen Ware of Manchester. They wore gowns and hats similar to those worn by the bride except in color. Mrs. Jennifer Christmas of Glastonbury was flower girl. She wore a romance blue gown styled similar to the maid of honor's and carried a white reside basket with yellow and white daisies and baby's breath with matching white streamers and bows.

Richard Mallin of Vernon was best man. Ushers were Richard Makulis of Vernon; Robert McAllister and Paul McAllister both of Manchester; and George McDonald of Englewood. Scott McCarty of Middletown, the bridegroom's nephew, was ring bearer.

The King of the Cookout

My husband is all thumbs in the kitchen. He can boil water for tea and make a piece of toast, but that's it. Anything more complicated like heating up a can of chicken noodle soup, causes him to turn to the female members of the family with a helpless gesture.

Now, I'm not complaining. Liberated or not, I enjoy being appreciated—even in the kitchen. When my husband asks me to make him a ham sandwich because "no one makes them as well as you do," I swallow his bait and glow with pride while doing so.

It is an interesting phenomenon that you can take this same man (my husband) put him in a barbecue arena, stand him outside over a charcoal grill and presto, he becomes a master chef with all the showmanship of that cavalier cook on "V," the Galloping Gourmet.

In addition to hamburgers, hot dogs and steak, he can turn out chicken Tenders, shish-ke-bab and hum with honey glaze. He roasts potatoes and corn with great expertise and he knows the exact moment when the coals are ready to use.

The other morning dawned bright and cloudless, perfect for a cookout, and my husband announced that he'd like to treat us to his special shish-ke-bab for dinner.

When he arrived home from work we had the stage in readiness for him. The girls had set the table on the patio. And, all the ingredients for his shish-ke-bab were laid out on the kitchen counter.

John was to be the helper. His job was to pass things to my husband as he needed them, much as a doctor gets instruments from his nurse.

"OK, John," said my husband brandishing a long metal skewer. "We begin. First a mushroom. Then tomato, green pepper..."

"Dad!" interrupted John lamb. "Not now John. Where were we? Onion, mushroom, lamb..."

"Dad!" interrupted John again. "Don't make me lose my place. Green pepper, tomato..."

"It's raining Dad! Pouring! You'll have to cook inside." My husband wiped his hands on the front of his apron. Then he removed it and folded it neatly over the chair. "Cook inside," he questioned quietly. "Go call your mother. Tell her I NEED her!"

Army & Navy Wins Opener In Little League Tourney

By Len Auster

With Mike Pinkin's two-run double highlighting a four-run fifth inning, Army & Navy scored a come-from-behind 7-4 win over International League champ Anasdi's last night at Wadwell Field. It was the opener in the double elimination Town Tournament. Army & Navy now faces National League titlist Miles Auto Wednesday night at Wadwell at 6.

Waslewski Rejoins R Sox

Once a starting pitcher for the Boston Red Sox, Gary Waslewski, who has been with Moriarty's in the Hartford Twilight League this season, rejoined the organization Sunday night and was assigned to the Pawtucket Red Sox in the Triple A International League.

Moriarty's at Nebo, MCC Plays on Road

Two games are on tap for both Manchester entries in the Hartford Twilight Baseball League this week. Tonight, Moriarty's host the Hartford Stars at Nebo while the Community College faces Bristol at St. Thomas.

Mike Oleksinski, Gauruder, Skip Moreau and Steve Eafano in succession each lined a hit with the latter driving in two runs. The third run crossed as Rich Zavaralla's grounder to shortstop was too hot to handle. Army & Navy came back with two runs in the second without the benefit of a base hit. Four walks issued by Gauruder and a dropped throw at first yielded the runs. Gauruder didn't allow a hit until the fourth frame but seven walks hurt his cause. He fanned nine and allowed six hits in going the distance.

Soccer

Trailing 1-0 going into the last period, the Wildcats came up with two goals to spend the Tigers last night, 2-1. Billy Silver scored the lone goal for the Tigers while Gauruder, Biam and Richard Soucier found the range for the Wildcats.

With Ed Anasdi scoring the winning goal with three minutes left, the Matadors topped the Falcons last night, 2-1. Ron Calabro put the Matadors ahead in the first period but Mike St. Laurent kept the count in the third period with a penalty kick.

Eric Gauruder Clouts Home Run Blow Wasn't Enough for Anasdi's

The College All-Stars team voted to stay away from practice sessions for their July 26 exhibition game against the Miami Dolphins unless the National Football League resumes "serious negotiations" with the strikers.

College Grid All-Stars Support Strike in NFL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The College All-Stars have decided to support the strike of National League football players in a move that could help the new World Football League, which opens its season Wednesday.

Little Miss Softball

Chasing home 18 runs in the second inning, Wynon Oil outlasted Turnpike TV, 24-14 last night at Martin Field. Maureen Flavell had three hits including a home run and four RBIs, including one for four bases. Lois Hughes had three singles for Wynon.

Basketball

Senior 1 Eagles Blue 48 (Bill Moffatt 14, Mike Nolan 9), MCC 43 (Curt Iverson 14, Don Gettel 11). Moriarty's 43 (Bob Herdic 12, Ben Grzy 18), Bike Shop 36 (Mike Mistretta 12, Jim Leber 8).

CLEVELAND, (UPI) — Veteran guards John Demarrie and Bubba Pena have signed multi-year contracts with the Cleveland Browns.

Unknown Rookie Delivers Hit in 10th Inning To Beat Perry and Snap 15-Game Win Skein

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gaylord Perry is the unhappiest 15-2 pitcher in the world today, and it's a pretty good bet you never heard of the guy who caused that condition. Claudell Washington, with only a weekend in the major leagues behind him, singled home the winning run in the 10th inning Monday night to give the Oakland A's a 4-3 victory over Perry and the Cleveland Indians: a 1-end Perry's winning streak of 15 games.

It's quite another to get beaten by Claudell Washington, and the bitterness and frustration of the 35-year-old righthander were obvious. "I just stood there and watched that ball go through the infield and I told myself, 'there's no using saying out there,'" Perry said.

Jim Mason in Book With Four Doubles

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — The New York Yankees put in their final appearance of 1974 at Arlington Stadium Monday night. And they must be sorry to leave the place. Over the past four evenings, the Yankees, who came to town with an anemic .246 team batting average, produced 37 runs on 59 hits. They came up with their two most productive nights of the season—20 hits last Friday and 19 hits Monday night in producing a 12-5 victory over Texas.

Busby Faces Only 30 Men Efficient Busby Made Game Dull

BOSTON (UPI) — It was so efficient, it was almost dull. Steve Busby, who faced only 30 batters Monday night, fired a three-hitter, as the Kansas City Royals blanked the sagging Boston Red Sox, 5-0.

Perfect Tilt For Bidwell

Taking just an hour and 15 minutes to accomplish the feat, Dave Bidwell hurled a perfect no-hit, no-run game as the Manchester American Legion baseball team whitewashed Ellington, 5-0, last night in Zone Eight action at East Catholic.

Manchester scored all its runs in the first inning. Joe Bidwell, former Manchester High star, faced the minimum 21 batters in hurling the gem. He fanned nine and exhibited excellent control walking nobody in, boosting his record to 4-1.

Steve Everett, Bob Wilson and Steve Crispino each collected two hits in defeat with Stoker adding a triple.

State-Leasing Probe Focuses on Four Areas

HARTFORD (UPI) — Five landlords who rent to the state seem to be getting more than their fair share of highway garage leases, says the attorney in charge of a legislative investigation of the state leasing system. The subcommittee investigating the system is focusing its probe on leases for highway garages, community colleges, landlords with multiple leases and group homes. Probe Started — H. William Shore of New Haven, former minority counsel to the Senate Watergate Committee, now spearheading the legislative investigation, told lawmakers Tuesday his staff found indications of "some improprieties" in the leasing of highway garages that house state maintenance equipment. Shure declined to identify the landlords involved. It was thought, however, this part of the investigation would at least include a million-dollar 1972 leasing contract with Frank Downes of New Britain, uncle of state Republican Chairman J. Brian Gaffney, for a garage in Waterford.

Other Leases — In addition to 15 "interesting" leases already selected for scrutiny, Shure revealed Tuesday the investigation would include: At least eight landlords holding multiple leases, some with as many as 19 separate arrangements. Two community colleges, thought to be the Leases Community College and Greater Hartford Community College arrangements. Group homes for addicts, mentally retarded and the physically handicapped. The next subcommittee meeting was tentatively scheduled for July 23.

Ex-Chief Justice Warren Dies of Heart Ailment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earl Warren, who rose through the same rough-and-tumble California Republican politics as President Nixon to dominate a Supreme Court era that bears his name, died Tuesday at 83. The retired chief justice of the United States had been in Georgetown University Hospital suffering from a heart ailment since last week and was listed in critical condition Tuesday morning. But cardiac arrest occurred about 8 p.m. and Warren died unconscious with his wife and two daughters at his bedside. Funeral arrangements were incomplete. Desegregation Ruling — Perhaps the major achievement of the court during Warren's 16-year tenure was the 1954 unanimous decision outlawing segregated schools. Warren himself, however, said in later years the most significant ruling was the 1962 "one man, one vote" decision giving federal courts jurisdiction over state legislative reapportionment. Nixon Praise — President Nixon, who opposed many of the Warren Court's decisions, expanded the rights of criminal suspects, said Tuesday night Warren was "an articulate spokesman for the ideals he cherished. He did not invite controversy by neither embracing it nor shunning it; he fulfilled his duty as he saw it." In a statement issued by the court, Justice Warren E. Burger said:

1969, was a crime-fighting district attorney of Alameda County, Calif., state attorney general, three-term governor and Republican vice presidential candidate in one of the most dynamic eras in our history and his contribution was large indeed. Career Highlighted — Warren, whose career in public life spanned 50 years until his retirement in 1968, was a man whether he is a Communist, a Fascist or a Ku Klux Klanner, or whatever it might be, is entitled to have his rights protected in the courtroom. At the time of his death, Warren was chairman of the World Association of Judges and the United Nations Association and was a trustee of the Truman Library and the National Armed Forces Museum Committee. Rights Defended — He answered criticism, however, by saying: "A man whether he is a Communist, a Fascist or a Ku Klux Klanner, or whatever it might be, is entitled to have his rights protected in the courtroom." At the time of his death, Warren was chairman of the World Association of Judges and the United Nations Association and was a trustee of the Truman Library and the National Armed Forces Museum Committee. Warren is survived by his widow, Mrs. Warren, Earl and Robert and daughters Nina "Honey Bear" Bryan, Dorothy Van Knight and Virginia Daly, wife of former newscaster John Charles Daly.
