Police Report

MANCHESTER
 A Manchester girl told police she was abducted Sunday at about 11 p.m. from the Manchester Parkade. She said a white male with long black hair to the shoulder, a beard and a moustache, forced her into a white car with a loud muffler. He was wearing sunglasses and a green shirt. The girl was taken toward the Glastonbury area. The man offered her wine to drink. He did not touch or harm her. After about 90 minutes, she was able to escape near a gas station. She then gave her story to East Hartford and Glastonbury police.

Appointed
 Miss Elmor M. Hashim of Manchester has been named by Gov. Thomas Meskill to a five-year term on the State Library Committee. She replaces Mrs. Virginia Wallace of Orange. The chairman of the five-member committee is the Hon. Raymond E. Baldwin, former Connecticut governor, U.S. senator and Supreme Court chief justice. Miss Hashim is head of the Reference Department for the New Britain Library System and is a member of the Manchester Board of Education. She is GOP state central committeewoman from the Third Senatorial District.

Manchester Sidewalk Sale Days Get Under Way Thursday
 More than 100 retailers in five major shopping areas of Manchester will be participating in the Greater Manchester Sidewalk Sale Days starting tomorrow and ending Saturday. The sales promotion, a mercantile custom in Manchester for at least 20 years, is sponsored by several merchants' associations in cooperation with the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce. Participating shopping areas are the Manchester Shopping Parkade, W. Middle Tpke. and Broad St., the K-Mart shopping center, Spencer St.; Barr Corners Shopping Plaza, Tolland Tpke., the Spruce shopping center, Broad St.; and Downtown Manchester stores on Main St. A highlight of Downtown Manchester's Sidewalk Sale Days will be tomorrow night's appearance of "Sweet Jasmine," a four-piece band. The group, which has appeared throughout the country, will play from 5 to 9. At the Parkade, store managers and sales staff will be wearing old-fashioned straw hats. All of the participating stores will be open all day tomorrow until 9 p.m. Downtown Manchester stores will maintain regular business hours Friday and Saturday. Stores at the Spruce shopping center, Barr Corners, and K-Mart will be open to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and the Parkade stores will be open to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Impeachment Panel Questions Mitchell

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell partially waived the Fifth Amendment and began closed-door testimony to the House committee studying President Nixon's possible impeachment. Several members of the House Judiciary Committee were with Mitchell, one of six defendants in the Watergate cover-up trial beginning in September, would say little nothing, they didn't wait for Mitchell's 10-minute committee appearance Tuesday. He returned today.

Haggling
 Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, said the first hour after Mitchell took the witness chair was spent haggling over the scope of the questioning which would be allowed. Mitchell agreed not to plead the Fifth Amendment. Cohen said, if the committee would limit its questioning to his relationship with Nixon and any knowledge he might have of a "hush money" payment to convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt. Mitchell's attorney, William G. Hundley, requested that the committee not delve into matters relating to the upcoming court case since to do so would reveal Mitchell's defense and prejudice his chance for a fair trial.

Hunt Payment
 Nixon's attorney, James D. St. Clair, had requested Mitchell as a witness to support his contention that Nixon had no part in the payment of $75,000 to Hunt on the evening of March 21, 1973. "White House and Judiciary Committee transcripts each quote President Nixon as telling his aides that morning to 'get it.' One of the Judiciary Committee's tasks will be to interpret whether Nixon meant 'get' the money for Hunt and if so, what exactly the money was for. According to Republican members, Mitchell told the committee Tuesday that he was not discussed in a telephone conversation he had with Nixon's chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, a half-hour after that morning meeting. St. Clair contends the payment to Hunt was put in motion before that meeting and that Haldeman's failure to do that with Mitchell immediately afterward was an indication the payment was not a follow-up to Nixon's statement. An aide to Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., disclosed that he plans to permit live television for the panel's debate of proposed articles of impeachment beginning the week of July 22.

Baldwin-Concord-Deming Sewer Action Tabled

By SOL R. COHEN
 The Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night tabled action on sanitary sewer installations in Baldwin Rd., Concord Rd. and Deming St., pending a poll of the homeowners involved and pending a report by Building Director Alice Turek. The poll will indicate how many of the 60 homeowners involved in pending the installation. The report will answer questions pertaining to the need or non-need of the installation. The board's 8 to 0 voting action took only three minutes. The public hearing which preceded it took about 90 minutes — one for each of the 60 persons who attended, and one for each of the 90 degrees of heat which blanketed the Robertson School auditorium, the scene of the sweltering hearing. The hearing was scheduled after a petition signed by 31 of the 60 homeowners was received — requesting the installation. It was evident Tuesday night that many of those who signed the petition were having second thoughts on Deming St. information received regarding cost. Mayor John Thompson took note of the situation when he said, prior to the tabling action, "It seems to me a greater number of people are opposed to the proposal than for it — because of the cost."

The petition had been signed by 21 of the 30 homeowners on Baldwin Rd. and by the 36 homeowners on Concord Rd. The four property owners on Deming St. were not involved. Their properties were added to the proposal when bid specifications were drawn.

The proposal calls for an eight-inch sewer line down the middle of the streets — to run by gravity into the South Windsor sewage system under an agreement between the two towns. The estimated cost per accessible front foot is $236. That would be added to the cost of a six-inch lateral, from the main to the property line, a $400 payment to the Town of South Windsor, for connecting into its system, plumbers' charges, for connecting the lateral into the dwelling, and costs for digging up cellar floors — to connect pipes to sewage outlets. To that would be added $5,000.

The raise for Tomiel was by a 9 to 0 unanimous vote. However, the raise for Negro was 5 to 2, with the three minority Republicans casting the "nay" votes. Democratic Director Matt Moriarty Jr. abstained from the vote on the treasurer's salary because Negro is employed by Moriarty Bros.

The Republicans offered an amendment to the motion on the treasurer's raise — to make it effective Jan. 1, 1976. The amendment lost, 3 to 5 (with Moriarty abstaining). The amendment wasn't offered for the registrars' raises, on the knowledge it would lose. Republican Director Hillary Gallagher explained the minority's position. "Our vote is not a partisan gesture," he said, "since our Republican registrar also is involved. It is our contention a part-time political position should not be increased in salary while the official is in office."

Four Officials Given Pay Hike
By SOL R. COHEN
 Salary raises for four Manchester elected officials — the full-time town clerk, the part-time town treasurer, and the two part-time registrars of voters — were authorized Tuesday night by the Board of Directors. All raises are retroactive to July 1. Town Clerk Edward Tomiel was raised to $18,019 from his previous $17,100. He was placed at the third step of a six-step range of $14,995 to $20,320. His new salary, as those for treasurer and registrar, were recommended by Mayor John Thompson. Town Treasurer Roger Negro was raised to $2,770 from his previous $2,600. Democratic Registrar Herbert Stevenson and Republican Registrar Fred Peck were raised to $5,300, also from their previous $5,000.

The raise for Tomiel was by a 9 to 0 unanimous vote. However, the raise for Negro was 5 to 2, with the three minority Republicans casting the "nay" votes. Democratic Director Matt Moriarty Jr. abstained from the vote on the treasurer's salary because Negro is employed by Moriarty Bros.

Panama Seeks Canal Rights

CARACAS (UPI) — Panama goes before representatives of the 148 countries attending an international conference on the law of the sea today to reaffirm its rights to the Panama Canal. "Really, we've never lost our sovereignty over the canal," Panama's deputy foreign minister, Carlos Ochoa, told newsmen before the session. "But we don't have jurisdiction over it." Ochoa said he hoped that negotiations for a new canal treaty would be completed by early next year. The United Nations last year held a general session in Panama in which the host country and several Communist and developing nations attacked the United States over the canal.

A highlight of Downtown Manchester's Sidewalk Sale Days will be tomorrow night's appearance of "Sweet Jasmine," a four-piece band. The group, which has appeared throughout the country, will play from 5 to 9. At the Parkade, store managers and sales staff will be wearing old-fashioned straw hats. State-Leasing Probe Focuses on Four Areas

HARTFORD (UPI) — Five landlords who rent to the state seem to be getting more than their fair share of highway garage leases, says the attorney in charge of a legislative investigation of the state leasing system. The subcommittee investigating the system is focusing its probe on leases for highway garages, community colleges, landlords with multiple leases and group homes.

Probe Started
 H. William Shure of New Haven, former minority counsel to the Senate Watergate Committee now spearheading the lease investigation, told lawmakers Tuesday his staff found indications of "some improprieties" in the leasing of highway garages that house state maintenance equipment.

Shure declined to identify the landlords involved. It was thought, however, this part of the investigation would at least include a million-dollar 1972 leasing contract with Frank Downes of New Britain, uncle of state Republican Chairman J. Brian Gaffney, for a garage in Waterford.

Likely Areas
 Another likely area of investigation is a $3 million leasing contract stretched over a 15-year period for a highway department garage in Waterford awarded by Gov. Thomas Meskill to the Riverview Realty Inc. of Farmington. Riverview Realty, which holds other lucrative leases with the state, is partly owned by Meskill administration top aide Joseph J. Meskill and former governor of Connecticut. The leasing program, which costs Connecticut taxpayers about $8 million a year for rented state facilities, lets political appointees rent property from political favorites at ultimate costs way beyond original purchase price.

80 Replies
 Shure told the subcommittee he had received 80 replies to detailed questionnaires mailed June 27 to about 220 landlords holding leases with the state and would telephone the remaining to see why they also had not replied. He also said the staff would begin initial private interviews with three persons "well acquainted with leasing practices" about "circumstances we do not consider in the best interest of the state."

Other Leases
 In addition to 15 "interesting" leases already selected for scrutiny, Shure revealed Tuesday the investigation would include:
 • At least eight landlords holding multiple leases, some with as many as 19 separate arrangements.
 • Two community colleges, thought to be the Meskill Community College and Greater Hartford Community College arrangements.
 • Group homes for addicts, mentally retarded and the physically handicapped.
 The next subcommittee meeting was tentatively scheduled for July 23.

Committee Tape Transcription Varies from Nixon Version

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told aides in 1973 to "stonewall" his cover-up of anything else in connection with Watergate, according to transcripts released by the House Judiciary Committee. The committee, studying Nixon's possible impeachment, Tuesday made public its own version of oral conversations between the President and aides — differing in many respects from the edited transcripts released by the White House April 30.

'On' or 'Off?'
 In the committee version, Nixon refers at one point during a March 22, 1973, meeting with aides to "flexibility in order to get on with the cover-up plan." The White House version quoted him as saying "flexibility in order to get off the cover-up line."

A few minutes later, in the committee version, after a discussion of Senate Watergate committee inquiry, Nixon tells for White House counsel John W. Dean III: "I want you all to stonewall it, let them plead the Fifth Amendment, cover up or anything else, if it'll save it — save the plan."

"That portion of the March 22 meeting was not included in the White House transcript. Same Texts
 The Judiciary Committee compiled its transcripts from the same tapes used to compile the White House transcripts. Committee Counsel John M. Dear has said the committee used better electronic equipment and had "greater will" to produce an accurate version. White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler replied that the committee was engaging in a "hyped up P.R. campaign" against Nixon.

He also said the staff would begin initial private interviews with three persons "well acquainted with leasing practices" about "circumstances we do not consider in the best interest of the state."

Other Leases
 In addition to 15 "interesting" leases already selected for scrutiny, Shure revealed Tuesday the investigation would include:
 • At least eight landlords holding multiple leases, some with as many as 19 separate arrangements.
 • Two community colleges, thought to be the Meskill Community College and Greater Hartford Community College arrangements.
 • Group homes for addicts, mentally retarded and the physically handicapped.
 The next subcommittee meeting was tentatively scheduled for July 23.

Ex-Chief Justice Warren Dies of Heart Ailment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earl Warren, who rose through the same rough-and-tumble California Republican politics as President Nixon to dominate a Supreme Court era that bears his name, died Tuesday at 83.

The retired chief justice of the United States had been in Georgetown University Hospital suffering from a heart ailment since last week and was listed in fair condition Tuesday morning. But cardiac arrest occurred about 8 p.m. and Warren died unconscious with his wife and two daughters at his bedside.

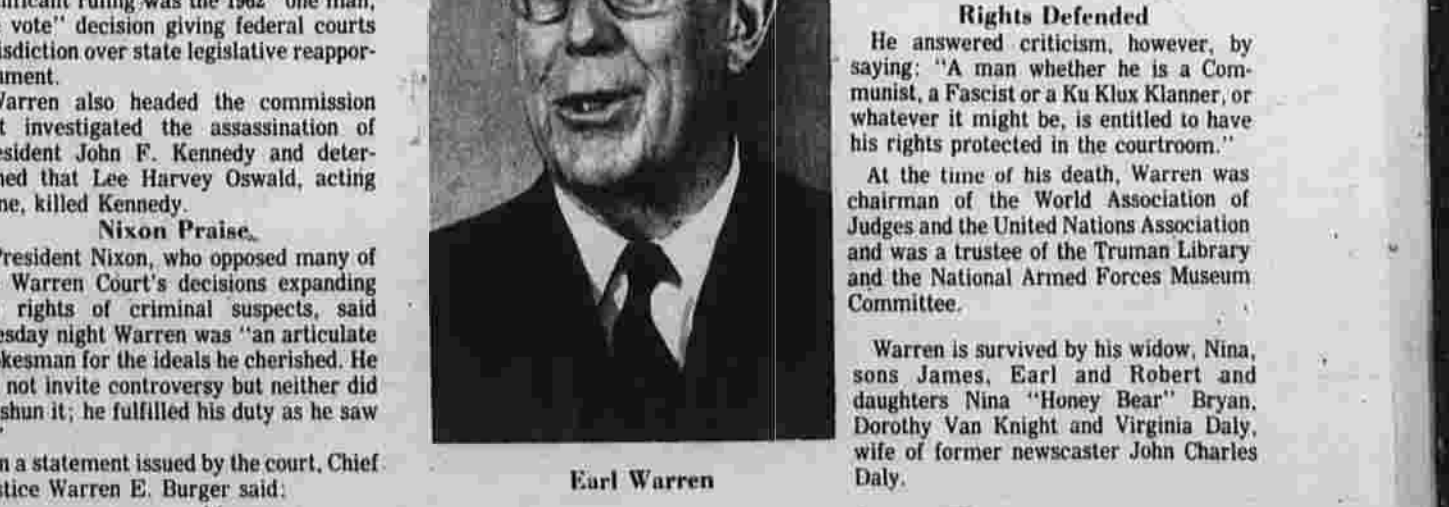

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Desegregation Ruling
 Perhaps the major achievement of the court during Warren's 16-year tenure was the 1954 unanimous decision outlawing segregated schools. Warren himself, however, said in later years the most significant ruling was the 1962 "one man, one vote" decision giving federal courts jurisdiction over state legislative reapportionment.

Nixon Praise
 Warren also headed the commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and determined that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, killed Kennedy.

Nixon Praise
 President Nixon, who opposed many of the Warren Court's decisions regarding the rights of criminal suspects, said Tuesday night Warren was "an articulate spokesman for the ideals he cherished. He did not invite controversy by neither embracing nor rejecting the issues he shun it; he fulfilled his duty as he saw it."

In a statement issued by the court, Justice Warren E. Burger said:

Earl Warren

Wyman's unStone'like Album: The Shyest Stone Goes Solo

By Stephen Ford
NEW YORK — (NEA) — An immaculate Bill Wyman sat behind a coffee table strewn with empty beer bottles, his eyes glued to the television set in his hotel suite. Although the sound had been lowered to permit conversation, the eyes of the bustling bassist or the Rolling Stones followed the flickering cartoon characters on screen. Wyman turned toward his interviewer only occasionally, answering most questions without making eye contact. The only thing fans usually hear about Wyman is his publicized shyness. And that is quite apparent.

The neutrality of the television seemed to provide him some relief from the routine of question and answer. It might be asked how a member of one of the world's most famous rock groups can still be so desperately shy, especially after a dozen years with the Stones, who collectively aren't known for being self-effacing. But he evidently disagrees.

All the same, the gaunt and mostly somber bass player has fallen victim to a malady that often strikes lesser-known members of famous groups — that desire to stop, just once, from the shadows and up to the microphone. Wyman's affliction will certainly not wrest the limelight away from the band's more illustrious members, Mick Jagger and Keith Richards, but it may prompt others to view him in a new light.

Timidness notwithstanding, Bill Wyman has released his new album with nine of his own compositions. It's called "Monkey Grip." "It's something I've wanted to do for a long time, at least a few years. Wyman said his eyes still fastened to the floor. "It's an album of all the music I wanted to make but not like Stones music. This is the stuff I've thought about and liked, early Rock 'n' Roll, a little Country and Western, maybe bluesgrass, some rhythm and blues. He spoke softly and turned his head only momentarily to acknowledge the microphone. "I deliberately didn't ask any of the Stones to play on it. . . . I wrote it, produced and arranged it, mixed it, everything. He paused for a sip of imported beer when an advertisement interrupted the cartoon. "A lot of people said it wouldn't work, that I couldn't do it alone. They told me to get a lot of heavy names on it, y'know, Clapton, George Harrison, Jagger, but I couldn't see the point in that. They said it would guarantee record sales but that's not why I did this solo thing. Even if the album flops, I plan a second album."

Wyman's only confession to those glibly named instantly recognizable rock fans are a few tracks featuring Leon Russell and Dr. John, both on piano, and former Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young drummer Dallas Taylor.

"The concept behind the album was to have fun," Wyman said as another cartoon started. "It was to make people have a good time listening to it, no heavy metal or that sort of nonsense. We just made music and had a good time."

The album's title track came from the brand name of a glue made in Georgia and used exclusively for affixing patches to flat tires. Smiling, Wyman hums, "I'm stuck to you like Monkey Grip glue."

The hardest thing for me to do was to walk up to the microphone and sing. That frightened me a few times," Wyman confessed. "Sometimes I had to cut a take right in the middle of a song and go away from the microphone for a few minutes. Once, Leon (Russell) told me that if I couldn't sing, he'd do it for me. But I couldn't have that. Leon's voice is too powerful, he'd take over the whole album, not meaning to, but that's what would happen."

Wyman's fear stems from the fact it's been almost seven years since he addressed the microphone in a recording studio. It was in 1967 when Wyman, waiting for the rest of the Stones to show up for a recording session, performed "In Another Land," a psychedelic number when that was all the tapes. "Me?" he nearly shrieked. "Sing alone in front of an audience? Never!"

Wyman acknowledged that some critics may view his solo efforts as interecne warfare in the Stones' family, but he precludes a possible breakup of the group. "No way," Wyman replied emphatically. "I am very happy with the Stones and the group is really tight. We're planning another album right now and should start studio sessions next month. We plan on doing one album a year, maybe a tour. What did draw Wyman's attention from the TV screen was a concluding question: show up for a recording session, performed "In Another Land," a psychedelic number when that was all the tapes. "Me?" he nearly shrieked. "Sing alone in front of an audience? Never!"

"The concept behind the album was to have fun," Wyman said as another cartoon started. "It was to make people have a good time listening to it, no heavy metal or that sort of nonsense. We just made music and had a good time."

The album's title track came from the brand name of a glue made in Georgia and used exclusively for affixing patches to flat tires. Smiling, Wyman hums, "I'm stuck to you like Monkey Grip glue."

The hardest thing for me to do was to walk up to the microphone and sing. That frightened me a few times," Wyman confessed. "Sometimes I had to cut a take right in the middle of a song and go away from the microphone for a few minutes. Once, Leon (Russell) told me that if I couldn't sing, he'd do it for me. But I couldn't have that. Leon's voice is too powerful, he'd take over the whole album, not meaning to, but that's what would happen."

Wyman acknowledged that some critics may view his solo efforts as interecne warfare in the Stones' family, but he precludes a possible breakup of the group. "No way," Wyman replied emphatically. "I am very happy with the Stones and the group is really tight. We're planning another album right now and should start studio sessions next month. We plan on doing one album a year, maybe a tour. What did draw Wyman's attention from the TV screen was a concluding question: show up for a recording session, performed "In Another Land," a psychedelic number when that was all the tapes. "Me?" he nearly shrieked. "Sing alone in front of an audience? Never!"

Wyman's only confession to those glibly named instantly recognizable rock fans are a few tracks featuring Leon Russell and Dr. John, both on piano, and former Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young drummer Dallas Taylor.

The Stamp Collector

What about stamps as investments? In the Christian Science Monitor of July 1 and 2 there is a total space of more than a page given over to this question. Staff writer David Thomas cites a number of reasons why half billion dollars a year go into United States stamps for non-postage purposes. Some are for collections; some are simply stashed away in hope of profit.

He has a chart showing how $1,000 would have made out in ten years in stocks, savings, mutual funds, and rare U.S. stamps. The results in the same order: $1,253; $1,630; $1,694; and $4,250.

Since rare stamps are getting scarce, as the saying goes, how about the everyday stuff? Up until a few years back, it was fairly safe to hand out some negative advice: "Don't buy U.S. commemorative sheets or first day covers for investment."

This observer stood by a counter in NYC not long ago watching $300 worth of a cents commemorative change hands at 15 percent below face. That is the usual outcome of sheet saving. The post office by law does not redeem stamps. However, in 1967 along came the Space Twins 50 for $2.50. Perhaps you could find a sheet today for $65. Then in 1969 Lady Bird Johnson's "Beautification of America" 24-cent plate block is now offered at $2.50, and the block of the Botanical Congress of the same year brings $2.50. And more recent, the 1972 two-cent National registering a little earlier, because those who arrive first will still be first in line, and therefore by starting earlier lets the line move faster. So if you want the first couple of seats, then my advice to you is to get up before breakfast, and bring it with you. Some are here before 8 a.m. If they want to up. We have to tell all those already on bus three that they can't go. It's a day away from home, and who knows you may make your fortune for two bucks.

There are two notes of interest to you. Although the news is a little late in getting to you, maybe some of you may still have time. This Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. there will be an arts and crafts fair at Center Park. There will be a couple of booths available for senior citizens who may want to display many of their many articles they have made. You can even sell articles, and make yourselves some spending money if you like. There is the possibility where more than one senior can share a booth. Anyone interested must call our office tomorrow for more information.

Now if any of you seniors would like to attend the show, and need a ride, you should call 643-6394 Friday evening or Saturday morning before noon. Arrangements will be made to pick up and return you home so that you won't have to spend the whole day at the fair.

Now Mrs. Alice Turck, town health director, needs a few volunteers to help her by registering athletes who will be going to the high school for physicals. This will be done on Tuesday and Wednesday and arrangements can be made to

Let's jump back to Monday evening when about 88 members attended a play "Jacques Brei is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" was presented by the Semi-Professional Summer Theatre Company.

Theatre III under the auspices of Manchester Community College presented the first act of their latest musical revue, for the seniors at our center. The seniors really enjoyed the performance, directed by Robert Vader, and the cast included Kathy Roche-Zulko, John Hutchinson, Art Cloutier and Mary Goldberg.

The play will be presented at the Manchester Community College on July 18-21, and 25-28, and may I suggest that you would make every effort to attend. The auditorium is air-conditioned and seeing the complete show in all its color and splendor will certainly make for an enjoyable evening. There is plenty of good parking and also a special rate for seniors.

One thing we must realize is that with everyone wanting these day trips, we're doing our darndest to keep the price within reason, and the big bug-a-boo is the high price for meals, which of course you all realize.

Now that alone sounds pretty tempting, and along with a couple of cold sodas should make you want to come along, all for $12.

We are limited to only 90 tickets, so it will be on a first come, first served basis.

By the way, I guess it's time to explain our procedure for registering for trips. First of all, after explaining the trip and price, we then say registration is scheduled for 8:30 in the morning on a given day. Now if people want to get here at 4 a.m. it's all right with me. The first one here is naturally considered the No. 1 person to the vehicle. Now there is no rule stating that you must be inside the building to be counted. So as I have mentioned in the past, although we wait until around 8:30 (the time I'm scheduled to work), it doesn't prevent anyone from coming as early as they wish.

It also wouldn't make one bit of difference if I started

ZBA Decides On Two Requests

HEBRON

The Zoning Board of Appeals has denied a request to convert a summer residence to a year-round home and has granted one for a veterinary hospital.

The residential request was for a dwelling owned by Herbert C. Cooley on lots 103 and 104 Deepwood Dr., Armon Lake.

In denying the request the ZBA noted that:

1. No title search had been made before the purchase of the property.

2. The house was a summer residence when purchased.

3. The house does not conform to year-round size.

4. There was concern about the location of a well which would conform to the state health regulations.

5. The deed for the property was registered with the town clerk on May 6, 1974 and the changes in the Zoning Regulations denying such use were made on March 23, 1972.

The ZBA voted to grant a request for a variance from James Geer to allow him to erect and operate a veterinary hospital on property located next to the Hebron Congregational Church Rt. 66.

The following stipulations were added:

1. There will be no outside runs, kennels or keeping of animals.

2. The architecture of the building to be erected should be appropriate with and conform to the existing historical nature of the area.

3. There will be no on-street parking.

4. A non-illuminated sign no larger than four square feet is allowed.

5. Boarding of animals for other than health care will not be allowed.

6. The facility will not be operated in such a way as to create a public nuisance or health hazard.

7. The building must conform to state and local building and health codes.

8. The facility will be operated to conform with state regulations pertaining to veterinary practices.

9. This variance pertains to usage of the property only for the purpose granted.

GOP Hears McKeever

COVENTRY

The Republican Town Committee recently heard Dan McKeever who is seeking nomination for high sheriff for Tolland County.

McKeever told the committee he believes he has the potential to build the Republican party as high sheriff.

The committee unanimously endorsed the following for office: Dave Rappe for probate judge; Chris Woods, Paul Dehl, Walter Thorpe, William Coates, Pat Speck, Virginia Grabowski, Ken Hastings and Ann Drage for justice of peace.

Gertrude Haven was elected campaign treasurer.

The committee voted to donate a plaque to the North Coventry Volunteer Fire Department in honor of Arthur Vinton.

Larry Knight will be Dave Odegar's campaign coordinator and Sandy Yound will be the coordinator for Sam Heller.

The committee was also addressed by State Rep. James Brannen III, who is opposing Sen. Abe Ribicoff. Brannen said he believes he can relate to the city minority vote and is running a people-people campaign. He feels the party needs more than an average candidate in this election.

The Conservation Commission will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Board Room of the Town Hall.

Items on the agenda include the Explorer Scout and Jaycees projects, open space report, and a review of the Arthur Preston subdivision on Rt. 31.

Bicentennial Committee Given $500

SOUTH WINDSOR

Money

After asking for $4,500 from the South Windsor Town Council, the South Windsor Bicentennial Committee has been granted $500 for secretarial services.

Instead, the council wants the committee to return to it in the fall with concrete proposals on the planned year-long celebration of the country's anniversary and at that time tell the council exactly how the committee wishes to spend the remainder of the monetary request. Earlier this year the committee was formed in order to plan the celebration of the country's 200th anniversary, incorporating South Windsor's history with the national events.

Planned are parades, school events, dances and ceremonial functions beginning next summer and continuing into the summer of 1976.

Recently the committee met with the council and presented it with a general plan, but with nothing concrete. At that time the council instructed the committee to approach Town Manager Terry V. Sprengle with its financial request, and Sprengle, in turn, would give the council his recommendations.

After further study the council felt the committee needed more time to better plan its events.

Land
The South Windsor Town Council has purchased the five acres of land once earmarked for the town's newest library—before the defeat of the $2.4 million Plum Gulley Park.

The land—owned by the Allerton Construction Co., a subsidiary of Auchenbach Realty—sold for $25,000. The purchase of it prevents the construction of a single-family home, which the council feared would be erected if the park failed.

The council voted 7 to 1 to buy the property, with councilman Leonard Soroskiak, a Republican, voting against the purchase on the grounds that the council needed its money for a sewer project currently in the works.

The five-acre tract is located off Sand Hill Rd. Councilmen said they hoped eventually to build a library and site would be a perfect one for such a structure.

School Board Agrees To Tennis Courts

BARBARA RICHMOND

The Vernon Board of Education is willing to allow the town to install tennis courts on Rockville High School land as long as no funds from the original $5,020,000 appropriation for the high school expansion program are used and as long as the construction of them does not in any way delay the high school building program.

The Town Council, previously set July 15 for a hearing on an ordinance proposing tennis courts as part of the high school expansion as well as installation of an additional baseball field at the school.

The board, on motion of Robert Dubeau, denied the request for the baseball field because it would eliminate use of the area for a softball field for the girl's athletic program previously approved by the board.

In a letter to the board, Mayor Frank McCoy noted that the demand for tennis courts has been growing rapidly and he expressed hope that six to eight courts could be started within the next few weeks. The council authorized the appropriation of $78,000 for construction of the courts.

The mayor said he determined, through consulting with Robert Wehrli, chairman of the Permanent Building Committee, that should the tennis courts be part of the high school expansion program then they would be eligible for 50 percent reimbursement from the state.

He said David Eveleth, one of the architects working on the high school expansion project, said the courts could be fitted into the area without jeopardizing any other facilities or activities already planned. The high school presently has four courts. Eveleth, who was present at the board meeting, said there would be no problem putting in six or eight additional courts right next to the existing ones. The courts were on the original expansion plans rejected by the voters.

They are not on the preliminary plans already submitted to the state. Eveleth said the courts could be installed as a separate project or could go out as an alternate to the high school bid.

Board member James Boeltcher said he would want assurance that the high school would have priority on the use of the courts but questioned who would oversee their use other times and who would maintain them.

Donald Eden, mayor-pro-tem, said naturally the school would have first use and he also said he assumed the school would maintain the courts. He added, however, that the Recreation Department has used its funds to repair other courts.

The motion to allow construction of the courts was made by board member Robert Dubeau who said "Approve up to 16 courts with the town's appropriation, to the extent feasible."

It was also on Dubeau's motion that the baseball field request was rejected. In his request, Mayor McCoy told the board there are some 18 ball teams in town which require full-size diamonds and at the present time there are only three such diamonds in town.

He said the area on the high school property is the only area the town owns which is large enough to serve as a full-size field. "Other activities, such as men's or girls' softball, can be located in smaller areas which are much easier to locate and adapt," the mayor said.

Arbuckle Recommends Sex Education Course

COLUMBIA

Virginia Carlson
Correspondent
Tvl. 228-9224

Joseph Arbuckle, sex education teacher and consultant at Porter School from February to May this year, has recommended to the school board that sex education be incorporated in the Personality Discovery and Development course the school had in its curriculum until February.

Early this year, some Girl Scout leaders approached the board and asked that a comprehensive sex education class be initiated to inform and prepare the Grade 8 students for future years.

Arbuckle was hired and drew up a sex education curriculum. Arbuckle said, "There is a big difference in drawing up a course and what actually takes place in the classroom."

He said his general goals in the program were human sexuality development, correct information regarding human sexuality and how to use that information for daily living. He said he found out soon that he expected too much from the eighth graders and that he had to readjust and redefine his program.

He said "By far, I didn't accomplish what I set out to do."

His experience has been at the college level.

Arbuckle said that family life is a community issue, not just a school issue. He also recommended that if a person is hired for sex education that individual read group work and individual counseling. He added the administration should not ask someone to teach family life because, "Some teachers do not have the background nor are comfortable teaching it."

He said the class did get into some discussion or decision-making whereby the students would learn to make value judgments on their own, "decisions apart from their parents."

The course covered VD and abortions in addition to birth control.

He said the youngsters were given material on birth control but that more than 50 percent of them left the material on their desks and did not take it home.

Arbuckle added this could have been caused by fear to take such material home, or that they were not interested at this point.

He said he found in discussing sexual stereotypes of male and female in our culture, most of the girls were liberated, but the males were apt to have stereotyped opinions. He said the boys need some help in this area.

Indian School
Moers Indian Charly School will get some badly needed repairs if residents approve such a project at a special town meeting, to be held this month.

The school board has voted to include a clause in the warning of the town meeting to appropriate the necessary funds.

The school is under the jurisdiction of the school board.

According to Walter Schroder, board member, the exterior is in need of good scraping job and paint job. He also said there were some repairs necessary to the interior but suggested that the exterior job be first on the agenda.

Mrs. Harriet Rosen, board member, said she would like to see money put into the school budget for projects not directly related to school programs. She added, "When you go to the battle of the budget there is enough to explain without explaining painting of the Indian school."

The school is forerunner of Dartmouth College. It was founded in 1785 by Eleazar Wheelock D.C. Minister at Lebanon Crank, now known as Columbia.

Former school board chairman Donald Tuttle was the first to advocate the preservation of the little school, which was the ultimate reason for the birth of

The Historical Society in town about eight years ago.

Just recently, the Historical Society acquired the West St. School, one of the five original district schools.

Teacher Hired
The board voted to hire Laura Saggio as a Grade 4 teacher.

Former school board member, said she would like to see money put into the school budget for projects not directly related to school programs. She added, "When you go to the battle of the budget there is enough to explain without explaining painting of the Indian school."

The board acknowledged receipt from Mrs. Ann Hunt of Rt. 87 in amount of $50 to the Margaret Danahy Fund which now brings the total to $1,400.

Each year a nursing scholarship is offered from the interest of the fund in memory of the school's first nurse. This year the recipient was Mary McGark of Colonial Dr., a June graduate from Windham High School.

Bolton Library Bid $80,000 Too High

Donna Holland
Correspondent
646-0375

No contract was awarded for construction of the new town library, after the opening of bids for the project by Douglas Cheney, chairman of the Public Building Commission, because the lowest bid received was approximately $80,000 over the amount available.

Marshall Taylor, town counsel, said the commission could either reject all bids and notify each bidder that all bids were being rejected or it could ask the selectmen to call a town meeting to get the needed additional funding.

Commission members approved by a 4 to 2 vote to table the decision and contact the selectmen for a meeting.

A motion to reject all bids by John Roberts, seconded by Ed Desjardins, was not approved. First Selectman Richard Morra was called at home and immediately came to the meeting. A member of the Board of Finance, Sid Sarra was also contacted and came to the meeting.

The second selectman, Dave Drexely, was at the meeting from the beginning and the third selectman is vacationing. During the discussion between all those present it appeared there were four choices the commission members had. All bids could be rejected. Additional funding in order to accept the bids could be requested. The library could be redesigned and bids sent out again. An entirely new project could be proposed.

Commission members voted to ask townpeople to authorize up to $70,000 additional funding. Meanwhile the commission will attempt to negotiate with the bidders.

Bolton voters had approved a federal revenue sharing funds as they became available and, if necessary, by the sale of bonds.

Initially Bolton expected to receive approximately $300,000 in revenue sharing funds. It was recently learned that due to data change the town would be receiving much less.

The town has received $120,707 in revenue sharing up to now. It will receive $15,047 for the final quarter of the fourth entitlement period and $20,158 for the fifth entitlement period making the total received $161,912.

The amount Bolton will receive for the sixth and seventh entitlement periods is unknown at this time.

The town has approximately $100,000 in the library building fund.

After the meeting Monday it appears an additional $70,000 is needed, on top of the $271,000 already approved, to construct the library.

At the meeting Morra suggested asking the townpeople to approve long term bonding if they approve the additional monies needed for construction of the project so as not to feel the effects in taxes all at once.

Tennis Courts

The commission approved the specifications and bid documents for four tennis courts at Bolton High School on Brandy St. after a thorough explanation of specs by Delagore and Taylor.

The bids will be sent out July 15 and will be accepted at the selectmen's office until 2 p.m. Aug. 5.

They will be opened and read that night at 7:30 at the town hall.

Teachers Interviewed For Posts

BOLTON
Donna Holland
Correspondent

Teacher Interviews

Approximately 40 teachers have been interviewed by Raymond Allen, superintendent, to fill vacancies at the elementary level.

Prior to the last Board of Education meeting vacancies remained for a Grade 6 teacher and a high school English teacher.

About 25 applicants were interviewed for the high school position.

At the school board meeting on July 1 three more positions became vacant when board members received and accepted the resignations of the high school principal, school nurse and half-time industrial arts teacher.

A complete listing of new teachers and their positions will be given prior to the opening of school in September.

Report Not Ready

A report to the Board of Education concerning Grade I and II Iowa Test of basic skills results was not available at the last board meeting.

It appeared an error was made by the company which prepares the test results.

John Flek, guidance director, psychologist, is looking into the matter and the report should be ready for board members in the fall.

Reports Requested

All school principals, librarians and the guidance director have been requested to submit annual reports for their individual areas of responsibility by Raymond Allen, school superintendent.

They have been asked to list a reasonable number of objectives for the 1974-1975 school year.

Allen said the objectives will be the areas considered important and in need of in-depth attention.

At specific intervals next year, conferences will be held to ascertain that progress is being made in reaching the stated objectives.

Allen said he will be listing for Board of Education members systemwide objectives which he hopes to accomplish next year.

Forms Available

The Bolton Insurance Advisory Board has the 1974 point system for the fire and casualty division of the board ready.

Any licensed fire and casualty agent who is a resident of Bolton should pick up an application form at the town hall.

25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Phelps of 48 S. Hawthorne St. celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary July 7 at a party given in their honor by their children and in-laws at their home.

The couple was married July 9, 1949 in North Methodist Church with the Rev. William McLaughlin officiating.

They have four sons, John J. Phelps, Robert D. Phelps, Raymond C. Phelps and Roger Schuett, all of Manchester. They also have two grandchildren.

Mrs. Phelps is the former Noreen Costello of Manchester. Mr. Phelps is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Phelps.

Mr. Phelps is employed by the Manchester Board of Education.

Many New Englanders Make Leader List

NEW YORK (UPI) - More than one-tenth of the persons named by Time Magazine as America's new crop of leaders are New Englanders.

Among the region's 21 persons tabbed are a dozen figures associated with education and nine political or government figures.

Best known are Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn.

Also on the list was Bill Russell, currently the coach and general manager of the Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association. Russell was the mainstay of the Boston Celtics team that dominated the NBA in the late 1950s and 60s.

Among the other political figures were Vermont Gov. Thomas P. Salmon, 42, Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, 44, and Bridgeport, Conn. Mayor Nicholas A. Panunzio, 38, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, 33, a member of the House Judiciary Committee considering impeachment of President Nixon was named, as were Marian Wright Edelman, 35, director of the Children's Defense Fund and Alan Altshuler, 38, Massachusetts' secretary of transportation and construction.

The youngest member of the group of 200 persons named was Patrick Caddell, 24, a partner of the Cambridge Survey Research Corp. Caddell gained a great deal of public attention during the 1972 presidential campaign for his work as a consultant to Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic candidate.

Harvard topped the list of area universities represented with five persons associated with the school chosen.

President Derek Curtis Bok, 44, was joined by Marina

Sorensen Horner, 34, president of Harvard's Radcliffe College for women, and Jonathan Moore, 41, director of the university's Institute of Politics in the John F. Kennedy School of Government. Government professor James Q. Wilson and physicist Robert Cole, 44, were also named.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Harvard's Cambridge, Mass.-neighbor, had three persons listed. Microbiologist David Baltimore, 36, and economist Paul McCavoy and Lester C. Thurlow, 36, were chosen.

Yale was represented by law professor Guido Calabresi, 41, and Richard N. Cooper, 40, the university's provost.

Peter Edelman, 36, the University of Massachusetts' vice-president for policy and planning was named. He and his wife Marian were only husband and wife team selected.

Barbara Newell, 44, president of Wellesley College was also picked.

Girl Scout News

Troop 626
Junior Girl Scout Troop recently closed its season with a potluck at Wadell School for its scout parents.

Girls working on the hospitality badge set the tables with yellow tablecloths and green napkins. Small bouquets of peonies, roses, iris, and daisies served as centerpiece.

During a Court of Awards, badges were presented to Lisa Anderson, 10; Patricia Groda and Jocelyn Woods, 8; each; Julie DeNegris, 3; Lynne Haberer, Mary Jane Mahor, Lisa Zakowski, 2 each; Jamie Ross and Sara Mullen, each.

Lisa Anderson also received the Sign of the Arrow and the Sign of the Star. All members of the troop received the cyclist and drawing and painting badge.

Members of the troop bridging up to Cadette Scouting are Lisa Anderson, Lisa Brown, Melanie DeMers, Kelly Carney, Julie DeNegris, Patricia Groda, Annette Packard, Dorinda Rowett and Jocelyn Woods.

The scouts later entertained their parents with a talent show.

Barroom Folk Cure May Work Sometimes

BOSTON (UPI) - There may be more truth than fable to the barroom folklore cure of relieving a hangover with a stiff morning-after drink.

At least that's the conclusion of Dr. James R. Hoon of Sheboygan, Wis., writing in the latest edition of the Boston-based Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Hoon, who describes himself as "only a surgeon," based his finding on a film study of the stomachs of two hangover victims: a 22-year-old college student and a 25-year-old ex-Marine. In both instances, he said, "a hefty nip in the morning" relieved their distress.

Medicine, Dr. Hoon acknowledged, has long been skeptical of curing a drinking problem with the substance that caused it, and he emphasized that he does not advocate morning drinking.

"I merely point out that in the two subjects presented, it worked to relieve suffering," he said.

Entitling his scientific paper "Hair of the Dog - A Gastrocamera Study," Dr. Hoon said he would have preferred using more than two subjects, but no others were willing. This, he added, may relate to "very little drinking in Sheboygan or persons with hangovers are reluctant to cooperate in scientific observations."

The study took five years to complete and involved lowering a miniature camera - about the size of a little finger - into the stomachs of the volunteers, then filming "before" and "after" effects of a jigger (1 1/2 ounces) of booze.

Dr. Hoon reported the college student warned him that "if my stomach looks like my eyeballs, you're really going to see something this morning."

What he saw was a churning sea of stomach acid and mucus. But eight minutes later, after a shot of 90-proof gin, the doctor viewed a "much clearer, definitely calmer" stomach.

The former Marine had a "disturbed, jumpy" stomach, with "considerable excess mucus." A jigger of 80-proof whisky cleared the mucus and relaxed the stomach, Dr. Hoon said.

"The very evident early relief was what startled me," the doctor said, adding it's possible a gastric acid "rebound" could occur later.

But he said he couldn't determine this as he couldn't get volunteers to "hold still long enough to find out."

And because of this he suggested that anyone who follows the advice to have "some of the hair of the dog that bit you" - in this case a drink - water it down a little and stay away from spicy morning-after drinks like a highly flavoured Bloody Mary. It could backfire.

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER
NEW YORK (UPI) - Campers will be able to venture farther this summer than they had expected to do because of the gasoline that is available.

There were fears last winter as the energy crisis worsened that long camping trips were a thing of the past and that families would be forced to stay within 100 miles of home.

Lifting of the Arab oil embargo removed some geographical limitations but did not solve all of the problems.

Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill has predicted "spot gasoline shortages" around the nation this summer. But he said motorists should not encounter serious problems in buying enough gasoline to meet added summertime driving needs.

Gas Costs Soar
In June the states were allocated at least 90 percent of their 1972 consumption. Sawhill has said the allocation program for gasoline will remain in effect at least until "this fall" when the government will decide whether to scrap the program.

Gasoline costs have soared and families planning long trips must make allowances in their budgets for a long added expense.

The best way to cut down on the gasoline bill is to plan in advance to camp in an area that offers a multitude of attractions - such as a beach, a lake or a tourist center like Disney World - which will justify a long stay.

This reporter found on a family trip from New York to Myrtle Beach, S.C., that gasoline was plentiful in most areas of the eastern and southern coastal states. Only a few stations were out of gas during the Memorial Day weekend and those which remained open put no limits on their pumps. At some stations, however, gasoline was as high as 70 cents per gallon.

No Vacancy
If the Memorial Day weekend turnout is an indicator, campground operators will be as busy as ever this summer.

Lottery Bingo Plan Set

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Connecticut State Lottery today announced a new way to win money - playing bingo with lottery-provided cards and number combinations.

John P. Winchester, executive director of the lottery, said the new scheme is designed to put nearly $500,000 in unclaimed prizes back into the hands of ticket buyers.

According to Winchester, after the regular lottery drawings on Thursdays, the lottery computer will be used to generate random number combinations to fill four regular bingo cards.

One card will be announced on each of the four following days, with Tuesday newspapers carrying advertisements with the results on all four cards.

If the number on a lottery ticket matches any of the bingo card combinations, horizontally, vertically or diagonally, the ticket holder will win $50.

Winchester said he expects the scheme to result in additional prizes totaling about $40,000 each week.

He said brochures explaining how to play the bingo will be available at local ticket agencies.

The first bingo combinations will be announced beginning July 19. Last year, the lottery gave away cars in order to get rid of the unclaimed cash prizes.

Air Crash Avoidable Says Report

BOSTON (UPI) - A Nov. 3, 1973 fatal air crash at Logan International Airport could have been avoided, according to the Massachusetts Aeronautics Commission. The crash took the lives of three crew members of the Boeing 707 cargo plane.

In a report, the commission concluded that the crew was concerned only about the plane being overweight and ignored four possible landing points prior to Boston.

"In retrospect it seems possible that had the airline landed at any one of four intermediate points, the lives of the crew and perhaps the airplane, would have been saved," the report said.

The plane was enroute from New York to Prestwick, Scotland, when the fire was discovered over Sherbrooke, Quebec. The crew chose not to land at facilities in Sherbrooke, Bangor and Brunswick, Maine, and Portsmouth, N.H.

The commission said that by the time the craft arrived in Boston the inflight fire had burned through enough of the control mechanism so that the crew was unable to bring the airplane to a successful landing.

The excess weight was apparently due to the fact that the plane had not used as much fuel as anticipated. The Commission noted that federal regulations only require that in the event of an overweight landing, a written report be made followed by an inspection of the aircraft for damage.

"We believe that landing an airplane as soon as practical in the case of inflight fire should have precedence over whether or not the airplane at the time exceeds the prescribed landing weight," the commission concluded.

GOOD MILEAGE SOUTH, Ill. (UPI) - Kenneth V. Rust estimates he drove 16,200 miles to obtain his master's degree in business and public service at Governors State University.

That is the distance Rust estimates he drove in two years from his home in Carpentersville, Ill., 40 miles northwest of Chicago's Loop to Park Forest South, 30 miles south of the Loop.

Mrs. Ritter Ends Term Of Office

Mrs. Alfred Ritter of 45 Chester Dr. recently conducted her final meeting as president of the Past Presidents Association of Connecticut Emblem Clubs at its dinner-meeting at Willie's Steak House. Scholarships were awarded in honor of Mrs. Ritter and Mrs. Thomas Danaher, also of Manchester. Manchester Emblem Club hosted the event. Mrs. Kenneth Hodge was chairman of evening's activities. She was assisted by Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, Mrs. Alfred Ponticelli and other members of the club. Mrs. Corrine Baldwin was the only member of the Manchester Emblem Club to be elected an officer. She was named chairman of the association. Miss Kay Marley of Rockville Emblem Club was elected second guard.

Building Permit Fees Waived For School Addition Projects

By SOL R. COHEN

As has been its custom when construction for Town of Manchester purposes is involved, the Board of Directors Tuesday night waived building permit fees for additions and alterations to Hing and Bennett Junior High Schools.

The fees for the $5 million-plus projects would amount to about $25,000. However, the waiver was anticipated by the bidders and their prices were equivalently lower.

In a companion action Tuesday night, the board approved an expenditure of $1,250 a month (to a $24,000 total) for a full-time clerk-of-the-works for the school projects.

Expected to be named to the post is Ernest McNeill, retired assistant building inspector.

In other actions, the board approved:

- A $36,718 appropriation to the Special Grants Account, for four programs in the Police Department. The sum will be financed by grants from the Connecticut Planning Commission on Criminal Administration.
- A $80 appropriation to the Flag Fund, to be financed by Donations already received.

- A $75,000 appropriation to the special system's Vocational Education Program, to be financed by a state grant.
- A $10,011 appropriation to the General Fund, to utilize EEA (Emergency Employment Act) funds lapsed from the 1973-74 fiscal year.
- A $1,750 appropriation to the Recreation Department for its softball program, to be financed by funds already received from participating teams.
- A $4,475 appropriation to the Water Department's Fund and Claim Account, to be financed from Water Department unappropriated surplus. It is for refunds to N. Charles Boggini and Mrs. Teresa Lee for water-line assessments on Spencer St., later declared illegal by the courts.
- A $24,813 appropriation to the Special Grants Account, for a Comprehensive Manpower Project Program and to be financed by a federal grant. It will pay the salaries for 12 months for an engineering aide, already hired, and a management analyst in the manager's office, still to be hired.
- A $21,000 allocation from the Special Taxing District Reserve Fund, for regular and improving the leased Purnell parking lot.

About Town

Lakota Council, Degree of Porchontas, will meet tonight at 7:30 at Odd Fellows Hall.

After the meeting, there will be a social time with refreshments.

B-C-D Sewer Action

sewage fees to the town - 100 per cent of water fees.

Because of the topography, the rock formation in the area and the deep cuts required (10 to 18 feet in some instances), the costs would be much higher than in other areas in town. Jay Giles, director of public works, and Walter Senkow, town engineer, explained.

It appeared to be the consensus of those opposed to the project not to rush into it at present, but to study needs in the entire area - to look forward 20 years now, and not merely two years.

Those favoring the installation warned of impending rising construction costs and spiraling interest rates.

Ray Coyner, who resides on Concord Rd., heads a Manchester construction company and, as he said, knows what the problems are, best described the dilemma being faced by himself and others who had signed the original petition.

"I'm still in favor of the installation but I now question the cost," he said. "When I signed the petition, I didn't visualize the cost. Now I realize the handicap it is to my neighbors. I'm in favor of sanitary sewers, but perhaps the situation should be reassessed. The proposal as presented does not appear to be an acceptable one."

Speed Deterrents Sought By Spring St. Residents

Several residents of Spring St. in Manchester, concerned with alleged speeding motorists on the street, have asked town officials to install bumps in the roadway.

A 46-signature petition - submitted to town directors Tuesday night - seeks installation of "speed deterrents" to discourage high-speed travel on Spring St.

"These deterrents," the petition stated, "could be in the form of a speed bump or speed depression designed for a slight bump at 20 m.p.h., but producing more violent car movement at 40 m.p.h. and higher."

"In view of the expected increase of use of the Spring St. area, petitioners believe that this problem will increase, and that something should be done now. If these bumps had been installed on the night of June 20, 1974, a serious accident may have been prevented, since it would have been difficult to attain the high speed reached by at least one of the automobiles involved," the petition ended.

The petition's reference to a June 20 accident deals with a two-car crash which resulted in the death of 19-year-old Steven Dunfield of 59 Harlan St.

The petitioners are: Nancy Muffin, 43, of Hartford; the petition is as follows: "In view of the fact that Spring St. in Manchester is wide and smooth and leads to the spring, which is a gathering place for various groups of people, there has been a growing tendency for people to speed their vehicles to 40 to 60 miles per hour and sometimes higher. This not only endangers the pedestrian, bicyclist, and children playing in the area, but also resulted in a serious automobile accident. It is not possible for the police to patrol the area at all times.

"Therefore, we, as residents of the Spring St. area, petition the Town of Manchester to install speed deterrents on Spring St. to discourage high speed travel.

Town Directors referred the petition to Town Manager Robert Weiss, who is to consult with Police Chief James Res-

Police Report

MANCHESTER

Michael J. Westover, 16, and Arthur E. Ashwell Jr., 21, both of 102 Woodbridge St., were arrested today at 3 a.m. and charged with breach of peace after a fight was reported at the Best Eaten Donut Shop on Center St. Westover was placed in a cell pending appearance in court today. Ashwell posted $100 non-surety bond for court July 29.

In other police action:

- Russell E. LaPlante, 17, of Old Stafford Rd., Tolland was arrested Tuesday at 9:36 p.m. and charged with third-degree larceny in connection with an attempted shoplifting of portable TV from Sears Department Store in the Parkade Tuesday night. He posted $100 cash bond for court July 29.
- Nancy Muffin, 43, of Hartford was arrested Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. at Sears Department Store in the Parkade and charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with shoplifting. She was released on a $50 cash bond for court July 29.
- Rita F. McGill, 45, of 39 Davewell Rd., South Windsor was arrested Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Caldor's department store on Tolland Tpk. and charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with shoplifting. She was released on a $50 cash bond for court July 29.
- Alison Mackay, 55, of 3A Thompson Rd. was charged with evading responsibility in connection with a two-car accident at 10:50 a.m. Monday in a business parking lot off W. Middle Tpk. A car allegedly driven by Mrs. Mackay struck the parked car owned by Emmett and Cecile Farnell of 13 Oval Lane. A witness to the minor crash wrote down the Mackay license and stuck it on the windshield of the Farrell car, police said. Court is July 29.

Dana E. Mowry, 21, of 9 Spencer St. was taken by ambulance to Manchester Memorial Hospital Tuesday at 12:18 a.m. after the motorcycle he was driving west on W. Middle Tpk. was struck by the car driven east by John H. Bush, 74, of 1212 W. Middle Tpk., who was beginning a left turn into the 130 entry ramp, police said.

Bush was charged with making an illegal left turn. Court is July 22.

Mowry was treated for a chipped fracture of the knee and lacerations and released from the hospital.

Kazmier Stanley Pasiecznik, 58, of 551 Parker St., victim of a car-pole crash Monday and charged with third-degree larceny in connection with shoplifting. He was released on a $50 cash bond for court July 29.

Two 11-year-old boys stole the keys out of a car parked in the Elks Club lot on Russell St. Tuesday afternoon. They left a note saying that if the owner wanted his keys back, he would have to leave $6 in the car.

The owner did this and later caught the two boys.

They were referred to juvenile authorities after release to their parents.

A 9 by 12-foot cabin tent valued at $150 was reported stolen Tuesday morning from the locked cabinet storage area of Kathryn Dennis of 11E Tudor Lane. The lock had been pried open.

NOTICE

Probate Court is open for conferences with the judge from 8:30 P.M. to 9 P.M. on Thursday nights. Night telephone number: 649-0465. William E. Fitzgerald, Judge of Probate.

SPRING WALKS

In Downtown Manchester - Don't Miss It!

William Lawler onboard the State of Maine.

Training Vessel Tour

William Lawler, 19, of 81 Alton St. completed his first year at the end of June in the Maine Maritime Academy in Castine, Maine with a tour of the Atlantic onboard the training vessel State of Maine.

Lawler is working toward a bachelor of science degree in marine engineering. At graduation, he will also receive a commission in the U.S. Navy as an ensign. Most important to getting work after graduation is the third mate's license in engineering he hopes to have at graduation. He is following the same path of his brother, John Lawler, who graduated in 1968 and is now a second mate in the engine section of an Exxon super tanker on the West Coast.

The Lawler brothers are the only area students to attend the 500 plus student, four-year academy. Dave Wagon of 549 Spring St., town director of physical education and athletics, was a football coach there before coming to town.

The Lawlers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawler of 81 Alton St.

Memorial Scholarship Will Honor Higuera

Hartford's St. Francis Hospital has started a memorial scholarship fund in the name of the late Robert G. Higuera of Manchester, who was director of the hospital's School of Respiratory Therapy.

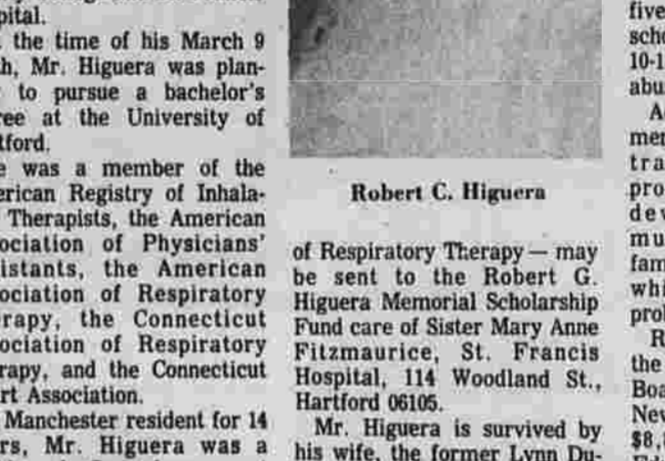

Mr. Higuera, who died of a subarachnoid hemorrhage, had been associated with the hospital since 1969. He was a 1966 graduate of Manchester High School and held an associate degree in respiratory therapy from Manchester Community College and St. Francis Hospital.

At the time of his March 9 death, Mr. Higuera was planning to pursue a bachelor's degree at the University of Hartford.

He was a member of the American Registry of Inhalation Therapists, the American Association of Physicians' Assistants, the American Association of Respiratory Therapy, the Connecticut Association of Respiratory Therapy, and the Connecticut Heart Association.

A Manchester resident for 14 years, Mr. Higuera was a National Guardsman at Rockville for five years before receiving a medical discharge in 1972.

Seven Schools Given Grants

HARTFORD (UPI) - Seven educational systems in Connecticut have been awarded federal grants totaling $68,247 for training their staffs in drug abuse counseling and information.

The Connecticut Drug Council and the state Department of Education announced Tuesday the grants would allow local education agencies to deal with drug abuse in grades 7 through 12, with special emphasis on grades 9 through 12.

The grants are from the U.S. Office of Education, which runs the training and resource center in Long Island where five administrators from each school district will be sent for 10-15 days to learn about drug abuse.

According to the announcement, the educators will be trained in the drug abuse problems among students, development of communications skills and familiarization with services to which students with drug problems may be referred.

Recipients of the grants and the amounts were: Brookfield Board of Education, $9,911; Newington Board of Education, $8,855; Norwich Board of Education, $8,805; Shelton High School, $7,807; Suffield Board of Education, $7,854; Plymouth Board of Education of Terryville, $7,823; and the Windham Public Schools district, $9,502.

120 Screened Had High Blood Pressure

Some 600 people took advantage of a recent high blood pressure check at the Manchester Parkade. The free screening was sponsored by the Heart Association of Greater Hartford which reports that 120 of the 600 people screened were referred to their physicians because they were suspected of having high blood pressure.

Much of the success of the program has been given to Mr. and Mrs. William Balch of some elevated blood pressure, yet only half of them know they have it. The reason is that high blood pressure often has no symptoms. It can lead to heart attack, stroke and kidney failure.

The Heart Association of Greater Hartford urges all people to have their blood pressure taken regularly. For information on the next high blood pressure screening call the Heart Association at 622-6155.

COVENTRY
Richard T. Holmes of East Hartford was charged Tuesday with abandonment of a motor vehicle in connection with the investigation of a car found in Coventry Lake on July 4. The car was removed from the lake by scuba divers from the Coventry Police Department and Coventry Fire Department. It was submerged off Lakeview Ter. Police said indications were that the car had been in the lake for several months. The license plates had been removed.

Holmes is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, July 29. John A. Wheeler, 25, of Lebanon, and Kenneth Comerford, 25, of Snake Hill Rd., Coventry were both charged with disorderly conduct in connection with the investigation of an incident on Armstrong Rd., Coventry, Tuesday. Both men are scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, July 29.

TOLLAND
William J. Rinaud III, of Stafford was charged with second-degree burglary Tuesday night in connection with the investigation of a break into the Edward Potter home on Rt. 74, Tolland. Police said the Potter family is on vacation and the home was being watched by police officers when Rinaud was observed breaking in through the rear window. He was apprehended when attempting to flee from the scene, police said. Rinaud was to be presented in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, today.

Mayor Main Speaker At Democrats' Party

Mayor John W. Thompson will be the main speaker Saturday, when Manchester Democrats hold a dinner-dance "In Honor of Six Friends."

The six are Matt Moriarty Sr., distinguished community leader; Pascal Mastrangelo, chairman of the Manchester Housing Authority and Democratic leader in District 6; Beldon Schaffer, former chairman and longtime member of the Board of Education; Dr. William Buckley, noted educator, author and historian and chairman of the Library Board; Katherine Bourn, former town director and former chairman of the Board of Education; and Larivee, loyal and hardworking member of many subcommittees of the Democratic Town Committee.

Co-chairmen of the event are Herbert Stevenson and Paul Phillips. It was the decision of the arrangements committee "to keep active participation on a local level this year," hence, the choice of Mayor Thompson for the main address.

The guest speaker at a similar event last year was U.S. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff.

Sen. Ribicoff and First District Congressman William Coster have said they will make informal appearances at Saturday's dinner-dance. It will be at Willie's Steak House, Center St., with a social hour at 6 and dinner at 7 p.m.

Dr. Golueke's Dream House

The dream house of Dr. Clarence Golueke, left, University of California research biologist at Berkeley, is a self-contained dwelling with ponds of algae on the roof and living space shared with a cow and 50 chickens. Like a perpetual motion machine, the "housebarn" (schematic shown at right) would use recycling methods to provide a family of four with power, food, and waste disposal. Key to the housebarn is the algae ponds where the tiny plants would absorb solar energy and grow rapidly. The algae would be placed in an anaerobic digester — a sealed cylinder in the home's center where bacteria literally eat the algae. The process creates methane gas which can be used for heating, light, refrigeration and cooking. The leftover sludge from the digester makes a rich fertilizer for the garden. Excess algae could be dried and used for animal feed. (UPI photo)

Decided Too Late

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The state advisory council on historic preservation decided this week to place the three-story Straborn Plaster Mansion in the National Register of Historic Places.

But the mansion, built at the turn of the century, was torn down several months ago to make way for an apartment complex.

TV AND TRUTH
EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Nearly half of the elementary schools in a recent study accepted television commercials for health-related products as true, the monthly scientific journal Pediatrics reported. Overall, the 281 students surveyed believed 70 per cent of the 781 commercials they viewed.

Aspirin Evaluated By Medical Letter

The report said aspirin has been implicated as a possible cause of stomach or intestinal bleeding and a few other disorders. To minimize such irritation, the Medical Letter said any aspirin tablet should be taken with a full glass of water.

Butters are added to some aspirin tablets to decrease gastric acidity. But the Medical Letter said in the amounts present in most buffered formulations, butters do not produce a meaningful decrease in acidity. It said food or a glass of water probably works just as well.

Nevertheless, the report said some scientists have found less gastrointestinal bleeding with buffered tablets, presumably because buffers tend to shorten the time it takes for the tablets to dissolve and there are fewer undissolved particles to irritate the stomach and intestines.

"It has never been established in patients with painful conditions, however, that there is a difference between buffered and non-buffered aspirin in time of onset of analgesic, duration or degree of gastrointestinal distress," the report said.

The Medical Letter said Alka-Seltzer has a much higher content of buffering agents than other buffered aspirin tablets, and since Alka-Seltzer is dissolved before taken, the report said.

"Improperly manufactured tablets may either be so tightly packed that they do not readily dissolve, or they may crumble before use," the Medical Letter said. "Crumbled tablets and powder may contain considerable amounts of degraded drug. Although these pharmaceutical differences between tablets could have clinical consequences, it has never been proven in controlled trials of analgesic effect that one brand of plain aspirin is superior to another."

your house deserves the best!

Judge Kerner Denied Reduction in Sentence

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal judge Tuesday refused to reduce the three-year prison sentence of former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner and former State Revenue Director Theodore Isaac.

U.S. District Judge Robert Taylor ordered Kerner to begin serving his term at the Lexington, Ky., federal penitentiary on July 19, and then granted both men a 10-day extension to July 29. The place of Isaac's incarceration was not announced immediately.

Kerner sat impassively, his hands folded on his lap, as Taylor read the decision. Kerner's attorney, Thomas Patton, said the former governor was not repentant.

"I want to lay it square on the line," Patton said. "There is no repentance. There is none because Otto Kerner in his heart and his mind knows that he is innocent."

Patton argued that Kerner had a hard condition and needed so much treatment that imprisonment could jeopardize his health and even his life.

Committee Studying Committees

By DON LAMBRO
WASHINGTON (UPI) — After months of testimony and debate, Congress decided in 1972 to halt the astounding growth of government advisory committees — by characteristically — creating another committee.

Created within the Office of Management and Budget and the Supreme Allied Commander of all committees, the Committee Management Secretariat, which was charged with responsibility for a top to bottom review of every last one of them — 1,439 at the time.

Congress found these prolific committees were populated by some 24,500 private and public citizens, required an assigned government staff of more than 4,000 to oversee their affairs, and at the time were estimated to cost taxpayers $75 million a year.

Their activities ranged over almost every conceivable facet of human endeavor, dealing with everything from prophylactics to laxatives to exotic plants. OMB's committee, ordered to make mergers and cuts wherever possible, recently issued its 1973 report and proudly announced that 300 committees, out of a total of 1,450 in existence at the end of the year, had been abolished.

However, last year 216 new committees were created, 24 of them by acts of Congress, for an actual net decrease of 174 committees.

Gone forever are committees on "dialer and answering services," polar programs, tobacco marketing, art in the embassies, the broiler industry, computers, and such panels as the Flathead National Forest Advisory Committee.

This year, the report vowed, OMB will "conduct a rigorous review to eliminate advisory committees that are not serving a useful purpose."

OMB has its work cut out for it.

Here are a few existing ones that may raise some eyebrows: The National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice; the Dance Advisory Panel; the Plant Variety Protection Board; the Advisory Panel on Anthropology; the National Peanut Advisory Committee; and the Committee for the Recovery of Archaeological Remains.

A few others include the Panel on Review of Antiparasitic Drug Products; The Women's Advisory Committee on Aviation; at least two review committees on contraceptives, one on laxatives, and four on women's rights.

Congressional experts who have studied these committees for years say 90 per cent of them could be abolished without so much as a ripple in the machinery of government. Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., for one, has called them "a needless monster."

As with many government activities, they began modestly enough. The first federal advisory panel was used by George Washington to help him deal with the Whisky Rebellion.

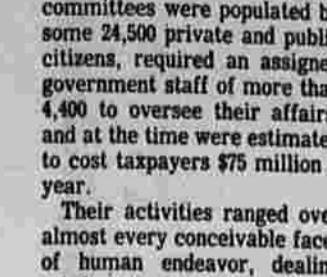

Today they exist in every nook and cranny of the government, yet no one has any total picture of what they all do or why many of them were formed to begin with.

Though each was created to give government the benefit of expert advice and counsel from the private sector, many are in fact packed with government officials. The Defense Department alone has more than 713 representatives on various committees. Universities, corporations and organized labor also make up a major portion of their membership.

Critics charge that they operate in a shroud of secrecy, their meetings usually closed to the public, keeping no agenda, nor maintaining a transcript of their proceedings. Who reads their reports, if anyone, is hard to imagine.

Last year the number of committees declined by 16 per cent. Critics in Congress who believe that figure should be much higher will be awaiting OMB's next annual report with more than a little interest.

Council Balks at Cost Of Early Steel Shipment

VERNON BARBARA RICHMOND

Without actually taking any action, the Vernon Town Council Tuesday night rejected a recommendation to appropriate an additional $45,000 to speed up delivery of steel for the classroom addition of the high school expansion program.

The recommendation came from the Board of Education and the Permanent Building Committee (PBC) in the hope that the classroom wing could be completed by September 1975 and the high school could go off double sessions.

Manchester Structural Steel, Inc., owned by Jack Hunter of Manchester, was low bidder for the original contract at $359,000. One of the major items of the council was the legal ramifications that might come about if the additional money were appropriated. This would bring the Manchester Steel contract about $2,000 over the second low bid which was $403,000.

Donald Eden, mayor pro-tem, presided over the special meeting in the absence of Mayor Frank McCoy but Mayor McCoy left a memorandum for the council in which he posed several questions concerning the appropriation.

He asked if there would be any guarantee that the procurement of the steel from a New York warehouse, at the additional charge, would guarantee that the high school would go off double sessions in September 1975.

Hunter, who was present at the meeting, said he had been told by the supplier that if he could wait until Sept. 1 they could guarantee delivery. He said, "Since the steel to be procured early is only a portion of the steel, then we should realize that the $45,000 is more than 7 percent of the total contract of $360,000 and probably closer to a 25 percent increase for perhaps half of the total amount of the steel. If the classroom steel is approximately half of the total steel that would cost $180,000, the increase asked for is $45,000, amounting to a 25 percent increase."

Councilman Morgan Campbell commented that it's been a long time since the voters approved the $5 million appropriation for the school addition (it was turned down twice before) "so I don't think there is any rush now."

Councilman Peter Humphrey said, "There is no guarantee there won't be a shortage of other materials later, that is why we have inflation, because people are willing to pay a premium price to get materials."

Councilman Robert Wehrli, who is also chairman of the PBC, explained his committee was directed to do all possible to get the construction going as soon as possible. He said the committee has worked many man hours to make this possible, "and now at the 11th hour it seems it was not essential."

Maurice Miller, chairman of the Board of Education, told the council that the board had given its word to the townspeople that the school would be on double sessions for only two years. Next September will start the second year. "I think we have an obligation to these people. Weirli told the council that spending the extra $45,000 could save six months of inflationary costs.

Eden reminded Miller that the public had rejected an appropriation twice, "so maybe you're placing too much emphasis on this."

Weirli told the council that he could obtain from A. Richard Lombardi, engineer.

A request from Kingfisher Co. of Tolland to tie in to the Vernon sewer line was tabled until the July 15 meeting of the council so further information can be obtained from A. Richard Lombardi, engineer.

Democrat Fill Posts, Back Candidates

COVENTRY Monica Shea

Correspondent 742-9495

The Democratic Town Committee last night endorsed Charles Popple for probate judge, Julie Bradley and Ritesa Wisecall for registrars of voters; Al Bradley, Al Mayers, Holly Gantner, Lionel Jean, Joseph Fowler, Sandy Morroite, Joe Bastarache and Mike Fratiani for justice of peace.

The committee elected Jack Miles and Larry Beecher to fill vacancies on the town committee.

Al Phillips, chairman of the committee, spoke of the death of Ray Bradley, former chairman of the committee and long-time resident of Coventry.

Phillips said, "Even after Ray resigned from the committee he gave me every bit of help that I ever asked for. He was active in the party for many years, and we will miss him."

States To Be Reimbursed For Oil Work

BOSTON (UPI) — The federal government will send reimbursements to all states for expenses incurred in the operation of petroleum allocation programs in fiscal 1974, the Federal Energy Administration has announced.

Hugh Saussy Jr., Region I administrator of the administration, said New England's share of the $5 million reimbursement will amount to $262,286.

The breakdown by states shows Maine receiving the largest share, $73,663; followed by Vermont, $71,563; Connecticut, $47,775; New Hampshire, $33,609; Massachusetts, $23,858; and Rhode Island, $11,806.

Approval was also given for a contract for $11,550 to resurface Dart Hill Rd. from the bridge to Skinner Rd. The section from Rt. 83 to the bridge has just been completed.

A request from Kingfisher Co. of Tolland to tie in to the Vernon sewer line was tabled until the July 15 meeting of the council so further information can be obtained from A. Richard Lombardi, engineer.

The committee voted to donate $50 in Bradley's memory to a charity of his family's choice.

Jack Bailey seeking the nomination for the Second Congressional District spoke to the committee.

Bailey said, "I think this is the only area of the state where congressional candidates are going around speaking to each town committee. We have open government in Eastern Connecticut."

Bailey said, "You need a congressman who will speak up for you not only in Washington but also in Hartford. We here in Eastern Connecticut have been getting the short end of the stick."

Bailey said, "I know Washington and I know the seniority system. As a freshman congressman I'm not going to be able to change everything. But I know Hartford and I could help there to see that Eastern Connecticut gets its fair share."

Bailey said, "I think an oil refinery could be located in the second district but I am against putting it in Long Island Sound."

Robert "Skip" Walsh, who is seeking the nomination from the 33rd Assembly District received the endorsement of the town committee last night.

Walsh said, "If elected I'll visit the Planning and Zoning, Town Council, Board of Selectmen and Board of Education meetings of those towns in the district so that I can keep in contact with my constituents."

Al DeCocco, who had been challenging Walsh for the nomination, withdrew from the race at 4 p.m. yesterday.

Sanford Cloud, who is seeking the nomination for state comptroller, spoke to the committee and said the comptroller is the watchdog for the state.

Cloud said, "To date we have not had a monthly report from the present comptroller as is required by law."

Cloud said, "I believe all the people of the state have suffered under the present administration. All of us have been overtaxed."

Cloud said, "It is my judgment that if this state is going to continue to grow, if we are going to be able to attract new industry, then a state income tax is inevitable. But this must be part of a total tax package which will reduce property taxes and the sales tax."

Frank Curran, who is seeking the nomination for sheriff of Tolland County, spoke to the committee to explain an auditors' report for 1972.

Curran is the clerk treasurer for the borough of Stafford Springs and has held that position since 1968.

Curran had received a call from a Coventry delegate to the sheriff's convention which questioned the auditors' report for 1972.

In the report the auditors, Pat Summell and Co., had stated that things were not handled in a businesslike manner for the town that year.

Curran said that this was due to the fact that he had been out of work both from his full-time job and the position of clerk treasurer from May to September of that year due to a leg injury.

Curran read from other auditors' reports that stated in those years that the business affairs were handled in an orderly and proper manner.

Curran said, "I handled between $30,000 and $50,000 a day in my full-time job and no one has questioned my ability."

Dave Barry, who is seeking the nomination for the Fourth Senatorial District, spoke to the committee and explained why he had not endorsed anyone for state central committee.

Barry said, "Many of you are disappointed that Coventry didn't get a man elected to State Central Committee. I could not endorse one person over another when they had both worked for me in the past election."

The Democrats are holding a Dollar Dance Saturday from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Snake Hill Rd.

Tickets will be available at the door.

The Confusion over Case Mt.

This map, greatly reduced from the original in the office of Town Engineer Walter Senkow, has been darkened to show Spring St. at the top where it curves past the edge and the much narrower, proposed access road leading to the town's Case Mt. property. The zigzag line shows the location of the planned six-foot, chain-link fence which must be installed by October in order for the town to maintain its right to the access road. The property to the right of the proposed fence remains private property. The property to the left of it is town-owned.

What's Public? What's Private?

Now much of it is filled in or no more than swamp level. Cleaning out the silt will be a great undertaking and expensive, the brothers said. To do it on their own land and still accept the public's abuse does not appeal to them.

The worst problem of all has come up recently: motorcycles. "The motorcycles have virtually ruined the roads," Wells said. "Cyclists would go up the mountain in the wet weather and dig the deepest ruts."

He pointed out a pathway with old and fresh tire marks and said, "That used to be a nice, fern-covered walk."

The Denisons noted they were spending about $5,000 per year just to maintain the roadways in recent years.

Robert Denison explained, "The compelling reason for us to want to sell the mountain was so the kids would have a place to go."

And we would have privacy," Joseph F. Ryter, executor under the will of Lester H. Smith, told the Denisons.

Despite the sale of the mountain, the Denisons and their neighbors have yet to get their privacy. Youths are not only freely using the mountain for camp fires, motorcycling, and general gatherings, but also the pond areas. In fact, due to the confusion over what the town actually bought, they are more brazen than ever with the thought they are on town property by the ponds.

Filling in storm-caused ruts in the roadways was the biggest item of maintenance born by the Case family.

It was a pleasant surprise that the Case family descendants said they could have continued for a very long time.

"Vandalism started just after World War II," the brothers said.

Wells recalls steady, weekend attacks on the log cabin on the south shore of one of the ponds. The cabin became a shantytown as the family grew tired of repairing it.

Trash barrels were ignored. Camp fires could be found carelessly set up all over the mountain.

Due to the damage, the Denisons suspect mothers told their sons, armed with new hatchets, to go up to Case Mt. to practice.

Careless people were not the only ones attacking the land. Home construction along Birch Mountain Rd., part of the water shed of the ponds, as well as construction of I-94 caused silt to fill up the bottoms of the ponds. They were four to five feet deep or more in most

Wells Denison, walking toward the youths at the pond's edge, and Robert Denison, right, have come upon over a dozen young people, several on motorcycles, during an afternoon's inspection of their land along the ponds near Case Mt. Here they asked the youths to dress and leave as none of them had permission to be there. (Herald photo by Barlow)

World Football League Starts Tonight in Five Cities

NEW YORK (UPI)—Crowds totaling 145,000—about 50 percent capacity—are expected to welcome the new World Football League to the sports scene tonight in five cities. Although most of the teams in the 12-club league are considered question marks, the five-game opening card is featured by a matchup between two title favorites—the Southern California Sun facing the Birmingham Americans at Birmingham, Ala.

The game is expected to draw 35,000 at the 72,000-seat Legion Field and may feature a passing duel between 10-year veteran George Mira of the Americans and Tony Adams of the Sun, who threw 52 touchdown passes in three seasons at Utah State.

In the other games, which the WFL hopes will gain added attention in view of the strike by National Football League players, the Detroit Wheels are at Memphis Southern with 25,000 expected in a 50,000-seat stadium; the Hawaii Hawaiians at Florida Blazers with 15,000 in a 27,000-seat park; the Houston Texas at Chicago Fire with 35,000 in a 55,000-seat stadium and the Portland Storm at Philadelphia Bell with 30,000 likely to turn out in the massive 90,000-seat J.F. Kennedy Stadium.

Anticipating a fairly impressive turnout of fans, WFL Commissioner Gary Davidson, who conceived the idea of the league, issued an optimistic pre-season statement.

"We have progressed much faster and farther than most people expected," he said. "Our football product appears to be substantially better than even some of our coaches expected and the fan response has been encouraging." Here's what the fans can expect competitively on opening night:

Southern California at Birmingham
In addition to Mira, the Americans have an all-veteran backfield of running backs Charlie Harraway and Paul Robinson and flanker Dennis Horman. Adams has Kermit Johnson and Jim McAlister among his running backs and a potential star receiver in Dave Williams. An all-out offensive battle is anticipated.

Detroit at Memphis
Bobby Wyche, a former University of Tennessee star who played four seasons in the Canadian Football League, will be at quarterback for Detroit with veteran John Harris, former Notre Dame star, and rookie Danny White sharing the throttle for Memphis. Both teams have mostly rookie running backs so plenty of passing is expected in this one too.

Hawaii at Florida
Florida has veteran Bob Davis at quarterback while rookies Norris Weese, from Mississippi, and Jim Paseti, from Long Beach State, will alternate at the position for Hawaii. Rookies are carrying the load for Hawaii this season until such NFL stars as Calvin Hill, Randy Johnson and Ted Kwalick take over in 1975.

The league's first week of competition will be rounded out Thursday night when the New York Stars play the Jacksonville Sharks at Jacksonville, Fla., in a game which will be televised over a 100-station TVS network.

Angels Bow Again 10th Straight Time

NEW YORK (UPI)—Next time Dick Williams might try an exorcist.

The California Angels, seemingly possessed by a demonic force that has led to the club dropping 27 of its last 34 contests and all since Williams became manager a week ago, dropped a 3-1 decision Tuesday night to the Baltimore Orioles.

The loss was California's 10 straight, tying a club record for most consecutive losses.

The superstitious Angels tried to reverse their bad luck of late with a display of mystical defiance before the game. Williams, who led the Oakland A's to two consecutive world championships but has yet to win in nine games as Angels' manager, elected to send Bobby Valentine to home plate with the club's lineup card.

The Angel infielder, who wears No. 13 on his uniform, cradled a black cat in his arms and walked beneath a ladder before shaking hands with smiling Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver.

The Angels' search into the occult for answers to their shortcomings on the field went to waste as Baltimore scored in its first at bat.

"It wasn't my idea, but its fine with me," Williams said. "We'll try anything to get out of this slump. Maybe I should have let the cat hit. We have no punch at all."

Boog Powell drove in two of the Baltimore runs, including the game-winner with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning. Powell snapped a 1-1 tie that had existed since the first inning by scoring Rich Coggins from third base on a fly ball to deep center. Coggins had opened the frame with a single off loser Dick Lange. Coggins took third when designated hitter Tommy Davis singled to the spot that shortstop Dave Chalk had vacated to cover second base for a possible steal.

In other games Oakland blanked Cleveland 7-0, Boston edged Texas 2-1, Milwaukee edged Chicago 6-5, Minnesota trimmed Detroit 3-2 in 11 innings, and New York topped Kansas City 6-2.

A's 7, Indians 0

Jim "Catfish" Hunter pitched a three-hit shutout for his fifth straight victory and 12th win overall while Joe Rudi drove in three runs with a pair of singles in leading the A's over Cleveland.

The A's jumped Cleveland starter and loser Steve Arlin, 2-3, for three runs in the first inning with Rudi driving in two of them with his single. It became 4-0 in the third on a walk and Rudi's second single.

Yankees 8, Royals 2
Graig Nettles' grand-slam homer, his first as a major leaguer, capped a six-run first inning and sparked New York to a victory over the Kansas City Royals. The win was the Yankees' fifth in their last six games.

Twins 3, Tigers 2
Harmon Killebrew's single in the bottom of the 11th scored Steve Brye from second base to give the Minnesota Twins a victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Brewers 6, White Sox 5
George Scott drove in four runs, including a game-winning home run in the bottom of the ninth inning, in leading the Brewers over the White Sox.

Tiant Stopper for Red Sox, Scatters Four Hits by Rangers

BOSTON (UPI)—Darrell Johnson was relaxed in his office and happy to have something nice to talk about for a change.

His Boston Red Sox had just downed Billy Martin's Texas Rangers 2-1 on the strength of a fine pitching performance by Luis Tiant.

Johnson hasn't had a great deal to be happy about in recent days. Up to Tuesday night, the Red Sox had dropped six of their last seven games and tumbled from first place in the American League East Division.

"Yes," said Johnson, "it was a well-played ballgame, wasn't it?"

"Tiant was the key," added Johnson, "he's been our stopper for quite some time. He pitched a great ball game and just when we needed it, too."

Tiant scattered four Texas hits in going the distance for his 12th win against seven losses. The lone Ranger run was a hard luck tally against Tiant, an unearned run in the first inning.

Cesar Tovar greeted Tiant with a line single through the box and things fell apart briefly for Boston. Tovar advanced to third on Dave Nelson's drag bunt single when rookie Red Sox catcher Tim Blackwell ball into right field.

Tiant nearly proved the master of the situation, however, as he fanned two of the next three batters, but Jeff Burroughs drove a sacrifice fly to right field to score Tovar.

Burroughs did provide one more scare in the fourth inning after the Red Sox had gone ahead 2-1 when he smashed a long drive to the bullpen wall in right field. Dwight Evans, who drove in the first Boston run, reached over the barrier and snagged the would-be home run. Tiant lamed the rest of the Texas batting order.

The Red Sox scored a run in the first. Cecil Cooper, who slammed two doubles in three official trips to the plate, walked with two men out. He moved to second when losing Texas pitcher Jim Bibby gave Carl Yastrzemski a free pass and came home on Evans' ground single to right field.

Cooper scored the second Boston run in the third, lining a double into center field and trotting home on Yastrzemski's towering triple against the center field wall.

The Rangers and Red Sox tangled tonight in the second game of their three-game series. The Red Sox have set aside the proceeds of the game to be donated to the "Jimmy Fund," a children's cancer research foundation in Boston. Young David Clyde (3-5) is scheduled to pitch for Texas and Reggie Cleveland (6-6) is expected to take the mound for Boston.

Pirates and Royals Complete Trade

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday traded infielder Kurt Bevacqua back to the Kansas City Royals for minor league infielder Jose Martinez and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Bevacqua, 27, came to the from Cleon Jones, Gary Matthews and Richie Zisk—all of whom had great weeks," Feeney said.

Six-cylinder mileage economy in a family-sized car? That's the Dodge Coronet four-door sedan. Come in and get the whole story . . . on room, ride, and economy.

When it comes to family-sized wagons—no Dodge Boys have it all! Our Coronet station wagons are roomy enough to carry a four-by-eight sheet of plywood flat, with the tailgate closed and the seat forward. And the standard wagon engine is the time-proven Dodge 318 V8. (Naturally, the "318" is available on Coronet sedans, too.)

Fire Victims Locate Home

On Sunday, June 30, a fire in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Sonatra of 466 Woodland St. left the couple and their six-year-old daughter, Marchana, homeless.

The couple had only moved into the house from their Hartford apartment three days earlier.

That Sunday afternoon, an Eighth District volunteer fireman, Marty Fiendel, urged them to move in with him at his home at 184 Hollister St. His wife, Bonnie, and their nine-year-old son had plenty of room, he told them.

"So the Sonatras stayed with the Fiendels for a week while they determined what to do with their home. The wiring, roof and other damage repaired.

"We had a good time," Fiendel said this week. "We all spoiled the baby."

Dr. Sonatra, a staff doctor at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford, rented a Coventry Lake cottage for July and his family will live there as work is completed on their home.

Bridge Specs Being Prepared

The Woodbridge St. bridge may be less costly and may take less time to install than the Olcott St. bridge last year, Town Manager Robert Weiss told the Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night.

He said the engineering department already is preparing specifications, and bids for the installation should be ready for August advertisement.

The Woodbridge St. bridge over Bigelow Brook collapsed last Friday, during a torrential rainfall. Its demise was a year and five days after the Olcott St. bridge collapsed, also during a torrential rainfall.

The Olcott St. bridge took $100,000 and five months and 14 days to replace.

Weiss indicated construction on the Woodbridge St. bridge could start near the end of August or beginning of September.

He said it may be possible to utilize a metal-arch, culvert-system type bridge available through state sources — a less costly bridge than the one installed on Olcott St.

Mayor John Thompson recommended a preventative-maintenance program by town forces, as a means of forestalling similar mishaps on other Manchester bridges in the future.

Thompson took note also of the hazardous situation on Woodbridge St., where the bridge had collapsed, and urged parents to keep their children away from the area.

Utility Cites Rate Hike Need

HARTFORD (UPI) — Despite the fuel adjustment clause, Connecticut Light and Power Co. says it has been losing money from high oil prices and wants to include about $12 million in fuel adjustment costs in its rate base.

The company is seeking a 13.7 per cent increase in revenue, amounting to $36 million a year.

A utility spokesman Tuesday told the state Public Utility Commission that extremely rapid oil price increases and a two-month lag caused by an audit by the commission led to $12 million loss in revenue. He also said the gross receipts tax cut into the company by 5 per cent.

Ernest L. Grove Jr., vice president of Northeast Utilities, which owns CL&P, said the company still has an erosion in revenues because of the two-month lag caused by the audit.

The company must submit its oil prices to the commission for review, which is scheduled for two months, before being allowed to charge for the fuel adjustment.

Hartford Electric Light Co. in a separate hearing, will ask for a 15.9 per cent increase amounting to $23 million a year.

If the rate hikes are granted, the average electricity user will pay an extra $3 on each bill.

Report on Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate Committee, in its final report approved Wednesday, suggested President Nixon used campaign funds to improve his estate in Key Biscayne, Fla. The funds in question were secretly kept by Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo and were composed mainly of a $100,000 contribution from Howard Hughes and $50,000 from A.D. Davis, owner of a food store chain.

The report also said funds from the Florida Nixon for President Committee were used by Nixon to buy platinum and diamond earrings for the first lady's 60th birthday in 1972.

Trial Nears End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The conspiracy trial of John D. Ehrlichman and three other defendants in the Ellsberg burglary enters final arguments today with the jury expected to get the case Friday, on Wednesday, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger denied authorizing a psychological probe of Daniel Ellsberg, who leaked the Pentagon papers.

President Nixon, in a sworn reply to six questions, also denied authorizing anyone to burglarize the files of Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Dean To Testify

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Dean III, who accused President Nixon of involvement in a Watergate cover-up a year ago, testifies today before the House Judiciary Committee. He was suggested as a defense witness by Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell on Wednesday.

"stonewalled" the committee, refusing to answer most questions without taking the Fifth Amendment.

Sears To Fight

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission said Wednesday Sears, Roebuck and Co. had used "bait and switch" tactics to sell customers higher priced home appliances than were advertised.

Sears denied the allegation, saying "Sears sells what it advertises." The company said it would not negotiate a consent decree and promised to fight the FTC charge.

Bear Keg Bomb Explodes in Ulster

BELFAST (UPI) — A bear keg stuffed with explosives blew up outside a Belfast pub early today and extremists publicly shamed the heads of two girls accused of betraying members of the Irish Republican Army.

A British army spokesman said the Belfast bomb exploded in front of the Four-in-Hand pub on Lanyon road. He said four civilians were injured.

In Belfast, IRA activists Wednesday night shaved the heads of two 15-year-old schoolgirls they accused of "toot" hanging from their necks and a jeering crowd surrounding them.

In the border town of Newry, five bombs tossed by extremists set off a major blaze in a lumber yard that took firemen two hours to bring under control.

Security officials said the province's latest crime figures show the authorities are slowly winning their struggle to put an end to the five years of violence.

The just-released crime statistics for 1973 showed 253 deaths from "terrorism," compared with 467 in 1972 and 1,007 bombings, compared with 1,486 in 1972.

But Northern Ireland police chief James Flanagan sounded a note of caution.

"The continuing lawlessness allows no ground for complacency," Flanagan said. "The aim must be nothing less than the eradication of the death and destruction which has so afflicted this community."

Nevertheless, he said, "there is every reason to believe that 1974 will bring a further improvement."

Public Health Nurses Seek Representation by CNA

ALICE EVANS
The staff of the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association has petitioned the Connecticut Nursing Association to act as its bargaining agent and will have its first informal meeting with the State Labor Relations Board on July 17.

The staff is not seeking more money nor fringe benefits, but job security and the legal backing and collective bargaining afforded by involvement with the Connecticut Nursing Association, according to staff nurse Margaret Larabee and Lois Stout.

The staff and MPHNA staff and board of directors have been in conflict since Mrs. Bates as director or as interim director until a replacement could be hired, Mrs. Stout said.

"The growth and development of the Manchester Public Nursing Association cannot go on without a director, but the day-to-day activities are as usual," Mrs. Stout said.

The staff still wants Mrs. Bates back as director and feel that she had a large part in making the agency what it now is, Margaret Larabee said.

The nurses called Mrs. Bates resignation "forced," and said it was stated at one of the mediation sessions that it was a unanimous decision of the board to fire Mrs. Bates if she hadn't resigned.

The staff believes that since the board was eager to replace Mrs. Bates prior to her resignation, it should have another director ready to assume the post. The first knowledge the staff had of the board's efforts to seek a director for the agency was an ad in the New York Times on June 22.

The nurses also noted that some board members have resigned because of the conflict.

The professional advisory committee to the agency's board of directors wanted to become involved in the dispute, but the board refused, Mrs. Stout said.

One of the major complaints of the staff is that when the director and the board did not see eye to eye the board conducted meetings to which the director wasn't invited, and action from these meetings were expected to be law, Mrs. Stout said.

The board attempted to work separately from the director without sufficient knowledge to do so, and did not seem motivated to obtain advice from professional individuals or groups for their decision making, Mrs. Stout said.

In notes in response to a letter written by Mrs. Mary Rush, a member of the board, which appeared in Tuesday's Herald, the staff said, "The board states that they do not deal with professional matters; however, disagreement about the job description of the director is certainly a professional matter. It is a professional matter when a director is (See Page Twelve)

Ziegler Attacks Leaks in Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler attacked two congressional Watergate committees today for three straight days, accusing them of manipulating leaks to sway the public in favor of impeachment.

Ziegler specifically attacked Wednesday's release by the Senate Watergate Committee of a 350-page report claiming irregular use of President Nixon's campaign funds, and 4,100 pages of impeachment evidence.

Ziegler summoned reporters from United Press International and the Associated Press into his office today to voice his criticism. He repeated his demand for the Judiciary Committee to release all its evidence and testimony simultaneously rather than in piecemeal fashion.

"I say whoever made this decision to release material piecemeal has made it to condition the public and to create a negative impression towards the President," Ziegler said. "We do not accept it and do not believe it is due process."

The committee next week will release material on non-Watergate aspects of its impeachment inquiry, including the ITT case, campaign contributions from the dairy industry, Nixon's underpayment of income taxes and his improvements on properties in Florida and California, and the White House "Plumbers" operations.

Ziegler repeated his statements of the last several days that the White House believed a majority of the Judiciary committee wished to proceed in a fair manner but that a number of its members and staff employees were seeking to influence the public against President Nixon.

He specified committee members Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif.; John D. Conyers, D-Mich.; Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass.; and Jack Brooks, D-Tex. Waldie and Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., said Wednesday that Nixon had altered the White House transcripts to conceal his involvement in the Watergate cover-up.

Speaking of a 14-page segment of a March 22, 1973 transcript which was omitted from White House material published earlier this year, Waldie called it "a cover-up of a cover-up."

Rangel added, "It's a hard thing to accept that something like this has been done to the American people — but it's a tough by the House Judiciary Committee."

Ziegler said the committees were carrying out a "calculated public relations exercise to manipulate public opinion through piecemeal leaks in support of impeachment," and added that neither committee provided the White House with copies of the material released.

Ziegler singled out Sen. Sam Ervin, chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, and Chairman Peter Rodino and chief counsel John Doar of the Judiciary committee. He said he believed the three were responsible for the piecemeal releases.

Teacher Contracts Under Arbitration

The unresolved dispute over a new contract for Manchester's public school teachers was scheduled to go to arbitration today before a panel of three arbitrators selected by the Manchester Education Association (MEA) and Board of Education.

Representatives of both sides planned to open presentations this morning at the school board offices, and a written decision by the arbitrators is expected to be rendered within two weeks.

Still in dispute as arbitration starts is the matter of teachers' salary increases, as well as a number of other economic and non-economic issues.

Negotiations for a new teachers' contract, which the school board hopes will cover a two-year period, began in January and ended unsuccessfully May 29.

The MEA voted in March to press for a 13 per cent wage increase, but the teachers' demand reportedly came down to 10 per cent, plus a two per cent annual increment based on length of service.

MEA negotiator Peter DiRosa, a teacher at Manchester High School, said the increase is sought because of the "skyrocketing cost of living."

The school board's last official offer to the teachers was a 5 1/2 per cent increase, according to Wilson Deakin, assistant school superintendent.

The other contract, still in negotiation, is with school paraprofessionals (teacher aides), Deakin said.

Negotiations for the paraprofessionals are taking a long time, Deakin pointed out, because it is that group's first contract.

The paraprofessionals were in a bargaining unit until this year. They're now represented by the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

In other labor contracts within the school system, contract settlement has been reached with both the school administrators association and the school nurses group, Deakin said.

School custodians and secretaries, represented by separate bargaining agents, are entering the second year of a two-year contract and negotiations weren't necessary this year, Deakin said.

Other Pacts Unresolved

The Manchester Board of Education's contract with about 550 public school teachers represented by the Manchester Education Association isn't the only school system labor pact still unresolved, according to Wilson Deakin, assistant school superintendent.

The paraprofessionals were in a bargaining unit until this year. They're now represented by the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

In other labor contracts within the school system, contract settlement has been reached with both the school administrators association and the school nurses group, Deakin said.

School custodians and secretaries, represented by separate bargaining agents, are entering the second year of a two-year contract and negotiations weren't necessary this year, Deakin said.

Audit of CRCOG Shows $4,000 Wrongly Spent

HARTFORD (UPI) — An audit of the Capitol Region Council of Governments has disclosed $4,000 of public money was improperly spent on liquor for political parties and upkeep of a Lincoln Continental owned by the council's director, Dana Hanson.

An audit two weeks ago showed $1,500 of the funds were billed to a federal anticrime grant awarded to the council by the Connecticut Planning Committee on Criminal Administration.

The new disclosure Wednesday showed nearly $4,000 in both federal and local matching funds had been spent apparently improperly under federal and local guidelines regulating spending.

H.R. Stierrett, executive director of the CPCGA, said the $1,500 charged for the federal anticrime grant would be returned from the local matching funds.

He expressed concern, however, the federal money and the additional $2,500 charged to local matching funds would have to be paid by Connecticut taxpayers in the region.

Stierrett also said the audit disclosed $1,200 had been spent for telephone calls and "there were no vouchers for these questionable charges."

Stierrett said he sent a letter to the Capitol Region Council of Governments, urging its director, Granby First Selectman Otto Neumann, to conduct a "full and comprehensive" review of the expenditures. The review would be unacceptable, he said.

The liquor expenses were for graduation parties for policemen who completed training in the identification of narcotics. Expenditures for Hansen's luxury car came to about $2,500.
