Buckland Firehouse Could Cost $300,000

Town of Manchester Fire Chief John Rivoso estimates it would cost the town about $300,000 to construct a new firehouse in the Buckland area.

In a July 9 memo to the Board of Directors, he estimates $225,000 for construction; $50,000 for architect and engineering fees, surveys, test borings, etc.; $5,000 for furniture; $5,000 for equipment; $20,000 for a building lot; and $25,000 for miscellaneous, to include contingency, escalation, legal fees and advertising.

He estimates the annual operating expense at about $5,000 and the manpower at eight firefighters (the said four of the eight at only were hired in April of this year and four more are provided for in the current budget, to be hired before the end of the 1974-75 fiscal year).

Rivoso attached to his memo copies of two reports from the Boston regional supervisor of the Insurance Services Office — one dated Sept. 13, 1972 and the other July 1, 1974 and both proposing the intersection of N. Main St. and Tolland Tpk. as the best site for a new firehouse.

"This site location," states the July 1, 1974 report, "is ideally located with reference to major road networks to adequately cover properties in all directions, including the commercial development in the northern section of Manchester."

The Sept. 13, 1972 report, in addition to proposing the N. Main St. - Tolland Tpk. site, proposes replacing the School St. firehouse with a new firehouse at S. Main and Lewis Sts.

Tuesday night, Town Manager Robert Weiss asked the Board of Directors for immediate authorization to get the Town Building Committee involved in the planning and to engage an architect for the proposed firehouse. However, the board decided to place Rivoso's report on its August agenda for discussion — prior to any further involvement.

Weiss estimated that a 20-year bond issue for the new facility would cost $15,000 per year for principal payments and about $900 a year in interest ($1,800 for interest the first year and less each year thereafter, as the outstanding balance declines).

He said the new firehouse wouldn't have any effect on the fire department budget after 1977 because the budget will be reduced by $28,000 in that year, "as a result of changes in amortization requirements under the (firefighters) pension plan."

Weiss said the $5,000 per year operating cost (estimated by Rivoso) would "be more than offset" by an end to a contract with the Manchester, Eighth Utilities District Fire Department, wherein the town pays the district $250 per call for fire services to outlying areas in the northwest part of town.

Weiss estimated the $250-per-call contract will cost the town about $10,000 a year.

Fire Calls Now $250

Under a new contract between the Manchester, Town Fire Department and the Manchester, Eighth District covering fire calls for the town in the northwest part of town has doubled.

It is now $250 per call. Under the contract which expired June 30 it was $125 per call.

Removed from the contract is district coverage for the town in the northeast part of Manchester. That area now will be serviced from the town's Lawton Rd. Firehouse.

The new contract was at the recommendation of Eighth District officials — at a meeting they held with Town Manager Robert Weiss and Town Fire Chief John Rivoso, the last week in June. Attending for the district were William Hankinson, its president; and Paul Cervini and Harold Osgood, directors.

The contract will be in force until the town constructs a new firehouse in the Buckland area. At that time, the town will cover all calls from property owners paying a fire tax to it.

MHA Still Seeks Housing Ideas
The Manchester Housing Authority is still inviting comments from senior citizens in town about the planned 40-unit, state-funded elderly housing project, MHA Chairman Pascal Mastrangelo said Wednesday.

Opinions about proposed location or necessary facilities in the $640,000 project may be addressed to the housing authority at 24 Bluefield Dr., Manchester.

Mastrangelo pointed out that the MHA has already conducted a survey of persons on the MHA's waiting list for housing with the results that most of the respondents favored a central, downtown location for the project.

Bonanza.

The family restaurant even a father could love.

I Love it.

There's nothing like sitting down to a delicious steak dinner after a hectic Sunday. Because Bonanza offers more than just tempting steaks and baked potatoes, salad and Texas Toast.

It offers you a little atmosphere, carpeted floors, without the crush of congregations of people pushing for their food.

And when it comes time for the collection, you'll be surprised at just how reasonable a family restaurant can be.

We find that most people who eat at Bonanza are moved to give thanks for a family restaurant even a father could love. Even if they don't have a family. Amen.

World Inflation Summit

The secretary of labor is not usually involved in economic problems, though the economy is the major concern of the labor forces. It is therefore not surprising to have Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan declare, inflation is the No. 1 problem of this country and the world.

A summit meeting of world leaders, to get the handle of inflation was proposed by Brennan at an impromptu news conference before delivering the commencement address at the Merchant Marine Academy at King's Point, L.I.

There is something for each of us to do, in solving inflation, said Brennan. He stated the Nixon administration was looking for new suggestions and different ideas to fight inflation.

"The situation now calls for all American people, regardless of politics, to find a solution," said the secretary. He called for restraint on the part of labor and management, as one means of combatting inflation.

Another means would be to ask restraint also on the part of federal, state and local legislators and their constituents, who are pushing them continuously for more funds for projects. These all entail higher taxes.

Because producers have to spend such exorbitant amounts for taxes and for raw materials they must charge more for their output.

The administration's welcome to suggestions and ideas of how to fight inflation could well be the turning point in solving the problem. A flood of ideas and suggestions sent to Congress and to involved members of the Cabinet — Treasury, Commerce and the President's economic advisors could produce the answer for which we all are looking.

New State License Plates

Drivers in Connecticut in the past few weeks have begun to notice an influx of vehicles bearing strange blue-and-white license plates that glare back at them under the beam of a headlight. Close examination reveals the vehicle to be a guest from the "Constitution State."

The vehicles are, in fact, among the first in the state to receive the new reflectorized registration plates which will be found on all of Connecticut's cars by Jan. 1, 1979. For the time being the new, safer plates are being issued only to new registrants and those requiring replacement plates. Within the year, however, motor vehicle owners will begin to receive the new plates when they renew their registration.

The new plates are safer than the old ones, according to Motor Vehicle Department officials because they can be seen at night for up to 1200 feet. Each car in Connecticut will soon be equipped with a built in "hot dot" — the reflectorized orange stickers which blossomed on the clothing of countless school children this winter to make them more visible during the predawn hours. For this added safety, motorists will be required to pay an additional $1, raising the registration fee to $16.

Connecticut, where motor vehicles have borne the familiar white-on-blue plates since 1967, is among the last states in the union to adopt the reflectorized plates, already in use in some 46 states. In fact, except for the color scheme and the words "Constitution State" across the top, the Connecticut and Massachusetts plates look the same.

Motor Vehicle Department spokesmen claim reaction to the new plates is favorable although a brief sampling in the local area proved otherwise. Those who are happy with the traditional blue plates can take heart, however. It will be five years before they disappear entirely from our roads. — Bristol Press

Responds to Shainin Letter

To the editor: I feel it is appropriate to respond to the letter from Mrs. Margaret Shainin, board president, Manchester Public Health Nursing Association, of June 29, 1974. Mrs. Shainin felt it necessary, for some unstated reason, to mention me by name, while leaving the rest of the staff nameless. She refers to me as "staff spokesman," but neglects to mention that I was one of two representatives to a meeting held June 13, 1974, at which the Board of Directors refused to meet with the total staff.

I am one of 13 employees who are interested in keeping this agency as progressive and respected as it has become. We recognize that the contributions of board members over the past 40 years have been instrumental in establishing and continuing this agency, and that some board members have recently resigned because they would not be a party to actions of which they disapproved, but we cannot stand silently by as present board actions weaken the agency.

To date, we have heard no satisfactory explanation for the board's desire to replace Mrs. Jean Bates as director of the agency. We have seen no indication that the board fully understands the impact of Mrs. Bates' resignation and the importance of the job she had done, otherwise it seems the board would have tried to plan a continuity of directorship. It is also unclear to me what significance Mrs. Shainin places on my presidency of the Board of Directors. The Public Health Nursing Association of Coventry, because of my involvement on the lay board of the Coventry agency and the professional staff of the Manchester agency, I have been very careful to separate my roles and I believe I have succeeded in doing so. However, knowledge of both board and professional aspects of public health nursing has enabled me to have better understanding of the role a board should play in working with professional staff. I am aware of the need for open com-

High Court Blows One

WASHINGTON — An amiable rabble of my ken who called himself Robert Ruark once remarked that expectant mothers were a peril to the constitutional guarantee of equal rights, regardless of sex, "because even I feel sorry for them." It was Brother Ruark's premise that while he would get no government sympathy for a woman incapacitated by normal pregnancies, and he would legislate anywhere would dare reject the plea of a pregnant woman for tax-paid financial assistance. He was wrong. California has a law which denies disability benefits to women incapacitated by normal pregnancies, and the Supreme Court has upheld that law in a 6 to 2 decision.

The Court was wrong, too. Justice Potter Stewart wrote for the majority that under the California law "there is no risk from which men are protected and women are not," and "likewise there is no risk from which women are protected and men are not." It would almost seem that Stewart and Justice William J. Brennan Jr. read different laws. For Brennan pointed out in his dissent that the California program did indeed protect men when they were incapacitated by prostate trouble or circumcision, which affect only members of their sex, and also hemophilia and gout, which are largely male afflictions. In short, the benefit program violates the 14th Amendment's guarantee of equal protection of the law — as a three-judge Federal District Court panel had held.

Although I am not comfortable talking up with some of the more frenetic women's rights outfits, I refuse to understand the logic of the Court's majority. The Court's majority held that pregnancy was a physical condition that happened to be unique to women, not a "sex-based classification." Well, having babies is unique to women unless the Unisex hand changed things while I was napping. But so are certain ailments covered in California law unique to males. Any way you look at it, that law legislated a blatant double standard. I don't see how anyone who has read the 14th Amendment can disagree with Brennan's comment that, "By singling out for less favorable treatment a gender-linked disability peculiar to women, a limitation is imposed upon the abilities for which women workers may recover, while men receive full compensation for all disabilities suffered." Stewart is on the button there. In fact, there is nothing in the Constitution that says any state must have any kind of a disability program. But once a state adopts a program, the 14th Amendments says it has to be one that is fair to both sexes. Even we male chauvinist pigs

Burgeoning Inflation Steals the Spotlight

There are a couple of things that could push Watergate off the front pages. One of them is a war. The other is a worsening of the nation's already severe inflationary fever. The first possibility that right now worries the average person is the second — steadily increasing prices running just under 11 per cent — the dreaded "double-digit" inflation America has rarely known before. Inflation would not be so bad if incomes and prices advanced much attention is something called "indexing" or "indexation" (economists haven't yet decided which). Its chief exponent is Prof. Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago, who claims that indexing has worked a "miracle" in Brazil. In that country, prices were increasing more than 150 per cent a year a few years ago. Brazil's rate of inflation has now been brought down to about 15 per cent, which in view of our own double-digit troubles, almost begins to look respectable. The question is whether an "indexing" would not, at least one other economist, Ronald A. Kruger of Goucher College, warns, simply "lock" the economy into existing rates of inflation. Under indexing, just about everything — wages, rents, interest rates, taxes and even debts — are adjusted automatically to reflect changes in the cost of living.

CCAG Issues Report On Leading Candidates

HARTFORD (UPI) — The two Democrats and two major Republicans in the running for their parties' nominations for governor agree on a number of key election-year issues. All four oppose a state income tax, statewide zoning, an oil refinery on Long Island Sound, unemployment compensation for strikers and automatic fuel adjustment costs passed on to the consumer by utilities. All four favor more activity from the Department of Consumer Protection, more day care facilities, a law giving state employees the right to negotiate contracts, and a limited death penalty. The views showed up in a survey released Wednesday by the Connecticut Citizen Action Group. The Ralph Nader-affiliate CCAG did political profiles on Rep. Ella F. Grasso, D-Conn., front-runner for the Democratic nomination and her underdog opponent, former Norwalk Mayor Frank N. Zullo. The citizen group also probed the views of the top contenders for the GOP gubernatorial nod, Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas A. Panuzio and Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn. Differences on other key issues vary in intensity. Panuzio says a mass transit program can be handled by the Department of Transportation, while Zullo and Steele favor a mass transit agency. Mrs. Grasso is undecided on whether a separate agency is needed. Steele and Zullo favor partial public financing of political campaigns. Panuzio is opposed. Mrs. Grasso was not recorded on the issue. Zullo is opposed to utility companies' declining block "rate" structures, where minor users pay more per unit of electricity than major users. Steele says the rate system should be "modified." Mrs. Grasso says the system is something "we've got to examine very carefully."

— Favor a direct primary, as opposed to the present system which requires a candidate to win 20 per cent of the delegate votes in a state convention before waging a primary. Panuzio was not recorded on the issue. — Strongly criticize the $4 million "people mover" Gov. Thomas J. Meskill is building at Bradley International Airport. Panuzio backs it "as long as it's part of an overall plan." — Favor legislation giving state employees the right to negotiate contracts. Steele and Zullo would not ban cans. Mrs. Grasso says the matter is a decision of the legislature and thinks a national law on nonreturnables "would make much more sense" than a state law. — Say utility companies should be prevented from advertising or limited in their advertising. ## Wetlands Rules Aired

HEBRON

Nancy Foote
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3976

About 20 people attending Tuesday night's public hearing to discuss Hebron's proposed wetlands regulations.

Sal Mastandrea, Planning and Zoning Commission chairman, first thanked Town Counsel Duane Totten for his assistance in preparing the regulations and explained that the proposed regulations were not original in that they are patterned after the state's rules.

inland wetlands are not damaged. Some activities, Mastandrea explained, were permitted (grazing, farming, gardening, etc.) and other activities would be regulated.

By terms of the definition of a regulated activity, the agency (the PZC) shall regulate only those activities which remove material from, deposit material in, construct, obstruct, alter or pollute the inland wetlands and water course.

Concern was expressed as to whether or not the building inspector would be aware of all possible violations as the finest lines on the wetlands map are actually quite wide.

The PZC will hold a special meeting on Friday at 8 p.m. in the Town Office Building to complete discussion and take action on the regulations.

Questions
The first question from the crowd concerned the July 1 deadline for passage of regulations which had been set by the state. Mastandrea explained that as of this date the state's wetlands regulations were in effect in Hebron because the deadline had not been met. However, he said that the state would turn over the authority to the town as soon as the regulations had been established.

Schachner Appointed Assistant Principal

TOLLAND

Stephen Schachner was appointed assistant to the principal of Tolland Middle School by the Board of Education Wednesday.

Schachner was appointed as an administrative intern a year ago to replace Assistant Principal Robert Valuk. Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, superintendent of schools, said Schachner's internship under the supervision of the University of Connecticut was completed on June 30 and he is now fully certified and competent to fill the position.

MacKenzie noted that Schachner began teaching social studies at the school in 1969, while still a student teacher. He said that Schachner is direct and has finesse in dealing with people.

Second Therapist
The Board of Education Wednesday empowered Dr.

principal, added that Schachner is respected by his staff and has boosted morale within the whole school. Find Pedersen has been appointed chairman of the science department at Tolland High School.

MacKenzie and Cam Vautour, director of special services, look for a second speech therapist.

Vautour reported to the board that a legal problem is possible with 63 children already stated to begin speech therapy in September. According to state guidelines, a first year therapist should have a maximum of 50 students, he said.

Students already identified have moderate to severe speech problems, Vautour reported, and screening of kindergarten through Grade 2 in the fall will probably add another 35 students for therapy.

An alternative to hiring another therapist is to send children to specialists out of the system, according to Dr. MacKenzie, which would be more expensive.

Board member Carol Butterworth noted students have proved that undetected or untreated speech problems past the first few years of school have a direct correlation with the inability to read.

According to David Hopewell, business manager, the new salary will be taken from the special education account.

Robert Dean, board chairman, questioned the slighting of the gifted children. Vautour agreed, but said that speech programs are mandated by the state, where gifted programs are not.

Environmental Grants

BOSTON (UPI) - The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has awarded grants totaling more than $1 million to Norwalk and Wilton, Conn., for construction of wastewater treatment facilities. John A. S. McGlenon, regional EPA administrator, said Norwalk would receive the largest share, $928,600, and Wilton would get $1,000,437. The Norwalk grant is for the construction of a supplemental waste water treatment plant and about 26,500 feet of sewers and a number of pumps. The Wilton project will involve construction of a sanitary waste collection system. McGlenon said the Wilton project would also help upgrade the water quality on the Norwalk River.

Heavy Drinking Smokers Show High Cancer Risk

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A government report on drinking shows that alcohol use among 18-to-20-year-olds is "now almost universal."

It also said that moderate drinkers have a lower death rate from heart ailments than do teetotalers, and that heavy drinkers who are also heavy smokers have 15 times the chance of getting oral cancer as nondrinkers and nonsmokers.

It added, however, that moderate consumption of alcohol generally is not harmful. In some cases, for example among the elderly, it may have beneficial physical, social or psychological effects, the report said.

The report said studies show a substantial proportion of teenagers drink, with beer the most preferred beverage and wine-drinking on the increase. Preliminary results of the survey indicate that about 5 per cent of the teen-agers are problem drinkers and that 30 per cent of high school seniors admitted getting drunk at least four times a year.

Women's View

By GAY PAULLEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The fur industry, barking back at what it calls the "antifur" groups, shows fur for fall and winter exotic enough for most any taste. It emphasizes this is done without a U.S. harvest of endangered species.
There is the pelts, for instance, of a floor-length coat in natural chinchilla, which will cost the customer around $13,000. But the furs point out that the chinchilla, now ranch-raised like the mink, is not in danger.
There still can be bought, however, in foreign salons.
The American Fur Industry's policy was outlined the other afternoon by its president, Irvin H. Hecht, who also is president of the Fur Conservation Institute of America, which represents every segment of the industry from trappers and ranchers to the finished products.
"Scientists, mammalogists, environmentalists all tell us that it is essential and necessary to cull the wildlife," Hecht said, "or they will suffer from a variety of diseases, starvation and a weakening of the species."
"We in the fur business practice conservation as prescribed by the experts in the field, we depend upon the continuing growth of the produce we use...we deal with a renewable resource and we must conserve it."
The industry also reported that about 75 per cent of its resources are ranch-raised and that it is hitting its highest sales peak in years. Some part of that boost comes from the popularity of the long-haired furs, the fox also ranch-bred, lynx, opossum and racoon.

A quick and easy main course which can be served hot or cold is "Salmon Quiche—Quick". Or, if you cut it into small pieces you can use it as an hors d'oeuvre. It can be frozen and reheated, if you wish.
Salmon Quiche—Quick
You need a pie pastry shell. If you can make it yourself, fine; if not, buy one. Best kind to make, if you make it yourself, is a puff pastry shell.
You need about a cup and a half of roughly chopped green onions, tops and all. (All measurements will be approximate; it doesn't make much difference whether proportions are exact.)

Also, you need about a cup and a half of shredded extra sharp cheddar cheese, about a cup of REAL mayonnaise (make sure it is real mayonnaise or the recipe won't turn out); also two slightly beaten eggs; a dash of salt and pepper; 1/2 teaspoon cornstarch; and one can salmon—a 3/4-pound can. Or you can use one pound of freshly poached salmon.
Now combine ingredients, pour into pie shell, and bake at 375 degrees for about 30 minutes. It's done when it's golden brown.

Mrs. Strong Cleans Cutting Board

Something new has been attracting attention in the lower hallway of Manchester Memorial Hospital. During the past few months, a new bulletin board has appeared outside the dietary office.
Mrs. Brenda Strong, assistant dietitian, came up with the idea along with her boss, Mrs. Marilyn Senas, chief dietitian. The bulletin board is prepared with the hospital employee in mind but it has proven to be a bit of a surprise. Visitors and hospital volunteers are pausing to look and to read.
At the moment, the bulletin board holds rules for prevention of food contamination particularly in summer. Types of food contamination are carefully explained with suggestions for prevention.
Let's begin with the person preparing the food. We all know that washing hands is important. It is also essential following a trip to the bathroom. Food should never be touched with infected hands. Even a scratchy ear transmit bacteria which multiply rapidly in certain foods. The ultimate is to wear gloves. If you have a cold or other infection, you must be extra careful. A good professional establishment would insist that the sick person stay home until he is past contagion.
We hear most about food contamination in the summer. This is because micro-organisms grow best between the temperatures of 60-100 degrees. Unrefrigerated foods that stay within this temperature range are prey for the growth of micro-organisms.
Outdoor eating in summer can create problems if the food is left out. Mixed salads, such as potato salad, luncheon meats and chopped meat such as hamburger are perfect examples. There are more large gatherings where food is left out in the summer time.
What can you do to keep your family and friends in good health following an enjoyable get-together?
First of all, refrigerate foods immediately upon taking them home. When shopping, do the grocery marketing last and go right home with it. If you have a conscientious grocer, he won't pack perishable foods in the same cart with soap powders and other cleaning items. Remember this too at home. Don't work with food near any cleaning agents. Need we mention the poisonous ones?
Many people are not aware that kitchen counters and equipment should be disinfected periodically with liquid chlorine bleach. This would be done daily in a commercial establishment. I do my terrace-topped counters about once a week.
One of the things a health department officer checks most carefully is wooden cutting boards. Wooden items are highly susceptible to micro-organisms. They should be sanitized with chlorine bleach. If cutting boards are small, they can be put right into the dishwasher. Wooden spoons should be placed in the dishwasher too. If spoons spill or splinter, get rid of them. When the cutting boards have too many cuts, you should replace.

Never serve a salad containing mayonnaise such as potato salad in a wooden salad bowl. Always use something with a hard finish such as glass or china. From my own point of view, I like to have the serving dish well-chilled in the refrigerator.
Very often, even in restaurants, one sees someone picking up glasses or cups with the fingers inside. This is especially bad after they have been used. When carrying eating utensils, they should always be carried by the handles.
Dish cloths, dish towels and sponges are often overlooked when cleaning up the kitchen. Especially in summer, these should be washed every day. Put chlorine bleach in along with the soap. I even put the sponges in the washing machine, but don't put them in the dryer.
When purchasing canned goods, don't buy anything that is dented, bulged or rusty. If you have a can in the house that is questionable, get rid of it. Should you open a can and the contents bubble out when opening, discard it. The kitchen motto in all areas of food should be "When in doubt, throw it out."

Prior to eating, uncooked fruits and vegetables should be washed thoroughly. Usually, a good stiff vegetable brush and water is sufficient. Keep your eye on that brush. It must be disinfected from time to time with chlorine bleach. Put it in the dishwasher. Do the same with a brush you may have for rinsing off the dishes. The same is true of a pastry brush. If you do not have a dishwasher, use good hot water and soap. Put a little bleach in the water.
Home canning is another extremely important area. It must be done properly to avoid the growth of micro-organisms such as botulism (botulinum) which can cause death in 2/3 of all cases. It is imperative that a reliable cookbook be consulted for directions on home canning.
Next week, more information from Brenda on the handling of foods to keep you well and happy. Also, recipe of Brenda's for a cabbage salad which is least apt to spoil.
Brenda is married to Jeffrey Strong, a cameraman for K & R Printers of Ellington. She has been assistant dietitian at Manchester Memorial Hospital for the past two years. The couple live at 22 Duley Circle, Vernon.

Career Education Workshop

Twenty Manchester teachers have been identified for participation in a Career Education In-Service Workshop to be held at Manchester High School July 15 through 16.

The participants, representing all subject areas as well as administration, guidance, social work, library and instructional materials services, are faculty members of Bennett and Hilling Junior High Schools and Manchester High.

Manchester's Cooperative Occupational Education Program (COEP) at high school level is now in its fourth year, and specially-trained teacher-coordinators direct the activities for COEP students; but help in career decision making for many students at secondary level can be provided by the classroom teacher.

Curriculum committees are now working to revise and redefine programs K-12 in social studies, mathematics, language arts, and science.

The workshop is designed to help secondary classroom teachers meet this revision of the curriculum which includes career education objectives. It has a two-pronged thrust: (1) To update teacher information regarding occupational opportunities, and (2) training in how to include career education in their own classrooms.

The educators will participate in four visitations to business and industry, correlated with in-service study.

The group will be addressed by Dr. Alfred B. Tychsen, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum in Manchester public schools.

Neil Lawrence, director of vocational education in Manchester; Saul Dalberg, consultant for career education, Connecticut Department of Education; Dr. Edward Melucci, director of career education for the Pawtucket, (R.I.) public schools.

Mrs. Roberta Walsum, career education specialist for the Manchester public schools, is the project director. The summer workshop has been arranged by the Manchester School Department of Vocational Education with the Connecticut Department of Education, division of Vocational Education.

It is a program fully funded by the state Department of Education, division of Vocational Education, and coordinated by Sidney Cohen, teacher education specialist with that department, working in conjunction with the Manchester School Department.

Health Planning

HARTFORD (UPI) - Five regional agencies are opposed to proposed federal legislation creating statewide health-planning units. A spokesman for the agencies, testifying before platform committees of both state political parties, said the proposed bill would discourage participation by regional volunteers interested in improving local health care in their own areas.

The five agencies represented the Capitol region, South Central, Eastern Fairfield County, Waterbury and Middletown. Hibbard said that he has received numerous complaints regarding the misuse of trails from private landowners and administrators in the past few days and urges hikers to be more considerate in their use of the trails in the future.

He remains bitter that the great majority of trails are located on private lands and that the continuance of these trails is dependent upon the goodwill of the landowners. He noted that overnight camping on trails and the use of fires is prohibited and that persons should not wander from the trails to trespass on adjacent private property.

He noted that trails on private property are for hiking only and their use by motorized vehicles is not allowed. Hibbard stated that organizations interested in motorized forms of recreation have been increasingly cooperative in assisting the association in maintaining the integrity of its hiking trail system and supporting the New England Trail Riders Association for its efforts in advising its motorcycling membership regarding the prohibition of using the hiking trails for motorized uses.

The Connecticut Blue Blazed (Hiking) Trail system was developed over the past four decades by the association for use by the general public. The willingness of private landowners to allow their lands to be used for this purpose without charge has been the most essential ingredient in the establishment of the system," Hibbard said.

This is complimented by the work of volunteer section chairmen and trails workers who maintain the system on a day-to-day basis.

The great increase in the number of hikers in recent years makes increased cooperation by those using the trails a necessity.

The Connecticut Forest and Park Association is a private conservation organization with about 2,500 members throughout the state with offices at 1010 Main St., East Hartford.

SUIT FILED

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) - A coalition of groups opposing public aid to parochial and private schools have filed suit here to halt distribution of funds to private schools under a recently passed state law. The anti-aid groups want to test the law's constitutionality.

HARTFORD (UPI) - Democratic state Chairman John M. Bailey says the 223 convention delegates from the 8th Congressional District will have to sit in the balcony of the Bushnell Memorial during the nominating convention July 19 and 20. There is not enough room to accommodate the 1,213 delegates on the first floor, Bailey said, so a drawing was held to see which delegation would be seated upstairs. "I think they're the best seats in the house," the chairman said Wednesday.

There are some who believe the old guy had been in the institution for well over a decade," said Pete Greiner, and there are few who can remember when the old tomcat arrived.

Trails Users Cautioned: Stay on Beaten Path

John E. Hibbard, secretary-forester of the Connecticut Forest and Park Association, Inc., sponsors of the Blue Blazed Trail System in Connecticut, cautioned users of the 500-mile system of hiking trails against unauthorized use.

Hibbard said that he has received numerous complaints regarding the misuse of trails from private landowners and administrators in the past few days and urges hikers to be more considerate in their use of the trails in the future.

He remains bitter that the great majority of trails are located on private lands and that the continuance of these trails is dependent upon the goodwill of the landowners. He noted that overnight camping on trails and the use of fires is prohibited and that persons should not wander from the trails to trespass on adjacent private property.

He noted that trails on private property are for hiking only and their use by motorized vehicles is not allowed. Hibbard stated that organizations interested in motorized forms of recreation have been increasingly cooperative in assisting the association in maintaining the integrity of its hiking trail system and supporting the New England Trail Riders Association for its efforts in advising its motorcycling membership regarding the prohibition of using the hiking trails for motorized uses.

The Connecticut Blue Blazed (Hiking) Trail system was developed over the past four decades by the association for use by the general public. The willingness of private landowners to allow their lands to be used for this purpose without charge has been the most essential ingredient in the establishment of the system," Hibbard said.

This is complimented by the work of volunteer section chairmen and trails workers who maintain the system on a day-to-day basis.

The great increase in the number of hikers in recent years makes increased cooperation by those using the trails a necessity.

The Connecticut Forest and Park Association is a private conservation organization with about 2,500 members throughout the state with offices at 1010 Main St., East Hartford.

Assault On Prison Hero Proves Fatal

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI) - He was the toughest dude in the world's largest walled-in prison.

His growl as the number one cat at Southern Michigan Prison became legend. He wore the title well and his feline body bore the marks of a decade of fighting—scarred face and tail and gnarled ear.

But Tramp, who was pampered by many of the prisoners in the maximum security prison because they loved his style, is dead.

He apparently was done in by one of the inmates he trusted. He died on a veterinarian's operating table as the doctor tried to mend his battered body and broken leg that needed amputation.

There are some who believe the old guy had been in the institution for well over a decade," said Pete Greiner, and there are few who can remember when the old tomcat arrived.

Tramp became a hero in his time as he strutted the prison grounds. He was featured in many Michigan newspapers and a national magazine about cats.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) - A 15-year-old Woonsocket youth pleaded guilty Wednesday to the juvenile charges of firing several blasts from a 12-gauge shotgun at police cars from a wooded area Tuesday night.

Woonsocket Police Commander Raymond Tempest said the youth was apparently angered when told not to hang around a neighbor's house Tuesday night. Tempest said the youth was given one year of probation and a recommendation to go to the Northern Rhode Island Mental Health Clinic for assistance.

Police Report
The four youths have been in and out of police custody since then, both by posting bond and by escaping. The most recent escape was by Nelson Millet and Ramos Tuesday afternoon when they picked the lock of the handcuffs binding them together as they were being escorted from Bridgeport Superior Court by sheriffs. Millet was caught Wednesday morning at his sister's apartment.
Later, word of a rape of 28-year-old Hartford woman off I-86 in Manchester came to police. She told police she had ridden on his motorcycle to Manchester and he raped her in the woods off the highway here.
Her description fit Mott's description of Bramante. Bramante appeared in Circuit Court 12 Wednesday in East Hartford on charges of first-degree rape and deviate sexual intercourse. His bond was reduced from $10,000 to $2,500 which he posted. His case was continued to July 29 in Manchester.

Another one of the 24 handgun stolen May 19 in the break at the Nassiff Arms Co. on Main St. was recovered by Bridgeport police recently at the Seaside Park there. A 24-year-old man had asked if he could fire the gun at the target shooting game in the Midway.
He told police he found the gun in the parking lot.
This is only the second gun recovered of the 24 stolen.
The first was recovered when Nelson Millet, 17, of Bridgeport, after he fired one of the guns in a Bridgeport housing project. His arrest led to charges against him and three other Bridgeport youths in connection with the Nassiff break. The others are: Francis Bramante, 16, Louis Millet, 16, and Rubin Ramos, 16.

asked to submit a log of her activities one week in advance. Such restrictions on the director certainly interferes with her professional role and is not in keeping with her responsibility that goes with the job."
In reference to the number of years of board activity, the notes stated that "all staff members have had previous experience and the ability of each staff nurse to function is not based exclusively on that period of time in her which was spent in the employment of MPHNA."
"Mrs. Bates carefully selected staff members for their potential participation in the activities of this agency. This was based on their performance in past employment and in educational pursuits."
"If staff members were here only for the pay, they would certainly not work for an agency where the pay is lower than that of other visiting nurses associations — or lower than that of the local hospital but board members have to another agency where a dispute such as we are now experiencing is not present."
Mrs. Dorain Shaimin, chairman of the agency's board of directors, Wednesday afternoon would make no comment about the agency's problems, but said that the board had retained Atty. E. Terry Durant of the Bridgeport law firm of Cummings and Lockwood as counsel.

Danbury Man Drowns
DANBURY (UPI) — A 25-year-old Danbury man drowned while swimming in Lake Candlewood at the town park Wednesday. Police said Gilbert El Monte went swimming about 3 p.m., according to the victim's wife, Anna. His body was found at 3:30 p.m. about 50 to 60 feet offshore in 8 to 10 feet of water. El Monte's sister told police the victim was not a good swimmer.

The article on Case Mt. in Wednesday's Herald had a map with a description under it that may have misled some readers. A zigzag line was put in the map by The Herald to show the approximate location of a six-foot, chain-link fence to separate the public and private lands. The description read that the land to the left of the zigzag line was public and to the right private. However, the zigzag line left the boundary of the public and private lands and followed the 15-foot wide right-of-way connecting the public lands with Spring St., all the land is private.

U.S., Russia Set Blasts

The United States and the Soviet Union have set off underground nuclear blasts a week after pledging to limit atomic testing below the earth's surface.
The Swedish Seismological Institute in Stockholm registered an underground explosion Wednesday in the Semipalatinsk area of Soviet Kazakhstan.
The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission reported a nuclear blast of 20 to 200 kilotons Wednesday in the Nevada desert, setting chandeliers swaying 90 miles away.
"The underground explosion was registered at 4:03 a.m. and had a 5.2 Richter magnitude," Markus Baath of the Swedish seismic institute said. The blast took place near where the Soviet, Mongolian and Chinese borders meet.
The Nevada blast was the 256th American underground explosion publicly announced since the 1963 atmospheric ban agreement with the Soviets.

Thoughts APLENTY

by Len Auster
Questionable Reception
Back in January of this year, Cheney Technical School Director John Garofalo sent letters to the eight principals of North Central Connecticut Conference (NCCC) schools formally applying for admission into the loop. The reception he received is questionable at best.
By word of mouth, Garofalo has learned that the application was rejected. Formal notification of the vote at the NCCC's quarterly June meeting has not been received, Garofalo disclosed.
In a brief telephone conversation with Bob Healy, assistant principal and athletic director of Ellington High, he indicated that Grady High Principal Alan Frazier should have notified Garofalo of the outcome. Common courtesy should have been carried out already.
According to Healy, president of the NCCC, Cheney Tech wasn't the only applicant. E.O. Smith of Storrs also expressed interest in joining. "Both applications were turned down because we didn't want to expand at this time. Expansion would cause too many problems," Healy said.

Different Viewpoint
Garofalo saw it from another view, however. "Each step would lead to another why we couldn't be accepted. First they said we had nothing to offer them — which we do. Then they said we didn't draw crowds and then they talked about police protection. This is second-hand, but I heard we were rejected because we don't have girls' athletics. How do you like that! (Cheney has an all-male enrollment)."
The basic reason Garofalo wanted in is to ensure a schedule. Even Healy agreed on this point. "One reason you have a conference is to avoid scheduling problems. We (the NCCC) split before and caused scheduling problems. We had too many open dates," Healy stated.
That is the problem Cheney is running into now. The 1974-75 basketball schedule has 17 dates presently. John Kis, who stepped down as head basketball coach after the 1973-74 campaign, has been trying to line up a suitable date with Terrville High but six telephone calls have proven unproductive.
Terrville is a long haul from Manchester and taking into consideration that many of Cheney's players live in outlying towns, then you can see it's a long night for someone. This situation is what Garofalo is trying to alleviate.

Stigma Associated
Garofalo, who admits to being overly protective of technical schools, believes other circumstances went into the rejection. Among his beliefs expressed is that there is a stigma associated with technical schools — that only "bad kids" attend them.
"I experienced the same thing before at Princes Tech," Garofalo said. "I really don't know what they expect from us. But, I'll tell you. I want my kids to be at their best even if they have to bend backwards. And I've seen it. Too many times."
Another stigma which Garofalo pointed out is that apparently public schools don't mind playing us as long as they (public) win. As soon as you start winning, then they're axed from the following year's schedule. Healy refutes this somewhat when he stated, "We didn't even look into the quality of play. We just looked at the numbers. If Cheney wants to reapply we'll give them every consideration."

Looking Elsewhere
The direction which Garofalo is looking toward now is the Charter Oak Conference which includes Coventry, Bolton and RHAM schools which have played Cheney in the past. It could afford the security within a conference of comparable size schools which Cheney is seeking. Overtures have not been made however towards the COC. In the meantime, Cheney remains conferenceless, scrounging around statewide for a list of schools.
Making a Move
Cheney Tech has made several right moves in recent months dealing with its athletic program. Gerry Blanchard, new basketball coach after a successful tenure at St. Thomas Seminary, has placed a team in the Manchester Rec Department's summer program. This will be the first year ever that Cheney has fielded a team in the summer league. Blanchard is also making himself known statewide. He will be a member of Stan Orodnick's Hilltop Basketball Clinic staff along with several others in state.

RSox Top Rangers Behind Cleveland
BOSTON (UPI) — Reggie Cleveland has finally gotten his mind back on baseball and it's none too soon for the Boston Red Sox.
Cleveland went all the way, pitching a six-hitter Wednesday as the Red Sox, after losing six out of seven, defeated the Texas Rangers 3-1 for their second win in a row. The victory kept them within half a game of first-place Baltimore in the American League East.
"I just got my mind back on the game. Before I was just a thrower, not a pitcher. I was trying to muscle the ball up there. I wasn't concentrating," Cleveland said.
"Everything's just starting to come together," he said.
Manager Darrell Johnson was more pleased with Cleveland's performance.
"It's a big lift for us. We needed him to go out and pitch a good game. Not only for us, but for him. It puts a little life into the action," said Johnson.
Cleveland's victory was the fourth consecutive complete game by Red Sox pitchers, who had been less than adequate

Sox Fisk Not Sure About Early Return
BOSTON (UPI) — Two weeks after undergoing knee surgery, Carlton Fisk, the Boston Red Sox All-Star catcher, says he is unsure whether he'll return to the lineup this season.
During a period following Fisk's injury, the Sox dropped six of seven games and vacated first place in the American League East. They have won their last two contests and now trail the Baltimore Orioles by half two games.
Fisk, speaking with reporters Wednesday for the first time since a home plate collision required surgery on his left knee, said he would like to play again this year, but would not if it would endanger his career.
"I don't think the team will force the issue," said Fisk, who had a ligament repaired and a cartilage removed from the knee following a collision with Cleveland's Leron Lee June 28.
Fisk said he would work with Tim Blackwell, a promising catcher brought up from Pawtucket by the Red Sox, while he was recovering from his injury.
"It's (the knee) no different now than it was when it was operated on," he said in a lockerroom news conference prior to the Red Sox-Texas Rangers game. "Since I've been hurt, I've lost 11 pounds."
"The doctors said I would get full flexibility back in the knee," he said, adding that he was never seriously concerned that the injury would end his career.
"I thought about it, but they were only fleeting thoughts," he said.
"I'd like to come back and help the team," Fisk said. "But I don't want to jeopardize my career. I don't know, we'll just have to wait and see."

Little League Town Tournament Army & Navy Upends Miles Auto On Jon Brandt's Three-Run Homer

by Len Auster
A two-out, three-run homer by Jon Brandt in the fourth inning powered Army & Navy to a 7-4 win over National League champ Miles Auto Sales last night in the Little League Town Tournament at Waddell Field.
This was the Servicemen's second straight win in the double elimination tournament and they will now await the winner of Friday's clash between Miles and International League champ Ansaldo's, a 7-4 victim of the Vets last Monday night, at Waddell.
Losing hurler Alex Britnell, who accounted for all of his club's runs with a pair of two-run circuit cutters, set down the first two batters in the fourth but then fell into trouble.
Mike Pinkin worked out a walk and winning pitcher Ken

Hill was awarded first base on catcher's interference. Brandt jumped on the first offering from Britnell hitting the top of the centerfield fence with the ball landing outside the playing surface. This broke a 4-1 tie as Britnell's second four-bagger in the bottom of the third had temporarily tied it.
The Automen had jumped to a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first as Randy Phelps doubled and the portside swinger Britnell pulled one over the rightfield wall. Phelps was also on board when Britnell unloaded his second roundtripper.
The Vets went into the lead with a four-run second inning. Dave Lauzon walked, stole second and advanced to third as leftfielder Tim McCarthy dropped Tony Maselli's fly with the latter winding up at second. After Britnell got Tom Nevins for the second out, Pinkin hit a high hopper over the shortstop's head. Lauzon scored easily and Maselli followed him home as there was a mix-up between the catcher and pitcher. Pinkin scurried to third in the confusion.

Hill singled Pinkin home and he eventually came around to score on a wild pitch.
Hill struck out nine and walked two while yielding eight hits in notching the victory. Dave Parks was the lone Serviceman to have two hits, one a double. Scott LaBrec played well defensively for the winners.
Britnell, Phelps and Kelly McSweeney each had two hits for Miles with McSweeney getting one for two bases. Phelps played a strong game defensively at short.

Legion Wins Eighth, Zone Lead Substantial
Exploding for four runs in the sixth inning, the Manchester American Legion baseball team upended Windsor Locks 7-2, last night in Zone Eight action at East Catholic. The league-leading locals are now 8-1 while the Locksmen drop to 5-4, the closest pursuer.
Manchester is at Winsted Friday in an exhibition clash at 6.
A one-run upspring cushioned a 3-1 margin which the locals held since the third frame. Ron Soucier led off the rally with a single but was out attempting to steal second. Dennis Quinn walked, took second on a balk by losing pitcher Kevin Tibbets and advanced to third on a wild pitch. Dan Smacchetti walked and another balk sent Smacchetti to second and Quinn crossed the plate. Bruce Peck reached second on a throw from the infield. Peck hijacked third and after a pop-

Murcer Home Run Bat Awakening STANDINGS
NEW YORK (UPI) — Reliever Doug Bird in the eighth following a single by Willie McGee to give the Yankees a 5-4 lead then followed an inning later with another two-run shot off reliever Joe Hoerner as the Yankees scored six runs in the final two innings to post their sixth victory in their last seven games. Thurman Munson also had a two-run homer for the Yankees while John Mayberry hit his 17th home run for Kansas City.
"I'm just as surprised as anybody else," said Murcer, who has not been hitting home runs regularly since July of last season. "For a long time I just haven't been mentally prepared when I go up to the plate. I've just never had that fluid motion to hit it out. You know, like you have in golf. I have to have everything behind it."
Murcer connected off

During a period following Fisk's injury, the Sox dropped six of seven games and vacated first place in the American League East. They have won their last two contests and now trail the Baltimore Orioles by half two games.
Fisk, speaking with reporters Wednesday for the first time since a home plate collision required surgery on his left knee, said he would like to play again this year, but would not if it would endanger his career.
"I don't think the team will force the issue," said Fisk, who had a ligament repaired and a cartilage removed from the knee following a collision with Cleveland's Leron Lee June 28.
Fisk said he would work with Tim Blackwell, a promising catcher brought up from Pawtucket by the Red Sox, while he was recovering from his injury.
"It's (the knee) no different now than it was when it was operated on," he said in a lockerroom news conference prior to the Red Sox-Texas Rangers game. "Since I've been hurt, I've lost 11 pounds."
"The doctors said I would get full flexibility back in the knee," he said, adding that he was never seriously concerned that the injury would end his career.
"I thought about it, but they were only fleeting thoughts," he said.
"I'd like to come back and help the team," Fisk said. "But I don't want to jeopardize my career. I don't know, we'll just have to wait and see."

RSox Top Rangers Behind Cleveland
BOSTON (UPI) — Reggie Cleveland has finally gotten his mind back on baseball and it's none too soon for the Boston Red Sox.
Cleveland went all the way, pitching a six-hitter Wednesday as the Red Sox, after losing six out of seven, defeated the Texas Rangers 3-1 for their second win in a row. The victory kept them within half a game of first-place Baltimore in the American League East.
"I just got my mind back on the game. Before I was just a thrower, not a pitcher. I was trying to muscle the ball up there. I wasn't concentrating," Cleveland said.
"Everything's just starting to come together," he said.
Manager Darrell Johnson was more pleased with Cleveland's performance.
"It's a big lift for us. We needed him to go out and pitch a good game. Not only for us, but for him. It puts a little life into the action," said Johnson.
Cleveland's victory was the fourth consecutive complete game by Red Sox pitchers, who had been less than adequate

Hospitals Seek Rate Hike

Manchester Memorial Hospital and Rockville General Hospital are among 35 general care hospitals in Connecticut requesting price increases for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.
Manchester is asking for an 11.9 per cent increase and Rockville, an 8.3 increase. The total requests range from one for a 4.4 increase to the request of Johnson Memorial Hospital, Stafford Springs, for a 27.5 per cent increase with the average being 9.6 per cent.
The increase figures were released Wednesday by the Commission on Hospitals and Health Care. This new regulatory commission assumes budget review powers this year.
Herbert A. Anderson, president of the commission, said the rate increases will be used primarily to finance wage and benefit increases more than 30 per cent in general care hospitals throughout the state.
Andre Marmen, administrator at Manchester Hospital, said the present rate, per day, for maternity bed patients is $71.90; for intensive care unit, $104.13; and for the average medical-surgical bed, $66.51.
Marmen commented on the increase in the cost of supplies to the hospital but added, "I feel it is very important to note that while the patient is paying more per day, the hospital is doing a fantastic job in decreasing the length of time a patient has to stay."
He cited figures showing the decrease in the length of

Fledgling Gridiron League Draws 200,000 in Debut

NEW YORK (UPI) — The World Football League started off with a bang at the box office in its debut Wednesday night, with over 200,000 fans announced as attending the maiden bill of five games, for an average of more than 40,000 per game.

A Legion Field crowd announced at $2,251 watched the match between the two teams, considered among the strongest in the new 12-team league.

EX-NFL quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner George Mira passed to former NFL star running back Paul Robinson for the "action point" to give Birmingham an 8-7 lead and Earl Sark kicked a 26-yard field goal with 1:55 remaining after Southern California failed on a fourth-and-one gamble at its 14-yard line.

One of the new NFL rules, which the NFL borrowed heavily from in revising their own rules for this season, makes touchdowns worth 7 points, with points-after-touchdown worth one point by running or passing. Unlike any other football league, from high school to the NFL, conversions may not be kicked in the NFL.

Another Heisman Trophy winner, former Notre Dame sidearm quarterback John Huarte, threw a 40-yard scoring pass to tight end Gary Shirk and rookie halfback Paul Miles ran for two touchdowns to boost the Memphis Southern to a 34-15 victory over the Detroit Wheels in Memphis' home opener before 36,122 fans.

NFL castoff Virgil Carter completed two touchdowns passes and passed for 184 yards to lead the Chicago Fire to a 17-0 win over the Houston Texans in their opening contest in the Windy City before an announced Soldier Field crowd of 42,000.

Jim Strong ran for a touchdown and grabbed an "action point" pass to give the Florida Blazers an 8-7 victory over the Honolulu Hawaiians in their World Football League debut.

But with 2:44 remaining in the third quarter, blitzing tackle Billy Hobbs knocked the yellow football out of the hands of Hawaii's No. 2 quarterback, Bill Doncker. Tackle Paul Vellano covered it for the Blazers on the 10.

Making a Staggering Debut

Southern Cal's Tony Adams (11) loses his footing while Birmingham Americans' Ross Brubacher (74) moves in to add final touch. The World Football League in its bow last night drew a good number of fans and could be helped if the NFL strike continues for a long time.

Rich Blauvelt had two hits for the winners and John Wollenberg and Dick Girard had two apiece for the Hoosiers in the regularly scheduled game.

All-Star Game Victim Of Football Strike

CHICAGO (UPI) — For the first time since its inception in 1934, the annual mid-summer clash between the College All-Stars and the National Football League champions, the traditional kickoff of the football season, will not be played.

The scheduled July 29 contest was canceled Wednesday, becoming the first casualty of the National Football League Players Association strike.

A dejected band of All-Stars began breaking training camp Wednesday without so much as a single scrimmage. Half of the team had left town by Wednesday night and the rest were expected to leave today.

"I don't think anybody's responsible," All-Star Coach John McKay of Southern California said. "Certainly the players aren't to blame. It's just one of those things that happen — and maybe should have happened."

The NFLPA expressed regret that the game had to be canceled. "We don't consider this a victory, rather, we regret it," said NFLPA President Bill Curry.

Curry said the NFLPA had made an unconditional pledge to donate half of what the game raised last year, noting that "half the responsibility" for the game's cancellation rests with striking players.

"We know where the money is coming from. We will raise the money," Curry said, explaining luncheons, banquets and other such fund-raising events would be held by players to raise the funds.

Shortly after the game was canceled, Wellington Mara, president of the New York Giants and chairman of the Management Council executive committee, accused the union of being power mad.

Curry said the NFLPA had made an unconditional pledge to donate half of what the game raised last year, noting that "half the responsibility" for the game's cancellation rests with striking players.

Strong Winds Prevail, Player Early Leader

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — South Africa's Gary Player mastered gusting winds for the second straight day today and fired a three-under-par 68 which gave him the early 36-hole lead in the British Open golf championship with a 137 total.

Player 37, shared the first round lead with Britain's John Morgan after both posted 68s over Royal Lytham's windswept 6,822-yard, par 71, links on Wednesday.

The reigning U.S. Masters champion, Player had nines of 33-35 and finished in brilliant fashion with a birdie at the 368-yard 18th, a hole he said made him afraid when he stood on the tee Wednesday.

Player opened with a birdie, gave the stroke back with a bogey at the third, then made birds at 5 and 6. He birdied the 13th to go five under for the tournament.

Player, who has played in every British Open since 1955 and hopes to play in many more, said: "For the last two days I've played as well as I possibly can. I'm hitting the ball good and putting good."

Looking back to the Masters, Player said: "I struck the ball as well in Augusta, but I did not putt well. I think I had 72 putts there but I've made the small ones here."

Player, putting his six-iron to good use, dropped putts ranging from seven to 25-feet on his birdie holes.

He three-putted the third and found a bunker at the 14th and needed two putts to get down.

"We're all in good shape on the tour right now," said Snead, 62, winner of 84 tour events, who he usually carries an adequate supply of salt tablets to help cope with the hot and humid conditions. But, he says the real test in the Quad Cities event will be the battle of "control."

ATLANTA (UPI) — His father and mother are migrant workers. Every six months or so, the family packs up to follow the harvest of tomatoes, cucumbers, watermelons and tobacco in South Georgia. Ten-year-old Robert, one of seven children, enrolls in the fifth grade in Thomsville, a quiet tobacco town near the Florida line. It is mid-March. By his second day at school, Robert's teacher knows he has a way with numbers, difficulty reading either English or Spanish, and a 20 per cent hearing loss in his left ear, probably due to measles when he was 6. Two years ago it is likely that school people would not have had a fraction of this information, and by the time the pieces were put together Robert would have been on his way to a new town, another school and another set of academic obstacles. Robert is among some 900,000 migrant children in the United States getting help through the Migrant Student Record Transfer System, a modern computer system that forwards medical and education records whenever the children move. Susie Underwood, director of the migrant education program in Georgia, was one of six state directors who in 1967 conceived the idea for an information network that could be utilized by all the states. The program, funded by the federal government, was begun experimentally in 1968 from a computer in Little Rock, Ark. Today, more than 8,000 school districts can get computerized scholastic and medical histories of more than 400,000 migrant children.

Inflation Factor in Two Elections

BY PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Canada and Japan have just gone through elections which—whatever the cultural and social differences between the two nations—focused on just one issue—inflation. They thus served in on a malaise which is international in character and which up to now has defied hitherto accepted measures leading to a cure. The results in both cases ran counter to what many had anticipated. In Canada the Liberal party of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau won a clear majority, apparently because more than half of the voters disagreed with the opposition Conservative party's plans to control 11 per cent inflation by freezing prices and incomes and imposing controls. In Japan, Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's ruling Liberal Democratic party barely squeaked through to retain control of the upper house of the Diet (parliament), essential to Tanaka's hopes of retaining leadership of the party in next year's party elections and of retaining the premiership. SEPTIC TANK - CESSPOOL CLOGGING CAN NOW BE PREVENTED!

LIVINGSTON, N. J. — An amazing bacterial discovery that prevents clogging of septic tanks and cesspools with but a single safe and easy-to-use yearly treatment, has been developed by the P-X-Lab Co., Livingston, N. J. Sluggish systems and drainfields can also be restored to normal by fast acting bacterial cultures. They are also recommended as a "starter" to seed newly cleaned out or newly installed septic tanks and cesspools. These proven FX bacterial organisms, known as FX-4 for septic tanks, FX-7 for cesspools, and FX-11 for sluggish septic tanks and cesspools are available locally. Available also, is a free booklet "The Story of Waste Bacteria, or How To Take Care of Your Septic Tank or Cesspool" from: The W. Glenney Co., 336 N. Main St., Manchester, Conn.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The market has seen some panic selling in the past few days, but the volume on the New York Stock Exchange has not been high, according to Dreyfus Fund. "The market is really concerned about inflation and the possibility of a major deflation," the firm says. The slight business slowdown and decline in profits which lie ahead actually could be a blessing for the stock market "since they will bring with them a dampened inflation and a lower structure of interest rates," according to the Inverness Counsel. The firm believes under normal conditions "many stocks would be considered bargains at half their current earnings."

The Federal Reserve Board's report last Friday that demands for corporate and industrial loans soared $1 billion in the latest reporting period has been a major depressant on the market lately, according to Bache & Co. Also, the FED's tight money policy has hurt the "downside risk appears limited with upside potential great."

Unions, Sinatra Reach Accord, Tour Goes On

SYDNEY (UPI)—Australian unions agreed today to permit Frank Sinatra to continue his concert tour after keeping him a virtual prisoner in a Sydney hotel room because of his hissing attack against reporters.

After a four-hour meeting among Sinatra, his lawyer Milton Rudin, and Australian Council of Trade Unions President Bob Hawke, a joint statement was issued in which Sinatra said he did not intend any general reflection upon the moral character of Australian journalists.

The singer did reserve the right to continue to comment upon the quality of their work.

Hawke emerged from the conference at Sinatra's hotel to announce that the tour would continue.

"It's on," he told newsmen.

The unions said they had no desire to embarrass Sinatra.

Hawke said he had authorized him to say they would ask his members to abstain from action to stop the rest of the tour or to prevent Sinatra's leaving the country afterwards.

Sinatra had threatened legal action because of the boycott.

Rudin earlier told news conference Sinatra "has nothing to apologize for" and that the music star was wrong in considering Australia a "true free democracy."

Australian union members imposed a ban on the controversial singer, forcing cancellation of at least one performance in his $675,000 tour, denying him hotel room service and cutting off fuel for his private jet.

In Canberra, Immigration Minister Clyde Cameron said today he would attempt to block Sinatra from visiting Australia again. "If he wanted to come again and I could stop him, I certainly would," Cameron said.

The controversy exploded Tuesday night in Melbourne.

Area Urged To Encourage Fish Farms

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI)—The New England states should encourage fish farming by making specific coastal areas available to private firms under long-term lease arrangements and by governmental assistance to such enterprises, marine researchers at the University of Rhode Island said Wednesday.

The species appearing to have the greatest potential for fish farming in New England are the American oyster, hard clam, bay scallop, American lobster and the Coho salmon — a Pacific species, Dr. John K. Gates, oceanographer, said.

S. Graciano and G. Mathiesen, president of the Marine Research Corp., wrote in a report titled "Aquaculture in New England."

Technology exists for raising each of these species through all stages of their life cycles to marketable size and market demand "appears to be strong and is capable of absorbing significant increases in production, particularly if production were scheduled to take advantage of seasonal variations in price," the authors said.

United Press International said a 20-year-old New London man was killed late Wednesday night when he apparently tried to outrun a pursuing police car and smashed into a tree.

A Durham man died in an earlier accident when his car also hit a tree.

Groton police said Raymond Scarratt was seen either pushing or letting someone out of his car at the intersection of Rtes. 184 and 117.

When officers tried to detain Scarratt, they said, he drove off down Rte. 184 at high speed.

About two miles down the road, police said, Scarratt sideswiped a car coming in the opposite direction, went into a field, bounced off a curb and sailed through the air into the tree. The accident happened about 11:45 p.m.

Police said Scarratt was returning from a wedding party. Durham police said Raymond Hershey, 48, was killed when his car veered off Howland Road and smashed into a tree about 5 p.m.

CALL ISSUED NAPERVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—United Methodist missionaries have issued a call for Methodists throughout the world to "repudiate the continuing violation of human rights by the military junta in Chile." They called on church agencies to carry out "whatever action is deemed appropriate to assist the Chilean church."

Driscoll said the CIA stands to gain regardless of which party wins control of the legislature this November. If the Democrats win, they will be faced with a series of automatic federal tax penalties on employers because of the state's law for reducing the benefits for the fund. And if the Republicans win, he said, the CIA would retain what he called veto power over any changes in the present tax structure.

Florida's Sen. Gurney Charged with Bribery

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—A federal grand jury charged Sen. Edward J. Gurney R-Fla., a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, with bribery and influence peddling Wednesday in the first indictment against a U.S. senator in 50 years.

Gurney, in a brief statement, proclaimed his "absolute innocence," but a Florida GOP leader said the indictment dealt a "mortal blow" to the senator's re-election chances this fall.

Gurney, President Nixon's staunchest Republican backer on the Watergate Committee, was charged with conspiracy, bribery, receiving unlawful compensation and four counts of making false statements to a grand jury.

The indictment climaxed a 10-month investigation by the 18-member grand jury that started out as a look at favored treatment to builders by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and the Department of Housing and Urban Development and led to a $400,000 campaign "slush fund" collected for Gurney.

"I maintain my absolute innocence of any wrongdoing," said Gurney in a statement.

Gurney has maintained all along that the grand jury investigation is part of a political vendetta against him by his enemies seeking to oust him from his seat, which he has held since November, 1968.

The maximum penalties for all of the various charges against Gurney total 42 years in prison and at least $80,000 in fines. The fine could be much larger if the time for bribery is calculated at three times the amount of the bribe, as provided by law.

Gurney said in a televised news conference last Dec. 7 that he had no advance knowledge of the fund-raising efforts carried out on his behalf and he ordered them halted as soon as he found out about them.

Oregon's Ombudsman Is an Ex-Con

By SUE ROBINSON
SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon's new ombudsman, Marc "Ted" Winters, 46, is no ordinary man.

His job is to listen to people's troubles with their government.

He has plenty of his own. Winters was a hard case life biter, who at 12 stole milk bottles from neighbors' porches and who at 15 was a Lovers Lane hand sent to reform school for armed robbery.

Gov. Tom McCall just appointed him to the job the other day, and it has been along road to his role in state government for the once skinny defiant kid who came out of Depression-era poverty into a string of armed robbery, assault, kidnapping and escape convictions that finally led to a life sentence in March, 1963.

McCall pardoned Winters in December, 1973, six months after the governor named him assistant ombudsman and made him a member of his personal staff.

State's Hospitals Request Increases
HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut hospitals have requested price increases averaging 8.6 per cent for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, the Connecticut Hospital Association said Wednesday.

The requests were made as the hospitals submitted budgets for review by the Commission on Hospitals and Health Care, the new regulatory agency assuming this year for the first time budget review powers.

Herbert A. Anderson, the association's president, said the price increases will be used primarily to finance wage and benefit increases for more than 30,000 employees in general care hospitals in the state.

Hospitals are also altering their pension, overtime and other benefit plans to conform to changes in practice and new legislation, Anderson said.

He said the price of ordinary supplies, such as food and pharmaceuticals, had increased dramatically during the past year, during most of which hospitals were under strict state and federal controls.

Anderson said annual rate increases in some areas in the country amounted to 14 to 17 per cent.

The average Connecticut hospital rate increase request is less than the rise in the cost of living for the past 12 months, he said.

The commission members and staff will examine the budgets during the coming three weeks and hold hearings, if necessary, to question items in the budgets submitted by the hospitals. The commission will decide whether to approve the hospital budgets and if not will order the institutions to adopt lower budgets, according to statute.

Warren's Toughest Decision Involved Japanese Internment

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — One of Earl Warren's toughest and most controversial decisions in a lifetime of hard choices came while he was California attorney general in the early days of World War II.

He approved a War Department plan to relocate in detention camps 100,000 Japanese aliens and Nisei, Americans of Japanese descent, who lived along the West Coast. The department argued that persons of Japanese ancestry might commit acts of sabotage and espionage.

In recent years, Japanese-American groups have asserted Warren expressed regret for his decision. They argued that the decision was pushed by California farm interests who saw an opportunity to rid themselves of the 42nd Regimental Combat Team, composed entirely of Japanese-Americans, was 308 per cent.

"No other group of regimental size during World War II won more than three presidential distinguished unit citations; the 442d Japanese-American regiment won seven."

The same year that the Civil Rights bill was passed in Hawaii, which was much closer to the theater of war.

A congressional committee assessing the move in 1948 was harsh in its criticism of the move.

"...Despite the suspicions in which they [the Japanese-Americans and aliens] were held there was not one recorded act of sabotage or espionage which was attributable to them."

Moreover, the percentage of enlistments in the armed forces by those of Japanese ancestry exceeded the nationwide percentage. Where the average casualty rate of the American army was less than 25 per cent, the casualty rate of the 42nd Regimental Combat Team, composed entirely of Japanese-Americans, was 308 per cent.

The same year that the Civil Rights bill was passed in Hawaii, which was much closer to the theater of war.

A congressional committee assessing the move in 1948 was
