

Hohenthals Will Return to Germany

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Hearing Eric Hohenthal and his family talk about their past two years in Germany is like opening a National Geographic Magazine — you can almost see the places they've been and some of the things they've done.

• like seeing some of the world's nobles at the Grand Prix in Monaco;

• driving on the Autobahn at frightening speeds;

• and trying to teach an unfamiliar game to the Germans, such as baseball.

Hohenthal has completed a two-year stint of teaching under the jurisdiction of the Department of Defense in Heilbronn, Germany, and has been visiting his parents in Manchester with his wife, Sally, and two children, Gary and Bruce.

Heilbronn is in southern Germany on the Neckar River about 30 miles north of Stuttgart. Hohenthal taught math and social studies there in Grades 7 and 8.

Returns Tuesday
His return Tuesday to Heilbronn for another two-year assignment comes as the result of a 4:30 a.m. phone call he received last week offering him the position of assistant principal in the school where he taught.

He said there is no regular teacher's contract as here, but rather a signed transportation agreement in which the government agrees to pay for your moving and transportation over and back again two years later.

They live in a government-stairwell housing compound on the second floor of a three-story building.

The German way of life was soon exposed in the conversation as a love of physical fitness and good health.

Hohenthal described the "volksmarsch" along scenic trails which is held once a year in different towns at different times throughout the country.

"There's one in almost every community," he said.

The Hohenthal family took about five hours to complete one of the 12-mile walks. A charge of $1 per person helps to pay for a large medal awarded to those who complete the walk.

"That's a pretty big mug for milk!" That's what Beth Hohenthal might be thinking as she looks at the large German beer stein her father, Eric, is showing her. Her mother, Sally, is looking on. many. The best soccer players from all over the world enter the contest.

Ten or eleven months of the year are devoted to the soccer season, said Hohenthal. Athletes are just beginning to get into basketball, he said.

Tennis is also a favorite sport, but Hohenthal said there are no public courts as we find here in recreation parks. The tennis courts are in private clubs, and one must be a member to play.

There is very little golf, but the Americans can use their clubs on courses provided for them by the Army. What few German courses there are are privately owned.

Auto Racing
Auto racing is another big sport in Germany. To listen to a race might make a worthwhile suggestion for use around Union Pond.

Swimming is also a favorite activity of the Germans and, although Germany's seacoast is limited to the North Sea and the Baltic Sea, there is an indoor pool in just about every town.

There is no speed limit for passing or weaving through traffic required to slow down to 30 miles per hour.

When traveling by auto, Sally explained, the driver signals for passing or weaving with headlights instead of the horn.

"Bienvenu a Montreal" says a sign at the entrance to the capital city of the Canadian Province of Quebec. The words are quickly translated for you into English, "Welcome to Montreal," but the visitor has been made to feel, at a glance, that he is in a foreign country.

Members of the Connecticut Horticultural Society travelled to Montreal earlier this summer and the trip proved so popular that two buses had to be chartered for the 72 people who made the excursion. It took a full day to travel north and a day to come home.

Ford Adjusts Quickly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Looking like a typical suburban husband on his way to work, Gerald R. Ford swung into his first full day as the nation's 38th Chief Executive today with the cheery comment that "it's great — so far" to be President.

Ford got up early at the Alexandria, Va., home where he still lives. He fixed his own breakfast, stuck his head out the door to get the morning paper — only to find that it had not arrived — and took a swim. Then he climbed into a limousine and motored to the White House.

The President's schedule included his first cabinet meeting at 10 a.m. EDT. Ford has asked the old Nixon cabinet members to stay on in his own administration.

Even though his presidency had barely begun, Ford seemed to be settling in comfortably to the job. By mid-afternoon Friday he seemed at home sitting in Richard Nixon's gold armchair in the Oval Office.

In the six hours he was at the White House after his inauguration Friday, Ford met with the ambassadors of 57 nations, conferred with his economic advisers, held his first news briefing, selected a panel to advise him on taking power, and sent a message to the Greek government urging restraint and moderation in dealing with the Cyprus crisis.

Ford became President in a simple, comfortable, reassuring way, promising straight talk and honesty to erasing the memory of a national nightmare.

The word inauguration is too pretentious for the simple ceremony in which he repeated in flat, midwestern accents the oath of office taken by all his predecessors. There was less pomp than the night nine months ago when he was nominated vice president.

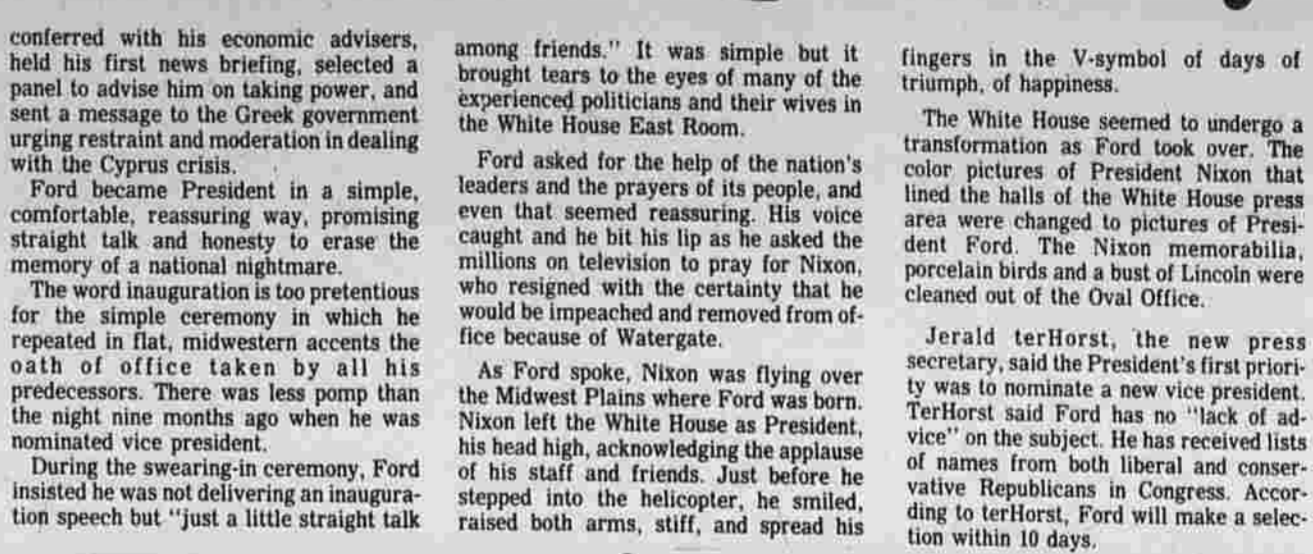

During the swearing-in ceremony, Ford insisted he was not delivering an inauguration speech but "just a little straight talk among friends."

It was simple but it brought tears to the eyes of many of the experienced politicians and their wives in the White House East Room.

Ford asked for the help of the nation's leaders and the prayers of its people, and even that seemed reassuring. His voice caught and he bit his lip as he asked the millions on television to pray for Nixon, who resigned with the certainty that he would be impeached and removed from office because of Watergate.

As Ford spoke, Nixon was flying over the Midwest Plains where Ford was born. Nixon left the White House as President, his head high, acknowledging the applause of his staff and friends. Just before he stepped into the helicopter, he smiled, raised both arms, stiff, and spread his fingers in the Vaymbol of days of triumph, of happiness.

The White House seemed to undergo a transformation as Ford took over. The color pictures of President Nixon that lined the halls of the White House press area were changed to pictures of President Ford. The Nixon memorabilia, porcelain birds and a bust of Lincoln were cleaned out of the Oval Office.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Among the decisions facing President Ford are whether to sign a number of bills that were lying on Richard M. Nixon's desk when he resigned.

The most important is one appropriating federal money for elementary and secondary education. It includes what is considered by many to be the strongest legislative language yet opposing the busing of schoolchildren.

The House and Senate approved a conference agreement on the bill late in July. The Senate approved it 81 to 15; the House 323 to 83 — margins that are more than enough to override a veto. There are no indications Ford would be inclined to veto the measure.

The bill would forbid courts to order children bused beyond the school second nearest to their homes. The only exception would be where courts felt wider busing was needed to protect children's constitutional rights.

Another major bill on Ford's desk would let Americans buy and own gold for the first time since the Depression era.

The bill is technically a measure to extend U.S. participation in the International Development Association. But an amendment was added allowing private dealing in gold.

The bill is of interest particularly to congressmen from states whose gold mines have long since been closed.

Private ownership of gold — except for coin collectors, jewelers and dentists — has been banned since Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration. The ban was one of Roosevelt's moves to fight the Depression.

Proponents of private ownership contend there is no reason now to continue to bar Americans from having gold if they want it.

Other bills awaiting presidential signature or veto are mostly minor. As one of his last acts as president, Nixon vetoed an appropriations bill for the Agriculture Department and some other agencies, saying it was inflationary and contained unworkable programs. It may be altered and reintroduced in Congress soon.

Nixon Suffered Enough?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republicans appear to have concluded that Richard M. Nixon has suffered enough over Watergate and should not be prosecuted.

"A pound of flesh is enough," Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told reporters Friday, following a meeting of all GOP senators.

Sen. Norris Cotton, N.H., chairman of the conference of Republican senators, said the "punishment, agony and the disgrace he has undergone is probably the worst punishment there could be."

Their remarks appeared to represent the sentiment of the group, although no formal decision was announced.

A grand jury named Nixon an indicted conspirator in the Watergate case after being advised it could not indict a president. It would be up to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski whether to seek to bring any charges against Nixon. He has indicated no decision on that will be made anytime soon.

The White House announced that Nixon had issued no pardons to himself or anyone else before he left office and said Ford's position that "the public wouldn't stand" for a President granting a predecessor immunity had not changed.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Democratic chairman at the time of the Watergate bugging, settled his suit against the Nixon campaign out of court for $400,000. The suit sought damages for the bugging.

O'Brien said he would give the money to his party for a campaign "to re-entail the confidence of the American people in our two-party system."

Ford Names Aides To Help Transition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has named four prominent men to help him make the transition from the Nixon administration to the Ford administration.

They include Rogers C.B. Morton, secretary of the interior; ex-Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton; Donald Rumsfeld, U.S. ambassador to NATO; and John O. Marsh, the defense advisor from Ford's vice presidential staff.

Morton, 59, joined the Nixon administration in January of 1971. He has headed the Republican National Committee and represented Maryland in the House from 1962 to 1971.

Scranton, 57, was the envoy sent by President-elect Nixon in 1968 to explore the Middle East situation.

A Yale University Law School graduate, he was called on in 1970 to serve as chairman of the President's Committee on Campus Unrest and in 1971 and 1972 to be a member of the presidential price commission.

Rumsfeld, 42, has been the chief U.S. representative to NATO since February 1972.

He held several high positions in the Nixon administration, including the posts of director of the Office of Economic Opportunity and Counselor to the President. A former Navy aviator, he was graduated from Princeton University.

John O. Marsh, Jr., 47, has been Ford's assistant for defense affairs since early this year. He served four terms as a Virginia Democrat in the House of Representatives and has practiced law privately in Washington. In 1973 he became assistant secretary of defense for legislative affairs, a post he held until he joined the staff of then-Vice President Ford.

Ford also announced that he was naming Robert T. Hartmann as Counselor to the President. Hartmann, once a Washington newspaperman, served as chief of Ford's vice presidential staff.

The General Election

Both parties have selected their candidates for the November General Election and the battle lines are forming. We imagine the campaigns will begin in earnest after Labor Day.

Both parties have adopted a good slate and the Steele-Grasso race for governor should be a dandy.
Perhaps the most difficult task in politics is persuading a good man or a good woman to run for office. There is the financial sacrifice, the interference with a normal career, or the effects on family life. But most of all, candidates dislike personal attacks, the suspicion which surrounds all politicians, and all too frequently the bloody infighting which sometimes prevails within political parties.

This is the area in which Watergate could be most damaging. The most serious effect won't be on what scandals might do to incumbents but that the voters will turn even more cynical.

If politics turn so unpopular that more than the usual number of people sit on their hands election day, that popular distrust will become clear to responsible citizens who might otherwise be persuaded to try for office.

Let us hope the voters will turn out in record numbers in November and possibly help restore some of the faith in the great game of politics.

Slow Down and Live

Slogans have a tendency to express a desire rather than reality but there is one that has been around for years that is now being validated so to speak.

For years, highway safety people have told us to "slow down and live." And for years, American motorists have demanded and got faster, more powerful cars, spent billions to build those common man racetracks called freeways and throughways, and have regarded speed limits as something to be ignored except in the vicinity of a state patrol car.

But figures show that if you slow down your chances of living increase when it comes to driving.

Both the figures for Connecticut and the nation as a whole show a marked drop in highway fatalities during the first six months of 1974. There is agreement that the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit is the major cause of the decline in highway slaughter which still is a national disgrace.

The National Safety Council reported a 23 per cent drop nationally and the Connecticut Safety Commission reports a state drop of almost one-third from last year.

While not all motorists are obeying the lower speed limit, it appears many are and perhaps more of us will do so now that we know "slow down and live" is more than a slogan. It is an action which saved almost 6,000 lives in the United States and 117 Connecticut drivers in the first six months of the year.

Think about it next time you have the urge to floor board the family car.

Alcohol And Good Intentions

As if the police don't have troubles enough, now they're going to have to get educated on the care and treatment of drunks. The new law which removes intoxication from the list of crimes or misdemeanors took effect on July 1 in some cities and in others will take effect over the next two years. But already plans are under way for training the police to meet the new approach.

"An intoxicated person in a public place and in need of help, and who is not incapacitated, may, if he or she desires, be escorted home, to an approved public treatment facility or other medical facility" by police, the new law says in part.

Great police around here have generally been humane and obliging about giving a lift home to people who have had a few too many. It beats putting them in the cooler overnight.

Police are still faced with the problem of what to do with people who are intoxicated, and who don't want a ride home, or to an institution, or a treatment center, or anywhere else. They just want to sit on the curbstone and stare at the street, or maybe to look for another drink or to take a little nap in a downtown doorway. They may not necessarily fall under the category of being "incapacitated," which would let the police take them into "protective custody" and deliver them to a "detoxification center." If they resist firmly the efforts of police to "protect" them, the officer on duty may have to revert to charges of resisting an officer.

As police are being handed new, non-law-enforcement responsibilities for handling drunks, hospitals and treatment centers may find themselves in even more equivocal positions. Meriden-Wallingford Hospital has a positive approach and an optimistic attitude, and will do its best to aid "problem drinkers." Undercliff is already running a comprehensive alcohol-cure program.

Both are going to need sizeable amounts of public money and assistance to meet the challenge if the new approach is seriously pursued. Nowhere, to date, are there prospects for funds that would be anywhere nearly adequate.

The first step in helping an alcoholic is that he or she must want to be helped. No law can accomplish this. "Police have to persevere and realize that an individual may have to be returned to a treatment center a number of times before his drinking problem can be cured," says Stephen J. Kelly, municipal police training director.

The police, as well as the alcoholics, have our sympathy. — Meriden Record

Another Look At Herbert Hoover

EDITOR'S NOTE: The 100th anniversary of Herbert Hoover's birth is today, Aug. 10.

By LEE RODERICK
WASHINGTON — The Russian farmer raised his wine glass and, through an interpreter, asked American writer Norman Cousins to join him in a toast to Herbert Hoover, "the man who was blessed by my mother and father and my grandparents. They prayed for him."

The setting was 1960 in the small village in Soviet Georgia. Cousins, startled by the proposal, turned to Hoover, "the man who was blessed by my mother and father and my grandparents. They prayed for him."

"We wondered what would happen to us, Herbert Hoover came to us with food and saved our lives. We will never forget it. My parents blessed him and prayed for him even when he became a big capitalist and a Republican president. He liked us and helped us as human beings even if he didn't like our government. A very great man. We will drink a bottom-up toast." And they did.

That exchange typifies the lasting enigma of Herbert Hoover. America's Depression president who was hated by millions of his own countrymen for alleged cold heartedness, even as he was hailed abroad as a great humanitarian. Hoover, who died at the age of 90 in 1964, would have been 100 Saturday, August 10.

Hoover's life, characterized by a high sense of personal integrity and devotion to public service, is particularly worth remembering in today's Watergate climate.

"The American people have a right to bitter complaint over disclosures of dishonor in high places," Hoover once wrote. "The duty of public men in this republic is to lead in standards of integrity—both in mind and money. When there is lack of honor in government, the morals of the whole people are poisoned...Some folks seem to think these are necessary evils in free government. Or that it is smart politics. Those are deadly sleeping pills. No public man can be just a little crooked."

Hoover like Nixon was a Quaker, followed that creed religiously during a long and colorful career that took him throughout the world many times over as a mining expert and later as the greatest humanitarian of his time. Although the Roosevelt landslide in 1932 swept him out of the White House in disgrace and into virtual oblivion for a dozen years, Hoover lived 32 years beyond his presidency—longer than any other revolutionary measure ever passed in peacetime, to bolster private credit with government credit and thus throw out and draw out the hidden assets of the nation.

The myth: Hoover profited at public expense. The fact: As both Secretary of Commerce and President, Hoover distributed his salaries among aides receiving relatively low government wages. He received little compensation for his humanitarian efforts which, during and after two world wars, saved millions of people in Europe and Asia from starvation.

The myth: Hoover lacked the "humane" touch. The fact: Hoover hated political sham, telling his advisers firmly in a 1928 campaign that there was to be "no baby kissing." At the same time, he genuinely loved children and maintained a personal correspondence with thousands of them during the last several decades of his life. To a ten-year old girl who wrote that she wanted to be physician instead of president, he answered: "My dear Kathleen, you were saved a lot of trouble by not being born earlier. I am glad that you want to be a doctor and not president. We do not have enough doctors, and there seems to be sufficient number of candidates for president." Unfortunately for the United States today, there again seems to be a "sufficient number of candidates for president," but an insufficient number of men with the moral integrity of Herbert Hoover.

Let us hope the voters will turn out in record numbers in November and possibly help restore some of the faith in the great game of politics.

Open Forum

Reappoint Lingard

To the editor,
I am writing to you as the wife of a volunteer fireman. For the past few weeks I have sat back and read all the letters in the Open Forum about Eighth District firemen with mixed emotions.

I'm tired of reading things from people who really don't know what they're talking about, but who let personal feelings ride over their intelligence. If these people would put their feet in the other person's shoes they might view things a little differently. I've seen my husband jump out of bed at 2 a.m. to answer a false alarm that very possibly was pulled by some teenager whose parents don't know or even care where they are or what they're doing. There was no puppeteer pulling the strings telling him to get up then. I know my husband and any of the firemen we know do and say what they believe is right for them personally, no one pulls their strings.

Ted Lingard in the years he has been fire chief has always done what he felt was best for the good of the people of the district. An article in the New York Times of February 7, 1932, states: "He (Hoover) is putting into operation the most revolutionary measures ever passed in peacetime, to bolster private credit with government credit and thus throw out and draw out the hidden assets of the nation."

Business-Directory Guide For Manchester and Surrounding Vicinity

featuring this week...

Come to Frank's Fish Fry for Charity

Once again Frank's Supermarket and the Manchester Jaycees are joining together for a charitable cause. On Wednesday, August 14 in Frank's Parking Lot you can get a Fish 'n' Chips dinner, Coca Cola, ice cream and cake all for only a quarter. All the proceeds from this sale will be donated to the Manchester Memorial Hospital to pay off the Fetal Heart Monitor and to help refurbish the hospital reception area. Bring the family out for an inexpensive meal and help do your share for charity.

AAMCO Transmission
Aamco Transmissions of Manchester has it too! Aamco, located at 53 Tolland Tpk., has joined the Mechanic Certification program which is administered by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence, Washington, D.C. With such certification an Aamco mechanic will have demonstrated a high level of competency and skills in the service areas in which he specializes. He must have at least two years of experience and pass a difficult test before certification is granted. Locally owned and operated for over 7 years by Gene Russel and his two sons, Gene and Larry, Aamco encourages its mechanics to participate in the program. Just one more step forward in Aamco's continuing efforts to provide the best available transmission service to its customers.

Local Churches

Church of Christ Lydall and Vernon Sts. Eugene Brewer Minister. 9 a.m., Bible Classes. 10 a.m., Worship, Sermon: 'A Study in Futility.'

Wings Of Evening. The prayer poem of the week: 'Lord, Why do we only see you as an escape As a place to hide?'

Have you ever noticed that when some new word comes to your attention you suddenly find it mentioned in many places? Some years ago I heard a sermon on 'Serenity' (the faculty for making desirable discoveries by accident).

Three times weekly recently I have heard this same passage: 'Once, in a sermon; again in the order of service for the baptism of our newest grandchild; and then again in a letter about a friend who has just passed through a serious operation.'

'I spent nearly a twelvemonth in a sort of mental elysium, and one idea which ministered to my soul all its rapture was the magnificence of the Godhead.'

'From about half past ten in the evening until about half past twelve - FIRE - Certitude. Certitude. Feeling. Joy. Peace. God of Jesus Christ.'

There is a danger in using words whose meaning we do not understand or know only in a misty way. Louis Kirin of the Broome County Council of Churches in Binghamton, N.Y., writes of two Methodist women who recently became Episcopalians and were discussing the change.

Enough about 'liturgy'! Let us react as did the young man who borrowed a book from the library about pataphysics. When he returned it the librarian inquired if he liked it. He commented: 'It had me about pataphysics that I wanted to know.' If any of you ARE interested further I refer you to Barclay's scholarly analysis.

Joseph Lombardo
The funeral of Joseph Lombardo of Hartford, formerly of Manchester, who died Thursday at Hartford Hospital, will be Monday at 8:15 a.m. from Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., with a Mass at St. James Church at 9. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Frederick W. Keune
ROCKVILLE—Frederick W. Keune, 86, of West Hartford, formerly of Rockville, died Thursday at Johnson Memorial Hospital, Stafford Springs.

Mr. Keune was born in Broad Brook and had lived in Rockville for a number of years before moving to West Hartford 25 years ago. He was superintendent of the filtration plants in Rockville until 1932. Before his retirement, he worked at the Colt Patent Firearms Co. in West Hartford. He was the first president of the Rockville Fish and Game Club and a past president of the Gesang Declaration Club.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Anna Potter of West Hartford. Funeral services are Sunday at 2 p.m. at Introvigne-Plant Funeral Home, 95 E. Main St., Stafford Springs. Burial will be in Center Cemetery, Union.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Stanley J. Redens
ROCKVILLE—Mrs. Lottie F. Redens of 5 Regan St. died Friday at Rockville General Hospital. She was the wife of Stanley J. Redens.

The funeral was this morning from the Burke-Fortin Funeral Home, 76 Prospect St., with a Mass at St. Joseph's Church. Burial was in St. Bernard's Cemetery.

Mrs. Redens was born in Rockville and had lived here all her life. She was a communicant of St. Joseph's Church. She is also survived by a son, Raymond Redens, of Manchester; a daughter, Mrs. Stephen Zaresky of Wethersfield; several brothers and sisters, four grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Rockville Public Library.

Charles A. Cervini
Charles Andrew Cervini, 81, of 488 Hills St., East Hartford, formerly of Manchester, was dead on arrival at Manchester Memorial Hospital this morning after being stricken at home. He was the husband of Mrs. Nanna Kasche Cervini.

Mr. Cervini was born in New York City, son of the late John and Celeste Brigg Cervini, and had lived in Manchester for many years before moving to East Hartford 25 years ago. He had been employed at Pratt and Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford, before his retirement in 1958.

He is also survived by a son, John Cervini of Manchester; a daughter, Mrs. Doris Mikulowsky of Manchester; four brothers, Albert Cervini, Frank Cervini, Paul Cervini and Phillip Cervini, all of Manchester; and five grandchildren.

The funeral is Monday at 8:30 a.m. from the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St., with a Mass at the Church of the Assumption at 9. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Police Report

MANCHESTER
Dean A. Listro, 18, of East Hartford was charged with improper passing and operating a motorcycle without a motorcycle license after a motorcycle-car collision Thursday at 11:57 p.m. on Broad St. near Hardee's restaurant. Listro and his passenger, Roxanne Simonette, 20, also of East Hartford were taken by ambulance to Manchester Memorial Hospital with minor injuries. The driver of the car was Leanne L. Mullen, 19, of 4 Hudson St. Court for Listro is Aug. 26.

Leanne DeCobert, 24, of Lydall St. was taken by ambulance Friday at 9:26 p.m. to Manchester Memorial Hospital where she was treated for a lacerated scalp. A two-car collision on I-86 westbound near Vernon Circle caused her injury. She was treated and discharged. The case was reported by state police in Stafford Springs.

Other police action included: James Galanek, 61, of 123 Hemlock St. was arrested Friday at 9:10 p.m. and charged with breach of peace and intoxication after a domestic disturbance. He posted a $250 non-surety bond for court Aug. 19.

Carolyn A. Hadden, 37, of 104 W. Middle Tpke. was arrested Friday at 9 p.m. after a two-car collision in a Manchester Memorial Hospital parking lot and charged with evading responsibility. Her car struck the parked car of John Bruno of Windsor. Court is Sept. 9.

Shane P. Cyr, 17, of East Hartford was charged Friday at 12:30 a.m. with operating a motorcycle without a motorcycle license and altering a motor vehicle license. His arrest occurred in the emergency room of the Manchester Memorial Hospital where Cyr made strenuous objections to the charges against his friend, Dean Listro, who was being treated for injuries in a motorcycle accident. Court is Aug. 26.

Two youths, age 15, were stopped on Main St. Thursday evening and given warnings not to ride against the traffic. Warning letters were sent their parents.

Six bikes were reported stolen in the last two days and four were reported found.

A Hawthorne St. resident found Friday morning two motorcycles owned by James Barron of 16B Oxford St. and Mark Erickson of 70 Cambridge St. by the railroad tracks to the rear of 42 Hawthorne St. They were returned to their owners.

Raymond Wrobelski of 571 Tolland Tpke. reported Friday his motorcycle was stolen. Police found the bike later that day and notified him.

VERNON
Edwin H. Clements, 37, of 41 Spring St., Rockville was charged with reckless driving Friday after he was observed on Grand Ave. operating in an erratic manner. He posted a $200 non-surety bond for court Sept. 3.

Michael F. Williams, 20, of Stafford Springs was charged Friday with reckless driving after the investigation of a one-car accident. The car he was driving on a Vernon street struck a mailbox and a newsstand and forced another car off the road. No damage was done to the other car. He posted a $250 non-surety bond for court Sept. 3.

GM Hikes Auto Prices

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors hiked car and truck prices an average of $480 Friday, pushing the average price of 1975 models to more than $1,000 over last year's. The company blamed inflation and government clean-air laws.

The current models already have undergone five separate pricing actions totaling an average $546. In a letter to dealers, GM Vice President Mack W. Worden blamed $130 of the 9.5 per cent increase on the cost of adding the new clean air equipment, primarily catalytic converters, to the new models. The other $350 will be to cover past and future increases in the costs of labor and materials, he said.

The action by GM was the first firm pricing action by any of the U.S. automakers. Ford has indicated its prices may be up 8 per cent, or $118, while Chrysler and American Motors have withheld any decisions. GM said it decided to make its prices firm since some dealers want to deliver '75s before the introduction dates of Sept. 19 and Sept. 20. The knowledge that new models will be up almost $500 and will require unleaded fuel may push some consumers into purchasing the last of the slow-selling '74s.

Worden said there was no alternative to the higher prices "in light of rapidly rising material and labor costs over which we have only limited control and the necessity of complying with 1975 emission standards which have been mandated by the government."

He said auto prices had been under "artificial restraints" ever since the price freeze in August, 1971. He also said GM's 1975-model introductory price increases might be slightly higher than other automakers since GM did not take part in a general July increase averaging between $43 and $60.

Other requests for capital improvement package were: —$3.6 million for an addition to the UConn Law School in West Hartford. —$3.6 million for a new

State Roundup

New Sports Arena Proposed At UConn
STORRS (UPI) — The University of Connecticut Board of Trustees has voted to ask the state for $5 million to build a 12,500-seat sports arena at the main campus in Storrs.

A 1967 state appropriation of $2 million for a women's gymnasium at Storrs would be used towards the proposed indoor facility, bringing the total price tag to $7 million, the trustees said Friday.

The arena was part of a $14.3 million package of capital improvement requests for fiscal 1975-1976 endorsed by the trustees. The requests must be approved by the state Commission for Higher Education before they are sent on to the governor for inclusion in the state budget.

UConn President Glenn W. Ferguson said the proposed facility would include two or three separate gymnasiums and an Olympic-sized pool, and would be used primarily for intercollegiate sports.

Robert F. Taylor, chairman of the trustees' Finance Committee, claimed the new facility is an absolute necessity, noting UConn's present athletic facilities are geared for a student body about half its present 15,000 size.

Taylor said the present field house would be used for women's athletics and intramural sports once the new arena is built. Other requests for capital improvement package were: —$3.6 million for an addition to the UConn Law School in West Hartford. —$3.6 million for a new

Plane Lands On Lawn
WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — A light plane carrying four persons narrowly missed an apartment complex before it crashed landed on the front lawn of a monastery late Friday. The pilot and three passengers escaped without serious injury.

Police said Thomas Gafton, 34, of Roxbury, Conn., reported to Westover Air Force Base shortly after 4 p.m. that he was losing power. The single-engine aircraft touched down on an open field after passing just over the Laurel House apartments near Rt. 5, then shot back up in the air and finally crashed into a hill on the front lawn of the Dominican Nun Monastery, police said.

Gafton was treated for minor cuts and bruises at Providence Hospital in Holyoke. Also taken to the same hospital were Joseph Hackson, 42, of Bridgeport, Conn., Anthony York, 33, of New Milford, Conn., and Holly O'Leary, 20, also of New Milford.

The Federal Aviation Administration and local officials said they were investigating.

Autopsy Due

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — Authorities have ordered an autopsy on a body found dead in Wethersfield Cove. Police said the unidentified woman was spotted in the water Friday by someone at the Wethersfield Yacht Club, located alongside the cove.

The body was taken to Hartford Hospital for the autopsy.

Body Found
STONINGTON (UPI) — An autopsy has been ordered on the body of Ronald P. Henry, 19, of a Stonington, found on his drifting boat near Watch Hill Friday.

Hit by Truck
OLD SAYBROOK (UPI) — Two-year old Mathew Gomeau was killed Friday when he ran onto the street and was run over by a garbage truck, police said.

Former State Employees Still Get Benefits
HARTFORD (UPI) — A payroll audit of the state Motor Vehicles Department Friday disclosed that persons no longer employed by the state were apparently still covered by hospitalization insurance while others were employed without civil service status.

The audit report on the department was conducted by the state's Payroll Audit Division and covered a biweekly payroll period ending March 28 for 898 employees.

The report said a review of payroll and personnel records showed practices ranged from some "minor computational errors" to "an increase in the practice of retaining employees on the payroll for extended periods of time without the employees having civil service status."

Court Decides Damage Claim
HARTFORD (UPI) — A federal judge has ordered Allegheny Airlines to pay $444,056 to the estate of a Washington, D.C., woman who died with 27 others in an airplane crash three years ago.

Steele Backers To Seek Funds

BOLTON

The Robert Steele For Governor Committee will be kicking off its fund-raising drive Sunday afternoon.

Volunteers will be canvassing door to door requesting donations of $1. A campaign pledge by Steele was that he would not accept over $100 from any one person and he hoped the majority of donations would be $1 or $2.

The Bolton co-ordinators for Robert Steele For Governor are Robert Morra, Alison Boisonau and Penny Taylor.

The selectmen will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall. The major item on the agenda will be discussion of the proposed draft of the town's first charter prepared by the Charter Commission.

The Public Building Commission will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall. At that time bids for the construction of Bentley Memorial Library will be opened.

The commission is also expected to act on bids received Aug. 5 for construction of tennis courts at Bolton High School. The PBC will also discuss the firehouse addition.

The Planning Commission and Zoning Commission will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Be your own policeman

Learn to Make Wise Decisions

Officer Friendly is the name given the specially trained policeman who visits the classrooms in Washington, D.C. He shakes hands with the children, shows them his uniform and talks about his job. Do you have someone like Officer Friendly in your city?

You will be hearing a lot about the law and "value education."

Through this way of studying good citizenship, you will practice making decisions.

You will be taught to have a set of ideals with which to work. These will help you to think through a problem and make the smartest decision.

Your decision will not be based on a fear of the law, but rather on an understanding of how and why laws are made.

Think about these situations:

You are on your way home from school. You can save your bus money to spend on candy if you hitch a ride. What would you do? Why?

You are in a store. You don't have enough money but you see something that you really want. You think no one is looking. What would you do? Why?

copyright, Bill Beall

Back to School Safety

Patrol boys and girls will be back on the job in a few weeks.

Super Sport: Judy Rankin

Judy Rankin started playing golf at the age of five and was winning Pee Wee titles by the time she was eight. At the age of 14, she was the youngest champion ever for the state of Missouri!

At 17, she was one of the youngest women to ever join the tour.

Last year, at the age of 27, she was the second highest money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

Her husband "Yippie" and son "Tuey" travel on the tour with her.

The Policeman's Uniform

How is this Washington, D.C. police uniform different from the ones that the policemen wear in your city?

Cap shield
 Badge
 Radio
 Whistle
 Patrol box key
 Baton
 Name plate
 Bullets Gun

The First Stoplight

Garrett A. Morgan, a black inventor, invented the first automatic stoplight. Morgan lived from 1877 to 1963. The light had stop and go arms. The arms went up and down to regulate the flow of traffic. The first stoplight was put up in Willoughby, Ohio.

What do you do when...

(Look at the situations below and decide!)

you want to cross the street.
 a stranger offers you some candy.
 patrol boys and girls make you wait but you are in a hurry.
 you are riding your bike and come to an intersection.

Book Review: Noisy Nora

"Noisy Nora," story and pictures by Rosemary Wells, published by the Dial Press, 1974, $3.95.

"Jack had dinner early, Father played with Kate, Jack needed burping, So Nora had to wait."

Have you ever had to wait and wait to get your parents' attention because they were busy with your brothers and sisters? Noisy Nora is a cute little mouse who had to do just that.

Nora tries just about every noisy way she can think of and comes up with an idea that works.

For children from 4 up.

More Policewomen

More women are joining the police force. Some walk a beat just like the patrolmen.

The patrolwoman at the right is a member of the Washington, D.C. police force.

See her city patch on her sleeve.

Do you have policewomen in your city?

The Cop and His Friend

Photographer Bill Beall was clicking pictures of paper dragons when he saw a little boy step into the street. A policeman bent down to tell him to go back. Snap!

The picture won many prizes. Several years later, the policeman and the boy, Allen Weaver, met again. But the thrill of that moment could not be recaptured.

Today the policeman, Maurice Cullinane, is the assistant chief of police in Washington.

Mini Do: Pie Pan Picture

(Don't let Mom throw away that aluminum pie pan.)

What you'll need:

- Aluminum pie pan
- Scissors
- Nail
- Heavy poster paper

What to do:

1. Cut around the edges of a pie pan so all you have left is the bottom.
2. Using a nail, scratch your picture on the bottom. Turn the bottom over and go over your lines on the other side.
3. Cut a round frame to fit around the edge. Using tape, attach the pie pan picture to the frame on the back side of the frame.

Try 'N Find:™ Safety Words

Safety words are hidden in this block of letters. They run across, down and diagonally. See how many you can find.

Across: safety patrol, policeman, traffic, listen, safety belt, intersection
Down: stoplight, policewoman, street, wait, go, bus, stranger
Diag: cross, stop, look, walk

Animal of the Week: The German Shepherd

A police officer took a German Police Dog to school to meet the boys and girls.

The German Shepherd can be called a German Police Dog after it has been trained for police work. Males are usually used as police dogs. Females are usually used as guide dogs for the blind.
