Clearing the Desk of Observations

We thought we'd devote today's column to clearing up an accumulation of observations and news items, so here they are — for better or worse:

One can't help wondering how many sections of curbing (and, in some places, sidewalks) might have escaped the need for replacement and repair, had the town kept going with the weed-killing program it was so proud of only a few years ago.

The $100,000 loan being given the Parking Authority by the Savings Bank of Manchester (co-signed and guaranteed by the town) will cost about $39,400 in interest.

The loan is for improvements to land off Park St. on St. James Church property — to be converted to a 100-space parking lot for Parking Authority use, under a 10-year agreement.

The Parking Authority will repay the loan in $1,161 monthly installments over the 10 years. The payments, in effect, will be the monthly rental.

It seems to us, when a town director abstains from a vote on a proposal, he or she, in effect, is voting against it.

A recent example occurred eight days ago, when the directors rejected sanitary sewers for Linwood Dr. The vote was a 3 to 2, with five affirmative votes needed to approve. Abstaining were three directors, two because they reside on Linwood Dr., the third because he has a relative residing on Linwood Dr. A "non-vote" is a "no vote."

State Rep. Muriel Yacovone, D., running for reelection in the 9th Assembly District, has named Thomas K. Burns of East Hartford her campaign treasurer.

The district consists of about a fourth of East Hartford and Voting District 9 in Manchester.

Sharp Rise In Arrests, Complaints

The monthly report from the police department for July continues to show a steady rise in activity in crime areas.

Chief James M. Reardon's report goes to the town manager's office and then to the Board of Directors.

There were a total of 124 arrests this July including 41 felonies (more serious crimes). There were 102 in June, 113 in July, 1973, and 88 in July, 1972. Complaints rose sharply to a total of 2,342 in July with 869 formal case reports made out. There were 2,017 complaints in June, 1,969 in July, 1973, and 1,953 in July, 1972.

Property stolen was $35,647 with $11,314 recovered in July. There was $30,199 stolen in July, $43,555 stolen in July, 1973, and $19,139 stolen in July, 1972.

Miles of roads patrolled in the 31-day month of July were 53,782. The miles covered was 53,512 in June, 45,061 in July, 1973, and 45,720 in July, 1972.

Traffic control reports appear to be the only area where activity holds steady.

There were 150 accidents reported in July with 44 injuries. There were 135 in June with 49 injuries and one fatality, 151 in July, 1973 with 40 injuries and one fatality, and 139 in July, 1972 with 37 injuries.

There were 498 traffic control arrests in July. There were 529 in June, 355 in July, 1973, and 331 in July, 1972.

Complaints about animals rose to 194 this July. There were 160 complaints in June, 168 in July, 1973, and 138 in July, 1972.

Dogs picked up by police totaled 175 in July. The total was 143 in June, 146 in July, 1973, and 117 in July, 1972.

Japan Still Leads In Silk Production
Japan Top Silk Producer
Tokyo—Since the 3rd century A.D., when the production of raw silk through the raising of silkworms was introduced to Japan from China, silk has been an important Japanese industry. In 1955, the peak year, 44,000 tons of silk were produced and 23,700 tons exported. Today Japan is no longer a major silk exporter but is still the leading producer.

When Manchester's "Blue Ribbon" Government Study Committee was checking out the pros and cons of the council-manager and strong-mayor forms of government (it backed the council manager), the key words used continually were "continuity" of a competent and professional administrative staff, "credibility" of performance and actions, and "responsiveness" to the public.

We are about to do some research—to find out just how continuous has been the continuity among department heads in the past 10 years. We expect credibility and responsiveness to fall into place—when we have the continuity.

Approx of nothing at all, except it's one way to do this column, an anonymous sage once said, "Some folks get elected because they are well known... others are defeated for the same reason."

Board Tables Budget Cuts That Would Cut Programs

The five Democrats making up the quorum for Monday's Board of Education meeting voted to table action on a proposed cut of $18,000 in extracurricular programs.

The cuts would have just about stopped nearly two dozen programs at Manchester High School and about a dozen similar programs at Benet and Hilling Junior High Schools. Items to be cut ranged from the MHS magazine, Future Secretaries Club and Jaycee football coach to the Benet cheerleaders, swimming team and golf team as well as the Hilling Jaycee soccer coach, tennis coach and year book.

Mrs. Caroline Becker, board member, said she did not want to "tear down existing programs to start new ones."

She urged the hiring of the phys ed teachers "in the pursuit of excellence." She noted there is no phys ed for Grades 1 and 2. "I put physical education teachers for Grades 1 and 2 at the top of my (priority) list," she told the board.

She noted that Glastonbury's schools have five phys ed teachers for Grades K to 3 and that East Hartford has eight for Grades K to 3. Manchester has none.

"If there is a better place to find $18,000," she said, "Where is it?"

The board members went down the list of programs to be cut in order to find the $18,000. The list was prepared by Wilson Deakin Jr., assistant superintendent.

Deakin admitted he could not consult with the teachers and other staff in preparing the list due to summer vacations. He added that he has "serious misgivings" about cutting the account any further.

Paul Greenberg, board member, said he did not want to "tear down existing programs to start new ones."

Eleanor Colman, another board member, said the programs cut cannot be replaced.

Albert Harris, board member, said, "We can't cut away any more."

Alfred Tycheson, assistant superintendent, said the best alternative to carving out $18,000 from somewhere is to have in-service training of the teachers of the lower grades by phys ed teachers.

Tycheson admitted this is highly inadequate. But it will help solve the problem in the lower grades, he said.

Mrs. Becker urged that the matter at least not be dropped. The board tabled the motion.

The meeting was chaired by John Yavis, board secretary who acted in the absence of Chairman Allan Thomas.

Chattanooga Explosion Causes $10 Million Loss

By CARL A. VINES

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—A thunderous explosion ripped through a strip of black nightspots, businesses and apartments today, hurling debris more than a block away and causing an estimated $10 million in damages. Police said at least 12 persons were injured. There were no reports of fatalities.

Fire and Police Commissioner Gene Roberts declined to speculate on whether the blast was caused by natural gas.

"Preliminary indications are that it was something other than a bomb," Roberts said.

Chief Deputy Gene Glaze estimated damage at $10 million and said the entire 300 block of Ninth St. would have to be razed because buildings that escaped the fire resulting from the blast received extensive structural damage.

The explosion left a smoldering six-foot crater at Ninth and Marble, where a one-story building had housed the Stardust Lounge and the Cactus Club. A two-story building extending the remainder of the block and housing a barbershop, another lounge and upstairs apartments was badly damaged.

Flames from the explosion soared 200 feet into the air and destroyed the St. James Baptist Church and two frame houses behind the club.

Sgt. Don Weller and officer Rick Wynn of the Police Department were three blocks away when the blast occurred and said they found a bullet when they arrived.

"We saw people lying on the sidewalk and running from the buildings screaming their heads off," said Weller. "We went to what was left of the barbershop and palled about five people from under the bricks. We stayed inside as long as we could trying to search for others but the walls started caving in on top of us."

"You've never seen anything like this in your life," said Wynn. "I thought all of the Big Nine (nightclub strip) was gone."

—Hinted that U.S. policy of sanctions against Cuba could change "if Cuba changes its policy toward us and its Latin neighbors." But he said the United States "would certainly act in concert with other members of the Organization of American States." Several Latin American countries have broken the economic embargo on Cuba and resumed diplomatic relations with the Castro government.

Rockville Business Flooded

Tire Town Inc., 189 Union St., Rockville, was balling out again Wednesday night after torrential rains hit the Rockville area. Tire Town takes the brunt of the water that floods down to the intersection of Union St., West St., and Windsor Ave. Members of the Rockville Fire Department worked several hours to pump out the water that had risen more than six feet in the basement of the garage which housed, besides tires, several pieces of equipment. Owner of Tire Town, Maurice Thompson, has for more than 10 years, been making a plea to have the state correct the situation. (Herald photo by Richmond.)

Light Agenda Facing Board of Directors

In contrast to its agenda this month, when it needed about 10 hours split between two meetings to complete its business, the Manchester Board of Directors will face a comparatively easy agenda at its meeting next Tuesday.

It will meet at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room and will return to its regular rules of procedure — public hearings at its meeting on the first Tuesday of the month, and actions on the second Tuesday.

Scheduled for public hearings are three proposed appropriations to education projects for disadvantaged children — all without accounts, to be funded by equal state and federal grants.

Also to be aired are two proposed allocations from revenue-sharing funds — $50,000 for a fence and access road on the town-owned portion of Case Mt., and $10,000 for completing the arts and crafts building at the Nike Site recreation area. Under unfinished and tabled business, the board will consider a request for sidewalks on the south side of E. Center from Plymouth Lane to Pitkin St.; a decision on where to place a new entry into Charter Oak Field; and the appointment of seven members (for three-year terms) to the Citizens Advisory Committee.

Under new business, the board will consider appointing a committee to study requests for considering and approving requests for sanitary sewer installations; approving requests for early retirement from two town employees; appointing a member to the Town Building Committee to fill the unexpired term of John Fitzpatrick, who resigned; and approving a labor contract with the Municipal Employees Group (MEG). The board, on Aug. 29, approved a contract with Local 991, of the town's largest union.

Many Teachers Find Little Hope of Jobs

By SOL R. COHEN

Lois Ryan is 22, a 1973 Connecticut college graduate, certified to teach English at the junior high and high school level, a substitute teacher in about 10 area towns for a year, and not working in her chosen field.

Stephen Dunn is 22, a 1973 Connecticut college graduate, certified to teach English at the junior high and high school level, a substitute teacher in about 10 area towns for a year, and not working in his chosen field.

Unusual? Not at all. There are scores and scores of recent graduates of Connecticut colleges and universities, certified to be teachers but unable to find teaching jobs. In fact, Steve's wife of a couple of months, Virginia, graduated in June from Eastern Connecticut State College (this school also) and is working as a waitress. She's certified to teach nursing through third grade.

What's unusual about Lois and Steve is that they're both working at The Manchester Herald — Lois is an advertising dispatcher, Steve as a photographer.

They have teacher friends who are working as cashiers, waitresses, bank tellers, house painters, carpenters, hospital orderlies and... the list goes on and on.

Lois said all her friends are resigned to the shortage of teaching jobs in the immediate future, "but, still with hope."

"I'm a good teacher and I want to teach," she says. "The feedback I've received from my students and fellow teachers (at her substitute teaching job) prove to me I didn't make a mistake."

Before coming to The Herald, she was a telephone operator. She likes people and likes meeting and talking to people. Lois has application in 30 towns. She had only one job interview for a full-time teaching job, and it was a near-miss. The principal of the high school in an area town accepted her to teach English. The job fell through.

Steve, too, had a near-miss recently, although he had several more interviews than did Lois.

"Someone or something got in the way," he says. "His near-miss also came in an area town. He was the top candidate to teach high school English. The school authorities wanted a teacher who could coach baseball as well. Steve struck out."

Steve has applications in 30 towns and in 10 states — 65 in Connecticut. He was reported on the elementary school level and 126 on the secondary school level. Most of the vacancies reported, he explained, were for special education jobs, where requirements included a master's degree.

He attributed the plight of teachers to two reasons — "the 'Zero Population Growth' and 'I love photography and I love meeting people," he says. "I find all the working on a newspaper. However, teaching is still my vocation."

Lois attended Wallingford, Benet Junior High, East Catholic and the University of Connecticut. Steve attended grammar school and high school in West Hartford. He then attended Chamberlayne Junior College in Boston, transferring to Eastern Connecticut upon graduation.

A spokesman for the State Board of Education said there's no way to know how many certified teachers are not working as teachers in Connecticut. He guessed "It could be anywhere between 1,000 and 5,000," pointing out that many of them are working as teachers' aides, at that salary level.

Wilson Deakin, Manchester assistant superintendent of schools, disclosed there were about 1,000 applications for only 50 teaching vacancies in Manchester. He said 43 of the vacancies were to existing jobs and seven to newly created jobs in specialized fields.

The spokesman for the state board said, in the entire state as of July 15, only two vacancies were reported on the elementary school level and 126 on the secondary school level. Most of the vacancies reported, he explained, were for special education jobs, where requirements included a master's degree.

He attributed the plight of teachers to two reasons — "the 'Zero Population Growth' and 'I love photography and I

PBS' Jim Lehrer Looks at Washington

FRANK N. SWERTLOW
NEW YORK (UPI) — The American press, which has been riding high since

Watergate, may soon be faced with a severe backlash in the wake of President Nixon's resignation, according to Jim Lehrer, one of the anchor-men of Washington Week in Review. "We really don't know how deep the antipress feeling is," said Lehrer. "But President Ford's attitude toward the press could make the backlash."

Lehrer, who is joined by Paul Duke on the Public Broadcasting Service's weekly look at Washington, said Ford and the news media are enjoying a well-deserved honeymoon after the years of the Nixon administration. However, he believed the President's marriage with the press may soon undergo its first test. "Right now it's a honeymoon," said the Texas-born newsman. "Ford seems open and he really is a nice guy. But the first test will come when he is criticized. And he might say, 'Hey wait a minute, you guys can't criticize me — I'm working in the national interest. I know more than you guys.'"

"This happened to JFK and LBJ. And you know about Nixon. But I think Ford stands a better chance of avoiding it," Lehrer said. He has watched Ford very closely during his years in Washington and believes the President has grown with the office of president.

"That press conference was probably the first time he was really questioned about his health. He's a very arrogant man and it's going to be fun watching him when Congress starts asking about how much money he has."

TV Notebook:
CBS and Universal-MCA announced a multimillion dollar deal that will bring the "NBC Mystery Movie" and a number of motion pictures to CBS during the late evening hours.

"NBC Mystery Movie" includes "Columbo," starring Peter Falk; "McMillan and Wife," starring Susan Saint James and Rock Hudson; "McCloud," starring Dennis Weaver. It will also include "Banacek" and "The Snoop Sisters," which were canceled by NBC.

A spokesman for NBC said the reruns of those shows no longer aired by NBC can be aired after January, 1975. Those shows that will continue on NBC cannot be aired until the fall of 1976.

"It's a great two-hour advertisement for us," said the NBC spokesman. "It is very flattering to us."

A usually well-informed source in the industry said CBS paid Universal-MCA $12 million for the film package. NBC only purchased the first run and a rerun of the mystery movies.

OPINION

Seeking A Political Base

We do not profess to be an economist and in view of the conflicting advice coming from economists concerning courses of action to combat inflation and other ills now plaguing us, we are happy we are not. This disclaimer is a prelude to what we fear is now happening in this country.

We fear that the various self-interests are attempting to over-complicate the issue before us. For it seems whenever any proposal concerning economic action is presented, there is almost an immediate counter proposal based upon some other learned economist's theory.

Now we aren't saying that all economists are 100 per cent wrong, but on the other hand, our experience has been that none have been 100 per cent right either.

The problem is that before any economic theory can be made fully workable, certain political decisions must precede it.

There is a whole spectrum of economic theories which can be adapted to a political decision once it is made. But until that decision is made, the economic debate continues unabated.

We do not know for sure, but we strongly suspect the real goal of President Ford's economic summit and the 10 regional mini-summits which will precede it, is an attempt to arrive at a broad political consensus upon which economic action can be based.

With a congressional election near, a political veteran like President Ford isn't going to push for a 10 cent a gallon gasoline tax; recommend cuts in the more sensitive portions of the federal budget; or anything else unless he can assure himself that he has and will be given broad political support for such actions.

No doubt his economic advisors will be deluged with suggestions on how to best combat inflation. And we are sure many of the suggestions will include many of the traditional, time-worn, and generally ineffective techniques used in the past.

But faint heart never won a fair lady. President Ford may be gambling that interspersed with the traditional and stereotyped economic panaceas, there may be some original thinking and practical proposals which will transcend myopic partisan and self-interest suggestions. Given only a few of these, the President may just be able to form the catalyst needed to advance the political decision needed to implement basic economic theories in a workable form.

It is a high risk game but by throwing the door open to all ideas, maybe there will be a common sense of participation emergency which will give the President the political base upon which his economic policy will be judged as the best for the country in the long run.

For the real question in this issue is not what labor will accept, what business will accept or what conservatives or liberals will accept, but what will the people support?

We have read in several places that President Ford is a pragmatic politician. This means he believes in the art of the possible and knows that with popular support everything is possible and without it nothing is possible. In effect the economic ball has been passed to each of us.

Mrs. Grasso Irresponsible

U.S. Rep. Ella T. Grasso, the Democratic Party's gubernatorial candidate, has demonstrated a total lack of responsibility concerning the energy needs of the people of Connecticut by calling for a rollback of the fuel adjustment charge on utility bills.

Mrs. Grasso wants a special session of the General Assembly to roll back the prices and pass a law which would require the Public Utilities Commission to act on any increases which would be justified because of higher fuel costs.

Such a system would be ludicrous. Utility companies are already faced with a delay of from 60 to 90 days between the time they must pay the higher costs and the time when extra revenues from the fuel adjustment charge are realized. If they were forced to go to the PUC every time they had to increase the adjustment charge, this lag would be extended.

In 1973, Northeast Utilities paid an average of about $5.25 per barrel for fuel. This figure was increased by the fact that at the end of the year the price had risen to $8 per barrel. By the first of this year, the price had increased to $12 per barrel, and by the spring had peaked to around $14 per barrel.

If Northeast Utilities had to go before the Public Utilities Commission every time their fuel cost went up, they would continually be knocking at the commission's door for new rates, the commission would be forever tied up on fuel adjustment hearings, and the companies would not be able to recoup their revenues for weeks, if not months.

Mrs. Grasso's statement sounds nice to the uninformed, and no doubt is a calculated campaign maneuver. But coming from a candidate for the state's highest elective office, it is disturbing. If the General Assembly were to follow her recommendations and roll back the fuel adjustment charge, the result would be bankruptcy for the state's utilities. If that is a plank of the Democratic Party platform, they should say so. — Waterbury Republican

Gratitude

To the editor:

May we once again express our sincere gratitude to all those who made the Interfaith Day Camp such a success. A special thank you:

To the Christian community of Concordia Lutheran, who provided space, material, money, concern; to Elsie Werner, church secretary, for her unfatigable and good-humored production of numerous notices; to Lena Schubert for help with everything from tags to bee sting remedies; to Barbara Baker for all kinds of errands, including an emergency trip to Rocky Neck State Beach after we left all the perishable food in the refrigerator on the day she was leaving for New Jersey.

Also to Irene Goss, who every year gets this whole camp together, and to her children, who every year serve as counselors and bring all their friends with them;

To the Ted Polotcki's, big and small, and Mrs. Lois Beckwith, our nursing staff;

To our good doctor, who gives a morning each year to examine all of our campers so we can pass state health requirements;

To Vicki Jennings, Helen Ashbar and Linda Paananen for running a successful arts and crafts program with more children than supplies;

And particularly to that group of zany and remarkable kids, our counselors, who truly know how to give the gift of love; to Jim Robbins, Tom Harley, Barbara Glass, Karen Means, Denise Meyer, Joe and Michael Downs, Lori Moffat, Linda Daigle, John Christensen, whose names were left off the counselor list;

To all our groupwups who sometimes felt a little zany too but managed to multiply the leaves and the fishes;

To the wonderful women of Manchester who still baked for the children with sugar sky high;

To Bob Borello and the life guards at Globe;

To the Maureen Hampton family, who not only came to see and stayed to help, but spent the weekend in between baking 100 cupcakes for the children;

To my own family, who are pretty great too, and on top of everything else ate all the leftover peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

Thank you from all of us and from all of the children who, because of you, had two weeks of laughter and love and sunshine.

Praise FDR

To the editor:

This is my first letter to your Open Forum column, and I do not expect to see it in print, as Richard E. Jackman seems to dominate this space in your paper.

Mr. Jackman's hobby seems to be writing hate letters. His latest attack is against Franklin D. Roosevelt, one of the best presidents we ever had in our time. He gives F.D.R. a left-handed compliment for starting WPA and admits that he worked on this plan for $30 a month.

What was Mr. Jackman doing before that when Herbert Hoover was president? Does he not mention this era, when a lot of people were starving, and soup lines were blocks long. He does not mention WPA or NRA, established by F.D.R.

He blames F.D.R. for World War II, saying he dragged us into it. Drugged? Does he suggest that when Pearl Harbor was bombed that F.D.R. should have surrendered our country to Japan? He closes saying he hopes there is never another F.D.R. Same to R.E.J.

Inflation Is Us

NEW YORK CITY — Horrendous word, this "inflation." The image it evokes is of some monstrous creature, indefinitely distended, some Ionesco rhinoceros growing implacably in size until it breaks through the walls and tears the house down. It is the now and future enemy. We all berate it. Every expert prescribes a different nostrum for it. Around the nation it is the enduring cause celebre, surviving Watergate and Nixon.

Curiously we speak of it as a thing outside ourselves, like some intricate contraption which is produced mechanically and can be fixed mechanically. But it isn't. It's part of ourselves. Was it Walt Kelly or some other sage, back in 1968, who came up with "We have met the enemy—and he is us"? Inflation is us. Man is not a piece of machinery but an organism. So is the economy. It is one aspect of the total society as an organism.

Three-fourths of inflation is psychology and politics, and much of the other fourth might as well be. Inflation is an illness of the organism, and like most illness it is in large part psychosomatic. We need biofeedback controls over this too-rapid heartbeat, this alpha-wave fever of the brain.

The economist fellows, with a knack for minting barbarous terms, speak of "demand-pull" and "cost-push" inflation. There is some truth in the current wave of madmen being Vietnam-pull stuff. We have for years been living beyond our means. We are a high-consumption pleasure society gone commodity mad—one huge mass of unsatisfied and unsatisfiable appetites. The result is nonstop inflation—unless we stop it.

The answer lies not in the economists but in Thoreau's "simplicity, simplicity." If we treated the nuclear-armis spiral as we treat the inflation spiral, we would long since have bombed ourselves into kingdom come. We need a SALT pact with ourselves, a social contract to restrain our skyrocketing wants.

There are two unpoplar features of such a social contract. One is to cut down further on government spending and also to raise taxes—a program we accept until it hurts us personally. The other is to restrain both the price rises that lead to swollen profits and the big pay-and-benefits increases which spiral further price increases. President Ford is fearful about using controls. Doubtless a contract law won't solve anything by itself, but nothing will get solved without controls or tax changes or both.

Beyond the issue of controls and taxes there is a deeper fact: Prices will go up so long as we are fools enough to want things so hard that we don't gag at the price tags.

If we wear simpler clothes, drive smaller cars, eat simpler foods, stop our buying to the seasons, shift from costly stuff to equivalents, simplify our lives, the prices will act surprised, blush, back off, hesitate, quaver—and retreat.

Am I advocating a buyer's strike? No.

The Ford Style

WASHINGTON — It is becoming increasingly clear that Gerald Ford is a different kind of President. Indeed, he shows signs of playing a Presidential role in the 20th century in a different way.

The Ford style was never more evident than in the manner he employed to announce that he favors leniency for the nation's 50,000 Vietnam war era deserters and draft dodgers. And it is a style in the finest sense defined by Webster: "Distinctive or characteristic mode of presentation, conduct or execution in any art, employment, or product."

Much has been made of the fact that Ford has reversed the policy of President Nixon. That is merely significant. More important is the relationship between Gerald Ford and the people he serves is that his style gave the impression of a man discussing a serious problem with some neighbors. It was not a chatty speech he made to the Veterans of Foreign Wars out in Chicago because the subject was too grave, but it was a homely one, the kind a man might make after first taking off his shoes in a friend's kitchen.

Nothing had been done about amnesty. In the last year or two, little had been said about it. But Ford knew the question was a irritant. He knew it had divided and confused Americans and would continue to do so until a national policy was devised to settle it. And, so, after only 10 days in the Presidency, he made it priority. He directed Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger to propose recommendations for a policy before Sept. 1.

That's what the office of Presidency is all about, or should be all about. A President is supposed to lead, not grumble about how tough his job is. On amnesty, Ford is a leader. He refused to go beyond his statement that deserters and draft dodgers "work their way back" from exile, but one of a leader's obligations is to put good men to work on solving a problem and then make a decision based on their recommendations.

Whatever the solution, I think Ford's words on the subject of amnesty will live. He called those who shirked their duty "casualties" of the war, and reminded us all that they suffered from the inexperience of youth. He told of studying the records of men who had died in the Vietnam War and said, "I kept thinking how young they were." But, he added, "I told the three of our children last night that I was thinking of it," he informed reporters on the flight back to Washington, "and their reaction was favorable. I didn't tell them I was going to do it."

Clearly, this is a President who is keenly aware that the American people do considerable thinking about the Republic's business. He has discussed the question of limited amnesty with various big shots in his administration, but then he dropped down to earth and talked about it with his family. More so than any recent President, Ford by his style seems to be trying to break out of the isolation that too often trapped the occupant of the White House.

It seems to me that above all Ford is a President striving constantly to communicate with people everywhere, and one who wants the people to communicate back.

Executive Offers Cure for Inflation

By LEROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — Inflation is a social and political problem, more than an economic matter, and the best cure for it is to reduce the number of non-producers in society, according to Milton Mound, a mutual fund executive.

Mound, president of First Mutualfund of America, Inc., presented this viewpoint in a letter to a dozen of the nation's leading economists and management consultants, including some presidential advisers. The group participated recently in a forum on inflation sponsored by The Conference Board, an independent business research organization.

Mound told UPI inflation can be controlled without the trauma of a depression. He said the best way to do it is to reduce the number of drones in society. "If money was paid only to producers for creating supplies of goods and services, demand would never exceed supply and we would never have real inflation," Mound commented.

"The real cause of our serious inflation is that too many Americans who are paid well and live well are either non-producers or lead unproductive lives," he added. "In the society of the beehive, the workers eventually kill off the drone bees so the honey supply will be sufficient to last the hive through the winter. Figuratively speaking, human society must put its drones to work or get rid of them."

By definition, a human drone is a lazy person who won't work, not one who wants work but can't find it. But people who are willing and able to work but remain unemployed are non-producers and the cost of supporting them is a big factor in inflation, Mound said.

Next to the unemployed and the disabled, Mound said, the biggest group of non-producers are retired persons, while sub-producers include many millions who have jobs but do little or nothing that increases the supply of useful goods and services. Among these are lackadaisical workers, many government bureaucrats of all ranks, non-productive business executives and other people who simply are not sufficiently motivated either by incentives or th. threat of want to contribute their share to society's ever-growing need for more goods and services. The military and naval establishments also have their share of drones, he said.

Mound said the Social Security Law provision that won't allow persons between 65 and 72 to earn as much money as they can while still drawing benefits is one of the more striking causes of inflation. "Many of these people would continue to be useful producers if they were allowed to draw their Social Security benefits with no restriction on their earnings," he said.

Three Subdivisions Approved

ANDOVER

Donna Holland
The Planning and Zoning Commission approved three subdivisions at meeting recently.

An application for a four-lot subdivision at the corner of Boston Hill Rd. and East St. by Warren Howland, Robert Brook and Wade Fuller was unanimously approved.

An application for a two-lot subdivision on the corner of Wales Rd. and Shady Mill Rd. for Ronald and Daisy Brindamour was also approved. It was presented by Paul Plano

and Robert Phillips

A request for a minor subdivision by Mary Bisharat on Wales Rd. was approved.

The PZC was advised by Atty. David Keith representing Mr. Poffle and other residents of Parker Bridge Rd. that they would be petitioning to rezone a section bordering Parker and Wade Fuller was unanimously approved.

An application for a two-lot subdivision on the corner of Wales Rd. and Shady Mill Rd. for Ronald and Daisy Brindamour was also approved. It was presented by Paul Plano who was requesting a variance in zoning regulations deying within 500 feet of another outlet selling alcoholic beverages, at the new shopping center on Rt. 6.

After discussing the request and consulting with the town attorney, the board decided the plans were too vague. A similar appeal in February was also denied.

Samarino explained in great detail proposals for additional stores at the shopping center. He said that a definite spot had not been chosen for a restaurant but it would probably be about 40 feet from an existing package store.

He said he would probably be in charge of the restaurant but wasn't positive that would be the case.

A variance by Edgar Clarke, Hebron Rd. in set back requirements was unanimously granted by ZBA. He was requesting the variance in order to build an addition to an existing barn.

A variance by Evelyn Cady, Hickory Hill Rd., in set back and frontage requirements was unanimously approved by the ZBA. She was requesting the variance in order to build an addition to the existing house there.

School Board Meets Tonight

The Board of Education will meet tonight at 7:30 in the teachers room of the high school.

The board will elect a new chairman to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Robert Walsh.

Walsh will remain on the board as a regular member.

The board will appoint department chairmen for the coming year as well as setting the cost of the school lunches for the coming year.

There will also be a report by the superintendent search committee.

Charter Night
The Jaycees will have their Charter Night banquet on Friday, Sept. 13 from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Fiano's Restaurant in Bolton.

Invitations must be returned with payment by Aug. 31. This is the first major social event of the newly formed Coventry Jaycees.

Annual Meeting
The annual meeting of the Coventry Public Health Nursing Association will be held Wednesday, Sept. 11 at the Faculty Alumni Center at Storrs and is open to the public.

An Italian Night dinner will be served at 7 sharp and donation is $4.50 plus six per cent tax per person.

Reservation for the meal must be made by Sept. 5 by calling the Public Health office at 742-7312.

The dinner menu will include a buffet of appetizers, spaghetti and meatballs, veal parmesan.

Aid For Saving Species
Washington—Under a law that became effective at the close of 1973, federal aid is now available to state governments in amounts up to two-thirds of the cost of their endangered-species programs. A total of $10 million has been provided for a three-year period for the conservation of endangered fish and wildlife species.

Giglio-Violette

The United Methodist Church in Bolton was the scene Aug. 10 of the marriage of Kim Marie Violette, of Manchester and Thomas Anthony Giglio, of Bolton.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Carol Sullivan of 204 Oak Grove St. and Robert Violette of Lake St., Bolton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Giglio of 117 Boston Pkwy., Bolton.

The Rev. David Campbell performed the double-ring ceremony. Kenneth Woods was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a silk organza gown designed with high round neckline, short sleeves, fitted waist, sleeves and front of A-line skirt trimmed with lace, and a court train. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a matching Camelot cap. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Miss Tony L. Violette of Manchester was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a pink silk organza gown and a pink picture hat. She carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations with baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lorrie Harris of Springfield, Mass., the bride's cousin; and Miss Audrey Laws of East Hartford. They wore gowns similar to that worn by the honor attendant except in blue silk organza. They wore white picture hats and carried blue and white carnations with baby's breath.

Robert C. Giglio of Bolton, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Ushers were Marc K. Violette of Manchester, the bride's brother, and Wallace Laws of East Hartford.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Manchester, after which the couple left on a trip to Pennsylvania. For traveling, Mrs. Giglio wore a floral dress with white accessories and a corsage of red and pink carnations. The couple will reside in Manchester.

Mrs. Giglio will graduate from Manchester High School in January. She is employed at Caldor's in Manchester. Mr. Giglio is employed by Stanek Electronic Labs of Manchester and by Pratt & Whitney Div. of United Aircraft Corp.

FBI Joins Newton Search

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The FBI Wednesday joined the search for fugitive Black Panther party cofounder Huey Newton.

Newton, who jumped $42,000 bail last Friday, was charged in a federal warrant Tuesday with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for a felony.

The warrant, issued by the U.S. attorney's office in San Francisco, means Newton, 36, was now subject to arrest in any state.

Newton, who had been living in a $60-a-month penthouse overlooking Oakland's Lake Merritt, had pending charges of three assaults to commit murder, one involving a policeman.

Another party leader, Bobby Seale, had reportedly resigned from the Panthers, but late Tuesday the party's headquarters called this "absurd."

Edible Licenses
Auto license plates in the United States have been made of metal, wood, leather and ceramics. Tags made of a soybean compound were tried during World War II but abandoned because cows ate them.

Speedy Snails
Curious biologists have sought to determine the speed of snails. Experiments with garden snails have measured slug-gardens crawling along at 0.036 miles per hour and speedsters racing at 0.313 miles an hour.

Officer Elaine Brown said Seale was on vacation "resting because he was not feeling well."

Last year, Seale, 38, ran second in the mayoral race in Oakland and has devoted most of his time lately attempting to elect party members to city government posts.

Woman Will Assist Canine Control Officer

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnel
 Correspondent
 644-1364

Beginning Tuesday, South Windsor will have a female deputy canine control officer. Mrs. Janice M. Blowers, 50 Edgewood Dr., was chosen from five applicants and will work 20 hours per week. She will assist Canine Control Officer Edward Deskus who is available only evenings.

Mrs. Blowers is employed by the Charles Kamin firm which places German Shepherds with the Seeing Eye Association. She is the mother of two children and has a great deal of experience with dogs. Two German Shepherds are pets in the Blowers household.

Part of Mrs. Blowers' responsibility will include making sure all dogs are licensed. She also hopes to "assist in the placement of some of the stray dogs at the pound."

"There are about 14 dogs at the pound now," said Mrs. Blowers. "People don't seem to be aware they're available. They're just kept so long and then disposed of. Some of them are quite nice."

The job pays $2.50 per hour and, at with Mr. Deskus, the new canine officer must provide her own car for which she will be reimbursed for mileage.

Library to Close
 Wood Memorial Library on the St. will be closed Sept. 2 in observance of the Labor Day Holiday.

The September meeting of the trustees of "The Friends of Wood Memorial Library" will be held at the library Thursday, Sept. 26, at 10:15 a.m.

The "Friends" will again sponsor a float in the Wapping Fair parade, and will have a booth where books and miscellaneous items will be on sale, along with raffie tickets from their famous "Dresden Plate" quilt.

The drawing on the quilt will be held Sunday, Sept. 8, the final day of the fair.

Volunteers Sought By State Police

Troop K, Colchester, under the direction of Lt. John M. Watson, commanding officer, is conducting a recruiting program for State Police auxiliary troopers and applications will be accepted until Sept. 30.

The program is open to males and females. Applicants must be at least 18 years of age, American citizen, physically and mentally fit, of good character and habits and free of any serious criminal motor vehicle record.

Auxiliary troopers are volunteers who serve without any compensation and their duties supplement those of the regular troopers providing a valuable service to the state and their town, Lt. Watson said.

The classes will start the first part of November and continue for 26 weeks. Applications may be picked up at the main desk at the Colchester Barracks or by calling the barracks (preferably in the evening hours). Frank Avery, auxiliary leader, may also be reached at 423-3835.

All summer activities at the Veteran's Memorial Park will be concluded Monday, according to the South Windsor Recreation Department.

Until then the park is open for weekly swimming from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on the weekends from noon to 6 p.m.

Contrary to years past, residents are able to enjoy clear algae free water late in the season.

Earlier this year the Town Council approved a filtration and chlorination system for the pond, following a recommendation by the Public Health and Safety Committee.

In other seasons, the swimming was cut short due to water stagnation. To celebrate the late-season activities, the town held a water carnival last week.

Recreation officials said the success of this year's festival may set precedent for future activities in upcoming years. The council authorized the

Rush Hour Traffic Doesn't Bother Callahan

By GARY L. TAYLOR
HOUSTON (UPI) — Peace-loving Norm Callahan, standing fat-like high above the crunch and confusion of rush hour traffic, soaked up the respect given his restored World War II M4 armored car.

"It's just an expression of the individual," he said, cruising along Interstate 610, feeling the warm, moist breeze in his face.

Mrs. Paul Alexander of Waterbury, as matron of honor. She wore a halter gown in a blue/green Indian print and a headpiece of yellow and white daisies. She carried a basket of yellow and white daisies and blue statice.

Douglas Miller of Storrs was best man. The usher was Hap Hinman of Collinsville, the bridegroom's brother.

For a wedding trip to Nova Scotia, Mrs. Hinman wore a multi-colored catan designed with kimono sleeves. The couple will reside in Windsor.

Mrs. Hinman is a home economics teacher. Mr. Hinman is manager of Hinman's Flower Shop and Greenhouses in Dayville.

decorated with daisies. William Simons of Canton was guitarist and soloist.

The bride wore a sleeveless V-necked halter gown of white embossed cotton printed with flowers of red, rose, yellow and orange. Her headpiece was red roses and yellow and white daisies. She carried a bouquet of red roses and yellow and orange statice.

"Just another way of expressing individuality; another way to get away from the crowd, as the cigarette ads go."

Looking much like an armored, olive-drab turtle, with a humpback gun turret aimed harmlessly at a tiny yellow car in front, Callahan's "tank" accelerated smoothly and quickly.

"Patton used it as his point for recon platoons," Callahan said.

Nixon's favorite spots when he wanted to briefly get away from the White House.

The retreat was first named "Shangri-La" by former President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Just for fun, Callahan, Stefani and Callahan's son, Stephen, drove the tank into a drive-through hamburger stand.

"The kid at the pay window did a double take," Callahan

President Planning Camp David Weekend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and his family are planning to spend the Labor Day weekend at Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

It would be the first time that Ford has taken advantage of the hideaway which was one of former President Richard and hand cranked the turret and its motion around to the rear for protection against the driving rain.

Other drivers, meanwhile, seeing the cannon barrel swing up, looking at our "tank" and asking about it. It's like that everywhere we go.

"It's covered just as an ordinary passenger automobile," he said. "It is a lot safer from the standpoint of other motorists because they can't see me."

Callahan and his son drive the M4 to the store and back, to children's birthday parties and, of course, in military parades.

The tank, which uses non-leaded regular gas, is more economical to drive, Callahan said, "than that Thunderbird there in front of us."

Study To Be Made Of School's Goals

The South Windsor Board of Education will develop "systemwide goals" for the education of the town's children during the early part of the coming school year, according to Supt. Robert Goldman.

The goals will be developed "with the participation and cooperation of various representatives of the entire community," Goldman said.

He said the goals committee will include students, parents, teachers, administrators and board members of the community-at-large.

The board is now seeking volunteers from the community who do not have children in school or whose children have already completed schooling to

Starting Hours Listed at Schools

FROM YOUR NEIGHBOR'S KITCHEN
By VIVIAN FERGUSON

Many years ago Helen Gorman (Mrs. James) served moussaka to Mary Botticello. Mary liked it so well she has served it often since then. Moussaka is a Middle Eastern dish made primarily of lamb and eggplant. Lean lamb is ground, mixed with minced onion and garlic, tomato sauce, herbs, wine, etc. It is layered with the eggplant and topped with a bachelard sauce and grated Parmesan cheese.

Traditionally, moussaka (pronounced "moo-sa-kuh" with the accent on the first syllable), is made in a buttered charlotte-type mold or a deep earthenware dish. The skin of the eggplant is used to line the dish. The moussaka is baked in another pan of water, then unrolled for serving. With Mary's version, you can prepare the moussaka in advance simply reheating it for serving. The flavors will have blended well and you will have an easy day preparing the house for your guests.

Greek Moussaka
Slice unpeeled eggplant in 1/2" thick rounds, or lengthwise. Dip in flour. Heat one cup vegetable oil in pan and saute eggplant until golden on both sides. Drain on paper, sprinkle lightly with salt.

Saute one large minced onion and a clove of minced garlic in the same oil until soft, not brown. Add one pound ground lean lamb (or beef), breaking up with fork. Add 1/2 cup tomato sauce, a teaspoon of dried sweet basil, one tablespoon vinegar, 3 tablespoons red wine, one tablespoon chopped parsley, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Simmer 10 minutes uncovered.

Having cooked the eggplant and meat mixture, place a layer of eggplant on bottom of 8x8x2 baking pan. Cover with hot filling, repeat until last layer is eggplant. Or, have eggplant on bottom and top only.

Cover with sauce.
Sauce for Moussaka.
Melt 1/2 cup butter, stir in 2 cups milk and 1/2 cup heavy cream a little at a time, stirring constantly, cook over medium heat until thick. Stir in 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon white pepper and two well-beaten eggs. Return to saucepan, cook stirring a few more seconds.

Sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese over sauce and bake at 325 for 40 minutes or until top is faintly golden and puffed. Cool and refrigerate overnight.

Spinach Ball or Patties
1 lb. spinach or 1 package frozen, cooked and all liquid squeezed out.
Melt 1/2 cup butter, stir in 2 cups milk and 1/2 cup heavy cream a little at a time, stirring constantly, cook over medium heat until thick. Stir in 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon white pepper and two well-beaten eggs. Return to saucepan, cook stirring a few more seconds.

Cherry Dream Pie
Prepare Dream Whip as directed on package. Fold in one jar of cherry pie filling. Pour into following baked pie crust:

There is no place like the Sweater Place

Every year, our mill in Rockville, Connecticut, manufactures more than a million sweaters. Some are sold in leading stores across the country with our own Sturbridge label... many are "ghost knitted" for other nationally known brands... others are sold directly through our seven local mill outlet stores. Each of our stores always has a huge selection of fine quality sweaters in virtually every style — many with the famous labels still in them — at direct mill prices. Fine quality, low mill prices and a huge selection for the entire family... that's why there is no place like the sweater place — Roosevelt Mills, the true mill outlet stores.

This week's feature:
Cable Knit Sweaters
... ideal for school and campus wear
A large selection for men and women. Cardigan and pullover styles in the new fall colors.

Common Market To Cut Back Imports of U.S. Feed Grains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The European Common Market will cut its purchase of American livestock feed by about 10 percent in the next year in an effort to ease rising U.S. food prices, the market's agricultural commissioner said Wednesday.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz praised the cooperation between the two continents to meet one of the world's major problems and said the decision meant that despite a sharp drop in U.S. corn production, the government will not have to impose grain export controls to keep U.S. prices from skyrocketing.

The action followed similar word from Japanese leaders. "When you have to cut back your own consumption, it is normal that we try to do the same," Petrus Lardinois, the Common Market agriculture commissioner, said at a news conference held jointly with Butz.

The two officials and aides met Tuesday and Wednesday at Butz' invitation to review the grain and food price outlook.

But praised the European spokesman for agreeing to "share with us and the rest of the world" the impact of price increases and reductions in supplies of livestock foods, especially pork and poultry.

Lardinois, who earlier had expressed alarm the U.S. might adopt export controls, said he was now convinced that U.S. European cooperation can avoid such a step.

Small Foundries Becoming Rarer

By LEROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — If you want to cast a keel for a sailboat nowadays, chances are you will have to dig a hole in your backyard and do it yourself. You aren't likely to find a small foundry that will do the job.

But the amateur boat builder is one of the least among those hurt by the serious problems of the foundry industry, says Charles E. Fausel of Lester B. Knight Associates, Inc., who also is president of the American Foundrymen's Society.

"The Defense Department is very upset over the shrinkage in the number of foundries," Fausel said. "The Army has had a great deal of trouble buying small and medium sized quantities of castings to replace heavy equipment losses — tank and artillery castings, in particular." Many industries find it very difficult to ferret out a foundry that can take an order for a one-of-a-kind casting of a small quantity. This hampers design engineers and investors.

The foundry industry, dating back some 6,000 years, admittedly has been backward in some respects, Fausel said. It does many things exactly as they were done centuries ago and American foundrymen spend a piddling half a million dollars a year on research and development. "If we spent the same proportion of our sales on R&D as more progressive industries, we'd be paying out $240 million a year for it," Fausel said.

But this big basic industry that had a sales volume of $13 billion in the United States last year is undergoing an alarming shrinkage in number of units and a more alarming shrinkage in the numbers of workers and technicians who are real craftsmen, Fausel said.

Malaysian King Delays Wedding

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — Pressure by women's organizations has helped convince King Abdul Halim Shah of Malaysia not to take a teenage beauty queen as his second wife until his five-year term as monarch expires next year, government sources here said.

Malaysian kings are elected by their fellow sultans of the nine Malaysian states. Halim's reign ends a year from next month, when he will revert to being sultan of Kedah state.

Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak persuaded the handsome Halim, 46, during a round of golf to postpone the wedding, government sources said. They said his intended second wife is Zubaidah Buntamin, 19, a student who recently won a beauty contest sponsored by a shopping center. Her father is a mechanic.

The sources said the king had planned to marry Zubaidah next week. Razak gave news of the postponement to about 300 women's organization delegates who had gathered at his residence to protest.

Modern religious law permits a man to have up to four wives at a time provided he can support all of them.

Halim's wife is Tengku Bahiyah, 43, daughter of the first king of Malaysia, Tunku Abdul Rahman. They have a seven-year-old daughter.

Government sources said the main reason Halim wants to marry again is that Tengku Bahiyah cannot bear him any more children. He wants a male heir to his throne in Kedah.

Ford Depoliticizing White House

HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford lived up to his promise of candor and openness when he permitted his press secretary to casually drop the word that he will "probably" run for the presidency in 1976.

In making his announcement so early in the game, Ford cleared the decks and put any possible challenger on notice that the top spot on the ticket was already filled, since most party politicians agree that if Ford wants it, he has it.

Ford also undoubtedly was thinking of the Republican ticket in 1976 when he designated Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president. Aside from some Republican conservatives the nomination was widely hailed.

In terms of GOP image building, the party could only go so far in the shadow of Watergate.

Republican party leaders are saying it's a whole new ballgame and that some GOP candidates bailed out too soon in the shadow of Watergate.

To demonstrate the priority of pulling his party out of the hole, Ford — in office for less than two weeks — posed for pictures with each and every Republican congressman and Senator who is up for re-election in November.

As vice president, Ford had been on the campaign trail almost constantly for eight months beating the bushes and trying to buck up the party as Watergate continued to reverberate with one Watergate bombshell after another.

The National Parks and Conservation Association, one of the groups involved, said both states rejected the plea. It said it would probably petition the court if need be.

But Forest Service officials contended the matter is somewhat moot since Montana has already banned hunting on Forest Service lands that border on the park, Idaho allows no grizzly hunting at all.

Republicans are still recovering from Nixon's "American majority" campaign, run from the White House by a special re-election committee outside the party machinery whose only goal was to elect the President.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

A friend gave me this plaque which is propped on my desk. "Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves." After living with this for a year I've decided it should read, "Those who are filled with God's sunshine cannot keep from bringing it to the lives of others." The joy and wonder sort of spill over. Beside which our Lord left some pretty clear directives of what to do with the gifts He gave us. Nancy Carr, St. Bartholomew Church

Russian Assembly Line

Resembling some sort of new amusement ride, this auto assembly line in Togliatti, U.S.S.R., is described as Russia's biggest. It is the Volzhsky Motor Works plant which is reportedly capable of turning out 600,000 vehicles a year. (NEA photo)

THOUGHTS APLENTY

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was just another typical night on the pennant road for the Oakland A's. Steady Jim "Catfish" Hunter became a 20-game winner for the fourth straight year. Reggie Jackson won't for him with a pair of homers; Charlie Finley was on hand to share the spotlight.

Not Representative Study An unrepresentative survey of some other schools didn't prove anything substantial. Waterbury's Holy Cross High, with a boy enrollment of 713, had 65 varsity candidates and 32 freshmen at its opening session.

Cutting of Funds The Board of Education has a knotty problem of cutting $18,000 somewhere from the school budget. One avenue explored was the elimination of some extra-curricular activities—i.e.—sports.

Exchange Club Gives $100 To Transportation Fund

VERNON
The Rockville Exchange Club Wednesday presented a check for $100 to mark the start of the Senior Citizen's Transportation Fund.

The check was presented by Gardner Huggins, president of the Exchange Club, to John Chessari, chairman of the advisory board for retired persons. The retired persons committee comes under the jurisdiction of the Hockanum Valley Community Services Council.

Glen Roberts of the retired persons service division said the money will aid the council in purchasing a station wagon for senior citizen use.

School Hours Change

COVENTRY

Monica Shea
Students returning to school next Wednesday will be faced with all new opening and closing times and with an entirely new bus schedule.

Schools will open at the following order and at the stated times:
Coventry High School, open at 7:45 a.m. and close at 2 p.m.
Captain Nathan Hale, open at 8:05 a.m. and close at 2:30 p.m.
Robertson Grammar School, open at 8:30 a.m. and close at 3 p.m.
Coventry Grammar School, open at 9 a.m. and close at 3:20 p.m.

With the tight scheduling of bus routes, Lillian Robbins, bus manager, had said that the buses will not wait for students this year. Parents are advised to have their children at the bus stop five minutes before the scheduled time.

The buses and manager's office will be at a new address this year. The office and buses will be at Robin Mohlers on South St. and the office hours are 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Kindergarten students have all been mailed a color coded tag and their buses will be met by teachers with the same colored coded tags who will direct the students to their classrooms at each grammar school.

The other students at Coventry Grammar School will be met by staff members who will direct them to entrances for each grade level. Teachers will then direct students to individual classes, using a master list.

The third and fourth grades will have a list of pupils on each classroom door.
At Robertson School, all of the children were assigned classrooms and teachers at the end of the last school year. New students will be directed to their classes by staff members.

Both of the elementary schools will go into Phase II B of the Sequential Learning Program at the start of school. This phase will encompass all of the second graders.
All second grade teachers have just completed a six-day workshop in which the final planning for classroom instruction has been carried out.

There will be a parent orientation to be forthcoming. Parents are reminded that all kindergarten students must have had a recent physical and all routine immunizations before entering school.
All new students entering the two grammar schools were evaluated at the time of registration to determine the proper reading placement.

Teachers at Captain Nathan Hale will be meeting the buses and directing students to the proper rooms.
Fifth graders are to report to the cafeteria, sixth graders to Donald Savers classroom, seventh graders to the Large

ROCKVILLE HOSPITAL NOTES

Scientists Study Manatee As Potential River Cleaner

Mrs. Michael J. Piela

By ROBERT MUSEL, LONDON (UPI) — Cruising near Punta Roca of the coast of Hispaniola in 1492, Christopher Columbus saw what he thought were mermaids. What he actually saw were manatees and science is now as interested in these curious mammals as was the great explorer himself.

For the manatee is found for pond the reigning champion among the grazing animals, especially in its capacity to consume underwater weeds. An adult manatee, about 10 feet long and half a ton in weight, will chop through more than 200 pounds of wet vegetation a day. No wonder it is often called the sea cow.

What intrigues scientists about the manatee at the moment, according to articles in The New Scientist and Oryx, the organ of the Fauna Preservation Society, is its voracious appetite. What is worrying scientists at the same time is the voracious appetite native populations have for the delicious flesh (like veal and bacon) of this harmless beast.

There is, in fact, a sort of race going on between scientists seeking to save the manatee, and use it as one of the most efficient machines yet found for clearing rivers and lakes clogged with aquatic weeds, and the relentless hunting of the manatee for the dinner table in those areas where it still survives.

One of the handicaps to the plan to turn the manatee into a domestic animal — it poses no threat to humans, often nuzzles those divers who enter its habitat — is that so little is known of its reproductive cycles, its longevity, breeding habits or whether it is prolific enough to ensure a population of manatees of a practical size.

Library Impasse Discussed

BOLTON

Donna Holland
Correspondent
646-0375

At a meeting of the Public Building Commission Monday discussion ensued on the planned Bentley Memorial Library, particularly the fact that a requested $46,000 appropriation in order to completely construct the building was denied by a tie 3-3 vote by the Board of Finance recently.

The residents were approved and he determined that the original plans submitted by architect Alan Wiede were the ones approved and that another style building could not be designed without returning to the townspeople for approval.

Three interested residents attending the meeting did not feel the project should stop because of a finance board decision. They questioned if any effort could be made to extend the 30-day time limit on the bids which runs out Sept. 12.

The architect has quoted several different figures as to what his exact fee will be. Alan Wiede, architect, felt the low bidder for the project, DMC Construction in Glastonbury, would be willing to extend the 30-day contract time and would probably agree to negotiate in order to further reduce the price.

In the meantime the PBC is writing to town council for information on what direction it could pursue.

School Adopt Aid Policy

TOLLAND

Vivian Kenneson
Correspondent
646-0375

The Board of Education has announced its policy for free meals and/or milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast, and Special Milk Programs.

Under the provisions of the policy the school nurse will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to: Dr. Kenneth L. MacKenzie, Superintendent of Schools; Board of Education Office; Tolland, for a hearing.

Each school and the office of the superintendent has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by an interested party.

Hot lunch at middle is 50 cents and 35 cents at the high school. Other costs are the same as the elementary schools. An ala carte line is operated in both schools daily.

Wind Sliding

Sports enthusiasts dream up all sorts of weird activities in their pursuit of recreation. Among the more bizarre is a craze sweeping Hawaiian college students called wind sliding, demonstrated here by Steven Kam of Honolulu. Needed is a gusty breeze, a parachute, a section of sturdy cardboard and an even sturdier posterior.

U. S. Gold Hoard Audit Set

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Treasury Department is inviting Congressmen to come and see for themselves that 367,500 bars of gold billion are still in Ft. Knox.

"Never fear, the gold is there," Mary Brooks, director of the Mint, said.

"It's been 10 or 15 years since some of the vaults were opened, I think it's time we did an audit."

Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., in July asked Treasury Secretary William E. Simon about rumors that some of the 147 million ounces of gold at Ft. Knox had mysteriously disappeared.

Simon said nonsense and told Congressmen they could go look for themselves—and those who wish can on Sept. 23.

Ms. Brooks and officials of the General Accounting Office, the auditing agency of Congress, will conduct the count.

Actually, counting each of the 367,500 bars listed at Ft. Knox would be too tedious so the auditors will make random samples to insure that the gold is stacked where it is supposed to be.

Lithuanian Sailor Who Sought Freedom, Freed

LOCUST, N.J. (UPI)—A Lithuanian seaman who jumped aboard from a Communist bloc ship onto a Coast Guard cutter and was subsequently denied asylum has been released from prison by Soviet authorities, the Seaman's Education Federation reported Wednesday.

A spokeswoman for the Federation here said his organization has learned that the seaman, Simas Kudirka, 42, returned Monday to the Lithuanian home of his American-born mother, Mrs. Marija Salski.

In Washington, a State Department spokeswoman said the department was attempting to confirm whether Kudirka had been freed after being imprisoned on treason charges stemming from his abortive attempt Nov. 23, 1970, to receive asylum.

Gracina Taegle, a vice president of the federation, said an unidentified contact in the group had called Mrs. Salski weekly "to make sure she was left alone" by Soviet officials following her son's imprisonment.

When the contact called Mrs. Salski at 10 a.m. New York time yesterday, according to Mrs. Taegle, "the contact was told that she (Mrs. Salski) could not come to the phone because she had a very important visitor."

"It was her son," Mrs. Taegle said that last week—for the first time in a year—Mrs. Salski received a letter from her son and was told that he had been moved closer to his home in Grikabudis, Lithuania.

Kudirka jumped aboard from the Lithuanian trawler, the Soviet Lithuanian, to the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant off the coast of Massachusetts and asked the crew for asylum but the commander of the ship permitted the trawler crew to drag Kudirka screaming from the cutter.

Several groups asked Soviet officials to permit Kudirka to come to live in the United States, particularly after the discovery later that his mother was born here and Kudirka apparently had a legitimate claim to American citizenship.

Blood Bank Richer As 119 Pints Drawn

POLICE REPORT

MANCHESTER
Harold J. Levesque Jr., 17, of 491 Avery St., South Windsor came to Manchester Police Headquarters Wednesday to surrender himself to a court warrant charging him with third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny.

The charges stem from the Aug. 16 break into the Tacaral restaurant at 246 Broad St. Levesque's arrest followed the Tuesday arrest of Charles M. Bracken, 16, of 44 Brewer Rd., South Windsor on the same charges involving the same break.

Levesque posted a $500 non-surety bond for court Sept. 23. Bracken had posted a $200 non-surety bond for court Sept. 9. About 50 pounds of meat, 16 dozen tacos, cigarettes and other items were taken in the break.

Robert W. Hershberger, 25, of 52 Wetherill St., was arrested Wednesday at 9:19 p.m. after Patrolman Donald Wright noticed him carry a cane into the Other Horse restaurant on E. Center St.

The policeman entered the restaurant, examined the cane, and found it contained a sword, police said. After searching Hershberger, Wright found a loaded starter's pistol, police said.

He was charged with carrying a dangerous weapon (two counts). He posted a $100 non-surety bond for court Sept. 23.

Paul N. Cyr, 56, of 69 Tracy Dr. was the driver of a station wagon heading south on Parker St. near Tolland Tpk. Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. when he braked on a curve to avoid an oncoming vehicle and the car rolled over coming to rest on its roof. Police took Cyr to Manchester Memorial Hospital where he was examined and discharged.

The Cyr car was totalled.

SOUTH WINDSOR
South Windsor Police are investigating a break into Bart's Restaurant, Rt. 5. Police said a coin box containing numerous quarters was reported missing. The break occurred sometime during the night Wednesday.

Someone drove a vehicle through the Eighth Utilities District area off Hilliard St. sometime Tuesday night ripping up the grass and running over a small tree. The neighbors did not report any activity.

The Blood Bank is richer by 119 pints collected Wednesday when the Bloodmobile visited North United Methodist Church.

Methane Egg Fryer

Dr. B.T. Lingappa, professor of biology at Holy Cross College in Worcester, Mass., fries an egg in a pan over a methane gas generator. The gas is derived from manure. The professor says the generator is a potentially practical and continuously renewable home energy source. (UPI photo)

Gas Generator Demonstrated

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI)—A biology professor says manure can produce a gas to run some home appliances.

To help illustrate his point, Dr. B.T. Lingappa used a methane gas generator fed by manure to cook breakfast for three and light a gas lamp, recently.

"Operating the generator is no more dangerous than operating gas appliances," he said. "The gas produced from the generator is odor-free and no more explosive than natural gas, which is almost pure methane."

"This type of gas generator can be put into immediate use by farms where manure is readily available," he said. "With some additional attachments to accommodate the use of garbage and rubbish, it could be made operational in large apartment complexes, suburban homes and college campuses."

Lingappa said he thinks the project is commercially feasible and hopes a developer will begin manufacture. He said he has no such plans.

Lingappa, a professor at Holy Cross College, told a news conference his device was based on techniques which have been used in his native India for 35 years.

The generator produces gas by having certain bacteria act on waste materials in an oxygen-absent state, Lingappa said. After gas has accumulated due to fermentation, it is siphoned into a storage container from which it then can be forced into cooking or heating appliances.

"The generator was built as a prototype to serve individual families in New England," Lingappa explained. "It is easily assembled and requires no special skills to operate. During its four months of trial operation at Holy Cross there was not a single operational problem."

Lingappa estimated a generator costing about $3,000 could be built to supply about 400 cubic feet of gas per day, what he said was the daily need of the average New England family.

Warren Rejects Watergate Delay

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, saying that Judge John Sirica knows what he is doing, has refused to grant any further delay in the Watergate cover-up trial set to begin Sept. 30.

In a four-page opinion Wednesday, Burger turned down an emergency appeal from defendant John D. Ehrlichman that the trial be postponed at least until January on grounds of massive prejudicial publicity surrounding former President Richard Nixon's resignation.

Burger said any doubts about Sirica's decision to press ahead with the trial now—especially since a federal appeals court did not reverse it—"are not sufficient to form a basis for contrary action" by a single Supreme Court jurist.

"The District Court bears responsibility commensurate with its authority in such matters, and only in the most extraordinary circumstances should an individual, justice intervene," Burger said.

He said he could have referred the issue to the entire nine-man court when it returns Oct. 1, but noted this would have had the effect of putting off the Watergate trial until late fall.

Burger did note the "gravity of the claim of prejudicial pretrial publicity" in the cover-up case, but said these questions "must await the normal appellate process" if they arise once the verdict is in—in other words, if Ehrlichman is convicted.

Ehrlichman and five other former key Nixon aides, indicted last March in the cover-up, had been scheduled to go to trial Sept. 9. After Nixon resigned Aug. 9, four of them asked for a lengthy delay on grounds extensive publicity about Nixon's admitted role in the plot had made a fair trial impossible.

Sirica at first refused, but relented last Thursday after the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia "suggested" a three-or-four week postponement and rescheduled the trial for Sept. 30.

Ehrlichman immediately appealed, citing publicity and lack of time to prepare sufficiently for trial. Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who had endorsed a brief postponement, opposed any further delay.

Since the Supreme Court is in recess, Ehrlichman's appeal was filed with Burger, who has supervisory control over federal courts in the capital.

'Looking for Someone, Buddy?'

Yesterday afternoon Herald photographer Steve Dunn went to the Manchester Community College soccer field to take a picture of the Jaycees installing a ring for the horse shown next week. It rained and no one showed except this gopher. Or is it a ground hog? Anyway because the rain Dunn did not stick around to make an exhaustive identification. His comment was, "This gopher didn't know enough to stay out of the rain and neither did I."

European Commitments Reaffirmed by Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford strongly has reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to its European allies. But in a toughly worded statement he suggested that France, and possibly others, could be more cooperative.
