Students Asked to Join Battle Against Inflation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — President Ford, citing the Communist youth of China as an example of what young people can do, today called on American students to join the battle against inflation — "our urgent domestic threat."

In an address to the Ohio State University graduating class he which he asked labor and educators to join in "a great new partnership to increase the nation's productivity and to combat inflation, Ford said America's youth is "its greatest untapped" source.

Urgent Threat He told the 2,500 graduates that "with the Vietnam War over and the draft ended, your duty now to your country is to enlist in the campaigns being waged against our urgent domestic threat—especially inflation which is public enemy No. 1."

In an unusual comment for an American president, Ford hit hard on the theme of Communist Chinese productivity, stressing its growth and increasing technology.

"Chinese productivity is gaining momentum, and the majority of Chinese are young people, highly motivated and disciplined," Ford said. "As human beings, we celebrate the rising capacities of the Chinese nation, people with a firm belief in their own destiny."

Distinct Challenge "As Americans motivated by free competition, we see a distinct challenge and I believe all Americans accept that challenge."

Ford flew from Washington to deliver the commencement address and receive an honorary degree. He planned to return to the White House in the afternoon to meet with leaders of national student organizations and to hold more conferences on the federal budget. He and his family will spend the weekend at Camp David, Md.

He received a warm airport greeting and when he walked on stage at St. John arena, the university's basketball arena, he was accorded a prolonged standing ovation.

Ford attended the University of Michigan as an undergraduate and completed his degree in 1942. He mentioned that he played center 40 years ago on a Michigan team that lost to Ohio State 34-0.

Present Not Past "Instead of dwelling on how my team lost here in 1934," Ford said, "I would prefer to advance the clock to 1974 and talk about winning against the odds that confront today's graduates and all America."

"I propose a great new partnership of labor and educators. Why can't the universities of America open their doors to working men and women, not only as students but also as teachers? Practical problem solvers can contribute much to education, whether or not they hold degrees. The fact of the matter is that education is being strangled — by degrees."

Ford said he had asked the secretaries of labor and health, education and welfare to report to him new ways "to bring the world of work and institutions of education closer together."

Ford drew loud laughter when he said at the outset that he had gone from Republican leader in the House to President in only eight months, calling himself "the first instant President."

Hand Confused "The United States Marine corps hand is so confused, they don't know whether to play 'Hall to the Chief' or 'You've come a long way baby,'" Ford said.

But in a serious vein, Ford said the United States would compete internationally not only to maintain the balance of trade and standard of living but to offer to the world's impoverished examples in opportunities for better life.

Speaking of the Communist challenge, he said, "Let this peaceful competition dominate the last quarter of 20th century. American youth will make the difference. You are our greatest untapped source of energy but energy unused is energy wasted."

"We must make extraordinary efforts to apply our knowledge, our capital, our technology and our human resources to increase productivity at a faster pace. Inflation is creating a national state of anxiety. Productivity must improve if we are to have a less inflationary economy."

The Long Run "In the long run, it is the only way we can raise wages without inflationary price increases. It is essential in creating new jobs and increasing real wages. In a growing economy, everyone — labor, management and the consumer — wins when productivity expands."

Ford stood on the stage wearing a black academic gown and waved when the crowd applauded.

The doctoral citation said that Ford was a "plain spoken man from Michigan, effective leader of his party in Congress, skilled conciliator of conflict" who had accepted the "responsibilities and opportunities, the joys and the burdens of the presidency."

Ford was warmly received all around. As his arrival at the airport, people shouted words of encouragement to him. "We're behind you all the way," one woman called out. Others told him he was doing a "good job." Each time Ford replied "Thank you very much."

As a starter for drawing labor and education together, Ford disclosed that the Labor Department will announce soon a new program to improve occupational information for graduates and others in making career choices.

Grants Planned There will be grants for state and local initiatives to provide data on occupations to help channel potential employees into positions that are financially rewarding and personally satisfying.

Ford said students are now often in a "Catch-22" situation when they enter the job market and find there is no longer a demand for their specialty. He said they return to college for more degrees and are told they are "overqualified."

In one form or another, this is a Three Shell Game society has been playing with our greatest natural energy source — you, the told the graduates. "This has got to stop."

He said he wants to see "labor open its ranks to the researchers and problem-solvers of academia whose research can give better tools and methods to the workman."

Terrorist Bomb Kills Seven People in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — Terrorists bombed the headquarters of a Japanese industrial giant today, shattering Tokyo's office district with a hail of broken glass that left scores of dead and wounded lying on downtown streets.

Police reported seven persons killed and 121 wounded in the bomb blast at the nine-story Mitsubishi Heavy Industries building. Most of the victims were slashed by deadly slivers of flying glass.

The thunderous explosion, which came soon after a telephone bomb warning, rocked Tokyo's downtown office district, smashing windows for blocks around the battered Mitsubishi building.

The shrill sirens of ambulances and fire engines wailed around the entire city as authorities rushed all available rescue equipment to the scene.

One witness reported Mitsubishi workers scrambling out of the battered building like "animals fleeing a forest fire." Firemen rushed to help the victims, screaming "kyukyusai!" (ambulance!) over and over again.

Police blamed the blast, which ripped through the building at the height of the noon rush hour, on a terrorist bomb. Mitsubishi switchboard operators told authorities a young man telephoned a bomb warning five minutes before the explosion.

"I want you to take shelter immediately because we are planting two time bombs on the street in front of Mitsubishi Heavy Industries," the caller said. "This is no joke." He threatened a second terror attack Saturday against a company plant in Osaka, Japan's second largest city and 300 miles west of Tokyo.

Shortly after the explosion Mitsubishi's Osaka office received a telephone call from a man giving the name of "Sunaki," one of the most common surnames in Japan.

"We shall stage a class struggle in Osaka Saturday as we did in Tokyo today," he warned. A police spokesman said major Osaka buildings would be placed under guard.

Mitsubishi Heavy Industries is one of 45 companies that make up the Mitsubishi group, one of the most powerful conglomerates in Japan.

One of its many specialties is super-tankers. Its best known product in America and Europe is the Colt automobile, manufactured in collaboration with the Chrysler Corp.

Greek Cypriot Official Wounded by Guerrillas

By United Press International

Gunmen with automatic rifles attacked Greek Cypriot political leader Vassos Lyssarides on a Nicosia street today, wounding him and killing his driver.

The bullets also wounded a woman passenger in the front seat of Lyssarides' car and several bystanders, a police spokesman said.

He said Lyssarides, the personal physician of ousted President Makarios and husband of American journalist Barbara Corcoran, fell to the floor of his car when three gunmen fired at it as he drove out of the garage near his clinic.

Lyssarides received a slight head wound, the spokesman said. His chauffeur-bodyguard was killed and the chauffeur's wife was wounded slightly, police said.

Lyssarides, leader of a leftist Cyprus political party, EDEK, received treatment at Nicosia General Hospital and afterwards went to visit President Glaukos

Clerides, a government spokesman said.

The assassination attempt marked the second political shooting in Cyprus in less than two weeks.

Gunmen firing into the covered windows of the U.S. embassy killed Ambassador Roger B. Davies during an anti-American demonstration Aug. 19.

Police said the car was ambushed on a traffic circle near Lyssarides' clinic in the central part of the capital Greek Cypriot quarter.

Police sources said they thought the gunmen were members of the EOKA-B Greek Cypriot guerrilla organization, which fought Makarios for two years in a bid to achieve "enosis," or union of Cyprus and Greece.

Lyssarides' party was the main opposition to EOKA-B.

European Commitments Reaffirmed by Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford strongly has reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to its European allies. But in a toughly worded statement he suggested that France, and possibly others, could be more cooperative.

"The President looks forward to a productive and cooperative relationship with France and our other friends in Europe as well as with the existing and emerging institutions of the European Community," deputy press secretary Jack Hushen said Thursday.

Reciprocity Needed "But this requires reciprocity on the part of our partners," the White House spokesman added, apparently with France in mind.

The White House statement was issued in response to a speech by French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing in Paris Aug. 27 in which he charged that both former President Richard Nixon and Ford have been neglecting Europe.

Ford made no mention of Europe in his first news conference in the White House Wednesday, although White House officials said he was prepared to comment if he had been asked a question.

A Rocky Start The sharp transatlantic exchange by the U.S. and French presidents appeared to get U.S.-French relations off to a rocky start at the beginning of Ford's new administration.

While Nixon was an avowed admirer of the late French President Charles de Gaulle, relations between Washington and Paris frequently have been strained in recent years over U.S. intervention in Vietnam and U.S. attitudes towards the European Common Market.

Ford Requests $850,000 For Former President

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — A U.S. marshal has emotional problems since being forced to resign from office Aug. 9.

"Not Down Either" "He's not sitting back there humming 'Hall to the Chief,' but he's not down in the mouth either," said Stephen Bell, former White House appointments secretary.

An unidentified U.S. marshal strode onto the grounds of the former Western White House Wednesday and handed Nixon two subpoenas, including a demand by John Ehrlichman, one of his two most trusted aides when he was in power, requiring Nixon to appear as a defense witness in the Watergate cover-up trial in Washington next month.

Civil Suit The other demands a deposition for use in a Charlotte, N.C., civil suit brought by antiwar protesters who were kept out of a Nixon speaking appearance in 1971, purportedly in connection with Watergate "dirty tricks" maneuvers.

The subpoenas were served after more than a week of negotiations between Gaylor Campbell, chief U.S. marshal for the central district of California, and former press secretary Ron Ziegler, now Nixon's top lieutenant.

Campbell, who was appointed to his job by Nixon, said he wanted to handle the matter in a "professional and discreet" way — privately, with no notice to newspapers. The Justice Department would say only that the subpoenas were handed to Nixon "in person" at 6:10 p.m. Wednesday.

$850,000 Asked In Washington, Ford asked Congress Thursday to appropriate $850,000 to cover Nixon's expenses for the next 11 months.

The request included the $5,000-a-month pension to which former presidents are entitled, $96,000 for staff expenses, $40,000 for travel, $65,000 for office furnishings and $100,000 in miscellaneous expenses, plus a "one-time" special appropriation of $450,000 in "transitional" expenses to cover Nixon's outlays in becoming a private citizen.

New York Times Boosts Price

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Times Wednesday said it is boosting the newsstand price of its weekday editions by a nickel to 20 cents. Times publisher Arthur Ochs Sulzberger cited rising newsprint and operating costs for the increase, which he said would begin next Monday.

Earlier this year, the New York Post increased the price of its weekday editions from 15 to 20 cents and the New York News raised the price of its daily editions from 10 to 15 cents.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Labor and the Economy

Heavy-thinking about the economy is probably the last thing most Americans will want to indulge in as they enjoy this holiday weekend. Price increases, the skyrocketing cost of food, taxes, lagging stock market — all these are worries we would like to forget, if only for one day.

But the name of the day is, after all, Labor Day, and though it was originally set aside to honor the blue-collar workman, it is upon the labor of all of us that the strength and health of the economy are based, whether we work in shop or office or on the land. The problems and needs of "labor" are thus the problems and needs of the whole nation.

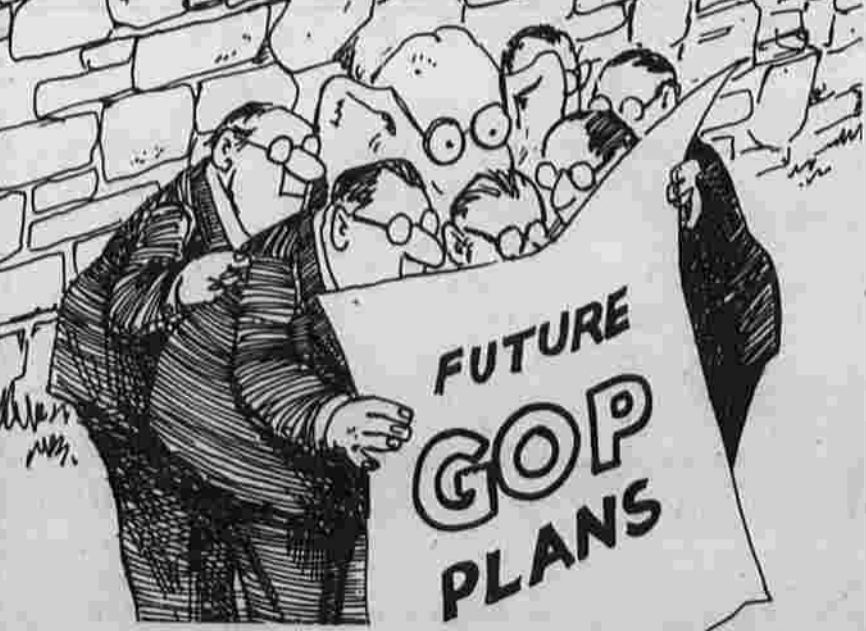

Mint Pleads For 'Cents'

In the past 15 years, the U.S. Bureau of the Mint has stamped out some 62 billion Lincoln cents. It is currently producing 35 million each day, almost twice as many as last year.

Fully half this tremendous output, however — something over 30 billion cents, the Mint estimates — is not in actual circulation. Thus the penny shortage which is a severe problem or inconvenience all over the country.

Where are all these pennies hiding? According to Mint director Mary Brooks, billions of them are in a dresser drawer, shoe boxes, pickle jars — almost any place you can think of. An unknown number of others are believed to be in the hands of speculators.

The reason for the latter is that in December, 1973, the Treasury announced that it would request legislation changing the penny from 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent zinc to an aluminum alloy. It was apparent that the steadily rising price of copper would eventually make the amount of metal in the penny worth more than the face value of the coin.

Stonewalled

FUTURE GOP PLANS

included, the second would further hobble already limping production. Does this mean, then, that at such a time of economic imbalance free bargaining between employer and employer no longer suffices? Should the government take a more active role? Do we need something like a Court of Labor-Management Relations whose decision in each dispute would be binding on all parties? There are those who argue strongly that government should avoid direct involvement in labor-management relationships. Yet it must be accepted that today, labor-management settlements can not be made in isolation from the rest of the economy. It is only government whose responsibilities and powers encompass the entire economy. And it is government whose policies have the greatest impact on that economy.

It is one thing when government speeds up a lagging economy through deficit spending, as it has been doing since the end of World War II. It is quite another when government speeds up a lagging economy through deficit spending, as it has been doing since the end of World War II.

But when that speed becomes too great, when prices soar and buying power shrinks, can government stand aside and let economic nature take its course? It is a question that must be answered.

It is not only encouraging that President Ford has given the economy priority in the attention of his administration. It is essential.

SPN Spells Life Sentence For Cents

When it comes to amnesty, a lot of Vietnam war veterans may need it as much as those young men who refused to serve — amnesty from bum rap discharges, that is. Penhouse magazine has published a list of confidential "Separation Program Numbers" (SPNs) which the Defense Department placed on the discharge papers of hundreds of thousands of Vietnam-era veterans.

Whether or not the war was wrong is simply not the point. Personally, I think the war was wrong, but it is a law that still offers alternatives for those who are conscientious objectors.

More than just the music of the church, says Stephen. Rather, they reinforce what he terms "the teaching ministry." He suggests that the ecological movement could benefit from new hymns that are "relevant to modern urban man."

NEW YORK CITY — "Why all this self-congratulation we are wallowing in?" a playboy friend asked the other day. "Nixon is out but the problems haven't been anywhere near solved."

Despite the fact that churchgoers in America are overwhelmingly urbanites, the hymns they sing each Sunday morning that have environmental references are mostly rural in nature, according to Dr. Stephen Stephan, professor emeritus of sociology at the University of Arkansas.

Ford Made It Plain

Wars and the American Legion, Ford remains opposed to unconditional amnesty. He has never suggested anything more than some arrangement whereby the offenders would be given a chance to "work their way back" home.

Yet, we have Robert E.L. Eaton, national commander of the American Legion, opposing the President's right to "pass a law to give somebody forgiveness for something he did when he violated the law."

Balderdash. And balderdash to the so-called spokesmen for the exiles, who, like the VFW and the Legion, rejected the President's proposal out of hand. It is impossible to consider seriously the declaration by Harvey Sachs, a draft dodger who is now conductor of a symphony orchestra in Peterborough, Ontario.

Whether or not the war was wrong is simply not the point. Personally, I think the war was wrong, but it is a law that still offers alternatives for those who are conscientious objectors.

CIRCUIT COURT 12 Manchester Sessions Steven Sanelli, 25, of 20 Foster St. received a six months sentence, execution suspended, and he was placed on probation for one year on the charge of third-degree assault in court Thursday.

Sanelli struck Coventry man in the face with a broken bottle April 19 in the parking lot of the Bolton Late House, according to state police who arrested him. One of the conditions of the suspended sentence is that Sanelli seek psychiatric help.

Daniel B. Wilson, 18, of 139 E. Main St., Rockville received a 20-day sentence for disorderly conduct, reduced from first-degree attempted kidnapping, Judge Philip Dwyer gave Wilson credit for time spent in jail since Aug. 1 and he was set free.

Wilson had been held in the state correction center in Hartford since Aug. 1 in lieu of $15,000 bond. He reportedly grabbed a young woman on Center St. at about 1 a.m. and tried to drag her to his car parked near the Arthur Treacher's restaurant. She screamed and broke free to find help.

Phillip Rose, 32, of Storrs was sentenced to 60 days in jail for illegal possession of drugs. The charge of third-degree assault was nolle.

Rose was arrested April 11 as one of 10 arrested that day after an investigation of several unrelated drug cases by Manchester detectives. The assault case stems from an assault on a woman acquaintance 10 days before the drug arrests.

David McLaughlin, 30, of 188 Edgemoor Rd., Coventry and William Papanos, 27, of South Rd., Bolton both received six-month jail sentences on the charge of third-degree assault with a dangerous weapon.

Other dispositions Thursday included: Peter P. Casey Jr., 19, of Hamden, possession of marijuana, case dismissed.

George J. Czaplinski, 47, of Willimantic, fourth-degree larceny, dismissed.

Thomas Ferrer, 18, of 48 Spruce St., possession of liquor on town property (two counts), $10 on each count. Both fines were remitted by the judge in total.

Dahl Family Hosts Visiting Teacher

COVENTRY

Monica Shea
Correspondent

Herman and Helen Dahl of Twin Hills Dr. and their three children, Valerie, 14, Billy, 12, and Christina, 8, have been host family for a teacher from England, Anne Short, under the sponsorship of the American Host Program.

Miss Short arrived in America the end of July and visited a family in Coventry, N.Y., for two weeks. She then spent three days in New York City. She will be leaving for England on Sunday.

For the Dahl, staying as host family is not a new experience. Last year they entertained a teacher from Ireland.

Miss Short, who is a teacher in London, heard of the program through friends and made an application. The Dahls became aware of the program through an article in the Herald last year and volunteered to be hosts.

Miss Short, from Glasgow, Scotland, has been teaching in London for several years. She teaches English to girls ages 11 through 15. She took part in an interservice day at Captain Nathan Hale School yesterday.

She moved from Glasgow to London for a change of scenery. She said, "A lot of people go to London. If you want to get on that is the place to go."

Miss Short has been busy enjoying the sights, but has found time to savor Liscie Beach and the East Beach of Rhode Island. She said, "You have beautiful sunny weather. We don't see much sun at all. We can't go swimming in London and it takes hours to get out of the city. The beaches in the South of England are very busy. In Scotland the beaches are not so quiet but the water is cold. The Rhode Island beach was quite nice and the water a lot warmer than Scotland."

Both of Miss Short's parents are doctors and her twin sister is also a doctor. Her younger brother is now attending medical school. She said, "I was more interested in the arts than science."

She has visited Plymouth and Salem, Mass.; the Mark Twain and Harriet Beecher Stowe Houses and the cities of New York and Washington, D.C.

The Dahls plan to take her to Boston at the end of the week. She said the school year is longer in England. She finished the term on July 26 and school will reopen on Sept. 9. Her summer vacation is only six weeks.

Her school day starts at 8:40 a.m. and ends at 3:50 p.m. according to her schedule. She is responsible for lunch duty one day a week.

She will be a form teacher for the 13-year olds in the coming year. That is similar to a class advisor.

She has one free period to herself per day and puts in two hours after school work each day marking papers and preparing classroom instruction.

Miss Short said, "Our students attend primary school until age 10, after that they go to secondary schools until they are 16 or 18. All the students wear uniforms. There is a big debate now about comprehensive education. That is where pupils of all abilities attend the same schools. We had the State Grammar Schools for the brighter students who were able to pass the exam at age 11. Those that didn't pass the exam went to secondary modern schools where the academic standards were not as high."

French and Spanish at the high school. Miss Gail J. Kallman, Teaneck, N.J., a graduate of the University of Maryland, will teach adult living and social studies. She received her master's degree from Boston College, majoring in sociology and education.

Miss Gail S. Yeomans, Hadlyme, will teach mathematics. She is a graduate of the University of Connecticut.

Miss Gail J. Littlefield of Goshen, N.Y., a graduate of Middlebury College, will teach math. She previously taught in Guam, the Marianas Islands and Groton, Conn.

Miss Katherine Rusch, Southold, N.Y., a graduate of St. Lawrence University, will teach physical education at the high school. Miss Hetch received her master's degree from Springfield College.

Miss Valerie Parlette, Bristol, a UConn graduate, will teach the third grade. Mrs. Parlett majored in social anthropology and received her master's degree in elementary education from Central Connecticut State College.

Mrs. Ann C. Dore, South Windsor, will teach the sixth grade. Mrs. Dore is a graduate of the University of Connecticut. She previously taught in Norwich and West Hartford.

Mrs. Daphne Pappas, Garden City, N.Y., a graduate of Adelphi University, will teach in Grade 6. Mrs. Pappas received her master's degree in elementary education from the University of Vermont. She has also taught at Canaan, Vt.

Where property or materials in the school are deliberately damaged or defaced, the person, or persons involved will pay for the damage.

It says a student will be suspended by the principal or superintendent only if there has been substantial and material disruption of school activities or danger or physical injuries to other students or teachers.

A parent or guardian will be notified before the suspending of a student and will be given the reason for the suspension and its duration.
A conference will be set up as soon as possible within the suspension period.

There are several types of conferences for improving school-community communications which may be conducted any time during the school year.
These include, after suspensions, parent-requested conferences, teacher-requested conferences and student-requested conferences.

Boat Stickers
Joseph Cafasso, president of the Lake Association, has told the selectmen he will be available in the summer and Marshall Nulter in the winter, to assist the selectmen in getting stickers for boats for the 1975 season on the lake.

Cafasso had asked selectmen, in behalf of the association, to consider getting stickers for boats eligible to use the lake. It was felt that there were some unauthorized boats on the lake.

Cafasso said the association members expressed concern that "they did not see enough of the lake patrol constables and would like to see the patrol started earlier than July 1.

OLD CODGER'S CODGIFICATIONS

There was a little old man named Barney something who operated the elevator to the dormitory floors of the E.D. Branch of the YMCA in Brooklyn, N.Y. He told tales of the days when he had been a western cowboy and companion of William F. Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill. To make the old fellow feel good everyone pretended to believe him, but no one did.

Colonel Cody had his big wild west show that opened each year's tour of the country in Long Island near Brooklyn. Cody then was a very impressive figure and in physical condition that belied his age.

One of his acts was to ride a galloping horse around the arena using a repeating rifle to break little glass balls thrown into the air by an Indian riding a horse ahead. Of course it would not be safe to use bullets but the range was so close that very fine shot (known as a mustard seed) were used and most people didn't know the difference.

The boys thought up a scheme to try old Barney and offered to take him out to the show. Surprisingly he was very eager to go.
The business office wagon was found and a man there was reluctant to believe he had an old pal who wanted to meet the colonel. Finally he did send a message and the answer came back that the big boss would see the group at the big dining tent.

The two men looked at one another as if in doubt they were really seeing right. Then they both laughed while Barney clapped hands and big Bill said, "Barney, I can remember when you looked a lot more rugged than you do now," and Barney answered, "Yes, and I can remember when you would be ashamed to use scabbard."

Because they had settlements near each other, the Williamsburg bridge was often called the Jewish Passover.

Bishop Reports Decline In Priesthood Candidates

HARTFORD (UPI)—In a 5-year report to the Vatican, the Most Rev. John P. Whealon, the Catholic archbishop of Hartford, says the drop in candidates for the priesthood may lead to changes in parish boundaries.
"While foreseeing no 'radical changes' in the near future, Whealon said the problems could arise as the number of nuns and priests dwindles.

Whealon will travel to Rome in September to present the analysis, entitled "Quinquennial Report on the Holy See," to Vatican officials. Every five years Catholic leaders prepare an overview of the state of the church for the Pope.
Whealon reports that six men were ordained as priests this year and that 11 will be ordained in 1975. In following years, about five men a year will be ordained, he predicts.

Women's orders face similar problems, he said, because they are not presently recruiting new and younger members.
This holds "grave implications" for the future, he said.
In a personal assessment, Whealon expressed concern about a "crisis in the loss of faith" among the young people in the archdiocese. He also termed "tragic" the closings of many Catholic elementary schools in the area in recent years, due to financial difficulties.

"The emerging question for our Catholics is whether they will derive their fundamental beliefs and practices from the faith of their fathers," he said, "or from the secularistic and humanistic value system of modern society."

Police Link Man to 90 Burglaries
NORWALK (UPI)—Authorities say a Rhode Island man arrested this week in Norwalk is wanted in connection with about 90 burglaries in three states.
Police stopped Gary Forrest, 22, of North Kingston, R.I., early Tuesday morning on the Connecticut Turnpike in Norwalk for a routine check. They said the car he was driving had been reported stolen.

Further investigation showed he was wanted in Madison, Conn., and in his home state on burglary charges and is suspected of other burglaries in Massachusetts. He was charged with second degree larceny, possession of a stolen vehicle, being a fugitive from justice and operating a motor vehicle while his license is under suspension in this state. He was ordered held in Bridgeport in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Welfare Aid Recipients Protest New Rent Scheme

HARTFORD (UPI)—Some 100 persons receiving state welfare aid Thursday picketed on the steps of the Capitol, protesting a new rent allocation scheme which they said will reduce their payments substantially.
The protesters, many of them children, carried signs urging higher welfare payments and more food stamps, but they did not seek meetings with legislators.
The new state welfare system will pay the clients' full rent to a certain maximum, depending on which area of the state they live in.
It was mandated by the legislature when it was thought that the "flat grant system" established last year would cause reductions in the rent allocations.
Critics now claim the regionalized system will put less money into the hands of families living in public housing where rents are cheaper.
The regionalized payment system was to go into effect this month, but a court challenge forced its postponement until October.
The picketers said they intend to return next week to continue their protest.

Conference Looks Into Recruiting

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — Not only is the Atlantic Coast Conference probing the recruitment of Moses Malone but it is also investigating three other basketball recruitment cases.

Wood was trying to become the first Sox pitcher to win 20 games four seasons in a row. Instead, he was tagged with his 16th loss.

"Tommy Harper's double in the first inning was hit off the end of his bat just beyond Bill Melton and then Rick Burelson gets a bloop single over Jorge Orta and already we're behind," Wood said.

As far as Boston Manager Darrell Johnson is concerned, his team has come through with flying colors.

Malone signed with the University of Maryland but Thursday the Terps for a pro basketball career with the American Basketball Association Utah Stars.

Johnson said he's got a "short man" in the bullpen and he's going to have to be ready almost every day.

Johnson had particular praise for his relief specialist Diego Segui, who recorded his ninth save after starter Bill Lee ran into trouble in the White Sox' seventh.

Segui has been labeled Boston's best bet to put his team into the American League playoffs.

Johnson said he's got a "short man" in the bullpen and he's going to have to be ready almost every day.

Rain Alters Schedule In Forest Hills Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — If it takes Jimmy Connors as long to reach the altar as it is taking him to make center court here at the U.S. Open tennis championships, Chris Evert could have cause to worry.

Connors, the Wimbledon winner and the top seed here, got yet another day to recover from his stomach trouble when rain again disrupted the schedules Thursday and he should be in top shape for his twice-delayed debut against Jeff Borowiak in the stadium on Friday.

But then his archrival, Stan Smith, also benefitted from the hot and wet weather. Smith, decidedly off his feed this year, has yet to complete his match with Jaime Fillol of Chile, which is in the second set.

For Miss Evert, her debut was a feminine disaster. She didn't have a thing to wear and had to borrow a dress from Kris Kemmer before opening the second day's program on center court by trouncing Gail Chanfreau, 6-1, 6-1.

Her kid sister, Jeanne, was the culprit. She was supposed to carry the bag with Chris' dress in it but the 16-year-old Jeanne forgot, probably because she was thinking too much about Evonne Goolagong, her first round opponent. Jeanne not only forgot the dresses, she also got clobbered, 6-3, 6-0.

But there was more to this second day of the Open. Bjorn Borg, the Swedish sweetheart of the teenyboppers, huffed and puffed in four weird sets before stopping Victor Amaya of Holland, Mich., 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

There was a 50-minute rain delay during the match and Borg said he thought the delay hurt Amaya. But the 18-year-old Viking is most unhappy on grass and his opponent today is Vijay Amritraj, the Indian Davis Cupper who thinks grass is the nicest surface in the world.

Vijay possesses the big booming service which Borg despises facing on a fast surface. At Wimbledon, Borg went out in the third round to Ismael El Shafie, losing 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 without putting on even a semblance of play to the dismay and disgust of some old line spectators.

Among Thursday's winners was Tony Roche, the injury-plagued Australian who was a finalist here twice. Roche, playing coach of World Tennis champion Denver, got by John James, a fellow Aussie, in straight sets and will next test his "cured" tennis elbow against veteran Onny Paron of New Zealand.

Billie Jean King bludgeoned Isabel Fernandez of Columbia, 6-2, 6-2, and faces Sharon Walsh next in her drive for her fourth Forest Hills title.

Infantry Defeats Bombers As Americans Trim Fire

CHICAGO (UPI) — The infantry beat the bombers when the Birmingham Americans chopped down the Chicago Fire 22-8 to remain the only unbeaten team in the World Football League.

A National Football League refugee, Charlie Harraway, punched out 80 yards on the ground, Art Cantrelle ran for 58, including a three-yard scoring run, and Jimmy Edwards picked up 37 yards including a two-yard touchdown run as the Americans rushed for 212 yards in racking up their eighth victory without a loss.

Along with George Mira's passing, 12-of-29 for 139 yards, including a 19-yard touchdown throw to Paul Robinson, the Americans never were in danger. They more than overcame the 263 yards amassed in passing by Chicago's Virgil Garter.

Carter hit Jim Scott on a 28-yard throw for Chicago's only score. But the Fire could only rush for 70 yards and Birmingham could play ball control with 77 plays to 64 for Chicago.

"We moved the ball well," Birmingham Coach Jack Gotta said. "Our defense came up and stopped them time and time again. This was probably our best defensive effort because we were playing such a good offensive football team. Our defense has come along in a very short time and it really showed. All our running backs ran well and I think our offensive line did a good job of blowing them out of there."

Mira said the Fire defense forced him to call more audibles than he usually does, and that after Chicago scored, "we came back and beat them."

Carter said he "hit plenty of receivers in the chest but I've thrown so many over their heads too that I can't complain."

Fire Coach Jim Sparvital said his team "just got locked pretty good. Our defense did its job but our offense did nothing. How we react to this loss will determine our future. The rest of the way, I think we'll bounce back."

It was second loss in eight games for Chicago.

Court Showdown In Matuszak Case

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Texans, giving up legal efforts to allow former NFL defenceman John Matuszak to play against Hawaii this weekend, are concentrating on a courtroom showdown one day before Houston plays Memphis next Saturday.

Attorneys for Matuszak, the second-year Houston Oiler until he jumped his five-year contract to sign with the World Football League Texans, will go to start district court Friday, Sept. 5, to argue their right to the 6-foot-8, 282-pound star.

"Our argument is based on an interpretation of his Oiler contract," Texans' owner Steve Arnold said Thursday. "Should the court decide that our interpretation is invalid, meaning his contract is binding, we certainly intend for him to honor it."

Judge George Miller will preside at the hearing called to decide whether to make permanent a temporary restraining order handed Matuszak on the Texans' bench earlier this week.

Matuszak, the No. 1 draft choice out of Tampa University in 1973, flew with the Texan team to Hawaii Thursday. Before departing he sounded pessimistic about his future. "I hope this thing isn't settled in court," he said. "I don't know if I'll go back to the Oilers, even if that's the only team I'm told I can play for."

The temporary court order filed by Houston Oilers Inc. was in effect until Sept. 5. Presumably until then Matuszak will continue to practice with the Texans.

Oiler Coach Sid Gillman, whose strict training camp was apparently one reason Matuszak left, said every day Matuszak was away from the Huntsville, Tex., camp it was costing him.

"All I intend to do is punch the cash register and add $500 to Matuszak's fines each time he misses a meeting or a practice," Gillman said. The total was $3,000 through Thursday.

Oiler owner K.S. "Bud" Adams said when Matuszak returned to Huntsville — and Adams had no doubt he would — Matuszak might not be the only one to pay.

"I'm glad he wasn't injured, Adams said of the Wednesday night game where Matuszak played five snaps. "Besides being a good player, our organization has a lot of money invested in John. I'd hate to ask for damages if he got hurt."

Although reaction from some Oiler players was approving, Matuszak's move for a bigger salary — the Texans gave him $1 million over six years — drew some head shaking.

"I don't think he'll get away with it," Oiler standout defensive end Elvin Bethea said.

Equally as puzzled was Matuszak's attorney, Bob Woolf, who was not informed of the jump. It was "agent" Gary Kaposta who represented Matuszak when the announcement came Wednesday.

Adams answered charges Thursday the contract was faulty.

"I understand John said the Oilers hadn't lived up to the contract," Adams said. "Mr. Woolf is John's attorney and he disagrees with that. He told me the Oilers had fully honored John's contract."

Duel Likely

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A spitting New Orleans Saints offense and an injury-riddled New York Jets defense could set the stage for a passing duel between Archie Manning and Joe Namath Saturday night.

Both flashy quarterbacks saw action last week — Namath completing 6-of-14 passes for 122 yards and Manning throwing the Saints' first TD pass of the preseason.

This week, both are expected to play more than one half each before nearly 60,000 fans at Tulane Stadium for the Lion's Club crippled children's benefit game.

Hockey Champs Play in Canada

Making the initial visit of a Manchester-based hockey team to Canada is the Groman's Spring League champs with a 36-5-5 won-lost-tied mark Sept. 6-9 to Moncton, New Brunswick.

There will be a two-game series with the possibility of a return visit by the Canadian squad to the Silk Town. The locals will be coached by Roger Noel facing the Moncton Flyers. Flyers' Coach Al Bellevue made the invitation to Noel, a New Brunswick native.

A big weekend is planned for the boys making the trip. They will be greeted at City Hall by the mayor and other town officials and will be guests of honor at an outing before their return to Connecticut.

Before the first game, ceremonies will include the presentation of T-shirts by the Manchester youths to their Canadian hosts marked "U.S.A."

Noel indicated that his team will be at a distinct disadvantage with his players having only one or two years of experience while the Canadians were seemingly born on ice. The boys must depend upon include goalies Terry Milka and Chuck Mumford, defencemen Andy Bell and Rick Milka and forwards Mike Armstrong, Keith Gemmel and Steve Mella.

Others making the trip, totally financed by the players, are Larry Ruel, Dave Wicks, Warren Cottle, John Turgeon, Darren Bell, Mike Crosby, John Daigle, Mark Dowling, Marty Sedlemeyer, Dave Wetherell and Mike and Marty Drobney. Parents making the trip are team manager Bill Sedlemeyer, public relations director Frank Milka and assistant Coach Hank Hetu. Stickboys are Mike Lassow and Willie Simons.

The players' age range is 15-18. They recently completed their first year of competition in a league at the Bolton Ice Palace.

McGinnis Signs With Pacers, Signs Two-Year Contract

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — George McGinnis cast his lot with the Indiana Pacers Thursday as the three-time American Basketball Association champions kept their superstar away from the New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association.

McGinnis, who figures to be the cornerstone in the Pacers' rebuilding this season, signed a two-year contract with the Indiana club, for whom he had played three seasons after leaving Indiana University following his sophomore year.

"I have a first-class contract," McGinnis, a 6-foot-8 forward, told a news conference called by Pacer President John Weisert to announce the signing. Terms of the pact were not announced.

The Pacers went to court in an effort to prevent McGinnis from negotiating with the Knicks. The ABA team had obtained temporary restraining orders against McGinnis, his agent, the Knicks and the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA, preventing any negotiations or signings.

The Knicks obtained the rights to negotiate with McGinnis from Philadelphia.

Although McGinnis' three-year contract had expired, the Pacers argued that he was still their property for his option year.

A federal court hearing which was continued twice had been scheduled for Friday in an effort to clarify McGinnis' negotiation position.

Weisert said the contract was signed Thursday afternoon minutes before he was still in court.

Richard Tinkham, executive vice president of the Pacers and president of the ABA, met newsmen.

Weisert denied reports published in New York that McGinnis had signed a six-year contract worth $2.5 million by saying "everything out of New York was totally erroneous. He contacted, however, that had been 'difficult for us and for George to negotiate a contract.'"

"The Pacers are pleased to announce the signing of a two-year contract and George is ready to go," Weisert said. "We are really thrilled to have the guy with us at least two years who has been a major part of the Pacers. He brings the leadership and know-how so important to the success of our team."

Major Test For Tankers

CONCORD, Calif. (UPI) — As recently as a year ago, when an American team showed up for an international swimming meet, there was no doubt who would wind up with the most gold medals.

But this is 1974 and no longer is the United States head and shoulders above the pack. In fact, it is barely better, and some think it isn't at all, than East Germany, a country on the rise in the pool sport.

Everyone finds out for sure this weekend at the Concord Community Park Pool, a facility that helped produce eight world records in the U.S. Nationals last weekend, when the United States hosts East Germany in a return dual meet.

The Germans come to the meet off a very strong showing in the 1973 World Championships at Belgrade and a sweeping, record-busting triumph in the 1974 European Championships at Vienna last week.

Whether by design or simply because they take a more realistic view, the East Germans say they will not beat the Americans this weekend, but they promise a fine show anyway.

"We are not yet ready to beat the United States in a dual meet," says East German Coach Kark Schramme. "We will give them a close fight but they will wind up beating us."

U.S. coach Flip Darr, who showed his concern and respect for the East Germans during last weekend's Nationals, isn't making any predictions.

"It should be a fine competitive show," says Darr. "I don't know who will win and neither do I care to make any predictions. It's up to our kids whether we win or not. There is little I can do to make it come out either way."

Since there are only 12 men and 12 women on each side for the 29 events (exclusive of diving), how each coach lines up his talent will play a major part in the eventual outcome. There will be four swimmers in each of the individual events, two from each side. That means the top swimmer in each event plus one other.

The coaches have until two events before each actual race to name their entries. That means there will be a lot of juggling and maneuvering to keep the other side from guessing who the No. 2 swimmer will be.

"I have a pretty good book on all the East German swimmers," says Darr. "I'm sure the East Germans have a good book on ours. In dual meet competition, the No. 2 swimmer in each event can be an important point scorer."

Scoring in the team competition will be on a 5-3-2-1 basis. Thus, a second and a third in an event you don't expect to win can result in a virtual standoff. Those are the events both coaches are studying closely.

The two countries held their first dual meet in 1971 at Leipzig, and in that one the United States won 25 of 29 events for a 22-123 victory.

There are only two returns from that team on the U.S. side this year—world 200 and 400 meter freestyle record holder Shirley Babashoff of Mission Viejo, Calif., and American 100 meter freestyle record holder Kim Peyton of Portland, Ore.

The East Germans have five returnees — Rosemarie Kothler, the world record holder in the 100 meter butterfly, Renate Vogel, who held the world record in the 100 meter breaststroke for a couple of days last week, Gudrun Wegner, Wolfram Sperling and diver Falk Hoffmann.

The U.S. is led by Tim Shaw and Steve Furniss of Long Beach, Calif., John Hencken of Santa Clara, Calif., and John Naber of Menlo Park, Calif., is expected to dominate the men's competition, while the East Germans should win the majority of titles in the women's events, or so it would appear at the moment.

Shaw set three world freestyle records in the Nationals last week, while Hencken set a breaststroke world mark and Naber set two American marks in the backstroke.

Naber faces the toughest assignment. He has to go against Roland Matthes, who hasn't lost a backstroke event in seven years and is the world record holder in both.

The competition gets under way both today and Saturday at 5 p.m. local time. It figures to be a good show no matter who wins.

Intrepid, Courageous Continue Cup Struggle

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Gale warnings on the seas off Newport were expected to cancel today's trials between Intrepid and Courageous as the two yachts fight for the nomination to defend the U.S.'s America's Cup title.

Intrepid, successful defender of the cup in 1967 and 1970, won her third consecutive race over Courageous Thursday, knotting the series between the two at four wins each.

The closeness of the series has made the selection of a U.S. representative a difficult decision, according to New York Yacht Club officials, who must choose a U.S. representative by Tuesday.

In Thursday's race, Courageous crossed the starting line 24 seconds ahead of Intrepid, but ran into soft wind 18 tracking into the opening leg and fell behind.

Intrepid rounded the first marker 1:01 ahead of the aluminum-hulled challenger and maintained the lead about two-thirds of the way through the second leg. The wind then shifted about 15 degrees to the north, and Courageous switched to another spinnaker and managed to pick up two seconds rounding the second marker.

Intrepid increased its lead to 2:02 on the second leg and maintained it until the fourth leg, the second windward run, when Courageous picked up 26 seconds, to trail by 1:26.

The two boats then sailed straight down the wind, with Intrepid increasing its lead again. Its time to 1:46.

Courageous used another 30-degree wind shift to the north to cut 56 seconds from Intrepid's lead on the final leg.

"Look what South just did to me!" he commanded. "I had picked up my usual but cards never forgive, but these cards forgave him. He picked up a grand slam on the next hand."

"So they won the rubber," he remarked. "Everyone loses rubbers."

"No they didn't," he retorted. "My partner took his ace of diamonds and led back the queen. South wasted time putting up his king. I ruffed and eventually South had to lose two club tricks."

GARDENING
WITH FRANK ATWOOD

This is the season of the country fairs and the fall flower and vegetable shows.

Vegetable entries outnumbered flowers by three or four to one at two country 4-H Club fairs held last weekend, the Tolland Country Fair at Vernon and the Hartford County Fair at Windsor Locks. Children, encouraged by their parents, have obviously put more of their garden space and vacation working time into growing produce that would save money in buying food for the family table.

It was the first time, at least in many years, that the two fairs had been held at the same time but officials at both fairs doubted if the competition had any measurable effect. Children exhibit at their own county fair. Their parents and friends come to see what they are showing.

Both fairs reported good attendance and, although the bills had not all been paid, felt their books would show a favorable balance. Tolland county charges no admission but collects a dollar for each car parked on the grounds. Parking is free at the Hartford County fair, but there is a gate admission charge of 80 cents for adults. Tolland County solicited gifts, totalling $500, from business firms and individuals, and printed their names in the catalogue. Hartford County published a thick catalogue, made up largely of advertising.

Young People in Charge
At both fairs the management was in the hands of young people who had all the responsibility of planning and running the show, with help from a few adult advisors.

Mark Farnham of Somers was president this year of the Tolland County 4-H Fair and Kevin Woolam of South Windsor was president of the Hartford County fair. It was the 32nd annual fair in Tolland County and the 38th in Hartford County. Both have a history of being moved about from one location to another, but Tolland appears to be set now for the indefinite future on grounds owned by its sponsoring organization, the Tolland Agricultural Center, where it has the advantage of being able to rent its grounds and show buildings occasionally to some other group.

The Hartford County people occupy rent-free land, owned by the state, on the edge of Bradley International Airport, but have been served notice several times that they would have to move because of planned airport construction. The construction hasn't started, however, so the fair hasn't yet had to move.

Gladiolus Show
We went to the Enfield Mall Aug. 9 to see the New England and Regional Gladiolus Show and found it dominated, as it has been for several years by out-of-state growers. The two top awards in the show went to a New Jersey grower who had to make a very early start to reach Enfield in time to make his entries. All the other top prizes went to Massachusetts growers and we were told that the chairman of the show, Ken Burge of Westport, is the only hobby grower of gladioli in Connecticut who still makes entries.

There once were many more Connecticut exhibitors of gladioli but most of them have become discouraged by a virus disease of their plants which seems to have no cure. The narrow green leaves become mottled and flowers may be deformed or have "broken" colors.

Growers find they must walk through their rows, time after time, and pull out and destroy plants that show the virus symptoms.

Several years ago the gladioli growers, nationally, decided to end the confusion on how to spell the name of their plant by making it always gladiolus, whether singular or plural.

The Enfield Mall was the site earlier this year of the New England Regional Lily Show and both groups like the location. It is the center lobby of a commercial shopping plaza, all under cover, with walkways on three sides to large department stores, and plenty of foot traffic that has to go directly past the flowers to move from one store to another. The fourth side is the main entrance from the parking lot, where visitors pay no parking fee.

The gladiolus show managers decided not to have a competitive class for flower arrangements, but to invite a few talented arrangers to put in exhibits. One of these was Mrs. James Gedrim of South Windsor, whose principal hobby is raising dahlias and who likes to mix dahlias with gladioli in her arrangements.

CHS Flower Show
The Connecticut Horticultural Society will have its annual flower show Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 7 and 8, at the Pond House in Elizabeth Park. Any gardener may enter. There is no entry fee and no admission charge. The show will be judged and ribbons awarded, but there are no money prizes.

Entries must be at the Pond House before 10:30 a.m. Saturday. The show will be open from 2 to 7 p.m. Saturday and 10 to 6 on Sunday. There will be a junior division for children through age 15, and older boys and girls may compete with the adults.

Mrs. Kenneth Liija of West Hartford is show chairman. Miss Millicent Jones of Bolton prepared the show schedule.

Library Board Urges Reconsideration Of $46,000 Construction Fee

BOLTON
Donna Holland
Correspondent
646-0375

The Library Board has urged the Board of Finance to reconsider its recent rejection of a $46,000 appropriation to construct the proposed Bentley Memorial Library.

On Aug. 20 a tie vote by finance board members rejected the requested appropriation being sought by the Public Building Commission and endorsed by the Board of Selectmen.

Robert Gorton, newly elected chairman of the Library Board sent a letter to Aloysius Ahearn, chairman of the finance board, urging reconsideration.

The letter was a result of a telephone meeting of the Library Board. Copies were sent to the PBC, Board of Selectmen and town clerk.

Gorton said the tie vote means a decision by one man has denied townspeople the opportunity to vote on whether or not they feel an enlarged library is worth some amount of money to them.

At a recent meeting of the Library Board officers were elected for the 1974-75 year.

Elected were Robert Gorton, chairman; John Smyth, vice chairman; Lillian Harpin, secretary and Dorothy Morgan, treasurer.

Board members also approved changing the date of their meetings to the first Wednesday of each month.

Lunch Cost To Increase

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnel
Correspondent
644-1364

It will cost South Windsor parents five cents more to provide their child with a hot lunch this school year.

Lunch prices beginning Sept. 4 will be 55 cents for elementary students, 60 cents for secondary students and 80 cents for faculty members.

Last spring School Superintendent Robert W. Goldman told the Board of Education that "salary adjustments reflecting changes in the minimum wage requirements and the cost of food items necessitate the five-cent hike to prevent the program from running a deficit."

Last year approximately 288, 550 school lunches were served representing a "slight increase in participation over the previous year," he said.

Last year the total cost of operating the food program included $165,903, cost of food; $5,640, inventory, and $117,556, operating expenses including salaries, for a total expense of $289,110.41.

He said it seems more appropriate for the finance board to calculate what monies will be available from revenue sharing, from capital and non-recurring and from any other sources.

They should then compare all the resources to the latest bid prices and inform the townspeople what effect building the library with the revised finances would have on the tax rate.

After that a vote at a town meeting or a referendum would see that the will of the majority was served, Gorton said.

The following information was brought out at the Aug. 20 meeting of the finance board in a report prepared by its chairman, Aloysius Ahearn.

Bolton has received $135,757 in revenue sharing to date.

Bolton can expect to receive $28,577 through June, 1975.

A ball park figure on the amount Bolton can expect to receive for the remaining two entitlement periods would be $60,000.

The capital and non-recurring budget is approximately $100,000.

Bolton has a cash surplus of approximately $46,000.

The low bidder of a second set of bids submitted by contractors interested in the project was DMC Construction Co., Inc. of Glastonbury with a bid of $248,900.

The latest figures prepared by the architect show that a total of $317,000 will be needed to complete the project.

Broken down the figures represent: $248,900 for the low contractor bid which includes construction of the building and $15,000 worth of site work.

The remaining $68,100 ($317,000 minus $248,900) would be used for remaining site work, equipment, architect and engineering fees, surveys and borings, advertising and printing costs and the contingency fund.

The $46,000 being requested is the difference between the original appropriation of $271,000 approved by townspeople and the total amount necessary to complete the project, $317,000.

If the project ends because the $46,000 was rejected by the finance board the total estimated cost to the town will be $24,324.

Resident Requests Opportunity To Decide Library Issue

BOLTON

Donna Holland
Mrs. Gertrude Vogel urges residents interested in having the opportunity to vote on whether the town is to have a new library to sign a request at the Bentley Memorial Library.

The request states: "We, the undersigned, ask the Board of Finance for the opportunity to discuss and vote on the issue of additional funds to build the new town library which the townspeople approved last spring."

Mrs. Vogel said several residents are circulating the request in town.

Mrs. Vogel said copies of the requests would be sent to Aloysius Ahearn, chairman of the Board of Finance Thursday.

She said the whole point is for residents to have a chance to vote yes or no; she does not feel it is up to the board of finance to make that decision.

The people approved the original request for the library she said.

When $46,000 in additional funds was requested in order to construct the library, the request was denied by a tie, 3-3, vote by finance board members.

Clarifies Viewpoint

Concerning a story in The Herald Thursday, Mrs. Joann

Neath has said that at no time did either she or Mrs. Gertrude Vogel or Mrs. Pamela Shorey suggest that construction of the library begin and continue until money runs out.

Mrs. Neath said she believed she heard something of the sort questioned but wasn't sure of the question or who asked it.

The Herald story on a Public Building Commission meeting at which discussion of the library took place said they did.

Mrs. Neath said: "The reason the three of us attended the meeting was to see if we could bring this to a town vote. I am not ready to commit myself fully to saying I think the library should be built. I'd like a public hearing to hear all the facts and costs involved before making up my mind."

She also said they didn't ask about overriding the Board of Finance decision (by a tie 3-3 vote it rejected a requested $46,000 appropriation needed to construct the library), they asked about calling a town meeting and agreed with someone's suggestion that members who voted in the negative should be contacted to see if they would change their mind, only so that the issue could be brought before the townspeople.

This night was made for vintage wine, sweet whisperings and a phone call ahead to be sure.

And that call costs so little. It's never more than 70¢ to anywhere in Connecticut. That's for 3 minutes without using an operator, from 8 A.M. to 5 P.M.

Evenings, nights and weekends are even less! So why not phone South to check when that zoo is open. Or North to get the weather. Or East to greet a friend. Or West to reserve that table.

It just doesn't cost that much to call anywhere within the state. At any time. To get, or to give what's needed.

It's lower than you think within Connecticut.
