

Back to Broadway for Ben

VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ben Gazzara will challenge Thomas Wolfe's old admonition, "You Can't Go Home Again," by returning to the Broadway theater to re-establish himself as a stage performer.

It's been a decade since the prodigal last appeared in New York and he's upright about going home.

"A lot of things have happened to me in the years between," Gazzara said in his distinctive basso. "Most of them good. I've made a helluva lot of money in movies and television."

For three of those years he starred in "Run For Your Life," a highly successful TV series. Earlier this year his performance in "GB VII" on the tube won him wide acclaim.

A tower of calm on a movie set, almost leery on a television stage, Gazzara is filled with butterflies awaiting his entrance on a stage.

Then 10 years ago, he returned to New York in Jean Anouilh's "Traveler Without Luggage." It landed with a thud. The reception might have discouraged a lesser man from attempting a second comeback on Broadway.

But Gazzara, balding, daring and beguiling, likes tough odds.

This time he stars in Sagine O'Neil's "Hughie." It is a two-character play and he is on stage throughout. Co-star Peter Maloney has only 32 lines. Gazzara must carry it all. His margin for error is zip.

"I think we'll be a hit," he said. "I've offered the play in Chicago for eight weeks. We played 12 weeks. The reviews were like love letters."

Why Chicago, he was asked, instead of the big splash on Broadway?

"Because I didn't want to take the chance of falling on my face for the wise guys in New York. But they surprised me. The New York Times and Time magazine sent their reviewers to Chicago. The reviews were raves."

"That encouraged me to open here in Hollywood for four weeks. In October we move into the Booth theater in New York."

Gazzara spills more money than he earns in the play. But his attachment to the theater is such that he willingly sacrifices lucrative offers from movies and television to indulge his first love.

"I didn't have to make any adjustments returning to the theater," he said. "It's like driving a car. Once you learn, you don't forget."

"And I don't miss the cushion of re-takes. If you blow a line in a movie you do it over. On stage when I forget a line I make one up. I don't panic. If you're grooved to the character nobody notices."

"I will never stay away from the stage another 10 years. Never. I'll continue to work in films, television and the theater. Specialization kills the spirit. And what is an actor without spirit?"

Gazzara rolled a fat cigar in his mouth, winked broadly and prepared for a matinee performance in "Hughie." Butterflies or no, he could not have been happier.

It's also the fact that the stage is the only literary art form where you use every part of yourself as an actor.

"But I like the butterflies. It's a good feeling. Butterflies prove the actor still cares."

A blazing Broadway star in the early '50s with three successive hits — "End as a Man," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" and "A Hatful of Rain" — Gazzara moved on to Hollywood and movie stardom without a hitch.

There's a big difference," he said. "First there's the immediacy of the audience. But the reception might have discouraged a lesser man from attempting a second comeback on Broadway.

Ribicoff Finances Questioned

HARTFORD (UPI) — James H. Brannen, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, Tuesday questioned campaign contributions made to his opponent, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn.

He said Ribicoff should "explain to the people of Connecticut why the Railway Clerk's Political League of Illinois should be interested in his campaign to the extent of adding $2,000 to his campaign war chest."

"And while he's at it," Brannen said, "We'd also be interested in knowing why some

Wethersfield To Dump its Refuse In Manchester for 30-Day Period

By SOL R. COHEN
In the spirit of "good neighborliness," the Town of Wethersfield has been given permission to dump its garbage and refuse for 30 days in Manchester's landfill area.

The Board of Directors Tuesday night gave its unanimous backing to approval of the request by Town Manager Robert Weiss. Weiss explained that the Rocky Hill landfill area

School Board Makes Decisions on Personnel

In personnel actions voted by the Board of Education Monday night, two resignations were accepted and three appointments were made.

The following teachers resigned:

Mrs. Jill Maskrey, an upper elementary grade teacher at Buckley School, whose husband has been transferred out of state.

Mrs. Mabel Silver, an upper elementary grade teacher at Bowers School for the past five years, who is moving out of state.

The following teachers were appointed:

Mrs. Harriet Baskette to teach an upper elementary grade at Bowers School. She received her B.S. from the University of Connecticut, and is a resident of Lebanon.

Miss Janet Cariona to teach an upper elementary grade at Bowers School replacing Mrs. Silver. She received her B.S. from the University of Connecticut and lives in Storrs.

Frank Pinto to teach Industrial Arts at Manchester High School. He received his B.S. from Central Connecticut State College and lives in Plainville.

The three new teachers will begin with salaries of $8,035 (step 1) per year. These figures reflect the 1973-74 figures and will be adjusted retroactively when contract negotiations are completed.

Teacher contract negotiations are presently in the hands of an arbitration committee and John C. Yavis Jr., chairman of the personnel and finance committee said after waiting since last winter for negotiations to be settled, it is hoped a contract settlement will be forthcoming this week from the arbitrators so that it may be presented to the Board of Directors at the earliest possible opportunity.

Several washout account requests were approved by the board.

The Board of Directors will be asked to establish a washout account in the amount of $9,970 for the workshop without walls project to be financed by the State Department of Education. This is a renewal of an ongoing program whereby special education students, under supervision, are trained as aides for the elderly.

Another request is for $4,609 for a grant under the non-public school provisions of the state statutes. About 23 children will be served under this grant.

There is another request to establish a washout account in the amount of $2,431 for the toy lending library program to be financed by a state grant.

The fourth washout account request is for $2,950 for the receipt of funds from surrounding towns for services rendered by the Environmental Education Center. A total of $2,780 has been contracted so far for Bolton, East Hartford and Vernon.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

A Message From Ford

We hope all congressional and state candidates got the message from President Gerald Ford when he made an address on mass transportation problems in Pittsburgh.

He is apparently dead serious about his intention to pare the federal budget. He stated quite bluntly that in the case of mass transit in particular and despite the fact the federal government has a "legitimate and major" role to play, the federal taxpayers "just can't afford to pay for the whole package."

The message is quite clear, we think, that the President fully intends to hold the line on federal expenditures regardless of political implications. The idea that cities and states can expect federal funds for various programs almost automatically is a thing of the past.

The Congress may have other ideas, but we detect a growing unrest about the heavy reliance on federal funds for too many things.

While it may be that there is a gap between presidential intentions to trim the flow of federal funds to more fiscally responsible levels and actual implementation, we expect there will be other federally-funded programs coming under scrutiny by the new administration as it seeks to pare $5 billion or more out of the budget.

A case in point might be the $470,000 grant announced by the Department of Housing and Urban Development which Manchester is eligible for under a 1974 act.

Now we don't question that Manchester could put this money to good use but it does seem a bit ironic that HUD has earmarked these funds for the town and the town doesn't yet know how the grant will be utilized.

But we can rest assured that the town fathers will strive to find a use for it.

The only question we have is that undoubtedly other towns and cities in this nation have been told they too are eligible for grants and many of them will be rushing to the drawing board to come up with plans for using it, rather than losing it.

That many towns will use it wisely is beside the point. The point is that federal funding is too often an exercise in creating a need to justify the obtaining of funds rather than establishment of essential needs and then seeking funds to implement them.

If President Ford's efforts at controlling the federal budget are to succeed, we would suggest a hard look at this practice which clearly places the cart before the horse and carries with it the potential expenditure of millions of federal funds for projects and programs which clearly would be funded entirely by local funds.

We are aware that a tight federal budget is going to have its effect in Manchester. We do not object as long as that effect is equally felt everywhere. The Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 should be re-examined in the light of our huge federal deficit and we in Manchester should be among the first to insist that any federal funding accruing to us be for legitimate, well planned and long-standing needs.

OPEN FORUM

Steele Uninformed

To the editor:

It was disbelieving when I read the Aug. 29 printing of a Waterbury Republican editorial headlined, Mrs. Grasso Irresponsible. This seems in line with other published, X rated, editorial imports printed in the past. Editorials that repeatedly labeled as "Nixon Haters," all those who opposed this most corrupt administration in the history of our country.

Editorials that supported our state governor, a quitter, who refused to defend his record by running for a second term when the polls showed he would have a hard fight. Editorials that attacked the motives of our U.S. senator, a senator with a poll rating of 75 per cent approval, and was in consideration for the office of the vice president of our country. This opposition to Ella is a compliment, yet nevertheless I seek equal space to step off the curb to the same level to answer this raw political sewage you gave space to as an editorial.

I applaud Congressman Grasso's effort for urging the governor and legislature leaders to reconvene the legislature to protect the public on all fuel cost adjustments. Is it right to charge 17 cents per kilowatt for the wealthy big users and overcharge the residential user 4.3 cents. So far 17 states have initiated action to correct this abuse. Conversely, I must assume since Congressman Robert Steele name was omitted in this attack, he must support high rates on the fuel adjustments and the present locking out of the public in favor of big business.

Let me refute another imported editorial with the misinformation that Congressman Grasso and Congressman Steele are alike in their views on an oil refinery in Connecticut. Mrs. Grasso's stand is a no nonsense opposition to any land or sea refinery. Mr. Steele's position, as published in a headline report from East Windsor, supports a deep water terminal with a refinery on Connecticut land to provide jobs and lower cost fuel. Congressman Steele is simply irresponsible and uninformed of the need for a Connecticut oil refinery and fuel costs.

The published July 3 study of gasoline production statistics by The American Petroleum Institute reveals that American refineries are now cutting back an average of 6.89 barrels each day and yet there exists a 9 per cent in inventories that are overflowing storage space. They conclude that our refineries are deliberately cutting down production to maintain high prices and record profits.

The release on Aug. 22 of the 8-month study by the General Accounting Office of the result of the Nixon administration decision of Dec. 18 to give a $1 per barrel increase to stimulate crude oil production, reveals no more oil but higher costs to the public and more soaring profits to the oil companies.

Many of these jobs and the mythical clean oil refinery the congressman dangles as bait will be to provide health care for residents who will suffer from the wide spread fumes from this refinery. Other jobs will be for large crews to repair and maintain our highways which will be crowded and worn out by the heavy tank trucks delivering oil to other states.

More jobs will be provided to clean our shores of the oil that will reach it no matter how far out the terminal is.

Mrs. Grasso has pledged to make public her income and assets every year she holds office. The governor of New Hampshire will file this report each year and a year after he leaves office, Manchester's own Nate Agostinelli, in his brief bid for governor, proposed a government file a report at the end of each term. What is Congressman Robert Steele's position that the present and future governors make public each year all wealth gained while holding office?

As the phrase goes, "What you see is what you get." We see Ella Grasso fighting the big business utilities companies. We see Ella Grasso slamming the door to big oil. We see Robert Steele jumping his foot to keep this door open to big greedy oil. We see Robert Steele attacking Ella Grasso as she fights for a fair shake in this fuel adjustment rip off. To restate the congressman's bumper sticker with his plea for funds, only you and Ella Grasso can drive big greedy oil from the shores of Connecticut.

We have received a report that the regulation pertaining to the preparing and serving of food in public establishments is apparently being overlooked.

One reader says she has observed cooks, in some cases with long hair, preparing food without a hat on their head or any other type of hair covering.

We certainly hope such practices will be discontinued. To protect the public, the regulations should be rigidly enforced.

While on the subject of restaurants, we were surprised to learn that nationally one out of 10 restaurants had a fire during 1972, the latest year in which figures are available.

George Marlow told us the other day it was a great season for canning supplies and jars, especially, were in short supply.

Apparently, many a housewife went back to canning to try and ease the strain on the family food budget.

Perhaps a good newsman or newswoman should pay little or no attention to a speaker when he says he wants his remarks to be off the record as far as the press is concerned.

For more than a month, at Rotary Club meetings and elsewhere, we heard remarks about a forthcoming event and were politely told they're off the record.

Then we pick up another newspaper and read about the event in every detail.

From now on our inclination is that nothing will be off the record. If a speaker doesn't want his remarks made known to the public, he had better not utter them.

A District of Columbia Superior Court judge has ruled against the Washington Post in an invasion of privacy suit. The Post published the name, age and address of a rape victim.

The Post said it was protected by the First Amendment in publishing truthful accounts of all matters of public interest.

The judge ruled that the value to the public of the publication lies in the fact that the rape took place, and little, if at all, in the identification of the victim. He also ruled that publication of the victim's name and address deeply intruded upon her privacy.

We believe the judge is correct.

A good chuckle: We are certain most of you are aware of the Occupational Safety and Health Act, better known as OSHA, and several firms in the Manchester area have undergone official inspections.

Officials inspected an office building in Washington which houses most of the OSHA staff and the check turned up more than 300 "hazardous conditions."

In one instance, a fire-extinguisher cabinet lacked a handle and was even sealed with paint.

It is some consolation, though, to learn that OSHA isn't overlooking anyone.

Meriden is taking a get tough attitude when it comes to school vandalism.

School officials are insistent that parents are going to be held liable if any juveniles are apprehended for acts of school vandalism. The liability limit allowed under state law is $1,500.

Good for Meriden. Acts of vandalism against city schools cost the taxpayers of Meriden $7,000 this summer.

Many of the new 1975 automobiles, which will be making an appearance shortly, are equipped with a catalytic converter, a small unit that looks like a muffler, and is designed to reduce emissions.

The cars equipped with the converter will need unleaded gasoline. Those in the industry say there should be an adequate supply. The gas will cost a few cents more per gallon but there are reports that fuel economy should be improved.

Thanks to Stewart Johnston of Dillon Ford we previewed the new 1975 models at the showing in Boston. We viewed a couple of films on the new models, one in which there was a presentation by Frank Zimmerman Jr. who hails from Manchester. His father made the trip with us to Boston. Frank Jr. is now director of marketing for the Ford Division.

It should be an exciting year in the automobile business. We were impressed by the Ford lineup.

An office cohort says if there is really a simple answer to inflation we would certainly have it because there are a lot of simple people in Washington.

Our salute to the Retail Trade Commission of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce for reviving concerts downtown in the park. The first concert is slated for Sunday and will feature the Sphinx Temple Shrine Band, always a crowd pleaser.

Mike Dvorskin has been pushing the idea of Sunday concerts for some time and we are pleased his efforts have paid off.

Our thanks also to the Park Department and Town of Manchester officials for their splendid cooperation. And we hope it doesn't rain, but a tip of the bonnet to John Garofalo of Cheney Tech for making the school available in case it does.

Overheard across the coffee counter in regard to President Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon:

"Two lawyers got together and reached a settlement before the case went to court. So what else is new?"

At any rate, Ford is a President that is likely to make news on any day and at any time, not always for the sake of a growing evening television audience.

We recall a visit about three years ago in Washington with Mark Arrowsmith, veteran bureau chief for the Associated Press. We recall Arrowsmith's words:

"We have only a skeleton crew on Sunday because the news beat is dead on that day. John F. Kennedy was the only president who ever made news on Sunday."

Apparently, Ford is now in the company of JFK.

Of the 18 million persons in the U.S. who are 65 or over, a great many are prime targets for ads that offer quick profits on investments, "cure all" pills and get-rich-quick schemes of all kinds.

The aches and pains of older people, their need for extra income, their vanishing hopes for a retirement home in the lands of warmth and sun and their gratitude for attention make them easy targets for false advertising and slick salesmanship.

Illegal operators and hit-and-run peddlers entice older people into such schemes that drain them of their life savings.

Sons and daughters can help their parents or older friends in these cases. Seek and maintain their confidence so you can help prevent them from becoming victims of nefarious plans that milk them of their savings.

The salesmen who argue that opportunity can't wait, that you must sign now, are the ones who usually cannot stand an investigative check. These are the ones you should investigate thoroughly.

What are some of the false and misleading claims that appeal to the elderly?

Health Claims
The old time medicine men who sold magical cure-all and pain killers (often high priced alcohol or opium) have all but disappeared; however, selling of false hope in the health field has not. It has simply kept pace with the times.

One of the principal deceptions aimed at the elderly is the "cure" for arthritis and rheumatism. It is a favorite because 12 million Americans have some form of these health problems.

Extra Income Claims
There are many legitimate opportunities advertised but the genuine offers can stand investigation.

Knowing that many elderly people are hard pressed to stretch their retirement income to cover even the barest necessities, the fast buck operators are all too anxious to sell false hope for extra income.

Land In The Sun
Before rushing to purchase a retirement home in some advertised area — investigate. Elderly people whose appetite for a retirement home has been whetted by the advertising of a couple of films on developer, who do well to consult with a lawyer or real estate agent.

The Lighter Side Flexibility Needed In Punishment Of Chief Executives

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — According to the Gallup Poll, 56 per cent of the American people think former President Nixon should be tried for possible criminal charges arising from Watergate.

But President Ford made it clear he reserved the right to pardon his predecessor for alleged offenses.

On this issue, as during the recent impeachment proceedings, we find a deplorable lack of flexibility. There is no middle ground to which a person caught between two views can repair.

In impeachment, the options are severely limited. Senators can either vote to oust the President or let him go unscathed.

Now suppose a senator thought the President was guilty and deserved a bit of scaling, but not to the extent of expulsion.

There presently is no way for that senator's feelings to fit into the impeachment process.

The positions a person can take on the issue of prosecuting an ex-President are severely restrictive. The only available alternatives are bring him to trial or giving him immunity.

A person who might feel an ex-President should be punished but is reluctant to see him hauled into court has nowhere to go.

It is time, I submit, to restudy the entire question of presidential punishment with a view to allowing more leeway in fixing their penalties.

When the Senate finds a chief executive guilty of offenses alleged in articles of impeachment, it should be able to prescribe punishment short of expulsion. Such as:

Stolen Car Ring Bared
BOSTON (UPI) — Registrar of Motor Vehicle spokesmen said they believe they have uncovered a $100,000-per-year interstate stolen car ring and that federal authorities have joined in an interstate investigation.

The ring allegedly operated between Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Registrar David J. Lucey said his agency has recovered parts of eight cars which had been stripped and sold for parts. The engine and dashboard of a 1963 Dodge sedan belonging to Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., which was stolen from Logan Inter-national Airport, was among those recovered.

Our Ever-Loving French Allies

WASHINGTON — Short of ceding them Texas, I don't know how poor President Ford can satisfy our ever-loving French allies. Hardly an hour passes without a whimper from French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing that the U.S. is giving Europe the cold shoulder.

It's gotten so bad that Ford was constrained to issue a public statement the other day reiterating American support of the Atlantic Alliance and European unity. Like a parent reassuring a petulant child, Ford noted that the U.S. "renewed its commitment to our alliance and to Europe is clear," and added that he "looks forward to a productive and cooperative relationship with France and our other friends in Europe."

Ordinarily, the inclination would be to ask so what else is new, but something obviously had to be said after a speech by Giscard in which he criticized both the Nixon and Ford administrations for not paying enough attention to Europe. Giscard even played casualties with the facts, declaring that Ford had made a speech on foreign policy in which the word Europe was never mentioned.

Giscard should get himself a new vice president in charge of reading the newspapers. In fact, in Ford's speech to a joint session of Congress on Aug. 12, he promised continuity of U.S. foreign policy, and said: "To our allies of a generation, in the Atlantic community and Japan, I pledge . . . loyal collaboration on our many mutual endeavors." Unless it moved to the Asia while I was out to lunch, Europe is still the Atlantic community.

Ford's statement, of course, went without saying, but I was glad to note that the President slipped in a sly dig at our European pals. Ford authorized White House spokesman John Huzar to end the statement with a piece of editorializing: "But this requires reciprocity on the part of our partners."

That needed to be said. If the Atlantic Alliance has been weakened, Europe — and especially France — must share the blame for its antics during the Middle East oil crisis. In their preoccupation with getting oil no-matter what, our European allies split away from the U.S. over its policy toward Israel, and only some cool thinking on this side of the Atlantic prevented a serious break.

Today, Giscard's attitude can most generally be described as an exercise in unreasonable nit-picking toward President Ford. Within two hours of his swearing in, Ford had met with representatives of all the NATO countries. On the same day, he wrote personal messages to all of the allied leaders, and within a few days of taking office he met individually with allied ambassadors — including the French envoy.

It is true that the Nixon administration was preoccupied with Vietnam, with the opening to Communist China and with establishing detente with the Soviet Union. But Ford has made it clear he will make his own foreign policy, and his record reveals him as more than capable of European-oriented than his predecessor.

Meanwhile, Giscard has accepted one fact of life. He has said that Europe "must rely on itself to organize itself," a need that has been obvious for more than a decade. Giscard might start with his own country, which managed to be disorganized even under the rule of the autocratic Charles de Gaulle.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

We Each Have A Plank In Our Eye
Jesus says, "First take the plank out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your brother's."

(Matthew 7:5)
What is this plank? How can we get a hold of it to remove it? It is, first of all, an ATTITUDE, A SET OF HABITS. Jesus is referring to the basic way we personally look at life, and especially our own life. Removing that plank may mean getting over our possessiveness toward our own life, our obsession with its ups and downs, our over worry about its continuing.

TO PULL THE PLANK, focus on the sunrise, on some one else's eyes, on the beauty of God shining through their smile. The plank will drop!

Rodney Mooney Resigns School Board Position

ANDOVER

Rodney Mooney has resigned from the Board of Education because of what he described as wide and apparently irreconcilable differences between the practice of the school board and his own personal philosophy in the areas of personnel and administrative management.

His resignation was accepted by the board with regret last night.

The board will write the Republican Town Committee asking that two or more names be submitted for consideration to fill the vacancy.

The board will also notify the town clerk that it accepted the resignation as of Sept. 10 (the date of its meeting) and not Sept. 3 (the date of Mooney's letter).

Transportation
The Board of Education was asked by a parent of a special education student why the student was dismissed from school about 35 minutes early each day.

Cohen Favors Sesson On Fuel Charges

BLOOMFIELD (UPI)—Rep. Morris N. Cohen, D-Bloomfield, says he has received many complaints about automatic fuel cost adjustments and is calling for a special session of the legislature to act against the rate increases.

Volunteers Needed For Restoration

Wire brushes and paint brushes should be brought by volunteers. There is still scraping to be done and it is hoped that some of the exterior painting can be completed Saturday.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Ken Kelley Jr. in Coventry at 742-6222. Admission to the flower show is free of charge.

Seats Open For Trip To Theater

VERNON

Seats are still available for the trip tonight to the Coachlight Dinner Theater, East Windsor, being planned by the Vernon Recreation Department for Wednesday evening.

Tickets are priced at $10.50 and this includes the grand buffet, the show, and transportation. Tickets, which were first only available to Senior Citizens, are now available to the general public.

The title of the show is "An Evening With WHO?" starring Pat Carroll.

Wednesday is also the day of the extended shopping trip to the City Center, Vernon Circle, for Senior Citizens. The Recreation Department bus will leave at 9:15 a.m. and make the regular stops to Franklin Park. The return trip will leave the shopping center at 1:15 p.m., giving the Senior Citizens time to buy lunch and shop.

The Recreation Department office is taking names for a second bus to go to the Springfield Exposition Friday. Donald Berger, recreation director, said one bus has been filled and another 20 names are needed to assure a second bus.

Garden Clubs To Conduct Flower Show

A flower show and gourmet cuisine will be presented Saturday from 12:30 to 8 p.m. at St. George's Episcopal Church, Rt. 4A, Bolton.

Small Share Expected Of Housing Funds

SOUTH WINDSOR

Judy Kuehnel
South Windsor's share of funding under the new federal community development and housing act is expected to be "inconsequential" according to Town Manager Terry V. Sprekel.

The reason is that the town has not been involved in specific programs such as model cities, urban renewal and code enforcement which were funded by federal grants under the system in effect before the new law was passed.

However, the town has received "sufficient" grants under the water, sewer and open-space provisions of the previous system, said Sprekel.

The Ronald Kenney's of Daly Rd. and their horses were again a topic of discussion at the first meeting of the Planning and Zoning Commission after a two-month summer recess.

The Kenney's, now represented by the law firm Kelly and Jenenda, were told again to surround their electric fence with stockade fencing to protect young children from the hazards of horses and electric fencing.

The Kenney's have corrected all of the other violations of the zoning regulations as outlined by the PZC and the zoning agent Richard Keefe.

Kenney told the commission that he did not plan to erect such a fence. A neighbor of Kenney's stated his objection to the proposed fence and said that he thought that such a structure would be unsightly.

After a lengthy discussion of the matter it was agreed by all present that the Kenney's should get in touch with the neighbors.

Stonier asked that the new sanitarium be at the lot during the filing of a parent's confidential statement.

Other qualifying factors are residency in Connecticut for 12 months prior to Sept. 30, acceptance by a post secondary institution approved by the Commission for Higher Education, and a standing in the upper 70 per cent of the class.

Grants will be renewable in amounts ranging from $100 to $1,000 after the first year of the award. Further information is available from the Guidance Office at South Windsor High School.

Zone Changes Voted
The South Windsor Planning and Zoning Commission has voted to approve the application on the ordinance revision at its regular meeting.

Final plans have been made for the second annual clam bake, sponsored by the Democratic Town Committee, for Sept. 15 at the Roger Pond Rec. area from 1 to 5 p.m.

The event is chaired by Heneghan and Francis McCarthy with Georgianna Pesciello as assistant co-chairman.

Members are available from tickets of the town committee. The cost is for adults and $1.50 for children under age 12.

The menu includes steamed corn and hot dogs. Burritt Savers Earn Top Interest Deposits grow latest at THE CUTE LITTLE RED BANK BUILDING opposite Cumberland Farms in Hebron Center. Open 10:30 to 6 daily, Thursday 'til 8, 228-9471.

School Opening Smooth

VERNON

The Vernon school openings last week were relatively smooth, Superintendent Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, told the Board of Education, Monday night.

The schools opened with a staff of 450 and a student body of 7,071 but by the following Monday, four days later, the student enrollment had grown to 7,140, most of the increases were in kindergarten classes, Dr. Ramsdell said.

At the Lake Street School the kindergarten enrollment increased from 107 to 121, and at Vernon Center from 168 to 179. There were also scattered increases in other grades.

The total number of elementary school students as of the beginning of the school year was 3,362. Talcottville (special education) 89; Sykes (all Grade 6 students) 362; Middle School, 1,128; and High School, 1,998.

Carrier Pigeon Found

COVENTRY

Tel. 742-9495

Ken Brown, an employee of Zello's Supermarket, has trapped a carrier pigeon in the rear of the supermarket.

The pigeon had been around the store for the last day and a half and Brown was concerned for its safety.

Brown said, "I think the bird might be more pooped than anything else. It is possible that he is lost. He is about 80 miles from home. He was tagged just last August and may be a young pigeon."

The hand on the bird's leg lists his number as 866 from Fall River, Mass.

Brown has used a large cardboard box for the bird's temporary home and is feeding the bird pretzels and watermelons. Brown said, "I will keep him only as long as it takes to find the owner. I have a friend who has homing pigeons and I'll call him and see if he can tell me how to locate the owner. I want to make sure the bird gets home safe. Besides most of these birds become domesticated after training and he might get hurt if I let him loose."

Brown was able to trap the bird by placing a box out in the back of the store propped up on sticks. The box was then baited with wheat and when the bird walked into the box, Brown pulled on the strings that were attached to the sticks and the box fell over the bird.

Brown has taken the bird to his home in Manchester until the owner can be located.

School Board Approves Teacher Contract Plan

SOUTH WINDSOR

The South Windsor Board of Education has unanimously voted to approve a three-member arbitration panel recommendation that grants teachers a 7.9 per cent hike in salaries and benefits combined.

The board's action came Tuesday night, one day after the arbitrators announced their award.

The board's action last night followed an explanation of the arbitrators decision from Democratic board member David Cohen. After his brief presentation of the award, Cohen said "I recommend this arbitration award be accepted by the board...I put that recommendation in the form of a motion."

No discussion followed Cohen's comments, except for a brief question asked by Republican board member Robert DeLoia who wanted to know if negotiations would have to start from the beginning if the teachers failed to accept the arbitrators award.

To this, School Superintendent Robert Goldman replied, "yes," and the board took its unanimous vote.

It is believed that the board discussed the arbitors decision in private prior to the meeting, and thus the reason for no public discussion of it.

Highlights of the decision include a pay hike of 50 cents an hour more for those teachers in miscellaneous categories such as driver education, adult education, summer school, etc., raising their hourly pay to $7. Also, teachers were awarded a 10 per cent increase in the amount of the board's share of medical insurance. Formerly the board paid 80 per cent of the medical insurance. Now it will pay 90.

Probers Seek Cause Of Crash

ATHENS (UPI)

Investigators have examined the wreckage of a Trans World Airlines jet today to determine whether a suicide bomber blew up the aircraft over the Ionian Sea, killing all 88 persons aboard.

Officials said they hoped pieces of the Boeing 707 and bodies recovered from the water would help check a claim by Palestinian guerrilla group that one of its members set off explosives he carried aboard the jet.

The plane, Flight 841 from Tel Aviv to New York with stops in Athens and Rome, went down in the Ionian Sea between Greece and Italy Sunday, moments after the pilot radioed that an engine was on fire.

Edward Drefuss, head of a U.S. National Transportation Safety Board investigating team that arrived Monday, said no possible cause of the crash had been excluded.

The Arab Nationalist Youth Organization for the Liberation of Palestine telephoned Beirut newspapers after the crash to say a Chiban member of the group carried explosives under his clothes and detonated them.

It said the passengers included "Israeli suicide squads who were commissioned to assassinate Palestinian guerrilla leaders."

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

By WALLY FORTIN

Hi there! Here it is the middle of the week, and time for some Senior Center news.

Action starts off with last Friday's softball game with 88 players, and these are the winners: Wilford Messier, 127; Claire Remm, 125; Annie Johnston, 124; Martha LaBate, 123; Albert Outlette, 122; Paul Schuetz, 121; Joseph Windsor, 121; Ann Ferras, 120; Clara Hennigway, 120; Gertrude Herrmann, and Josephine Schaez, 119; Elizabeth Cone, Cecile Benson, and Michael Desimone, 118; Esther Anderson, Wesley Frost and Eva Post, 117.

Along with other activities on Monday we started registering for the big Red Sox game on Oct. 2. I have 88 tickets and I was quite surprised to find the line to be quite small, and in fact we only sold 48 tickets all day. This means that we still have 40 tickets left, and we will have the rest of this week to register our members, after that we may open it to the general public.

We have already purchased the tickets in advance because they will not hold large numbers of tickets; therefore, we have our members, and then must sell them or suffer the loss. So if you would like to go, give us a call, drop by, and after this week we can take a friend you bring if we still have tickets.

Need Volunteers?
I received a call from the Red Cross office telling me that they are in dire need of a few volunteers. It's quite difficult for the instructors to stop and give proper attention to a new member in the class. Speaking of volunteers, I still have a call wondering if some of you seniors might like to make some good old homemade cookies, or goodies to be served at the important Bicentennial meeting at 7:30 in the evening, Sept. 16, at the Manchester High School Auditorium.

At the meeting, volunteers are needed to help serve them, as well as be in on the meeting. So let's finish by saying that Manchester is going to play in this gala celebration. If you're at all interested, call our office, 443-3100.

Mini-Bus Rules
I think this is as good a time as any to once again explain the use of our mini-bus. For some reason some of our members feel that when we have trips that the mini-bus should be available to pick up persons and bring them to the center. Well if one stops to think about it, I am starting to pick up everyone on the day of the trip. I'd be all over town. Now can this be done, and still be ready to leave on time. No way can this be done. Mountain leave the center at 6:30 in the morning. Can you imagine what time I would have to get up to pick up all those wishing a ride?

So the reason for the mini-bus is this: If a senior has some sort of an emergency and needs transportation if a senior needs a ride to the doctor's or dentist's or some important and necessary place we will be glad to give them a ride providing they call our office at least a day ahead.

I believe I made an error in telling one of the members about the following other use of the mini-bus. If a member lives in an area outside our regular bus route, and would like to attend any of our planned programs, other than trips, they should call our office at least one day ahead, and we will arrange to pick that person up.

Now one member on Hartmouth Rd. called in, and I gave her the wrong information. She should call our office. However, if she is still interested in the oil painting class she should call our office.

So let's finish by saying that Manchester is going to play in this gala celebration. If you're at all interested, call our office, 443-3100.

Robert Duggart will be at the senior citizens center from 10 a.m. to noon every day this week to help seniors make out their bonus applications. For further information call this office.

Nixon Pardon Splits Some Households

The Watergate furor which President Ford had sought to quell continued to rage as Americans split sharply and vehemently over his decision to pardon Richard M. Nixon.

The decision even split households. "The public wants it over with," said Loren Brush, 79, a retired Marion, Ill., coal miner. "Ford was right, Nixon's gone through enough the last six months in office."

But others thought the pardon smacked of collusion between Nixon and Ford. "Nixon and Ford had all this planned," said Charles Logan, a Rochester, N.Y., construction worker. "Why would that croak (Nixon) get off scot-free while all his assistants do time?"

Others defended Ford's decision. "When a man's been our president, elected by a vote of all the people, he should be given the greatest honors that the country can bestow, and even if he's found guilty should be given a pardon," said Elizabeth Bradford of Piedmont, Calif. "And I think all the people who've been found guilty should be pardoned."

Many felt Nixon had suffered enough because of Watergate. Kirk Sherwood, an 18-year-old college student from Weston, Conn., was among them. "Ford was right, Nixon's gone through enough the last six months in office."

But others thought the pardon smacked of collusion between Nixon and Ford. "Nixon and Ford had all this planned," said Charles Logan, a Rochester, N.Y., construction worker. "Why would that croak (Nixon) get off scot-free while all his assistants do time?"

The Board of Education will meet tonight at 8 at the Education Administration Building on the Green.

Stated for discussion on the agenda are reports from the accountability committee, faculty-administrative committee, building committee, adult education and by-laws.

Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, superintendent of schools, has advised the board of the resignation of high school vocal music teacher, Newwood Mansur, who will teach in Putnam.

Appointments expected to be approved by the board this evening include: Mrs. Masson at Carl Abell, Hartford Art School of the University of Hartford, to teach arts and crafts at the Middle School.

Lee Barbach, University of Connecticut graduate, to replace Parker gym teacher James Dyer for one semester.

Susan Dixon, Hart College of Music graduate, to replace Mann as part-time vocal teacher.

Rita Lambert, St. Joseph College graduate, to replace Mrs. Bildeau at Parker while she is on a child-rearing leave.

Celeste McFarland, graduate of Covent College with a master of arts in teaching degree from Webster College, to replace Mrs. Masson at Hicks, who is on a maternity leave.

Albert Milici, graduate of Eastern Connecticut State College, to replace Mrs. Brien at Hicks School.

Mrs. Lynn Nicolera has been hired to replace Paul Feeley as guidance counselor at Tolland High School. Mrs. Nicolera is a graduate of the University of Dayton and holds a master's degree in guidance and counseling from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh. She has been a counselor at Rham High School in Hebron until now.

Ideal High School Senior Sought By Junior Women

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Boys in this area are being invited to join Scout troops or Cub Scout packs as a part of the annual fall membership program of the Long Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America.

WEDDING

The bride-elect is a 1973 graduate of Keene (N.H.) State College. She is now a staff artist with Yankee Magazine in Dublin, N.H.

Her fiancé attended Vesper George School of Art and the Boston Museum School of Art, both in Boston, Mass. He is now a hydro-mechanic with Strongmen, Inc. in Keene.

Butter has been made since ancient times when it was used as medicine and as fuel in lamps, as well as food.

Jigsaw puzzles have their origin in the "dissected map" produced by John Spitsbury on Drury Lane, London, in the 1740's, mounted on wood panels and cut into pieces.

25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Comollo of 71 Constance Dr. were honored recently at a 25th wedding anniversary party hosted by their children, Miss Fern Comollo and Richard Comollo.

Friends and relatives who attended included the Mrs. Alice Schmidt of Maitland of Newington, the maid of honor; Richard Muske of Atlanta, Ga., best man; Earl Senger of Monroe, Wash. and George Blair of Roxford, N.Y., who were ushers, were unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Comollo were married Sept. 10, 1949 at St. James Church by the Rev. John Hannan.

Additional information about the Scout and Cub Scout program is available from the Long Rivers Council service center, 70 Forest St., Hartford, Conn. 525-1112.

Back in 1891 The Cheney Mill was going strong, and Heritage Savings was the only savings institution in town.

In 1838 the Cheney Mill began manufacturing silk. By 1891 the Cheney Mill was a thriving Manchester business of national renown.

Back then, Manchester didn't have a bank where a family could save or finance a home. That's when some local townspeople founded Heritage Savings and Loan Association (then called Manchester Building and Loan Association). Ever since, we have been specializing in savings and home financing for the people of this area.

Worker Care Facilities Said Lacking

FARMINGTON (UPI) — The union representing about 200 state employees at the new UConn Health Center says the center lacks adequate medical treatment facilities for its workers.

Local 1922 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees has disclosed it has complained to John Kelleher, personnel director at the center which is set to open in January.

"It appears that the UConn Health Center's administration is more concerned with property than people," union president Brad Sperry said. Sperry cited as examples two union carpenters who were injured on the job but denied medical treatment at the center and told to go to McCook Hospital in Hartford without being offered transportation there.

Scarlet Fever Cases Reported

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Health Department says two cases of scarlet fever were reported in Connecticut last week, one in Danbury and one in New London.

California Bar Group Wants Nixon 'Fitness to Practice' Law Reviewed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A group of California attorneys wants the state bar to determine former President Richard Nixon's "fitness to practice law," despite his planned resignation from the bar.

A petition was circulated today among the 500 delegates to the annual State Bar meeting, asking that an already lengthy investigation into possible disbarment proceedings against Nixon be completed.

Nixon's personal attorney, Dean S. Butler, previously announced that the former president will resign from the California Bar "to engage in matters other than the practice of law."

Some members feared the investigation would be forgotten once Nixon's letter of resignation was forwarded to California's Supreme Court, which is the final authority in the matter.

Troop 25 Scouts Undertook Many Pioneering Projects

Pioneering projects were the major activity for the 86 Scouts of Troop 25 at their annual summer camp at Camp Kirkham, Lemington, N.H.

As one approached the camp the first evidences of this project were two 18-foot lashed towers built by the Sequoia and Fox Patrols under the guidance of Junior Assistants James Bowen and Timothy Castagna.

The Panther Patrol with the assistance of Junior Assistant David Whiting made a raised seat on the waterfront and repaired the life-guard tower and other waterfront facilities.

The Eagle and Moose Patrols with the help of Junior Assistants Kenneth Burkamp and William Shaw built a log cabin shelter which will be used for program displays.

On the way to the beaver pond at the rear of the camp proper the Wolf Patrol built a rustic bridge with the help of Junior Assistant Harry Arendt. At the side of the beaver pond the Senior Scouts, supervised by Assistant Scoutmaster Paul Kudra, constructed an observation platform where the scouts will be able to watch natural life on the pond.

Camp Director

The camp was again under the direction of Scoutmaster Harry S. Maidment. Scott Tinti was program director for the Boy Scouts, while Brian Newman supervised the Senior Scout program for the second week. Murray Johnston and Armando Darna each served a week as camp business managers, while Theodore Methylene and Ernest Arendt Sr. were store managers.

Cooks for the first week were John Bengson and Ernest Cox, while Jeffrey Kiojzy and William Castagna cooked the second week. Waterfront directors were Gregory DeNies and John Bowen, assisted by Harry Beckwith and Paul Kudra. Mrs. Lois Beckwith served as camp nurse.

The maintenance staff included Chester Kimball, Stephen Hale, Mark Findlay, and Stephen Shaw. Assisting in other capacities were Jeffrey Bissell, Neal Nelson, John Ostroff and Scott Johnson.

During the first week of camp the 15-year-old Senior Scouts made a 50-mile trip on the Appalachian Trail traveling south to Hanover, N.H. Their leaders were James Aldrich and Ernest Arendt Jr. At the same time under the leadership of David Shearer and John Bowen, the 16-year-olds took part in a canoe trip down the Connecticut River.

Other camp activities for the younger boys included capture the flag and Moby Dick games, the annual ghost hike, sports nights, swimming, and campfires. In addition, the Senior Scouts had a dance with local Girl Scouts at the Lemington Town Hall. They also took a special trip to the Northfield (Mass.) power plant and recreational area. This culminated with a boat trip down the Connecticut River.

On the final night of camp the following scouts were elected to the Nikiwigi, the Troop Honor Society: William Chase, Lonny Jennings, David Spencer, Jeffrey Methylene, Guy Gunderson, Ralf Michels, John Beckwith, David Maidment, Michael Shearer, William Tedford and Daniel Young.

Somers Escapee Surrenders

SOMERS (UPI) — Robert Koch, the convicted bank robber whose escape from Somers prison Tuesday was described as an "almost inhuman feat," has surrendered, State Police said today.

Robert Koch, the convicted bank robber whose escape from Somers prison Tuesday was described as an "almost inhuman feat," has surrendered, State Police said today.

Koch, 29, became the first person to escape from the maximum security prison. Further details were not immediately available.

Koch of Baltimore, Md., vaulted three fences, one of them 28-feet high, during a recreation period at the fog-bound and supposedly escape-proof maximum security prison built in this rural northern Connecticut community near the Massachusetts border in 1963.

State authorities at first said Koch was a convicted murderer. However, federal officials said later he was a suspect in a double homicide that occurred in Baltimore but he has not been charged in that case.

Koch was dressed in prison khaki. State Police described him as "extremely dangerous."

The police urged motorists to ignore hitchhikers. They described Koch as 5 feet 11, and 180 pounds with a facial scar.

Koch had been held in punitive segregation stemming from an abortive escape attempt last week and was taking morning exercise with other prisoners when he bolted.

Troopers armed with shotguns searched for Koch and dense woods behind the prison until dark. Bloodhounds picked up several scents but none strong enough to follow, police said.

At one point during the search police found a car parked in the driveway of an empty home.

Police Tuesday mounted one of the largest manhunt in state history, which included National Guard helicopters and bloodhounds.

Shadows searched for Koch and dense woods behind the prison until dark. Bloodhounds picked up several scents but none strong enough to follow, police said.

Heads Foundation

Thomas F. Ferguson has been named president of the Heads Foundation, Inc. at its recent annual meeting of its Board of Directors.

Ferguson replaces Robert L. Nelson who previously served in the capacity of Ferguson, former co-owner of The Manchester Herald and co-chairman of Manchester's Sequential Celebration.

Other officers elected are Fred Carlin, vice president, who is assistant treasurer of the Connecticut Bank & Trust Co., David Nichols of Lydall, Inc., renamed treasurer, and Allan Thomas, secretary.

YWCA Fall Classes Announced

The Manchester YWCA Nutmeg Program Center, 78 N. Main St., has announced its schedule of fall classes.

Library Displays Books

The Anna Caroline French Junior Room of the Mary Cheney Library will have on display until Sept. 21 a group of 38 children's books purchased with money from the Newton F. Taggart Fund.

The fund was established in memory of Patrolman Taggart by his family, Main St. merchants, and friends. He was a member of the Manchester Police Department for more than 23 years and Main St. was his beat for 10 years preceding his death in 1958.

Books chosen for purchase represent some of the best titles published during the past year for children and young people, library officials said.

NASA Releases Data On Planet Jupiter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The colossal planet Jupiter is a spinning ball of liquid hydrogen with a turbulent interior and raging atmospheric storms.

The space agency said in releasing the reports that some of the information appears to confirm theories about Jupiter while other findings contradict earlier ideas about the planet.

At a depth of 15,000 miles, the pressure is 3 million atmospheres and liquid hydrogen turns to liquid metallic hydrogen.

The calculations indicate that the temperature of Jupiter's center is 54,000 degrees — six times the temperature on the surface of the sun.

The temperatures decrease steadily outward to 184 degrees below zero at the top of Jupiter's clouds.

Jupiter is almost certainly a liquid planet for it is too hot to solidify, even with its enormous internal pressures of millions of atmospheres, NASA said.

The agency said the atmosphere of Jupiter is made up of hydrogen, helium, methane, ammonia, water, and other gases.

At a depth of 1,800 miles, the temperature is put at 10,000 degrees and the pressure 90,000 atmospheres.

Meskill Confirmation Predicted by Senator

NORWICH (UPI) — Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., says he believes the Senate Judiciary Committee will approve the controversial nomination of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill to a federal judgeship.

"He's going to be all right" at the Judiciary Committee hearing set for Sept. 17, said Scott, the Senate's ranking Republican.

Scott called Meskill an "excellent governor. I'm sure we can call him a man of judgment whom we will soon call a judge."

Meskill was nominated to fill a vacancy on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second District which hears appeals from the states of Connecticut, Vermont and New York.

However, Assistant Attorney General Sidney Vogel argued that state law requires the license and that, without it, the school should be shut down. The action against the school was brought by the state Commission on Higher Education.

William R. Moller, attorney for the school, conceded the commission's regulatory powers, but said, "We say the right to regulate does not mean the right to destroy." Santaniello promised an early decision in the case.

State Leads Nation In Tax Payments

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Public Expenditures Council says Connecticut taxpayers paid more than $7.5 billion in state, local and federal taxes in fiscal 1973.

The state's total per capita tax of $2,654 in 1972, council data showed, made Connecticut the highest-paying state in the nation.

The American Bar Association and the dean of Yale Law School have joined several state organizations in opposing the nomination, mostly on the basis of the Republican governor's lack of trial experience.

Scott spoke at a campaign dinner Monday for GOP congressional candidate Samuel B. Heller.

However, Assistant Attorney General Sidney Vogel argued that state law requires the license and that, without it, the school should be shut down. The action against the school was brought by the state Commission on Higher Education.

William R. Moller, attorney for the school, conceded the commission's regulatory powers, but said, "We say the right to regulate does not mean the right to destroy." Santaniello promised an early decision in the case.

MANCHESTER

Neighbors of Barnville's Gun Shop at 217 Center St. heard glass break today at 1:33 a.m. and saw a man run from the store front, police said.

A man in his early 20s wearing a tan suit, about 5 feet, 10 inches tall, 165 pounds, and with long, dark wavy hair, was then seen by the neighbors walking down the stairs of the shop. When a neighbor called out to him, he ran up Newman St.

Missing are about 10 boxes of 22 caliber shells, each box containing 500 shells, and 12 boxes of 30-30 ammunition.

Other breaks included: The offices of William E. Bellone Realtors at 431 Main St. sometime Tuesday night. Nothing appears to be missing.

Stephen D. Pryor, 18, of 34 Cottage St., was arrested Monday and charged with evading the police. The charge stems from a collision at 4:15 p.m. Monday on Linden St. near Center St. between the motorcycle driven by Pryor and the car driven by Peter F. Pessolando, 39, of 79 Church St.

Other reports included: The 1965, blue, two-door Chevrolet of Denise Driggs of 24 Hathaway Lane was stolen during the day Tuesday from a Manchester Memorial Hospital parking lot.

Manchester Public Health Nursing Association will move to larger quarters in the Standard Education building at 160 N. Main St., on Nov. 1. The agency's board of directors authorized the signing of a five-year lease for the new facility at its meeting Tuesday.

The move to more spacious quarters was necessitated by the agency's growth in terms of services to the community, increased size of staff and the increasing case load, according to Mrs. Dorian Shainin, president of the board of directors. The staff has more than doubled in the past five years.

Al-Anon family groups will meet tonight at 8 at the Second Congregational Church parish house, 385 N. Main St., Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pathfinders Club, 102 Norman St., and Friday at 10 a.m. at the South United Methodist Church campus. Alken for the 12- to 20-year-old children of problem drinkers will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pathfinders Club. The family groups are open to friends and relatives living with severe problem drinkers.

The Home, Life and Youth Committee of the Manchester Junior Women's Club will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Fred Newman, 14 Hamlin Dr.

The Presbyterian Church, 43 Spruce St., will have a Bible study and prayer meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Fred Newman, 14 Hamlin Dr.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, will have a testimony meeting tonight at 8 at the church, 447 N. Main St. The meeting is open to the public.

The 1944 class reunion committee will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Ben Johnson, 374 Spring St.

NEWS TO HIM ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI) - Ogburn Gardner says he learned he was the prohibitionist party nominee for state auditor when he read the party's slate of candidates in a newspaper. He said he was pleased to be selected.

District Democrats Are Unanimous In Opposition to State Income Tax

House and Senate Democratic candidates from the Fourth Senatorial District have announced their unanimous opposition to any state income tax for Connecticut.

"We are asking the people of this district to recognize any attempt to foist an income tax on Connecticut will not come from Ella Grasso," the state-ment continues. "Mrs. Grasso has publicly stated on many occasions her opposition to an income tax."

"Mrs. Grasso's opponent would do well to get off Madison Avenue and leave p.r. gimmicks behind, and get onto Main Street where the people and their concerns are," the statement says.

The nine Democrats are: David Barry, fourth Senatorial District; Ted Cummings, 12th Assembly District; Francis Mahoney, 13th Assembly District; Mariel Vaccaro, ninth District; Abraham the Glassman, 14th District;

Eugene Scalise, 31st District; Teresalee Bertinasso, 37th District; Robert Walsh, 38th District; and Aloysius Ahearn, 53th District.

For Your Information

Dear friends, When we are confronted with a death in the family, most of us are quite unprepared for the emergency. Our grief prevents calm, logical thinking.

We advise that you secure a booklet from our funeral home that explains, beforehand, the information you should know to make sensible preparations and decisions.

Respectfully, John F. Tierney FUNERAL HOME PHONE 643-1222

THE HERALD ANGLE Theft Mark

NEW YORK (UPI) - Lou Brock as the major league's new single-season stolen base record holder still regards the man whose mark he surpassed as "The Godfather" of the art of baseball thievery.

Brock also has a chance to top Ty Cobb's major league career total of 892 steals but he wasn't thinking of Cobb Tuesday night. He was thinking of Maury Willis, who set the previous single-season mark of 104 in 1962. Cobb's top season effort was 96 in 1915.

"I'm a good friend of Maury and often call him for advice," Brock said after the game. "What Maury did is history and what I did is news. Someday in the future what I did will be history and someone else might make the news."

"Maury is still the Godfather and one of the greatest base-runners I've ever seen."

Brock's steals were overcome by the power of Mike Schmidt, who drove in four runs with a homer and two doubles, and the Cardinal star conceded "It would have been 100 per cent better if he had won." The loss dropped the Cardinals 3 1/2 games behind the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL's Eastern race.

Brock stole his 104th base in the first inning and No. 105 in the seventh. The crowd of 30,812 gave him an ovation after the record breaker and he was presented with both bases. Hall of Famer Cool Papa Bell took part in the 11-minute ceremonies alongside the Cardinal dugout during which Brock credited Ted Sizemore, Reggie Smith and Bake McBride and trainer Gene Gieselman for their roles in his achievement.

Pirates 12, Cubs 4 - Richie Hebner had four straight hits for the second straight day and drove in three runs to lead a 20-hit Pittsburgh attack which included 18 hits in the first four innings. Ken Brett went the first six innings to win his 13th game for the Pirates. Rick Reuschel was the loser.

Dodgers 1, Braves 0 - Don Sutton pitched a four-hitter for his fifth shutout and 15th win for the Dodgers, who maintained their 3 1/2 game lead over the Reds in the West. Consecutive singles by Steve Garvey, Willie Crawford and Ron Cey off Carl Morton drove in the game's only run in the second inning.

Reds 5, Padres 2 - Pete Rose's two doubles and a single led a 12-hit Cincinnati attack which enabled Don Gullett to breeze to his 16th win. Gullett struck out 11 and didn't walk a batter. He was tagged for a homer by rookie Randy Elliott in the fifth and surrendered the Padres' other run in the ninth.

Willie Davis' two-run homer and Larry Lintz' three RBIs led the Expos over the McGraw and the Mets. Don Lee Carrithers pitched seven innings for the Expos, raising his mark to 4-1 while the loss was McGraw's eighth against six wins.

Giants 6, Astros 5 - Tito Fuentes' bases-filled single and Bobby Bonds' sacrifice fly drove in two runs in the top of the 11th and the Houston ang on for the victory despite a run by Houston in the bottom of the inning. Lee May, Cesar Cedeno and Mill May homered for Houston.

Biggest Mound Win For Yankees' Dobson - BOSTON (UPI) - Pat Dobson says he may have pitched better but never at a better time. Dobson threw 11 innings of four hit ball, giving up one unearned run Tuesday night, in the New York Yankees' 12-inning, 2-1 win over the Boston Red Sox. The victory placed the Yankees two games ahead of Boston and Baltimore in the American League East race.

"I won't say it was really my best game," said Dobson, a 20-game winner with Baltimore in the pennant year of 1971. "But it was my most important and biggest win and that in itself makes it the best game."

"This has to be the biggest game I ever pitched because it meant first place and it was against Boston at Fenway Park," where the Yanks had won just twice in their past 22 games. The 32-year-old right-hander, winner of his last six games, has said he feels entirely different pitching for the Yankees than when he was 20-8 for Baltimore in 1971.

"It's a completely different thing now," said Dobson, 16-14. "When I was in Baltimore, we won the pennant by 12 or 13 games. Really, during the course of the season there wasn't one game we had to win. We just broke out to an early six-game lead and then built it to 12 in August and September."

Dobson had to win Tuesday, however, since a loss would have dropped the Yankees into another tied place with the Red Sox. He struck out two, walked four and had good control when I was in trouble."

Dobson's pitched some real good games for us," said manager Bill Vukobrat, "but that's the longest he's pitched for us so well."

One Johnson Delivered

Boston - One Johnson, Alex of New York delivered, and one Johnson, Deron of Boston, didn't and that in a nutshell was the difference in last night's Yankee 12-inning 2-1 win over the Red Sox before 33,174 fans at Fenway Park last night.

Played in World Series atmosphere, the final meeting of the two clubs in Boston was decided in the top of the 12th when Johnson, the much-traveled and controversial veteran, made his debut in Yankee colors and tied into a 1-1 pitch by reliever Diego Segui and deposited the ball in the Red Sox bullpen. Bob Veale, who was warming up, made a one-handed catch as gloom settled over the park.

Johnson's first hit in his second at bat as a Yankee after being claimed for the waiver price of $20,000 from Texas last year, came in the top of the 12th when he struck the one day earlier as possible pennant insurance enabled the Yanks to leave Boston with a two-game lead in the hectic American League East race.

Boston's Johnson wasn't as productive. Coming on in a pinch-hitting role in the 12th, he went down swinging.

Brock's steals were overcome by the power of Mike Schmidt, who drove in four runs with a homer and two doubles, and the Cardinal star conceded "It would have been 100 per cent better if he had won." The loss dropped the Cardinals 3 1/2 games behind the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL's Eastern race.

"This has to be the biggest game I ever pitched because it meant first place and it was against Boston at Fenway Park," where the Yanks had won just twice in their past 22 games. The 32-year-old right-hander, winner of his last six games, has said he feels entirely different pitching for the Yankees than when he was 20-8 for Baltimore in 1971.

"It's a completely different thing now," said Dobson, 16-14. "When I was in Baltimore, we won the pennant by 12 or 13 games. Really, during the course of the season there wasn't one game we had to win. We just broke out to an early six-game lead and then built it to 12 in August and September."

Dobson had to win Tuesday, however, since a loss would have dropped the Yankees into another tied place with the Red Sox. He struck out two, walked four and had good control when I was in trouble."

Dobson's pitched some real good games for us," said manager Bill Vukobrat, "but that's the longest he's pitched for us so well."

Lou Brock as the major league's new single-season stolen base record holder still regards the man whose mark he surpassed as "The Godfather" of the art of baseball thievery.

NEW YORK (UPI) - Lou Brock as the major league's new single-season stolen base record holder still regards the man whose mark he surpassed as "The Godfather" of the art of baseball thievery.

Brock also has a chance to top Ty Cobb's major league career total of 892 steals but he wasn't thinking of Cobb Tuesday night. He was thinking of Maury Willis, who set the previous single-season mark of 104 in 1962. Cobb's top season effort was 96 in 1915.

"I'm a good friend of Maury and often call him for advice," Brock said after the game. "What Maury did is history and what I did is news. Someday in the future what I did will be history and someone else might make the news."

"Maury is still the Godfather and one of the greatest base-runners I've ever seen."

Brock's steals were overcome by the power of Mike Schmidt, who drove in four runs with a homer and two doubles, and the Cardinal star conceded "It would have been 100 per cent better if he had won." The loss dropped the Cardinals 3 1/2 games behind the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL's Eastern race.

Axe Came Down Hard In Pro Football Camps

NEW YORK (UPI) — The axe came down hard in the National Football League Tuesday and the deepest cuts may have been felt in New York and Chicago.

Tuesday afternoon was the deadline for clubs to reduce their rosters to the 47-player limit and since rosters were still bulging from the Players Association strike, nearly 200 players, many of them veterans, suddenly found themselves out of jobs.

In New York, new Coach Bill Arnsparger, a former assistant at Miami, has the task of rebuilding the Giants from their 2-11-11 disaster of last season. He started cleaning house Tuesday, dropping quarterback Randy Johnson, a sometimes starter last season, starting fullback Charlie Evans, return specialist Rocky Thompson, a No. 1 draft pick three years ago, veteran defensive end Dave Tipton and punter Tom Blanchard along with a group of rookies.

Johnson, probably the most effective quarterback in the Giant camp this summer, is playing out his option and is headed for The Hawaiians of the World Football League. Evans was the player representative during the strike and says that may have played a big part in his deletion.

The Giants also acquired quarterback Jim Del Gaudio from Green Bay for a draft choice.

And in Chicago, where Abe Giron is faced with recovering from a 3-11 season, the Bears traded veteran offensive guard Glen Holton to Cleveland for a draft choice and dropped veteran running back Clifford McClain and linebackers Chip Myrtle, Gaal Clark and Dave Oliveri. The Bears also obtained second-year wide receiver Bo Rafter from Miami and deal defensive tackle Tony McGeer to New England for a draft pick.

In other squad cuts, Baltimore dropped reserve quarterback Tom Pierantozzi and Cincinnati sold wide receiver Tim George to Detroit and dropped a group of rookies that included Daryl White, former Nebraska star guard. Denver placed running back Bob Anderson and tackle Marv Montgomery on injured waivers and dropped wide receiver Al Barnes, who is headed for the NFL.

Green Bay acquired quarterback Dean Carlson from Kansas City to replace Del Gaudio and put center Ken Bowman, the player rep, on injured waivers and waived veteran defensive back Huse Austin.

Miami waived Ron Sellers, the injury-prone wide receiver, and traded Rafter to Chicago and the New York Jets dropped veteran safety Chris Fasanos along with punter Julian Fagan and placed wide receiver Margene Adkins on injured waivers.

St. Louis put running back Eddie Moss on injured waivers and dropped veteran safety Chuck Detweiler and San Francisco cut return specialist Cecil Turner, just obtained from Chicago, and traded running back Randy Jackson to Philadelphia for a draft choice.

Atlanta dropped running back Oscar Dragon while Kansas City lopped off quarterback Pete Beathard, who immediately signed with Portland of the NFL, center Mike Oriard, kicker George Jakowenko, veteran defensive lineman Carlton Oats and Pat Holmes and defensive back Larry Marshall.

Pittsburgh dropped quarterback Leo Gasienica and New Orleans cut wide receiver Fair Hooker, a recent acquisition from Cleveland, defensive back Hugo Hollas, wide receiver Doug Winslow and punter Steve O'Neal.

Detroit obtained defensive back Charlie West from Minnesota and Houston waived safety Larry Eaglin and running back Lewis Jolley. Minnesota trimmed veteran center Godfrey Zaunbrecher and wide receiver Rhett Dawson and placed quarterback Mike Wells and guard John Ward on injured waivers.

Spencer After Revenge In WFL Feature Game

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie "Big Boy" Spencer plans to make his presence felt when the revenge-hungry Memphis Southern take on the unbeaten Birmingham Americans tonight.

Spencer said.

Not only does the Memphis running back want to help his World Football League team tonight, he has something to prove. The Southern are 8-2 and their only loss was to Birmingham and Philadelphia. Since they do not meet the Bell again this season, tonight is their only chance for revenge.

Birmingham will be favored but Memphis supporters think their team has three advantages — the home field, advanced incentive and more rest. The Southern starters were able to rest on the sidelines the second half Saturday night as they routed Houston 45-0 while the Americans fought until the last minute to whip Chicago 41-0.

Gotta agree his team will be tired but doesn't believe it'll be flat.

"I want to get back at him," said the 6-foot-4, 225-pound rookie, who has rushed for 374 yards and seven touchdowns. "I've got something to settle with him."

Spencer was 18 years old and just out of high school in Massillon, Ohio, when he was traded to the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League. He was cut — and cut again last year when he tried a second time.

Rifle Open Monday

The Recreation Department will open the Manchester Rifle Range to the public for recreation shooting and instruction Monday, Sept. 16.

This 30-foot indoor range facility is one of the finest in the state. The range use is limited to National Rifle Assn. approved target shooting for 22 long rifle and any caliber revolver using lead type bullets. Targets and proper ammunition must be furnished by each participant and will not be available from the town clubs.

Manchester boasts two line club programs, the Rifle Club and the Revolver Club. The rifle range will be open to these clubs and for public use at the specific times designated below, with a range official on hand to maintain safe and proper range use.

Present evening hours: Rifle Club, Monday 7 to 10 Junior Target; Wednesday 7 to 12 Rifle Club practice; Thursday 7 to 12 Match.

Revolver Club: Tuesday 8 to 12 Match & Team Practice. Public: Rifle, Tuesday and Friday 8 to 8, Wednesday 9 to 10.

Revolver: Tuesday and Friday 8 to 10 p.m.

Any questions concerning the range use and hours please call the Rec at 646-6010.

Courageous (top) at Start of Race

U.S. One Up in Race

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — With one victory sailed away, the defending yacht Courageous of the United States went out to seek another today over Australia's Southern Cross in the second race of the best-of-seven series for the America's Cup.

Weather experts predicted much stronger winds — up to 20 knots — for the second encounter between the two new aluminum-hulled 12-meter boats and this might favor the Australian challenger in this 23rd attempt by a foreign nation to take the Cup from the United States.

"They (Hartford) have a better performer in heavier air. But a lot of this argument went down the drain in Tuesday's opening race — run in winds of nine knots and less because it was a better boat and better sailing that gave Courageous a four minute, 54-second advantage at the finish line of the 24.3 mile contest in Rhode Island Sound.

Weather permitting, today's race over the same course was scheduled to start at 12:10 EDT.

At a news briefing after the finish of the opening race, Alan Bond, 36-year-old Australian business man who is backing Southern Cross to the tune of a reported $9 million, protested mildly against the America's starting tactics.

"We warned the starting skipper, Dennis Conner, that if he continued to yell and scream at the start, calling 'false lifts,' we will have no alternative but to protest and we do so tomorrow," Bond said.

Ted Hood, skipper of Courageous who took over the helm after Conner got the yacht away to a two-second advantage over Southern Cross, dismissed Bond's protest with little comment, terming the incident "an overlap" which occurs frequently in yachting contests and is in no way a rules violation.

Hood's sailing tactics Tuesday were superb. After Conner's splended start, Hood pushed Courageous to a 1:22 lead at the second mark and rounded the fifth and final mark with a 4:05 advantage. From there to the finish line, it was a walk for Courageous.

The initial race was run in light winds that ranged up to nine knots, and it was this kind of air in which Courageous excels.

The series start was viewed by thousands of persons assembled in spectator boats that crowded the perimeter of the course.

Punt, Pass and Kick Competition on Oct. 5

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — David Thompson hit six of 19 second-half shots and finished with 30 points Tuesday night to lead a United States All Star team to an 82-72 victory over the visiting USSR All Stars.

Local youngsters, between the ages of 8 and 13, will be competing Saturday, Oct. 5, for one of 18 trophies in the first level of the Punt, Pass and Kick competition. PP&K is an annual event, co-sponsored locally by Dillon Sales & Service and Manchester Midget Football Association. First-second and third-place winners in each of the six age groups will receive a trophy. Additional trophies will be awarded to the first-place winner in zone, district, area, divisional and national finals.

Area, divisional and national matches will be held in NFL team stadiums immediately preceding actual NFL games or during their hall-time programs. This year's zone competition will be held in Manchester on Oct. 12. Any boy or girl (8-13) accompanied by a parent or guardian may register at Dillon's where complete details and a free PP&K tips book are available.

Giusti Out

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dave Giusti, ace relief pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, may be lost to the club for a week, and perhaps longer, due to a back injury.

The Pirates, in first place in the National League East, hold a three-game lead over St. Louis and had 21 games left to play.

Giusti injured his back while fielding grounders before Monday's game with the Cubs in Chicago. When he attempted to warm up during the game, he felt pain in the back.

Trip Across Atlantic Ocean Educational Experience During Soccer Journey

By Len Auster

Going across the Atlantic Ocean to play seven soccer matches might seem wasteful but for two Manchester youths it was an educational experience.

Taking off Aug. 5 with their Connecticut Junior A Soccer Association teammates for a two-week tour of Scotland and England were Billy MacLean and Werner Cacace. Not only did they get a chance to improve their soccer skills but also to broaden their horizons. "Everything was so fantastic. We stayed in places that looked like castles. They had fireplaces and mantelpieces. Everything was so luxurious," Cacace who is headed to Eastern Connecticut State College, raved. "The best part of the trip was the first half to Scotland. Everybody was so nice to us in the stores."

MacLean, who'll be starting his final year at Manchester High this fall, agreed about which part of the trip was the best. "The countryside in Scotland was just fantastic. The zoning laws are very strict. There are green fields and stone walls which are all very beautiful. And there are flowers everywhere in the country. The most fascinating town we visited was Edinburgh. We saw Edinburgh Castle which has a huge amphitheatre where we saw a rock concert." And Cacace chimed in, "There was also a Sir Walter Scott Monument in Edinburgh. I took 25 photos there. I could have taken 200."

The first week of the sojourn was in Scotland before heading to the southern part of the island of Great Britain.

"London is a tourist trap," Cacace said sharply before softening. "But I must say, Piccadilly Circus was very nice. London is different. It's friendly but not as open as up north," MacLean believes.

The seven-game slate resulted in a 4-2-1 win-loss-tied mark. The nice part was that both Silk Towens played almost every minute with MacLean notching two goals. The hosts were also most receptive to the local representatives.

"Both the Scottish and English said that we were the best team they've seen from America. People would say 'We didn't know Americans could play football (soccer)'. Performing in such cities as Alexandria and Jamestown before crowds of over 500, a number sometimes not reached in professional clashes in the States, the awesome pickup up the atmosphere of their surroundings.

"Soccer is the sport over there. It's the main attraction on television. We attended one game where they had 70,000 fans. And that's the norm."

There was one quirk in attending the game, Cacace revealed. "The crowd is one-sided. If you're for the visitors you root but quietly." The visitors that day were from Liverpool, England. Their colors are red. The American contingent was decked out in red jackets for the tour. The red jackets were left behind in the hotel rooms. Returning Aug. 19, the players were tired but exhilarated by their travels.

"We went and learned about the people and their culture. It's really hard to explain," MacLean noted. "It was a good learning experience. For one we definitely improved our soccer skills."

Cacace and MacLean helped pay their way by working before their departure. The former worked at Manchester Memorial Hospital and the latter at Frank's Supermarket. They also received $500 in donations from local individuals and merchants.

"We sent postcards but we would like to thank them again for their support," expressed MacLean.

"It was a worthwhile trip which was beneficial to both. And 'It was worth every penny,'" Cacace notes.

East Runners Debut Friday

By Len Auster

Returning most of the top runners from an 8-8 1973 season, the East Catholic cross country team appears to be in good shape for the upcoming campaign. The Eagles, under the direction of first year coach Dave Kelley, met their 1974 debut Friday afternoon at home against Rockville High on the Wickham Park layout.

"We have all the tough teams on our slate," commented Kelley. "Rockville, Farmington, Xavier and St. Bernard always field top teams." The opening foe is headed by Pat Brand, winner of most of the races staged by MCC-SAM at the Manchester Community College campus. "The Rams have most of their team back and they're especially good in the beginning of the season." Proceeded with caution is the directive.

Senior Jim Giulietti, who seems to come down with something, the latest hepatitis, during the 1973 track season, appears to be in shape and should be a big point winner. Other veterans depended upon are senior Ed Dana and juniors Joe Burinaks and Mark Skehan. Juniors John Flynn and Joe Stamp and sophomores Eric Lecko and Steve Colbert lend support. East apparently has a freshman phenom on its hands in the embodiment of Brett Jones. "He's going to be outstanding," Kelley raves. "He's big and tall and trains hard. He looks like a runner. I think he's going to be super." Another mentioned by Kelley is sophomore Marilyn Moriarty. Kelley stated that she will be running on the boys' team until the girls' state championship. "She just started running a year ago. She is going to be fantastic."

Kelley voiced concern about the earliness of the start of the season. He stated that his barriers have just been running in practice for distance and haven't done any speed work.

"We should start slow and build up. We should have a good shot at the Hartford County Conference title. We've never beaten Xavier or St. Bernard, they always have superb teams, but we're not going to be out-classed by them this year. We have a good group of individuals—we'll have a good team—next year might be even better with only two seniors on the roster this season."

After Friday's opener, East hits the road for a four week meet Tuesday against Wolcott Tech, Lewis Mills and Avon at Avon High. Next Friday the Eagles oppose cross-town rival Manchester High at the Indians' home course.

'It's a Shame'—Spurrier

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco 49er quarterback Steve Spurrier, speaking from his hospital bed, thinks "It's a shame that these big linemen can pick you up and slam you into the ground after you've thrown the ball."

The one-time Heisman Trophy winner is understandably bitter after being hurt in the last preseason game after he finally became the club's No. 1 quarterback. He had played behind John Brodie for seven seasons until Brodie retired.

Spurrier was operated on Monday for a shoulder separation suffered in the 17-7 loss to Los Angeles Sunday. He said Tuesday the league officials should "take steps to protect the quarterback."

"I never had a chance," he said. "I'd already let go of the ball and my arm was down. This Ram player wrapped his arms around me, hitting me high, and he used his weight and mine to topple me over backwards. He just kept boring in."

"I knew on the way down I was in trouble and I thought, oh hell, I'm helpless. My shoulder took the weight of both of us."

Indian Harriers Start on Friday

By Len Auster

Friday the 13th is not known as a day which brings luck. It could be an eventful day for the Manchester High cross country team as it opens the 1974 campaign with an away meet against Hartford Public High, rated a prime contender for state honors.

Jody Weatherax and he's rated one of the top three runners in the state. It'll be difficult to beat him," commented newly installed tri-coach George Sutor. The first year leader also noted that Hartford has Charlie Duggan's twin brothers. Duggan started in scholastic circles and is still doing his thing at Springfield College. "What we're trying to get is the top five men under 17 minutes on our course. If we can no one will beat us at home."

Top contenders for the OCIL title are Windham and Conard High of West Hartford. Manchester is also rated a threat by its mentor. Following Friday's opener, the Indians are away against South Catholic Tuesday before making their home debut next Friday against cross-town foe East Catholic.

Kuhana's Advance

Advancing in a Middletown Spin Pitch Softball Tournament was Kuhana's kids with a 14-11 verdict. The big sticks were John Barry and Mike Kilby with four hits apiece while Joe Quaglia added three and Subby Salafia two.

In New England Primaries

Voters Favor Incumbents

United Press International The father of the nation's first no-fault car insurance law and three incumbents were gubernatorial victors Tuesday as primaries were held in five New England states.

Massachusetts voters re-nominated incumbent Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts and Melvin Thomson of New Hampshire and Democratic Gov. Thomas P. Salmon of Vermont to face their respective opponents in the gubernatorial election.

Two Republican congressmen were nominated to succeed two retiring U.S. Senators. A house painter ended the seven-year career of another Congressman.

In Massachusetts, for the first time in its history, two blacks were nominated for the state Senate, one without opposition.

Two Republican congressmen were nominated to succeed two retiring U.S. Senators. A house painter ended the seven-year career of another Congressman.

In Massachusetts, for the first time in its history, two blacks were nominated for the state Senate, one without opposition.

Republican Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts and Melvin Thomson of New Hampshire and Democratic Gov. Thomas P. Salmon of Vermont were re-nominated to face their respective opponents in the gubernatorial election.

Tuesday's Primaries At a Glance

United Press International Here are the results of Tuesday's state-wide primaries. New York — Senate: Ramsey Clark, Democrat, to face Jacob Javits, incumbent Republican. Governor: Hugh Carey, Democrat, and Malcolm Wilson, incumbent Republican, to face each other.

Florida — Senate: Runoff needed between Bill Gunter and Dick Stone, Democrats, winner to face Jack Eckerd, Republican incumbent, and Richard Leavy, Democrat, and Richard Mallory, Republican, Governor. Thomas Salmon, Democrat incumbent, and Walter Kennedy, Republican, to face each other.

Wisconsin — Senate: Gaylord Nelson, Democrat incumbent, and James Petri, Republican, Governor. Patrick Lacey, Democrat incumbent, and William Dyke, Republican, to face each other.

Tax Data Protection Statute Prepared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The tax records of every American would be protected from unnecessary government snooping, under terms of a bill prepared for introduction today by Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., D-Conn., and Rep. Jerry Luton, D-Mo.

The comprehensive legislation, restricting access to tax return data to use in tax administration or enforcement of the Internal Revenue Code, is designed to ban any future efforts to politicize the Internal Revenue Service or use its files for political ends.

Weicker and Luton announced the introduction of their legislative package at a joint news conference.

The legislation permits access to tax returns by the taxpayer, his or her lawyer, IRS and Justice Department officials, state tax officials, members of a congressional tax committee, and the President in certain limited cases.

The bill, much more comprehensive than legislation offered in July by Weicker designed to bar most White House access to IRS files, also permits the release of tax data in statistical form to congressional committees and state agencies.

Judgeship For Gaffney Anticipated

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Thomas J. Meskill is reportedly preparing to name his close friend J. Brian Gaffney, former state GOP chairman, to a Superior Court judge.

Gaffney, from New Britain as Meskill, will replace retired Judge John J. Casale of Torrington, who left the bench Sept. 1, the Hartford Courant reported Tuesday.

The paper said Meskill, who himself is a nominee for a federal judgeship, will nominate Gaffney next month. The legislature will be asked next year to approve the nomination.

Gaffney retired as state Republican chairman last August, following the July nomination of Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., as the GOP gubernatorial candidate.

Gaffney and Meskill supported Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas A. Panuzo for the gubernatorial nomination last July. Gaffney managed Meskill's campaign for governor in 1970. Meskill won and became Connecticut's first Republican governor since 1950.

Sweet Dreams Lantana, Fla. (UPI) — Daydreaming is good for you, says Yale psychologist Jerome Singer.

It creates security in potentially frightening situations, prevents boredom and provides valuable release from anger, aggression and distress, he said.

Bonus Eligibility Clarified

The Manchester town clerk's office has clarified the eligibility requirements for World War I veterans applying for the $300 bonus authorized by the 1974 legislature.

To be eligible, the veteran: • Must be a legal resident of Connecticut when he applies. • Must have been a legal resident of Connecticut during the full year prior to his entry on active duty, and years immediately after separation. That is wrong. The five years may be ANY five years — even the five years from 1969 to 1974.

The applications are available in the town clerk's office in the Municipal Building.

Airline Profits Linked to Service Quality

By LEROY POPE UPI Business writer NEW YORK (UPI) — A prominent Chicago management consultant claims he has found a significant relationship between the profits of airlines and the attractiveness and efficiency of the attendants who serve the drinks and pillows to passengers.

Dennis Johnson, who went into management consulting after a successful career as an educational administrator,

She'll Ride It Some Day Gina Terlizzi of East Hartford will have to grow a little before she gets to ride her bike. She won it in D&L's back-to-school promotion. Helping her is Gary Youmans, assistant manager at D&L.

found after some months of research that, of the 11 major domestic airlines, the four with the best profits last year received fewer than half as many complaints from passengers about the service of flight attendants than the six airlines with the lower profit margins on average.

There were exceptions. National Airlines and Braniff Airlines which had good earnings last year also had lots of complaints about the service on board. And Continental Airlines, which had by far the fewest complaints about flight service — only 2.2 per 100,000 passengers — had only a 3.4 per cent profit margin for the year.

Nevertheless, on a total passenger basis, Johnson's thesis about the importance of good service by the flight attendants to airline profitability seemed to hold up.

"Certainly," Johnson argued, "it is significant that Pan American, which lost $39 million last year, and Eastern, which had a deficit of $64 million, had many more complaints about service aboard their planes than all the other airlines — 8.21 per 100,000 passengers for Eastern and 8.3 for Pan Am. The figures on complaints came from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Delta, Western, United and Northwest were the other airlines with conspicuously few complaints about service. TWA and American had somewhat better records on cabin service complaints than National, Braniff, Eastern and Pan Am. Both had low profit margins.

Johnson said he was moved to make the study because of the wide variance in his own personal experience with flight attendant service.

"I fly a lot, on all the airlines," he told United Press International. "The variations in service are astonishing. The managements of Delta and Continental are service-oriented.

Bumper Sticker Campaign Pays Off

Mrs. Eric A. Taylor

SILVERTON, Tex. (UPI) — Jack Robertson's $30 advertising campaign has paid off and the town may get the doctor it needs.

For $30, Robertson printed a stack of red, white and blue bumper stickers which said, "We need a doctor — Silvertown, Texas."

The town doctor broadened his work load early this year and in April set up practice several hundred miles away, leaving the 1,000 residents of Briscoe County unprotected.

"There isn't a person who leaves town now, on vacation or to go see some relatives, who doesn't have one of these stickers on his car," Robertson said.

"They're seen all over the country. How else are we going to advertise across the nation? Pretty soon the right guy is going to hear about it."

Indirectly, the campaign worked. United Press International carried a story on the bumper stickers Aug. 1. One of the newspapers that published it was in Houston, some 600 miles away.

"A young doctor read your story in the Houston paper and sat right down and wrote me a letter," Robertson said.

"He addressed it just like the story said," Jack Robertson, Jack's Pharmacy, downtown Silvertown, and the letter came right to me.

"I wrote him back and then we took up a collection to fly him and his wife up here to look over the town. He like it and he's going to go to work here when he passes his ECFMG examination."

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of Syracuse University School of Architecture.

Beacon, N.Y. was his brother's best man.

Mrs. Taylor is the granddaughter of Mrs. Herbert C. Morris of Philadelphia and Wianon, Miss. She is a graduate of The Baldwin School and Syracuse University.

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of Syracuse University School of Architecture.

Dr. Howard Friend officiated at the ceremony. A reception followed.

Miss Nancy Stewart of Norristown, Pa. was maid of honor. Bruce K. Taylor of Graduates examination, a requirement for practicing in the state.

"If he makes it through that examination — and we'll know next month — we have ourselves a new doctor, and maybe two because he's got a buddy and they are considering practicing together," Robertson said.

"So, I'm not going to call his name. For instance, I had a call from a man over in Denver City, and he wanted me to send him my leftovers. That's why I want to protect his name and where he's at. There's too many people here that would try to shoot me out of the saddle."

"We all felt that if we hired this man, we would have a doctor who we have a chance to keep, as opposed to someone who would move away in a few years. American doctors don't seem to be too satisfied with small towns."

"The town completed a $76,000 clinic at about the time the former doctor left.

It can accommodate two doctors and has a waiting room, two consultation rooms, four examining rooms, a laboratory, an emergency room, X-ray room and darkroom and various restrooms and closets.

"We haven't bought the equipment for it yet, but we have the money set aside," Robertson said. "We're waiting for the doctor to move down here and let us what he needs. That's not such a bad proposition, is it?"

Be ready to stop when driving by parked cars or in congested areas. Children can dart out of these areas at any time.

Eating Out May Become The In Thing SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dining out in 1984 may be a cozy, sensuous experience.

In 10 years, he said, about one-half of all American meals will be eaten outside the home, compared with current Agriculture Department statistics showing that one-third of all meals are eaten out.

"The trend toward 'do-it-yourself' activities in restaurants will be spread from the currently popular self-service salad bar to 'mix-your-own steaks' and 'make-your-own pizza,'" Bolling said.

"In this environment, the restaurant will become a hospitality center."

Identification of Boorman Remains Claimed

LONDON (UPI) — The dental detective who helped identify the charred remains of Nazi leader Adolf Hitler said Tuesday he has located the skull and teeth of Martin Bormann, the febrish's top aide.

Reidar Sognnaes said the skeletal remains indicate Bormann committed suicide by biting down on one of the potassium cyanide poison capsules Hitler gave his top lieutenants.

Bormann, Hitler's deputy, was last seen trying to escape from beleaguered Berlin while Russian troops fought their way into the city in 1945.

Senators Reviewing Nixon Expense Request

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate panel is looking into questions about how much federal money former President Richard Nixon will need for an office and staff to handle his private affairs. Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., alluded to a hearing of his appropriations subcommittee today on President Ford's request for an $850,000 supplemental appropriation to pay for Nixon's return to private life. "It appears to me that $850,000 is too much by many miles," Montoya said previously.

Montoya planned to question officials of the General Services Administration — which would administer the fund — about requests by Nixon for $100,000 in "miscellaneous" expenses, $40,000 in travel and $45,000 for office furnishings and equipment.

Party State Chairmen Comment On Ramifications of Pardon

HARTFORD (UPI) — John M. Bailey, Democratic state chairman and former national Democratic chairman, says President Ford may have put himself in a box when he pardoned former President Richard Nixon.

"Once you get started you never know where it is going to end," Bailey said. "They ought to think about that before they get started."

Montoya, in prepared remarks, questioned the need for such a large amount and said President Johnson had used only $370,000 of the allowable funds over an 18-month period.

Welfare Rolls Cut

HARTFORD (UPI) — State welfare officials have cut off benefits to more than 3,000 families in the past three months.

Welfare Commissioner Nicholas Norton said Tuesday that the department is discontinuing large numbers of people as a result of a new face-to-face case review system started in June.

The system automatically schedules all recipients for personal interviews to determine continuing eligibility. The interviews are the result of a federal order that state welfare departments reduce the number of eligible cases to three per cent of the entire caseload by next year.

Officials said almost 30 per cent of the cases being reviewed are found to be no longer eligible for benefits. If the trend continues, officials said, 7,000 of the average 25,000 cases in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program will be dropped by the end of the year.

Of the more than 15,000 cases reviewed in June, July and August, 3,071 were taken off the rolls, Norton said. However, there was no analysis of the reasons for dropping the cases.

Review Chief Theresa Connell said 1,400 recipients dropped failed to show up for their interviews or asked the department to discontinue their aid.

Aerosol Gases Said Threat To Atmosphere
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — The earth's radiation screen may be damaged within a few decades by millions of pounds of gases escaping into the environment each year from aerosol cans and refrigeration units, a chemist warned Tuesday.

There may be an eventual effect on human health, said Dr. F.S. Rowland, professor of chemistry at the University of California at Irvine, who addressed a meeting of the American Chemical Society.

He said the problem involves gases known as fluorocarbons, which are used as propellants in aerosol products such as hair sprays and deodorants and as refrigerants. The gases are manufactured under various trade names.

The fluorocarbons themselves are harmless to man. But Rowland said so much is escaping into the atmosphere that the sun's gas molecules will rise to the stratosphere, where eventually they break them down into fragments. One of the products will be chlorine atoms.

Rowland said the chlorine atoms will react with the ozone, one chlorine atom being able to destroy hundreds or thousands of ozone molecules. "The amount of fluorocarbon that is now being used is sufficiently large if continued that the steady amount will have an appreciable effect on the ozone layer," he said in an interview.

"The consequences of having an appreciable reduction in the ozone layer will be the increased ultraviolet radiation reaching the earth with certain biological effects and some uncertain biological effects." He said the effects may include wider incidences of skin cancer.

Camp Atterbury Amnesty Center Being Readied

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Though President Ford has not yet announced any amnesty program, army officers have arrived at Camp Atterbury to set up a center for the processing of returning Vietnam era military deserters.

The Army was going ahead with the work in the event the base is designated officially as a processing center. A White House spokesman said Tuesday President Ford will announce his amnesty policy by the end of the month.

The camp is on loan to Indiana National Guard units, but is subject to recall by the regular army. Military personnel would provide security inside the camp grounds, but Indiana state police would be responsible for security outside the facility.

Handicapped Seek Ways to Make Voting Easier

HARTFORD (UPI) — Handicapped voters, say that voting facilities and procedures discourage a significant number of them from exercising their franchise and they want the state to come up with improvements.

A delegation of handicapped persons met Tuesday with the Automatic Voting Machine Co. Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer to discuss improvements to be put into effect in time for the general election Nov. 5 and proposals for legislators to consider next year.

Handicapped persons make up a possible 10 per cent of the state's electorate. Elliot Deber of Bridgeport, executive director of United Cerebral Palsy of Connecticut, said some polling places are "very antiquated" and "almost impossible" in school basements or up a flight of stairs.

Leigh Phillips of Storrs, a member of the Commission for Higher Education who is confined to a wheelchair, tried to use a simple voting machine at the meeting and could not work its lever.

A woman who was unable to attend the meeting suggested in a statement that communities list permanently disabled voters and automatically send them absentee ballots.

"You have to be very determined if you are handicapped just to register to vote," said Phyllis Zlotnick, a cerebral palsy victim.

Ann Dandrow of Southington, a member of the commission and the mother of a deaf child, suggested the news media could help by printing sample ballots and referendum questions and otherwise preparing the handicapped to vote.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rights Groups Unite Against Licensing Bill

Q. I am 61 years of age and separated from my husband who is 67. When I am 62, will I be able to collect wife's benefits or widow's benefits after his death?
A. Yes. Living with your spouse is not a requirement for either wife's or widow's benefits. It will be necessary to furnish proof of your marriage, proof of your age and, if possible, your husband's Social Security number.
Q. My husband and I were divorced after 32 years of marriage. I never remarried. My ex-husband died a few months ago. Now that I'm 65, can I collect Social Security on his work record?
A. Yes. Since you were married to your former husband for at least 20 years, you can get Social Security payments on his work record. Before January 1973, a divorced woman also had to show that her former husband was providing half of her support, but in 1973 a change in the law ended this requirement.
Q. My husband and I were married for 27 years when he was killed in an accident. I remarried two years later and my recent marriage ended in a divorce after six years. I have always been a housewife and I'm wondering now if I will be entitled to any Social Security benefits in view of my second marriage and subsequent divorce.
A. Yes. Although you were not married to your second husband long enough to qualify for benefits you would be eligible to file for widow's benefits at the age of 60.
Q. I am 62 and recently married a retired civil service employee. I am not eligible for any civil service benefits. I was wondering if I might qualify for widow's benefits on my deceased husband's work record.
A. Yes. The Social Security law provides that a widow who remarries after age 60 is eligible for half of her deceased husband's benefits.
Q. I am 64 and will be retiring soon. My 66-year-old husband collects a small Social Security benefit. I have been supporting him for the last several years. Could he be entitled to a benefit on my record?
A. Possibly. If he has been dependent on you for at least

Conference on Civil Rights rallying opposition to the bill. "This bill is the most dangerous piece of broadcasting legislation ever to be passed by a House of Congress," according to the Leadership Conference. Broadly, the bill extends the period of time between license renewals to five years instead of the present three and change the regulations for challenging license renewals. According to groups opposing the bill - more than 100 groups and individuals testified during the Commerce subcommittee's hearings on the proposed legislation - the bill would "practically immunize" present radio and television license owners against challenges from community groups and cripple efforts to change broadcasters' hiring and programming practices. Under the present law, when a broadcaster appears unwilling to provide better programming or allegedly discriminates against minorities women, community groups have two courses of action. They may attempt to negotiate with the station and, if that proves unsuccessful, they may file a petition to deny the renewal of the broadcaster's license. They form a corporation to apply for the station's license renewal, with the intention of providing better programming if they win the license. "If the license renewal bill becomes law, both of these procedures for maintaining a meaningful competitive spur to incumbent broadcasters to provide better service, and to insure their continuing accountability to the interests of minorities and women, will all but disappear," according to the Leadership Conference. According to the conference, the effect of the bill on minority ownership of broadcast facilities "will be devastating."

Amtrak Proposes Plan To Upgrade Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Amtrak has proposed a $1.7 billion five-year improvement plan that would boost average train speeds between some large cities to 90 or 110 miles per hour. The plan includes purchase of 435 new, long-distance passenger cars - some double-decked - and 25 new diesel locomotives. If Congress and the administration go along, service similar to but even faster than the present Washington-New York corridor would be extended to some other East Coast lines, to several lines radiating out of Chicago and to two short West Coast lines. Amtrak released some details of the plan, which went to Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar and key members of Congress. UPI obtained a full copy of the plan from congressional sources. Currently, most Amtrak maintenance is done on a contract basis with the railroads which operate Amtrak trains. The most ambitious portion of the plan, however, is the track upgrading program, totaling $1 billion for the five fiscal years 1975-1979. Until now, Amtrak's rather modest efforts at track upgrading have been limited to the New York-Boston line. Here are the 12 lines that Amtrak wants to upgrade, listed in order of priority, with proposed expenditures, present average speed and proposed average speed. In each case, top speed would be higher than these averages: -Chicago-Detroit, $85 million, from the present average of 49 m.p.h. to 80 m.p.h. -Washington-Boston, $290 million, from 65 m.p.h. to 110 m.p.h. -New York-Buffalo, $90 million, from 51 m.p.h. to 90 m.p.h. -Chicago-Oakland, $125 million, from 57 m.p.h. to 110 m.p.h. -Los Angeles-San Diego, $90 million, from 50 m.p.h. to 110 m.p.h.

With mounting impatience, Walters drew for himself a slow-moving truck on a winding road. Finally the truck driver waved him a go-ahead signal. But as Walters swung out to pass, a car loomed up from the opposite direction. A collision followed, and Walters landed in the hospital with assorted injuries. "Their driver gave me a 'bum steer' when he waved me on," Walters charged in a court hearing. "But it was an innocent mistake," countered the company. "He was just trying to be helpful. Besides, Walters will have the final responsibility for his own driving." However, the court granted Walters' claim. The court said that the truck driver, having once undertaken to give directions, had to do so with caution. Courts generally agree. It is worth noting, however, that Walters had no real chance to see the danger ahead. If he had and took a chance anyway, he might well have been found negligent himself, regardless of the misleading signal from the truck driver. In fact, a motorist continues to bear some degree of responsibility even when he is obeying the signal of a traffic officer. In another case a motorist, waiting at a busy intersection, was waved ahead by a policeman who was there directing traffic. He started forward immediately, knocking down a pedestrian who was still in the crosswalk. Could the motorist escape legal liability by blaming everything on the policeman? "The driver had a right to rely so some extent on the (policeman)," said the court, "but he had no right to abandon all care."

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) - Dean Witter & Co. says the consensus among economists is that "subpar growth" is "the most likely path" for the United States next year. It adds that forecasts of a deeper recession have increased, stemming from fears that tight money, high interest rates and a sluggish economy could bring on topheavy inventories and a slowdown in factory output. However, "that gloomy prospect is not an inevitable expectation," Dean Witter says. Glimmer issues, which have been pounded in recent weeks, "probably will take some more punishment before the bear calls it quits," according to the Indicator Digest. It adds that other issues are likely to do better when the market begins a turn upward and suggests that "undervalued basic industry stocks" could be the group that will provide "surprising new fireworks."

Lionel D. Edie & Co. says that to reduce inflation and interest rates, the U.S. must endure possibly another nine months of recession and higher unemployment. It offers the opinion that without a tight rein on federal spending and a continuing restricting monetary policy "the economy will be in even greater trouble by November, 1974."

CONVERTING FORT MINERAL WELLS, Tex. (UPI) - City officials say they hope to turn part of Fort Walters, a primary training facility for helicopter pilots during the Vietnam War, into one of the largest park and recreation areas in the state. The General Services Administration announced that half the fort's property would be sold pending a survey. The GSA will pay for more than half the cost of the survey, estimated at $60,000, and city manager Bill Rivers said the city and other organizations using the facilities would pay the remaining $25,000.

Finast will No Longer Increase Prices of Food Once Placed on Our Shelves:

On Wednesday, July 24, 1974, all Finast Supermarkets began a new pricing policy on Grocery, Meat and Produce items. 1. When Finast is forced to make a price increase, cans and packages already price marked on the shelves will be sold at the old lower price. 2. Weekly specials or "sale items" are priced lower than regular prices. Any remaining after the sale event will be repriced upward. 3. As regular prices go down, Finast will immediately reduce the price on shelf stock, and the lower price will always be honored at the register. When a can or a package shows more than one price, the customer pays the lowest price for that can or package. 4. Baby food and items controlled by state laws are exempt from this new policy. 5. Until current stocks are sold there will be some items of our many thousands with more than one price marking on the can or package. Please bear with us during this transition.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Bum Steer"

With mounting impatience, Walters drew for himself a slow-moving truck on a winding road. Finally the truck driver waved him a go-ahead signal. But as Walters swung out to pass, a car loomed up from the opposite direction. A collision followed, and Walters landed in the hospital with assorted injuries. "Their driver gave me a 'bum steer' when he waved me on," Walters charged in a court hearing. "But it was an innocent mistake," countered the company. "He was just trying to be helpful. Besides, Walters will have the final responsibility for his own driving." However, the court granted Walters' claim. The court said that the truck driver, having once undertaken to give directions, had to do so with caution. Courts generally agree. It is worth noting, however, that Walters had no real chance to see the danger ahead. If he had and took a chance anyway, he might well have been found negligent himself, regardless of the misleading signal from the truck driver. In fact, a motorist continues to bear some degree of responsibility even when he is obeying the signal of a traffic officer. In another case a motorist, waiting at a busy intersection, was waved ahead by a policeman who was there directing traffic. He started forward immediately, knocking down a pedestrian who was still in the crosswalk. Could the motorist escape legal liability by blaming everything on the policeman? "The driver had a right to rely so some extent on the (policeman)," said the court, "but he had no right to abandon all care."

Sen. Brooke Says Pardon Was Mistake

BOSTON (UPI) - Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said Tuesday President Ford's decision to pardon former President Nixon was "the administration's first and very serious mistake." At a news conference preceding his address to the National Conference on Aging, Brooke said "I think the pardon controversy will continue and could hurt Republican candidates in elections this year." "It was an unfortunate decision. I regret an unconditional pardon has been granted under the circumstances." Brooke said he would have supported a pardon if Nixon had made "a full confession about his role in Watergate." He added, "If he had some contrite heart, some remorse, then the American people would have supported a pardon." The senator said he does not question the sincerity of Ford's action, but said "It was a mistake, a very serious mistake." Questioned about his reactions to Monday's anti-school busing demonstration in Boston, Brooke said, "I think it was a disgrace." He said the demonstrators had a right to express their point of view. "But they did not have the right to throw tomatoes and eggs at Sen. (Edward M.) Kennedy." Brooke's remarks were in reference to a confrontation between the demonstrators and Kennedy outside the JFK Federal Building. Kennedy, after being denied the right to speak, was booed by the demonstrators and followed by them into the building. As he entered, several eggs and tomatoes were hurled in his direction. None hit him. Brooke said he would not have attended the rally had he been in Boston. He said "I think Sen. Kennedy is owed an apology. It was a disgrace for the people of Boston."

Regardless of the pros and cons on writapping, 812 court approved taps last year produced 2,366 arrests and 499 convictions, says Act's Advance Industrial Security, Inc.

Vernon Junior Women Schedule Art Show

The Vernon Junior Women's Club will sponsor its third annual Amateur Arts Show Sept. 28, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Tri-City Shopping Plaza, Vernon Circle.

All hangable works of art, children's work in crayons and paints to adult's works in acrylics, water colors, and oils, will be accepted for display.

Only one entry in each media can be submitted by each person and all work must be matted or framed and ready to hang.

Two judges will be awarding prizes for the "Best in show," "Over-all," and "Honorable mention." Prizes will be awarded in the children's category and in the adult category.

All entrants are asked to register with Mrs. John Makowski by calling 873-3577, at least five days before the show.

Tax Sale
The Town of Vernon will conduct its first sale of property on which taxes are long overdue, Sept. 28 at 10 a.m. at the Administration Building, W. Main St., Rockville.

If more than one person is interested in purchasing a certain parcel, it will be auctioned off instead of a straight sale.

The sale will involve more than 30 individual accounts in various areas of town, including Franklin and Chamberlain Streets, the Bolton Lake area, and Scott Acres in the Box Mountain area.

Anyone buying a parcel of land should be prepared to pay the back taxes, tax liens, attorney's fees, and advertising costs. Tax Collector Sylvia Wilson explained.

The combined liens on the parcels total about 490 and some go back as far as 15 years. It has been impossible to establish contact with the property owners, Mrs. Wilson said.

Mrs. Wilson said since the tax sale has been advertised inquiries have come from as far away as New Jersey.

Emblem Club
The Rockville Emblem Club will meet today at 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Home, N. Park St., Rockville. Refreshments will be served following the business meeting.

League Invited
The Vernon League of Women Voters will sponsor a luncheon, Thursday, starting at 11 a.m. at the home of Maddy Turk, 10 Valeris Dr., Vernon.

Anyone interested in the league is invited to attend. Baby-sitting will be provided from 10:45 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the home of Phyllis Campbell, 214 Tracy Dr.

The league members will be present at the luncheon to discuss, informally, the league's history and structure and those attending will be encouraged to ask questions concerning the league.

Anyone interested in the orientation and luncheon and wishing further information should contact Ann Letendre, at 873-4623. For those who are unable to attend the luncheon, there will be a "coffee" hour at 6:15 and a prime ribs of beef dinner will be served at 7:15 p.m. Following dinner there will be entertainment by a singing group from the Hart College of Music, Hartford.

Legion Auxiliary
Dobosz-Ertel-Laboc-Hansen Unit 14, American Legion Auxiliary, will conduct its installation of officers, Sept. 18 at 6:30 p.m. at the Post Home, West St., Rockville.

Mrs. Fisher Appointed
Mrs. Corine M. Fisher, N. Park St., Rockville, has been appointed to the board of trustees of the Rockville Public Library.

Mrs. Fisher is a graduate of Penn State University and holds a master's degree in education from the University of Connecticut. She is a reading consultant at the Maple Street School, Rockville.

Mrs. Fisher is also a member of the College Reading Association, the International Reading Association, the Vernon Education Association, the Connecticut Education Association, and is a member of Congregation B'nai Israel and its Sisterhood. She is the wife of Dr. Norman Fisher and the couple has two sons.

Annual Dinner
The Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce will sponsor its annual fall dinner meeting, Oct. 10 at The Colony restaurant in Talcottville.

The evening will start with a "get-acquainted" hour at 6:15 and a prime ribs of beef dinner will be served at 7:15 p.m.

Following dinner there will be entertainment by a singing group from the Hart College of Music, Hartford.

Golf Contest
The Men's Club of the Talcottville Congregational Church will sponsor a golf tournament Thursday at 7 p.m. at Golf Land's par 3 course, Talcottville.

All members of the church have been invited to participate. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served at the church following the tournament.

Tag Sale
The Men's Club of the Talcottville Congregational Church will sponsor a tag sale Saturday starting at 10 a.m. on Rt. 83, Talcottville (across from Golf Land).

All proceeds from the sale will go toward paying for the paving of the church parking lot.

Some Veterans Ineligible For Bonus
HARTFORD (UPI) — A number of old state veterans have been found to be ineligible for a $300 bonus authorized by the legislature, including 10 Spanish-American War vets still believed to be living in Connecticut.

Still another veteran who served during one of the periods of eligibility discovered that he didn't serve quite long enough. He missed the bonus by one day, officials said.

The legislature in its last session voted a bonus to veterans who served at least 90 days during World War I, the Mexican border incident and the 1917-1920 intervention in Russia.

Robert Tucker is general chairman of the project. Salesmen will be Fred Rescoe, Len Bayliss, Art Palmer, the Rev. Kenneth Knox, Fred Mayocek, and Douglas Hayes. Dwight Lyman, Palmer and Bayliss will transport tables and sale items to the sale site and David Haddon will have charge of the sale of hot dogs.

Wilson Seeks Way Out of Political Straitjacket

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson is poised to take Britons into a new, probably bitter and divisive general election — a bare seven months after they last voted Feb. 28.

His aim is to win a new five-year mandate backed by a solid parliamentary majority. This would enable him to break out of the political straitjacket of a minority Labor government which has shackled his freedom of action since he took office. He needs such a majority to get Parliament to approve the frankly left-leaning program, including nationalization of more key industries, still greater freedom of action for trade unions and a so-called wealth tax, with which his Labor party is seeking to take Britain another long step along the road to socialism.

But for the majority of Britain's voters the overriding issue will be inflation. This is now running at a 20 per cent annual clip — one of the highest rates in the Western world — and is threatening to undermine as never before the country's whole economic and social fabric.

All three main parties — Wilson's Labor party, former Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservatives and the small third ranking Liberal party — will have their own inflation cures to offer the voters.

The labor party, under fierce pressure from the big trade unions, has rejected the Nixon-style pay and price curbs imposed by the last Conservative government.

Instead, it wants to keep a tight lid — by law, if necessary — on prices, profits, dividends and rents, but to rely on the so-called "social contract" with the unions to hold down wages.

The Conservatives argue that voluntary pay curbs never will work and are merely a recipe for still grimmer inflation. They say legally enforceable curbs cannot be ruled out.

The conservatives themselves are sharply divided on this. Sir Keith Joseph, a minister in the last Heath government, caused a political furor by asserting that only a "sound money" policy can cure inflation, even at risk of business bankruptcies and mass unemployment.

Although Wilson's aim is to win a strong majority, opinion polls have indicated there may be another standoff, with the Liberals holding the balance of power.

In such a case, there has been strong speculation that the country's ill-fated Conservative and Liberal parties might form a coalition government, leaving Wilson's Labor party in opposition.

FDA Delays Action on Request To Resume Cyclamate Production
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said Tuesday it has not yet determined whether Cyclamates cause cancer, and put off a request by Abbott Laboratories to resume production of the controversial sweetener.

The FDA asked Abbott to withdraw its petition pending further studies. Production of the chemical was banned by the federal government in 1969.

Food and Drug Commissioner Dr. Alexander M. Schmidt said the request had been carefully studied and that data submitted by Abbott to back its petition was "inconclusive."

"We have concluded that questions about the cancer-causing potential of Cyclamate are yet to be resolved," he said. "Further information is needed before a clear-cut decision on the safety of Cyclamate can be made."

Abbott was one of the largest makers of the artificial sweetener when it was banned in 1969 after showing a cancer-causing potential in one strain of rats.

Cyclamate, 30 times sweeter than sugar, was first marketed in the 1950s and became an instant success in low-calorie soft drinks and other diet aids.

Enrollment In Schools At 9,889
The opening of Manchester schools went basically very well, said School Superintendent James P. Kennedy in his report to the Board of Education Monday night.

There were a few bus route adjustments, he said, but supplies and materials were in the schools in time for opening, and the fall sports programs are off and running.

As of Monday, Kennedy said the total school enrollment, including Head Start, was 9,889. The two junior high schools were between 30 and 50 below the projected enrollment, and most of the elementary schools were also below.

Clash With Sniper
An Israeli border police patrol exchanged light arms fire with an Arab guerrilla sniper near the village of Zarit on the Lebanese border today, in the first clash on the frontier in four days, military sources said.

Military officers at a command post on the frontier said a lone sniper opened fire on the border police at 8 a.m. as the patrol passed the northern edge of the village. They said the guerrilla was about 600 yards inside Lebanon when he began shooting.

In the exchange, the officers said, the guerrilla got away and there were no reports of injuries.

Ford Studying Blanket Pardon
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is considering a blanket pardon for all defendants in the Watergate case. Criticism still swirls around Washington over his granting of a pardon to Richard M. Nixon, John W. Husen, deputy press secretary, said "I think so" when he was asked if Ford was aware of the reaction. The President scheduled a meeting today with the GOP congressional leadership for a sounding on the attitude within his own party. Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., proposed amending the constitution so Congress could override presidential pardons.

Massive Drug Raid Conducted
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drug agents in the United States, Mexico and Canada early today finished up raids that resulted in nearly 100 arrests of persons said to be involved in producing and selling pep pills by the billions. A spokesman for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration said the operation involved 3 billion pills a year, smuggled into the United States from Mexico.

Report 100 Dead
LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI) — Lourenco Marques radio, now controlled by police, reported nearly 100 persons died Tuesday in racial rioting which swept through the capital of Mozambique. White supremacists sparked the riots in an attempt to prevent black rule of the Portuguese colony in Africa. Residents reported the city was relatively calm today.

Chile Marks Anniversary
SANTIAGO (UPI) — Chileans rejoiced in public and mourned in private today on the first anniversary of the bloody military coup that toppled the Marxist government of the late President Salvador Allende.

Howitzers fired thunderous 21-gun salutes this morning to usher in ceremonies marking the "Day of Liberation" — the Sept. 11, 1973, coup ending Allende's three-year-old government.

Tens of thousands of Chileans were expected to attend a giant, pro-junta rally in a Santiago park near the headquarters of the military government.

Breadline Planned
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A group of radio, television and recording personalities have decided to kick off the coming depression by opening a unique — and expensive — breadline here on Friday the 13th.

The bread will come from a health food store and apples will be available — at $1 each. A band will play music and an employed trumpeter Jeff Elhart will offer an original composition. "Brother, Can You Spare $1.75?"

A ground-floor window will be available for jumpers," said spokesman Les Carter, a Los Angeles disc jockey. "We don't want anyone to get hurt."

Couple Plans Drive Around the World

HOUSTON (UPI) - Penny-niching and scripping Mike and Betty O'Dell are dropping out for a drive around the world...

For their travels the O'Dells will pack a specially equipped 4-wheel drive utility truck with extra gas tanks, gauges and batteries...

The couple plan to spend six months in Asia, three months in the Middle East, five months in Europe...

They will ship their truck to Singapore and then join it following a visit to New Zealand, Australia and Indonesia.

To develop their itinerary, the O'Dells plotted monthly weather data against their intended route...

Both have traveled before for never this long. Chirco said Soviet apprehension...

He said the expedition began innocently. It was just sort of joking around and asked my wife how she would like to go round the world...

New Element Discovered

By AL ROSSITER JR. UPI Science Editor ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) - Two American scientists say they have discovered a new man-made element...

It was reported to the American Chemical Society in a meeting here that the new element, No. 106 in the periodic table...

The following is a list of the element's properties: It is a metal, it is very hard, it is very brittle...

Seaborg, a former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the new element was manufactured with the heavy ion accelerator known as Californium-249 with Oxygen-18.

The new element has a half-life of nine-tenths of a second which means half of it decays in that period.

Uranium, No. 92 in the periodic table, is the last natural element. Fifteen other elements have been made in the laboratory and Seaborg said the Berkeley lab now will begin efforts to produce No. 107.

The importance of the new discovery, he said, is to add more basic knowledge of the nuclear structure of elements that jig saw puzzle, you contribute to the whole," he said.

PORTABLE MENTO PARK, CALIF. (UPI) - By 1985 an artificial kidney may be available which could be carried in an attaché case, according to researchers at the Stanford Research Institute.

Brazilian Leaders Plan to Remain in Tight Control

STEVEN H. YOLEN
RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Brazil's military-backed government has made it clear that it plans to continue to call the political shots in South America's largest nation.
Gen. Ernesto Geisel, who took over the presidency in March this year from another Army general, told the nation in a speech Aug. 29 that "The fundamental concern of the government is the preservation of order, peace and tranquility which are needed for the nation's development."
The stern address to his 100 million countrymen indicated Geisel would make no abrupt move to relax the political restrictions which have been a way of life since the armed forces overthrew Joao Goulart in 1964.
Coming just two months before local elections, the speech dampened widespread hopes that Brazil under Geisel soon would move towards more representative democracy.
Those who think they can speed up (the process of political relaxation) by exerting pressure on public opinion are seriously mistaken," Geisel warned.
He added, "In no way will Brazil run the risk of putting itself in the undesirable position of some other nations where violence and crime are lamentable every day facts."
That seemed to indicate that Geisel intends to maintain Brazil's tough internal security apparatus, which was instrumental in stamping out terrorism in the late 1960s and early 1970s and has helped keep the lid on criticism of government policy.
It also implied continuation of the infamous Institutional Act 5, which gives the government near-dictatorial powers. Likewise, maintenance of rigorous press censorship was implicit.
Many Brazilians had hoped that these two measures would disappear under Geisel's regime.
Part of the problem is the government's fear that a premature "political opening" would adversely affect Brazil's drive to become a major world industrial power by the end of this decade.
The military ended representative democracy in 1964 because it felt that civilian politicians had failed in the 1960s. Brazil's vast resources and that only a tighter grip would lead the country to economic development.
Today, Brazil is facing serious economic problems, as is much of the rest of the world. Inflation through eight months of 1974 was double that of 1973—some 30 per cent and showing no signs of stabilizing.
Under the circumstances, it is not surprising that Geisel has dampened hopes of a more liberal political period in Brazil.

Selassie Toppled, Election Promised

LONDON (UPI)—Ethiopia's armed forces toppled Emperor Haile Selassie today from his 3,000-year-old throne and proclaimed a military regime to rule the country temporarily.
The 86-year-old Emperor Haile Selassie was deposed by a military coup led by a group of officers and soldiers. The new military government, known as the Provisional Military Administrative Council, announced its formation in a radio broadcast.
The emperor, who had ruled since 1916, is still in Switzerland.
The new government said it would hold elections within a few months.
The emperor's fall was a surprise to many observers, who had expected a more gradual transition of power.
The new government is facing a number of challenges, including economic problems and ethnic tensions.
The emperor's reign was marked by both success and failure. He led Ethiopia through a long and difficult struggle for independence from Italy in the 1940s.
However, his rule was also characterized by corruption and repression. He was overthrown by a military coup in 1974.
The new government is expected to face a difficult task in rebuilding the country and restoring democratic governance.

HAILE SELASSIE

Boston Students Boycott Busing

BOSTON (UPI)—A boycott of classes by white students at South Boston and Roxbury high schools appeared to be nearly 100 per cent successful today as the city implemented a controversial court-ordered desegregation plan calling for busing of 18,235 children.
Only 3 per cent of the white students assigned to the two high schools appeared for class. Of the 1,233 blacks enrolled, 440 were present for class. There were another 158 other minorities enrolled.
Under the court plan 18,235 of the city's 94,000 were to be bused. Eighty of the city's 230 schools were affected by the decision.
There were no reports of serious trouble as parents chose to keep children out of classes, thus heading off a possibly serious face-to-face confrontation.
Police Commissioner Robert McGraha personally escorted some black children from buses into South Boston High School. Opponents to the busing called the boycott "100 per cent successful." School and city officials said they were "extremely pleased" with the busing and the lack of violence.
Attendance at schools in other parts of the city were reported to be much higher although no citywide attendance figures were immediately available.
Massachusetts' Education Commissioner Gregory I. Axtell said the school integration program "is going rather well." The high amount of absenteeism "was to be expected," he added.
City Councilor Louise Day Hicks, a symbol of anti-busing, was highly critical of the number of police on duty.
"There was an armed camp out there today. I don't think there should be any more policemen and if they would go home the crowd would go home."
"I am glad the crowd showed restraint. All the people should be commended," she added.
Only three white children showed up at Roxbury High School, where more than 500 were slated to attend.
Similar boycotting of previously almost all-black schools by white students were reported. Massive absenteeism also was reported at South Boston High School and Hyde Park High School.
Leonard Miraglia, in charge of transportation at Roxbury High School, said the school's enrollment was doubled this year under the court plan to somewhere around 1,000 children. An estimated 500 of these were to be bused from South Boston and Dorchester and 50 per cent of them were white. Only three white students showed up, he said.
Last year, South Boston High School had a 99 per cent white and one per cent black student population. Under the court order, the makeup is 50 per cent white and 40 per cent black—and the white students stayed home en masse.
There were 553 black students enrolled at South Boston High School, but only 100 showed up—60 of them on buses.
About 500 white spectators, most of them housewives and teen-agers, milled around outside South Boston. McGraha appealed to them to disperse and go home "because there is nothing going on."
Sen. Joseph P. Timilty, D-South Boston, an opponent of busing, said, "Things appear to be going smoothly. The boycott appears to be working. What they (the parents) don't seem to realize is that the boycott is making things go easier. It will allow us to implement this thing—desegregation—gradually. I don't see the quality of education being improved, but we want this to go smoothly."
South Boston parents said they believed the boycott of the school by white residents of the district was "virtually complete."
The City Hall Information Center reported someone threw some stones at one bus en route to South Boston at L and 6th streets. There were no injuries.

Buckley Hits Out At Cotter's Record

BY SOL R. COHEN
"My campaign is to hit Bill Cotter's negative record and to make myself known to as many people as possible, as soon as possible," F. Mac Buckley told the Manchester Republican Town Committee Wednesday night.
Buckley, the GOP candidate for First District congressman, is opposing incumbent Democrat William Cotter of Hartford, who is seeking a third term. Buckley resides in Newton.
Last night's visit to Manchester was his first. Announcing his slogan of "Mac will be back," he said, "I'm running 24 hours a day, and I'll go everywhere in the district I can, wherever there are people willing to listen to me."
His talk last night was strictly anti-Cotter, and he acknowledged it.
"I know I'm attacking him (Cotter), but I have no record of my own to run on except my work in prosecuting drug abuses," he said.
Until 5 p.m. the day before he won the nomination, Buckley was a special district attorney, in charge of the Federal Drug Strike Force for Connecticut. He resigned to seek the nomination.
"Cotter," he said, "is not accessible. He goes into his disappearing act and isn't doing his job of seeing the people and listening to what they say. He avoids the issues and has a flip-flopping voting record, even on amendments to the same bills."
Buckley said, "I'm sure he's running scared (Cotter) and we'll score points by making an issue of it."
Buckley, a former amateur and professional boxer, who coached the Hartford Police Athletic League boxing team for four years, will appear at Saturday's Republican Fair at Mt. Nebo. He will receive several matches.
Speaking briefly Wednesday night were several Manchester GOP candidates: Hilary Gallagher, candidate for judge of probate, said he's visited about 300

Cruise Ship Catches Fire

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—The 406-foot cruise ship Ambassador, en route to New Orleans to pick up passengers, caught fire in the Florida Straits today and all but 50 of its 290 crew members fled over the side in lifeboats.
The Coast Guard said the Navy cargo ship Tallulah was on the scene and was picking up the crewmen from the burning vessel about 39 miles southwest of Key West.
The Coast Guard said there were no passengers aboard the ship, owned by Cunard Lines but leased by Bahamas Cruise Lines.
There were no reports of injuries or fatalities.
The Coast Guard said the Ambassador was en route from Port Everglades, at Fort Lauderdale to New Orleans when it radioed S-O-S AT 7:15 a.m., saying a fire had broken out in its engine room and the crew was unable to control the blaze.
Fifty Ambassador crewmen remained aboard the ship to fight the fire and the Coast Guard said the rest of the crew began abandoning the ship in nine lifeboats shortly after 8 a.m.
The Coast Guard said the crew of the Tallulah, a cargo ship leased by the U.S. Navy but run by civilians, was unable to help fight the blaze on the cruise liner because the Tallulah was carrying jet fuel.
The Coast Guard said one of its 41-foot rescue boats arrived on the scene about 9:30 a.m., with special pumps.

Town GOP Endorses Occupational Center

BY SOL R. COHEN
The Republican Town Committee Wednesday night endorsed the $1.4 million Regional Occupational Training Center proposed for Manchester. The action was by a unanimous voice vote, on a motion by William Diana. The Democratic Town Committee endorsed the proposal last spring.
Construction of the "Trade School for the Handicapped" will be considered by the voters Nov. 5, in a townwide referendum.
The center would be placed on a 2.2 acre parcel at Hillstown Rd. and Wetherell St. The parcel, on the campus of Manchester Community College, was deeded to the town by the State of Connecticut 10 months ago.
If approved by the voters, the construction would be financed by general obligation bonds, with the $1.4 million 100 per cent reimbursable by the state upon completion. The town would be required to absorb interest costs—estimated now at about $60,000. The facility would be owned by the Town of Manchester after five years.
The center would be under the supervision of the Manchester Board of Education and would take students from 15 area towns, with each paying tuition for its students. Manchester would pay 50 per cent of the operating cost and the other towns the balance.
The proposal was explained Wednesday night by Richard Lawrence, architect for the facility, and Norman Fensell, coordinator of special education for the Town of Manchester. They were introduced by State Sen. David Odgedar, who sponsored

End of a Long Life

A 100-year-old ash was the victim of a three-day effort by Soucier Tree Service this week, when the huge tree at 2123 Brainard Pl. came down across from The Herald plant. Soucier's employees said it was a long, tough job because of the tree's position between a house and power lines. Sequence of photos shows man working high on tree limb out of huge tree at 2123 Brainard Pl. came down across from The Herald plant.
