Busy hands may well be trouble-free hands at least that's what Roger Landon, at left, owner and operator of Roger's Car Wash at Jim's Auto Repair believes. To prove his point Landon had some 17 youngsters ranging in age from 8 to 17 lend a hand at the car wash this summer. Landon, who is physically handicapped, paid the youngsters for their services in the form of lunches, ice cream and sodas topped by an outing at Andover Lake. Among those in the project, which all agreed was fun, were Ricky, Gary, Mike, Danny and Mark Danforth, all of 70 Pearl St., and Tom Halbucki of Bissell St. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Cards Almost Unbeatable in Extra Innings

NEW YORK (UPI) - Don't let the St. Louis Cardinals work on overtime. They make you pay dearly for it. The Cardinals, who have been practically unbeatable in extra inning games this season, made it 12 victories in 15 extra inning games Tuesday night when they defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 in 13 innings to stretch their National League East Division lead to 21/2 games. The success of the Cardinals' in extra innings is due primarily to the relief pitching of Al Hrabosky, who has allowed only three hits and struck out 21 in his last 15 innings. The 25-year-old lefthander was at his best again Tuesday night when he held the Pirates hitless for four innings while gaining his seventh win in eight decisions.

Lou Brock won the game with his specialty in the 13th when he singled, stole second for his 109th theft of the year, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on a sacrifice fly by Ted Simmons.

This is a widely accepted rule of law, rejecting intoxication as an across-the-board defense against criminal charges. Nor is it an excuse that the defendant drank to "nerve" himself for a deed he would not have done if sober. As another court put it: "All that the crafty crimina would require for a well-planned murder would be a revolver in one hand to commit the offens and a quart of liquor in the other to build his defense." Nevertheless, most courts will take intoxication into account if the crime is one that requires a specific intent-to see if that is tent was really there. Consider this case: A man was accused of stealing an automobile. He had sat down drunk in the parked car of an the ignition, and commenced to drive home.

There was no doubt that he had aken the car without permission. But the court said he could not be convicted of theft if he had been too drunk to have any notion of stealing it. Furthermore, intoxication may be a good defense if it was not Suppose, for example, that a man committed a crime after innocently imbibing a "Mickey Finn." If the drink was potent enough to put him out of control. he could not be found guilty. In these circumstances, says the law. neither the intoxication nor the crime itself was truly his own act.

Finast will no longer Increase Prices of Food

On Wednesday, July 24, 1974, all Finast Supermarkets began a new pricing policy on Grocery. Meat and Produce items.

1. When Finast is forced to make a price increase, cans and packages.

1. When Finast is forced to make a price increase, cans and packages already price marked on the shelves will be sold at the old lower price. When items are restocked on the shelves, the new, higher priced items will be placed behind the lower priced items.

2. Weekly specials or "sale items" are priced lower than regular prices. Any remaining after the sale event, will be repriced upward.

3. As regular prices go down. Finast will immediately reduce the price on shelf stock, and the lower price will always be honored at the register. When a can or a package shows more than one price, the customer pays the lowest price for that can or package.

4. Baby food and items controlled by state laws are exempt from this new policy.

Garden Plot Grows Bottles

FRANKLIN, N.H. (UPI) - A killer drought scorched some New Hampshire gardens, but the Turner family plot is still a money maker. It grows bottles. "With six children, we bought a place with enough land to plant a garden to keep down food costs," says Mrs. Robert Turner. When the family went out back to turn part of their three-acre field into a garden, they discovered before it was a field, it was a dump.

Turner had just taken a new job as a maintenance man after the family moved here from North Berwick, Maine, Instead of bemoaning their discovery, the Turners turned their "garden" into an asset. The family was the first owner of the land to try to till

"If they (previous owners) had done any digging, they would have found an old community dump under most of the land," said dark-haired Mrs. After checking with a neighbor in his 80s and others, the Turners discovered their vegetable garden site was reclaimed from a pond in the 1800s with the community chpping in junk.

The family's weekend gardening project has since turned into a small business digging through the debris looking for artifacts of early America. The vegetable garden has been moved elsewhere.

"I sold a doll head for $25 which I dug up," said Mrs. Turner. "I'm sure no one knew about this old dump or someone would have dug here long ago." The family has found two bottles dating from 1784 and scores of others from the 19th

After one of her six children sold a China plate for $1.25 when it was actually worth $100 to collectors, Mrs. Turner decided it was time to learn about the junk in her garden. She has since studied bottles to make certain she knows a find when she finds one.

Home Canners Face R 'No Lid' Crisis

EAGLE, Mich. (UPI) - Mrs. she decided to call Gov. Margaret Maag has been canning the garden vegetables she raises on her farm in the rural community of Eagle for years.But now she's got a problem - no lids for the jars. You'll find no "store bought" canned goods cluttering her pantry shelves. But, because of a new commodity shortage, Mrs. Maag, her daughters and their neighbors are having deep trouble finding jar lids. It's gotten so bad, they are sometimes forced to throw away the products they are raising for their own families. "This is really a serious problem, with people not being able to can when the products are available," the 65-year-old homekeeper, wife of a retired steelworker, said.

"I know I have thrown away a lot of stuff because I was short of lids. They were hard to come by. I can everything, including

Canning supplies have been in great demand nationwide because of a shortage of tinplate used for jar lids and in material essential to the production of glass canning

This month, Mrs. Maag, a daughter, and another woman who had purchased a dozen cans of tomatoes from Mrs. Maag began calling retail stores in surrounding communities, Lansing and even as far away as Michigan's Upper Peninsula in search of jar lids.

"There were no lids to be had anywhere," Mrs. Magg said. Finally, "in desperation,"

William G. Milliken

"Lids are something we need," she said. "This isn't a frivilous thing. I hated to bother the governor, but I thought he might know a source. And as it turned out, he did."

Milliken told Mrs. Maag he had been told by a member of the legislature that a jar lid supplier had been located in Toronto. He ordered the state Department of Commerce to begin notifying Michigan retail outlets where lids could be obtained.

But Mrs. Maag, who puts away from 350 to 500 cans of vegetables, fruit and even stew for winter each year, said she's afraid she waited too long to look for help.

"We can expect frost anytime now and once that happens, that's it for your garden," she said."Maybe I should have started making waves about a month ago.

"They have enough steel and metal to make gunshells for sportsmen. Why can't they make metal for jar lids?"

Hellier: Asks About Pardon

Hellier said he called for the Sen. Sam Hellier, candidate explanation from President for 2nd District Congressman Ford because he feels there are on the Republican ticket, is doubts in the minds of many calling for a statement from and "so as to possibly reassure President Ford explaining his others that he did act in the best reasons for the pardoning of interest of the country. former President Richard Hellier also called for the removal of roadblocks preventing many senior citizens from working.

Hellier also advocates expansion of volunteer action programs which attract publicspirited elderly. He said, "The era of youth has led Americans to downgrade elderly citizens.' He termed the elderly as being one of our most valuable human resources.

"Where once we turned to our elders for advice and counse about our problems, too many While admitting he can Americans now view the elder respect the President's ly as a problem themselves, reasoning that his action was a Hellier commented.

He charged that current national policies on social security wrongly deny dignity American people still deserve to senior citizens and deprive society of a needed resource.
