Reads Third Graders Pledge

President Gerald Ford Friday displayed a pledge from third grade students of Sott Elementary School in Monroe, Mich., in which they promise to cut down the family auto mileage by riding bikes whenever possible.

The pledge was a part of a two-foot stack of energy-saving suggestions from the public that President Ford showed to a meeting of his top-level economic policy board. (UPI photo)

State Employees Union Votes to Back Grasso

By United Press International
In an unprecedented move, delegates to a convention of the Connecticut State Employees Association have endorsed Democratic candidate Ella T. Grasso for governor.

A spokesman said the endorsement Friday which came by acclamation at a convention in New Haven, was spontaneous and the first time the association has announced support of a political candidate.

Both Mrs. Grasso and her Republican opponent, Robert H. Steele, addressed the association. Each supported collective bargaining for state employees.

Hit Meskill Regime

"The thing that put Ella across," a spokesman said, "was the delegates' knowledge of her from years past plus the fact that she hit hard at the Meskill administration."

The association and the administration of Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill have been at odds over pay raises forced retirement and other grievances almost since he took office in 1970.

The spokesman said the association felt it was the "whipping boy" for what has been called Meskill's austerity programs. Meanwhile, Steele urged Congress to act on a bill establishing citizens' rights with respect to federal records.

Steele said Friday the House Government Operations Committee has recommended passage of the legislation, an amended version of a Comprehensive Right to Privacy Act that Steele cosponsored.

Individual Access

The measure permits an individual to inspect records kept on him by the federal government, allows him to supplement the files or to correct and delete erroneous information.

It also places controls on federal agencies regarding collection and dissemination of such information.

In other campaign matters, Pat Piscopo, Republican congressional candidate, is breaking political tradition with a $5-a-plate campaign dinner featuring McDonald's hamburgers.

"Our campaign is a people's campaign so our dinner will have a people's price," Piscopo said Friday announcing that he will not be holding the standard $100-a-plate political bash in his campaign.

Americans Worried About Inflation

ATLANTA (UPI) — Americans are worried about inflation and political immorality — and expect things to get worse economically — but they're confident that in the long run everything will be all right, says pollster George Gallup.

"It would be wrong to assume that Americans are consumed with gloom," Gallup, the head of the American Institute of Public Opinion in Princeton, N.J., said in a speech Friday to the National Broiler Council.

Far From Despondent

"The mood of the public today should be described as apprehensive, but certainly far from despondent," he said.

He said that Gallup polls indicate 70 per cent of the population expects the economy to get worse, and that about half the citizens think America is headed for a depression like the one in the early 1930's.

Had Hard Times Before

But Gallup said most Americans feel they have had hard times before, and can tighten their belts to survive another depression.

He said Americans will support President Ford's economic policies, if they perceive them to be in the national interest.

"The public has a good track record for making sacrifices for the national good in times of crisis," he said. Gallup said times might not be as hard as a lot of people expect.

Ford Anti-Inflation Plan To Be Outlined Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans will be asked "to bite the bullet" to curb inflation next week when President Ford outlines his new economic program before a joint session of Congress.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the proposals will include several mandatory measures aimed at conserving energy during the winter months and some steps requiring executive order. He said Ford will not request gasoline rationing or a hike in the federal retail gasoline excise tax.

Tax Measures

But Nessen indicated Ford would ask Congress for certain tax increases and measures "to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates." He declined to be more specific.

The address is scheduled for 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Nessen said Ford was disturbed by reports that his chief economic advisers were squabbling about the economic program.

Hard Decisions

"We do have some hard decisions to make, but hard decisions are not equal to chaos," Nessen said.

The reports of confusion "are indicative of the hard choices we and the American people have to face as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

With the Labor Department reporting unemployment at 5.8 per cent last month, Ford sent Congress more budget cutting requests in a special message.

He asked that $3.4 billion — including more than $500 million for defense programs — either be delayed or eliminated from the budget.

Fund Management

"These actions are essential both to assure efficient management of funds and to help keep federal spending from rising beyond current estimates," Ford said.

"These are essential steps to achieve the degree of fiscal restraint we need in order to curb inflation."

Ford also held two sessions with administration economic advisers Friday after a breakfast meeting with nine Republican congressional leaders.

Nessen said Treasury Secretary William Simon and Budget Director Roy Ash told the congressmen "full employment with price stability" was the goal of the administration program.

The new policies "in broadest terms will require and encourage Americans to save more, reduce waste and produce more" across the board, Simon said.

Russian Grain Sale Halted by President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford halted the sale of 125 million bushels of U.S. corn and wheat to the Soviet Union Friday night and asked the top executives of two grain companies responsible for the deal to meet with him today.

The administration acted after details of the sale were reported to the Agriculture Department.

Treasury Secretary William Simon asked the firms — Continental Grain Co. and Cook Co. — to hold up their contracts for a reported 91 million bushels of corn and 34 million bushels of wheat to be delivered in the 1974-75 marketing year.

Simon said he would discuss the government's position with Soviet officials in Moscow next week and that Ford had asked officials of both U.S. companies to meet with him today.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz canceled a planned address at Expo '74 in Spokane, Wash., to return to Washington.

The contracts "are being held in abeyance," Simon said in a statement.

Legality Questioned

Another Treasury official said Ford apparently did not want the grain deal to go through but doubted if his request was legally binding. The government could impose import controls if it thought such a move was warranted, he added.

"For the time being, (the President) expects that no large contracts for grain will be signed without specific prior approval by the White House," Simon said.

The administration's action was inspired at least partly by recent crop failures in the Midwest grain belt caused by a crippling summer drought and an early frost that killed thousands of acres of late wheat, corn and soybeans.

To Avoid Another '72

The administration may have also wanted to prevent a recurrence of the 1972 Russian grain deal where a few exporters sold 400 million bushels of U.S. grain to Russia forcing domestic prices up.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey D-Minn., called the grain sale "unconscionable and irresponsible" on the part of the companies and demanded an immediate investigation.

"Secretary Butz assured me on Wednesday that he was monitoring the export market on a daily basis. Earlier he had announced that he had requested prior notification of the sale of 100,000 tons of grain or more by the companies involved," Humphrey said. "It is clear that this system has not worked."

Humphrey said shortened domestic grain supplies would mean higher food prices. "We need to take whatever steps are required to protect our national interest," he said.

President Seeks Delay In Defense Outlays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has begun cutting defense as well as civilian programs in his effort to reduce the budget to fight inflation.

On Sept. 20 Ford told Congress he wanted to cancel or delay $20.3 billion in funds Congress already had authorized. All of it was for civilian programs mostly community sewers and highways.

On Friday Ford added another $3.4 billion to the previously authorized money he wants to cut or delay and for the first time included some defense programs — $498 million for navy ships and $156.8 million for military construction.

The $3.4 billion also includes funds for forest roads and trails, housing ownership assistance, water and sewer facilities, road construction and airport facilities, and equipment.

Ford asked that most of the funds merely be delayed. Under the law that will happen automatically unless Congress objects within 60 days. No move has been made in Congress to challenge the September request.

The money Ford proposed to cut entirely — about $680 million in the requests in September and this week — would be spent as authorized unless Congress approves his request within 45 days.

Hoops, Fuller Honored At Testimonial Dinner

Nearly 400 people were on hand last night at The Colony to pay recognition to two former Manchester business executives for their dedication to community service.

The testimonial honored Robert Fuller, who retired July 1 from his post as chairman of the board for Lydall Inc., and Lyman Hoops, former manager of the Manchester-Rockville office of the Southern New England Telephone Co.

Good-Natured Barbs

In between the good-natured barbs hurled at Fuller and Hoops by a number of speakers, there were serious moments.

Raymond E. Baldwin, the keynote speaker, emphasized that an interested, involved citizenry in all aspects of life, is needed in this great country.

Baldwin, former Connecticut governor, former U.S. senator and former chief justice of the State Supreme Court, called for the "cooperation, interest and participation of all to make this country go."

Public Duty

"Fuller and Hoops have done their public duty. They have done all kinds of work in the public interest. They have engaged it in for nothing, they have contributed up and down the line, without reward," commented Baldwin.

In calling for more citizen involvement, Baldwin said: "People look at the courts and say they are not doing very well. But they lack cooperation of the citizenry. I don't know when a bank president, the head of a large corporation, or someone representing avid business interests ever served on a jury."

"Our police are criticized. Police need witnesses when a case comes to court but the people don't wish to become involved."

There were a number of speakers who brought chuckles as they traced the careers of Fuller and Hoops.

Highlights

William R. Johnson, on behalf of Fuller: "Lydall Inc., that is where they manufacture the paper inserts to cover the holes in your shoes. By a committee vote of 8-7 we wish you good health and happiness, Bob."

W.J. Godfrey Gourley brought laughter when he placed hair pieces on the heads of Fuller and Hoops.

Millard Pryor, on behalf of Fuller: "We are going to miss him at Lydall."

William B. Thornton presented Hoops with a line for his new boat because "Hoops is a close man with a buck."

Anthony Giglio, representing Union 37, "there was never a finer man than Bob Fuller. He had the interest and welfare of all his families at Lydall."

Honorees Respond

In responding, Fuller said "I am deeply grateful. I shall always remember this night."

Hoops commented, "It's a great honor. Manchester is blessed with fine people." William E. Fitzgerald served as master of ceremonies and introduced local and state officials.

The invocation and benediction were delivered by Msgr. Edward J. Reardon. Warren Howland and John DeQuattro served as co-chairman for the event.

Both Fuller and Hoops were presented with a scrapbook and gifts. Fuller currently resides in Andover and plans to move to Maryland soon. Hoops resides in Lyme and is manager of SNET's Old Saybrook office.

Nixon Papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has refused to accept President Ford's agreement to give Richard M. Nixon eventual custody of his Watergate tapes and papers. By a vote of 56 to 7 Friday the Senate voted to give the government sole control over them and eventually to make them public. The bill has yet to be acted on by the House.

17 Skeletons Found

VINA, Calif. (UPI) — Digging was ordered resumed today in an agricultural area where 17 skeletons have been unearthed in a trench-like grave. Officials said the skeletons appeared to be 60 to 100 years old, but were perplexed because the grave was unlike Chinese or Indian burial sites common in Northern California.

Raped Women Jailed

Two California women were behind bars today for killing men they said raped them. In Monterey, Inez Garcia was found guilty of second degree murder for firing six bullets into a man she said held her while she was raped by his partner. In Long Beach, police held a diminutive 19-year-old, Deborah Kantaeng, on suspicion of murder for allegedly firing a .410 shotgun point blank into the neck of a man she said had raped her.

Limited Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller, at the request of President Ford, has decided to make some political appearances while waiting for Congress to act on his nomination as vice president. But a Rockefeller spokesman said the former New York governor would stick to his pledge not to campaign against any incumbent congressmen.

A Private Affair

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For a case of intense public interest, the initial stage of the Watergate cover-up trial has turned into an intensely private affair — conducted behind guarded doors with no press or public allowed.

Protest Bus Decision

BOSTON (UPI) — More than 200 persons opposed to court-ordered busing drove to a federal judge's suburban home Friday night and milled around his house for nearly two hours with some demonstrators shouting, "Hell, no, we won't go."

Police sent units to U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity's home in Wellesley as a precaution, but said the two-hour demonstration was peaceful.

Former Residents Honored for Service

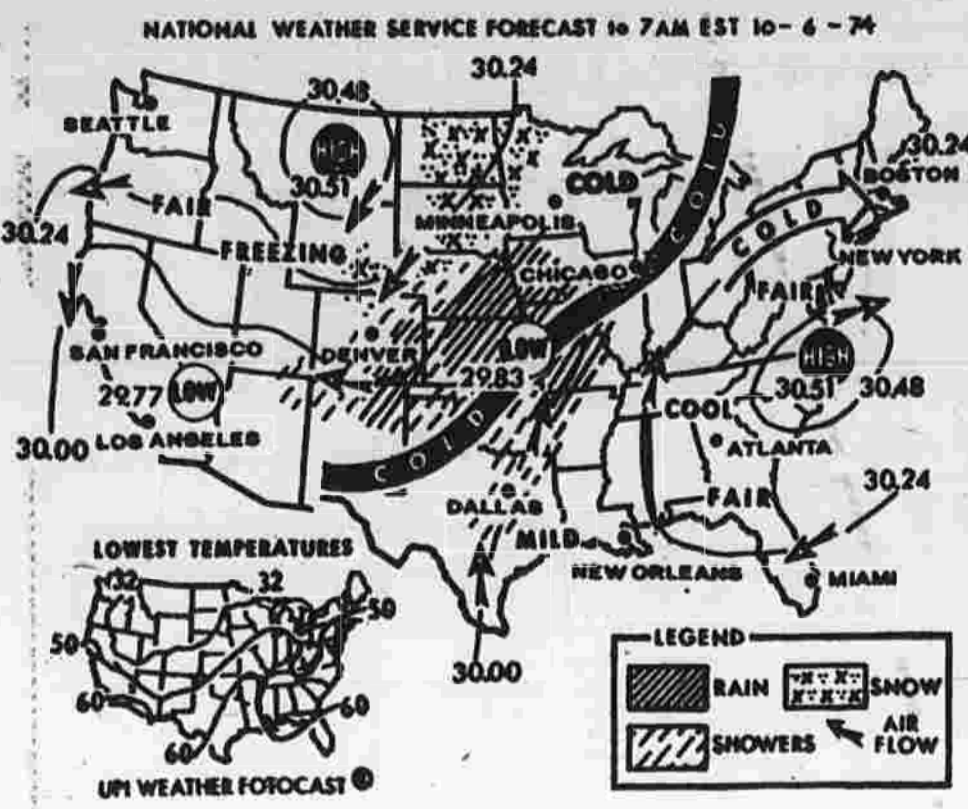

Honored at a twin testimonial last night for their dedication to community service were two former Manchester executives, Lyman keynote speaker, and right, William E. Fitzgerald, master of ceremonies.

Let's Define Consumer Interest

Public Utilities Commission appears to be in for some changes after the election. Candidates for governor have committed themselves to restructuring the agency. Mrs. Ella Grasso, the Democrat, wants to replace it with an authority-type body. Robert H. Steele, the Republican, would take the less traumatic approach of revision within the existing setup.

But neither have spelled out any detail what they conceive to be the function of the agency. Right now both are content to imply that under their regimes, if elected, the agency in whatever form emerges from the legislature, will be one to protect the consumer from skyrocketing utility bills which by further implication are due to excessive profits.

Now we, as a consumer, do not want to be gouged by anybody and although it might appear that under the much-publicized Formula B we did pay a few dollars more than we legally should have, we are not convinced the utilities in this state aren't "profiteering."

While as a consumer we would like to have our electric bills as low as possible, we also happen to believe that our money is buying more than a certain number of kilowatts of electricity. We think our consumer interest includes not only a reasonably priced commodity but assurance of reliable supply and a supply that will increase sufficiently to meet future demands.

Any state agency regulating the utilities in the common interest must be responsive not only to consumer demands of today but to the needs of tomorrow also. We are concerned that neither candidate has expressed a philosophical concept of a PUC-type agency. They have not defined just where they would draw the line between political advantages of artificially low rates and the economic necessity for an acceptable rate structure that insures reliable service and meets future needs.

On the eve of an election it is easy to condemn any rate-regulating agency for its failure to watchdog the consumer's purse more diligently. In the case of Formula B, the PUC should not be immune from such criticism. But we would hope there will be more care in the future to tell the voters that price regulation of public utilities, electric and others, is much more than a lower bill.

Until we decide to take over ownership of the private utilities, our regulation of them has to be based on sound economic considerations. In the determination of a rate structure the consumer should be protected, it is true. However, in all the sound and fury of a political campaign, implied promises of lower rates or freezing rates at present levels is intended to get votes rather than resolve the fiscal problems facing our utilities today and curtails plans to insure us an adequate energy supply in the future.

Both candidates have indicated a willingness to "subsidize" the utilities in some way to meet their growing capital needs. This may become necessary for many other legitimate reasons. But a subsidy merely to satisfy consumer demands for low rates would be opening the gate to tax increases that would be necessary if current assessments of our state's fiscal condition are accurate.

We think such a subsidy is too broad for the state to undertake at this time. Even more limited subsidies by the state to the utilities will require thorough screening for tax impact as opposed to long-term gain.

As far as we are concerned, revamping the PUC to merely impose lower rates is not economically justified in the context of our long term and essential dependence upon electricity in our homes and industry. It may be a good political issue but it would be an invitation to economic disaster.

From what we have heard so far about plans for PUC changes, it appears that both candidates are doing more tinkering than thinking about the common interest and welfare under which the state exercises its regulatory rights over the utilities.

Frantic Wall Street Turns To the People

Despite slight surges of bullishness in recent days, Wall Street continues to be in trouble. And who is being asked to help bail it out?

The little guy, the same little guy the street doesn't have the time of day for when times are good.

Now the brokers are hurting. A sluggish market and depressed prices mean fewer and smaller commissions. But the little guy has wised up and has decided there are better uses for whatever extra capital he may have accumulated.

Compared to Wall Street, even Las Vegas looks like a place where a sucker—that is, an investor can get an even break. There are still around 30 million shareholders in the United States. But in the past two years, more than a million and a half individual investors have said nuts to "people's capitalism" and abandoned the market.

As Robert W. Sarnoff, RCA Corp. chairman and board member of the New York Stock Exchange, recently pointed out, at one time individual investors accounted for 70 per cent of the activity in the nation's major exchanges. The remaining 30 per cent represented trading by institutions such as mutual funds, pension funds, banks and insurance companies.

Today, those percentages are exactly reversed. The small investor has not gotten out of the market as much as he has been driven out by the big boys who can transform a glamor stock into a dog overnight, or vice versa, for reasons that have nothing to do with a company's soundness.

As Sarnoff says, the institutional buyers (and sellers) of large blocks of stocks have turned what was once a "go-go" market into a "yo-yo" market and small investors understandably feel "at the mercy of forces beyond their control or escape."

Last year, individual investors were net sellers of $12 billion worth of corporated shares. This is not to say that Mrs. Gerald Ford suddenly and tragically stricken with cancer — will solve the problem of inflation or invent a television set that self-destructs when kids are watching a dirty movie. Indeed, one of her refreshing qualities has been an obvious reluctance to run the government or play the role of the good and strong-willed woman behind the throne.

No. What I mean is that off the record so far there is no indication that success has spoiled Betty Ford. She has given out the slightest hint that she feels she is dependent all along to be the First Lady. On the other hand, she has not sought to portray herself as just a little of 'country girl' who fell into her sudden magnificent surroundings. She simply moved into the White House, looked around, and tackled the job of organizing her new life.

OPEN FORUM
Decisions

To the editor: As a disinterested person, I carefully listened to arguments for and against the purchase of Case Mountain property by the Town of Manchester.

All points of view favored that of the opposition against the purchase or to at least place the issue on local referendum vote. Because of it not being a top priority item and of the amount of dollars involved, this to me would have been the proper decision.

Later becoming interested, I openly opposed the acquisition of $50,000 for a fence and access road on Case Mt. To me this was in a form of pie mealing (added) expenses that are up and above the initial purchase price.

Some $27,000 was allocated instead of $50,000. As the old saying goes, one can go broke with savings like that. In the future, I'd like to see or have read out loud and clear on total expenditures of this nature.

Furthermore, the piece mealing of expenses, as Ernest Tureck, park superintendent, states, added expenses of approximately $1,500 are needed for cost of materials and labor to replace the now damaged fence that had been installed. It also should be mentioned the predicament this puts the park superintendent in trying to fulfill his regularly assigned duties.

Furthermore, rules and regulations must be enforced by authorized personnel (Police Dept.) at added expenses or there could be more serious problems than what has been stated and photographs shown in The Herald Sept. 26. Inflation results only from increasing the amount of paper money in circulation. A point which could be argued but, as we all know, the other points on this subject are just plain hogwash.

So while these extra dollars are around let's profit by them by taking care of the top priority items first. As stated above, Case Mt. in my opinion, did not fall within the top priority item class, not when we are faced with sewage and storm drainage problems. Oh, I'm aware that there are other priority items involved that I just wanted to mention these two basic ones only to bring out a point. For as one looks within the limits of our town these problems are a sore spot and subject to added cost and discomfort to the private homeowners and businesses. As aforementioned, these to me would be considered top priority items and should have been handled accordingly but they are being placed on referendum vote.

The question of "Do we cut spending for top priority items and face increased costs later, or do we spend now and save, possibly depleting our finances?" I would say the answer is "Spend tax dollars now for top priority items only, as this will reverse the present spiral of inflation, and we won't be faced with increased costs later on non-priority items."

All-Time Con Job

To the editor: Re: (letter — E.B. Tracy dated 9-30-74) I wonder where she's been? Mr. Nixon never retired at full pensions. What civil service did they have to perform for repayment of the money taken and the taxes they didn't pay? What about the money they made selling at black market prices on illegal markets? They didn't pay income taxes on that money either nor did they have any responsibilities to the people of the country whose economy they helped to destroy.

If you are looking for justice I can show thousands of precedents for clemency without the paragonella attached. There have been many strange deals made in the name of justice when the right people are involved. Every time one of these deals is struck it cost taxpayers money. Maybe you can afford to support these illegal activities but I can't and don't want to. Not if the same deal can put me in jail.

Considering the magnitude of his mistakes in judgment, and his refusal to cooperate and be called to account, Mr. Nixon has outdone the Trojan Horse gambit for all time con-job.

A Complaint

To the editor: That was a very good picture you printed of Marye Gail Benford, president of the Unitarian Universalist Society of Manchester, and me in the Oct. 2 paper. Thank you very much for giving our views such good coverage.

I have one complaint, however. In that picture I was identified as my husband's wife. Now, feminine modesty and pride in my husband, makes me pleased to have you note that I am the wife of last year's president of the society. But for all the women who struggle to be liberated from their husband's tagline, I am forced to speak out.

I am chairperson of the fair this year and the one I think I can handle. I cannot subordinate that position and the duties and responsibilities involved, to being the wife of last year's president of the society. For me, and for all women who are married and who take on responsibilities, please will you identify me accordingly to the job I do and not the job my husband did last year.

Thank you, Beth Watson, chairperson of the fair of the Unitarian Universalist Society of Manchester

White House Heroine

I especially liked Mrs. Ford's performance at that fund-raising luncheon in Chicago for 14 women running for something called Republican Women Power, in the White House, I think, a First Lady who is neither an intellectual nor a ball of feminine fluff but an intelligent woman whose intelligence and experience give her the security and wisdom to go on being herself. Mrs. Ford may say some things that will offend some people, but she won't be speaking from duplicity or frivolity, but as a woman capable of thinking her own thoughts and articulating them.

Nothing breathless or triumphant, mind you. Just, "In 10 months, going from the wife of Gerry Ford, House Minority Leader, to the wife of Mr. President." And then, still low key, she added a "Wow" that carried no exclamation mark.

Why Live With Inflation?

"We are just as much subject to the same inflationary factors as everyone else in society," Pentagon spokesman William Beecher said the other day in noting that the Pentagon's estimate of the cost of its 42 major weapon programs had jumped $16 billion, or 15 per cent due to inflation.

He went on to say the Pentagon would have to cut back on some of the programs but, and here's the kicker, next year's budget is expected to show "a substantial increase."

After being chastised by Congress for calculating its inflation this year at 4.3 per cent, while the national rate was more than 10, the Pentagon has dug out its slide rule and will use 11 per cent this year, 8 per cent next year, 4.3 per cent in 1980 and 3.7 per cent thereafter.

If you want to be optimistic you might be encouraged by this bit of news from the Pentagon projecting a drop in the inflation rate from 11 per cent now to 3.7 per cent by 1980. But we find it discouraging that the biggest single spending agency in our government is planning to live with inflation into the next decade. This seems to contradict the President's desire to have inflation controlled by 1976.

Our only glimmer of hope is that the Pentagon inflation figures are inflated.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

This is my last thought. I have found peace myself in thinking over with you the deep meaning of these few lines:

"God grant me the Serenity to accept the things I cannot change, Courage to change things I can, and Wisdom to know the difference."

As I said yesterday we must find our greatest and ever present help in God. Then we must learn to "let down" and, in closing, I should like to share with you a prayer that has helped me to do this:

per cent this year, 8 per cent next year, 4.3 per cent in 1980 and 3.7 per cent thereafter.

Break the tension of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations — of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book. May I know that there is more to life than increasing its speed. Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values. Amen.

CPTV GUIDE

OCTOBER 1974

A Commitment To Communicate

'A Commitment to Communicate' is the slogan being used by Connecticut Public Television (CPTV) this fall as its new noncommercial season gets under way.

And CPTV is definitely communicating - with an ever-widening audience which has helped public TV grow beyond educational programming to a broad range of public affairs and cultural shows.

More and more viewers are turning away from the monotonous offerings of commercial television, and are tuning into one of CPTV's five broadcast channels.

CPTV is getting better and better. This fall's new season is marked by a high degree of quality, both in its technical aspects and its content.

Despite a continuing shortage of funds, CPTV has managed to put together a programming schedule with the best of the Public Broadcasting System (PBS), the Eastern Educational Network, and locally-produced shows.

CPTV has something for everybody. Public affairs shows range from William Buckley's 'Firing Line' to the award-winning 'Black Perspective on the News.'

Cultural shows range from serious drama to opera, with the musical specials featuring the likes of the Boston Symphony and top rock-folk performers.

Locally, CPTV is offering programs produced with the Hartford Symphony, the American Shakespeare Festival, the Long Wharf Theatre, and possibly the Hartford Ballet.

Public TV in Connecticut is no longer just a fuzzy alternative to ABC, CBS, and NBC. It's becoming a broad-based competitor.

'The Doors of Mystery' is the featured program on this month's cover of 'CPTV Guide.' The special - described by proud CPTV management as a horror-fantasy-drama - was adapted for TV from a young people's production by Long Wharf Theatre. New Haven, it'll air on CPTV Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m., and will be rebroadcast nationally by PBS Oct. 30.

Music is a major part of the CPTV lineup this season. Among the CPTV-produced shows scheduled are specials featuring the Hartford Symphony, the Quinnipiac Jazz Festival, and the Hartford Ballet. That's in addition to PBS regulars such as 'Evening at Symphony,' 'At the Top,' and 'Soundstage.'

THE ELECTRIC COMPANY logo featuring a bird holding a sign that says 'HELLO!'

Read Runner, that 'beep beep' denizen of the nation's theatre screens, will teach relationships of words and actions in this season's segments of 'The Electric Company,' seen daily on CPTV. The children's series, broadcast by PBS, is produced by the Children's Television Workshop.

WINGS OF EVENING

By CLIFF SIMPSON

"Well, did you ask God about joining the church," the minister queried.
 "O yes, I asked Him," replied the janitor, "and He said 'Never you mind if you can't get into that church. I have a great deal of trouble getting in there myself.'"

Forgiven Sinners
 The Bible tells us that "all sin and fall short of the glory of God," Jesus said, "None is good save God." Yet many outside the church have the mistaken idea that all those inside claim a special degree of "goodness." Many recentists and label church members "hypocrites."
 I recall a prominent Manchester woman who called me when her husband died. As is my custom, we had a conversation about funeral arrangements, and then I wanted to offer prayer. Her caustic comment startled me.
 "He doesn't need your prayers. He was just as good as any member of Center Church."
 Ignoring her remark I offered a prayer, and am glad that I did for she thanked me with tears in her eyes. All her life she told me she had been annoyed by her neighbors who looked down on her because she rarely went to church. Yet she knew that they were far from perfect. The best definition of a church member that I know is "a forgiven sinner." It is because of God's forgiveness that there is hope, not because there is no sin.

Neighbors in Need
 There are many reasons why people do "good deeds"—both within and outside the church. Certainly church members have no monopoly here. However, Christian motivation is in response to God's love and His forgiveness. It is a recognition that every person can be used by God in His work of love.
 Some time ago, I reviewed the membership of various boards in Manchester and was pleased to find so many church members serving on them. During World War II when Center Church organized "Manchester Thanking Baskets for Europe" we had representatives from 35 organizations meet in our parish house. Every single one belonged to a church.
 The church is deeply concerned for the lonely, the outcast, the sick, the minorities, the hungry and the dispossessed. Tomorrow there is to be an offering for Neighbors in Need. For years Church World Service has been administering relief around the world, often the first on the scene after a disaster.

 The church is made up of sinners—true, but sinners who know that they are forgiven. This awareness makes possible a freedom and joy which finds expression in service.

"Afflame with Righteousness"
 Our maxim of the week came from Alexis de Tocqueville, whose book "Democracy in America," written in 1835, has often been quoted.
 "Not until I went to the churches of America and heard her pupils aflame with righteousness did I understand the secret of her genius and what he had done. Finally, when the black coffee and scrambled eggs arrived, he looked up with wonder and bewilderment in his eyes and muttered:
 "Imagine that! The minister of Center Church is eating here with me."
 For too long he had been a victim of scurrilous remarks from self-righteous church members who looked on him as an outcast.
 Whenever he passed the church he could imagine them saying:
 "You don't belong here! Stay out!"
 This attitude was certainly not typical of the church as a whole but it was what the church meant to him, so he was surprised that a minister would care about him.
 Jesus was accused of being a "winebibber and a glutton." He ate with sinners, sought the outcasts, refused to condemn the woman taken in adultery. Jesus still has bitter words for those who would deny his love to His children—and feel self righteous in so doing.

Chuckle That Hurts
 A story is told of a black janitor, some years ago, who asked the rector of a wealthy, highly ritualistic church in New York City if he could join. The clergyman hemmed and hawed, putting him off. Finally, when the sexton persisted, the rector said, "Why don't you wait a while and ask God if He really wants you to join our church?"
 Days went by. Finally they met in the street by chance.

The Bible Speaks
 Eugene Grower

For several years a Family Life curriculum has been incorporated into the Manchester School system. A revised curriculum now is being readied, with a Life Cycle section expanded in age covered.
 Several questions arise from the efforts by the public schools to fill what is, in many families, a tragic void. To most, the subject involves more than impersonal biological facts. It entails moral and religious principles, without which academic information is of questionable value.
 In view of the judicial elimination of Bible reading and prayer from classrooms, there is reason to wonder how such personal information can legally be given a moral undergirding. Obviously, much hinges upon the teacher's moral convictions and religious scruples, and ability and freedom to impart those values to students. Parents will be well-advised to help the administration maintain careful scrutiny of subject-matter, social context, and methodology.

 The United Methodist Church will celebrate World Communion Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Sunday.

All members will renew their membership vows, new members will receive, and the service of communion will emphasize unity and diversity within the worldwide fellowship of Christians.
 The latter will be accomplished by having all foreign-born receive communion first followed by first generation Americans, followed by members whose original background was not United Methodist followed by all others.
 Mrs. Sue Ann Elencov of Storrs will provide a special loaf of bread for service.
 A special table will be used for the service rather than the traditional altar.

Baseball Not Funny to Apromonte

Baseball is a funny game. That's the title of a book written by Joe Garagiola. The book is funny but baseball isn't. If you have any doubts, ask Ken Apromonte. All Apromonte did was lead the Cleveland Indians to their best finish in six years in the American League. For this feat, he was fired.

On center stage now is Frank Robinson, a great ball player, but untested as a manager except for winter ball in Puerto Rico, who will receive a one-year contract calling for $173,000. Robinson will be a playing manager in 1975 with the Tribe.

What qualifications does Robinson have? Was he selected just because of his race? Numerous times over the years, when Robinson was playing with Cincinnati and later when he was a slickfoot with Baltimore, our paths crossed. I found him to be as arrogant as any pro player I've ever met. Insulting, too.

Ted Williams, to many (not this writer) was in the same boat as a player, yet he was tabbed to manage the Texas Rangers. Ted was a great player but, in short, a lousy manager. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn couldn't find time to be on hand for Hank Aaron's historic home run last spring which broke Babe Ruth's all-time career record but he made a special trip to Cleveland for the signing of Robinson.

Whether Robinson can manage remains a question. He created quite a fuss about his race being overlooked in managerial caliber for years and talked himself into the most lucrative pay for a manager in baseball history. He may be able to handle 25 men, that's the biggest part of managing.

A tested and proven Walter Alton in Los Angeles gets no where near what Robinson's starting salary will be as the Indians' field skipper. Alton has managed 19 seasons in major league ball. If Robinson can't win in Cleveland and gets the gate, which happens to all managers, there will be protests from many groups and quarters, who can bet on that.

Will a woman manager be next for a major league baseball team?

Just for the Record

Just for the record, there were more adults out watching one softball practice at Charter Oak Park this summer than there were spectators at last Sunday's excellent concert in Charter Park. This was Red Schoendienst's 30th year in baseball, 19 as a player and 11 as St. Louis Cardinal manager. Channel 24's first in a series of 12 Thursday night sports programs, titled "The Way It Was," got off to a great start this week with the 1951 National League race between the Dodgers and Giants recalled. The climax was Bobby Thomson's dramatic home run which gave the Giants the pennant. This writer's pre-season pennant picks were: American League East — 1. Boston, 2. Baltimore, 3. New York, 4. Detroit, 5. Milwaukee, Cleveland, West — 1. Oakland, 2. Kansas City, 3. Chicago, 4. California, 5. Minnesota, 6. Texas, National League East — 1. Pittsburgh, 2. New York, 3. St. Louis, 4. Montreal, 5. Philadelphia, 6. Chicago, West — 1. Cincinnati, 2. San Francisco, 3. Los Angeles, 4. Houston, 5. Atlanta, 6. San Diego.

New Walk Crowd at Garden

Bill Walton helped "attract" only 7,800 fans to Madison Square Garden this week when Portland visited to play the Knicks in an exhibition. It was the smallest crowd at the Garden since it opened six years ago. Emerson Boozar (offense), Ralph Baker (defense) and Mike Adame (specialty teams) have been appointed New York Jet captains. Monday night the Jets face Miami on national television. Warm welcome is extended to George Ehrlich, new sports director at WJTV in Manchester. He's one of the top sportsstars in the East. Neispe Tennis Club will wind up regular season activities Sunday with a mixed round robin and family picnic. Have a nice weekend.

Cody and Eichelberger Sahara Halfway Leaders

LAS VEGAS NED (UPI) — Old Cody took a five-under-par 66 and Eichelberger, 31, scrambled for a 68 for 36-hole totals of 133, seven under Miller, the blond-haired glamour boy of the tour, had a 69 to go with his first round.

"I'm disgusted with myself," Miller said. "I've chipped terrible both days. But I'm looking forward to a good round tomorrow. I'm not predicting a win, though. I'll just wait and see what happens tomorrow."

If Cody and Eichelberger were looking over their shoulders at Miller, you could hardly blame them. Miller, 27, has won eight events and $346,939 in only 20 tournaments this year.

Cody has three PGA tour wins in a career that began in 1963. Although he captured two events in Britain last year, he hasn't won since the Masters at Augusta, Ga., three years ago. The year Cody won the 1973 Masters 1971 Eichelberger won at Milwaukee for his only tour triumph.

Tied for third place at 136 were a trio of veterans: 1968 Sahara champ Chi Chi Rodriguez (66), Bob Rosburg (65), the best round of the tournament, and Art Wall (67).

Andreotti in Strong Bid To Gain Grand Prix

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI) — "The way Mario Andretti's luck is running this year, don't be surprised if the little Italian-American driver from Nazareth Pa. rides away with the $50,000 top prize in Sunday's United States Grand Prix auto race.

Andretti's cars ran the gamut of mechanical difficulties the last three years but his fortunes appear to be shifting. He is now an ace on the Formula 500 circuit and could become the first American to win the U.S. GP. Andretti's last victory, 39 seconds clocking in Friday's qualifying set a lap record for Formula One at Watkins Glen and Mario readily admits, "I'm praying for a little rain Saturday to slow everyone's time."

This would give Andretti the pole position in the $300,000 event, richest road race in the world. Mario's Parnelli Ford has been "almost perfect" in tests here.

"I've never broken in a new car that satisfied me more. It was born to run and has really built up my confidence for the future in Formula One racing," he said.

Andretti has a three-year contract with Parnelli Jones and as of first thought the car couldn't possibly reach its potential until the final year of the agreement.

He feels the time table can now be moved up considerably. Sunday's race will determine the 1974 world driving championship. Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland and Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil are tied for the lead with 52 points. Jody Scheckter of South Africa is only other driver with a chance to win the title, is third with 45 points.

On Friday, Regazzoni had a clocking of 1:39.733 before blowing an engine on his Ferrari F111. He set a lap record of 1:39.856, while Scheckter was faster than the other two at 1:39.478.

A feud is brewing between the Swiss Knight and the Brazilian Bomber, with each hurling charges of "second class driver." Tensions are mounting in each camp. A victory brings added endorsements and a wedge in contract talks.

Prize Winning Poet Dies

WESTON, Mass. (UPI) — Pulitzer-prize winning poet Anne Sexton, 45, was found dead Friday in the garage of her home. Police said it was a possible suicide.

Mrs. Sexton won her Pulitzer in 1967 for "Live or Die," a work that concerned itself mostly with death. Her latest work was "The Death Notebooks."

"Life had a depressing effect on her," said her friend Maxine Kurnin.

Mrs. Sexton's body was found in an idling car. The exact cause of death was not established but police Lt. Lawrence Cugini ruled out homicide.

"It was either suicide or natural causes" he said.

Mrs. Sexton was born in Newburyton. Recently divorced from Alfred M. Sexton, she leaves two daughters.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of P. Joseph Murphy, who passed away October 5, 1973.

The heartache and sadness remain with us today
As it did a year ago when God called you away
Life seems so empty since you've been gone.
We go through the motions of living, but silently we mourn
For you were so kind, thoughtful and true.
Well-loved by all who ever knew you.
As a husband and father, you were the very best.
Dear one, sleep peacefully in eternal rest.

DCA Sets Housing '75 Rehab Goal

By MRK MILLER
HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Department of Community Affairs has set a goal of 9,000 new rehabilitated or refinanced housing units for next year, and there will be legislative help, a DCA Housing Bureau spokesman said Friday.

The figure is up 3,000 units from the 6,000-unit goal the department set for itself, and reached, this year, Benson Cohn said at a housing seminar of the General Assembly's State and Urban Development Committee.

The new goal reflects a DCA conviction that positive action should support the housing industry in an economic period when the private market is faltering, Cohn said.

Spelling out an ambitious program, Cohn asked for "substantial increases in virtually every program." For example, DCA is requesting $10,800,000 for elderly housing, which is $2,800,000 over this year and more than double last year.

The state has an increased ability to assist because of better organization with new Connecticut Housing Finance Authority programs which began last winter, Cohn said.

The outlook is brightened some by the prospect of "large amounts" of Leased Housing Assistance money for 2,000 to 3,000 units to be made available through DCA and its subsidiary agency.

The two agencies will administer the federal funds and assume the substantial underwriting and management responsibilities involved, Cohn said.

He asked for the support of the State and Urban Development and Appropriations committees in obtaining the requested funds.

Cohn also suggested the state review environmental protection statutes to insure their enforcement does not severely curtail housing and other development. "Environmental protection will ultimately fail if it does not take the full range of human needs into account, especially the basic need to have a place to live and a place to work," he said.

Family Homeless In Tolland Fire

The six members of the Charles Brennan family of Buff Cap Rd., Tolland were left homeless this morning after a fire completely gutted their home, according to Assistant Fire Chief Richard Symonds.

The home was a cement block structure of one and a half stories. For reasons unknown late this morning, the Brennans, man and wife and four children ranging in age from four to 17, left the house at 4 a.m.

A fire call was received at 7:38 a.m. by the Tolland County Emergency Center. Symonds said it was a "working fire" when they arrived with flames shooting out of every part of the home.

Assisting the Tolland department were the departments from Willington, Crystal Lake and North Coventry.

The cause appears accidental but is still being investigated, Symonds said. Everything of the family's is destroyed and they are staying with neighbors.

Residents will be asked to hear and accept the reports of various town officers and boards.

Residents will be asked to elect three members to the Memorial Day Committee for three-year terms.

Residents will be asked to vote to raise from the table the motion made at a Town Meeting in August to adopt an ordinance prohibiting excavation on any town road or right of way without obtaining a permit from the first selectman and authorizing the first selectman to require the posting of a bond and the furnishing of liability insurance before the issuance of the permit.

During Fire Prevention Week and Year 'Round

EDITH Is No Lady

EDITH means: Exit Drill In The Home

1. Don't open your bedroom door without first feeling it with the palm of your hand. If it's warm, take a different route out of the room.

2. If a window cannot be opened, use a shoe or chair to break the glass. Put blankets over the sill to prevent cuts.

3. If you awake in a smoke filled room, cover your nose and mouth with a pillow case. Crawl on the floor to the window. The air close to the floor is safer, but take short breaths.

4. If you have to drop from a second story window, throw out a mattress to soften your fall. If you must jump into a life net, step out boldly. Don't jump unless you have to!

Some states have passed laws that new houses must have smoke detectors. These detectors hang from the ceiling and give a loud warning signal when they detect smoke.

You and your family should have several escape plans and practice your fire drills, especially at night!

Practice

Many cities have emergency telephone boxes. These boxes have cut down on the number of costly false alarms since all calls are recorded. If you turn in an alarm stay by the fire box until the fire trucks arrive.

Your Firemen Friends

Wearing firemen's boots, these children are getting ready to race.

The firemen in Washington, D.C., and all cities, want children to know that they are their friends.

Sometimes they park their trucks on neighborhood streets. They let the youngsters have a close look at a fire truck. The chief gives a talk. They sometimes hold boot and hose races.

Many firemen will be visiting schools and neighborhoods during National Fire Prevention Week.

This little girl is winning in a roll-the-firehose race. Maybe she'll grow up to be a firefighter.

Super Sport: Len Dawson

Len Dawson is one of 11 children. He grew up in Alliance, Ohio. In high school he played football, basketball and baseball.

Dawson went to college at Purdue where he was a super passer and quarterback. His first few years in pro ball were disappointing, since he "rode the bench" and did not play much.

He was traded to a team that became the Kansas City Chiefs. He was given his big chance. Len Dawson is said to be one of the most accurate passers to ever play the game.

A Fireman's Equipment

A fireman going into action might wear or carry a:

- helmet
- smoke mask
- oxygen tank
- canvas or rubber coat
- fireproof gloves
- pike pole to use when trying to get at and knock down burning building materials.

Mr. Mac Snack has just hired a signmaker who claims he has had experience. Why does Mr. Mac Snack think that the new man is not telling the truth?

Mr. Mac Snack knew the man was not telling the truth because he misspelled the following words: snacks, sandwiches, dogs, cheese, hamburgers, french, drinks, tea, coffee, shakes. He also got the numbers 7, 9, and 9 backwards. Mr. Mac Snack had to let him go!

The Lipizzan Stallions

The Lipizzan Stallions can do many unusual tricks.

They can leap into the air and kick out their hind feet. They can prance in place. They can dance to music.

These horses are born dark brown and later turn milk white. They stay with their mothers until they are four years old. Then they are sent into training.

They used to live in Austria, but they are now in this country.
