Ford Seeks Anti-Inflation Surtax

Program Draws Praise With Exception of Tax

United Press International President Ford drew praise from businessmen, economists, labor leaders and everyday citizens on most of his proposals to wage war on inflation. But many reacted sourly to his suggestion for a 5 per cent income tax surcharge.

"Speaking for the man on the street," said Ray Ransom, a Salt Lake City data technician. "I'm just about ready to trade my take-home pay for what the government would do."

Many Against Surtax

AFL-CIO President George Meany speaking in Miami, said Ford's proposal to apply the surcharge to families earning $15,000 annually and single persons with $7,500 salaries was unacceptable.

At today's prices he said, those salaries are not high. However, he praised Ford for sweeping "the economic mess out from underneath the rug."

One economist said if the surcharge helps stop inflation, the cost to the American wage earner will be worth it.

$2.50 A Week

Dr. E. W. Wood of the University of Mississippi estimated that a family of four making $20,000 a year would pay about $2.50 a week more in income taxes under the surcharge proposal.

"Inflation is going to raise our tax rates anyway because it pushes us into higher income tax brackets," Wood said.

"So if an increase in the personal tax rate proves anti-inflationary we will be no worse off and perhaps better off because the tax burden may be more equitably distributed than the inflation burden."

In New York, Tilford Gaines chief economist for Manufacturers Hanover Trust, said the 5 per cent surtax "is in-adequate for people who in today's world are essentially in a lower income bracket."

No Other Choice

But Gaines also said the President had no other choice, since "the bulk of all potential tax revenue is between $15,000 and $25,000 in earned income."

Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken said he favored most proposals made by Ford as a means to stem inflation, but "as to the special surtax, I would prefer that it start at a higher income than $15,000."

Wall Street economist Pierre Rinfret said labor would seek higher wage increases to make up for losses suffered under the proposed 5 per cent tax surcharge.

Industry Will Get Burden

"In essence, the cost burden will fall on private industry which will be subject to still higher corporate taxes," he said.

The idea of a surcharge did not bother Karl J. Bray much. Bray, author of a book on how to avoid paying income taxes said "I'm not worried about it, I won't pay it."

He currently faces jail on a variety of tax evasion charges.

Ford Asks Nation for Help

With fist clinched, President Gerald Ford Tuesday asked the American people to help in the fight against inflation. In an address before a joint session of the Congress, he asked for a

People, Congress Asked to Economize

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's long-awaited solution to inflation turns out to be heavier taxes on the middle class and the wealthy, tax incentives to revive business, and exhortations to Americans to pinch pennies and drive less.

Ford told Congress he wants higher tax revenues so he can cut federal deficits. Both would fight inflation by reducing the amount of money spent in the economy.

To business he offered tax incentives to encourage growth.

For Poor and Jobless

He offered to help the economy's worst-off victims — the poor and those thrown out of work.

The President avoided predicting what his program would achieve, but he said failure to slow down the rate of inflation would "destroy our country."

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon vaguely predicted only that Ford's program, if enacted intact, would bring the current double-digit inflation — now ranging about 14 per cent down to single-digit rate a year from now.

That could be as high as 9 per cent.

Congress Cool on Tax

Not unexpectedly congressmen, facing a bewildered and often frightened electorate in less than a month were less than wildly enthusiastic about voting to increase voters' taxes.

But many in positions of power promised to give Ford's program consideration when Congress returns after the elections for a lame-duck session. Congress recesses Friday for a month's campaigning.

The House Ways and Means Committee invited Simon to attend a hearing on Ford's program today or to send a representative.

The President decided to meet the press today at his third formal news conference, to be held at 2:30 p.m. EDT in the Rose Garden, weather permitting.

Win "Theme Adopted"

Appearing before a televised joint session of Congress Tuesday to lay out his program, Ford wore a "WIN" button in his lapel.

He urged Americans to drive at least 5 per cent fewer miles by car pooling, riding buses or bikes "or just plain walking," and he asked housewives if they could not spare a penny from the food budget — at least to cut down food waste by 5 per cent.

The one-shot tax boost Ford proposed for 1975 would amount to an extra $128 in taxes, on top of the $2,560 now paid, for an average family of four with $20,000 in income.

A single person earning $10,000 would pay $54.78 more than his present $1,095.50.

Lower Groups Exempt

But there would be no extra taxes for couples with adjusted gross incomes under $15,000 or single people under $7,500. The surcharge would expire after one year.

As Ford proposed the tax increase, individuals would pay $2.6 billion more in taxes on 1975 earnings and corporations would pay $2.1 billion.

But Ford also proposed $2.8 billion in tax incentives to businesses which expand, giving the corporate world a net tax saving of $700 million.

Program Highlights

This is his program:

- To help the unemployed: extend unemployment compensation benefits for 13 weeks and create a community jobs program, both to go in effect if the jobs rate rises. These programs could pump $2.25 billion into the economy if unemployment hit 7 per cent.
- To spur the economy: Increase the existing 7 per cent investment tax credit to 10 per cent for businesses, farmers and utilities. The tax credit allows them to subtract some of the cost of new equipment from expansion from taxes.
- To revive the housing industry: Extend government guarantees to $3 billion worth of additional mortgages enough to cover 100,000 houses. A small subsidy for

Surtax Opposition Noted In State Reactions

By United Press International Connecticut political figures from both major parties generally reacted favorably to President Ford's economic proposals except for the 5 per cent tax surcharge on middle incomes.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., said Tuesday President Ford has offered the "beginnings of a national attack on inflation" but criticized the proposed surtax.

Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., candidate for governor, called the proposal "unacceptable," but praised the initiatives for increasing farm production and vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws.

Steele Comments

Her Republican opponent in the November election, Rep. Robert H. Steele, praised the program for pumping new money into the housing market but promised to oppose the surcharge tax when it comes up before Congress.

The Second District congressman said the 5 per cent surcharge would mean an additional $10 a year in taxes to a family earning $15,000 a year.

"This is a time when the federal government should be looking for ways to help the middle income taxpayer rather than socking him with higher taxes," he said.

Fat Flaccop, Republican candidate in the Sixth District seat which Mrs. Grasso is leaving, said he "flatly opposes" the surtax. Democratic congressional candidates Anthony "Tony" Moffett and William Hatchford made similar statements.

"If inflation has produced a visible victim, it is the middle income tax payer," Ribicoff said. "If anything, these people need tax relief."

Ribicoff said closing oil tax loopholes and eliminating useless tax shelters would raise the same amount of money and provide a margin for tax relief.

Antitrust Proposal Praised

"I applaud one part of President Ford's tax package — his suggestion to implement a tough antitrust policy and increase the investment tax credit," Ribicoff said. "Such a policy will stimulate needed competition and encourage more industrial production."

Mrs. Grasso said the American people will respond to the President's call for common action on inflation but called it "incredible" that the sacrifices are being asked of the people who have already been making all of them.

"It seems to me that an individual with an income of $7,500 and a family with an income of $15,000 in these days of inflation should not mark the cutoff point, which should be raised higher," she said.

Mayor John Thompson, acknowledging the program would be experimental, pointed out that if Manchester doesn't use the state grant, it would go to another town.

The toy lending program will involve about 30 pre-school children at a total $44-year cost of $16,500, all financed by grants. The $2,431 is for the salary of a part-time employee to assist with the program.

Case Mountain Vandalism Prosecution Promised

By DOUG BEVINS Manchester Police are adopting a get tough attitude concerning vandalism at town-owned Case Mountain and intend to seek prosecution to the fullest extent of the law, Police Chief James Reardon said today.

"We're not fooling around," Reardon said. "We won't tolerate any vandalism, and mischief, or any violation of the law," he said.

The chief's announcement follows discovery of squatters on Case Mountain and large cases of vandalism to town-owned portions of the park land.

Probe Continues

Reardon said investigation of incidents at Case Mountain is still under way, but police already have certain information which will probably lead to arrests.

"Prosecution will be forthcoming," the chief said, adding, "We're going all the way."

Police involvement in reported incidents at Case Mountain was apparently the topic of an executive session of the Board of Directors Tuesday night, in which the issue of closed meetings became highly controversial.

Reardon, Police Capt. Joseph Sartor, Park Superintendent Ernest Tareck and others met with directors for nearly four hours Tuesday night after an agonizing debate which resulted in exclusion of the press and public.

Two Directors Object

Two directors — Republicans Carl Zinsner and Hillary Gallagher — expressed strong objections to executive sessions and walked out in protest after a vote to close the meeting.

Gallagher, a lawyer, contended that town charter prohibits executive sessions, but Asst. Town Counsel Victor Moses ruled the charter does allow such closed meetings.

The third Republican director, Vivian Ferguson, contended that executive sessions should only be called to discuss matters of personnel and land acquisition, but she entered the executive session with reluctance because Reardon had announced he wouldn't talk publicly about the issues.

Zinsner, commenting on his opposition to executive sessions, said he didn't even know why directors were getting involved in criminal investigations.

"The chief does his job well and we should let him handle it," Zinsner said. The executive session was apparently presided over by Town Manager Robert Weiss earlier Tuesday so Reardon could discreetly provide information with directors.

The vote to go into executive session was 6-2, with Zinsner and Gallagher the opponents. Director Robert Price was absent.

proved by directors Tuesday night, on unanimous votes, were a state-funded $4,600 item of disadvantaged children, a state-funded $1,785 appropriation for a family life-health education program, and a $2,500 account for the Oak Grove Nature Center, financed by receipts of other towns participating in the project.

In other matters at Tuesday night's Board of Directors meeting:

- Town Manager Robert Weiss asked directors to consider a facelift and repairs to Municipal Building offices to be used by town finance operations. Weiss said the estimated cost is $7,000, most of it for repairs to flooring, in offices recently vacated by public works, park, and planning departments. No action was taken.
- Directors appointed Richard LaPointe of 65 Wadsworth St., a Democrat, to fill a vacancy on the Town Building Committee. LaPointe will fill the unexpired term of John J. FitzPatrick ending in November 1975.
- Appointed Mrs. Jane White of 68 Horton Rd., a Democrat, to fill a vacancy on the Advisory Board of Health. She'll fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Rita Levine, ending in November 1976.
- Approved disability retirement for Policeman Harold Newcomb, who has served on the local force for several years. The retirement has already been approved by the Pension Board.
- Tabled consideration of changes in the town pension plan, pending review by the Pension Board.

Washout Items Approved

By DOUG BEVINS One of four seemingly routine matters concerning a washout account for a special school program met unexpected opposition from two town directors Tuesday night, but the appropriation was subsequently approved.

The matter concerned an additional $2,431 appropriation, to be financed by state grants, for a "Toy Lending Library Program" in Manchester schools.

Four directors indicated opposition to spending money on the program, but only two of them voted against the appropriation in the end.

Director Vivian Ferguson, opposing the program, said lending toys to children is a silly program. Director Carl Zinsner — who with Mrs. Ferguson voted against the appropriation — based his opposition on President Ford's statement that all levels of government should cut back spending.

Director Hillary Gallagher, although voting in favor of the project, admitted the opposition had merit. "We have a responsibility to stop throwing money away," he said.

Mayor John Thompson, acknowledging the program would be experimental, pointed out that if Manchester doesn't use the state grant, it would go to another town.

The toy lending program will involve about 30 pre-school children at a total $44-year cost of $16,500, all financed by grants. The $2,431 is for the salary of a part-time employee to assist with the program.

Arbitrated Teacher Pact Accepted by School Board

By JUNE TOMPKINS The Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday night to accept the recommended arbitration award for the teachers' contract subject to some "housekeeping" and rewording.

About 350 members of the Manchester Education Association (MEA) filled the cafeteria at the Robertson School in eager anticipation of the board's decision which had been carried over from last week.

Although the MEA had planned an informational picket of Tuesday's specially called board meeting, it was called off late in the day because it had been learned, "from a reliable source" according to Lee Hay, the MEA's chief negotiator, that the board would probably vote favorably.

"In good faith," said Hay, "we called off the picket anticipating a favorable decision."

However, had the board voted in the negative, MEA members had been given black arm bands which they were to have

Area Nurses Attend Lung Disease Program

Eleven Manchester area nurses attended an instructional program on care of patients with a chronic lung disease last week.

The program was sponsored by the Hartford County Christian Seal/Lung Association at the University of Connecticut Health Center in Farmington.

The purpose of the program was to explain to nurses techniques of home care and community resources available to patients with emphysema or chronic bronchitis.

The nurses were instructed by a lung physician, public health nurse and social worker on how to recognize and treat physical and psychological problems in a patient with breathing problems.

A similar program is planned for patients and their families Oct. 23 at the Health Center.

Manchester area nurses who attended the program were June Lomaglio, Mary Reuter and Dolores Ruggiero of Manchester Memorial Hospital; Margaret Larabee, Carol Lavigne, Joyce Morris, and Phyllis Saich of the Manchester Public Health Nurses.

Also, Joan Cunningham of 88 Essex St., Kathy Gasper of 45 Kane Rd., Joan O'Loughlin of 45 Fairview St., and Patricia Waitt of South Windsor.

Energy Saving By Agencies Requested

HARTFORD (UPI) - Gov. Thomas J. Meskill Tuesday sent a memo to all state department and agency heads urging energy conservation efforts this winter, saying there could be "severe hardships" if certain developments occur. Meskill said hardships could result if there is another oil embargo, severe curtailments of natural gas major strikes in the coal or petroleum industries a severe winter or if resources are wasted. He said he has asked Energy Agency Administrator Lynn Alan Brooks to coordinate energy conservation efforts of all state agencies and departments.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Wrong Victim

One winter day, Art, a teenager, was amusing himself by hurling snowballs at passing cars. One snowball missed its target and struck a pedestrian across the street, injuring his eye. Could Art be held liable for assault and battery?

In a court hearing, his lawyer said no.

"Art had no wrongful purpose toward this man," went the lawyer's argument. "Hitting him was purely accidental."

However, the court ordered Art to pay damages. The court invoked the doctrine of "transferred intent," by which an original wrongful intent—in this case, the desire to hit the passing car—was transferred to the accidental consequence.

This widely recognized doctrine is based on the law's reluctance to let a wrongdoer get off scot-free. It has even been applied in a case of mistaken identity. Thus:

A man sneaked up behind another man, thinking he was an old assassin, and bashed him on the head. Actually, the victim happened to be a total stranger.

But that didn't help the first man when he was haled into court afterward to face a damage claim. Applying the doctrine of transferred intent, the court had no trouble finding him liable.

On the other hand, the doctrine will not apply if there was no wrongful purpose in the first place. Suppose, for instance, that a woman who is being chased by a mugger throws a rock in his direction. And suppose the rock misses the mugger and hits an innocent bystander.

Under these circumstances, the woman could not be held responsible for injury to the bystander, because she had acted in legitimate self defense. With no wrongful intent to begin with, there could be nothing that could be transferred into legal liability.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Q I heard that there is a new program being handled by Social Security. Can you tell me what it is and who it covers?

A The new program is known as Supplemental Security Income. This program has taken over the state programs of public assistance to people who are 65 or older or blind or disabled. The states still provide Medicaid and social services.

Q I understand that supplemental income payments you have to have limited assets. If this is true can you give me some idea of assets I can have and still get checks?

A A single person can have assets worth up to $1,500 and still get payments. A married couple can have $2,250. This includes savings accounts, stocks, bonds, jewelry, and other valuables. However, you may own a home worth a market value up to $2,500 or less and it would not count as an asset.

Q What is the amount a person can receive under supplemental insurance program?

A For one person the amount is $146 a month. For a married couple it is $219.

Q If I receive Social Security benefits can I also receive supplemental insurance benefits?

A It is possible depending on your assets and the amount of your Social Security benefit. If you are single and your receive $164 a month from social Security you would not be eligible for supplemental benefits. For a couple the amount would be $239.

Q I belong to a civic organization and we are interested in having more information about Social Security. Is it possible for a representative to address our group?

A Yes. Just contact the Social Security office and arrangements will be made. There is no cost for the speaker.

ENERGY WORLD

By JERRY R. WILSON

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — An ordinary lump of coal is black, dirty and frowned upon by the Environmental Protection Agency, but that simple, plentiful and traditional fuel source may provide a most untraditional answer to this nation's energy needs.

Quietly, a process is being developed to turn America's most abundant energy source into our most rapidly diminishing resource — petroleum.

And the process, considering America's wealth in coal, could provide twice the amount of petroleum now existing in the entire world from domestic deposits alone — a prospect promoters hope will send a frightening message to the Arab oil producing nations.

The process, coal liquefaction, can turn even the poorest quality coal — now unsuitable for most uses because of environmental restrictions — into high quality, or "sweet," crude oil for refining into high octane gasoline or fuel oil.

Three separate research projects are now underway to develop the process, including a $50-$70 million contract being negotiated between Dynallectron Corp. in Washington, D.C., and the federal office of coal research for a pilot project. Industry spokesmen say it will be sometime in the mid 1980s before full scale plants, costing an estimated $300 million each, will be in operation — but each such plant will produce between 60,000 and 100,000 barrels of high grade synthetic crude oil per day from any kind of available coal. And at 400 billion tons of proven coal deposits, coal is what America has the most of.

That's what this project is all about, said Pierce Reynolds, manager of Sun Oil Co.'s Tulsa refinery, one of three possible sites for the pilot program. "I'm taking something that is not usable because of the sulphur level and making it into something you can use."

"If we could produce just one per cent of what we now use every day (about 16 million barrels of crude oil), that would take only three or four of these plants and would cause a reduction in world prices."

Dynallectron Vice President Earl Holdgraf agreed, saying the competition to Arab oil producing nations from a successful commercial application of the liquefaction process could "put an effective ceiling on the cost of foreign crude oil."

In simplified terms, the process calls for combining coal and hydrogen in a high pressure (3,000 psi) reactor at 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Each ton of coal would produce about three barrels of crude oil — or 120 gallons of gasoline or furnace oil — at prices now estimated between $10 and $12 per barrel.

Even high sulphur coal, such as much of the 72 billion tons found in Oklahoma, could be transformed into usable petroleum at the rate of 30,000 to 40,000 tons per day.

The process is still experimental and the pilot project alone will take from five to six years, but industry spokesmen say they hope commercial plants can be put into operation at the rate of one per year from the mid 1980s on, thus freeing the nation's research facilities to develop other energy sources more fully.

America's coal deposits are and always have been far more extensive than her — or anyone else's — petroleum deposits, and researchers see coal liquefaction as the short term solution to the nation's energy needs and the key to "project independence."

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

A Long-Pull Strategy

President Gerald Ford went to the Congressional dressing room Tuesday to layout his strategy before the team and fans.

He did so, as he pointed out, knowing that both the team and fans wanted some spectacular razzle-dazzle plays because team members face contract renewals in about four weeks and the fans are getting impatient for a scoreless first half against inflation.

But Coach Ford has his eyes on winning the Super Bowl, not just the immediate game ahead, and opted for a longer grand strategy designed to strengthen the team for the long pull.

His most significant play is the decision to meet growing recession problems of rising unemployment, home building cutbacks, and high interest rates. This in itself is not new. What is new is that he wants to pay for it now instead of piling up an additional deficit.

This would be done with the proposed 5 per cent income tax surcharge which is not being well received by congressional team members nor the fans for obvious reasons. But we think this is the keystone to Ford's whole approach to winning the game against inflation and lessening the economic impact that such a victory demands.

However, unlike other coaches, Ford must now sell his strategy to Congress, which must carry the ball in several key plays if the team is to advance into enemy territory and eventually score. He must also sell to the fans who have seen the ticket price go up often in recent years without any compensating improvement in team performance.

The President could have asked for razzle-dazzle plays like wage and price controls, massive federal spending, energy rationing, etc., but he rightly recognizes that these plays, while popular with many members of the team and the fans, were the type of plays that have placed the economy in its present goal-line defense position.

Like a good coach he has not limited himself to the strategies outlined Tuesday. Hopefully, the actions he has requested represent a beginning that with team and fan support can open the way by changing the battle against inflation and recession from a holding action into a positive ground-gaining offense.

As he said, time is running out and we must "intercept inflation now." Before you can intercept, you must get players in a position to do so. The Ford economic program, if adopted by the Congress and endorsed by the people, stands a chance to do that not before Nov. 5, as everybody would prefer, but by the end of the season.

In essence, we think, President Ford told the Congress and the American people that before we can win the game, we must get the ball. And in that context we think this strategy, despite some of its bruising aspects like getting socked with a temporary surtax, should be given a try.

We have, in recent weeks, heard from many different quarterbacks on the Congressional team and many more of the Monday morning variety in the stands.

But a winning team must settle on one coach and one quarterback. Coach-quarterback Ford constitutionally is that man. Let's give him and his plan a try. It's going to be a long season and further debate will only make it longer.

A Welcome Addition

Tomorrow, the Manchester business community welcomes a new firm to the area with the opening of the Forbes & Wallace store in the Manchester Parkade. We are pleased to join in the welcome.

The Springfield, Mass., firm is well known in New England and we are particularly pleased it has seen Manchester's potential in its decision to take over the premises vacated by Butterfield's.

We interpret the decision by Forbes & Wallace to come to Manchester as a vote of confidence in the retail business field at a time when the economy generally is in the doldrums.

This long-established firm will be an asset to the community, not only in the important aspect of employment and payroll, but in providing consumers with another source of quality merchandise.

We wish to extend to Forbes & Wallace a hearty welcome to Manchester and look forward to its becoming a permanent and active part of the community's commercial life.

HI NEIGHBOR

By BURL LYONS

This is National Newspaper Week and the time when newspapers are supposed to blow their own horn and rave about their accomplishments or short comings.

Without a doubt, newspapers are having problems, most of them related to the fact that not all the news is good. If we print a story about crime, narcotics, or corruption, it sometimes seems as if we're charged with committing the offense, rather than putting it on the record.

It's a time when our motives are questioned. Watergate provided the press with plenty of scars. Admittedly, there may have been some within our profession who overstepped the bounds of good judgment, but the bearer of the bad news often takes the beating.

So be it. But it is an interesting and fascinating profession. Simply being able to record the major historic events that have taken place in this nation in merely the last year is ample reward.

Newspapers have been the subject of many quotations by national leaders down through the years. However, the one that appeals to us comes from Mike Royko of the Chicago Daily News:

A reporter is to a politician what a barking dog is to a chicken thief."

The Herald began its 61st year as a daily newspaper last week. Outside of a front page story by Sol Cohen, we didn't give the anniversary much recognition.

Our thanks to Moriarty Bros. who remembered us with a bouquet that adorns the counter in our front office. It was a nice remembrance. It also got us to thinking that even though there aren't enough hours in the day, we ought to take a few minutes each day to reflect on the fine people who make up this community.

In case you are planning to buy a new 1975 automobile that requires unleaded gasoline, a couple of gas station operators have told us there should be an ample supply.

In fact, if a station pumps a certain number of gallons annually, it is required to carry unleaded gasoline.

We read a survey the other day which revealed that the most expensive city for a man's haircut is Chicago. The cheapest trim is $4 and the price ranges to $9.50. So we men folks can be happy we live in Manchester.

However, if you can get a few days off, you can get a trim in Bombay for 39 cents.

No home is safe these days. We read the other day about a fellow who had a sign in front of his house that read: "Beware of dog."

The place was ransacked over the weekend including $300 worth of household contents and one dog.

Massachusetts has a unique state law which allows employers to take time off to vote. The law reads: "No employer or supervisor of a manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishment, shall employ any eligible voter during the two hours after the opening of the polls if business field at a time when the economy generally is in the doldrums.

This long-established firm will be an asset to the community, not only in the important aspect of employment and payroll, but in providing consumers with another source of quality merchandise.

We wish to extend to Forbes & Wallace a hearty welcome to Manchester and look forward to its becoming a permanent and active part of the community's commercial life.

the voter has made application for leave of absence during this period. Violators shall be fined not more than $100."

There is no express provision as to whether the employer must be paid for the time off.

For years, some newspapers have been disturbed that postal laws prohibit the deposit of newspapers in subscriber mail boxes.

Now a bill has been introduced which would amend that portion of the postal code and it would also allow residential mail box delivery of campaign literature by political campaign workers.

Even though you buy the mail box, the law now reads that it is unlawful for anyone to "infect anything not bearing a stamp in a residential mailbox."

What the federal government has done for the dollar might be done for the nation's zoo if some of the zealous animal lovers have their way. There is a move on in Congress to federalize zoos.

It makes one wonder that since Washington has run the U.S. currency into the ground, devastating thousands of human beings, why, then, should it be trusted to keep the animals happy?

Industry Week says that Puerto Rico, where tax breaks have created a 500-plant apparel industry, has further enhanced the lure of its tax-free package. It now offers industry a 100 per cent exemption from all taxes, for up to 30 years, to help anyone considering locating or expanding there.

No wonder it is difficult for American industry to compete. Government officials report that apparel and related products shipped to the U.S. last year were worth $365 million.

Meanwhile, a study by Stanford University's Hoover Institute reports that before the year 2000, China will have surpassed Japan as the U.S.'s number one trading partner. The report says that in a few years, China will be in a position to use her earnings from oil and gas to pay for imports of technology and other foreign goods.

No one is immune from the law, not even the governor of Montana. He was fined $300 and had his hunting privileges revoked for six months for shooting a young bull elk in an area designated for shooting of bull elk only with advanced horn development or branch-antlered animals.

The governor turned himself in, saying negligence of the law was no excuse, not even for a governor.

Strangely enough, at one time, we were planning an October hunting trip in Montana but the Manchester friend with whom we were going to make the trip couldn't get away.

Something to think about: The typical successful American businessman who works in the country where he worked like hell so he could live in the city where he worked like hell so he could live in the country.

Well, maybe so, maybe not. I think maybe so. But to Jackson the relevant circumstance is that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) claims its members set their prices at the American level. "How can we say the Arabs should roll back their prices when we do nothing about rolling back our own?" Jackson asked.

In short, by cutting domestic oil prices, Jackson would deny OPEC this convenient excuse for keeping the squeeze on its customers. It might not work, but any plan aimed at easing the price burden on Main Street is worth a try.

There is, of course, a catch. As Jackson brusquely admits, his program would require a reduction in Americans' use of oil-produced energy. "I think we have to do our own thing first," Jackson says. "The idea is to give importers an incentive to ship in oil at the cheapest possible price. Imposing secrecy theoretically would make it possible for a major producer friendly to the United States, such as Saudi Arabia or Venezuela, to sell us oil below the OPEC price behind the backs of other OPEC members and thus avoid organization censure. I say theoretically, because who keeps secrets these days? Again, however, this is something that just might work.

The Cuban Junkie

To the editor: Every alert American has ample reason to be angry and fed up with the nauseating spectacle of the recent junket to Cuba by Sens. Jacob Javits and Claiborne Pell.

Naturally speculation and suspicion is aroused over this uncalled for trip into Castroland. Are these senators paving the way for their social and business cronies to get in on the ground floor to operate all sort of ventures in Cuba? Or, are they running interference for Henry Kissinger and the remaining U.S. full recognition of Cuba?

Probably the ever meddlesome Mr. Kissinger will convince bush leaguer Castro to be a good fellow, let the United States lick his boots and beg his forgiveness.

Recognition of Castro Cuba, followed by opening up the U.S. Treasury to buy him with hard earned taxpayers' funds, would be crime a thousand times greater than anything that has turned up in the Watergate fiasco.

This is the time and place to put an end to the great give-away-foreign aid. This country should have learned years ago that you just can't buy friends and have them stand by you even though you go the Santa Claus road.

There is no justification in giving away billions of U.S. dollars to enter prop up, undercut, or placate dubious governments around the globe. We have only to reflect on how the U.S. has been used by Turkey, Chile, Israel, Greece, Russia, China, etc. All these countries are still "on the take" of anything and everything they can get from a blind Uncle Sam.

To put Cuba on our gray train would not only be a wanton criminal act against our citizens but a rank injustice to the thousands of good Cuban people among us who fled their homeland and the ruthless, every concerned American must now keep a constant vigil on the actions of Sens. Javits and Pell and Secretary of State Kissinger in regard to Cuba.

Yours truly, Frank U. Lupien, 21 Sunset St., Manchester

Dear sir: As a former director of the Town of Manchester who continues to be actively concerned about our town, I write to endorse warmly and enthusiastically the candidacy of Ted Cummings who is running this year for the State Legislature.

Ted Cummings offers the voters of the American people a leadership experience having served our town previously, both as a member of the Board of Directors and as a member of the Board of Education. Never having served previously in the State Legislature, he will bring to that body a fresh and a clean viewpoint which our town and our state definitely need.

STAMPS AND COINS

Here are the Singapore UNICEF Children's Day stamps with genuine kids' paintings. Refreshing after some of the "artwork" we've been getting. The same stamps can be had in a souvenir sheet with UNICEF emblem on the border.

There will be a real binge in Brookfield, Ill., this month. The Zeppelin Collectors' Club will cut loose on the 15th with their first exhibition, "Zeppex I." The big occasion will be the 50th anniversary of the first flight of a German Zeppelin across the Atlantic. That flight took place six years before the first Pan-American tour of the Graf Zepp that brought forth the 65¢, $1.30, and $2.60 airmail set.

The ZH-3 left Friedrichshafen on Oct. 12, 1924 and arrived at Lakehurst Naval Air Station, N.J., on the 15th - 91 hours in the air. "Stamps" magazines that have taken place in their had with headwinds and how they turned toward Newfoundland to reach a low pressure area.

The U.S. Navy renamed it the Los Angeles, replaced the hydrogen with helium, and kept it in service for eight years. Zeppex I will be a warm-up for an even larger lighter-than-air festival the last of November at San Francisco: the Ninth Congress of the Aerophilatic Federation of the Americas. The best clubs will be the Stamp Expo North and the International Stamp Collectors' Club. The Zeppelin Collectors will be there, plus the Pacific Rocket Society, who will demonstrate the firing of rockets carrying mail.

All this wild blue yonder brings us to the new Sanabria World Airmail Catalogue just showing up - the last one was in 1968. Only the first half is ready. A through M. These sheets together with the looseleaf binder weigh in at seven pounds. Prices: Astronomical. The thing is monstrous, unyielding, expensive, and late - but as the saying goes, it's the only one in town.

Neither Scott nor Minkus show the 24 cents with 18¢ "Grounded Jenny." This is so low in the frame that the wheels do not show. Sanabria indicates that there were 20 of these, as against the 100 of the invert that brought $43,000, yet the listed price is only $450.

At the end of the U.S. section there are two 1968 rocket labels (not in Scott; then on to Adelle Land and the Aegean Islands in a souvenir sheet with UNICEF emblem on the border).

THE CANDIDATES ARE SAYING

Cummings: Fight Utility Overcharges Elected officials in Manchester should start taking steps to obtain reimbursement of alleged overcharges of fuel adjustment rates on electric bills. Assembly candidate Ted Cummings said today.

Cummings, who is Democratic town chairman and is seeking the state representative's seat in the 12th Assembly District, said the alleged overcharging over the last four years has a big impact on the Town of Manchester as well as on every town and person in the state.

"Manchester, as a town, is a big user of electricity," Cummings said. "This year's budget includes an appropriation of approximately $204,000 for street light operation alone."

"The additional operation of town offices, water purification plants, pumping stations, the entire school system of about 25 buildings, etc., will obviously increase the total amount spent for electricity substantially.

The South Windsor Friends For Music, a nonprofit organization which has raised more than $20,000 in two years in support of music education, has announced its staff for the current school year.

Officers recently elected include: John J. Nachyly, president; Jean Euzenas, vice president; Barbara Carlson, secretary; Sue Rowe, treasurer and Peg Nachyly, acting secretary.

Committee chairpersons were appointed as follows: Gladys Steimel, solicitations; Jane Myers, membership; Peg Grossi, publicity; Richard Haggel, scholarship and Roy Nelson, program book.

Peg Nachyly, Shirley Schmidt and Chris Ranney were appointed for the high school and middle school telephone committee.

The Friends For Music is an organization which has dedicated itself to promoting the welfare, interest and excellence of music education for students in the South Windsor School system. Membership is open to all persons in sympathy with the purpose of the association.

Since its inception two years ago, the organization has raised in excess of $20,000 to fulfill its purposes. In addition to providing for high school and middle school band uniforms and the high school vocal ensemble concert attire, the Friends For Music awarded $1,500 in scholarships last spring.

Nachyly said that a calendar of events is under preparation consisting of fund-raising activities as well as music programs for the appreciation and enjoyment of parents and students.

Proceeds to be realized from this year's activities will be allocated almost exclusively for scholarships and financial aid to deserving music students in South Windsor.

Regular meetings are held no less than four times a year between September and April. There is no membership fee or dues.

Loyzim Civics Prizes Set Up

COVENTRY
Monica Shea
Correspondent
742-9495

The Board of Education has issued a statement declaring that a scholarship in memory of Stephen J. Loyzim has been set up through the board to provide an annual award for students excelling in civics, criteria for which shall be established by the Social Studies Department of the High School.

Two long-term citizens of Coventry, who prefer to remain anonymous, have contributed $500 to establish the scholarship fund. The interest from this money will be used each year to provide the award. It is hoped that other townspeople will contribute to the memorial scholarship. Contributions may be mailed to the town clerk's office, Coventry, Connecticut.

Loyzim was a Lieutenant Colonel in the United States Air Force and was very active politically, having served as Coventry's representative in the State Legislature. At the time of his death, he was chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Loyzim also served for many years on the Democratic Town Committee.

OSHA Violations
The board has been cited for numerous safety violations throughout the school system that do not conform to the Act (OSHA).

Richard Galinat, head of maintenance indicated that the cost of repairs will run to about $5,125.

Since the budget for the 1974-75 school year has already been approved by the town council, necessary repairs must come from the Town Council.

There has been a meeting with the Town Council and the Board of Education, where there was an agreement to devise a plan for the repairs and then the council will be able to ascertain where the funds for the repairs could come from.

The repairs must be cited before Jan. 1, 1975 to comply with OSHA requirements.

Sue Brainard, chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee, informed the board and the council that there is not enough funds to complete the track soccer complex and that an additional $10,000 beyond $60,000 already allocated, will be needed.

One of the reasons for the overrun is the fact that the grading will have to be contracted.

Richard Galinat has asked the board for an additional maintenance man to do the OSHA repairs and other repair items that must be done in the near future.

The board has raised the pay for substitute nurses from $2 per hour to $3 per hour as the town has been having difficulty getting substitute nurses at the lower level of pay.

Ellington Seeking Town Seal Design

The Town of Ellington is 188 years old but has never officially adopted a town seal. As one of its activities in observance of the country's bicentennial celebration, the town's Bicentennial Commission will conduct a contest for a design for a seal.

Mrs. E. Fenton Burke, a member of the commission, is chairman of the contest. Mrs. Burke has mailed out letters to all Ellington artists who are members of the Tolland County Art Association, inviting them to participate in the contest. However, the contest is not just limited to members of the association but rather is open to any Ellington resident wishing to submit an entry.

Those interested in submitting a design should indicate their intention to Mrs. Burke, by Nov. 1 and the deadline for submitting a design is Dec. 31, 1974. All entries become the property of the commission.

Notices of intention should be addressed to Mrs. Burke, 89 Maple St., Box 355, Ellington.

As possible suggestions for designs, Mrs. Burke said Ellington is chiefly characterized by its early attention to education, dating back to 1788 before the town was incorporated in 1786.

One of the famous educational institutions was the John Hall School for Boys and the building still stands in the center of the town.

Mrs. Burke also suggested as a theme, agriculture, which has been one of Ellington's chief occupations. Crystal Lake has also long provided recreation for residents of the community.

She said any one or all of these suggestions might lead themselves to a town seal design. She also offered as a suggestion that the date of incorporation and the name of the town might suggest an interesting design.

The person designing the prize-winning seal will be awarded $50. Contest judges will be Miss Nellie E. McKnight, Mrs. J. E. Rosenfeld, and Wilton H. Colman.

Walkers to Aid the Hungry

COVENTRY
Plans are under way for Coventry's second annual CROP Walk For the Hungry, which will take place Oct. 20. The walk, which benefits needy people throughout the world through CROP's "helping people help themselves" program, and through the Heifer Project, will begin at 1 p.m. at the Second Congregational Church, with orientation scheduled to begin at 12:30.

Walkers are being asked this year to hike an extra two and one half miles, for a total of about 12 and half miles, ending back at the church, which is on Rt. 4A. The walking route, which includes several loops through the northern area of town, will be marked and will include established rest stops.

Profits from the effort are derived from walkers who solicit funds, on a per mile basis, from friends and neighbors and are then paid at the completion of the walk, for each mile they have completed.

According to the general chairman The Rev. Mr. Robert Bechtold, goals for this year's walk have been doubled over what was actually accomplished last year. "We are shooting for a total of 200 walkers this year," he said,

"and proceeds of $3,000. In addition, we are seeking participation from adults, as well as middle school and high school students." Last year's walk netted $1,500 from 96 participants.

The Rev. Mr. Bechtold is being assisted in overall planning for the effort by vice chairman, Edward Turn.

Those in charge of arrangements are co-chairmen Janet Calve and Norman Caisse, with the Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Johnson, Arthur Tedford, Rhy Bechtold, Richard Cooper and Carol Ingraham.

The finance committee is being headed by Ann Turcotte and Jack Myles, with Ruth Bohr, Barbara Myles, William Ayer, and Donald Sayers. Serving on the public relations committee are Robert Homans, Marcia Olmstead and William Ayer.

and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bollinger.

Anyone interested in signing up for the walk should contact a member of the recruitment committee, headed by Cathy Talano and George Coon. Others working on this committee are Lewis Bradley Jr., Judy Adamek, Harriet Homans, Marcia Olmstead and William Ayer.

Police Perusing School Zones

COVENTRY
Monica Shea
Correspondent
742-9495

Chief of Police Robert Kjelquist has directed officers on patrol to be alert for traffic violators traveling through school zones exceeding the speed limits while school in session.

Chief Kjelquist said, "While school is in session, it is the primary target for speeders, and we are watching for violating motorists in other areas while the children are traveling to and from school. A total of 20 speeding motorists have been summoned to court since school opened. We expect to deploy the radar unit more frequently within school areas or where a heavy flow of children traveling to and from school exists."

Each year another area of concern for the police department arises when school opens, and that is the numerous reports of misbehavior at school bus stops throughout the community. Reports of pushing and shoving, fighting, rock throwing, and the like are received.

"If the situation warrants, the police department will refer youngsters to juvenile court for law violations by the children enroute to and from school," the chief said. He commends those parents who daily spend their time supervising the children at the school bus stops, and urges other parents to accept their responsibility to see that the children behave while awaiting transportation. The parent is responsible for any damage done by a child.

THE CANDIDATES ARE SAYING

Brainard: Retirement Living

Representative Jess Brainard, R-33rd District of Coventry, a candidate for reelection, says he would introduce legislation designed to make Connecticut an ideal place for retirement living.

Brainard said, "Few people are aware of a recent federal study that places Connecticut at a very top of the 50 states offering the best mix of benefits most retirees want - nearby facilities, good roads, pleasant country sides, a variety of seasons and access to excellent health, educational, cultural and employment centers."

"In addition, the study showed Connecticut with a good record in the areas of public safety and improving benefits for the elderly."

Presentation of our town meeting traditions, especially at the local level, was an appealing characteristic to many.

There is a wealth of information on the state level and in many communities simply waiting for consolidation and redirection toward this completely new role for our state. The fact is that the so-called paradise retirement states in the south and the southwest fall at the very bottom of the list.

"Such a program could bring great benefits to the state such as added demand for a full range of homes and goods, more need for housing and services, movement of the local tax base and a minuscule number of children to add to the

HEBRON
Nancy Foote Correspondent
228-3970

The Hebron Historical Society's Old Kitchen Tour, scheduled for Oct. 20, will be an interesting way to see the kitchens and keeping rooms of Hebron's old homes and at the time enjoy a meal prepared in these historical surroundings.

The tour will begin at 11:30 a.m. at the Old Town Hall on the Hebron Green. At the start of the tour guests will receive maps and programs giving the history of each home and what will be served there. Groups of 20 will start at 15-minute intervals to allow ample time at each home.

The scheduled hours for the tour are between 11:30 and 4:45. Tickets will be on sale through Oct. 19 at the Hebron General Store.

Homes included on the tour are the Florence Sellers house serving onion soup (from old kettles on a crane in the fireplace); the Filmore Bain house serving homemade bread and corn bread made in the fireplace; Shadownark, the Sibon home, serving hot apple sauce and cheese; the Richard McDonald home serving roast turkey rollups with dressing, baked squash and pickled beets; and Brick's Mill serving floggers (huge cookies) with cider and coffee.

The donation for the tour is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12.

Boy Scouts of Troop 28 have launched their annual fund raising drive this week, visiting homes in their neighborhoods taking orders for a variety of items in a Tom-Wat kit prepared especially for the Hebron troop.

According to Paul Nielson, chairman of the drive, the first time a boy visits a home he will be taking orders only. He will then return with the items ordered and collect the money next month.

The theme of the show is "Be Safe Be Fit" and will include booth-type exhibits and demonstrations. Members of the Order of the Arrow will perform authentic Indian dances and the Cub Scout Olympics will be featured.

Members of the Hebron Lions Club will manage the refreshment booths. Tickets will be available at the park gate.

PTO Donation
Funds collected by the boys will be used to pay for a week of troop camping next summer and to purchase additional equipment for Hebron's growing scout program.

VERNON
A recommendation that the town purchase property on Hale St. for expansion of Grove Hill Cemetery, has been referred to the Vernon Planning Commission, by the Rev. John Lacey, chairman of the Grove Hill Cemetery Committee, in a letter to Mayor Frank McCoy, said the property, owned by Russell Finney, and located at 35 Hale St., is surrounded on three sides by cemetery property.

He said the property has been appraised by the appraiser advising that it is worth $23,000 to $25,000 and is being offered at a price of $25,000.

The appraiser has advised the committee that the purchase price is not excessive but it is the top limit of its value.

Council Charges Laws Owe Selectmen Apology

BOLTON
Donna Holland Correspondent
646-0375

Marshall Taylor, town counsel, said it was his considered opinion that Harold Laws, chairman of the charter commission, and commission members who held the same opinion as Laws owe the selectmen an apology.

Taylor was referring to a letter sent the selectmen by Laws which in part said the charter commission was politically motivated without any intention of the selectmen acting on the matter. Laws said the unnecessary delay by the selectmen's office has precluded completion of the charter work and the selectmen had, in effect, executed a pocket veto.

On his own, Taylor said the accusation of pocket vetoing the proposed charter is totally wrong.

He said he met with the selectmen on numerous occasions in which he reviewed the charter and provided the commission with the selectmen's preliminary thoughts and comments as requested (by Laws).

Taylor said the Aug. 15 return date set unilaterally by Laws and is impractical and unrealistic.

Taylor said, "The statement that the selectmen are pocket vetoing the charter at this stage of the drafting procedure is legally incorrect. The selectmen have no authority to determine what action should be taken on the charter at this time."

He said that their powers and duties in regard to the charter do not arise until the commission holds the required public hearing on the charter and files its initial report with the selectmen.

Taylor said the setting of the date of such hearing and filing of the initial report is totally within the charter commission's control, whether or not they receive the selectmen's preliminary thoughts and comments.

Following the complaints the selectmen proceeded to complete their review of the charter. They agreed that their comments would be given to Laws by tonight.

The Charter Commission will meet tonight at 8 at the Town Hall.

Park Lights Discussed

BOLTON
Donna Holland

At a special unannounced meeting of the Selectmen on Oct. 2, they discussed the new lights planned for Herrick Memorial Park.

According to minutes recorded by Dave Dreselly, selectman, the estimated cost was lower than the final cost.

The selectmen turned the matter over to the park commissioner for a solution to the problem by the midge football association and Bolton Electric.

The selectmen recommended no additional funds from the town be appropriated for the lights.

Also at their special meeting the selectmen discussed reimbursement for mileage for a private automobile used in official business.

It was debated whether to increase the price from the present 10 cents per mile to 12 1/2 cents or 15 cents.

The selectmen decided to wait until their next scheduled meeting to act on the matter.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

Happy Birthday Bridget Bardot!

Suddenly it's fabulous to be 40! All the really IN women are admitting to that traumatic birthday. Gloria Steinem announced to her astonished staff at Ms. Magazine that she was 40. Sophia Loren proudly blew out the 40 candles on her birthday cake and cried triumphantly, "I've never felt more alive!" And when these girls fessed up, Barbara Walters decided it was time to tell all too. With unusual candor she explained that she was not just 40 but 43!

Bridget Bardot, who was 40 in September, outdid everyone when she posed for her official birthday picture wearing her birthday suit. It was, of course, very revealing photography and settled for once and for all the fact that one picture is worth a thousand words.

"Forty is beautiful!" announced the astonished press. "Forty is sensational!" agreed a delighted world of viewers. Since the publication of that picture, Bridget's agent has been swamped with requests for reprints. There are going to be foldouts of Bridget and posters of Bridget and one manufacturer is going to reproduce her birthday picture 52 times on a deck of cards.

A celebrated journalist has been quoted as saying that Bridget's picture has changed the image of the middle-aged woman. I only know the reaction in my household. My teenage daughter looked at Bridget's picture which was published in a national news magazine and said in amazement, "do you realize, mother, she's ALMOST as old as you are!" There was a new look of respect in my daughter's eyes.

So say what you will about Bridget. She may not be a model mother or wife or even a very talented actress. But Bridget has made a contribution that will have a long lasting effect. So thank you, Bridget Bardot. May your years be a happy one.

And to all the sweet young things who are yearning to join the IN group of older women: patience. Everything comes in good time.

BUYERS billboard

By MICHAEL J. CONLON WASHINGTON (UPI) - About 36,000 Americans are playing guinea pig for the government this fall in a survey that could prove vital for all consumers.

They are being tested for their reaction to almost every type of cosmetic found around the house - from deodorants and cologne to toothpaste and hair tonic.

The Food and Drug Administration says it is conducting the survey because, while it suspects thousands of persons are injured every year by cosmetic products, it has no real way of knowing. As a result it hired a survey firm to contact 36,000 persons in 10,000 households - persons chosen because they have been responsive to other surveys - and have them keep records of adverse reactions to cosmetics.

A log will be kept in each house listing what products are being used. The persons being surveyed are not expected to try out different products - just keep track of what they normally use. They are then expected to list any problem and to call a central telephone number to give the survey firm detailed information.

They will then be referred free of charge to a local dermatologist if the condition is serious enough to warrant treatment.

The project should result in information on allergic reactions in addition to uncovering unsuspected safety problems with other products. Right now the FDA has to rely on letters from consumers, most of which provide only sketchy information. A spokesman said deodorant products currently rank "very high" among the complaint letters being received.

Radiant tires, standard equipment on '75 model cars now showing up at dealers across the country, are still a better bet in terms of wear and gasoline mileage than bias ply or belted bias tires, according to Consumers Union.

The organization, which publishes the magazine Consumer Reports, reached that conclusion after a new round of testing non-radial tires.

It studied 18 belted bias and bias ply tires from seven major manufacturers and said they compared unfavorably with radials tested in a similar experiment last year.

It rated all of the non-radial tires studied acceptable except for one - the Firestone 500 Steel Belted tire. It said that product is "not acceptable" under its standards because tread separation occurred during durability and tread life tests.

The Firestone product is above average as far as rupture resistance is concerned, the organization reported, "but that's little compensation for its alarming tendency to lose its tread."

If you've thought about buying a fire extinguisher to keep around your home, but weren't sure what to get, this may help.

The best all around bet for home use is a "multipurpose dry chemical" extinguisher, according to Underwriters Laboratories Inc.

The label of such an extinguisher will probably say it is good for fighting Class A, B and C fires. Class A fires are those involving ordinary combustibles such as paper; Class B are those where flammable liquids such as grease are concerned; and Class C involves electrical fires.

There is a fourth class - D - involving burnable materials such as magnesium, but the chance of that type of fire in the ordinary home is remote so there is little value in buying an extinguisher listed as good for that purpose.

The label should also list the size of fire the extinguisher will handle - the larger the number, the larger the fire.

Seventh Straight Shutout Recorded by Tribe Booters

By Len Aster

Keep on striving for a goal and sooner or later you are going to reach one. In Manchester High's case, it got two for a hard-fought 2-0 victory over stubborn Enfield High in CCLC soccer action yesterday at Memorial Field before a good turnout of 400.

The win was the Indians' seventh straight, all via the shutout route. Manchester upped its league mark to 6-1 while the Raiders dipped to 5-2, 5-3 overall. With the triumph, Manchester moves into first place in the league with 30 points with Hall in second with 27 points. Enfield is third with 25. Battling through three scoreless quarters, missing several golden opportunities in the time span, Manchester finally broke through 8:46 into the final count.

Receiving a pass from Tayo Stimac, senior Captain Bill MacLean raced down the right sideline, shifted towards the middle and fired a bullet at the net. The shot hit the left goalpost, the second time MacLean did so, but the ball ricocheted straight out to Stimac who deposited it home from 15 yards out past Raider netminder Steve Cutler.

Having found scoring a most pleasant pastime, the Silk Towners repeated the act less than two minutes later on a picturesque goal by sophomore halfback Bill Meier, his first on the varsity level. The hard boot from 35 yards out on the right side sailed into the extreme upper left hand corner tucked just under the crossbar and out of the reach of a hapless Cutler. "We're getting better," Tribe 28-year Coach Dick Danielson commented. "We've been facing better competition as we go along and we're improving along with it. We're not there yet but I hope we will."

Manchester has improved immensely from its season opening 3-1 loss to Hall High, especially on defense. Center fullback Mike Lombardo, a senior co-captain, Kurt Hasselt, Meier, Bill Donovan, Bruce Ballard and Tracy Kaseel all performed well. The Raiders had 12 shots on Manchester netminder Ray Sullivan, only two of which can be termed dangerous. Manchester launched 18 shots with Cutler making 10 stops.

Next on the docket for the locals is Thursday at Wethersfield High in a league encounter. Tuesday is the big one as the Indians journey to West Hartford for a rematch with Hall.

With its top three runners breaking away from the rest of the pack at the mile mark, the Manchester High cross country team registered a double victory yesterday, 23-32 over Bulkeley and 17-46 over East Hartford at the Hornets' Wickham Park layout. Tribe harrier Dave Lemieux and Matt Wallace were arm and arm across the finish line for a first place tie.

Scott Moffat continued his fine campaign by placing third with Jay Martin seventh and sophomore Bob Lyon 11th. The placement by Lyon earned him his varsity letter. Also running well was sophomore Glenn Florstorf with a 14th place finish. It was the latter's first race of the campaign after being sidelined with an eye infection.

WFL May Lose Third Member

NEW YORK (UPI) — And there were 10...with nine a distinct possibility by season's end.

The World Football League is making progress—backward—and that means only five games will be played this week instead of the customary six. We have paid our last respects to the Detroit Wheels and Jacksonville Sharks and with that Florida blazer with can the Florida Blazers be far behind?

The "waffle" or "whiffle" if you prefer, resumes play Wednesday night with what remains of its schedule—Portland at Birmingham, the Hawaiians at Philadelphia, Memphis at Charlotte, N.C., and Florida, the latest franchise to be taken over by the league office, at Chicago.

Two other survivors—Shreveport, La., and Southern California—play Thursday night on the west coast.

The league mounted a surprise challenge to the National Football League before play began in the older, established league, by signing some top NFL stars for play in 1975. But since then, the latest brainstorm of Gary Davidson has run into a series of disasters, the latest being the folding of the Detroit and Jacksonville franchises.

Under the guidance of young Davidson, the WFL now has assumed the operation of two franchises, the abortive New York club which was transferred to Charlotte, and the Houston team which now masquerades as the entry from Shreveport.

White Davidson's other new league ventures survive in the World Hockey Association and the American Basketball Association, his WFL appears in dire trouble. Attendance figures, hyped by free admissions in opening games, have slumped steadily, and the pressures of inflation have driven projected first season financial losses to heights never anticipated.

But the league insisted Tuesday that the contracts of players now in uniform, and the agreements reached with such NFL stars as Larry Conka, Kenny Stabler, Paul Warfield, Craig Morton and Ted Hendricks would still be honored.

Obviously, the league still hopes that with these names joining the ranks in the next two years, survival is still a reality. But now, in its 15th week of operation, the problems confront to mount, and there is little talk of the "world" aspect of the new league.

When play begins tonight, the Charlotte entry will face the Memphis Southern, Charlotte, on paper, was supposed to be the Boston franchise. It wound up instead in New York, then fled the "Big Apple" two weeks ago. On yes, call them the Hornets now.

On Thursday night, Shreveport, mark them down as the Steamers in case you've been caught up in other issues of late, will visit Anaheim to meet the Southern California Sun. Shreveport began as the Houston franchise, where the club was known as the Texans.

The President will be handling Here we have at least one piece of Americana that is not inflating.

Non-Union Town Help Get Raise

Town of Manchester clerical employees who aren't members of any labor union will again receive salary and benefit increases in line with new union contracts. The Board of Directors decided Tuesday night.

Directors passed a resolution giving about 20 of the non-union employees a five per cent salary hike retroactive to July 1, 1974, and another two per cent raise effective Jan. 1, 1975.

Town Manager Robert Weiss said employees affected by the action aren't members of any union because of the nature of their jobs. The non-union employees include the manager's executive secretary, for instance.

Approval of raises for a one-year period is consistent with past policy of the town administration, Weiss pointed out.

In the past, the raises have been given non-union employees automatically. Weiss said, but a charter revision last year changed the procedure.

Asst. Town Counsel Victor Moses ruled Tuesday night that directors must now vote such raises as a result of charter revision.

There was no objection by directors to the increases.

In other business Tuesday night, directors approved a $15,000 allocation to improve access to Charter Oak Park and granted Weiss authority to apply for a federal open space grant for purchase of Manchester Water Co. land.

The $15,000 allocation, to be financed by federal revenue-sharing funds, will be used to improve the entrance and exit right-of-way to Charter Oak Park.

Application for the open space grant is being undertaken in conjunction with proposed purchase of the privately owned water company.

Weiss said the town estimates the property are worth about $1 million.

In other actions Tuesday night, the board made decisions on educational awards accounts (see Page 24), a new contract with town policemen (Page 33), and funds requested by the Manchester Youth Hockey Association (Page 35).

THE CANDIDATES ARE SAYING

Schaffer: Financing Disclosure

Mrs. Gloria Schaffer, seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket as secretary of the state, has recommended a change in campaign financing disclosure laws to close a reporting gap.

Mrs. Schaffer said the level of spending at this stage of the campaign is much lower than in past statewide campaigns, but she expects that a high number of contributions will be made after the last statutory reporting date, Oct. 26.

"These transactions will not become matters of public record until after the next filing date, Dec. 20," Mrs. Schaffer said, pointing out that "at that late date, neither the pressure of public opinion or the sanctions imposed for violations of the law can change the election results."

Mrs. Schaffer said she'll ask the 1975 General Assembly to amend disclosure laws to prohibit receipt of contributions after the last pre-election reporting date.

Dodd: Opposes Reactor Sales

Christopher J. Dodd, Democratic candidate for U.S. House from the Second Congressional District, says he opposes the sale of U.S. nuclear reactors to Egypt and Israel "until a system of international safeguards is devised which would insure that the plutonium derived from the reactors will not be diverted for use in atomic weapons."

The former administration's offer to sell reactors to these countries completely disregarded the potential risks involved," Dodd said. "We should have learned a lesson with the nuclear explosion India set off last May with the plutonium derived from a Canadian-supplied reactor," Dodd said.

Dodd said he applauds Canada's subsequent refusal to deliver any more nuclear assistance to India and he said the U.S. should follow Canada's example.

Both the House and the Senate have passed legislation which would give them authority to reject the sale of nuclear technology to other countries, Dodd pointed out, and both pieces of legislation are being studied by House-Senate conferees.

Kjellquist Scores Council

COVENTRY

"The Town Council has put the police department on the spot again," Coventry Police Chief Robert Kjellquist said today concerning the council's vote against the purchase of another police car.

The action was taken at the Town Council meeting Monday night.

Chief Kjellquist said the true issue was the providing of a spare vehicle for breakdown periods. He added, "I have directed the policemen to walk to the scene of our calls for service, with a portable radio in event both present vehicles are broken down."

together, was put near a flame in the box, causing the explosion.

He said a black Mustang, operated by a white male with black hair and a full beard, had been seen in the area immediately before the explosion and the matter is under investigation.

"Incidents of this type and other criminal activities occurring recently deserve in-depth investigation and surveillance," the chief commented.

Again referring to the council's action, he said, "I thought they would consider what was better for the entire community and accept the recommendation of professional people in government, not act on the whims of two or three citizens who would prefer marked police vehicles. Both marked and unmarked vehicles have their place in law enforcement today."

Mansfield Says Surtax Levels Are Too Low

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today he could support a surtax if it was placed on higher incomes but on the whole President Ford's new anti-inflation proposals were not strong enough to cure the economy.

Mansfield's comments were indicative of Congress' reaction to Ford's economic message Tuesday — a general willingness to work with the President to help fight inflation but a feeling that the measures did not go far enough or hit too hard at the middle income Americans.

The President's program was "a move in the right direction,"

Manfield said "but not anywhere near strong enough."

It was doubtful Congress could act on any kind of a tax bill this year, Mansfield said, but he believed that action could be taken on increased benefits for the jobless and housing assistance as Ford requested.

Manfield said he intended to support Ford's proposal for a 5 per cent tax surcharge but disagreed with the President on who should be affected by the added tax.

Manfield said he would like to see such a tax surcharge applied to families earning more than $20,000 or $25,000 a year and individuals earning more than $15,000 annually. Ford's tax would be levied on families earning $15,000 or more and individuals earning more than $7,500.

"It's a good start but the bullet has not been bitten," Mansfield said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., attacked the plan and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., defended it in a joint televised appearance on the NBC Today show.

"It's far too little in its impact," said Proxmire, who suggested the President crack down hard on "very very big price increases" in steel, non-ferrous metals, chemicals and oil.

Campaign 1974 Bay State Incumbents in Trouble

No Relief Now

Dill and slush is the outlook for the economy, says Alan Greenspan, chairman of President Ford's Council of Economic Advisers. Greenspan warns the nation's inflation-ridden economy can expect no relief before 1975.

States have until the fall of 1976 to meet provisions of the Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act.

BOSTON (UPI) — Massachusetts voters apparently think the answer to their woes in this year of Watergate is to sweep out the old and sweep in the new.

The tide of opposition to incumbents swept two powerful Democratic party regulars from office in the primary.

Now it seriously threatens liberal Republican Gov. Francis W. Sargent.

If the election were held today it generally is believed the strong feeling against the "ins" would bring the victory to reformer Michael S. Dukakis, a former Democratic state legislator who has been out of government since 1970.

The feeling persists despite a determined effort by Sargent to disassociate himself from the Nixon and Ford administrations. Not only is such a strategy good politics in Massachusetts — the only state to vote for George McGovern in 1972 — but it's the sincere political philosophy of the maverick Sargent.

Watergate was a problem all incumbents were prepared to confront. But no one could envision the depth of public revulsion caused by President Ford's surprise pardon of Richard Nixon two days before the Sept. 10 primary.

"The pardon killed us," means one key Sargent strategist. "It just killed us."

Attorney General Robert H. Quinn, an old-line Democratic stalwart who was buried by Dukakis in the gubernatorial primary, also believes the Nixon pardon cost him dearly.

The pardon apparently had the same effect in a young reformer's upset of the aging Democratic secretary of state, whose office had been the focus of intense journalistic investigation for two years.

Sargent's strong opposition to Nixon "is keeping us alive," said campaign manager Steve Crosby "but that's about all."

Various polls including one commissioned and published by The Boston Globe, show Dukakis leading Sargent by margins ranging from 12 to 18 per cent. Those polls caused Sargent to challenge Dukakis to a series of six one-hour televised debates — a turnaround from the norm.

Dukakis a former television moderator, quickly accepted. As his first salvo in the first debate a week ago, Sargent acknowledged that the tide seems running strong against incumbents.

"A lot of good men, who fought hard against many of the national policies people are angry about, have already been swept out of office in this tide for new faces" Sargent said. Though Dukakis has not campaign on Watergate, the 40-year-old author of the nation's first no-fault auto insurance law has been critical of "a patronage system which has been the monkey on the back of state government... undermining the confidence of the people in their government."

But despite Sargent's troubles which include an 8 per cent unemployment rate, the 58-year-old veteran is likely to lead the GOP ticket on election day. That fact bodes ill for a state GOP already unable to sustain his vetos in either house of the legislature.

The Democrats beyond an expected sweep of the six statewide offices including attorney general, have a chance to increase their 9-3 control of the congressional delegation by knocking off first-term Paul W. Cronin, a former Nixon backer.

GOOD CORRECTIONS The KEY To Reduced Crime

Educational Programs (Part III)

"Stay in school" - Earn that diploma! That advice echoes from thousands of parents like yourself who see education as a key to occupational opportunity and personal growth throughout one's lifetime.

But what about those who never got that message, or perhaps lacked the necessary motivation or direction for completing studies? For many, a second chance comes through sparetime study programs offered in local communities.

Through such educational opportunities, citizens who re-enter the classroom are able to pursue the better education with which they might expand their lives.

Taking that same overview, the Connecticut Department of Correction offers residents of its correctional communities the same opportunities for growth-through-education. In each of the state's 11 correctional facilities, the classroom has become an important vehicle in the rehabilitative transition of inmates to socially-productive citizens.

Operating on a voluntary basis, correctional schools offer a number of programs designed to help those who are willing to devote time and effort to these avenues for better living. Currently, correctional educational programs are directed in five general areas: basic education courses, secondary school studies, vocational education, apprenticeship training and post-secondary levels of study.

Courses range from remedial instruction by Literacy Volunteers to those which earn college credits. While levels of achievement span a wide range, most of the inmate students are enrolled in courses which will gain them the equivalency of a high school diploma or the basic skills needed to enter the working world outside. However, if a student shows the motivation and interest, he's encouraged to pursue higher level of learning. A rewarding number of ex-offenders have left Connecticut's correctional system with college degrees in hand, having continued previously interrupted college studies during the period of incarceration.

Approximately 875 inmates are presently enrolled in basic, secondary and vocational education courses, while another 300 or so are engaged in post-secondary studies.

Most students attend class within the correctional facilities; those eligible for community release are permitted to attend vocational schools or colleges in the community, returning to the institution when class are over.

Institutional classroom work is conducted by State School Teachers assigned to staff or by visiting faculty members from nearby colleges. Currently, in cooperation with the State Department of Education, inmate study programs are now available through Amntrak, Mohagan, Quinnabag, Housatonic, Middlesex and Greater Hartford Community Colleges, as well as Quinnipiac College and the University of New Haven.

Sometimes, classes are conducted by citizens like yourself. At correctional centers, for example, where populations are more fluid and include those awaiting trial, mini-courses are offered along with regular departmental educational programs. For an hour or two a week, citizen volunteers from the community enter the Center to teach 2-4 week courses in subjects ranging from automotive theory to foreign language conversation. The mini-courses are part of the Department of Correction's Volunteer Services program.

In a recent move to provide meaningful opportunities for those wishing to develop occupational skills, the Department of Correction placed industrial programs within the realm of education. Vocational training is now geared to preparing the offender for the day he will have to assume his place in the labor market. Skill-building courses are offered in auto body work, business machines, heavy equipment operation, retailing, marketing and a variety of other fields.

Apprenticeship programs are integrated into the vocational education curriculum.

As in your own community, correctional schools operate under the aegis of a superintendent, and a variety of other fields. Bound for Venus in 1978

This is what the multiprobe spacecraft will look like that NASA will launch in 1978 to explore the surface of Venus. The two-vehicle craft consists of an orbiter (on the bottom) and a probe-laden "bus" which carries a large atmospheric probe and three identical smaller probes. The large probe will descend through Venus' atmosphere to an altitude of 44 kilometers before a parachute releases it lower to the planet's surface. The three smaller probes are targeted to sample the weather of Venus at locations 5,000 miles apart.

Amtrak Funds Requested

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The administration asked Congress Tuesday to approve an additional $84.9 million in federal funds for Amtrak, saying the national railroad passenger corporation would have to shut down in February without the extra money.

In a letter to Congress, President Ford said that he was requesting the supplemental appropriation beyond what had previously been budgeted in order to help cover a $72 million deficit in the current 1975 fiscal year.

"Without the requested supplemental appropriation, Amtrak will not be able to continue train operation after February, 1975," Budget Director Roy Ash said in an accompanying letter.

Ash told Ford that the passenger railroad service has encountered rising operating costs for fuel and materials coupled with the desire of Congress to expand Amtrak service and "management's inability to decrease failures and improve utilization of equipment."

Committee Okays Interest Tax Exemption

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House Ways and Means Committee voted Tuesday to exempt from taxation the first $500 of each taxpayer's savings account interest.

The action was strongly opposed by a spokesman for the Treasury Department.

The bill, approved 15 to 6, is designed to aid the housing industry by attracting funds to the institutions that make mortgage loans. It would affect interest from savings and loan banks, commercial banks, credit unions and mutual savings banks.

The exemption would apply to the first $500 of interest on an individual tax return and the first $1,000 of a joint return.

Senate Votes To End Great Depression

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Senate has voted officially to end the Great Depression, 41 years after it was declared.

The vote also means the country no longer has to be mobilized for the Korean war.

The action was taken when the Senate passed a bill to abolish four obsolete national emergency declarations and suspend 470 statutes under which presidents are empowered by Congress to deal with national crises.

The bill would require congressional approval of any such presidential declarations in the future and any use of national emergency powers.

Under its provisions, Congress would review all emergency declarations and actions every six months to approve or disapprove them.

The bill would further require presidents to give Congress specific reasons for invoking special emergency powers given to the executive under various statutes.

The measure was seen as another effort by Congress to regain its status as a co-equal branch of government.

The measure would specifically repeal such authority as that now given to the President to establish detention camps under martial law.

The bill would repeal four states of national emergency now in force and declared by:

- 1 - President Franklin Roosevelt on March 6, 1951, to meet the crisis of the Great Depression.
- 2 - President Harry S. Truman on Dec. 16, 1950, to mobilize the country for the Korean War.
- 3 - President Richard Nixon on March 23, 1970, to deal with the Post Office strike, and Nixon's directive on Aug. 15, 1971, to deal with a monetary crisis by changing the gold trading rules and regulating foreign trade.
- 4 - Termination of these statutes would take place one year after enactment of the bill.

Solon Suggests Law to Prevent Shelf Price Changes

WESTVILLE (UPI) - Rep. Albert R. Webber, D-Westville, says he has asked the legislature's research section to begin work on a state law to bar changes in the prices of products already on the shelves.

Webber said the practice of changing prices of already marked products means consumers pay a higher price for goods whose cost to storekeepers has not changed.

Webber also criticized state Consumer Protection Commissioner Barbara Dunn for allegedly failing to enforce the unit pricing law approved by the legislature three years ago.

He said numerous shoppers have complained to him of having found two or more price tags on the same item, indicating the price of the product was changed after it was placed on the shelves.

He praised some supermarket chains that have pledged not to boost prices of items already on display, but added "many stores have refused to make any such pledge and are reaping windfall profits on products whose cost to them has not risen."

Parents should be cautious when selecting Halloween costumes to be used by their children at the end of the month. Whether purchased or homemade, costumes should be fire resistant. The terms "fire resistant" and "flame retardant" do not mean "fireproof" (will not burn), but indicate properties that will retard flames or fire and burn slowly. When shopping for fabrics, costumes, masks, beards and wings, look for fire or flame retardant labels and heed any "Do Not Wash" warnings. Washing could remove the protection.

Costumes for children should be short enough so that they can move easily without tripping. Big, bulky, awkward costumes restrict movement and may be extremely dangerous. Masks of a disguised should not impair vision or breathing. A natural cosmetic or charcoal "mask" applied directly to the skin is often safest and least expensive.

WINGS OF EVENING

By CLIFF SIMPSON

(Ed. Note: Saturday's Wings of Evening column on the church page was garbled because of misplaced paragraphs. The entire column is reprinted here. The Rev. Mr. Simpson's regular column will appear in Saturday's Herald.)

Nobody is Perfect

There is confusion in the minds of many people about what it means to be a church member. Some believe that you have to reach a certain level of morality before you can be admitted. There have, unfortunately, been those who take pride in their "goodness" as church members and look down on the "outsiders." On occasion the Christian church has sought to climb the ladder toward God, tightly pulling up its skirts lest it be contaminated by contact with "the lesser breed without the law."

This came home sharply to me once when, about 3 o'clock in the morning, I was eating with a citizen of Manchester up in Bolton Nook. I had been called to his home around midnight to help with a family fight. This man was slowly coming out of his moral darkness through the mists of gin into a clearer understanding of what he had done. Finally, when the black coffee and scrambled eggs arrived, he looked up with wonder and bewilderment in his eyes and muttered:

"Imagine that! The minister of Center Church is eating here with me."

For too long he had been a victim of scurrilous remarks from self-righteous church members who looked on him as an outcast.

Whenever he passed the church he could imagine them saying:

"You don't belong here! Stay out!"

This attitude was certainly not typical of the church as a whole but it was what the church meant to him, so he was surprised that a minister would care about him.

Jesus was accused of being a "winebibber and a glutton." He ate with sinners, sought the outcasts, refused to condemn the woman taken in adultery. Jesus still has better words for those who would deny his love to his children—and feel self righteous in so doing.

A Chuckle That Hurts

A story is told of a black janitor, some years ago, who asked the rector of a wealthy, highly ritualistic church in New York City if he could join. The megamillionaire hemmed and hawed, putting him off. Finally, when the sexton persisted, the rector said:

"Why don't you wait a while and ask God if he really wants you to join our church?"

They went by. Finally they met in the street by chance.

"Well, did you ask God about joining the church," the minister queried.

"O yes, I asked Him," replied the janitor, "and He said 'Never you mind, you can't get into that church. I have a great deal of trouble getting in there myself.'"

Barry Group Plans Sunday Family Picnic

A pre-election family picnic and fair with a non-political flavor is the phrase being used to describe a district-wide outing planned by the Barry-Forsythe campaign committee for the Columbus Day weekend.

The family get together will be held on Sunday, between 1 and 5 p.m. at the facilities of the Irish-American Club in Glastonbury on Commerce St.

Advance sales indicate that up to 1,000 people will attend the event featuring fun and games for the children and unlimited hot dogs, beer, soda, popcorn and other refreshments. Television sets will be available to watch both football and the World Series.

Children under five years old are admitted free. School-age children's tickets are $1.50 and adults (18 and over) are $3. Tickets are available at the fair.

VFW Plans Fall Dinner

The VFW Auxiliary will have its annual Harvest Dinner Oct. 17 from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Post Home, 608 E. Center.

The menu will include baked ham with homemade apple and pumpkin pies for dessert. Tickets are available from any committee member.

Anne Theriault is in charge of the event. She is being assisted by Dorothy Radtka, Heidi Juravaty, Jane Zikus, Margaret Zikus, Lucienne Rhoda, Dorothy Bolten, Inez Mahoney, Eveleen Smith, Shirley Stieckney, Lorraine Dupre, Margaret Chomerna, and Margaret Parsons.

Forgiven Sinners

The Bible tells us that "all sin and fall short of the glory of God." Jesus said, "None is good save God." Yet many outside the church have the mistaken idea that all those inside claim a special degree of "goodness." Many resent this and label church members "hypocrites."

I recall a prominent Manchester woman who called me when her husband died. As is my custom, we had a conversation about funeral arrangements, and then I wanted to offer prayer. Her caustic comment startled me.

He doesn't need my prayers. He was just as good as any member of Center Church.

Ignoring her remark I offered a prayer, and am glad that I did for she thanked me with tears in her eyes. All her life she told me she had been annoyed by her neighbors who looked down on her because she rarely went to church. Yet she knew that they were far from perfect. The best definition of a church member that I know is "a forgiven sinner." It is because of God's forgiveness that there is hope, not because there is no sin.

Neighbors in Need

There are many reasons why people do "good deeds"—both within and outside the church. Certainly church members have no monopoly here. However, Christian motivation is in response to God's love and His forgiveness. It is a recognition that every person can be used by God in His work of love.

Some time ago, I reviewed the membership of various boards in Manchester and was pleased to find so many church members serving on them. During World War II when Center Church organized "Manchester Thanksgiving Baskets for Europe" we had representatives from 25 organizations meet in our parish house. Every single one belonged to a church.

The church is deeply concerned for the lonely, the outcast, the sick, the minorities, the hungry and the dispossessed. Tomorrow there is to be an offering for Neighbors in Need. For years Church World Service has been administering relief around the world, often the first on the scene after a disaster.

The church is made up of sinners—true, but sinners who know that they are forgiven. This awareness makes possible a freedom and joy which finds expression in service.

"Aflame with Righteousness"

Our maxim of the week came from Alexis de Tocqueville, whose book "Democracy in America," written in 1835, has often been quoted:

"Not until I went to the churches of America and heard her pulpits aflame with righteousness did I understand the secret of her genius and power. America is great because she is good, and if America ceases to be good, she will cease to be great."

Another quote from the more recent past is from Einstein. It concerns the church in Germany:

"Being a lover of freedom, when the revolution came in Germany, I looked to the universities to defend it, knowing that they had always boasted of their devotion to the cause of truth; but no, the universities were silenced.

Then I looked to the individual writers, who, as literary guides of Germany, had written much and often concerning the place of freedom in modern life; they too were mute.

Only the Church stood squarely across the path of Hitler's campaign for suppressing truth. I never had any special interest in the Church before, but now I began to feel a great affection and admiration because the Church alone had the courage and persistence to stand for intellectual truth and moral freedom. I am forced to confess that what I once despised I now praise unreservedly."

The rate increases were granted by Hartford Electric Light Co. and Connecticut Light and Power Co. The PUC also is considering a rate hike requested by United Illuminating Co.

The congressman labeled as "a sham" PUC-approved changes in the utilities' billing procedures that put some fuel adjustments into the regular monthly charge, making the adjustment smaller but the overall bill larger.

Ms. Grasso has accused the PUC of allowing utilities to use outdated efficiency figures when computing the fuel cost adjustments. The firms charge customers for what it used to cost to make and deliver power in 1971, but that cost has been reduced in the past year, she said.

"It is wrong to ask the public to pay additional rate charges while earlier overcharges remain unsettled and additional overcharges mount" by $50,000 a day she said.

Mrs. Grasso also asked Connecticut Medical Service to reconsider its request for a rate hike and urged swift approval of the proposed merger of CMS with Blue Cross as a means of reducing service costs.

Mrs. Grasso's testimony was presented today by Sen. Joseph I. Lieberman, D-New Haven, as the state Insurance Department opened public hearings on the CMS rate hike.

Mrs. Grasso Seeks Coalition To Fight Utility Rate Hike

United Press International
Ella T. Grasso, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, has asked opponents of a $477 million rate hike granted to two power companies Monday to join her in seeking a court injunction against the increases.

Mrs. Grasso told a meeting at the Capitol Tuesday the state Public Utilities commission acted unfairly by allowing the hikes after she had said the utilities overcharged their customers $15 million during the past three years.

Rep. Robert H. Steele, her Republican opponent in the November, today said two bills he introduced could reduce the danger of major oil spills such as the one that took place in New Haven harbor Sunday.

Steele, who was to visit the harbor area today, said one of his bills, approved in 1972, established a marine traffic control system for Long Island that will prevent accidental groundings.

The New Haven oil spill was caused by an oil tanker scraping bottom as it entered the harbor.

He said the system is being developed by the Coast Guard and should be in place by 1977.

The other bill, being studied by the House, sets strict standards for vessels to improve their maneuverability such as multiple rudders and screws and controllable pitch propellers.

In the congressional race last District GOP candidate Mac Buckley today pledged if elected he will work to get "politics out of narcotics enforcement," at the federal, state and local levels. Buckley, former head of a federal drug strike force, said he noticed an uprising in heroin use in Connecticut one year ago, but it took 12 months for the information to move "through levels of bureaucracies to become public information and a matter of public concern."

"This is a full year of new generation of addicts overdose deaths."

—2nd District Democrat Christopher J. Dodd said Tuesday he opposes the sale of nuclear reactors to Egypt and Israel until safeguards are devised to insure their potentially lethal byproducts can not fall into the wrong hands.

Dodd said the Nixon administration's offer of nuclear reactors to those countries disregarded the risks that the plutonium derived from the reactors could be diverted for use in atomic weapons.

His Republican opponent, Sen. Samuel B. Heller, R-Mystic, said Tuesday Congress needs more members with business and industrial experience and less lawyers to deal with the economic situation.

Bergenty Aide

Carol Kuehl of 74 Mountain Rd. has been named Manchester campaign coordinator for Mrs. Helen Bergenty, the Republican candidate for high sheriff in Hartford County.

Mrs. Bergenty is making her second try at the post. She ran unsuccessfully in 1970.

A new town contract with the Manchester Police Union, Local 1495—providing for a 14 1/2 per cent pay increase over two years—was approved Tuesday night by town directors.

With little discussion, directors voted 8-0 to approve the contract. Director Robert Price was absent from Tuesday night's meeting.

The new labor agreement, retroactive to July 1, will increase the total police payroll to more than $1 million by the last year of the contract.

In the 1973-1974 fiscal year the police payroll totaled $844,185. The contract, which was previously ratified by the police union, calls for a five per cent salary hike effective last July 1, a 2 1/2 per cent increase Jan. 1, 1975, and a seven per cent raise next July 1.

The agreement will give each of the town's 79 policemen an average $720 raise per year.

Asst. Town Manager Charles McCarthy said the agreement also includes an increase in major medical coverage.

Negotiations for the contract began last March and the union

Crocodile Fills Ecological Niche

Nile Crocodile Needed

Cairo—The Nile crocodile, which is on the verge of extinction, fills an ecological niche as the major predator of the water it inhabits. Its removal from an area greatly disturbs the balance of life.

In African areas where the Nile crocodile no longer ranges, the yield of food fish for human consumption has dropped dramatically because the allover-swimming, rough, or bottom-feeding fish that once were the crocodile's main diet have multiplied to the point of forcing more desirable fish out of those waters.

The Manchester Lions Club observed World Lions Service Day Tuesday by presenting an Optiscope, an illuminated enlarger system, to the Mary Cheney Library.

The Optiscope will help anyone, regardless of age, who can benefit from an instrument which enlarges printed material, photographs or drawings.

The machine allows the partially sighted and the legally blind with residual low-vision capability to read with greater facility, and it can aid children with motivational learning disabilities.

The images on the screen of the Optiscope are magnified four times and are displayed on a large glare-free 9-inch by 14-inch polarized screen in full color or black and white.

Leaders Discuss Special Session On Utility Issues

HARTFORD (UPI) — Republican legislative leaders say they may call a special session on the utilities next week if someone comes up with "solid" proposals that may be called even over their wishes.

GOP legislators were told at a caucus Tuesday the first they went home in June, to work on regulations that could be taken up at such a session and pass then around so that a decision could be made by next Tuesday.

The matter however may be taken out of their hands by Rep. Marilyn Pearson, R-Stratford, who is leading a rank and file drive for signatures on a petition for a session on the controversial fuel cost adjustment.

Meanwhile, officials of Connecticut Light and Power (CL&P) said Tuesday they may appeal a section of the state Public Utilities Commission ruling Monday ordering them to refund about $60,000 to its 500 customers.

CL&P was granted at $25.3 million increase by the PUC, and returned about $200,000 less than the PUC approved on an interim

New Haven Firemen Stricken

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — A fireman was stricken fatally near the scene of a blaze where firefighters led a group of tenants to safety from the second and third floors of a tenement building.

Police said John Mitchell, 46, of Engine Co. 2, was pumping water from the apparatus about two blocks from the burning building Tuesday when he was stricken.

Fellow firemen applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and he was admitted to St. Raphael's Hospital where he died several hours later.

The fire in the nine-family tenement at 46 Legion Ave. was discovered about 9:30 a.m. by patrolman William Boyce, who turned in the alarm.

When firemen arrived, a number of tenants were leaning out upper floor windows to avoid the heavy smoke. Firemen wearing air packs led tenants safely downstairs through the front of the building.

Tall Cedars Parade Saturday Afternoon

Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, will have its annual fall ceremonial parade Saturday starting at 4:30 p.m. from Hartford Rd. and Main St. and proceeding to the Masonic Temple on E. Center St.

James Aboumrad of East Hartford, junior deputy grand Tall Cedar, is parade chairman. He is being assisted by Nash Hartford and Frank Kalas, past grand Tall Cedars; William Blatchley, senior deputy grand Tall Cedar; Carl Houghton, Carl Swanson, Harry Carmean, and Bob Dugan.

Mayor John Thompson will lead the parade, which will include marching units, and bands, Miss Connecticut and Miss Manchester, and the State Lottery float.

Errors Uncovered In Railroad Report

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Department of Transportation says it has found several errors in a federal report that labeled 175 miles of railroad line in Connecticut as "potentially excess."

The department said Tuesday the errors on the part of the U.S. Department of Transportation survey tended to portray some of the tracks as less used or profitable than they were in fact.

The federal report, a prelude to the reorganization of six financially ailing railroads in the Northeast, has been criticized by state officials and businessmen who say the abandonment of tracks would cause hardship to Connecticut.

Andrea Doria Disaster Power Squadron Topic

John C. Carrothers of Deep River will discuss "A Gross Miscarriage of Justice" in relation to court suits stemming from the 1956 marine disaster of the Andrea Doria, in a Friday night Manchester appearance sponsored by the Manchester Power Squadron.

The discussion is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 25 E. Center St. Carrothers — associated with the Maritime Research Board, a subsidiary of the Academy of Sciences in Washington, D.C. — has received widespread recognition for his opinions on the historic 1956 disaster and its aftermath.

He has had speaking engagements throughout the country and has published a number of articles in Europe.

Eight Campaign Officials Fined

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Elections Commission has fined 800 treasurers of eight candidates who did not file financial reports on time, but exempted 11 others because of confusion and administrative tangles.

The commission Tuesday also dismissed a complaint that Rep. Grant Aphthorp, R-Stratford, mailed out campaign material and failed to report the expenses to Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer.

Mrs. Schaffer Tuesday said she will ask the 1975 legislature to close a loophole in the state's new election laws that allow contributions made seven days before an election to go unreported until after the election.

Mrs. Schaffer said as the law stands candidates in the November elections must file their last financial report on Oct. 29, a week before the Nov. 5 elections.

The Watergate-inspired election laws require periodic reporting of the campaign's financial standing.

Elks Salute Press

VERNON The Rockville Lodge of Elks has unanimously passed a resolution saluting its area newspapers for "outstanding contributions to the life of the entire area."

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has observed National Newspaper Week since 1949.

In making the announcement, William K. Pease, exalted ruler of the Rockville Lodge, said the local lodge was joined in the salute by Grand Exalted Ruler George Strohm of Fresno, Calif. He said Strohm, in his travels, has constantly emphasized the importance of a free press to the American way of life.

Pease said Strohm commented, "As a principal exponent and practitioner of our Noting there is no central information service on the state level to serve veterans, Martin Burke, Democratic candidate for state representative from Vernon's 56th District, calls for a central clearinghouse to serve this purpose.

Hockey Funds Denied

Directors, however, took favorable action on sending a letter to the town Board of Education, suggesting consideration of a varsity hockey program at Manchester High School next year.

Tuesday night's decision on the hockey association request was the second rejection of aid to the group by directors. The board denied the same request in August, and a similar application to the school board resulted in subsequent denial.

Supporting the matter were Directors John Thompson, Vivian Ferguson, Carl Zinsner and Hillery Gallagher. Opposed were Directors Paschal Prignano, Phyllis Jackson, John Tani and Matthew Moriarty Jr. Director Robert Price was absent.

An amendment to the agenda item to limit the funds request consideration to $1,600 also failed on a similar tie vote.

New PTO Elects Officers

COLUMBIA Virginia Carlson Corcoran, 2249-2224

The Parent Teacher Organization (PTO) officially was begun last week when 29 parents turned out for the open meeting called by the steering committee which was formed to pick up where the PTA left off.

There were no further nominations from the floor so the suggested slate of officers brought to the meeting was unanimously accepted.

The officers are Joan Harris, president; Betsy Unkel, vice president; Vicki Wallace, secretary; and Mrs. Robin Demarjan, treasurer.

Mrs. Harris introduced committee members who, thus far, comprise the executive committee. Mrs. Marjorie Grant is chairman of the by-laws committee. Charles Brown and Shirley Aitken.

Catherine D'Italia is membership chairman. Publicity co-chairmen are Madge Vining and Mrs. Aitken. Ways and Means tri-chairmen are Penny Pospisil, Trudie Williams and Carl Lapis.

Because the PTO wants activities which draw people together, and are fun, the first fund-raising project will be a bingo party with rotating tables to be held Nov. 16 at the school. Other projects to raise money included a Monte Carlo wish party and a dance in the Donald Tuttle gymnasium on Oct. 29. There will be a culture night in April and installation night in May. The March meeting is still unplanned.

Nov. 12 there will be a meeting to discuss the PTA. According to rules, PTA can be dissolved by a two-thirds vote of members present at the meeting, according to Mrs. Grant, who has office on the state level. She added the PTA must have 30 days notice of the action because a state representative will come here and take the vote.

Mrs. Harris explained the PTA was an affiliate of a national group and was committed to their by-laws.

She said the local PTA has not utilized their services in the past and this is one of the reasons for the break. The PTO will have the same objectives in that it will be a parent-teacher relationship.

Surtax Examples

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A family of four with taxable income of $20,000 in 1975 would pay a surcharge of $128 under President Ford's proposal.

Example: Taxable income after deductions and exemptions. The first $10,000 of taxable income for all families would not be subject to the surcharge.

Here's how it would work: Taxable income $20,000.00. Subtract forgiveness feat, $820.00. Subject to 5 per cent surcharge $19,180.00. Subtract forgiveness feat, $959.50. Subject to 5 per cent surcharge $18,220.50. Surcharge $547.78. New combined tax $2,147.78.

VERNON Danny Messek, 19, of 41 Vernon Ave., Rockville, was charged Tuesday with third-degree assault in connection with the investigation of a fight on W. Main St., Vernon Police said.

Messek was released on a $250 non-surety bond for appearance in Circuit Court 12, Rockville, Nov. 5.

Matthew Stachowiak, 22, of 26 Grand Ave., Rockville, was charged with disorderly conduct, intoxication, and fourth-degree larceny. The arrest was made in connection with the investigation of an incident on W. Main St., police said.

Stachowiak was held overnight in lieu of posting a $500 bond. He was to be presented in Circuit Court 12, East Hartford, today.

Thomas French, 22, of 95 Orchard St., Rockville, was charged early this morning with operating under the influence of liquor or drugs. He was released on a $200 non-surety bond for appearance in Circuit Court 12, Rockville, Nov. 5.

SOUTH WINDSOR South Windsor Police are investigating the theft of two power saws from the South Windsor Equipment Co., Sullivan Ave. The incident was reported Tuesday. The saws are valued at about $400.

Power Out in Tolland

Tolland people must have had a hard time getting up on time, shaving, and getting their first cup of coffee this morning due to a near town-wide power outage.

A truck struck a utility pole on Rt. 74 at Park Hill at 5:30 a.m. Wires on the pole came together, shorted out, and fell to the ground, according to a spokesman of the Connecticut Light & Power Co.

The Tolland Fire Department and a crew of the power company arrived in town after the accident and began repairs.

Power was returned at 8:09.

There were 1,434 customers affected in the morning hours meaning that possibly thousands of people with electric alarm clocks, electric shavers, electric coffee pots and more essential electric tools for rising properly were late and probably disgruntled getting to work or school.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

Double squeeze is automatic

You can have a lot of fun with today's hand if you cover up the East and West cards. Now try to make your spade slam after East wins the first trick with the king of hearts and returns the five of clubs.

You win in dummy and can afford to play one round of trumps. Both opponents follow. Now, there is a very simple way to proceed. Play a second trump and go after diamonds. If the suit breaks 3-2 you will have a million tricks. A second line will be to try to ruff both your losing hearts. That will fail if West started with just two hearts and the jack of spades.

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

By WALLY FORTIN

Hello everybody, I guess the big happening here at the center will be our potluck supper and listening to the Mansfield School Blind Choir tomorrow evening here at the center. We still have room for a few more but you'd better get your ticket before 4:30 p.m. tomorrow as we will not sell any at the door. Action for this program starts at 6:30.

Flu Shots

We have two big things going next week. First of all on Wednesday, Oct. 16 we will be giving flu shots starting at 10 a.m. Any senior interested should show up at this time, and remember that this year we are charging $1 per person to help defray the expense of the serum.

The very next day — Thursday — it will be off and looking the foliage as we head north stopping off in Putney, Vt. for lunch and returning in the early evening. We have two bus loads for this trip and we will be leaving the center around 9 a.m. With all our other regular programs it makes for a real busy week.

Card Games

Let's see, we start with the action here at the center with Friday, and after a nice turnout for our kitchen social bingo in the morning we had 16 tables for setback with the following winning scores:

Elizabeth Cone 135, Paul Schuetz 133, George Schroll 130, Helen Gavello 129, Eva Post 128, Alex Tyocz 127, Martha LaBate 126, Joe Windsor 125, Bob Corder and Tom Murphy 123, Marge Hall and Lena Speed 122, Clara Renn and Francis Fike 120, Jennie Fogarty 118, and Ann Lehmann 115.

After one of our nicest weekends in a long time, Monday morning started off in fine fashion with ninety-some people present for our Kitchen social bingo games. After a delicious lunch the action moved upstairs where we had one of our largest turnouts for pinochle. We had 72 players and the lucky winners were:

Ann Young 731, John Gally 706, Mary Nakowski 703, Fritz Wilkinson 673, Beatrice Mader, 672, Marjorie McLain 671, Eve Lutz 670, Florence North 664, Mabel Wilson 662, Gus Gull 660, Alex Tyocz 655, Cecile Benson 653, Ernestine Donnelly 647, Michael DeSimone 646, Marie Hebenstrie 639, Bob Schubert 638, Robina Carrol 638, and Ann Ferras 636.

Halloween Dance

It was good to see Karl White and Alfred Chellman back with us after both of them coming off of very recent operations. Speaking of sickness, we just received word that Thomas Rhodes is now a patient at the local hospital.

Here is a couple of more dates to jot down in schedule book. On Monday, Oct. 28 we will have our big Halloween Dance. Not only will we be dancing to the live and lively music of Mickey Fendell and his talented orchestra but we have a costume parade with expensive prizes for the winners.

The goodies we will munch on will be made and served by the Latucca's and their students. The night will end with the giving away of our favorite door prizes. Tickets are now available here at the office.

Craft Fair

Next thing to remember is our big Craft Fair and Food Sale on Thursday, Dec. 5. It will be held here at the center from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. and you know what that means? It means that we will be looking for your help. So start today looking up articles you have around the house, especially things that you made because we need your donation of these articles in order to make the affair a success.

We will also be needing lots of goodies because having the sale on that length of time means we will need plenty. You can start bringing in your articles anytime now, and we certainly appreciate your help.

Fun Day Guest

Don't forget that tomorrow is our Fun Day and in the morning we will have our regular crewel embroidery class as well as our square dancers. Then will come our hot meal and it will be a fish meal with all the trimmings.

From there we head upstairs for our short meeting and then our guest will be Marci Negro who will speak to us and show slides about the new regional center that is being planned for Manchester. This building will have many uses, especially for the retarded children, and it will offer many things for other groups including seniors.

Marci, by the way, is no stranger to us as she and hubby Roger directed our first and most successful Variety Show last year. Should be a very informative afternoon and may I suggest that you drop in for our fish dinner and then you'll be here for the program. The dinner is from noontime to 1 p.m. and our program will start at 1:30.

Newport Peddlers May Be Restricted

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) —

Street peddlers and vendors have always had it pretty easy in this summer resort community, but the push is on to limit them.

City Manager B. Cowles Mallory and City Clerk Robert A. Shea have suggested five ways to the city council to limit the peddlers.

- It could raise the fee for peddlers' licenses to help equalize the tax burden.
- Prohibit a peddler from staying in one location for more than 10 minutes.
- Allowing special exceptions for self-made crafts and paintings in specific areas.

The council could ban peddlers from any business district, except in connection with a publicly authorized parade or celebration.

The sale of products that cater to children, such as ice cream cones, is being banned.

The opposition to ice cream and lemonade trucks, is that they attract children to the sound of a bell like the Pied Piper of Hamelin, and we must consider the safety of our children," said Shea.

The opposition to the peddlers comes mostly from local businessmen who claim they are losing money because the peddlers sell the same products they sell outside on the street, and customers do not come into the stores with as great a frequency.

"It is doubtful in my mind that peddlers pay any sales taxes or other taxes that the established merchant cannot escape. There is a certain charm of a moving hot dog or chestnut stand in the city streets, but is it worth it?" said Shea.

Train Robbery Plaque Stolen

ADAIR, Iowa (UPI) — A bronze plaque reading, "Site of the first train robbery in the West, committed by the notorious Jesse James and his gang of outlaws July 21 1873," has been stolen.

The plaque, which was attached to a large locomotive wheel, marked the spot of the famous robbery on the Rock Island Railroad 1 1/2 miles west of here. Research indicated it was the world's first robbery of a moving train.

about our cover

The gentlemen on our cover are Clarence and Ernest Watkins. When they founded Watkins on Oct. 8, 1874 they were only 17 and 18 years old.

In the years that followed, however, they established a solid reputation for honesty and fair dealing with a large measure of personal concern for those they served.

Today, we the third and fourth generations would like to believe that we uphold that early tradition based on the instructions of Christ, the Greatest Teacher of all, who said, "Love your neighbor as yourself."

It's a tough world, but we believe in people. We pledge to both our past and future customers that we will do our utmost to be patient, courteous and understanding no matter what the provocations and that within the limits of our strength we will be fair and honest to all.

THE WAY WE WERE

1. 1946 - Elmore Watkins leads a class in interior design. We didn't have much gray hair in this picture but we learned alot.

2. 1961 - Cathy Godfrey holds forth at a typical Watkins Open House. Don't miss the big one coming up Oct. 13th this year featuring the Conn. Craftmens Guild.

3. 1935 - We opened our Hartford piano and organ store in 1912. With cast iron columns in front it was an unusual building even in those days. It was remodeled in 1950.

4. 1935 - Our Anniversary chair in that year was a Sheraton Fancy Chair with real rush seat and hand painted backs. Would you believe it sold for $25.00?

5. 1928 - Santa Claus sponsored by Watkins once landed by parachute. A slight miscalculation landed him at the top of Oak St. Instead of at our Main St. store.

6. 1921 - Watkins Funeral Home was the first in Manchester and the second in Conn. to use a motorized hearse. Friends kidded us and competition derided us but it proved to be the only way to go.

7. 1922 - Prize winning appliance window of its day. Those are Easy washers with shiny copper tubs. A fortune in copper salvage at today's prices, but a mighty rugged machine in its day.

8. 1936 - Watkins Funeral Home on E. Center the way it looked when we first acquired it. Expanded and remodeled many times since it was one of the first funeral homes to devote a whole house to this service.

9. 1922 - It's hard to believe that the 49 people in this picture all worked for Watkins in 1922 where 40 serve today a business many times larger. The answer lies in the many shops of that day, refinishing, upholstery, draperies, shades, slipcovers, all made in house.

10. 1925 - Remember the Glenwood Coal Ranges and that marvelous storage facility, the kitchen cabinet. Here they are in a Watkins model room of that day.

11. 1918 - The piano and organ store on Asylum St. in Hartford boasting a Steinway Grand in the foreground. That's Miss Helen Richmond of So. Main St., Manchester, for many years the girl who could do everything.

12. 1925 - Doesn't look much like our 3rd floor bedding display today does it? But that was the way we showed things in the twenties. Some memories are painful!

13. 1959 - One of the first Washington's Birthday Sales. We remember how we had to jump to keep from being trampled by bargain hunters eager for those ridiculous prices.
