Compulsory Arbitration Becoming Necessary

The desperate need for compulsory and binding arbitration in labor disputes involving public workers and the public welfare has been starkly illustrated in the strike of Los Angeles Rapid Transit District bus drivers and mechanics who have paralyzed the sprawling city and adjacent areas over the past seven weeks.

Two unions, mechanics, with a membership of 728, and drivers, with a membership of 3,300, have idled the city's fleet of 1,869 buses and left an estimated 685,000 passengers to find other means of transportation.

In addition to its local impact, the strike is undoubtedly causing usage of thousands of gallons of gasoline daily which would not be used if public transportation were available.

The Southern California Transit District is an autonomous agency of the City of Los Angeles. The employees are therefore public employees.

Mayor Tom Bradley of the city met with the unions after a stalemate in negotiations had been reached. Upon advice of his labor consultants he asked the strikers to accept compulsory and binding arbitration. He was hooted down by them.

As in so many strikes against the public, they are unwilling to accept what might be assumed to be a fair and just decision of an arbitration board with members chosen from labor, the city and the general public. They want their demands and the public welfare be heard.

Bradley belatedly took a step which should have been done elsewhere years ago. He went to the California legislature, meeting in special session, to ask for legislation making arbitration compulsory in a public strike.

The appeal to the legislature was in vain, however, as it adjourned quickly without considering any matters other than reform of its own controversial pension provisions.

The paralyzing strike should be an object lesson to every state in the union. Public employees have become more and more demanding and more militant in recent years.

The public has tended to be somewhat complacent over strikes and threats of strikes by drivers, garbage men, teachers, police, firemen and other public service branches. The people often tend to forget that additional benefits to public workers can only be paid out of public taxes. Thus everyone pays for them.

We are not anti-public service employees. But we are very much pro public and for the uninterrupted maintenance of vital public services.

Teachers, particularly, worry as they become more and more unionized, and more under the sway of militant unionist-educators. Strikes and threats of strikes have become more common in educational ranks during the past five years.

We are not unmindful of the fact that public employees are people and have the same financial responsibilities as those in other occupations.

They do, however, have a job security unparalleled in private business. The salaries have in most cases overcome the lag which existed for some years. They have fringe benefits, vacations and sick leave, usually far above the average in private business.

For the welfare of the public, every state should have legislation making compulsory and binding arbitration a final step in labor disputes that cannot be settled through ordinary means.

The primary responsibility of the state is to the people, not to public employees.

No Law Necessary

On a voluntary basis we have no objection to grocery stores selling their products at the original shelf price instead of re-marking the price upward as prices of each new shipment go upward.

In fact, we think it is good business to do so, since nothing is more tempting and yet more frustrating than removing the top sticker and finding a lower price underneath. And for what its worth, customers aren't stupid and soon know which stores are capitalizing on price increases in this manner.

But we think a recent proposal by a Connecticut legislator to bar such changes by law is rather silly.

First, the matter of enforcement would be difficult and costly.

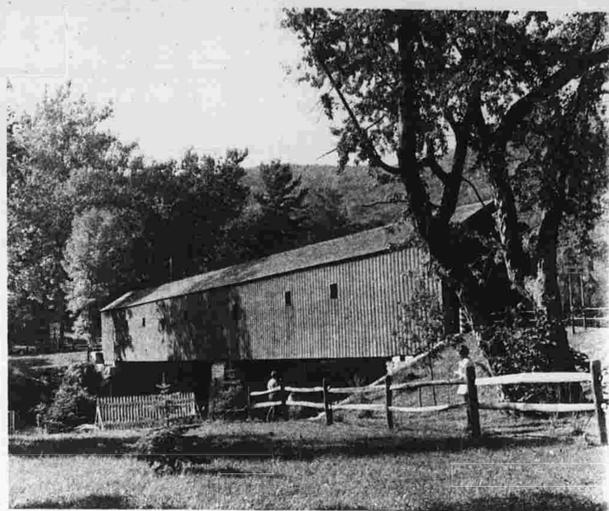

Second, a reasonable amount of price raising is legitimate in the long term, since prices do go down as well as up. In the grocery business, in particular, it is common in order to meet competition.

For the moment, a state law protecting the consumer against an increase in the pricing of items on the shelf purchased at a lower cost seems attractive, but should the price spiral stop, level off, and begin a downward trend, the law would freeze prices at a higher level.

We note one supermarket has pledged not only that it will raise shelf prices (except on sale items after the sale is over) but will also lower shelf prices if its wholesale price drops.

This is being done voluntarily and we think under competition the practice will spread, making the suggested law what it really is, just so much political campaign fodder which skirts the real issue before us of reducing inflation which is the underlying reason for rising prices everywhere.

Gives Labor's Views On Home Industry

Dear Sir: I have had called to my attention a copy of an editorial, entitled "A Dangerous Step," which appeared in your issue of August 29.

Since it deals with a proposal I advanced at our recent convention as a means of coming to grips with the almost total collapse of the housing industry, I cannot forego the opportunity to make a few comments and explain my position.

First of all, I would say to you that if it is devious and cynical to have a genuine concern for the unemployment experienced by the members of the organization I represent, I plead guilty. If it is devious and cynical to have a genuine concern that only a few Americans can afford to purchase a new home, I plead guilty.

Likewise, I plead guilty to having a genuine concern that home building contractors by the hundreds are going out of business, that many firms in related supply industries are likewise going out of business and those remaining are operating at a greatly reduced scale.

I am also very much aware of the impact the home building industry has on our overall economy, not only by itself, but with the employment opportunities and the production of goods and services it generates in terms of new carpets, new draperies, new appliances, new furniture, new yard equipment, etc., as well as new streets, new shopping centers, new churches, new schools and so on ad infinitum.

Lest our current recession turn into a depression, our economy begs for expansion, our social needs are crying for help. If it is devious and cynical to have a genuine concern for all of these needs, I loudly and clearly say to you, I am guilty.

To meet the housing needs of the American people requires that we build a little over three million housing units each year during the 1970's and 1980's. In 1974 we will build only about one million units. The reason that the other two million units will not be built is because mortgage interest rates are so high that only a small segment of Americans have sufficient income to meet the resulting monthly mortgage payments.

In May of 1974 the median selling price of all new homes was $35,800. With a 10 per cent down payment and a thirty-year mortgage at the current 10 per cent interest rate, monthly principal and interest payments amount to $282.75. Such payments in turn require an income of about $20,000 a year to afford. Only a small segment of Americans have an annual income of $20,000. Therefore, only a small segment of Americans can afford to purchase new homes.

I would point out to you that the purchaser of a house with a selling price of $35,800 with a thirty-year 10 per cent mortgage actually pays $105,371 for his $35,800 house.

Why must a purchaser pay $105,000 for something that costs $35,800? Why? Because he has to pay $70,000 in interest payments to the banker or other lending institution. I say $70,000 is just too much. In fact, I say it is exorbitant. This $70,000 interest payment does not increase the value of the house one cent.

The federal government does not and should not inject itself into the private sector except in those instances where our public institutions cannot or do not meet their responsibilities.

On the basis of our need for housing, on the basis of the chaotic situation which is ravaging the home building industry, on the basis of the chaotic conditions of our overall economy, say that the federal government must inject itself into the financing of new homes and must take those steps necessary to make direct mortgage loans available at interest rates not in excess of 5 per cent.

In your article you erroneously concluded that I am proposing that the federal government must inject itself into the financing of new homes and must take those steps necessary to make direct mortgage loans available at interest rates not in excess of 5 per cent.

My proposition says that if a new home buyer pays $30,000 to a mortgage lender for the use of his $32,220, that is enough. To have to pay the mortgage lender $70,000 for the use of his $32,220 is too much and it is wrong.

Only about 25-30 per cent of the housing built in the United States is built by union labor. I point this out to you lest you conclude my concern stems only from my interest in the members I represent.

Yes, I have an interest in the well being of our membership, but I also have concern for the Home Building Industry as a whole and for the American people as a whole.

Over the years, the labor movement has fought long and hard for the good of all Americans, not just for the good of their own. We have fought for public education for all children, for decent minimum wages, for decent unemployment insurance, adequate social security and a decent health care program. All are progressive improvements which labor wants for all citizens, not union members exclusively.

The labor movement has always been the depository of progressive thought and action and the keeper of the nation's social conscience. This country, this world, is in chaotic economic circumstances, circumstances that require drastic action, circumstances that will require the use of the scalpel rather than the use of cosmetics to correct.

If my proposal that says an interest payment of $70,000 to a money lender who contributes no value to the product is too much but that $30,000 should be sufficient, is too drastic, is a dangerous step, is pure socialism, is devious, is cynical, I say so be it.

I would ask you to ask yourself what the home purchaser might do with this $40,000 difference. What contribution would this money make in providing for all of his hospital, medical and health care expenses? What contribution would it make in providing for the higher education of his children? What contribution would it make in providing him with the necessities of life as well as the finer things of life?

For the good of the American people, for the good of our economy, for the continuation of our American way of life, I feel compelled to raise my voice and to muster the support of the members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

Home Builders, labor costs accounted for 17 per cent of the selling price of the median priced home in 1969 and represents only 15 per cent of its selling price in 1974.

This should clearly point out to you that labor has steadily received less of the value they produced. If labor was to maintain its equity with the total price paid by the home purchaser, labor has not been properly compensated for their contribution of the value they produced.

That, of course, is why we maintain diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and are working toward detente with Communist China. It is why we recently established diplomatic relations with East Germany, which is still a creature of Moscow. The State Department would never acknowledge it, but an accredited diplomat in fact is a spy protected by the immunity of his trade.

Or, to quote a Central Intelligence Agency man: "Give me an embassy with a bright and tough political officer who has local connections and I'll show you a first-rate intelligence operative."

Accordingly, nobody should be surprised that the State Department and White House are taking in stride Castro's viciously hysterical attack on the United States during the Havana visit of Sen. Jack Javits, R-N.Y., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I. Castro's speech was typically self-serving. His pose is that of a strong man, who's not afraid to take on the giants of the world, and he must maintain that pose before his captive countrymen. Instead of freedom, Castro serves up national pride, plus a reminder to any dissidents that he's still a tough baby.

Moreover, Castro, like all dictators, always needs a scapegoat to lay his people's minds off their own problems. Thus his idiotic charge that international inflation is the result of the American policy of "hundreds of billions of dollars" on its "war budget," and his denunciation of the CIA's involvement in Chile's internal affairs. Blame the other guy is the first commandment of a totalitarian regime.

The U.S. probably will get around eventually to lifting its trade embargo against Cuba and normalizing relations. It would be consistent with an apparent switch to a policy of de facto recognition — that is, recognizing a government when it controls a nation, not when it conforms to our ethical and moral standards.

In doing so, Washington would be merely recognizing the direct effects of international life which proclaim the necessity of doing business even with governments we detest. This wouldn't do America any harm and in the field of espionage it almost would do us some good.

ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — In the lexicon of statesmanship, Fidel Castro is a virtual fanatic. That is to say, he is typical of the modern day tinpot dictators: mostly sound and fury, signifying nothing except an obsession with keeping a tight grip on his slave state.

So from a practical, diplomatic viewpoint it is bootless for the United States government to take umbrage at Castro's insults. In considering resumption of diplomatic relations with Cuba, the question is not whether Fidel belongs in a loony bin, but whether certain advantages would accrue from dispatching an official mission to that threadbare island.

A great deal has been said about the benefits that would flow from trade with Cuba, especially by companies selling stuff Cuba needs. In fact, the U.S. economy could survive without Cuban trade. But realistically it is always good to do diplomatic business with any government, simply because that is one way to find out what's going on in a country and perhaps devise subtle ways to exert influence on a government's general direction.

As one U.S. intelligence official puts it: "We are now without direct contact with the Castro regime. It's all very well to talk grandiosely about spy networks, and espionage of course does what it can within its built-in limits. But it is much more important to have diplomatic relations with a so-called enemy country than with a friendly one. We don't have to worry about what our friends are doing, but we need people in an official capacity who can converse with and reason with the officials of an unfriendly regime."

That, of course, is why we maintain diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and are working toward detente with Communist China. It is why we recently established diplomatic relations with East Germany, which is still a creature of Moscow. The State Department would never acknowledge it, but an accredited diplomat in fact is a spy protected by the immunity of his trade.

Or, to quote a Central Intelligence Agency man: "Give me an embassy with a bright and tough political officer who has local connections and I'll show you a first-rate intelligence operative."

Accordingly, nobody should be surprised that the State Department and White House are taking in stride Castro's viciously hysterical attack on the United States during the Havana visit of Sen. Jack Javits, R-N.Y., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I. Castro's speech was typically self-serving. His pose is that of a strong man, who's not afraid to take on the giants of the world, and he must maintain that pose before his captive countrymen. Instead of freedom, Castro serves up national pride, plus a reminder to any dissidents that he's still a tough baby.

Moreover, Castro, like all dictators, always needs a scapegoat to lay his people's minds off their own problems. Thus his idiotic charge that international inflation is the result of the American policy of "hundreds of billions of dollars" on its "war budget," and his denunciation of the CIA's involvement in Chile's internal affairs. Blame the other guy is the first commandment of a totalitarian regime.

The U.S. probably will get around eventually to lifting its trade embargo against Cuba and normalizing relations. It would be consistent with an apparent switch to a policy of de facto recognition — that is, recognizing a government when it controls a nation, not when it conforms to our ethical and moral standards.

In doing so, Washington would be merely recognizing the direct effects of international life which proclaim the necessity of doing business even with governments we detest. This wouldn't do America any harm and in the field of espionage it almost would do us some good.

Buckley: Cotter Voting Record

F. Mac Buckley, Republican nominee for Congress in the First District, has charged his opponent-incumbent U.S. Rep. William Cotter—with undermining an already depressed housing industry.

"Cotter voted for a federal housing bill that will hurt inner city residents as well as members of the local building industry, which is currently hard hit by inflation and tight money," Buckley said.

Buckley also contended that Cotter has voted for programs which resulted in enormous federal deficits and he also voted against allowing savings banks to issue interest on customer checking accounts.

"On the whole, Mr. Cotter's voting record shows him to be everything but the enemy of inflation that he professes to be," Buckley said.

"He has demonstrated little understanding of the economic situation in the banking and housing industries and has consistently voted for every higher spending alternative," Buckley charged.

Pallone: Solar Energy

Thomas Pallone, candidate for governor on the George Wallace Party ticket, said he favors the use of solar energy for state facilities.

"Beginning this January," Pallone said, "I would begin a four-year program of converting all state-owned and leased facilities to the use of solar energy for heat."

As the state develops technology to convert to solar energy, Pallone said, "I would then begin a program to disseminate this information to the general public so that any homeowner can economically convert his home."

SCHOOL BOARD ACCEPTS CONTRACT FOR TEACHERS

SOUTH WINDSOR Judy Kuehnel Correspondent Tel. 644-1364 The South Windsor Board of Education Thursday night unanimously voted to accept teacher contracts granting a 7.9 salary increase for the present school year. The board's action came just one month before negotiations are scheduled to begin over 1975-76 contracts, and followed months of bargaining, negotiation, mediation and even fruitless arbitration. The combined benefits of the new contracts are expected to cost the town over a quarter of a million dollars over last year's combined benefits. According to board member, David Cohen, SWEA's acceptance of proposed settlement was based on the "good faith intention" of the Board of Education to make every attempt to keep salaries of South Windsor teachers comparable to those of surrounding towns. The board originally recommended a 5.5 per cent hike with the teacher's group requesting a 10 per cent raise in salaries. Last year's salary schedule, in 13 steps, ranged from $8,100 for first step teachers with a bachelor's degree to $13,900 for a teacher with a master's degree plus one year of study. The month before contracts have added a fourth step on the salary scale which now range from $8,100 to $15,150. An additional $2,000 per year is granted to those teachers meeting qualifications, for "master" or "career" teacher, making possible a salary maximum of $17,150. Additional salary is also awarded to those teachers serving as department heads, coaches, advisors, and so forth, ranging from $150 to $1,250 per year. According to Cohen, contract negotiations for the 1975-76 school year to begin "as soon as possible."

Giulietti: Need Ombudsman

The probate court should assume some of the functions of the people's advocate or ombudsman concept which originated in Scandinavia and has been adopted in several states. John Giulietti, Republican candidate for Judge at Probate for the Ellington-Vernon district told the Vernon Republican Town Committee, Wednesday night. Giulietti is running against incumbent Thomas Rady of Ellington. He told the town committee, "I'm a little disappointed in my opponent in that he's avoiding the real issues and going off on a tangent by criticizing my campaign signs." "I would rather see him tell us how he will inform the average citizen about the operation of the probate court during the coming years," Giulietti said. Giulietti said he spent more than two years as an editor of an army newspaper and he would like to use that experience for the benefit of the average citizen by writing periodic newspaper articles explaining the court and removing some of the mysteries which he says shroud probate. "There is a real need for this sort of information when we see the popularity of Norman F. Dacey's book, 'How to Avoid Probate,' Giulietti said. "Instead, my opponent paints a rosy picture of the probate court; this is something which the average citizen just doesn't believe," Giulietti said. He told the town committee when he is elected he will open the court Wednesday evening of each week to answer questions which people may have. Referring to Rady's suggestion about the ombudsman, Giulietti said this is an official who would hear people's problems and refer them to the proper agency, as well as institute action on behalf of the citizen. Giulietti told the committee he is looking forward to a debate with his opponent at the "Meet The Candidates" night to be sponsored by the League of Women Voters, Oct. 17 at the Middle School.

Ted Lingard — District Fire Chief

"I've never been part of a stagnant organization."

Granville "Ted" Lingard, 40, has been a member of the Eighth District Fire Department for 25 years and is today, more than ever before, its chief.

His own story in the district reflects both the district's fragile nature and its vitality. Lingard was nearly forced out of office as well as the department this summer.

During the district battles over control of district politics and the chief's job, outsiders and insiders guessed the district was in its last days.

"The district serves about 15,000 people in the north-central portion of Manchester. It spends less than half its budget of about $140,000 yearly on sewer service. The rest, over $80,000, supports its volunteer fire department.

The district is run by a seven-member Board of Directors elected by district residents for two-year terms. Three terms including the president's end on even years and four end on odd years.

Born in District
Lingard was born in the depression years in the district and grew up on Hudson St. within sight of the station house of the department organized in 1882.

He began going to fires at age 15 in 1949. At age 16, he was one of the original members of the Civil Defense group there. He became a CD captain in 1951.

In 1954, Lingard became a member of the district's Co. No. 1. He became a lieutenant in that company in 1956 at age 22.

In 1963 at age 29, he was appointed an assistant chief. He became chief in 1968 at age 34.

During these years he took many fire fighting training programs. The state offers volunteers three courses of increasing depth. Lingard took all three within six years.

In 1963, he attended the New Haven Fire College, considered one of the best anywhere. One of the most recent courses he took was offered in the Manchester Adult Education program at night at the high school. The teacher was Sedrick Straughan, former assistant chief on the town's paid force and sometimes called "Mr. Fire Fighter" in Manchester.

Lingard's respect for Straughan began when Lingard played hooky from school. Straughan was part-time transient for the town when not fighting fires. He caught the errand boy and put him back in school.

Volunteers often pay their own way to schools and classes although the department offers as much aid as the budget allows.

Cabinet Maker
After Lingard graduated from Manchester High School in 1952, he began a three-year apprenticeship as a jet engine metalsmith with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft in East Hartford. When he completed the program in 1956, he was put in the pipe bending department so he decided to do something else.

He had worked part time doing cabinet work for the Manchester Millwork firm run by Joseph Rivosa at the time Joe is the younger brother of John Rivosa, present chief of the town's fire department. Lingard and Frank Rivosa worked together at the shop at that time.

After leaving P&W in 1955, Lingard opened the Lingard Cabinet Co. on Williams St. His shop was the site of an old blacksmith shop.

He ran his own shop for six years until 1961 when he sold it to Jim McCarthy. Lingard kept working for the firm as it moved to 1 Main St., Vernon opposite the Trolan VW building.

In 1968, he went to work with Everett Van Dyne. In May of 1970, they set up Architectural Woodworking Inc., a millwork shop on Mill St., Glastonbury. Lingard now manages the firm which employs nine full-time workmen. They have done the woodwork in many area banks and offices, schools and churches, and in shopping center stores including those of the new West Farms Mall in West Hartford.

Lingard is paid a total of $2,000 for being fire chief and fire marshal. Despite the hours he puts into the department, this means it is merely a part-time job financially.

Therefore, it is as cabinet maker that Lingard supports his family. "I'm not locked into the job," Lingard said. "But we're pretty successful."

About the District

Lingard discussed the district, the fire department and its future status, and the volunteer of both. He said: "The district has got to progress. We can't build a wall around ourselves and hide inside it."

"I put 25 years into this department. After the directors 4-2 vote not to reappoint Lingard on July 15, my hands and feet were tied and I had a gag in my mouth. But I had some friends working for me."

"No one, not the officers or the men, would take the job when the directors offered it to them in July. And I know some of the men wanted it. Having an inexperienced chief in a demoralized department might have meant its end."

"I've been counseled that I've spoken too much. But I said what I think. Too many politicians say one thing and mean something else. "I've always spoken in what I thought was the best interests of the department."

Lingard would not talk about the details of his near loss of his position as chief this summer. Progress seems to be under way in relations with all concerned, he said, and the less said now may be the better for the district.

He did not with pleasure the letters in "The Herald's Open Forum" column from people supporting Lingard. "I most appreciated the letter from Tom Moore," he said.

Moore's letter was printed Aug. 2. It was mainly an appeal for the "orderly and safe" stewardship of the district's Co. No. 1. He became a lieutenant in that company in 1956 at age 22.

The failure to reappoint Fire Chief Granville Lingard is not in the best interest of the people and property of the district. None of the dissenting directors could find fault with the direction Chief Lingard has given the fire department during the past six years.

"I have been a district volunteer fireman for seven years, and on occasion, I have not agreed or cohesively functioned with the fire chief. However, if my house were burning, I would want Ted Lingard there."

Use of Talent
Volunteer departments have been growing and becoming more sophisticated for years in rural areas such as Bolton, Tolland, Ellington, Vernon and South Windsor. All have fine volunteer departments with high spirit and respect.

But cities such as Hartford have long had paid firefighters and, according to Town Manager Robert Weiss, the trend nationally is for cities to close paid departments.

Lingard admitted this trend and noted Manchester, as a whole, is not merely a large town. But he denied the trend to paid departments is necessary. "More volunteer departments are killed by inter-departmental squabbles than the lack of ability to fight fires," he said.

"It is the responsibility of the leaders to keep the companies working smoothly together." In his leadership of the 85-man district fire department, Lingard has tried to "make the most use of all the leadership talent here." He noted he has great confidence in the top men.

There are two adult companies and a training company for young men between 16 and 21. The assistant chiefs are Frank Mordavsky, John Christensen and Harold Topf.

The rest of the firemen split $2,200 among them on a point system. They get so many points for every fire they work.

Manchester Homemakers Mark 10th Year

In October of 1964 the Manchester Homemaker Service, Inc. opened its first office and hired Mrs. Hyalé Hurwitz as director.

The service will celebrate its tenth anniversary Monday with a program to be conducted at the Community Baptist Church, E. Center St., at 8 p.m.

In the spring of 1962 the board of directors of the Manchester Public Health Nurses Association investigated the need for a homemaker service in Manchester.

A committee of six was appointed to gather information and a year later presented its report to the association. This report revealed there was a definite need for such a service and that this need could best be served by creating a community agency to establish the service.

Next a planning committee was formed made up of representatives from health and welfare agencies, the professions, the clergy and the schools. In December of 1963 an organization was formed consisting of 5 officers, 9 committee chairmen and 22 members-at-large. The original planning committee assumed leadership. Office space was rented in October, 1964, and headed by Mrs. Hurwitz, who has been serving as director ever since the agency opened.

From the start the basic philosophy of the agency has been to preserve the family unit during a time of crisis in as normal and healthy an atmosphere as possible.

Primarily, this philosophy has involved provision of trained help for a family that was temporarily without a mother.

However, with the advent of Medicare, a second broad area of service was opened up. Under contract to the Manchester, Rockville, and South Windsor Public Health Nurses Associations, the homemakers have become home health aides in the area of work with elderly persons.

The services has always placed emphasis on having a professionally trained staff, carefully screened and trained in conjunction with the Connecticut State Department of Health.

After completion of an initial training program, staff members have been provided with continuous in-service training.

During 1967, a grant from the Mental Health Division of the state Department of Health made possible a year-long training program on "Working With The Family in Crisis."

Since payment for service to a family has always been set according to ability to pay, supplemental financing has been necessary from the outset.

Prior to affiliation with Medicare and the United Way of Manchester (formerly Community Chest), funds were provided by the Legacy Fund of the Manchester Public Health Nurses Association, the local chapter of the American Cancer Society, the Heart Association, and by private contributions.

Extensive publicity within the community, plus contacts with health and welfare personnel and agencies, has resulted in a steadily increasing request for services.

Membership in the Connecticut and National Associations of Homemaker Services and the Greater Hartford Community Council has enabled the agency to increase the scope and breadth of its service.

In 1972 a five-town expansion program was made possible through a grant from the Public Health Nursing Division of the Connecticut Department of Health. Service was extended to the towns of Vernon, Bolton, Ellington, Tolland and Somers in addition to Manchester and South Windsor.

In the spring of 1974, with the increasing demand for services, and the growing expense of operation, it was necessary for the director to go to the governing bodies of each town served to ask for supplementary funds. Each town agreed to pay its fair share to offset what some families could not afford to pay for services rendered.

The Peace Corps and VISTA (Volunteers In Service to America) are conducting a four-day drive starting Tuesday to find skilled tradesmen to serve with either community action group.

A team of Peace Corps and VISTA representatives will be at the Shureham III Motor Lodge, 705 Asylum St., Hartford, Tuesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. to discuss their various programs. A special telephone number, 249-7674, will be available for those wishing to call during the campaign.

The representatives are seeking such skilled tradesmen as mechanics, plumbers, electricians, machinists or carpenters.

According to a Peace Corps representative, over 12 per cent of all Peace Corps volunteers are older married tradesmen who do not have college degree. All levels of tradesmen have joined from the apprentice to the journeyman to the master. Since 1970, the Peace Corps has invited a limited number of families overseas. The corps provides all transportation costs to and from the country, complete medical coverage, housing, a reasonable living allowance, and savings of 2,000 for the volunteer. If married, everything doubles.

The corps is now working in 61 developing countries in Latin America, Asia and Africa. On the domestic side, a smaller number of tradesmen are at work as VISTA volunteers. Two volunteers are using their carpentry experience to assist in the renovation of 16 houses in Redding, Calif., which are mostly occupied by older Americans and American Indians, a representative said.

On Oct. 24 Herald Travel Show Features Hawaii

The second in a series of Travel Shows sponsored by the Herald and participating travel agents will be presented Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. at Manchester High School auditorium.

United Airlines will present a film entitled "High In Hawaii" depicting the beautiful islands, its people, and its many tourist attractions. A few surprises are in store, followed by drawings for prizes provided by area merchants.

Tickets are now available at the following participating agencies: LaBonne Travel, 627 Main St.; Mercury Travel, 627 Main St.; Globe Travel Service, 555 Main St.; Goodchild-Bartlett Travel, 113 Main St.; Hastings Travel, Coventry; University Travel, Storrs; O'Keefe Travel, 750 Silius Deane Highway, Wethersfield; and at The Herald office.

because it lies at a meeting point of several ocean shipping routes. From Honolulu, it is 2,400 miles to San Francisco, 3,900 miles to Tokyo, 5,400 miles to Manila and 5,400 miles to Panama Canal. Kauai is situated 98 miles northwest of Honolulu. It is the fourth largest in size, 555 square miles. It is the oldest, geologically, of the Hawaiian Islands and is well known for its picture-book type of verdant scenery.

Kauai was the first island on which Europeans are definitely known to have set foot. In 1778 Capt. James Cook, in search of the northern passage through the North American continent, sighted Kauai. It was also on Kauai, at Koloa, where Europeans built the first sugar mill. Russians, who desired a hold in the Pacific, built a fort on the island.

The island's scenic spectacles are many and varied. Spouting Horn, a salt water geyser, contrasts vividly with beautiful Kalaheo Lookout, Waimea Canyon, a small likeness of the Grand Canyon, is a riot of changing colors and shifting shadows, while Hanalei Valley remains a serene scene, a patchwork quilt of fields divided for cultivation.

The nearby island of Niihau is privately owned. It is part of Kauai County and has a population of about 260, almost all of whom are native Hawaiians engaged in ranching.

Oahu, the capital island, is where the legislature meets, where industries are centered, and is a hub of transportation. Honolulu, in which is concentrated 570,000 of the state's population, is the one American city which cannot be found with a road map. It is 2,091 nautical miles from San Francisco.

No two people who have visited this "Fair Haven" as its name is translated, find exactly the same things. To some it is too much of a bustling, bustling metropolis. To others it is a charming and exciting city. Some are appalled at the conglomerate population; others delight in it.

Visitors to the island of Kauai in the Hawaiian Islands, arrive at this lovely Fern Groto after a short boat trip up the Waialeale River. Here, tour drivers sing Hawaiian songs, including the haunting "Ke Kai Nei Au." The music echoes off the fern-hung cave. (Photo courtesy Hawaii Visitors Bureau)

Cruise Line To Visit New England Islands

Charles A. Robertson, owner of the American Cruise Lines Inc., an associate corporation of the New England Steamboat Lines Inc., of Haddam, announced today that 1975 reservations are now being accepted for the largest inland cruise ship on the East coast presently under construction.

The spring, summer and fall schedule offers 5, 7, and 10 day cruises to the New England Islands and coastal towns between Connecticut and Maine, leaving from the Connecticut River at Haddam. Cruises for five days through the Chesapeake Bay region embarking from Annapolis, Maryland, and 14-day cruises between Connecticut and Florida, with North and South ports of embarkation, will complete the schedule. Winter cruises up to 10 days in southern intercoastal waters will operate from St. Augustine and Charleston, South Carolina.

This 82 passenger inland and coastal cruise ship has been designed to provide a level of service and comfort to its passengers heretofore unseen on inland cruise ships. According to American Cruise Line officials, "We believe that no other inland travel experience will be able to match our combination of total comfort as well as its itinerary for the ultimate in traveling ease eliminating the need of hotel reservations, airports, packing and unpacking.

Vacations on this new ship have been planned to offer the best of both worlds — the advantage of beautiful everchanging scenery which cannot be seen from an ocean-going vessel.

The New England itinerary includes visits to such out-of-the-way places as Block Island, Cape Cod, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts; Camden, Boothbay Harbor, Mohegan Island and Vinhaven, all of Maine. In addition, the summer schedule includes passage through New York City and northward along the Hudson, passing the George Washington Bridge, Sleepy Hollow, West Point, Bannerman's Castle, and on into the Erie Canal and beautiful New York State.

The cruise schedule is arranged so that the ship will be in port to coincide with local events such as the Long Island Oyster Festival, the Rockland Maine Lobster Festival, and "Windjammer Days" in Boothbay Harbor.

American Cruise Line officials have designed the ship:

It costs more this year, what with higher gasoline and other prices, but the family car is still the most popular means of travel for Americans, whether on vacation, weekend holidays or daily recreational trips.

Lower speed limits imposed to combat fuel shortages have been credited with cutting down highway deaths. But with millions of vehicles on the roads, accidents are bound to happen.

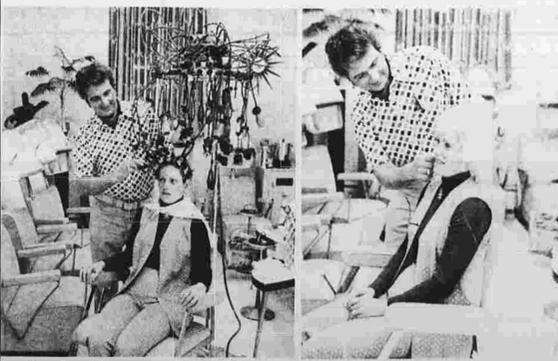

So motorists are well advised to take precautions before starting out, including making sure they carry enough liability insurance to protect them in case they are among the unlucky ones.

GARDENING

By FRANK ATWOOD

One of the few flowering plants that thrives in the shade is the tuberous rooted begonia. The blooms are in many colors from white and yellow through various tones of pink and red.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Feltham of Hebron have more than 100 plants, some of which Mr. Feltham raised from seed.

Once the begonias start to bloom in mid-summer, they continue until frost, so when anyone asks what plants to grow in a shady spot where color is wanted, a good answer is tuberous rooted begonias.

As indicated by the name, the plants grow from tubers, sending up thick, fleshy stalks that put out rather large notched leaves, some with prominent veins. The blossom stems are fleshy, like the stalks, and on many plants the blossoms are four inches across.

Planted in the garden, the plants require staking since the weight of water in a summer shower on the foliage and blooms will tend to break the stems or break them off.

The Feltham begonias are mainly grown in pots, set on blocks so the stalks, leaves and flowers hang down and there is much less loss from breakage. They are treated as hanging basket plants. They have been at their loveliest in recent weeks, although there has been one light frost in this area of Hebron.

Tuberous rooted begonias are a specialty for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Feltham of Burnt Hill Rd., Hebron. They continue blooming until killed by frost. Then the tubers can be lifted and stored for planting again another year. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Winter Storage

When a heavier frost leaves no doubt that the begonias are gone for another season, the tubers will be dug and the tops discarded. For the winter, the tubers will be spread on sand and peat moss, which in turn have been spread on a rock ledge under one end of the house.

As actually a crawl space, although the Felthams intended to have a real root cellar excavated when they added a room to their house. The rock ledge got in the way, but the space is adequate and Mr. Feltham can block up the entrance from the outside to keep out wintry drafts. The lowest temperature he has found in his storage space is 43 degrees.

Both former employees of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, the Felthams bought their house and moved to Hebron from Manchester in 1970, while they were still working. They retired the next year. Edward as a leaner man on inspection after 31 years at the aircraft engine factory, and Allen as a general foreman's clerk after 10 years.

They cleared trees and brush from their property to provide room for a garden and added a wing, over the rock ledge, to be a dining room. There is still a pile of rocks in the back yard that came out of the garden area but they have found a young neighbor who is in the process of landscaping his new home in the country and would like to have the rocks. They have gladly given him permission to haul them away.

80 Rose Bushes

Besides the begonias, the Felthams have 80 rose plants, some of them moved from their former home on Jarvis Rd., Manchester. Mr. Feltham will mound soil around the roses and cover the soil with a thick layer of salt marsh hay for winter protection.

He has found that the roses prosper in their new location, and some miniature rose plants that he had trouble keeping alive in Manchester grow very nicely in Hebron. He thinks the reason is the heavier soil, a good loam, that he has in Hebron compared to the sandy soil in Manchester.

Mr. Feltham, his wife says, is great on compost. Everything from weeds to leaves to vegetable parings goes on the compost pile and eventually back on the garden, which should continue to be productive under this treatment. It has provided vegetables and several kinds of fruits for the Felthams to use fresh, to can and freeze and to give as welcome presents to their three grown children, all of who live away from home.

At Thursday night's meeting of the Elementary Board of Education, members voted to approve the appointment of Robert Owens to fill a vacancy on the board. Owens' name was suggested by the members of the Democratic Town Committee.

Owens, a five-year resident of Hebron, lives with his wife, Lynn and two children on Carriage Dr.

Board members approved the appointment of Debra Stone as the teaching aide in the kindergarten at the Hebron

Elementary School. They also approved the appointment of Donald Heath as a new bus driver.

Dr. Christopher O'Connor was appointed school physician. Dr. O'Connor has served on this capacity in the past.

Kindergarten Issue

Ray Gradual was present at the meeting to protest the size of the kindergarten classes at the Gilead Hill School. There are 22 children in each of two sessions of kindergarten at that school.

The board took action at last month's meeting to hire a teaching aide for the kindergarten classes at the Hebron Elementary School which had reached a total enrollment over 25. Board members decided that as long as the classes at Gilead were under 25 no action would be taken on Gradual's request.

Teacher Programs

The following programs will be presented by staff members before regular meetings of the Board of Education: Diagnostic services, Nov. 14, Dr. Thomas Grant; behavior modification, Dec. 12, David Galahera, reading program K's, Feb. 13, Gilead and Hebron teachers; reading program 4-6, March 13, Gilead and Hebron teachers; reading program 7-8, April 10, Gilead and Hebron teachers.

Jobs Available

Applications are being accepted at the Hebron Elementary School for the following positions: Substitute aide, substitute secretary, substitute custodian and full-time custodian. Applicants may come to the Hebron Elementary School between 7:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Grasso PUC Proposal Criticized

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sen. George L. Guther, R-Stratford, has criticized a Democratic proposal to disband the state Public Utilities Commission as the "let's get rid of your boys and put my boys on the commission" approach.

Guther Thursday said the proposal by Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., her party's gubernatorial candidate, would not get to the real problem, that commission members appointed by the governor are not thoroughly screened by the legislature.

Guther suggested the legislative Executive Nominations Committee which now handles all commission appointments, be eliminated, and commission members be referred by the governor to the legislative committee working on the same field as the commission.

That would give the committee, with the experience it has in the "let's get rid of your boys and put my boys on the commission" approach, the opportunity to really screen the candidate's credentials to assure competency and the ability to do the job," he said.

Boston School Scene Relatively Peaceful

BOSTON (UPI) - Black attendance increased noticeably and all was peaceful in the schools and streets of previously troubled South Boston under the guard of 450 tough, riot-trained State and Metropolitan Police units, the 22nd day of a court-ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools.

The attendance increased markedly following the bringing in of State Police and Metropolitan District Police reinforcements to protect the children and enforce the court order. Regular Boston Police, including the Tactical Force, were pulled out of South Boston Thursday, leaving an integration enforcement to the new replacements.

Mrs. Niarchos Found Dead PARIS (UPI) - Mrs. Stavros Niarchos, 45, wife of the Greek shipbuilder and former wife of Greek millionaire Aristotle Onassis, was found dead in her Paris apartment today, a friend of the family announced.

Mrs. Maggi Nolan said the family informed her of the death of Tina Niarchos but gave no details.

Tina Niarchos married Onassis, then 40, when she was 16 in 1946. She divorced Onassis in New York in 1960 on grounds of mental cruelty, complaining "The man I married was an ambitious man. He fought the American government, the Peruvian government, we were always at war."

A year after divorcing Onassis, she married the British Marquis of Blandford, a rich English nobleman with Vanderbilt and Churchill blood in his veins.

Returned Visit Planned American officials had said earlier that Kissinger planned to return to Cairo Sunday. Before he returns he will meet with leaders in Syria, Jordan, Israel and Saudi Arabia.

Kissinger embraced Sadat Thursday night as he left the Egyptian leader's Giza residence, kissing the president on both cheeks.

"I reviewed modalities of procedures and of substance, various points of view, various aspects, in what I consider a very constructive and positive manner in the usual friendly atmosphere," Kissinger said, summing up the talks.

Both Kissinger and Sadat declined to reveal the procedures discussed, saying the trip has just begun and publication of such details would be premature.

Failed to Hit in Stretch

One need look no farther than the statistical sheet to find out why Baltimore and not Boston represented the American League's Eastern Division in tie playoffs.

The two biggest busts down the homestretch when the bats suddenly went silent were Rico Petrocelli and Carl Yastrzemski. The two high-salaried infielders slumped horribly during the final six weeks when they lost their seven-game lead and wound up third, behind the Orioles and New York.

During this span, Petrocelli hit just .157 before being benched and called it a season. Yast, the highest paid member on owner Tom Yawkey's payroll contributed a .203 average during this stretch.

Champion and Challenger Meet In First All-California Series

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - The Los Angeles Dodgers won 102 games and finished fourth in front of Cincinnati in the National League West. They had the best record in baseball.

The two-time World Champion Oakland A's scored 90 victories and were five ahead of Texas at the conclusion of the American League West.

The Dodgers handled the Pittsburgh Pirates while the A's best Baltimore Orioles—each in four games—in the playoffs which were wrapped up Wednesday.

There was plenty of conjecture—from each side—Thursday as the Dodgers and the A's got ready to hold their breath today.

"I don't think we're consistently given credit day after day for being the best team in baseball," said Oakland's Reggie Jackson, the American League's MVP a year ago.

ours. Besides Cincinnati, we had to beat teams like Atlanta and Houston. I'll match those teams against any in Oakland's division any day."

Sal Bando, the A's' third baseman and captain, helped Oakland beat Cincinnati in seven games in the 1972 World Series and stop the New York Mets in seven in '73.

"For two years," he said, "all we heard was how good the Reds were in particular and how much stronger the National League was in general. Well, I think we burst a few bubbles on that observation and now everyone is telling us again how good the Dodgers are and how bad we're going to be beat by them. I don't buy that at all."

Andy Messersmith, a 20-game winner for Los Angeles who beat Pittsburgh Sunday will go for Manager Walter Alston in the Series opener. Messersmith is a former California Angel and the Angels are in Oakland's division.

"The A's have a helluva club," he said. "I know them. I've pitched against all of them except that new guy, (Clayton) Kershaw. It was a big thing to beat the Pirates, the Los Angeles Dodgers' ace right-hander, has been checked, double-checked and re-checked by National League clubs this season.

Some claim he doctors up his baseballs with sandpaper. Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh had him checked Wednesday—in a 12-1 Dodger romp which the team's first NL pennant in eight seasons—on the suspicion he was putting pine tar on the ball.

Through it all, Sutton has remained calm. "I consider it a compliment when they come out and convicted less than anyone I know."

Sutton is bothered his reputation for doctoring balls actually helps him. "It just gives the hitters something more to think about," he said.

Sutton has been almost flawless since July 25. That was eight days after 15-game winner Tommy John was lost because of an elbow injury.

He's won 15 of 16 since that date, including his last 11 in a row. He accounted for two of the Dodgers' wins against Pittsburgh, giving up just one run and seven hits in 17 innings.

He's the same Dodger right-hander who went 14 starts and nine weeks without winning a game. He's also one of three Dodgers (the others are Willie Crawford and Jim Brewer) who were members of the 1968 Los Angeles National League championship club. That team was blown out in four straight by Baltimore.

"We have the guys who are capable of breaking the game open at any time," Sutton said. "That's the difference from our '68 team when we had to rely on speed and pitching."

Mickey Lolich Put on Block LOS ANGELES (UPI) - The Los Angeles Dodgers had the best pitching in the National League this year, and if they're looking to beef it up even more next year, they have the perfect opportunity to get the Pirates, who have beaten by Oakland in this year's A.L. playoffs, three games to one.

Steve Swisher, the Chicago Cubs' rookie catcher, is drawing a lot of fine comment for the way he behaved after being charged with the passed ball that enabled Pittsburgh to come from behind and beat the Cubs in the ball game that clinched the pennant for the Pirates, who are the Cubs' clubhouse after the game, Swisher didn't duck reporters, try to alibi or stick his head between his knees. He stood patiently and answered every last question clearly and honestly. He was so stand-up and forthright, all the newsmen shook his hand.

Won Last 11 Games Sutton Enjoying Claims by Foes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - One thing is certain about the 1974 World Series. The Oakland A's will demand the umpires check Don Sutton's baseballs.

Some claim he doctors up his baseballs with sandpaper. Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh had him checked Wednesday—in a 12-1 Dodger romp which the team's first NL pennant in eight seasons—on the suspicion he was putting pine tar on the ball.

Through it all, Sutton has remained calm. "I consider it a compliment when they come out and convicted less than anyone I know."

Sutton is bothered his reputation for doctoring balls actually helps him. "It just gives the hitters something more to think about," he said.

Sutton has been almost flawless since July 25. That was eight days after 15-game winner Tommy John was lost because of an elbow injury.

He's won 15 of 16 since that date, including his last 11 in a row. He accounted for two of the Dodgers' wins against Pittsburgh, giving up just one run and seven hits in 17 innings.

He's the same Dodger right-hander who went 14 starts and nine weeks without winning a game. He's also one of three Dodgers (the others are Willie Crawford and Jim Brewer) who were members of the 1968 Los Angeles National League championship club. That team was blown out in four straight by Baltimore.

"We have the guys who are capable of breaking the game open at any time," Sutton said. "That's the difference from our '68 team when we had to rely on speed and pitching."

Ken Tedford, president, reports equipment may be delivered to this address after noon on Oct. 19. No fee will be charged for selling any equipment.

Mickey Lolich Put on Block LOS ANGELES (UPI) - The Los Angeles Dodgers had the best pitching in the National League this year, and if they're looking to beef it up even more next year, they have the perfect opportunity to get the Pirates, who have beaten by Oakland in this year's A.L. playoffs, three games to one.

Steve Swisher, the Chicago Cubs' rookie catcher, is drawing a lot of fine comment for the way he behaved after being charged with the passed ball that enabled Pittsburgh to come from behind and beat the Cubs in the ball game that clinched the pennant for the Pirates, who are the Cubs' clubhouse after the game, Swisher didn't duck reporters, try to alibi or stick his head between his knees. He stood patiently and answered every last question clearly and honestly. He was so stand-up and forthright, all the newsmen shook his hand.

Hale, McConville Goals Pace MCC

First-half goals by Bill Hale and Tim McConville led the way as Manchester Community College downed the Central Connecticut State College Jayvee soccer squad yesterday at Cougar Field, 2-0.

The verdict was the sixth against no losses for Coach Jim Dyer and his team. The Collegians were also involved in two deadlocks.

Hale's tally came at 23:20 on the first half on an assist from McCon-ville. The latter added the clincher at the 42:35 mark in the half. It was McConville's fifth tally of the season. Former Coventry High standout and an all-New England schoolboy selection, Dave Treschuk recorded 18 saves in the goal in gaining his third blanking.

The locals played without Jim Tymon, injured in the Wesleyan game. Ray Boyd moved into Tymon's vacated spot and turned in a fine showing.

Sullivan Sets Record As Booters Blank Foe

Sensational goalie Ray Sullivan of Manchester High entered the school record book yesterday when he recorded his eighth shutout of the season all in succession - as he led the booters to a 1-0 win over Wethersfield High at Wethersfield.

Sullivan's skein of eight broke the record compiled by the 1959 team which was captained by Chuck Saimond and Bob Goehring. Coach Dick Danielson's '59 squad collected a season-record 11 shutouts which were turned in by Mike Winters and Mike Caciakaus who alternated in the nets.

latter took a nifty pass from Tayvo Stimac, out-manuevered two backs and

Manchester sports an 8-1 won-lost record the only blotch on the standard coming in the opener.

Danielson noted that the latest success was the poorest overall effort of his club this season. However, he did lead the play of Mike Lombardo, Sullivan and MacLean.

The losers has eight goal tries to 13 for Manchester. Two of Sullivan's saves were from point-blank range, both in the third period.

Not Sure Bass Fish Laurels Taken by Zanolungo

Fishing team member Chuck Zanolungo of Manchester is New England's top bass angler for the 1974 season after placing first in last week's Massachusetts Invitational Bass Tournament at Lake Cochituate, Mass.

The event was sponsored by the four catches weighing nine pounds, six ounces.

The local angler is a member of Ray Gorsky's Tackle Shop team. Gorsky operates a tackle shop at 307 E. Center St.

His favorite lures are light colored spinner baits, dark colored plastic worms and a perch-colored "Big O."

Zanolungo has earned $875 in cash to date for his efforts in bass competition. Last May he won the AABC Candlewood Lake Invitational.

To date, Zanolungo has caught over 375 legal bass, 17 over five pounds, and all were released except four.

A Manchester native, Zanolungo is employed in the Manchester Public Works Department. He is married and has two children.

Other members of Ray's team are Larry Spencer, Ron Pinto and Bob Blanchard, all local residents.

"I kind of feel sorry for them," he said. "They don't know (conditions) any better. We spent $20,000 on a banquet for them in Vancouver (at the end of the Canadian half of the series). When we were done (over there) all we got was flags, Russian flags."

"We had a party the night before we left and Frank Mahovich, you know how quiet he is, got up on a box and said, 'You know I'm not a speechmaker but you can't take all those rubles with you. Let's all dig way down deep and come up with something.'" Howe related the tale.

The Team Canada members were going to give some money to a Soviet woman who worked there and was in a bad way financially.

"After we'd all come up with something," Howe said, "Frank got back up on the box again and said, 'Now you know I'm not much on speechmaking but I don't think some of you guys dug deep enough.' We came up with more than a hundred dollars worth of rubles."

Howe typically did not claim the Canadians got "jobbed" by the foreign officials but he did allow how he'd like to play the first four over there next time. I think they might be a little easier on us, knowing they had to come back."

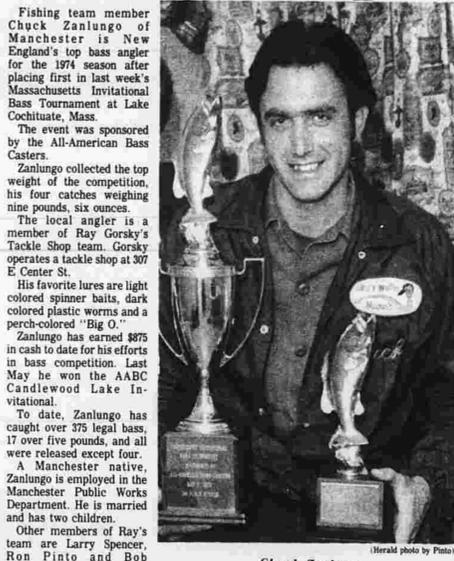

They just kept on searching until they were done. Then they'd turn out the lights and walk out," Howe said. He also confirmed stories of roaches all over the place.

Fedorchak Wins Schoolboy Race

Once again talented Fedorchak set the pace for Billing High as the Rams defeated Bennet Junior High on the cross country course yesterday, 18-36, and also posted a 24-31 decision over Silas Deane Junior High.

Chasing Fedorchak across the final line over the 1.8 mile course was Matt Mariani of Deane and Billing teammates Ed Lemieux and Mike Scholsky.

Fedorchak was clocked in 9:13. He clipped six seconds off the course record in Wethersfield.

Silas Deane captured all top five placements in trouncing Bennet, 15-40.

Results: 1. Fedorchak (I), 2. Marianna (D), 3. Lemieux (I), 4. Scholsky (I), 5. Basque (D), 6. Florsdorf (I), 7. Mayo (D), 8. Marrs (D), 9. Buchalski (D), 10. Church (D).

American veteran pro golfer Brewer, winner of $50,000 in the first Taiheyo Club Masters tournament in 1972, was eliminated when he shot a three-over-par 74 for a 152.

Other well-known pros who failed to make the cut were George Archer (75-78-181) and Forrest Fezler (73-77-150) and England's Maurice Bembridge (75-75-150).

Five Share Japan Lead

Japan's Koato Shimada and American pro Don Bies, Hubbard Green, Jim Simons and Bob Mene shared a one-stroke lead with a two-under-par 140 Friday in the second round of the $300,000 Taiheyo Club Masters golf tournament.

Mene collected a special prize of $2,000 for the day's best score of a four-under-par 32-35-67 on the 7,187-yard par 55-56-71 Sobu Country Club course.

Simons had a 68, Mene a 69 and Greene a 71. Shimada, who shot a 68 Thursday and trailed first-round leader Shigeru Uchida by one stroke, had a one-over-par 72.

Fifty pros and amateur Tatumie Irie made the cut of a seven-over-par 149 for the Los Angeles opening night 5-3 National Hockey League victory over the pros champions.

In the only NHL game Thursday night, Buffalo routed Boston 5-2.

Tom Williams scored a pair of goals, the second one going the length of the ice into an empty net as the Kings surprisedly outmuscled the Flyers. The other LA goals came from Mike Corrigan and Mike Murphy in the first period and Danny Maloney in the second. For the Flyers' fans it was not a total loss: Dave Schultz spent 27 minutes in the penalty box.

Gil Perreault, out much of last season with a broken leg, began the '74 campaign in fine fashion, riddling Boston goalkeeper Gilles Gilbert for a three-goal hat trick to spur the Sabres over the Bruins.

Perreault also assisted on two other goals—both by linemate Rick Martin—as the Sabres jumped off to a 2-2 advantage after two periods and then snuffed four 6-2 apiece with the Bruins in the final stanza.

Second Trophy Fish for Boy

Catching fish is the goal of all fishermen and trophy catches often come only once in a lifetime.

Joe Gondarowski, 9, of Enfield who summers at Andover Lake with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of 10 Knox St., Manchester, is an exception.

The young angler caught a six and one-quarter largemouth bass early last summer and recently added a five pound, 14 ounce white catfish to his collection. Both catches were made at Andover Lake.

"We believe it would be best to keep these teams together whether they would be relocated or remain in their present cities for the 1975 season."

The revised WFL schedule for next week has Shreveport at Philadelphia, Chicago at Charlotte, Birmingham at Southern California, Florida at Memphis and Hawaii at Portland.

Davidson also announced the first round of the league playoffs will begin Nov. 20. The field will be made up of the three division winners and three wild card teams (teams with the best win-loss records among the non-division champions).

The semifinals will be played Nov. 27 and Nov. 29 at the homes of the Western and Central Division champions, with the World Bowl scheduled Dec. 5 at the homefield of one of the participating teams.

WFL Postpones Draft of Players

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—The World Football League has postponed indefinitely the draft of the players from the financially stricken Detroit and Jacksonville franchises in hopes the teams will be able to play next year.

The remaining playing schedules of the teams, which have been taken over by the league, will be cancelled for the rest of 1974, though.

"We have decided to cancel remaining games of these two teams but several potential investors have indicated they wish to keep the teams intact for a fresh start next year," said WFL Commissioner Gary Davidson Thursday.

Signoretto tallied all three goals for the 5-1-1 winners, getting one in each of the first, third and fourth periods.

Tech, now 2-5, has 11 shots on goal.

Goalie Bruce Beebe was a busy man in the Tech nets with 25 saves, several of a spectacular nature.

Hartford Runners Top East by Point

One point was the margin of victory yesterday afternoon at Wickham Park as Hartford Public High's cross-country team nipped East Catholic High, 17-29.

Jody Weatherwax and Tom Duggan gave the winners a one-two placement with Ed Dana the first East runner to finish in third place.

The loss was the third in a dozen starts for Coach Dave Kelley's squad. Hartford gained the first, second, seventh, eighth and ninth spots.

Weatherwax' winning effort was achieved in 14:45 with Duggan in at 14:56 and Dana an even 16 minutes.

Only four seconds separated the last four places in the scoring and Hartford's Mike Duggan just nipped East's Luke O'Connor at the tape in the battle for ninth place. This decided the highly exciting match.

Results: 1. Weatherwax (H), 2. T. Duggan (H), 3. Dana (E), (E), 4. Skehan (E), 5. Burinkas (E), 6. Stamp (E), 7. Blessio (H), 8. Cherry (H), 9. M. Duggan (H), 10. O'Connor (E).

Holding onto the football will be the main concern for East Catholic as it battles Hartford County Conference foe St. Bernard tonight at 7:30 in Uncasville. Manchester High waits until Saturday afternoon at 1:30 before resuming gridiron warfare, hosting CXL rival Conard High of West Hartford at Memorial Field.

Fumbles have put a wrench in the works for the 1-2-1 Eagles. They've shown the ability to move the pigskin but 22 turnovers haven't helped matters. This worries Coach John LaFontana but there isn't much he or his staff can do to alleviate the situation.

When the Eagles do move the ball, Joe Desimone and Cephus Nolan carry it overland. Desimone is the leading rusher and scorer with 294 yards rushing and four TDs and a two-point conversion to his credit. Nolan has scooted 228 yards, averaging eight yards every time he touches the ball.

Last week's 61-12 shelling at the hands of Northwest Catholic could have been a morale-killer but this is not the case LaFontana stated. Drills have been most spirited with the club getting set for their next challenge.

St. Bernard is 2-1 having upset St. Paul last week. They have an excellent passer in junior quarterback Mike Lindsey with his favorite target split end Arnie Pinkston. When they do run, senior Co-Captain Bob Walsh normally gets the call. The Saints run out of a Power-I offense, the same one Xavier High utilizes. It almost seems natural, Coach Dave Pesapane an assistant previously at the Middletown-based school. The Saints are a big play team so LaFontana commented that 100 per cent concentration from his people will be needed to upend the downstate gridironers.

Manchester High is coming off a big 28-15 win over Wethersfield but its task isn't an easy one against the West Hartford-based Chieftains. Conard is 2-1 overall, 1-1 in the league along with four other outfits. The Silk Towners are off to a 2-0 start, 1-0 in the circuit.

Opening at quarterback for the Indians will be senior tri-captain Jack Maloney with Pete McCluskey, John Kunz and Jason Dodge, the latter pair each scoring twice against Wethersfield, in the backfield. Manchester had success passing last week, hitting seven of eight, but Coach Larry Olsen indicated his 11 will stay groundside as long as chunks of yardage are eaten up. Proving to be a fine receiver last week was sophomore tight end John Madden, who latched onto three tosses for 45 yards.

The Chieftains will have southpaw Chet Farbotko at quarterback with speedster Bruce McAllister keying the running game. Conard does not rely on trick plays, it uses a Power-I offense and challenges you to stop it. If successful, chances for victory are good. If not...

Sun Clinches Tie In WFL's West

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—The Southern California Sun has clinched a tie for the World Football League's Western Division title but Coach Tom Fears says, critically, they didn't play like it.

"We were off all over," Fears said Thursday night after the Sun's 25-23 victory over the Shreveport Steamer for Southern California's sixth win in a row. "The passing was our best. The receiving wasn't our best."

"There is consolation clinching a tie for the division championship, but we don't want to go for ties."

Tony Adams threw a 47-yard pass to Ralph Nelson for a six-yard touchdown and ran in from the seven for another score.

Southern California's 11th win in 15 games left it five games in front of the Hawaiians in the WFL West with five games left. Shreveport, 4-1-1, is third. The Sun's other TD came on a one-yard run from Alonzo Emery and ex-Stanford Rose Bowl hero Rod Garcia kicked a 30-yard field goal.

Shreveport scored on a six-yard run by Paul Gipson and John Malory's 34-yard recovery of a Nelson fumble in the first half. Jim Nance ran nine yards for a TD in the fourth quarter.

"We had a chance for seven interceptions and only came up with one," Fears said.

Aid Offered To Students

Senior students at Manchester High School and East Catholic High School planning a college career may be eligible to receive financial assistance through two programs funded by the State of Connecticut.

The two programs are the Connecticut State Scholarship program and the Connecticut Higher Education Grant program, both of which are administered under policies established by the Connecticut State Scholarship Commission.

At present, 46,000 brochures concerning the two programs are being distributed to superintendents, principals, headmasters and guidance counselors in all public and private secondary schools in Connecticut.

A student who is eligible may apply for a state scholarship, a higher education grant, or both.

The deadlines for filing applications are Dec. 15 for a state scholarship, and Feb. 15, 1975, for a higher education grant.

Further information is available at the high school offices.

35 New Voters Are Registered

A Wednesday night voter-making session conducted by Manchester's registrars of voters resulted in the signup of 35 new voters — 19 Democrats, 5 Republicans, and 11 unaffiliated — the registrars reported.

The registrars also reminded eligible townspeople that tomorrow is the registration deadline for persons wishing to vote in the Nov. 5 election. A registration session is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. tomorrow in the town clerk's office at the Municipal Building.

Persons whose eligibility rights mature after tomorrow will be able to register in a special session due Nov. 4, from 9 a.m. to noon in the town clerk's office.

Wednesday night's signup of 35 new voters brought Manchester's voter enrollment to an unofficial total of 28,264 — 11,187 Democrats, 8,389 Republicans, and 8,188 unaffiliated.

MMH Auxiliary Meets Oct. 21

The Auxiliary of Manchester Memorial Hospital will hold its fall meeting and luncheon Oct. 21 at noon at Willie's Steak House.

Dr. Kenneth M. Goddard will speak on "Paramedical Personnel and Primary Care." His topic will cover the types of paramedical training and capabilities of paramedics, and the position of the government's position on paramedics' care. A question and answer period will follow.

A graduate of Georgetown Medical School in Washington, D.C. in 1961, Dr. Goddard did his residency in internal medicine at Hartford Hospital from 1962-1967. He was in private practice in Bloomfield until 1972.

From 1972-1974, he served as medical coordinator for the nurse practitioner training program. He is presently the director of the primary care unit at Hartford Hospital.

Anyone interested in attending may contact Mrs. Charles Baxter, 24 Olcott Dr., by Wednesday.

Class Planned In First Aid

The Manchester Red Cross is offering a training program in standard first aid and personal safety. This newly developed course includes essential information for development of first aid knowledge, skill ability and personal judgment.

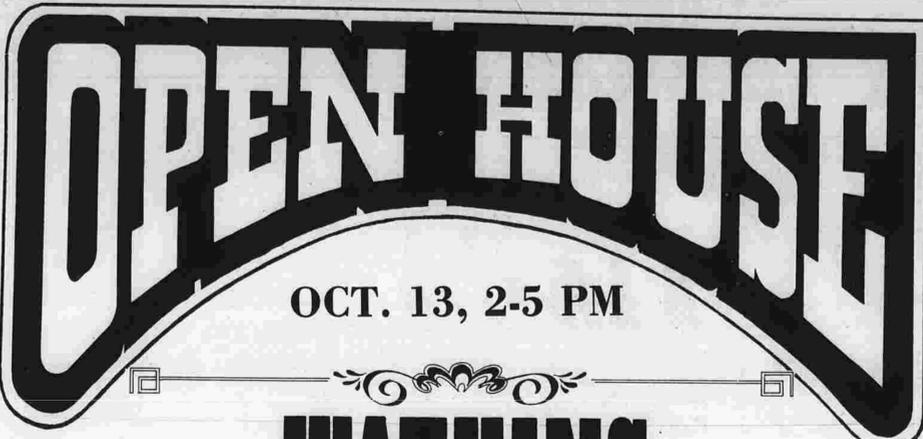

Upon completion, participants should be prepared to meet the needs of most situations where emergency care is needed and medical assistance is not overly delayed. They will also have learned safety and accident prevention by becoming acquainted with causes of accidents.

The course will be held in the Manchester Red Cross office, 243 E. Center St., for six consecutive Thursday evenings beginning Oct. 17 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Some of the situations covered in this program are shock, poisoning, burns, respiratory emergencies and artificial respiration, choking, heat stroke, frost bite, bandaging and emergency rescue.

As class space is limited, anyone interested in participating is reminded to register as soon as possible by contacting the Red Cross office, 643-5111.

Court Suits Planned On Utility Rate Increase

Democratic gubernatorial contender Eliot T. Grasso threatened twice this week to take the state Public Utilities Commission to court over the issue of rate hikes to the state's major utilities.

Mrs. Grasso Friday said she will sue the PUC if it gives a rate increase to United Illuminating Co. Earlier this week she said she was suing the commission for the $47.7 million rate hike it granted Northeast Utilities because of alleged fuel cost adjustment overcharges.

To Oppose U.I. Increase
"I intend to join in the court appeal against any United Illuminating increases," she told the Stamford Area Commerce and Industry Association. "No rate hikes can be permitted until the PUC investigates the fuel adjustment overcharges and orders whatever refunds are found to be correct."

Mrs. Grasso commissioned a study which concluded that electric consumers in the state have been overcharged a total of $19 billion because the PUC allowed the power companies to use outdated efficiency ratings.

Preparing Charges
Elsewhere in politics, Republican senatorial nominee James H. Brannen said Friday he is preparing specific charges against his opponent, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., for investigation by the Senate Select Committee on Standards and Conduct.

The committee had turned down a request from Brannen to investigate Ribicoff's connection with a large Washington, D.C., area real estate firm for possible conflict of interest. "Now that we know the committee can't do the necessary legwork, we've decided to proceed with it ourselves," Brannen said.

Demands Resignations
In the Congressional races, William R. Hatchford, Democratic candidate in the Fifth District, called for the resignation of holdover economic advisers from the Nixon administration.

"Before you ask the American people to make sacrifices in the fight for a stable economy, the 'Nixon team' which drafted a game plan of inflation must be dismissed," Hatchford said in a telegram to the White House Friday.

Hatchford said Agriculture Secretary Earl Butts, chief economic adviser Alan Greenspan, budget director Roy Ash and Treasury Secretary William Simon should step down.

Mac Buckley, Republican candidate in the First District, wrote a letter to his opponent, Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., asking him to negotiate a settlement of new policies to resign as treasurer of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Turkish Issue Delays Recess of Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of Congress had expected to begin a month's vacation and start full time campaigning for the Nov. 5 elections today, but their plans were delayed by Congress' biggest fight so far with the Ford administration.

Both houses will be back Tuesday to try to settle the dispute.

The issue was whether to halt U.S. military assistance to Turkey. But the fight has drawn in some innocent bystanders—a group of federal departments including Labor, Agriculture and Health, Education and Welfare—which conceivably might lose their operating funds.

Losses First Round
Ford lost the first round in the showdown Friday when the House rejected on a 187-171 vote his request to suspend for 60 days an earlier congressional mandate to cut off military aid to Turkey.

Ford is expected to win the second round, however, when his scheduled veto of a funding resolution, carrying the aid cutoff mandate, comes to an override test in the House. House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill conceded that the two-thirds vote to override probably could be achieved.

Future Mideast Peace Discussed at Aqaba

AQABA, Jordan (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger flew into this Gulf of Aqaba resort within sight of Israel today to discuss the future of Arab-Israeli peace negotiations with King Hussein of Jordan.

Kissinger is on a one-week mission to the Middle East. U.S. officials said peace negotiations were not likely to begin for at least another two weeks, if then.

Vote-Making Session Under Way Today

It's still not too late to register to vote in the Nov. 5 election.

Today is the deadline for registration for this year's election, and Manchester's registrars of voters are conducting an all-day voter-making session in the town clerk's office at the Municipal Building, 41 Center St.

The session is to run until 8 tonight.

For citizens whose voter eligibility rights mature after today, there'll be a special voter-making session Nov. 4, from 9 a.m. to noon, in the town clerk's office.

The secretary of state arrived at Aqaba by helicopter at 1:10 p.m. (7:10 a.m. EDT) from a tourist visit to ancient Petra, "the rose-red city half as old as time," where for two hours he toured temples and tombs sculpted in red sandstone 2,000 years ago.

Rifal Former Student
Accompanied by Jordanian Premier-Foreign Minister Zaid Rifal, a former student of his at Harvard, he had flown to Petra early today from Amman, where he spent the night at King Hussein's Basman palace.

The first formal talks were scheduled at King Hussein's residence in Aqaba, a low white-washed villa set in a large garden. The villa is the closest building in Aqaba to the Israeli border, only about two miles from the Israeli port of Eilat.

The possibility of a Jordanian-Israeli agreement under which part of the West Bank of the River Jordan would be returned to Jordanian civil administration was one of the topics expected to be discussed by Kissinger and the king, diplomatic sources said.

Hussein Looks to U.S.
King Hussein looks to the United States as his main hope of recovering the West Bank of the Jordan River, which Israel occupied in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Hussein is being challenged by the Palestinian Liberation Organization, which seeks the territory as the nucleus of a Palestinian state.

Egypt and Syria have supported the PLO claim and have recognized the PLO as the sole representative of the Palestinians last month.

Business Tax Breaks Defended by Simon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon defended President Ford's proposed tax breaks for business Friday as the best way for people to "get goods at the lowest possible price."

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called the proposals a return to the policies of Herbert Hoover, president at the start of the Great Depression.

Defends Program
Simon told Congress' Joint Economic Committee that he thought Ford's proposal to boost the business investment tax credit from 7 to 10 per cent would act as an anti-inflationary incentive for increased production. He said Ford's program would induce corporations to increase output, curb inflation and ultimately benefit the consumer.

Raising the business tax credit was one of the major requests in Ford's economic message before Congress Tuesday.

Proxmire Disagrees
Committee chairman Proxmire disagreed strongly with Simon.

"He called Ford's tax proposals 'the old Herbert Hoover trickle down theory' of economics and said they would actually cost individual taxpayers $2.6 billion over five years while saving businessmen $12 billion."

Tax Called Mistake
Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, told television interviewers Ford had made a mistake proposing a tax increase before an election. "A lot of these fellows who are running close which on their hands will be committing themselves against that surtax, especially for the part between $15,000 and $25,000," Long said.

Industry Experts Believe Inflation Has Peaked

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI) — Industry economists say inflation may have already peaked at present double-digit levels and should decline to around 8 1/2 per cent next year, according to the Business Council.

The council, which serves as a kind of liaison between government and industry, said Friday that its members were optimistic progress would be made in curbing inflation and lowering high interest rates in 1975.

"Our consultants are projecting a relatively flat economic performance through the first half of 1975," said Richard G. Gerstenberg, former chairman of the board of General Motors.

Assuming no interruptions in available oil and gas, they (the economists) foresee no serious recession," he said. "On the contrary, they do see indications that the rate of inflation has passed its peak."

However, Gerstenberg warned that the optimistic predictions could be wrecked if coal miners strike this year or if any new shortages of oil or gasoline develop.

A coal strike, he said, could "devastate our nation's productive capacity in a matter of only a few weeks."

United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller warned that his union will strike Nov. 12 unless industry representatives agree to bargain the union's demands for greater safety and health provisions in good faith.

The economic experts have a "solid consensus that the nation will begin to see tangible progress" solving the nation's economic woes in 1975 despite predictions of higher unemployment and lower profits, he said.

President Ford's chief economist, Alan Greenspan, predicted Thursday that the present 12 per cent inflation would drop 2 or 3 per cent by spring.

Greenspan's report predicted inflation would fall to between 8 and 9 per cent by late 1975 averaging about 8.5 per cent for the year. The report predicted the Gross National Product (GNP) would fall 1 per cent in terms of 1973 dollars adjusted for inflation for the full year, that gross corporate profits would fall 4 per cent, and that unemployment would average around 6.25 per cent.
