

Eligible Voters Down by 1,025

By SOL COHEN

Manchester has 1,025 less eligible voters as of today than it had for the November 1972 election, figures released by the registrars of voters of five districts.

A total of 27,227 voters are eligible to cast ballots Nov. 5. The total was 28,252 in 1972. Democrats total 10,824 for this year's election, a drop of 138 from two years ago; Republicans total 8,694, a drop of 578; and unaffiliated 7,709, a drop of 201.

Manchester Democrats have increased their lead to 2,229 since 1972, when their lead was 1,682. The Democrats lead the Republicans in 8 of Manchester's 10 voting districts. Only in Voting District 4, Martin School on Dartmouth Rd.; and Voting District 5, Buckley School on Vernon St., do the Republicans lead the Democrats — by only 46 voters in District 4 and 69 in District 5.

The Democrats enjoy a 427-vote lead in District 1, Buckland School; 313 in District 2, Robertson School; 117 in District 3, Church of Christ, Lydall St.; 378 in District 6, Nathan Hale School; 323 in District 7, Wadwell School; 533 in District 8, Verplank School; 146 in District 9, Keeney St. School; and 97 in District 10, Manchester High School.

District 8 has the greatest number of voters, 3,513, and District 2 the next greatest, 3,383. District 3 has the least, 1,865, and District 9 is second lowest, 2,263.

The Democrats have 32.7 per cent of the total, the Republicans 31.5 per cent and the unaffiliated 28.8 per cent.

Those whose eligibility rights will have matured since Oct. 13 may register Nov. 4 from 9 a.m. to noon, in the town clerk's office. Those accepted as voters that day will be eligible to vote Nov. 5.

Futtner Tells GOP 'Get Out the Vote'

By SOL R. COHEN

"We certainly don't have an easy road to hoe and if we're going to win it, we've got to get out there and work," was the message given Manchester Republicans Wednesday night.

Fenton P. Futtner, GOP state central committeeman from the Fourth Senatorial District and the state's agricultural commissioner, spoke briefly at a meeting of the Manchester Republican Town Committee.

Futtner, who resides in South Windsor, said the Republican slogan has to be "Get Out the Vote." He predicted a low turnout Nov. 5, "far below normal for a gubernatorial election," and blamed it on the public's disenchantment with politics.

Urging several times, "Get Out the Vote," he told party workers to concentrate on the unaffiliated voters. "Those are the people we've got to get out."

Futtner praised the "no state income tax" issue raised by Robert Steele, GOP candidate for governor, and said he felt it wasn't exploited enough.

He left a pile of petitions, to be signed by people opposing a state income tax, and explained similar petitions are being distributed statewide. He said they will be given to Steele, who, "somewhere along the line will tell voters, 'Look at all the signatures we have opposing a state income tax.'"

Reports were given by the following candidates or spokespersons:

State Sen. David Odgaard, candidate for re-election in the Fourth Senatorial District: "Nothing comes easy and we've got to keep working at it. We know this election won't come easy but, if you remind people of the startling improvements in the state fiscal condition in the four short years we've been in control, they'll agree and they'll vote with us."

State Rep. Donald Genovesi for Wallace Irish Jr., candidate for Genovesi's 12th Assembly District seat: "We're not sitting on our hands in Manchester. We're all out working. It won't be easy but Wally will win in the 12th District. He's been knocking on doors. He's been on the issues."

Marion Taggart for State Rep. G. Warren Westbrook, candidate for re-election in the 14th Assembly District: "Fiscal responsibility and a common sense approach are Warren Westbrook's platform, and the voters know he is sincere and dedicated."

Carl Zinsser for Hillary Gallagher, candidate for judge of probate: "Hillary has been going door-to-door, doing all the things a candidate should do. He is being recognized and is receiving excellent receptions."

Harriet Haslett, candidate in the 13th Assembly District: "In all this campaigning time, I've heard nothing about my opponent, except for his well-worn ads. I feel a victory in my bones. That's why I'm putting so much energy as I can muster into my campaign."

Vivian Ferguson for Robert Steele, gubernatorial candidate: "We'd better get out there and hustle. I notice apathy among Democrats and Republicans alike. Our campaign in Manchester started slow, but is picking up steam."

Ray Thompson, co-coordinator for Steele: "It's gratifying to see so many people come out to help — people who never have worked in politics before."

Louise Cronin for F. Mac Buckley, candidate for First District congressman: "The results of the election appear encouraging. You'd better believe that I believe you'll see Buckley returned a winner."

Earl Odom for Marilyn England, candidate in the Ninth Assembly District: "Lynn has been seeing people in East Hartford (part of the district) and in Manchester, and she's getting the voter-recognition she needs."

Chris Dalamagas, candidate for Third District state senator, didn't speak, except to ask for some help in distributing his bumper stickers and literature.

Berte reminded the committee members, "We've got to get out the word, 'Make sure Nate (Nathan Agostinelli, candidate for lieutenant governor) is elected.' Let's not lose him. Let's elect him. He's for all the people of the state."

Each speaker was applauded warmly Wednesday night; however, the warmest applause was for Mary Fletcher, past president of the Manchester Republican Women's Club, and it was for non-political remarks.

After Berte and the committee members congratulated her on her birthday, she said, "I'm happy to be 51, because I thought I was 52, and it was a pleasant surprise. I'm happy, also, to be associated with Republicans, because they are socially concerned and they take a practical approach. I'm happy even to have my words made public."

Remarks on Bailey Split Republicans

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., has accused his own party's gubernatorial candidate of using "guilt by association innuendo" to attack the Democratic gubernatorial nominee and the state party chairmen.

Weicker Wednesday criticized as "improper" Robert H. Steele's reviving a 14-year controversy with a charge that Democratic Chairman John F. Bailey profited from the "illegal" sale of a downtown Hartford Electric Light Co. building.

Bailey labeled the charges "nonsense" and added, "The GOP tried in the 1962 campaign to make something out of the sale of the HELECO building, and they found nothing but an honest business transaction."

Steele, a Republican congressman, tried to tie the sale to Mrs. Grasso, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate. "It is the height of hypocrisy to hear Mrs. Grasso screaming about utility costs while her boss is lining his pockets like this."

Weicker, shown in a recent statewide poll to have more support among

Democrats and independents than within his own party, said Steele's charges were a "mistake."

"Bob has too much in the way of a good record to campaign on without engaging in guilt by association innuendo," he said. "I hope the voters don't fall for it."

"You will recall the thing I took Mr. (H.R.) Haldeman to task for was the attempt by the White House to associate Democrats with Communists and foreign money without the facts," said Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Steele said a corporation that includes Bailey "reaped a $2 million plus profit" in the 1960 purchase of the HELECO office at 288 Pearl St., in violation of state law because the sale had not been given prior approval by the Public Utilities Commission.

Bailey said "This nonsense about the old HELECO building we bought 14 years ago is

U.N. Saluted In Ceremony

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Beneath a bright blue sky, about 75 adults and children including the fourth grade classes from Verplank School endured the brisk temperature this morning to witness the 29th birthday of the United Nations observed in Center Park.

Dr. Frederick Lowe, president of Manchester Community College, saluted the United Nations as "not the formula for a perfect world, but surely the way found to a much better world for all the people of the world."

Dr. Lowe said he used to feel it necessary to apologize for the United Nations' failures to bring immediate peace and plenty to all the world. But he said he has become more "relaxed" in two ways.

First, he said, it seems senseless to expect more from the organization than it is structured to perform, and second, the organization has survived, has performed useful functions and will continue to perform highly valuable services for the world because "only it, in the world as it is constituted today, can perform them."

He compared the failure of the United Nations to bring instant peace to the failure of "our own federation of these United States, after 200 years, to end conflicts between the states and in ending poverty for all the citizens of those states."

However, in support of our government, Dr. Lowe said "we value the mechanism it provides for resolving conflicts between states and regions."

"We all know that it (our government) has helped our people to the highest standard of living in history," he said.

He reminded his listeners that the United Nations, "a looser kind of federation, with none of the sovereignty that has been granted to the United States by its member states, has so far presided over a period of no major world wars, and has greatly contributed to the health and welfare of the people of its member nations."

Although Dr. Lowe said the United Nations has not succeeded in producing a solution to the UN conferences on the law of the sea or the world population, nor would he predict a satisfactory solution to the world food conference next month, he said he reminds himself that neither has our own government found a solution to the nation's number one problem — inflation.

"The hopeful fact is," said Dr. Lowe, "that the United Nations exists; that it provides the mechanism whereby all nations of the world can and will come together to try to compromise and negotiate their special interests in the seas, in population, and in the production and distribution of food."

He acknowledged the United Nations has made some progress, and would make more in the future.

"A perfect, final solution will never be resolved any more than it has been after 200 years of the United States debate about the conflicting interests of states and regions over the basic issues of their citizens," said Dr. Lowe.

The U.N. Day program was complemented by musical selections performed by the Bennett Junior High School band directed by Michael Orfelli, and the Home and Table Singers of Manchester High School led by Miss Martha White.

The event was sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Town of Manchester.

"I salute the United Nations," says Dr. Frederick Lowe, president of Manchester Community College, as he addresses an audience this morning at Center Park in observation of the 29th anniversary of the United Nations. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Nurses Abandon Move for Union

Manchester Public Health Nurses are abandoning efforts to unionize.

Their decision, said unanimously endorsed, was accepted Wednesday by the director of Manchester Public Health Nursing Association, Inc. (MPHNA).

Staff nurses had petitioned in June for collective bargaining through the Connecticut Nurses Association.

The agency's directors also voted that a professional staff representative may attend meetings of the board and its personnel and policies committee as a non-voting participant.

That had been proposed by staff nurses Margaret Larabee and Karen Nash. The staff nurses' proposal to the board of directors stated, "We are in the process of withdrawing our petition for collective bargaining with CNA."

"We have decided to do this for two reasons:

"1. We feel it best for the agency that we work directly with each other and through Miss Austin or any executive director.

"2. It would serve no constructive purpose to dwell on issues of the past."

"It is our hope we can begin a new relationship starting now. We believe we would benefit from a better understanding of the work of the board of directors, and perhaps you feel as we do, you also would like to have a better understanding of our work."

"To begin this process," the staff memo continued, "we would like to extend an invitation to each board member to visit with a staff nurse on a selected number of visits and observe some of the other activities."

"To enhance the staff's understanding of the board's function and process, we would like to have the opportunity to attend the personnel and policies committee meetings and also board meetings. We feel that representation of the staff on a rotating basis would be most helpful to all."

"The members would be selected by the staff to represent them on a rotating basis, for example, for six months. No staff member would be eligible until she or he has been employed by this agency for at least six months. All staff nurses have reviewed and agreed with this proposal."

Mrs. Dorlan Shainin, president of the MPHNA board, reported that board members, in voting to concur with these proposals, also commended the spirit in which they were suggested by the staff.

"The members would be selected by the

Nurse Supervisor Selected

Mrs. Karen Reid of Manchester has been named supervisor of nurses for the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association, Inc.

The announcement was made at a meeting of the agency's board of directors Wednesday.

Mrs. Reid will succeed Mrs. Dorothy Gowett of Manchester who has submitted her resignation as of Nov. 30.

Mrs. Reid, 27, who will assume her duties Nov. 4, is a native of Manchester, a 1960 graduate of Manchester High School, and 1969 graduate of the University of Connecticut School of Nursing. She has been a part-time nurse at Manchester Memorial Hospital since May 1974.

The new supervisor of nurses served as a staff nurse for 2 1/2 years with the Visiting Nurses Association in New Haven where her experience included child health, school nursing, general staff work and team leader. She has served as staff nurse at University of Connecticut-McCook Hospital, and worked in public health at Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Reid is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Youell, 88 Harlan St. She lives with her husband, Sydney, and their 10-month-old daughter, Erika, at 600 Ambassador Dr. reasons for her resignation, adding she plans to retire to her home and family.

Mrs. Gowett has served as a nurse at Hartford Hospital and Manchester Memorial Hospital. A graduate of Champlain Valley School of Nursing, Plattsburg, N.Y., she received a B.S.

degree at University of Connecticut School of Nursing. She lives at 44 Deane St. with her husband, Francis, and daughter, Nancy. The Gowetts are also the parents of another daughter, Mrs. Dennis Vincent of Manchester, and a son, Edward, of Atlanta, Ga.

There are 40 policemen assigned to the case, including a State Police task force headed by James Shay, a lieutenant, who is as known for his determination as Ormsby is for his cool.

Although the 1969 slaying of Paget Waterbury, a University of Connecticut graduate student, remains unsolved, Shay doggedly spent two years on it and tied the killing into the murders of two female hitchhikers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Both have men assigned to finding a needle in a haystack: a 10-year-old car that was seen — without question — at the scene of the murders.

It is a white 1964 Pontiac Grand Prix with a damaged left front fender that may or may not have Connecticut license plates. Ormsby calls finding the car crucial to the investigation.

The two-door hardtop original model has a wrap-around front bumper which gives it

Lawsuit Filed

HARTFORD (UPI) — A $500,000 federal suit has been filed against the owner of a schooner that broke up during a storm off New Jersey. The suit, filed by parents of two young men who died in the incident, charged that the schooner owner, Cyril LaBregue, was responsible due to "negligent, careless and wrongful" actions.

More Arrests?

HARTFORD (UPI) — Police say they expect to make more arrests in a regional ring believed responsible for stealing weathervanes and other antiques. Two Hartford men were arrested Wednesday, and authorities said they have four arrest warrants outstanding for members of the theft ring, which operated in New England, New York, and as far west as Ohio and south to Pennsylvania.

Guilty Verdicts

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — A federal jury has returned guilty verdicts against three Black Liberation Army members charged with the May 3 robbery of the Westville branch of the New Haven Savings Bank. The three men — Harold Simmons and James Haskins of New York City and Michael Alston of New Jersey — still face state charges stemming from the $10,000 bank robbery.

Cop Suspended

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — A Wethersfield policeman, 32-year-old Michael Miller of Bloomfield, has been suspended for ten days after he accidentally fired his gun into a car stopped after a pursuit for motor vehicle violations. Authorities said the policeman's bullet narrowly missed the 16-year-old driver and shattered the windshield in the Oct. 9 incident.

Special Session Dead

HARTFORD (UPI) — Republican legislators have killed a Democratic proposal to convene a special session of the General Assembly before Election Day to consider bills dealing with rising utility costs. The legislature's Environment Committee will instead hold public hearings Nov. 8 on at least 25 bills aimed at reducing utility costs.

Bikers Shootout

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Shooting broke out near a motorcycle clubhouse Wednesday and resumed when members of the battling factions arrived at the same hospital with their wounded. Two men were hospitalized and a third was treated and discharged. Police arrested two men and seized a variety of weapons.

Cupcakes for UNICEF

Bentley School students are observing their annual cupcake sale in the school corridor to benefit UNICEF. Room mothers assisting with the sale are Mrs. John Flynn, right foreground, and Mrs. Joseph Balfore, left rear. The cupcakes were donated for the Wednesday sale by the third grade classes of Mrs. Gertrude Wolf and Mrs. Patricia Jones. For about 12 years, the Grade 3 classes have culminated a study unit of the United Nations with this sale. About $50 was collected from the sale, not counting extra donations and the sale of leftovers. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Last Bike Ride Listed Sunday

The last scheduled bike ride of the year sponsored by the local group of American Youth Hostel bikers will leave from the parking lot by the Mary Cheney Library Sunday at 10 a.m.

The ride will go about 20 miles total. All riders should bring a lunch and non-members should bring their 25-cent donation.

Helmuth Beutel, Manchester coordinator who lives at 59 Oakwood Rd., expressed his thanks to all bikers and ride leaders for a pleasant season.

Three Now Under Arrest In Vandalism at Cemetery

Three teenagers have now been charged with vandalism to monuments in St. James Cemetery Oct. 1. A young girl has been referred to juvenile authorities and two youths have been turned over to the courts. The most recent arrest was made Friday, Oct. 18 by police in Cambridge, Md. William Street, 18, of 41 Cedar St. was visiting relatives there when he was arrested and charged with being a fugitive from justice, police said.

Leaves Hospital

NEW YORK (UPI) — Margaret "Happy" Rockefeller, wife of vice president-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, leaves the hospital today after just one week of recuperating from a recent breast surgery. The case is still under investigation, Det. Capt. Joseph Sartor said when asked if more arrests are expected. The news of the nearly 100 stones being pushed down at the cemetery made all area papers and TV and radio for days afterwards. Sartor said this large amount of publicity made people refuse to talk to police about it. Damage and cost of resetting the stones has been estimated at over $2,000.

Merits of Proposed Charter Debated

BOLTON

Donna Holland Correspondent 644-0375

Six members of the charter commission met Wednesday to review comments made at a public hearing Tuesday and in some instances to make changes in its proposed draft of the town's first charter.

About 30 residents attended the hearing and 12 of the 13 charter commission members were present. Harold Laws, chairman of the commission, opened the hearing by giving a complete review of the commission since its original appointment in the spring of 1973 through to the completion of the draft of the charter.

Laws said, "The commission has prepared a charter it feels is appropriate to the town." He said it attempted to draft a charter that did not deviate too much from the way the town presently operates.

Virginia Butterfield, at the inception of the hearing, challenged the commission's right to present the charter in its proposed form. She felt the charter should be voided and a new commission appointed. She said if it couldn't be voided and if by any chance it was approved, "I strongly urge the selectmen to consider the immediate appointment of a charter revision commission."

Ahearn said the finance board approved the charter as concerns the finance board except for having a board of six members with not more than three from any one political party and allowing town boards to transfer funds among budget categories in excess of 10 per cent of such categories without the board's approval.

At its meeting the CC approved changing to minority representation for the board, a six-member board with a maximum of four members from any one political party. Laws did not agree with the change but went along with the other members.

The members at length discussed the 10 per cent transfer of funds. They agreed to omit their board definition of categories and allow the finance board to define categories. The members did not change the 10 per cent transfer.

James Grunste, CC member, said it was okay for the finance board to be a watchdog over the budgets but that to nitpick was ridiculous.

Phillip Dooley and Robert Gorton, members of the Zoning Commission and Planning Commission respectively, objected very strongly to their respective boards being combined. Residents both agreed and disagreed with the proposal.

The commission approved leaving the two commissions combined. It said if there proved to be too much work for it to handle, additional members could be added.

The commission submitted to a pointed out omission of alternate members of the Planning and Zoning Commission. The CC agreed to change the annual town budget meeting to the second Monday in May in lieu of its proposed second Monday in June.

ALTERNATE MEMBERS

Catherine Peterson, treasurer, pointed out if for any reason the budget was not approved it would be mechanically impossible to get the tax bills out.

Also as concerns the annual town budget meeting many residents and charter commission members alike felt it was a good requirement to have a quorum equal to 2/3 per cent of total electors to approve the budget, but felt it would be impossible.

The CC approved changing the requirement to read a quorum of not less than 50 qualified voters must approve the budget.

The CC approved revising the Public Building Commission to seven members with six year terms instead of six members with four-year terms.

The CC made several other

High School to Observe Education Week

COVENTRY Monica Shea Correspondent 742-9495

Coventry High School will be observing American Education Week during the week of Oct. 22.

Open House will be held at the school from 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday evening. Parents are advised to pick up their student's schedules in homerooms at 7 p.m. With these schedules parents will be able to follow a typical day in their student's school life.

The school library will be holding a paperback book fair which will be open to the public on Oct. 28, 29 and 30.

The hours for the fair are Monday evening from 7 to 9; Tuesday from 7:30 a.m. to noon and from 2 to 3 p.m.; Wednesday from 7:30 a.m. to noon. Or parents may visit the fair during the study hall indicated on their student's schedule.

Appointment sheets will be available in each classroom for parents to set up future conferences with the teachers.

The 4-H Achievement Night program will be held tonight at the Capt. Nathan School at 6:30. The evening will commence with a potluck supper provided by each family group. After dinner the Coventry 4-H Fair Association, Melsody Goble, president, will conduct the awards and recognition program. Certificates will be awarded for participating in enrolled programs.

Recognition will be given to members for achievement and leadership for service.

The final event of the evening will be the distribution of fair premium awards.

Corporation Explains Subdivision

Monica Shea Correspondent 742-9495

The Planning and Zoning Commission held a hearing last night on the application of the Coventry Development Corporation for a three-lot subdivision on land on Rt. 31 where the corporation is proposing to build an industrial park. No decision was made.

The land involved is approximately 25 acres which is bordered by Rt. 31 and the Willimantic River. The corporation attorney, Richard Cromie, told the commission that the 12 acres of the property directly bordering on the Arthur Vinton, former first selectman.

If the corporation receives the subdivision approval, lot 5 will be sold to Elliot Namos for a light industrial assembly plant and warehouse. Namos indicated to the commission last night that he plans on employing between 20 and 25 people in the 6,000-square foot building and if all goes well he could possibly, at some future date, double the number of employees.

Lot 4 is earmarked for a veterinarian who would be employing three people besides himself in a 6,000-square-foot building.

Cromie declined to mention who the occupant would be for the other lot, number 3.

Cromie told the commission that the corporation's marketing studies indicated that one-acre lots would best meet the needs of small businessmen who would be interested in locating in the area.

No one attending the meeting spoke for or against the proposed subdivision.

OPINION

From the Top Down
Or the Bottom Up?

The exchange between incumbent Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, Democrat, and his Republican challenger, James Brannen III, the other day points out one of the underlying reasons members of Congress seemingly are reluctant to step into any leadership vacuum.

In defending substantial financial aid to his campaign from out-of-state contributors, Sen. Ribicoff said he was proud that his stands on the issues were attracting national support.

His feeling that these same issues were of equal importance to the people of Connecticut, his constituents, is not accepted by Brannen, who interpreted the outside support as meaning the senator was placing state interests second in his role as a national spokesman.

This is what campaign issues are made of, especially when a relatively unknown seeks to unseat an incumbent with decades of public service at all levels of government.

The exchange points out, however, that no matter how strongly a person feels about certain issues and how much he tries to translate action on these issues into meaning for his constituents, he can become vulnerable to charges of "who is watching the store," meaning serving his constituents more provincial needs while he attempts to provide leadership on a national scale concerning some problems.

Sen. Ribicoff has not hesitated to attempt to provide leadership for causes, which may or may not have the same priorities at home that he has nationally. That Congress, as a whole, does not produce many such personalities indicates that more of them fear the fate that befell Sen.

Close To The Throne

MIAMI, Fla. — It was quite a gaggle of men who were close to the presidential throne of Richard Nixon. Three of the powerful group are on trial now in Washington, perhaps the men who had the greatest influence under him — John Mitchell, H. R. (Bob) Haldeman and John Ehrlichman. They were not the men who were in any real sense his advisers, except Mitchell for a time. Nixon was pretty sure about where he wanted to go and why. They men he used were there as a ways and means committee to carry it out.

And of course we must add Bebe Rebozo, the man around whom mystery still clings and with whom the law hasn't yet caught up. In the current Watergate trial the government contends that John Mitchell sent Frederick LaRue to Miami, Fla., to pick up $50,000 in cash from Rebozo, half of it to pay the original Watergate burglars. From time to time, we get tantalizing glimpses of what Richard Nixon and Bebe Rebozo may have talked about during those sailing days out of Key Biscayne.

The chances are strong that, of the whole group, Nixon was more comfortable with Rebozo than with any of the others. The Nixon biographers, burrowing into his life, have always been puzzled by what drew this unlikely pair together. The answer seems to be a common secretiveness and hidden money.

The question of who stands close to the throne has always been a fascinating one for President-watchers. Unlike Thomas Jefferson, who had no intimate, Andrew Jackson had so many in his "Kitchen Cabinet" that none was really an intimate. Abraham Lincoln had no one. Theodore Roosevelt, who was a talking and writing man, liked to have an intellectual group around him, but none was close to his decisions. Woodrow Wilson had Col. Edward House — man of affairs, novelist, amateur diplomat — but quarreled with him and, after his stroke, his second wife, Edith Bolling, was almost queen regent. Warren Harding had Harry Daugherty and his gang, who pulled Harding deeper into the mud than he may have wanted to go. Franklin D. Roosevelt had Louis Howe, the newspaperman who shepherded him into the White House and then — quite apart from his famed Brain Trust — he had the abiding figure of Harry Hopkins, who started as a social worker and became as authentic a presidential confidant as any in American history.

Harry Truman had his cronies, in the sense of small-town familiar, not in the sinister Harding sense. But I suspect that in the end Harry relied more on the judgment of his wife, Bess, than anyone else's. Dwight Eisenhower had his golf companions. But I doubt whether he carried his Presidency to the links; More likely he left it to his staff chiefs, John Foster Dulles and Sherman Adams.

John Kennedy was surrounded by intellectuals and by his "Irish Mafia," but neither group was as close to his purposes, his means, his mind processes as his brother, Bobby, was. Lyndon Johnson had

OPEN FORUM

UNICEF

To the editor:
It is that time of the year again and soon we will be asked to give to UNICEF. I am sure that we all share concern for all needy children in the world, but I am just as sure that we would not be willing to support UNICEF if we all realized how it has repeatedly assisted the Communists in their drive to enslave the world.

The Communists have had a keen interest in UNICEF since its inception, which is illustrated by the fact that its very first chairman was Ludwig Rajchmann, a Communist from Soviet-controlled Poland. When he was subpoenaed in 1967 by the Senate Judiciary Committee to answer questions about his connections with Communist agent Alger Hiss, Rajchmann fled this country rather than appear before the committee.

In 1962 the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee published a 434-page document entitled Activities of United States Citizens Employed by the United Nations, in which it revealed that "startling evidence has disclosed infiltration into the UN of an overwhelmingly large group of disloyal U.S. citizens, many of whom are closely associated with the international Communist movement... Their positions at the time we subpoenaed them were ones of trust and responsibility in the UN Secretariat and in its specialized agencies." Continued Communist determination to influence UNICEF activities is reflected in the fact that Communist representation on UNICEF's Executive Board has nearly doubled over the last two years.

The Communist permeation of UNICEF helps explain the strange ways in which this "charitable" organization spends its money. As the McGraw-Hill Education Committee for Public Affairs has pointed out: "The United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund appropriated $59 million between 1947 and 1956 to Communist countries. In a ratio not unlike that of the other UN ventures, the United States has furnished approximately $42 million of the money. Also, as with any aid program, the assistance does not go to the needy but is administered through governments." And as any refugee from Communist dictatorship will be glad to tell you, food and medicine are used by the Communists as political weapons to keep people under subjection.

In 1962 an important national Catholic weekly, The Wanderer, prepared a flyer about UNICEF. It contained the following: "As for Catholic spokesmen who in recent years have taken a stand against participating in UNICEF 'tick or treat,' only a few weeks ago we wrote to Mr. Edward J. Goebel, Milwaukee archdiocesan superintendent of schools, asking him, when Milwaukee schools still do not participate in the UNICEF Halloween program, and if not, would he please state his reasons.

Mr. Goebel's reply, dated Sept. 8, 1962, was as follows. He writes: 'Our opposition to the UNICEF organization was based on the protest of several of our former Catholic Army chaplains who maintain the UNICEF proceeds were not contributed to youth, but rather that they were taken up by the Communists in the countries.'"

In short, UNICEF has repeatedly supported the policy of submit or starve."

Breath Test For Cancer Under Study

RICHMOND (UPI) — A breath test taken after digestion of a radioactive capsule has determined various stages of cancer, according to researchers at the Medical College of Virginia.

The test, conducted with a capsule made of butter fat and the radioactive carbon-14, was developed by Dr. Giovanna Costa of the Health Sciences Division at MCV, and was scheduled for discussion today at the 11th International Cancer Congress in Florence, Italy.

While still in the experimental stage, the quick, inexpensive breath test has been performed on about 160 persons separated into four groups: those with cancer; those with diseases other than cancer; healthy individuals; and those with nondiagnosed disorders.

The patients were given the capsules, and 24 hours later a sample of their exhaled breath was analyzed for content of radioactive carbon dioxide.

Amounts of radioactive carbon above a certain threshold seemed to indicate the presence of tumors in the body, according to test results.

The patients were not have been convinced that the FBI not employed five wiretaps — none approved by a federal judge. Yet his guilt was plain. Even his defense counsel did not argue he was innocent, but only that the investigation was conducted in violation of the Fourth Amendment. The Third U.S. Court of Appeals last March 3 upheld Ivanov's conviction, ruling that neither the Constitution nor any federal law required the government to obtain court authorization in foreign intelligence cases.

Well, maybe the Court of Appeals was wrong. It is irrelevant. Much as the private citizen might inveigh against an invasion of privacy, he is not going to present a bill that would make it harder to catch another Igor A. Ivanov.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

WASHINGTON — It is not surprising that the career moralizers in politics and in the media are expressing outrage over the Supreme Court's refusal to consider whether U.S. government agents must obtain court warrants to use wiretaps in cases involving espionage by foreign powers.

As a people, I suspect we wish to believe not only in our purity but in our innocence. Wiretapping to obtain information about criminals, domestic and foreign, is not nice. It's an invasion of privacy, even if sanctioned by a judge, and that means it jars the Constitution's Fourth Amendment's ban on unreasonable searches and seizures.

But wiretapping in espionage cases is also necessary, on the grounds that every effort must be made to thwart a foreign power's attempts to subvert and, perhaps eventually, to destroy the Republic. That quiet property is called protecting the national security. Most of us — at least privately — go along with that proposition; we just don't like to discuss it.

Although nobody can detect what is in the minds of members of a Supreme Court from a routine three-sentence memorandum that refuses without explanation to review a case, I suggest the majority decided against the possible peril of meddling with our counterintelligence system. The memo, of course, did not approve wiretapping in espionage cases. But it did say simply that the Court was not interested in studying the matter.

This figures. Despite the Nixon administration's abuse of the term, national security still has a convincing, magical ring to it. Nobody is against national security, only against using national security as an excuse for the abuse of power. Obviously, five members of the Supreme Court decided no abuse of power was involved. In doing so, they had accepted the fact that the spy does not operate in the relatively open manner of the mugger or rapist, and thus special measures are required to trap him.

In short, the issue boils down to a maddening simplification which nevertheless explains a fact of international life: Everybody does it, why shouldn't we? A foreign agent's telephone must be tapped, just as an American agent's phone is tapped. We can't give the other side points in the utility game of espionage.

That is why there is little chance Congress will legislate to require warrants for intelligence taps and to establish rules for obtaining them. Such legislation is now being studied by the Federal Wiretap Commission, a child of Congress, and is the continuing subject of debate on Capitol Hill. But I don't believe there are enough members of Congress willing to put shackles on our counterintelligence operation. The folks back home may abhor the need to tap a foreign spy's phone but few of them reject the need.

Indeed the case involved in the Supreme Court's decision emphasized that need. Igor A. Ivanov, a chauffeur at the Soviet Embassy, was convicted in 1964 of charges that he had obtained secrets about an electronic control system being developed for the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

The patients were not have been convinced that the FBI not employed five wiretaps — none approved by a federal judge. Yet his guilt was plain. Well, maybe the Court of Appeals was wrong. It is irrelevant. Much as the private citizen might inveigh against an invasion of privacy, he is not going to present a bill that would make it harder to catch another Igor A. Ivanov.

Jury Picking Semantics

Trial juries in the United States have customarily been drawn from lists of qualified voters in the jurisdiction of the court in which the trial is being held.

This was based on the premise that a person who is a voter meets the qualifications of citizenship, is a responsible person and has some sense of civic responsibility.

A Los Angeles Superior Court judge, in response to a challenge from defense attorneys, has ruled, however, that the method of choosing jurors denies poor people what he interprets as their constitutional right to a jury selected from a cross section of their community.

We know of no legal provision that specifies "cross section of their community" as a criterion in empanelling a jury.

The strange ruling arises from the knowledge that the "poor" fail to vote, even though their right to do so is guaranteed by the constitution, both as to minorities and as to sex.

There is some sociological semantics employed in the reasoning which led to the judge's ruling. The word "poor" does not mean exactly what it says, but rather means minority principally black, or Spanish-speaking.

The same type of semanticism was used by the SLA when it extorted food from the father of Patty Hearst as a condition for her promised release.

While it was specified the food was to be given to the "poor" the areas chosen for distribution showed that the food really was to go to minorities, and that the word "poor" was not used in its strict meaning of comparatively low economic status.

The case involves three "poor" young black defendants who are charged with assaulting policemen with deadly weapons. The judge, Sherman W. Smith, 52, is also black, and was elevated to the superior court from the municipal bench by former Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The theory in the ruling, if allowed to stand, and followed to a logical conclusion, would complicate the problem of jury selection immensely.

It would be considered an injustice to a defendant and violation of his rights, if the jury did not include a representative proportion of people in his income bracket. Thus a man with an income of $100,000 per year would suffer legal deprivation, if his jury did not include a good cross section of his economic peers.

Among his findings, Judge Smith noted that 5.4 per cent of the impelled jurors in the county earn less than $5,000 annually, while 15.9 per cent earn less than that amount.

In another finding which clearly would establish two grades of justice the judge stated, "Citizens of a defendant's class are more likely to have knowledge of their customs and problems. This input is invaluable in evaluating the environment in which the alleged crime occurred and in determining the issue of guilt or innocence in the context thereof."

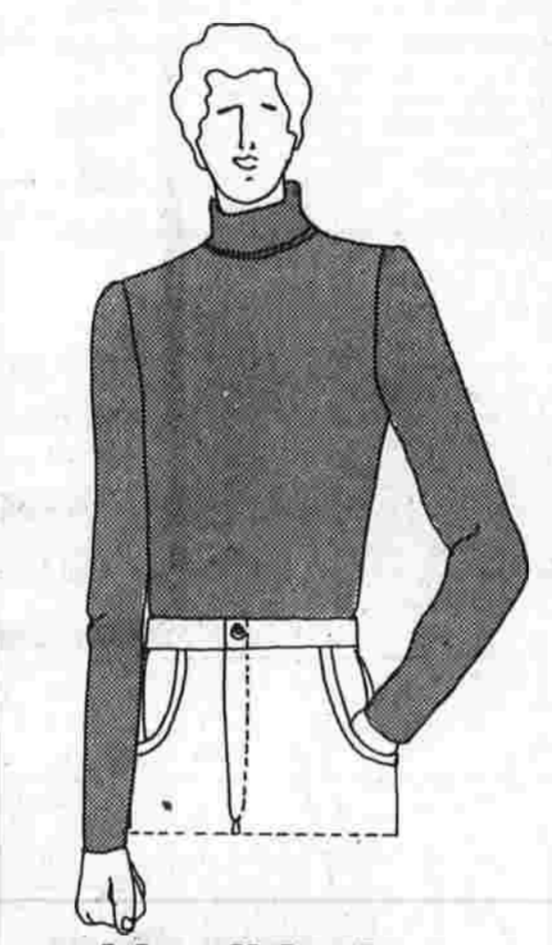

The conclusion is inescapable, in that reasoning, that what may be a crime in one neighborhood may not be considered a crime in another no matter what the statutes may say.

The challenge of the defense and the judge's reasoning in this instance is an example of sociological proposal of a pluralistic society and class status which is contrary to basic concepts of Americanism.

School Bus Routes Worked Out Again

COVENTRY
Monica Shea
742-9495
Lillian Robbins, local manager of the Massachusetts Bus Company, informed the Board of Education Tuesday that new school bus routes have been worked out and that these new routes should correct the problem of children being on the buses so long. These routes have been designed to run with the same number of buses that the town has already contracted for.

The high school will open 15 minutes early at 7:30 instead of 7:45.

The new routes will be submitted to the principals at all four schools for approval before the new schedules go into effect Oct. 31, Thursday.

Duncan McDougal, president of the Massachusetts Bus Company, appeared before the board for one-and-one-half hour executive session before the general meeting began. McDougal assured the board that the management problems have been corrected and indicated to the board that his company would be willing to use one of its own buses at company cost to try other routing if that could be the problem with the routing.

Representatives of the Coventry Education Association sent a letter to the board indicating they would like immediate action on the bus problems because the children's education was being disrupted.

Lionel Jean Jr., co-chairman of the CEA, told the board last night that with the new schedules the board is still experimenting and he did not hear the bus company say it would guarantee these new routes would work.

McDougal said, "It wouldn't be fair to all those involved to say that these schedules will work. We are going to try. After the new schedules are implemented there may be changes necessary."

Committee Reactivated
In response to citizen pressure, the board reactivated the transportation committee to examine the performance of the contractor and to make recommendations to the board.

Any of the old transportation committee members interested in serving again are advised to contact Tony Felice and any other interested in serving on the board should contact the central office.

The first meeting of the committee will be on Monday, Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the library of the Capt. Nathan Hale School.

Rose Fowler represented the Town Council at that meeting and told the board that the council will request that chief of police investigate the possibility of installing flashing lights on Daley Rd. and Oak Grove, Bellevue, North River Rd. and Riley Mountain Rd., South St. and South River Rd. and Springle Ave. and Rt. 31 to warn motorists that these are dangerous school bus stops and to be prepared to stop.

The buses were inspected on Tuesday and the seating didn't conform on any of the buses, and the brakes had to be fixed on one bus. The "School Bus" signs have not yet been fixed to the top of the vans that are being used as school buses.

It was also brought out that Mrs. Robbins had once again been driving a school bus. She indicated to the board that she will soon be advertising for additional bus drivers she can use as substitutes when one of the regular drivers is out.

Mrs. Sue Brainard of the Building and Grounds Committee reported that she had received the report from Griswold and Pass report is 65 pages long.

Mrs. Brainard said that in her opinion the pitch of the driveway is too steep.

Dr. Donald Hardy reported to the board that there will be one half reimbursement from the state for the driveway.

The board will co-sponsor a welcoming reception for Dr. Arnold Gilman new school superintendent, with the teachers.

Talcott House Museum To Close Nov. 1

VERNON
The Talcott House Museum, 68 Prospect St., Rockville, operated by the Vernon Historical Society, will close for the season on Nov. 1 and will reopen May 15.

The society said the closing is in accordance with the custom of historical museums in New England and with President Ford's request to conserve all possible for this winter.

However, groups such as classes or scout troops, wishing a tour in the regular hours, 2 to 4 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays, may make special arrangements by calling Sue Connel, 875-3260.

Among the things currently on display are many items from the old Rockville mills, and a group of photos and mementos from long-gone social events in Rockville. New exhibits will be on view when the museum reopens in mid-May.

Any of the old transportation committee members interested in serving again are advised to contact Tony Felice and any other interested in serving on the board should contact the central office.

The first meeting of the committee will be on Monday, Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the library of the Capt. Nathan Hale School.

Dr. Donald Hardy reported to the board that there will be one half reimbursement from the state for the driveway.

The board will co-sponsor a welcoming reception for Dr. Arnold Gilman new school superintendent, with the teachers.

Spelling Bee
The Skinner Road School PTO will sponsor an old-fashioned spelling bee, Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Dr. Daniel Woolwich, a member of the Board of Education, will serve as "Bee Master," assisted by Donald Edwood, principal of the school.

During the evening tickets will be sold for a Thanksgiving basket and entertainment will be provided by the Jug Band of First Congregational Church, Vernon.

Church Bazaar
The Women's Guild of St. Bernard Church, Rockville, will sponsor its annual holiday bazaar, Nov. 8 and 9, at the church.

Anyone having items to donate to the White Elephant table should contact Mrs. Lorraine Marnuska, 875-1046.

The Vernon Recreation Department will sponsor coed badminton games Tuesday night from 8 to 10 at the Vernon Center Middle School.

This event is open to men and women 18 years of age or older. Persons may bring their own racquets or may borrow those furnished by the Recreation Department. Shuttlecocks will be furnished.

Beginners as well as advanced players are invited to attend.

Women's Volleyball
There are still openings for two teams to play in the Women's Volleyball league sponsored by the Recreation Department. Plans call for the league to operate as an eight-team league. Anyone interested in entering a team should call the recreation office as soon as possible. Individuals may also call to be assigned to a team. Practice teams have been assigned practice times and

OCTOBER 24 SHOULD BE PROCLAIMED A DAY OF SHAME

In October 1971 - on the 26th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations - the UN voted to expel the Republic of China and to seat instead the regime of Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai. Thus, the greatest mass murderers in human history were welcomed to this world body.

At least 64 million human beings have died at the hands of the Red Chinese tyrants. Thousands more are dying in America from Red China's principle export - heroin. For this reason, and many more, we believe it is time to Get US Out of the United Nations and declare October 24 a Day Of Shame.

COVENTRY

Monica Shea
742-9495
The Planning and Zoning Commission once more postponed consideration of the DevCo application for a zone change until the Town Attorney, Abbot Schwebel, can give the commission an opinion on a suggestion of DevCo Attorney John LaBelle that the commission meet with DevCo officials to consider the technical aspects of the applications and possibly suggest changes in the submitted applications.

LaBelle told Schwebel that he would not consider any discussions held with the commission as prejudicial and that all discussions would take place in open meetings.

Peter Libassi, president of DevCo, explained to the commission DevCo's basic policy on the application.

"We want to afford the commission and the public an opportunity to fully study the application and at the same time we are aware that it is not in the town's best interest to prolong this issue. We want to get a conclusion of the matter as soon as possible. We also felt it would not be fair to ask you to approve a zone regulation without showing you what we were planning to do. We want you to know what you are getting yourself into of you accept the regulation."

Atty. John FitzGerald, representing the three anti-DevCo groups, Committee for the Preservation of Coventry, Concerned Citizens of Tolland

County and Coventry Opposing With Specialists, told the commission, "This is the largest single issue this town will have to decide in a long time. The commission is controlled and governed by law and is limited in its actions by law. You must consider the application under the procedures outlined by state statutes. If you step out of these bounds you are committing a great error. A hearing on a pre-approved application is no hearing at all to me. You must give the public a hearing on the application that has been filed. LaBelle has implied that you could separate the principal of the application from the technical matters. Such involvement by the commission is utterly improper. What you should do is accept the whole application and set a public hearing on it. It would be a charade to amend the zoning ordinance to allow a new community and then deny DevCo the right to put their land in the new community zone."

LaBelle told Schwebel that he would not consider any discussions held with the commission as prejudicial and that all discussions would take place in open meetings.

Ford's Open Administration: Goofs as Well as Triumphs

By GENE CARLSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There's one big problem in setting up an "open administration." People can see the goofs as well as the triumphs.

And while the triumphs of the young Ford administration have been few, there have been plenty of misuses.

These are not policy decisions subject to bipartisan debate, such as the pardon for former President Richard M. Nixon and the conditional amnesty for Vietnam War resisters.

Rather, they are errors of fact, broken lines of communications, errors and frustrated newsmen who report what the administration is doing and have confused many Americans trying to understand it for themselves.

Ford's economic message was a case in point.

The turning point of that speech was Ford's plan to levy a one-year, 5 per cent surtax on middle- and upper-income persons in 1975.

As Ford candidly noted, this is a politically dangerous card to play just one month before congressional elections, especially when the Republican Party has its back to the wall in dozens of key races, according to most polls.

Nonetheless, Ford felt the tax was crucial to his anti-inflation package and he believed most Americans would support it if they realized exactly what it would cost.

To that end, the Treasury Department prepared a fact sheet for reporters noting, in part, that an average family of four earning $20,000 a year would pay an extra $128 due to the surcharge.

At his Rose Garden press conference the next day, Ford said the added tax bite for the same-sized family with the same income would be $42.

Which figure was right? Both were, depending on whether the tax is figured from "adjusted gross income" in Ford's example or "taxable income" in the Treasury fact sheet.

But these are technicalities which few but accountants understand and newspaper readers, editors and reporters bombarded the White House press office for an explanation.

A new list based on average annual income, a figure most taxpayers understand, was quickly published but too late to eliminate most of the confusion.

Ford dug himself deeper into a hole at the same news conference by explaining that his surtax would affect only 28 per cent of all taxpayers. That raised some eyebrows because Treasury Secretary William E. Simon had told reporters the day before that it was 38 per cent of all tax returns.

Simon was right and since the 28 million returns that will be subject to the surtax cover roughly 60 million people, Ford's statistics were misleading.

Did the President simply miff the figure under the pressure of the news conference or was he given bad information by his staff? The answer is unclear but there is more evidence that the Oval Office routine needs smoothing out.

Sirica May Call Nixon As Witness of the Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica raised the possibility Wednesday that former President Richard M. Nixon may be called as a witness of the court in the Watergate cover-up trial so none of the lawyers would have to vouch for his truthfulness.

Nixon's name was raised in an exchange between Sirica and Assistant Special Prosecutor James Neal about the credibility of some of the future witnesses. The jury was out of the courtroom at the time.

Sirica earlier told the jury that whenever the prosecution or the defense calls a witness, those lawyers normally vouch for the truthfulness of his testimony.

But Neal said there was "some concern" among the prosecution that their witnesses might not be telling the whole truth.

"That could happen," Sirica told Frates. "I'm not saying it will happen. In that case, nobody would have to vouch for his credibility."

William Frates, a lawyer for defendant John D. Ehrlichman, then raised Nixon's name, suggesting that the former President might be called as court witness to avoid credibility problems. Nixon has been subpoenaed to testify by both the prosecution and the defense.

But Neal said there was "some concern" among the prosecution that their witnesses might not be telling the whole truth.

Vision, Hearing Clinic

Manchester Public Health Nursing Association, Inc. will sponsor a free vision and hearing clinic for children Oct. 31 from 9 a.m. to noon at Temple Beth Shalom, E. Middle Tpk.

The clinic will rescreen those children who failed or were too young to be successfully tested at the last clinic held in June. Appointments are now being made for these children. There will be some openings for children between the ages of three and five who have never been screened before.

To arrange for an appointment, call the MPHNA office at 649-5389 through Friday or at 647-1481, the agency's new quarters, as of Monday, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Commuter Bus Passes Available in Town

Heritage Savings and Loan Association of Manchester and First Federal Savings and Loan Association of East Hartford are cooperating with the Connecticut Department of Transportation (DOT) by offering for sale monthly commuter bus passes.

The Manchester and East Hartford institutions are among a number of financial institutions throughout the state which are selling the passes at 42 banking locations in 25 communities.

The passes, good on Connecticut Co. buses from 6 to 9:30 a.m. and 3 to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, sell for $17 a month for 50-cent fare zones and $14 a month for 35-cent fare zones.

Sale of the monthly passes has picked up considerably since they first went on sale in December 1973, according to the DOT. In the first month, 17 passes were sold. The figures for this month show a sale of 2,022 passes.

POPULATION CHANGE July 1, 1973 - July 1, 1974

Map Indicates Population Growth

The population of southern and western states continued rapid growth from July 1, 1973 to July 1, 1974 while declines in six states produced a slowing trend in the Northeast and Midwest. The population for the nation as a whole is estimated at 211.4 million, an increase of 1.9 million in the past year. (UPI map)

Arizona, Florida Lead in Growth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rhode Island the only loser in the four-year period. Arizona, Florida, Nevada, Colorado and Alaska showed the largest gains since the last census.

Population growth in the South and West nearly doubled the national average of 4 per cent.

The Midwest states increased 1.7 per cent while the Northeast remained almost unchanged with a growth rate of 0.8 per cent.

Rhode Island's four-year loss of 1.3 per cent was caused in part by the closing of the Quonset Point Navy base and the subsequent loss of 19,000 military and 9,000 civilian residents.

The bureau has estimated the total population at 211.4 million as of July 1, and increase of 1.6 million in the past year and 8.2 million since 1970.

Besides New York, Rhode Island and the District of Columbia, population losses in the past year were recorded in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Iowa. Illinois had the largest one-year decline, losing 45,000 residents from its 1973 estimated population of 11.2 million. California remains the nation's largest state with an estimated population of 20.9 million. Despite recent decline, New York remains second with 18.1 million, followed by Texas, 12 million, and Pennsylvania, 11.8 million.

Sports Night at BA Club Honors Ball Club of '49

By Earl Yost

"I'll guarantee you that this will not be the last Sports Night," John Keane, president of the British-American Club, told a near-capacity turnout for the initial event last night at the clubhouse.

The idea of Fran Mahoney, who served as general chairman, turned into one of the finest sports programs in Manchester in years.

True, it was a night of reminiscing, as Hal Turkington and John Hedlund did so eloquently, and guest speaker Ed Daly was never better. Turkington, who served as unofficial business manager, scorer and publicist for the BA baseball team which won state and regional semi-pro honors and a trip to the National Tournament in Wichita, Kan. 25 years ago, traced many interesting highlights of the trip. Hedlund, who banded together the squad which dominated the now defunct Manchester Twilight League for four years, reached back into memoryland to relive events of the 40s.

Daly, who specializes in "down-East" humor, was never better and he had the crowd of 250 rolling in the aisles for nearly an hour. The longer he spun the yarns, the more he got. He would be welcomed back with open arms at any future date.

Members of that 1949 tribe championship squad on hand to take bows were Walter Ford, John Greene, Cliff Keene, Mike Saverick, Hayden Griswold, Dick Cobb, Cal Lyles, Charlie Varrick and Jackie Hedlund, the little mascot who grew up into a successful bank official.

The program was dedicated in the memory of Arthur Pongratz, who promoted baseball and basketball in Manchester during the glory years, following World War II, until death struck unexpectedly. Mr. Pongratz' father, 91-year-old Stephen Pongratz was on hand to receive a resolution from Mahoney, who capably served as master of ceremonies. Sharing the limelight were the late Mr. Pongratz' two handsome sons, Steve and Arthur Jr., as well as his brothers, Joseph and Steve.

John Sullivan, who was closely associated with the late Mr. Pongratz at Hamilton Standard for nearly two decades, recalled several incidents in their relationship in upgrading the athletic program at Hamilton and in Manchester.

This writer also spoke briefly. It's 12 months away but already the wheels have been put into motion to honor another of the successful British-American athletic teams of another era, the late Mr. Pongratz' two handsome sons, Steve and Arthur Jr., as well as his brothers, Joseph and Steve. Sports Night like the one present last night should find a spot on the calendar of every active organization. ...although the next one will have to go a long way to equal last night's.

Hockey Roundup Fairbairn Scores Hat Trick To Pace Rangers' Victory

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Rangers' Bill Fairbairn says two-thirds of his first National Hockey League hat trick should be credited to the St. Louis Blues.

"There was nothing to it — they put in two of 'em," Fairbairn said after poking home three goals to lead his club to a 5-1 win over the Blues. "To tell the truth, I'm not really all that excited because it wasn't that much of a hat trick."

According to Fairbairn, only his second goal — which put the Rangers ahead for good at 2-1 — was "legit."

"The first one I bounced off the Blues' Barclay Plager and the second one bounced off one of their defenseman's skates."

Elsewhere in NHL action, Montreal edged Toronto 3-2, Atlanta routed Detroit 10-1, Boston tied Pittsburgh 5-5, Chicago nipped Washington 3-2 and California tied Kansas City 4-4.

In the WHA, it was Quebec 6 Michigan 2, New England 5 Houston 4 and Vancouver 4 Cleveland 1.

As Ranger Coach Emile Francis said, "It was the third straight game we've given up only one goal." That looks a lot nicer up there than a five.

Besides Fairbairn's three, Jerry Butler and Steve Vickers also scored for the Rangers, while Bill Collins spoiled Ed Giacomin's shutout with a short-handed goal for St. Louis.

Flames 10, Red Wings 1

Curt Bennett and Eric Vail each scored three-goal hat tricks for the Flames, who turned in the highest scoring output in their history. Tom Lysiak also set a Flames record by scoring five points on a goal and four assists.

Canadiens 3, Maple Leafs 2

O'Donnell's Goal Makes Difference

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Fred O'Donnell says his goal to score, no matter what league you're playing in.

O'Donnell, a former member of the National Hockey League's Boston Bruins, was the difference Wednesday night as his two goals led the New England Whalers to a 5-4 World Hockey Association win over the defending champion Houston Aeros.

"It's a good feeling to score my first ones in the WHA — they're good to get in any league," he said.

O'Donnell said the scores, one of which, with eight minutes remaining, was the final margin, were the result of practice.

"Both of my scores came at the goal mouth and that's where some practice paid off tonight," he said. "When the other winger goes wide and the centerman comes into the slot, my job is to cut across in front of the net. I got there both times to get my stick on the puck and I was glad they went in."

The win was the second straight at home for the Whalers following an opening season loss on the road to Toronto.

Aero coach Bill Dineen, unhappy with the loss that dropped his team's mark to 1-4, said part of the problem has been the schedule which has kept his club traveling.

Cliff Korol scored on a third period power play to earn the victory for the Black Hawks and deny the Capitals of their second NHL win. The loss was doubly frustrating for the expansionists since they survived two missed Black Hawk penalty shots and also had 2-0 Jim Pappin and Stan Mikita miss the two shots.

Foreman Prepping Harder

N'SELE, Zaire (UPI) — Dundee stresses that Ali is just as tall as Foreman, so that George's clubbing hands will be ineffective.

"Foreman slams those hamlike fists down, and the enormous right hammering guys into the ground," Angelo says. "But Ali is the same height as while moving in and out, side to side? That's what Ali and Dundee think he must do, and that's why Ali is back after a long time, hitting and hitting the big punching bag as it swings on its chain.

Florida virtually clinched the Eastern title with its win over Charlotte, going two games up on the Hornets with three to play. Bob Davis threw two second half TD passes to lift the Blazers to victory, hitting tight end Greg Latta from 19 yards out and throwing an eight-yard scoring pass to Jim Strongearly in the final period. Don Highsmith ran one yard for Charlotte's only TD.

Kelley Asks for End To Legal Loopholes

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) - FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley asked trial lawyers and judges to help in tightening loopholes that enable "career criminals" to get off with little or no punishment. "Some form of reform or updating across the board, very soon, seems essential," he said. "The welfare of our society demands that there be prompt, impartial and resolute handling of career criminals by prosecutors and the courts."

Study Assesses Off-Shore Drilling

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A government study says that leasing 10 million acres offshore for oil and gas production could mean the spillage of as much as 8,500 barrels a year, and that oil spills are the worst that could happen to the area. The Bureau of Land Management released a 1,300-page environmental impact study on the Interior Department's intention to lease tracts on the Outer Continental Shelf in order to get between 10 and 15 billion barrels of oil in the next 20 years for an energy-starved economy.

Northeast Rail Case Argued

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Justice Department conceded before the Supreme Court Wednesday that the proposed new Northeast rail network should remain suspended unless creditors of the carriers can be assured adequate compensation. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork said a lawsuit which has blocked Congress' efforts to revive rail transportation in northeastern states hinges on the availability of the Tucker Act as a last resort for creditors. The law allows private suits to obtain compensation for property taken by the government.

Bork told the Supreme Court that if the Tucker Act is not available, the government would agree that the lower court's injunction against carrying out the act should remain in effect to give Congress time to reconsider the entire situation. But he also maintained that the Tucker Act is available and was not repealed by the 1973 law which attempts to consolidate the railroads.

The court heard three hours of arguments in the complex case, which originally encompassed seven bankrupt carriers. It hinged on a law suit filed by the major creditors of the Penn Central Railroad. In enacting the 1973 Regional Rail Reorganization Act, Congress attempted to bring them all together under the Consolidated Rail Corp. (Conrail). Carriers would be paid for their properties with Conrail stock.

A special three-judge court in Philadelphia struck down part of the law on the ground that it did not provide appropriately for loss to railroads, which would be compelled to continue unprofitable service during the planning period. Justice William H. Rehnquist and other members of the court were interested in why the constitutionality of the "taking" of railroad property must be decided now rather than when the property is actually taken. Bork replied that it would be four or five years after the taking before anyone would know whether the compensation was adequate and at that time a law suit would be too late.

Housing Slump To Last Into Next Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Assistant Housing and Urban Development Secretary Michael H. Moskow said today there is "little hope" for any improvement in the housing market for the rest of 1974. Moskow said interest rates are high, construction of new homes is down 40 per cent and construction unemployment is double the national rate. Moskow said the federal government was supplying mortgage subsidies to produce 500,000 homes and had begun a program to increase rental units for the poor. "Little hope exists for a construction upsurge for many months," Moskow told the Building Products Executives Conference meeting here. "The turn-around time even with drastic policy changes would be too great under the best of fiscal conditions, and the best of conditions are not yet in sight."

The study mentioned other ways to affect the environment. For example, 1,600 platforms on the Outer Continental Shelf would remove 8,000 acres of sea floor from fishing activities. Drilling an average 10,000 foot deep well will lead to discharge of 1,700 barrels of cuttings and 300 tons of mud.

Rockville High 'Election' Gives Steele, Agostinelli Narrow Win

By a margin of 12 votes, Robert Steele and Nathan Agostinelli, Republican candidates for governor and lieutenant governor were "elected" by Rockville High School students Wednesday. The students voted 490 to 478 in favor of the two top Republican candidates over the Democratic candidates, Ella Grasso and Robert Killian. But, all other offices were swept by the Democratic candidates with the exception of Judge of Probate and the vote was 508 to 428 in favor of Republican candidate John Chiodini. His Democratic opponent, Thomas Radey, is seeking reelection to that post.

For years, the Rockville High School poll has been looked to by the politicians as an indication of how the state will vote. Steele is a resident of Vernon and Agostinelli, a resident of Manchester, is a Vernon native. Abraham Ribicoff, Democratic candidate for U.S. senator, swamped his Republican opponent, James H. Brasso and Robert Killian. Robert Housley, also of Vernon, and the Democratic candidate for senator from the 35th District, was highest vote-getter, defeating his Republican opponent Howard Wolfanger of Tolland in a 670 to 288 vote.

Shakespeare Night To Benefit Church

The John Sibun Costumes have been made by Shakespearean Players will present "The Merry Wives of Shakespeare" as a benefit to St. Peter's Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the church. The cast includes Dick Dora, Bob Faucher, Judy Batschelder, Dick Kirby, Gail Layden, Mickle Jaisale, Kitay Sibun, Penelope Ann Sibun, Barbara Sibun, Gillian Howell Stokes and Simon Stokes.

This group recently performed at the Marlborough Arts Festival and has been invited to give workshops to theater groups, including the well known Mark Twain Masquers. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1.50 for students.

Hush Money Burden Shuffled, Says Dean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean III testified today that the White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman went "back and forth" with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell in 1972 on who was going to raise hush money for the Watergate burglars. Under questioning by Mitchell's lawyer, William G. Hundley, Dean indicated that he sometimes served as a go-between in the dispute over raising the money to pay the Watergate burglars' legal fees and keep them quiet about White House involvement. The former White House counsel was spending his seventh straight day on the witness stand in the Watergate cover-up trial of Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell and two other former Nixon associates. Dean said Mitchell, then campaign director for Richard M. Nixon, appeared to regard the need to raise money as a White House task and showed no interest in the problem during several meetings with Dean and others. At the same time, Dean said, Haldeman and Ehrlichman were trying to thrust the responsibility on Mitchell. "He (Mitchell) told me Haldeman and Ehrlichman should be interested," Dean said. "Haldeman and Ehrlichman said it was Mitchell's problem. It went back and forth."

Dean did not say exactly when this dispute took place. But he indicated it went on in the fall of 1972 after Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach, gave up the job of raising hush money. The money, which was paid to

VFW Leader Visits State

Mrs. Betty Butler of New Jersey, national president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, will make her official visit to Connecticut today and Friday.

Manchester Auxiliary members serving on the visitation committee are Mrs. Theresa Varney, state co-conductor; and Mrs. Laura Freeman, state patriotic instructor.

The national president was welcomed on her arrival this afternoon at Holiday Inn, East Hartford, by an aide of honor. Tonight's program includes a dutch treat dinner at Valle's Steak House, Hartford, at 7.

On Friday the national president and her entourage will tour Pratt and Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford. After a luncheon at Pratt and Whitney, the group will tour the Harriet Beecher Stowe and Mark Twain Homesteads.

Mrs. Butler will conclude her official visit Friday with a State Auxiliary meeting at 6 p.m. at the East Hartford Post Home, on Tolland St.

Library Shows Film Friday

The Mary Cheney Library Junior Room will show the film "Brown Wolf" on Friday, Teachers' Convention Day, at 10:30 a.m. and at 2:30 p.m. "Brown Wolf" is set in the Klondike in the year 1901 and tells the story of a dog that must choose between the wilds and civilization. There will be a film program at 10:30 on Saturday morning. The film to be shown at that time is "The Lorax," which is based on a Dr. Seuss book and was shown last year on television.

Agostinelli Supports Occupational Center

Nathan G. Agostinelli, state comptroller and Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, announced today his support for a referendum question for the Regional Occupational Training Center. Agostinelli said that when he was mayor of Manchester the concept of a Regional Occupational Training Center, to be located in Manchester, was first presented to the Board of Directors by Norman Fendell. "At that time," Agostinelli stated, "the proposal was unanimously accepted by me and the Board."

Ford Trip To Japan Still On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is proceeding with plans to visit the Far East next month, despite demonstrations in Japan against the trip, the White House said today. Ford will begin a three-day visit to Japan — the first by an American President — on Nov. 18. From there he intends to go on to South Korea for a two-day stop and may also meet with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev on the way home. "He's going ahead with his plans for the trip," presidential Press Secretary Ronald Nissen said. Some American officials had said it might be necessary to reconsider whether Ford should make the trip if the demonstrations continue and become more bitter.

The following streets are scheduled for leaf collection on the days listed below. In the event of heavy rain on any scheduled collection day, pickup on remaining routes will be postponed one working day. Home owners, on the streets listed below, who wish to have yard leaves collected are requested to rake leaves into the gutter so as to form a windrow the length of the collection. Property owners are requested to make certain that no foreign objects such as stones, branches, cans or any leaf material other than leaves or grass are placed in the windrows.

Table with columns for dates (October 28, 31, November 1, 4, 5, 12) and street names for leaf collection routes. Includes routes for North Fairfield Street, Columbus Street, Irving Street, etc.

The $2 Million Storm Drainage Bond Issue

By SOL R. COHEN

Floods have been defined as bodies of water rising, swelling and overflowing onto and over land.

The body of water could be a natural phenomenon, like a stream, a river, a lake, a brook, a pond, or even a sea.

Or, it could be an unnatural phenomenon, like storm water flowing down a street—over backyards and into garages, cellars and living quarters.

Effects from both are disastrous—the former on a grand scale, requiring massive appropriations and covering vast areas; the latter on a localized scale, but also requiring massive expenditures, when considered in ratio to available local funds.

In Manchester, where flooding problems have grown in the same ratio the town has grown, voters are being asked to approve a $2 million bond issue for correcting storm drainage problems in 28 areas of town. The proposal will be a referendum question on the Nov. 5 voting machines.

Recent problems caused by overflows from Bigelow Brook and White Brook have focused attention on storm drainage needs. However, similar problems in Manchester go back about 25 years. A study of Board of Directors' agendas during that span reveals that the subject was on a majority of the agendas.

That the problems grew as the town's population grew isn't a coincidence. Director of Public Works Jay Giles acknowledges that, as new residential, commercial and industrial development ensued in Manchester, the town lost more and more of its trees and its natural water-shed land. Percolation—the means of storing storm water and keeping it from flowing onto private property—was diminished, and even lost.

As the town grew, so grew the flow of storm water into rising, swelling and overflowing brooks.

Giles sums up the effect as follows, "Every square foot of pavement later contributes to excess water in the streams."

The $2 million proposal is an update of plans proposed by the last four public works directors Manchester has had. It started with the late Richard Martin, who was town manager and doubled as public works director. Next came Chester Langtry, then Walter Fuss, then William O'Neill, and finally the present occupant, Giles.

In 1959, the need was estimated at $300,000. It grew progressively to $1 million, then $1.3 million, then $1.5 million, and now $1.5 million.

That isn't to say that the town spent nothing on its storm sewer needs annually. Since 1959, an estimated $500,000 was spent to correct some of the problems.

That sum includes $60,000 in 1965 for placing Bigelow Brook underground in the Lenox-Benton St. area, $100,000 in 1973 for replacing the washed-out Olcott St. bridge, about $42,000 this year for N. Elm St. improvements, and another $60,000 this year for replacing the washed-out Woodbridge St. culvert.

Giles said the proposed $2 million would eliminate about 80 per cent of the major problems. The 28 separate projects, he said, would take about three years to complete and would be placed for bid on an area basis, which might require several contractors.

Each project, he explained, would be coordinated with the previous one, as well as the next one. He said top priority may be given the White Brook-Lyall St. area and the Thompson Rd. area.

He said the $2 million will permit hiring some outside consultant services. In order to permit completion within three years, he explained, detailed plans and specifications will require the combined efforts of the town engineering department and the outside consultants.

"In addition," said Giles, "a study of our townwide drainage needs, both present and future, could be accomplished within the ($2 million) appropriation."

"Such a study," he said, "will provide guidance to our public works department in the review of subdivision plans—thereby providing for adequate growth of the drainage system, as the town grows."

Projected Schedule

Manchester voters Nov. 5 will consider a $2 million bond issue for correcting storm drainage problems at 28 locations. The accompanying map shows those locations, identified as A through Z, plus AA and BB. The areas designated by diagonal lines are scheduled for 1974-75 construction, those with solid lines for 1975-76, and those with broken straight lines for 1976-77.

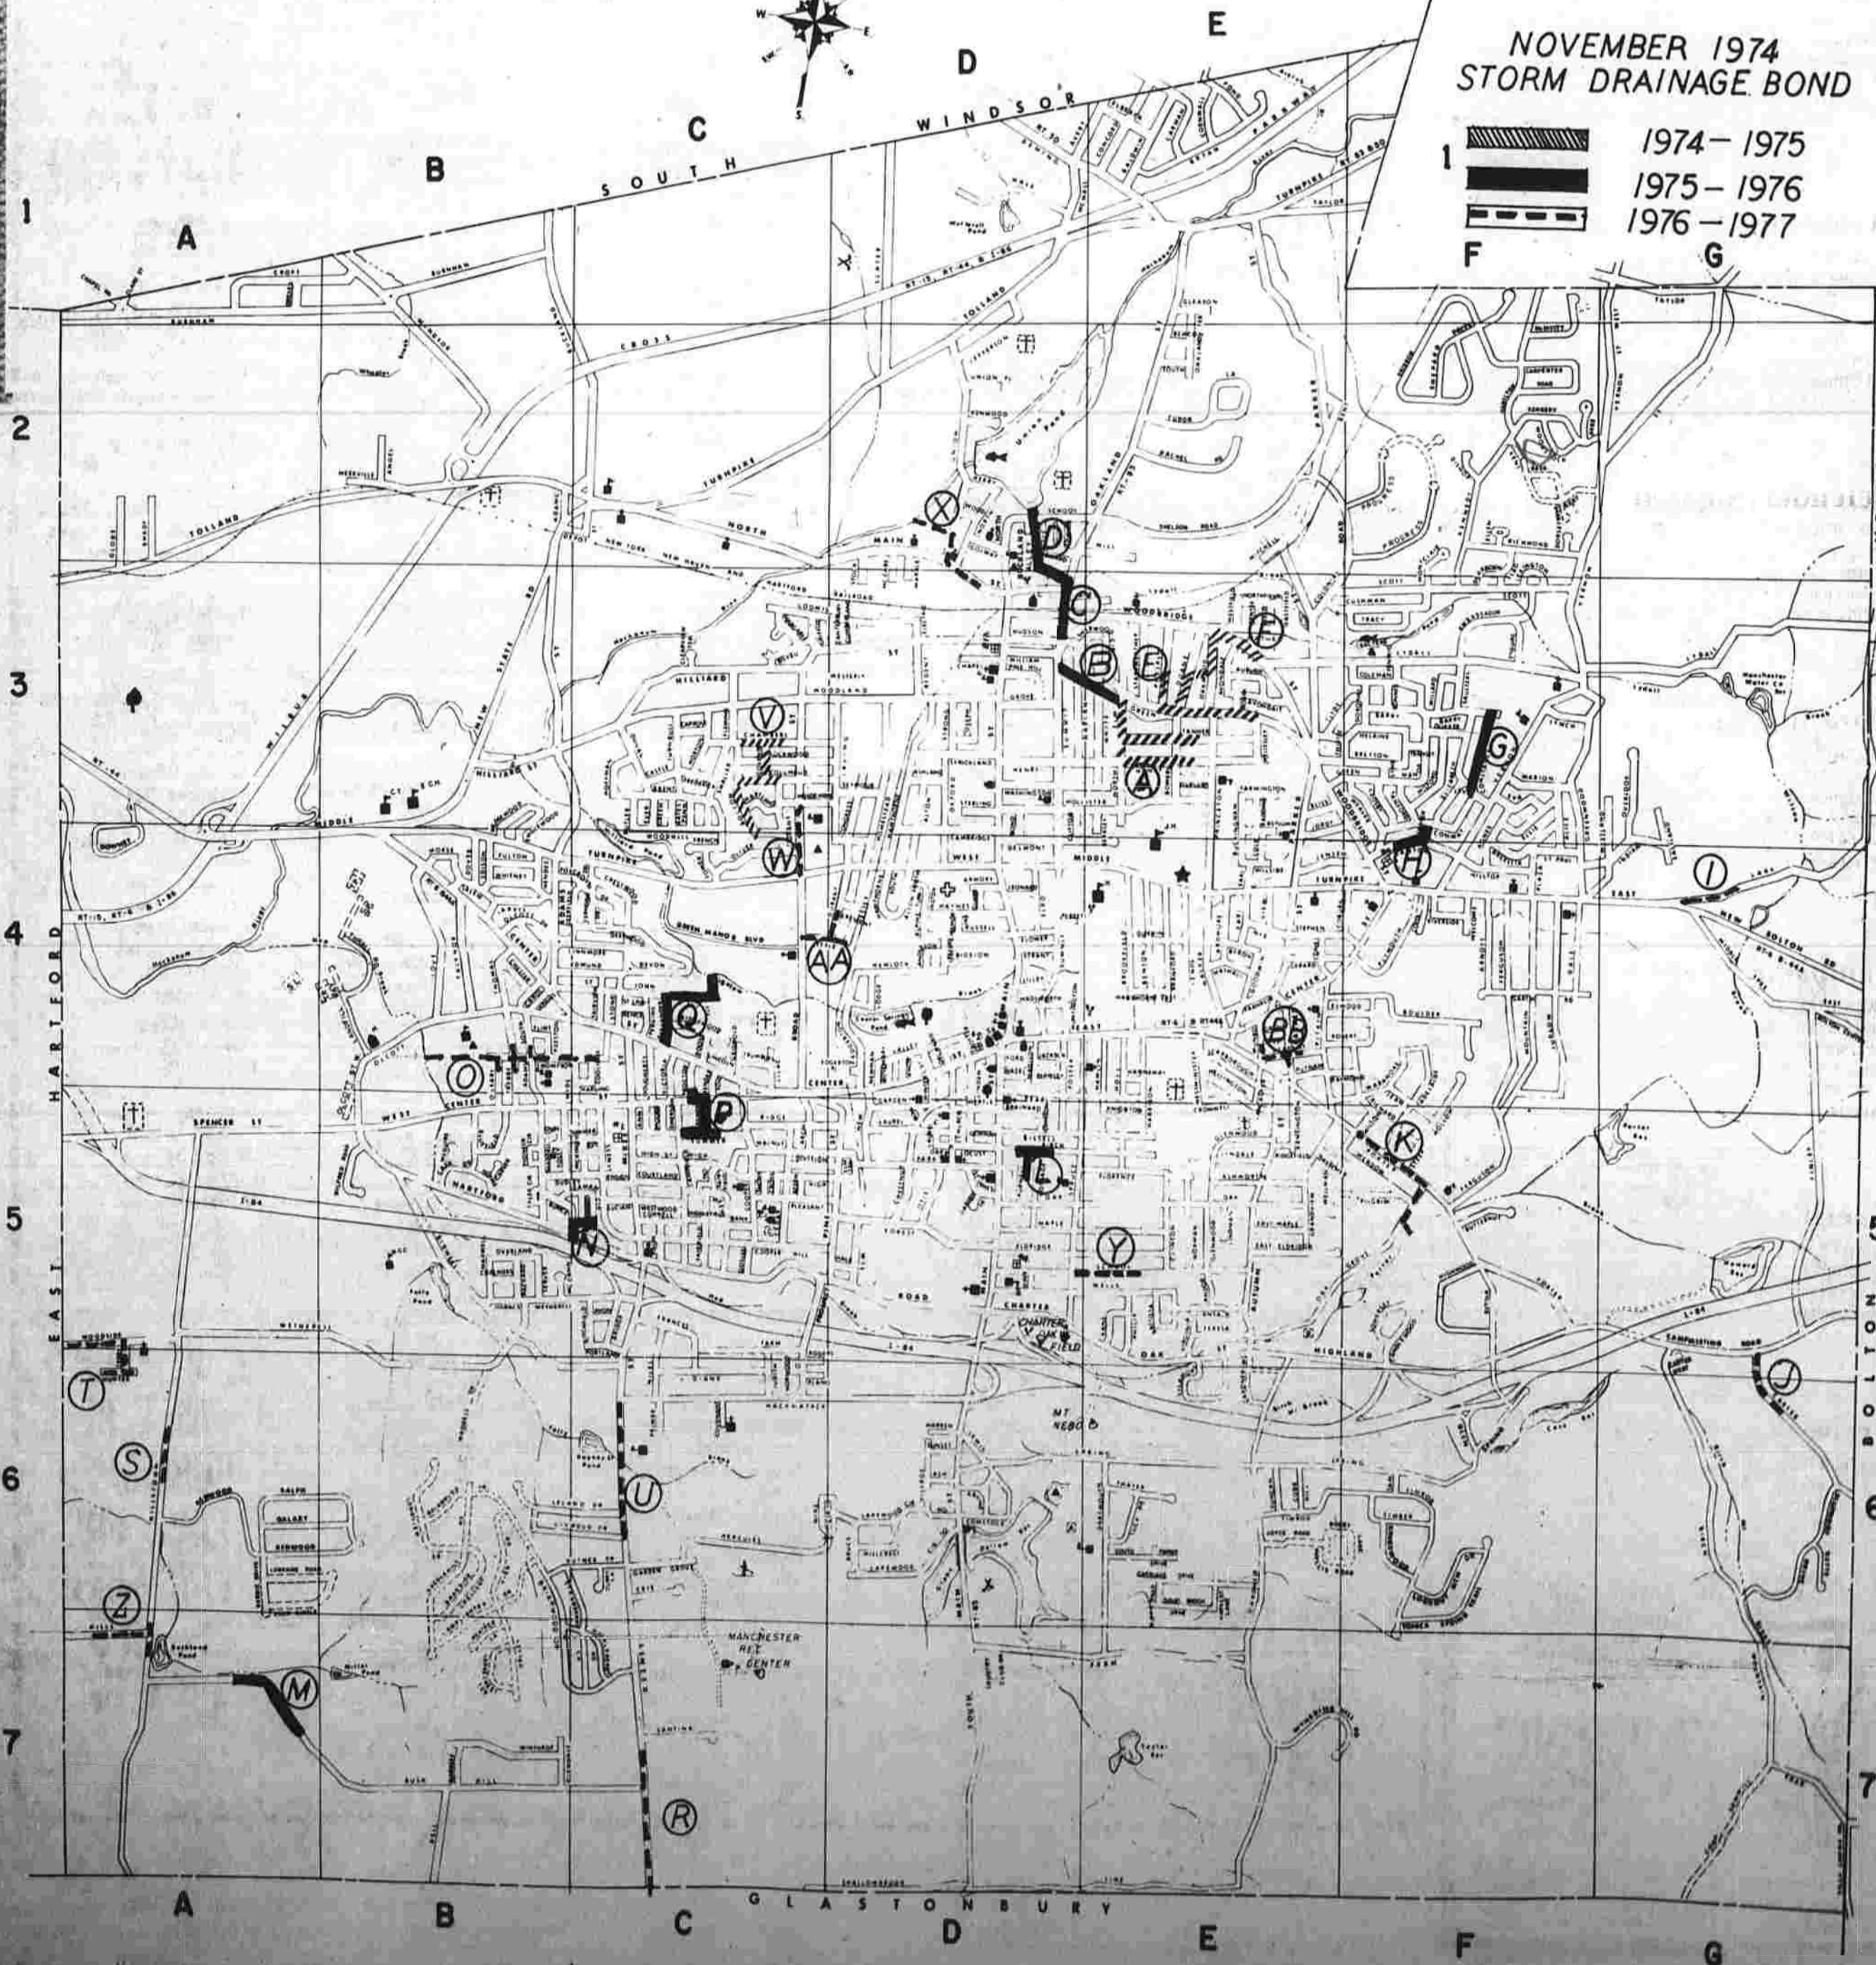

The 28 areas are as follows:

- A—Henry, N. Elm and Tanner Sts.; B—White Brook, Summit to N. Elm Sts.; C—White Brook Diversion (Lyall Brook to White Brook); D—Robertson Park Culvert (N. School to Oakland Sts.); E—Green Rd., Phelps Rd. and Doane St.; F—Woodbridge St., Oakwood Rd. and Doane St.; G—Constance Dr.; H—Lawton Rd. to Denver Rd.

- I—Lake St. to E. Middle Tpke.; J—Carter St.; K—Porter St., Willow Pl. to Oak Grove St.; L—Dry Brook Box Culvert, Birch St.; M—Bush Hill Rd.; N—Seaman Circle; O—Thompson Rd., Coolidge St. to Hop Brook; P—Bremen Rd., Summer St.; Q—Alexander St. to John St.; R—Keeney St., Bush Hill Rd. to Glastonbury.

- S—Hilltown Rd.; T—Woodside St., Terry Rd., Hunter Rd.; U—Keeney St., Leland Dr. to Hackmatack St.; V—Chambers, Columbus, Bolton Sts.; W—Broad St.; X—N. Middle Tpke. to Windemere St.; Y—School St. to Hockanum River; Z—School St.; AA—Durant and Little Sts.; BB—Hillsdale and Parker Sts. area.

Back to Hospital

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon was rehospitalized Wednesday night in the wake of a flare-up of phlebitis in his left leg. His doctor reported that the leg was filled with circulation blockages and he warned that surgery might be necessary.

Arms Race Talks

MOSCOW (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger met with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev today, carrying a package of proposals for slowing the nuclear arms race. The talks — Kissinger's first meeting with Brezhnev since President Ford came to power — were expected to allow both sides to review the future course of detente between the U.S. and Moscow.

Not Much Warning

ARAGON, Ga. (UPI) — The crossing where a Southern Railway work train backed into a school bus carrying 80 children Wednesday is marked only by a warning sign. Seven children were killed in the crash, which is being investigated by national safety inspectors.

Special Prosecutor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry S. Ruth, a soft-spoken, 49-year-old government lawyer, has been named special Watergate prosecutor with promises he'll have the same independence as his predecessor, Leon Jaworski, who has submitted his resignation. Ruth has been the No. 2 man in the special prosecution force since it was created in May 1973.

Statements Due

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Opening statements were expected to start today following completion of jury selection in the federal trial of eight former Ohio Guardsmen charged in connection with Kent State University killings May 4, 1970. Four students were killed and nine were wounded in the incident, which came during student demonstrations over the U.S. invasion on Cambodia.

Defender Amazed

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A former public defender for James Earl Ray testified Wednesday he was "amazed, surprised, and astounded" when he learned Ray was going to plead guilty to slaying Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Ray's hearing is expected to last until next week.

More Regulation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Wednesday signed a bill designed to strengthen federal regulation of the commodity futures market, a $500 billion-a-year speculation business which some experts believe has increased food prices. The bill would put into effect the most sweeping overhaul of market regulations since 1922.

Campaign Swing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With elections 12 days away, President Ford today scheduled campaign appearances in Iowa and Illinois in a personal effort to restrict Democratic gains in the House and Senate. Ford is seeking to attract votes from farmers who have been alienated by government grain and beef policies.

Guerilla Plans

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — The Palestine Liberation Organization plans to form a government in exile within the next few weeks, sources said today. Guerrilla leaders are expected to discuss the plans with Arab leaders to map out a joint Middle East policy.

Grabs Hostess

NICE, France (UPI) — A 31-year-old Mexican grabbed an Air France hostess at gunpoint today and refused to set her free until authorities bring his wife from Italy and permit the couple to travel unharmed to Mexico. Authorities said they were negotiating with the gunman.

THE CANDIDATES ARE SAYING

Hannon: Favors More Education Aid

State Rep. George W. Hannon Jr. of East Hartford, Democratic candidate for Third District state senator, has announced his support for increased aid for vocational education in all Connecticut secondary schools.

"A recent study of vocational education by the General Assembly's program review committee, of which I am a member," said Hannon, "indicates a serious deficiency in providing quality vocational education in our high schools. Unless we direct immediate attention to this area, our future labor market will be bankrupt."

"The non-college-bound men and women deserve the very best training we can give them, to properly prepare them for our highly skilled labor market. If we fail in our commitment to them, then we have failed in our future economic planning."

The four-term legislator said he would plan to submit legislation which will insure the type of vocational education program needed. Specifically, said Hannon, he will work for increased funding to provide adequate space and programs for all qualified students.

Hannon said in the upcoming months before the opening of the General Assembly in January he will be doing further research in the area of vocational and technical education, "so that the state could upgrade its system." He stressed "the fact that vocational education is of utmost importance to both the students of our state and the economic future of the state itself."

Called Home

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Four Boston high school students studying desegregation in Charlotte were called home Wednesday in a "symbolic gesture" by the Boston School Committee.

"I wouldn't have approved this trip if I had known what was going on down there," said committee chairman John J. Kerrigan in Boston.

The four students and a faculty adviser from Boston's Hyde Park High School had been invited by students at West Charlotte High School to see how integration was working in Charlotte in contrast, apparently, to the violence marking integration in Boston.

But Charlotte also is having its troubles in spots, the latest being racial violence at Olympic High School last Friday, three days before the students left Boston for Charlotte.

Board Approves of Program For Multiple Handicapped

TOLLAND

Vivian Kennesson Correspondent

The Board of Education Wednesday approved a special education program for multiple handicapped children, as recommended by G. Van Vaoutour, director of special services.

Presently Tolland has one 12-year-old boy who will be enrolled in the program. Attempts to find appropriate placement for the child thus far have failed, according to Vaoutour, and Talcoville cannot program him.

The Hampton public schools have requested two of their students be placed in the Tolland program on a tuition basis.

The facility for the program will be in the basement level of the Education Administration Building in quarters presently occupied by the town manager.

A full-time teacher, at a salary of $8,343, and an aide at $2,700, have already been selected and the program will begin as soon as possible.

Other expenses anticipated are renovations at $700; equipment, $500; materials, $1,000; and consultant services, $700.

Vaoutour noted that the board will actually expend $4,343 on the program, compared with an original tuition and transportation allocation of $8,170, making a net reduction in cost of $3,827.

"The program for the three children would be composed of two major components. Considerable emphasis would be placed on changing inappropriate behaviors such as acting out or fighting. The second major aspect would be the development of pre-vocational and self-help skills with the goal of eventual placement in a sheltered workshop."

"Details of the program and curriculum would be modeled after the Day Treatment Service in West Hartford, a regional program sponsored under the Capitol Region Education Council," according to Vaoutour's report.

Under future considerations Vaoutour notes four possibilities: 1. Pending acceptance of the three children in Day Treatment Service or some other program, this model would be disbanded. In such a situation the space could be converted into office space. Materials and furnishings could be assimilated into Parker School with the only sunken cost being the carpeting at a cost of $400.

2. If the program proves successful consideration might be given to continuing with the three children and accepting other children on a tuition basis.

3. Assuming the program is successful, these three children could go to other programs and new children could be accepted on a tuition basis.

4. In the event that the program were disbanded, the facility could be converted into a pre-school program for Tolland children and other surrounding towns. Tolland now sends five pre-school children out-of-town for special education programs.

Vaoutour stressed another advantage of the program is the consultant services of the director of the Day Treatment Service. Not only would he train both teacher and aide in techniques of behavioral analysis, management control, reinforcement strategies and charting behavioral progress, but would be available to all of the Pupil Personnel Services staff in town.

"Through such a process we would achieve greater dissemination of specialized procedures for analyzing and changing classroom strategies to better assist pupil development," Vaoutour said.

Phantom Middleman Strikes Again

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the biggest inflationary pressures in this country was not even mentioned in President Ford's list of 12 economic good deeds.

We all know the crime rate has jumped 15 per cent this year, but these statistics refer mainly to robberies, burglaries and acts of violence.

We don't hear so much about employees filching from their bosses. It is known, however, that in-house ripoffs, particularly in stores and factories, is growing by leaps and bounds. Or books and crooks.

At least this is known to Mark Lipman, operator of a large private security agency and author of the book "Stealing."

During a talk I had with Lipman about Ford's anti-inflation program he told me "80 per cent of the whole work force is stealing."

In-house ripoffs, including embezzlement, pilfering and outright theft, add up to about $10 billion a day, or more than $3 billion a year. Furthermore, that figure is expected to double in the next decade.

The worst part about this, from a consumer standpoint, is that in-house ripoffs are pass-through expenses.

In other words, what a company loses to light-fingered employees it passes along to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

This might not put pilfering workers quite in the class with Arab oil producers. But at $3 billion a year, their impact on the economy obviously is more than considerable.

The thing that mainly distresses me about this situation was Lipman's assertion that "the thieves themselves get short-changed."

"Employees engaged in internal stealing usually get only 20 per cent or less of the actual value of the items they take," he said.

THE CANDIDATES ARE SAYING

Bergenty: Sheriff Disclosures

Helen Bergenty of Plainville, Republican candidate for Hartford County high sheriff, said, if elected, she will work for passage of a General Assembly bill for disclosing the following information in the offices of sheriff or deputy sheriff — fees charged, miles traveled and charge per mile, total number of clients served and amounts collected from levies against debtors.

"When I ran for the same office in 1970," said Mrs. Bergenty, "I pledged, 'When elected and if I find the position of high sheriff isn't even necessary, then I'll work to abolish it.'"

"I've found out since it would take a Constitutional amendment to abolish the office. That may take years. In the meantime, changes could be made for the better through legislation."

Snow Tires

Slow tires improve your starting ability in snow by 50 per cent, the Connecticut Safety Commission reports. In severe weather, a reinforced tire chain improves your starting ability by 300 per cent. Snow tires and chains also greatly reduce stopping distances on snow and ice. Be prepared for bad weather!

Women Deacons To Celebrate Communion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Declaring that "women do not exist merely in principle," three female deacons who were irregularly ordained to the Episcopal priesthood Wednesday said they will celebrate Holy Communion in New York City Sunday.

"We are people and we are priests-not an hypothesis, but a reality. Our vocation does not lie dormant as a future possibility," they said in a statement.

The three—Allison Cheek, Carter Heyward and Jeannette Piccard—were ordained to the priesthood in July in a service in Philadelphia along with eight other women deacons.

Two weeks later, in an emergency meeting in Chicago, the House of Bishops of the 3 million-member denomination ruled the ordination invalid and said the Philadelphia rites did not constitute true ordinations.

Last week, at the bishops' regularly scheduled meeting, the prelates voted in favor of the ordination of women "in principle" but expressed the hope no further ordinations would take place until after the church's 1976 General Convention. In addition, the bishops took no action to formally ordain the women.

The three women who will participate in the Sunday service said they rejoiced in the bishops' favorable action on ordination, but added "we must note that women do not exist merely in principle."

The service, described as a "Service in Celebration of Women in the Ministry," will be held at Riverside Church and is being sponsored by more than half a dozen ecumenical and denominational women's organizations.

The three women had agreed following the July 29 ordination "to refrain from exercising our functions for a time."

"Our hope was that the ecclesiastical authorities of our church would move quickly to regularize our ordinations and ordain our sister deacons to the priesthood," they said.

At the Sunday service, the three women will join in consecrating the Eucharist—blessing the bread and wine of Communion—the most holy act a priest performs.

Butz Says Beef Prices Have Leveled Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz predicted today that supermarket beef prices will remain about the same until at least early 1975, but that pork and poultry prices may increase.

Butz also said that the nation's cattlemen "are in real trouble" because beef prices have declined so sharply since the first of the year.

"The price of fed beef has dropped $20 a hundredweight the last 10 months in this country," Butz said. "There's been nothing like that showing up at the retail counters."

He admitted that "margins are wide, but they're wide partly because of increased cost of transportation, increased labor costs, and other restrictions in the distribution process."

The issue of the widening difference between what farmers get for cattle and what meat costs the public was the subject of a congressional hearing Tuesday.

Spokesman for the packing houses and the meat cutters said they were not to blame for the "spread."
