The world's economic crisis threatens about 500 million children in 70 poor countries with starvation, severe malnutrition, or other drastic curtailment of vital services. Ten million children under five in developing countries suffer from severe malnutrition and 80 million suffer from moderate malnutrition. UNICEF's estimate over a picture of the body of a young child for whom aid has arrived too late. November, 74 issue of "Mayknoll" magazine.

For those of you who did not quite get around to it—the next CWS Clothing Appeal will be May 5. Please remember particularly, children's clothing and baby layettes and blankets. Another project of Church Women United is providing blankets for distribution through Church World Service. These blankets, specially made for CWS, are extra large and extra tough. They serve the people for many purposes—warmth, shelter (they make sturdy tents), carrying of the belongings and children. A $3 gift certificate, available from any CWU member, will (by special arrangement) send one of these blankets, mostly used in disaster and emergency situations. Three $ and H green stamp books if sent to CWS Clothing Appeal, 46514, will provide funds for two of these blankets.

Gift certificates for blankets and disaster relief will also be available on World Community Day, one of the three national ecumenical workshop celebrations sponsored by CWU. Manchester CWU will celebrate together at Second Congregational Church at noon on Monday, Oct. 28. Refreshments, coffee and dessert provided. Luncheon. Baby-sitting is provided.

Many of us have begun to turn our faces away from the sight and sound of so much suffering. Yet from such desperate need and misery, come hopeful signs of Christians banding together to bring life to the hungry of the world. Reports filter back of Christians banding together to bring life to the hungry of the world. Reports filter back of Christians banding together to bring life to the hungry of the world. Reports filter back of Christians banding together to bring life to the hungry of the world.

Trick or Life
Again, on Halloween night, costumed children will come to your door with a UNICEF can. Give to life this year—life for children much the same as the little ones at your door. We urge you to give more than you think you can.

The UNICEF collection in Manchester is sponsored by Church Women United in Manchester and for the past three years has been organized by the able and loving Annamary Potocki of Assumption parish. Check (please!), for those wishing to make a large donation, may be made payable to UNICEF and sent to Church Women United, Box 773, Manchester. Even in this time of inflation and general tightening of belts, we urge you to find someone—someone to join with others in Manchester in sending life to the children of Africa and Asia.

Over the Top
Some 3,500 pounds of good used clothing were given by Manchester-Bolton residents a week ago Tuesday to the Church World Service clothing agency. This is an increase of 2,000 lbs. over the 74 spring collection.

A kitchen social is scheduled for Monday at 1:30 p.m. at Cronin Hall of Mayfair Gardens. All residents of Mayfair are invited.

The council on ministries of South United Methodist Church, Manchester CWU will celebrate together at Second Congregational Church at noon on Monday, Oct. 28. Refreshments, coffee and dessert provided. Luncheon. Baby-sitting is provided.

The non-denominational Good News Club for Kindergarten through Grade 6 will meet Tuesday at 3:15 p.m. in the front room of the Emanuel Lutheran Church parish house.

Nixon Undergoes Surgery

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon underwent successful surgery today to block the spread of blood clots which had threatened his life.

Nixon's doctors said the surgery was "uneventful" and the 61-year-old former president's condition was "stable" following the operation which lasted a little more than one hour.

Nixon's personal physician, Dr. John C. Langren, ordered the surgery late Monday night when new tests disclosed a large clot in Nixon's left hip, above those previously discovered in the left leg. The new clot was closer to an artery which leads directly to the heart.

Iliaic Vein Clipped
Langren, who characterized the operation as a "success," said the five-man surgical team inserted a permanent plastic clip across the iliaic vein in the left groin area.

The operation took about one hour and was "an uneventful procedure," according to the head of the team, Dr. Eldon B. Hickman.

"Mr. Nixon is doing well. He is in stable condition in his room now, undergoing normal post-operative care and is somewhat sleepy," Hickman said.

"We placed what is known as a mild clip to partially occlude but not completely occlude the vessel."

Could Feel Clot
"We could readily palpate (feel) the clot. We removed the usual post-operative recovery problems."

Hickman said they would include special diets, intravenous administration of medicine and anticoagulants.

Hickman said doctors "do not anticipate any more surgery."

In addition to Hickman and Langren, two assistant surgeons and one anesthesiologist took part in the operation.

Langren said Nixon would have to wear a plastic support on the lower portion of his left leg and would remain in the hospital for about one week and then be under post-operative care at his San Clemente home for another four to six weeks.

Returned to Room
The operation was performed on the first floor of the hospital and then Nixon was returned to his room in the new intensive care unit on the seventh floor.

Langren made a sudden decision Monday night to operate after tests showed "a fresh and active clot" in the left leg.

Hickman said the clots in the thigh will either dissolve eventually or Nixon will develop alternative circulation routes.

In any event, he indicated, the clip should "permanently" solve the threat of clots breaking loose and reaching the heart and lungs.

A hospital spokesman said additional tests will be performed on Nixon's leg later this week. The tests, similar to the ones which discovered the new clot, involve removing blood, mixing it with radioactive substances and then replacing it in Nixon's veins and monitoring it with a Geiger counter to detect any new clotting.

Before the operation, Langren said there was "somehow more risk than normal" because Nixon's blood had been thinned for more than one month to prevent clotting.

But, following the surgery, Langren said there was no problem with the bleeding. The "urgent surgery" was needed, Langren told newsmen at a news conference early today, because if the blood clot broke loose and floated into Nixon's heart it would block circulation and kill him.

A small clot found its way to Nixon's right lung in August, but blocked off only a dime-size area of lung tissue and responded to drug treatment.

But if it doesn't, I will be open to suggestions" for stiffer measures, he added.

One of Ford's aims is to cut the flow of oil imports by 1 million barrels a day from the current 6 million barrel a day rate. The emphasis to date has been on voluntary conservation measures.

Asked if he might clamp a ceiling on oil imports, either by volume or dollar value, if the voluntary approach does not work, the President replied:

"I will move to what is necessary... including the possibility of mandatory limitations to achieve that goal."

Hunt Admits Lying
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Master spy E. Howard Hunt Jr. testified in the Watergate conspiracy trial Monday that he lied 12 times to the Watergate grand jury. He said he had decided to tell the truth now because others involved "were not worthy of my... loyalty." It was one of the most dramatic moments in the trial, which entered its fifth week Monday.

16 Still Hostage
THE HAGUE (UPI) — Four convicts, including an Arab guerrilla, are still holding 16 hostages in the chapel of Scheveningen Prison in the Hague. They freed an 11-year-old boy Monday night and five others on Sunday. The Dutch government has demanded the release of all women and children hostages before serious negotiations with the prisoners, but the rebels still hold three women.

Rare Show of Unity
RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Arab leaders ended a four-day summit meeting today with a unanimous call for the creation of an independent Palestinian state and occupied Jordanian territory abandoned by Israel. Jordanian King Hussein and Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat joined in the surprise agreement, setting aside a bitter rivalry in a rare show of unity that complicated prospects for peace in the Middle East.

Many Newcomers
That means newcomers in both parties will be vying in races that for the most part must be run as toss-up contests. On the other hand, 41 Democrats and one Republican, Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr. of Ohio, have no major party opposition and are certain of re-election.

As to the issues, unlike the five special elections earlier this year, when Democrats won longtime Republican seats and Richard Nixon and Watergate were the main targets, Democrats and Republicans now are hammering on inflation and the energy crisis.

State Surplus Projected At $17.2 Million
State Comptroller Nathan G. Agostinelli announced today an Unappropriated Surplus Projected to June 30, 1975 of $17,200,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1975.

This will be available to the incoming Governor in preparation of future budgets. Agostinelli, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, pointed out that this is the largest projected surplus in a row for the administration, a remarkable turnaround from the deficit-ridden State that was inherited by Gov. Thomas Meskill.

Ford Open To Suggestions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said today he will be "open to suggestions" for new and tougher anti-inflation and energy conservation measures — including a ceiling on oil imports — if economic conditions worsen in the months ahead.

Maintaining his partisan pre-election campaign stance, Ford also labeled Democrats as "spenders" and said he was reviewing a "shopping list" of more than 100 options that could trim between $5.4 billion and $7.5 billion from the federal budget in the current 1975 fiscal year.

Believes Program Will Work
Ford told an impromptu news conference that he was confident his 31-point economic program announced earlier this month would dampen the rising cost of living and also prevent the already stagnant economy from slipping further.

At the news conference, his fourth since becoming president and the first not to be televised, Ford also:

Announced the resignation of John C. Sawhill as federal energy administrator and a shake-up of the high-level energy team including the appointment of Atomic Energy Commission chairman Day LeRoy Ray to be assistant secretary of state for oceans and international environmental matters.

Said he believes Nelson A. Rockefeller will be confirmed as vice president and added that "I strongly support him" for the No. 2 position in the nation "as I did in August."

Said he believed that he had stimulated some voter interest in the Nov. 5 congressional election by his campaign.

pausing through 14 states so far. But he expressed regret at the "voter apathy" which he recognizes throughout the country.

Announced he still intends to go to Japan next month despite growing anti-nuclear demonstrations in that country. The President described his economic program as "finely tuned" to handle both inflation and economic decline. He said if Congress approves it, "I am confident that it will work."

But if it doesn't, I will be open to suggestions" for stiffer measures, he added.

One of Ford's aims is to cut the flow of oil imports by 1 million barrels a day from the current 6 million barrel a day rate. The emphasis to date has been on voluntary conservation measures.

Perform for School Board

Barbara Berger, right, and Kristin Clisham, students at Northeast School, Rockville, Monday night, showed the Board of Education how they are learning to "turn on" to language through music. They are shown demonstrating compound words. The program was presented by about 20 students from Grades 3 and 4, under the direction of Combs Kelly, reading supervisor; Carol Baldwin, music teacher, and Brenda Somerset, reading teacher. The children recently put the program on at Central Connecticut College. "Sing your way to phonics" is the system. With the use of body movement, rhythm, melody, and vision, the children develop individual coordination and thought connection. (Herald photo by Richmond.)

Zoning Request Denied by PZC

Manchester's Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) decided Monday night that a requested zone change and proposed apartments off Woodland St. would adversely affect the neighborhood and would aggravate already existing traffic.

Members also agreed a zone change might have a bad effect on nearby property values and wouldn't allow for the most appropriate use of the land. So the PZC voted unanimously to deny an application by E. Steve Pearl, who was seeking a change from Residential B to Residential M Zone on his 1½-acre property.

Denial of the rezoning application means Pearl won't be able to build his planned 16 apartment units on the parcel, which has only 40 feet of frontage on Woodland St. He will be able to build a single-family or two-family house, or anything allowed in the existing Residential B Zone, but only because the Zoning Board of Appeals granted a variance allowing use of the 40-foot right-of-way.

Pearl's request was the subject of a Sept. 8 public hearing at which several Woodland St. property owners objected to a zone change on the basis of drainage, traffic, and sewer problems.

He said the Democratic-controlled Congress has cut $7.5 billion from the Nixon-Ford budget so far this year, "and if I had my way the cut would be larger."

Ford, who campaigns today in his old House congressional district for Republican candidate Paul Gossett Jr., has criticized Democrats for wanting to spend too much and blamed them for inflation during recent campaign swings through the Midwest.

Losses Projected
"It could be the end of a strong two-party system that I don't want that," said the titular head of congressional Democrats.

"Besides," he smiled, "what would I do about committee assignments for 300 or more Democrats?"

It would appear, as the Nov. 5 vote casting draws near, that Albert will not have that problem. Democratic observers now guess that after they've won a lot and lost a few the net party gain in House seats will settle at about 20.

Israeli Forces Shoot Three Arab Guerrillas

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israeli troops today shot and killed three Arab guerrillas who crossed the border from Lebanon into the northern frontier, the military command said.

The bitter gunbattle came only hours after Israeli leaders rejected an Arab summit decision naming the guerrilla Palestine Liberation Organization as the sole representatives of the Palestinian people of Israel.

Israeli leaders, spurning the PLO as a negotiating partner in the Middle East crisis, vowed the only place they would meet the guerrilla band was on the battlefield.

The early morning slaying of the terrorists took place about two miles south of a collective settlement near Israel's northern tip, military sources said. The army said the guerrillas crossed the frontier during the night.

Israeli newspapers said the decision by the Arabs cast serious doubt on the chances for peace in the Middle East through resumption of the Geneva peace conference.

The Arab decision at Rabat came as Israel's forces along the Jordanian frontier entered the final day of their maneuvers and troops on the Golan Heights continued their war games in full force.

Some cloudiness or fog early today followed by sunny and milder with highs 60 to 65. Becoming cloudy and foggy tonight with chances of a few showers Wednesday. Lows tonight near 50 south to mid 40s north. Highs Wednesday in mid to upper 60s.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION The Ford Campaign

Some criticism is being voiced about President Gerald Ford campaigning on behalf of Republicans running for Congress.

One of our readers has raised the point that as President he is supposed to be the leader of all the people and therefore should not stoop to partisan politics.

We disagree. If there is one lesson we should have learned about the Nixon regime it is fatal for a President to isolate himself from his party and from the people.

By taking to the campaign trails, President Ford is, in our opinion, getting an input from members of his party and from non-members as well. It is rare when any President of either party is not confronted with non-party members whenever he makes a public appearance, including political ones.

But the President also is campaigning for a much larger stake than the obvious one of attempting to cut Republican losses in this first election in the face of Watergate and in a time of economic downturn which is always costly to the party holding the presidency.

As the nation's first non-elected President under the 25th amendment, he must establish a popular following, not only within his own party, but among the people as well.

He could very easily stand by the wayside and quite rationally blame the Watergate affair for Republican losses.

But President Ford is a political person and in weighing the pros and cons of staying aloof or getting involved, the inclination was for the latter.

It is here where he stands to gain more than he can lose. Using the prediction in the polls of potential losses against what the actual losses will be Nov. 5, the odds favor his being able to claim the saving of several seats overall.

His party will be indebted to him because he tried.

His future actions will be tempered by what he learns as he meets friends and foe alike outside the provincial Washington environment.

It may well be his "veto-proof" and "inflation-proof" Congress, not helping elect more Republicans, but by getting a truer sense of public opinion which can do much to blunt any "mandate" the Democrats may claim based upon the number of seats captured. For the fact of the matter is that the present Congress has been largely "veto-proof" because the ideological balance is far different than the party label balance.

Last, but not least, President Ford's foray into active campaigning is always criticized not because as President, he should be above politics, but because a President does have influence. Generally it is the opposition party who voices the objection. If the President were of their party, these same critics would have their President on the road all the time, for "good of the country of course."

So we say, hooray for President Ford. He is willing to get out and beat the stump for what he believes. While we may not agree with those beliefs at all times, we think the testing of them before the electorate, even in a little old congressional race somewhere in Iowa or Illinois, is far more preferable than the imperial aloofness and unreal detachment we have so recently experienced in the White House.

DON OAKLEY Stalling Increases Only Hurts More

spokesman, Alvan W. Vogtle Jr., president of The Southern Company, the real victims of regulatory lag are consumers, more than the utilities.

Unduly long delay means deteriorating service and a cutback in construction of new generating facilities, he points out. The gap, according to a survey of 31 states just completed by Electrical World magazine, average nine months to a year.

In Arizona, however, one case began in 1970 and wasn't decided until 4 1/2 years later. In Ohio, one application has been pending since May, 1972. Hearings began only in February of this year.

Hit by rising costs like everybody else, the nation's utilities are increasingly citing the problem of "regulatory lag" as a key element in the troubles they are having raising investment capital.

Most consumers, of course, are just as happy to see an increase in their electric or gas bills postponed as long as possible. But according to one electric utility spokesman, Alvan W. Vogtle Jr., president of The Southern Company, the real victims of regulatory lag are consumers, more than the utilities.

Unduly long delay means deteriorating service and a cutback in construction of new generating facilities, he points out. The gap, according to a survey of 31 states just completed by Electrical World magazine, average nine months to a year.

The Foundling

OPEN FORUM

'Open Government'
To the editor:
During the debate on executive sessions, Mayor Thompson and Deputy Mayor Prignano said they will continue an "open and responsive government" but how can you continue something that doesn't exist?

Let us look at the facts. One of their first decisions was to allow the people only five minutes to speak. They can argue an hour over an issue costing a couple of thousand but when the people speak on a budget costing $20 million, they are given five minutes even to the point of a timer being used.

Oh, they say you can speak again when all others are finished but that is another form of intimidation since many find it hard to get the nerve to talk in the first place.

Then they decided to permit only statements or questions that they wouldn't answer or discuss but the public outcry was such that they dropped that idea. There is such a disregard for public opinion that one leading businessman waited through two meetings over six hours and then because it was after 11 o'clock he was given just five minutes.

Whenever a meeting runs past 11, and has to be voted to continue, Deputy Mayor Prignano votes no, though the public hasn't had their turn to speak.

Who were they being responsive to when over 200 people against Colonial Rd. but the board bowed to the interests of industry? In fact they responded so well, the road was paved illegally and ignorance was the excuse.

In a town of 20,000 how many were they listening to when they bought Case M1 without a referendum which is the true voice of the people? We are told that the board is acting in our best interests but government of the people and by the people means we should make the decisions.

Their view of "best interests" seems to profit a few and hurt many. If they were sure the people would purchase they wouldn't hesitate to put on a referendum but if they think it won't pass they find a way to circumvent the charter and deny the people the right to decide. Now they are talking about doing the same thing to build a new fire station costing about a half a million.

Who were they responsive to when they received the petition of almost 1500 people asking for the right to decide the form of government we should have? They set up a commission to study the subject which is the favorite method of getting around an issue. The commission is hand picked to reflect the views of those in authority so where did the people get a fair response? The petition did not ask for an investigation but for the right to decide. If our administration is sure this is the best form of government and is doing a good job then why don't they trust the people to vote on it?

As for the ruling on closed sessions by the Town Council, that shows the reason why council should be elected as the attorney general of the State, which is the same relative position. When the council is appointed by the majority he gives a ruling that justifies their position. His duty as attorney general is to his voters, not the town. Isn't that how the lawyers in Washington got into such trouble by making decisions that benefitted their party not the people?

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Yesterday we saw what Psalm One says a happy person will not do. Today we must read the psalm's statement about what a happy person will do.

His happy person's delight is in the Law of the Lord and he will meditate His Law daily and nightly.

The Hebrew word generally translated as English "Law" is Torah. Now the word Torah has several meanings. First, it can mean specific laws such as the Ten Commandments.

Second, it refers to the first five books of the Bible, the "Law." Third, it is often used to mean the entire Hebrew Scriptures. But Fourth, it may also refer to "law" which was circulated in oral form for many years before it was written down in the form of the Talmud.

There has been so much said about no one being above the law, don't I tell me that doesn't apply here in Manchester. Or is it okay to bend and twist the law to suit your own purposes? I thought secret government has been denounced. If everything the President of the United States said is private and had to be made public, why does our mayor think he is different?

Don't he know that open and honest government is the pattern now? Maybe it hasn't reached Manchester yet, how sad for us.

Most folks do not realize that a waiter or waitress are paid an insignificant sum hourly by the restaurant owner. He makes a deduction, allowed by law, to offset their tips, so that at the end of the week when they get their check it is almost embarrassing to cash it, it is that small.

They must rely on their tips for the wage they work for. Here is my point, no one, unless he is well off, goes out for dinner at a restaurant very often but when he does it is generally for a special reason. And he or she wants it to be special, consequently when you are served, and I do mean served, as you want to be, as bestis the occasion, isn't it only just and right that the service is rewarded with a tip to equal the service?

Can you possibly imagine, and if you try hard you will, being that waiter or waitress giving everything you have to make the guest feel like a very important person, catering to their every request, even suggesting when that seemed necessary, in order to make their visit to your restaurant the most pleasant experience in their lives, and then after they left, finding that with all their smiles, with all their complaints, with all their happiness you knew they left, they had left you 25 cents. Do you really think you could continue? Well, they do, they are there day after day, smiling, trying and in general making your visit something for you to remember.

Next time you go out, when you feel you can afford it, make sure that a real nice tip is included in your pocket money, because you just might meet a professional who will make your visit something to remember.

More than ever assistance is needed for the poor of the world. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

Lenox Plaza Zone Change Paves Way for New Store

The East Center Street Corp. was granted a zone change for its Lenox Plaza shopping center Monday night, clearing the way for a department store to move into the vacant First National supermarket at the 20-year-old shopping area.

The Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) unanimously approved the corporation's request for a zone change from Business 1 to Business 3 Zone. Town Planner J. Eric Potter told PZC members that Business 1 Zone, a neighborhood business concept, was too restrictive for such a location as the shopping area at E. Center and Lenox Sts.

The rezoning application was the subject of an Oct. 7 public hearing in which the applicant's attorney, Eugene Kelly, indicated his client had lined up a lease for the food store location, which was vacated by First National earlier this year.

As to getting a freer control of spending of budgeted funds, the incumbents voiced the opinion that the trend was in the other direction toward tighter controls.

A party split on impoundment of funds by the administration was evident as Rep. Hannan expressed the need for the legislature to challenge such either by court test or calling itself back into session if necessary. Sen. Odegaard, on the other hand, defended the right of the administration to "fine tune" legislative appropriations and cited the need for flexibility to meet emergencies.

Few specific conclusions were reached since the forum was intended to be primarily an information exchange providing would-be legislators with some insight into the problems facing community colleges and regional council and MCC administrative staff members some insight into ways and means to present the case for such needs to the legislature early next year.

James Nikos, East Hartford, MCC council president, termed the session a success on both counts and assured the candidates that the college would be bringing its case to the legislature and reaffirmed Dr. Lowe's invitation for them to bring any questions concerning the college to college officials.

Legislative support for health services and other special services for students. • Maintaining of quality education under limited funding.

A 'New' Way to Campaign

Hitting the campaign trail in Vernon were Diane Miller of Bolton, and her cousin, JoAnn Hall of Vernon. The girls, riding "Dusty" and "Tique," were campaigning for Diane's mother, Dorothy Miller of Bolton, who is seeking re-election, on the Republican ticket, as representative from the 55th District. The girls were carrying bags of campaign literature to distribute. Diane's bag carried the message, "Send my mom back to the House of Representatives." (Herald photo by Richmond)

THE CANDIDATES ARE SAYING

Ahearn: Facing Depression
Aloysius Ahearn, Democratic candidate for state representative from the 55th district, after 5 1/2 years of national Republican control and four years of state Republican control we are facing a 1929 "depression."
He said the Republicans seem to think that by changing their man in charge, the people will be lulled into thinking we are all going to the great state of Utopia.
Ahearn said, "Nixon and Meiskill are gone and the party may have changed horses but remember, it's the same old wagon and it's going in the same direction."
"Big business is still getting a free ride and the man in the street can't even hitch a ride," he added.
Ahearn made the statements in a newsletter to member of the Tolland County Democratic Association of which he is president.
The 55th district includes the towns of Andover, Bolton, Columbia, Hebron, Marlborough and a part of Vernon.
He added that the statements in a newsletter to member of the Tolland County Democratic Association of which he is president.

Houley: False Attack

"Republican Richard MacDonald's 11th hour attack of my alleged income tax position is simply false," Robert Houley, Democratic candidate for the 55th District senatorial seat, said today.
MacDonald recently criticized Houley for his statements of Oct. 17 at the Meet the Candidates forum sponsored by the Vernon League of Women Voters.
MacDonald asked Houley his position on the income tax issue and in a statement to the press MacDonald said Houley's answer was he is currently opposed.
Houley said, "Either MacDonald was not listening very well, or he is practicing the Segretti type of deceit I thought was behind us."
He said his response to the question that night and now is exactly the same. "I spoke against the income tax on the senate floor, I voted against it, and will vote against it in the future."
He added, "My position is constant and that is opposition of any income tax."
"My four-year record in the senate is public record and is always open to anyone's criticism, including my political opponents," Houley said.
Houley termed it strange that MacDonald did not say a word following his (Houley's) reply at the forum.
He also noted, "It's strange MacDonald did not ask Howard Wolfanger (Houley's Republican opponent) his position on the income tax, yet he said he did."
Houley served four years in the state senate and then did not choose to run for re-election last term.
Naming MacDonald and some other Republicans, Houley said, "They are so up-tight with the way things are going that I'm convinced they will stop short of nothing to get Houley."

Report Card Dates Listed by Ramsdell

VERNON
Vernon School Supt. Raymond Ramsdell has issued a schedule for the issuing of mid-term reports and report cards in the town school system.
Students received mid-term reports Oct. 11 and report cards will be issued Nov. 15.
The schedule for the rest of the school year is: Mid-term reports Jan. 3, March 14, and May 23; and Report Cards Jan. 27, April 14, and June 26.
Dr. Ramsdell said he wants parents to be aware of the schedule because sometimes he gets complaints from parents who say they haven't received reports.
He said it is the parent's responsibility to check with children on the reporting dates. All children receive report cards on the dates listed.
Parents with questions may contact school principals.
School Meeting
Parents of juniors and seniors at Rockville High School are invited to attend a meeting Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria to discuss a wide range of topics.
School officials wish to make parents aware of important changes in financing education, post-high school education, and selection and admission procedures.
All counselors of juniors and seniors will be present for brief discussions with individuals having questions. At that time appointments can be made for further conferences.

The Education Committee of the Vernon Junior Women's Club is sponsoring an essay contest in conjunction with the Rockville Public Library. The event will coincide with National Children's Book Week, Nov. 11 to 17.
Students in Grades 4, 5, and 6 may participate in the contest. The essay topic will be "My Favorite Book and Why I Like It." The essay should consist of 100 words or less. The student's name, address and telephone number should appear on the back of the essay.
All entries must be submitted to the secretary of the school the student attends by Nov. 12. Winners will be notified by telephone.

Septic Tank Proposals Criticized

NEW HAVEN (UPI) - The Connecticut Conference of Mayors and Municipalities today criticized proposed state regulations for septic systems as unsatisfactory ecologically and economically.
The CCM said the proposals by the state Departments of Health and Environmental Protection fail to sufficiently balance environmental needs with needs for economic development and sound local property tax bases.
Not only do the regulations go further than necessary, CCM said, but communities which have done a good job "should not be required to meet even higher standards until the current standards are enforced throughout the state."
The need for adequate septic system regulations but the proposals "would stiffen requirements for septic systems and result in greatly increased state control of such systems."

Referendum Question No. 7

Purchase of the Manchester Water Co.

(Editor's note: Town voters will be asked Nov. 5 whether or not the town can buy the Manchester Water Co., a private corporation serving over 3,600 customers in the northern part of town. The price tag is $2.25 million, the same as approved by town voters 10,217 to 4,076 in November, 1971. But the approval required the consolidation of town and Eighth Utilities District sewage facilities. The district voters rejected the consolidation 2,016 to 634. There are no such "strings" attached to a voter approval this time. The Herald re-examined the facts about the sale. The Herald prepared a two-part series dealing first with the company, its history and present status. Next, The Herald examined the implications for or against the purchase.)

end, later referred to as Depot Square. There was no water. Townspeople could only stand and watch the black burn, hoping it would not spread to their homes. The next day, prominent citizens of the time met to discuss water aid fire. Soon after, they applied for a state charter. The new company's first customer was the Eighth School and Utilities District to provide water for fire protection. The contract called for 35 hydrants at a total of $1,000 per year. There are now well over 200 hydrants rented by the district for more than $40,000. Lydall Brook has been the main source of water for the company system. A natural body of water near the Vernon and Bolton towns was expanded into a reservoir. About 1900, Reservoir No. 1 was built in place of the old one. In 1941, No. 1 was enlarged and Reservoir No. 2 added just above it.

Dirty water ranked second with over 100 in five years ending in 1970. The Baldwin Rd. area showed the most such complaints and they were due to the sharp changes in water velocity in the mains. Slow rates of flow allowed silt to settle in the mains. When the company would allow water to pass through the Baldwin Rd. area to serve South Windsor's Avery Heights area, the rate would be fast enough to pick up the silt. Fred E. Thrall, general manager of the company, said, "The well system has obligated the need for the Reservoir No. 1. He went on to note that even if the company's rights to the dam area is not supreme, the rights to use of the water are clear. No one can destroy the water or divert its flow without getting its approval. According to Jay Giles, the town's director of public works, the Griswold Summary at the end of the Griswold report in 1970, which was over 200 pages plus many charts and maps, there was a summary. "System components were found to be in good to excellent condition with the following exceptions: "It then noted 21 percent of the mains were four inches and under in diameter, 10 percent was of the old metal lined cement pipes, and records on the mains, hydrants and valves were not kept fully. "It also noted the general water quality was excellent but the well water did show hardness. Water for the company's customers should be adequate until the year 2000, it said. More water storage is needed in the northeast and west portions of the system, it read. Estimated Value. Near the end of the Griswold summary, it noted that "reproduction cost less depreciation" showed the value of the company plant to be $2,794,028 exclusive of the value of its land holdings. It did warn that if company customer rates were reduced to town rates, the "price support" table from net earnings "would be $37,799. And after the report came and the town failed to buy the company in 1971, the company raised its rates even higher.

Former company president Ernest L. Morse looks over the firm's second best well and pump, Well No. 1 on New State Rd. It can produce 65 million gallons per day. (Herald photo in 1969 by Buccivichius)

The Hale Road Standpipe is 110 feet high and holds 440,000 gallons to serve the Pioneer Industrial Park and Baldwin Rd. area. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Ownership of this more than 100-year-old dam is in dispute between the Manchester Water Co. and George Risley of Vernon. It holds back 62.5 million gallons of water and was once considered crucial to the company during dry summers. Wells are now the main source of water for the firm. (Herald photo by Barlow)

BETTY'S NOTEBOOK

By BETTY RYDER

The centuries-old festival of Halloween will soon be upon us and youthful hobgoblins will be decked out as black cats, little princesses, hobos, knights of old, and a variety of other costumes, as they knock on our door shouting "Trick or treat!" The celebration of Halloween was rarely noted in the U.S. before the 1840s. Researchers report that when the Irish immigrants began arriving here in large numbers they brought the custom of "trick or treat." 'Tis said it's an old Gaelic custom in which farmers solicited food for poor villagers at Halloween. Those who gave willingly were treated to a promise of prosperity. The less generous ones were forced to perform some embarrassing trick, like riding on a horse scatted backwards. In the Scottish Highlands the devil himself is said to appear on the moors at Halloween attired in a tartan kilt and playing "The Death March" on bagpipes or clinking castanets made of human bones. In England, so the story goes, it's an ancient myth that if you eat a crust of bread last thing on Halloween, your dearest wish will be granted by morning. Sparks, flame and fire have been part of Halloween ritual since earliest times. November 1 marked New Year's Day for the pagan Druids who inhabited Wales, Ireland, Scotland, and parts of England and France. On Halloween, the night before New Year's, it was traditional to let old fires die out and light new ones. It was believed that these fires would drive away witches, ghosts and evil spirits. In Scotland, the fire-lighting custom is called Samnagan, after Samhain, the god of death. In Wales, Halloween fires were called Coel Goeth. Welsh people would mark white stones, according to the researchers, and mark them with their initials then throw them into the fire. If any stone was missing next morning, its owner supposedly would not live to see another Halloween. Halloween is also the night to find out whom you'll marry. At least in England it is. Girls put chestnuts beside a fire, naming each one after a suitor. The ones that burn steadily are good marital prospects. Those that burst should be eliminated as potential husbands. As if that wasn't enough information, young ladies in England often sought the initial of their future mate by peeling an apple in one continuous length, twirling it three times over their head and then tossing it over their left shoulder. When it hits the ground, the peel should form a shape indicating the first letter of their future spouses' name. Apple anyone? The sending of cards on Halloween has grown through the years and many boast witches stirring bubbling cauldrons, wild old ows perched on scraggly old trees, and ominous-looking black cats sitting atop a broken-down fence. The messages may read something like this: "I'm turning you into a toad this Halloween. And while I'm at it, are there any other improvements you'd like made?" Another card says, "Just because witches look spooky doesn't necessarily mean they want to scare us. In fact, most of these ugly old women have only one thing on their minds—ugly old men." Another reads "Happy Halloween to all, and to all a good night. Don't laugh. This is the way Santa Claus got started."

And Then There Were Five

The Sullivan family is well-represented at the Dilworth-Cornell Quey Post, American Legion. Michael D. Sullivan, at left, and his brother, Thomas, brought the number of Sullivans in the Post to five when they joined recently. Their dad, William Sullivan, is a member, as is his brother, Dennis Sullivan Jr., and Dennis' son, Dennis Sullivan III, who is also a Vietnam veteran. The elder Sullivans are veterans of World War II. The new Legionnaires were enrolled by Richard Descy, a member of the Post executive committee, who had previously enrolled the other three Sullivan men.

Read the Fine Print!

The "fine print" differences between illicit and lawful bookmaking will be explained in Manchester Nov. 1 when William J. Wade Jr., executive director of the state's off-track betting division, explains the operation to the Board of Directors. He will appear at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room. The basic difference was spelled out first by the 1971 General Assembly, when it adopted Public Act 865. The legislation created a Commission on Special Revenue (the Gambling Commission, as it was known). The commission was authorized to set up a state lottery, license horse racing (since that time misconstrued to mean dog-racing and jai-alai also), and go into the bookmaking world with TV mini tracks, branch office bookies and a telephone bookie system. How does the legislation spell out the basic difference between legal gambling and illicit gambling? By stating that all existing penalties for illicit gambling will stay on the books. "EXCEPT AS PROVIDED IN THIS ACT." The state, the law specifically states, may conduct, supervise and "pay off" for lottery, horse racing and bookmaking operations. Anyone else who attempts to do so continues to be the criminal he was before the legislation was passed.

THE CANDIDATES ARE SAYING

Haslett: Say 'No' Sometimes

"The road to success in establishing a sound fiscal budget is an ability to weigh the needs of our state carefully and say 'no' when necessary," said Harriet Haslett today. Mrs. Haslett is the GOP candidate for 13th District state representative. "Unlimited spending," she continued, "would mean skyrocketing taxes, and that's not what any of us wants today or tomorrow." She charged, "An examination of my opponent's record shows he consistently voted for increased spending—over and over increases already included in the balanced budget. Is this what you want? I know I don't." "Lot of Effort" "I've put a lot of effort into this campaign," Mrs. Haslett said. "I've written my own ads and press releases, answered numerous questionnaires, gone door to door, put up billboard signs, attended Meet the Candidates forums, researched many subjects and many other tasks. The question is 'Why?' "It is because I don't feel we have been represented in the 13th District in recent years with the kind of dedication and initiative that the people deserve. And I am one of the people.

New Rule in Force On Absentee Ballots

By SOL R. COHEN

Since the last election there is a new provision in the law which allows an elector to complete an absentee ballot in the town clerk's office and return it the same day up to and including the day before election day. The following are valid reasons to file an absentee ballot: Absence from the state during all of the hours of voting (members of the armed forces need only be absent from town); Illness or physical disability, because of religious tenets forbidding secular activity on election day; status as a student in a college, or other institution of higher learning located in any other town and who will be absent from town on election day; Absence from town during all hours of voting because of membership in a religious community and possibly having temporary living quarters in another town; And an elector who moved from one Connecticut town to another after Oct. 12, under special provision. Special application forms for the absentee ballots are available in offices of town clerks. These may be obtained either by mail or in person and the completed application may be returned either in person or by mail. The ballot is then given personally if the applicant presents the application himself but if presented by another person, then the ballot is mailed to the applicant. Any person can initiate the sending of an absentee ballot to a serviceman, his or her spouse, or dependents living with him, by notifying either the registrars or the town clerk. Application forms for absentee admission as electors can also be sent to such persons by making a request to the town clerk. Once the absentee ballot is completed, unless completed in the town clerk's office, it must be returned through the mail in time to be received by the town clerk, no later than when the polls close election day.

A Pain In The Neck

Television can give you a pain in the neck—literally. The Journal of American Medical Association relates that those who watch television from reclining chairs or prone on couches must force their necks into unnatural positions to view the screens.

Dr. David Goldberg of Springfield, Mass., says, "The Connecticut State Medical Society suggests that the most rewarding therapy (for TV neck pain) is to refrain from watching television in a reclined or lying-down position. Unless the set is placed close to the ceiling, a straight-backed chair is mandatory." While we are in complete agreement with Dr. Greenberg's statement, we might add that even in a straight-backed chair some of the programs viewed on television are still a pain in the neck.

WOMAN'S VIEW

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

New York (UPI) — It is a typical Saturday morning in a typical American household. The television set is on, the cartoons are going, the children are glued figuratively to the home screen.

But the scene is changing. There is more and a better choice of children's fare, including more programs of the non-cartoon nature and fewer of the stream of commercials.

Evelyn Kaye thinks that an organization called ACT is in part responsible for the improvement because of its pressures through parents and others interested in children's television fare.

"I feel very hopeful of what's happening," said Miss Kaye, one of four founders of ACT, which stands for Action for Children's Television.

"I think the most exciting thing is that programs are different. They aren't being churned out with the same characters, the same voices.

Saturday morning used to be one big blanket."

She named specific additions by the three major networks, with action shows, a film festival, a folksy nostalgia show and documentaries for Saturday's children.

"And why," she asked, "can't the networks rerun some of their best Saturday morning shows during the week at another peak viewing time for children, between five and six in the evening? Better than the reruns of some of the so-called adult shows."

She also commended the cut in the number of commercials now on children's shows. Any one hour of programming used to have as many as 16 minutes of commercials, she said. It's been cut to 12 currently, will go to 10 on Jan. 1, and to nine and one-half minutes a year hence.

ACT grew out of the concern of a group of Newton, Mass., parents on what television was offering the young viewers. It resolved into the nucleus of four women who formally established the organization in January 1968, a year "when the monster cartoons" dominated Saturday morning fare, she said.

Today, its scope is national with some 5,000 enrolled members and thousands who have supported various ACT campaigns. It currently is operating under a two-year grant of $300,000 from the Ford and Merkle foundations.

"One network show might cost that much to produce," said Miss Kaye, who serves as ACT's publications director. In private life, she is Mrs. Christopher Sarson, wife of a television producer and mother of a 10-year-old girl and nine-year-old boy.

She also is author of a new book, "The Family Guide to Children's Television" (Pantheon Books, New York), prepared with ACT and the American Academy of Pediatrics.

If You Drive, Watch Out For Spooks

CHICAGO (UPI) — Halloween is a time for motorists to exercise special caution.

Children on the trick-or-treat route often dash out into the road. Motorists, says the National Safety Council, should be on the lookout for them.

There are these other motoring tips: Slow down in all residential areas.

Obey all traffic signs and regulations.

Watch for children in dark clothing walking down the road, on the shoulders or on the median.

Make sure your headlights and windshield area are clean to insure good visibility.

Be especially careful when backing out of driveways.

Make Halloween Safe For Your Hobgoblins

By PATRICIA McDERMACK
UPI Family Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Those things you see salin' through the sky at night may not be spots before your eyes or unidentified flying objects.

It comes on good advice that those things are witches puttin' their brooms through flight tests for Halloween.

The spook season's practically upon us, you see. That being so, now's the time for parents of hobgoblins of a human kind to bone up on the safety rules — to keep their dear characters from injury when out trickin' and treatin' and scarin' the neighbors out of their wits.

Little kids with their long costumes some Halloween past have backed into jack o'lanterns containing candles. Their clothing flamed up and the children have been burned. (You should use flashlights in the jack o'lanterns.)

Other times a youngster romps in the dark in an unfamiliar yard, trips and falls, hurting himself.

And some children, busy having a good time, run into the path of a car with such suddenness that the driver can't stop. These little spooks wind up in the hospital usually and run the risk of being killed.

Some little spooks pick up colds because they are not dressed warmly enough. Others program their stomach for a massive ache by eating too much candy, popcorn, cookies and what not.

Occasionally a tricky treat, dropped into a little spook's treat bag, really does contain poison or something else meant to make the child sick. It may be a candy bar laced with laxatives or needles. Or an apple with a razor inside.

Breast 'Enlargers' Don't Work

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a young woman of fair appearance. My problem may not seem extremely bad, but it bothers me a lot. My breasts are quite small.

People have told me different ways to solve my problem. These include exercise and breast enlargers advertised in the back of magazines.

I have tried the exercises and they didn't seem to work. I know it takes time, but I did do them for quite some time. Are the breast enlargers effective and are they safe? I am sure many women wonder about them.

DEAR READER — I receive an enormous amount of mail from women asking about small breasts and some asking about large breasts, and even some worrying about unequal breasts. So, you are not unusual.

The only exercises that are useful in increasing the bustline are those that increase the muscles of the chest wall. These muscles are the pectoral muscles under the breast itself.

Pushing the hands against each other and proper weight lifting-type exercises help to build these. When they enlarge, the breast, even if small, stands out a bit more.

Don't neglect the importance of posture. Rounded shoulders make even normal-sized breasts seem smaller. Shoulders back and a pleasing posture help to improve the appearance of the bustline.

I have looked into the various devices advertised for use in breast enlargement programs. Some of these are stimulating, like a skin bra, and the action may stimulate the skin just as a facial massage does, but none, and I mean NONE, of these or the creams do anything to actually enlarge the breast itself. They do enlarge the fat pocketbooks of the people who are taking advantage of women's desire to be more attractive.

Some of the programs to enlarge breasts do have some good features, the exercises and the diet programs, but neither a device nor a cream is one of the good features.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you advise me if a slant board is in any way beneficial to a woman as an aid in filling out wrinkles in the face and neck? I have often read articles stating that by lying on a slant board 10 minutes a day, the blood rushes to the head and helps to prevent the aging process.

DEAR READER — It has no useful effect. If you hang your head down you could get some swelling, just as you can get swelling of the feet and ankles from being on your feet all day. The effect would be transitory swelling. You can see a variation of this in the puffy appearance around the eyes so common to many on arising in the morning.

You can get some improvement in circulation in the skin, at least temporarily, by doing exercises, particularly facial exercises or even bending exercises. You are familiar, I'm sure, with the flushed face after exercise.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send $2 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

School Music, Buses Draw Comment

The public school music program, the Health and Family Life Curriculum, and school bus situations were subjects of comment by parents attending Monday night's Board of Education meeting at the Verplanck School.

Board Chairman Allan Thomas said there has been an attempt to increase the music staff, particularly in the string area. However, the unsettled teachers contract negotiations and the possibility of rising fuel prices have caused the board to hold back on such an increase, Thomas said.

Secret to Yale Success

Undeclared after five games, Yale is riding high, wide and handsome at this stage of the football season.

"The reason we are undefeated," Coach Carm Cozza explained to the press yesterday at the weekly Cozza luncheon, "is that we are not turning the ball over. That's the secret to our success."

Saturday at the Borsari in New Haven, Dartmouth's year in the gridiron, in the midst of their worst season in years, the current, will test the Elis.

"Dartmouth spoiled our season last year," Cozza reminded the scribes. "The toughest part of our schedule lies ahead, starting Saturday," he added, "when we return to the Bowl for the home finale with Princeton and conclude at Cambridge against Harvard on Nov. 23. The Cantabs, also at this writing, are unbeaten."

Asked if there was any talk of an undefeated season among the players, Cozza answered, "We are not talking about an undefeated season. Any team on our schedule is capable of beating us. Several of the games we won could easily have been turned around."

"Dartmouth's record is not very good but we expect a tough game. Basically, they have the same men back on defense as a year ago. Dartmouth is always tough for us. It's just a tough game, right down to the wire."

Luncheon Smoke Rings

Trinity hosts Coast Guard Saturday and Larry Rutledge, assistant Coast Guard mentor, said he saw several outstanding players on Trin's defensive unit, one No. 79. "He's a real good defensive player," he said. Said player is Jack Holik, former Manchester High lineman.

The Bruins unbeaten in their last five games, can't seem to satisfy their fans - who still come in droves to Boston Garden even after a big win. They whipped Kansas City, 82, Sunday, and spectators going home were heard to say "Yah, they won big, but look who they played against."

Kuberski Hoops 18 For Celts

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) - Steve Kuberski scored 18 points Monday night to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to an 88-75 win over the Philadelphia 76ers in the third annual Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame Game.

Kuberski, a former Boston Celtic, scored eight points in the key second period when the Bucks outscored the 76ers 27-16, to put the game away. Steve Mix led Philadelphia with 17 points and 19 rebounds.

Harris and Holmes Lead Way As Steelers Defeat Falcons

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - The Pittsburgh Steelers awarded game balls Monday night to running back Franco Harris, who already has a fan club, and defensive tackle Ernie "Arrowhead" Holmes, who says he's going to form one.

Harris' 141 yards on 28 carries, both career highs, were instrumental in leading the Steelers over the Atlanta Falcons in a nationally televised National Football League game.

Holmes had four unassisted tackles, seven assists and sacked Atlanta quarterback Bob Lee twice as Pittsburgh's brutal "Steel Curtain" defense sealed the Steelers' doom. In all, Lee was sacked seven times - a Steelers record - as Pittsburgh increased its league-leading sacks to 29 for the year.

It was a clutch 29-yard pass on third down from Terry Bradshaw, starting for the first time this season, to Harris on the first play of the fourth period that set up what proved to be the winning touchdown. Three plays later, Harris went seven yards for the tie score in the 16-16 tie.

"I haven't been happy alternating and I think Coach (Chuck) Noll got the message, but it wasn't me that told him," said Harris, who found himself with an Italian Army fan club after a brilliant rookie season three years ago. "Basically, we ran a lot more and that was our game plan. If we beat a team on the ground, we beat them physically. We know we took the game to them and that's what football is all about."

L.C. Greenwood sacked Lee three times and Joe Greene and Andy Russell also trapped the Atlanta quarterback once as Pittsburgh's defense turned in a solid performance.

Holmes, with the hair on his head shaved in the shape of an arrow, said afterward that he would form an Ernie "Arrowhead" Holmes fan club on the basis of his personally satisfying performance.

"It's for my personal identity," Holmes said of his unusual hair style. "It's something I did after the Houston game (Oct. 6) to get my mind positive on what my goal was, to go straight ahead. I shave the front of my head, my brother shaves the back and I go to a barber once in a while to have it trimmed."

But Atlanta almost denied Pittsburgh the opportunity to improve its record to 5-1-1 and move 1 1/2 games ahead of Cincinnati in the AFC Central Division. The loss dropped Atlanta to 2-5 and into a tie with San Francisco in the NFC West.

Pittsburgh jumped into a 14-0 lead the first two times it handled the ball on a 10-yard touchdown run by Rocky Bleier and on a one-yard drive by Bradshaw, who had had one completion and one interception on two attempts while previously backing up former starting quarterback Joe Gilliam.

Rookie Lynn Swan set up Bleier's touchdown with a brilliant 52-yard punt return after Atlanta's first unsuccessful series.

But Lee tied the game 14-14 in the second period on touchdown passes of nine yards to Al Dodd and 24 yards to Ken Burrow. Then Roy Gerela, despite an injured leg, once more pushed Pittsburgh into the lead with a 33-yard field goal in the third period.

But even after Harris' winning touchdown, Atlanta threatened to send the prime time game into overtime by narrowing it to 24-17 on a 23-yard field goal by Nick Mike-Mayer.

Pittsburgh's offense turned the ball over to Atlanta three straight times on an interception by end John Zook and fumbles by Bleier and Harris. But the Steeler defense, which has carried the club all year, allowed the Falcons only three points.

Bradshaw, who led Pittsburgh into the playoffs the past two seasons, felt it might have been a different story had he been given more game experience this year.

"I didn't throw the ball well," Bradshaw said. "I was missing handoffs. Everything was hazy until I settled down."

Her favorite Redskins is halfback Larry Brown. "He's really a good runner who can rip any defense apart," the outgoing coed noted.

Growing up in a neighborhood overly populated with boys certainly had its outgrowth. "They (the boys) did have a definite effect. I was a tomboy. My mother always tried to convert me to dolls but all I wanted to do was play football. When the other sports came into the picture, I played them too. You see there weren't that many girls around," Debbie quipped.

Debbie is also girls' sports editor of the ECHO, the school newspaper. She has been writing on and off since her sophomore year but isn't sure if journalism is in her future plans.

Having seen both sides of the coin, Debbie said the boys are better equipped and get better coaching. She writes for the Manchester paper. It's really neat. It sure boosts your ego. Admittedly an average student, college is definitely in her future plans. One applicant has been forwarded to Southern Connecticut State College among several choices. The first girl in something and now that I am, it really doesn't make that much of a difference. Covering a football game is something different and I figured I would give it a try. It's fun and I feel it's an honor to write for the Manchester paper.

Bruins Fans Finding Fault

BOSTON (UPI) - Boston Bruins fans love a winner but sometimes they get happier when they can complain about their heroes.

"We're doing our best," says annoyed Bruins Coach Don Cherry, citing his team's 3-2-3 record. "What are we supposed to do? We win a game, 5-1, and it's dull; we grab games in the last minute after pulling the goalie, and they're sloppy. The Bruins unbeaten in their last five games, can't seem to satisfy their fans - who still come in droves to Boston Garden even after a big win. They whipped Kansas City, 82, Sunday, and spectators going home were heard to say "Yah, they won big, but look who they played against."

Kuberski Hoops 18 For Celts

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) - Steve Kuberski scored 18 points Monday night to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to an 88-75 win over the Philadelphia 76ers in the third annual Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame Game.

Kuberski, a former Boston Celtic, scored eight points in the key second period when the Bucks outscored the 76ers 27-16, to put the game away. Steve Mix led Philadelphia with 17 points and 19 rebounds.

Rosewall to Cut Down Tennis Play

SYDNEY (UPI) - Veteran Ken Rosewall announced Tuesday he is going into semi-retirement from tennis and has accepted a five year contract as a sporting promotions coordinator with a Hong Kong-based international airline.

Rosewall, runnerup in the 1974 World Tennis Championships but defeated untypically in straight sets by American Jimmy Connors at Wimbledon and Forest Hills, said 40 years old was time to call a halt to full time pro tennis. He said he would limit his appearances in world tournaments in the future and spend more time coaching.

millionaires of pro tennis, said he was joining an airline to promote sport and the company's activities around the world but particularly in Southeast Asia. He said his first assignment will be to Hong Kong next month when he will compete in the Victoria Tennis Classic and conduct tennis clinics.

Football Coaches in Poll Reach Stability

NEW YORK (UPI) - The cream apparently has risen to the top.

After weeks of continual change, the United Press International Board of Coaches' major college football ratings have reached a point of stability.

And the steadiest continues to be Ohio State, which retained the No. 1 rating it has held since the preseason.

Big Ten rival Michigan, which gets its shot at the Buckeyes Nov. 23 in Columbus, was second in the latest ratings.

The Southeastern Conference's Florida followed in order, with Florida edged past Texas for 10th. Maryland was 12th again, while Texas Tech and Miami (Fla.) each climbed two positions to take over 13th and 14th, respectively. Arizona State and Mississippi State tied for 15th, while Southern Illinois with Oklahoma State and Houston tied the same for 17th. UCLA was the only other team to receive a vote for the coaches' board and was ranked 19th.

Big League Stars Due Here Tonight

Inside baseball will be the topic of conversation tonight when Boston Red Sox and Roy White of the New York Yankees share the speaking program at the Masonic Temple.

White, twice a member of the American League All-Star team, has been with the Yankees eight years. The 30-year-old veteran was used chiefly as a designated hitter last season.

Montgomery, who was called upon to step in at the regular Red Sox catcher when Carlton Fisk was injured, wound up in a blaze of glory as a hitter. Boston baseball writers called the 30-year-old catcher the most improved player on the 'squad.

Another Patriot Player Hurt

ATLEBORO, Mass. (UPI) — New England Patriots reserve player Shelby Jordan was injured in a fire Monday at an apartment house in Mansfield, Mass.

A spokesman at Sturdy Memorial Hospital here said Jordan, 22, was in good condition although he suffered first and second degree burns. He was the only person injured in the blaze which heavily damaged the building.

Jordan, a middle linebacker who stands 6-7 and weighs 220 pounds, is currently on the injured list. Jordan is expected to return to the Patriots after injuring his knee in pre-season workouts.

Pats' Pass Receivers Poor Insurance Risks

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Pretty soon even Lloyd's of London won't insure New England Patriot pass catchers. It seems every time a New England receiver exposes his red and white body he comes away battered.

The latest racked-up receiver is tight end Bob Windsor, who suffered torn ligaments in his right knee while twisting the last two yards of a 10-yard game winning pass with three seconds left against Minnesota.

Two weeks earlier, flanker Darryl Stingley was decommissioned with a broken forearm suffered in a diving collision with fellow receiver Steve Schubert.

The Islanders' win was their sixth in eight games this season against one loss and one tie. Those are heady figures compared to two years ago when the team won a grand total of 12 games in 78 outings and last season when it managed to post 19 victories.

"We're working more as a unit and have more confidence around the net," was Coach Al Arbour's simple explanation for the Islanders' vast improvement. "In the past we missed the mark on a lot of plays."

The Flames are the fourth team in Division 1 and if the Islanders do manage to finish ahead of them, it would mean a playoff spot.

Playing one of its finest games of the soccer season, Cheney Tech bowed to Lyman Memorial, 2-1, yesterday at the Beavers' field.

Bob Ajemian tallied at the 10:14 mark of the first stanza for the winners and Wally Curiel recorded what proved to be the winner at 8:53 of the third period.

Cheney, now 3-8, concludes its season today at Cromwell High.

Eight games into the 1974 soccer season South Windsor High sported a 2-5-1 record with prospects of post-season play.

Reggie Rucker, last year's leading Patriot pass grabber, has played three weeks with a lightweight cast to protect a broken wrist incurred against Baltimore.

And Randy Vataha, out two weeks with torn muscles in his thigh, suffered another minor leg injury against the Vikings.

The only remaining experienced receivers with a degree of health are reserve tight end Bob Adams, who now becomes a key starter, and former Baltimore Colt Eddie Hinton, picked up two weeks ago on waivers.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks certainly will be looking around this week for eligible receivers interested in kamikaze work.

fall and MacMillan, the Islanders also got scores from Bob Bourne, Billy Harris, Gary Howatt and Ernie Hicke.

Goalie Billy Smith, who had posted shutouts in two of the Islanders' previous three games, missed a chance for another when Bob Stewart scored California's only goal at 13:22 of the second period.

In the only other NHL game, Los Angeles shut out Pittsburgh 2-0. In the only World Hockey Association game, Toronto topped Phoenix 7-3.

Goals by Bob Berry and Don Kozak combined with Rogie Vachon's first shutout of the season led Los Angeles over Pittsburgh. Vachon knocked away 23 shots to lower his goals against average to 1.00 for six games this year.

Tom Simpson scored his sixth and seventh goals in the last four games and leading scorer Wayne Dillon notched his sixth to lead Toronto past Phoenix. The Toros' victory was their 12th in a row, a WHA record.

Cheney Tech bowed to Lyman Memorial, 2-1, yesterday at the Beavers' field. Lyman earlier in the campaign overpowered Cheney, 9-0.

Playing well for Cheney were Gordon Sharpe, Joel Tessier, Rich Damas, Jeff Stetz and Fraser. Sophomore goalie Bruce Beebe continued his fine play in the nets with 21 saves.

COACHES' CORNER

By Larry Olsen

MANCHESTER HIGH Coaching is a funny business at any level and when you are coaching high school players an additional dimension is added.

At the high school level you don't have the ball players that are all jocks. They are a group of people who have been bound together because of a common enjoyment — they like football.

We have a few seniors that have been with us for three seasons and who although perhaps not playing much varsity ball till now, have stuck with it because they enjoyed it.

Defense predominated as three quarters went by the board scoreless. With less than a minute in the final stanza, Enfield took advantage of a pass interference call at the Tribe 20.

Who despite his lack of size, has done well running the ball when called upon. The best example of a quiet unassuming unsung hero is our tight end Jim McCann.

It was the Giants' second win against one tie in three games so far with Yogi Berra's Mets. The Giants scored two runs in the second inning on successive hits by Shigeru Tanaka and Koji Aino after starter Jerry Kosman.

Turning to this week's game, we are facing a team that is very simple in its approach to football.

Foreman 14-5 Choice To Keep Boxing Title

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — "I will consider the title vacant the moment the bell rings," George Foreman, the heavyweight champion said Monday.

In a few short hours (10 p.m. EST) Muhammad Ali will meet Foreman in the center of the ring here with the world title, stripped from Ali in 1971 for his refusal to accept the draft, now for one last time within his reach.

Foreman, the 25-year-old native of Houston, Texas, is a 14-5 choice to successfully defend his title against the 32-year-old Ali, the most celebrated fighter in modern times.

Ali has said he will whisper something into Foreman's ear while they meet with the officials in center ring — something he claims will make George "scared as hell."

Ali began fighting Foreman six months ago, with words. Now he must fight him with his aging legs and jabs, while Foreman must fight him with his boxing skills.

But Ali is the greatest drawing card in ring history not only because of his fighting ability inside the ropes, but also because of his public image.

Among the approximately 64,000 expected in the Stadium of the 20th of May in the pre-dawn hour of 4 a.m. Wednesday, will be a host of Zairians who have never seen a fight before, but who are aware that these two black "brothers" will each get $5-million for their efforts — win or lose.

To the Zairians, the fight is a festival, brought to their land by President Mobutu Sese Seko to draw attention to Zaire and invite foreign investments in its rich, untapped resources.

To the rest of the world, the fight can mark the passing of an era should Foreman win, or acceptance of Muhammad Ali as one of the very greatest, if not the greatest, of all heavyweight champions.

Beamed via satellite, the bout will be shown to more than 400 pay-tv outlets in the United States and Canada Wednesday, will be a host of Zairians who have never seen a fight before, but who are aware that these two black "brothers" will each get $5-million for their efforts — win or lose.

New Mark Set For Pin Winnings

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A professional bowling record was set here Monday night as Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., won the $50,000 Canada Dry Open and broke a one-year official earnings record of the Professional Bowlers Association.

Change in Driveway Planned For Approach to Lincoln Center

Bids will be opened Nov. 5 in the Manchester Municipal Building for paving the existing parking lot at Lincoln Center (formerly Lincoln School), and for relocating the road leading in and out.

Plans are for renovating the parking lot to the rear of the building and for connecting it with a road and sidewalk to the Municipal Building Parking Lot, with the road and sidewalk skirting the north side of Center Church.

The existing entry to Lincoln Center will be abandoned as an entry, then to the parking lot in the rear, and then around the church to the Municipal Building Parking Lot.

The new road from Main St. will be one-way, for entry only. The road connecting Lincoln Center with the Municipal Building will be two-way and is expected to carry the bulk of the traffic.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Among the $24,724,245 that Nelson Rockefeller gave away to deserving organizations these last seven years was a $10 contribution to Phillips Academy.

Now any time that a worthy cause can extract 10 bucks from you or me, it knows it has been in a struggle.

But finding a $10 donation on Rockefeller's charity list is a bit like sighting a guppy in a school of whales.

Only one other gift was under a grand, and some of his contributions ran into seven figures.

I don't know what Phillips Academy did with its benefaction, but if school officials had been true sportsmen, they would have thrown it back as being undesired.

Unfortunately, the material that Rockefeller submitted to the Senate Rules Committee in connection with his vice presidential confirmation hearings gave no hint as to the circumstances under which the donation was made.

So one can only speculate as to how Rockefeller hit upon $10 as being the appropriate amount for this particular gift. But he must have had a grudge against the academy.

More's the pity, we have no record of how academy officials reacted when they received the donation. Were they crestfallen, do you suppose?

I'll wager the sound of falling crests could be heard for miles

Savings, Loan Moves To Fight Housing Crunch

In a letter to local Realtors, builders and attorneys, William H. Hale, president of Heritage Savings & Loan Association, Manchester, is urging support for national legislation to help ease the money crunch in thrift institutions.

Hale is urging support for House of Representatives Bill No. 16994, which will provide for up to $500 tax free earnings on savings accounts ($1,000 for joint return).

This measure will encourage thrift, help fight inflation by increasing savings, and provide some necessary funds for the home financing market, Hale said, thereby providing jobs in construction, sales and related business.

If passed, the positive impact of the bill will be felt almost immediately, Hale said. Industry economists project that this tax exclusion could attract up to $24 billion annually in additional deposits at thrift institutions.

This amount would provide financing for 750,000 residential units, he said. This much additional activity could provide 500,000 new jobs in the construction and supplier industries, and boost the gross national product by almost 30 billion dollars.

The current housing situation, Hale said, is extremely critical with new starts slipping to a 1.1 million annual rate according to the latest U.S. Department of Commerce figures and unemployment rising to over 11 per cent in the construction trade.

"Something must be done in Washington to alleviate the difficult situation that now confronts us," said Hale, who is hoping for three specific changes in the banking picture:

One, increase deposit insurance. A measure which has been passed by Congress, and only awaits President Ford's signature to be made law; increasing savings deposit insurance from $20,000 to $40,000.

In this time of economic uncertainty, deposit insurance is very important to people, Hale said. It is one simple positive step the government can take to help the home financing institutions and more importantly, the federal budget out of balance because there is no increased cost to the budget.

Second, a tax exemption for deposit interest. This measure is a part of House Bill 16994 and would give the average depositor a greater incentive for saving. The American saver has been cheated by inflation and robbed of a fair return on his savings, Hale said.

And finally, Hale feels the federal government is relying heavily on the single tool of tight money or monetary restraint to combat inflation.

Between inflation and high interest, homes have been priced out of the reach of the typical wage earner in America today, Hale would like to see a more balanced anti-inflation policy. Some monetary restraint is part of the answer, but we should also be thinking about

Since then, nobody's had to do Abe's job for him.

Grasso Favors Statewide Mass Transit

United Press International Robert H. Steele, the GOP gubernatorial nominee, today said he has received contributions from a record number of donors. His Democratic foe called the statewide coordination of mass transportation "vital to the state."

Steele said his campaign has attracted nearly 10,000 contributors, a state record, who donated $200,000, despite a self-imposed $100 limit on individual contributions. About $144,000 was received in the past month, he said.

Steele instituted the gift limit at the start of his campaign, as part of what he called an effort "to drive big money out of politics," a slogan which has become one of the central themes of his advertising campaign.

Speaking to a group in Berlin, congressman Steele said his 9,586 contributors were more than twice the number of donors who have contributed to the entire Democratic ticket. He said his campaign treasurers have $31,818 on hand, and $13,220 in unpaid bills.

Mrs. Grasso told a meeting in Glastonbury the administration of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill "has failed all taxpayers by not forging a transportation program, by not recognizing the state's responsibility for transportation."

She said that if elected she would disband the regional transit districts set up around the state in favor of a single operation to coordinate public transportation.

She also said she would fight to preserve all "essential" freight service in the state, a reference to a federal efficiency study which has labeled as "non-essential" 170 miles of Connecticut railroad freight lines.

"What is needed — and what the present administration has failed to do — is to give a clear mandate from the governor's office that public transportation is vital to a healthy economy, a healthy job market, and a healthy environment," she said.

Meanwhile records at the Watergate-inspired state Elections Commission showed Steele has not signed a voluntary Fair Campaign Practices Code drawn up by the commission.

The code is voluntary, but committee chairman Lester B. Snyder said if it works out the committee will appeal to the legislature to pass laws to make it statutory — and attach to it financial and other penalties.

Mrs. Schaffer's signature was received Oct. 17, two days before Mrs. Grasso's and Robert E. Killian's were received. Killian, now attorney general, is running for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket.

Democrats Score High At Coventry High School

Monica Shea A mock election at Coventry High School Monday gave Democrats an almost 2-1 landslide victory with one exception: Judge of Probate David Rappe, a Republican incumbent, beat Democrat Charles Popple by six votes.

Incumbent Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., was the highest vote-getter with 199 votes. Democrat Eli Grasso beat Republican Robert Steele 178 to 87 in the gubernatorial race, and the American Party's candidate for governor, Allen Peichert, received 12 votes.

Democrat Chris Dodd beat Sam Heller at 183 to 70 in the Second Congressional District race. GOP incumbent State Sen. David Odgaard lost to Democrat David Barry 185 to 76 in the contest in the Fourth Senatorial District.

Two-Acre Zoning Rejected by PZC

COVENTRY Monica Shea Correspondent

After considerable discussion Monday night, the Coventry Planning and Zoning Commission defeated proposed two-acre minimums and two-family housing amendments to the town's zoning regulations.

The defeated proposals will be returned to the town planner for revision and commission reconsideration by next March.

Most commission members expressed support for the two-acre zoning but were concerned that residents didn't have adequate notice of the public hearing. There were very few residents at the public hearing (approximately 60) and the two-acre proposal would affect between 40 and 50 per cent of the town's acreage.

Long Hearing Monday night's public hearing on Albert Lindner's application for a zone change from residential to commercial for land at Rts. 44 and 31 was one of the longest hearings ever conducted by the commission.

Atty. Richard Cronie and Eugene Kelly, representing Lindsay, called two witnesses, Richard Barry, a Manchester real estate appraiser, said the zone change would be in accordance with the town's Comprehensive Plan of Development and the commercial proposal would be the best use of the land.

Michael Degenes, traffic engineer, said the primary function of the proposed commercial development is to serve existing traffic and that it would not add any congestion to the area.

Village Within Town Lindsay told the commission the spirit of his development would be a village within a town. He is proposing 11 buildings with 48,000 square feet of space. The new Nathan Hale Bank would be included, as well as restaurants, a furniture store, other specialty shops and administrative offices.

Atty. Philip Bayer, representing Nathan Hale Bank incorporated, asked the commission to approve the zone change as soon as possible.

Many residents spoke in favor of the application and none opposed it.

Among those speaking in favor was Len Benjamin, who said, "This would be a non-kid-producing project that would add to the tax base of Coventry without sending more kids into our schools."

Two residents who opposed the project two years ago supported it this time. They were Walter Keller and Don Edwards. Others speaking in favor of the zone change were Paul Diehl, Richard Brent, John Dudge, and Jon Jennings.

No Decision The commission reserved judgment on the zone change. The Coventry Development Corp. received preliminary approval for a three-lot subdivision on Rt. 31. The corporation must return with detailed engineering studies to receive final approval.

A public hearing on the impact statement requirements for subdivision regulations has been rescheduled for 8 p.m. on Nov. 25.

A public hearing on the application of Peter Conas for a 16-lot subdivision has been set for Nov. 12 at 9 p.m. This subdivision is on land at Carpenter and Merrow Rds.

Ernest Wheeler was appointed zoning agent and inland wetlands agent for the town at Monday night's meeting.

Parents should accompany small children to trick or treating. Use reflector strips if costume is dark. Carry a lighted flashlight. Walk on the side of the road at all times and look both ways before crossing. Report immediately any candy or fruit that contains foreign matter and where it was obtained, if possible.

Morality should take extra precaution knowing that children are trick or treating. Remember — there is a difference between trick or treating and vandalism.

Police Recover Stolen Antiques

By JAMES V. HEALON WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — The cops are collecting antiques, and they say some of them may be yours.

Detectives and a postal inspector Monday displayed 36 urns, one fountain, 10 weather-vanes, and the statue of a boy in bonded tin over black wood that was cast in 1890.

The items, valued at about $10,000, might make an antique pause, but not one of the detectives who recovered them from a Reading, Pa., dealer.

"I wouldn't give you $10 for that junk," said Sgt. Anthony Duffy of the West Hartford Police Department. Pointing to an urn, he said, "Incredibly — $450 for one lousy urn!"

It was Duffy's work and that of Sgt. Fred Cavanaugh of the Avon Police Department and John DeSilva, the postal inspector, that led to the recovery of the stolen goods.

The inspector got into the act when a weather-vane cast in the form of a cow was stolen from the top of the Simsbury Post Office. He was also investigating interstate transportation of stolen property in the case.

The Pennsylvania dealer whom they declined to identify unwillingly purchased the items from the suspects. He was very cooperative with the police and will lose all the money he paid to the thieves who stole the items from buildings, lawns and cemeteries throughout New England.

Duffy said the dealer still had more, but the five-ton truck he used to haul the stuff back was not big enough to accommodate it, and another trip was planned.

The case of the missing weather-vanes pointed the police to Pennsylvania after the arrests last week of two young Hartford men who were found with weather-vanes inside their apartment where the need for wind direction is limited, police said.

Four more arrests are expected, including the mastermind of the operation, police said.

A-Bid four trump. This should set the record in this sequence but if your partner wants to treat it as such you really don't mind.

He led his jack of diamonds. South was in dummy and has his choice of any number of ways to go after 10 tricks. All these ways had one thing in common. They weren't going to work. All West had to do was to remember to lead a second diamond when he next got in the lead.

Good bidding doesn't always show a profit. It didn't this time because West came up with a killing defense.

His king of spades held the first trick. East's four spot was the lowest missing spade so West assumed his partner held three spades.

West looked at dummy's five diamonds and saw that once trumps were pulled they would represent five tricks to declarer. He saw that if he

William E. Fitzgerald

Making of a Loophole

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All schoolchildren know that Washington is the place where the nation's laws are made. What the civics books don't tell them is that it also is a loophole manufacturing center of the United States. Recently, President Ford signed a new law that, among other things, strictly limits campaign contributions by individuals and by organizations. Before, as they say, the ink on the President's signature was dry, the loophole industry most surely was gearing up to meet the new challenge.

1975...another difficult year for our citizens? — continued high food costs — higher than ever unemployment? — gouging utility bills with the horrendous fuel cost adjustment charge? — founding mass transportation needs? — spiraling local property taxes? — a bleak outlook indeed for the next 12 months.

The new year must bring with it new commitment to state government if we are to overcome the failures of the past four years. I look forward to that challenge in the State Senate.

Nixon Condition Critical

Nixon's doctors called the operation "uneventful" and "a success." They said that placing a small plastic clip, shaped roughly like a serrated bobby pin, across a vein in his left groin should control his medical problems, and estimated he could go home to San Clemente by the end of the week if he recovered as expected.

But the health of the former president, who only last month predicted that if he entered a hospital "I'll never come out alive," continued to deteriorate. At 12:45 p.m., almost six hours after the surgery ended, "Former President Nixon suddenly went into vascular shock," said his personal physician, Dr. John Langgren.

Long Beach Bulletin

ALABAMA BAPTISTS have been asked to skip a meal a week and contribute the money saved to efforts to feed the growing number of hungry people in the world. Three-Hour Effort Nixon's physician said a three-hour effort by a team of surgeons and nurses had pulled him out of shock, but "the patient is still considered critical," Nager stressed.

Shock Can Be Fatal

Shock is caused by loss of blood pressure and circulatory collapse. It can be fatal. Lungren blamed "serious complications" — in all probability due to some retroperitoneal bleeding secondary to the anticoagulation therapy — bleeding within Nixon's abdomen caused by the chemically thinned state of his blood.

Party Chiefs Unite For 'Clean' Election

Ecology will be the big winner Nov. 5 in Manchester, regardless of which party carries the election. As in Manchester's three previous elections, the two party chieftains have agreed to ban the distribution of candidate campaign literature at the town's 10 voting districts. It was a mutual agreement between Democrat Ted Cummings and Republican Paul Berte. Both said they hope advocates of the referendum will follow their lead.

No Smoke-Filled Rooms for Electors

Those election workers accustomed to wiling away the long hours Election Day by grabbing a smoke whenever they can, can't this year, nor in subsequent years. "In accordance with the general intent of Public Act 74-126," reads a letter from Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer to all town clerks and registrars of voters, "the prohibition against smoking in public places extends to the polling places on Election Day."

Zoo Observations

He said the mating cycles of fall-breeding animals, particularly the Barzagliha deer, is one indication. "Not only are the coats of the deer getting thicker more rapidly, but the male, Tweedie, is just now entering the rutting season, the mating period which usually comes in September," he said. He said the late mating assures that fawns will be born in late spring and avoid a harsh winter.
