These pirates, ghosts, monsters, and grand ladies had a dress rehearsal yesterday as they prepared for Halloween festivities at Nathan Hale

Economists Predict Prolonged Slump

By RICHARD HUGHES
UPI Business Writer
The U.S. economy has been in a recession for a year now with the worst still to come, economists said Thursday.

“The average length of all contractions (recessions) since World War II has been 11 months,” said Irwin Kellner, economist for Manufacturers Hanover Trust of New York. “With the close of October, we have officially passed the average business contraction since World War II.”

Slump May Continue

Kellner predicted the current slump would continue for at least two more quarters, making it “the longest economic recession since before World War II.”

Until recently, few economists in and out of the government have openly defined the economic state as a recession but rather have centered their attention on inflation.

Now, most agree the problem is both recession and inflation, and some predict the United States and other industrial nations are on the brink of a depression.

Special-Interest Gifts Total $8.5 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special interest groups contributed $8.5 million to House and Senate candidates through Oct. 15, according to Common Cause.

Organized labor gave more this year than it did to congressional candidates in 1972, while business and professional groups gave slightly less.

The public action group, which monitors both state and national campaign finances, said Thursday more than two-thirds of the money — $5.8 million — went to Democrats and $5.2 million to incumbents of both parties.

Common Cause said all the business, professional, labor, agricultural and other organizations spent about $3 million between Sept. 1 and Oct. 15.

The leading spenders were labor unions, which donated more than $1.5 million during the vital mid-campaign period, and a 1974 total of $4.3 million. In 1972, labor groups spent $3.6 million on congressional campaigns.

Business and professional groups contributed $3.3 million to candidates before Oct. 15, $1.1 million of it in the period after Sept. 1.

That grouping included $1.6 million from business organizations, $1.45 million from health groups and $182,010 from agriculture. These groups reported $3.2 million in 1972.

“Ideological” groups, such as the Democratic Study Group and Americans for Constitutional Action, gave $449,539 and “miscellaneous” contributed $437,184.

The most generous givers were: the American Medical Association and associates, $1.1 million; AFL-CIO’s political education committees, $918,214; the United Automobile Workers, $851,426; maritime unions, $479,014; the machinists’ union, $301,405; banks and financial institutions, $247,861; the National Education Association, $229,080; the Steel Workers union, $215,925; a National Association of Manufacturers group, $214,800; and the National Association of Realtors, $197,200.

Triple Pearl Harbor

“We have been hit with a moral Pearl Harbor and a political Pearl Harbor and consequently we are hit with an economic Pearl Harbor. The name for that is depression,” said Elliot Janeway.

Charles Kilpatrick, economic analyst for Lynch, Jones and Ryan brokerage house, predicts a depression by 1978.

“There’s no question,” said Markley Roberts, AFL-CIO economist, “if we go down the same road, the economy is going to get in worse and worse shape. We are going to have more people out of work, continued drops in consumer spending and in investment spending.”

Unemployment to Go Up

He predicted an unemployment rate of 7 per cent by next year, and Janeway said it could reach 12 per cent.

The economists interviewed by UPI dated the start of the recession in October-November of last year. Douglas Greenwald, chief economist for McGraw Hill Publications, said that was when the nation’s industrial production peaked and unemployment began to rise.

Ford to Visit Nixon

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon is “slowly and steadily improving” from his operation and in good enough condition to receive a visit by President Ford, his doctors said today.

Nixon’s personal physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, said he informed Ford’s doctor that a visit from the President would be “extremely therapeutic at this time.”

At the same time, Ford’s press secretary, Ron Nessen, said the chief executive planned to visit the former president for 20 minutes this morning, beginning at 10:15 a.m. (1:15 p.m. EST).

“The condition of former President Richard M. Nixon this morning is stable but remains serious, still under critical care but slowly and steadily improving,” Lungren said in a statement at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

“Latest vital signs are improved.” Nixon’s blood pressure was 150 over 84 and he has normal rhythm, Lungren said. His temperature was 99.4 as of 7 a.m. and his hemoglobin was on the increase as result of another transfusion of one unit of fresh blood Thursday night.

The former President also had increased bowel activity, which Lungren said means the paralysis of the bowels has disappeared, and the nasogastric tube was removed.

Nixon also is experiencing less pain in his left leg, the leg which has been swollen from phlebitis.

Lungren said all the signs indicate that the former President has stopped losing blood through internal bleeding, but doctors “still are concerned with the potential dangers of hemorrhage.”

Lungren said Nixon was “alert.” “I have been in contact with President Ford’s White House physician, Dr. William Lkash, this morning as well as last night,” Lungren said.

“I reported the latest findings to him and indicated a visit from President Ford to former President Nixon would be extremely therapeutic at this time.”

“I can’t think of anything that would do him more good,” Pat Nixon said when asked if her husband was well enough for a visit by Ford who replaced and pardoned him.

A White House spokesman confirmed that plans were under way for Ford to visit the former President sometime between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. (11 a.m. and 1 p.m. EST).

“We assume he is going,” the spokesman said, adding that the visit depended on approval of Nixon’s doctor.

Ford, campaigning through Southern California for Republican candidates, spent the night in Los Angeles, only 30 miles from Long Beach Memorial Hospital, where Nixon has been on the critical list since Monday because of complications following urgent surgery.

Doctors said Thursday the 61-year-old former president was improving slowly on a “nice stable course,” but may still have some “oozing” internal bleeding in his abdomen.

He remained on the critical list into a fourth day, they said, because “potential dangers are still imminent.”

Under Constant Care

Nixon was still under constant care by a team of doctors and nurses for “fear of massive hemorrhage,” a hospital spokesman said.

Ford had a busy schedule but he might be able to visit Nixon this morning if doctors approve, presidential press secretary Ron Nessen told reporters.

Nixon’s personal physician, Dr. John Lungren, meanwhile kept the White House physician, Dr. William Lkash, up to date on Nixon’s progress.

Nessen said Mrs. Nixon gave Ford her enthusiastic reply when the President telephoned her to say: “I don’t want to push it, but would it help if I came down there?”

Unemployment Up 200,000 In October

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department said today another 200,000 Americans joined the ranks of the unemployed in October and pushed the nation’s jobless rate to 6 per cent, highest in three years.

The department said that two out of every three persons entering the labor market in the past year did not get a job.

A total of 5.5 million persons were out of work across the country last month, according to the report issued by the department’s Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Up from September

The October figure represents a jump of two-tenths of 1 per cent from September unemployment and underlines warnings from economists of a deepening recession in the United States.

The unemployment rate last hit 6 per cent in November, 1971 and last exceeded 6 per cent 13 years ago in November, 1961, when it was 6.1 per cent.

Labor Force Grows

Since October a year ago the jobless total has risen by 1.3 million persons. The labor force has grown by 2.1 million since last October, meaning almost two of every three job seekers has gone into the ranks of the unemployed during the year.

Two of the hardest hit industries in the slumping economy have been housing and automobiles. The contract construction job count was down 30,000 in October and brought the industry’s job losses to 250,000 since a peak in February.

Blue Collar Workers

Slack activity in the automobile and related industries showed up in the unemployment rates for blue collar workers. Factory worker unemployment rates reached 6.2 per cent compared to 3.9 per cent a year ago when factory worker unemployment was at a 3 and 1-2 year low.

Adult men, particularly blacks, were hit hard by the increased jobless rate last month.

The unemployment rate for adult males increased from 3 to 4.3 per cent and the rate for black workers increased from 9.8 per cent to 10.9 per cent from the previous month.

Eyesore ‘Bugs’ Whiston, Buys Sheridan Block

For three years a hole in the ground at the site of Main Street’s burned out Sheridan Block “bugged” Merrill Whiston, president of Manchester’s Multi-Circuits Inc., so he bought the property and is planning a new retail building of 8,800 square feet.

Whiston said today he intends to start construction of a new one-story building at the 613-619 Main St. location next spring to house two of Multi-Circuits’ operations: Groman’s Sport Shop (now at 56 Cottage St.) and Embassy Travel Service (now in East Hartford).

A warrant deed transferring ownership of the parcel from the Sheridan Corp. to Multi-Circuits was filed late Thursday afternoon in Manchester’s town clerk’s office. The deed shows that the purchase price was about $135,000.

The deed included all of the property at the northwest corner of Main and Pearl Sts. The transfer was not only for the burned-out building site but also for an adjoining two-story building which houses four apartments and Paul’s Paint and Wallpaper Supply Store.

The Sheridan Building, which occupied most of the land bought by Multi-Circuits, was severely damaged in an October 1971 fire which forced relocation of 35 apartment dwellers and several small businesses.

Originally erected as the Sheridan Hotel in 1923, the building was later razed and the Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., which had occupied space in the building, built a new branch office just north of the site.

“For three years it bugged me,” Whiston said today, “that the place was an empty hole in the ground.”

“We look forward to beautifying the area,” he said. “Our building will be an attractive addition to Main St.”

Whiston is sole stockholder in Multi-Circuits, Inc., a diversified operation which has been referred to as a one-man conglomerate.

Multi-Circuits, whose chief business is the manufacture of printed circuit boards, operates plants on Harrison and Slater Sts. and a warehouse facility on Summit St. in Manchester.

En Route to Iran

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger stopped briefly in mountainous Afghanistan today on his way to Tehran for crucial oil talks with the shah of Iran.

Kissinger held talks with President Mohammad Daoud during a four-hour stay in Afghanistan, the fifth stop in a month-long tour of Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

His gleaming blue-and-white jetliner was quickly readied at Kabul Airport to take Kissinger to Iran to confer with the shah about the world’s soaring oil prices.

Watergate Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawyers for former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman have indicated that national and domestic security considerations may be part of their defense in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Frank H. Strickler, one of Haldeman’s lawyers, got Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy campaign director for former President Richard Nixon and a prosecution witness in U.S. District Court, to acknowledge there was a legitimate need for intelligence gathering about demonstrators during the 1972 presidential campaign.

Thieu Struggles for Power

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu, claiming the support of the Ford administration, pleaded today for his political life and promised to fight corruption at every level of his troubled government. Faced with the worst anti-government demonstrations in eight years, he also offered to rewrite restrictive press laws and ease a ban on opposition parties.

Shaken by clashes in which at least 60 Roman Catholic militants and 30 policemen were injured, he called for unity and blamed the violence on Communist lackeys.

Probers Continue to Seek Clues

BY JAMES V. HEALION
NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — He walked into Police Headquarters asking with wounded hauteur why on earth anybody would want to question him about the bakery murders of six persons.

“You don’t get information in church,” said one investigator, referring to the type of persons questioned. They ranged from gays to gamblers, and none were pleased with the call for command performances at headquarters.

Don’t Like the Heat

More than 1,000 people have been questioned since the night of Oct. 19, when four men and two women were slain in the Donna Lee Bakery in an apparent robbery. Their killers stood over them as they lay on the floor in the rear of the bakery and methodically shot them dead.

All were shot in the head, one with a shotgun; the other five with a handgun which ballistics men said later was a nine-millimeter pistol. One of the victims, a 27-year-old man who dashed into the bakery for directions to a date’s house, was bludgeoned before he was shot.

Car Still Running
He was William Donahue whose $7,000 sports car was parked outside the bakery with the engine running when police responded to the scene after a man telephoned headquarters to say the lights were on in the bakery and nobody was there.

Apparently, he did not look in the rear, which one policeman described then as a “slaughterhouse.”

The killers fled into the crisp autumn night, one of them in a white tee shirt. They were described as a white man and a black. A light-skinned woman was also seen in an apparently dazed condition at the scene.

Stopped Five Times

The getaway car was a white 1964 Grand Prix Pontiac with a damaged left front fender, and no one is more aware of that than a New Jersey motorist who was stopped five times by policemen in Connecticut.

What should I do, he asked in a telephone call to police. Perhaps the intensity of the police search for the car was illustrated in the terse remark of the man who took his call. “Park it and sell it,” the motorist was told.

Among those questioned, but not linked to the murders was Patrick Salsbury, 24, who lived on the same street as the isolated bakery, but a mile away. The heat was so intense in his case, he had to get from place to place in the trunk of a car, a source told UPI.

Salsbury was charged with first-degree murder in the Oct. 9 holdup slaying of an off-duty fireman, Bernard Connery, 37, who went after a couple of armed robbers in a Newington grocery with a lead pipe.

Connery was killed by one of the bandits who was armed with a .25 caliber pistol. Police said the other was armed with a shotgun.

A black and a Hispanic type were sought as accomplices of Salsbury in the Newington fireman case. Salsbury also has been charged with a New Britain gas station holdup last winter in which the bandits used a shotgun and forced two attendants into a side room.

Attended Funeral

Salsbury was a mourner at services for one of the victims of the bakery massacre, Michael Kron, 49, a house painter, whom a friend described as a decent, hard-working family man, the father of four children. Salsbury is related to the Kron family by marriage.

A couple of days later, Salsbury was charged with the fireman murder. In the meantime, he had made plans to move from the five-room apartment he and his wife had repainted when they moved in two months ago, the landlord said.

A police source said Salsbury was questioned thoroughly in the bakery murders, submitted to a polygraph test, and can account for his movements between 8 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 19, when the killings occurred.

Suspects Still Sought

Police are still seeking one or more suspects in the Newington robbery and want to question them in the bakery killings.

There are 40 men assigned to the bakery case, including a special State Police detachment, and they are working in teams.

Whiton Open House Sunday

The Whiton Memorial Library's new look will be shown to the public Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at an open house. Redevelopment of the North End and relocation of N. Main St. necessitated a change in the main entrance of the library. Since the summer of 1973, the Whiton library has been undergoing a face-lifting that not only included a new main entrance, but an interior remodeling. Manchester's head librarian, John Jackson, said the wooden and glass partitions at Whiton have been removed and the total effect is of one big open space. Fresh paint and new draperies have also been added, he said. New landscaping lends a new look to the outside of the library. Expected to be present at the open house is Miss Frances A. Hoxie whose mother was a niece of Dr. Francis H. Whiton, a Manchester doctor for whom the library was named.

For Period Ending 7 AM EST Saturday. Snow is forecast for portions of North Dakota and Minnesota with rain extending into the Upper Great Lakes. Rain and showers are expected from West Virginia through central New York and southern New England. OPINION

Defense Neglect Unwise

Democracies in general and the United States in particular have notoriously allowed their military establishments to decay in time of peace.

World War I and II the productivity of our industry to work near miracles... sufficient amounts to meet our needs. And, of course, our development of the atomic bomb in World War II brought international conflict to an entirely new level.

There is cause for grave consideration, however, in the warning of Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger that we are in danger of becoming a second-class military power.

Schlesinger makes the point that while the Soviet Union's military expenditures have been growing by 4.5 per cent per year, ours have been shrinking, and that even without discounting inflation our military budget has decreased.

Our uneasiness about this is not primarily because of any doubt of the ideals being pursued, although there are some, but rather because of the demonstrated wastefulness and dissipation of funds, which have been notorious in the agencies.

Practically every city and area has had examples of social agency programs which seemed to direct the major part of their budgets to administration salaries rather than accomplishing their stated purposes.

We need only to look to Italy, Britain and Sweden to see what massive sociological expenditures can do to national economies through lack of productivity and waste.

Animosity which existed towards the military during the Vietnam war on a wide scale seems to have subsided.

Yet in a fashion reminiscent of pre-Pearl Harbor days we are neglecting our military at a time when it needs full strength.

Our world wide commitments and reputation require an up to date and capable military machine. With the emergence of the Arab nations as the principal oil producers in the world it is imperative that we have military strength in the Mediterranean, Indian Ocean and Persian Gulf area.

Both Venezuela and Mexico are very important to us because of our need for imported oil. We should command military respect in this area also.

Media Hasn't Probed Rocky's Generosity

Everybody remembers what happened when it was revealed that Richard Nixon paid only minimal income taxes his first two years in the White House.

Before that, a similar though much smaller storm was raised over the fact that California Gov. Ronald Reagan legally avoided paying any income tax at all one year.

The defeat of Ohio Sen. Howard Metzenbaum in last spring's Democratic primary was attributed in large part to the like revelation about his finances.

So how come, asks the conservative publication, Human Events, how come nobody blinked an eye when vice president-designate Nelson Rockefeller testified to congressional investigators that in 1970 he earned more than $2.4 million and paid not one cent in federal taxes?

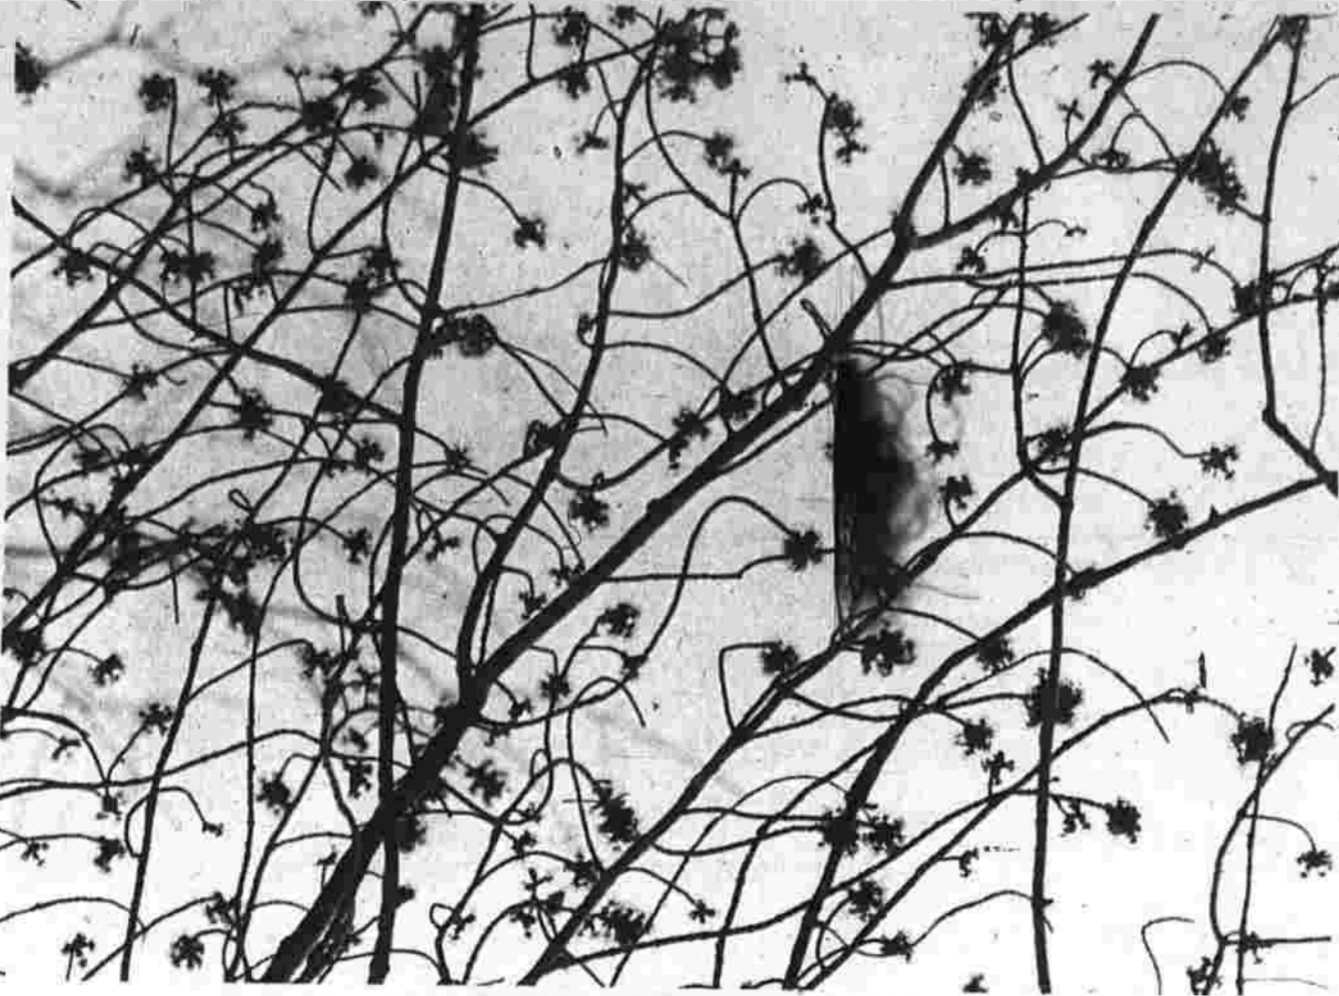

"The media's double standard was again apparent," it said, "Nelson Rockefeller got away with something that nearly caused a journalistic lynching for (the) others."

All right - accepting the implicit assumption that the American people have no opinions and are incapable of indignation except that which is manufactured for them by the all-powerful "media" - how come?

Spare Us Lindsay

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sometimes I think it is just too depressing to visit New York City. I spent a few hours there recently and was informed by a newspaper editor that former Mayor John Lindsay definitely is girding his loins for another try at the presidency.

Two facts contribute to the awfulness of this eventuality. My companion pals around some with the Lindsay crowd as a kind of independent insider. And he was taking cautious sips of a bland wine on-the-rocks. Thus, the intelligence he conveyed should not be lightly dismissed.

Worse, the idea makes a kind of ghastly sense. John Lindsay is now a Democrat. Teddy Kennedy has announced his exit from the 1976 race for the Democratic presidential nomination. Consequently, Lindsay admirers are pushing him as the answer to the party's search for another Teddy, a suggestion which ignores the premise that even one Teddy might be too many.

Well, Johnny-boy is handsome and willowy and with a background that in America is called aristocratic. In Lindsay's case, this means that his family had enough dough to send him to the best schools and that he can sail a boat. (I'm sure people have stopped using the term "blueblood." Life is already sick-making enough.) Lindsay is the epitome of the East Side Ivy League with a pied a terre in Southampton, "Plany Beach" and the latest Swiss winter resort. He is impeccably

Getting the Fox In the Henhouse

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - There is an old saying that where there is power, it will inevitably be used.

That axiom applies just as well to the power of money from the federal government's treasury as it does to the power of money from corporations, unions or trade associations.

The recently approved national election law ignores this truism and that should disturb every American.

We have been rightly concerned about the corrupting influence of huge donations to political candidates from milk producers, real estate operators union political actions funds - any special interest lobbyist. So the law just enacted restricts the size of private donations and the amount of money which can be spent by national candidates.

The law includes provisions for funds raised previously from private sources with $40 million in government funds to go to presidential candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties.

We ought to be as suspicious of huge amounts of federal money being spent in elections as we are of huge amounts of private money. The federal government is not some objective, disinterested oracle divorced from the frailties of man.

good brandy, apres ski and squash court. Lindsay is also from a state with a lot of electoral votes and is still young enough - he'll be only 53 on Nov. 24 - to leap over a tennis net. And unlike Kennedy, Lindsay has no religious problem; he is, as George McGovern might have put it in 1972, 1,000 per cent WASP.

It is true that Lindsay's 1972 try for Top Banana was a ludicrous flop. But he was then a brand-new Democrat, and thus a touch suspect. Besides, by the time Lindsay entered the race McGovern's tough young legions had just about wrapped up the nomination for their tiger.

Lindsay was also undermanned and his campaign managers were strictly Manhattan types who must have had a hard time crossing a street in Gary, Ind.

Lindsay could be the best kind of all the potential Democratic candidates for the White House. His name may not be a household word in Oshkosh, but it probably is more familiar than that of any of his rivals. Sen. Ed Muskie of Maine got some national exposure two years ago, but Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas are spending most of their time trying to get their names spelled right in the hinterlands.

Indeed, my informant made a wry joke in this context. "Lindsay is as well known around the country as George Wallace," he said. "That means something to par-tyeople - regular and guerrilla alike."

social and economic problems. The powers over interstate commerce granted the federal government by the Constitution have been stretched to cover industrial and business which by no stretch of the imagination are interstate commerce in the original meaning of that term.

The monies voted education in federal bills and through aid to impacted areas have been used to dictate to colleges and secondary and primary schools what some national education candidates would like their policies should be.

The huge federal and other agencies have been used to force private companies operating in local states to comply with Washington policy.

Welfare programs of the individual states, heavily aided from Washington, have been required to important respects to follow criteria laid down by federal officials. In some cases the federal rulings have resulted in major improvements. In other cases the results have been disastrous.

We should be thoroughly aware of the fact that we are exchanging one set of pressure groups for another. And it should be made clear we do not know where this change will lead. But some points can be made. The pressures exerted by individual donors tend to balance themselves out to some extent.

Who are scared to death of the Alabama governor. Assuming that Gerald Ford runs again, which he will, Lindsay would offer a contrast to the President. Ford is a rugged, substantial male, whose appearance promises right thinking and security. He is the comfortable father and good husband. Lindsay would attract a bundle of votes from that segment of the citizenry which looks for glamor in a President. The flighty young lady who killed me for the comely captain of the high school football team would be happy with Lindsay.

This, of course, is what the nucleus of a Lindsay campaign organization is banking on - the tendency of millions of American voters to look upon a Presidential election as a beauty contest. Richard Nixon, totally lacking in the Lindsay-Kennedy contest, won in '68 and '72 partly because the Democratic tickets alienated too many Democratic and independent voters.

Still, I cling to the hope that by 1976 the East Side Ivy League will be spared a second try at the White House. In 1964, the U.S. Post Office Department introduced the money order.

In 1918, the Hapsburg monarchy of Austria-Hungary was dissolved. Vienna became the capital of Austria and Budapest the capital of Hungary.

In 1950, two Puerto Rican nationalists tried to force their way into Blair House in Washington in an attempt to assassinate President Harry Truman.

In 1970, a total of 145 persons died when five swept a dance hall in Saint-Laurent-du-Pont, France.

We have the government to monitor excesses, as in the Watergate case. But if the government is the sole donor in presidential races, who monitors the government?

The government in this case is Congress and no one has yet suggested Congress is helped to monitor itself.

Welfare programs of the individual states, heavily aided from Washington, have been required to important respects to follow criteria laid down by federal officials. In some cases the federal rulings have resulted in major improvements. In other cases the results have been disastrous.

We should be thoroughly aware of the fact that we are exchanging one set of pressure groups for another. And it should be made clear we do not know where this change will lead. But some points can be made. The pressures exerted by individual donors tend to balance themselves out to some extent.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

In the last two articles, we have wrestled with the problem of "success." We have argued that the Psalmist figured success only on the basis of lasting value, and that we refused to admit that a wicked person does well if he does so.

Today we must read verse five of Psalm One to see the ideas of the Psalmist more fully developed. Having argued that everything which a wicked person does will be swept away by the wind of truth (vs. 4), the Psalmist adds a solemn verdict: "Because of this, wicked people will not stand up in the judgment and sinners (will not stand up) in the congregation of righteous people."

The Hebrew word which I translated as "judgment" is used many times in the Bible to mean "justice." The Psalmist may well have meant that wicked people will not be able to stand up with pride on the day of judgment which will eventually come. But he could also have meant that wicked people may not be counted on to stand for justice.

At any rate, one thing is clear. The wicked person cannot stand at the time when truth, i.e., "justice" is the criterion by which life is to be judged. Nothing which a wicked person does is permanent. Everything for which he has spent his life is transitory, light, fluff, weightless, meaningless, purposeless. A slight puff of wind will blow away his castle of chaff in a moment. How can he stand erect in the presence of truth and justice? How can a sinner stand amidst a group of righteous people whose lives have been dedicated to the permanent, the lasting, the designed, the divinely ordered goals of life?

Lesson five from Psalm One: There will come a moment when justice will be done, when truth will be displayed. The happy person's life will blossom and flourish under such light but the life of the wicked person will be unable to stand such scrutiny.

Inmates At Prison To Marry

CRANSTON, R.I. (UPI) - A man and a woman, both inmates at the Adult Correctional Institutions, will apparently be allowed to get married.

The couple which has been petitioning the state Department of Corrections since November of last year to get married are now expecting a child.

The unidentified woman is 29 years old and confined to the women's section of the prison. Inmate Walter E. Jordan is serving a 37-year term for murder.

Prison officials say that the woman is about 10 weeks pregnant and that the two met while minimum security inmates. They both had jobs on the grounds of the facility and apparently got together during that time of partial freedom.

According to a Corrections Department source, the marriage will most likely be approved after the problems of visitation rights and child custody are worked out.

According to the department, the marriage would be the first between two inmates in Rhode Island.

Jordan is not eligible for parole until 1977, and the woman, who is serving a 30-year term for murder, is not eligible until 1980.

When the child is born, it will probably be placed in a foster home until either the parents are able to care for it.

Earlier this week, Jordan wrote a letter to a local newspaper saying "We lost everything we had when we came to prison, but now we have each other to live for, and start a new clean life when we get out. We are human beings...treat us like human beings."

The request to be married was denied in November of 1973.

"Instead of hurting us, people should help us. That is what reform is all about. What is being locked up for 23 hours of each day, punishment for fraternizing with a female inmate."

He vowed that if not allowed to marry, he would carry the issue to the courts and challenge the decision not to be allowed to marry.

Providing information on the availability of state programs and services to the elderly on a local basis must be arranged, according to Wallace Irish Jr., Republican candidate in the 12th Assembly District.

The State of Connecticut provides a multitude of programs and services for the elderly, yet too often these go unnoticed by the very people they are intended for," Irish said.

"I will contact all state agencies involved and request them to visit Manchester once a month at locations convenient for the elderly to provide assistance in applying for state benefits, programs, and in completing the many times all too complicated forms," he said.

"I believe that every state resident eligible should be able to apply and receive whatever is entitled them," he said.

Piscopo Pool Party Raises Questions

EDITOR'S NOTE: Banking Commissioner James E. Hagen threw a fund-raising party for his former deputy's congressional campaign. A number of bankers attended and gave, but Hagen insists it is no conflict of interest to solicit political contributions from the people he is supposed to regulate.

Big Bird and Little Robot

Which came first, the chicken or the robot? Whichever, both were on hand participating in Halloween hijinks Thursday at the Singler Learning Center. The chicken, hiding Jim Truscio, head teacher at the school, is no doubt "clucking" over robot Eric Lindland, 4, whose lights flash as he speaks. (Herald photo by Dunn)

BANKING COMMISSIONER James E. Hagen hosted a poolside party to solicit funds from bankers for the Republican congressional campaign of former Deputy Banking Commissioner Pat Piscopo.

Hagen, who is opposing Democrat Anthony Moffett in the 6th District, came away with about $1,250 from bankers and others who gathered Sept. 14 at Hagen's Avon home, a campaign official disclosed Thursday.

Hagen, a Republican appointee, was asked by UPI if he thought it was a conflict of interest for him as banking commissioner to solicit funds from bankers who are regulated by his department.

"It was perfectly acceptable," Hagen told UPI. "There's nothing wrong with friends of his giving money."

Federal law does not require disclosure of such contributions unless the total amount of such donations must be reported.

His latest campaign report says he has collected $37,574 from a variety of sources.

Federal law prohibits banks as corporations from contributing to federal campaigns while allowing bank employees to give their own money.

Hagen's letter provided conceals shy bankers a way to conceal their involvements.

"This get-together has been suggested instead of a fancy dress, formal dinner requiring an evening out of your busy schedule and perhaps a fat $100 ticket donation, etc., etc., defeating the whole purpose."

"In place of that fancy-dress occasion, which was summarily dismissed, you might feel it more appropriate to attend and make a $50 donation to Pat to help defray the heavy campaign expenses being incurred," the commissioner wrote.

Piscopo is getting some help from employees of Colonial Bank and Trust Co., of Waterbury. His campaign treasurer is J. Timothy Corcoran, a Colonial trust officer; Colonial Board Chairman Donald W. Henry is listed as a $225 contributor; Rep. Harry Harlow, R-Litchfield, a Colonial official, is listed as giving $224 and George Eshard Jr., of Woodbury, another Colonial official, is listed as a $125 contributor.

Although not required by law, Piscopo Finance Chairman Glen "Bud" Brumitt identified some bankers who attended Hagen's party and gave:

- Charles A. Buck, Society for Savings, $50; Mr. and Mrs. James J. Clark, Woodbury Savings Bank, $25; Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Fellows, Glastonbury Bank and Trust Co., $25; and William W. Graulty, vice president of Connecticut Bank and Trust, $25.

Others were identified as Edward J. Holcomb, president of East Windsor Savings Bank, $50; Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinney, Citizens Bank and Trust of Glastonbury, $50; Raymond J. Henney, Jr., Connecticut Bank and Trust Co., $25; Jack C. Myles, executive vice president of Mechanics Savings Bank, Hartford, $25; Edmond E. Parker, president of Manchester State Bank, $50; and Frank J. Pascale, president of First Federal Savings and Loan of Torrington, $25.

Burke: Favors Referendum Questions

"I urge all Vermont voters to vote 'yes' on all four proposed amendments to the Connecticut Constitution and on the sewer question which will appear on the voting machines on election day," Martin Burke, Democratic candidate for state representative, 56th District, said Wednesday.

In calling attention to the referendum questions, Burke expressed fear that they might be overlooked by the voters. He urged voters to exercise the utmost importance to equal rights and efficiency in government.

In urging the 'yes' vote, Burke explained that the amendments will prohibit discrimination on account of sex, simplify the method of amending the state constitution, permit the legislature to designate the criminal offense on conviction of which a person would lose the right to become a voter, and eliminate the requirement that justices of the peace be elected.

"Finally, it is necessary to pass the referendum question approving the ordinance to appropriate $3.5 million in order to extend sewers to additional areas of the town," Burke said.

Wolfanger: Says People Fear Spending

Noting there is a quickening of the "Surge for Steele," Howard Wolfanger, Republican candidate for state senator from the 5th District, said people fear a return to the spending of the Democratic regime.

Wolfanger spoke at a "Meet-the-Candidate" night sponsored by the Hampton Republican Town Committee.

Speaking of the state's $24 million deficit, Wolfanger said his opponent, "an ex-senator from the 5th District, voted for the Democratic deficit budget."

Wolfanger said, "Time out of sessions and committee meetings is required to conduct and running the state government."

He said his opponent "did not run for re-election in 1972 because of lack of time."

He further said, "My proven record and training in the field of fiscal control and finance would require that I influence decisions to prevent these deficits from exceeding a billion dollars. I have the time and pledge action in this area."

O'Connell: Attacks Democratic Platform

Speaking before a meeting of the East Windsor Republican Town Committee, Gerry O'Connell, Republican candidate for state representative, 57th District, attacked Democratic spending program proposed by the Democratic platform.

The 57th District takes in East Windsor, Ellington, and part of Vernon. O'Connell said the Democratic platform would cost the taxpayers an additional $40 million.

He said such a program could only be paid for by increasing the sales tax to 13 per cent, or by instituting a state income tax. He said, "This is reminiscent of the spendthrift days of the Dempsey administration that plunged the state into a $24 million deficit."

O'Connell also said, "I would support a bill being introduced by Jesse Brainard, Republican representative from the 53rd District, which provides for an issue tax exempt revenue bonds to provide a source of long term funding for public utility companies."

He is also proposing legislation authorizing the state to issue tax exempt revenue bonds to provide a source of long term funding for public utility companies.

Vernon Jaycees Cite Romanker for Duties

Len Romanker, of Skinner Rd., Vernon, was named the Jaycee of the First Quarter, 1974-75, at the October meeting of the Vernon Jaycees.

Romanker earned his award for having served as chairman of the Planned Year, the annual action yearbook of the Vernon Jaycees. The 49-page book is the guideline for the entire Jaycee year.

In addition, Romanker was co-chairman of the Scholarship Committee which raised $500 for the Tri-Town area high schools. He played on the Jaycees softball team, worked at the annual hot dog sale, and made four state and local Jaycee visits.

Jack Smith of Ellington, was named Jaycee for the month of August for his work as a marshal at the Greater Hartford CIO, participating in the family picnic event, and for serving as overall chairman of the membership committee which won a pre-workshop session at the September meeting.

Grace Anniversary Vernon Grange 52 will observe its 50th anniversary today at 8 p.m. at Grange Hall, Rt. 30, Mrs. Bernice Huntington, lecturer, will be in charge of the program.

It is suggested that those attending bring a "birthday" gift in the form of an item for use in the grange's kitchen or dining hall.

Junior Grange 92 will meet Saturday at Grange Hall at 2 p.m. The theme of the program will be "Let's Get Together."

Methodist Bazaar The women of the United Methodist Church of Rockville will sponsor a Holiday Bazaar, Nov. 16, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the church on Grove St.

Various booths will feature holiday decorations, stuffed toys, plants, dried flowers, and food. There will also be a children's table, jewelry, trash and treasures, knitwear, fancywork, homemade candy, and Girl Scout and Methodist Youth Fellowship booths.

Luncheon will be served from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with hot and cold items to be on sale. A family-style turkey dinner will be served in two sittings, one at 5 p.m. and the other at 8:30 p.m., by reservation only.

Tickets may be purchased from members or by calling Ruth Parker, 875-4350, or Lorraine White, 872-2787. The cost for adults will be $3; children 6-12, $2; and no charge for those five or younger.

Church Bingo Sacred Heart Church, Rt. 30, Vernon, will sponsor weekly cash bingo each Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Center, under the direction of the Social Activities Committee.

Holiday Workshop Vernon women are invited to attend a holiday decorations workshop at the Lottie Fisk Building, Henry Park, Nov. 13 from 9 a.m. to noon. The workshop is being sponsored by the Recreation Department.

Virginia Jones, an expert in dried flower arrangements, will conduct the workshop.

So that women planning to attend may familiarize themselves with the various projects that can be made, a pre-workshop session is scheduled for Nov. 6 at Lottie Fisk, from 10 to 11 a.m. Lists of materials needed to make the various projects will be available for distribution at this meeting.

Most of the items which may be made call for the use of pine cones. These include such items as wreaths, door swags, center or mantle ornaments, corsages, owl ornaments, and magnetic paper holders.

In addition there will be an opportunity to make plaques using pine cone petals. Several types of bird feeders will also be shown.

Only 60 women can be accommodated. Those interested are asked to register by calling the recreation office.

Semi-Finalist Yolanda Y. Graham, a senior at Rockville High School has been named a semi-finalist in the 11th annual National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students. Semi-finalists will continue in the competition for some 400 awards in 1975. Semi-finalists were determined on the basis of their scores on the 1973 preliminary scholastic aptitude test. The highest scoring black students in each of six geographic regions qualified as achievement program semi-finalists.

Hospital Program Parent Education Night (P.E.N.) will be conducted at Rockville General Hospital, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria.

The program is for expectant parents interested in the process of childbirth and becoming acquainted with the new maternity facility at the hospital.

The program includes a film on labor and delivery, a tour of the maternity department and an open discussion with maternity personnel. Coffee and cookies will be served during the 90-minute session.

State Loss of Federal Dollars Alleged

Connecticut Politics

United Press International Ella T. Grasso today said Gov. Thomas J. Meskill "gave away" millions of dollars that Connecticut was entitled to, while the state paid the full price for buses the government could have subsidized.

"The Democratic gubernatorial candidate said New York was allowed to use some of Connecticut's eligibility for federal funds to make possible the purchase of 100 railroad commuter cars for the New Haven line."

She said New York, with its large transport problems, nearly had exhausted its eligibility for federal subsidies — allocated on a state-by-state basis — when the contract was signed last year with General Electric.

Mrs. Grasso said the Meskill administration "gave away to New York state some $25 million in Connecticut eligibility for federal funds," but she did not explain how she arrived at the figure.

The GE contract is worth $63 million. The federal government is paying 90 per cent of the costs and New York and Connecticut are splitting the remaining 20 per cent, $6.3 million each.

Mrs. Grasso also said the federal government could have picked up 80 per cent of the $6 million it cost Connecticut to buy 100 new buses, but the state had to pay the full tab because it lacked a transportation master plan, a requirement for some types of federal subsidies.

Meanwhile, Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., the Republican candidate for governor, Thursday issued a statement marking the 10,000th contribution received by his campaign, a state record by his books.

"We've demonstrated the influence of big money can be removed from politics," said Steele, who voluntarily has restricted his contributors to $100 per donation.

Mrs. Grasso Thursday said four more supermarkets have stopped reprinting articles after they are on the shelves, a move she called a victory for consumers.

Man Accused Of Stealing Computer Parts

BETHANY (UPI) — A former Bethany man has been arrested for stealing more than $55,000 worth of computer equipment, according to State Police.

Authorities said Steven Roy, 19, was arrested Thursday in his apartment in Maynard, Mass., by Massachusetts State Police. He was employed at the Digital Equipment Corp. of Maynard as a programmer.

Connecticut troopers said the computer equipment, which displays stock market information, was recovered at Aquagale Inc., in Bethany, a company run by Roy's father Clarence. They said the father was not aware the materials were stolen.

They said Steven Roy stole the computer parts from Digital Equipment, including some memory banks worth as much as $5,000 each, over a period of five months beginning in June.

Ribicoff Has Changed

As far as the U.S. Senate race is concerned, it has been almost a tradition to disclose the names of U.S. Senators. A Ribicoff with a reverse another kettle of fish.

In James H. (Buddy) Brannen, the Republican Party has an able, attractive candidate who is expected to be the first black elected to the Senate from Connecticut.

For Brannen, orphaned by his mother, virtually abandoned by his father, and supported by his wife and family, the road to the Senate is a lonely, uphill battle — and very difficult for him.

Despite his limited resources and a non-existent record in his district, he has attempted to discuss and debate the issues for the most part, has been a series of costly, costly-produced television commercials that must be the envy of Ronald McDonald.

We think that Brannen, given the chance, would do an excellent job for Connecticut in Washington. Sen. Ribicoff should be congratulated for taking on a candidate who seeks for all other Americans.

AFS Has International Volleys

If you had chance to be summing around at 8 o'clock the night of Monday, Oct. 28, you might have heard something like this: "Guten Abend! Erro Tov! Buona Sera! Konichiwa!" "What could this be?" you queried, "a meeting of the U.N. Security Council?" No, these foreign sounds were a part of the AFS Club versus Town Committee and parents International Volleyball game, sponsored by the MHS chapter of AFS. The idea behind this sport activity was to promote interest among parents and to exercise the athletic prowess of our physically fit AFS members.

The AFS Club members divided themselves into teams representing seven foreign countries: Brazil, Germany, Israel, Poland, Italy, and the U.S.S.R. Each team member wore a sign designating the country which he represented and was taught to say "Good Evening" in the native tongue of that land.

The AFS Town Committee members and parents made teams according to U.S. states: Missouri, Hawaii, and Connecticut, to name a few. These hardy souls were to stand up against the youthful, vibrant foreign teams.

Tribe Drops Two

Suffering its second and third CCLL football defeats, the Tribe lost to the Penney Black Knights 36-21, and to the Enfield Raiders 48-21. Doing a lot of damage in recent outings are the opponent's quarterbacks, who have been tough for the Indian defensemen to stop and whose passing has been on target.

In the Penney game, MHS took the opening kickoff and eight-plays later receiver John Griffin scored a 22-yard touchdown and Neal McKenny succeeded in the PAT department. Kicking barefoot has proven quite effective for McKenny, and the Indians going 8 for 11 so far this season.

The Indians lead off 7-0 didn't last long as Penney's senior co-captain Mark Dionne opened the second with a 22-yard run putting Penney on top by a score of 14-7, then seconds later Manchester came back to score with John Kunz making the run.

The Black Knights then opened the third quarter with another TD giving them an edge of 22-15. Manchester then retaliated again, with tight end John Madson getting the pass from senior quarterback Jack Maloney, then together Maloney and Jason Dodge added the 2 point conversion, closing the gap to 24-21. Penney scored two additional TD's in the remaining part of the game, with MHS failing to score again, giving Penney the final advantage of 36-21. The Indians seemed to have been stronger in the first half of the game, with MHS failing to score again, giving Penney the final advantage of 36-21.

Saturday, on the Raider's home territory they overpowered the Indians 48-21. At the end of the first quarter the Raiders had the lead, 13-7. Edfield scored the first on an target shot to Steve Lamond by Enfield's standout QB Joe Dippel, and the end of this stanza came on a short 3-yard run by Mike Caruso. Ed Budanuro scored for Manchester on a 12-yard run, with McKenny adding the point.

In the second quarter Jack Maloney scored for Manchester on a run of 28 yards. It was in this time period that Dippel scored his two TD's, one of them being a brilliant 52-yarder. Still having a chance to overcome the 28-14 deficit going into the third quarter, Manchester took the second half kickoff and registered 7 more points on their final TD of the game, this one coming on a pass from Maloney to splintered Steve Dawson which was taken by Pete McCluskey two plays later for the touchdown. As a result of the game against Penney, John Kunz was sidelined with a foot injury and Maloney suffered a minor ankle injury in Saturday's game against Enfield. Unable to hold the Raiders for the remainder of the game, MHS let them score three more TD's making the final score 48-21.

Enfield had a total of 592 yards; Dippel being responsible for 340 of them. Manchester had a total of 225 yards, with Maloney gaining 103 of them on 19 carries. Turning in a fine performance against the Raiders was Ed Budanuro who contributed 56 yards. Hoping to up their mark in the victory column, the Indians face Enrico Fermi tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. on home grounds. - Sue Woodhouse

Opinion: Vandalism

Nothing is as destructive and pointlessly inhibitive to present-day education as vandalism. Destructive in nature, the participants were educationally regressive and somehow the chaos was controlled to a modified scramble.

As an interjection, I have never enjoyed a rehearsal more. My theater knowledge is limited, but I was still able to follow what was trying to be accomplished. It was given a front row stool on stage. This is where the audience will be seated, as the production will be in thrust staging.

The night to set aside for this masterpiece are Nov. 15, 16, 22 and 23. Admission will be $1.00 with SAA and $1.50 without. This is one experience you won't want to miss. - Cheryl Hyde

Christmas Gifts For the Elderly

People are needed to go into stores and ask for donations (boxes, wrapping paper, food, clothes, toys, etc.) and to package and wrap the gifts.

Impressions of a Fowl Rehearsal

One Friday, when I had nothing better to do, I was somehow coaxed into attending a Sock 'n Buskin rehearsal. "pleasure" was offered to me by the Stage Manager, Peggy Graff, and out of politeness, I accepted.

Before delving into the memorable events of the afternoon, let me tell you some of the details behind the play. Its name is The Birds; it is a Greek comedy by the playwright Aristophanes. Despite its age, the story is timeless. It is highlighted by slapstick humor, with an underlying theme of satire on society.

The force behind this production is Lee Hay, an English teacher and advisor to Sock 'n Buskin. Mrs. Costa, also in the English department, is the assistant advisor. Barb Senna is the student director and Peggy Graff is the stage manager, with Richard Byam as her assistant.

Simplicity

If you had said, "I Love You," it wouldn't have been anything new. Instead you said, "We've fallen in love, and it didn't." Go to our heads. - Alan Girelli AGG

Prepare for Game

Have you been out to the football field 5th period recently? If you have you may have noticed a spirited group of people marching up the course and a man attempting to guide them. No, they aren't picketing, and the man isn't jogging for his health. You guessed it, they're the MHS Band and its conductor, Mr. Shreeves.

Rock Review: Moody Blues

Rumors abound to break-up of one of the premier musical groups of the past decade. Many sources say the Moody Blues are now defunct. They have not released an album in more than two years and have not appeared in concert for many moons. Chances are the rumors are true. It is not likely we will see their equal. They played in a unique style, blending rock with classical sounds.

They did this in their second album, "Days of Future Past," playing with the London Symphony Orchestra (Rick Wakeman has since done much the same.) Years later the Moody Blues received some acclaim for a single off their album, "Knights in White Satin."

The lyrics of their tunes are matches, the music itself is serious, sobering at times, other times it is mellow. They began '68 with a single "Go Now" and an album of the same name. The album was not very good. They then reeled off a string of 7 superb albums, "Day Of Future Past," "In Search Of The Chord," "On the Threshold of A Dream," "So Far," "The Goodbye Tour," "The Mind Garden," "Question of Children," "Question of Balance," "Every Good Boy Deserves a Girl," and "Seventh Sojourn."

Ahearn Promises

Receiving a promise is Greg Miner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miner of South Rd. Mrs. Miner is chairman of the bake sale, sponsored by the Democratic Town Committee. Ahearn is Democratic candidate for state representative in the 55th Assembly District. Joanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Houle. Mrs. Houle is chairman of the Democratic Town Committee.

GARDENING
By FRANK ATWOOD

Horace Murphy, retired superintendent of parks for Manchester, was in town with Mrs. Murphy for a few days recently stopping to see friends before heading to Florida for the winter, and Mr. Murphy kindly offered to show me some unusual Manchester trees.

He asked me if I knew the osage orange, and I said I had seen some of the fruit, but had never seen where it grew. We headed first for the osage oranges just off Buckland St., near the Caldor shopping center.

"There they are," said my guide, and I saw a small group of very large, and apparently old, trees standing high above the road, with most of their leaves already fallen, some of the fruit still hanging on the tree, but more of it scattered on the ground.

The trees are garded and twisted, with heavily ridged dark brown bark. The trees grow in a loose clump and the largest, we estimated, is 30 inches in diameter, and 14 or 15 inches in circumference.

"The Manchester trees have never been cut back and the only shoots growing up around them are small saplings, rather pretty with their colored leaves. I could find no thorns or spikes but the most interesting part of the osage orange is the fruit. It is the size and shape of a large orange but there the resemblance ends.

The color is green and the surface of the fruit is covered with small green bumps. My word for it is "bumpy" and the dictionary, not very helpfully, says that "bumpy" is a "small nub."

The fruit when it falls from the tree is hard and rather heavy for its size. Squashed specimens that had been run over by a car showed the interior filled with stringy pulp. There is very little juice. No animal, apparently, attempts to eat these "oranges" and the Yeman's Garden Encyclopedia warns that some people develop dermatitis from what milky sap there is in the fruit and leaves.

Mr. Murphy told me that using osage orange thickets as a barrier for livestock had been given up long ago. Farmers found that a wire fence was just as effective and took up less valuable land than a 10-foot strip of thorny trees.

Leisurely Trio South
Mr. and Mrs. Murphy spent much of their time in Florida, and winter in Sarasota, Fla. They were leaving Manchester just as the Northeast was blessed with warm October weather, planning to stay a few days at Longwood Gardens in Pennsylvania and then move on for a few days at Colonial Williamsburg in Virginia.

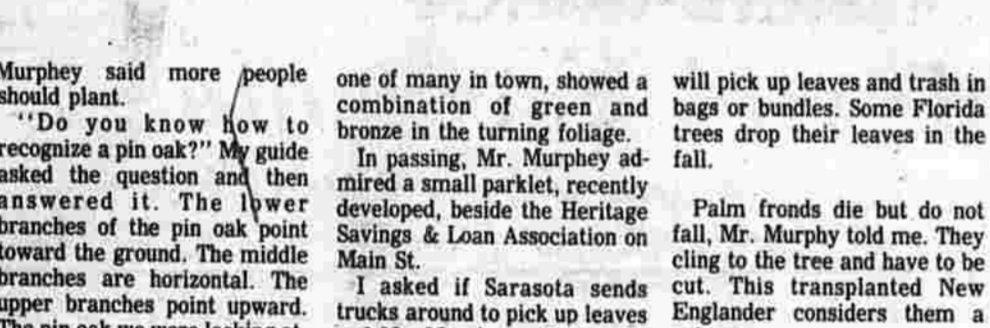

The former superintendent of parks was surprised, he told me, to see how well the damage to trees in last December's 1933 hurricane, Mr. Murphy said, "but I could not agree with that comparison."

Mr. Murphy was park superintendent from 1928 until he retired in 1967 and some of the trees he showed me were his own nurslings. One is an Englishman spruce on private property set out by the town on Steep Hollow Lane near Porter St. He started it as a seedling in 1951. It is now a beautifully shaped evergreen at least 40 feet tall, with dense branches and with a bluish tint in the green needles.

Ready for Spring
We admired a big dogwood in East Cemetery and guessed that the trunk was 18 inches in diameter. Mr. Murphy noted that the tree had set buds for next year's bloom.

The osage orange, a curious fruit that grows on some gnarled old trees just off Buckland St., is not edible, but is prized by people who like to make decorative arrangements for the home. (Herald photo by Dunn)

The color is green and the surface of the fruit is covered with small green bumps. My word for it is "bumpy" and the dictionary, not very helpfully, says that "bumpy" is a "small nub."

Mr. Murphy said more people should plant. "Do you know how to recognize a pin oak?" My guide asked the question and then answered it. The lower branches of the pin oak look as if they were growing in a shallow trench. The branches are horizontal. The upper branches turn upward. The pin oak we were looking at, one of many in town, showed a combination of green and bronze in the turning foliage. In passing, Mr. Murphy admitted a small park, recently developed, beside the Heritage Savings & Loan Association on Main St. I asked if Sarasota seeds trucks around to pick up leaved and Mr. Murphy said the city, will pick up leaved and trash in bags or bundles. Some Florida trees drop their leaves in the fall. Palm fronds die but do not fall. Mr. Murphy told me they cling to the tree and have to be cut. This transplanted New Englander considers them a nuisance.

In his report, one of four cancer reports to Congress released today by the White House, Rauscher also said: "Unless present trends are changed, cancer will strike 25 per cent of all Americans, an estimated 655,000 new cases will be diagnosed in the United States each year and 335,000 persons will die this year from some type of cancer."

The spa is open to men on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and to women on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. New Hope, which received nearly $100,000 from a flea market last weekend, will also benefit from a second flea market Sunday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at MacDonald's parking lot on W. To brighten the rehabilitation center for girls who have had drug problems, Eugene Gallant of East Hartford has donated $1,000 worth of electrical work, which includes outlets, heaters and labor; and Izzy Beer of West Hartford has contributed $250 worth of wallpaper.

Contributing other needed items were Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Delafra of 22 Pine St., a meat slicer; Mrs. Looney of Milford Rd., a gold rug; Mrs. Eleanor Vincent of 119 Spencer Rd., clothes, table and chairs, refrigerator and fireplace screen; and Rev. James Wright of Pearl St., towels and washcloths plus doughnuts.

Cheney Tech Poll Favors Democrats

According to a straw vote conducted Thursday at Howell Cheney Technical School, students "elected" Democratic gubernatorial candidate, U.S. Rep. Ella T. Grassano, and Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, Atty. Gen. Robert Killian by a large majority.

A total of 234 votes was cast for the Democratic slate. Republican candidates for governor, U.S. Rep. Robert H. Steele, and for lieutenant governor, Nathan Agostinelli, received 138 votes. Frank J. Thomas Pallone, the George Wallace Party gubernatorial candidate, received seven votes, and Allan Pelech, an American Party gubernatorial candidate, received six votes.

In other straw poll results, U.S. Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, Democrat, received a sweeping victory over Republican challenger James Braman of Colchester with 207 votes. Braman received 89 votes.

The "election" was sponsored by the student body class directed by Thomas Scharrer, John Garofalo, director of Cheney Tech, said 92 per cent of the student body participated in the election. Considering the all-male student body, Garofalo said he was "very surprised" that the female gubernatorial candidate carried the school election by such a wide margin.

The first recommendation of the accountability report is that the school board, with substantial input from all sectors of the community, formulate new goals for the entire system and widely disseminate those goals to the community for informational and critical purposes.

Persons interested in serving on the new committee are asked to contact School Supt. Kenneth MacKenzie, or Sgt. Butterworth, or any board member. Seven members of the committee will be selected from school board members, school administrators, and teachers. These appointments will be made within a few weeks. The remaining eight members will be appointed from the community by the end of December. The board hopes for a good response from residents so that a cross-section of persons with different viewpoints may be selected.

A first requirement for the committee will be the definition of the goals of the system, separating objectives, which are steps used to attain goals. The committee will draw up a two-weekly queue of airfare, preparatory to its work.

Monica Shea
Robert "Skip" Walsh, Democratic candidate for the 33rd Assembly District said today, "If our recent experiences with Watergate have taught us anything, it's that government must not only conduct itself more openly, but assure greater access to the decision-making process for the average voter."

Walsh said, "Yet Connecticut has failed to legislatively provide for maximum citizen involvement and knowledge. It would almost seem as if some intentional effort had been made to isolate those who hold public office from those who elect them."

"I've been frustrated and shocked by the barriers we seem to place in the way of full citizen participation. And because of political considerations, I'm certain that many legislators have been reluctant to initiate many needed reforms that will make government more meaningful to all people."

Walsh said, "A substantial per cent of our citizens should have the right to voice their views on public personnel matters. 4. Revision of the state's Hatch Act to allow civil servants to hold elective office and appointive local office. 5. Legislative provisions for citizens to challenge any and all governmental decisions by referendum. # Pins in Candy Sour Mother On Halloween

A Cambridge St. mother today predicted the end of Halloween trick or treating after her son bit a candy bar Thursday night and a pin stuck in the roof of his mouth.

Mrs. Jane Wlochowski of 94 Cambridge St. was one of four parents reporting to police Thursday that their children received candy with pins in it.

A pin was found by a mother in a Milky Way bar given out somewhere along Rachel Rd., police said.

A father, also on Rachel Rd., made a point of searching the candy gathered by his children and found a pin in a miniature Hershey bar, police said.

A fourth report to police was not complete and available to the press this morning. Since most parents do not allow their children to eat but a portion of the Halloween sweets right away, more reports may come in, a policeman said.

"It's a shame to ruin Halloween," said Mrs. Wlochowski. "But it's not worth it. I think people are going to get away from it now."

She said she took her two boys ages 6 and 8 out only in their neighborhood. It is the same route they have followed for the five Halloweens they have lived in the neighborhood. The boys went to the doors

Other fires were lit at different times but police included four fires in the North End, the opening of nine fire hydrants, several arrests, candy stealing, vandalism and pins in candy bars.

Reports of pins in candy is in a story in today's Herald.

Arrests connected to Halloween acts included:

- Wayne J. Turci, 21, of 33 Ash Rd., South Windsor charged today at 12:15 a.m. at N. Main St. and Tolland Pk. with disorderly conduct.
- A youth used a pocket knife to threaten a girl on Ridge St. at Cooper St. To get her bag of candy.
- Four girls took a bag of treats carried by a young boy walking at 7:57 p.m. on Summit St. When the boy and a friend found the girl, they hit him with a rolled up towel.

FBI Nabs Robbers; Little of Huge Loot

CHICAGO (UPI) — The FBI has rounded up all six suspects in the largest cash heist in American history, but authorities say recovering the $4.3 million taken in the armored Express Co. burglary will be extremely difficult.

William Marzano, the last of six suspects in the caper, surrendered to federal authorities in Chicago Thursday and two other suspects, Pasquel Marzano, William's cousin, and Luigi Marzano DiFonzo, were returned to the United States from the British West Indies, where they were arrested Wednesday night.

The FBI said "drips and drabs" of the loot has been recovered, about $26,000 of it found on Pasquel Marzano.

However, U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson said the rest of the cash was believed to be hidden in secret, numbered bank accounts in the West Indies.

Thompson said there are 172 banks on Grand Cayman, the isle where Pasquel Marzano and DiFonzo were arrested.

Involved in Controversial Game

Long a believer that a good laugh can go a long way in keeping one relaxed from the pressures and heavy tensions of everyday life is Jack Daly. The latter was a bit of his very best as the guest speaker at last week's Sports Night at the British-American Club.

When not working as a general manager for Northeastern Distributors in Cambridge, Mass., or regaling audiences with good, clean humor, Daly is out of his element on the football or hockey games.

Before last week's program, Daly was in conversation with two former crackerjack college football officials from Manchester, Tom Kelley and Chick Toomey.

Daly related that he had been one of the officials in the early season controversial game this year between Rutgers and Princeton in which the goal posts were torn down before time expired and the teams settled for a 6-6 deadlock.

"After Rutgers scored late in the game to tie the score, the kicking specialist came running out onto the field. He never looked up and while the goal post was being torn down, was limbering up his kicking leg. When he finally looked up, there was no goal post," Daly recalled.

Similar Experience

Kelley listened and then broke in, "I had a similar play years ago. It was a game between Fordham and Georgetown at the Polo Grounds (in New York in the fall of 1949).

"Late in the game when Fordham scored its final touchdown, I looked around to find that there were no goal posts as the teams lined up for the extra point at either end of the field.

"I explained to the Fordham captain what had taken place and he assured me not to worry. 'We'll try a pass,' he said. And they did and added a seventh point," Kelley said.

The local referee said the Rams, then a national power, had a big lead and one point would not have made any difference in the outcome of the game.

Notes Off the Cuff

Zack Clayton, who refereed the Muhammad Ali-Geo Foreman championship fight Tuesday night is the same fellow who starred in basketball with the New York Renaissance for years. Many a night our paths crossed in league and exhibition play. Roy White and Bob Montgomery, who spoke here this week on the Masonic Sports Night, both have interesting hobbies. The New York Yankee outfielder has been taking karate lessons for the past two years and Montgomery is a model train buff with $12,000 in equipment at his Dedham, Mass. home. Yale hasn't allowed a touchdown in its last three games. Tomorrow the unbeaten, Elis host Dartmouth and Yale A.A. officials are hoping for at least 30,000 fans to turn out in what has been a poor year at the gate to date. UConn football team is tied with Lehigh for fifth place in the Lambert Cup balloting while Yale is third in the major college division among Eastern powers. Last night's baseball special, The Way It Was, narrated by Red Barber and Curt Gowdy, with the 1947 World Series between the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees brought back memories. This was the first Subway World Series that I ever covered. Part two is due for showing on Channel 24 Thursday night. Rec Volleyball League starts Monday night with 10 teams in the Men's Division. Last year's top two entries, regular season champion Latvian American Church and playoff king ABA Tool meet head-on in the opener at 7:45.

13th Straight Shutout Victory Notched by CCIL Soccer Champs

By Len Auster

Uncharacteristically, Manchester High began the 1974 soccer season with a 3-1 loss to West Hartford's Hill High. Just as strange was yesterday's finale, a 1-0 victory over Conard High under adverse if not treacherous conditions. The playing field in West Hartford was a quagmire with large puddles in front of each goal and small pools sprinkled throughout. Players moved gingerly as if walking on a pile of eggshells.

Junior halfback Billy Donovan's goal with just 40 seconds left in regulation time decided the issue. Like the entire contest, the marker was not your ordinary occurrence. Bob Odell took a corner kick from the left side. It was headed out of the penalty area by a Chieftain defender. Donovan responded with a header of his own, the ball apparently glanced off Conard fullback Scott Griswold causing it to change direction crazily upward past perplexed and befuddled netminder Dave Morrissey into the top half of the net. The goal was Donovan's first as a varsity performer.

The number of scoring opportunities was limited as the field, more than anything else, controlled the tempo and flow. Just outside one penalty area there was one large collection of droplets. The ball would play into it, someone would kick, and the thrust of the mighty surge would result in an advancement of maybe four inches.

BOB ODELL BILLY DONOVAN

The Silk Towners with some pretty passing did set up some chances. But on more than one occasion a booter would ready a vicious kick only to find himself seated on his tailbone.

Minutes into the affair Conard sent a shot

In the eighth grade race Steve Achilli of the Vernon Middle School topped top honors with an 8:23 clocking. # Tribe Plays Home Saturday, Eagles Face East Hartford

By Len Auster

Returning to the friendly confines of Memorial Field Saturday afternoon at 1:30 is Manchester High for a CCLL football clash with Enrico Ferni High of East Hartford. The visiting Falcons will be sky-high after their rousing 28-26 upset win over Penney a week ago.

Even though the score didn't indicate so, this week is also a big game for East. "We have 17 players from East Hartford and it will be sort of a homecoming for them. In some cases kids will be playing neighbors. But when they play each other it's like the civil war with all the aggressiveness coming out. Also if they beat you they will be next door to be a constant reminder. It's a battle for bragging rights," LaFontana voiced.

Aaron has 733 home runs, 19 more than the long standing record of Babe Ruth. Oh has 634 in 16 seasons but he has said he will play six more years. He has averaged 40 homers a season. That means if he hits 40 a year in the next six seasons, he will have had 240, increasing his total to 874 and topping Aaron's record by a good margin.

Adams on Spot With Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Bob Adams will be ready for the sacrifice, if the situation dictates, when the New England Patriots war with the Buffalo Bills Sunday for first place in the AFC East.

Adams steps into the tight end slot vacated by Bob Windsor, who tore ligaments in his knee last week while driving the last two yards for the game-winning touchdown against Minnesota.

The reserve tight end, in his second season with the Patriots after four years with Pittsburgh, watched the film of Windsor catching a Jim Plunkett pass, getting hit and then ignoring the pain to score with three seconds left in the game.

"It took a tremendous amount of intensity to overcome the pain and do what he did," praised Adams.

What if Adams is called upon to endure the pain for the sake of the team as Windsor did? "I looked at it from that viewpoint and I hope I would do the same thing Bob did. He's a hero, he's really a hero."

Request Denied

HOUSTON (UPI) — An appeals court has denied a motion to permit defensive lineman John Matuszak to jump to the World Football League.

Request Denied

Matuszak, picked by the Houston Oilers as the National Football League's No. 1 draft choice in 1973, walked out of camp last August and joined the Houston Texans of the WFL.

Matuszak was in a Texas game five of our games before the Oilers stopped him with a temporary injunction.

NFL Won't Merge With WFL—Czar

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle has issued a strong "forget it" to those World Football League franchises absorbed by the established league in the event of the new league's collapse.

"There will be no complete nor partial merger with the WFL," Rozelle said Thursday, taking the hard line toward the new league and its latest financial plight. "Nor will any of its teams be taken into the NFL."

"I say this very strongly and with complete certainty, even more certain than I said it about the American Football League."

Rozelle's announcement came shortly after the word that Birmingham, long believed to be one of the strongest WFL franchises, was in financial trouble. Already the WFL has folded up franchises in Detroit and Jacksonville, shifted the New York Jets to Baltimore, and taken over the Orlando team.

While writing off any thoughts of absorbing the Memphis, Hawaii or Birmingham franchises from the WFL, Rozelle instead announced plans Wednesday for the addition of four teams to the NFL, two in 1976 and two more that year or later. That would bring the league to 30 teams.

Tampa, Fla., and Seattle were chosen to begin operation in 1976. Tom McCloskey, a builder and realtor, was selected to head the Tampa franchise Wednesday but the owners failed to agree upon an owner for the Seattle franchise Thursday.

A group headed by Herman Sarkowsky, owner of the NBA's Portland Trailblazers, is considered to be the leading contender for that Seattle team.

"We've got our own expansion plans," Rozelle said. "There would be just nothing in it for the NFL to take two of the WFL's teams. They're either going to make it or not make it on their own. They're not going to get any help from us."

The WFL has not filed any major suits against the NFL yet as the NFL did when it attempted to force a merger in the early 1960s and Rozelle, with a sarcastic smile, said "they're playing it cozier this time."

Rozelle also said no WFL players would be allowed to jump to the NFL, and that any players who left the WFL season ended or because they were otherwise free agents. Rozelle said that this was only an extension of a policy already in effect in regard to the Canadian leagues and the minor leagues and would be used to include the WFL, so that no NFL player would be able to stock their teams during the last part of the season with new players.

Three Firemen on Duty Started Midget Football

By Earl Yost

Twenty years ago, three firemen on duty at the then Fire Co. No. 3 on Spruce Street — Ernest Pohl, Sedrick Straghan and Jim "Dutch" Fogarty — turned on the television set to watch football. It was New Year's Day, 1955.

As an added attraction, there was a so-called midget football game being telecast from Dallas, Texas.

If the small fry sport was big in Texas, why not Manchester? The idea was kicked around and before the New Year's college game was finished, the wheels were already in motion to bring the sport to Manchester.

Meriden already had such a circuit and the Manchester delegation, consisting of Pohl, Fogarty, George McCaughey (now a police captain) and the late Pat Bolduc, assistant sports editor of The Herald, motored to the Silver City, learned all they could about midget football and came back home more enthusiastic than ever.

Two teams made up the Manchester membership that first year, the fall of 1955, with the Fire Fighters, coached by the late Eloi "Swede" Solomonsen, defeating the Police Cruisers, 22-0.

Bill Shaw, now an officer with the Connecticut State Police, coached the losers. The date was Sunday, Sept. 11, 1955 at Charter Oak Park. The playing field was located where the current playground and tennis court area is now located.

Maryland Back As Grid Power

By John S. Galt

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 20 years have passed since the University of Maryland was thought of seriously as a college football power, but all that changed in two hours this week.

As it is, The Terrapins are ranked 12th in the nation, but few people outside of the Washington-area natives probably know that. Except for the bookmakers who've tabbed coach Jerry Claiborne's 5-2 club a mere one-point underdog to Penn State at the Nittany Lions' home ballpark.

Penn State defensive end Greg Murphy also isn't fooled by the Terrapins, whose only two losses were narrow ones to Alabama and Florida early in the season.

Nevertheless, Murphy feels Joe Paterno's current eighth-rated Penn State club, despite its struggles with some of the nation's "cream-puffs" — Oregon, far won't be psyched out when they meet Maryland in Saturday's regionally televised showdown that already has bowled tremors to it.

"We're looking for them to hit hard, but everybody's been talking about how much they've been hit," he said. "What are they going to do, come up to the line and flex their muscles?"

Both teams are riding five-game winning streaks and both will be playing with the bowl scouts in mind.

Brown Quits Ranger Post

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Robert W. "Bobby" Brown Thursday resigned as president of the Texas Rangers to return to practice as a Fort Worth, Texas, heart specialist.

Brown, a former New York Yankee infielder, was named team president May 1. He is a stockholder in the group that purchased the Rangers from Bob Short last spring.

Brown had said he did not wish to remain club president indefinitely.

"We have excellent people in the right places—Billy Martin as manager, Dan O'Brien as general manager and Hal Keller as head of our farm operation and I expect I'll be called upon only occasionally," Brown said.

Cards Win Away From Division Title

By John S. Galt

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't look now but the St. Louis Cardinals can just about wrap up the National Conference Eastern Division race Sunday.

The Cardinals, the lone unbeaten team in the National Football League at 7-0, are in Dallas to face the Cow. a Dallas and a victory can just about do it as far as the NFC East is concerned.

St. Louis holds a three-game edge over both Philadelphia and Washington and a four-game lead over Dallas, struggling along at 3-4. A Cardinal victory would leave them with at least a three-game edge along into the final six weeks of the season and only a complete and utter collapse could prevent the Cardinals from winning its first division title since 1949.

"If we're not for real, then we're real lucky," says Cardinal Coach Don Coryell. "If that's the case, I'd rather be lucky than real. But to be realistic, five of our games have gone down to the final minute, so I guess we could easily be 2-5."

But the Cardinals are 7-0, not 2-5, and Dallas will be fighting to stay alive.

St. Louis used two touchdowns passed by Jim Hart and a 53-yard interception return for a score by Roger Wehrli to build up a big lead over Washington and then held off a Redskins rally in the second half Sunday to win 23-20.

Dallas was some razzle-dazzle involving Drew Pearson, the NFL's leading receiver, to beat the New York Giants 21-7. Pearson threw one TD pass and caught another.

In another big game Sunday, Buffalo will be at New England for first place in the AFC East. Both are 6-1, with New England's lone loss coming at Buffalo 30-28 two weeks ago. Buffalo beat Chicago 16-6 Sunday while New England, which previously upset Super Bowl champion Miami and Los Angeles, added Super Bowl loser Minnesota to the list with a 17-14 victory in the last three seconds.

In other games Sunday, Oakland is at Denver, Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, Minnesota at Chicago, Washington at Green Bay, New Orleans at Detroit, Cincinnati at Baltimore, Atlanta at Miami, the New York Giants at Kansas City, Cleveland at San Diego and Houston at the New York Jets. Los Angeles is at San Francisco Monday night.

DALLAS (UPI) — Punter Duane Carroll, an NFL castoff, and former with the defunct World Football League Jacksonville Sharks, was picked up Wednesday by the Dallas Cowboys.

N.E. Grid Roundup

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Wadsworth, a pitcher for Louisville of the National League, gave up 36 hits in a nine-inning game on Aug. 17, 1894.

ONE team will get untracked and the other might well be derailed for the rest of the season after Holy Cross plays at Boston University Friday night.

"It's probably as frustrated now as I've ever been in coaching," said BU Coach Paul Kemp at the weekly college football luncheon.

"There's no reason we should be 4-3; we should be better than that but I can't quite convince the players."

"The only way you can solve (frustrations) is to win. The Terriers lost, 13-7, to Rhode Island last week, the second time in three games they could have won but instead lost by one touchdown.

"Holy Cross' story is a little different. The Crusaders, 2-4, were overwhelmed two weeks ago against torrid Temple but last week lost 13-10 to a disciplined Cadets of Army at West Point. "I said early in the season that Holy Cross is like a new car that needed to be broken in and I was an assistant coach. John Hickman, "Well, sir then we've added a passing gear, the other thing we're trying to do is put in some points."

"I know the kind of football game Paul Kemp's team plays—let's get in the corner and fight it out."

"We'll be ready."

A loss under the lights would end any chance of a winning season for the Crusaders, who play four more games after the clash. A Boston University defeat would tell Kemp that he probably will finish the year as he started — frustrated.

Boston College Coach Joe Yutka hopes the frustration is behind him now. The Eagles, off a 55-7 rout of Villanova to even their record at 3-3, host West Virginia and a semi-healthy Danny Buggs.

Surgery Successful On Wynn and Russell

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Elbow operations on Los Angeles Dodgers centerfielder Jimmy Wynn and shortstop Russell Thursday were pronounced successful.

Dr. Frank Jobe, team physician, performed the surgery and said both operations "went well."

He said Wynn and Russell's injuries at Centinela Valley Hospital for three or four days.

Wynn, troubled season-long by a sore throwing arm, had bone chips removed from his right elbow. Some ligaments and muscles in the elbow were reconstructed.

The ulna nerve in Russell's left elbow, his non-throwing arm, was repositioned because of Russell's complaint the elbow would "pop out" at times.

Russell's ailment was not related to a sore right shoulder he had during the last part of the season, Jobe said.

Petrocelli Denies Stewardess Charge

By John S. Galt

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI) — Boston Red Sox third baseman Rico Petrocelli says he did not molest, kick or punch a United Airlines stewardess but that the woman attacked him after he put both hands on her waist during a batted flight in 1970.

Petrocelli testified in State Supreme Court here Thursday in response to a $75,000 damage suit filed against him by Mrs. Susanne Mondlin of Nevada City, Calif., who was a stewardess when the incident occurred.

In her suit, she charged the ballplayer touched her "below" the bustline while the team flew from Boston to Detroit on April 16, 1970.

Petrocelli said Thursday he was returning from the men's room when he met Mrs. Mondlin, 28, standing "sideways" serving coffee in the narrow aisle of the plane.

"I put both my hands on her waist and said, 'Excuse me,' so I could get by," he said. "She kicked me from behind on my right shin and then she half turned and kicked me again on the same leg."

Petrocelli said he asked her three times why she had kicked him, but "She just gave me dirty looks and didn't answer me."

Later, as Mrs. Mondlin approached carrying a cup containing a soft drink, he said, "I said to her, 'What did I do wrong?'"

"Then she threw the coke, ice and all, right in my face. I was stunned. I never said anything to her and she ran up to the cockpit."

The stewardess had testified that Petrocelli had placed his hands "underneath my bustline," but he denied the allegation.

A witness for Mrs. Mondlin, Mrs. Carol Carroll, a stewardess of Sunnyside, Calif., testified Wednesday that she did not see Petrocelli punch Mrs. Mondlin, but saw Petrocelli raise his arm, and later saw Mrs. Mondlin's head "snap back."

Former teammates Billy Conigliaro and Mike Andrews appeared as character witnesses for Petrocelli. The trial resumes today.

Jobs for Connecticut... that is my first priority!

ELLA GRASSO

Nine years ago I was privileged to help draft a new Constitution for Connecticut. Now I seek your help so that I might lead our state under that Constitution.

Today each of us worries a little more than yesterday, knowing that things are just not right. We seek new directions, safeguards, a sense of security. Life is not easy for us people.

I want to continue my service in government to help make things right. This is why mine has been a campaign of action, with positive recommendations to meet our problems.

Early in the campaign I outlined an eight point program to bring new industry to Connecticut and create new job opportunities for our workers. My experience in Congress saving the fuze industry from foreign competition helped develop this plan.

When supermarkets kept re-pricing goods already on the shelves, I campaigned up and down Connecticut to stop this practice and introduced legislation in Washington. As Governor I would seek a state law. Already one supermarket has said, "We hear you loud and clear" and they have stopped the practice.

When the protests mounted against the fuel adjustment charges on our electric bills, I commissioned a report which uncovered at least $19,000,000 in overcharges permitted by the Public Utilities Commission.

We don't need an income tax in Connecticut. We do need a new state administration to use available federal funds effectively, to "pass through" federal revenue sharing dollars to our towns and cities for relief of property taxpayers...

Sincerely, Ella Grasso

Russians Eye Time Markets

By LROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Soviet Union is expected to penetrate the United States market as an opening wedge for other Russian manufactured products when Congress gets round to giving the most-favored nation tariff treatment, an official of a top American trade firm says.

Sol E. Flick, vice chairman of Bulova Watch Co., told United States Press International the Russians already have been successfully challenging the Swiss, Japanese and other makers of jewelry watches in Britain and elsewhere — underselling them in the popular priced models.

Jewelry lever watches no longer are made in the United States but Bulova and some other American companies own Swiss and other offshore facilities that make them. The Russians do not make the very cheap lever watches. Flick said their modestly priced lever watches are of good quality and recently they have begun to devote more effort to styling them.

Both Bulova and Taylor Industries' subsidiary, General Time, are sufficiently confident the Russians might sell their watches in the United States below cost that they have appealed to the Tariff Commission and to Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, to sponsor an amendment to the tariff act that would allow them to do so.

"They want to amend the Trade Reform Bill to provide a method for an interim finding of dumping and the collection of countervailing duty on a provisional basis pending a final determination in cases where it is impossible to discover the true production cost of imported merchandise. Flick said this is the case with nearly all manufactured products coming from the communist countries.

"There simply is no way to determine quickly how the Russians are pricing their true costs," he said, "because they don't base their price on costs as we and most other countries conceive them."

The jewelry lever watch market in the United States is valued at $1 billion a year, approaching $1 billion in retail sales. It is a juicy area, Flick said, "but their big purpose is to do as they have in Europe, Asia and Latin America, use their watches to get Americans used to the idea that Soviet mechanical products are reliable and reasonably priced. Then sell them many other things."

American companies such as Satra Corp. of New York, which has been engaged in imports from the Soviet Union for more than 20 years, told UPI Congress gives the Russians most-favored nation status, they probably will seek to sell more heavy machinery and capital goods than consumer goods in the United States.

"Nevertheless, informed sources said, the Russians would follow up successful penetration of the American consumer market with watches by offering cameras, other optical goods, bicycles, motorcycles and the Lada automobile, which is a Russian version of the Fiat 124. They already have introduced the Lada successfully in many countries.

A subsidiary of Satra has succeeded in selling a line of Russian farm and construction tractors in several states in both Canada and the United States. The tractors are brought in at New Orleans and Satra is considering establishing an assembly facility for them in the South.

The Russians are expected to try to sell other farm machinery here but their big effort will be to sell high quality tractors and power generators competing with General Electric and Westinghouse and others.

"They currently sell manganese, chrome and other minerals and industrial diamonds in the United States but most of these come in duty-free anyway, so they wouldn't be helped by most-favored nation status for Russia."

REAL ESTATE CORNER

By RALPH PABEK

If an estate is above $60,000, it should be discussed with your attorney as to the advisability of trusts. Your estate includes your equity in your home (the value you own over your mortgage debt); three years prior to your death; property transferred when your mortgage debt is paid; property transfers which take effect at your death; furniture, cash, investments and all other personal possessions. The estate is liable for the federal estate tax, payable by your executor when your property is transferred to your beneficiaries. A state inheritance tax is imposed on each beneficiary of the estate depending upon his relationship and the amount of the inheritance.

WHAT IS YOUR PROPERTY WORTH? WE WILL INSPECT YOUR PROPERTY AND SUGGEST AN ASKING PRICE. (NO OBLIGATION)

Candidates for Assembly District 56

Campbell

Morgan Campbell of Rockville is the Republican candidate for state representative from the 56th District (Vernon). He is a senior buyer for the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

Campbell is serving his fifth year on the Vernon Town Council and previously served five years on the Vernon Board of Education.

Campbell is in support of the Republican State platform which calls for increased state aid to towns from the Federal Revenue Sharing Program. He pledges to push for increased state aid to education, if elected, and said he knows this would mean revamping the tax structure.

He does not believe the state should get into deficit spending and suggests the deficits could be eliminated or prevented by establishing spending priorities at budget time and then by reducing the budgets in keeping with the priorities.

He also said he would support the plan established by the Governor's Commission on Tax Review and would hope to sponsor a bill to accept some of the recommendations of that commission and also those of the Education Finance Commission.

Campbell also said he has advocated, during his campaign, the establishment of a motor vehicle office in Vernon to

Burke

Martin Burke of Rockville is the Democratic candidate for state representative from the 56th District (Vernon).

Burke is an attorney in the law firm of Fabry, Burke and Marder, is a graduate of Colgate University and the Albany Law School, and a member of the New York and Connecticut Bars.

He is an instructor at the Wetherfield School of Law, a member of the board of directors of the Tolland-Windham Legal Assistance Program, the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, and the Hockanum Valley Community Services Council.

He is immediate past president of the Manchester Community Child Guidance Clinic, a trustee of the Rockville Public Library, and is town attorney for Ellington.

He and his wife, Ellen, have three sons.

Summarizing his campaign, Burke said at the outset he pledged to discuss the crucial issues which face the state and the community, to give a door-to-door campaign in an effort to meet the people of the 56th District, and to make himself available to hear the views and suggestions of the electorate.

"These things I have done," he said.

He claimed in the past several weeks, at literally thousands of doorsteps in Vernon, he has met and talked with the citizens, and listened to officially increased taxes being touted as an example of good management, but rather true fiscal responsibility. I strongly endorse this view both as a candidate and a taxpayer."

He pledges, that as an elected official he will remain personally available and sensitive to the needs and comments of his constituents.

serve Tolland County which now has about 100,000 residents. He said personnel could be transferred from other nearby offices to keep the expense to a minimum.

He said he feels some state revenue sharing money should be passed through to help senior citizens on fixed incomes with the increase in rents for those living in state senior citizen housing complexes. He said rents have increased from $45 a month to $65 and he figures it would cost Vernon about $50,000 to subsidize this condition.

He said in the past several weeks, at literally thousands of doorsteps in Vernon, he has met and talked with the citizens, and listened to their views and problems, which, as a fellow resident, businessman, and parent, I can appreciate and understand."

He said he has identified several steps which can be taken in the General Assembly to alleviate some of these problems and to put the state back on course as a national leader in the area of efficient and responsible government.

He said, "In these inflationary times there is a greater interest than ever in economy in government. Not a false economy as has marked the last four years in Connecticut with the lowering of arbitrary cuts in state welfare system provides subsidies to mothers.

"We are of the view that the word 'child' is commonly and ordinarily understood to mean a born child and not a fetus," the judges said. "While a fetus is more than a non-child, it is something less than a child."

The panel said that if Congress had intended for unborn children to be eligible for the benefits, it would have used "clear and unambiguous language" to that effect. The women said they needed the additional subsidies during pregnancy in order to assure themselves a nutritious diet, and therefore their unborn children's good health.

They claimed in the long run the state would save money with the pregnancy subsidies, since it would not have to care for children on welfare who had not been born healthy.

Academies Nominate Candidates

U.S. Rep. Robert H. Steele R-Conn. today announced his 401 nominations to the four U.S. service academies.

Area students nominated are: U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.: Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Cavanaugh of 29 West Rd., Rockville, Ellington High School; and Glenn C. Landmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald V. Landman, 100 Main St., Ellington, Ellington High School.

U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.: John R. Barbero Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barbero Sr., Russell Dr., Rockville, Tolland High School; and George T. Forbes Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Forbes Sr., 127 Jonathan Dr., Vernon, Rockville High School.

These young men nominated by Congressman Steele for the academies will compete among themselves for the appointments.

Steele explained that officials of the academies take into consideration a number of factors in determining the best qualified candidate for a vacancy. Among them are the applicant's college board scores, high school record, extracurricular activities, recommendations from school officials, and other indications of the nominee's character, leadership potential, academic aptitude and achievement, and physical fitness.

Unborn Can't Get Benefits

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal appeals court has ruled that unborn children in Connecticut do not qualify for state welfare benefits.

The U.S. 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals overturned a decision by U.S. District Court Judge Robert C. Zampano, of Hartford, in the case of three pregnant women seeking state welfare support for their unborn children.

Attorneys for the women — Barbara Wisdom, Anna Tirado and Jane Croe, no hometowns given — said they will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court since four other federal appeals courts have ruled unborn children did qualify for assistance in similar cases.

The three-judge panel's ruling earlier this week concentrated on the definition of a "dependent child" in the Social Security Act, under which the welfare system provides subsidies to mothers.

"We are of the view that the word 'child' is commonly and ordinarily understood to mean a born child and not a fetus," the judges said. "While a fetus is more than a non-child, it is something less than a child."

The panel said that if Congress had intended for unborn children to be eligible for the benefits, it would have used "clear and unambiguous language" to that effect. The women said they needed the additional subsidies during pregnancy in order to assure themselves a nutritious diet, and therefore their unborn children's good health.

Ford Ends Campaign On Inflation Issue

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — President Ford said today America can spend itself into "raging inflation" unless congressional big spenders are defeated in Tuesday's national elections.

In a speech prepared for delivery to a GOP meeting, Ford also said the federal bureaucracy must be decentralized.

Stresses Inflation
On the last day of a barnstorming campaign trip to help Republican candidates, the President again stressed the fight against "Public Enemy Number 1" — inflation.

"The lesson of the past few decades has been a basic one — we cannot spend our way to happiness and we can spend ourselves into debt, and we can spend our nation straight into raging inflation. That is why during the past few weeks I have been speaking out for realistic, fiscally responsible congressional candidates," he said.

"...If the big spenders win heavily on Nov. 5, we are in danger of electing a veto proof rather than an inflation proof Congress," Ford said.

Bureaucracy Too Big
Turning to the federal bureaucracy, he said: "The day is past when an octopus-like government in Washington can stretch its tentacles across the nation and squeeze into itself more and more power. Now we have to chop off those tentacles. And as each of those tentacles withers we have to return the power and the revenues they have grasped back to the states and localities. It will not be an easy job. It is never easy to dismantle a structure that has been reinforced for decades. If you knock out the wrong section, the whole thing is liable to fall and cut a lot of innocent people," the President said.

Ford has campaigned in 19 states in 24 days as part of his party-financed tour.

Republican Candidates Visit Herald

Steele Confident of Victory

By SOL R. COHEN
Robert Steele is confident he'll be elected Connecticut governor Tuesday, even though all the polls show Democrat Ella Grasso far in the lead.

"Sure we're running scared," he said on a visit to The Manchester Herald Friday.

"I always run scared. Half the polls had me losing in 1970, when I first ran for congressman. All the experts said I'd lose. What happened in history — I was elected by 11,000 votes."

Tough Fight
"It's a tough fight. We're underdogs and we know we're underdogs, but we're encouraged," he said. "What's so encouraging is that every poll shows about 30 per cent of the voters still undecided. That's where our strength lies — in those undecided voters."

Steele predicted a light turnout on Election Day and it bothers him.

"I don't want a light turnout," he said. "It's possible the published polls could keep Republican voters away, with a 'what's the use attitude.' They're signing up as Democrats or unaffiliated."

Notes Oddy in Polls
He noted an oddity in most of the polls. "The older the age group, progressively up to senior citizens, the better I do. I do worse with the younger element. The only way I can explain it is that the young voters are being turned off from the Republican party. They're signing up as Democrats or unaffiliated."

He predicted he'll win by about 20,000 votes Tuesday — with a 50,000-vote plurality in his own Second Congressional District, 25,000 in the Fourth and 5,000 in the Fifth.

"That should be more than enough to absorb our losses in the First District (15,000), the Third (19,000) and the Sixth (30,000)," he explained.

Good Ticket
"We've got a good ticket," he said, "and the response we're getting is tremendous. It's warm, it's friendly and it's encouraging. Nate (State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli) is a real credit to our party and to our ticket. He's a real asset. And remember, 14 of Connecticut's daily and weekly papers have endorsed us to date, compared to 6 for Mrs. Grasso."

He was asked whether the altercation between U.S. Sen. Lowell Weicker and himself hurt or helped Republican chances for election.

Everything Documented
"It had no effect — neither plus nor minus," he replied. "Everything we documented about the sale of the HELCO building (in 1961) to Democratic chairman John Bailey was true and accurate. If it hadn't been, perhaps our disclosures would have backfired. They didn't because they were true."

He labeled as "absolutely untrue" charges he is out to unseat Weicker in 1976 and to make the run himself for U.S. senator.

"If I had wanted to run for senator I could have done it this year," he said. "I certainly was asked to do so time and time again."

He said he'd like to see Weicker stay in the Republican party and not run as an independent.

Need Broad Spectrum
"We need everyone in the party we can get and we want every Republican to stay Republican," he said. "Our party has the broad ideology we think is best for all. What we need is a broad spectrum of views within the party."

He said about Mrs. Grasso, "She's promising everyone the moon. I refuse to make any pledge I can't fulfill. She gets the endorsements and, because I have to tell it the way it is, I get the dirty looks."

Agostinelli is calling on the General Assembly to consider the death penalty for premeditated murders, larger and appropriate for the state police, and applications for federal grants for local police.

area. They are shown talking with Mrs. June Tompkins, a staff member while touring the newspaper.

"It's not true we're not interested in people and their problems. We say, 'Look, we want to be honest about it. We can't promise you the moon like Mrs. Grasso does.'"

"They're happy now to hear her promises, but they'll be screaming later, when it comes out of their pocketbooks and wallets and when they find out they'll have to pay a state income tax. Give her 3 to 5 years more with her spending program and the bubble will burst."

"We Republicans may not be perfect," said Steele, "but the difference in their attitude toward spending is like night and day. If the voters only opened their eyes and ears to the truth, they'd vote Republican, and I think they will."

Agostinelli Requests Session on Crime

HARTFORD — State Comptroller Nathan C. Agostinelli announced today that he is calling for a special session of the General Assembly immediately after the election to consider more stringent laws and increased funding to improve public protection for Connecticut citizens.

"Rehabilitation is commendable," charged Agostinelli, a candidate for lieutenant governor, "but public protection is primary."

Citing 15 murders in a 60-day period, a rash of Halloween robberies, and a rape in Manchester, his home town, Agostinelli pointed out that there is no way that public can presently do their jobs effectively with the amount of crime around. Last week, the state comptroller took issue with lenient judges "who do not have the guts to do the job they are paid to do."

"It may be time to dust off the electric chair," Agostinelli continued. "For innocent people, it is no longer a question of whether to buy a piece of clothing in store, but whether they can get to the store in one piece."

Agostinelli is calling on the General Assembly to consider the death penalty for premeditated murders, larger and appropriate for the state police, and applications for federal grants for local police.

Kennedy Critical of Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says President Ford's decision to defer $100,000 to train family doctors is "petty and vindictive."

"That the president would stoop to this foolish and unseemly gesture is another sign of the petty and vindictive personal politics being practiced within the administration," the Massachusetts Democrat said Friday in a statement.

Kennedy referred to Ford's message to Congress Thursday in which he announced the withholding of the money intended to train general practitioners under the Family Practice of Medicine Act.

Speaks on Economy

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today the Western world is gripped by economic and political crisis but the Soviet Union has entered a new high stage of development.

Kosygin renewed the Soviet call for a collective security system in Asia to serve as the basis for a constructive peace program.

Speaking at Fuzhou, 200 miles north of the Chinese border, the Soviet premier blamed Peking leaders for failure to harmonize Soviet-Chinese relations.

Kosygin addressed a meeting marking the 30th anniversary of the Khing Soviet Republic in the southern Soviet Union.

Demand Thieu Resign

SAIGON (UPI) — More than 30 South Vietnamese legislators today demanded the immediate resignation of President Nguyen Van Thieu, but the streets of Saigon were quiet after three days of violent anti-government protests. About 1,000 Roman Catholics gathered at the unmarked graves of ex-President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Nhu, both slain 11 years ago in a coup d'etat. But scheduled anti-government demonstrations by the Catholics failed to take place and the religious ceremony at the Mac Dinh Chi cemetery received police protection.

Oil One-Price System Gets Backing from Shah

TEHRAN (UPI) — The Shah of Iran, fresh from a round of talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, said today he would sponsor a single pricing system for oil which could result in lower gasoline prices for U.S. consumers.

"I will probably visit the Middle East next week to talk to the participants in the Arab summit conference and to those who for obvious reasons were not at the summit," Kissinger said at a news conference.

Kissinger stopped in the Middle East last month on his nine-month, month-long tour but the Rabat summit meeting of Arab leaders this week made him want to return there before he goes back to Washington, diplomatic sources said.

The Arab leaders gave the Palestine Liberation Organization sole authority to set up an independent Palestinian state on land in Jordan Israel might return.

The PLO Question
Kissinger told the news conference the United States "is not at this moment" moving toward recognition of the PLO, which Israel has denounced as a terrorist group.

But he indicated that when he returns to Washington President Ford and his senior advisers would reassess the role of the PLO.

Link High Food Prices To Federal Agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A two-day conference on prices, costs and productivity in the food industry ended Friday with the consensus that the government itself may be the major culprit contributing to high retail food prices.

The issue was emphasized not only by food processors, retailers, consumers and the transportation sector of the food industry but also by government representatives.

ICC Prime Target
Singled out repeatedly for criticism were the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission that govern truck and rail carriers of food.

In the light of this — and of recent speeches by some Ford administration officials criticizing ICC — it appears that agency will be a prime target in the move to eliminate federal regulations that contribute to rising food costs.

In a keynote address at the conference, Albert Rees, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, suggested that one of the major ways to lower food costs is to improve efficiency in transportation which will "require changes in the rules of the independent regulatory agencies of government."

"National Scandal"
Another government spokesman, Wesley Liebeler of the Federal Trade Commission, called the performance of the ICC as it relates to food distribution "a national scandal."

The two were taken into custody Friday night on bench warrants at an undisclosed location. Schragar was charged this morning with third-degree assault and threat. New Britain Police and State Police participated in the arrest. Piskowski was being questioned today in Hartford by state and local police.

Welfare Income Plan Being Studied by Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is considering scrapping most of the nation's welfare system and substituting a guaranteed family income plan.

Assistant Press Secretary Larry Speakes said Friday that Ford has circulated the proposal for comment among government officials but has not decided whether to send it to Congress.

Drafted at Ford's Request
The tentative "income supplement program" drafted at Ford's request, would replace three welfare programs which Ford considers wasteful and inflationary — food stamps, aid to dependent children and supplemental security income for the aged, blind and disabled. These would be replaced by a government cash payment of $3,000 a year to a family of four having no other income. If a family member finds work, the payment would increase until the family income reached $7,300.

Not Wholly New
The proposal seemed to follow the general lines of guaranteed income plans supported under other names and with different features by former President Richard Nixon and Sen. George S. McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate.

national scandal" and estimated outside regulations cost consumers $4 billion to $10 billion a year.

"The thing consumers need protection from more than anything else," Liebeler said, "is government itself."

Liebeler also suggested the Agriculture Department and his own agency have not acted strongly enough to halt anti-trust laws have been used to protect middlemen from competition, not improve consumer welfare and said state milk marketing laws may be subject to future antitrust pressure.

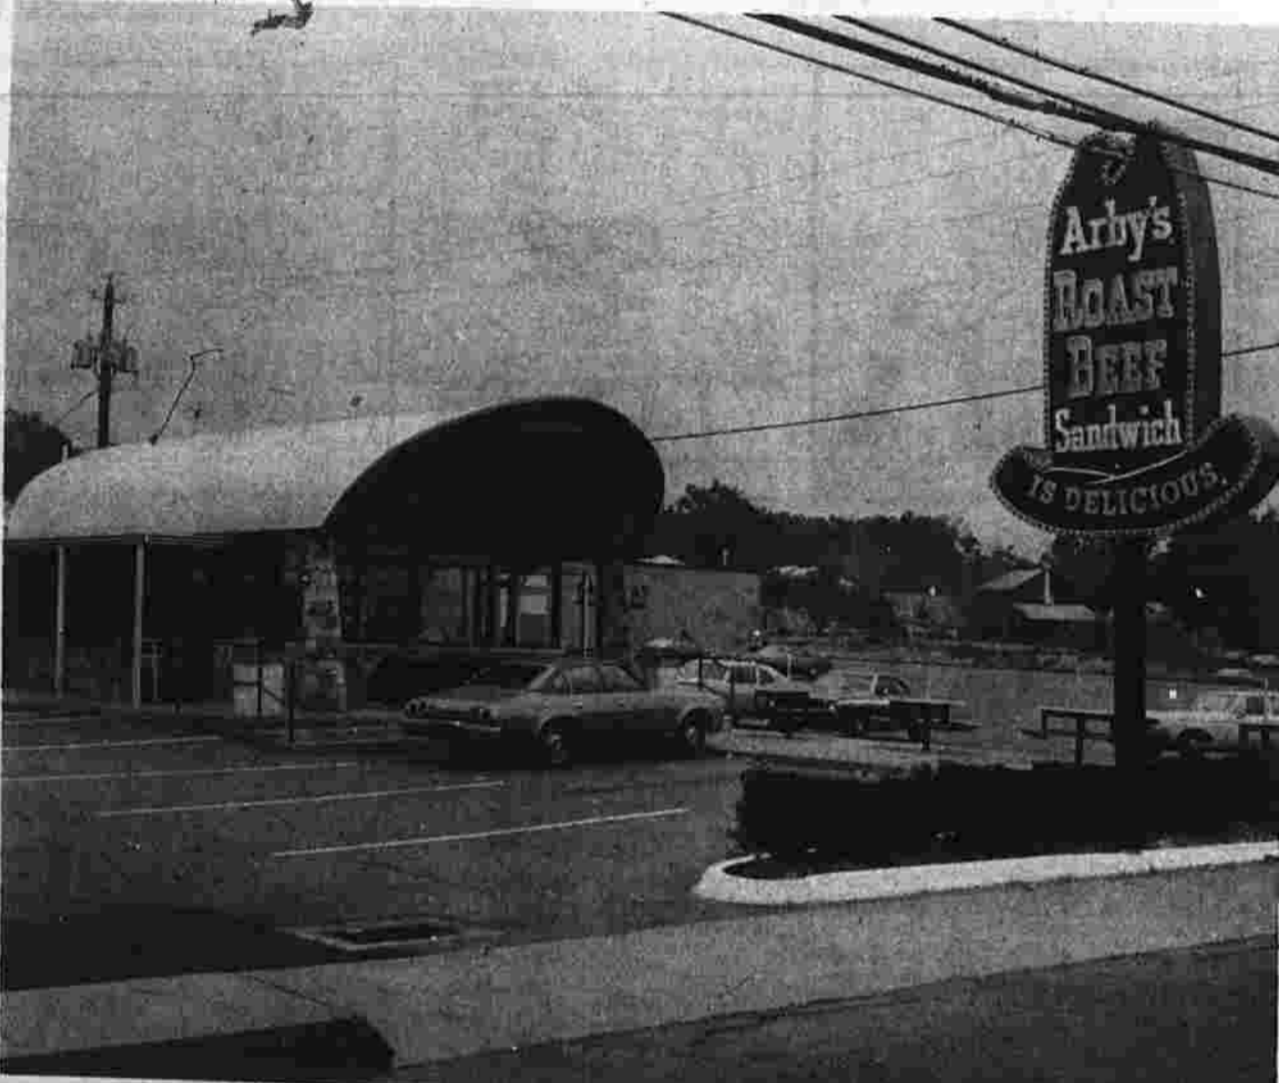

Consumer representatives said there is a need for revision of labeling and packaging practices that not only add to food costs but in many cases deny consumers the proper nutritional information.
