

President Ford Will Chalk Up His Own First In Japan

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — President Ford will chalk up his own historic "first" when he travels to Japan next week.

He also will be attempting to establish his credentials as a statesman and leader of the most powerful nation in the world.

In making a foreign trip — on the anniversary of his first 100 days in the presidency — Ford will only be following precedent set by his predecessors.

Since World War II, new presidents have traveled abroad early in the game to test their foreign policy skills. Sometimes there have been rude awakenings as in the case of President Kennedy's first meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in Vienna in 1961.

Other American presidents have been thwarted in their attempts to go to Japan. The late President Dwight D. Eisenhower had arrived in Manila en route to Tokyo when he got a telephone call from the Press Secretary, James Hagerty recommending the trip be canceled because of anti-American demonstrations.

Nixon had hoped to travel to Japan last summer following his Middle East and Soviet summits, but Watergate kept him from adding Japan to his list of presidential firsts.

Ford's initiation into world diplomacy is fraught with potential trouble. Japanese demonstrators could disrupt his visit, and he is going to Tokyo at a time when Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka is on the political ropes, seeking to survive in office and fighting back against charges that he enriched himself in government.

Japanese diplomats are saying that Ford's visit will be symbolic and will have a significant impact on relations between the U.S. and its World War II enemy. They insist that whether or not Tanaka remains as prime minister, U.S.-Japanese policy will remain the same.

The President will be able to demonstrate that the traces of World War II have disappeared when he is honored at a state dinner by Emperor Hirohito.

Despite the domestic strife in South Korea, Ford also will visit Seoul for talks with President Park Chung Hee.

Kissinger recommended the controversial trip to South Korea on grounds that it would be a "slap in the face" to Park if the President was in the vicinity and did not drop by.

He said the trend to renovate existing homes, noticed for a brief time several years ago in the Midwest, was now limited primarily to New England and the Pacific Northwest.

But Goss did say that "luxury-priced, single-family dwellings will continue to do well."

He also said there were other positive features to look forward to in the housing market.

"At the other end of the price spectrum," he said, "there will be some experimental building of less expensive homes based on strong promises of government assistance through the secondary mortgage market."

In New England, he said, "Use of existing properties will be strong in urbanized areas of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, with little activity in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. The conversion of older dwellings into two-, three- and four-family housing will be found particularly in older suburbs surrounding major cities."

Goss also noted a change in the trend of constructing planned unit developments, which previously were solely recreational or residential communities.

He said new developments likely would be "all-in-one live, work and play towns offering employment opportunities, recreational amenities and educational facilities and other services."

In addition, he said, mini-shopping centers will continue to be a strong factor in the construction area and will be built near existing communities or where new development is planned.

Residential Construction in Holding Pattern

BOSTON (UPI) — Uncertainties caused by high inflation and the tight money market has placed residential construction in a holding pattern across the nation even though the demand for housing remains high, according to a Boston mortgage insurance executive.

But for the present, Goss said, "uncertainties generated by today's double-digit inflation have made residential construction people generally apprehensive.

And their response to this monetary climate (is): Stay put — do nothing — until economic clouds disperse.

"The demand for housing remains high," he said. "It is the supply that is so elusive."

For the second day, the Central Intelligence Agency and its possible role in the Watergate bugging became the central issue at the trial of Haldeman and four other aides to former President Nixon.

Sirica has ordered Richard Helms, ambassador to Iran who was CIA director at the time of the bugging, brought back to testify about the agency's role in the case.

Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters, deputy CIA director, testified Thursday. He was to take the stand again today to explain possible CIA involvement in the case.

Ford Summons Aides To Discuss Economy

Ford wants to assess prospects of his economic program in the lame duck Congress.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, who says inflation is starting to recede, summoned his cabinet today to assess prospects of congressional passage of his economic program in the lame duck session.

Ford also will review his forthcoming Asian trip with the cabinet and scheduled meetings with his top economic advisers to discuss how to cut $5 billion from the 1975 fiscal year budget.

Having conceded that the nation's economy is now in a state of recession, Ford made it plain at a news conference in Phoenix, Ariz., Thursday that he believes his "timely tuned" 31-point program will meet the current changes of a recession-inflation economy.

"What we have to do is prevent reactions that will be harmful to the economy, restimulating or reigniting inflation which is actually starting to recede at the present time," Ford said.

"We have to follow a very narrow path, and the Congress can help, and if they do, we can avoid the pitfalls of more inflation and economic conditions than we have today."

In a question-and-answer session Thursday night, Ford showed a combative, campaigning spirit despite the defeat of many of the GOP candidates he fought for in October.

Most of the questions dealt with the economy. Ford again rejected a tax on gasoline and repeatedly opposed wage and price controls, calling them "not absolutely the wrong approach to the solution of a weakening economy."

Ford admitted one economic indicator — unemployment — will increase, but he said no economist has indicated to him that it will go above 7 percent. The way to avoid problems, he said, is to pass his economic proposals.

Signs like these at Frank's supermarket are going up at most Manchester area grocery stores as managers push sugar substitutes to combat rising costs of sugar. Spotchecks of several Manchester supermarkets revealed current prices of a five-pound bag of sugar ranging from $2.50 to $2.99.

Convalescing

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon was convalescing at his San Clemente home today and his doctors are worried that medical examiners appointed by the Watergate court to examine him may subject him to unnecessary strain.

Replay Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John Sirica today ordered a crucial White House tape replayed before he decides whether to call as a defendant H. R. Haldeman can cite CIA secrecy as part of his defense in the Watergate corpus trip.

For the second day, the Central Intelligence Agency and its possible role in the Watergate bugging became the central issue at the trial of Haldeman and four other aides to former President Nixon.

Sirica has ordered Richard Helms, ambassador to Iran who was CIA director at the time of the bugging, brought back to testify about the agency's role in the case.

Ready to Return

DETROIT (UPI) — James R. Hoffa, former boss of the powerful Teamsters union, has set the wheels in motion for a legal battle that may return him to union leadership.

Hoffa said Thursday he is ready to defy a presidential ban and seek the presidency of his old union local, the traditional springboard to national Teamsters power.

The 61-year-old one-time union powerhouse said he expects to be nominated as president of Local 299 sometime next month.

Neither Rain Nor Sleet...

This past week brought some bad weather to the Midwest, but snow and freezing temperatures didn't stop the University of Iowa Hawkeyes Marching Band from its practice sessions. Wrapped up against the elements is clarinetist Mike Stone.

Mine Union Admits Coal Pact Will Cost

United Press International
The United Mine Workers' bargaining council today resumed consideration of a proposed three-year coal contract. Both sides called it a good contract but a spokesman for the mine owners warned it would drive up the price of electricity and automobiles.

Union officials said the 38-member council — which wound up an eight-hour session before dawn and met again at mid-morning — might vote later today on whether or not to recommend passage of the contract by 120,000 striking miners.

UMW President Arnold Miller said at the breakup of the early morning session that the council still had 19 items to go through before making its recommendation. He called the contract "a good one."

Bank Robbery

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Lawrence Otanie, 19, who lived just down the street from the First New Haven National Bank, was arraigned today on charges he robbed the bank Thursday.

Makeshift Schools

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Makeshift schools sprang up in outlying Kanawha County villages and towns today amid intense security maintained to avert further violence in the long-running textbook feud.

Grave But Soluble

CHICAGO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Thursday the energy crisis is grave but soluble. He urged industrial nations to cut oil consumption and develop new energy sources.

"The full brunt of the petrodollar flood is yet to come. If current economic trends continue, we face further and mounting worldwide shortages, unemployment, poverty and hunger," Kissinger warned.

The solution, Kissinger said, depends on "international collaboration, particularly among the industrial nations of North America, Western Europe and Japan." Without that collaboration, he warned, the world may face "social conflict and political turmoil" and the possibility that "new tensions will engulf the world just when the antagonisms of two decades of the cold war have begun to diminish."

He Will Run

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will definitely run for the presidency in 1976, his chief spokesman said today.

The 28th Amendment designed to speed this process in future cases.

The Brown controversy—He "disapproves and disavows" remarks Gen. George S. Brown made about the alleged influence of Jews in American life but will not fire him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Lawyer Says Rocky Reserved on Book

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney John Wells today testified Nelson A. Rockefeller was noncommittal in 1970 when the two men discussed publication of a biography critical of former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg.

But Wells, a New York attorney, told the Senate Rules Committee studying Rockefeller's nomination as vice president that he received a telephone call a week later from a Rockefeller lawyer who wanted to discuss means of publishing the book.

Rockefeller, whose nomination was expected to be approved by the committee, has testified that the 15-minute meeting with Wells was his only involvement with the book. He has admitted that he gave tacit approval to the project and recommended that his brother, Laurence, finance it.

Foreign Librarians Visit

The group of about 30 who were in town is one of three groups on the special tour. One group is visiting in the Chicago area, and the other is touring the San Francisco area.

At the end of the tour next week, the three groups will meet in Washington.

Factors Affecting Productivity

A decrease in worker productivity of 3 per cent in the third quarter is another symptom, and also contributing factor, to the economic ills of the country.

We have pointed out before that a decrease in worker output was per se inflationary, and contrarily that an increase in productivity would be a dampening factor.

When the hourly output of a worker decreases in the face of increasing hourly wages, the production cost per unit necessarily rises and hence the cost of the goods being produced is increased all along the line and finally to the consumer.

Productivity may be increased in several ways. Incentives by management, worker suggestions and technological advances are all helpful devices.

Unfortunately union leaders have not promoted individual effort by the worker as it should be pushed. Some industries, notably United States Steel, have had planned productivity campaigns. The threat of lower prices of foreign steel inspired that effort in great part.

Unfortunately worker pressure for increased hourly rates, added fringe benefits, more vacation time, etc., does nothing to lower the cost of production, but on the contrary is inflationary, unless coupled with greater productivity.

The phenomena, however, is not all traceable to labor. Management in many cases has had to delay indefinitely introduction of new machinery and processes which would hopefully result in greater productivity.

The high cost of improvement capital has made borrowing for technological improvements extremely costly. However, there is some light in this area since the prime rate has been coming down the past several weeks.

Jersey Voters Nix Casinos

New Jersey's rejection of casino-style gambling, which would have brought the Las Vegas lifestyle to the East Coast, should serve as a lesson to all states, including Connecticut, that the voters do not necessarily want more and more gambling.

The constitutional amendment to permit casino gambling was designed to "save" Atlantic City, the once-famous tourist attraction now deteriorating because of America's changing vacation habits. Although the referendum was originally held out as a pilot program for the seaside city, the New Jersey legislature expanded it to provide for casino gambling throughout the state, and the voters rejected the idea decisively.

It is one thing for a state to consider the legalization of gambling with the institution of a lottery, or even the creation of on-track horse wagering.

It is little understood, too, that the maintenance of a high rate of productivity is dependent on many things. Adjustment of industry is not often instantaneous to falling sales. Many workers are kept on payrolls with the hope that business will improve. Hence there is a decline in the productivity rate.

Optimum productivity also is dependent upon the flow of raw materials to manufacture. Shortages, delays, and all the gremlins that hinder production are productivity depressants which cannot be blamed on labor.

Top grade production is maintained only when all of the factors contributing to it are favorable. It is a delicate state of balance which can be thrown off by many adverse factors.

It does nothing to increase productivity, provides no incentive to workers and is totally unrelated to economic factors.

Conceived as a sociological, even philanthropic, means of keeping wages and salaries in pace with rising living costs, it is a stimulant to further increases.

No business, facing economic adversity, can continue to meet cost of living clauses without serious injury.

When wages and salaries are raised as the result of increased production and lower costs however the results are beneficial to both industry and labor.

When they are artificially increased to meet living costs they take the brakes off the economy and contribute to the very evil which they were thought to offset.

It is interesting to note a recent study by the Twentieth Century Fund which concluded that "Legalization of gambling will produce relatively small amounts of revenue and will raise it from the wrong people in the wrong way." It noted New York's off-track betting system which "was to raise revenue at the expense of illegal operators (but) instead raised it at the expense of legal tracks and by attracting non-bettors."

Legalized gambling is not the panacea for a state's fiscal woes. The public's taste for it can easily be soured by excessiveness. New Jersey's citizens spoke out. Connecticut's officials should listen. — Waterbury Republican

Even An Expert Can't Tell The Real Wine

WASHINGTON — Something awful has happened to the French people. It is as if Joan of Arc had been exposed as a lingerie salesman from Lyon who secretly shaved twice a day.

Horrible enough were the charges of wine doctoring brought against 17 prominent figures of France's noblest industry. But, sacrebleu! Witnesses have admitted foul that even an expert can't tell doctoring wine from the real thing.

Involved are four million bottles of wine which allegedly were chemically treated and passed off on an unsuspecting public as red Bordeaux. The nation's international reputation is at stake, and there is an ugly report that several Frenchmen recently were seen surreptitiously sipping a Chianti smuggled in by a band of Corsican hoods.

One of the defendants is a broker previously convicted of wine fraud. He told the Bordeaux court: "I am guilty, but so are thousands of others. In 30 years in the trade, I have seen fraud practiced everywhere — among owners, dealers and professional associations. Baptizing, as we call it, is a common practice."

And, after centuries of confidently lapping up their country's most famous product, the French people have been told that they are defenseless against those who would commit the sacrilege of tampering with their wine. Testimony has disclosed that while tasting and chemical analysis may establish whether a wine is good or bad, there is no sure way of telling where it came from.

In short, expert wine tasters have been revealed as merely human, after all. "A certain mystique has gone," admitted Hughes Layton, president of the Bordeaux Wine Merchants Association, in an interview with The New York Times. "People are very often wrong in a blind tasting."

Well, I suppose it was inevitable. In recent years experts in practically every field have fallen into disrepute. Not to knock the breed personally, but economists in particular have descended to a low estate, although it probably is a base canard that their wives now have taken over their household budgets. After shaking hands with a politician, the temptation is to count one's fingers. Even Jim

Evil Unpunished

MIAMI, Fla. — So the Calley saga comes to a close, ending not with a bang of guilt but with a whimper of pretrial prejudice. William L. Calley Jr., the sole Army man convicted by a military court for a role in My Lai massacre, has been simultaneously freed by a federal judge pending an unlikely government appeal and also paroled by the secretary of the Army, the former displacing the latter.

But before the Calley case is totally forgotten, sinking like a weighted corpse to the river bottom of oblivion, we might recall what gave some importance to this cipher of a man, who wants now only to find some work in Columbus, Ga., and hopes for some "anonymity."

There are a number of things about the Calley case that will give it a place in history. — My Lai was the first traumatic bout that Americans had with a national sense of guilt. It played a big role in the debate over the Vietnam war and in pulling Americans out of the war. It left a scar — don't doubt it — on the most vulnerable thing Americans cling to, I mean their feeling of hope about their young people. It was young Americans, the "nice, quiet" boys from their hometowns, who were involved with My Lai.

That is why My Lai stirred a storm. Out of it came the first "silent majority" that found its voice — even before Richard Nixon used the term. There are still "silent majorities" ahead in the years to come whenever an issue arises on which a large segment of Americans feel that the media and politicians are not expressing their views.

Another major theme emerged from the Calley case — that Calley was a victim abandoned to his legal fate by his superiors; that right up to the top they knew what was happening, did nothing to stop it, even tried to cover up the role of the "higher-ups."

A related theme in the Calley case was that he was not alone among the rank and file, that what he did many others did as a natural response to the tensions of fighting a guerrilla war under intolerable conditions. If true, it would be a depressing truth, not only about Americans but about the human race. I never believed that such evil was to be found everywhere, and still don't. What would follow from it is that there is no guilt or evil in war, for where everyone is guilty no one is guilty. Thus the Calley case was in several respects a preview of the emotions displayed in the Watergate debate. Many currents were started in that case which we have had to deal with since, in other forms. With time the case itself sank from attention. It was not anything that people much wanted to keep thinking about. And another federal court ruling that it has been revived only with the rulings on Calley's appeal which have also stirred up these memories and reflections of mine.

Both the judicial decisions are highly debatable. There are many who will feel a ranking sense of frustration about them both. They were both decided on technical grounds, not on grounds of substance. In both cases there was guilt in the moral sense, and in both cases it has gone unpunished.

Write both decisions down to the post-Watergate climate, which has revived the fact that men associated with deaths from which we recoil will be subject to the protection as well as the penalties of the law. If we are serious about equal justice under the law, then we must accept the fact that men associated with deaths from which we recoil will be subject to the protection as well as the penalties of the law. If we care about the scrupulous weighing of every legal safeguard for defendants under the criminal law, then we had better apply it down the line, regardless of whether conservatives or liberals seem to get the best of it. Justice, blindfolded, is an ambiguous, evasive lady. When wooed, she doesn't always give the answer we hoped for. Yet we have no choice but to woo her and accept her hard terms. Any other way lies bitterness, arbitrary government and the persistent sense of injustice.

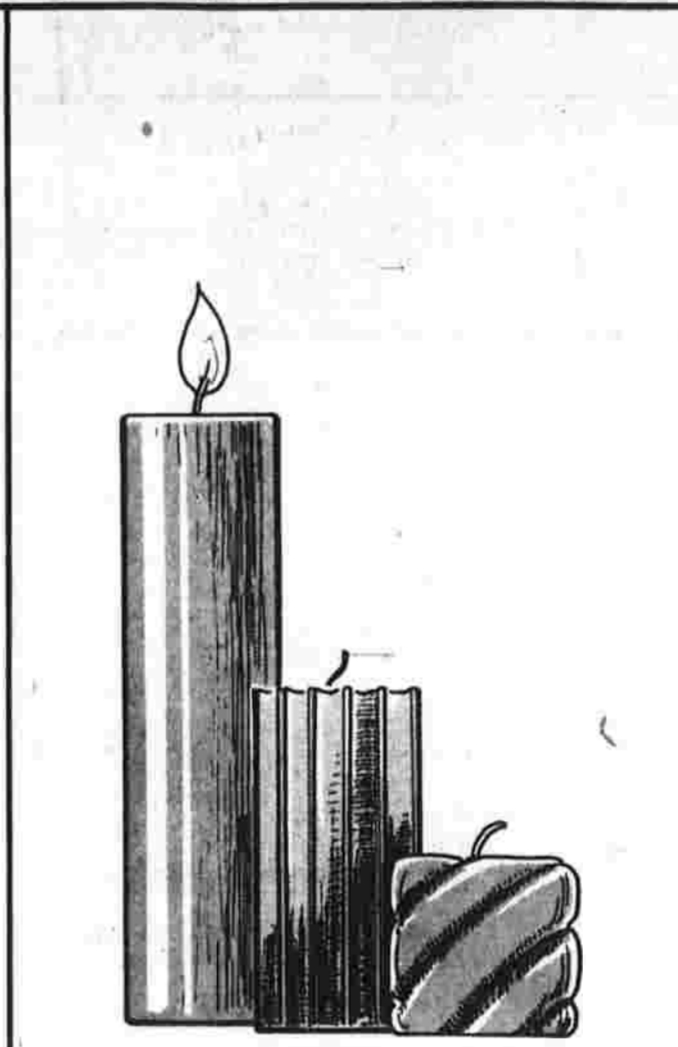

Thanks To the editor: I'd like to thank the voters of Manchester's 9th District for their vote of confidence in me and the Democratic party demonstrated at the polls Nov. 5. Along with Governor-Elect Grasso, those elected to serve in the Legislature for the next term have a very serious obligation to provide a new, moderate and effective governance for the State of Connecticut. I pledge myself to represent responsibly the people of the district and the Town of Manchester. I pledge my best efforts to help pass legislation that will foster an improved economy. The responsibility placed in the hands of the Democratic majority is very great. I will not treat it lightly. — Muriel Yacovine, 175 Wakefield Circle, East Hartford

Use Of Wetland Permitted

The Planning and Zoning Commission, acting as the Inland Wetlands Agency, approved the application of Raymond Roman for a permit to conduct activities within 150 feet of a water course.

Roman will have to cross the brook on his property on Armstrong Rd. with a pipe to carry sewage up to a leaching field approximately 400 feet from the brook. He also received permission to fill in an old cavity on the property that had been used as a dumping spot for the mill for many years. Roman will place a parking lot over the cavity.

The Historic District Study Committee presented plans for two historic districts to the commission.

The two districts, one located in North Coventry and the other in South Coventry, would not effect existing commercial or residential areas. The Meadow Brook Shopping Plaza and the proposed shopping plaza of Bert Lindsay are both included in the first district.

The commission reviewed the committee report and made no recommendations but did support the idea of establishing historic districts.

Atty. David Rappe represented Peter Ganas for his application for a 16-lot subdivision at Carpenter and Merrow Rds. Tuesday was the public hearing on that application.

Donald Holmes, deputy assessor reported that he had inspected the site and required that 10 of the 16 lots have engineer designed septic systems because of the poor soil and high ground water on these lots. This has been done on nine out of ten lots. Lot number 12 is the only remaining lot needing a designed field.

Griswold and Fuss, town engineers, had informed the commission by letter that it should require the developer to include the portion of Merrow and Carpenter Rds. that the subdivision will front on.

Rappe told the commission that he doubted if his client could afford to do this type of work.

Because of the elevation of the land, 10 of the 16 lots will require pumps to pump the sewage up to the leaching fields which will be from 75 to 275 feet away from the house sites.

The majority of lots will be more than two acres.

The commission made the recommendation that the placement of the house could be changed to get better use of the good soils on the northern portion of the land and that it would be possible for Ganas to put in occasional rear lots under the new zoning regulations.

Vacant Posts
Elizabeth Rychling, town clerk, has warned of several vacancies on town boards and commissions.

Dorothy Thissell has resigned from the Board of Health and because she is a Democrat will have to be replaced by a Democrat.

Mary Jo Koeck has resigned from the Flood and Erosion Control Board and her replacement should be a Republican.

There is a vacancy on the Planning and Zoning Commission for the position of alternate and this position will have to be filled by either a Republican or an Independent.

Anyone interested in serving on these boards or commission should contact the chairman of the nominating committee of his party or write directly to the town clerk or the town council.

The Herald Backfire Prompted Policeman's Shot

COVENTRY

Through an investigation conducted by the Chief of Police Robert Kjelquist, it has been found that Patrolman Lawrence Fawcett fired a round from his service revolver at a backfiring vehicle on Rt. 44A, in town.

It had earlier been reported that Fawcett was fired on by a passing motorist as he made his rounds at the Meadowbrook Shopping Plaza.

Police were on the scene late yesterday morning with a metal detector in an attempt to find the metal pellets from the supposed shotgun blast. These could not be found.

Chief Kjelquist said, "The first news released yesterday was made on the basis of Officer Fawcett's report. I later developed other information which led me to believe the contrary of Fawcett's report."

Chief Kjelquist has suspended Fawcett for two days without pay for using bad judgment and being in violation of the departmental general order on the use of force.

Fawcett is one of the two police officers on the force who carry a 357 magnum but uses the standard 38 caliber bullet issued by the department.

There are traditionally two police cruisers on the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift each night, but each cruiser carries only one patrolman. Officer Fawcett is the K-9 officer in town and had his dog with him at the time of the incident Thursday morning.

Chief Kjelquist said the Officer Fawcett had an excellent record since joining the police force until this incident.

He also said that patrolmen were proficient and well trained in the handling of guns, and almost all of the men receive high scores at target practice. Each of the men gets approximately 80 hours of training each year.

Chief Kjelquist said, "I feel very good that I found out there is no one in town who is trying to shoot at a policeman. That is a positive thing."

David LaCoss on the clarinet. The third mini-concert will be held Dec. 1 and will feature Susan Davis on the harp.

Tickets will be available at the door. They may also be purchased at the Town Office Building or from any member of the music committee.

Tickets will sell for $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Series tickets may be purchased for $2.50 for adults and $1 for children.

MCC's 'Hostage' Said Well Cast

GARDENING

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Sure, and begorrah! There's a rollicking, rollicking time going on tonight and tomorrow night at the Manchester Community College auditorium on Bidwell St.

The Irish are there with their wit and pathos to provide constant entertainment in Brendan Behan's "The Hostage."

The story involves a young Cockney soldier being held hostage in reprisal for an IRA man who is to be hanged. Although the play seems to wallow in the beginning, the story comes through, and with it, pure and surprising entertainment in song and jest. Satire is subtle, and the parades are pertinent. The play is filled with the unexpected "bon mot."

Although Thursday's performance was more like a final rehearsal, it is the type of entertainment the drama group at MCC has become famous for - enjoyable, slyly suggestive, slightly offbeat and most always diverting.

Plese has succeeded in directing this fast-paced, well-cast play by a playwright who died in 1964 at the age of 41. The curtain rises tonight and tomorrow on "The Hostage" at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the door.

Plese, who directed the play, filled in for the part when James Gardner, originally assigned to the role, became ill. With somewhat strained ease, Plese flouted the quick lines of his role which included meaningful asides to the audience throughout the play.

Marge Porter gives a Marie Dressler type of performance in her raucous, bawdy impersonation of a brothel keeper. On stage most of the time are a colorful assortment of what one would expect in a brothel including the gay ones. Bob Richardson as a constantly inebriated piano player occasionally offers a brilliant piano number. In one clever performance, he accompanies a liltting tune by blowing an oompah on two bottles.

A shrub that is a member of the Russian olive family bears fruit at the home of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Clifford O. Simpson on Spring St. Red berries provide food for migrating birds. The Irish setter, Blarney, waits for a chance to go for a walk in the woods with Dr. Simpson. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Chuck Clark played Leslie, the hostage in a straight manner.

One of MCC's favorites as a comedian, Bob Dobson, exhibited his type of comedy as an IRA volunteer.

Other supporting players supplemented the cast well. The story involves a young Cockney soldier being held hostage in reprisal for an IRA man who is to be hanged. Although the play seems to wallow in the beginning, the story comes through, and with it, pure and surprising entertainment in song and jest. Satire is subtle, and the parades are pertinent. ### Space Sought for Merged Courts

VERNON

With the circuit courts and the courts of common pleas to be merged by Jan. 1, 1975, Vernon Mayor Frank McCoy is working against time to come up with suitable space in Vernon to accommodate the two.

He said this would be at least an interim solution to satisfy the courts' requirement for a clerk's office and vault. He said later the courts could be moved to the building now housing the town's administrative offices.

Plans are in the works to renovate the bank building for use as a senior citizen center. Recreation Director Donald Berger has opposed cutting down on space planned for this purpose.

The Memorial Building, which is adjacent to the bank building, is now being renovated and when completed the administrative offices will be moved there thus leaving the present administration building available for other use.

When the administration building is available McCoy suggested that the courts could move there as a unit. His proposal will be presented to the Town Council Monday night. He will also ask for the opinion of the entire Recreation Commission before sending the proposal to the state.

Stafford Springs, also a Circuit Court 12 seat, is interested in having the merged courts housed in that town and has offered quality facilities for that purpose.

Houley Asks Help From Town Aides

Robert Houley, Democrat of Vernon, and state senator elected from the 5th District, has sent out letters to all heads of government in the 15 towns he will represent, asking for input and guidance as it affects their towns.

He reminded town officials that the cut-off date for legislation will be in early January and if there is any legislative measures their town requires to advise him by Dec. 15 he can and guidance as it affects their towns.

Houley said, "The 1974 state elections are behind us and it is time to set aside all partisanship and to proceed in addressing ourselves to the problems of people in our communities."

He also commented that his role is legislative and not administrative but if he can be of value to their offices on an intermediary basis not to hesitate to advise him.

He added, "I would therefore ask for your input and guidance, as it affects your town, and pledge my best efforts in being of assistance to you, when possible."

This year the Vernon Junior Women's Club members have volunteered to make clothes for the dolls which the firemen will collect. Chief Magada said he would be glad to hear from other clubs or senior citizens who sew who might be interested in helping dress the dolls.

The workshop is set up at the Flitton Fire Station on Prospect St. Toys may be dropped off there or at the John Ashe fire house on Nye St., Sundays from 10 a.m. to noon or Mondays from 7 to 9 p.m.

Anyone having toys to donate and needing pickup service should call Magada or Assistant Chief Arthur Hewitt.

Endangered Species

To understand the magnitude of the Democratic sweep in Connecticut Nov. 5, one needs only read the sign placed on the door of his State Capitol office by Republican State Sen. George L. Gunther of Stratford, who managed to be re-elected.

"It reads, 'Please use tender loving care. Endangered Species Area.'"

The election left the Republicans with only 7 members in the 36-member State Senate (19.4 per cent), and 33 members in the 151-member House of Representatives (21.8 per cent).

The State Senate about to be dissolved has 23 Republicans and 13 Democrats, and the House has 93 Republicans and 58 Democrats.

The Republicans lost 16 seats in the State Senate and 66 in the House. State legislators get $11,000 pay for their two-year terms ($6,500 the first year and $4,500 the second), plus $1,000 a year in expense money, plus mileage allowance to and from the State Capitol.

When First Congressional District Democrats meet Saturday to choose four delegates and one alternate to the National Democratic Charter Convention, Manchester will seek one of the designations.

Manchester Democrats are recommending Dorothy Brindamour as east of the river delegate. Mrs. Brindamour is vice chairman of the Democratic Town Committee.

Manchester will have 22 delegates and 8 alternates at the Dec. 6-7 convention, to be held in Kansas City, Mo.

A law passed by the 1972 General Assembly hikes the pay for the state's top elective offices, effective when the new administration takes over in January. The governor's salary will go to $42,000, from the present $38,000. The lieutenant governor will be paid $18,000 (it is now $10,000), the attorney general will get $30,000 (it is now $20,000), and the secretary of the state, treasurer and comptroller will get $20,000 (all are now at $15,000).

Teachers Shift Agent For Group Bargaining

The contract was a two-year contract with a five per cent raise the first year and a two per cent raise the second year. The teachers were also unhappy with the teacher evaluation procedures that had been worked out by the Board of Education and the federation, and it was this evaluation procedure which was directly attributed to the teacher tenure problems experienced last spring at Coventry Grammar School.

The Board of Education will hold its first bargaining session with the newly elected association Nov. 21.

Official checkers for the election were Betty Hoffman, Elma Heckler, association secretaries at the Coventry superintendent's office, and Don Fratini, a representative from the Connecticut Education Association.

Moderator for the election was Allen Sandberg, town manager.

The Education Association of Coventry won the representative election held yesterday with the Coventry Federation of Teachers. The vote was 74 for the association and 28 for the federation with two people voting for neither organization to represent them.

A total of 104 teachers of the 130 eligible to vote cast their ballots in the day-long election held at the Town Hall.

The association, which is affiliated with the Connecticut Education Association, had been the teachers' representative until 1968 when it lost to the federation which is affiliated with the Connecticut Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO.

The association challenged the federation in 1971 to regain the representation, but once again lost.

Deity Gillian and Lionel Jan Jr., co-presidents of the association called the election results a mandate of support.

"This Education Association of Coventry is pleased with the overwhelming mandate of support. This is ample evidence that the teachers of Coventry were not happy with CFT over the past few years. We would now expect that all the teachers in town would pull together with EAC for a good contract."

Eighty per cent of the teachers eligible to vote did so, with the association receiving 71 per cent of the vote.

Teachers have indicated over the past few months that they were not happy with the past contract negotiated by the federation in more ways than one.

COVENTRY

At the Board of Education meeting held last night, Tony Felice, chairman of the Transportation Committee, reported that the buses had been moved from Coventry Motors on South St. to the old Zollos building on the corner of Daley Rd. and Rt. 31.

The buses were moved on Wednesday evening after all the runs had been completed for the day.

Felice reported that the move was made in a dispute between Mass. Bus Company and Edward Saunders who claimed that the Mass. Bus Company owed him $7,028 for repairs made on the buses in the past two months.

Saunders had held two of the buses for a week.

Ms. Joslin Wins Poetry Contest

Louise Ravenhill Joslin of 210 Regan Rd., Rockville, is the winner of Manchester Community College's annual poetry contest.

The announcement was made Tuesday at a poetry reading at MCC by William Heyen of Brockport, N.Y., sponsored by the Connecticut Poetry Circuit.

Ms. Joslin, who uses her maiden name as a pen name, entered five pages of poetry in the contest. These have been sent to compete with winning poetry from other educational institutions in Connecticut. The poems will be judged by a panel of poets at Wesleyan University, and the four winners in the state contest will go "on tour," reading at other colleges and universities.

Ms. Joslin is in the liberal art program at MCC. She plans to transfer, majoring in literature, after she receives her associate's degree. The mother of grown children, she works as an LPN at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Poetry is not her only creative interest, although she has been writing both poetry and fiction off and on ever since she was very young ("seriously for the past six or seven years").

"I wrote a novel when I was 12, but I threw it out," she says.

Ms. Joslin is also a sculptress, and works with clay in the MCC art studio when she isn't working with words in her MCC creative writing class.

Second and third place winners are also women this year: Paula Russell and Catherine Hofmann, both of East Hartford.

School Buses Moved In Repair Controversy

Dr. Elman is to contact the chief of police to ascertain if this was actually the case, and, if so, to send a letter to the bus company asking why buses were operated without the proper registrations.

The board voted to seek legal advice on the bus situation from the town attorney and Dr. Elman to report back to the board at the next scheduled meeting Nov. 25.

McDougall is now in violation of the zoning regulations which require that a public hearing must be held by the Zoning Board of Appeals before a permit may be granted to park buses anywhere in town.

Board chairman Joan Lewis told the board last night that he did not think the board should look into the possibility of pulling the performance bond of the Mass Bus Company. She told board members that the town has had enough problems with the Mass Bus Company.

Dr. Arnold Elman, new superintendent, told the board that in his opinion the board had enough prevention to look into the situation of having back-up buses in case Mass. Bus Company was at some point unable to transport the children.

Dr. Donald Nicolletti reported that he had been informed by the town manager that because Saunders was holding two buses, the bus company used two buses yesterday that were without registrations.

Critical HCC Game Pairs East and St. Paul, Indians Out to Snap Loss Skein With Hall

Who wants it more. That will be critical when Hartford County Conference rivals East Catholic and St. Paul meet on the gridiron Saturday afternoon at 1:30 at Mt. Nebo, Eagle Coach John LaFontana observed.

Kevin Shorey, wide receiver Gary Loomis suffered a broken collarbone in the Pulaski game and his slot will be filled by Mike Paro.

The way the season has progressed has pleased the husky, cigar-chomping LaFontana. "It took time but things are running smoothly now.

Coach Larry Olsen expects to open with junior Wayne Ostroff as signal-caller. The 5-9, 165-pound Ostroff performed well in a reserve role against East Hartford thus earning himself a starting berth.

Undefeated Record, League Title, New Point Mark for MCC Booters

Highlights of the 1974 soccer season at Manchester Community College included the first undefeated record in school history, a new all-time individual, single year, goal high total of 22 by John Motta and the Connecticut Community College A. A. title.

The Cougars posted a 12-0-3 won-lost-tied standard with victories coming over Jayvee teams from Southern Connecticut, Eastern, Central, Bridgeport, and Connecticut Community College foes. Deadlocks were earned against Jayvee teams from Connecticut, Wesleyan and Central.

Vital cogs in the successful season were center forward Motta, midfielder and Captain Greg DeNies and netminder Dave Treschuk.

Motta is a former Hartford Bulkeley High star. DeNies, a former Manchester High standout, anchored a strong defense which allowed only nine goals. Treschuk was a former all-New England selection while at Coventry High and recorded six shutouts while making 141 saves during the 15-game schedule.

Statistically, MCC scored 58 goals

Area Players With Undefeated Cougars

Grid Finale Saturday

Three-year regular defensive tackle Jack Holik will wind up his college football career with Trinity Saturday against Wesleyan in Middletown. The 246-pound former Manchester High athlete has been a tower of strength with the Bantams who boast a six-game win streak.

First Cross-Country Squad At Cheney Tech Was Winner

Successful in its inaugural cross-country venture this season was Cheney Tech. The Beavers, coached by exuberant Gerry Blanchard, registered an 8.5 mark. They took three of their first four meets, dipped to the 5.00 level with two setbacks, but recovered nicely to win five of seven closing races.

Facing the Techmen were junior Andy West, the driving force behind the formation of cross country at the school, and sophomore sensation George Trian. West ran in spite of injuries and Trian just kept on coming during the year, including establishing the home course record of 15:09.

The only seniors on the squad were Ed Deszo and John Matthews. Deszo ran near the front of the pack all season and Matthews, who never ran before this year, was not stylish but was a consistent point-getter.

After opening with two triumphs over Goodwin Tech and Parish Hill,

Cheney ran into a powerful East Catholic contingent. The Eagles prevailed easily, 16-47, and it could have broken Cheney's spirit. But the Beavers learned from this meet and went on to register the fine season.

Only Deszo and Matthews will be lost to graduation. West, who never ran to form because of ailments, will return and Blanchard expects him to blossom to his full potential in 1975.

Trian will be back and they will be accompanied by junior Rob Caron, sophomore John Scarito and Dave Mills and freshmen John Kuchinsky and Ed West, Andy's brother. The latter group at one stage of the season or other ran effectively and they are the future hopes of Cheney.

The Beavers in 1975 will join the Charter Oak Conference. Having a title to shoot for should be motivation enough for the Beavers to continually improve. If the first campaign is any indication, the Cheney thriflings will get better.

Pro Basketball Roundup

Braves Top Celtics With Better Defense

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Heinsohn asked, "Who would you rather be without, Dave Cowens or Ernie DiGregorio?"

The answer, Thursday night at the Boston Celtics, as they have all year, played without Cowens, recovering from a broken foot. The Buffalo Braves were playing minus Ernie D., out with torn cartilage in his knee, and doing very nicely, thank you.

The Braves utilized Randy Smith (27 points) Jim McMillan (20) and Bob McAdoo (18) to whip the Celtics, 112-100, at Providence, R.I.

"We've been playing good basketball since we lost Ernie," said Braves Coach Jack Ramsay after the win that gave Buffalo a 2-4 game lead over Boston in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division.

He added, "We won't score as many points and we'll miss his ball handling, so we have to distribute those things among other players and they all have done a good job."

The defense paid off in the second half when the Braves shut down Boston's fast break. Trailing, 62-59, midway into the third period, the Braves struck for eight unanswered points and never relented.

In other NBA action, New York downed Cleveland, 94-89. Houston beat Chicago, 106-96 and Portland defeated Atlanta, 104-92. In the American Basketball Association, San Antonio edged Kentucky, 102-100, in overtime. St. Louis beat Virginia, 118-96, and New York defeated Memphis, 108-101.

Goalie Whaler Star

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — New England Whalers coach Ron Ryan said before the game that the San Diego Mariners Thursday he was looking to goalie Cister Abrahamsson to stop the WHA East Division leaders' two-game losing streak.

The rookie goaltender, a former Swedish national team member, blocked 35 shots and even managed one assist in the 7-2 rout of the Mariners.

Abrahamsson fed the puck in the second period to Tim Sheehy, who took an 80-foot shot that slipped by surprised Mariner goalie Joe Junkin.

Only Wayne Rivers fooled Abrahamsson, scoring goals in the first and second periods. The goals give him nine for the season.

Tom Webster scored one goal in the first period and another in the second, while Wayne Carleton, Terry Caffery and Jim Dorey scored one goal each to hand the Mariners their first loss at home.

The victory gave the Whalers an 8-3 record. The Mariners are 7-5-0.

Ryan had said before the game that he was selecting his starting goaltender on a day-by-day basis, and that Abrahamsson would play against Phoenix Saturday if he did well against the Mariners.

Veteran goalie Al Smith has started all but two games for the Whalers.

Special Accomplishment Achieved by Two Goalies

In terms of both notoriety and accomplishment, Ken Dryden and Pete Lopresti stand more than an ice rink apart. But the two goaltenders shared a special sense of accomplishment Thursday night.

Dryden, making a comeback after sitting out all of last season, enjoyed what he termed "my most satisfying win so far this year" when he helped the Montreal Canadiens gain a 4-1 victory at Boston. Dryden, who has yet to show the consistent form that carried the Canadiens to two Stanley Cup championships before, he left the club over a contract dispute, turned aside 39 Bruin shots.

"I've had better spots in the games we've won against Toronto and Philadelphia," Dryden said. "But coming in and beating Boston like this is the high point of the year."

Lopresti didn't have as much to show for his night's work in Buffalo as the Sabres beat him and the Minnesota North Stars, 5-3. However, it was his first start in the National Hockey League and thus will remain a landmark for him.

Crusaders 2, Roadrunners 1

Jim Harrison, playing in his fifth game with Cleveland since being acquired from Edmonton, scored his first goal of the season at seven minutes of overtime to provide the Crusaders with the victory.

Front Office Post In Aaron's Future

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Home-running Henry Aaron is a Milwaukee ballplayer again, at least for two years under a "playing contract" he signed Thursday. But he could be a Brewer "for many years to come."

Club president Allan "Bud" Selig said.

"We expect Henry to have a very, very long relationship with us," Selig said at a news conference reintroducing Aaron to the local media after his nine-year absence.

Selig had been asked whether Aaron, who will be 41 on Feb. 5, was in line for a top administrative job with the Brewers after the "playing contract" expired.

Selig said "nothing specific" had been discussed regarding Aaron's career two years hence, but it was easy enough to read between the lines of his lengthy answer.

The Brewers don't have a general manager and it's no secret that Aaron would love to become the first Black GM in major league baseball.

But for the time being, Aaron will concentrate on increasing his home-run total of 733. Brewers field manager Del Crandall — a teammate of Aaron's during the Braves' heyday here in the 1950s — said Aaron would be used "primarily as a designated hitter but at times will be called on to play the field."

"This is a tremendous challenge to me," said Aaron, who broke into major league baseball with the Milwaukee Braves in 1954. "This is a new league, one I'm unfamiliar with. I feel I'll have more responsibility than I've ever had in my career. The main thing is to help bring a championship back to the city I love so dearly."

"I played under tremendous pressure last season and I didn't want that season to be my last. I'm better than a .268 hitter."

Aaron, who admitted he has slowed down in recent years, hit only 20 home runs last season — his lowest total since he hit 13 in his rookie year. He said the pressure and publicity he received after breaking Babe Ruth's record of 714 career homers prevented him from concentrating fully on playing ball.

The Brewers obtained Aaron from Atlanta for outfielder Dave May and a minor league player in a deal agreed to Nov. 2.

Selig said the agreement was "an extraordinary contract for an extraordinary player," but he would not divulge whether the slugger was getting the reported $200,000 a year he got at Atlanta.

Mat Captain

Tom Happeney, a senior, has been elected captain of the University of Hartford wrestling team. The former East Catholic High athlete has lettered the past two seasons and boasts a 20-4 record. He'll compete in the 175-pound class.

Vermont Coach Vows to Fight

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — The University of Vermont football coach has vowed to fight efforts to end intercollegiate football at the university, but the school's president said he is confident the trustees would agree to end the program.

"We're certainly not going to let them destroy the football program without a fight," coach Carl Falivene said Thursday after President Edward C. Andrews Jr. announced his decision to end the 77-year-old program as part of a $1.5 billion budget reduction.

Andrews said some trustees were upset, but he predicted the entire package would be approved by the board on Dec. 6.

The cuts, which were caused by inflation and a tight state budget, included the elimination of the two-year nursing program and several graduate programs.

Vermont, which has not had a winning season since 1966, has a 4-5 record going into its final game Saturday at American International College in Springfield, Mass. Andrews said the decision to end football was made solely to save $200,000, but added the losing record "will help to sell it."

The Athletic Department had proposed cuts to all sports programs, rather than elimination of football, as a way of saving money. Andrews said that was rejected because it "would push everything back to a third-rate program."

Both Andrews and Falivene reported hearing from alumni since rumors of the decision began spreading early this week. "We've received overwhelming support," the coach said. Andrews said most alumni would support the decision, and voiced confidence that they would not withhold gifts to the school.

Canadiens 4, Bruins 1

Guy Lafleur scored two goals for Montreal and Guy Lapointe and Jacques Lemaire had one each. The victory lifted the Canadiens to within four points of first-place Los Angeles in Division 1.

Sabres 5, North Stars 3

Rick Martin scored two power play goals in the second period to give Buffalo a 4-2 lead. Jude Drouin cut Minnesota's deficit in half with his first goal of the season in the third period but Danny Gare scored into an empty net with six seconds left to clinch the game. The Sabres boosted their lead over runner-up Boston to

If you're planning to sell your house, make sure it's free of major problems. It may sell faster and easier than you think. One thing is sure: normally when the price is put on the market at a price equal to its fair market value a sale almost automatically follows. To help you know what the fair market value of your house is, the V.A. will appraise it for you for a nominal fee. Don't miss this opportunity. For a F.H.A. for the same amount. Get your house in condition before you have it appraised. Make sure you straighten out any boundary disputes with your neighbors in advance. Be sure that you're legally zoned. Don't make any positive misrepresentations of material facts. Remember, words are your slaves until you have spoken them. Then they become their slaves.
