Navaho Visits Buckley School

Lorenzo Tsosie, a Navaho Indian, explains some of his costume to children at Buckley School during a special assembly program. Tsosie, a native of Arizona, also visited Manchester Green and Bowers Schools where he presented a program of Indian dances along with a talk on his life on the reservation where he has lived since birth.

One of 11 children, he was born in a hogan at Four Corners, the area where New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Colorado converge. Tsosie is majoring in art at the Navaho Community College in New Mexico. The college is supported by the Navaho Indians. This program was sponsored by the schools' PTAs. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Town Agencies in Competition For Slice of $1,410,000 Grant

By DOUG BEVINS

Fierce competition among public agencies appears to be on the horizon as Manchester develops plans for spending $1,410,000 in federal funds expected over the next three years. Rivalry for the money — expected under provisions of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 — was acknowledged this morning by Town Manager Robert Weiss.

"I can think of a hundred different groups in town that will ask for five or ten per cent of the money," Weiss told the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee.

Weiss' comments came as the downtown committee discussed preliminaries in its effort to garner a share of the federal grants.

Committee Chairman William Sleith, also recognizing competition for the money, said, "We must be aware there are pressure groups who think their pet projects are the most important projects in Manchester."

Sleith and other committee members were apparently concerned that their "pet project" — downtown revitalization — might be overlooked or allocated such little funding that improvements made would be insignificant.

So Weiss told the committee it should come up with alternative plans in case the committee is unable to convince policy makers to fund an entire downtown revitalization project.

"But it's not beyond belief that the whole package could center around downtown," Weiss said, explaining that town needs — such as housing development or rehabilitation — could be done in the central business area.

"You have to build the enthusiasm and the case for it though," Weiss told the committee.

Since town officials learned earlier this year that Manchester qualifies for the federal block grants, a number of groups have indicated they'll seek a share of the money.

Among the needs already expressed are public transportation, elderly housing, sewer improvements, and acquisition of open space and recreation land.

The town's Board of Directors Tuesday night created a 29-member Community Development Advisory Committee, which is to be responsible for determining priorities for spending the $1,410,000 over the next three years.

The advisory committee — which succeeds the defunct Citizens Advisory Committee and is similar to the Community Development Action Plan (CDAP) committee of several years ago — will conduct public meetings Monday and Tuesday to gain citizen input for local projects.

Monday's meeting is scheduled at Nathan Hale School and Tuesday's session is to be at Robertson School. Both meetings are at 7:30 p.m.

After getting citizen input, the advisory committee must meet with public and private agencies, review the now-dated CDAP program, and draft a housing assistance plan, a three-year summary plan, and a one-year specific plan.

The advisory committee will then conduct a public hearing — tentatively set for Jan. 6 — and present its work to the Board of Directors.

Directors must then conduct a public hearing — tentatively set Jan. 27 — and then submit the final plans for regional review (that deadline is March 1). After the regional reaction is assessed, the completed funding application is to be sent to federal officials (deadline is April 15).

The federal money expected to be given to Manchester was made available under an $11.2 billion program signed into law by President Ford in August.

Manchester has been allocated $470,000 per year for the first three years of the program, and may be eligible for an additional $313,000 in the fourth year and $157,000 in the fifth year.

AT&T Promises Fight Over Anti-Trust Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the largest antitrust action ever, the government is moving to break up the Bell System and its centerpiece, American Telephone & Telegraph, for allegedly monopolizing the telecommunications business in the United States.

The Justice Department filed civil suit Wednesday in Federal District Court here against AT&T, the world's largest privately held corporation, and two key subsidiaries — Western Electric Co. Inc. and Bell Laboratories Inc.

The government is trying to force AT&T to give up Western Electric, its exclusive manufacturing arm, plus some of its interstate telephone network, in order to promote competition and possibly reduce consumer rates.

The corporation promptly served notice it would vigorously fight the case. "We are confident we are not in violation of the antitrust laws and we are astonished that the Justice Department would take its present action with apparent disregard for its impact on the public," said AT&T Chairman John D. DeButts in a statement from New York.

He said the government action "could lead to fragmentation of responsibility for the nation's telephone network. If that happens, telephone service would deteriorate and cost much, much more."

Attorney General William B. Saxbe replied: "I am fully aware of the service that the Bell System has provided. Nevertheless, I believe the law must be enforced."

The case threatens to be long, complex and costly for all parties involved. A Justice Department lawyer predicted that the trial would not begin for at least three years. If all avenues of appeal are used, a final decision might not emerge until the 1980s.

In 1949, the government brought a much narrower antitrust suit against AT&T. That case was eight years in litigation before being settled out of court.

In the present case, the three defendants are charged with "combining and conspiring to monopolize, attempting to monopolize and monopolizing the telecommunications service and equipment markets" in violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

As a result, "purchasers ... have been denied the benefits of a free and competitive market," the complaint said.

Specifically, the department said AT&T had "obstructed" other phone companies, microwave companies, mobile phone services and satellite carriers from linking up with the Bell network.

The complaint also said AT&T directed most of its customers to buy equipment from Western Electric, its wholly owned subsidiary.

Layoffs Seen by Aircraft Head

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — The top official of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, faced with a Nov. 30 strike deadline, said today the national economic slowdown may force the state's largest employer to reduce its work force.

Bruce N. Torell, president of P&W, said because of the slowdown action must be taken to cut costs and this "will definitely affect our employment picture."

In prepared remarks before a chamber of commerce meeting, Torell said the aircraft engine manufacturing firm faces a possible decline in commercial orders next year and noted that federal defense spending has continued to decline.

Meanwhile, union representatives have begun preparations for a possible strike against P&W, the largest division of United Aircraft Corp., when the current contract ends Nov. 30.

Justin Ostro, chief negotiator for the International Association of Machinists, said Wednesday the union had offered to extend the contract 30 days to put the deadline beyond the Christmas holidays.

Ostro said the company rejected the proposal and would consider negotiations complete on Nov. 30 when it submits a "final offer."

Ostro said a strike has more than a 50 per cent chance of coming off because of the lack of progress so far in talks that began early this year. He said the firm has shown "little interest" in the key issue of unlimited cost-of-living adjustment clause.

Other issues are job security, improved

Charges Imminent In Bakery Slaying

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — Six counts of murder were to be lodged today against two New Britain men in the Donna Lee Bakery slayings of six persons Oct. 19, according to a reliable police source.

Awaiting to appear on the charges today were the suspects, Ronald F. Piskorski, 25, and Gary B. Schraeger, 31, who had been arrested originally on unrelated charges.

Piskorski and Schraeger were arrested Nov. 1 in Union by State Police who trailed them from Waterville, Maine, where they had been since the slayings that occurred during an apparent robbery.

At 11 a.m. Piskorski's sister was told by police her brother and Schraeger would be charged in the slayings and they would not allow her to see him.

New Britain Police Chief Thomas Ormsby and State Police Commissioner Cleveland B. Fuessenich were scheduled to hold a noon news conference.

Security was tight around the Police Headquarters which includes the Circuit Court. Undercover men were in the courtroom itself and barricades were erected at a driveway leading into the building.

The two men were to be brought to the building regarding charges of threatening against Schraeger that had been lodged by his wife Abigail, and a charge of robbery against Piskorski in connection a liquor store holdup in Kensington.

Experts Say State Has Jobs

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut is starting to feel the effects of recession and layoffs but state and private job specialists say there are still more jobs than people to fill them.

"Unfilled jobs remain plentiful with the employment service," said Richard Ficks, a spokesman for the state Labor Department.

Not that the situation is rosy, but job market watchers say it could be much worse. And in some cases, the door slammed in one man's face kicks open a door for another.

Experts say the best opportunities are in skills needed by defense industries and so-called "professional" areas involving engineering, accounting and production management.

Major contracts have the defense industries searching for skilled men while the need to cut costs and stretch dollars is creating demand for cost-conscious accountants in private firms.

The temporary job market is benefiting from economic uncertainty. One temporary agency said firms that are reluctant to hire permanent employees until the economy stabilizes are turning to temporary help to fill their needs for skilled workers.

One of the dark spots is the clerical area and another one could be the yet unmet effects of big production cuts in the auto industry.

"We're finding the clerical area to be harder hit than ever before," said Ted Lerner, manager of the Fanning Employment franchise in Hartford. Lerner said many insurance companies have frozen hiring.

Lerner and other agents said there's a shortage of qualified applicants for professional positions. "Where we have openings available," he said, "we are not seeing employed applicants — those who are working and want to better themselves. They want to stay where they are until things get better."

Joseph Miglizzi, a partner in Availability, a professional placement firm, said, "One of the reasons we're having a falloff is because we're not getting people. We advertise for a production engineer and nobody answers."

Miglizzi said job orders from client firms are off, but not dramatically. His partner, Dave Rose, said "Some areas firm up in hard times, particularly those related to cost-cutting."

Ficks said the current market is far from being a one-way, downhill street.

"The pendulum swings back and forth every day, everywhere," he said. "One Bridgeport company announced a layoff of 200 people recently. But soon after they brought back 75 of them."

"The next week they received a contract in a new field and asked for 50 more people," he said.

Ficks said the number of new claims filed for unemployment benefits is up but there are 30,000 more people employed in the state than last year. The percentage of the work force that is jobless this year is higher than last, but the work force itself has grown, he said.

"Something that may not be felt for months in Connecticut is the effect of the auto cutbacks in Detroit," he said. "There will be less need for component parts, many of which are made in Connecticut."

S. J. Wornham, spokesman for General Dynamics' Electric Boat division in Groton, said the need for tradesmen is urgent.

Weiss Says Freeze Controlling Budget

By SOL R. COHEN

"At this time," predicted Town Manager Robert Weiss today, "I expect we will be able to complete the (1974-75) budget in the black."

Weiss credited Manchester's favorable fiscal position to a "conservative spending policy."

As early as Sept. 10 — a little over two months into the fiscal year — Weiss issued a "belt-tightening" order to all department heads.

He told them, "I will personally review any substantial capital requests or acquisitions for all departments."

In addition, he placed a virtual freeze on all hiring, stating, "Should there be any vacancies in any departments, specific approval will be required of me before filling such vacancies."

As of today, about five months into the fiscal year, three or four essential job vacancies have been filled — all to existing positions — without filling any new positions.

Weiss said the budget the town is working with "is, in every sense of the word, a minimal budget, approved by the Board of Directors after very substantial reductions by them" to the tentative budget he had submitted to the board.

His tentative budget, said Weiss, had cut deeply into departmental requests.

"What remains in the budget," he said, "are virtually mandatory expenditures, in order to maintain a minimum level of services. The greatest proportion of our budget now consists of committed obligations for salaries, utilities, fuel, insurance and debt payments."

He concluded, "Within the area of flexibility remaining, every effort is being directed toward conserving funds. We may be required to offset possible increases in tax delinquencies and, should we experience a very severe winter, higher costs for fuel and for snow removal."

Grasso Asks Pay Hike Delay

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov.-elect Ella T. Grasso has asked the state Personnel Policy Board to delay decisions on pay increases, saying something must be done about an expected $200 million deficit in the fiscal 1976 budget.

Meanwhile, the state budget office has said a hike in the state sales tax, from 6 to 7 per cent, may be needed to fill the expected gap between revenues and expenditures.

Mrs. Grasso included the request in a letter Wednesday to Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill asking him to keep financial commitments to a minimum until she takes over in January and criticizing his fiscal policies.

"This critical situation has resulted from fiscal policies of the past four years, culminating in a 1974-1975 budget balanced by the use of almost $125 million in one-year, nonrecurring revenues," she said, referring to federal revenue-sharing funds received by Connecticut.

The $200 million deficit by the end of June 1976, has been predicted by the state budget office, using figures it was given by Meskill's Republican administration.

Meskill took budget requests for fiscal 1976 made by all the state agencies, amounting to $1.7 billion, and lopped off $200 million. The budget office then estimated revenues for the year would be $1.3 billion and came up with the $200 million shortage.

Mrs. Grasso, however, will not be bound by Meskill's reductions of agency budget requests. She could cut them even further to balance the budget, or count on an improved economy and more federal grants to increase revenues.

She promised during the campaign she would oppose a state income tax or the issuance of state bonds to cover budget deficits in regular operating expenses.

The plan to increase the state sales tax was offered by the budget office as one of the alternatives available to close the budget gap it predicted.

The 1 per cent increase would mean an additional $75 million in revenues, which could balance the budget when coupled with other measures, some of them appearing unlikely at this time.

They would include a cut of about $80 million from the budget, $20 million in additional revenues if economic conditions improve and $37 million in federal welfare funds from a claim by Connecticut against the federal government.

OPINION
Unemployment Reports

While perhaps not politically acceptable, and certainly not acceptable to a person who is unemployed, Raymond S. Livingstone, an expert in personal administration, offers some interesting reasoning concerning unemployment reporting in this country.

In an interview with U.S. News & World Report, Livingstone feels too much emphasis is placed on the single statistic of over-all percentage of the work force that is idle and not enough on the full report which breaks down the over-all figure into specific figures like breadwinners, students, etc.

Blooms Fading Fast

The blooms are fading fast in the victory bouquet. Gov.-elect Elia Grasso met this week with Gov. Thomas Meskill and got a preview of the state's fiscal future.

To date, budget requests are estimated to exceed anticipated state revenue by $200 million which means a lot of pruning decisions lie ahead if Mrs. Grasso is to keep her pledge of having the state live within the current sources of tax revenue.

To set the mood for such pruning, she announced her intention not to accept the $7,000 pay increase due to go into effect for the governorship next January. She is to be commended for setting an example to others in state government.

We suspect too that her intention is not solely motivated by self denial. If the election proved anything it was that Mrs. Grasso is a very astute politician.

By rejecting the pay increase, she leaves her self in a position to prune, if necessary, the pay hike increases almost certainly included in preliminary budget requests. She will also be in a position to resist demands for more pay which may come up after the budget has been finalized for the legislature to consider.

CLAREMONT, Calif. — There have been some recent events which would be tragic if they were not so funny, and funny if they were not so tragic. They hurt only when we laugh.

Yasser Arafat of the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO). Twelve of the 21 members voted to end the formal sanctions against Castro's Cuba and fell just two votes short of success.

Whoever uses it or threatens to use it, terrorism is the worst possible political weapon. It may turn out in the bargaining exchanges on Middle East peace that, as a practical, diplomatic matter, Arafat's PLO will have a place in the final formula.

There is nothing funny in terrorism itself or in those who terrorism possessed — only in the people who feel comfortable lives and who weep if a sparrow falls, but who cheer the event of a "moderate" terrorist leader joining the club. I suspect that for them Arafat's "moderation" veils

We commend her for her action because even though the preliminary budget may contain requests which are inflated, we know that when it gets down to the nitty-gritty a lot of hard decisions will have to be made as the demand of one special interest group is weighed against another.

We hope her rejection of the pay raise is but the first of many actions toward holding down the cost of state government, at least until the economy begins showing marked improvement.

ANDREW TULLY

Meaningless

WASHINGTON — That was a curious statement made by a man who is supposed to be a public servant. Addressing himself to children's television, Federal Communications Commission Chairman Richard E. Wiley delivered himself of the following: "I'm still around to witness the first example of such avoidance."

That, indeed, is the gist of the FCC's report, which simply expressed the hope that TV's tycoons would be good boys and girls.

TV stations were not told to improve their programming. They were asked to "make a meaningful effort" to provide "a reasonable amount of programming which is educational and informative" and "not simply to entertain" our mopelets. Obviously, the industry will be the sole judge of the meaningfulness of such efforts.

Too Much Commercialism

To the editor: I am well aware of the fact that America is not a nation known for its patience, nor are the merchants of Manchester noted for their good taste. It is, nevertheless, a nation that has a turn to see so early the Christmas displays going up in the downtown banks and the Parkade parking lot. Some went up before Halloween.

I do believe the businessmen of this town have carried out taste and crass commercialism to an all-time high or low, if you prefer. Do these blind cyclopes really suppose that their decorations are anything but a show of their own greed?

MAX LERNER

Only When We Laugh

But cannot conceal the ultimate thrill of death behind it. On a lesser scale there was something uncomfortable about the discussions at the 21st annual conference of the Organization of American States (OAS). Twelve of the 21 members voted to end the formal sanctions against Castro's Cuba and fell just two votes short of success.

There is something about the enthusiasm for Castro among the delegations voting for him that the desire for normalizing trade and profits. More likely, it is a way of buying off of the potential internal threats of violence and wowing the favor of young militants at home. The left intellectual groups are still a crucial element in Latin American politics. As a matter of realism, one understands the position of the pro-Castro vote at Quito. But to equate the Castro regime with some new "moral community" or "climate" emerging in the hemisphere is again to court the absurd.

A Joyous Farewell To Neanderthal Man

During eight years in the House of Representatives, the Hon. John has accumulated few friends. Even those who agree with his positions and philosophies shy away from the identification for fear they will be labeled as his associates.

Two years ago, as example, during hearings concerning the District of Columbia, the Hon. John stunned the proceedings by calling predominantly black Washington a "fat infested stinkhole," and suggesting that many of the Negro residents should be relocated in some sparsely populated Western state. Back then he called "Fever" a "patriotic" fellow Louisiana Democrat. Pat Cavery, fell in necessary to censure the remarks on the floor of the House.

Usually, however, one bothers to censure the Hon. John. As one Southerner points out, "You only argue with a guy if you think he's reasonable." But the right exists, so the Hon. John has continued to publish his views of Jews as "international money changers" and blacks as a threat to "a culture that has only been preserved through the diligence and hard work of...the white population."

Recession Crunch Worse than '30s To Trumbull Man

BRUNO V. RANNIELLO TRUMBULL (UPI) — Louis P. Gervais knew hard times in his native Canada but the present financial crunch threatens to be the worst ever for him and his family.

Gervais is an electrician, an occupation which some people associate with high income, easy work and steady employment. But Gervais has been steadily unemployed since last Christmas and says he has not brought home a paycheck since the end of July.

His unemployment is a compensation, far below his normal $250 weekly take-home pay. Gervais, 50, remembers the Great Depression as a youngster and the economic slump in 1956.

MACC Season Sharing Fund

The MACC Seasonal Sharing Appeal this year is being sponsored by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, Salvation Army, YWCA, Manchester Department of Social Services and the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association. Funds and food collected by the appeal will be distributed to Manchester families through the Salvation Army and the Manchester Department of Social Services. The Department of Social Services will continue to accept financial contributions made directly to its Holiday Fund as it has in the past. The department can most effectively distribute these funds if they are received a week or more before the holiday. Mrs. Emil Lucek of the YWCA has sent letters to all Manchester service organizations and churches in an effort to coordinate holiday giving to eliminate duplication and to aid as many disadvantaged families as possible. Checks may be made payable to the MACC Sharing Fund, Box 773, Manchester. Non-perishable food and gift items may be left at the Salvation Army Citadel, 861 Main St. Those wishing to contribute to the appeal or help with the collection may call the Manchester Area Conference of Churches office, 649-2093.

Juvenile Diabetes Lecture Topic

Dr. Stuart J. Soeldner, a physician engaged in nationally recognized diabetes research, will discuss "Cares for Diabetes — Hope for the Future" at a public lecture Dec. 4 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Hartford County Medical Association, 200 Scarborough St., Hartford.

Dr. Soeldner is associate director of research at the Joslin Diabetes Foundation in Boston. His speech is sponsored by the Greater Hartford Chapter of the National Juvenile Diabetes Foundation.

Juvenile diabetes is the more severe form of the disease, and juvenile diabetes include adults as well as children who are dependent on daily injections of insulin. This form of diabetes is called "juvenile diabetes" because it usually begins during childhood. Diabetes now affects more than five million people across the country, according to the diabetes foundation. Dr. Soeldner is developing an implanted "glucose sensor" which is a dime-shaped disc which reacts to changing sugar levels in the body by generating small electric currents. This device will monitor blood sugar levels in the body and is the first step toward creating an implanted artificial pancreas. The pancreas is that organ which produces insulin in the normal individual and which is faulty in the body of the diabetic.

Faster Work Asked On Tennis Courts

BOLTON Donna Holland Correspondent 646-0875 At its last meeting the Public Building Commission moved to send a letter to Robinson, Inc., tennis courts contractor, saying the work is progressing noticeably slow and the PBC does not feel recent rainfalls are entirely to blame. The letter would request another truck to expedite the gravel supply being brought in.

It would also point out the larger size rocks in evidence on the site are not acceptable and should be removed. The PBC also requested a work schedule from Robinson.

Raymond Allen, superintendent of schools, pointed out those complaints to the PBC. Allen also said that upon completion of 25 per cent of the work he must send in forms to the state in order to get money for construction of the courts.

Robinson, Inc. of Yalesville was the low bidder for construction of four tennis courts at Bolton High School with a bid of $3,194. In its bid Robinson said the courts would be completed 60 days after commencement.

Reusable Postage Stamp?

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The U.S. Postal Service has selected the Twin Falls area to test a special precanceled, self-adhering, no-lick Christmas stamp.

The test model stamp, depicting the peace dove, seals off waxed paper and adheres directly to an envelope. Because the stamp is printed with a precanceled notation, it does not have to go through cancellation machines.

PAWNING JEWELRY
NEW YORK (UPI) — More Americans are pawning their jewelry to fight skyrocketing inflation, reports The National Enquirer in a nationwide survey.

Matthew Moriarty, Manchester resident who owns 150 acres of land south of Bolton, said he was opposed because the erection of a radio tower would depreciate land value and that wouldn't be fair to the adjacent neighbors.

The Bolton Planning Commission did not submit a report to the Zoning Commission. When no report is received from planning, it does not mean it approves the change; it does mean it has no objection to it.

Zone Change Request Draws Heavy Opposition

BOLTON Donna Holland Correspondent 646-0375 About 15 residents and property owners attended a hearing Tuesday to express opposition to a request for an extension of a zone and a special exception for the erection of a radio tower, located on property owned on Villa Louise Rd. The Zoning Commission went into executive session and now had 60 days in which to reach a decision.

Police Fast, Teller Slow

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — A patrolman answered a silent alarm at a bank as swiftly he was in the bank before the alleged holdup men could fire, but the teller was too frightened to point them out. Two suspects were later arrested.

Patrolman Don Hoyt was in the vicinity of the Connecticut Savings Bank in a downtown shopping mall Wednesday when he was alerted and entered the bank after 10 a.m.

When the alleged robbers saw Hoyt, they walked out a rear exit, empty-handed. Hoyt said the teller was frightened and told Hoyt the alarm was tripped accidentally.

Little later, the teller admitted she had hit the alarm purposely and police cordoned off the area where hundreds of persons were shopping. Two security guards in a mall searched a men's room and found the suspects who were later charged with criminal attempt to commit robbery.

Police identified them as Kevin Stanton, 18, and Robert McGinley, 21, both of New Haven.

FROM YOUR NEIGHBOR'S KITCHEN

By VIVIAN FERGUSON

Thanksgiving Day is a traditional family holiday for Bev and Lee Burton. The dining room table will be opened to its fullest extent to accommodate 14.

The aroma of roasting turkey will fill the house at 155 Taylor St., Vernon. Bev will have stuffed the bird with her own chestnut-sausage dressing. There will be cranberry sauce and buttered squash and mashed potatoes. Instead of a salad, a pickled garden relish made of the produce from the Burton's own vegetable garden will be served.

Lee's parents, Lewis and Ruth Burton, will undoubtedly bring along some of Lewis' homemade bread or rolls. Mrs. Margaret Bollino, Bev's widowed mother, and her sister Jean will come over from their home just down the street.

Lee and Bev combined forces about 2½ years ago when Lee resigned from his position as a statistical analyst with Kaman Aircraft to teach dancing full time at the studio now called the Beverly Bollino/Burton Dance Studio. For many years, the couple had taught ballroom dancing in the evenings. Now, Lee is instructing some of the jazz, tap and acrobatic classes.

"Jazz is of enormous interest at the present time. It's still a fairly new form of music," says Bev. "It's the musical comedy type of thing which young people like. However, anyone desiring to become a professional is very much aware that their training must encompass many areas of study. Ballet is important in theater, you must do everything."

Lee said there has been a tremendous re-interest in tap dancing which had gone somewhat out of style. "The revivals of the 1940s were requiring tap had a great deal to do with this. Choreographers were finding at first that the dancers were not following steps correctly. Since most people had a highly trained background only in ballet, they would be a half beat off."

There isn't anything really new in dancing today. Social dancing is definitely coming back, both agreed. "At one time, it was the people over 40 who were seeking lessons in ballroom dancing. While this still true, there are many teenagers who want to learn the fox trot which they call the waltz as they customarily refer to it. Almost all 'slow' dancing."

Besides running their studio, the Burtons are frequently called upon to present an evening of dance demonstration, which sometimes includes a 20-minute dance lesson, to various clubs and organizations. They have been choreographers for many local theatrical productions, including the Little Theater of Manchester and the former Co-Weds Club of Center Congregational Church, among others.

Beverly shares her recipe for cranberry cookies. They are not too sweet, can be kept for weeks in a tin. Make them now for both Thanksgiving and Christmas. Good for gift-giving too. Her stuffed breast of veal is a gourmet specialty. Both this and the turkey stuffing are her own adaptations of several recipes.

Chestnut-Sausage Stuffing for Roast Turkey
1 package (1 lb.) herb-seasoned commercial stuffing
2 lbs. fresh chestnuts or 2 large cans (1 lb/14 oz.) chestnuts
3 large onions, chopped

Mrs. Burton peels chestnuts for stuffing. (Herald photo by Pines)

1½ lbs. sausage meat
¾ stalks celery in ¼-inch pieces
¼ lb. butter or margarine
If using fresh chestnuts, make a cross on outer flat side of each chestnut with a sharp knife. Bake in flat pan 15-20 minutes at 375 degrees until skins begin to curl, tossing occasionally. Remove skin and dark scale. Then boil chestnuts in water to cover about 30 minutes or until soft. Put through ricer to puree. (This can be done ahead of time.)
Sauté sausage meat until thoroughly cooked. Melt butter or margarine in 2 cups water. Combine ingredients and mix thoroughly. Stuff cavity of turkey and neck section. If any stuffing is left over, it can be cooked in a casserole. Make enough for a 20-lb bird.
Cranberry Cookies
¾ cup butter
1 cup sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/3 cup milk
1 egg
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup mixed dried candied fruit
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
2½ cups fresh cranberries, coarsely chopped
Cream butter, sugar and vanilla together. Beat in milk and egg. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Stir into creamed mixture; blend well. Stir in candied fruit, orange peel and cranberries. For each cookie, mound two level tablespoons on well-greased cookie sheet. Space about 2" apart. Bake at 375 degrees 15-16 minutes. Makes about 3½ dozen. Keep for weeks in tins.
Pickled Garden Relish
½ head cauliflower, cut into florets
2 carrots pared, cut into 2" strips
2 stalks celery, cut into 1" pieces
1 green pepper, cut into 2" strips
1 jar (4 oz.) pimiento, drained, cut in strips

Ferrell-Donohue

Linda Gail Donohue and John Jensen Ferrell, both of Coventry, exchanged wedding vows Oct. 12 at St. Joseph's Church in Eagleville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Donohue of Rt. 44A, Box 297, Coventry. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Ferrell Sr. of Avery Shores, Coventry.

The Rev. J. Bernard Miller of St. Mary's Church in Coventry, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.
The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of satin and imported Alien-con lace designed with fitted bodice, Bishop sleeves, mandarin collar, full skirt with lace panel front extending to a full chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was edged with matching lace and attached to a lace and seed pearl Camellot cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, white miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Joan Donohue of Willimantic, was her sister's maid of honor. She wore an orange ice crepe gown with Chantilly lace trim, fashioned with pucker bodice, scoop neckline with white collar and long full sleeves, all edged with lace, high rise waist, column skirt and self-belted back. She wore a white ripple picture hat with matching rows of satin streamers and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, white pom-pom, yellow daisies, orange miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Candace Clapp and Miss Laurie Rowland, both of Coventry. They wore gowns similar to that worn by the honor attendant except in apricot. Their hair had matching satin streamers and they carried bouquets similar to that carried by the honor attendant except without yellow roses.

1 Jar (3 oz.) Lynn green olives, drained
¾ cup wine vinegar
¼ cup olive or salad oil
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
In large skillet, combine ingredients with ¼ cup water. Bring to boil, stir occasionally. Reduce heat. Simmer, covered 30 minutes. Cool, then refrigerate at least 24 hours. Drain well to serve. Do not overcook or vegetables will get mushy.

Stuffed Breast of Veal
1 veal breast (have butcher cut a pocket the entire length of roast)
¾ lb. ground pork
¾ lb. ground sweet prosciutto or ham
¾ lb. ground mortadella sausage
3 slices white bread, crusts removed, dipped in milk and squeezed dry
½ teaspoon finely minced garlic (optional)
4 tablespoons freshly chopped parsley
¾ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 tablespoons freshly grated Parmesan cheese
2 eggs, lightly beaten
dry red wine
chicken broth
Mix together ground pork, prosciutto, mortadella, soaked bread, parsley, garlic, nutmeg and lightly beaten eggs. Carefully fill pocket in roast with stuffing. Seal opening with thread or with skewers. Make sure any holes are closed tightly. Place breast in roasting pan. Pour over about one cup red wine and 1½ cups chicken broth.
Roast in 350 degree oven 2½ hours, basting occasionally with pan juices. When serving, cut slices thick enough so dressing remains intact.

Layoff Seen By Aircraft

There were no foreseeable layoffs for next year.

Torelli said since 1968, P&W has spent relatively less for defense each year than in the previous year. He said 2.6 per cent of the gross national product was spent in 1969 for military hardware compared to 1.1 per cent this year.

However, Torelli said P&W "should continue to be a growing company over the long term, with increasing opportunity for jobs."

He said there was "no question of a very large business potential for P&W in the next 10 years, but "we face some real challenges."

He said he saw "very little relief in the very near term." Torelli said one way to fight back inflationary pressures "is to be more productive. That, in our case, means building our products by using less raw materials, and by finding ways to do the job with fewer people."

Other survivors are a brother, Casimir Zaborowski of Springfield, Mass., and two sisters, Mrs. James DiSanti of Springfield and Mrs. Stanley Ciacheta of Chicopee, Mass.

The funeral is Saturday at 8:15 a.m. from the Burke-Fortin Funeral Home, 76 Prospect St., Rockville, with a Mass at St. Joseph's Church, Rockville, at 9.

THOUGHTS APLENTY

By Len Aubster

Hopping on the Bandwagon

Whenever a team does well, no matter which sport, there are always those who want to become associated with that group. At the moment, East Catholic has a 5-4-1 record in football warfare and should add one more triumph come Thanksgiving Day over South Catholic. The Rebels have not tasted victory on the gridiron in their last 19 outings.

Reports now circulating in Eagletown state that some upperclassmen, who have put on the pads previously, will come out again for the squad. That is known as jumping on the bandwagon but it is also a situation almost every coach would enjoy. You never know what might materialize.

Numbers Do Hurt

Manchester High has had a numbers problem all season long. Injuries have taken their toll and Tribe second-year Coach Larry Olsen admits some of the replacements should not be above the jayvee level of competition. They have, however, been forced into service and wear their 'combat boots' under extreme conditions.

It everybody is healthy the Silk Towners can field approximately 45 players. That is the total makeup of the varsity and jayvee group. That is just not enough.

The situation has been discussed before but it is not a topic that can be brushed aside easily. Maybe it's a reflection of today's generation but too many students don't want to get involved. And in too many cases they don't want to work. It takes work and dedication to be successful and that's what many today want to avoid.

It has been suggested that Manchester High is too big. It is true that personal contact between students and teachers is not overwhelming. In some schools, teachers are on a first name basis with most if not all of the students. How can anyone know all 2,100 plus at Manchester?

How can Manchester get more for its football team? Easy — by winning. But to do so the coaching staff is going to need numbers to work with in the first place. It's a vicious circle.

Don't look now but Cheney Tech this season might make some rumblings on the basketball court. Youthful, energetic Coach Gerry Blanchard has installed a new spirit into the Beavers and the end result could be a tournament berth. The last time the Techmen qualified for the state tourney was in the 1968-69 season. It's not too far out of the realm of possibility the feat will be accomplished in 1974-75.

Tribe assistant football Coach Steve Lindberg should stop trying to bait the officials and worry more about his sideline duties. Officials sub-consciously remember who's screaming in their ears and besides it's the wrong attitude to teach. The Indians can't blame any of their six losses on the man in the striped shirt.

Manchester has won two games this year. In each, the opponent was under 20 points. The Indians have allowed an average of 32.5 points per game while scoring 117 of their own. East Catholic has scored 197 points and allowed 189 in 10 games.

The Eagles have recorded three shutouts and were held scoreless twice. One of a 0-0 stalemate with Rockville High...Unbelievably, South Catholic has slated a football game Saturday against Wetherfield High. Five days later on Thanksgiving they oppose East Catholic. Either Rebels' Coach Len Corio has at long last found a winning formula or something good. Otherwise it just doesn't make sense.

John Havlicek was high scorer for Boston with 23 points. "If you can win games like this one, it's a big help to a team this young," Alties said. "You have to give the guys credit for playing a good defense after the Boston team had tied the score in the last period. I've always said if you can play good defense in the fourth quarter you've got a chance to win any game. We almost lost it during Boston's hot streak with we took some bad shots, but we settled down after that."

In other NBA action Phoenix beat Detroit 114-106, New York whipped Philadelphia 105-95, Buffalo pounded Washington 115-104 and Seattle edged New Orleans 99-85.

Suns 114, Pistons 106

Charles Scott scored 33 points and Dick Van Arsdale had 19 to help Phoenix snap a three-game losing streak. The Suns shot 70 per cent in the third quarter and the Celtics the Pistons could get at the end was five points. Dave Bing was high for Detroit with 27 points while Bob Lanier had 28.

Knicks 105, 76ers 95

Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe combined for 57 points as New York rolled to its fourth straight victory. Frazier scored 30 points and Monroe added 27 as the Knicks opened up a 21-point lead in the final period and coasted home.

Paultz expected to play against Marvin Barnes, rookie center of the Spirits of St. Louis, Wednesday night but Barnes disappeared and did not show up for the game.

Paultz took advantage of the situation to score 28 points, grab 17 rebounds and throw four assists and lead the Nets to a 109-104 comeback victory. Erving scored 27 for New York, James Silas had 23 points and Swen Nater had 22 and 22 rebounds to lead San Antonio. Memphis led 62-61 in the third quarter before Rich Jones pumped in eight of a 14-point surge by the Spurs, giving San Antonio the lead, 76-69.

Q's 142, Squires 111

Second-year guard Dwight Adams scored 29 points and Lamar scored 28 points and had 15 assists — one short of a club record — to lead San Diego. The win broke a four-game San Diego losing point play by Erving that gave New York the lead again, hit the last two

All-Time Track Great Kelley in Race Field

By Earl Yost

One week from today, history will be made in the 38th edition of the Five Mile Road Race in Manchester when more than 600 runners — men, women and children — answer the starter's gun at 10:30.

The entry list soared over the 600 mark yesterday and it could reach 700 by the weekend. Entries postmarked today will be accepted. No post entries will be accepted. There were 538 finishers last November.

Among the latest to join the field is Little Johnny Kelley of the Boston A.A., the all-time winningest runner in the United States Olympic and World Championships. The two-time United States Olympian and holder of the world record in the mile of the AAU-sanctioned run. Kelley is one of a number of 17 previous winners who won national appearances here, Kelley, long distance champion for eight straight years, has never finished further back than 11th.

Stoneham Stays, To Fight it Out

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Horace Stoneham has his financial house all straightened out, so much so that he and his Giants can live in San Francisco at least a couple of more years on their own and there will be no need for fellow National League owners to pass the hat around.

While the NL insists it will never give up its territorial rights in the Bay Area to the American League even if it has to subsidize the Giants, Stoneham, a proud man who would never accept charity, insists he will vacate for greener pastures if he can't make it on his own.

"I'm going to give it one more year and then I'll have to start considering a move," Stoneham said Wednesday on a hurried visit home from Arizona. "I've had four offers from eastern cities to move and some of the minority stockholders in the club have indicated they'd go along with a move if that's what I want."

The Giants fell out of the running in the NL West by early June this past season and wound up with a total attendance of barely over 500,000. It was the lowest in the majors during a year in which baseball enjoyed a banner season.

Most of the money from the early San Francisco glory years of the 1960s is gone but Stoneham picked up around $5 million recently from a land development venture at Casa Grande, Ariz. That's expected to keep the club afloat in San Francisco for at least two years.

"During that time we expect to improve on the field and have a pennant winner," Stoneham said. "There's nothing like a winner to bring out the fans. This is my goal and one I will do everything humanly possible to achieve. I firmly believe winning and attendance go hand in hand, especially in an area such as San Francisco where people have so many things to pick from."

If things don't turn out the way Stoneham has envisioned, then he will consider some of the offers he has been getting lately. The only thing that really bothers him about giving up in San Francisco is leaving the area to Charlie Finley and his Oakland A's.

Stoneham said flatly he can't see how two teams can live in the area and make money. One or the other is bound to suffer financially. Since Stoneham and the Giants were here first, he feels Finley should move.

Leafs' Kelly Skating on Thin Ice

NEW YORK (UPI)—Even a tongue-lashing from their owner failed to awaken the Toronto Maple Leafs and Coach Red Kelly's job could be in the balance any day now.

Harold Ballard, Leafs' president, blasted Kelly and his players prior to Wednesday's game with the Pittsburgh Penguins, saying they'd "put on a stinking exhibition" so far this year and that Kelly is "too nice a guy."

The Leafs promptly responded by losing 8-3 to Pittsburgh Wednesday night despite a three-goal hat trick by captain Dave Keon, one of Ballard's main targets of criticism.

Syl Apps, Denis O'Carra and Pierre Larouche all scored two goals apiece for Pittsburgh as the Leafs dropped to 5-9-3 for the season. Keon, blasted by Ballard for "lacking leadership," scored a pair of goals early in the game and then added a penalty shot goal with five seconds left. Adding further insult to injury for Ballard, ex-Leaf Rick Kehoe scored what proved to be the game-winner at 16:53 of the second frame.

In other NHL games, Montreal tied Los Angeles, 3-3, the New York Rangers downed Detroit, 4-4, Buffalo drubbed Washington, 7-3, the New York Islanders tied Chicago, 4-4, and Atlanta edged Kansas City, 1-0.

In WHA action, Quebec defeated Edmonton, 4-2; Chicago bested Indianapolis, 6-4, and Winnipeg topped Minnesota, 3-1.

Guys 3, Canadiens 3
Guy Lafleur's second goal of the game with 10:38 remaining earned Montreal a tie with Los Angeles in their battle for first place in Division III. Montreal had to score twice in the final period to come back from a 3-1 deficit. Lafleur assisted on Bob Gainey's goal at 4:19 before ramming home a five-foot shot past Rogie Vachon to tie the game. Mike Murphy scored two of the Kings' goals.

Rangers 5, Red Wings 4
Steve Vickers' second goal of the game proved to be the decisive one as the Rangers beat Detroit. Rick Middleton, the NHL's hottest scoring rookie, had a goal for New York while Derek Sanderson and Jean Ratelle scored others. Marcel Dionne had a three-goal hat trick for the Red Wings.

Sabres 3, Capitals 3
Richard Martin and Rene Robert each had a goal and two assists and Gilbert Perreault recorded three assists to lead Buffalo over Washington. Jim Lorentz also added two goals for the Sabres, who outshot the expansion Caps, 50-14.

Islanders 4, Black Hawks 4
Cliff Koroll's third-period goal lifted Chicago into its tie with New York. The Islanders held a 4-2 lead on goals by Ed Westfall and Billy Harris before rookie Alain Daigle and Koroll tied it.

Flames 1, Scouts 0
Eric Vail scored early in the third period to break a scoreless tie and lift Atlanta over Kansas City. Vail slapped his sixth goal past goalie Michel Plasse. Flames' goalie Phil Myre gained his second shutout and the victory lifted the second-place Flames within three points of idle Philadelphia in Division I.

Nordiques 4, Oilers 2
Alain Caron, Pierre Guite, Renal LeClere and Serge Bernier scored Quebec's goals in its win over Edmonton. A crowd of 9,518, largest of the season in Quebec, braved a snowstorm to watch former Coach Jacques Plante play for Edmonton but the veteran goaltender did not see action.

Cougars 6, Racers 4
Jan Popiel scored the winning goal off a rebound in the final period as Chicago downed Indianapolis. Mark Lomenda added an insurance goal for the Cougars.

Irwin, Trevino Defend World Cup Golf Title

CARACAS (UPI)—The 22nd World Cup golf championship begins today with U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and PGA winner Lee Trevino booked as odds on favorites to successfully defend the cup for the United States.

Irwin and Trevino will join 92 other players from 46 nations to compete for the team trophy, which has been won by the United States 12 times since competition began in 1953. Also up for grabs in the four day event will be individual honors.

Trevino, who is making his fifth appearance in World Cup competition, won the individual title in 1969 in Singapore and joined with Orville Moody there to take team honors. The Mexican-American also played with Jack Nicklaus in 1971 to capture the cup at Palm Beach, Fla.

This year's cup play marks the first time that the bested Irwin is representing the U.S.

In Wednesday's warmup for the tournament, the pro-am event, the affable Trevino shot a sparkling four-under-par 66 to share individual honors with Kuo Chia-Hsiung of Taiwan and Isao Aoki and Masashi Ozaki of Japan.

Trevino, who arrived here Tuesday and didn't get a chance to warm up at the 7,000 yard par-70 Lagunita Country Club course, quipped to the gallery as he teed-off on the first hole, "Don't anybody move, I can't find my tee."

After the round, Trevino expressed satisfaction with his performance and paid a lefthanded compliment to both the course and his Venezuelan hosts. "On every course there's a tee and there's a green," he said in sizing up the Laguna course's narrow fairways and fast greens. "sure it's beautiful course, there are plenty of rich people in Venezuela."

While Irwin and Trevino are considered the men to beat in the tournament, the U.S. team is expected to get strong competition from the Japanese duo and the South African entry.

"I think the Japanese players are the ones to beat," Trevino said. "The South Africans, also, but the Japanese are the ones you have to watch out for."

South Africa's Bobby Cole and Dale Hayes lived up to their image yesterday by shooting a 68 and 69, respectively, in the pro-am event.

Also in the running for the prize is the Taiwan team.

Kuo, who joined with El Salvador amateur Mauricio Alvarez to win the pro-am match, will be teaming with his compatriot, the ever-smiling Lu Lian-Huan for a run at the cup.

"Mr. Lu," as he is affectionately known along the Caribbean circuit, was still smiling while walking off the 18th hole after shooting a 68 in yesterday's event, and he continued to marvel at the size of the holes.

"Hole is still too small," he observed. "But we win the tournament," he confidently predicted. Peter Townsend of Maurice Bemeridge are representing England in this year's cup play, while Scotland is fielding Brian Barnes and Bernard Gallagher, and Ireland counts with Eddie Pollard and Christy O'Connor Jr.

This year marks the first time that Israel and Costa Rica have entered teams in the international competition.

The Mexican-American golfer also defended the tournament he made following the wind-up of the commitments in which he finished third with a 293 total.

"That's freedom of the press," the PGA titleholder reminded newsmen at the Lagunita Country Club.

Buckeyes—Michigan Clash Has Big Emotional Impact

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Saturday's nationally televised Ohio State-Michigan game, which decides the Big Ten championship race, the Rose Bowl bid and possibly the national championship, will be no more emotional than any other Buckeye-Wolverine encounter.

"Every Ohio State-Michigan game has tremendous emotion," Hayes said, when asked following Wednesday's practice session if this meeting might have more. "This one will have no more or no less than last year's game. But it has emotion. If it didn't, you fellows wouldn't be here this early."

Hayes worked his No. 1 offensive unit an hour and 20 minutes, with no rough stuff, in the cool chilly breezes, but kept the second unit on the field for the full two hours.

"We tried to go over all phases of our game earlier this week," Hayes said, explaining that the reason for this was "to be more thorough. We've been making some mistakes lately."

It was noted by one of the ever-growing number of writers gathering for the game that the Buckeyes and Wolverines have been exceptionally strong in the third quarter this year.

"I don't think I can explain that at all," Hayes said, but after some thought said, "let me try."

He credited the strong third quarter showings on blocking adjustments at the half.

"Admittedly, we're stronger than most of our opponents," Hayes said, "and by the time we get our blocking adjustments made, we go like gangbusters."

In the first ten games, Michigan has outscored its opponents 80-40, while the Buckeyes have a 107-3 edge in the third quarter.

Arab Money Reported Buying WFL's Blazers

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Oil-rich Arabians are reported riding to the rescue of the financially troubled Orlando Blazers and the struggling World Football League. But the Blazers say it isn't so.

The report by Knight Newspapers writer Bruce Keidan is that Arab oil interests are buying the club and will pump enough money into the league to keep it alive in order to promote a half-billion-dollar plus Central Florida land deal they are working on.

The report, originating in Philadelphia, is that the team will be bought by a group from nearby Cape Canaveral, Fla., but that their money is Arabian.

"It simply isn't true—it's pure speculation," said Blazer attorney Robert Deutsch, who reportedly is making a deal with a group of Cape Canaveral businessmen. "We're getting our money from local banks."

The report says that the team was bought by a group from nearby Cape Canaveral, Fla., but that their money is Arabian. He said Loud wouldn't positively confirm the deal, but quoted him as saying: "I do know that from all indications it sounds like Arab money, but I'd have to say I can't be sure."

Later efforts to reach Loud failed. The report said the Arabs would use the Blazers to promote their real estate deal which in the same way golf tournaments are used to advertise other land developments around the nation.

UConn Booters Topple Bridgeport

STORRS (UPI)—University of Connecticut's Lloyd Grant kept thinking about rebounds in rainy games as the Huskies' soccer squad played the University of Bridgeport in the first round of the NCAA regional tournament.

Grant said his score in Wednesday's rain-drenched 4-1 victory came as he remembered coach Joe Morrone's advice that goalies often failed to hang onto soggy balls.

When he saw a teammate headed for the UB net under a drenching rain, he barreled in. The UB goalie blocked the shot but the ball bounced out of his hands and Grant knocked it in.

UConn will host Brown Tuesday for the New England crown. The Bruins, who defeated Harvard 5-1 in Providence Wednesday, have eliminated UConn from NCAA post-season play in the past two years.

Mike Swofford's two goals paced the UConn offense, with the help of one goal and an assist by All American Frantz Innocent of Nyack, N.Y.

Innocent opened the scoring at 13:32 of the first half with a 30-yard blast on a pass from Tom Neviers of Mansfield, but Bridgeport came back six minutes later on a score by Kevin Welsh of Trenton, N.J.

Innocent had bounced off UB goal keeper Eric Swallow of River Edge, N.J., to put UConn ahead for good. "Coach Morrone told us to anticipate a loose ball in weather like this," Grant said. "And when I saw Frantz cranking up I went to the goal."

Swofford, of Branford, picking up a pass from Innocent, booted the ball in from 10 yards out as the first half closed. Swofford, assisted by Len Taztires of New Haven, wrapped up the scoring in the next period.

Brown Booters Oust Harvard

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—Sophomore Fred Pereira, who at been Harvard with a pair of goals four days earlier, scored three times Wednesday to give Brown a 5-1 win over the Crimson in the semifinals of the NCAA District I soccer playoffs.

The victory advances Brown, 13-1-0 in the District finals next week against Connecticut at Storrs, Connecticut whipped Bridgeport 4-1 in Wednesday's other semifinal game.

Pereira, who provided the offense in last Saturday's 2-1 League title win over Harvard, scored one goal in the first half and two more in the second half to oust the Crimson from NCAA play. In 14 games, Pereira has 24 goals.

Trevino Refuses to Pay Fine

CARACAS (UPI)—"I ain't paying I ain't paying." Those were the words of a defiant Lee Trevino when he heard that he had been fined $655 by the Australian Professional Golfers Association for his comments about the Royal Melbourne Royal Golf Course and his failure to attend the ceremonies following the Chrysler Classic there earlier this month.

Trevino learned of the fine after he shot a four-under-par 66 in the World Cup Pro-Am event, the warm-up to the 22nd World Cup Golf Championship which begins today.

The Mexican-American golfer also defended the tournament he made following the wind-up of the commitments in which he finished third with a 293 total.

"That's freedom of the press," the PGA titleholder reminded newsmen at the Lagunita Country Club.

Players Still Going To Collect Back Pay

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—The Florida Blazers figure if they quit now, they'll never get paid. That's why they kept on pushing, getting ready for tonight's World Football League playoff game against the Philadelphia Blazers.

"We're playing in the playoffs because we have no choice," said defensive end John Ricca. "We'll never see our money if we leave now."

The Blazers, winners of the league's East Division with a 14-6 record, haven't received a full paycheck in 12 weeks. And as late as the day before the game they didn't even know who they were working for.

A group of local investors reportedly agreed to purchase the franchise a couple of weeks ago at a reported $3 million, half of which would go to pay off old debts. The players Wednesday were still waiting for their pay.

The new controller plans to live in South Windsor. He is married and has two children.

worked with several accounting firms before taking the Auburn post.

Sprinkel said the hiring of Ellis will allow the town a greater in-depth review of its finances. One of his first duties would be to assist the manager in reviewing the 1975-76 budget request before the budget is submitted to the Town Council in March, 1975.

Other responsibilities include the transfer of remaining fiscal record programs to the Board of Education's data processing equipment; updating and improving fiscal reporting systems; analyzing overall fiscal operations with emphasis on revenue control; and internal auditing and purchasing procedures.

Basketball Delay Draws Criticism

COLUMBIA
Virginia Carlson

 228-9224

A parent, concerned with the delay in the start of the inter-scholastic basketball program at Porter School, appeared before the school board Monday to find out the cause of the delay and what provisions have been made for coaching the program.

Dr. David Chase, Rt. 87, criticized the administration for what he called foot-dragging regarding basketball activities at the school. He said he thinks there is no concrete plan to form a team or hold practice, and that the program will need more time for students to get acclimated.

Dr. Chase said there is an interest in the sport not only by players but the cheerleaders and majorities as well. He added he felt it strange that basketball should be cut since it generated funds and school spirit.

Clarence Edmondson, superintendent, agreed they were footdragging but he said the reason for the delay is due to the board's waiting for the results of the annual town meeting on budget. The board

2,000 Line Up To Seek Jobs

HANOVER, Mass. (UPI) — About 2,000 people showed up Wednesday in response to an advertisement for 400 retail jobs at a new Sears department store.

Ann Feliciano, one of those responding, said she previously had been "standing in unemployment lines like half of the people here. I thought this might be a good way to get out of them."

Also waiting for an interview, Alan Kramer said he had come to Massachusetts from New York a month ago after being told there were more job openings in New England. But, he said, he now believes "there are just too few jobs for too many people."

State's Industrial Well-Being Tied to Energy Costs

By Robert Lambert
HARTFORD (UPI) — The high cost of energy could make the wheels of Connecticut industry grind exceedingly slowly in this period of record inflation, stagnating economic growth and high unemployment.

The danger for Connecticut is that compared to the rest of the nation, energy in the form of both electricity and petroleum products, will continue to cost more than other regions.

Unless prices are equalized or cheaper alternative sources of energy are found, other regions could lure business — and jobs — away from Connecticut.

Coal First
 Since the flow of water was seasonal and depended on the vagaries of the weather, factories turned to steam power generated from coal, marking the beginning of the state's dependence on outside sources of energy.

Connecticut utilities, along with the other New England states, now charge among the highest rates in the nation for electricity. Because of its reliance on imported oil, it pays among the highest prices for petroleum products.

The state already has turned towards alternate sources of energy — the atom — and is one of the nation's heaviest users of nuclear power plants which generate one-third of its electricity.

'Ticket' System
 The federal government, responding to complaints from the Northeast about fuel prices, is drawing up a so-called "ticket" system which should help equalize prices, he said.

Nuclear Power Cheaper
 The cost of nuclear energy to generate electricity is 20 cents per million BTUs, compared to $2.97 for fossil fuel — 10 times cheaper.

Lynn Alan Brooks, Connecticut's energy administrator, said his agency is monitoring fuel and power costs in other sections of the country.

"We want to make sure that we don't get into a severe imbalance," Brooks said.

Chenap Energy Gone
 Brooks said, "The days of cheap energy are pretty much over. Energy costs are going to stay relatively high."

One advantage, he said, is that there will be increasing emphasis on alternative sources, such as nuclear, solar and geothermal heat to produce electricity.

The Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Division of United Aircraft Corp. of East Hartford, one of the state's largest employers, implemented an energy conservation program a year ago, just before the Arab oil embargo hit.

Fraat and Whitney established energy use goals and has kept track of how much it actually used. Except for natural gas, which became available in unexpected amounts last spring due to the mild winter, consumption was considerably below the goals.

Fraat and Whitney succeeded in getting the Defense Department to allow it an eye towards saving scarce jet fuel.

Consumption for the first nine months was 18.2 million gallons, well below the conservation goal of 20.7 million gallons.

Other Groups Will Review DevCo Plan

COVENTRY
Monica Shea

The Windham Regional Planning Agency last night referred the DevCo application for an amendment to the Coventry zoning regulations to the agency reference committee and simultaneously to other agency members.

Agency members are to forward their comments on the application to the reference committee by Dec. 11. The reference committee will report to the full agency on Jan. 7 with a working document drawn up on the basis of written comments of agency members and utilizing the expertise of the reference committee members.

Margaret Hemphill told the commission she would like outside consultants on the application, especially in the fields of water resources and the municipal impact. She suggested that it would be a useful exercise to divorce the reference from the DevCo proposal and just consider the ordinance as itself, which is applicable to the whole town of Coventry.

Bryant Andrews, chairman of the agency, said, "I think that this will be very difficult for us to do. We are all aware of the DevCo proposal and I would

Back Pay Restored

HOUSTON (UPI)—The City Council has agreed to restore the back pay of a fireman suspended for 10 days for referring to former Mayor Louie Welch as "Screwyou Louie."

The city Legal Department recommended the action Wednesday, saying the city had no legal basis for the suspension.

The fireman, William E. Love, 25, called Welch "Screwyou Louie" last year in a letter to Councilman Larry McKaskle complaining that police officers received a bigger pay raise than firemen.

Street Numbering Topic of Hearing

COVENTRY
Monica Shea

The Street Numbering Committee will hold a public hearing tonight at 7:30 in the Town Hall. The purpose of the hearing will be to obtain comments and public views on the street numbering program.

The Planning and Zoning Commission has reviewed and approved the program.

Points of interest in the program are the naming of all state and United States routes; where possible, confusing intersections will be eliminated; a few street names would be changed to remove confusion; and residents would be notified of their assigned street number when the program is completed.

Many groups have been consulted in developing the program including the Post Office, police, fire departments and town officials. All have agreed that this program will increase public safety and convenience and assist in improvement of services such as mail delivery.

It is expected that the membership program will start in January and last for several months.

The Beautification Committee will meet tonight at 8 in the Board Room of the Town Hall.

The committee will have a discussion of possible beautification projects such as the planting of shrubbery and a possible house tour during the period.

Other items on the agenda include a membership drive and a litter and bottle ordinance.

Candy Sale

Cub Scout Pack 57 will conduct a fund raising candy sale on Saturday. This will be a door-to-door sale by members of the pack. The sale will begin at 10 a.m.

The Historical Society will meet on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Society House on South St.

Percy Hamilton Goodsell Jr. of Westbury will present a slide-illustrated program entitled "Homes and Homesteads of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence."

Goodsell has been a freelance professional genealogist since his retirement in 1961 as head of the genealogical research department at the American Historical Co., Inc. of New York City.

Goodsell is active in many organizations and has held several offices as a member of the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, Inc.

The public is invited to attend the program.

Local Grocer President Of Food Stores Group

JACK DEVANEY

Jack Devaney of 70 Porter st., owner of Manchester's Highland Park Market, has been elected president of the Connecticut Food Stores Association, the statewide organization of more than 1,000 independent and chain supermarkets.

Devaney, who has served the association in a variety of capacities in recent years, will serve as president for one year.

Devaney has been in the retail grocery business for more than 20 years, coming to the field from a related occupation as a salesman for a food broker.

He leased the Highland Park Market, 317 Highland St., in 1954 and bought it four years later. In the years he has run the business, the store has come from a 900-square foot building to the present three-story structure with about 8,000 square feet of supermarket space.

Recent town zoning approval cleared the way for Devaney to expand the operation even further by more than doubling the size of the market. He says construction is to begin next spring.

Devaney feels one of the biggest problems facing the food store business today is the threat of consumer boycotts stemming from skyrocketing prices due to inflation and other variables.

Housewives' boycotts of nationally advertised products at some Connecticut stores aren't healthy for the industry, Devaney commented, because the business is so heavily regulated by competition.

Nation's Favorite Drink Is No Longer Bourbon

NEW YORK (UPI)—Belly up to the bar, boys, and have a belt—of vodka and orange juice. Vodka and orange juice. "Fraid so. Vodka has just replaced bourbon as the nation's favorite hard alcoholic drink.

Apparently even two-listed drinkers who once dismissed vodka as a drink for silly girls and sissies are awfully in. In shot and beer towns such as Detroit, taverns in tough factory neighborhoods report selling a lot more vodka than bourbon or whiskey in the past four or five months.

A seller at the Blue Moon Lounge in the Motor City something called the Copperhead—vodka and grapefruit juice.

"It's getting so you have to wear frills to get a place at the bar," muttered one dismayed beller.

"It's like the prohibition era—bathtub gin and orange juice," said an executive for a New York bourbon distiller.

"The trend is toward lighter liquors. A lot of young people are using vodka, which has very little flavor, with sweet mixes. All they taste is 7-Up." Even in Atlanta, where a wholesaler said: "This is a bourbon area—probably the strongest bourbon area of the whole country."

—the single best-selling liqueur is Smirnoff vodka. J. Richard Grieb, president of Smirnoff division of Heublein, thinks the reason vodka has had such a dramatic growth in the last 10 years is because it mixes "with whole lot of flavors people like.

State Hires Expert For Housing Study

The Connecticut Housing Finance Authority (CHFA) and the state Department of Community Affairs (DCA) have contracted with a Washington, D.C. firm to undertake a $48,000 statewide housing market study.

The study, to be completed by January, will be made available to municipalities and regional planning agencies.

DCA Commissioner Susan Bennett said the study is important in complying with the recently enacted federal Housing and Community Development Act.

Same Words — Different Reasons

With jobs scarce, the labor market almost non-existent and employers predicting gloomily, "It apparently will get worse before it gets better," we remember an evening in Manchester, almost nine years ago to the day, when the same remark was uttered, but for a different reason. "It apparently will get worse before it gets better."

On that November night in 1965, a group of Manchester businessmen and industrialists met in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce.

Their subject — how and where to find the skilled and unskilled employees they needed.

Figures released that week by the state labor department showed the lowest total for unemployment claims statewide and locally since Korean War days.

Even as federal and state officials — not to mention the general public — regarded the situation as a healthy one, local officials and industrialists worried about it.

The November 1965 meeting was precipitated by Mal Tool's announcement it was opening a branch plant in Rutland, Vt. The decision, company officials explained, was because of the lack of trained workers locally.

Other employers attending the meeting also told of the difficulties they were having hiring skilled and unskilled workers.

William Sleith, president then of Iona Mfg. Co., said his company could use an additional 50 unskilled workers, but that they weren't available. Others didn't indicate how many employees they could hire immediately, but all said the number was substantial.

The situation precipitated the question then (1965) "Is Manchester in an enviable or unenviable position?"

To those seeking a job in today's (1974) labor market, the answer is easy. "Manchester is in an enviable position in 1965."

Speaking of the election two weeks ago, Helen Bergenty of Plainville, who wanted to be the first woman sheriff in Connecticut history, didn't make it, but Gloria Clark of the Riverdale section of Greenwich did.

Mrs. Bergenty, a Republican, tried to unseat the Hartford County Democratic incumbent, Mrs. Clark, a Democrat, succeeded in unseating the incumbent. Her feat has gone virtually unnoticed. However, it

MHA Said Ready to List Sites for Elderly Housing

By DOUG BEVINS

The Manchester Housing Authority (MHA), which has been searching for a site for state-funded elderly housing for more than a year, is almost ready to list a number of possible locations for the 40-unit project.

The MHA is attempting to negotiate with owners of three or four parcels, according to Dominic Squatrito, the authority's legal counsel, and should be able to show results soon.

"We hope to have definite commitments on more than one site very soon," Squatrito said.

The MHA has inspected dozens of possible sites since a $640,000 state grant for the housing was approved in September 1970.

The first emphasis was on a downtown location for the housing — on a one-acre parcel on Brainard Pl. — and then the MHA moved a five-acre tract on Spencer St. to the top of the priority list.

A month ago, the Spencer St. property was dropped from consideration after unsuccessful negotiations for a purchase price, and the MHA announced it would again concentrate on the Brainard Pl. land, which is owned by a corporation headed by the late Alexander Jarvis.

In fiscal 1971, public juvenile delinquent detention facilities admitted more than 600,000 adjudicated youths, while discharging almost as many.

Wednesday night, MHA members indicated they were still looking at other sites, including a three-acre lot at Woodbridge St. and Avondale Rd. and a three-quarter-acre parcel on N. Main St.

In other business Wednesday night, the MHA adopted a resolution stating policy on hiring of minority persons.

List Your Island

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — If you own a coastal island in Maine, time is running out for you to register it with the Coastal Island Registry in Augusta.

The deadline for filing with the registry is Dec. 31. Islands with four or more residential structures and those in inland waters are exempt.

The policy, part of a nationwide Affirmative Action Plan promulgated by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, requires the MHA to seek applications from minority persons when it hires new staffers.

Squatrito described the Affirmative Action Plan as a good program which isn't necessarily applicable to Manchester.

Hijackers Threaten To Kill 43 Hostages

TUNIS (UPI) — A band of Arab terrorists hijacked a British VC10 airliner in the Persian Gulf city of Dubai today and forced it to fly to Tunis where they threatened to kill one of their 43 hostages every two hours unless Egypt releases 13 imprisoned Palestinian guerrillas.

Eight of the Palestinians held in Egypt were charged with the murder of two American and one Belgian diplomats in Khartoum but were sent to Cairo where they were reported turned over to the Palestine Liberation Organization. The other five were reported held by the PLO for an attack on a Pan American airliner which killed 32 people in Rome last year.

Deadline Set

The two hijackers said the countdown will start three hours after its publication through the local news agency, and expire six hours later — after the 13 Palestinians have had time to join them in Tunis. The ultimatum was given at 2:30 p.m. (8:30 a.m. EST).

A Dutch government spokesman in The Hague said the Netherlands had received reports the terrorists also were demanding release of two Palestinians held there for hijacking and blowing up a British Airways VC10. They since have been involved in a prison mutiny.

A guerrilla organization telephoned the UPI bureau in Beirut and said any delay by Egyptian authorities would mean destruction of the passengers and the plane. It called the five men heroes who carried out the verdict of the people by killing the CIA officers in Khartoum last year.

Two Wounded

At least two persons were reported wounded in the takeover — an Indian stewardess and an Arab mechanic. Ambulances were summoned to the Tunis airport and it appeared there may have been more casualties on the flight from Tripoli to Tunis.

The exact number of persons aboard the big VC10 was not known and officials said they were not sure whether there were two or three hijackers — or possibly more. There also were 43 other persons aboard the plane — 27 passengers, eight crew members and eight Dubai airport workers.

French radio stations said the hijackers told Tunisian authorities they would kill all the European passengers if Dutch Authorities refused to release two Palestinians held on charges of unleashing a mutiny in the Schweigen Prison in the Hague suburbs.

Khartoum Victims

The Khartoum victims were U.S. Ambassador Cleo A. Noel, Charge d'Affaires George C. Moore and Belgian Charge Guy Elk. The guerrillas involved were tried in Khartoum and then turned over to PLO custody in Egypt.

The hijackers seized the plane in Dubai and forced the pilot to fly first to the Libyan city of Tripoli and then to Tunis.

Besides reading the book "Tombstone" by Burns, the class read the "Tombstone Epitaph" journal.

For their own celebration of Helderado Days, class members sang some of the old cowboy ballads, and reported on and exhibited the painting of Frederick Remington, the famous artist of the frontier.

Working from slides, movies, maps and diagrams, four members of the class designed and constructed from balsa wood the historic places of Tombstone including hitching posts and wooden sidewalks. Even the streets are covered with sand.

The exhibit will be on display in room 125 until Thanksgiving.

State EPA Opposed To Oil Refineries

HARTFORD (UPI) — The State Department of Environmental Protection today released today and forwarded to the Task Force. Its other major findings were:

- Existing channels, particularly in the Race between Fishers Island and Long Island, would restrict the size of oil super-tankers.
- Damage Risks Noted: Even with size restrictions, the risk of damage to Long Island Sound and its coastline through inevitable spillage "would remain significant."
- Refineries would need large amounts of water, tending to limit them to sites near major bodies of water, like the Connecticut or Thames rivers or Long Island Sound. Water quality would be harmed by the discharge of treated wastewater.
- Several tons of solid waste would be produced daily, with disposal problems resulting.
- Costle said he personally was opposed at this time "to a refinery anywhere in Connecticut and doubted claims that a state refinery would increase Connecticut's oil supply.
- He said a refinery would still be dependent on foreign feedstock oil that would be subject to the same price and availability fluctuations as are being experienced currently.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An $11.4 billion program to help urban mass transit systems was approved by the House Thursday and sent to the White House. President Ford indicated in a telegram from Japan he would sign the bill. But the Senate dealt Ford two blows by overruling his veto on an expansion of the Freedom of Information Act and a vocational rehabilitation bill.

Mondale Withdraws

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., withdrew from the presidential race Thursday, leaving the liberal wing of the Democratic party without a potential presidential candidate of national stature. His action narrows the list of active seekers of the nomination to Sens. Henry M. Jackson, Wash., and Lloyd M. Bentsen, Tex.; Rep. Morris Udall, Ariz.; and Gov. George Wallace, Ala. Mondale said his decision was "final."

New Particle Discovered

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — The second member of what could be a new family of subatomic particles was discovered Thursday by a group of 41 physicists. One of the experimenters said the find could fit several theories and might even be a fundamental particle called the "quark," that is believed to exist but has never been found.

Military Cutbacks Announced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon announced today it will eliminate 11,500 military and 11,600 civilian jobs in a major cutback at Army, Air Force and Defense Supply bases around the nation.

While services at many bases will be only trimmed, two large facilities will be closed entirely: Frankford Arsenal, in Philadelphia, Pa., and Ellington Air Force Base in Houston, Tex.

The base actions have been under consideration for many months but such job eliminations commonly are held up until after elections. They still unleash a furor in Capitol Hill from Congressmen whose districts are hit.

The Pentagon said the cutbacks would save $300 million a year after they are completed in 1977 and are "part of the continuing defense effort to divert resources from support and overhead activities to combat capability."

The action announced today do not affect the 2,000 U.S. bases in 28 foreign countries, but the Pentagon said it was working on another package of overseas base cutbacks.

The last major base cutback was announced 19 months ago. It closed 40 entire bases and hit most heavily at several naval installations.

This time only Army and Air Force bases and Defense Supply Agency facilities were affected.

Although dozens of domestic bases will be touched by the move, many of those will gain employment as jobs at other bases are shifted. For example, congressional sources said, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, would be a major gainer as 750 civilian and 1,200 military jobs are transferred there.

President Reaffirms Aid to South Korea

By United Press International

President Ford received a tumultuous, confetti-strewn welcome today from an estimated 2 million South Koreans and pledged there would be no reduction in U.S. military support to assure their country's independence.

Ford promised "prompt and effective assistance to repel any armed attack against the Republic of Korea in accordance with the mutual defense treaty of 1954." He said the United States will not reduce its 38,000-man troop garrison in South Korea.

The President's pledges were contained in a joint communique which he and South Korean President Park Chung Hee issued after two hours of private talks.

Before the talks started, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger indicated Ford intended to express dissatisfaction with the Park regime's harsh treatment of dissenters. But Kissinger held little hope Ford could bring about a change in Park's controversial domestic policies.

The communique also said Park had accepted an invitation to visit the United States, although no date was set. Park, who came to power in 1961, has been in the United States on four previous occasions. Ford's meeting with Park at Blue House, the South Korean presidential mansion so-named for its blue-tiled roof, followed an arrival ceremony at Kimpo International Airport in which the President said, "I am here to reaffirm our friendship and give it new meaning and life."

A state dinner given by Park in the Korea Capital — building completed the day's official activities.

Ford flew to South Korea aboard Air Force One from Japan, the initial stop on his Far East trip. He was scheduled to leave Seoul late tonight and fly to Vladivostok for his first summit meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

The timing of Ford's restatement of U.S. support for an independent South Korea was significant.

The United Nations is about to begin its annual debate on the Korean question, with Communist and Third World countries friendly to North Korea trying to get the U.N. to drop its 24-year-old endorsement of U.S. military protection of South Korea from the Communist northern part of the country.

A high-ranking U.S. official traveling with Ford said the United States is open-minded and prepared to deal with North Korea if other countries deal with South Korea.

PUC Revamping Started

By HOWARD S. DRESCHER

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. elect Ella T. Grasso is preparing to carry through her campaign promise to replace the 63-year-old Public Utilities Commission with an updated and streamlined regulatory agency.

A spokesman in her "transition" office at the state Capitol said Thursday the legislation to create a Utility Control Authority is being drawn up for presentation sometime during the legislative session that starts in January.

While the PUC regulates a number of industries, the setting of electricity rates puts the agency into the public eye more than any other activity. And no one is happy with the commission's latest rate decisions.

Campaign Pledge

The new governor pegged her winning campaign on the idea that the PUC as now set up serves neither the public nor the utilities that it regulates.

The Connecticut Citizen Action Group, which took part in a lawsuit to block rate increases for Northeast Utilities, charges the consumer is not represented before the PUC.

And Northeast Utilities, whose subsidiaries produce most of Connecticut's electricity, believes it is shortchanged in the latest decision.

"The commission told UPI its mission is to 'set rates as low as possible consistent with adequate service.'"

PUC Role Defined

PUC spokeswoman King Quillen said the commission is bound by a U.S. Supreme Court decision of 1944 that defines a reasonable utility rate as one that "enables the company to operate successfully, to maintain its financial integrity, to attract capital and to compensate its investors for the risks assumed."

To try to meet that legal standard, the PUC has five commissioners and a staff of 80 persons, including accountants, engineers and lawyers.

The tough part of the rate-setting process is determining the "rate base," those items of capital equipment, supplies, services and costs that will be covered in the rate structure and not charged against profits.

Rate Base Decisions

For example, in the latest United Illuminating rate case, the PUC refused to allow the firm to include equipment valued at $200,000 in its rate base because the equipment is no longer used.

And in its latest decisions, the PUC ordered Northeast Utilities subsidiaries to include in their rate bases the cost of fuel as of June 1974, which the utilities have tried unsuccessfully to have reversed.

Once a rate base is established, the PUC determines how much revenue a company can take in to provide a return to company investors. The PUC is now allowing the power companies about a 9 per cent. Utility profits are traditionally un spectacular but extremely stable.

Other major aims outlined by Mrs. Grasso's office were:

- An independent consumer advocate responsible to the legislature, rather than the authority.
- A management auditing system that would double-check the efficiency of the utility companies.
- Possible organization of the authority to turn transportation matters now handled by the PUC over to the state Transportation Department.

PUC Work Load Heavy

A Northeast Utilities spokesman said the PUC appears to be "overworked in many areas" and any reorganization should have the goal of getting top quality people with adequate staff to do a good job.

Mrs. Caplan, director of the CCAU, said his group believes that whatever they end up regulating the companies should turn its attention to the higher rates paid by small users and any reorganization should be "unresponsive and protecting neither the utility nor the public interests."

"We don't want to put the utilities in a precarious financial position," he said, "but we don't want Northeast Utilities and United Illuminating putting consumers in a blackmail position, either."

Some Decisions

If approved by the legislature, the Utility Control Authority will have to make the same kinds of decisions now made by the PUC, which Mrs. Grasso characterized as "unresponsive and protecting neither the utility nor the public interests."

Mrs. Grasso sees the authority as a way to overhaul the current regulatory method, although consumers should not look for any drastic cuts in rates.
