Democrats Move To Adopt Reforms

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Democratic party put aside its blood feuds of the last six years and moved today to cement reforms into the first written constitution adopted by a major U.S. political party.

The 2,035 delegates to the first-ever Democratic mid-term convention Friday night gave a roaring vote of confidence to their congressional leaders' proposals for dealing with inflation and recession.

Shout Adoption

They shouted into adoption a resolution calling for strong controls on wages, prices, profits and rents and urging public service jobs, easier credit, mandatory energy conservation, tax reform, national health insurance and no-fault auto insurance.

Peace and harmony were the keywords of the opening day. As if to emphasize that new-found unity, party chairman Robert S. Strauss scheduled Sen. George

McGovern — who presided over the party's worst presidential disaster of the century in 1972 — as one of the first speakers at today's session.

Consider its Charter

The main business of the meeting was consideration of a 6,300-word Democratic Charter drafted earlier two years ago by a 187-member party committee.

Reform and regular factions fought bitterly over the language, suspicious that each phrase might give the enemy an edge in the struggle for control that has wracked the party since 1968.

At the opening session of the mini-convention, Democrats who barely have spoken for years appeared together on the platform with a beaming Strauss, who cried in a lectern-pounding speech, "The Democratic party is almost home. We are almost home and we are going home united."

And while there was some open opposition to his carefully constructed plans to demonstrate harmony, no one really got mad.

Rivalry Long-Standing

The intraparty rivalry between the Democrats who had dominated the party since its salad days of the 1930s and 1940s and the reformist element that seized control two years ago remained just below the surface on the convention floor in Kansas City's aging but still grand auditorium arena.

But responding to the repeated warnings of leaders that continued public squabbling would ruin the party's chances of regaining the White House, delegates seemed content to make their arguments, cast their votes and accept the results.

Plea For Unity

Terry Sanford, former governor of North Carolina and chairman of the charter commission, opened the debate with yet another plea for unity. "Can the Democratic Party eliminate the internal squabbles that have caused us to lose — and then move on to plan for the good of this nation...? I say we can. I say we must!" He said the draft charter would provide "an open party" with "room for vigorous new ideas and room for the wisdom of seasoned warriors."

The bulk of the draft charter was non-controversial, simply restating long-time party rules and practices in legal form. But several sections were concessions to reformers' insistent demands to open the party to new voices, and convention floor fights appeared certain.

Nursing Association Given $13,742 Grant

Manchester Public Health Nursing Association (MPHNA) has been awarded a grant of $13,742 by the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving.

Under the terms of the grant, which was announced today, $8,742 will go toward a special education program for the MPHNA staff nurses. The remaining $5,000 will be used for the purchase of desks, chairs and office equipment for the new MPHNA headquarters at 150 N. Main St.

The educational portion of the grant provides for eight staff nurses to attend a special training program being conducted under a foundation grant to the Visiting Nurses Association of Hartford.

The grant money will be used to hire substitute nurses to cover for staff members while in class and to provide an education consultant for follow-up training and consultation throughout the year after the formal course is completed.

In January, the nurses will begin attending classes, which meet one day a week for 13 weeks and are designed to provide a staff nurse with expanded skills in interviewing, assessing heart and lung conditions, monitoring results of medications and improving basic knowledge in physiology and pathology.

Miss Florence Austin, acting director of MPHNA, knowing the value of such training for the staff nurses and the need for new office equipment, instituted the proceedings necessary to obtain the grant.

The MPHNA grant makes a total of $130,000 which has been given by the Hartford Foundation to support programs and services in Manchester since 1971 when the community was added by the foundation to the area it serves.

Townspople Asked To Aid The Hungry

The newly formed Manchester Council on World Hunger has issued a call to the people of Manchester to give up one meal a week, cut down on one meal a week or observe at least one meatless meal a week and to give the money thus saved to the malnourished, hungry and starving in America and overseas.

The council, which was formed Thursday night at an open meeting to discuss worldwide hunger, has also asked townspople to consider alternate Christmas giving in addition to its plea for personal denial.

Gift cards will be available, reading, "My gift to you is a gift to the hungry and suffering people of the world. A check for — in your name has been sent to the Manchester Council on World Hunger."

Everyone is also asked to celebrate Christmas by buying fewer luxury items and to suggest fewer non-essential gifts items as gifts from friends and relatives, thereby freeing money to be given to the poor.

"Hunger" meals will be organized on a monthly basis to provide information on the extent of hunger in different countries and ways in which individuals and groups might help. The council will provide information and resources necessary for "hunger banquets" at any interested organization or group.

The Rev. Dr. Clifford O. Simpson, minister emeritus of Central Congregational Church, was elected program chairman of the council at Thursday night's meeting.

Other elected officers are Dr. Abraham Kurien, vice chairman; Mrs. Nancy Carr, secretary; and Mrs. Jane Holmes, treasurer. Also serving on the executive committee are John Post and Jim Highland.

The Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Reardon, pastor of St. James Church, has drafted and sent a letter in the name of the council to governor-elect Ella Grasso, suggesting that the governor's bill be replaced by a joyous but more restrained celebration, and the monies thus saved be sent to organizations providing relief assistance to famine victims.

Mayor Thompson, in a letter sharing his ideas, proposed that Manchester adopt a community overseas to aid. He also suggested calling a prayer breakfast in February and inviting the community to participate. The theme of the breakfast would be "Manchester's Concern for Those Who Hunger."

All persons interested in moderating the present worldwide crisis are invited to participate in the next council meeting on Dec. 19.

Those wishing to contribute to the drive for funds may make checks payable to Manchester Council on World Hunger, in care of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, P.O. Box 773. More information may be obtained by calling the MACC office, 649-2093.

Obsolete Jets Ready To Defend Hawaii

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (UPI) — Thirty-three years after the attack on Pearl Harbor Hawaii's key air defense unit has only 18 Air National Guard jet fighters and they're obsolete, according to one officer.

Maj. Eddie Anderson, public affairs officer for the guard, said today on the anniversary of the Japanese attack that the F102s were "getting old, like an old automobile that doesn't accelerate like it used to."

Can He Do The Job?

But, he said, they "can still do the job" and would suffice until they were replaced with F4 Phantoms in 1976.

Despite the fact the F102s were "obsolete," Anderson said, "we're still much better prepared than we were in 1941."

Lt. Col. Arthur Ishimoto, the guard's chief of staff, pointed out that his state was the only one primarily protected from air attack by the National Guard.

He added there was no cause for alarm because his men were backed up by the Navy, Army and Marines.

Surprise Impossible

"A surprise attack would be impossible today," he said, "because of a highly advanced satellite detection system combined with other surveillance equipment."

U.S. Power Base in Europe Shifting to West Germany

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S.-West German alliance may have replaced the Anglo-American partnership as Washington's power base in Western Europe — the result of talks between President Ford and West Germany's Chancellor Helmut Schmidt.

U.S. officials spoke of the relationship established by the two leaders in the White House talks Thursday and Friday in almost euphoric terms. Arthur Hartman, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, talked of a "turning point."

Pledge Joint Efforts

The two leaders issued a joint statement at the White House Friday that spoke in 1,000 words of agreements on joint efforts to solve inflation, energy, East-West disarmament and virtually all other major global issues — and not one syllable of disagreement.

In World War II the United States and Britain formed a "special relationship," as a diplomat called it, that lasted until the fall of British power and the rise of European Common Market independence.

The recent political problems among the Atlantic powers have led others in both the developed and less developed world — and indeed among the producers — would take as a guide to their thinking and activities," Hartman said.

Duty to Lead

Speaking for the Ford administration to newsmen in a White House briefing Friday, Hartman said the two richest and most powerful members of the Atlantic community have almost a duty to lead in partnership — especially when faced with such global problems as inflation and the oil shortage.

"We believe that the example of these talks and the degree of agreement shown in this joint statement is something that we would hope that others in both the developed and less developed world — and indeed among the producers — would take as a guide to their thinking and activities," Hartman said.

Significant Document

Diplomats said they would have to go back to the 1950s to find in transatlantic relations perhaps as significant a document of partnership as set by Ford and Schmidt.

It was not any single new idea in the communiqué, it was the completeness of it.

Greeks To Vote On Monarchy Issue

ATHENS (UPI) — Greece decides Sunday if the birthplace of republican government will restore the monarchy or merely receive deposed King Constantine as a common citizen.

Constantine appealed to Greeks from his London exile Friday night to cast their ballots with "the good of the country" in mind. He said he would like to come home, if not as a king then as a private citizen.

"A king cannot defend himself; he does not have the right to follow attacks against him," the 34-year-old monarch said in a 10-minute television speech broadcast throughout Greece.

"He has to keep silent. I have kept silent."

New Arms Pact Changes U.S. Weapon Priorities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger says one result of the Vladivostok arms accord is that the United States will begin to dismantle land-based missiles and buy more bombers and submarines to replace them.

Schlesinger told a news conference Friday that the Minuteman missiles buried in silos across the Midwest will become increasingly vulnerable as the Soviets start deploying multibanded missiles next year that can be aimed at more of the Minute Men.

More Bombers and Subs

Schlesinger said this spending would go up as a result of adding bombers and missile submarines.

The cost of such a conversion could not be determined until the Pentagon decides how many land-based missiles it wishes to convert to submarines and bombers. The impact probably will not be felt until the early 1980s.

The United States has plans now to build 10 Trident submarines as replacements for aging Polaris subs. If more Tridents are built they will cost about $1 billion a piece.

Lawyer Denies Knowing Of Hush Money Payment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Embattled and bitter, William O. Bittman testified Friday he did not know — and still doesn't — that huge sums of money were paid to his former client E. Howard Hunt Jr. to buy his silence about Watergate.

Bittman also insisted under strenuous cross-examination by Assistant Watergate Prosecutor Jill Wine Volner that he had "no recollection" of reading Hunt's memo demanding money and pardons until May 1973, five months after the Watergate mastermind handed it to him.

No Indication

"He never indicated to me in any manner whatsoever that anything he was doing was a quid pro quo, that is, silence in exchange for money," Bittman testified.

"When I reviewed the memo in May I did not believe it was correct. I do not believe it was correct now."

Bittman, who once prosecuted former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, refused reporters' questions as he strode from the courtroom. "I'm sick of this damn case," he said.

Former White House domestic affairs adviser John D. Ehrlichman proposed calling Bittman as part of his defense at the Watergate conspiracy trial. But when neither the prosecution nor the defense would vouch for Bittman's credibility and Judge Sirica called him as a "court witness."

Judge Has Questions

After Bittman left the stand and the jury retired, Sirica, who has previously raised questions about the motive behind payments of $400,000 to the original Watergate defendants, said the testimony had gone "to the heart of the matter."

1,763 State People Join Exclusive Club

Some 1,763 residents of Connecticut have joined an exclusive club that includes such famous persons as Abraham Lincoln, Mark Twain, Lillian Russell, Harry Houdini and Hedy Lamarr. They became members of this elite group in 1973 when the U.S. Patent Office granted them patents for their inventions. The others, of course, were admitted to the club some time ago. The total granted Connecticut inventors last year was equivalent to one patent for each of the state's 1,736 residents. The 54,900 patents issued the whole U.S. in 1973 represented, statistically, one for each 3,790 persons. To get a patent, the inventor must prove that his idea is new, useful and "not obvious." If he can do that he gets a patent that protects his invention for 17 years. All told, more than 3.8 million patents have been issued since the U.S. patent system went into operation 184 years ago. Of these, more than 2.7 million have moved into the public domain. But as vital as patents have been to America's technological leadership and industrial development, the nation's patent system, experts contend, appears headed for serious trouble. "Patent rights have been losing their value in recent years," says T.L. Bowes, executive director of Intellectual Property Owners, Inc., a non-profit organization of patent owners who seek to create a public awareness of the importance of a reliable patent system. "If this trend continues," he says, "it not only could seriously threaten this country's technological superiority, but also its economic future by taking much of the incentive out of innovation, the major force behind the expansion of industry and the creation of millions of jobs."

Cost of Trip to Cape Cod Concerns Education Board

COLUMBIA VIRGINIA CARLSON Correspondent 228-9224
A Board of Education member has expressed concern over the cost of a recent eighth grade trip to Cape Cod, estimated at about $1,500. Harriet Rosen said the program for the gifted was cut from the budget, field trip expenses were eliminated and over $1,500 was cut from the co-curricular program. She questioned the wisdom of the board's decision to allow the trip, weighing all the factors, and said members should know more about programs before they are voted on. The trip has grown far out of proportion, she said, and Supt. Clarence Edmondson agreed. School board expenses presented at the meeting showed NEED booklets to be used when the other half of the class goes in April will cost $88. Substitute teachers for Dennis Harvey, John Lescoe and Linda White, who will make the trip, will cost $338. Use of the NEED facilities was $189.30 for the 32 students who made the trip recently. Students contributed for food expenses and miscellaneous items. Edmondson pointed out it was not known a bus would have to be used because it was hoped chaperones would drive. Due to short notice, there were not enough chaperones and a teacher had to go, resulting in added substitute expense for the school. The trip was part of the Cape Cod National Seashore project. The program was turned down 4-2 by the board at a special meeting in September and because the program was causing so much controversy the superintendent and Harvey withdrew the request for an environmental week. At an October board meeting, the trip was approved because the entire class would be able to participate, half in October and half in April. Deficits Edmondson pointed out to the board projected deficits in the tutoring and substitute teacher accounts. "It would appear with the information to date the tutoring account will be overdrawn by $2,000 at the end of the year." He pointed out that under the agreement with the Windham Board of Education three Columbia High School students are being tutored to date. Two students are short term and one student long term, all of which are being paid for by the Windham Board of Education. Edmondson also said the substitute teaching account will be overdrawn by about $2,500 by the end of the year. The board also voted to proceed with the revised co-curricular program. Because of the lesser interest shown by the eighth grade girls, compared to eighth grade boys, Mrs. Anderson proposes that the girls program be combined this year. From the intramural program, an all-star team will be selected to play about six interscholastic games. If sufficient interest is shown by the girls, she said it is her intention to continue the interscholastic program on a small scale into the spring for the girls interested in track and field and softball.

Who Cares?

"No one else does it..." "It's just an attitude..." "What difference can one person make?"

Who cares? In these days we all evade the issue and attempt to excuse ourselves. There are mounds of milk cartons on the patio, poppers and cigarette packs strewn to grow out of the bushes, and an obstacle course of trays, dishes, and papers awaits us in the cafeteria.

If we want to find a place on the grass to study, eat lunch, or talk, we can be assured that the nicest spots are already occupied by last week's grinders and yesterday's orange peels. Shuffling through crunchy, brown leaves is nice, but somehow, crackly, crumbly cookie wrappers aren't quite as pleasant. Then we have the wildest of sayings written on every inch of wall space in the bathrooms. The doors, however, are not blessed with such gems or originality; the doors are just not there.

Why all the mess? Have we become so lazy that we cannot walk to a garbage can five feet away? Are we so blind and so blasé that we don't notice how repulsive ice cream looks when smeared on doors and sidewalks? Do we enjoy sitting in potato salad or leaning an

Athanson Stresses Leadership

Hartford's Mayor George Athanson gave a talk to a group of about 25 students last Tuesday. His words reflected his true care for not only the people of Hartford but for all people as well.

It is punishment the answer to the problem of vandalism? Should we post guards to catch the people who litter? Are monitors needed in the cafeterias and bathrooms? These are not solutions. Perhaps if we directed our energies toward involvement rather than criticism and if we became less selfish and more helpful, we could move in a positive direction. — Wendy Horwitz

Seniors Elect Officers

Before the Thanksgiving holiday the Class of '75 elected their class officers. Five seniors were chosen as president, vice president, secretary and co-treasurer. They will take charge of graduation and senior events.

Some of these activities include the senior-faculty basketball game, class picnic and quadrangle party, awards assembly, prom and dance. They also have a large time obligation for organizing class reunions.

A Senior Commencement Committee, made up of senior homeroom representatives, will assist the officers in their graduation planning. They will also serve as informants to the senior class. Any questions should be directed to your homeroom representatives.

Bill MacLean was elected president. He is the co-captain of the varsity soccer team, a Boy's State delegate, a member of Student Assembly, and chair of the Social Committee. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. MacLean, 88 Ambassador Drive.

The vice president is Alex Mikolowsky, the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. Mikolowsky of 71 Tuck Road. He is involved in varsity basketball, golfing, and Student Assembly.

Frank Philomena, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Philomena of 16 Virginia Road is the secretary. He participates in the after-school intramural program. Co-treasurers are Bill Pitkin

Support For AFS Requested

If you are approached by a student with a pile of Christmas cards, trying to sell them for AFS, don't say "no" without thinking. Consider that your friends might be pleased to get Christmas cards from you. The cards look pretty good, and another thing to think of is that when you buy a pack of the cards, you're helping to promote international relations.

How so? You may ask. The money from the cards helps cover the expenses of sending a Manchester student abroad for the summer to learn about another culture, and it also enables them to teach a little about American culture. Additionally, it allows a student like Simone Lessa to come from a foreign country to the Manchester for a year for the same purpose.

Originally intending political science as his major at UConn, Auster became more involved in journalism as he switched his major to communications while participating in the school paper.

Auster on Athletics

Len Auster first appeared on the Manchester sports scene when he assumed a position on the Manchester Herald staff in October of 1973. Since then he has displayed a candid form of sports reporting that has won public acclaim as the Howard Cosell of Manchester.

Originally intending political science as his major at UConn, Auster became more involved in journalism as he switched his major to communications while participating in the school paper.

According to Auster, "Dick Danielson is the best coach in the state. You can't turn out consistently winning teams with personnel alone." In his opinion, school spirit is very deficient and the only remedy for losing records is an increased turnout to the games.

For those aspiring to sports reporting, Auster suggests that one work on a school paper in addition to increasing one's understanding of sports in general. Keep in mind that a reporter cannot please everyone. — John W. Mrosek

Math Team Second

On Nov. 13, the MHS Math Team placed second in its first meet of the season. The contest was held at East Catholic High School where they lost only to Concord of East Hartford, the only ones to defeat them last year. Participants in this meet were Bob Weiss, Mark Otter, Dave Hardy, and Elizabeth Anderson, all sophomores.

Representatives visiting MHS during the week of Dec. 9 through Dec. 13 are as follows:

Monday, Dec. 9, New Hampshire College, Manchester, N.H., Period 3; Tuesday, Dec. 10, New England Tech. Institute, New Britain, Period 2; Tuesday, Dec. 10, Greater Hartford Community College, Hartford, Conn., Period 3; Wednesday, Dec. 11, Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School, Norwalk, Conn., Period 4; Thursday, Dec. 12, Garland Junior College, Boston, Mass., at 9:00; Friday, Dec. 13, White Pines College, Chester, N.H., Period 5; Friday, Dec. 13, Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., Period 4.

Registration deadline for the College Board S.A.T. Test is Dec. 30, 1974. The testing date is Feb. 1, 1975.

Juniors Remorse

The junior girls would like to thank the sophomore girls for a great game of flag football. Everyone played a terrific game. Even though we junior girls were defeated, we got the experience we need to beat the sophomores next year. So girls, get ready for the reappearance of the great juniors.

We would also like to thank our coaches, Dino and Billy and all the other guys who tried to help us win the game. Their patience and understanding helped us a great deal. Thanks again everyone. See you in the spring. — Junior QB

Rock Review

It's almost impossible to talk about Cat Stevens' music, centering on one album, since everything in his music records comes out with a touch of class. Because I'm most familiar with "Teaser and the Firecat," I'm writing about this album.

Cat Stevens puts all of his talents together in this album. He uses a style of songwriting that encompasses many thoughts to get his message across. And he has a lot of messages. He adds to this a good showing of his guitar and keyboard abilities. He uses his guitar to speed up some songs, such as "Peace Train" and "Tuesday's Dead," and he slows the music down and brings your emotions into it.

other songs including "How Can I Tell You," "Morning Has Broken," "Moonshadow," and "If I Laugh." He adds some extra into some other songs, like congas in "Rubylou."

Of course, this isn't the only album that he shines on. I can reassure you that you'll enjoy any of his efforts. — Joe Damon

"Secret Treaties" By Blue Oyster Cult

Looking down on the titles of this album, they seemed like Alice Cooper rejects. "Cagey Creeps," "Subhuman," and "Career of Evil" are just a few examples. Luckily they don't sound like Alice Cooper rejects. Blue Oyster Cult is one of the better rock groups in circulation today. As far as hard rock goes, they are nearly without peer.

These are their third album. In each one they have shown a different style. They are obviously class. All their albums contain some stirring guitar and a hard-rock sound.

Most of the songs are good, some are better. Among the best are "Subhuman," "Dominance and Submission," and "Flaming Telepaths."

The album design features an excellent pencil of an airplane. The only changes allowed once the semester begins will be those necessitated by a first semester failure.

Guidance Notes

Next week, students will review their course selections for the second semester. Students who wish to make changes in their courses may do so by seeking their counselors. All such changes must be made by Dec. 18.

On the last day of the semester, students will receive a completely new schedule for the second semester. They may expect that their classes will meet during different periods than previously.

Closer Look At Katherine Bourn

I must admit that upon entering Room 239 one afternoon, clutching my tape recorder and spiral notebook, I was quite nervous. It being my first interview for the High School World, I had worried about whether or not I could pull this off. But I needn't have worried, since I was soon put at ease by the warm and open nature of Mrs. Katherine Bourn, MHS French teacher.

It may surprise you, but teachers have a beginning, too, and hers was in upper New York state. She attended a one-room schoolhouse until she was eight, when her family moved to Schenectady. After doing exceedingly well on the New York State Regents Exams, she entered high school at the ripe old age of nine.

Interestingly enough she later entered St. Lawrence University intending to become a doctor. However, in her sophomore year she was intrigued by the idea of spending her junior year abroad. Having taken French in high school and in college, she chose to attend the University of Paris.

She could not continue studying to be a doctor since she was discouraged from taking science courses there. They would have been hard to understand in French, so she took language courses. When she returned to the U.S., she finished out her high school majoring in English. She went to Wellesley for her Masters Degree, after which she taught in a girl's school.

While her children were growing up, she served on the Board of Education here in Manchester, and taught in Bloomfield and Storrs. She resigned from the Board in 1967 so that she could come to teach at MHS.

Mrs. Bourn is head of the MHS selection committee for the American Abroad program, a division of AFS. This committee chooses two students who have a chance to go abroad for the summer, or study abroad for a year, before attending college. She feels, "It is very interesting to find out why they want to go, and whether they'd fit in with a family. It's a very worthwhile program." An 18-year-old boy came from the French Abroad program with a letter to one year when a boy wrote in her yearbook, "Thank you for trying to make French not so much of a dead language."

Katherine Bourn

She added, "I think people don't have the impression that there is anybody, any place that talks French... It's just something that's in the book and in the language. I wish the kids had a language indirectly as a means of impressing a college with their ability. That does not make it vivid enough."

In strong favor of a liberal education, she states, "People have gotten sidetracked into purely vocational aims. They want to take something that will have an immediate result."

She feels that a person must "appreciate life himself and not simply go through a training procedure to become an employee some place. You have to have something that's going to enrich your own life."

Her hobbies outside of school are gardening and embroidery. Mrs. Bourn is also a member of the Rahm School Board. She has two boys and a girl.

It is my hope that through this article one can perceive the versatile talents and unique concern and affection for her students which prove her to be a prize to be cherished among the faculty of MHS. — Barbara Anderson

Cheney Tech Downs Bolton In Exciting Court Contest

By Len Auster
At times it wasn't the finest exhibition of basketball ever seen but brother it sure was exciting with all aspects of the game witnessed. Leading most of the way, Cheney Tech had to rally to subdue Bolton High, 65-63, last night at the Beavers' court.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Woods, a Green Bay castoff who will gain 1,000 yards this season for the San Diego Chargers, heads United Press International's 1974 National Football League All-Rookie team.

Woods, a wishbone quarterback at New Mexico Highlands and later at New Mexico, was Green Bay's sixth-round draft choice. He led the Packers in rushing during pre-season but was dropped when the veterans reported after the player strike.

San Diego took Woods on the advice of former college coach Rudy Feldman and the 6-foot-1, 210-pounder responded brilliantly. Entering the last two games of the regular season, Woods has gained 982 yards, fourth best in the NFL.

Joining Woods in the rookie backfield are quarterback Tom Allen, who heads a trio of San Francisco 49ers selected, and teammate Wilbur Jackson. Owen, pressed into duty when Steve Spurrier was injured in the final pre-season game and Dennis Morrison and Joe Reed failed as replacements, completed nearly 47 per cent of his passes. A 13th round draft choice from Wichita State, he threw nine touchdown passes.

Jack Lambert of Pittsburgh beat out a stellar group of rookie middle linebackers that included Randy Gradishar of Denver, Waymond Bryant of Chicago and Charles Anthony of San Diego. The 6-foot-4, 215-pounder from Kent State pushed out veteran Henry Davis and has stood out all year on one of the top defenses in the league.

The outside linebackers are Matt Blair of Minnesota and Sam Hunt, one of New England's four-linebacker defense. Blair, 6-5, 229, was drafted on the second round out of Iowa State while Hunt, 6-1, 240, was taken on the 15th round from S.F. Austin.

The secondary features Roscoe Word of the New York Jets and Terry Schmidt of New Orleans at cornerback. Practice McGray of New England at strong safety and Mike Holmes of San Francisco at free safety.

Word, a third-round pick from Jackson State, was drafted as a return specialist but earned a starting job early in the year, saving two games with interceptions. Schmidt played brilliantly early in the season before being sidelined by injury. McGray, a free agent from Arizona State, keyed a secondary that helped New England to its finest season in years while Holmes, a No. 1 draft pick a year ago from Texas Southern, bounced back from injury to capture a starting berth this season.

The team consists of rookies and first-year performers, with the NFL classifying rookies as players with no previous pro experience and first-year men as those who have attended previous training camps without making a club.

Girls Capture Hoop Opener

Opening the season with a win yesterday was the Manchester High girls' basketball team, 38-32 over Windham at Clarke Arena. Good defense and timely first half shooting was the difference for the locals.

The Indians missed lead at the half, 26-10, but Windham forced several turnovers in the second half to close within four points at one juncture. A bucket by Wendy Comp, however, with a minute-and-a-half remaining led the decision.

Jeanie Halloran paced Manchester with 18 points and 27 rebounds. Comp was next high scorer with eight markers. Best for Windham was Mary Beth Curtis' 16 tallies.

In jayvee action, Manchester was victorious over Windham 30-16. Captain Sue Linsenbrier led all scorers with 15 for Manchester.

Next tilt is Tuesday afternoon at 7:30 at Clarke Arena against Fern High of Enfield.

Burley Honored

CENTERVILLE, Mass. (UPI) — Middle guard Gary Burley, co-winner of player of the year honors, was among five University of Pittsburgh players named to the ECAC Division I football team, it was announced today.

Burley, 6-3, 260-pounder shared the ECAC award with the nation's leading offensive performer, quarterback Steve Joachim of Temple. Burley is the first defensive player to win the honor since Penn State's Mike Reid in 1968.

Ed Reardon Cops Contest

One more week remains in The Herald's weekly Pro Pick's football contest sponsored by Manchester Merchants.

Picking up 825 last week on the strength of the most right answers was Edward Reardon of 124F Rachel Road.

Sponsors are Nassiff Arms, Manchester Tire, Manchester Lumber and Consumer Sales.

Little Men Stand Tall in NFL, No Longer in Overlooked Class

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Big things come in small packages" is a phrase prevalent in pro football's rough and tumble world.

The emergence of running mini-backs Mack Herron, Terry Metcalf, Mercury Morris and Greg Pruitt, among others, has aroused attention to a significant change in the game's structure.

Pro football, the land of the behemoth, the sport known for its violent physical contact, is rapidly becoming acclimated to the "little man" at a key position — running back.

Pro players are not giants, coaches feared to use these players, reasoning their diminutive statures were a handicap to durability and performance.

No longer is the small man overlooked. The coaches gladly welcome the Davids in the land of the Goliaths.

The small man's strength has always been questioned but Buddy Young, an assistant to Commissioner Pete Rozelle and a former star with the old New York Yankees and Baltimore Colts despite being only 5-foot-5, says the little man actually has arm and leg strength comparable to that of larger players.

He believes mini-backs have an advantage because of their lower center of gravity.

"Pro players are not giants," said Young. "They tend to tackle high which gives an advantage to the short running back."

The man who did the most for the mini-backs in recent

Four Rec Swimmers Honored at AAU Fete

Four girls from the Manchester Rec Swim Club were among those honored last night at the Connecticut AAU Annual Awards Banquet at Restland Farms in Northford.

The 13-14-year-old medley relay team of Sherrie Hopperstead, Katie Tucker, Paige Johnson and Karen McCardie received recognition for their new state 200-meter medley relay mark of 2:19.78 set last June at Brown University in Providence.

BASKETBALL

Eagle Girls Lose Opener

Turnovers took their toll as the East Catholic girls' basketball team succumbed to Coventry High, 41-34, yesterday in the season opener for both schools at the Patriots' court.

Karen Werthe and Cindy Cahill paced the winners with 13 and 11 points respectively. East sophomore Debbie Benulle had nine markers with five assists while American Marlene Hage, who both shot 73s today for their 145 totals.

STROKE LEADER

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Canadian Sandra Post led by a stroke after a remarkable four under par 32 home run in today's second round of the 87,000 Colgate Women's golf championships at the Royal Golf Course.

Miss Post returned a two under par 32 on the final hole for a total of 144.

Tied for second place was virtually unknown Australian girl, teammate Debbie Casouette and Terry Lupacchino contribute six each.

BASKETBALL

Miss Johnson

Miss Johnson was also named to the All-Connecticut team as top breaststroker in her age group both short and long course during the past year.

Miss Hopperstead, 15, joined her teammate Miss Tucker as a member of the exclusive 100 Club, which is composed of female swimmers around the state who've gone under the one minute mark in the 100-yard freestyle.

Virtually overlooked in the free-agent draft deep, many teams have done so since, most notably the St. Louis Cardinals, whose offensive platoon was lacking the rushing-passing balance necessary for success.

Strictly a pass oriented team, they were not successful until Metcalf replaced Donny Anderson at halfback and was teamed

Leaders Seek Possible Solution To End Arab-Israeli Stalemate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Ford meets with Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon today to discuss possible solutions to the stalemated Arab-Israeli peace negotiations. Allon, who arrived in Washington Sunday, expressed hope that he would be able to "achieve some political progress" during a Middle East settlement in his discussions with Ford, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other top U.S. officials.

Construction Worker Pickets Delay Return of Miners to Pits

By United Press International. Construction workers set up picket lines at several mines today, delaying the return to work of local United Mine Workers union members. The 6,000 construction men said they would picket until they get a new contract. Picket lines were reported in Cambria, Indiana and Armstrong counties in southwestern Pennsylvania. Miners returned to their homes when they saw the picket lines.

Greek Monarchy Rejected by Voters

ATHENS (UPI)—Thousands of chanting Greeks danced in the streets today, celebrating an overwhelming, two-to-one referendum vote to reject the monarchy. "Let's turn the palace into a school," celebrants shouted as Athenians converged on downtown Constitution Square, waving flags, blowing car horns and shaking hands. Greeks voted by a resounding 68.8 to 31.2 per cent margin in Sunday's referendum to live in a republic and abolish the 148-year-old monarchy.

Block Grant Hearing Slated for Tonight

Townpeople who haven't yet been heard on their proposals for spending federal funds expected by Manchester under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 have another chance to discuss their pet projects tonight. The citizen input subcommittee of the 29-member Community Development Advisory Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Wilton Memorial Library. Subcommittee Chairman Gilmore Cole said the main purpose of tonight's meeting is to review projects proposed at public hearings last month, but citizens who were unable to attend the hearings are welcome to discuss their ideas as well.

Miki Elected Prime Minister

TOKYO (UPI)—Takeo Miki, a veteran legislator with a reputation for honesty, took over as prime minister today, replacing a scandal-marred predecessor. Miki, a member of the lower house for 37 years, became the 66th prime minister since Japan adopted the parliamentary system of government in 1889.

Elderly Feted By Firemen

Mayfair Gardens residents and guests ate a hearty turkey dinner Saturday evening at the John Cronin Hall at the elderly housing project in the North End. Firemen of the volunteer Eighth District department prepared and served the holiday dinner for the fourth year in a row.

Man Accused of Murdering South Windsor Youth

HARTFORD (UPI)—Charles E. Morris, 41, a Van Buren, Maine, mechanic, was arrested today and charged in the 1973 shooting death of a teen-age service station attendant in South Windsor. Morris was charged with murder in the June 14, 1973 death of 16-year-old Edward Donihue of Warehouse Point whose body was found in the rear room of a Gasland service station operated by his father, Patrick.

Mother of Sextuplets Had Expected Triplets

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—"The doctor told me I would probably have triplets," said Mrs. Charlotte Lange, 26, "when the fourth and fifth and sixth ones were born I was completely shocked." The sixth and smallest of the sextuplets were born to Mrs. Lange on Saturday, Dec. 7, at 11:30 a.m. after a 27-week pregnancy. The other five babies were taken to nearby Valley Medical Center and put in the care of a special neonatal team.
