

Ford Meets Advisors at Vail

Inflation and Recession Problems Discussed

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford and his advisers are having trouble coming up with a solution to the simultaneous problems of inflation and recession. "This is tough as hell," spokesman Ron Nessen quoted the President as saying during Friday's meeting of energy experts to find ways to cut oil consumption and imports. He said the meeting was "intense, detailed and complete."

No Total Agreement
"There is not total agreement between the President and his advisers," he said. "Out of this clash of ideas, the choices are being narrowed."

Ford stayed away from the ski slopes Friday for the meeting with Treasury Secretary William Simon, Housing Secretary James T. Lynn, Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers, and other energy experts. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, was to arrive today.

No Final Decisions
No final decisions were expected as a result of Ford's look at the gloomy economic indicators. Nessen was short on details, saying Ford had ordered his advisers to refrain from any public discussion.

Nessen said Ford believes a "certain amount of confusion" has resulted from the administration speaking with many voices. However, Ford is said to be in the process of an intensive evaluation of proposals — including a tax cut — which he is preparing to offer Congress in his State of the Union address in mid-January.

Tax Cut Under Study
Ford also closeted himself Friday with the 50-page report, written by CIA Director William E. Colby, on charges that the Central Intelligence Agency spied in the United States in violation of its charter. There was a good chance that Ford may decide to make portions of the top-secret report public during the weekend.

Signing Bills
Ford today will sign more of the 158 bills Congress passed before adjourning. He has so far signed 32 and vetoed 2 more. Among those signed Friday provides $200,000 in transition funds for Richard Nixon, including $55,000 for the former president's pension and an allowance for staff office expenses, but the amount was drastically cut from the $850,000 Ford originally requested.

Another bill signed by Ford gives the General Services Administration custody of the Nixon tapes. Nixon has sued to overturn that law.

Oil Price Effects To Be Less Than Hoped

BOSTON (UPI) — New England will get only minimal relief through the oil price equalization program announced in Washington last month but it is a step in the right direction, according to regional energy officials.

Thomas H. Fitzpatrick, energy program director of the New England Regional Commission (NERCOM), said a federal prediction of $360 million in six-state savings on oil bills will be more like $100 to $150 million annually.

Saving Overstated
"We feel the Federal Energy Administration overstated the saving," Fitzpatrick said, adding that the FEA estimate included savings in New York State as well as New England.

While conceding the new projection is not an amount to be sneezed at, Fitzpatrick said the estimated savings is a "minute amount" compared to New England's overall annual fuel bill but conceded it would be some help to the region.

Impact on Electricity
The most direct impact of price equalization in New England would be on electricity consumers whose fuel adjustment charges might drop about seven per cent, according to officials of the New England Electric System.

A long-sought break on the price of imported oil upon which New England depends heavily is the key to the federal program. The six states import about 90 per cent of the residual oil used in electric plants and some factories. Only about 15 per cent of the lightweight No. 2 fuel used in households is imported.

Bill Could Be Costly
Robert E. DeBlais, vice president of DeBlais Oil Co. in Pawtucket, R.I., said a very adverse effect on consumer wallets rests in a measure on President Ford's desk. It would require that 30 per cent of the nation's oil be carried in American ships. That would likely boost transportation costs and the price of oil, he said.

Benny Funeral Sunday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — One of the nation's most beloved comedians, Jack Benny, will be buried Sunday. He will be eulogized by Bob Hope and George Burns, two of his fellow comedians and lifelong friends. A host of celebrities from show business, music and politics will act as honorary pallbearers.

Explains Killing

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UPI) — Riley Mosley Jr., an escaped convict who held a mother and two of her daughters hostage Thursday in their farm home, was charged with murder, rape and the commission of a felony while armed. Mosley shot the mother and one daughter to death just before his surrender. Friday he confessed he had raped the mother and they resisted when he tried to rape the daughter. The other daughter escaped when Mosley opened fire.

French Mine Disaster

LIEVIN, France (UPI) — An explosion ripped through a mine shaft half a mile below the surface of the ground Friday and killed 42 miners, burning five others badly. Trade union officials said they would call a 24-hour general strike across France during a mass funeral Tuesday for the victims, to emphasize the dangerous conditions under which France's miners have to work.

Tours Battered City

DARWIN, Australia (UPI) — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam toured the cyclone-battered city of Darwin today and civil defense authorities organized the largest airlift of refugees in Australia's history.

Tropical Cyclone Tracy roared through Darwin Christmas Day and nearly flattened the port city. A cyclone is equivalent to a hurricane in the United States or a typhoon in Asia.

Authorities said less than a quarter of the more than 12,000 houses in the city are habitable and damage estimates run as high as $700 million.

Judge's View

Garrity said the defendants "voted not to approve the plan not because they objected to specific points, but because it called for desegregation at a time when the defendants felt it would aggravate racial tensions and threatened public safety."

"It is a blanket sweeping objection, not specific. If such a course of conduct became habitual or was ignored, the court believes there never would be school desegregation."

Following the ruling, Rep. Raymond L. Flynn, D-Boston, an anti-busing leader, condemned the action, saying it "is a direct attempt by the court to accomplish by judicial fiat what the people of Boston rejected at the polls in the last election."

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat sent his foreign affairs and war ministers to Moscow today on a special mission aimed at insuring the success of Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's January visit to Egypt.

Sadat decided to send Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy and new War Minister Gen. Mohammed Gammasy to Moscow after receiving what government sources described as an "urgent" message from Brezhnev Thursday.

To Discuss Peace
The weekly newspaper Akhbar el Yom said Ismail Fahmy will discuss with Kremlin officials the Geneva Middle East peace conference and the "diplomatic steps which should be taken to ensure the speedy convocation of this conference."

While Moscow is pressing for immediate resumption of the conference, Egypt is known to prefer a further Israeli withdrawal in Sinai before the conference is reconvened.

The newspaper said the Soviet invitation to send the top officials reflected Moscow's wish to "promote Egyptian-Soviet relations speedily."

Flames Sought
Gammasy took over as Egypt's new war minister and commander-in-chief of the armed forces following the death of Field Marshal Ahmed Ismail. Ismail died of cancer Wednesday.

Akhbar el Yom said Soviet leaders were intent on insuring the success of Brezhnev's Jan. 16-18 visit to Cairo "by means of reaching agreement with Egypt

Another question which will be discussed, the sources said, will be Egypt's request for advanced Mig-23 jet fighters, ground-to-ground rockets and other weapons.

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Russia was prepared to supply Egypt with those weapons if Soviet military advisers were allowed back in Egypt. Sadat, who expelled 15,000 Soviet advisers in 1972, apparently did not relish the idea, the newspaper said.

Three Boston School Officials Found Guilty of Contempt

BOSTON (UPI) — Three Boston School Committee members have been found in contempt of court for refusing to obey a federal judge's order to approve a city-wide school desegregation plan.

U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Friday found School Committee Chairman John J. Kerrigan and members Paul J. Ellison and John J. McDonough in "civil contempt" for failing to obey his order requiring the committee to submit an approved citywide plan by Dec. 18.

No Penalties Imposed
The NAACP requested that the three be jailed or fined $500 a day until they comply with Oct. 31, but no penalties were immediately imposed.

Garrity asked the members to consider voting to submit the plan, withholding their personal approval, and indicated he would not impose a penalty if they agreed to this action. He ordered them to appear in court Monday.

A partial school desegregation order was issued by Garrity for this fall on June 21 calling for forced busing of 18,000 black and white students. Implementation of that plan has met with widespread resistance and violence.

Committee Rejects Plan
On Oct. 31 he ordered the School Committee to submit a citywide desegregation plan for next fall. The committee voted 2-2 to reject and not submit the plan, which calls busing 30,000 students, but it later was filed by the court by the committee's attorney.

In making his ruling Friday Garrity said, "The three members are found to be in civil contempt for disobeying the court's order to submit a citywide school desegregation plan and to approve of it. They did neither."

Judge's View
Garrity said the defendants "voted not to approve the plan not because they objected to specific points, but because it called for desegregation at a time when the defendants felt it would aggravate racial tensions and threatened public safety."

"It is a blanket sweeping objection, not specific. If such a course of conduct became habitual or was ignored, the court believes there never would be school desegregation."

Jury to Receive Charge From Sirica on Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "The only salvation for us all and for the retention of our form of government is the faith of the people that their high officials will be fair, honorable and lawful."

Prosecutor James F. Nease was making the final arguments Friday in the Watergate cover-up trial of five of Richard M. Nixon's top aides.

"... that the officials of the land will not play ignoble roles... they may strike hard blows but must not strike foul ones..."

Must Be Called To Account
"They may not commit crimes. They may not, in an effort to perpetuate themselves in power, assault the temples of justice in a massive effort to obstruct justice. When these things occur society must call those responsible to account."

Judge John J. Sirica will give a two-hour charge to the U.S. District Court jury on Monday and then guilt or innocence will be their decision.

Nease's final argument was delivered in a solemn, low-key manner, a sharp contrast to the summation eight days ago when his Tennessee drawl frequently rang throughout Courtroom No. 2.

Sum Up Case
Nease and assistant Watergate Prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste summed up the case against the five defendants.

Ben-Veniste said former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman tried to use the CIA to block the early FBI investigation of the 1972 bugging of the Democrats and lied to the Senate Watergate committee about hush money paid to the Watergate burglars.

The 31-year-old prosecutor compared Haldeman to a kid caught with jam on his face. "There are 42,500 jars of jam in this case," he said, "the amount of money paid to the original Watergate defendants."

Nease summed up the case against the others — former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, former White House domestic affairs chief John D. Ehrlichman, former Assistant Attorney General Robert C. Mardian and Nixon re-election lawyer Kenneth W. Parkinson. All five are charged with conspiracy.

"Isn't it odd that so many people in this conspiracy case had this urge to get the truth out," Nease said. "How difficult it must have been. How well they restrained themselves."

Nease referred to former White House aide John W. Dean III, Charles W. Colson, Jeb Stuart Magruder, Fred LaRue and E. Howard Hunt Jr., Nixon's personal lawyer Herbert W. Kalmbach and Anthony Ulasewicz, who delivered money to the original defendants.

All except Ulasewicz have pleaded guilty to Watergate crimes.

Little Privates
"Isn't it strange how all the defendants in this case take the position that this whole massive cover-up was concocted, planned, executed and carried out by the little privates in this army — Dean, LaRue, Magruder, Kalmbach, Ulasewicz — and they were not part of it?"

"How relieved Dean, LaRue, Kalmbach, Hunt, and yes, even Colson must be," Nease said. "They have confessed their sins and regained their dignity... they are the people who are rebuilding their lives."

Viet Cong Frogmen Blow Up Bridge

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong frogmen blew up a bridge just 15 miles north of Saigon early Saturday, cutting traffic on a heavily-used road link to the 25th Infantry Division, the military command said.

Guards captured one frogman in a combined ground and water assault and stopped the raiders from blowing up the bridge on first attempt, the command said.

The raiders staged a second pre-dawn attack 90 minutes later and crippled one of 13 spans of the 200-yard Phu Cuong bridge over the Saigon River on provincial highway 15, the command said.

Military sources said it was likely the bridge could be repaired in a day or two. The road links Phu Cuong with Cu Chi headquarters of the government 25th Infantry Division 20 miles northwest of Saigon.

Communist forces bombarded Cu Chi Friday and renewed their attacks on the Black Virgin Mountain near Tay Ninh provincial capital, 55 miles northwest of Saigon, the command said.

Firefighter's Snowman

the holiday season to the city. Due to the energy crisis and lack of funds, the firehouse is minus the usual decorations and strings of colored lights this year. (UPI photo)

OPINION

Jumping The Seniority Gun

There is certainly nothing illegal about the resignation of Ohio Democratic Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum and the appointment by Gov. John J. Gilligan of Senator-elect John Glenn to replace him, thus giving Glenn a week or so of seniority over the other incoming freshmen senators.

Nor in the similar case of Sen. Paul Laxalt, newly elected Nevada Republican, who actually beat Glenn by a few days to virtue of being appointed to fill the seat of resigned Sen. Alan Bible.

The prerogative of governors to fill congressional vacancies created by death or resignation is clearly stated in the Constitution. Metzenbaum himself had been appointed by Gilligan earlier this year to finish the term of Sen. William B. Saxbe, who resigned to become an attorney general, and many Democrats had begun urging Metzenbaum's resignation in favor of Glenn almost the day after the latter's overwhelming election victory in November.

Indeed, some of them immediately began talking about Glenn as vice presidential and even presidential timber in 1976.

Yet there is something slightly extraneous about the tactic. It is a clever end run around the Constitution, in the spirit if not in the letter.

Glenn and Laxalt were elected by the people of Ohio and Nevada to begin serving in the 94th Congress, which convenes on Jan. 3, 1975, not in the last days of the 93rd. About the only advantages he will gain by his "seniority" will be in selection of offices in Washington and perhaps a better chance at the committee assignments of his choice.

Metzenbaum had initially resisted the urgings that he resign, arguing that it would be unfair to other newly elected senators. It is just that, and it is to be hoped that the Glenn and Laxalt cases will not become the practice, with state parties scrambling and dickering after every election to get their boys down to Congress ahead of the pack.

Perhaps it won't. If anything is difficult to pry loose from Washington it is our lame-duck congressman, who is wont to savor every moment remaining in his term. Perhaps these are special cases.

But it has been over 10 years since John Glenn first tried for the Senate. That's a lot of seniority that might have been. If the vote of confidence given him by Ohioans in November is an indication of the future, he will be in public office for a lot longer than that. It's too bad he, as well as Laxalt, couldn't have waited a few more days to start.

Donate The Land

To the editor:
I was happy to read in the newspaper that the DevCo plan for Coventry is dead. I am both proud and happy to hear such good news. "Proud" of the work of the Anti-DevCo groups and all their efforts of time and money. "Happy" that, as a Coventry taxpayer, I will not have to support the problems of Hartford, and that Coventry is going to be able to grow at its own slow pace and not become a city overnight.

Once again I would like to state, if the people of DevCo are really interested in the people of Coventry, why don't they donate the land to the town of Coventry or the State of Connecticut. The land could then be used as a park where all could benefit, including the people of Hartford.

It Happened in Nitro

Nitro, W. Va., is down the road a piece from Charleston or Huntington depending on which way you are going.

As you might surmise from its name, it isn't Beverly Hills or Westchester County or Grosse Pointe, but something just happened there, as you may have read, which needs some recognition for its perfect attunement to the season.

A chemical maintenance tank shop in Nitro, which employed 19 workers found that it was going to have to layoff the evening shift of eight men.

As might be surmised, since they were on the evening shift, they were the youngest employees in point of union seniority, hence the first who might be dismissed.

To the astonishment of the management, a spokesman for the 11 remaining employees came to the office and asked why anyone would have to be laid off.

He said that the remaining 11, who were keeping their jobs, were willing to split the work and split the pay.

Under the proposed plan each of the 19 mechanics will work a week and have a week off. All will continue to draw pay, albeit in a lesser amount than before.

The manager was amazed, saying he had never before seen such a demonstration of human kindness. It is a deed which might have been written by O. Henry, but has just happened in Nitro.

We have a feeling that the chemical tank firm will soon have all 19 men back on full time. With employees like that they can't help but make a recovery.

Problems, Problems

NEW YORK — "We're in such a mess," said a man sitting next to me at the lunch counter. "I don't see how we'll ever get out." He was saying what millions of others were probably thinking at the same moment all over the world.

The sense of insoluble problems is a recurrent feature of a time of deep troubles. But if we let it get the better of us, the problems will only get worse. Toward the year's end, it may be worthwhile to think of the kinds of problems we have, and how to approach each kind.

Depending on how hard they are to solve and how much or little we know about them, I see five types.

One is the kind of problem we can solve if we do more delving into it. The readiest example is that of finding new energy resources.

My dear father how quickly we can tap the energy of the wind, the sun and the sea, and about the wisdom of ocean drilling for oil and of building more nuclear plants. But that is a matter of priorities and values that no one can solve for us except ourselves. The point is that, with time and research and money to put in, the problem can be solved. There are many such.

Another type is the problem we can solve if only we can get a meeting of minds.

The best example at home is in the wrenching events in Boston, with the struggle over school busing. It involves the clash of ethnic groups, each aroused over the question of social justice and policy, as with many problems in a multi-ethnic society. The blacks and their civil rights supporters have the history of the American conscience on their side, as well as the ruling of the federal courts. The white ethnics appeal to the idea of the neighborhood as the central point of the social organism.

Two ideas of social interest and two value systems are pitted against each other. On the whole, America has settled such problems better than most, with the court rulings in the end applying what most people nationally think and feel.

A third type is the problem we can solve if we have the will. There are many domestic examples, but right now the global ones are in the forefront. Take the three most serious ones: the oil dependence of the industrial nations, the world populations and food pressures and the nuclear arms spiral.

Each of them requires the exertion of a collective will — in the case of oil, the will of the industrial nations to bring their energy policies into harmony; in the case of food and population, the will of the more congested nations to plan for population control and, with the help of the richer nations, to apply better methods of food production. In the case of nuclear weapons there is the question of a pact against mutual suicide through arms control by the nuclear powers.

The fourth kind of problem is one that baffles solution for the present and for some time ahead. The central example, for every nation, is the inflation-depression problem. We can use stopgap measures to relieve unemployment, like the $7 billion which the U.S. Congress has voted for public service jobs. We can use fiscal measures to regulate the money supply and price-wage controls to fight inflation. But the exactly right mix for dealing with both problems will remain elusive.

With the economic problem, as with others like it, the key lies in psychology. It consists in shaping a policy, applying it with confidence and thereby gaining the confidence of the people. More important than the policy itself, as F.D.R. knew in 1933, is the confidence.

Finally, there is the class of problems — human and technical — which we cannot solve except over a very long time range. We simply have to live and cope with them as we try persistently to reduce and rechannel them, using meanwhile whatever stonemason we can muster. But if we make headway with the soluble and half-soluble problems, we can endure the insoluble ones.

Those In Their Golden Years Get Little Consideration

WASHINGTON — Christmas, commercial division, required this fragile body to enter a number of shops, a perilous exercise I am usually spared by a cooperative family effort, and I was struck by the discovery that there are people in the country who are not 16 years old and who buy something besides dubious guitars.

Reference is to representatives of the more than 21 million men and women who have entered the so-called Golden Years by reaching the age of 65. From my observations, it appeared that storekeepers either were unaware that these Americans existed or had adopted a policy of discouraging their patronage.

I speak not of aging Rockefeller's or the Rose Kennedys of the senior set; they can take care of themselves. My concern is for those retired folks who are living on fixed annuities or Social Security payments and the relatively few who still work at the low-paying jobs which have been their lives.

To them, shopping is not a happy experience but a painful effort to make ends meet and thus assure themselves of a sense of belonging. For the most part, they are people of pride, with heads held determinedly high. They seek neither favors nor alms, but only some of the consideration bestowed on other shoppers. They are polite, but somewhat bewildered.

They are met, often, with a rudeness that is sometimes coarse. At a women's dress shop, I heard a saleswoman tell a lady of about 72: "I keep saying, there's nothing here you can afford!" At a supermarket, a youth at a checkout counter told an old man fumbling with an ancient purse, "C'mon, grandpa, get it up, get it up." Counting her change at a toy store, a grandmotherly type was ordered brusquely: "For Christ's sake, make up your mind."

There are other similar scenes, but these will do. They reflect a nation's impatience with its aging — not just the infirm, but anyone whose appearance bears the imprint of December. The senior citizen is merely tolerated when he is not treated as a nuisance.

It all recalled a Senate subcommittee hearing at which various witnesses urged that merchants give more consideration, if not a helping of good manners, to the aging. An official of the National Council on the Aging, whose name escapes me, told of trying to convince one large chain of retail stores that the elderly constituted a mass market worth cultivating.

The idea, she said, was received coldly. Chain officials all but said they didn't want older people in their stores because it would hurt their public image and plane tickets, dentures that he, medicines that cure and hearing aids that listen. In a land where the Golden Years folks spent more than $46-billion a year, I figure to double my money the first year.

Well, I have plans for when I grow up and make my first million. The dough will be invested in a super-supermarket for Over-65s only, and I'll sell them cars they can get into and out of, dresses that button up the front, half-fare train and plane tickets, dentures that he, medicines that cure and hearing aids that listen. In a land where the Golden Years folks spent more than $46-billion a year, I figure to double my money the first year.

Everly Lidel says, "Christmas means varied things to men. But some there are who seem to me, forever set apart; who through the years serenely walk, with Christmas in their heart."

Ondes P. Stairs, Pastor
Community Baptist Church

In Luke's second chapter there is a phrase descriptive of this condition:

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Tomorrow is Sunday — so different from last Sunday. We moved through the Advent season with joy, singing, and a sense of excitement. We reached the climax last Wednesday and tomorrow is the anticlimax. Some who have been dealing with those who bought and exchanged gifts are very fervent in thanking God that it is over. Merchants are comparing receipts with last year and reacting accordingly. Pastors are wondering what to say. When you have fired a cannon, anything else is going to seem like a very small firecracker. Even surviving church decorations are sort of tired!

Town Seeks Storage Tank Bids

Bids will be opened Jan. 10 in the Manchester Municipal Building for furnishing the town water department with a 3,500-gallon fire glass storage tank, for storing caustic soda. The tank is to be delivered to a building site at the town's Buckingham Reservoir in Glastonbury. The building in which the tank will stand will be constructed by town forces. The bids had ranged from a low of $13,696 to a high of $38,275 and were rejected.

Two Bids Meet Spreader Specs

Although five bids were received Friday for supplying the town water department with a sand spreader for roads into its reservoirs, only the two highest appear to meet specs, said Maurice Pass, Manchester purchasing agent.

Deacons, Elder Speak at Church

Members of the Church of Christ, Lydall and Vernon Sts., will preach Sunday at both church services. George Caruthers of 51 Highland Dr., South Windsor, a deacon of the church, will preach at the 10 a.m. service. The moon is full. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn. Woodrow Wilson, 28th president of the United States, was born Dec. 28, 1856.

A Good Word For Dialogue

DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

The present phase of the ecumenical movement - marked by the second Vatican Council's "Declaration on Ecumenism" - is a new chapter in the history of the Christian Church. It is only a little over a decade old.

Already, however, the movement has been accused of collapsing or, by some more kindly critics, of bogging down in talk without any action.

Some of the criticism has even come from those most committed to the movement's goal of unity.

United Methodist delegates to last month's plenary session of the Consultation on Church Union, for example, refused to affirm an effort by COCU members aimed at moving the nine churches toward a mutual recognition of members, that membership in particular churches is full participation in the whole people of God.

The Methodist delegates, virtually the only plenary participants to vote against the proposal, said they did so because they were disappointed that the statement did not go far enough.

One of the major architects of the international ecumenical movement, however, has recently given a ringing defense of the movement, in particular the aspect so often criticized - dialogue.

Cardinal Jan Willebrands, president of the Vatican Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, in this year's Paul Watson Lecture, marking the 10th anniversary of the Second Vatican Council's decree on ecumenism, said dialogue was one of the most important points in the Council's teaching on ecumenism.

"There has certainly been a greater change in the relation between the Roman Catholic Church and other churches and communities than the change from a polemical attitude to dialogue, from the prejudice that 'the other' is an adversary in the Christian cause to accepting that he is a brother in Christ," Willebrands said.

At the same time, Willebrands noted the frustration of those "who express the feeling that this is of little or no importance, that it has come to a standstill or that it is continually paralyzed by measures taken by official authorities."

But he stressed that the church today finds itself in a very different position with regard to divisive issues than it did in the early centuries of the church's formation.

"At present we find ourselves in a situation where ourselves are already many centuries old so that we have grown apart in nearly all fields of Christian life, as for instance, theological thinking, liturgy, canon law, spirituality," Willebrands said.

"For this reason, according to Willebrands, dialogue is really more than just talk.

"Ecumenical dialogue engages the whole person," Willebrands said. "It cannot be a thing, accessory, a trimming, like make-up on the face...."

"Dialogue really begins not merely when each hears and understands the other's witness, but when he recognizes himself through this witness, authentically challenged by the Word of God," the theologian said.

The Bible Speaks

by Eugene Brewer

In a few days the remorseless march of time will move us across the threshold of another year. In retrospect we may view 1974 with jaundiced eye, being almost glad to see it disappear forever.

But in our more objective moments, we know that no chronological division can really change the human situation. Time truly is the stuff life is made of. To kill it at best is irresponsible, at worst criminal.

You plan to take time for your soul? That is commendable. You intend to search the Scriptures and to know God's will for you? That is admirable. You are resolved to accept Christ in obedience? That is hopeful. Your tomorrow is today and the time for decision? That is wise.

The New Year's Eve Song

"Auld Lang Syne" is a favorite song that you all hear every New Year's Eve. Although Robert Burns, the famous Scottish poet, never drank it down from an old man, he looks it down from an old man who was singing it. Below are the words you'll hear most often!

"Auld Lang Syne" means "old, long ago."

Should auld acquaintance be forgot, And never brought to mind? Should auld acquaintance be forgot, And auld lang syne.

For auld lang syne, my dear, For auld lang syne, We'll take a cup o' kindness yet, For auld lang syne.

For auld lang syne, For auld lang syne, And auld lang syne.

Lots of Luck Around the World!

Pass the black-eyed peas, please!

Burma
The Burmese celebrate New Year's in April with a Water Festival. They believe that it is good luck for someone to pour water over you as a kind of blessing. The children have water fights. They also pour water over small statues of Buddha.

Scotland
In Scotland, the first person to enter a house after 12 o'clock on New Year's Eve is called a "first footer." It's bad luck if this person is a woman, grave-digger or a man with light hair. The "first footer" should be a man with dark hair. He should step in on his right foot. Sometimes families hire "first footers" to make certain they have good luck.

China
The Chinese celebrate New Year's in the last part of January or in February. Everybody cleans house and gets new clothes. It's bad luck to wear old shoes on New Year's Day. Red is the New Year's color. The Chinese send red cards and give the children coin-filled red envelopes. They pay all their bills before the New Year starts. They believe that it is bad luck to get mad and swear on New Year's Eve. On the last day of the 15-day celebration, they hold the Lantern Festival. People carry lanterns and march in a parade. The parade is usually led by a huge dragon.

What Would You Do?

You are walking to school, and you find a bottle of pills. What would you do? Talk about it with your parents, your teacher and your friends.

Study Shows Teen-agers Drinking and Driving

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An alarming number of teen-agers have either driven while drunk or ridden in cars with heavy-drinking drivers, and neither social tactics nor legal threats do much to discourage them, according to a new study.

In the study, released by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 377 students in the 9th through 12th grades were selected at random in 25 parts of the country. They were interviewed outside their homes on a confidential basis.

Half said that at least once a month during the previous three months they had been in social situations with other teen-agers, when adults were not present, at which alcoholic beverages were consumed. These were classified as drinkers.

Of these drinkers, one-fourth said they had driven three or more times when they were "really pretty drunk."

Another fourth said they had driven once or twice when "really pretty drunk."

—Thirty-two per cent reported being a passenger at least once a month in a car operated by a heavily drinking driver.

"The study ... reveals that there is an alarming amount of drinking and driving taking place among a large, mainstream group of U.S. youth," the report said. "In fact high school students are in contact with alcohol-related situations almost as often as adults are today."

WINGS OF EVENING

By CLIFF SIMPSON

Christmas Past

The birthday of Jesus is over. How quickly fade the carols! How soon the packages vanish leaving a bare place under the tree! We make so much of our Christmas celebration in New England that it is hard to imagine this law passed in 1699 by the Massachusetts Bay Colony: "Whoever shall be found observing ... Christmas, either by forbearing labor, feasting, or in any other way as a festival, shall be fined five shillings."

It sounds weird today but it was on the books. Thank heaven there are no such laws now. As each one looks back on this Christmas may it be remembered, not for the amount of liquor consumed, the food eaten, the ring of the cash register, the number of guests entertained, but for its central meaning — "Emmanuel, God with us." The Eternal came into time, revealing the purpose of creation and the goal of life.

Sadly, many go through this season, and every season, without ever catching the vision, or knowing what they miss. This brings to my mind our poem of the week:

"Jesus, the brother of Jesus"
"The brother of Jesus, plodded from day to day
With never a vision within him to glorify his clay;
Jesus, the brother of Jesus, was one with the heavy cloud,
But Christ was the soul of rapture, and soared, like a lark, with God.
Jesus, the brother of Jesus, was only a worker in wood,
And he never could see the glory that Jesus, his brother, could.

"Why stays he not in the workshop?" he often used to complain.
"Sawing the Lebanon cedar, forsaking my father's trade,
While hammers are busily sounding, and there is gain to be made?"
Thus ran the mind of Jesus, apt with planned and rule,
And deeming whoever surpassed him either a knave or a fool, —
For he never walked with the prophets in God's great garden of bliss —
And of all mistakes of the ages, the saddest, methinks, was this:
To have such a brother as Jesus, to speak with him day by day,
But never to catch the vision which glorified his clay."

— Harry Kemp

Another teacher had a similar surprise with the Parable of the Prodigal Son. She came to the climax of the story, with the returned Prodigal welcomed by his joyous father. Then she went on: "But in the midst of this joy and excitement there was one to whom the Prodigal's return brought no happiness; one to whom the feast meant not good times and laughter, but bitterness; one who hated the thought of attending the feast." She looked into the faces of the children who were eagerly listening to every word and asked, "Who was it?"

A sad little voice exclaimed, "The fattest calf."

Many will be celebrating communion at Watchnight services as the New Year comes. For some it means a time of new life, of resolutions (broken all too soon), a looking back, a looking forward, a new perspective on the daily scene. You may know the hymn by William Merrill "Not Alone for Mighty Empire" that has these lines:

"Standing in the living present,
Memory and hope between,
Lord, we would with deep thanksgiving
Praise thee most for things unseen."

Like the way in which Holy Communion embodies this truth, relating the present moment to the past and future. Consider the words of the Master:

"For as often as you eat this bread and drink this cup, you proclaim the Lord's death until He comes." (1 Cor. 11:26)

The present action of eating and drinking indicates the importance of today; at the same time it is connected to the past "the Lord's death"; and to the future "until He comes."

Jesus used the common elements of bread and wine in this Last Supper and through them gave to the Christian church its most sacred ceremony. Through this sacrament we know that the world is in the hands of God. God didn't just love Christians, or the Church, for "God so loved the world that He gave His only son." (John 3:16)

As we enter the New Year may we be aware that God is near, and so live that others will know that He is here within our world.

Few would associate Nietzsche, the German philosopher who was the father of Nazism, with Christianity. Do you know that he almost became a Christian? When he was wavering, his decision in the balance, he went to live with some "very devout" Christians to see what they were like. They failed to convince him, for, as he wrote:

"These Christians will have to look a lot more redeemed before I can believe in it." Suppose he had been converted. What a tower of strength his mind would have been as a defender of the faith!

Our maxim for the week: "Money is like love; it kills painfully and slowly the one who withholds it, and it enslaves the other who turns it upon his fellowman."

Device Designed to Help Diabetic Coma Patients

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Researchers have developed an automatic device that can help doctors pull a patient out of a diabetic coma in a fraction of the time it now takes.

The machine, called an artificial endocrine pancreas, will be produced commercially by Miles Laboratories' Life Sciences Department, Elkhart, Ind. First sales will be to research institutions to develop experience for eventual sales to hospitals.

In all of us, the pancreas gland secretes insulin to regulate blood sugar level. In diabetics it malfunctions and they can go into a dangerous coma if the amount of sugar in the blood is excessive, a condition called hyperglycemia.

By conventional methods it may take 10 hours or more of carefully injecting insulin to lower the blood sugar level and bring a patient out of a coma, according to Anton H. Clemens, head of the department, in a telephone interview.

"With this automatic device it takes one-and-a-half to two hours," Clemens said.

He emphasized that the Miles' team didn't work alone, but leaned heavily on others' research that detailed mathematically the responses of the normal pancreas.

The device includes a small computer, blood sugar analyzer and precise dosage injection system. Slated for production next spring, it already has been used on more than a dozen patients in diabetic coma, Clemens said.

He said it also can be used when blood sugar level is hard to control because a diabetic is undergoing labor or using a kidney dialysis machine. He said the device has kept a diabetic mother's blood sugar level normal through a cesarean birth.

Clemens said the machine's instant response is vital, because it is believed momentary blood sugar excesses often can build up eventually to secondary effects of diabetes such as blood vessel deterioration, blindness and kidney disease.

The normal pancreas is able to sense an increase in blood sugar immediately when it takes place, even in the normal range, and an initial insulin spike is released, preventing the sugar level from getting too high, Clemens said.

In some parts of England and Scotland, people build big bonfires to "burn out the old year."

The Greeks believe that it's good luck to find a silver coin baked in a special New Year's Day cake.

Super Sport: Sonny Jurjensen

Sonny Jurjensen is one of the greatest quarterbacks in the history of professional football. He has played 18 seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins. The big redhead has passed for more than 31,000 yards. At age 40, Old No. 9 still has a golden arm.

Jurjensen grew up in Wilmington, N.C., and starred at New Hanover High School. Later he became a standout quarterback at Duke University.

He has other business interests in addition to football. He has been active in radio and television announcing, but passing a football is his greatest talent.

New Year's Wassail

Serving a spicy punch from the Wassail Bowl is an old English custom. The English would drop a ring into the bowl, and the single person who dipped it out would get married during the New Year.

Mix:

- 2 tablespoons of whole
- 16 cups of apple cider
- 4 cups of orange juice
- 1/2 cup of lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons of whole cloves
- 1 cup of honey
- 1/2 teaspoon of nutmeg
- 1/2 cup of honey

Put the above mixture in a big pot. Cover it and simmer it for 10 minutes. Strain out the spices. Put a cinnamon stick in each cup and serve with best New Year's wishes. "Wass hael" means "To your health."

Book Review: A Nonsense Book

"The Man Who Took the Indoors Out" written and illustrated by Arnold Lobel, published by Harper and Row, New York, 1974.

"The Man Who Took the Indoors Out" is the story of Bellwood Bourse who wanted his lovely furniture to have a chance to enjoy the beautiful outdoors.

When he got his table, chairs, pictures and other things outside, they ran away.

This nonsense story told in verse is very funny. The author-artist, Arnold Lobel, has won many awards. His books have been chosen for both the Newbery and Caldecott Honor Book Awards.

A New Museum

The Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden

There is a new museum in Washington, D.C., the Hirshhorn Museum. It is shaped like a doughnut. It's round with a hole in the middle. The collection has over 4,000 modern art paintings and 2,000 pieces of sculpture.

The collection was given to the nation by Joseph H. Hirshhorn. Mr. Hirshhorn was the 12th of 13 children. His father died when he was a baby. The family moved here from Latvia. His mother worked in a purse factory.

When Mr. Hirshhorn was 12, he left school to help support his family. He got a job on Wall Street. He later made a fortune in the restaurant and art business. He has been interested in art since he was a boy.

Counterfeiting Charges Levied Against Six

CROMWELL (UPI) — Six Connecticut men have been arrested at the Lord Cromwell Motor Inn in Cromwell on counterfeiting charges. U.S. Secret Service agents said they confiscated about $50,000 worth of bogus bills in the Friday night raid.

The six were arrested at about 9:30 p.m. and offered no resistance, although an agent said the men were armed. They were to be arraigned today before a U.S. magistrate in Bridgeport.

Four of the six were identified as Ronald P. DiVincio, 36, Cromwell; Arthur P. Belasky, 35, Manchester; Charles Roberts, 28, Middletown; and William F. Dowling, 32, Middletown.

Agents said the counterfeit money consisted of $20 and $100 bills, described as "realistic copies."

Theater Managers Arrested After Sex Show Preview

After arresting the managers of a Vernon theater where a live sex act was performed Thursday night, police are seeking the couple who performed the act.

Angelo Palma, 45, of 3 Kelly Rd. and William Elliott, 29, of 13 Park West Dr. were arrested Friday evening at their office at the Rockville Cinema One and Two and charged with violating state obscenity laws.

They were ordered to appear in Circuit Court in Rockville Jan. 21 and released after posting $1,000 bond each.

They were also ordered to appear in Circuit Court 12 at Manchester Monday to show cause why the performance should be allowed to continue. It is scheduled to begin Jan. 2. A Vernon ordinance prohibiting shows like it is scheduled to become effective Jan. 1.

Arrest warrants were also issued for Terry and Al Segal charging indecency and obscenity under state laws. It was believed the names were fictitious, however, and no address for the couple was given.

"We expected it would happen sooner or later," Elliott said of the arrest.

The arrests came at 5 p.m. in connection with what Palma and Elliott said was an educational venture, previewed Thursday before a private audience composed mainly of newsmen and photographers.

The two were arrested by L. Edwin Carlson, who came to the preview with two aides and video tape equipment, but left, saying "We're not going to do anything to press the issue now."

The theater was involved in an action last spring that cleared the way for legal showing of the movie "Deep Throat" in Connecticut. After one mistrial and a second trial, a jury ruled that the movie was not obscene.

Hollow-Point Bullet Use Ban Urged

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Civil Liberties Union has recommended that the use of hollow point bullets, which violates international treaties, be banned in Connecticut.

The CCLU Friday said it is asking the legislature to draft a proposal which would ban the use of any weapon or ammunition which is prohibited under international law or the United Nations charter.

"The dum-dum bullet causes enormous ripping and tearing of human flesh and usually produces death," William Olds, executive director of the CCLU, said.

"Police should never shoot to kill a suspect," Olds said. "Shooting to kill is tantamount to summary execution and violates due process of law."

The police sideman is supposed to be a defensive weapon used to incapacitate — not kill — as recommended by the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals," he said.

State Police began issuing hollow point ammunition earlier this year, provoking a controversy over the ammunition which is banned under the Geneva Convention.

"It's absurd to permit the civilian use of weapons which are outlawed in wartime," he said.

The CCLU said Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., is reviewing the state Department of Transportation and was appointed first commissioner of the agency in 1969, Mrs. Grasso said.

As finance commissioner, Conkling led the reorganization of state government in 1959 which resulted in the creation of consolidated state agencies, such as mental health and correction, and established the state Bond Commission.

A graduate of New Haven College, Conkling is married and the father of three children. He will be paid $2,500 in his job, the minimum for such a position.

Phillips charged that Meskill was responsible for hiring political hacks to fill state jobs that were created outside of civil service in order to escape qualifying exams. He said he intends to remove those who have held state jobs simply because of political connections but persons who may be qualified will be tested and if approved brought under the merit system. Meskill's hiring of "out on out incompetents," Phillips said, has had a hideous effect on the system and career servants.

"Career administrators were forced out through early retirement and the abolition of their jobs and replaced by amateur expensive and more expensive state government."

After serving as an accountant for the federal government from 1932 to 1937, Conkling joined Connecticut state government as assistant chief accountant in the Public Works Department. A former state auditor, Conkling was promoted to deputy finance commissioner in 1951 and named commissioner in 1957. Conkling was instrumental in drafting legislation establishing the state Department of Transportation and was appointed first commissioner of the agency in 1969, Mrs. Grasso said.

WINTER SPORTS

Coasting hours at Center Springs Park today are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. The same hours will apply Sunday, weather permitting.

The Town Recreation Department issues a warning that the ice at Center Springs Pond is not safe; there is less than two inches of ice thickness.

Ice skaters should not gamble on Connecticut's climate in even the normally coldest winter months, the Connecticut Safety Commission reports.

Prolonged freezing temperatures are necessary to form ice solid enough for skating.

This column will carry notices and time schedules about coasting, skiing and skating as reported by the rec department.

For information about outdoor winter sports, call 643-4700.

O Negative Blood Needed

A special appeal is being made by Red Cross Blood Program officials for support of the Bloodmobile when it visits Manchester Monday.

The Blood Center has asked the Manchester Red Cross office to recruit as many donors with type O Negative blood as possible, since collections of this type has been down.

While total blood supplies at the Center are currently in sufficient quantities to meet hospital needs, there is a great need for this particular blood type. At the present time, of the scheduled donors for the Monday Bloodmobile, only eight are O Negative.

Persons of all blood types, but particularly with this type, are urged to donate on Monday, when the Bloodmobile will be stationed at the Knights of Columbus Home, 318 Main St., from 12:45 to 5:30 p.m.

Conkling Named To Finance Post

HARTFORD (UPI) — Governor Ella T. Grasso has named George J. Conkling of Hamden acting finance commissioner.

Conkling held the same job for 12 years under former Govs. Abraham Ribicoff and John N. Dempsey.

Conkling, 69, has been serving as Mrs. Grasso's budget advisor since her landslide victory in the November election.

The appointment, announced Friday, is the second former agency head from the Dempsey era to be named by Mrs. Grasso to her new administration. She named C. Perrie Phillips, former personnel commissioner, to his old job Thursday.

Mrs. Grasso, who was secretary of state for 12 years, served in both the Ribicoff and Dempsey administrations. She was considered a key policy advisor.

Meanwhile, Edward H. Simpson, state personnel commissioner under Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, criticized Phillips for his attack on Meskill personnel policies.

While there are 170 so-called special assistants who were hired outside the civil service system under Meskill, Simpson said, 273 were named while Phillips was in charge of personnel.

Simpson charged Phillips with being responsible for a philosophy of what he called "bigger and bigger and more expensive and more expensive state government."

After serving as an accountant for the federal government from 1932 to 1937, Conkling joined Connecticut state government as assistant chief accountant in the Public Works Department. A former state auditor, Conkling was promoted to deputy finance commissioner in 1951 and named commissioner in 1957. Conkling was instrumental in drafting legislation establishing the state Department of Transportation and was appointed first commissioner of the agency in 1969, Mrs. Grasso said.

As finance commissioner, Conkling led the reorganization of state government in 1959 which resulted in the creation of consolidated state agencies, such as mental health and correction, and established the state Bond Commission.

A graduate of New Haven College, Conkling is married and the father of three children. He will be paid $2,500 in his job, the minimum for such a position.

Phillips charged that Meskill was responsible for hiring political hacks to fill state jobs that were created outside of civil service in order to escape qualifying exams. He said he intends to remove those who have held state jobs simply because of political connections but persons who may be qualified will be tested and if approved brought under the merit system. Meskill's hiring of "out on out incompetents," Phillips said, has had a hideous effect on the system and career servants.

"Career administrators were forced out through early retirement and the abolition of their jobs and replaced by amateur expensive and more expensive state government."

POLICE REPORT

Manchester Monday to show cause why the performance should be allowed to continue. It is scheduled to begin Jan. 2. A Vernon ordinance prohibiting shows like it is scheduled to become effective Jan. 1.

Arrest warrants were also issued for Terry and Al Segal charging indecency and obscenity under state laws. It was believed the names were fictitious, however, and no address for the couple was given.

"We expected it would happen sooner or later," Elliott said of the arrest.

The arrests came at 5 p.m. in connection with what Palma and Elliott said was an educational venture, previewed Thursday before a private audience composed mainly of newsmen and photographers.

The two were arrested by L. Edwin Carlson, who came to the preview with two aides and video tape equipment, but left, saying "We're not going to do anything to press the issue now."

The theater was involved in an action last spring that cleared the way for legal showing of the movie "Deep Throat" in Connecticut. After one mistrial and a second trial, a jury ruled that the movie was not obscene.
