Ford Ponders Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has decided on a tax cut to stimulate the economy but still is mulling over the size, administration sources said today. He plans to recommend a 1 to 3 percent barrel tax on imported crude oil to reduce consumption as part of the intertwined economy-energy program he will submit to Congress in the Jan. 30 State of the Union address.

Estimates of a tax cut range from 5 to 10 percent. Much depends on how much Ford figures will be needed to stimulate the economy.

Sources said the President's program to deal with the recession will not be a "block buster" but it will be "hard-nosed" and tough. They did say "It will be significant and impressive in displaying the President's leadership."

More Meetings Set
 Ford has made some tentative decisions but still wants further study, he said.

Some Advisory Committee Members Upset by Block Grant List Revisions

By DOUG BEVINS

Manchester's Community Development Advisory Committee (CDAC) learned Monday night that its recommendation for spending federal block grants may be meaningless.

Although several committee members were frustrated by Tom Manager Robert Weiss' revision of their priority list, the CDAC accepted the changes and prepared for a public hearing next Monday.

Remains of the original list Dec. 16, the CDAC's revision of their priority list, the CDAC Chairman Peter Crombie included recommendations for renovation of the West Side Rec and purchase of the Old Fellows Building to improve traffic conditions at the Center.

The additions made since the CDAC met Dec. 16 included reorganization of recreation open space priorities and inclusion of specific proposals for spending money on downtown revitalization.

The downtown revitalization items, estimated to cost $343,000 over five years, include a revolving loan fund to help commercial property owners, new street lighting, and drainage, sidewalk, and sewer improvements.

The next day, in developing his first priority list Dec. 18, included downtown revitalization items as low priorities and didn't specify how the money might be spent.

Several members of the CDAC, reviewing the priority list Monday night, questioned how and why the downtown items got on their priority list. They claimed the town manager had no right to change the list before it is submitted to the Board of Directors.

"That is that you have a citizen input doesn't mean you have to follow it," Crombie told his committee.

Provisions of the Federal Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 require a municipality to seek citizen input, but the legislation states that the citizen input requirement can't restrict administrators' decisions on how to spend the block grants.

The CDAC will conduct a public hearing on the priority list and housing assistance plan next Monday, at 7:30 p.m. at Nathan Hale School. After the hearing, the CDAC will again review its list and submit it to the Board of Directors, which will conduct another hearing before the town manager formal application for the block grants.

Many Manchester Democrats To Attend Inauguration

By SOL R. COHEN

Manchester Democrats will be well-represented Wednesday in Hartford, with many of them planning to witness the 11 a.m. seating of the new General Assembly and the 2 p.m. inauguration of Gov-elect Ella Grasso, and with a contingent of about 40 to attend the Governor's Inaugural Ball in the evening.

To be sworn in will be Democrat David Barry, who will replace Republican David Olegard as state senator from the Fourth District.

Democrat Francis Mahoney will be sworn in to his fourth consecutive term and Democrat Ted Cummings to his first. Cummings will succeed Republican Donald Genova as state representative from the 12th Assembly District. Mahoney represents the 13th Assembly District.

New Senator
 George Hannon of East Hartford will receive the oath as Third District state senator, Muriel Yacavone, also of East Hartford, as 9th Assembly District state representative, and Abraham Glasman of South Windsor as 14th Assembly District state representative. All are Democrats. Each represents a part of Manchester.

Mrs. Yacavone will be serving her third term. Hannon will replace Harry Burke, also an East Hartford Democrat. Glasman will succeed Republican G. Warren Westbrook, also of South Windsor.

Republicans and the Senate will have 29 Democrats to 7 Republicans.

The legislature being replaced has 93 Republicans to 58 Democrats in the House and 23 Republicans to 13 Democrats in the Senate.

About half of the membership in each chamber will be new, although some will be former lawmakers.

The Governor's Inaugural Ball in the evening will be a formal event, sponsored by the Governor's Top Guard and held in the Hartford Armory, which is only a few yards from the State Capitol.

To Attend Ball
 Attending from Manchester as of this writing will be State Rep. and Mrs. Francis Mahoney, State Rep. and Mrs. Ted Cummings, Mayor and Mrs. John Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Jackson, Town Treasurer and Mrs. Roger Negro, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Goldberg, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Schard.

Also, Dr. and Mrs. Sedrick Rawlins, Mrs. Frances Merola, Mrs. Katherine Moran, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bogli, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vincek, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Phillips, Mrs. Mary LeDuc.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. John DiDonato, Mrs. Irene Pasch, Mr. and Mrs. Richard LaPoine, Mr. and Mrs. James Holmes, Mr. James Quigley, Mr. and Mrs. John Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pemberton and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyska.

Boy Tells How Youth Services Helps

By MAI BARLOW
 (Editor's note: This is the second of a four-part series dealing with the Youth Services Center. It concerns a troubled youth in trouble with the law. Wednesday's chapter will concern an interview with a third-grade girl who skipped school 30 days in a row.)

Bob (not his real name) is 17 and has "rippled off" countless people, homes and stores since the age of nine.

The first item was a squirt gun. The last (prior to his interview with The Herald) was a wallet.

During the interview, he seemed aware of where he "was at" and what got him there. He knew where he wanted to go but was not sure of how to get there.

Bob is the oldest of a family of five. He said he doesn't remember his father very well.

"My mother and I don't get along too bad. We have different points of view. But that's the way with any mother."

About authority, he said, "I've been caught three times in my life."

"The first was by a store. They never told my mother or anybody."

"A year ago I got caught ripping off a radio. They sent me to see Digan (Robert J. Logan, director of the Youth Services Center). He brought the radio back to the people and they didn't do anything."

"I had a talk with him and that was it."

This year, police arrested Bob and charged him with intoxication. He again saw Digan for more talk.

Confesses to Police
 Within a few months, Bob was caught in a break and entry. He decided he'd like to do some of the things he was doing and confessed to the police many of the recent wrongs. Most were breaks, some vandalism and a few thefts.

By this time, he was seeing Digan regularly and was having talks with Miss Pat Graves, youth officer at the police station.

"I still see Digan," Bob said. "I give him a report. We don't talk more than 30 minutes each week. I tell him what I've done."

It's Helped
 "I think it's helped me."

"He's the kind of guy that if you want to help yourself, he'll help you."

"And he'll do his best for you, too."

About police, Bob said, "They treated me the way they're supposed to. Not good, not bad."

"I saw Pat Graves after the last arrest. She's another person that if you put in your time, she'll help you, too."

Austerity Faces New State Regime

By ROBERT LAMBERT
 HARTFORD (UPI) — Mrs. Ella T. Grasso, sent to office by an overwhelming margin, officially becomes the first woman governor ever named on her own merits Wednesday when she takes the oath of office.

In keeping with the austerity facing her Democratic administration, Mrs. Grasso plans to ride a morning train from her home in suburban Windsor Locks to Hartford for the ceremonies.

Ball at Armory
 She will attend the inaugural ball that evening at the State Armory, a bleak granite building near the Capitol, rather than in more posh quarters in the effort to cut expenses.

Mrs. Grasso, married and the mother of two, has received worldwide attention because of her electoral accomplishment in becoming the first woman governor who did not succeed her husband to office. She has been mentioned as a possible vice-presidential candidate for the 1976 Democratic ticket.

She is the state's first woman governor and its first governor of Italian descent.

When she steps into office it also will mark the first time that two women have held top state elective posts. Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer was elected to a second term.

While Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, a Republican, has promised her that the state's books will be balanced, Mrs. Grasso faces mammoth fiscal problems, including a projected revenue gap of more than $200 million, in her first budget.

Although committed against imposing an income tax, Mrs. Grasso, 55, may be forced to raise other taxes to meet already trimmed agency requests of $1.5 billion, up from the current $1.3 billion.

Leaders in both parties believe Mrs. Grasso will hold to her campaign pledge, but expect some tax increases. Among the possibilities are a hike of up to one percentage point in the six per cent sales tax, and increases in the corporation and gasoline taxes.

Rep. James Kennedy, D-Hartford, who becomes House speaker in the new legislature which went Democratic by more than a 4-1 margin, says the Grasso administration will be characterized by "humanity, realism, austerity and open government."

Economic Realities
 But, Sen. Lewis B. Rome, R-Bloomfield, who will lead the tiny seven-member Republican minority in the upper chamber, believes Mrs. Grasso will be forced into an "extraordinarily conservative" position. Because of economic realities she will have to keep state spending at a minimum and avoid new government programs, Rome says.

Mrs. Grasso represents what Kennedy calls a "golden opportunity" for innovations in state government because of her gender and the large Democratic majority in the legislature.

Meskill who ended 16 years of Democratic rule when he took office in 1971, faces an uncertain employment future.

Directors to Discuss Salary-Related Items

A proposed cost-of-living raise for the actually pulling a car apart and would be used for removing accident victims. It would eliminate the need for saws and abrasives — thus eliminating the danger of sparks. The proposed purchase would be financed from 1973-74 unappropriated Fire Fund surplus.

Other proposed appropriations to be acted tonight would be financed by equivalent grants. A $10,000 proposed appropriation for Police Department special services would be financed from equivalent payments from those using the services. A $70 town allocation for engineering services for a traffic study program would be financed from the General Fund's Contingency Account.

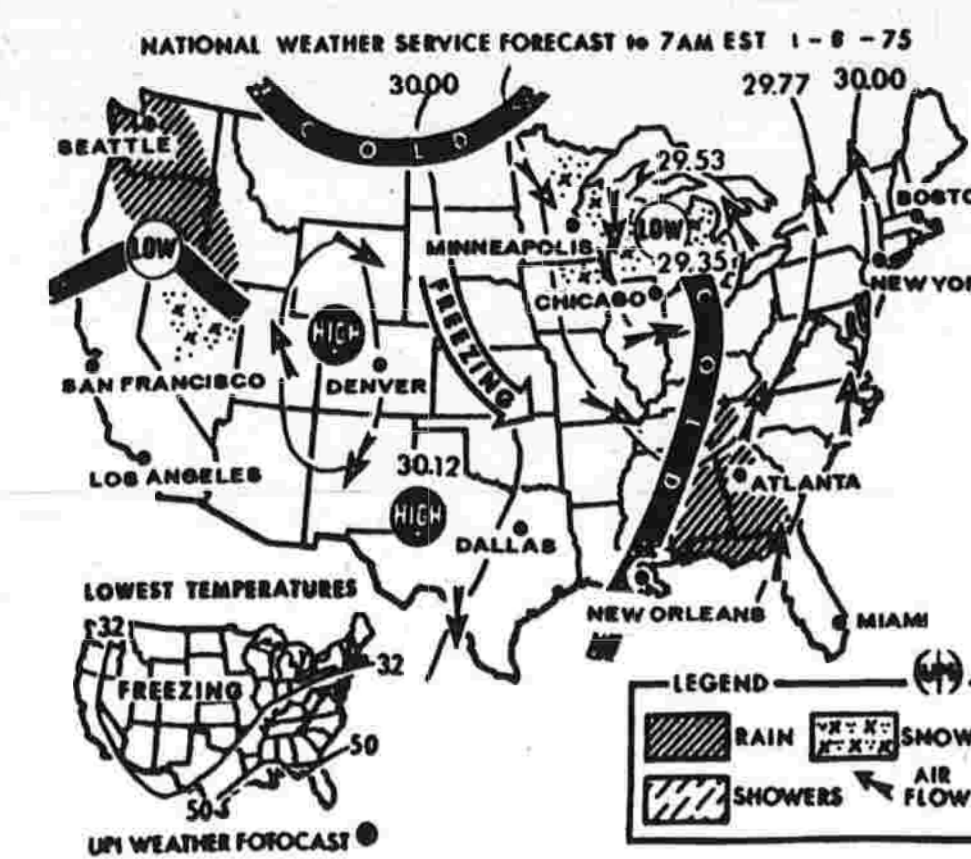

Among agenda items to be discussed are proposals for increasing sewer-water and proposed increased charges for water and sewer connections.

Among other items is a proposed $9,000 allocation for constructing ramps for the handicapped at the Municipal Building, a report on the estimated cost of safety improvements at the Secondary Sewage Treatment Plant, a report on proposed sites for housing for the elderly units, and the proposed transfer of $1,883 from the defunct Pension Trust Fund to the replacement Retirement Allowance Fund.

OPINION

Education Head Tackles
Textbook Issue

Subjects dealt with in children's books, more than in any other class of literature, reflect the attitudes of the generation that produces the books. School books, in other words are a distillation of the values and attitudes that one generation wants to pass on to the next.

The U.S. Commissioner of Education, Terrel H. Bell, in a recent speech to book publishers, proceeded from that proposition to suggest a middle ground between the freedom of scholars to produce new instructional materials and the rights of parents to help decide which ones are suitable for their children.

Bell's comments came amid continuing controversy in West Virginia's Kanawha County School System, where the textbook issue has led to the closing of mines, rallies, and violence over what some parents call "anti-American and anti-Christian, Communist and filthy" books used by the district.

Bell, a native of Southern Idaho who was head of public schools for Utah before becoming the nation's top educator early in 1974, suggested three books as models for today's publishers: The Wizard of Oz, McGuffey's readers (which sold 120 million copies several generations ago) and the Bible. Some critics quickly attacked his proposals as "simplistic" without bothering to put them in the context of Bell's concern for the over-all strength of U.S. education.

"In writing textbooks and other materials for school use, scholars do have the right, indeed the obligation, to present new knowledge and to comment on social changes in ways that will stimulate and motivate students, excite their curiosity, and make them want to learn. Teachers have both the right and obligation to use these materials in ways that will enhance the learning program," said Bell.

"But I feel strongly that the scholar's freedom of choice and the teacher's freedom of choice must have the approval and support of most parents."

The commissioner continued: "I do not suggest that we seek to win approval of all parents, for that would not be attainable — but schools without parental support and approval are headed for failure. Without having books and materials that are so namby-pamby they avoid all controversy, we must seek published materials that do not insult the values of most parents."

"What is really taught in a story about a boy who drowns a favorite family cat to make his parents love him more?" asked Bell rhetorically.

"What is really conveyed to children when they are asked to debate the pros and cons of stealing, the implication being that sometimes it is all right to steal? To be relevant do high schools really need to offer a story about a $100 whore?"

The commissioner added that, "For impressionable young minds, it is easy to document and decry the world's evils. It is more difficult to end on an upbeat note that gives youngsters something to hang on to. Young people need faith and hope and confidence in the future. They need a yellow brick road. And I don't see much wrong with a rainbow either."

Amen, commissioner.

Reservations About Drug Abuse Section

To the editor:
Thursday, Dec. 19, 1974, The Manchester Herald published a special edition titled Drug Abuse—America's No. 1 Enemy. My initial reaction upon seeing this section was to congratulate The Herald for showing concern in an area that many of our citizens have lately chosen to ignore. However, a closer reading began to raise many more questions than were answered. Without attempting to criticize your concern, I feel I must express the following reservations.

At no point in your article is any mention made of Manchester. There is not one article that discusses drug abuse in Manchester. There is no reference to local efforts to combat drug abuse or local efforts to help those individuals suffering the effects of drug abuse.

At several points your article seems to rely on antiquated "scare tactics" to get across a message. Drawings depicting a skeletal figure leading mindless young people to doom indicate a lack of awareness of effective drug education methods as well as a low opinion of the ability of Manchester's youth to exercise independent thinking.

Your article cites various federal laws that govern the use of narcotic drugs. Your article fails to explore state and local ordinances and the more direct impact these laws have on Manchester citizens. One paragraph carries the headline "Education Can Be Vital Role" but then fails to address the recent efforts by Manchester schools to develop a creative approach in this area. The rise in alcohol related problems among persons of all ages is ignored. The need to discuss drug abuse among the adult community is not met. In short, your insert has all the earmarks of a canned publication put together years ago at some distant point and published with little awareness of the local situation.

What are the current trends in drug abuse in Manchester? What is TIC? Is it true that drug abuse is now affecting 11 and 12 year olds in our town? Where can a parent in town turn for help? Is there help available for the person missing drugs? These are the questions that need to be discussed. There are people and programs in Manchester working in this area and perhaps these issues can be examined in a future supplement.

In closing let me say again that I have no argument with the interest shown by your newspaper. My concern is with the lack of local emphasis and the failure to recognize and work with local resources. We at Crossroads stand ready to cooperate with The Herald or any other group that demonstrates a desire to become part of a coordinated local effort in the area. Thank you.

WASHINGTON — I missed the news story about Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz' push for a $150,000 dining room, but a British friend mailed me a clipping along with a note snickering at "America's royal ruling class."

Worse, but predictably, the envelope got involved in the Christmas rush and took six days to make its journey across town. The new Butz eatery probably is not important when ranged alongside the billions spent by the whole federal government but it does offer an example of the insensitivity flaunted by some of our ruling lords. It is an insensitivity that has prevailed for more than a decade while the people's financial problems grew apace.

The attitude seems to be that a high government official can get away with anything, and never mind what the people think. Experience has shown that after the first burst of public indignation over such arrogant outrages the taxpayers are distracted by other morsels of bad news.

I don't know whether Earl Butz needs a $150,000 dining room. I think not. But if indeed he cannot operate efficiently or in adequate grandeur without one, the timing of this project was atrocious. Insensitively seems a mild word to employ for a Cabinet member who would spend $150,000 in that fashion when we working stiffs are struggling to earn enough eating dough without going into hock.

George Knapp, acting director of the department's operations office, says the new dining room would bring Secretary Butz' eating facilities for guests "equal to our counterparts in London." By that, he means Butz has as much right as the Secretary of State or Defense to live like royalty.

Well, it is true that all Cabinet officers and many lesser hired hands in government work and live pretty high on the hog. We dumb taxpayers seem to like it, and we and we seldom if ever utter more

TOM TIEDE
Food For The Elderly, For Now At Least

WEST UNION, W. Va. — Each afternoon of the work week, as many as 50 elderly residents of rural Doodridge County gather at a hall near a railroad track to eat, compliments of the U.S. government, what for many is their only hot meal of the day. The lunch, called by the bureaucrats a "nutritional program," is a fine thing. It provides food for the needy, companionship for the lonely and vitamins for the neglectful. Besides, the food is usually quite tasty.

Yet if the program is decent it may also be risky. There is always a danger in government benevolence; people who tie themselves to federal goodwill very often learn the hard way that what the government giveth the government can taketh away. Even now, as they enjoy a relatively new federal aid program, the oldsters of Doodridge County are threatened with erosions in two other, older, government assistances: President Ford has proposed changes in food stamps and Medicare programs that would severely injure the locals as well as millions of other Americans over age 60 who subsist on fixed incomes.

The latter is not a lovely thing for these people to contemplate as they nibble their lunch. Ford's proposal would raise the cost of the food stamps and Medicare. Medicare patients as much as 800 per cent, and similar increases would be charged for the food stamp recipients. "It's shameful," says 83-year-old Flossy McKinnick, as he pokes a cooked carrot. For some, adds another at the table, who says he avoids doctors now because of the cost, "it's like a sentence of death."

But there is worry. Much of it. And not only for food stamps and Medicare but many other programs that keep the old of Doodridge County alive. As they finish their lunch, for instance, there is wonder whether even the noon nutritional program can continue in light of inflation. Ruth Nutter says she could stretch the budget by soliciting free food from the eaters — "lots of them grow their own gardens" — but there's not much hope for this kind of good sense; predictably, federal program regulations forbid it.

"Someday," sighs an older getting up from the table, "I'm going to go to Washington with ten cans of beans — and spit on every floor in the city."

BETTY'S NOTEBOOK

By BETTY RYDER

Morris, the finicky star of 9-Lives commercials, is mowing for all he's worth (which incidentally is considerable) in his efforts to interest people in "Adopt-a-Cat" Month.

Horatio Pussycat himself, he was on his own, without family or friends, when he reportedly staggered into an animal shelter where he was finally "discovered" as they say in Hollywood.

Animal talent scout Bob Martwick, searching for a cat of star potential, sighted Morris who promptly demonstrated his inborn finickiness, and he won the role paws-down.

The part was the finicky hero of 9-Lives commercial and Morris was immediately signed to a one-life-time contract. Now, in an effort to repay animal shelters all over the country, Morris is striving to interest animal lovers to adopt a cat through the American Humane Association.

So, if you're looking for a pet which takes little care and gives a lot of love, a cat may be the purr-fect answer.

Memorable Quote

Weekend news reported an accident in which a carriage containing an infant was struck by a car. The carriage was completely underneath the vehicle as rescuers attempted to save the child. With superhuman strength, they lifted the car and scooped the little pink cloth baby to safety.

When questioned about their feat, one rescuer said, "When there is a baby involved, three men can lift a car easily."

Croupiers Training Ground

Monaco broke a 100-year old precedent this week when it sent 10 students of the Societe des Baines de Mer (SBM) to Las Vegas to begin a first-of-its-kind training course in American gaming and casino methods.

The visiting students, who will work in the casino of the Lowes Monte Carlo Hotel opening in Monaco in the summer of 1975, are the first Monagasque croupiers to receive casino training outside the Principality of Monaco.

The innovative training program breaks a 100-year old precedent. Europeans have traditionally "stayed at home" learning casino methods and operations.

Slot machines and roulette will also be offered at the casino. In all, some 65 croupiers will be trained prior to the hotel's opening.

Americans may well take note if and when they try to drag the bank at Monte Carlo. After all, with similarly trained wheelers and dealers, they can stay right at home and lose their shirts.

The Candy Man

Had a nice letter from Elmo Lanzi of Chicago, Ill. Lanzi, now 80, started a candy company there in 1912, and still goes to the factory every day to supervise the making of his famous candy.

One of his fans is Guy Lombardo, noted orchestra leader, and the two have been friends for many years.

In a telephone interview to be conducted with Lanzi within the next few weeks, he will reveal some of the secrets of his success, along with some of the trials and tribulations which he has overcome in his 60 years.

We'll pass the story on to you, and hopefully you'll find some inspiration in it.

New Year's In The Country

Spent a memorable New Year's Eve in the country visiting with old friends and meeting new ones.

A splendid buffet prepared by a former Army sergeant, a veteran of 26 years in the service, included pork, sauerkraut, and kielbasa cooked with secret ingredients only the chef knows for sure. A chafing dish brimming with sherryed clams accompanied by snappy crackers was especially delicious.

When the bouncing ball on the television screen announced the new year was at hand, the traditional toasts were made and hugs and kisses exchanged.

But, they do things differently in the country.

At the stroke of midnight, the gentlemen loaded their rifles, stood on the back steps of the porch and each fired three shots into the wooded countryside in their own special salute to the New Year.

Now, of course, this can't be done in everybody's backyard — but on a snowy New Year's Eve, it's the way it's done in the country.

Sadness

"There comes an hour of sadness with the setting of the sun.

Coventry Council Asks DevCo to Drop Application

Monica Shea
Correspondent

The Town Council Monday voted unanimously to ask the Greater Hartford Community Development Co. (DevCo) to withdraw its applications before the town Planning and Zoning Commission.

The action was taken in light of public announcements by DevCo that it has dropped plans to develop a new community in northeast Coventry.

A withdrawal of the application to establish planned community regulations would cancel a scheduled PZC hearing Jan. 29 on the issue. This would reduce costs to taxpayers and avoid extensive effort by persons now committed to review the application, the Council said.

DevCo submitted two applications in September to the PZC. The first concerned a proposed zoning regulation to allow the establishment of a planned community. The second was a zone change request, and a general plan of development along with its detailed first phase.

The PZC chose to consider only the proposed regulation. By state law only the applicant can cancel a hearing on the issue. The PZC has requested state and regional agencies, as well as town boards and commissions to review the proposal and has held off hiring consultants pending an announcement by DevCo on whether it plans to proceed with the proposed regulation. This announcement is expected sometime this week.

Other Action

In other action Monday the Town Council passed ordinances to establish a Parks and Recreation Commission and a Civil Preparedness Agency. Another proposed ordinance to designate command of local governmental functions during a disaster was referred to the town manager for discussion with the school superintendent.

School Board members and Supt. Arnold Elman were at the hearing to express their concern over the stipulation in the proposed regulation that the board of education and school officials are responsible for the students. Mrs. Joan Lewis, school board chairman said. This responsibility cannot be delegated to anyone else, she said.

Funds Transferred

The Council voted to transfer $3,200 from contingency to legal fees to cover attorneys fees over the DevCo issue. $1,066 from unincumbered cash surplus to the school board for emergency drainage work at Robertson School, $4,525 from uncumbered cash surplus to complete payments on the project and provide this amount to be returned by the state in reimbursement funds, and $4,000 from the special dog account funds to the dog warden account to cover expenses for the remaining fiscal year.

Executive Session

The Council met in brief executive session with Paul Jenkins, who complained of the method Town Manager Allen Sandberg used in dropping him from maintaining the town hall. Jenkins has cleaned Coventry Town Hall buildings for the past 20 years, he said.

Jenkins was protesting his being dropped, but the manner in which it was done, he said.

Estimates Sought

The Council authorized the Public Works Study Committee to seek estimates on the renovation of a stone building at the rear of the town garage as a possible site for added highway department space.

The committee will seek three estimates from contractors at $50 each to determine the cost of replacing the roof, install a concrete floor.

heating, electricity, plumbing and overhead doors. Renovation would be considerably less than the town constructing a new building to store highway equipment, co-chairman William Kenyon said.

The committee is due to return with its report by March 1 in time for council budget preparation. The group also recommended Monday that the town consider acquiring a sand storage area in the north part of town to facilitate winter road sanding activities. Richard Galinat has offered to provide a temporary location off Grant Hill Rd. The council requested the town manager to investigate this possibility.

Patricia Hughes was appointed to the Board of Health to fill a vacancy created by Dorothy Thissell. Donald Davis informed the council that he is unable to continue to serve on the Pension Committee beyond his current term due to an illness in the family.

The insurance refund, a public hearing item, is expected to be appropriated to the Board of Education. The board has already decided where most of the money will be spent, with $7,000 to be returned to participating Blue Cross teachers. The selectmen will appoint a seventh member to the water study committee and will act on a resolution concerning flood insurance.

Other public hearing items are: additional appropriation to the General Fund budget, CETA Employment, $21,360, to be financed by CETA grant; additional appropriation to the Board of Education Special Education Grant fund, Consumer Education - Home Economics, $485, to be financed by a state grant; additional appropriation to the Board of Education Special Education Grant fund, Cooperative Work Experience, $4,280, to be financed by a state grant; resolution authorizing the town manager to acquire 2.35 acres of land off Gehring Rd. for $8,900 as site for the fire station as approved by town referendum.

Agency To Meet

The Windham Regional Planning Agency will meet tonight to discuss the report of the reference committee on the planned community regulation that had been proposed by Greater Hartford Community Development Co. before DevCo had announced that due to economic conditions the new community would not be built.

The Republican Town Committee will meet tonight at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Selectmen To Discuss Open Space Planning

The Board of Selectmen, meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Administration Building, will discuss the space study report released last month, and will act on the controversial $30,916 Blue Cross refund.

The insurance refund, a public hearing item, is expected to be appropriated to the Board of Education. The board has already decided where most of the money will be spent, with $7,000 to be returned to participating Blue Cross teachers. The selectmen will appoint a seventh member to the water study committee and will act on a resolution concerning flood insurance.

Help for Retirees

BLOOMFIELD (UPI) — Retired salaried employees of two Connecticut insurance companies or their surviving spouses will receive a cost-of-living supplement to their regular monthly incomes.

Starting this month about 1,200 persons associated with Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. and its property and casualty affiliates, Aetna Insurance Co., will begin receiving the extra monies.

Those who retired prior to Jan. 1, 1973, will receive 6 percent, and those who retired in the calendar year 1973, 4 percent.

The supplemental increase is the fourth the companies have made for salaried retirees since November, 1967.

"These increases have been made in recognition that retired persons find it especially hard to keep up with the rising costs for food, utilities, and other necessary items during times of continuing inflation," the companies said.

Building Up But Down

Building contracts for the metropolitan Hartford area were up 11 percent in November, but figures for the first eleven months of the year were down 8 percent, according to the F.W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co.

Of Consumer Concern

Look for Bargains in 1975

By State Department of Consumer Protection

One way to cut expenses in the daily cost of living is to search out bargains. Be sure, however, that what you buy is something you really need—otherwise it's no bargain. It's a bargain only if you can really use it, so don't be carried away by a low price tag on something that ends up in the closet.

Department stores have already started their January "White Sales"—some of them scheduled them before Christmas, believe it or not, but there are bargains still to be found the early days of these typical winter sales. Here's what the calendar usually looks like for the rest of the year:

FEBRUARY—Housewares, furniture, rugs, women's coats, mattresses, and curtains.

MARCH—China and glassware, garden supplies, and luggage.

APRIL—Fabrics, foundations and lingerie, hosiery, ladies' shoes, sleepwear, men's and boy's clothing.

MAY—Home furnishings, luggage, outdoor furniture, white goods, handbags, and television sets.

JUNE—Bedding, floor coverings, furniture, men's and boy's wear.

JULY—Fabrics, furs, washing machines, refrigerators, swim suits, and garden supplies.

AUGUST—Bedding, camping equipment, paint and hardware.

SEPTEMBER—China and glassware, sporting goods, fabrics, and back-to-school specials.

OCTOBER—Major appliances, evening wear, home furnishings, overwear, and skiing supplies.

NOVEMBER—Gourmet food, silverware, Christmas toys, and white goods.

DECEMBER—Resort and cruise wear, toys and gift items, women's and girl's coats, and men's and boy's winter suits and coats.

Remember, with careful shopping you can frequently find these same products on sale at other times.

Serious Time for Sunday's Super Bowl Foes, Pittsburgh Defense Challenge to Minnesota

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The pictures have been taken, the on-the-field interviews granted and now it's time for both the Pittsburgh Steelers and Minnesota Vikings to get down to some serious training for Sunday's Super Bowl.

Both clubs went through informal workouts Monday but a noted absence from the Steelers' brief practice was defensive end Dwight White, who was hospitalized Sunday night with stomach cramps and muscle spasms in his back.

The 6-foot-4, 255-pound White, who along with Joe Greene, L. C. Greenwood and Ernie Holmes comprise the Steelers' ferocious front against ours. Pittsburgh is a lot like us on defense—a big and strong. Nobody's gonna run up and down the field Sunday. The team with consistency will come out the winner.

Tarkenton, who led the American Football Conference in passing yards with 2,588 yards and three 100-yard passes, will try to keep the Steelers' front four off balance by mixing in his famed scrambling along with his passing.

"I've gotten to him [Tarkenton] three or four times during my six years in the league," Greenwood said. "But he's always coming passing with me hanging on. Tarkenton very definitely poses a problem. We'll probably have to chase him all over the field."

"He very definitely forces us to change our normal alignment and the way we break off the line of scrimmage," Holmes added. "Tarkenton is durable and able to throw on the run. I think I've gotten to him once in three years."

Eden Expresses Hope For Bipartisan Spirit

By BARBARA RICHMOND

A hope for a positive approach to the problems and projects of Vernon was expressed by Councilman Donald Eden at the Town Council's first meeting of the new year Monday night.

Eden spoke at the addition of two new council members, Mrs. Gretchen Mason who was sworn in at the last council meeting of the old year and Thomas Dooley, sworn in at the first meeting of the new year.

He said this should "mark the beginning of a new spirit on this council."

He added, "Partisanship in its extreme becomes not the dignity of our career, nor the character of our membership. Regressive action does little to stimulate progressive results. It is unable to find last solutions to awaken 'and evidence a different spirit, a spirit that will inspire the people with confidence in their own government and in their representatives, and a spirit that will result in each one of us a renewed dedication to perform our duties with honesty and a oneness of purpose, that purpose being the welfare of our town."

Dooley, an attorney, is employed by Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. He is just completing his second term as state representative from Vernon's 56th District. He did not choose to seek reelection.

When the town governments were consolidated, Dooley served for a period as town attorney under the first mayor, Thomas M. Cascker, a Democrat.

Mrs. Mason who was sworn in last month is the first woman to serve on the council. She is a Republican and is filling the unexpired term of Donald Sadowski. Dooley is filling the unexpired term of Thomas Wolf.

Other appointments approved by the council Monday night were those of Morgan Campbell, Republican councilman, to the council's sewer subcommittee to fill the vacancy on that committee created when Sadowski resigned; Philip A. Brousseau to the Economic Development Commission to fill the unexpired term of Joseph Konicki; and Terry Beagle to the Planning Commission as an alternate to fill the unexpired term of Maynard L. Galt.

Dooley, a Democrat, was endorsed by the Democratic Town Committee and his appointment was unanimously approved by the council. Following his appointment he was sworn in by Town Clerk Henry Butler.

Mayor Frank McCoy told Dooley, "I know you will contribute in a constructive manner to all our proceedings." He also made note that Dooley's past experience will be of benefit to the council.

Vernon Names Planner

Narragansett, R. I. has been selected to be Vernon's town planner. He will become the third planner the town has since the governments were consolidated.

Before approving his appointment Monday night the Town Council approved a salary of $14,000 a year and voted to allow him up to $1,000 for moving expenses from Rhode Island.

Peeler, who is 28, graduated from King's College, Wilkes Barre, Pa. in 1968 with a B.A. in political science. His major course work was in state and local government and urban affairs.

He completed the necessary course work for Master of Community Planning, at the University of Rhode Island's graduate school of Community Planning and Area Development.

His major areas of study there were economics, land use planning, planning law, transportation, urban design, zoning, community facilities and urban management.

He is presently employed as principal planner for the Department of Planning and Urban Development for the city of Providence, R. I. His responsibilities included reviewing proposed zoning changes, preparation of an industrial development plan, transportation studies and the preparation of several clearance and rehabilitation projects.
