ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION

By JUAN SANCHEZ

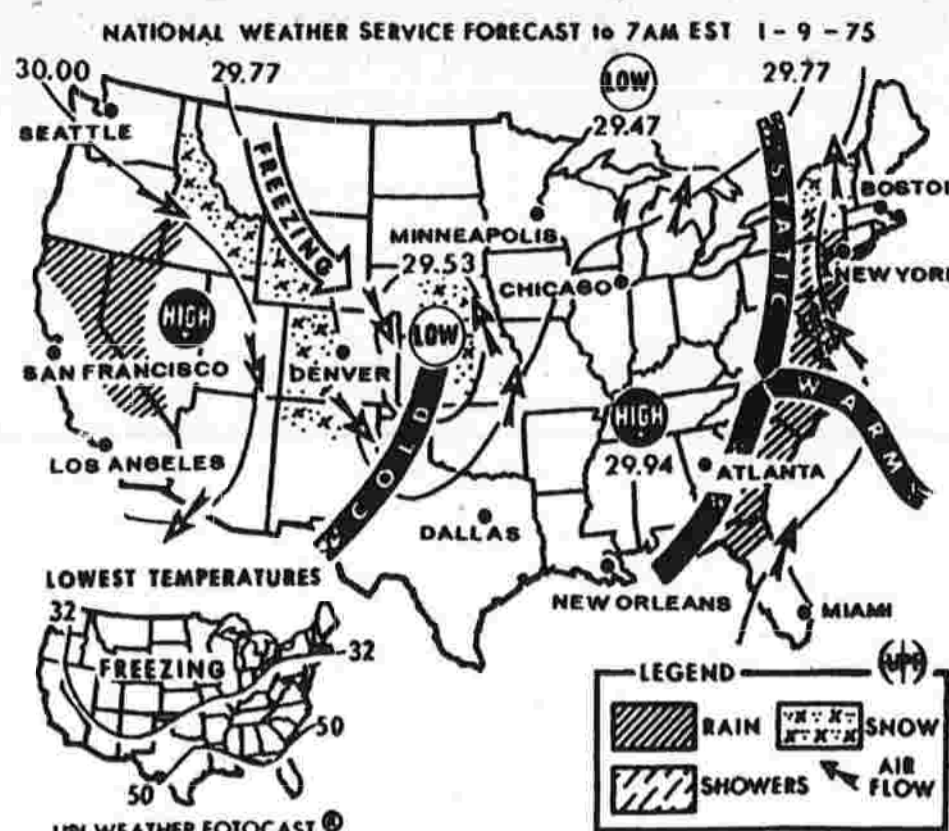

This unidentified Manchester High School student is collecting pond life samples at the Center for Environmental Education. Pond life and animal activity in the winter are just a few of the ecological concepts that students study at the center.

The Center for Environmental Education (CEE) was first organized in 1968-69 as a Title III project. At that time it was known as Project Outdoors and was funded with federal support which amounted to over $150,000 over a three-year period of time. It was co-sponsored by the Manchester Board of Education and the Lutz Junior Museum.

The project was originally set up to educate teachers on how to utilize the natural environment with their classes, and how to relate their outdoor activities to classroom work. When government support ended in 1971, the Manchester Board of Education assumed full support of the program. At that time the name was changed to the Center for Environmental Education.

It still operates out of the Natural Science Center which is owned by the Lutz Junior Museum; however, during the school year the program is staffed by and operated as a program of the Manchester Board of Education. The 53 acres of town land that surround the building provide an exciting outdoor laboratory. The CEE still runs teacher workshops both at the center and on school grounds. It has also served as a resource center for teachers and classes that are camping out, e.g. Colebrook and Times Farm. The center works with all public schools in Manchester Grades K-12 and with out-of-town schools like East Hartford, Bolton, Vernon, that purchase time in the program. It also works with some college groups and has published and released a five volume set of books, "Teachers Guide to Environmental Education," which has been sent out to over 25 different states and to all public schools in Connecticut. Manchester is the only town in Connecticut that has a school-supported program of this magnitude.

If environmental education becomes a state law as has been proposed to the legislature on several occasions, Manchester will be far ahead of other municipalities. Last year the center worked with more than 4,000 Manchester students and at the present rate this school year may exceed the 5,000 mark.

STAMPS AND COINS

By RUSS MACKENRICK

This happy kitty greets us from an Albanian stamp. It belongs in a set of seven issued in 1966. The value is 15 qinters (about 3 cents). Albania is noted for many well-dome biologicals for the stamp collector. The sets are low-priced and include domestic fowl, bears, flowers, goats, hares and rabbits, dogs, reptiles, fish and miscellaneous ocean creatures.

What brings this country to the fore right now is the divination of a writer in Stamp Investment column. He expects it to be discovered soon because the stamps are attractive and the printings are short — some running only to 15,000 copies. He mentions the four-value set for the 25th anniversary of the Albanian Women's Organization, calling it under-cataloged at 98 cents. This is a timely tip as 1975 is the United Nations International Women's Year. Scott's Monthly Journal features this in its January cover, showing stamps with Nefertiti, Eleanor Roosevelt, three suffragettes, and a svelte Albanian woman spooning glop to a baby. Another investment tip sheet commemorating their first decade as a monarchy. This was on sale for only three days and, according to the writup, every piece of mail had to carry it. It is now cataloged at $8.

How to recognize Albanian stamps in a shoe-box lot? The very early ones had a two-headed eagle. Then from 1955 on — "Republika Shqiptare, Shqipëri, R.P. Shqiperise, or Shqipëria." Albania is Shqipëria. Never a "t" after the "q" as you might expect. The pronunciation is a challenge. The nearest I can make it after a phone call to an American-Albanian friend is Shkpeeria, Shkpeeria, Shkpeeria. The ship is almost shkep — take it from there.

Comment Session

Complaints about dirty water and hazardous crossings highlighted Tuesday's Board of Directors comment session, manned by Mayor John Thompson. Two men who reside on Walker St. and who said they also spoke for others on the street complained of dirty and rusty water. A woman complained of a defaced stop sign at Spruce and Eldridge Sts. and suggested replacement. A man complained of hazardous traffic conditions at Woodbridge and Lydall Sts. and at Woodbridge and Main St. He recommended a stop sign at Woodbridge and Lydall Sts. and synchronization of traffic signals at N. Main and Main Sts. and at Hilliard and Main Sts., so that those exiting from Woodbridge St. might get relief. He recommended also that signs be posted at the corner of Main and Woodbridge Sts., cautioning motorists to stop there when a red light faces them.

Dems to Screen Candidates Eyeing Tani Seat on Board

Manchester Democrats have set the machinery in motion for picking a successor to John Tani on the Board of Directors. Citing the conflicts of his job and his responsibilities as a husband and father, Tani has resigned effective Jan. 31. He is a Democrat and will be succeeded by a Democrat. The Democratic Town Committee's nominating committee will begin interviewing candidates Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. meeting of its 10 members — one from each voting district. It will be in the Municipal Building.

The nominating committee's recommendation will go before AFS Seeking Host Family. The Manchester chapter of American Field Service (AFS) is seeking a suitable host family for next year's foreign exchange student. Interested families are asked to contact Mr. and Mrs. Allan Walsh, 649-2207, or Kenneth Benson, 648-1470, by the end of January so that interviews and more information can be provided.

Prime requisites for a successful year together are the family's enthusiasm in wanting a student to live as a member of the family for the school year, willingness to respect the similarities and differences of the two cultures, and the same concern and affection for their AFS student as they have for their own children. Eligible families in the past have included those in which the mother works, the father travels, there are no teenagers at home, the parents are under 35, there is only one parent, families who have hosted a student before, and non-U.S. citizens, or special ethnic groups. BROADCAST RAP TARRYTOWN, N.Y. NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

Faced with the same inflationary problems as you...

We are requesting changes in interstate Long Distance rates

- Most calls will be higher.
- Some calls will be cheaper.
- But all customers can save.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed a new rate schedule with the Federal Communications Commission which will increase charges for most out-of-state Long Distance calls. A new, lower minimum price and uniform discounts of 35 and 60 per cent will also be introduced for many dial-direct calls placed without an operator.

About 30 per cent of all interstate Long Distance calls will cost customers less, about 70 per cent will cost more. The new rates, which must be fully justified to the FCC, are intended to produce an increase in interstate revenues of 7.2 per cent. The new rates are filed to become effective on March 4, 1975.

These rate increases are the result of the enormous inflationary pressures that are besetting the economy.

Last August, the Bell System signed an employee wage settlement amounting to well over $3 billion during the next three years. The level of construction expenditures that provides the plant and equipment required for good quality service to the consumer has also risen significantly, reaching $10 billion in 1974. And there has been a dramatic upsurge in the cost of capital that must be attracted in order to finance this construction program.

Although there will be an increase in total revenues, the proposed rates have been designed so telephone customers can take advantage of discounts by dialing their own calls when Long Distance circuits are less busy. By shifting calls to off-peak hours, Bell System operating expenses and capital expenditures, which have been so heavily influenced by inflation, can be held to an absolute minimum. The savings which result will benefit all Bell System customers.

PROPOSED RATES FOR COAST-TO-COAST INTERSTATE CALLS

(Lower rates apply on shorter distances.)

DIAL-AND-SAVE ONE MINUTE RATES
WEEKDAY	EVENING	NIGHT & WEEKEND
Monday-Friday 8 a.m.-5 p.m.	Sunday-Friday 5 p.m.-11 p.m.	Every night 11 p.m.-8 a.m. Saturday day and night Sunday day and night except 5 p.m. to 11 p.m.
First Minute 60¢	First Minute 39¢	First Minute 24¢

Additional minutes cost less than the first minute.

Dial-direct rates apply on all interstate calls including Alaska completed from a residence or business phone without operator assistance. They also apply on calls placed with an operator from a residence or business phone where dial-direct facilities are not available. For dial-direct rates to Hawaii, check your operator. Dial-direct rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel-guest, credit card or collect calls or calls charged to a judge's number, because an operator is called on such calls.

OPERATOR-ASSISTED THREE MINUTE RATES
STATION-TO-STATION PERSON-TO-PERSON
Full rates apply at all times
First 3 minutes $1.95
Full rates apply at all times
First 3 minutes $3.55

Additional minutes same as dial rate. Applicable discounts apply to additional minutes during Evening and Night & Weekend periods.

NOTE: Rates quoted do not include tax.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Good Luck Gov. Grasso

Ella Grasso today became Connecticut's 83rd governor and the first woman in the nation to be elected to the governorship in her own right.

The challenges before her are many and will require not only her own wide political talent but the talent of the state's best leaders on both sides of the aisle.

Granted, Gov. Grasso is a Democrat replacing a Republican and there are partisan philosophies and considerations which must be given due recognition, but many of our most serious problems transcend party politics. Neither party, we believe, is insensitive to human needs, nor is either party fiscally irresponsible.

The underlying challenge facing Gov. Grasso and her administration in the immediate months ahead is that of keeping the state unified.

Many of the economic problems we have cannot be solved by state government alone but this does not mean that state government, under cooperative and bipartisan efforts, cannot make federal programs, whether they be from Republican administration or a Democratic Congress, as effective as possible for the people the programs are intended to help.

Gov. Grasso, in the weeks between election and her inauguration today, has demonstrated to us that she intends to run her own ship of state and that it will be a tightly run ship. We applaud her efforts to keep spending down and her critical and ongoing review of budget requests.

We think she will be a fine governor. But we think also she will find the job a bit frustrating — since there are limits as to what a governor can do. There are events over which no governor has control. We can only hope that the toughness she has thus far displayed, plus her years of political experience, will enable her to exercise her powers effectively for the good of the whole state even if it means bucking her own party at times.

We believe Gov. Grasso wants to go down in the history books with more than the achievement of being the first woman to be elected a governor in her own right.

We believe she will.

Good Luck Gov. Meskill

We do not know what the future holds for Thomas Meskill who has completed one controversial term as governor.

He wants a federal judgeship and we hope his wish is granted. Despite the many allegations leveled against him, we believe he would be an asset to the federal bench.

But whatever happens, we, the citizens of Connecticut, owe him our thanks. While all of us may not have agreed with him in all the things he did or tried to do in the past four years, we have to admire his willingness to do what he felt was right despite political consequences.

He has made many mistakes, and he admits that he has, but there are two things which Tom Meskill did which, regardless of what happens in the months ahead, are beneficial to all of us.

First, he has demonstrated that a strong-willed person sitting in the governor's chair can accomplish much by asserting himself. It is easy for governors to hide behind the various political aspects of the job and thus evade certain hard decisions. Meskill committed himself to restoring fiscal responsibility to state government and did it.

Second, despite criticism to the contrary, the past four years of fiscal restraint is an asset hard to measure. That the State of Connecticut under Gov. Meskill was able to turn around from deficit spending to fiscal surpluses puts it in a much stronger position to meet the fiscal uncertainties ahead than would have been the case if it had not been done.

The new administration may or may not be able to balance its budget because of forces over which it has no control. However, Meskill's legacy is that a state administration can and should exercise fiscal control wherever and whenever it can. He showed us it can be done.

For this reaffirmation of fiscal responsibility we owe Tom Meskill our gratitude. We think when all the partisan trappings are cut away, even his opponents will admit it took political courage to achieve this fiscal goal especially when you represent a party that is in the minority as far as party registration goes.

We wish Tom Meskill well and thank him for serving the state so well. We hope we have not heard the last of him.

ALMANAC

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, Jan. 8, the eighth day of 1975 with 357 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

James Longstreet, Confederate general in the Civil War, was born Jan. 8, 1821. This is rock star Elvis Presley's 40th birthday.

On this day in history:
In 1815, American Gen. Andrew Jackson's forces decisively defeated the British in the Battle of New Orleans, the "losing engagement of the War of 1812."

In 1867, Congress approved legislation providing suffrage for Negroes in the District of Columbia.

In 1972, the trial of the "Watergate Seven" began in Washington, D.C. They were charged with breaking into the national headquarters of the Democratic party.

In 1974, President Nixon denied charges that he granted favors to milk producers and International Telephone & Telegraph in return for campaign contributions.

A thought for the day: American poet James Russell Lowell said, "...it is the brave man who chooses while the crowd stands aside."

We appreciate letters to the editor but have a thorough distaste for carbons. When we get the fifth or sixth carbon of a letter it ends up in the wastebasket. If we can't read it in the beginning, there isn't much else we can do with it. We would actually prefer a letter in long hand, even though it has to be typed before it can be processed; in most cases the hand writing is legible.

Our congratulations to Town Manager Robert Weiss for calling an open examination to secure the new Manchester police chief to succeed retiring Jim Heardon. The exam should be open to all in the best interests of the department, town government and townspeople. It is the proper approach.

Utility officials still agree there is an energy crisis. Even if such weren't the case, there is no need to leave the lights on at the St. James Parking Lot around the clock. We could see the lights being turned on during Thursday evening shopping hours and perhaps during evening church services. The rest of the time the area should be dark. The lights could be turned off by one of the night and even, sometimes, his life, in order to prove his courage. After all, he's supposed to be engaged in a sport, not a war. He should not be expected to cripple himself for life in the pursuit of winning and thereby gaining the acclamation of his coach.

A couple of years ago — out in Nebraska, I think — a high school coach explained his team's lack of success by complaining that he didn't have enough boys who were "willing to play hurt."

What can one say about a coach like that except that he should be transferred to an abattoir? Yet he has plenty of company on high school football teams around the country. In high school, and even in the leagues for virtual tots, there are too many coaches who over-emphasize winning at the expense of the boys under them in a search for personal glory and promotion to a better coaching job.

The British aristocracy used to have a saying: "A gentleman is never too good at games." That's a bit of snobbish much, of course. Besides, trying to beat the other guy should be fun and may even build character if the game is played within the rules. Anyway, there are still losers who live to win another day.

But one wonders, square-wise, whatever happened to the little sermon preached by the late sportswriter, Grantland Rice: "When the Great Scorer comes to 'make against your name,' 'He'll write not win or lose, 'But how you played the game.'" happened to the little sermon preached by the late sportswriter, Grantland Rice: "When the Great Scorer comes to 'make against your name,' 'He'll write not win or lose, 'But how you played the game.'"

That was square, all right. But it had to do with a game, bigger than any football scrimmage, called life. And the role of a high school football coach originally was conceived as that of a teacher, not a self-serving businessman looking for a job with the Pittsburgh Steelers or Minnesota Vikings who bullies children into hurting other children.

Members of school boards across the country should have been required to watch ABC television's brilliant program of last fall, "Danger in Sports: Paying the Price." It was a tragic look at the crippling injuries suffered every year by high school football players in pursuit of their coaches' ambitions.

Then, perhaps, those in authority would recall that football is still just a game — at least at the teenage and sub-teen level — and that losing is preferable if winning means any boy feels he must "play hurt."

Anyway, there are still losers who live to win another day.

ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — It is inevitable. Sometimes during the telecast of the upcoming Super Bowl, a commentator will speak glowingly of the performance and courage of a linebacker or a wide receiver and hold him up as a model for aspiring young footballers because "he plays hurt."

OK, I'll be watching the game. I not only can't kick the habit, I don't want to. The Super Bowl matches the best mercenaries of the football world, and in any athletic competition it's always exciting to watch players who are certifiably outstanding performers.

Still, I always cringe when I'm told that "playing hurt" is the kind of courage high school and even sub-teen youngsters should emulate. Playing hurt means to stay in the game even with a broken bone or a torn muscle. This may be all right for mercenaries, to whom football is a means of earning a rather good living. They are men, most of them have no more growing to do.

But I don't like male children playing hurt on football fields in quest of manhood, or machismo, or whatever. I don't want a boy watching the Super Bowl to feel that he must endanger his physical wellbeing

HI NEIGHBOR

By BURL LYONS

Most of those fortunate people who are still employed are happy to be back at work following the holiday season and are once again settling into some type of daily routine.

The big exception, of course, is Congress where the 94th session doesn't resume until Jan. 14. We were a bit dismayed the other day when we received an inquiry as to just when our Congressional leaders might be back on their home ground to talk to those who sent them to Washington.

One member of a Congressman's office staff wasn't even aware of the 1975 recess periods. Well, if you count weekends, your Congressional leaders will spend about 200 days of 1975 away from the hill in Washington.

You might wish to clip the following schedule because here are the recess periods of 1975:
Lincoln's Birthday, from Feb. 6 to Feb. 17.
Easter, from March 26 to April 7.
Memorial Day, from May 22 to June 2.
Independence Day, from June 26 to July 8.
August recess, from Aug. 1 to Sept. 3.
Yom Kippur, from Sept. 12 to Sept. 17.
Columbus Day, from Oct. 9 to Oct. 20.
Veteran's Day, from Oct. 23 to Oct. 28.
Thanksgiving Day, from Nov. 20 to Dec. 1.
The Christmas recess hasn't been established.

A further reminder: Those in the House receive 37 round trips into their district, over a two-year period, on a per mile allowance. Those in the Senate receive 40 round trips over a two-year period, on a per mile allowance.

There should certainly be no reason for any taxpayer to have to spend money to go to Washington to see his Congressional leaders. With the taxpayer helping to foot the bill for the trip, we ought to see them more often in Manchester and in other towns east of the river if they are really sincere in what the folks back home are thinking.

Attention to all those who use our classified columns for sale or rental of dwellings.
The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1974 adds sex to other prohibited expressions of discrimination including race, color, religion, or national origin not permitted in for sale or for rent columns. Any such discrimination is unlawful and newspapers are held liable under the law along with the advertiser.

There is one exception. Those who are seeking roommates or persons to share apartments aren't within the scope of the 1974 amendments and persons advertising in such cases can still indicate a sex preference.

Think you are in debt? The postmaster general predicts that the United States Postal Service net loss for fiscal year 1975 will be about twice the $438 million deficit for 1974.
He expects some rate increases will be necessary but new rates probably won't be instituted before mid-July. The Postal Rate Commission is currently reviewing rates.

Andover 1974 - Some Confusion over Expenditures

Donna Holland
Correspondent

Problems arose in Andover when it sent its bills to Bolton for use of the Andover Disposal area from January through June 1974. The bill was approximately $9,000 more than Andover selected had informed Bolton selection it would be. Following meetings between Andover and Bolton town leaders, the bill as yet remains unpaid. In November residents strongly expressed the view that a dump study committee should be formed and it was. Several residents felt that Bolton should not be allowed to use the disposal area.

Firemen Win Trophy
Members of the Andover Volunteer Fire Department won the Tolland County Firemen's Muster trophy for the third year in a row. For winning the trophy for three consecutive years, the departments get it to keep.

Treasurer Resigns
John McConn submitted his resignation as town treasurer. The selection appointed Mrs. Martha Moe to the position.

Teacher Resigns
Mrs. Deborah Horne resigned as a teacher at Andover Elementary School in December after 15 1/2 years of teaching there. A special issue of the school's newspaper was dedicated to her.

Hutchinsons Honored
John and Doris Hutchinson were honored at a "This Is Your Life" testimonial at the Old Town Hall for their many years of service to the town.

Probate Judge
Valdis Vinkels, Democrat, by 69 votes unseated his opponent incumbent, Norman Preuss, Republican for judge of probate for Andover, Bolton and Columbia in the November election.

Unexpected Funds
The Board of Education received $136,800 from the state. The amount was $17,280 more than had been anticipated.

Jan. 16 Meeting Set on Land Purchase

COVENTRY

The Coventry Town Council has voted to have a Jan. 16 special town meeting for town voters to consider purchasing the Cumnick property for $70,000.

The land, located on Rt. 31 near the sanitary landfill and St. Mary's cemetery, consists of 18.5 acres with two small houses and outbuildings. It is bounded on the north by Mill Pond, to the east by the Williamantic River and the land owned by the Holy Name Society. It has 200-foot frontage on Rt. 31 and widens to the rear to 800 feet. It has a depth of 1,200 feet.

Among the uses considered for this site are a possible cemetery site, housing for the elderly, open space and recreation. In view of the close proximity of the Cumnick home to the site, the town manager was asked to have the well tested.

The Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) Monday granted the 60-day extension to continue parking of school buses at the old ZBA parking area.

Sex Education Program Survives GOP Challenge

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuchel
Correspondent

Shades of 1974 shone through Tuesday night's Board of Education meeting when three South Windsor Republican board members made an attempt to defeat the controversial Human Development program.

William Neal, Republican member who last year stood out as the board's chief opponent to the course, motioned to delete $2,000 from the proposed budget for equipment, texts and materials for the sex education course during 1975-76.

Neal's motion was seconded and supported by Republicans Fred DeGiacoia and Robert DeRosa, but Republican Joan Cushman voted with the Democrats and defeated the motion.

Urban Backed for Deputy Sheriff

COLUMBIA

Virginia Carlson, Correspondent 228-9224

The Democratic Town Committee has endorsed Richard Urban of Colonial Dr. for the post of deputy sheriff.

Urban was this town's coordinator for Curran during the campaign. Guy Beck, the town's chief constable and head lake constable expressed interest in the post, but told the committee he feels Urban deserves the post due to his hard work during the campaign.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

The Making Of a New Me

On New Year's Day I drew up a list of resolutions that are going to make a completely new woman out of me. I typed the list in triplicate, filed one copy in my desk, stuck one in my bedroom mirror, and just to show the family how serious I am about my self-improvement, I tucked the third copy to the bulletin board in the kitchen. There are no nonsense resolutions. I plan to tackle them one at a time starting at the top of the list. As I accomplish a resolution I'll cross it out in red ink. 1. Lose 10 pounds and keep it lost. That means nothing between meals - ever again - but carrot sticks or celery. 2. Become a Heim Gintot mother. He's the man who recommends unlimited patience and a well modulated voice. 3. Never go to bed on a messy kitchen. 4. Smile at the breakfast table. 5. Be a well-informed hockey team fan. Learn the names of at least one player besides Bobbie Orr. 6. Record amount of checks withdrawn in check book. No more guessing. 7. Read the complete works of someone very erudite like James Joyce. 8. Learn to identify all the little brown-type birds at my feeder. 9. Organize the following: Garage, attic, cellar, desk, front and back hall closets and lock-box. 10. Give the kids' music a chance. Listen to it - all the way through - full volume in a non critical way. At least once. 11. Don't be a worry-wort. Even when number one daughter gets her driver's license in March. 12. Stop procrastinating! Return library books. Write thank you notes. Don't buy "sorry I'm late" greeting cards. Get to work on New Year's Resolutions. Each time I pass the bulletin board, I stop and look at my resolutions. The very sight makes me glow. My husband is delighted with them too. In fact, he wanted to add a few more to my list but I told him to hold off. Enough's enough. Besides, if I accomplish everything now, what will I resolve to do next year?

Recreation Department Offers Varied Classes

The West Side Rec Women's program will begin its winter session at 10 Cedar St. on Monday. Those wishing to register may call any day between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. All classes are run during the day. Some new classes have been added to the programs for the winter session. These include terrariums with Steve Fish of the Lutz Junior Museum Nature Center, who will explain not only how to build effective terrariums but plant care as well. It will be a six week program at a cost of $6 per person for instructional fees. Participants will supply their own materials. This class will be conducted on Friday afternoons from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Participants are requested to bring a notebook to the first class. Another new class will be drawing and painting on Thursdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. for six weeks at a cost of $6 for instructional fee. Participants bring their own charcoal pencil and drawing pad. This will be a step by step beginner's art class with Ann Madsen as instructor. One of the subjects of the class will be proper shading techniques. Other topics to be covered will be still life and flower drawing. Creative crafts will be offered on Wednesdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Projects include flower making, mache dolls, tinsel painting, bean and seed projects. Participants supply their own materials list is available at the West Side Rec and the Mary Cheney Library. The course is free to recreation members. It will last five weeks followed by Spring and Easter crafts. Projects for the second session of crafts include an Easter egg tree, papier tole, quick decoupage, bread dough art and a scrap craft. Other popular classes returning this session are led by the instructor and intermediates, including copper foil wrapping, with Ann Madsen. Classes to be conducted on Tuesday from 1 to 3 p.m. A $2 materials fee will be charged for this course. It is now serving as a nurse counselor for the Army Nurse Corps in North Jersey. Mr. Kelly, a former first lieutenant in the U. S. Army, is presently completing graduate studies in marketing at Niagara University.

Preparation for Marriage

By GAY PAULEY, UPI Women's Editor. NEW YORK (UPI) - Now a sociologist okays a couple's fighting as one means of strengthening a marriage - so long as there are no kayos. Dr. Millard J. Bienvenu, Sr., spells out rules of combat on the family front and the Marquis of Queensbury couldn't have done better. Learning to fight is one valuable skill to acquire before marriage, he writes in a new publication on exercises in premarital communication. "When couples find themselves fighting for the very first time, they may become alarmed by their anger and ease off before anything is resolved, setting the stage for a long, dangerous cold war," says the sociologist. "But it is perfectly normal to differ with someone you love and to get angry at him or her. Denying these feelings slows down the building of a good relationship. The challenge is to learn to argue constructively; this kind of 'fight' will actually strengthen rather than weaken the marriage. Bienvenu, who frequently writes on family problems, heads the department of sociology and social work at Northwestern State University of Louisiana. His latest work is "Talking It Over Before Marriage", a publication of the Public Affairs Committee, Inc., a non-profit educational organization with headquarters in New York. About the rules: "First, stick to the issue that triggered the argument. Don't revive previous issues or hurts. 'Don't hit below the belt by criticizing and attacking each other as persons. We all have vulnerable, tender spots. Mary has a college diploma, Malcolm graduated from high school. When tempers flare, she hits below the belt with, 'No wonder you don't understand me - with your education.' Resorting to accusations or a 'You don't love me' attitude is sure to cause trouble if continued. The healthy kind of conflict uses words not to kill but to dig out what's bothering each person deep down - to help release bottled-up feelings and tensions. Dr. Bienvenu advises handling the conflict when the two of you have sufficient time - and privacy. Get your feelings out before losing control of yourselves and really try to look at the issue from the other's point of view. "Out of a constructive argument can come a better understanding of each other's needs and a greater feeling of security in a meaningful relationship. Learning to fight is just one segment of the sociologist's counseling. There are many subjects that should be discussed to determine compatibility and don't assume that the wedding will resolve all problems. he says. Among other guidelines for building communication: -Build a climate of "safety" of expression, trusting each other and treating information and shared feelings as "privileged" communications. -Don't be used to hurt one another or to withhold affection. -Listen in a way that shows you are in touch with your partner, not just listening there. -Married life flourishes when the couple become friends and companions as well as lovers."

Town Man Will Operate Civic Center's Big Store

William Luetgens of Manchester has been named operator of a major, two-level department store in the Hartford Civic Center's retail complex. The appointment was made by Aetna Life & Casualty, owner of the commercial portion of the huge project. The yet-to-be-named store, to occupy 60,000 square feet of space at the shopping mall's west end, is scheduled for opening in early fall. Aetna officials say the store will be Hartford's first locally-owned specialty department store in 85 years. Luetgens, who lives at 44 Harvard Rd. in Manchester, is former senior vice president of G. Fox & Co., Hartford. He retired in October 1973 after 38 years with the company, where he directed expansion of G. Fox with opening of three major suburban stores. Luetgens said the Aetna-backed store will employ about 90 area residents and will offer apparel and accessories for men and women. The store will be complemented by about 50 other retail shops developed under a uniform design. Besides naming Luetgens to the new post, Aetna has hired a development team of national shopping center specialists to structure, lease, supervise construction, and manage the shopping mall. The commercial portion of the Civic Center is a three-level, L-shaped, 335,000-square foot retail and office complex fronting Trumbull and Asylum Sts. An enclosed pedestrian bridge connects the mall's second level with the new Sheraton-Hartford Hotel and the municipal parking garage on Church St.

Area Choirs Join In Center Service

Members of eight churches of Connecticut, are members of the interfaith dedication committee, which planned the service. Richard Matteson, former organizer and choirmaster at Emanuel Lutheran Church, is a member of the subcommittee on music. Participating in the 1,100-member chorus are choirs from: South Congregational Church, Community Baptist Church, Central United Methodist Church, Bolton Congregational Church, Wapping Community Church, Sacred Heart Church of Vernon, and St. Francis Assisi and St. Margaret Mary Churches of South Windsor. The Hartford Symphony will play several selections during the service and in the Glen Campbell concert which begins at 9:15. The Rev. Clifford O. Simpson, pastor emeritus of Center Congregational Church and the Rev. Dr. Orlando Tibbitts of the Rev. Dr. Orlando Tibbitts of Center Congregational Church, executive minister of American Baptist

Opening Calendar

Here is a calendar of events scheduled this week at the Hartford Civic Center: THURSDAY 11:30 a.m. - Dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremonies. 11:45 a.m. - Festival of Progress. 7:30 p.m. - Interfaith Service. 9:15 p.m. - Glen Campbell in concert with the Hartford Symphony. FRIDAY 11:30 a.m. - Festival of Progress. 2 p.m. - The Miracles in concert. 7:30 p.m. - Veteran's Coliseum dedication ceremonies. 8 p.m. - Johnny Mathis in concert with the Hartford Symphony. SATURDAY 10 a.m. - Festival of Progress. 10 a.m. - Open house practice session for the New England Mariners. 2 p.m. - Open house practice session for the New England Whalers. 7:30 p.m. - Whalers vs. San Diego. SUNDAY Noon - Festival of Progress. 7:30 p.m. - The Sunday Festival, featuring Les and Larry Elgart and Jimmy Roberts.

Civic Center Opens Tomorrow

The Hartford Civic Center - billed as New England's largest entertainment, sports, convention, and exhibition center - opens tomorrow. Three major units comprise the 470 million complex in downtown Hartford, which was undertaken in 1971 as a cooperative venture with public and private funds. The two sections opening tomorrow, with dedication ceremonies in late morning, are the Civic Center proper and the Sheraton-Hartford Hotel. The third segment, a shopping mall and offices, will open later this year. Center officials expect as many as 200,000 people to tour the new facility and join in welcoming activities in the next four days. The major focus of attention has been on the municipal portion of the project. That portion includes a 12,607-seat Coliseum, a 1,000-seat assembly hall, a 60,000-square foot exhibition hall, and a variety of space and equipment for other services. Main entrance to the Civic Center is on Trumbull St., opposite Pratt St. Interstate 84 is one block north and Interstate 91 in two blocks east. There are an estimated 5,000 parking spaces within walking distance of the Civic Center, including a 513-car garage within the complex. Manchester area residents who don't want to drive downtown to the Civic Center can park at Founders Plaza (East Hartford) and take a ten-cent shuttle bus to the Civic Center for special events. The Civic Center is expected to provide a wide variety of quality entertainment events that will attract people to downtown Hartford. It also is expected to stimulate downtown Hartford's business. It already has begun to regenerate interest in the core city. Among the events scheduled for the Civic Center are New England Whalers hockey, occasional visits by the Boston Celtics; the Acta World Cup tennis tournament; and special concerts and shows including the Ice Capades, the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, and the Royal Lipizzan Station Show.

Area Resident In Charge Of Festival of Progress

Frank S. Wilson, a former Manchester resident, is general chairman for the Festival of Progress, a four-day business and industry exhibition opening tomorrow at the Hartford Civic Center. Wilson, president of the J.M. Ney Co. of Bloomfield, lives in Glastonbury. He is a director of Arrow-Hart Inc. and the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce and is a corporation of Hartford Hospital and Manchester Memorial Hospital. The Festival of Progress, sponsored by the Greater Hartford Chamber, is one of the main attractions at the opening of the Civic Center. The exhibition, Wilson said, will feature more than 200 displays by the region's business and industry. "The exhibits present a panorama of the products, processes, services and technologies of Greater Hartford's business and industry, which form the basis for the region's prosperity and high quality of life," Wilson said. The Festival of Progress, scheduled for the 60,000-square foot Civic Center Exhibition Hall, is planned to complement entertainment due in the center's huge coliseum during the grand opening. Among the businesses participating in the festival is Allied Printing Services, Inc., of Manchester.

Super Bowl Champion Will Win in Trenches

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Fran Tarkenton says Super Bowl IX "will be won in the trenches."

If that be the case, then the Pittsburgh Steelers hoped today to go one up on the Minnesota Vikings as both teams continued their preparations for Sunday's game.

The Steelers were looking to regain the services of defensive end Dwight White, hospitalized since Sunday night with a viral infection, while the Vikings planned to do without offensive tackle Charles Goodrum who would have played opposite White.

Goodrum pulled a leg muscle Tuesday during a workout held in a downpour and was listed as doubtful for Sunday's game.

He will be replaced by 15-year veteran Grady Alderman who has been with the Vikings since their inception in 1961.

There was no change reported in White's condition and a spokesman for the Steelers said there was "no cause for concern" as long as the 6-foot-4, 255-pounder was in the hospital in time for today's workout.

"I'll be ready by game time," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll. "Dwight is just a little bit under the weather."

Should White be more ill than reported, he would be replaced in the Steelers' front four by Steve Furness, a three-year veteran from Rhode Island.

"Realistically, Dwight is going to play this game," Furness said when questioned about the possibility of him drawing a starting assignment Sunday.

"There's no way they can keep him away and come out strong."

Tarkenton, who came out on the losing end in last year's Super Bowl when the Miami Dolphins soundly whipped the Vikings 24-7, predicted this year's encounter would be enjoyed "by the pure football fan."

"I agree the first eight Super Bowl games weren't very good games from the fans' standpoint," Tarkenton said. "But this one will be different. It will be in the trenches by the guys on the offensive and defensive lines. Both teams have excellent defenses that don't give up cheap touchdowns."

Before giving his analysis of the game, a visibly annoyed Tarkenton had a few choice words for Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler and Miami receiver Paul Warfield who have been quoted as saying the best teams are not in this year's Super Bowl.

"I think the best two teams are in the Super Bowl this year just as they are every year," Tarkenton said. "I am sick and tired of hearing what Paul Warfield and Ken Stabler have to say about the best teams not reaching the Super Bowl."

"Obviously they never read the rules before they started playing the game. Evidently, nobody told Stabler that it takes three extra yards to win the Super Bowl — not one. Especially, not the first one."

"I didn't hear Stabler or Warfield saying their teams were so much better before they played the teams they lost to. Pittsburgh has done everything a team has to do to get here. So have we. The loser Sunday will need no alibi. Whoever wins Sunday is the best, not teams previously eliminated."

In addition to last year's loss to Miami, the Vikings also dropped a 23-7 decision to Kansas City in Super Bowl IV and are the only otherwise it's hard to live with this profession," Grant said. "You better find another challenge. We've got $16,000 in the bank and now we're going for $25,000."

When asked to review last year's Super Bowl loss to Miami, Grant quipped, "you stick a rag in your mouth, lie behind a log and wait for another chance."

Minnesota gets that chance Sunday.

One-Platoon Return Game Appears Dead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An economy move to return to one-platoon football was all but officially pronounced dead and a gesture toward women's rights was in trouble today as delegates to the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention headed into their showdown voting session.

The wind-up of the three-day session still had on the burner other controversial issues stemming from the economic squeeze, the prospect of federal intervention and demands for a stiffer stand on recruiting violations as proposed in a series of floor resolutions and amendments.

But the death blow to suggestions that the existing free substitution rule in college football be abandoned was apparently dealt by the American Football Coaches Association which is holding a separate convention.

They voted against the one-platoon idea, 246-40, and a proposal submitted to the parent NCAA for a vote today had no prospect of success.

The coaches also voted against abolishing fair catches in college football and adoption of the pro rule for kickoffs to be made from the 35-yard line. Only relatively minor rules changes were advocated by the AFC.

The women's rights issue was in a state of pronounced confusion after NCAA officials announced earlier in the week they were suggesting pilot programs for women's team championships in events over the next three years. The Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women promptly protested that the NCAA was trying to usurp the field because of new federal legislation requiring equal treatment of men and women athletes on college campuses.

The ruling hierarchy of the NCAA worked late Tuesday drawing up a generalized resolution favoring women's rights, trying to come up with language that would not rock the boat legally or accelerate the battle of the sexes. There was a strong bloc of delegate sentiment against anything but the mildest of resolutions.

Another major issue at the NCAA convention was a proposal that would impose penalties against individual coaches found guilty of recruiting or other abuses which is backed by a surprisingly strong group of university and college president. Still another amendment aimed at the cost squeeze would cut out grants-in-aid benefits for athletes except in the revenue-producing sports of football and basketball.

There were these other developments: —Delegates voted that individual athletes must sign affidavits affirming their amateur status before any NCAA tournaments or other championship events. The proposal was offered by Dr. Stephen Horn president of California State University of Long Beach who is spearheading moves by a group of college presidents to reform recruiting and other practices.

Vince Dooley of Georgia announced that the coaches ethics committee has sent out letters of reprimand to five coaches for violating the organization's code of conduct, but he declined to identify the violators.

Bob Blackman of Illinois, president of the coach's association, reaffirmed the policy of not recognizing for honors a coach or a football team of a school which has been placed on probation by the NCAA.

He said that "it just doesn't make sense" to honor "a man or a school for doing something above and beyond the ethical limits."

The refusal of the coaches to recognize Oklahoma's football this season because of a two-year probation created furor among many fans, but Blackman pointed out that "even the Oklahoma coaches were in general acceptance of the rule."

Also, the Buzzards outlasted Gronow's Sports Shop, 78-72. Ron Sorosis tossed in a game-high 30 points for the Buzzards with Glen Lozier and Bill Boucher adding 17 and 12 markers respectively. Frank Breen (25), Jim Purtil (18) and Mike Reardon (11) paced the Bombers.

Whalers' Sails Trimmed By Consecutive Losses

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Their sails trimmed somewhat by two consecutive losses, the injury-ridden New England Whalers left San Diego today for a brighter World Hockey Association prospect in Phoenix Thursday night.

The Whalers' 5-3 loss to the Mariners Tuesday night was their first in three games this season with the San Diego team, and it followed a 9-3 beating Sunday night by the Minnesota Fighting Saints.

A fourth Mariners-Whalers bout, the opening game at the Hartford Civic Center, was scheduled for Saturday night.

The Whalers were without the aid of defenseman Rick Ley, center Terry Caffery and winger Al Karlander. Ley and Karlander were out with groin injuries and Caffery with his ankle in a cast.

Journeyman Leads Way

NEW YORK (UPI) — J. P. Parise, a 33-year old journeyman, wasted no time making the New York Islanders happy they acquired him from the Minnesota North Stars.

Playing his first game for his new team, Parise contributed two assists Tuesday night when the Islanders scored a 5-3 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Tolland Constables Issue Ultimatum

Vivian Kenneson
Correspondent
Tolland constables appeared at Tuesday's Board of Selectmen meeting and, in a joint statement, said that they will cease to accept any duty assignments beginning in 30 days unless three specific problems are resolved.
The three items are: reinstatement of two-way radio communications equipment in the constables' private vehicles; release of a weekly report to the public; resolution of internal problems of the constabulary through a mutual agreement between the town manager, Board of Selectmen, and the constables.
Constable David Cabanis, spokesman for the group, declined to elaborate on the internal problems, saying it would interfere with town safety.
When Town Manager John

Harkins ordered two radios removed from constables' cars last fall, to be installed in town trucks, the action prompted constables to stage a mass removal in early December, of all town-owned radios, emergency flashing lights, and police plates from their private cars.
The constables continue to pull duty using the one town-owned police car, traffic duty, and school duty, but have maintained that they will not answer calls while off duty, because of the safety hazard of not being able to call for help.
The four-page statement by constable's radios be reinstated. Erickson said he felt it would have been more prudent for the town to have purchased the two radios necessary for the town trucks.

Cabanis did allow that the entire situation does not lie with Harkins. "Harkins has been blessed with something that is not entirely his fault," he said. He again declined to elaborate, saying that by going into it further it might be misinterpreted by the press.
The selectmen agreed that a subcommittee should be appointed to work the matter out with Harkins and the constables; however, it was not agreed whether the subcommittee should be appointed by the board or by Harkins.
Kevin Cavanagh, vice chairman of the Board of Selectmen, stated that the situation was an administrative problem and that any subcommittee should be appointed by the town manager, Selectmen Stuart Joslin, Edward Moskey and Helen Want volunteered to serve on such a committee.
Former constable Larry Brennan noted the constables' concern for the town, noting they provide "full time protection for only $20,000 per year."
Brennan pointed to the recent retribution to the firemen, calling it just and fair. "They had a spokesman who went to bat for them, we don't," he said.
The constables' statement says that the 30-day period should allow time for town government to appoint the ready-made constables, and offered that, if the procedure is not acceptable they may at any time fire them. The statement says that the constables' only interest is that they have harmony among their group, and that they be allowed to perform the services that people think they perform and that people be made aware of their activities.
The constables said last night they were ready to turn in

Rham School Board May Need Revision

Nancy Foote
Changes will have to be made in the makeup of the Rham Board of Education if Regional District 8 proceeds with construction of a middle school, members of the board of education at the three town meetings were told Monday.
Rham Superintendent David Cattanchi told the boards that a recent court decision requires that regional school districts made up of towns of unequal size have boards of education which reflect the size differences.

The board now has three members each from Hebron, Andover, and Marlborough. However, about 50 per cent of the students at the school are from Hebron, 30 per cent from Marlborough and 20 per cent from Andover.
Voters in the three towns will decide at a referendum Jan. 28 whether to build the school.
Cattanchi told the board members he had learned that the Rham Board could go ahead with the referendum as planned, but it is uncertain what steps the board will take afterward.
Summary Brochure
The Rham board announced that a summary brochure, describing all aspects of the proposed middle school, has been prepared by the architects and will be mailed to residents of the three towns. It will also be available to people who attend the open informational meeting planned for Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. in the Rham auditorium.

No One Objects To Subdivision

HEBRON

There was no opposition Tuesday evening at the Planning and Zoning Commission's public hearing on the proposed Eisemann subdivision at Wall St. and Loveland Rd. The commission will act on it later.
Before the hearing started, board chairman Salvatore Mandrea asked Atty. Bruce Kalom who was representing William Eisemann if he wanted to proceed since there were only three members in attendance.
Kalom agreed to continue. With a five-member commission three members must concur for a vote to carry.
Kalom said the subdivision consisted of nine parcels, with eight lots fronting Wall St. Each parcel would have about 200 feet of road frontage with the lots running about 440 feet deep.

Kalom said there is no plan yet for the development of the north parcel. The State Health Department and the town sanitarian has approved septic system plans.
There is no open space designated now, but if any of the back land is developed, then the subdividers would have to negotiate with the Planning and Zoning Commission.
Charles Eaton, board member, asked Kalom if anyone had approached him or Eisemann about the land in regards to the proposed middle school.
Kalom said he had not been approached and he did not think Eisemann or the real estate agent had been. Kalom said that if they were contacted he was sure they would notify him.

Bolton Still Seeks Dump Cost Data

Donna Holland

The Bolton Board of Selectmen, in response to a letter received from David Yeomans, first selectman of Andover, will again ask, "When will we receive audited figures on the disposal area situation that we can present to our Board of Finance and townspeople?"
In response to the first request Yeomans said the figures in the Andover annual report for 1973-1974 were prepared by Ernest Yeske Jr., certified public accountant.
Yeomans said the figures in the bills which were presented to Bolton were compiled by him and Jean Gasper, selectmen's bookkeeper.
Yeomans said the comparison of figures between the annual report and the semi-annual billing were compiled by him.
The Bolton selectmen have never felt the bill was satisfactory. Bolton budgeted $15,954 for use of the disposal area in its 1973-1974 budget. A $6,978 bill for use of the area for the first six months was paid by Bolton but an $18,345 bill for the last six months was not.
At their meeting the selectmen agreed to send a check to Andover in the amount of $8,976, the budget category balance.
Andover officials claim the estimated cost of the disposal operation is $40,000 but Andover's annual fiscal report lists just $28,838 for the entire year's cost.

Yeomans agreed with Bolton officials that Andover has a sloppy bookkeeping system.
In October Andover and Bolton officials agreed that a dump study committee having representation from both towns should be formed.
A dump study committee was formed in Andover but Richard Morra, Bolton first selectman, said he was never informed of it.
The Bolton selectmen, after agreeing to pay the amount budgeted, also agreed that "if there is a difference they will attempt to arrive at a just conclusion at a future date."
Ammons Awarded Poetry Prize
NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The Yale University Library has awarded Cornell University professor A. R. Ammons the Bollingen Prize for poetry.
Ammons, on leave from Cornell to teach at his alma mater, Wake Forest University, was honored Tuesday for his works.
They include recent books "Sphere: The Form of Motion" and "Collected Poems of 1951-1971," which won the National Book Award in 1973.
Ammons, 48, the son of a North Carolina farmer, is a Navy veteran of World War II who received his degree at Wake Forest in 1949 then entered into a business career with a New Jersey glass equipment factory where he rose to executive vice president.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Architect's Boners

Architect Jackson sometimes got a little careless in his work. He placed part of one house on the wrong lot. In another house, sections of the foundation were left out. A third house went up without a building permit.
When Jackson's disgruntled clients finally complained to the state's architectural board, his license was revoked. Although he took the matter to court, the action of the board was upheld. The court said there were ample grounds for the decision that Jackson was incompetent.
Most states have set up some sort of agency to oversee the practice of architecture. Among its other powers, such an agency usually has the authority to suspend or revoke the license of an architect who fails to maintain a suitable level of competence.
Dishonesty, too, may lead to disciplinary measures. Another architect was accused of involvement in a scheme to bribe a city official. This was enough reason, a court ruled afterward, to justify a suspension of his license.
Nevertheless, the courts acknowledge that penalties of this kind should not be imposed lightly. In another case, there was no question that a certain house had been erected with specifications reduced to a dubious minimum.
But at a hearing, it became impossible to sort out which shortcuts were the fault of the architect and which were due to the insistence of the building money.
Under these ambiguous circumstances, a court ruled that the board had no sufficient basis for suspending the architect's license.
The court said:
The right to practice his profession is a valuable right and (may) insist upon (better) proof before this right can be taken away.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. I have a 20-year-old daughter who is studying to be a beautician. If I retire, can she get monthly benefits from Social Security on my earnings record?
A. If you receive monthly Social Security benefits, your daughter can also receive benefits until she reaches age 22 if she is a full-time student at a state approved school and remains single.
Q. I get Social Security benefits because my father is retired. Will I continue to receive student benefits until I graduate?
A. Yes. Monthly Social Security benefits to students are payable to the end of the semester.
Q. I am 19 and receiving monthly Social Security survivor's benefits as a student. I am going to transfer to another college next semester. Will I need to do anything to have my checks continued?
A. Yes. You should notify Social Security as soon as you enroll in a different school. Otherwise, your payments may stop when the first school tells you you are no longer attending.
Q. I'm 20 and get monthly Social Security payments as a student. I have been forced to drop a number of courses I'm taking to 11 hours. My college considers 12 hours as the minimum for a full-time student. Will this cause my monthly checks to be reduced?
A. Your monthly payments will stop. Students can get Social Security payments only if they are in full-time attendance.
Q. I've been getting Social Security payments since I was 9. Next year when I'm 18, I plan to enroll in a trade school. A friend told me my monthly payments will stop when I become 18 if I don't go to college. Is this true?
A. No. You don't have to go to a college to continue to get your monthly payments after you are 18. However, you do have to be single and enrolled as a full-time student at an educational institution. Most trade schools qualify as an educational institution. You should check with your Social Security office to be certain the school you're planning to attend meets this qualification.

Bolton's 1974 A Year of Projects

BOLTON

Donna Holland
Correspondent

Bolton residents began 1974 by clearing debris from the infamous December 1973 ice storm and getting their homes in order. Town employees had help from the National Guard clearing roads.

Bolton, if nothing else, had a very busy year. Many projects were in the works, some ending before they began; and some, like Bentley Memorial Library, finding its way from the drawing board to the beginning of construction.

Some projects remained in the air with no one knowing what happened to them or at least not talking about it.

Board of Selectmen
The Board of Selectmen received a bill from the Town of Andover for use of the Andover Disposal Area by Bolton residents from July 1, 1973 through June 30, 1974 in the amount of $25,323. The town had budgeted $15,954 for the use of the disposal area for that period.

Bolton and Andover selectmen have met and gone over the figures, but no satisfactory solution has been reached. Bolton selectmen feel the charges are too high and have not asked for the $9,469 added funds which would be needed to pay the bill.

Studies
In January, following the December 1973 ice storm, Raymond Allen, superintendent of schools, requested a meeting with the selectmen to discuss the possibility of the town either purchasing or leasing a generator.

Allen felt a study should be made which would include how many people could be serviced during an emergency and what kinds of service could be provided.

The selectmen appointed an ambulance study committee in May to study the feasibility of the town owning its own ambulance versus the present ambulance services available. A report is expected by the committee this month.

The selectmen are expected to appoint a dump study committee.

Chipper Purchased
In March residents approved an appropriation of $3,800 for the purchase of a chipper. The first request by the selectmen to the Board of Finance was rejected by a 4 to 1 vote. After some controversy a second request was approved by a 5 to 1 vote.

North Road
In July Manchester Probate Judge William FitzGerald sent a letter to the selectmen saying a solution over the responsibility of North Rd. had to be forthcoming by Labor Day or he would get Atty. Richard Woodhouse, counsel for Hartford National Bank, the executor of the E. J. Holl estate, fee owner of North Rd., to make a proposal which would include recommended procedure for a solution of the problem by the probate courts.

At this time the owners of the right-of-way whose property abuts the road have the responsibility to maintain the road. The fee owner — estate of E. J. Holl — has no responsibility. The town has no responsibility until North Rd. becomes a town approved road.

A spokesman for the North Rd. property owners said they were agreeable to paying one-third of the costs to bring the road up to a standard that would be acceptable to the town. At a selectmen's meeting, all agreed to having the town pay one-third of the cost if it was approved at a town meeting. Robert Johnston of Hartford National Bank said the one-third, one-third and one-third proposal sounded quite fair.

Nothing has been heard on the situation since Judge FitzGerald's letter in July.

Building Projects
In February Bolton voters by a 124 margin said yes to construction of a new town library at a cost not to exceed $271,000. The decision went to referendum following a town meeting when a petition containing the necessary signatures was presented.

In July a set of bids received was completely rejected by the PBC as the lowest of eight bids received was $80,000 over the amount approved by townspeople. The PBC approved revising the bid documents and proceeding with the rebidding documents. The aim of the PBC was to get the lowest possible amount needed to completely construct the library over the $271,000 before going to the finance board.

In August from a second set of bids, the lowest bidder was DmC Construction, Inc. of Glastonbury. The bidding was still $46,000 over the amount approved.

The Board of Finance by a tie vote rejected the additional appropriation.

The PBC then held several meetings with those concerned with the project and by changing specifications was able to lower the amount needed. It returned to the Board of Finance which, in a matter of minutes, again by tie votes, completely rejected three different proposals.

The PBC again met with those involved and in September found it would be able to build a library for $271,000. Construction began in October. Completion of the library is expected in May.

Tennis Courts
In April residents approved an appropriation of $40,000 for four tennis courts with metered lighting at Bolton High School. The amount is 50 per cent reimbursable.

A contract was signed with Robison, Inc. of Yalesville, Conn. in August for $39,194, low bidder. Robison said the courts would be completed 60 days after commencement. Construction of the courts began in September. They are not yet completed.

Firehouse Addition
In March disagreement between the PBC and the selectmen and fire commissioners prompted the finance board to reject a request for $1,000 for plans for an addition and renovations to the present firehouse.

The PBC felt an architect was necessary to draw the plans. The selectmen and fire commissioners felt — a contractor could supply the necessary plan data instead of an architect.

In April residents approved the sum of $1,000 for the planned addition.

In May Douglas Cheney, chairman of the PBC, was authorized to contact an architect to draw plans for the proposed project.

In August the fire commissioners met and discussed the planned addition. They felt that little progress had been made on the project since it first originated and voiced their complaints to the PBC.

Since that time the PBC has met several times with the fire commissioners, architects and others concerned with the project.

CWEP Program
Bolton students received on-the-job training under a Cooperative Work Experience Program (CWEP) a plan that gives students the opportunity to combine their academic work with training on a real job. Fifteen students participated in the program until June. In September the program was expanded.

New Principal
Joseph Fleming of Tolland was hired as principal of Bolton High School following the resignation of Norman Shaw, principal for six years.

Teachers Retire
Four teachers with a total of 90 years of service between them retired in June. They were Mrs. Sylvia Patrick, Mrs. Gladys Bissell, Mrs. Bertha McGarrath and Mrs. Evelyn Halloran.

Curriculum Approved
The Bolton school board approved a family life and health curriculum for students in Kindergarten through Grade 6 with the provision parents have the option of not having their children participate in areas identified in the curriculum as possibly being considered sensitive by them. The program is expected to be implemented after March.

Zoning Commission
The Zoning Commission denied a request by Ernest and Patricia Reed for a zone change from Residential R I to general business with a special exception on property owned by them on West St. The request was denied in order to preserve the residential nature of the neighborhood. The Reeds are appealing the decision.

The Zoning Commission has not yet reached a decision on a request by Anthony Botticello for an extension of the present zone and a special exception to zoning regulation on property owned by him on Villa Louisa Rd. Botticello, who owns Vito's Restaurant, is planning to expand the parking lot, possibly expand the restaurant and construct a radio tower.

I.G.E. Program
The Individual Guided Education program at Bolton Elementary School proved successful through June and was expanded in September to include students at Bolton Center School. IGE is a system which enables students to progress according to his own ability.

Projects Not To Be
In April, a private tennis club to be designed and built by Andrew Ansaldi Jr. on property owned by Andrew Ansaldi was planned. Construction was slated to begin immediately. The project never got underway.

In February, Raymond Negro announced plans for the development of a private recreation club at the site of the present Bolton Lake Hotel and on Boston Turnpike and at the Negro brothers farm on West St. That also was not to be.

In February the owners of the Bolton Ice Palace, W. Harry England, Ted Trudon and William O'Brien, announced plans for the addition of a duplicate facility to the existing structure on Rt. 6. The project never got underway.

Eagle Awards
Craig Jensen, Steven Potter, Jeffrey Smith, members of Boy Scout Troop 73, received the Eagle award.

Explorers Group
In February the Bolton Volunteer Fire department sponsored the formation of a Special Interest Explorers Group for those ages 14 to 18 to assist them.

Coaches Resign
After a total of eight years of service between them, Gil Boissoneau and Leon Rivers, head coaches of the Bolton Pony and Midget football teams, resigned. Steve Naravage will replace Boissoneau as head coach of the Bulldogs and Sherwood Holland will replace Rivers as head coach of the Tigers.

United Nations Day
For the first time that anyone could remember, Bolton celebrated United Nations Day with entertainment and refreshments (international, of course) at Bolton Elementary School.

Park Vandalism
Vandalism at Herrick Memorial Park rose to an all-time high in the fall forcing

Calvin Hutchinson, assessor, was among 71 municipal assessment officials in Connecticut who received official designation as a Certified Connecticut Municipal Assessor in accordance with a 1974 law that was part of a package adopted to promote assessment reform.

Junior Woman's Club
The Bolton Junior Woman's Club sponsored several mini-courses during the year including an advanced cake decorating course, construction of a madonna and construction of fall decorations. The club held an Easter egg hunt for town children as well as a bicycle clinic and rodeo. It had a community carol sing.

Town Charter
A review of town events would not be completed without mention of proposed draft of the town's first charter. The town presently operates under state statutes.

A charter commission was appointed by the selectmen in 1973 and after some controversy as to its legality was reappointed. The commission submitted a draft of the charter to the selectmen in July asking they review it and return it with any suggestions by Aug. 15.

In October, when the commission still had not heard from the selectmen, a letter was sent which aroused some controversy. The charter commission held a public hearing on the charter late in November. It was mainly attended by persons presently serving on town boards or commissions as were
