Anti-Recession Plan Includes Tax Rebate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scrapping much of his go-easy economic program, President Ford will seek tough new anti-recession measures: a 12 per cent rebate on 1974 personal income taxes, import barriers that will lead to higher gasoline prices and a lid on most federal spending.

"We are in trouble," the President told a national television audience Monday in a speech from the White House library that previewed Wednesday's State of the Union message.

Strong Measures Needed
Ford said the country is not on the brink of a 1930-style depression. He indicated WIN buttons are no longer enough and said the government must take strong measures to counter unemployment and recession as well as inflation. Among them:

—A 12 per cent rebate on last year's federal income taxes, up to $1,000 per tax return, that would release $12 billion of potential purchasing power to consumers. An average family of four earning $12,000 in 1974 and paying $1,228 in taxes would get $147.36 in two equal payments in May and September.

—A $4 billion in investment tax incentives for business.

—A $30 billion increase in energy taxes and tariffs designed to make Americans cut down on the use of gasoline and fuel oil. This will likely mean a sudden price hike of about 7 cents a gallon in retail gasoline with even higher prices to come.

—A one-year moratorium on new federal spending programs and a clear threat to veto any new money measures passed by Congress.

—A temporary 5 per cent ceiling on federal pay increases and a similar lid on automatic boosts in Social Security benefits and government and military retirement.

Ford said he would use his emergency powers to raise the tariff, or import fee, on petroleum by $3 a barrel within 90 days. The idea is to encourage conservation and development of alternative sources of energy to high-priced Middle East crude oil.

Most of the program will require Congress' approval, and early reaction showed Ford's desire to give even wealthy taxpayers a slice of the 1974 rebate was in for tough sledding.

Congress Receptive

"Any credit for 1974 taxes would have to be given to the low and moderate income group to be acceptable to Congress in my judgment," said Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, the panel that must clear all tax bills.

Ullman agreed with Ford on the amount of money needed to stimulate the slumping economy — $43 billion that is likely to leave Ford, an avowed fiscal conservative, sporting the biggest budget deficit since the free-spending New Deal administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Congress Expected to Change Ford Proposals Substantially

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Upper income wage earners, and perhaps those in the upper middle brackets, might as well forget about a cut in taxes if initial congressional reaction is a guide.

With few exceptions, influential House members said any cut in taxes — such as President Ford's proposed 12 per cent 1974 rebate to a maximum of $1,000 — should be aimed only at those in the lower to middle income brackets.

To Start Work Soon

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., incoming chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said the panel would begin work on a tax cut soon with an eye toward having a bill on the House floor in March. But he said Ford's program probably would be altered significantly.

"The President's tax reduction program is acceptable in amount but not in the way it is effected," Ullman said. "Any credit for 1974 taxes would have to be given to the low and moderate income group to be acceptable to Congress in my judgment."

Ullman also said changes would be made in Ford's proposal to increase the investment tax credit for business from 7 per cent to 12 per cent, but he would favor maintaining about the same dollar amount of relief — $4 billion.

Rep. Barber Conable of New York, an influential Republican member of Ways and Means, said he would oppose tax cuts for anyone making more than $15,000 per year.

"I frankly think there's going to be very little sentiment to give rebates to taxpayers who have not been adequately hurt by inflation so that they're having a bad time," Conable said.

Corman Reluctant

Rep. James Corman, D-Calif., said he would be "very reluctant" to accept Ford's plan.

"I think you ought to make it 20 per cent up to $500, or some such," he said.

Corman also said he was disturbed that the revenue loss would be so great.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., said the Democrats, who presented their own economic and tax proposals Monday, were "not seeking a confrontation with the President."

All Seeking Solutions

"All we're seeking are solutions. And to the extent his recommendations parallel ours, we say so much the better."

Underscoring a division on the Ways and Means panel which might delay a tax bill, Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-La., said he was not yet convinced a tax cut would not "fuel the fires of inflation more."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., also said he did not believe a tax cut for "big earners" would stimulate the economy.

House Banking Committee Chairman

Wright Patman, D-Tex., said, "I'm glad that the President has at long last recognized the need for a tax cut, but his speech is a sad reminder of how many of our economic difficulties could have been avoided if the administration had accepted congressional suggestions in this area months ago."

Snow Storm Falls Short Of Earlier Predictions

By DOUG BEVINS

Manchester awoke this morning to a veritable winter wonderland, comfortable in the knowledge it was spared from a predicted snowfall which could have been disastrous.

Schools could have been closed. They weren't. Motorists could have been stranded. They weren't. Electrical and telephone service could have been disrupted. It wasn't.

The amount of snow that did come to Manchester — about two to four inches — wasn't even worth shoveling, in most cases. The snow was pretty this morning, but it wasn't enough for the town to open the Northview Ski Slope. It was just barely enough for sledding.

The storm, which moved over Connecticut Monday afternoon, fell far short of predicted depths but still dumped eight inches of snow in northwest sections of the state. It looked bad for awhile; snowplows and sanders were out in force as commuters drove home slowly Monday.

A number of Manchester meetings scheduled for Monday night were canceled as officials checked weather reports. A Board of Education session was rescheduled for tonight at 8, and a public hearing by the Community Development Advisory Committee has been rescheduled next Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Nathan Hale School.

Town highway crews started sanding at 3 p.m. and finished by 6 p.m. Monday. Plowing started at 6:45 and lasted until about 3 a.m. Then there was more sanding, which went on into this morning.

Elsewhere in New England, parts of New Hampshire and Maine received upwards of six inches, as did areas in central and western Massachusetts.

In the blizzard-clogged Midwest, National Guardsmen manned snow-moving equipment and hay-lifting helicopters, as several states continued to dig out of a weekend storm which was blamed for at least 53 deaths.

Shoveling Snow the Easy Way

Roger Landon operates a small snow blower on Manchester's Main St. this morning to get rid of an accumulation of snow. The snow fall was much less than the forecast eight to 10 inches and with the exception of a few meetings cancelled last night, business continued as usual.

Directors To Consider MHA Fund Commitment

By SOL R. COHEN

Possible action on committing funds for acquiring land for housing for the elderly units is one of the items high on the priority list for the Manchester Board of Directors tonight.

The board's regular meeting is at 8, in the Municipal Building Hearing Room. At 7, it will meet informally with the Conservation Commission, to determine the commission's functions and to iron out any differences that may exist between the two bodies.

The Manchester Housing Authority (MHA) has asked the directors to commit up to $260,000 in federal Community Development funds for land it needs for immediate and long-range construction. It wants that commitment before April 4, the expiration date of an option it holds on Spencer St. property.

Police Chief Pay Scale

Two other priority items to be considered tonight concern salaries — one a proposed raise for the town manager, the other a proposed lower pay scale for the new police chief to be hired as of Feb. 28.

A proposed 6 per cent cost-of-living pay raise is being recommended for Town Manager Robert Weiss — retroactive either to July 1 or Jan. 1, Weiss, in his 10th year as town manager, receives $27,000 annually. He started at $19,500 in January 1966.

The proposal was opposed last Tuesday night by three town residents and backed by a fourth. They spoke briefly during the public comment session of the board's meeting.

Oppose Raise

Opposing the raise were Frank Utakis, president of the Manchester Property Owners Association; John Eicholtzer, an MPOA official; and Herman Schendel, retired Manchester police chief. Backing it and urging it be granted as a merit raise instead of a cost-of-living raise was Ken Morgester, Manchester orchestra leader.

Police Chief James Reardon, who gets $20,608 annually in a salary range of $19,692 to $24,271, is retiring Feb. 28. The board's personnel subcommittee is recommending an $18,334 to $22,000 salary range for the new chief. Schendel recommended a $16,000 to $20,000 range.

Also tonight, the board will consider a $5,000 appropriation from Fire Fund surplus for purchasing a Hurst Rescue Tool — a hydraulic tool capable of pulling a car apart in minutes, in order to remove accident victims.

Day Care Screening

Another $5,000 appropriation to be considered is under a grant from the state Health Department. It would permit the town to embark on a pilot program for screening children in four areas of development at day care centers. It would be a "first" in the state and, if successful, would serve as a model for similar programs in other municipalities.

Among several other appropriations and allocations to be considered is a $9,000 allocation for constructing a ramp for the handicapped — into the Municipal Building at its rear entrance. Future ramps for Lincoln Center, the Hall of Records and Mary Cheney Library will be considered at subsequent meetings.

The board is expected to reappoint veteran Zoning Board of Appeals member John Cagianello to another five-year term.

Waterbury Complex Damaged by Fire

WATERBURY (UPI) — A commercial complex on South Main Street was on the verge of collapsing after a two-alarm blaze early today caused severe damage to the buildings, authorities said.

Eight firemen were overcome by smoke while battling the fire, and Fire Chief I. C. Delbuono talked with them at the St. Mary's Hospital emergency room to determine whether toxic fumes in the smoke had caused their illnesses.

The fire was reported at 12:13 a.m. at the A and L Department Store, 156 South Main St., and it later spread to three adjoining shops, DeVito's Music Shop, Atlas Floor Covering and Beer's Clothing.

The blaze was declared under control at 6:13 a.m., but seven fire trucks were still at the scene at 9 a.m. today.

Authorities said the area involved in the fire was part of an urban renewal project scheduled for demolition. Traffic has been rerouted around the section.

No immediate official estimates of damage were available but the fire department dispatcher said the blaze almost totally destroyed the buildings involved.

Partly sunny and cold, highs in the high 20s to the low 30s. Clear and very cold tonight, lows in the teens except in the 20s near the shore. Wednesday sunny and continued cold. Highs 25 to 30.

Welfare Commissioner Formerly of Manchester

Edward H. Maher, who will become Connecticut's new welfare commissioner Feb. 1, is a former Manchester resident. He lived at 28 Richmond Dr. in October 1971 when he accepted appointment as first deputy commissioner of New York State's Department of Social Services.

His appointment was announced at a Monday afternoon news conference in Hartford by Gov. Ella Grasso.

In accepting the New York post, Maher resigned as University of Connecticut vice president for financial affairs and director of administrative services at the UConn Health Center.

From 1957 to 1964, Maher had resided at 147 Chambers St. He left Manchester and Connecticut in 1964 to become planning consultant to the New York State Division of the Budget. He returned to Connecticut in 1966 when he accepted the UConn post.

Maher, 47, is a New Haven native. He and his wife, the former Therese Kane of Norwich, have three sons — Brian, Jeffrey and Gary. The family is residing in the Albany, N.Y. area.

Maher is a 1949 graduate of the University of Connecticut, where he majored in government and business administration. He received a master's degree in public affairs in 1952 from Syracuse University.

He will receive about $33,000 annually as Connecticut welfare commissioner. In New York, he is receiving $42,000 annual-

P&W Officials Happy Over YF16 Choice

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — Pratt & Whitney Aircraft officials are happy over the Pentagon's choice Monday of the YF16 fighter plane, but it won't change plans by the company to lay off 500 workers.

Officials here expressed delight over the selection of General Dynamics to produce the supersonic fighter that will be powered by Pratt & Whitney engines, at costs that could go up to $3 billion.

Pratt & Whitney president Bruce N. Torell said the selection of the plane for the Air Force "is an important award to Pratt and Whitney Aircraft and will go a long way in stabilizing the company's long-term employment picture."

A company spokesman said, however, significant production of the F100 engines for the YF16 won't be realized until 1979 and the firm's plans to lay off 500 workers in the engineering department will still go into effect.

The company announced toward the end of last year that it planned to lay off 500 employees, about a third of them engineers, beginning in January, because of the economic slump.

Strike Averted

This came after the 16,000-member Machinists Union, a little less than half of the 35,000 P&W employees in the state, voted to accept a new three-year contract several hours before a strike deadline Nov. 30.

Pratt & Whitney is the largest division of United Aircraft Corp., Connecticut's largest employer.

Torell said the immediate benefit from the Pentagon award will be a $55.5 million contract in the engine development of 15 of the supersonic planes "and could be worth more than $1 billion in sales to the Air Force."

Subcontracting Planned

While production will be in East Hartford, the company "will follow its traditional policy of subcontracting a considerable portion of this business to its suppliers throughout the country," Torell said.

The $1 billion could evolve from the estimated 650 planes projected for the Air Force, however, another $12 billion in sales is possible for the fighter from foreign nations.

A consortium comprising Belgium, The Netherlands, Denmark and Norway will weigh the YF-16 against the French Mirage and the Swedish Viggen and decide within the next 90 days which one to acquire.

General Dynamics will build the plane in Ft. Worth, Texas, where it is expected that several thousands of new jobs will open up.

A 224-page OECD report said the group's industrialized members, including the United States, Canada, Japan and Western Europe, "would produce almost 80 per cent of their energy requirements by 1985."

The organization, a forum for industrialized nations seeking to maximize economic growth, said the OECD states would produce significantly more fuel than the 55 per cent figure suggested in previous studies.

"Achievement of the estimated potential for energy conservation and production would make the OECD almost self-sufficient in energy by 1985," the report said.

The study said, however, member nations would have to make "a very large shift of resources into the energy sector" to approach fuel independence. The OECD nations currently produce 65 per cent of their fuel needs.

The OECD projections assumed "no substantial change in the real prices of imported crude oil" from the level at the end of 1974, about $10.80 a barrel, four times the figure a year before.

The organization said the OECD's total energy consumption would grow by 3 1/2 to 4 per cent a year until 1985, compared to the 5 per cent figure expected prior to the quadrupling of oil prices.

It said oil's share in total energy consumption would drop from 55 per cent to about 45 per cent by 1985 and petroleum imports would dip "considerably below present levels, particularly after 1980."

The study said OECD members would double the 1972 level of oil and gas production by 1985 and increase nuclear power 20-fold during the same period.

The report said coal production would increase at least 65 per cent. Hydroelectric and geothermal power was expected to rise by 67 per cent.

But the team of experts who prepared the report said the "rapid expansion of high-cost domestic energy production" and "high import prices" would keep fuel prices high.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Issues No Longer So Big on Campus

"Where did all the issues go?" asked a recent editorial in one Midwestern college student newspaper.

The causes and slogans which once took up much of student energies, wrath and idealism - Kent State, Black Power, the clenched fist, the Pentagon - seem almost camouflaged on the campus these days.

The average freshman who entered college in the fall of 1973 was, indeed, a different breed of cat from his predecessors of a few years ago, according to a survey by the Co-operative Institution Research Project and the American Council on Education.

He's Sour on Sweets

The high cost of sugar could be a blessing in disguise to consumers' health, if not to their pocketbooks.

Nutritionally, we don't need sugar in our diets, says George Briggs, professor of nutrition at the University of California at Berkeley.

While sucrose accounts for 17 per cent of the total calories in the nation's food supply, these are "empty" calories that provide only energy since sugar itself contains no nutrients such as protein, fats, minerals or vitamins.

Moreover, too much sugar may be indirectly linked to cardiovascular diseases, obesity and malnutrition, and is directly related to tooth decay, says the professor.

Anyone who thinks that a sugarless day will keep the dentist away may be doomed to disappointment, however, judging by a report from another quarter.

William H. Bowen of the National Institute of Dental Research conducted extensive dietary experiments on monkeys, which are good models for dental research because they thrive on a human diet and harbor many of the same bacteria found in people.

His findings showed that bacteria deposits developed on teeth regardless of the absence of sucrose or simple sugars. In short, he says, substitutes for table sugar may be fine for weight control and prescribed sugarless diets, but they won't cut down on tooth decay.

Well, you picks your professor and you takes your chances.

WASHINGTON - In 1961, when I was writing a book on the Central Intelligence Agency, I established a kind of arm's-length rapport with Allen W. Dulles, then the spy agency's director.

During one of several interviews with Dulles, always granted reluctantly by that avuncular but tough-minded technician, I put a question to him: "What would CIA do if the death of a foreign agent was absolutely essential to protecting the national security of the Republic?"

"We'd kill him," Dulles replied matter of factly.

He smiled then, and noted that of course my question was hypothetical and that he "could not possibly conceive" of such a situation arising.

But there you are. In the case against the CIA, based on allegations by the New York Times that the agency has spied on thousands of American citizens, it is vital that the American people keep their collective eye on the main issue and not be diverted by news stories "revealing" how the CIA acquires intelligence on the activities and aims of foreign powers.

Unless the CIA in effect is to be dismantled, a certain schizophrenia must be maintained by the U.S. public: that the agency never been anything more than the espionage trade, and we the people should not forget that we hired the CIA to engage in dirty tricks abroad, including assassination. And once again the obvious must be restated, to wit, that every other nation, whether self-governing or ruled by a dictator, does the same.

MAX LERNER The Elite Watchmen

NEW YORK CITY - In the weeks ahead, with the work of the investigating panel on the CIA, we shall be tasting the first fruits of the Ford-Rockefeller-Kissinger triad.

The flask which the panel has received has focused on its establishment character. But what did the critics expect to get - a panel of Jane Fonda and Herbert Marcuse? I should myself have welcomed a panel which would include both liberal and conservative critics of the administration and the present power setup - a sort of third ground between the establishment and the bitter revolutionaries. But it would be self-deception to think it possible, not to say probable.

Let's start with the bare bones of the situation. One of the crucial criteria of a healthy society is that it should not be a cover or surveillance or dossier society.

Years ago, before it was fashionable to worry about the FBI and CIA, I gave a lecture in a civil liberties series at Cornell, which I devoted wholly to the dossier state, attacking the secret files kept on the professor and public lives of Americans. It got a glacial reception then. I haven't abated my position since.

A covert internal operation, with dossiers on Americans, whether in the hundreds or (as we now are told) somewhere around 10,000, is bound to be a cancerous growth. It forms a state within a state, and once the web of suspicion starts there are no bounds to it.

We have known for some time about the existence of the surveillance. What is new are the charges pinpointing it - dates and numbers and a few names - and the fact that the CIA was involved "beyond its charter," as the phrase goes. The report by the CIA director, William Colby, says as much.

Then comes the kicker. Section 102 of the Act goes on to provide that the CIA shall perform "other functions and activities" as directed by the National Security Council (NSC).

Well, when all the arguments are in, the NSC is not going to be the President of the United States. And that phrase, "other functions and duties," is dangerously broad, not to say preposterously vague.

At this writing, it seems certain that Congress will conduct its own various investigations of the CIA, and the back of the hand to Ford's little committee. That's okay. Congress represents the body politic. But its members could spare the country a lot of noise if they simply rewrote the National Security Act of 1947 so that the President and the CIA director could understand it without calling in a gaggle of lawyers.

Rockville Hospital Changes Visit Hours

Effective Jan. 27 there will be some changes in the visiting hours schedule at Rockville General Hospital. The change effects those in the medical/surgical section and was approved by the medical staff and the trustees.

Staff officials said the change in hours was made to ensure the patients in the departments to have more time for rest. Patient stays are shorter and much more concentrated than in the past making it more important to provide ample time for rest, they said.

For the medical/surgical floors the hours will be from 12:30 to 2 p.m. and from 4 p.m. until 8 p.m. No visitors will be allowed between 2 and 4 p.m.

Those charged are scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville Feb. 4.

Jeffrey Jacobs, 21, of Willimantic was charged Sunday with disorderly conduct in connection with the complaint from a resident of the Willow Brook Apartments, Vernon. He was released on a $100 non-surety bond.

Accountability Report Accepted

The Board of Education has adopted the final two recommendations of the accountability committee report which it accepted in September.

Adopted last week was the recommendation that the Board of Education and administration maximize their contact with the townspeople by systematic newsletters, press releases and local parent organizations within the schools.

The board agreed to work toward an annual report in June or July with an evaluation on programs in each of the four schools with heavy documentation of failures and successes. Mrs. Butterworth will prepare a guideline for the evaluation and principals will have some responsibility for it.

Mrs. Butterworth said this represents a long-term commitment on the part of the board. Short-term reports for curricular changes for programs with costs will also be instituted. This recommendation was made by the committee to make the school system more accountable and responsive to the townspeople.

Other recommendations of the accountability committee had previously been adopted by the board. One is formulation of new goals for the entire school system, with substantial community input. The goals will be disseminated for information and criticism. The goals committee has been established and will meet Wednesday for the first time.

The board agreed to publish a brochure outlining schools' goals, with a questionnaire attached, seeking response to remedy a severe communications gap between the community and the school system. Also adopted was frequent system-wide evaluations from school administrators about what is currently taught and its effectiveness with adopted goals.

A recommendation that the board and superintendent of schools annually undertake self-evaluation was adopted in October, and the evaluations have already been completed. The final recommendation, also adopted in October, was that the superintendent, school business manager, and board devise a common, cost effective analysis and cost benefit format for monitoring changes in programs or personnel.

Residents Question Middle School Plan

HEBRON
Anne Dallaire

About 35 Hebron residents met informally with some of the members of the Regional District 8 Board of Education along with Mr. Phil Pines of the architectural firm of Jeter, Cook and Jepson on the proposed middle school. Pines told the residents that the school would cost $4.7 million.

asked how the residents from Marlborough could afford a new middle school when they will soon have to build an elementary school.

Richard Harrison, site committee chairman, said the price of the land seems to be in line with the current prices. Harrison said he had spoken to some of the real estate agents and found the price to be fair, and had also spoken to the assessor and the price seems fair to him also.

Marlborough could then build an elementary school with the seventh and eighth grades going to school in their own town.

Shannon replied that a year and a half of study would be needed and he did not think it would pass if brought to the referendum. The board goes back to "zero" and must evaluate the vote, and see what building plan would be acceptable to the voters.

Pines told the residents with construction costs coming down, he anticipated favorable bids.

Shannon said all the boards were contacted and that no one can really afford it, but it is needed.

One resident inquired if the school was voted down what would happen next?

Shannon replied that if the referendum fails the board goes back to "zero" and must evaluate the vote, and see what building plan would be acceptable to the voters.

The school board accepted with regret the resignation of Mrs. Laura Butt.

Mrs. Bourret was named by the board to fill the vacancy on the Central Office Committee, led by Mrs. Butt. The board granted Mrs. Joan Hogan a leave of absence from Jan. 25, 1975 to August 1976.

Dr. David Cattanauch, superintendent of schools, will be meeting with State Rep. Aloysius Ahearn-D to discuss legislative action to recover money lost due to the early closing of Rham last June.

DevCo Still Deciding on Sewer District Suit

COVENTRY
Monica Shea
Correspondent

Peter Libassi, president of Greater Hartford Process DevCo, said last night that no decision had been made yet on whether to terminate the suit filed against the Coventry Town Council for refusing to call a meeting which would have allowed the formation of a sewer district on property owned by DevCo.

DevCo had announced last month that DevCo would not be building its proposed new community due to economic conditions and last week DevCo withdrew the application before the Planning and Zoning Commission which would have allowed a planned community zone.

Libassi said, "Having the land sewered might not make much difference in the value of the land if it were to be zoned for two acres or even if it is zoned as one acre."

Tolland County Court of Common Pleas Judge Edward Hamill has refused to issue either a temporary or permanent injunction against Bruce and Sondra Stave which would have prevented them from completing their new home on Morrow Rd.

Inland Wetlands Act. Judge Hamill ruled that the wetland regulations do not preclude construction within 150 feet of a designated watercourse, but prohibit only the construction of an in-ground septic system within those limits.

Both had also contended the septic system was within 150 feet of a swamp on his property and therefore prohibited by the regulations. Hamill ruled that this property was not a swamp.

Board Divided On Middle School

HEBRON
Anne Dallaire
Correspondent
228-3267

Members of the Board of Education did not take a straw vote but did voice their opinions on the proposed Rham middle school with Chairman David Albee, Mrs. Betty Mastandrea, Mr. Robert Owens, Mrs. Janis Pirel, and Mrs. Louise Bourret in favor of the school and Charles Barrasso, Edward Williams, and Mrs. Nancy Foote opposed.

Barrasso said he is not in favor of the site or the building. He said the Jones Hollow Rd. site is not a proper one, "unless we put a house boat on it."

Barrasso went on to say that the proposed property is partially under water, and if the building were designed right and at a different location then he would be in favor.

Mrs. Nancy Foote said that the building (Rham) is not being used to the best advantage. She felt the alternatives had not been explored carefully enough.

The school board accepted with regret the resignation of Mrs. Laura Butt.

Mrs. Bourret was named by the board to fill the vacancy on the Central Office Committee, led by Mrs. Butt. The board granted Mrs. Joan Hogan a leave of absence from Jan. 25, 1975 to August 1976.

State Businessmen Differ On Ford's Economic Plans

HARTFORD (UPI) - Elements of President Ford's plan to stimulate the nation's economy by cutting income taxes and letting tariffs jockey fuel costs have met with sharp opposition from state businessmen.

The Connecticut Business and Industry Association applauded some of the proposals in a telegram to the White House Monday afternoon but agreed with United Illuminating Co., which cried foul over proposed oil pricing measures.

Arthur L. Woods, CBIA president, said he hopes the proposed formula of cutting personal income taxes and increasing investment tax credits will spur consumer spending, add jobs, and modernize and expand the state's manufacturing base.

Like the southwestern Connecticut utility, however, Woods viewed the prospect of oil price increases with no enthusiasm.

Businesses and consumers in the Northeast, heavily dependent on foreign oil for industry and home heating, would suffer if Ford's tariff are effected, Woods said.

Price and tax increases for oil in New England will raise prices on manufactured goods and offset the effects of the other part of Ford's plan, he said.

U.I., which claims to burn about 2 million barrels a year of imported crude oil, expressed strong objections to a proposed $3-a-barrel federal tariff on imported oil.

The utility termed the proposed levy "another inequitable burden for this region's electric utilities customers who have already been severely hurt by rapidly rising oil prices."

For the average residential consumer's bill, U.I. said, the tariff would add $2.50 a month. The company also claimed that the tariff would be four times as much as the $5.7 million rate hike it recently said it would

Making Way for Addition

Bulldozer, operated by James Gorman of Bolton's Reed Trucking and Excavating Co., pushes to knock down frame house immediately west of the Highland Park Market, 317 Highland St. This house and one other were razed last week to make way for an addition and more parking for the grocery store. Construction on the addition - which will more than double the size of the store - is expected to start this spring. The market's existing building, about 8,000 square feet in size, was built in 1969. There's been a store at the site since 1968. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Of Consumer Concern Skiing Is Exciting But Also Dangerous

By State Department Of Consumer Protection

Skiing can be one of the most exciting winter sports but it can also be one of the most dangerous for novices. There are many causes for ski accidents but lack of experience and the quality and condition of equipment top the list.

Any beginner should get expert instruction and leaders in the sport recommend a minimum of five lessons.

We suggest that you rely on a reputable ski shop for the fitting and adjusting of ski equipment, especially if you're a beginner.

When shopping for boots, remember the fit is very important. If the boots are too large your feet can slip forward and backward and reduce your ability to control your skis.

Boots that are too tight can restrict blood circulation and may lead to frostbite.

The ski binding is the most critical part of your skiing gear because when you lose control the binding must release you from the skis before you suffer a serious injury. However, the binding should not release so easily that you'll be exposed to injury from an unnecessary fall. Also, the boots and bindings need to be compatible. If they aren't, your bindings won't operate properly.

To avoid a mishap, you should purchase bindings at a reputable ski shop and take your boots with you when making the purchase.

When maintaining your ski equipment remember that bindings and anti-friction devices should be thoroughly cleaned at the beginning of the season, at the start of each day's skiing and as often as needed throughout the day.

Warm, close-fitting clothing is recommended. Loose clothing can become entangled in lifts, tow ropes and with ski poles. Outer clothing should be made of a fabric that will inhibit sliding after a fall.

Medical Deductions Include Drugs, Travel

By RAY DE CRANE

With an increasing number of employers paying most, if not all, of the cost of health insurance programs, the likelihood of a medical deduction on your income tax return is being diminished.

Yet for those with excessive medical expenses and little or no insurance protection there is still the possibility of substantial tax relief.

By now most taxpayers are aware that medical expenses must be greater than 3 per cent of their adjusted gross income before any deduction is possible. For example, if adjusted gross income is $20,000, medical expenses must be more than $600 before there is a deduction. And then the deduction is limited to the excess beyond the $600 figure.

For most persons adjusted gross income is simply their total reportable income for the year.

The cost of prescriptions is taken into the tabulation to the extent they exceed 1 per cent of adjusted gross income. In the $20,000 example, this would mean prescription costs beyond $200 would be considered.

An exception to the 3 per cent and 1 per cent rules is the cost of hospital and health insurance programs. Half of the amount paid for such insurance, to a maximum of $150, is immediately deductible.

This applies only to insurance paid with your own funds. If your employer pays for the insurance as an employee benefit, you have no deduction. If you and the employer share the cost, you may deduct only half the portion for which you pay.

Under a ruling of IRS last year, the medical insurance portion of your automobile insurance may no longer be considered for this purpose.

Whenever you have a medical deduction don't forget to include in your tabulation a

State's Stock Market Venture Under Study

HARTFORD (UPI) — Auditors say three of four investment advisors for Connecticut's pioneer venture into the stock market fared far worse than Wall Street during a one-year period ending in May, 1973.

By comparison, the auditors disclosed Monday, the composite index of the New York Stock Exchange showed a decline of 2.50 per cent.

The total investment portfolio, excluding University of Connecticut trust funds, as of June 30, 1973, totaled $82.5 million, the auditors said.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso has recommended abandonment of Connecticut's common stock purchase plan because of the tremendous decline in stock market values since it was started two years ago and paper losses of $50 million.

The auditors criticized the Investment Committee for failing to approve all investments.

Chief Justice Charles House, writing for the majority, noted that Griffith lived a half mile away from his home with his children, supported them, often visited, dined, stayed overnight, babysat and even kept a razor and clothes at his house.

All this pointed to a "close paternal relationship" between Griffith and his children, but they do not alter the fact that he lived at another address, from which address he voted and signed his car, Justice House wrote.

The Supreme Court ruled the Superior Court erred in concluding that the boy was insured under the terms of the policy. In his dissent, Justice Bogdanski wrote, "To follow the majority view would be a definition of household without regard for varying factual situations which strip many such broken hearts of their insured coverage."

CCAG Charges DOT Favors Roadbuilders

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Citizens Action Group today accused a state agency of being the tool of roadbuilders in trying to discredit another state agency's monitoring of the environment.

Marc M. Caplan, CCAG director, said the Department of Transportation is working with the Connecticut Construction Industries Association to undermine efforts to clean up Connecticut's air and develop mass transportation.

Caplan's statement came in response to repeated assertions by the construction group based on a DOT report charging DEP with "deceit" and urging an investigation of DEP monitoring of air pollution caused by automobiles.

"For DOT to be partly in this attack is not surprising," Caplan said. "It reaffirms the incestuous relationship that has always existed between the roadbuilders and the former Highway Department."

Caplan said the DOT and CCIA action "confirms once again what everybody has always known—the DOT still basically the Highway Department."

Telephone Rate Hike Requested

HARTFORD (UPI) — Telephone rate increases ranging from $1.30 a month to $2, and averaging 21 per cent, are proposed in the largest request put to the Public Utilities Commission so far by Southern New England Telephone Co.

Should the commission approve the $74 million in proposed rate increases, formally requested Monday, telephone customers would begin paying their increased bills in June.

The investment committee continued to function, the auditors said, but only to approve investment transactions already made.

The state used its investment arm, Nutmeg Securities, Inc., to buy and sell common stocks. Nutmeg, incorporated Oct. 11, 1972, may purchase the stocks through a regular broker or through the seat it owns on the PBW Stock Exchange in Philadelphia.

Major Expenditures

Dr. Kennedy's budget proposal calls for $6,843,850 to go for regular learning programs, an increase of $40,101; $2,183,180 for special programs, an increase of $187,018; and $4,359,881 for support and administrative programs including transportation, building maintenance and plant operation, an increase of $529,584.

Minimum Base

The commission recommended the minimum property tax base to equalize large inequities in the availability of taxable property in Connecticut to provide school funds.

Total Request Is $13.3 Million

Preliminary School Budget Seeks $1.2 Million Increase

By JUNE TOMPKINS

The Board of Education is requesting a $13,356,703 budget for the 1975-76 school year, an increase of $1,256,703 over this year's budget.

Where staff additions have been recommended, said Kennedy, commensurate cuts have been made in other programs so that this proposed budget reflects no new additions to the total staff for the schools.

In developing the proposed budget, the first priority objective was to meet prior commitments in contractual settlements with administrators and teachers.

Several improvements are recommended in the proposed budget, the most significant of which in dollar terms is $65,000 for building modifications, said Kennedy.

Major Expenditures

Dr. Kennedy's budget proposal calls for $6,843,850 to go for regular learning programs, an increase of $40,101; $2,183,180 for special programs, an increase of $187,018; and $4,359,881 for support and administrative programs including transportation, building maintenance and plant operation, an increase of $529,584.

State of the Union Not Good, Says Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conceding that "the state of the union is not good," President Ford today formally asked Congress to ease the recession with a $16 billion one-year rebate for 1974 taxpayers and a $16.5 billion permanent income tax cut funded by increased oil tariffs.

Delivering his first State of the Union address before a nationally televised joint session of Congress, Ford reported the "bad news" that citizens are upset with the economy. He predicted a federal deficit of about $30 billion this year and $45 billion next year pushing the national debt to more than $500 billion.

April 1 Target Date

Most of Ford's energy conservation and economic proposals were unveiled in his radio-television speech Monday night and subsequently by aides. He called on Congress to enact them by April 1.

Energy Program

He also said his 10-year program to make America "invulnerable" to foreign energy boycotts envisioned 200 U.S. nuclear power plants, 250 new oil mines, 150 coal-fired power plants, 30 new oil refineries, 20 new synthetic fuel plants, and 100 million more oil wells.

Trade Pact Is Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a major setback to U.S.-Soviet relations, the Russians Tuesday night rejected a new trade agreement because Congress demanded the Kremlin permit increased emigration of dissidents.

Directors Oppose Foreign Oil Tax

By a 7 to 2 vote Tuesday night, Carl Zinsser and Vivian Ferguson against the action, the Manchester Board of Directors went on record as opposed to President Gerald Ford's proposal to raise the import tax on foreign oil by $3 a barrel.

Storm Toll Increases

By United Press International

A powerful winter storm stacked up nearly two feet of snow along the eastern shores of Lake Ontario Tuesday night on the heels of another storm that had spread crippling snowfalls from the Midwest to New England.

Death Toll Now 59

Earlier Tuesday, a killer storm which spread heavy snows from the Midwest to New England and left 59 persons dead, dumped up to a foot of snow on southwestern New York, forcing two school districts to cancel classes.

Grants Continued

The commission recommended that three quarters of the Connecticut towns be guaranteed additional funds to equalize their educational funding per pupil and that the present $250 per pupil state grant be continued.

Minnesota Hit Hard

Minnesota counted four more storm-related fatalities and Nebraska 20. Most of the most recently reported storm victims died of exposure. Their bodies were found in farm fields, snowbound autos or unheated buildings where they sought refuge from the weekend blizzard.

Willimantic Citizens To Act On Third Town Budget Tonight

WILLIMANTIC (UPI) — The young, embattled mayor of this city "that went out of business" Jan. 1 is confident citizens tonight will finally approve a 1974-75 budget proposed for the third time.

Operating On A Loan

Calchera, a school psychiatrist, married and the father of two young daughters said the city is operating on a loan drawn from the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. which will cover services and payrolls until Jan. 30.

Breathing Room

After Calchera announced his town had literally "gone out of business" on Jan. 2, city council looked into a state statute providing for emergency funding of municipalities and determined the city could borrow emergency funds without voter approval for 90 days.

Rejected Dec. 9

The $2.8 million budget was rejected for a second time Dec. 9 at a city meeting attended by about 500 persons apparently against the prospect of a property tax increase in the small industry city of about 15,000.
