By EARL YOST

Biggest news at last night's monthly meeting of the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission centered around the report of an air-supported-type structure now being manufactured by Pioneer Parachute in Manchester.

named to personally investigate the Bloomfield operation. Siebold, recreation director, said he has investigated air-type structures and found that the life expectancy ranged from 10 to 15 years and could be recosted after this period and used again for a similar time.

Shelving Outdoor Program Disappointment to Siebold

"It was plain that they (Board of Directors) didn't understand the program," Mel Siebold, Recreation Department head, reported Thursday night.

"It's too bad the program was turned down because it was self-sustaining. It wouldn't have cost the town a penny."

"What can we do to improve our recreation program if we are turned down on something like this that involves at least 100 people?" he said.

The directors Tuesday had turned down his request to include an outdoor recreation program in its activity.

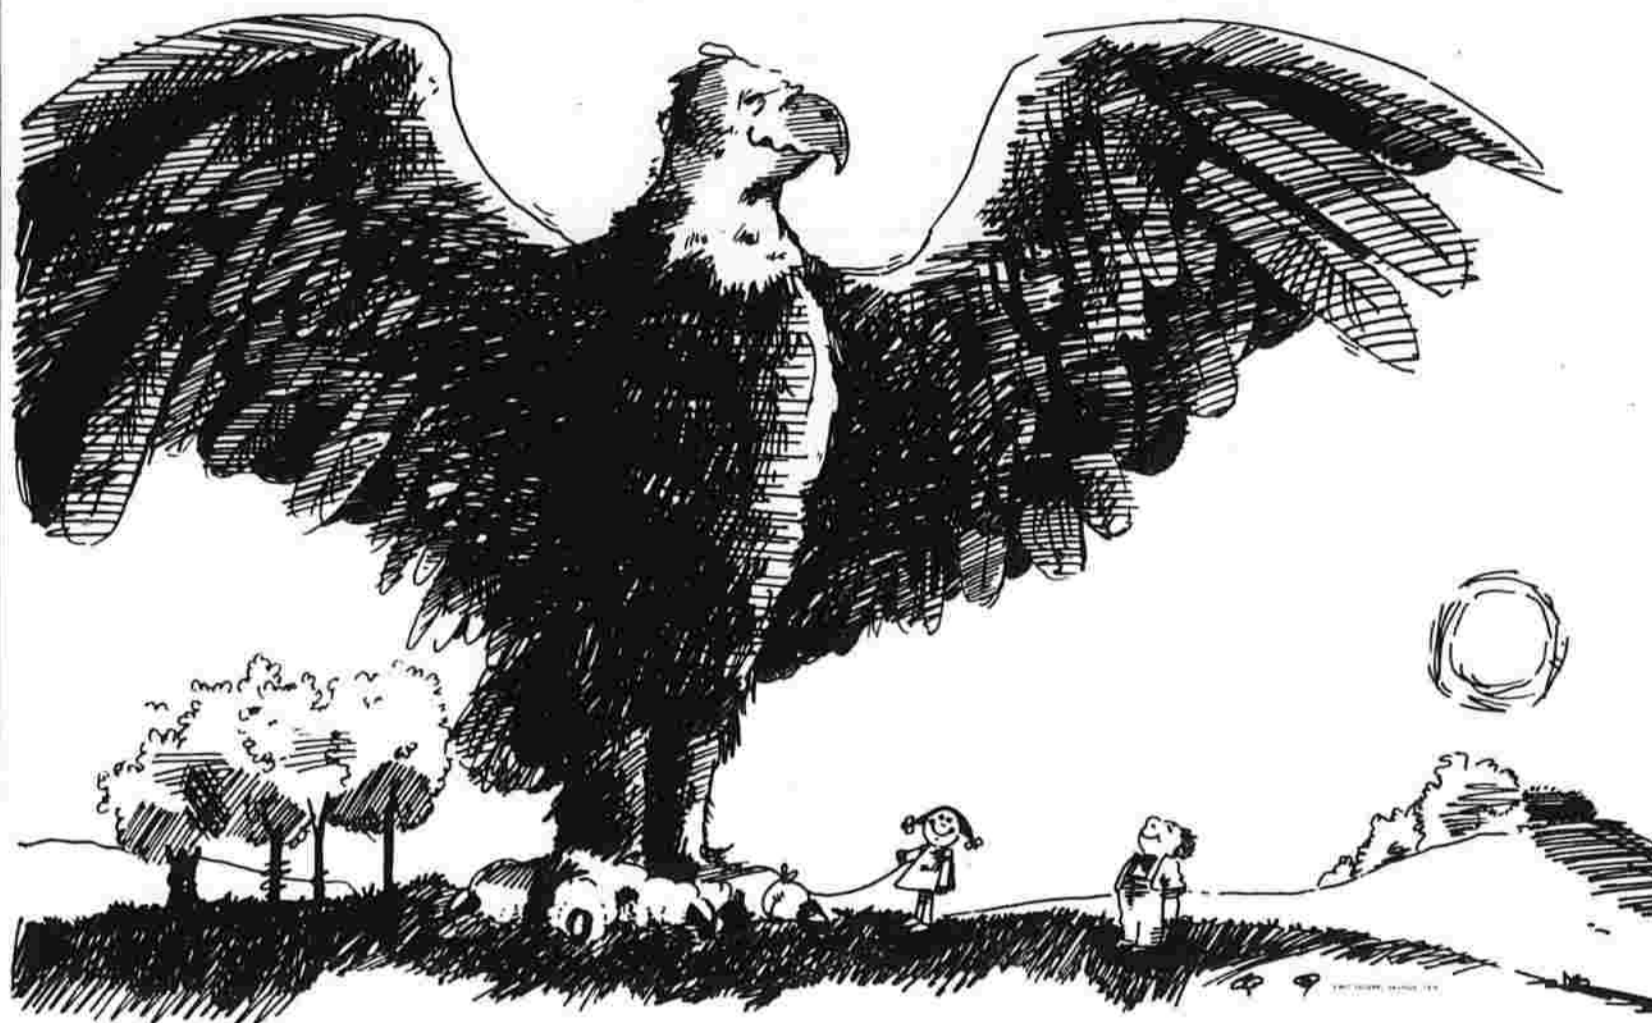

"The people (directors) didn't listen and didn't read the information we made available," Siebold said.

Originally, a sum of $1,000 was sought to assist the program, which would include camping, hiking and other forms of outdoor family projects.

Siebold made his comments at the monthly meeting of the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission meeting.

"It (the decision) was a disappointment to Tim Badger and myself," Siebold said. Badger would have headed up the program.

"There are a lot of people involved. One time we had 16 present at a board meeting to get behind the program and we were not able to present our program," Siebold said.

Running to Stay In Inflationary Place

Although President Ford's whole tax-cutting, recession-fighting, energy-conserving package seems to run into more congressional flack with each passing day, by far the most controversial aspect of it is his proposal to raise fees on foreign oil by $3 a barrel to discourage consumption.

Everyone agrees that the sagging economy needs a boost in the form of a massive transfusion of spending money into the pockets of Americans. The dispute is over how big a tax cut there should be and how it should be handled.

Democrats in Congress, however, are increasingly opposed to the oil price hike idea. The President estimates that it would result in higher gasoline prices of something under 20 cents a gallon. The extra federal income from this, as well as other taxes he proposes on domestic oil and natural gas, plus taxes on oil company windfall profits, would eventually be returned to the economy.

The critics argue that the higher cost of gasoline and home heating fuel would not only directly hit consumers where it hurts most. The higher cost of crude oil would indirectly raise the prices of a multitude of products made from petrochemicals, from toothbrushes to textiles, and thus feed the still-raging fires of inflation all the more.

At the same time, by raising the cost of manufacturing such things as automobiles, which use so many plastics, it could stiffen already strong consumer resistance to buying and further aggravate recessionary forces throughout the economy.

As for the energy-saving hopes of the plan, it may be wondered whether a 10-cent or 20-cent or even higher hike in the cost of a gallon of gasoline would discourage Americans from driving to any significant degree.

For better or worse, Americans are vitally dependent upon their cars, and the likely result of having to spend more to operate those cars, say some

Social Security Reform

WASHINGTON — Sen. George McGovern's warm Populism is showing again in his proposal for an immediate, permanent one-third cut in Social Security taxes on employer and employee, as a means of restoring both purchasing power and investment capital.

McGovern has applied himself to a problem that has been with us for years, but which most of us have ignored in the hope it would go away. That problem is how to finance a Social Security system that would provide maximum benefits to retirees without breaking the financial backs of low- and middle-income wage earners.

We're in trouble — and it could get worse. The Social Security tax bite went up again as of Jan. 1 for about 19 million workers. One out of every five covered by the system was hit by an increase in the maximum annual tax for Social Security to 5.85 per cent (for both employer and employee). The new increased tax will be levied this year on earnings up to $14,000, an increase of $900 over the 1974 cutoff point of $13,200.

So the annual Social Security tax has more than doubled since 1971 — from $465.50 to $824.85. Labor Department statisticians have estimated that today more than half of the country's wage earners pay more in Social Security taxes than in Federal income taxes.

The dough has to come from somewhere, and now the Social Security Advisory Council is flogging around with a recommendation that the tax be assessed on earnings up to $24,000. That's an increase of 70 per cent for folks in that earning bracket. There have been proposals to increase the retirement age.

Americans are living longer than they used to, and getting more out of Social Security. Three workers now must pay $5 taxes for each person who receives benefits. Twenty years ago the ratio was seven workers for each beneficiary. Meanwhile, benefits have been increased both by Congress and by the cost-of-living escalator written into the law.

Now to take the phone off the hook.

Bolton Bikeway Funding Urged

To the Editor,
Here is a copy of a letter to Al Ahearn, state representative, Bolton.

Dear Al,
At the risk of being identified as "that crusader for dreams," I once again want to speak to you about the project adopted by the Bolton Bicentennial Committee as its Horizon '76 project. I am referring, of course, to the development of bicycle paths in Bolton.

The committee resolved to promote and pursue this project for several reasons. For one, because of its relevance to our sparsely populated community with rural atmosphere. In this setting, pathways that enable community members to enjoy the environmental blessings of our town without risking the chance of ending up in the next day's obituary column, would be an invaluable addition to the town's development.

Besides greatly increasing the safety of the bicyclists vis-a-vis the motorists, the pathways will contribute to the maintenance of health and vigor of those who use them. And, perhaps, the greatest virtue of this project is that it would serve the interests of the majority of members of the community, which is the basic justification for public expenditure. By no means is my intention to depreciate the athletic and recreational facilities and programs made available for the youth because I wholeheartedly support them, but nevertheless, they remain just that — programs for the youth.

Whereas bicycle paths can be used by tricyclists to the very old who wish to give their legs a good turn.

Congressional Quarterly Report

Should Gasoline Taxes Be Raised To Discourage Oil Consumption?

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — A sharp federal gasoline tax increase, one of the tough energy conservation measures rejected by President Ford again this year, once more is being weighed as a way to curb consumption of precious petroleum.

When administration aides floated the gasoline tax idea in 1974, a storm of protest from Congress helped sink it. With the nation's oil conservation program floundering, however, this year the proposal has picked up some prestigious support from the congressional Joint Economic Committee.

In a year-end report recommending measures to deal with deepening recession and continuing inflation, the bipartisan committee proposed a 30-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax to discourage automobile travel. That would be an enormous increase above the existing 14-cent-a-gallon federal tax used to raise highway construction funds.

To keep that extra gasoline tax from further depressing the economy, the committee's plan would refund the $2 billion in revenues the levy would produce so that drivers would suffer no loss of income for other purchases.

With the President still opposing the gasoline tax increase and advocating crude oil taxes instead — and with many senators and representatives worried by their constituents' reaction to higher gas prices — the proposal could provoke a heated debate when Congress considers energy conservation alternatives.

Should the government raise the gasoline tax to discourage oil consumption?

Con:
Explaining his decision against proposing a gasoline tax hike last year, Ford told reporters that the levy "might be harmful to people, and it would be more harmful to the people less able to pay."

Before Ford made that decision, both conservative and liberal members of Congress had protested that the tax would only compound the burden that rising gasoline prices had already put on those who depend on automobiles in their daily lives. Especially in sparsely populated states where towns could be hundreds of miles apart, "It would prove nothing short of disaster to have an additional burden placed upon what our users already are paying for their fuel," insisted Sen. Barry Goldwater (R) of Arizona.

The tax would be "harshly inequitable," said Rep. Jim Wright, a Texas Democrat. "It would place the heaviest burden upon those least able to pay it — upon those who simply must use their cars daily to get to work or to perform their business responsibilities."

While forcing wage earners and small businessmen to cut their driving — or devote more of their limited incomes to buying fuel — "Such a plan would not benefit the wealthiest among us from wasting gasoline in pleasure yachts and high-horsepower automobiles," Wright went on.

And because food and many other vital products must be transported to market by truck, higher gasoline taxes "would result in a rippling effect," said former Rep. Ellis T. Granger, Connecticut's new Democratic governor. "That would devastate our already inflation-ridden economy."

Pro:
As the Joint Economic Committee contended, a gasoline tax increase would be the simplest and most direct action that the federal government could take toward meeting Ford's goal of reducing oil imports by a million barrels a day. Since private automobiles account for the bulk of petroleum used by the nation, "larger short-run cutbacks can be made with less real sacrifice in the area of vehicle use than in other uses of fuel," the committee contended in its 1974 economic policy report.

A 36-cent-per-gallon tax would make gasoline cost about $5 to 90 cents a gallon. At those prices, Americans would use about 8 per cent less gasoline during 1975, the committee estimated, producing a total savings of about 500,000 barrels of oil a day — about half of Ford's over-all target. "And savings from the tax would rise quite substantially within three to five years," the committee predicted.

In addition to saving energy, the tax could cut air pollution and traffic congestion by discouraging unnecessary driving.

And those savings would be accomplished without the maze of red tape that would accompany alternative proposals for gasoline rationing. "Unlike all other proposals," observed National Review editor James Burnham, a gasoline tax increase "does not require any new administrative apparatus or any new administrative expenses."

This year's Bicentennial Commission really gets to the core of what we're celebrating. It plans to throw the spotlight on, to focus on, the actual principles on which our country was founded — the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and the Bill of Rights.

Isn't this what it's all about — that we become aware of, and stay aware of, our rights and the rights of others? This is what we need to celebrate, to be grateful for, and to protect for all time against infringement.

Christian Unity Service Sunday at South Church

In observance of the "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity," which is celebrated annually throughout the world from Jan. 18 to Jan. 25, there will be an original composition, "Praise the Lord," James McKay will be organist. Sister Genevieve Pakenham of St. Bartholomew's Convent will also participate in the service.

The service, which is sponsored by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches Division of Christian Unity, will follow an outline for an order of prayer suggested in materials distributed jointly through the National Council of Churches in collaboration with the Graymoot Ecumenical Institute and workbooks of Churches, and recommended by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops in the United States.

Included in the liturgy will be a renewal of the baptismal promises. The theme of the 1975 Week of Prayer is "Reconciled by the Christ who renews, frees and unites."

During Sunday's service, there will be a dialogue sermon with the Rev. Robert W. Eldridge of South Church and the Rev. Joseph Looney of St. Mary's Church in Hartford.

The service will be held at 10 a.m. at South Church, 11 Center St. The service will be held at 10 a.m. at South Church, 11 Center St.

WINGS OF EVENING

by CLIFF SIMPSON

The Holiness of Beauty Two poems were sent to me recently by one of my more faithful readers. The first reflects the feelings that many of us had the morning after the recent snowstorm. It is titled "Of Winter Praire."

Here in this drift of snow that mounds the fence And weighs the fir trees with a shawl of white; I think of God and His omnipotence That from the caverns of a winter night Could summon forth such beauty and such peace.

Shaping a winter morning with His hand, Bidding a wild and stormy wind to cease, And wrapping in ermine all the waiting land. One careless step, it seems, might shatter now This crystal silence of new-fallen snow, This diamond dust that makes an empty bough Glisten with wealth such as a king might show.

And even a joy that startles with his blue The glassy thicket, has no word to say, But lets me pause unchallenged here to view The ice bastions of a winter day, Feeling God's presence in a snowbound hill, Hearing His voice that whispers, "Peace, be still."

— Eleanor Halbrook Zimmerman

The Beauty of Holiness The second poem suggests (Vol. 5, pg. 468) that there is much in our own private lives as well as in the world at large that we do not understand. But we believe that this is God's world and that He is working out His will within the stream of history. He is calling us to help Him.

When once we have caught His message, felt His strength, sensed His direction, we do indeed rise up with "wings like eagles." Like any enthusiasm there is a limit to the rush of the first thrill. That, I believe, is what running and walking means in this passage.

We cannot maintain the high pitch of the moment year in and year out, but often slow down to a "walk" but we have once been lifted up on the wings of inspiration, we shall not faint. As Paul writes, we shall be "weary in well-doing."

The Civic Center Some of you were at the Interfaith Dedication of the Civic Center in Hartford and many more of you read about it. For two years I served on the committee preparing for this event. The resulting service of dedication was not as worshipping as we had hoped it would be. There were unexpected distractions such as the lengthy introduction of many individuals and groups, the interruptions of the frequent applause, the turning down of the lights during the responsive reading, and the selling of popcorn during the prayer. Yet I feel that it was worth the effort.

One important result was increased awareness that there are religious groups within the Greater Hartford area recognized by the business and political forces of the community. It also demonstrated that clergy of different faiths could work together in great harmony and that the combined choirs could produce marvelous music to lift our spirits. The Center has much to offer to this section of the state, and I am glad that I had the opportunity to be a part of its Interfaith Dedication.

A Chuckle This "chuckle" was suggested for the column when I was in New London recently. It shows that even a minister has trouble communicating the idea of Jesus being with us at all times. My friend was sitting at a table with a minister's family on a ship cruising to the Holy Land. Their small son was late for the meal and was told to go wash his hands to get rid of the dirt on his hands. Reluctantly he got up from the table, muttering as he left "All I ever hear is Jesus and germs - Jesus and germs - and I have never seen either of them."

Wings of Evening Occasionally I am asked about the title of this column by someone who missed the first explanation. It is taken from the

Panel To Discuss Teens For Hospital Auxiliary

"What Does the Teen Scene Mean?" will be the topic of the quarterly meeting of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Jan. 27 at 9 a.m. at Concordia Lutheran Church on Pitkin St.

Dr. Donald Pet, Manchester Psychiatrist, will moderate a panel discussion of the subject which he and Allan Cone, principal of Bennett Junior High School, organized.

Dr. Pet is director of the Connecticut Alcohol and Drug Training Center. He is also assistant professor in the department of psychiatry at the University of Connecticut School of Health.

He received his B.A. degree in philosophy and psychology from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., in 1964, and his M.D. degree from Maryland Medical School in 1962.

He interned at York General Hospital, York, Pa., and did his psychiatric residency at Phipps Clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital. Dr. Pet has published many papers in his field. He is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the American Orthopsychiatric Association, the Association for the Advancement of Psychotherapy, and the American Humanist Association.

Cone is a graduate of Manchester High School, and the University of Connecticut where he received his M.A. degree in 1962. He has done graduate work at UConn and the University of Hartford.

He was high representative for Connecticut Education Association in 1955-56. He is a member of the National Education Association, Connecticut Association of Secondary Schools, and the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

He has been a member of the CEA retirement commission for five years and its chairman for three years.

For some time, parents of teen-agers, teen-agers in junior high school and senior high school, psychiatrists, social workers, school principals and other persons have been meeting to formulate questions about teen-age behavior.

Some of the topics to be discussed are questions teen-agers have about the future, anger, punishment, interaction between parents, communications with adults and peers, teen-age loneliness, teen-age emotions and how they relate to approval and disapproval or insecurities, prejudice, parental fear, peer pressure, personal worth, and many more.

After the panel discussion, the audience will break up into small groups with a professional coordinator who will conduct discussions on certain aspects of teen-age behavior.

Dr. Pet will conclude by commenting on what each individual group has discussed.

The program is free and the public is invited to attend. Reservations are necessary and may be made by contacting Mrs. Charles Baxter, 34 Olcott Dr., 649-9506.

Cheney Tech Qualifies for Tournament

10th Win Insures Class C Berth

By Len Auster

Every team, every player dreams of reaching the CIAC State Basketball Tournament.

Yesterday, for the first time in six years, Cheney Tech made that dream come true, clinching a Class C berth, with an easy 71-45 romp over hapless Ellis Tech at the Beavers' gym.

The local eagles are now 10-3 for the season with six dates remaining on the calendar. For Ellis, the setback was its ninth this campaign and 65th in its history.

"I can't believe it," Cheney senior Tri-Captain Tom LeCourt exclaimed. "When I first came here we won two games. Then we won some more when I was a sophomore and now... You dream about making the tournament and now it's true."

The Beavers were never threatened by the visiting Eagles. Not mentally psyched, somewhat impossible after checking how the opposition has done, Cheney got off the mark slowly before grabbing a 19-10 first quarter lead.

The Techmen extended the advantage to 37-24 at the half. Only the shooting of Roger Lameroux, who led off his game-high 19 points in the second stanza, kept Ellis close.

Reeloff of the first seven minutes of the final stanza opened up a sizeable lead before Fermi made its belated and not enough charge.

Sullivan paced the locals with 19 points with reserve forward Bob Healy (14) and backcourtman Mark Demko (11) also hitting double figures.

Patenaude at the buzzer academic. Despite missing seven free throws in the first quarter, the Indians led 22-18 at the turn of the offense evenly distributed. Going to a fullcourt zone press in the second canto, which proved most effective, Manchester strung together streaks of three and six points opening the advantage to as many as 15 points.

But the pesky Falcons refused to cave in and scored the final five points of the final stanza.

points of the second half, Cheney continued to build its lead throughout the final 16 minutes. Coach Gerry Blanchard, in his first year at Cheney after successful tenures at Valley Regional of Deep River, Prince Tech and St. Thomas Seminary, mercifully pulled his first team with 6:33 left in the final canto and cleared his bench.

The Cheney reserves performed well, outscoring Ellis' first squad which remained in despite the lopsided difference, 12-9.

Six-foot-four center Mark Viklinez paced the Beavers with 14 points. Mike Pressamaria and Tom Foran were next in line with 12 and 11 points respectively. Jim Kurlowicz continued his fine defensive work and Emil Haberman each netted eight markers. LeCourt doled out seven assists and Cheney's Tom LeCourt dribbles towards hoop. Ellis' Roger Lameroux (24) gets in defensive position.

Jones Establishes High Jump Mark

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — World outdoor high jump record holder Dwight Stones cracked the indoor mark Friday night when he leaped 7 feet 5 1/2 inches at the Meet of Champions.

Stones did not miss all evening until his first try at the new record. He cleared it easily on the second try, but declined to try to raise the new standard.

The tall, blond ex-UCLA star, who now jumps for the Pacific Coast Athletic Club, seemed calm and confident after cracking the former mark of 7 feet 4 1/2 inches.

An unofficial world standard also fell in the mile relay in which the Pacific Coast Track Club, led by Jim Boulding, sized with a 3:12.93 time.

The night's only other new standard came in the pole vault where Commonwealth Games champ Don Baird of Australia set a Mini-Dome and meet record with a mark of 17 feet 4 inches.

Despite the heroics of Stanesand Building, Jones seemed most taken with jumper Tommy Haynes. He won the triple jump with a leap of 33 feet 9 inches after surpassing 33 feet three times.

Other victors included Utah State's Scott Bringham, with a solid 8:51 two mile and Peter Ameretto of Idaho State, who set a swift sprint field in a 5:13 second 60. Some thought it was a dead heat, but the magic eye camera and electronic timer caught Carl Lawson of Jamaica in a 6:14 second time and Ray Prior of Colorado at 6:15.

Indian Tankers Ties Mark

Despite some personal best efforts, Manchester High was submerged by Waterfield High, 49-20, yesterday in swimming at the local pool.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Bill Bouley, John Mosser, Ed Adams and Pete Naktensis tied the school mark of 3:44.6 in the event.

Senior Kirk Woodport won the 100-yard breaststroke with a clocking of 1:11.1, a personal best.

Also performing well for Manchester were Ron Ricketts, who performed in the diving event for the first time. Tom Parker, who had been doing the diving, is out with a broken wrist.

Posting personal best times, senior Tri-Captain Pete Naktensis won the 100-yard butterfly and 50-yard freestyle. Senior Tri-Captain Ed Adams posted his personal best in the 100-yard freestyle with a clocking of 3:55. Manchester, now 1-3, is at East Hartford High Friday.

Indian Pole Vault Record

WORLD POLE VAULT RECORD (UPI) — American pole vaulter Steve Smith set a professional record and a world indoor best of 18 feet, 2 1/2 inches in the first meet of the International Track Association's 1975 tour Friday.

Smith, who vaulted 18 feet four inches outdoors last year and has four 18-foot plus indoor vaults to his credit, bested his own high hurdle and women's 50 yard dash.

Smith cleared his record setting mark on the third attempt. He had already eliminated his chief rival Bob Seagraves, who missed three times at 17 feet, 10 inches after clearing 17 feet, eight.

Three other professional records were set during the meet held at the Montreal Forum in the men's 50 yards, 50 yard high hurdle and women's 50 yard dash.

Schoolboy Basketball

Rham Still Rolls, Upsets Big Power

Running its winning streak to six straight, Rham High pulled off what must be termed a 64-51 Charter Oak Conference upset win over perennial power Cromwell High last night in Hebron.

It was the first Stanford win over the Bruins in their last 18 meetings and also UCLA's first loss after 12 victories in a row.

It was a good ride as there were just a few hard spots and these were covered with lay.

It's all confidence," said Stanford's hitting the ball well and it's adding fuel to his game. The more he plays the better he gets.

Miller called his second-round play here "mediocre." Obviously, he has set high standards for himself and when he makes a few bad shots he writes off the round.

The only thing that pleased Miller about his Friday was a 14-foot birdy putt he made on 18.

Lee Elder, who started the second round two shots off the lead, had a 72 and was in a group at 14.

The field was cut to 72 for the final two rounds starting today and a lot of fine heads are in the final two rounds.

Jackie Gleason will host the fifth annual "Entertainer of the Year Awards," a 90-minute CBS-TV special airing Saturday (Jan. 18) at 10 p.m.

WNEW-TV (5) Is Listed

Starting today, The Herald is listing WNEW-TV, Channel 5, in its weekly and daily columns of television programming. An independent station, Channel 5 is one of two new York City stations which will be "piped in" to Manchester via Greater Hartford CATV when it starts cable television operation Feb. 15. The other is WORTV (Channel 9), already listed in The Herald.

OBITUARIES

Jerry R. Bouchard
ROCKVILLE — Jerry R. Bouchard, 47, of 96 Loveland Rd. died Friday at St. Francis Hospital, Hartford, after a short illness. He was the husband of the late Carol Abrahamson Bouchard, who died in 1959.

Mr. Bouchard was born April 12, 1927 in Rockville, son of Mrs. Ella Kosswig Bouchard of Rockville and the late Joseph Bouchard, and had lived here all his life. He was a Navy veteran of World War II. He had been employed by the A and E Mold Co. of Tolland.

He is also survived by a daughter, Miss Jacqueline L. Bouchard, at home.

Funeral services are Monday at 11 a.m. at Ladd Funeral Home, 19 Ellington Ave. The Rev. Richard E. Bertram, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Grove Hill Cemetery. Full military honors will be accorded at graveside.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Fund.

Kenneth Barnes

ELLINGTON — Kenneth E. Barnes, 75, of the Pinney Hill Apts. died Thursday at Rockville General Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Edith Pfau Barnes.

Mr. Barnes was born in Southwick, Mass., and had lived in Hazardville most of his life before coming to Ellington three years ago. Before his retirement five years ago, he was manager of the Hazardville Water Co. for 20 years.

Other survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Hoyt of Tolland and Mrs. Marcella Riley of Rosemead, Calif.

Funeral services are Monday at 11 a.m. at the Somers Funeral Home, 354 Main St. Burial will be in the Enfield St. Cemetery, Enfield.

There are no calling hours. The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Ellington Ambulance Fund.

William B. Macri

William B. Macri, 40, of 801 Main St. was found dead Friday afternoon in the bedroom of his apartment, police said.

Death was attributed to natural causes, police said.

Mr. Macri was born Dec. 25, 1934 in Manchester and had lived in the Manchester-Glastonbury area all his life. He was employed as a heavy equipment operator for area construction firms. He was a former member of the Glastonbury Volunteer Fire Department.

Survivors are three sons, Robert Macri, William Macri Jr. and Ronald Macri, all of Glastonbury; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Macri of Glastonbury; two brothers, Rocco Macri Jr. of East Hartford and Joseph Macri of Rocky Hill; and a sister, Mrs. Catherine Sojka of South Windsor.

Private funeral services will be at the Fitzgerald Funeral Home, 225 Main St. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Glastonbury Volunteer Ambulance Association.

Mrs. Bessie C. Purinton
Mrs. Bessie Chaffee Purinton, 89, of Wethersfield, formerly of Manchester, died Friday night at a Hartford convalescent home.

Mrs. Purinton was born Jan. 25, 1885 in Manchester, daughter of the late Theodore and Emma Hollister Chaffee, and lived here during her youth. She was a member of Loyalty Group of the First Church of Christ, Wethersfield.

Survivors are a son, Clifford W. Purinton of Wethersfield; a daughter, Mrs. Gladys P. Johnson of West Hartford; three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral services are Monday at 2 p.m. at the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to a charity of the donor's choice.

Mayor May Postpone New Tax Assessments

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnel
Correspondent
644-1264

South Windsor Mayor Robert Smith has called for the investigation of tax assessments that have soared over 200 per cent since 1965, and may possibly call for the postponement of new assessments if some taxpayers find themselves overly burdened.

Mayor Smith said his concern is with the homeowners who have received whopping assessment notices — specifically residents along Old Main Street — and not those whose assessments rose by 100 per cent or less.

"We can handle those increases through Revenue Sharing, surplus funds and the Capital Improvement Fund, in which there is a built-in two mills ($250,000)," said Mayor Smith. "My concern is with the man whose assessments have risen so high, he can't possibly beat a tax increase."

The mayor implied that the council will try to hold the tax line this year and that it would be possible, except for those with exorbitant tax increases.

The mayor said the assessments "may not be wrong," but that they may have come at a bad time when people are experiencing a "deep recession."

Smith intends to meet with Assessor Bert MacNamara and officials from United Appraisal Company to discuss the highest assessments.

The mayor will not be discussing all 5,500 assessments, but only the outstanding ones, he implied.

"I don't want to hit people with any kind of tax increase if possible," said Mayor Smith. "Based on the information we received we may recommend the postponement to make sure the assessment reports are accurate."

All assessment notices went out last week, and for the most part assessments were up over 60 per cent, and in many cases higher. In one case an assessment that was figured at $20,000 ten years ago was up over $80,000 this year.

Once assessments are figured out, and the town figures how much operating expense it needs, the council can determine the new mill rate and will most certainly lower the rate, following the increase in assessments.

POLICE REPORT

MANCHESTER
Anthony S. Pezzente, 25, of East Hartford was arrested today at 1:30 a.m. at the Other Horse restaurant on E. Center St. and charged with second-degree assault.

The charges stem from a fight in which James C. Woodman, 29, of 13 Middle Ter., Rockville, received a fractured skull.

According to police, the fight began in the restaurant and the two men left and went to the driveway alongside the restaurant.

Patrolmen James Taylor and Gary Wood were dispatched to the restaurant after the fight began inside the restaurant. They found Pezzente in the driveway on top of Woodman banging Woodman's head up and down on the pavement, police said.

The two officers stopped Pezzente and arranged for an ambulance for Woodman who was unconscious, police said. Off. Wood gave Woodman first aid until the ambulance took him to Manchester Memorial Hospital. Soon after, Woodman was taken to Hartford Hospital where he was put in the intensive care unit.

His condition was listed as fair late this morning, a hospital spokesman said.

Pezzente was released on a $500 surety bond for appearance Feb. 3 in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford.

Police are investigating the cause of the fight.

David M.J. Mooney, 20, of Hartford was arrested Thursday at 1 p.m. on a Common Pleas Court 12 warrant charging him with third-degree burglary (two counts) and third-degree larceny (two counts).

The charges stem from recent breaks into a Congress St. home and a N. Main St. home. He was released on his written promise to appear in court Feb. 3 in East Hartford.

Richard Lambert, 29, of Partridge Lane, Tolland was arrested Thursday at 10 p.m. and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor on Parker St., police said.

He was released on a $150 non-surety bond for court Feb. 3.

Two tickets to see the Ice Capades in Hartford's Civic Center were stolen Friday from their envelope in a mailbox at a Lyndale St. home, police said. The empty envelope was found in the driveway. The tickets were valued at $12.

A wallet containing $212 in cash was reported stolen Thursday from a desk in the office of the Keeney St. School. The school nurse, Mrs. Lynn Gustafson, had left her pocketbook under the desk for safe keeping, she told police.

A similar incident occurred on Tuesday when she lost $26 from her wallet.

Vandals broke two large windows on the south side of the Hartford National Bank branch office on West Middle Tpke. with a rock. The windows were valued at $200.

VERNON

Recent arrests include: • Kenneth T. Mansell, 24, of 98 W. Main St., Rockville was charged with third-degree larceny, third-degree forgery (six counts) and criminal impersonation (six counts). The charges concern the passing of checks totalling $103 at a local food store.

Mansell was released on a $500 non-surety bond.

• Jose Morales, 37, of 98 W. Main St. was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and operating without a license. He was observed driving in an erratic manner on W. Main St., police said.

He was released on $200 non-surety bond.

• Barton C. Baskerville, 32, of 27 Irving St., Manchester was charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct. He allegedly caused a disturbance Friday night at the Hardee's restaurant on Rt. 83, police said.

He was released on $100 non-surety bond. All three men are to appear in Common Pleas Court 19 in Rockville Feb. 4.

BOLTON

The victim of a rear-end auto accident Friday at 10:32 p.m. on Cider Mill Rd. at Rt. 6 is evading state police.

The man who appears to have caused the accident, Walter J. Brown, 19, of 80 School St., Manchester, stayed at the scene after the collision. State Trooper Edward Ferrigno charged Brown with following too closely.

But the driver of the car struck by Brown drove away and cannot be found so far. Police are looking for him.

There were no known injuries in the crash, police said.

Mayor Thompson Proclaims Jaycee Week

Mayor John Thompson is shown here signing a proclamation declaring the week of January 20 through 25 as Jaycee Week in Manchester. The Manchester chapter is one of many across the country that will be celebrating the founding of the Jaycee organization some 60 years ago. During the week an intensified membership drive will take place to encourage young men in the community to join this civic leadership organization. On Monday, January 20, the Manchester Evening Herald will publish a special 8 page supplement on the Manchester Jaycees. Pictured with Mayor Thompson from left to right are Alan Shaw, Internal Vice President, Alan Lamson, President, and Bradley Keazer, External Vice President.

Manchester Week in Review Proposed School Budget Showed 10.4% Increase

School Supt. James Kennedy has proposed a $13,356,703 budget for the 1975-1976 school year, a 10.4 per cent increase over the current 1974-1975 budget.

Kennedy, submitting his proposal to the Board of Education Tuesday, said that although the budget represents a substantial dollar increase, it accounts for only a portion of school needs.

The school board has scheduled budget workshops Jan. 20, 23, and 29 before the board makes a formal request to the town manager.

In other education financing news this week, Town Manager Robert Weiss said the town has received $125,000 more than expected in state grants for special education.

Weiss said the money is more than welcome, because unforeseen expenditures, inflation, and short tax receipts may drain Manchester's available funds.

A Raise

The Board of Directors this week approved a 6.5 per cent cost-of-living salary raise for Weiss, who's in his tenth year as town manager.

Directors also set a starting salary of $18,334 for a new police chief, to be selected after competitive exams because Police Chief James Reardon is retiring Feb. 28.

In political news this week, Nathan Agostinelli was elected Republican town chairman and his return to Manchester politics signaled the start of this year's local campaign.

Agostinelli, former state comptroller, succeeds A. Paul Berte in the town GOP post. Berte resigned to become First District workmen's compensation commissioner.

More Crime

The year-end tabulation of Manchester Police statistics showed increases from 1973 to 1974 in almost every category, it was reported this week.

Felony arrests, stolen property, complaints, traffic tickets, and auto accident injuries were all up sharply. There was a drop in auto accident deaths, from eight in 1973 to seven in 1974.

Police closed their investigation on nearly 30 burglary cases this week with the arrest of Harry J. Mayo, 29, of Hartford for several breaks.

Mayo is charged with burglarizing 29 apartments in various buildings in Manchester between June and December 1973.

Not Much Time

The Manchester Housing Authority will be cutting it close in an effort to start a 40-unit elderly housing project before the September cutoff date for a $640,000 state grant.

Architect Dominic Cimino said development of plans and red tape suggest a date in September or October when the project can be put out to bid for construction.

Making Friends and Being One

Friendship is telling and keeping secrets.

DEBNAM

How can you make friends? The best way is to smile and speak and say a few words about something that you think would be of interest.

Friends are people just like you. They have feelings and like to be liked, too.

You can hold hands with a friend during a game or pick one for a partner.

You can think of something nice to say. You can tell them that you liked something that they wore or did or said. You can clap and cheer when they do something outstanding.

Ask them questions about themselves. Finding out about friends is a very good way to keep them.

To find a friend, you have got to be one yourself ... so start looking and remember, there's someone looking for you, too!

Pretend to Order a Friend

The boys and girls in your neighborhood or room at school might like to fill out blanks like this and pass them around or display them on a bulletin board. This would be a good way to find out their friendship needs.

Your Name _____ Date _____

If You Could Order a friend, what kind would you send for?

Suggested names: _____

Age _____ Height _____ Weight _____

Favorite color _____ Favorite music _____

Favorite school subject _____ Favorite sport _____

Favorite kind of cake _____ Favorite type of pet _____

Other special interests _____

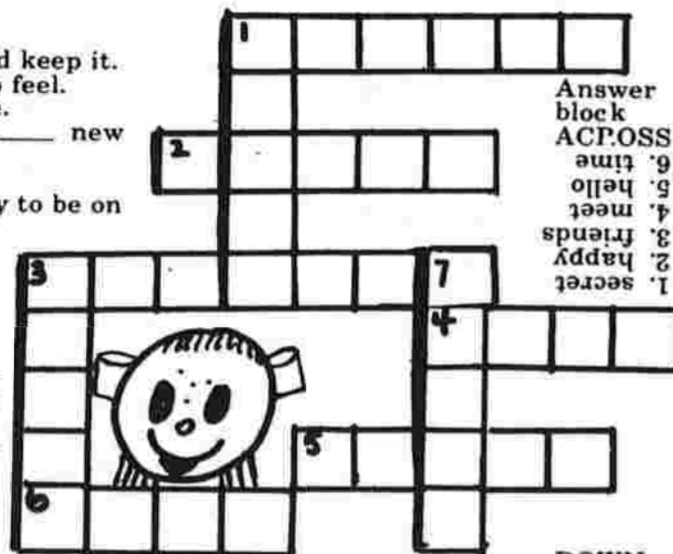

On a separate piece of paper, write five sentences giving more information about the type of friend you would order!

Check the words that describe the kind of friend you are!

- Dependable
- Fun
- Honest
- Thoughtful
- Polite
- A Good Sport
- Understanding
- Forgiving
- Loyal

Polite words that help make friends!

- Hello!
- You are welcome.
- That's great.
- I'm sorry.
- Tell me about that.
- That's a good idea.
- How are you feeling?
- You go first.
- That's very good.
- I like your idea!
- Come join us.
- Let me help.
- I appreciate it.
- You come, too.
- You can play.
- You are invited.
- Thank you.
- Excuse me.
- You look great!

How To Make A Friend

(A friendship recipe)
 You'll need:

- 2 ears for listening
- 2 eyes for seeing their side of things
- 1 mouth for smiling about things they like
- 1 heart for understanding
- 2 hands for helping and holding
- 2 legs to run and play with them.

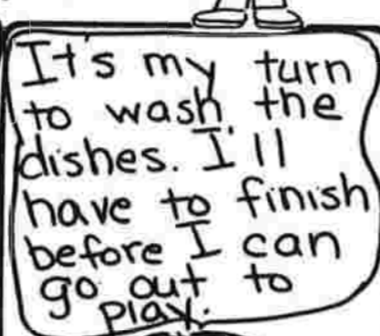

Mix all the above with lots of warm and happy feelings. This recipe makes as many friends as you would like.

(It takes longer to make some friends than it does others.)

Super Sport: Gail Goodrich

Gail Goodrich is one of the top guards in pro basketball. During the past four seasons, he has starred for the Los Angeles Lakers. Goodrich is an exceptionally good shooter.

Before turning pro, Gail made All-American at UCLA and helped the Bruins win two national championships. Goodrich resembles a movie star in some ways. He is a handsome man who wears stylish hair and mod clothes.

Besides earning more than $100,000 playing basketball, Gail owns some apartments and has other business interests. He is married and has one child.

A Personal Coat of Arms

Write your name at the bottom.

Back in the Middle Ages, knights used a coat of arms as a symbol. In this way, they could identify each other when they wore armor. Today, many people hang copies of their coat of arms in their home.

Why not make up your own personal coat of arms? Draw a bigger design like the one at the left. In each section, draw a picture of something that would identify you. For example, draw your pet, a hobby, a favorite food, book or toy.

Review: A Book About Friendship

"Rosie and Michael," written by Judith Viorst and illustrated by Lorna Tomei, published by Atheneum, 1974.

"Rosie and Michael" is a delightful book about friendship.

Rosie understands when Michael worries about pythons. Michael understands when Rosie worries about werewolves.

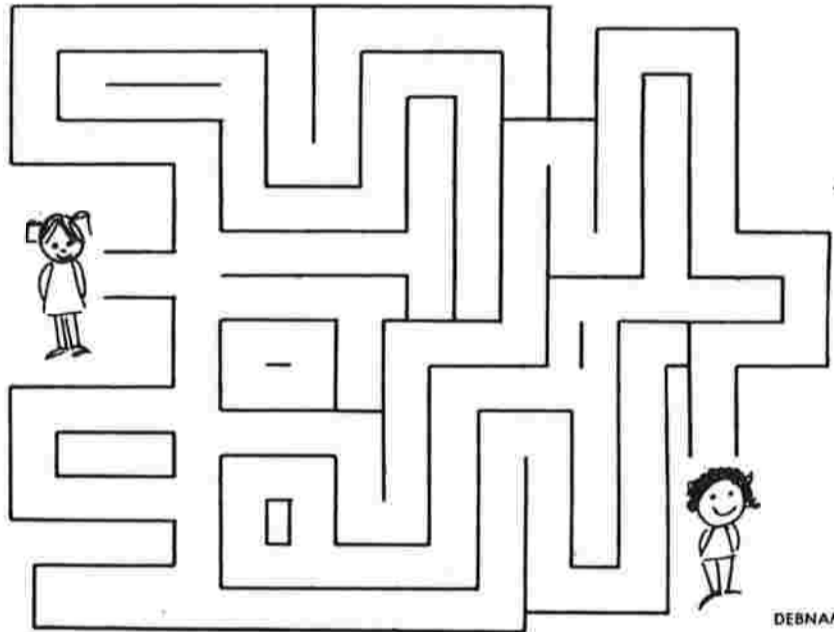

"When my parakeet died, I called Rosie," says Michael.

"When my dog ran away, I called Michael," says Rosie.

Judith Viorst has written many books for children. Her husband is also a writer. They have three sons. This is Lorna Tomei's first book. Her husband is also an artist.
