

Balance of Trade Deficit Blamed on Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Expensive foreign oil pushed the U.S. balance of trade $3.065 billion into deficit in 1974, the second worst year on record this century, the Commerce Department said today.

Commerce said the United States imported less oil in 1974, but the cost soared from $7.8 billion in 1973 to $24.6 billion in 1974.

Without the $16.8 billion surge in oil prices, the United States would have enjoyed one of its largest trade surpluses in history. Oil imports for 1974 were 2.228 billion barrels, down from 2.307 billion in 1973.

Imports Increase

Overall, the United States imported $101 billion in 1974, a 45 per cent increase over 1973 imports of $69.5 billion. Exports for 1974 were valued at $97.9 billion, up 38 per cent from the 1973 total of $70.8 billion.

The balance of trade for December was $806 million in deficit, largely because of declining export values of coal, wheat, soybeans, electrical computers and power generating machinery.

The trade deficit of $3.065 billion in 1974 was the second largest on record this century, Commerce said. The previous worse trade showing was a $6.4 billion deficit in 1972.

Third in Four Years

The 1974 deficit was the third in four years.

Trade deficits in 1971 and 1972 led to dollar devaluations, which spurred domestic inflation and made many goods such as food more expensive for Americans.

The devalued dollar, however, turned the trade deficit into surplus in 1973 which ordinarily would indicate good times for Americans in 1974. But the unexpected and unprecedented surge in petroleum prices wiped out the gains made through the dollar devaluations.

Commerce said the merchandise trade deficit in the fourth quarter of 1974 was estimated at $1.5 billion, down sharply from the record $2.6 billion in the third quarter.

Deficit Narrowed

Although trade was still in the red in the fourth quarter, Commerce said higher prices for U.S. farm products helped to narrow the deficit from the previous quarter.

Another reason for the improving trade picture in the fourth quarter was a 50 per cent increase in the value of civilian aircraft sold abroad. The narrowing trade deficit in the fourth quarter of 1974 is an indication that international trade deficits may decline considerably in 1975.

Wildcat Strikes Disrupt Trains

CHICAGO (UPI) — A wildcat strike early today by four shop unions against the Burlington Northern Railroad temporarily disrupted traffic on the nation's largest rail system.

A court order restored some commuter service in the Chicago area. But the strike spread to two other railroads, the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Louisville and Nashville lines. A C&O spokesman said the wildcat strike threatened to shut down service in Michigan and an L&N spokesman said 2,800 members of the four unions were out and even clerks were not crossing picket lines.

Pickets Withdraw

Union pickets began withdrawing in the Chicago area after the court order was signed in the home of U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Sam Perry. The order restrained workers from striking until 6 a.m. Feb. 5 and set a hearing Feb. 3.

A similar restraining order was obtained at the company's St. Paul, Minn., headquarters. Burlington officials predicted normal operations by midmorning.

"Good news," Burlington spokesman Peter Briggs said in Chicago. "The pickets are down at Aurora (Ill.). We're resuming suburban operations this morning."

Hastily Called

The strike, which apparently resulted from a breakdown of talks between one of the unions and Burlington officials in St. Paul, Minn., had threatened rail service along Burlington's lines, the longest in mileage in the nation.

The strike, hastily called Sunday night by angry union officials, inconvenienced many of the railroad's 23,000 commuters in 12 Chicago suburbs, and threatened to disrupt the operation of the railroad's 45,000 employees and the movement of passengers and freight in 19 states and two Canadian provinces.

The striking unions were the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of the U.S. and Canada; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; the Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Ironship Builders, Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers, and the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, Helpers, Roundhouse and Railway Shop Laborers.

Oil Exporting Nations Agree to Energy Talks

ALGIERS (UPI) — The oil-exporting nations have agreed to take part in energy talks with industrial and developing countries, setting the stage for a possible confrontation between the West and the Third World.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries ended a three-day meeting in Algeria Sunday by rejecting a U.S. call for limiting the oil talks to the producing nations and the industrial powers.

The 13 OPEC nations issued a communique endorsing a French proposal for a broad international energy conference involving the oil states, industrial nations and developing countries.

The communique said OPEC nations "intend to participate in an international conference, such as the one proposed by France, which would treat problems of raw materials and development."

Western diplomats said the admission of the Third World — the developing nations — would raise the possibility of a clash with the industrialized West.

Direct Confrontation

"It will be a direct confrontation between the have and the have-nots with OPEC championing the Third World," one Western diplomat said.

The oil, finance and foreign ministers of the OPEC nations also attacked Western "threats" and "propaganda" against the petroleum nations.

The OPEC states — Abu Dhabi, Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and Venezuela — said the world economic crisis "constitutes a growing threat to world peace and stability."

But the communique condemned "the propaganda campaign placing on OPEC's member countries the responsibility for this crisis as well as threats directed at these countries which create confusion and lead to confrontation."

Common Front Meets Set

The OPEC nations, which provide 85 per cent of the world's oil exports, also approved plans for a summit meeting of oil-producing heads of state between Feb. 21 and March 8 to prepare a common front for the conference.

Jamshid Amouzegar, Iran's chief delegate to the Algiers meeting, predicted the international conference might take place next June or July.

The OPEC states also agreed to study an Algerian call for "a general embargo on oil exports to the aggressor country" if any petroleum state "is a victim of aggression."

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has blamed much of the economic crisis on oil price increases and has hinted at military intervention if the West were threatened with economic strangulation.

Vietnam War Continues Despite Paris Accords

SAIGON (UPI) — Two years ago, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger surveyed the quarter-century of conflict in Vietnam and said: "Peace is at hand."

The U.S. diplomat, who won a Nobel Peace Prize for his efforts to end the war, wasn't much of a prophet. Peace is as elusive as ever on the second anniversary of the Jan. 27, 1973, cease-fire agreement.

Frustration and death have marked the 24 months since the secretary of state and North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho worked out the accord in Paris.

Threat Worse Now

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu said last Friday his country is in worse danger than before the truce. The grim battlefield statistics bear him out.

In the past two years, the Communists have captured 11 district towns (similar to American county seats), an entire province (similar to a U.S. state) and 15 government military bases.

Saboteurs have knocked out 60 per cent of South Vietnam's bridges, closed many the country's secondary roads and engaged a second province.

The fighting has closed in on Saigon, threatening the city's defense line at one time. North Vietnamese troops seized three bases 25 miles north of the capital.

The Saigon military command has reported more than 111,000 Communist soldiers and nearly 29,000 government troops killed in combat during the past two years. Another 115,000 government soldiers have been wounded.

The "postwar" fighting has claimed the lives of more than 6,000 civilians and wounded another 15,000, according to the reports. Some 10,000 more civilians have been seized.

Definitions Differ

The Thieu government defines peace as an end to Communist truce violations and the holding of a national election.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong define peace as an end to American aid, the overthrow of Thieu, and the formation of a coalition government.

The difference between both definitions has meant war.

There were more Vietnamese casualties reported in 1974 than in any of the 27 years of war in the troubled country. Saigon says 57,000 Communists, 14,500 government troops and 7,000 civilians died in last year's fighting.

The Saigon government has seen U.S. military aid cut by one-third despite the increased warfare. It's getting $700 million to run a 1.1 million-man army, but President Ford has asked Congress for $300 million more.

Economic troubles caused by the war have sent the poverty stricken into the streets calling for reforms. Thieu's political opponents have demanded his resignation.

Seven of the nine chapters in the Paris pact deal with the cease-fire and the political future of South Vietnam. None of the seven has been carried out.

In some cases, the Communists defied the provisions. In others, the government failed to carry them out. And in still others, both sides shared the blame. The result has been more death and more destruction.

The war that Kissinger reported near an end two years ago is still as far from a solution as it was when the Paris peace accord was signed in 1973.

Resolution to Request Rev-Share Allocation

By SOL R. COHEN

The minority Republicans on Manchester's Board of Directors are proposing a resolution, which urges Gov. Ella Grasso to "grant the towns and cities of the state their fair share of the anticipated $25 million in federal revenue-sharing funds."

The proposed action follows a statement last week by Gov. Grasso, saying she plans to hold back those funds because of a pending state deficit. One of her campaign promises was to release the $25 million to the towns and cities.

Mayor John Thompson, who has been asked to place the resolution on the board's Feb. 4 agenda, said he will do so. Thompson, a Democrat, said he will vote for the resolution and believes most local governments will back a similar one.

The minority Republicans (Vivian Ferguson, Carl Zinsner and Hillary Gallagher) declared in a joint statement today: "The federal funds are important to the people of Manchester in helping ease their tax burdens. With one out of every 20 local residents out of work, these funds should be distributed to the individual towns to help citizens over a difficult economic period.

"This is especially true in Manchester where both the mayor and town manager have predicted a six- to seven-mill tax increase in the upcoming town budget."

Said Thompson, "I think what is being requested is, at least on the surface, astute politics. It is a call to a Democratic candidate to hold to her campaign promises — and I think that's fair."

"At the same time, I believe Gov. Grasso has made it clear to the state's mayors, at a meeting I attended, in her judgment the financial situation of the state at this time is far more serious than the previous administration reported."

"Consequently, she didn't believe it possible to release these funds as a pass-through to local government. But, I agree with our Republican directors that the state should make the funds available to local government."

"This will require additional taxing at the state level, and I believe, if we urge such a move, we should recognize such a fact. I hope the General Assembly persuades Gov. Grasso to do just that."

Last Block Fund Hearing Scheduled This Evening

The last public hearing on plans for spending community development block grants in Manchester is scheduled tonight at 8:30 at Nathan Hale School.

Tonight's hearing, to be conducted by the Board of Directors, follows last Monday's public hearing by the Community Development Advisory Committee, which developed the proposed priority allocation list and housing assistance plan.

No Changes Expected

The advisory committee's hearing last Monday resulted in no changes to the community development plan. Directors aren't expected to make many changes in the plan either. They won't act tonight, though, and the matter will be on the board's Feb. 4 agenda.

The priority allocation list to be aired tonight is a proposed schedule of expenditures totaling $1,410,000 over the next three years. The money is expected by Manchester under provisions of the federal Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

Loan Fund Tops List

The top priority on the list is creation of a revolving, low-interest loan fund to help low and moderate income families rehabilitate their homes. Second priority is stronger housing code enforcement.

Other priorities are establishment of a downtown multi-service center including facilities for the handicapped; land purchase of elderly housing; establishment of a day care center, pending a feasibility study; purchase of open space-recreation land; improvements in Manchester's core area (downtown); and several smaller projects.

40 Units Planned

The housing assistance plan to be discussed tonight calls for construction of 40 elderly housing units and rehabilitation of 25 units in the first year of the federally funded program.

The plan identifies a need for 175 elderly units, 40 units of handicapped housing, 60 low-income, large-family units, and 155 units for low and moderate income families.

The Board of Directors is expected to approve the plans Feb. 4, clearing the way for start of a federally mandated regional review process. After the regional review, Manchester will submit its formal application to federal agencies to get the money.

Regional Health Plan

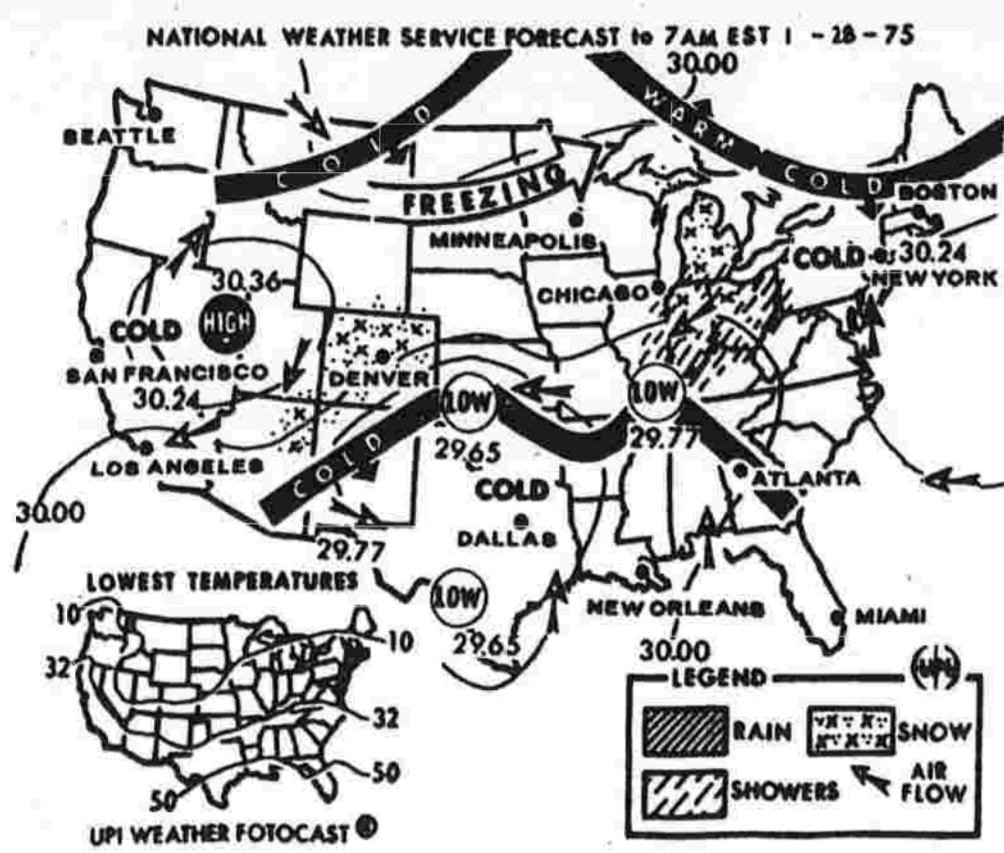

Preceding tonight's public hearing on community development, the Board of Directors will consider proposals for establishment of a Regional Health District, to provide services to Manchester, Bolton, Tolland, and South Windsor.

The health district meeting, scheduled for 7 at Nathan Hale School, is needed for directors to provide guidance for the district project, which is still in the talking stage, Town Manager Robert Weiss said.

Variable cloudiness today with the highs in the 30s. Fair tonight with the lows in the teens. Cloudy Tuesday with a chance of snow turning into rain. Chance of precipitation, 10 per cent today, 20 per cent tonight and 50 per cent Tuesday.

Andover Dump Study Group Hears Report on Systems

Donna Holland Correspondent

Problems involving Bolton's use of the Andover disposal area dominated a public discussion in Andover last week when townpeople heard a report on the disposal and collection.

At their latest meeting the Bolton selectmen decided not to pay any portion of the bill until they find out what Andover will do with the $7,000 it has received from the Department of Environmental Protection as reimbursement for purchase of a bulldozer for landfill.

Yeomans said there was a delay in preparing the bill for the first six months of fiscal 1974-1975 so it hasn't been sent yet.

Yeomans said Bolton was not likely to get the auditor's figures if requested from Andover relating to the disposal area. He said he would give Bolton time to pay his bill before he applied pressure.

Yeomans said he can't quite decide what to do with the $7,000 recently received from the Department of Environmental Protection. The $7,000 was figured on a per capita basis considering both Bolton and Andover.

He said the selectmen want to talk to the town auditor and the Board of Finance before making a decision.

In a report on municipal collections, Pete Maneggia said that if the town has its own collection, the dump could be open three days a week, two days for disposal area taken.

Mrs. Mulligan Backed For School Board

HEBRON

Mrs. Patricia Mulligan of Cristmill Rd., was endorsed for recommendation to the Board of Education.

After a secret ballot vote Mrs. Mulligan received 14 votes and Mrs. Judith Gregory of Buck Rd. received 6.

The nominating committee brought in the names of Mrs. Mulligan and Mrs. Gregory. Joseph Pelletier of Buck Rd., had expressed interest in the position but withdrew his name prior to voting.

The law states that the vacancy must be filled by a member of the same party.

Independent interested in the position were Klaus Totle, Mrs. Helen Martin and Mrs. Carolyn Murphy.

The committee will meet on Feb. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Town Office Building.

OPINION

Yankee Ingenuity Needed

Petroleum-based energy is going to cost New Englanders more in the coming months under the foreign petroleum import tariffs imposed by President Ford.

But to be fair to the President, it should be noted that any effort to conserve energy and reduce our reliance on foreign oil will cost us money.

The import quota approach, which we tend to favor, will cost consumers in that any limitation of supply increases the upward price pressure and, as in the case of the tariff, the principle is to reduce consumption by allowing prices to rise.

The fallacy that gas rationing would insure everyone a fair supply at a low price is dubious. We recall quite vividly price increases granted during the boycott because producers and distributors could not meet the rising cost on limited volumes.

'In God We Trust,'
But Not Government

Americans' trust in their government, which has been deteriorating since 1964, seems to have bottomed out in the past year.

So reports the Center for Political Studies of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

Among the Center's recent findings: — There was a slight increase in the low level of trust just after Richard Nixon resigned the presidency, but the slight surge in trust disappeared following President Ford's pardoning of Nixon.

— Republicans and Democrats are about equal in their disillusionment with government. Specifically, 49 per cent of Republicans and 51 per cent of Democrats express distrust.

However, even those people who still have a high level of political trust raise their prices, which have risen four-fold and can and will again if imports are taxed, if imports are limited because we must accept rising domestic prices, and if supplies are rationed because we are at the end of the pipeline.

We have, practically speaking, put all our energy eggs into one petroleum basket. We can make all the fuss we want about the President's tariff and go to court after court. The fact remains, we are vulnerable and will continue to be vulnerable until we drastically reduce our dependence for energy on foreign or non-regional oil sources.

Gov. Ella Grasso says the region is bearing the brunt of the impact of the energy conservation effort. We agree but we think it must also be admitted that this is largely our own doing.

The courts, or the Congress, may rescind the import tariff. However, this does not solve the problem.

We would hope the political, social, economic and business leaders of the region will get together and attempt to evolve an action program for the region which will ultimately lead to energy security.

The root problem is not the cost of energy but our top-heavy reliance on outside oil energy supplies.

Surely Yankee ingenuity can come up with answers to this problem other than perpetual litigation or aims from Washington.

are becoming increasingly cynical about how the government is handling the worsening problems of inflation and unemployment.

"Clearly," says Arthur Miller of the Center, "American citizens expect the government to assist them in solving their problems — particularly economic problems." But combined with severe and prolonged economic troubles, it makes people's faith in the government's ability to handle any and all problems just about nonexistent.

This present lack of popular confidence is preventing President Ford from being able to convince the nation that his policies will benefit the economy. Only until and if the government adopts policies that are successful in halting inflation and holding off recession, says Miller, would he expect confidence in government to begin to rise.

Why Does Saxbe Want To Be Ambassador?

WASHINGTON — Why on earth does Bill Saxbe want to be ambassador to India? The former attorney general is a sensible, plainspoken man whose record reflects an impatience with the little intrigues of both government and drawing room. He has a tendency to swat bores as an irritable citizen swats flies.

Yet here is Saxbe impatiently awaiting his tenure in a country whose governing elite tends to tedious neurotics, not to say sometime masschists and intuitive schizoprenics.

India's latest contribution to international amity is its action to bar Israel and South Africa from attending a worldwide table tennis tournament next month in Calcutta. A Foreign Ministry spokesman has declared that the decision was "in accordance with the policy of the government."

Meanwhile, India was the first non-Arab country to embrace the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO). With considerable fanfare, the Indian regime welcomed the PLO's gun-toting Yasser Arafat to New Delhi when he arrived at that curious city to open an official diplomatic office.

That, of course, is India's business. Its foreign policy is an internal matter. So was its decision to go nuclear, after decades of deploring the international arms race and posing, rather wistfully, as the world's peacemaker. But sports comes with the territory, and the category labeled with that awful adjective, "cultural," and India also has been in the forefront of those nations who plead that the way to attain permanent world peace is through "cultural" relations.

Such relations, apparently, are to be limited to nations of whose political policies India approves. This is a peculiar stance. One would think that the need for "cultural" relations is most pressing between governments which don't get along. At least, the popular cliché is that governments that play together get together. Hence in contests between capitalist and Communist teams seem to dispute this theory, but let that pass.)

"There sure are a lot of new faces in town!"

The Durable Chinese

NEW YORK — Ever since the still unraveled Lin Piao mystery, no one pretends to know what goes on in China. The latest news of a brand-new constitution adopted at the first Chinese People's Congress held in a decade has one element of mystery in it — why Mao Tse-tung, in whose name and by whose principles everything was done, was absent from the congress.

But the rest of the historic action of the congress is not beyond analysis. The important fact is that, despite the "anti-Confucian" campaign that has been waged against him recently, Chou En-lai has again been picked as the prime minister. The fact is also that the newer and younger men of the extreme left, who made a big splash during the Cultural Revolution in the '60s and had begun to elbow out the moderate ruling group of the party, have now — with one exception — themselves been elbowed out. It is the moderates who have survived and have proved to be durable.

How did it happen, in a China that has been racked by extremists, that the durable leaders should turn out to be the moderates, the older men, the practical administrators and party bureaucrats? One reason lies with the alliance of the moderates and the military men. During the Cultural Revolution the military leaders watched the near dissolution of the vast power system which the revolutionary founders had built up, and they had to come in and take over as the only force in the society that could maintain a frame of order. At that point they made the basic alliance with the party technicians which has lasted ever since. Each needs the other. The military leaders still recall the misadventure of their former chief, Lin Piao, who was too political and too ambitious and paid for both with his life.

Another reason is that the memories of the Cultural Revolution remain with all groups. The cities were invaded by hundreds of thousands of youths with slogans and posters hailing the "bourgeois capitalist revisionists." It was a time when the left leaders seized weapons from the police and the army posts, a time of bitter battles at Fushan and Anshan.

In a new book, "The Second Chinese Revolution" by K.S. Karol, the author, who is generally sympathetic with the Cultural Revolution, calls it "a collective frenzy, a war of each against each." When Secretary of State Henry Kissinger was in Peking on his first trip, the most striking impression he got both from Chou and the army marshals was their recoil from the memory of the near anarchy of that time. Americans need not be surprised that these events, even though the frame is so different from their own. At roughly the same time as China's Cultural Revolution, in the middle and late '60s, we had our own political and cultural upheavals, when revolutionary energies strained the social system to its limits.

We survived them. But out of the turmoil grew a counterforce of secrecy and surveillance reaching into the Watergate case and the intelligence services. Out of that, in turn, came the present post-'60s and post-Watergate period with its scrutiny of all officials and its search for total political integrity.

Each system has survived and resolved its revolutions in its own way. The Chinese have done it inside the single Communist Party structure, using the language of Marxism in the continuing struggle between the two lines. The Americans have done it within the two-party system, the media and the judicial process, bending with the storms of change in the '60s, thrusting the Watergate group out of power, using the native form of symbols of "good guys" and "bad guys" to achieve a basic change of political mood and climate.

The Chinese, after the purge of the rightist, Liu Shao-chi group in the late '60s and of Lin Piao and his leftist group in the early '70s, have come up with a new constitution but with the tried and trusted old moderate bureaucrats to administer it. The Americans have reclaimed their Constitution and taken it to heart again, although the question of whom they mean to entrust it to is still unclear. The Chinese have used the language of political virtue in other words, is one of trying to protect the interest of the very industries they are supposed to regulate.

For both nations the main outlines of the world scene are shaky. In their formal summary at the People's Congress, the party leaders noted the growing "contradictions" between the American and Soviet power blocs. But if they had to choose between them it is not the Soviets they would choose. Which may help explain why their moderates remain in power.

At any rate, a portion of the Indian press has wondered aloud at this latest effort of the Indian government to worsen its relations with Israel. "Why slam the door on Israel?" asked the Hindustan Times. "Admittance of the Jerusalem contingent to the indoor stadium will not mean approval of its domestic and foreign policies. Why does New Delhi think formal sports relations with it will be too much?"

Naturally, there is little or no disapproval of the ban on South Africa's team. India must maintain its reputation as the champion of the non-white. There's your schizoprenia. For centuries India's caste system has been one of the world's most crushing and ambiguous burdens on the poor and the meek, a monument to satanic sophistry.

It beats me how an old-shoe guy like Bill Saxbe expects to deal with people like that. Like previous ambassadors to India, he's probably been warned not to let the word "caste" pass his lips. But don't let he won't bring it up after a few months, weeks, or trying to persuade some Indian official that it's quite safe to acknowledge that two and two make four. His only consolation then would be that his indiscreetly will get him recalled back to relative sanity.

Bennington (Vt.) Banner
Officials in the Ford administration seem to be making a basic mistake in their understanding of the mood of the American people.

A new poll just released indicates that by a substantial margin the people prefer a system of gasoline rationing rather than a whopping tax on petroleum as a means of cutting down on our use of energy.

But this attitude, says the administration, simply reflects a misunderstanding on the part of the people about how gas rationing would work. "People must realize that if gasoline is rationed they won't be able to take long automobile trips," chides the administration.

We suspect the American people are far less interested in taking long auto trips than they are in being able to find enough money to cover the cost of driving to work and heating their homes.

It's not surprising to us — even though it doesn't seem to filter through to the policy makers in the White House — to find that people would accept rationing with more grace than an unpopulous tax on oil. If we have to bite the energy bullet, most of us want to be sure that everybody gets an equal bite.

The goals ... set forth in his (President Ford's) State of the Union address are for the most part desirable.

Among the ends he outlined are to put the unemployed back to work, increase real income and production, restrain the growth of government spending, achieve energy independence and advance the cause of world understanding. Sounds great, though in some cases we can't agree with the measures proposed.

The bad among these programs should be eliminated. Only Congress can do it. Mr. Ford's energy proposals ... are in part aimed at increasing U.S. self-sufficiency, an undeniably good idea, though some of the specific proposals are not good. Congress has been dragging its feet on this vital issue for years, thinking and acting mainly in terms of regulating, preventing or penalizing new production and enacting laws that have resulted in increased energy consumption.

It must be emphasized that the President can only propose. It is Congress that holds the power of action. Congress has been asking for a role of leadership. Now is the time for it. We're waiting. New York Daily News
General Motors and American Motors have jumped on the price-cutting wagon with Chrysler, offering rebates to entice customers who have been staying away from dealers' showrooms in droves. The industry has an enormous inventory on its hands and needs a sales spur in the worst possible way. We hope this will do the trick.

To be sure, there are legitimate legal questions about the ownership and control of the controversial tapes. Judge Gesell is within his rights in ruling on such disagreements.

But if the tapes are, in effect, public property and if the judge has decided, as it seems he has, that the public has a right to hear them, then it is none of his business whether they are heard in 'dignity' or whether there is "commercialization."

What the judge is doing is establishing controls over public information to protect the public mind. Americans do not need this kind of protection. It is called censorship and it has always been frowned upon in free countries.

In May of 1971 some 12,000 militants mobilized in the nation's capital to demonstrate against the continuing and costly Vietnam War, and on the fifth day launched a misguided attempt to paralyze traffic and thereby "shut down" the federal government.

The indiscriminate jailing of demonstrators, onlookers and passersby, said the jury, violated their First Amendment rights of free speech and assembly, their Fourth Amendment guarantees against false arrest and imprisonment, and the Eighth Amendment prohibitions against cruel and unusual punishment, all seasoned with a dash of malicious prosecution.

For these multiple infractions on the fundamentals of law and order, the jury ordered the District of Columbia and its law enforcement officials to pay $12 million in damages to the 1,200 victims — said to be the largest award yet granted in a civil liberties case.

There is no doubt that some resentment at such awards will be aroused among those who regard the May, 1971, incident as a flagrant example of excessive civil disobedience. We go along with the majority that greets the trial's finding as a brake on police state methods and one more assurance that constitutional freedoms are alive and well in this democracy.

Justice demands that laws apply equally to all parties affected by them. Right now, that principle is being violated by changes in the U.S. Code designed to end confusion over state lottery news and advertising.

A great deal is said and written nowadays about discrimination in social, educational or economic terms. Certainly there is no reason why discrimination in terms of advertising should be placed against newspapers and in favor of other media. Newspapers should have the same right to accept advertising for state lotteries from adjacent states that radio and TV now have. The new code should be amended to make sure they do.

When the National Transportation Safety Board opens hearings later this month on the crash of an airliner in which 92 persons died, a lot more may be at stake than the cause of the tragedy.

Regardless of the outcome, the hearing is bound to spur the increasing criticism of the Federal Aviation Administration for not doing its job properly. Just where the blame really belongs remains to be seen, but it is almost certain that the FAA will remain a chief target of criticism. And the matter is likely to get larger than just a fight between the safety board and the federal agency. A recent report by a House Commerce Subcommittee took the agency to task for its "over-solicitous attitude" with respect to the economic well-being of the aircraft industry or the carriers. The accusation, in other words, is one of trying to protect the interest of the very industries they are supposed to regulate.

If the accusation can be proven accurate, then some sort of remedial action ought to be expected.

MACC NEWS

MANCHESTER AREA CONFERENCE OF CHURCHES

Nancy Carr Executive Director
We welcome to the Manchester Area Conference of Churches the people of St. Bridget, rejoicing in the unanimous vote of their parish council to recommend membership to their pastor, the Rev. John Delaney, and in the unanimous and joyful acceptance of St. Bridget to full membership by the churches of the conference.

In the first days of 1975 another sign of trust, hope and commitment to one another in an era of Watergate, Belfast, and Yom Kippur wars. Welcome, St. Bridget!

Building of Unity
On Friday night, the delegates to MACC and their spouses will gather to celebrate and break bread at the second annual meeting of the conference.

The heartbeats of the conference, these men and women are sent by their churches to represent the traditions, the insights, the will of their separate congregations. Praying and then working side by side, they become a visible sign of Christ's healing love to one another and to the community.

They will covenant together Friday night in these words: "As representatives to this conference, we pledge ourselves and all our works to the will of God and the service of our brothers. Relying on God's grace, we do hereby accept the privilege and responsibility of mutual witness to this community."

Representing 15 communions — 1 Baptist, 3 Congregational, 1 Covenant, 1 Episcopal, 2 Lutheran, 2 Methodist, 4 Roman Catholic, 1 Salvation Army — the delegates come together from widely divergent backgrounds of denominational histories, traditions and doctrinal beliefs.

There are school teachers and secretaries, college students and businessmen. They are retired from long and productive lives; they are housewives with small children. They are nurses, and men and clergymen and engineers. Many give their time and talent to such service agencies as FISH, Red Cross, scouting, Big Brothers, Kiwanis, auxiliaries, and service groups of all kinds and/or work their community on town advisory boards.

Auditors Allege Illegality

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Connecticut Board of Licensure of Nursing Home Administrators is illegally issuing nursing home administrator licenses and renewals when the Department of Health is responsible for issuing them, state auditors say.

The department informally delegated its licensing responsibility to the board, which is empowered to examine applicants for licenses and renewals and endorse those persons licensed in other states, State Auditor Leo V. Donohue said Sunday.

Donohue said the auditors in 1971 recommended the nursing home board improve accounting procedures and repeated the recommendation.

The auditors, who examine executive agencies for the legislature, also noted three members of the board were serving in extension of their contracts, which ended in 1973. They are Dellafera, Martha Fry, of Middlefield, and George E. Roch, of Willimantic.

Other panelists are Mrs. Sophie K. Meid of Jewish Family Services in West Hartford, Rabbi Neil Kominsky of Temple Beth Hillel in South Windsor, and David W. Campbell, a private therapist from Willimantic.

Bloodmobile To Visit Town Tomorrow

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit South United Methodist Church Tuesday from 12:45 to 5:30 p.m. The visit is sponsored this month by the Southern New England Telephone Co. office in Manchester.

Deborah J. Sedgwick of Manchester and Angelo Intagliata of Manchester were married Nov. 30 at St. James Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sedgwick of 58 Croft Dr. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Concetto Intagliata of 167 Hawthorne St.

The Rev. Louis Cramonia of St. James Church officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Dennis R. Sedgwick, wore a white gown with old-fashioned lace at hemline, sleeves and high neckline, with a long train. Her floor-length veil was of silk illusion. She carried white feathered flowers with a touch of blue.

Mrs. Tina Delaney of Tolland, the bridegroom's sister, was matron of honor. She wore a pink jersey knit with Burgundy velvet on collar and cuffs. Her hairpiece was a Burgundy bow and she carried pink and Burgundy feathered flowers.

A special alert has been received from the blood center advising there is a need for blood for making platelets. The blood drawn at Tuesday's bloodmobile visit will be used primarily for this purpose.

Processing as well as transfusion of this delicate and much needed blood component must be accomplished within 48 hours of the drawing. Platelets are administered to patients daily in Connecticut hospitals, suffering from malignant disorders and also to help control bleeding and aid the clotting of blood.

Larry St. John of the Manchester SNETCO office is assisting in the recruitment of fellow employees for this month's bloodmobile visit. Preliminary recruitment figures indicate approximately 40 employees expect to donate.

Many additional donors will be needed to help meet the monthly quota of 150 pints. Appointments may be made by calling the local Red Cross office. Walk-in donors are welcome.

Homes Needed for Student Guests

Homes are needed in the Manchester area to host teenagers from Latin America who will be arriving this month. Students will live with an American family and attend high school for six months.

Some of the 1,500 Latin American teen-agers participating in the Youth for Understanding student exchange program are having a problem finding an American home, said Mrs. Glen Boderman of Columbine Rd. in Tolland, who is area representative for Youth for Understanding.

Host families, in addition to welcoming the students into their homes, provide the necessities such as food and clothing. Other than this and "tender loving care," the host family does not bear any necessary financial burden. The new "son" or "daughter" participates as a regular family member and is given the same responsibilities and privileges as other children in the family.

Anyone interested in housing a Latin American teen-ager for the next six months may contact Mrs. Boderman by calling 875-0801, or the Rev. Robert Eldridge, 120 Delmont St., 649-4971.

Youth for Understanding is a non-profit educational organization which cooperates with and receives an annual grant from the U.S. Department of State in carrying out its goal of increased international understanding through student exchange.

Some Need Food Advice, Nurses Tell. Nutrition education and guidance are needed for the elderly, for low-income families and others not reached by well-child clinics.

The MPHNA board voted to seek facilities that would permit sponsorship of more frequent well-child clinics. Mrs. Weiss, who serves on a volunteer basis in the nutrition section of well-child clinics in cooperation with MPHNA, outlined for directors examples of low-cost food recipes, shopping tips, menu planning and budgeting guidance offered at clinics. She teaches normal and therapeutic nutrition needs for the whole family as well as for in-service training of MPHNA staff members.

The diets of 90 per cent of children under the age of three fail to meet recommended diet allowances for iron, according to iron deficiency studies by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Mrs. Weiss told the MPHNA board members.

Daytona Costly Race

Coming up early next week will be the Daytona Speed Week climax by the 500 race, one of the biggest and richest on the annual circuit.

Junior Johnson, one of stock car racing's all-time greats, now a top-flight mechanic and builder of championship cars, was in Hartford on the weekend at Frank Maratta's Auto Show.

"It costs a half million dollars annually to sponsor a car in big-time competition," the chicken farmer from North Carolina reported at the Civic Center.

"It costs a bigger $50,000 to run at Daytona. The drivers comes out the big winner because he gets 50 per cent of the prize. The owner has to pay for all the equipment," Johnson noted.

Naming a national stock car race and over the years Johnson was first in line at the payoff window, at Daytona, Darlington, Atlanta and Charlotte, the major league tracks for the stocks.

Johnson, the subject of a movie titled "Last American Hero," which centered around his ram-jumping days and success on the race tracks, has Cuneborough as his principal driver these days.

"He's one of the four best in the world," Johnson said, the others being Richard Petty, David Pearson and Bobby Allison.

Notes Off the Cuff

More than 90,000 tickets were sold for performances of the Les Capades at the Hartford Civic Center last week. Qualifying dates for the annual Men's and Women's Town Duckpin Bowling Tournament have been changed and will now be staged Feb. 28, March 1-2 at the Holiday Lanes.

Bob Maron, director of skiing at Mt. Southington, will headline a children's ski clinic tonight at 7:30 at the Manchester State Bank. Conditions permitting, the race will be staged Saturday morning starting at 9 o'clock at Northwick...

With Herb "Yump" Johnson his ski buddy... Manchester's allotment of tickets for the Gold Key Dinner Sunday night, Feb. 3 in New Haven have been sold out as has been the case for more than two decades.

Regulars at the state's biggest sports affair for years have been Dr. Bernard Sheridan and Fred Peck.

Interesting Week

It will be interesting to see how many paying fans the New England Whalers lure to the Hartford Civic Center this week with three slates, tonight, Wednesday and Friday.

Whalers' numerous complaints have been received on conditions at the Civic Center due to the steep steps with no hand rails and the failure to open the doors to the Coliseum for events until 30 minutes before the start.

Byron Trumble, Civic Center manager, answered my inquiry about the lack of a ticket outlet on this side of the Connecticut River. The management is considering installing Ticketron units but this would take up to at least 60 days before operating.

Also, according to weekend reports, if installed, these units would only be at G. Fox outlets and none are east of the river. Tickets for Saturday night's Catholic high basketball publisher will be on sale Tuesday from 10 to 2:30 at East Catholic High. This will be a one-day sale only.

ABA: Showdown Battle

NEW YORK (UPI)—It was expected to be a showdown between two of the American Basketball Association's brightest lights, Julius Erving of New York and George McGinnis of Indiana. But in the end, it was a reserve guard named Mike Gale who made the difference.

Gale, New York's third guard, hit the winning basket and then blocked a possible tying shot nine seconds later Sunday to lead the Nets to a 115-111 victory over the Pacers.

McGinnis, Indiana's 6-foot-8, 240-pound bruising forward, had 41 points, including two baskets in the last two minutes to give the Pacers a 111-110 lead.

But then Gale took over. He hit a fallaway jumper and added a foul shot for a 113-111 lead with 23 seconds left and then blocked Johnny Neumann's jump shot with nine seconds to go.

Larry Kenon, who led New York with 27 points, then hit two foul shots for the final margin of victory.

Erving, who was astounding in his outing against Kentucky Friday night, was just "normal" Sunday, hitting 25 points with 14 rebounds and five assists. McGinnis had a game-high 18 rebounds and nine assists.

Nothing Beats Teamwork As NBA Braves Find Out

BOSTON (UPI)—Nothing beats teamwork. That's what the Buffalo Braves learned Sunday night when a bunch of fast moving Boston Celtics negated spectacular performances by Bob McAdoo and Randy Smith, 108-93.

The win increased Boston's NBA Atlantic Division lead to 2 1/2 games over the Braves.

"Fifty out of 89 nine shots by two players is not the kind of balance we want," admitted Buffalo coach Jack Ramsay.

Ramsay was referring to the negative side of the sensational play of McAdoo and Smith who collected 38 and 28 points respectively, to account for 70 per cent of the Braves' scoring, even though 10 Buffalo players saw action.

"The forwards should have a fair distribution of shots, and the second guard should have a fair distribution," said Ramsay.

McAdoo, leading the NBA with a 33.3 point per game average, did his usual thing Sunday night, dominating the Buffalo offense and grabbing 10 rebounds.

"McAdoo was tough," said Celtic coach Tom Heinsohn, "but it could have been worse."

"Paul Silas did a great job on McAdoo after (Dave) Cowens got into foul trouble," said Heinsohn, "and the man's not even feeling well."

"He's got a touch of the flu and was feeling weak before the game," Silas, asserting a rebounding forward with the Celtics, did everything. He was one of five Boston players in double figures with 17 points (his average is 10.8), grabbed 10 rebounds, and kept McAdoo from accomplishing the one-man miracle he attempted to pull off.

"They're (McAdoo and Smith) both great athletes and superb players," conceded Heinsohn.

"But," he asserted, "nobody ever gets anywhere in this league with only one or two players. Look at some of the expansion clubs. Anyone of them has at least one really good player, but still the team's aren't that successful."

The first period was nip and tuck with Buffalo jumping ahead 21-20 but the Celtics, who were precision sharp as a team ("We haven't been as enthusiastic as tonight for a while," said Heinsohn), wore down the Braves with darting passes and overwhelming fast breaks.

"We ran past them in the game a couple of weeks back," said Ramsay, "that's how we should play them, but tonight they turned it on us."

Boston led 41-37 at the half, 74-65 after three periods, and rolled to the finish.

The Celtics were high Celtic with 24 points, 20 in the second half when Boston set aside any doubt about their superiority.

Jo Jo White scored 22 points, John Havlicek 18, and Don Chaney 18. The Celtics get a welcome four days off this week after a grueling season.

While the top-ranked Hoosiers continue to toy with their opposition, their most serious challengers—teams with impressive names like UCLA, Maryland and Louisville—can't seem to keep pace.

This past weekend, for example, Indiana easily stretched its winning streak to 21 games—longest in the nation among major colleges—by whipping state rival Purdue, 104-71.

The Saturday night game of the week was Indiana's 107-103 victory over North Carolina. The Hoosiers' offense was led by Larry Bird, 33 points and 11 rebounds, and by a supporting cast of seven players.

Second-ranked UCLA was upset by Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., 84-78.

Third-ranked Louisville, suffering its first loss, 76-72, to Wake Forest last night. The Hoosiers' offense was led by Larry Bird, 33 points and 11 rebounds, and by a supporting cast of seven players.

Notre Dame got 32 points from Adrian Dantley, the nation's No. 1 scorer, and defeated UCLA for the second straight year at South Bend. Last year the Irish ended the Bruins' NCAA record 88-game winning streak.

Holding a 76-75 lead with four minutes to play, the Irish held the ball trying to break a man open behind the Bruins' defense and twice they succeeded, once on a fast-breaking call. Billy Paterno scored the last eight points in the game for Notre Dame, hitting four straight three throws in the final minute.

Jim Caruthers scored four points and Tom Les added a free throw in the final 20 seconds to give the Braves their victory over Louisville. Bradley was leading by one point, 60-59, when Les was fouled with 19 seconds left. He hit the first shot of a one-and-one to boost the Braves advantage before the winning Jeter shot. The Aeros, whose 29-14 record gives them a six-point lead in the West Division of the WHA, have beaten the Jets four straight games this season and Sunday night, 39-27.

Marty Howe scored 18 points from the front, 1-0, at 58 seconds of the game since moving to Baltimore. Arnie Brown scored the Blades goal and the Jets' first goal.

Blades goalies 6, Racers 0. Jim Boyd had two goals and an assist to lead the Flyers to their victory over the Roadrunners to their easy win over the Racers. Their third in a series of five wins, they tried to clear it and Howe beat goalie Joe Daley with a quick shot. Murray Hall scored the other goal while Danny Spring tallied for the Jets.

The Toronto Toros defeated the Edmonton Oilers, 7-5, the Minnesota Fighting Saints beat the Baltimore Blades, 2-1, the Phoenix Roadrunners downed the Indianapolis Racers, 6-0, and the Vancouver Blazers topped the Chicago Cougars, 5-3, in Sunday's other games.

NBA: Detroit Holds First Place

Pistons Talk and Play Like Championship Squad

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons talk like a championship basketball team. Now they are beginning to play like one, too.

"We think we're the best and we're out to prove it," Detroit Coach Ray Scott said Sunday after his first-place Pistons beat back their chief NBA Midwest Division challengers, the Chicago Bulls, in a 102-93 overtime thriller on national television.

"They blew us out last night (Saturday) and it didn't affect us," said Dave Bing, whose 11 overtime points made the difference.

The nine-year veteran from Syracuse was superlative in the clutch. Big Bob Lanier put the game into overtime—after Detroit muffed a nine-point lead, 78-69 with 5:40 to play—by sinking five out of six free throws in the final 1:19. Then Bing took over.

His layup 11 seconds into the overtime broke an 87-87 tie and pushed Bing past the 14,676 points Richie Guerin scored in his career into the No. 18 spot on the all-time NBA point list.

Then another Bing layup with 32 seconds gone in the extra five minutes—this one off a steal he made—gave Detroit a four-point cushion that proved to be enough.

The Boston Celtics defeated the Buffalo Braves, 107-97, at the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Los Angeles Lakers, 103-97, the Washington Bullets downed the Houston Rockets, 118-90, the Seattle SuperSonics topped the Cleveland Cavs, 96-93, and the Portland Trail Blazers rolled over Golden State, 128-113, in Sunday's other games.

"66-108, 108-97," said Heinsohn, "but it could have been worse."

"Paul Silas did a great job on McAdoo after (Dave) Cowens got into foul trouble," said Heinsohn, "and the man's not even feeling well."

Loose Ball in Atlanta

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A loose ball in Atlanta during Sunday's game between the Atlanta Braves and the Montreal Expos, which ended in a 7-4 victory for the Braves, was the only game of the season in which the home team lost.

The Braves, who were leading 3-2 in the bottom of the ninth, saw their lead evaporate as the Expos scored twice in the top of the ninth to take the lead.

The Expos' offense was led by Fred Carter, 29 points and 25 by Doug Collins ending the 7ers' four-year, 15-game losing streak in California. The 7ers had a 26-point lead at one point in the game but the Lakers scored strongly and were within four points late in the game. Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 24 points.

Bullets 118, Rockets 90. The Bullets won their sixth consecutive game with the aid of 24 points by Elvin Hayes, 22 by Phil Chenier and 18 by Len Robinson. It was the 14th straight home victory for the Bullets who raised their season record to 35-13.

Sonics 96, Cavaliers 93. The Sonics snapped a four-game losing streak. The Sonics were led by Fred Carter's 29 points and 25 by Doug Collins ending the 7ers' four-year, 15-game losing streak in California. The 7ers had a 26-point lead at one point in the game but the Lakers scored strongly and were within four points late in the game. Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 24 points.

Blazers 128, Warriors 113. Geoff Petrie, Sidney Wicks and Bill Walton combined for 69 points, including 29 by Petrie, to lead the Trail Blazers to their triumph. Rick Barry tallied 36 points for the Warriors.

College Basketball

Indiana Ups Skein

NEW YORK (UPI)—The gap is widening between Indiana and the rest of the nation's college basketball teams.

While the top-ranked Hoosiers continue to toy with their opposition, their most serious challengers—teams with impressive names like UCLA, Maryland and Louisville—can't seem to keep pace.

The Saturday night game of the week was Indiana's 107-103 victory over North Carolina. The Hoosiers' offense was led by Larry Bird, 33 points and 11 rebounds, and by a supporting cast of seven players.

Second-ranked UCLA was upset by Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., 84-78.

Third-ranked Louisville, suffering its first loss, 76-72, to Wake Forest last night. The Hoosiers' offense was led by Larry Bird, 33 points and 11 rebounds, and by a supporting cast of seven players.

Notre Dame got 32 points from Adrian Dantley, the nation's No. 1 scorer, and defeated UCLA for the second straight year at South Bend. Last year the Irish ended the Bruins' NCAA record 88-game winning streak.

Holding a 76-75 lead with four minutes to play, the Irish held the ball trying to break a man open behind the Bruins' defense and twice they succeeded, once on a fast-breaking call. Billy Paterno scored the last eight points in the game for Notre Dame, hitting four straight three throws in the final minute.

Jim Caruthers scored four points and Tom Les added a free throw in the final 20 seconds to give the Braves their victory over Louisville. Bradley was leading by one point, 60-59, when Les was fouled with 19 seconds left. He hit the first shot of a one-and-one to boost the Braves advantage before the winning Jeter shot. The Aeros, whose 29-14 record gives them a six-point lead in the West Division of the WHA, have beaten the Jets four straight games this season and Sunday night, 39-27.

Marty Howe scored 18 points from the front, 1-0, at 58 seconds of the game since moving to Baltimore. Arnie Brown scored the Blades goal and the Jets' first goal.

Blades goalies 6, Racers 0. Jim Boyd had two goals and an assist to lead the Flyers to their victory over the Roadrunners to their easy win over the Racers. Their third in a series of five wins, they tried to clear it and Howe beat goalie Joe Daley with a quick shot. Murray Hall scored the other goal while Danny Spring tallied for the Jets.

The Toronto Toros defeated the Edmonton Oilers, 7-5, the Minnesota Fighting Saints beat the Baltimore Blades, 2-1, the Phoenix Roadrunners downed the Indianapolis Racers, 6-0, and the Vancouver Blazers topped the Chicago Cougars, 5-3, in Sunday's other games.

Littler Looks Ahead, Miller Plans Rest

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Gene Littler, who has stopped considering Miller as the hottest player on the pro circuit over the last year and a half, and Jack Nicklaus, the game's biggest star who was making his 1975 debut, finished nine shots back at 289.

Hubert Green shut a closing three under 69—the best round of the final which was played over Pebble Beach—to grab second money of $21,000 over a 72-hole score of 284, four under par.

Tom Kite finished with a 70 for 285 and won $13,135 and Lou Graham had a 75 to finish at 287 and win $8,695.

Out of the starting field of 168 pros, Littler, Green, Kite and Graham were the only ones to finish at under par for 72 holes. The three Crosby courses played harder than usual this year with their small and fast greens. The fact no one was allowed to lift and place, as was the custom in previous Crosby tournaments, also had a lot to do with the high scores.

Nicklaus had a final-round 72 and Miller a two-over 74 and tied with Mike Hill, Rick Massagne, Leonard Thompson and Bruce Devlin at 289. Each won $5,000 and Devlin picked up another $3,000 when he combined with former pro quarterback Jack Lee (Kansas City, Houston and Denver) to win the pro-am competition. They finished at 289, a 72-hole score of 28 under par 289.

Miller said flatly he was tired and deflated because he didn't do better in the Crosby.

"I played my best and I wanted to win because I've been on the Player of the Year. But I got out badly in the first two rounds and you never play good golf when you are in a catchup situation..."

Vivien Kellems Dies; Fought for Tax Reform

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Vivien Kellems, a feisty Connecticut industrialist who fought for tax equality for the single persons, has died at the age of 78.

The silver-haired millionairess passed away Saturday at St. John's Hospital here, where she spent her winters. She had been hospitalized for 10 days with pneumonia.

Her personal secretary in Kellems' hometown East Haddam, Conn., said she would be buried without funeral services or calling hours, next to the body of her mother.

Since 1969 she mailed her federal income tax forms back to the IRS, signed and sealed but with all the spaces left blank, claiming the IRS owed her money because tax laws discriminated against single persons.

Miss Kellems was a spinster who earned her fortune from a small cable grip plant she founded in the un-liberated 1920's. She gained national recognition in her struggles for tax and election law reforms and once called former President Truman "High Tax Harry."

The grand dame of Connecticut Republican politics, she once staged a sit-in inside a voting booth in Stonington to dramatize her campaign against the party lever.

She told UPI she liked nothing better than curling up in bed with a copy of the Congressional Record.

Last summer she went before a U.S. Tax Court in Washington to answer the IRS's demands for back taxes. Instead she claimed that because she was single the government had overcharged her $115,081.24.

Victor J. Ziemba
VERNON — Victor J. Ziemba, 63, of 94 Grand Ave., died Saturday in Rockville General Hospital here. He was the husband of Mrs. Leticia Borkowski Ziemba. He was born in Rockville section and lived there all his life. He worked for Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Division of United Aircraft Corp. in East Hartford.

He was a communicant of St. Joseph's Church in Rockville. Other survivors are a son, William Ziemba of Rockville; two daughters, Mrs. Edward Fawcett of Suffield, and Mrs. Richard Lawrence of East Windsor; three brothers, Ladimir Ziemba of Palmer, Mass., and Casimir Ziemba and Lawrence Ziemba, both of Rockville; two sisters, Gladys Ziemba and Mrs. Edna Sedik, both of Rockville; and two grandchildren.

The funeral is Tuesday at 8:15 a.m. from the Burke-Fortin Funeral Home, 76 Prospect St., Rockville, with a Mass at 9 a.m. at St. Joseph's Church. Burial will be in St. Bernard's Cemetery, Rockville.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Nellie D. Larson
VERNON — The funeral for Mrs. Nellie Driggs Larson, 82, of Driggs Rd., who died Saturday in a convalescent home, was today.

Burial was in Elmwood Cemetery, Vernon. The White-Gibson-Small Funeral Home, 65 Elm St., Rockville, was in charge of arrangements.

She was born in Vernon and was a lifelong resident. A member of the First Congregational Church of Vernon, she became its organist at the age of 16 and continued in the position for 45 years.

Survivors are a son, Bernard W. Larson of Vernon, and two daughters, Mrs. Rudolph Dolnick of Coventry and Ruth E. Larson of Boston, Mass.

Friends wishing to do so may make memorial contributions to the First Congregational Church of Vernon.

Vivien Kellems

"My federal income tax returns belong to me, and neither you, some college kid, or anyone else is going to paw over them without my permission or a court order," she wrote Brown.

To Joseph J. Conley Jr., director, IRS, she wrote, "Did you turn my federal income tax returns over to Brown? If so by what authority did you give Mr. Brown my personal property? And don't quote any idiotic section of the Code."

Mrs. Fred Field
Mrs. Violet M. Field, 82, of 89 Marine Way, Old Port Cove, North Palm Beach, Fla., formerly of Manchester, died Sunday at the Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach, Fla.

She was born June 21, 1912 in Ireland and lived here 48 years. She was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church and the Episcopal Church Women.

Other survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor F. Rich; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Jones and Mrs. Robert Dunlop, all of Manchester; and three grandchildren.

The funeral is Tuesday at 11 a.m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Regin Jacobson will officiate. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Mrs. W. A. Wheelock
VERNON — Mrs. Pamela Bartlett Wheelock, 84, of Vernon Ave., died Sunday at a Winthrop care facility in Manchester. She was the wife of William A. Wheelock Sr.

She was born Feb. 9, 1906 and had been a lifelong resident of Vernon.

Survivors besides her husband are: two sons, William A. Wheelock Jr. of Bristol and John R. Wheelock of Wilkesbarre, Pa.; two daughters, Mrs. Harry Coville St. and Mrs. John Nickerson, both of Broad Brook; a brother, Herbert Humford of Rocky Hill; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Tuesday at 11 a.m. from the Ladd Funeral Home, 19 Ellington Ave., Vernon, with the Rev. Gregory G. Kendall officiating. Burial will be in Grove Hill Cemetery, Vernon.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. Friends wishing to do so may contribute to the American Cancer Society or to a charity of their choice.

In 1971 she announced she would refuse to pay any state income taxes or Connecticut stock dividend taxes, and challenged then-Gov. Thomas J. Meskill to take her to court.

"I am not afraid of the Internal Revenue Service and I assure you I am not afraid of you," she told legislators who were considering the state income tax. When Miss Kellems learned in 1971 that copies of her federal income tax returns had been turned over to Connecticut Tax Commissioner F. George Brown, she sent Brown and federal tax officials scathing letters.

Miss Kellems was a spinster who earned her fortune from a small cable grip plant she founded in the un-liberated 1920's.

She gained national recognition in her struggles for tax and election law reforms and once called former President Truman "High Tax Harry."

SOUTH WINDSOR Judy Kuchel

A petition requesting the South Windsor Town Council refrain from entering surplus funds into the Capital Gains Fund will be distributed by the South Windsor Association (SWAC).

The decision to do this followed the annual SWAC meeting this weekend, in which 100 rate residents turned out to air concerns over property assessments.

Residents here received revaluation notices two weeks ago and in many cases assessments went up hundreds of per cents.

According to Robert Martin, newly elected president of SWAC, his group is developing a formal release to be presented to the Town Council in which two suggestions will be made: — That a public hearing with representatives of United Appraisals be held to determine what methods were used in the recent reassessment.

That the council consider reducing the mill rate by at least 20 mills. Martin said today he wants to make people aware of avenues open to them in dealing with their assessments.

Alternatives include meeting with members of the assessment firm, appeal to the Board of Tax Review to take court action. The last alternative cannot be taken until the second alternate is met, Martin said.

Following their meeting this weekend, SWAC officials were invited to meet with Main St. residents on Feb. 10.

Residents along Main St. were reportedly hit hardest by the reassessments and in some cases had property values soar over 300 per cent.

That the council consider a position statement which will be made available to the Town Council prior to its Feb. 3 meeting.

This, Martin said, is because many people feel they were unjustly appraised.

Martin says SWAC's objectives are to get more positive input from the general public. In fact, Martin added, SWAC is now considering the possibility of running an independent ticket in a future election. However, he said he hoped that his would not be necessary.

A home on Deepwood Dr. was broken into Friday night. Missing is a bottle full of pennies, police said.

A break into an apartment on Rachel Rd. was reported Saturday. The bedroom was gone through but nothing appears missing, police said.

Two cars were reported stolen over the weekend. Both had the keys in the ignition, police said.

The 1967 brown Rambler four-door sedan owned by Patricia Ryan of 16 Walker St. was reported stolen Saturday morning from the parking lot of the Exxon service station at 405 Main St., police said.

Sgt. Gerald Galve spotted six youths, one black and the rest white, smashing the car in Hickey's Grove west of Oakland St. by Union Pond Sunday.

The badly damaged car was towed to the Dan Willis Garage on Main St., police said. The plates are still missing.

The second stolen car was a 1973 green Austin Marina owned by Arthur Ventura of 322 Spring St. It was reported stolen Sunday morning from where it was parked at 808 E. Center St., police said.

MANCHESTER POLICE REPORT

Police reported that a car driven by Edward J. Smith, 25, of 163 Downey Dr. which struck the rear of the car driven by Jeffrey A. Dupont, 26, of 291 South St., Vernon, police said.

The Smith car was towed away. There were no other reported injuries and no arrests.

Maryanne Twaronite, 18, of 70 Otis St. was injured when the car she was driving south on Chestnut St. Saturday at 10:35 a.m. struck a utility pole, police said.

She was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital where she was X-rayed and discharged.

The car was towed away. No arrests were made.

Clemens R. Alexander, 60, of 89 Main St. was arrested Sunday at 7:30 p.m. and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor or drugs.

He was released on $150 non-surety bond for court Feb. 10.

John J. Paquette, 17, of 118 Florence St. was charged with evading responsibility in connection with a minor two-car accident Saturday at 11:32 p.m. on Keeney St., police said.

He allegedly struck the fender of the car driven by Deborah A. Duff, 16, of 63 McKee St. and drove away, police said. There were no injuries reported. Court is Feb. 17 for Paquette.

Dolores M. Tolan, 25, of 165 Downey Dr. was injured in a two-car accident Saturday at 11:22 a.m. on McKee St. just north of Westwood St., police said.

She was taken by ambulance to Manchester Memorial Hospital where she was treated for abrasions and contusions, and both were discharged, a hospital spokesman said, (Manchester Ambulance)

Do you have a big umbrella covering you? You'll feel better if you do.

An "umbrella" policy (more accurately, personal catastrophe liability coverage) gives broader coverage than an ordinary policy can. First offered by British insurance companies, it's become very popular here.

Umbrella policies were originally designed for the very rich, who might have oversized liability claims brought against them. But court awards have been mounting up, and even individuals earning $15,000 need this extra coverage.

Personal umbrella policies provide extra coverage over your regular insurance. That insurance, in turn, is the "protective" figure in planning the umbrella, and the "basic" insurance has to be fairly extensive.

Most policies are written to limits of $1 million to $10 million, with most set at a $5 million maximum.

The man, who fled on foot after being given $200, made the holdup at about 6:06 a.m. Sunday. He was described as 5'7", 130 pounds, with shoulder length hair, a blue nylon jacket and dark pants.

Shop Held Up
DANBURY (UPI) — An armed man has escaped from the Dunkin Donuts shop on White Street after firing a shot into a glass case to show a waitress he wasn't fooling, police said. The man, who fled on foot after being given $200, made the holdup at about 6:06 a.m. Sunday. He was described as 5'7", 130 pounds, with shoulder length hair, a blue nylon jacket and dark pants.

GRANTMASTER TIRE GUARANTEE

1. Grantmaster Tire is guaranteed against road hazards for 36 months or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first. This guarantee covers the tire and the tread, but not the sidewall. It does not cover damage caused by misuse, neglect, or accidents.

2. Grantmaster Tire is guaranteed against defects in materials and workmanship for the life of the tire.

3. Grantmaster Tire is guaranteed against tread wear. The tread is guaranteed to wear for the number of miles indicated on the sidewall of the tire. If the tread wears out before the number of miles indicated, we will replace it. This guarantee is void if the tire is used for commercial purposes, is used for off-road driving, or is used for any other purpose not intended by the manufacturer.

4. Grantmaster Tire is guaranteed against damage to the sidewall. If the sidewall is damaged, we will replace it. This guarantee is void if the tire is used for commercial purposes, is used for off-road driving, or is used for any other purpose not intended by the manufacturer.

5. Grantmaster Tire is guaranteed against damage to the tread. If the tread is damaged, we will replace it. This guarantee is void if the tire is used for commercial purposes, is used for off-road driving, or is used for any other purpose not intended by the manufacturer.
