Manchester—A City of Village Charm

TWENTY-EIGHT PAGES — TWO SECTIONS PRICE: FIFTEEN CENTS

Grand List Is $288.9 Million; Up 1.6 Per Cent from 1973

By SOL R. COHEN

Manchester's net taxable Grand List, based on Oct. 1, 1974 valuation and minus all allowable exemptions, is $288,949,663 — up $4,586,311 or only 1.6 per cent over last year's and the smallest gain in recent Manchester history.

However, the state will reimburse the town for additional assessed values totaling $3,939,995, or an additional 1.4 per cent over last year's net Grand List.

The additional assessed values of just under $4 million are a result of a new act passed by the 1974 General Assembly. It provides for the elimination of property taxes on business furniture, fixtures, machinery and equipment purchased after the October 1973 assessment date.

The values are assessed in the same manner as other personal property, but aren't included in the Grand List. Instead, the figure is submitted to the state. Reimbursement to the town will be on the basis of the mill rate for 1975-76, to be adopted in May by the Board of Directors.

Based on the current 49.3 mills General Fund tax rate, the $3,939,311 increase reimbursable from the state would generate $194,242 in new tax revenue.

The $4,586,311 net increase included in the Grand List, also based on the current 49.3 mills tax rate, would generate $226,105 in new revenue.

The combined increase would come to about 3 per cent, and is equivalent to 1.4 mill. Manchester has been averaging 5 per cent or more increase, in recent years.

Last year at this time, even after adjustments and reductions by the Board of Tax Review, the Grand List rose $17,532,977 or 6.2 per cent over the year before.

Town Assessor Ed Belleville, commenting on the minimal increase, said, "It reflects the present status of our economy locally. It's in line with that of the state and nation. Hopefully, construction should increase in 1975 and, again hopefully, our Grand List a year from now should show a healthier increase."

When he announced the Grand List a year ago, Belleville predicted a minimal increase in the Grand List for this year.

"Because of the recent slowdown in building construction, combined with current mortgage rates," he said last January, "next year's list is not expected to reflect any substantial increase."

Town Manager Robert Weiss and Mayor John Thompson, alerted to a "less than substantial" Grand List increase, have predicted in recent weeks Manchester's tax rate may have to go up 6 to 9 mills in 1975-76.

Manchester's new Grand List was $7,469,479 higher before exemptions. That amount was deducted for veterans, the elderly and disabled persons.

The $288,949,663 net taxable Grand List is in the following categories:

- Real Estate — $229,836,003, up $4,849,066 from last year.
- Motor Vehicles — $27,742,770, up $1,761,746 from last year.
- Personal Property — $31,370,890, down $2,024,500 from last year. This drop is offset by the additional assessed values reimbursable by the state.

In the area served by the Town Fire District, the new valuations total $229,816,078 — up $5,683,296 from last year.

In the Eighth Utilities District the new valuations total $59,133,585 — a drop of $96,985 from last year.

The tax rate in the Town Fire District is 5.7 mills currently. The tax rate in the Eighth District is 2.5 mills — 1.25 for fire protection and 1.25 for sewage service.

The Board of Tax Review will be in session two days next week and two days the following week, to hear complaints from taxpayers claiming to be aggrieved by their assessments. All hearings will be in the Municipal Building from 7 to 9 p.m. as follows:

Feb. 4 (Tuesday) — for letters A through I.

Feb. 5 (Wednesday) — for letters J through R.

Feb. 13 (Thursday) — for letters S through Z.

Feb. 14 (Friday) — for those unable to appear the other three nights.

Economic News Sparks Optimism

By RICHARD HUGHES

UPI Business Writer

Things are looking up. The stock market is rebounding. Cars are selling again. Some furloughed workers are being called back to their jobs.

"The behavior of the stock market since early December suggests that, if the past is any guide, the recession could end close to mid-year," said Irwin Kellner, economist at Manufacturers Hanover Bank in New York.

Market Leads Trend

"Historically," Kellner said, "an uptick in the stock market has led the end of an economic recession by an average of six months."

In Detroit, a Ford Motor Co. executive said the worst of the auto slump seems to be over. Robert J. Hampson, vice president for North American operations, said by March Ford could recall some of its 33,125 workers on indefinite layoffs.

"I hope that by March and April we will see some recall of people on indefinite layoffs and then a gradual improvement in the spring," Hampson said.

In another indication of growing strength in the economy, AT&T's $600 million sale of loan notes was snapped up within hours after the offer was made. Under the long-term debt program, AT&T in effect borrows money from the public and agrees to pay it back with interest when the notes mature in 7 and 32 years.

In Lowell, Vt., employees and others are trying to buy for $2.5 million the GAF Corp. asbestos mine to save 180 jobs. An attorney said agreement is near with the company, which said it would close the mine rather than pay $1 million to meet federal air pollution standards.

Sugar, in short supply and at record prices just two months ago, today is bloating warehouses. Sugar companies are cutting the price and reducing production to unload the supply. Major refiners put into effect Monday the third wholesale price cut on grocery sugar in three months. In the latest cut, a pound of sugar was reduced to 49 cents from 57 cents.

State Department Building Damaged By Bomb Blast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bomb exploded at the State Department early Wednesday, heavily damaging a men's room and sending water flooding through the hallways of the third floor.

Police were called to a nearby building housing Agency for International Development offices to search for an explosive device, but none was found, they said. At first, police said a device was found but that it did not explode.

No One Injured

No one was injured at the State Department when the bomb went off near AID offices at about 1 a.m. EST.

The Washington Post said it received a telephone call from the "Weather Underground" claiming responsibility for the blast, and there were reports the same group warned of a bomb at a Defense Department installation in Oakland, Calif. A State Department spokesman said the damage was "localized ... the worst part of it knocked down a ceiling."

In Oakland, police cordoned off a one-block area around the downtown induction center Tuesday night after callers warned a bomb had been planted in the building by the "Weather Underground."

Phoned In Warning

One such caller with a female voice directed KGO-TV to a phone booth in downtown San Francisco, where a reporter found a letter referring to the Oakland bomb threat and the bombing of the State Department.

Israel Offers Withdrawal Plan

By United Press International

Israel has offered to withdraw up to 31 miles in the occupied Sinai Desert in a troop pullback agreement with Egypt but insists on keeping the region's strategic mountain passes and oil fields.

Defense Minister Shimon Peres said Tuesday in Tel Aviv Israel would be willing to pull back from 19 to 31 miles in exchange for political concessions from Egypt.

But he said in a national radio interview the proposed pullback would have to leave the Abu Rodeis oil fields and the Mitla and Gidi passes in Israeli hands. It was the most detailed statement so far of Israel's negotiating position.

Peres, asked in the interview whether he was outlining his personal opinions or Israel's official position, replied, "This is the government policy."

"At this stage there is room to talk about withdrawal of 30 to 50 kilometers (19 to 31 miles) in the Sinai, without the passes or Abu Rodeis," he said. "All this is connected with a political return from Egypt."

Egypt has demanded the Israeli evacuation of the two passes in the northern Sinai as well as the Abu Rodeis oil fields on the Gulf of Suez.

Iran, Israel's major foreign oil supplier, has offered to guarantee fuel shipments if the Jewish state abandons Abu Rodeis, which provides 55 per cent of Israel's petroleum needs.

Peres said the United States has yet to ask Israel to make specific pullback proposals "in geographic terms — only in political terms."

Oil Price Drop Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A respected economist gave Congress encouraging news about oil today, saying the world's petroleum supplies are rising sharply and prices eventually are bound to fall.

Hendrik Houthakker, a Harvard professor who served on the Council of Economic Advisers, said the four-fold increase in world oil prices during 1973 and 1974 led to a burst of successful exploration for new supplies which may one day result in a new oil glut.

"Inventories are being rebuilt" as a result, Houthakker told Congress' Joint Economic Committee, "and this will in due course put pressure on the price."

"In the long run, further relief will come from new exploration, which is now proceeding at a feverish pace and has already led to considerable success, contrary to the popular notion that we are close to the limits of the world's energy supply."

Houthakker said the world's known oil reserves rose by 87.8 billion barrels in 1974—from 627.9 billion at the start of the year to 715.7 billion at the end of the year.

Egyptians to Purchase Warplanes from France

PARIS (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said today France will sell him its latest type 1,800 m.p.h. Mirage warplanes. French government officials said Sadat had submitted a shopping list for $2.2 billion worth of war equipment.

Sadat told the news conference he could pledge Egypt and Syria never to attack Israel first and that "It is possible that we can have peace" in the Middle East for the first time in 26 years.

He insisted, however, that the situation was explosive in the Middle East and demanded that Israel withdraw its military forces from all fronts and agree to the creation of a Palestinian state.

Speaking at a news conference ending his three-day state visit Sadat said the arms deal will include the delivery of the latest F1 Mirage jets. So far only the French air force has been supplied with the Mach 2.5 fighter bombers.

A joint official communique said France agreed to sell Egypt military equipment "to compensate in part for losses suffered by Egypt" during the October 1973 war. Sadat has charged repeatedly that Soviet Russia, once Egypt's exclusive arms supplier, has not sent him a single weapon to replenish his armories since 1973.

French military sources said the delivery of the Mirages would fall far short of the number of planes Egypt and Syria lost in 1973, which was then estimated at more than 300 planes. Diplomatic sources said Egypt also will buy a number of Crotale ground-to-air missiles and radar equipment.

French government officials said President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, while approving the sale of Mirages and other military materiel to Egypt, has decided to keep the deliveries under control so as not to upset the Middle East balance of power.

Gagnons, Gabers Win Hawaiian Sweepstakes

"I can't believe it," and "I'm so excited" were the responses heard by Barbara Cox of LaBonne Travel Inc. last night when she called Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gagnon of Faulkner Dr. and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gaber, owners of The Craft & Hobby Shop, to inform them they had won the "Hawaiian Carnival Sweepstakes."

The contest, sponsored by The Herald and area merchants, ran for six weeks with some 40,000 entries deposited at participating stores. LaBonne Travel Inc. is in charge of travel arrangements.

Gagnon, who retired in May after 24 years at Cheney Bros., is looking forward to a return trip to Hawaii.

"I was there during the war for three years, and my wife and I vacationed there a few years ago. It is beautiful, and we are looking forward to our trip," he said.

Mrs. Gagnon, who is employed at Manchester Modes, was equally excited.

"We were in Hawaii in 1968 on an American Legion-sponsored trip and I always said I wanted to go back — now we can."

As for the Gabers who reside at 123 W. Center St. with their two children, ages 7 and 5, they are still in a state of shock.

"I've never been further west than Chicago," the excited Mrs. Gaber said.

Married 10 years, this may well be a second honeymoon for the Gabers.

"This will be our first real vacation," Gaber said. "Our honeymoon was only for two days."

The preparation of getting baby sitters, etc. doesn't seem to be an obstacle and they will be making plans for their trip soon.

As an extra bit of good news, the lucky couples were informed that the prize, originally to total 11 days, had been extended to a 14-day trip due to travel package arrangements.

They will receive a round-trip jet flight via American Airlines 747 to Hawaii including first class accommodations at the Waikiki Village in Honolulu, two nights at the Kona Seaside or Kona Island in Kona, and two nights at the Hilo Bay in Hilo.

Also included are free in-flight movies and stereo headsets plus food and beverages served aloft with complimentary champagne. All transfers between hotel and airports, sightseeing tour of Honolulu and Mount Tantalus, luggage handling (tips included), and flower lei greeting are also included.

There will be a host escort, a service desk in the hotels, pre-registration, hotel and airport taxes.

In addition, The Herald will provide each couple with $200 spending money.

The stores participating in the sweepstakes were Mari-Mads, Martin Ltd., King's, Consumer Sales, B. D. Pearl, Shoor's, Harrison's, Authenticity I, 20th Century TV, Living Room Interiors, Glazier's, Regal Men's Shop, House & Hal, Wholesale Tire, Lift the Latch, K-Mart, Frank's and The Craft & Hobby Shop.

Penalizing Everyone As Energy Policy

The basic law of ecology is that "everything is hooked to everything else." Nothing happens in isolation. There is no "away" where you can throw things, for a disturbance of the environment in one place has effects in every other place.

These provocative questions put forth in a recent edition of Continental Oil Co.'s "Conoco 74" magazine, underscore the dilemma confronting the President, his advisors and the new Congress as they move toward the formulation of a useful and equitable energy policy for this country.

There are any number of conflicts, both in society and within the government, that must be reconciled if that goal is to be achieved. For example, there are currently more than 60 federal agencies having some responsibility for oil and gas matters.

With so many groups involved, coordination is difficult, there is an absence of common purpose and duplication and interference are frequent.

Without an over-all energy policy, there are no guidelines and nobody has the responsibility for assuring that the various objectives and programs mesh or that "trade-offs" — despoiled landscapes in the West for humming generators in the East, say — are properly evaluated and resolved.

Everyone can agree that a national energy policy is an imperative need that must be met before the new year is many more weeks old. But because "everything is hooked to everything else," whatever the provisions of the policy, we can be sure they will have repercussions not altogether pleasing to all Americans in all the states.

Thanks
To the editor:
At this time we wish to thank the citizens of the town of Coventry for their continued support against the Greater Hartford Corporation (DevCo). The concerted effort of the anti-DevCo coalition has for the financial and moral support that was given. Without the people to back the effort, the end of the Greater Hartford Corporation (DevCo) would not be at this stage in Coventry.

It should be noted at this time that the land on which the Greater Hartford Corporation (DevCo) was to build is still in its possession and as of yet has not been disposed of. As of now, no new plans for constructive use of the land are available from their owners (Chase Manhattan Real Estate Investment Trust and First National Bank of Chicago). The concerted effort of the anti-DevCo coalition with the legal assistance of its attorney John R. Fitzgerald of Howard, Kohn, Sprague & Fitzgerald will continue until the Greater Hartford Corporation (DevCo) is finally laid to rest.

On the more positive side of the ledger, the coalition groups would like at this time to offer their support to townwide plans for the future of Coventry. We will be willing to work with town officials in whatever way that will be in the best interest of Coventry and the surrounding area. Two areas of special interest are: 1. Industry for a tax base, without 20,000 new residents. 2. Residential units for senior citizens.

At the state level we would like to lend our support to the governor's task force on agriculture which is going on record in favor of preserving our farms instead of paving them over with asphalt or cement.

"One last point to be put forth is, that without the people to give of themselves no effort of any type will prevail."

The above letter was composed by Donald W. Smyth of Coventry and expresses the views of the combined groups listed below.

Dear Mr. Lamson:
On behalf of the staff and Board of Directors of the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association, I would like to congratulate the Manchester Jaycees and their wives for the fine job done in helping to make our Immunization Clinic such a success.

An outstanding job was done in the area of advertising, volunteer participation, and the children were delighted with the lollipops donated.

Again, thank you for a job well done and we hope your organization will consider making this a yearly project.

Poor Facilities

To the editor:
For the past two years my son has been playing on an intra-town basketball team for boys 12-14-years-old which plays its home games at the Community Y. The boys have played teams from Glastonbury, East Hartford, Newington, Wethersfield, South Windsor and Windsor Locks only to mention a few.

Each of these towns has facilities that we of Manchester envy. It is no wonder the express boys and their parents are proud of their towns. It's embarrassing to admit that Manchester has the worst facilities of all.

Why can't the boys be allowed to use one of our better school gyms as their home court? Surely, the town could open one of these facilities for this purpose.

HI NEIGHBOR
By BURL LYONS

We are back at the daily grind and home from a whirlwind visit to the Rocky Mountain West in what politicians might refer to as a working vacation. Ours turned out to be six days of work, two days of riding airplanes, and one day of vacation. Spare moments were spent people watching at airports; not a bad pastime, but not as entertaining as doing the same thing at ski lodges.

Everywhere you go, the economy is the number one topic of conversation. Unemployment in some areas of the West is approaching 14 per cent, particularly in lumbering communities due to the depressed construction industry. No one seems disturbed, though, as two years ago when the economy was supposed to be fairly good, the unemployment rate was 21 per cent.

On one aircraft, we sat next to a banker from Fargo, N.D., primarily an agricultural state.

"What recession?" was his reply to our query about the state of the economy. He replied that farmers and ranchers are nearly standing in line to purchase new combines, tractors, pickup trucks and larger automobiles. The stewardesses with whom we talked said travel is about on a par with last year though there are less people on flights say from Chicago to Bradley.

Perhaps the state of the economy all depends on the frame of mind of the person with whom you are talking at a particular moment.

As Congress begins debate on new legislation, it might be well to keep in the background, between now and the 1978 election, that the House is composed of 291 Democrats, 144 Republicans, while the Senate has 61 Democrats, 38 Republicans, with one seat, New Hampshire still undecided.

The Congress has the power to override any presidential veto.

An office cohort says if the unemployment ranks in Connecticut get too great, we could always send some of the people to Washington since the federal government is always the last to cut back on jobs and there is no indication of any widespread layoffs in any agency.

Those of us who are old enough to remember the Yo-Yo which was extremely popular during the Great Depression are pleased to learn it is on the upswing.

For the sake of young folks, a Yo-Yo is a toy with twin wooden disks that rises and falls on a cotton string, and with a little skill you can perform a variety of feats.

It was America's favorite toy during the depression. Today's models of course are made of plastic and are more sophisticated.

Something to think about:

Nothing in the world that is alive remains unchanging. All nature changes from day to day and minute to minute. Fresh water runs on, and if you stop it, it becomes stagnant. Now also is it with the life of man and the life of a nation.

We have had several reports that state employes apparently aren't car pooling anymore.

We have observed several state cars, with only the driver, on our various highways.

Are state employes using state vehicles for their own personal transportation? If that's the case, taxpayers must be picking up the tab. We realize that in some cases one in a car might be necessary, but car pooling should certainly be encouraged.

An auto dealer suggests the state could also be in better shape financially if it would collect the sales tax at the time a car is registered. Now, the tax is apparently collected quarterly.

and there is a host of field auditors checking on respective auto dealers from time to time.

We believe one of the news wire services showed poor judgment awarding back with a photograph of Gov. Grass with a towel wrapped around her head.

We do not ever recall seeing a picture of ski lodges.

Following a meeting with Morton and the secretary's address to a joint meeting of the Legislature, Dukakis said, "We are basically at odds."

Morton, the nation's top energy official, said "The net effect (of the energy program) is that New England will come out better." He said New England officials don't understand the program "and have reacted a little too quickly."

Dukakis said "I don't see any possibility of this region coming off better. We will sustain a massive increase in the cost of this fuel."

Morton and Dukakis did agree that there exists a fundamental difference in philosophy between the New England States and President Ford on how to conserve energy.

Dukakis said he favors a system of oil import quotas and rationing while the

Bay State Governor Unconvinced Secretary Morton Defends Federal Energy Program

BOSTON (UPI) — Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis remains unconvinced per cent opposed to President Ford's energy program despite a plea for acceptance of it from Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton.

Dukakis said if the plan is implemented it will result in the loss of 60,000 manufacturing jobs in Massachusetts within one year.

He said the President's program will increase energy costs for the average Massachusetts family by 35 per cent.

The tax on imported refined products, upon which New England depends almost exclusively, would be zero in February, 60 cents a barrel in March and $1.20 a barrel in April, Morton said.

Congressmen and governors in New England, according to Morton, have been under the mistaken impression that $1 to $3 a barrel program applied to refined as well as crude oil.

Morton said Massachusetts residents will fare better than those in other parts of the country because they use less gasoline per capita than residents of most other states.

Morton said he has been called the "defender" of Ford's program, but added "I am optimistic that when the President's policy is fully understood in the context of the alternatives it will not need defense; it will be accepted."

She's Coughing Better

I've got a co-worker who insists I'm a comedian, and all I did was tell her she's coughing much better.

She's had the bug for over a week and tried many remedies, the last one some highly touted cough medicine.

The other day, when I asked her how she's doing, she said the cough medicine wasn't working.

That's when I said, "It must be working. You're coughing much better."

And she was, in fact, she not only was coughing much better—she was coughing much louder and much oftener, too.

It reminds me of the time my doctor prescribed two different pills for me—when I couldn't sleep because of the pain from what he diagnosed as a pinched nerve.

One prescription was to soothe the pain. The other was to fall asleep. I know, you're way ahead of me. Yes, I did get them mixed up.

I took the sleeping pill first, but the pain woke me up. So I took the pain-killing pill but, by that time, I was wide awake and couldn't get back to sleep.

Then, just as I was dozing off, the pain killer wore off. I was wide awake again— from the pain. I took another sleeping pill and fell asleep, just in time to be awakened by the alarm clock.

The next night, I took the pain-killing pill first. I stayed awake analyzing my sensations—to determine whether the pill was having a soothing effect. When I determined it was, I took the sleeping pill. Just then, the pain returned and I couldn't sleep.

I told my doctor what was happening to me and he prescribed a do-it-yourself neck harness for my pinched nerve. I was to wear it once or twice a day.

So, I got one—complete with straps and the headpiece, the metal arm that fits over the top of a door, and the counterweight plastic bag, the one I was to fill with sand or water.

I used water. I couldn't find any clean sand. Besides, my wife didn't look favorably on a sandy beach in her living room.

That's where I sat in my neck harness, against a door that faced the TV set—looking like a mummy and feeling like a dummy. My wife didn't mind the water. She said it covered my dirty footprints.

After about two weeks of wearing the harness, I didn't feel any better. My doctor told me to try it another two weeks and continue to take the pills.

I did but still no improvement. So, I stopped and I stopped the pills, too. I didn't tell the doctor.

I felt better than I'd felt in months. So did he, when I happened to bump into him one day on the street and he saw how well I looked.

Whatever Happened To English?

At their annual convention in New Orleans, members of the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) decided that the new English usage section of the Scholastic Aptitude Test is "linguistically invalid" and should be dispensed with.

As reported by Education USA newsletter, the teachers agreed that the new test attempts to "limit students' linguistic expression to an arbitrarily established correct form."

Horror of horrors. But that's not all. This "superficial concept of 'correctness'" is racially and socially biased, the NCTE found, because it excludes the dialects of millions of students. This is especially distressing since the new test is used around the country to determine college admissions and placement in English courses.

Bye-bye Shakespeare. Bye-bye Declaration of Independence and Gettysburg Address. Junk everything else that represents an "arbitrarily established" literary standard and "superficial concept of 'correctness.'" "And we certainly can't deny anyone college admission just because he or she can't talk English so good, or expect him to take a remedial rather than an advanced English course.

Whatever happened to the "quest for excellence" the educators were urging on us a few years back? Obviously, it ain't no more.

Dr. Rogers to Lecture At UConn on Chemistry

Prof. Lockhart B. Rogers, formerly of Manchester, will visit University of Connecticut next month for a series of three public lectures on modern chemistry.

Dr. Rogers holds the Graham Perdue professorship of chemistry at the University of Georgia.

His lectures will cover "Chromatographic Studies Under Unusual Conditions" on Feb. 17, "Small Digital Computers as Instruments in the Chemical Laboratory" on Feb. 18, and "Fundamental Chemical Aspects of Environmental Analysis" on Feb. 21.

Each lecture will be at 4 p.m. in Room 150 of the UConn Physical Sciences Building.

The talks constitute the ninth annual American Chemical Society Series funded by that company and sponsored by the UConn department of chemistry.

Dr. Rogers is recognized for his outstanding contributions to the field of chromatography, particularly the design of new methods and materials to expedite with accuracy the separation of mixtures of organic compounds.

In recent years, he has made

significant contributions to the application of computer techniques to chromatography. A graduate of Manchester High School, Dr. Rogers received his B.A. degree in 1958 from Wesleyan University, his M.A. degree in 1960, and his Ph.D. degree in 1962 from Princeton University.

Dr. Rogers began his career as an instructor at Stanford University in 1962, was consultant and associate instructor for the War Department Civilian Protection School in 1942-1943 and became a group leader at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Oak Ridge, Tenn., from 1946-1948. He joined the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1948, leaving in 1961 to assume duties as professor and head of the analytical chemistry division at Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind. Author and co-author of more than 160 publications, Dr. Rogers has been making major contributions to analytical chemistry for nearly 30 years. He has served on advisory committees of the National Academy of Sciences, the National Science Foundation, the National Bureau of Standards, the U.S. Air Force Office of Scientific Research, the U.S. Army Research Office-Durham, and the Journals "Analytical Chemistry" and "Talanta." He is also a member of the U.S. national committee to the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the Electrochemical Society.

POLICE REPORT

MANCHESTER Manchester Police responded to a prowler complaint on S. Adams St. Tuesday night and, although they didn't find the prowler, made an arrest for possession of marijuana.

Timothy J. Ahern, 24, of 66E Imperial Dr. was charged with illegal possession of a non-narcotic controlled substance, after police seized a plastic bag containing suspected marijuana. Police said Ahern and the plastic bag were found in a vehicle parked across the street from an address where a prowler was seen at about 11 p.m. Ahern was released on a $500 non-surety bond for court appearance Feb. 10.

Center St. office building at a Main St. business establishment. Police said nothing was taken when burglars kicked in a door at The Hartford Times office on E. Center St. The other burglary, at Center Billiards of 69 1/2 Main St., resulted in the theft of five cartons of cigarettes.

Vandalism incidents reported by police today included spray paint on a door at Bennet Junior High School and seven broken windows in apartments at 40 Olcott St.

Town Seeks Bids To Extend Road

Bids will be opened Feb. 19 in the Municipal Building for extending Progress Dr. in Manchester Industrial Park about 740 feet, with a corresponding extension of water mains and sanitary sewer lines. The project is under the town's Industrial Guidelines, with the town to pay half the cost and the owner of the industrial park the other half. On May 14, the Board of Directors approved an extension of about 1,400 feet, plus the installation of a sewage pump station.

ABOUT TOWN

Lewis A. Hernandez, 16, of East Hartford, was charged with fourth-degree larceny after police received a shoplifting complaint from R-Mart Department Store, Spencer St., Tuesday night. Court date is Feb. 10.

A prayer meeting and Bible study will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church, 43 Spruce St. Bible study will also be conducted Thursday morning at 9.

Breaks reported to Manchester Police Tuesday include incidents at a 63 E. ... was rejected by townspeople in a referendum.

In 1969, Center intersection improvements were proposed again - with widening work to be done on the Center Congregational Church lawn. Parishioners objected and the plan was scrapped.

Last year, the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee attempted to revive interest in the intersection. The committee asked Manchester's Board of Directors to consider purchase of the Odd Fellows Building, but directors quietly rejected the idea by removing it from their agenda.

Discharged Monday: Donna Brooks, 801 Bush Hill Rd.; Doris Cole, East Hartford; Nancy Watts, 31 N. Elm St.; Brenda Stoebel, RFD 5, Coventry; Kathleen Byram, 70 Montauk Dr., Vernon; Rita Smith, Glastonbury; Thomas Nevins, Windsor; Judith Horvath, East Hartford.

Open House Set At MMH Sunday
Manchester Memorial Hospital will have an open house for the public Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. Sponsored by the Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, the purpose of the open house is to acquaint the community with the hospital before admission becomes necessary.

Social Worker Sought by Town
The Town of Manchester is advertising for a social worker at $5.18 to $5.62 an hour, under a grant for emergency public employment from the U.S. Department of Labor. Preference will be given Manchester residents and applicants must be unemployed for at least 30 days. The job is expected to last about six months, under the $23,765 grant. The funds will pay also for three maintenance men for the sewer department. Their jobs are expected to last to the end of 1975. The deadline for applying for the social worker job is Feb. 7.

Carlson Plans Not Definite For Odd Fellows Building

S.H.V.C. Inc. the local firm which has purchased the landmark Odd Fellows Building at the Center, apparently doesn't have any plans for the structure.

Stuart H. V. Carlson, a principal in the corporation, said today there's nothing definite about the future of the 50-year-old building.

A warranty deed filed with the town clerk Tuesday transferred ownership of the building from the Odd Fellows Building Association of Manchester, Inc., to S.H.V.C. Inc. The purchase price was $90,000. Carlson said he expects that the building's future will be decided at the next meeting of his corporation's board of directors.

Other indications in town were that the corporation bought the property for speculation, anticipating future town or state acquisition of the site to make way for traffic improvements at the Center. Improvement of the intersection of Main and Center Sts. has been a top priority of town officials for some time, but the project is now dormant due to lack of funds. In 1966 there was a proposal to raze the Odd Fellows Building and widen Main St. That plan - part of a $16 million downtown renewal program - was rejected by townspeople in a referendum.

In 1969, Center intersection improvements were proposed again - with widening work to be done on the Center Congregational Church lawn. Parishioners objected and the plan was scrapped.

Last year, the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee attempted to revive interest in the intersection. The committee asked Manchester's Board of Directors to consider purchase of the Odd Fellows Building, but directors quietly rejected the idea by removing it from their agenda.

MANCHESTER HOSPITAL NOTES

Donna Holland Correspondent 646-0375 David Dresely and Norman Press were unanimously endorsed for election for first selectman and selectman respectively by a caucus of the Republican party Tuesday.

The entire slate proposed by the Republican Town Committee except candidates for the Board of Education were unanimously endorsed for the May elections by the caucus. There were five candidates who filed for the Board of Education. Three had to be eliminated because there are only two openings for each party.

Joseph Halobardo and Barbara Smith were endorsed at the caucus. John Esche, Anne Manning and Ronald Soares were eliminated. The selectmen's terms begin July 1, 1975 and end July 1, 1977. The school board terms begin July 1, 1975 and end July 1, 1979.

There were about 45 registered Republicans at the caucus. They gave a standing ovation to Richard Morra for his many years of service to the town. Morra has been first selectman for 5 terms. He will continue to serve in that capacity until July 1. At the caucus Morra was endorsed at the Republican candidate for the Planning Commission for a five-year term beginning in 1976.

Dodd Counters Claims Of Trident Critic

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Rep. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., has come to the defense of a corporate constituent in countering claims by another congressman that production of the Navy's 10 Trident submarines may be delayed three years.

The delay, due to crowded shipyard conditions and difficulties in obtaining materials, was disclosed in a report to the General Accounting Office.

Dodd Tuesday used the same GAO report to assert Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., had misinterpreted the study, which Aspin had requested.

Meanwhile, some Navy specialists said that delay in delivery of the submarines was unlikely to seriously to affect U.S. naval or strategic capability. Aspin said piled-up contracts obtained by the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics in Groton, Conn., threaten to hold up for three years the Navy's high priority Trident program.

160 Give Blood

The Bloodmobile exceeded its monthly quota with a collection of 160 pints Tuesday at South United Methodist Church. The monthly quota is 150 pints. The visit was co-sponsored by the Manchester office of the Southern New England Telephone Co. Of the 140 appointments made in advance, 113 were kept. The 60 walk-in donors were the ones who carried the total over the quota mark.

There were 13 who were transferred to another time. Topping the donations were nine-gallon donors Allan P. Walsh and John Welpy Jr.

Goldman Unveils School Space Plan Involving $500,000 High School Wing

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kurhnel

Much to the surprise of those in attendance, as well as some Town Council officials, South Windsor Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Goldman, last night released a multi-point program aimed at correcting severe space shortage in the high school.

Dr. Goldman recommended the closing of the Ellsworth School, the transferring of seventh grade students back to elementary and a $500,000 addition to South Windsor High School.

The addition, estimated at 10,000 square feet, would supposedly be 50 per cent reimbursed by the state. Dr. Goldman said.

For the past four months Goldman has been leading up to last night's report, following an earlier report which shows some 33 additional elementary school members will also be needed if Goldman's recommendations are implemented.

Saying he is aware of the difficult economic situation now confronting the country, Goldman said he would be remiss if he did not, as superintendent, make the recommendations for the school board's needs.

The report will be discussed by the school board over the next couple of weeks and will probably come before the Town Council by March.

Present Show
The Sisterhood of Temple Beth Hillel will present The Growing Theater in a production entitled "Cabaret for Kids" Sunday at the South Windsor High School.

The program, which will be available in two performances at 1 and 3 p.m., will deal with a child's growing experiences.

Tickets are $1.75. For information contact Phyllis Freeman, 644-1130 or Roberta Black, 644-8758.

Senior Citizens
The South Windsor Senior Citizens will meet Feb. 12 at their new location in St. Margaret Mary's Church Hall, Hayes Rd.

The meeting, which will begin at 1 p.m. will feature the magic act of Albert Endee of Windsor.

Any member wishing to attend the luncheon and show at the Coachlight Inn, Feb. 19 must contact Mr. Snow at the South Windsor Town Hall as soon as possible.

The South Windsor Woman's Club will meet Monday at 7:45 p.m. at the Society for Savings, Ellington Rd. A celebration of the club's 55th anniversary will be a highlight of the evening.

Lake Groups Divided On Town Owning Roads

COVENTRY
Monica Shea Correspondent 742-9495

In a recent survey of the lake associations done by the Lake Rehabilitation Study Committee, association presidents were evenly divided on the question of town takeover of association roads.

Oak Grove, Waterford Park and Cheney Lane and Bellevue wish to retain ownership of their roads. The other associations either have had their roads taken over or wish to have. All of the associations indicated that the town should take better care of roads already taken over.

Eight of ten associations wanted to retain control over their beaches. Waterford Manor was willing to relinquish its beach in exchange for a town takeover of the roads, and the other association has no beach.

Association presidents indicated that housing quality ranged from bad to excellent and expressed an interest in having the housing codes more strictly enforced.

Only three associations, Gerald Park, Lakewood Heights, and Bellevue had no objection to paying the town property taxes on their beaches. The other association felt that they were providing a service to the town by keeping this property as open space and by reducing the load on the town-owned beaches. Oak Grove wanted the town to tax the beaches as open space if they must be taxed at all.

Other interest expressed by the association presidents was the need for better police protection because the associations are no longer allowed to use constables, but no one has filled the vacuum caused by the loss of constables.

A town program of purchase and demolition of junk housing was also suggested as well as low-interest loans which could be made available for individual home improvement along with the demolition policy.

Coventry's Future Topic of Meeting

Monica Shea Correspondent 742-9495

Residents will have a chance to express their opinions tonight on the future growth in town at a special town meeting at 8 in the auditorium of the high school.

The meeting is being held by the Planning and Zoning Commission to receive citizen input on the type of housing and zoning wants in town over the next few years.

Town Planner Frank Connolly will start the meeting off with an explanation of existing Plan of Development and existing land use and development under the plan and present zoning regulations.

Maps will also be shown of existing zones throughout the town and the potential land determinations.

Don Holes, town sanitarian, and John Wilmeauer, building inspector, will also be present to answer questions. If a large group of residents attend the meeting speakers will be given about five minutes to speak so that everyone may be heard.

To Fill Post
The election of a new member will be the main topic of interest at the Board of Education meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in the Teachers Room of the high school.

Board member Thomas Hill resigned from the board Jan. 20 because his firm was transferring him out of state.

The Republican Town Committee has recommended that Jon Harrison fill this vacancy.

There will also be reports from the Test Recommendations Committee on the Sequential Learning Program.

Club to Meet

The Coventry Newcomers will meet Feb. 13. Anyone interested in attending should contact Jill McKenna, Mark Dr. 742-9621 or Karen Africano, Cedar Swamp Rd., 742-7030.

The club has held fondue parties, craft demonstrations and a wine tasting party in the past.

A bowling night and silk screening party are being planned for February. Coffee hours and craft shops are held throughout the month.

Listing Applicants
Applications are now being accepted for a future examination for substitute mail carriers in the Town of Coventry.

Applications may be obtained at the Post Office and must be submitted no later than Feb. 15, 1975.

Applicants must have a valid license and a safe driving record and must furnish and maintain at their own expense vehicle equipment necessary for prompt handling of the mails. Payment will be made for equipment maintenance based on the average daily mileage or minimum allowance per day, whichever is greater.

Applicants must be at least 18 years old.

ONE SKI AREA CARACAS (UPI) — Although considered a tropical country, Venezuela boasts one area for skiers — on 15,000-foot Bolivar Peak in the Andes mountains. The peak, located near the city of Merida, is snow-covered year round and reachable by cable car.

THE FAMILY LAWYER
Keeping Outsiders Out
"THIS PARK IS FOR LOCAL RESIDENTS ONLY. ALL OTHERS KEEP OUT."
Could a city lawfully put up such a sign?

Of course, any community may favor its residents in a variety of ways—for example, in providing police and fire protection.

But there are constitutional limitations to this kind of "discrimination" against outsiders. Generally speaking, a city cannot keep its parks exclusively for local residents. The law's reasoning is that parks are, by their very nature, meant for "the common good of mankind."

One beach community, hoping to reduce the annual summer influx of out-of-towners, tried a less drastic means of control. Anybody using the beach was required to pay a fee—and the fee for nonresidents was set considerably higher than for residents.

But here too, a court held that the discrimination was unconstitutional. Relying on a "public trust" doctrine, the court said: "The beach and the open waters must be open to all on equal terms. While municipalities may charge reasonable fees for the use of their beaches, they may not discriminate between residents and nonresidents."

On the other hand, discrimination might be upheld if it is rationally necessary to prevent overcrowding. Another case involved a small municipal swimming pool, from which the city tried to exclude nonresidents.

This time, a court decided that the residents-only rule was lawful. Without such a rule, said the court, the local citizenry would be virtually "frozen out" of their own facilities.

After all, noted the court, they were paying for the pool with their taxes.

Grand Jury Modernizing Proposed

HARTFORD (UPI) — The grand jury system would be prevented from being used for political purposes under a proposal by Senate President Pro Tem Joseph J. Fauliso, D-Hartford.

Fauliso said Tuesday his proposal would create a committee charged with studying the present grand jury system and making recommendations for its modernization.

Over the past decades, he said, the system has changed from its original concept. "It can literally be used as a political tool with awesome power," he said.

Fauliso said his concerns were underlined by former President Nixon's alleged use of grand juries to silence groups and individuals that opposed his administration's policies.

He said persons testifying before grand juries should be allowed to have their lawyers present and that hearsay evidence should not be admitted.

Prosecutors should be forced to present to the grand jury the evidence they have that would prove the subject of the inquiry innocent, Fauliso said.

Fauliso also has introduced legislation he says will protect publicly held Connecticut businesses from out-of-state takeover.

"As a result of severely depressed stock market conditions, the stock of many of our corporations can be purchased well below the actual net worth per share," he said. "This situation represents an opportunity for raiders to exploit share-holders."
