Arson Said Cause Of Truck Fires

An arson attack on the 14 trucks of the A-1 Industrial Caterers at 340 Adams St. near Hilliard St. destroyed the engine compartments on three trucks and caused slight damage to several more, firefighters and police report. The fire was discovered at about 2 a.m. Sunday by a patrolman. A person also telephoned the Manchester, Eighth District Fire Department at about the same time. Det. Capt. Joseph Sartor said today his bureau is investigating. They have a lead but he would not go into detail. Chief John Rivosa of the Manchester, Town Fire Department said the fire occurred in area covered by the town but the district got the first call to the scene. District firemen used foam to bring the fire under control within 20 minutes, Chief Ted Lingard of the district said. Police and firemen found gas lines on four trucks had been cut or pulled off. Some of the trucks not damaged by the fire also had damaged gas lines. The valves on propane tanks were found opened although none of the tanks ignited, firemen said. It is the second fire of suspicious origin in Manchester in the last week. Four small fires were discovered inside the Pizzo Wagon restaurant in the K-Mart Plaza on Spencer St. at 1:20 a.m. Tuesday. It is still under investigation.

A male resident of an apartment on E. Center St. was assaulted by two men in the building's basement Sunday at 11:46 p.m., police said. The man told police he went to check the storage bins in the basement after he saw a light on in a hallway leading to the boiler room. He found two black males in their twenties near the bins, police said. One slashed him in the left forearm with a knife and the other struck him on the upper left bicep with a piece of wood as they lunged at him and then fled, police said.

Police posted three 14-year-old boys in a field off Hilltown Rd. and Hill St. after hearing reports of grass fires there. The boys said they were trying to smoke ground logs out of their holes, police said. No arrests were made after firemen made sure the fires were out.

Barry Bill Will Ask I-84 Connector Link

State Sen. David M. Barry D-Manchester has proposed legislation that would provide for construction of a connector linking I-84 at Spencer St. and the Manchester-East Hartford town line.

He said he will urge support for the bill by the transportation committee, on which he serves, and will request a public hearing on the proposal. In December, Barry was told by George Koch, deputy transportation commissioner, that, barring delays, the connector could be completed by 1980.

"I think state and federal authorities can do better than that," said Barry. "Because the connector would establish a vital east-west link for commuters from Manchester and points east, it would provide an all-highway route from Bolton Voth to Hartford."

He noted, "The connector would be a relatively short strip of highway and wouldn't require the removal of any homes or cause extensive damage to the area."

New Britain firemen rescued Rita Hines, 24, and Linette Zaniwsky, 26, both suffering severe smoke inhalation. Mrs. Hines was laying over her 4-week-old daughter Kimberly and Mrs. Zaniwsky was with her children Jason, 5, and Alex, 3.

LaBelle Stays Silent On Retirement Rumor

Hartford County State's Attorney John D. LaBelle of Manchester said today, "I have no comment," on reports over the weekend he will retire from that post in June, when he reaches the age of 60.

He said he neither denies nor confirms the report. LaBelle is senior partner in a Manchester law firm and last week became board chairman of the Savings Bank of Manchester. In declining to comment on reports he will retire as Hartford County's chief prosecutor, he said, it and when he does retire, he plans to continue law work full time.

State's attorney since 1969, LaBelle is one of only two part-time state attorneys in Connecticut. Under a 1967 law which made the post full time, incumbents were exempted from the provision. Full-time state attorneys receive $31,000 annually. LaBelle, in his part-time category, receives $21,000. He will be eligible in June for retirement pay at two-thirds the annual salary. LaBelle has said he plans to lead the prosecution of two men charged with the Donna Lee Bakery slayings last October in New Britain. A grand jury will hear the charges later this month or early in March.

Lincoln Center Driveway Poor Planning, Says MPOA

It is the consensus of the Manchester Property Owners Association (MPOA) executive board that the driveway at Lincoln Center, "in its present configuration, was a hazard and an example of poor planning and, in its revamped condition, presents a far greater traffic hazard and is an aesthetic disaster area to boot."

MPOA President Frank Utakis, in reporting the executive board's position, asked, "Where was our town Traffic Authority when this abomination was being planned?"

He said, "We find it difficult to believe that Chief James Reardon would countenance the creation of such an obvious additional hazard of which has been described as the worst intersection in town."

Existing, "This situation can and should be rectified before a serious injury occurs," the MPOA board is urging the public to inform the town Board of Directors of their displeasure, either directly or by supporting a petition being circulated by Mrs. Joseph Hubbard.

Mrs. Hubbard's petition urges the town directors to instruct public works officials to restore the area to its original condition by removing the amesite parking area and reseeding it with grass.

The MPOA's annual meeting will be Feb. 19 at 8 p.m. at Whiton Memorial Library. The main speaker will be Town Manager Robert Weiss. The theme of the meeting is "Reevaluation and Federal Grants: How They Will Affect Manchester's Tax Structure."

Ford Cites Oil Embargo Perils To Promote Energy Program

ATLANTA (UPI) — President Ford today warned that another Middle East oil embargo could cripple the nation's economy and threaten national security. He said a "couple of congressional aspirants" will not solve the problem.

Ford told the Opportunities Industrialization Center, a group which trains disadvantaged Americans, that his economic and energy plan "tackles all the questions and offers answers that will work."

Seeking Grass Roots Support After the speech, Ford arranged to hold a news conference. He was in the second of a two-day stay in Georgia to drum up grass roots support for his anti-recession program. During the first day Ford gained the surprise backing of Alabama Gov.

George Wallace and seven other Southern governors. "Another embargo could cripple our economy, making us vulnerable, not only economically, but in the field of national defense as well," Ford said.

"In short, we really are not talking about whether to act—but how. "The longer the debate, the greater the delay. The longer the delay, the greater the problem."

"Obviously," he said, "our national vulnerability is aggravated as America procrastinates. I, for one, will not fiddle while energy burns."

The President told the gathering, there is "no one shot, painless answer to the complex energy problem."

He said it will not be enough to reduce oil consumption, unless domestic oil production also is encouraged. Furthermore, he said, these measures must be accompanied by a drive to get maximum efficiency out of all energy used, and "a national search for new and better energy sources."

Ford again lashed out at the sentiment in Congress for gas rationing and contended it will not be the answer. He said that to make the program work, the nation would have to have gas rationing for five to 10 years.

"It is estimated that if the Congress legislates gas rationing, there will be 150 million licensed automobile drivers in the country, who would be eligible for their quotas," he said.

"If they were to cut back from their present average usage of 30 gallons per month to 30 gallons to achieve an 80 percent savings, that would leave each one with about nine gallons a week," he said.

Ford also said rationing would penalize lower income motorists who would be forced to buy coupons from those who use less than their allotment.

Ford spent four hours Monday evening following his arrival in Atlanta with Wallace and the seven other state chief executives and found there was "unanimous support" for the broad goals of his economic-energy recovery program, according to White House Press Secretary Ronessen.

Nesken told newsmen after a dinner and talk between Ford and the governors that some of the governors expressed reservations, but all enlisted their support for "independence in oil as the key to the survival of the free world."

The governors had taken a straw vote before they met with Ford and they unanimously opposed gasoline rationing.

Wallace pulled the surprise of the evening when he told reporters, "Someone must act and we've got to forget partisanship."

"Wallace, who is considered a Democratic presidential hopeful, although he does not at present admit he is running, has a program. I can't say I agree with all of it. Congress should accept it or come up with a reasonable alternative."

Ford, he said, was "trying to exert some leadership," and "we're all going to have to sacrifice."

Share a Special Seuss Event

James Colletti looks with pleasure at an autographed photo of Dr. Seuss as Elizabeth Hampton and Richard Mitchell share in the special event. The event was the climax to a special Children's Book Week project last November. The members of Mrs. Pam Horne's first and second grade reading group at Nathan Hale School had made their own picture books which they sent to Dr. Seuss in appreciation for all the pleasure he had given them through his books. He sent them his autographed photo with a letter thanking them for their affection and saying their efforts would bring him "happiness for the next three months."

The tax-writing Ways and Means Committee in seven hours of meetings Monday said it had ignored Ford's proposal and chose instead a combination of lower tax payments and rebates. The cuts would come mostly as lower withholding rates in the last half of the year.

The committee defeated 20-15 a move by Rep. Bill Archer, R-Tex., to adopt a cut-down version of Ford's proposal to rebate 12 percent of 1974 taxes for everyone, rich or poor, up to a maximum of $1,000. Archer's proposal would merely have lowered the maximum to $500.

The committee now appears likely to adopt a rebate of 10 to 12 percent to a maximum of $200 to $500, but with an income ceiling which would keep the rebate from going to anyone making more than $30,000 or $40,000.

The $2.4 billion tax cut approved Monday would go to the working poor to anyone who uses the standard deduction in computing taxes rather than itemizing deductions. This also exclusively means low and moderate income persons, although a scattering of wealthy individuals do use the standard deduction and would benefit.

The bill would be effective only for 1975, but Ullman said he intended the cut to be made permanent in another bill later this year.

As a part of the current bill, the committee also will consider an increase in the present 7 per cent investment tax credit to 10 or 12 per cent, at a cost of $3.6 billion or more to the Treasury. This credit is intended to give business an incentive to invest in

Dad's Birthday Gift Goes to Hospital
Laurie Ferguson and her brother, Thomas H. Ferguson, watch as their father, Thomas F. Ferguson, demonstrates a Rentsch cardiac press. The press was one of two donated to Manchester Memorial Hospital in honor of Ferguson's recent 50th birthday. The one in the emergency room was donated by the Ferguson children, including Laurie Ferguson who was not available for the photo, and their grandmothers, Mrs. Bertha Piro and Mrs. Bernice Ferguson. The other press in the coronary unit was given by Ferguson's wife, Vivian. The ball-shaped plunger suspended from the metal arm has a pumping effect on the patient's chest as the handle is turned. The apparatus is used in place of manual chest massage in emergency cardiac cases. Samuel B. Rentsch, the inventor of the cardiac press, lives in Glastonbury. (Herald photo by Dunn)

JFK Assassination Film Allegedly Absolves Oswald

CHICAGO (UPI) — Robert Groden says more than one person was involved in the assassination of President John Kennedy, that Lee Harvey Oswald was not the sole assassin, and that he has the film to prove it.

Groden is a New York photographer and optical specialist. He showed the film Monday at a news conference called by political activist Dick Gregory, who said last week he had evidence indicating the Central Intelligence Agency was involved in the Kennedy assassination.

Groden said the film was a blow-up version of the Abraham Zapruder film, the only one of the actual shooting, and that it showed "as many as four, possibly five, persons were shooting at the president, and proves Oswald 'had nothing to do with the assassination.'"

He said the film was the property of Time Inc. but refused to say how the film was obtained.

This was the same film the Warren Commission studied before concluding Oswald acted alone in the killing of Kennedy.

Kennedy was killed in a motorcade in Dallas, Tex., on Nov. 22, 1963. Oswald was shot from behind, he said, hit Kennedy in the head and then the fifth hit Kennedy in the front of the head and lifted him backward.

The fourth shot from behind, he said, hit Kennedy in the head and then the fifth hit Kennedy in the front of the head and lifted him backward.

He said a bullet fired from Oswald's supposed position in the window of the Texas Bank Depository would have hit Kennedy at a different angle than any of the wounds he received.

ABOUT TOWN

SOMETHING NEW
At the core of everyone's basic need is the desire for trust or faith. We must all go through a process that develops our own unique view of reality. It is this reality we seek that causes us to risk ourselves so that we might find what for us becomes truth. A truth which helps us to relieve much of the anxiety life can create in us. The Christian church also is involved in this basic need. It, however, calls it faith and works of Jesus Christ. It is a faith dependent on the history of the event of Christ's birth, death and resurrection. It does not come from a mystical experience of God, but clings to the deep meaning of the Word of God offers to their lives. Christianity offers anyone who can trust in this historic fact the true expression of reality. I pray that we might all develop this faith and believe in the reality of Jesus Christ.

They've Won the Battle
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Walter Heller, economic adviser to two Democratic administrations, says those who think inflation is public enemy No. 1 have won the battle for the heart and mind of the White House.

"They fail to realize that a stagnant economy in which productivity and capital investment wither is actually pro-inflationary rather than anti-inflationary," said Heller, a University of Minnesota professor of economics.

Heller also said Monday "Ford's budget projections are the best argument I can think of for a bigger tax cut and for easing money promptly and sharply."

Ali Does the Talking

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Tom Bradley proclaimed Monday "Muhammad Ali Day," but the champ did all the talking.

Heavyweight champion Ali told the mayor he was thinking about going into politics but couldn't decide which office to seek.

"I don't want to be a mayor," Ali said. "And I'm not sure which country I'd like to be president of."

Wound Serious

MILL VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Rock guitarist Bob Weir and his wife Frankie were arguing. Police said Mrs. Weir then ran to a bedroom and shot herself with a .22 caliber pistol.

Mrs. Weir, a former dancer who now heads a travel service, suffered a serious stomach wound, police said.

Weir plays with the Grateful Dead and the Kinship Ranch band.

Sentence Suspended

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Vietnam veteran convicted of kidnapping an Englishman in 1973 has won a suspended sentence and five years probation in U.S. District Court, a rare sentence for armed robbery.

Leon Eugene McClure, 26, of Hartford, had a spotless record before the robbery, his lawyer told Judge M. Joseph Blumenthal, and robbed the State Dime Savings Bank of $14,392 in anger after it refused him a loan to start a business.

Sims Withdraws as Ice Rink Banker

VERNON
In a terse note to Mayor Frank McCoy, Herbert Sims head of the New York City bond underwriting firm of the same name, said the firm wishes to withdraw its name from consideration as an investment banker to underwrite the proposed ice rink revenue bonds for the town of Vernon.

The New York firm had indicated interest in the project since the start. At the meeting of the council two weeks ago, Sims requested that his firm be allowed to designate the accounting firm to do the second-phase feasibility study for the facility and also ordered the council to create an authority to oversee the project.

The council did not go along with the request and on recommendation of several councilmen it decided to further try to designate the accounting firm on its own.

A proposal is expected from Boone, Allen & Hamilton, the accounting firm of Coverdale & Colpitts was expected to present a proposal but decided to reconsider.

The first phase of the feasibility study was completed by Carlisle-Edwards, Inc. While the firm is a reputable one Sims indicated it is not well-known enough to have a bonding firm back its study. Sims indicated he would want the firm involved in the second phase, however.

The initial study found that the ice facility is feasible for Vernon. An amount of $3,000 was appropriated for that phase and $13,500 has been appropriated for the second phase.

The revenue bond method of financing the facility, which will cost an estimated $1 million, would mean there would be no obligation on the part of the taxpayers. The facility would be paid for by the users.

Dale Martin of the Rink Study Committee, appointed by Mayor McCoy, said other un-

Town Will Publish New Assessments

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehn
The Town Council played judge and jury to more than 400 people armed with what they called exorbitant assessment figures for South Windsor last night and when the trial was over the people won their case for the most part.

The council has agreed to publish 1964 and 1974 assessment figures in a newspaper by the end of this month.

For more than four hours last night in Timothy Edwards School, a throng of residents told tales of skyrocketing assessments that left many councilmen with the belief that "numerous errors" have occurred in the assessment of property here.

At one point Town Assessor Burt MacNamera, walked out after he attempted to explain the market value to a resident and was met with criticism.

Mayor Robert Smith today said he is requesting Town Attorney Thomas Dennis to meet with MacNamera to review the contract of the United Appraisal Co., because Smith believes the firm may not have met all its contract stipulations.

Mayor Smith is also proposing that the council pass a resolution delaying the new assessment rate until such time as all discrepancies can be reviewed, possibly by the town assessor's office.

Despite the huge crowd, residents conducted themselves in an orderly manner, and each resident who wished to be heard was allowed to speak.

At the end of the meeting the council voted unanimously to meet the requests of the public and publish both 1964 and 1974 assessment figures.

However, prior to the meeting the council held a workshop session at which only two councilmen, Robert Myette and Robert Hornish, were in favor of the publishing of both lists. Myette said today.

Mayor Smith said residents have three avenues open to them: A check of their property by United Appraisers, a hearing before the Board of Tax Review, and an appeal in the courts.

A show of hands, at last night's meeting showed most residents in attendance were planning to take their case to the Board of Tax Review and, if necessary, to court.

Smith said the appraisal firm is now rechecking alleged discrepancies.

OPINION

Caution Needed

There has been an upswing in the stock market the past few weeks, with the Dow Jones average near the 700 mark, higher than it has been in the recent past. Too, new highs have outnumbered new lows after many months when a new high was a rarity.

Not everyone watches the market closely, although many people own stocks and hence have a direct interest. Others have an indirect interest through their participation in stock-based pension funds.

But the significance of the upswing in the market at this time is that traditionally the market has been considered to herald the state of the economy about six months before it is felt in other areas.

The market will decline in advance of a recession; it will turn upwards ahead of a recovery.

There are other signs that the recovery predicted for this summer has already begun. Automobile sales have risen in response to the "cash bonus" promotional plan first started by Chrysler and later followed by Ford, GM and American Motors.

The "cash bonuses" of course are simply a type of price-cutting which is the usual reaction of most commodities when they do not sell, and inventories become too large.

Small car manufacturing divisions are now predicting that if the sales pace continues, as it did in the second week of the sales promotion, that they will have to start rehiring laid-off employees.

An easing of unemployment in the very hard hit automobile industry would also be a welcome sign that the upturn has begun.

New housing permits rose in December and interest rates have been slowly coming down by a quarter of a point a week. These are signs that indicate the ending of a depression and beginning of an economic recovery.

Government certainly is aware of these quickening signs that the upturn may be close. And certainly both the President and the Congress ought to be conservative about the measures which will be adopted to hasten the recovery.

We think that the President's plan to rebate $16.5 billion in taxes and cut taxes next year is probably fairly moderate. In fact some economists and labor leaders have decried it as not enough.

Congress and the AFL-CIO, on the other hand, have been talking of tax rebates in the neighborhood of $18-$25 billion, as being required to effect a strong recovery.

It appears that without any substantial government program in effect, economic checks and balances have come into play and the upturn has begun.

Too great a pump-priming program could tip the scale over into another period of inflation which is as economically defeating as recession, especially in its devastating effect on those living on fixed incomes.

The problem has been a two-pronged one of depression and energy. The economy seems to be doing a good job of self-adjustment. Let's not tinker with it too much. The market has a way of being much smarter than government.

A Time For Reason

The season has begun when we are reading that the government of Ecuador, which claims a 200-mile limit to its offshore territorial waters, is seizing American tuna boats fishing within its self-proclaimed boundaries.

Crew and boats are usually impounded and are released only after a payment of a fine to the Ecuadorian government.

Now we are not at all sympathetic to the 200-mile limit which Ecuador claims as being within its national sovereignty, as compared to our 12-mile limit.

However, that has been the country's law for several years, and tuna fishermen who fish within that limit should know by now what to expect. Most of the boats sized so far have been 130 miles offshore, or 70 miles within the Ecuadorian boundary.

We do not think that these boats accidentally found themselves within the 200-mile limit. Skippers who can navigate tuna boats all over the world and return to home port with almost clocklike regularity are not prone to making navigation errors of 70 miles of longitude.

A bill to establish an interim 200-mile limit for the United States passed the Senate in December and proponents of it have hopes that it will also pass the House. It would be "interim" in the sense that if and when the United Nations adopted a uniform boundary resolution that the United States would then conform with it.

Like every other American we bristle when an American boat is stopped and impounded. And our first reaction would be to send a couple of destroyers to free them from the results of an unreasonable law.

But the unjust limit, while irksome, is not sufficient provocation for that sort of action. It should be settled once and for all on an international basis with all nations agreeing to a reasonable offshore limit.

ALMANAC

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of 1975 with 330 to follow.
The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning star is Mars.
The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign Aquarius.
Famed American transatlantic flyer Charles A. Lindbergh was born Feb. 4, 1897. Actress Ida Lupino was born on this date in 1918.

On this day in history:
In 1901, Major William Gorgas launched a U.S. Army campaign to wipe out Yellow Fever in Cuba.

In 1938, Adolf Hitler seized control of the German army and put Nazi officers in key posts as part of a plan that was to lead to World War II.

In 1948, Ceylon became a free and self-governing dominion of Great Britain.

In 1974, a terrorist bomb killed 11 persons aboard a bus passing through Yorkshire in England.

A thought for the day: American author Mark Twain (Samuel Clemens) said, "Truth is the most valuable thing we have. Let us economize it."

GM's Pioneering Effort

WASHINGTON — General Motors' decision to make smaller and lighter cars would get at least a footnote in the history books as a pioneering effort to reduce the size of America's inferiority complex in the automotive field.

That is to say, if the trend catches on even the nouveau riche among us may conclude that there are antidotes for insecurity other than the spuriously comforting knowledge that one drives a bigger — and thus better — car than one's neighbor.

GM's motives for spending $3-billion in the next four years to reduce the size of all its models except the subcompact Vega are irrelevant. What matters is that GM has taken a step toward selling the public on the proposition that bigness need not be everything. Its new Cadillac, to be unveiled in April, will weigh 1,000 pounds less than the 1974 model. It will be two feet shorter and almost a foot thinner, and its engine size will shrink to 350 cubic inches from the present 500 cubic inches.

The new Cadillac could represent a revolution. If the car so many Americans regard as the king of gas guzzlers can be made smaller, anything can happen.

Smaller may eventually be equated with chic. Someday, both the rich and the pushy would get at least a footnote in the history books as a pioneering effort to reduce the size of America's inferiority complex in the automotive field.

That is to say, if the trend catches on even the nouveau riche among us may conclude that there are antidotes for insecurity other than the spuriously comforting knowledge that one drives a bigger — and thus better — car than one's neighbor.

The new Cadillac could represent a revolution. If the car so many Americans regard as the king of gas guzzlers can be made smaller, anything can happen.

Detroit can build handsome cars. It used to, anyway. No American car today can compare with the graceful, ladylike Hupmobile with its white wire wheels that was the envy of a Massachusetts boyhood. Nobody in Detroit these days is producing an automobile with the clean lines and quiet elegance of the old Packard.

Some of those old cars were big, but all of them except perhaps for the elegant Pierce-Arrow, were feet shorter than today's giants. They were built along straight lines, too. None of them bulged like an expectant elephant. Even in the smaller cars, two or three kids could be accommodated on the tonneau floor without disturbing the back seat passengers.

Starkman says he hopes the American public "will drive a car that goes zero to 60 miles an hour in 10 seconds rather than 12 seconds, because that's where we're going."

Go Starkman. I don't know about anybody else, but I can wait six seconds longer twice as much to buy and maintain.

MAX LERNER

Terror Without Pity

BEVERLY HILLS — Let me compose the songs of a people, said one of the ancients with considerable insight, and I won't care who writes its lyrics. In the malleable, porous American society, this applies even more to its enactments on television and film. In this sense, the true legislators of America today are more likely to be found in New York City and Beverly Hills than in Washington. I have been on a minor movie binge in the past few weeks, as part of an effort to get a good cross section of what is being (and will be) shown around the nation. For my sins, I have seen, almost at random, something like the following list: "Towering Inferno," "Juggernaut," "Freebie and the Bean," "The Destroyers," "Orient Express," "The Sting," "Where's Poppa?," "Godfather II" and a cluster of films of sheer terror whose names have happily slid out of my memory but whose combined images of violence make me wake up in a nightmare sweat each time I have been foolish enough to watch one.

Note that I have focused on American films rather than foreign ones like Fellini's "Amarcord" and Bergman's "Scenes from a Marriage."

Also, I have sought out not the "art theater" films but those swelling the net profits and thus likely to be imitated and to form a "trend."

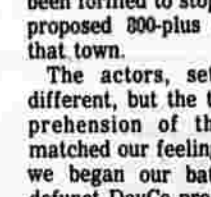

I have to say that the final deposit left on my mind is something very close to despair.

True, one may have to blame some of it on the way the profit motive operates in what is called "the industry" here, and on the continuing cast that both television and film give people "what they want" in the frame of the iron laws of demand and supply. But if this concoction I have been drinking is truly what the American people want, then God help us all, for there is something sick about us.

I pick two of my list as central to my feeling about most of them — "Towering Inferno" and "Godfather II."

"Towering Inferno" is an entrapment movie. It waves a social "message" about how the greed of the builders causes criminally shoddy construction, and it celebrates the hardihood of the fire fighters, but both messages have a phony ring. I find equally phony the message that the whole cosmos is a towering inferno.

The true one is that it is fun to see people trapped, watch them writhing in fear, hang suspended with them in fiery space, observe them tumbling to destruction or engulfed in flaming death. I was told by some friends with whom I watched it, and who are far more knowledgeable than I am about film-making, that there is an immense technical virtuosity in the production. I don't doubt it. But it is technique in the service of a sadistic destructiveness.

OPEN FORUM

Another Production

To the editor:
Jan. 24th, we had occasion to sit through the re-run of a play by attending a meeting of a Mansfield group which has recently been formed to stop the development of a proposed 200-plus condominium unit in that town.

The actors, setting and plot were different, but the threat, impact and apprehension of the audience exactly matched our feelings two years ago when we began our battle against the now-defunct DevCo project in Coventry.

According to a national publication, concerned residents throughout the country are auditioning for, and playing through, however many acts are necessary in order to close the show on a happy note of victory.

Without the public support of residents who realize the precedent-setting impact of proposals such as DevCo or Mansfield's "Designed Multiple Dwelling", the productions will get larger and larger and be repeated again and again by developers.

Good Housing

To the editor:
The concept of building new senior citizen housing seems to be moving from wishful thinking to a possibility in the near future. Our elderly have waited a long time, but at last, it appears an appropriate site has been found.

Now hopefully in our haste to do good, we won't make the mistake of putting up poor housing. Let's build one story housing for our elderly. Climbing one flight of stairs is little as once a day can be very difficult for the man with emphysema, or the woman with arthritic knees, or the person with angina.

Let's be sure that our senior citizens will have the mobility to come and go once they are settled in their new homes.

Please build one-story housing for our elderly.

Praise Cohen

To the editor:
Amen to Sol Cohen's "The right way, in the long run, is the easiest way."

Along with many others, I have served as a FISH volunteer from its beginning, driving our elderly and handicapped to the store, to the bank, to the doctor. I know so well their earnest and deep desire to "do for themselves," to retain their independence, and to remain a participating member of the community in which they have spent most of their lives so many of their years.

February has been voted Open Housing Month by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches. Let us take the time to open to the needs of our elderly, of our low income families in general, and of our non-white families, so many of whom are crowded into the narrow streets of Hartford's North End. Only 15 per cent of Manchester households according to the 1970 census are non-white.

In the long run, there is a right way for all, but it is almost never found easily. Keep writing, Sol.

Can't Play On Street

Dear editor:
I am writing about why kids can't play games in the street and especially on a dead end street.
My friends and I were playing street hockey and in one hour at least two cars went by (this is on Montclair Dr.). The people called the police on us. The police told us we can't play on the street; it's against the law. We think this is a stupid law. Half the things we do are in the street. We also think that the people who voted for this law when they were kids did a lot of things in the street.

Could you tell us why this is and why do they sell street hockey items?

Jobless Claims Decline

Claims for unemployment compensation filed in Manchester during the two-week period ended Jan. 25 decreased by about 3.7 per cent, the state Labor Department has reported.

The average weekly claims for the period totaled 3,164, compared to 3,287 in the previous two-week period.

Throughout Connecticut, jobless benefit claims decreased about 13.5 per cent for the period ended Jan. 25. Total claims were 110,597, down from 127,954 in the previous period.

Lower filings were reported in 15 of the state's 19 offices. Increases in Stamford, New London, Danbury, and Hartford were due largely to additional claims resulting from temporary seasonal closings or extended benefits, the department said.

The latest Manchester totals included 624 initial claims and 2,740 continued claims. In Manchester, 220 claims were for extended benefits and 558 were attributed to seasonal closings.

Bernard Johnson of 92 Redwood Rd., Manchester, a district representative for Lutheran Brotherhood, has qualified for the 1974 Leaders Club, one of the top sales honors of the Minneapolis-based fraternal insurance society.

Lutheran Brotherhood said Johnson qualified on the basis of the amount of life and health insurance provided for Lutherans in the area, in addition to other insurance plans and services.

Johnson is associated with the John Mosby Agency of Tolland. He is chairman of Manchester's Zoning Board of Appeals.

How to Buy Hair Style Appliances

By State Department Of Consumer Protection
No matter what your hair style, you may be already using or are thinking about buying an appliance to help care for it. There is quite an array to choose from, including combs, brushes, and hairsetters up to and including "portable beauty salons."

A decision as to which appliance to buy, if any, will be easier if you know what each is supposed to do.

Electric brushes are for styling and combing are used for styling dry hair by lifting and separating it. They help control cowlicks, unruly ends and too curly hair and, at the same time, are used for drying hair quickly and easily.

Most models have two temperatures or speed settings — hot for drying and cool for styling. Many models have a mist feature for slightly dampening hair as it is styled, resulting in a better set.

Electric combs and brushes are especially suitable if your hair has some body or a style cut. They are also useful for maintaining the natural look.

Hairsetters allow you to roll your hair on heated rollers for a quick set. Some models set hair dry as well as with mist or conditioner. A set contains 20 to 27 or more rollers in three sizes. Here are some points to keep in mind when buying a hair care small appliances:

Look for the Underwriters Laboratories Inc. seal of approval for safety.

Take time to look through the instructions, making a quick check for adequacy of unit.

Once you've made your decision and purchased an item, return the warranty card and follow the instructions.

Vernon Considers Massage Parlor Ordinance

A lengthy ordinance designed to regulate massage parlors, existing or future, in the town of Vernon, will be held at a public hearing scheduled for Feb. 24 and if approved will become effective the early part of March.

The ordinance, covering nine legal-sized sheets of paper, will require obtaining a permit from the town clerk's office before the opening of a massage parlor, after approval for the massage establishment has been given by the health director. The charge for the application for a permit will be $25. Persons working in the massage parlors will also have to file for a permit.

Under the ordinance, when an application is filed for the opening of a massage parlor, the police chief will set the time and place for a public hearing and also post a notice on the property proposed for the parlor.

The police chief will also have the authority to issue the permit and in turn may revoke or suspend it after a hearing if it is found the provisions of the ordinance are violated, and after the permittee or licensee has had 10 days' notice, in writing, of the charges against him.

Compliance with local health regulations will also be a prerequisite to the issuance of a permit.

The ordinance also requires certain forms of attire for the masseurs and masseuses and forbids the use of "diaphanous, filmy, transparent, form-fitting, or tight clothing." It also states that the hemlines of skirts or dresses or other attire may be no higher than the top of the knees.

The parlor will not be allowed to do business on Sundays and other days may be open only from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. No alcoholic beverages may be sold on the premises.

The fine for violating any of the provisions of the ordinance is not to exceed $50 or imprisonment not to exceed 30 days or both.

Vernon May Seek Day Care Funds

Through a resolution passed Monday night by the Vernon Town Council, the town may file an application for the opening of a day care center in Vernon Center. The amount is the total operating cost of the center which is conducted in the First Congregational Church in Vernon Center. The town is responsible for in-kind payment of 20 per cent.

The $50,500 covers the rental charges, the salaries of two full-time persons, a teacher-director and teacher, and five part-time workers.

The center is now operating to its full capacity of 30 children, Mrs. Roseann Kapsa, the director told the council.

She also cited the "great community participation" including the church, the town, civic organizations, schools, town officials, and the parents' organization.

Confirmation Of UConn Trustees Sought in Law

HARTFORD (UPI) — Legislation has been filed to require the state Senate and House to confirm gubernatorial appointments to the University of Connecticut Board of Trustees.

The proposal is a result of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill's appointment in his last days in office of his finance commissioner, Adolf G. Carlson, to the UConn board, Sen. Andrew P. Beck, D-Mansfield, sponsor of the bill, said Monday.

Judy Dean Appointed Tolland Zone Officer

VIVIAN KENNEDY

Judy Dean was appointed Zoning Enforcement Officer by the Planning and Zoning Commission Monday. The appointment, effective immediately, was made upon the resignation of Charles Regan, who recently assumed the duties of judge of probate.

Ms. Dean was clerk of the PZC for over two years and is familiar with present zoning regulations. She will be responsible for following up on zoning violations on her own observation, by request of the commission, and by citizen complaint.

Ms. Dean said after the appointment that she thinks she may be the only woman to hold the post in the state.

Ms. Dean plans to hold specific daytime hours in the Planning and Zoning Commission Building on Mondays, and to be available to issue permits on Monday evenings from 7 to 8.

She is a sophomore at Hartford College for Women, on a scholarship from the school. Her husband, Robert, chairman of the Board of Education and three children, Randy, Rachel, and Russell.

Public Pressure Continues For Bolton Traffic Light

Donna Holland

Whether Bolton will have a traffic signal at the shopping center at Boston Type (Rt. 44A) and Quarry Rd. remains hanging as many persons and interested groups argue that the area is hazardous and call for a solution.

WJHF radio station will broadcast a session on the problem Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The show will be moderated by David Mitchell, part-time announcer.

Mitchell lives on Brandy St. Those participating in the program will be Joan Nease, a resident and member of the issues committee of the Democratic Town Committee.

The Rev. David Campbell, who recently was responsible for having residents living on Rt. 44A move their mailboxes and paper tubes to the side of the streets on which they live; and James Spencer, of the Department of Transportation.

Mitchell said since moving to Bolton about 2½ years ago it seems to him there are a lot of accidents in that area. Mitchell said the show Thursday will be 27 minutes long and will cover the stretch of highway from the intersection of Rts. 6 and 44A to South Rd.

He urged all Bolton residents to listen to the broadcast.

Richard Morra, first selectman, will meet Wednesday with W. Harry England, owner of the shopping center, to discuss the situation. Morra is going to ask if England will pay 25 per cent of the anticipated cost.

Morra has been attempting to meet with England since December when a meeting was held with many concerned people discussing the traffic situation.

At the meeting, called by the issues committee of the Democratic Town Committee, it was learned the state Department of Transportation had been willing to contribute half the cost of a traffic signal.

James Spencer of DOT said the department had done an earlier study of the traffic at the shopping center but the town never got back to them.

Morra said at that time the state was not interested in sharing the costs of the light because it felt traffic had been generated by the shopping center. He said England had been approached to contribute to the cost but refused.

Spencer said now the state feels the light is warranted and will pay half the estimated $15,000 cost. He said it could take one-to-one-and-a-half years for the light to become a reality.

Morra said the town would probably be willing to pay 25 per cent.

Spencer explained the "controlling" component of the light takes eight months to make. He said signals are installed on the basis of priority.

Spencer said pressure to have the signal installed could result in its being installed earlier than is now anticipated.

Those attending the meeting also discussed locating the signal at Bolton North Rd. or the end of 14th, the consensus being the light belonged at the shopping center.

Problems along Rt. 44A at Lakeside Lane and Lakeside Circle were discussed, but no solution was found.

Neither road is owned by the town. Earlier town planning boards had not made provisions for the private roads and the increase in population and traffic.

Others at the meeting were Pamela Shorey, issues committee, Robert Peterson, resident state trooper; Bernard Scheer, a merchant in the shopping center; Aloysius Ahearn, state representative for the 55th district; and Grant Davis, Lakeside Circle resident.

A letter from Mrs. Rita McKinney, resident, to the Department of Motor Vehicles, concerning the intersection was referred to DOT.

She was told a study would be conducted by the traffic division that would include a complete review of the last five years of accident experience.

Seeks Nurses
A high blood pressure program will be sponsored March 19 by the Bolton Ecumenical Council. It needs one registered nurse or licensed practical nurse for every 50 persons expected to participate in the program.

The program is being sponsored in conjunction with the Heart Association of Greater Hartford as part of the local school science fair.

Any R.N. or L.P.N. that can judge three hours of time on the evening of March 19 is asked to call the Rev. David Campbell, 646-7225.

Helen Kelley of the association will work with the science fair committee and students setting up experiments that provide background for the program.

BETTY'S NOTEBOOK

By BETTY RYDER

Wanted — beautiful policemen and handsome policemen — for "Report to the Commissioner" campaign. United Artists has launched a national campaign to discover the most beautiful policemen and the most handsome policemen in the United States.

The campaign is keyed to the forthcoming release of the new motion picture, "Report to the Commissioner," which stars a rookie police detective and a policeman operating as an undercover narcotics agent.

Friends, colleagues and relatives of police officers are invited to submit photographs of their candidates, complete with addresses and phone numbers, to "Report to the Commissioner Committee," 92 West 45th St., 7th floor, New York, N.Y. 10036.

So, if among your acquaintances is a likely candidate, send along the requested information. Who knows, he/she may end up in the movies.

Focusing On Iran

We had a nice invitation to visit Callaway Gardens in Pine Mountain, Ga., Feb. 13-15 in observance of the Garden's Iran International Festival.

Attractions include an interview with the Ambassador of Iran, His Excellency Ardeshir Zahedi, a formal reception in his honor, a dinner honoring all Iranian guests, plus tempting cuisine prepared by top Iranian chefs.

This seventh international festival will explore many facets of Iranian culture and guests will have an opportunity to hear authentic songs and poetry, and view some of the art of that country. As the invitation reads "It is a tapestry of events as colorful and rich as the highly treasured Persian carpets."

Sounds fascinating, but we have to pass this one up as it conflicts with our travel show on Bermuda set for Feb. 13. Maybe next year.

Bermuda

Speaking of our upcoming Bermuda Travel Show, we will have two films, one titled "Anatomy of a Vacation," and the other, "Bermuda — The Island Nobody Wanted." Also, Delta Airlines will present a film "Packing Jet-style." During the brief intermission Formal Inn and Harvey's will have models showing some of the formal finery for cruise and resort wear.

Tickets are now available at The Herald office or from participating travel agents.

The show will be held at Manchester High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Doors open at 7:30.

Congratulations Lenny

Congratulations to Lenny Gauba, the 26-year-old Vietnam veteran, who reportedly walked 42 miles Sunday in a walkathon to benefit the March of Dimes.

This is the second year that the legally blind man has worked tirelessly to aid the less fortunate. Last year he rode his bicycle five miles in the parking lot at Iona Manufacturing Co. in a similar effort.

Sunday's attempt to raise $1,500 was disappointing with only $400 realized. March of Dimes officials said that an area radio station to make an incorrect telephone number for people to call in to make pledges.

In you were among them and would still like to contribute you may make a pledge by calling the March of Dimes office in Hartford at 249-5677.

VFW Post To Conduct Annual Awards Night

The Anderson-Shea Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will conduct its second annual Voice of Democracy awards night Saturday at the post home.

A spaghetti dinner will be served at 7 p.m. followed by the awards ceremony. There will be dancing from 9 to 1 a.m.

Winners in the local contest are Gerald Perrett, 49 Keeney St., first; Michael Lombardo, 502 Spring St., second; and Cheryl Hyde, 37 Green Rd., third. All three winners will present their award-winning scripts. Perrett also won the District 3 first award.

Also being honored will be Gilbert Hunt, head of the Manchester High School English Department, for his assistance in the promotion of this program.

Other guests will include John Roche of Glastonbury and Mrs. Theresa Varney of Manchester, state chairman.

Chairmen of the event are Ray Raddatz of Rockville, junior vice commander, and Mrs. Mary E. LeDuc, past auxiliary and state president.

Other committee members include Edward Stickey, commander; Mrs. Ruth Hennehan, president; Mrs. Ray Raddatz, Mrs. Muriel Grover, Mrs. Irene Pich, Mrs. Margaret Zukus, Mr. and Mrs. V. Chermeka, Mrs. Edward Stickey, Thomas Hennehan, Roger Jerome.

Tickets may be obtained at the post home from anyone serving on the committee.

Junior Women Aiding Clinic

The health committee of Manchester Junior Women's Club has been working on two projects for the Community Child Guidance Clinic.

Mrs. John Pitts, chairman, with the assistance of Mrs. Edmund O'Donnell and Mrs. Stanley Trask, purchased materials and made certain for the large classroom in the newly opened Clinic Preschool.

Other members of the health committee assisting with the annual mailing of 800 clinic annual reports were Mrs. Louis Zimbrick, Mrs. John Purdy and Mrs. James Wood.

This is the fifth year that this committee has assisted with the annual mailing project.

Those who have not received the annual report of the clinic and wishing one may call at the clinic at 317 N. Main St.

DAR Flags Presented To Blind

Two flags designed especially for the blind were presented to Manchester Training School by members of Oxford Parish Chapter, DAR of Manchester.

The flags, measuring 12x17 inches, are made with red satin stripes, while Indianhead cotton and blue cotton broadcloth.

Mrs. Thurber sewed the stripes together and Mrs. Bill, chapter regent, embroidered the stars. One flag has 13 stars to celebrate the 200th birthday of the U.S. and the other has 50 stars. It took more than 10 hours to complete them.

Along with the flags, the chapter presented the school a 21-page flag code in braille.

COLLEGE NOTES

Dental Health Week This Week

This week is the 27th annual National Children's Dental Health Week. As part of the observance, The Herald, in cooperation with the Manchester Dental Society, today begins a series of five articles on facts you should know about dental health.

Are there any special foods that contribute more than others to strong teeth? I want to help my children have good oral health.

Keep in mind that a well balanced diet that promotes over-all health promotes dental health, too. But if you have any questions about nutrition or meal-planning, your family dentist will be able to give you some personalized nutrition counseling.

Most people today eat far too many sweets, and sugar-rich foods are a factor in dental decay. Simply, sugars activate the bacteria in the mouth, which in turn starts the formation of decay-causing acids. So to help prevent dental decay, it is wise to limit the consumption of sugar-rich foods and beverages to mealtimes. Avoid sugary foods between meals, especially hard candies, suckers, breath mints and the like. These foods are kept in the mouth for long periods of time and bathe the teeth continually in a pool of sugar thus causing prolonged acid attacks on the teeth.

Make sure that meals include adequate amounts of food from the four basic food groups: Milk and dairy products (3-4 servings daily); meat and fish (2 or more servings daily); vegetables and fruits (4 or more servings daily); and bread and cereals (4 or more servings daily).

The pre-school years are an excellent time to begin to help your children establish good eating habits. It is at this time that you can control their diets by providing the proper food and by eliminating an abundance of between meal sweet snacks and soft drinks.

In place of sugary snack foods, try serving such foods as raw vegetables, milk, cheese, nuts, eggs, fresh fruits, luncheon meats, sugarless candy or gum, and dietetic soft drinks. At the same time, avoid such foods as jams and jellies, dried fruits, and all kinds of sugared candies and pastries.

Certain bacteria change the sugar that is present in sweetened liquids into decay-causing acids. The longer the practice is continued, the more damage will be done.

Most of the teeth of a child with this condition are severely decayed. Because of the child's young age, it is usually extremely difficult, if not impossible, to restore the teeth.

To diagnose a problem of this nature, the dentist may request a complete history of the child's eating and nursing habits. But before starting any treatment, the dentist will have to point out to the parents the cause of the problem and take the child off the bottle or eliminate the sweets.

Leading dental scientists say that no child past the age of 10 months should take a bottle to bed. Such a bottle is not necessary nutritionally and instead serves as a harmful pacifier.

Civic Center Promotion Success

Although no record was set for paid attendance to witness a schoolboy basketball program in Connecticut last Saturday night the Hartford Civic Center's first promotion at the spanking new Hartford Civic Center was a success.

This corner's pre-game estimate of 6,000 fans wasn't too far off with 5,881 paying for the privilege of watching St. Paul of Bristol and Northwest Catholic High of West Hartford clash in the opener of the twinned and South Catholic of Hartford meeting East Catholic of Manchester in the nightcap.

The all-time high attendance for a double bill in the state was reached last year at the Veterans' Memorial Coliseum in New Haven with 6,432 buying tickets to watch play in the CIAC tournament.

One week from tonight, when the second — and last — schoolboy doubleheader slated by the HCC, last week's crowd, plus 551 more are needed to tie the all-time mark.

This could be reached as another attractive sale will bring together Xavier of Middletown and South Catholic in the tap-off with Northwest and East Catholic the second game principals.

Question Top Ticket Price

Frankly, this corner feels that $3.50, the top of the four-price scale, is too high for schoolboy basketball.

Cliff Demers, director of athletics at East, said the ticket scale was set by the sponsoring HCC.

"The conference felt that the price scale of tickets for our games was in line with the prices being charged for other events at the Civic Center. Our prices were far below those asked for other attractions," Demers added.

True, but here a follower of one team, or one school, is helping subsidize a second game in which he or she is not interested. Testimony to this being factual Saturday was the large number of seats vacated once the schools involved in the first game finished play.

"We charge adults $2 for our home games and we didn't think $3.50 was too much for a doubleheader," Demers said. The ticket scale ranges from $1.50 for students to $3.50. Other tickets sell for $2 and $2.50 a copy.

Demers said it costs approximately $3,000 to put on a game at the Civic Center. The rental is $1,250, with the rest going for ticket sellers and ticket takers, ushers, police and game officials (referees, timer, scorer).

The initial four-school promotion netted better than $10,000, Demers said. Each school will share in the receipts.

Demers added that the Civic Center receives 12 1/2 percent if the gross receipts are over $10,000.

Gold Key Smoke Rings

Dick Siderow, one of the three recipients of Gold Key awards at Sunday night's dinner in New Haven, came close to winning the Manchester Open in 1960. The New Britain man, now a successful stock broker in Westport, fashioned a 67 to deadlock Alex Sott, an amateur, and pro Ed Kuna here in '67. Sott copped first place in a playoff. Autograph seekers had a field day at the Gold Key kete with all head table occupants mobbed. No one was turned down. Bart Starr, cast in the role of principal speaker, showed a lot of class and won not only himself a number of new admirers but also the NFL. If nice guys win, Starr will be a champ in his first year as head coach in Green Bay next season. Joe Soltyz, UConn sports tub humper, reports that the team's record in its last eight games at halftime but came back to win seven.

Anxious to Play Golf

Herman Elated At Shrine Vote

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Billy Herman says he is "glad" he was chosen to Baseball's Hall of Fame. Now he can turn his attention back to golf, the game that takes up most of his time these days.

Herman, who led the Brooklyn Dodgers to their first pennant in 21 years in 1941 and wound up his major league career with a .304 batting average, retired from all baseball activity last year after a seven-year stint as a scout for the Oakland A's.

When he received the news of his election to the hall Monday, he said, "I've been hopeful for some time and I'm glad it's finally happened."

But Herman planned no special celebration. He was anxious to "get on with my golf game. I'm playing off three now and I'd like to get down to scratch."

In fact, the former baseball pro is so engrossed in his new sport that he says "Maybe I'd have tried my hand on the pro golf tour" if he had discovered

Baseball's Hall of Fame To Open Doors to Trio

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two slugging hitters of the 1930s and a "boy wonder" manager from the 1920s have been elected to baseball's Hall of Fame by a special election committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Named Monday in the player-category were Earl Averill, Sr., who compiled a .318 batting average with three American League clubs from 1929 through 1941, and Billy Herman, a second baseman who batted .304 during his career with four National League clubs.

Elected along with them was Stanley "Bucky" Harris, who as a 30-year-old playing manager led the Washington Senators to successive American League pennants in 1924 and 1925 and managed in the major leagues for 29 seasons.

The three will be formally inducted into the shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y., Aug. 18 when Ralph Kiner, seven-time home-run king of the National League with the Pittsburgh Pirates, also will be inducted. Kiner was elected in national balloting of 10-year veterans of the BBWAA.

"Better late than never," said the 71-year-old Averill when notified of his election. "I think it's great to be in that Hall of Fame. That's where most ballplayers want to be. There are lots more guys who deserve it who are not in there yet."

"I'm glad it finally happened," said Herman, 66. "I've been hopeful for some time. Now that I know I can get on with my golf game."

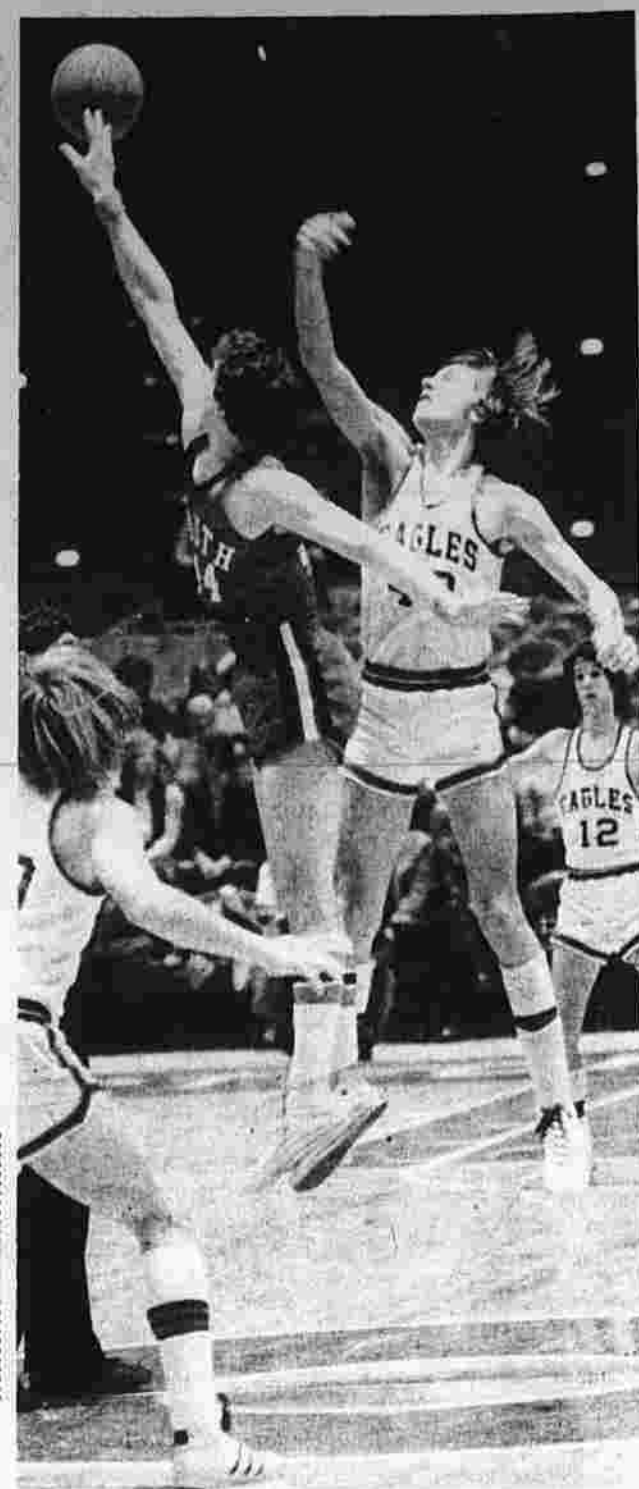

"I'm tremendously happy," said Harris, 78. "I want to offer my congratulations to both Billy and Earl for making it too. They both are deserving of the honor."

Averill, a line drive hitter with good power for his era, played for Cleveland, Detroit and the Boston Red Sox from 1929 through 1941. He knocked in more than 100 runs in five seasons, had a career total of 238 homers and in his prime had batting averages of .330, .339, .333, .314, .301, .315, .288 and .278 in successive seasons.

Herman, considered one of the most skillful hit-and-run men of his time, played with the Chicago Cubs, Brooklyn, Boston Braves and Pittsburgh from 1931 through 1947. He was a key player on the 1935 Cubs who won the pennant by winning their last 21 games in a row and he played in three other World Series. His lifetime batting average was .304.

Harris' Senators won the 1924 World Series by beating the New York Giants and lost the 1925 Series to the Pittsburgh Pirates. He also managed the 1947 New York Yankees to a world championship. Harris' lifetime record as manager of the Senators (three times), Detroit (twice), the Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Phillies was 2159-2219.

The 10 members of the veterans committee, who considered the new Hall of Famers, are Walter Hoyt, Warren Giles, Charlie Gehring, Bill DeWitt, Dan Daniel, Bob Broeg, Charlie Segar, Joe Cronin, Fred Lieb and Paul Kerr. Stan Musial and Bill Terry were absent.

10th Straight Success in NBA

Celtics Devastating In Beating Pistons

BOSTON (UPI) — Without cracking a smile, Tom Heinsohn said it: "We can play better."

But Heinsohn's Boston Celtics were devastating in defeating the Detroit Pistons 114-100 Monday night.

Don Nelson scored the 10,000th point of his 13-year career, Jo Jo White hit for 29 and Dave Cowens scored 18, grabbed 20 rebounds and ran Bob Lanier into a puddle of sweat.

Boston's 10th straight win ran its record to 20-3, by far the best in the NBA. Detroit had a seven-game winning streak at home snapped and dropped into second place in the Midwest Division, .006 behind Chicago.

"I think we can play better," Heinsohn said, "if everybody contributes and when the rookies get more experience. They have to get used to the pace. Every once in a while, they have a good ball game."

Glenn McDonald, Kevin Stacom, and Dennis Cline are the Celtics' three rookies and it won't be long until Heinsohn can talk about his "10-man team" instead of referring to eight as he does now.

"You don't get tired for the 'big ones' and Detroit's third game in as many days cannot be used as an excuse."

The Pistons got 27 points and 11 rebounds from Lanier, who picked up 20 of his points in the first half, and 26 from Dave Bing, but that was it.

Nobody else got more than nine and the four forwards coach Ray Scott used were 7-for-32.

Two-Man Tap-Off Battle

South Catholic's Randy LaVigne appears to have the upper hand in tap at mid-court with John Lusa of East Catholic. The Eagles went on to post an 59-49 win last Saturday in HCC play.

Schoolboy Basketball

Eagles, Cheney Fives on Road

Both local cage outfits which have qualified for the 53rd annual CIAC State Tournament will be in action tonight in the opening round of the four closing contests, to make it, iside.

East Catholic clinched a spot in the Class A Division with its upset 59-49 triumph over South Catholic boosting its aggregate mark to 10-5. The Eagles, who've won four in a row, travel to Hartford tonight for a non-conference date with Prince Tech. Prince is 2-11 for the season.

Cheney Tech, which has a Class C Division berth locked up, took a 1-0 lead over Danielson for an afternoon tilt with hapless Ellis Tech. Cheney, which sports an 11-5 record with three games remaining after today's clash, snapped a two-game losing streak in its last appearance, routing Putnam Catholic 68-48. Ellis has not won in its last 68 outings, give or take a few losses.

Also in the area tonight, South Windsor High attempts to land a place in the Class A Division entering Central Valley Conference foe Windsor High. The Bobcats are 9-4 over-all and 1-3 in the CVC. Windsor is 5-5 in the circuit and 7-8 in all games. Rockville High (3-7, 5-11), which has won its last two starts, plays host to Simsbury High (9-1, 12-4). Simsbury is tied for the CVC.

Bob Warner Pace-Setter

BOSTON (UPI) — Bob Warner, 20, paced the Yankees in three of the four individual categories, according to league basketball statistics released Monday.

Warner, who headed the conference's scorers and rebounders last week, led the field goal percentage crown by hitting 16 of 25 free shots in the past two games.

The junior forward from Saco, Maine, averaged 20.4 points and 14.4 rebounds a game and shot at a 57.4 clip through four games.

Massachusetts senior Jim Burke paced the free throw shooters with an .878 percentage.

Kerry Walker of Boston University was stars in scoring with an 18.8 average and Steve Condon of Maine was third at 17.4.

John Thomas of Connecticut was the second leading rebounder with 10.7 caroms a game and John Murphy of Massachusetts was third at 8.6.

Vermont's Kevin Kelly, last week's pace-setter, dropped to second in free throw shooting with an .862 mark, while Lee Wilson of Connecticut was third at .860.

Mackey Back on Stand In NFL Rozelle Case

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — John Mackey, a former All-Pro tight end, will return to the witness stand Tuesday morning in the Rozelle Rule antitrust trial in U.S. district court.

Mackey, the first witness Monday, testified that he was "retired by the Colts" in 1967, "very restrictive in that it renders an athlete's services as a player."

Mackey, a tight end for the Baltimore Colts, was the second leading rebounder with 10.7 caroms a game and John Murphy of Massachusetts was third at 8.6.

Vermont's Kevin Kelly, last week's pace-setter, dropped to second in free throw shooting with an .862 mark, while Lee Wilson of Connecticut was third at .860.

Preparing to Go Down

Tom Faust of East Catholic had a leg hold on Manchester High's Tim Cunningham in recent match. Faust went on to win as Eagles copped decision.

Fightin' Everetts in Ring

Once again the Fightin' Everett brothers, four and possibly five, will be in action in the annual Silver Mittens Tournament in Lowell, Mass.

Earle Everett, father and trainer of the boys, reports competition starts Feb. 21.

Heading the family of young boxers will be 15-year-old Chris, a two-time champion, who will be in the 135-pound class. Steve, 14, is a 110-pounder. Ron is a 100-pounder who is 13 and 12-year-old Randy is an 80-pound bantam.

Little Mike, 9, may see action in the 70-pound class, the father-manager-trainer said.

Competition will last several weeks.

Holy Cross Tops N.E. Hoop Ratings

CENTERTOWN, Mass. (UPI) — Front runner Holy Cross, 14-3, maintained its edge over Connecticut, 12-5, in the weekly New England Division Eastern College Athletic Conference standings.

Carrington Top Scorer

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston College junior Bob Carrington, who moved into the scoring lead among New England Division I basketball players, according to statistics released Monday.

Through 18 games, the 6-6 forward from Boston averaged 28.5 points a game.

Maine's Bob Warner, first last week, fell to second place with a 20.4 average, still maintaining his lead in the rebound race with a 14.4 average. Warner also was second in field goal accuracy with 57.4 percentage.

Phil Brown of Brown dropped five percentage points but still led the region's field goal shooters with a 60.4 mark. Brown also was second to Warner in rebounding with an 11.1 average.

Yale junior Jim McGuire retained the free throw percentage leadership, hitting on all four foul shots last week, bringing his marksmanship to .884.

Boston College forward Will Morrison moved into third place in scoring with a 20.1 average. Boston University's Kerry Walker was fourth at 18.8 and Steve Condon of Maine fifth at 18.3.

College Basketball

Recruiting Scandal Likely at Tennessee

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bernard King, one of the finest freshmen basketball players in the nation, may be the key to a new recruiting scandal.

King, the 6-foot-4 Tennessee star from Brooklyn, N.Y., was the scoring leader in the Southeastern Conference with a 27.9 average and ranked among the league's top rebounders, was suspended indefinitely by the university Monday pending an investigation of possible changes in his grades in junior high school.

The Vols felt King's absence Monday night when Auburn rallied in the closing seconds to beat Tennessee, 62-59, and drop the Vols to a 1-3 mark.

Athletic Director Bob Woodruff said Monday that King would be withheld from action until the matter could be resolved.

"The University of Tennessee has received a revised transcript from Port Hamilton High School reflecting new information for junior high school records earned by Bernard King, recorded on the permanent record of the high school," said Woodruff in a prepared statement.

On the basis of the revised transcript, we are withholding King from competition pending further review by university officials and appropriate due process in regard to his eligibility.

"The transcript received today (Monday) differs from previous transcripts provided to the university by Port Hamilton, including one issued on Jan. 3 to two university officials who visited Port Hamilton to verify grades."

The latest transcript shows discrepancies between some grades earned in junior high and recorded on the permanent record at Port Hamilton.

Junior Dan Cox, who had played only seven minutes all season, scored six straight points in the last 22 seconds to lead Auburn past Tennessee. Cox had played in only two other games this season but he scored 14 points Monday night. He put Auburn, now 15-4, ahead 60-57 and the victory was clinched when Glen Moon hit.

Gary Groh Assured Of PGA Tour Spot

HONOLULU (UPI) — Gary Groh, $40,000 richer and assured of a year's place on the pro tour, headed for Palm Springs today after winning the rain-delayed Hawaiian Open in an upset one-stroke victory.

The win was the first for the 30-year-old Michigan State dropout, who plays for the first two rounds of the California Open. He clinched together two back-to-back 68s, a 70 and a 68 on the final round for his one-stroke win over Al Geiberger, who led the tournament for the first two rounds. Californian Geiberger dropped back after shooting a 71 Sunday, but then charged the last 59 to finish with a 69-72 total of $15,500.

Arnold Palmer, who gave his "Army" hope by starting the final round one stroke behind leader Forrest Fezler, had trouble on the back nine and ended up with a 71. This, coupled with his 68-67-69 gave him a 278 total at $10,340.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus had to be content with $3,300 prize money for his 291. Nicklaus started off with a 68, but had wind trouble the second day and shot a 74. He finished with a 70-69.

Groh made news during the first round when he "blacked out" on a 12th hole by taking a nonchalant, casual swing at the ball as it lay poised on the edge of the hole.

"I guess I just blacked out," he said.

"I just walked up to the ball and took an abent-minded swing at it. I know one thing for certain—I missed it."

But Groh, whose father gave him his first club when he was eight, said the thought of that one missed putt never bothered him during the rest of the tournament.

"I settled down today," he said in describing his win, "and got only one bogey. I hit good drives all week but I was tired playing every day and was glad for the rain-postponed day off on Saturday."

Groh said he spent the day at the beach and credited the warm Pacific waters and relaxing sand for the renewed strength he needed to win.

Groh said he didn't feel too much pressure and wasn't nervous.

"I felt pretty good when we teed off," he said, "and I thought I was behind or tied at the 17th as I looked at the scoreboard and saw Al Geiberger with 14 under and I knew at that time that he had bogeyed the 15th."

The rains which forced a day's postponement Saturday cleared off for the final round, which was shot in hot, humid weather. It was the first time that the Hawaiian had been forced to cancel a day's play because of weather. A torrential downpour Sunday also delayed the proceedings for 37 minutes.

Teasing Mood of Fates

Pair of In and Outers Cost Palmer in Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI) — As it has done hundreds of times, yes thousands of times before, the white golf ball headed steady and true to the cup, dipped in and then suddenly resurfaced to dribble across the green.

An entranced Arnold Palmer watched it, gulped, and shook his head at the teasing mood of the fates in the $220,000 Hawaiian Open. He acknowledged at the end of the tournament that the two in and outers Monday on the 8th and 14th greens at Waialae probably cost him the difference between the $44,000 first prize and his third place check of $10,340.

The red leaved and bronzed 45-year-old golfer idly to millions shrugged it all off with the explanation that he had played as well as he had in the past two or three years, but just couldn't seem to pull it all together.

"I was a little off and wasn't missing many greens," he said, "and, hell, I was getting closer to the pin today but still the putt was the putt I missed."

The near-sighted Palmer, who alternates between contacts and glasses, said he didn't know where the ball went after birdying the 16th hole, and he had every reason to think so.

He had shot a 69 on the rainy opening day, had fought the high winds Friday around a 67, and ended up one stroke behind the third round leader Forrest Fezler.

He birdied the first hole under the brilliant, hot sun and went into a temporary lead of 12 under, tied with Al Geiberger and Lou Graham, but then he bogied the par three 7th which put him out of the chase.

"I pulled my shot at the 17th," he said. "I was going right at the hole, for there was no pin in fooling around. I felt pretty confident, but I got a little tight and pulled it to the left but it still wasn't bad."

"I missed," he said. "I was sure I was going to hole it today it was the few greens he missed."

"I bogeyed four of the five I missed," he said. "The one I missed, it was the one I missed. I was going to play more golf this year," he said, "and my game is better and I'm encouraged. I'm tired now but I'll be ready Wednesday."

Bernie Geoffrion Throws in Towel

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion has made a big mystery out of his sudden and totally unexpected resignation as coach of the NHL Atlanta Flames.

Geoffrion isn't telling and neither is Geoffrion's pretty blonde wife Marie whom the ex-coach insists is the only other person who knows why he threw in the towel Monday.

"Don't ask me why I step down, I won't tell you," said the 48-year-old Geoffrion in his French accent. "Why I resign is a personal thing. The only person who knows is my wife."

Geoffrion, an all-star right-winger with the Montreal Canadiens for 14 seasons, was the only coach the Flames had in their 1 1/2 years in the National Hockey League. Flames' General Manager Cliff Fletcher said he would be succeeded by Fred Creighton, coach of the Flames' Omaha farm club since 1972, and that Geoffrion would remain with the Flames as his assistant.

"He asked to be relieved for personal reasons and I regret he is leaving the bench," said Fletcher. "But we respect Bernie's judgment in this matter. I can only assure you Boomer will be with our organization for a long time to come."

Creighton, 40, flew into Atlanta Monday night and was to meet with the team at a practice session this morning. The Flames, with 54 points on a 22-20 record and one point behind the third-place New York Islanders, next play late Wednesday night against the Boston Bruins.

In another off-court development, Morgan Stail of the defending NCAA small college champion, forfeited a second basketball game in less than a week.

BASKETBALL

PEE WEE Action at the East Side Rec last night saw Burger King stop Willie's 26-18, and the Celtics outdistance Top Notch 26-14.

Tim Fessler netted 18 points for Burger and Bill Silver popped in six for Willie's. Roger Greenwood poured in 12 points for the Celtics while John Sumay's four were best for the Foodmen.

Positions Shift In Cage Ranks

NEW YORK (UPI) — There was considerable shifting of position in the United Press International Board of Coaches' college basketball ratings, but undefeated Indiana remained the one constant, retaining its unanimous status as the nation's No. 1 team.

The Hoosiers, who are 20-0 this season and whose 23-game winning streak is the longest in college basketball, survived their closest contest of the season Saturday with a six-point victory at Ohio State.

Meanwhile, UCLA defeated Pacific-8 Conference arch-rival Southern California by five points to jump from fourth to second in the ratings, edging past No. 3 Louisville for the second spot, although the Cardinals won both their games last week.

Maryland climbed from eighth to fourth on the strength of a victory over the University of North Carolina State, dropping the Wolfpack from second to sixth in the ratings.

Kentucky won twice last week to climb from seventh to fifth, while Alabama dropped a spot to seventh despite a pair of victories.

Southern California fell from fifth to eighth after its loss to UCLA and Arizona State remained ninth after defeating arch-rival and 13th-ranked Arizona.

Oregon took the 10th spot with three victories last week.

Yale Dean Dead at 55

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Donald W. Taylor, 55, dean of Yale's Graduate School, died today at the Yale Health Center.

Taylor, Eugene Higgins professor of psychology and one of the university's leading educators and administrators, had been suffering from cancer since last fall.

He had been a member of the Yale faculty since 1955, and dean of the graduate school since 1969.

Taylor was a key figure at Yale in the planning and administration of Yale's new programs in the social sciences.

At the time he was appointed dean, he was both chairman of the Psychology Department and director of Yale's Institute of Social Science.

Although he won a coveted Rhodes scholarship to Oxford where he graduated from Baker University in 1939, World War II prevented his taking up residence in England.

Survivors include his widow, Ruth Spence Taylor; three sons, Laird Taylor of Bakersfield, Calif., and Roderic Taylor of North Haven; a daughter, Patricia, of Berkeley, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Serge Humon of Montclair, N.J.

Burial services are private.

FIRE CALLS

MANCHESTER

Manchester's Town and Eighth District Fire Departments, along with East Hartford firemen, responded to a Monday morning report of a grass fire near the town line at Wickham Park and took about half an hour to douse the blaze.

Eight District volunteers, who were called at 10:19 a.m., said the fire covered a small area near railroad tracks and was apparently ignited by a passing train. Town firemen responded at 10:26 a.m.

Other survivors are two sons, Clifford Ray Rautenberg of Manchester and Eric Rautenberg of Suffield; a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Stender of Essen, Germany; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. from the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., and the Rev. Burton Strand, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, officiating.
