OBITUARIES

Mrs. Augusta Lamprecht - Mrs. Augusta Lamprecht, 85, formerly of 34 Village St., died Monday at the Lutheran Home in Clinton, N.Y. She was the widow of Herman Lamprecht.

Mrs. Lamprecht was born Nov. 24, 1879 in Germany and had lived most of her life in Manchester before entering the Lutheran Home three years ago. She was a charter member of Concordia Lutheran Church.

Survivors are a son, Herman R. Lamprecht of Dayton, Ohio; 3 daughters, Mrs. Frederick C. Hurlbut of Manchester, Mrs. Charles Moller of Cheshire and Mrs. Frank Reese of Dayton, Ohio; a brother, Harry Gees of Albany, N.Y.; a sister, Mrs. William McKinney of Coventry; 9 grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandson.

The funeral is Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the funeral home at 400 Main St. The Rev. Burton Strand, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, will officiate. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Rainhold A. Rautenberg - Rainhold A. Rautenberg, 65, of 12 Emerson St. died Monday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Minnie Pohl Rautenberg.

He was born in West Prussia, Germany, and lived here 65 years. He was employed as a toolmaker at Cheney Bros. for 43 years before retiring 19 years ago.

Other survivors are two sons, Clifford Ray Rautenberg of Manchester and Eric Rautenberg of Suffield; a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Stender of Essen, Germany; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. from the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., pastored by the Rev. Burton Strand, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church, officiating.

Funeral home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Friends wishing to do so may make contributions to the Memorial Fund of Concordia Lutheran Church, 40 Pitkin St.

Sterile Processing Explained

Mrs. Stella Leber, in uniform, sterile processing technician, explains the sterile processing procedure to a group of visitors who toured Manchester Hospital Sunday during an open house. The lock handle behind Mrs. Leber controls the door of the steam sterilizer. The event was sponsored by the hospital auxiliary. There will be another open house with similar tours for the public on March 1 from 1 to 4 p.m. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Yale Dean Dead at 55

NEW HAVEN (UPI) - Donald W. Taylor, 55, dean of Yale's Graduate School, died today at the Yale Health Center.

Taylor, Eugene Higgins professor of psychology and one of the university's leading educators and administrators, had been suffering from cancer since last fall.

He had been a member of the Yale faculty since 1955, and dean of the graduate school since 1969.

Taylor was a key figure at Yale in the planning and administration of Yale's new programs in the social sciences.

At the time he was appointed dean, he was both chairman of the school's northeast lawn, and director of Yale's Institute of Social Science.

Although he won a coveted Rhodes scholarship to Oxford where he graduated from Baker University in 1939, World War II prevented his taking up residence in England.

Survivors include his widow, Frances Taylor, and three children, Laird Taylor of Bakersfield, Calif., and Roderic Taylor of North Haven, a daughter, Patricia, of Berkeley, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Serge Hummon of Montclair, N.J.

Burial services are private.

Boy, 16, Injured In Fight at MHS

MANCHESTER - A 16-year-old Manchester boy, Kerry Manley of 29 Durant St., was treated for head injuries and released from Manchester Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon after an alleged fight outside Manchester High School, police reported.

Police responded to reports of a boy unconscious at the school's northeast lawn, and found Manley conscious but injured. He was taken to the hospital by Manchester Ambulance Service.

Police said two other boys, both under age 16, have been returned to juvenile authorities in connection with the fight. The incident occurred at about 3:30 p.m.

Dagon was charged with failure to drive right on a curve. Court date is Feb. 25 at East Hartford.

FIRE CALLS

MANCHESTER - Manchester's Town and Eighth District Fire Departments, along with East Hartford firemen, responded to a Monday morning report of a grass fire near the town line at Wickham Park and took about half an hour to douse the blaze.

Eight District volunteers, who were called at 10:19 a.m., said the fire covered a small area near railroad tracks and was apparently ignited by a passing train. Town firemen responded at 10:26 a.m.

Other fire calls:

MANCHESTER - Monday, 2:56 p.m. - Grass fire at 25 Pleasant St. (Town).

Monday, 6:40 p.m. - Smoking light fixture at Anderson-Little store, 240 Broad St. (Town).

Today, 1:35 a.m. - Alarm at 8 Devon Dr.; no fire (Town).

Today, 9:21 a.m. - Washdown of spilled gasoline at scene of auto accident, 630 Center St. (Town).

Today, 9:53 a.m. - Leaves on fire off Thayer Rd. (Town).

WINDHAM, Vt. (UPI) - Two Air Force FB-111 fighters crashed in flight late Monday night, seconds after four crewmen parachuted to safety. Spokesmen at Plattsburgh (N.Y.) Air Force Base, where the planes were based, refused to confirm reports that the planes had been involved in an airborne refueling maneuver when the collision took place about 10:30 p.m.

"I have no information on that," said an unidentified Plattsburgh spokesman. However, another Plattsburgh spokesman later confirmed there was KC-135 tanker aircraft in the area at the time of the crash.

The survivors, who landed on a lightly wooded mountainside, were not picked up for several hours. They were identified as Capt. Larry McMaster, Capt. Donald G. Vann, Capt. John E. Hockenberger, and 1st Lt. James D. Cotton.

They were transported by helicopter back to Plattsburgh about three hours after the crash.

There were no ground injuries although debris showered the Windham-Londonderry area. A wing section hit a hardware store in South Londonderry, where most of the wreckage fell.

Regardless of what the groundhogs forecast elsewhere, the sunshine Sunday in Manchester left shadows and today the town along with most of New England awoke to a blanket of light snow which continued throughout the morning. For youngsters it meant no school but walks had to be shoveled as it snow here on S. Alton St. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Winter's Heaviest Snowfall Blankets Most of Region

By DOUG BEVINS

Schools were closed, traffic was moving slowly, and there were several minor accidents today as Manchester highway crews were out in force trying to keep up with the biggest snowfall so far this winter.

Accumulations in Central Connecticut were expected to reach eight inches this afternoon, before precipitation changes to rain or sleet tonight. The National Weather Service at Windsor Locks continued a winter storm warning throughout the day and night.

The snow, which started falling at about 3 a.m., resulted from a storm front moving northeastward from the Gulf of Mexico, the westernmost end. At midday, the storm was centered along the Delaware coast.

By midday, Manchester had up to five inches of snow on the ground and driving was hazardous.

Schools in Manchester and most surrounding towns were closed today. Lunch menus for Manchester's public schools were pushed back a day because of the closing.

There were reports of scores of "fender-bender" automobile accidents throughout the state today, but Manchester Police said there were only two or three storm-related accidents this morning. None were serious.

Highway Supt. John Burchill said town crews began chemical routes at 4:30 a.m. and by 7 a.m. all town snowplows—plus several contracted plows—were working on 23 routes in the town.

Burchill expected that plowing operations would change to sanding later today, and that crews would probably be working until at least midnight.

Burchill said stalling plowing is complicated in several areas by townspeople's use of snowblowers, blowing snow into already-plowed streets. He also reminded townspeople of a parking ban on all Manchester streets between 2 and 6 a.m.

The entire New England region was getting snow today, with accumulations of a foot expected in northern areas. Elsewhere in the East, near-blizzard conditions were reported in West Virginia.

Meetings scheduled tonight in Manchester were likely to be canceled, several sources said, although no decisions had been made at midday.

Gromyko Fails In Mission

United Press International Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko flew home today without Egyptian support for Moscow's Middle East peace moves, but left behind a pledge for more Soviet military aid.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi said the two-day talks "were completely successful and served their purpose."

"Outstanding issues" would have to wait until Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev visits Egypt, he said.

Burchill expected that plowing operations would change to sanding later today, and that crews would probably be working until at least midnight.

Sanitary Sewer Charge Increases Proposed

By SOL R. COHEN

Town Manager Robert Weiss is proposing a hike in sanitary sewer charges for all property owners.

The proposal isn't to be confused with a previous one now being considered by the Board of Directors—for a 41 per cent increase in charges to large-volume customers.

Those Manchester property owners paying sewer charges to the Town of Manchester pay a sum equal to 100 per cent of their water fees. That rate has been in force since Oct. 9, 1973. Before then, and dating back to Oct. 1, 1970, they were paying a sum equal to 90 per cent of water fees. Before Oct. 1, 1970, when water fees also were increased, sewer charges were at 75 per cent of water fees.

Weiss told the board Tuesday night the sewer department will run about $80,000 in the red this fiscal year. He blamed it on increased electrical costs and increased labor costs at the Sewage Treatment Plant and recommended the deficit be wiped out with revenue-sharing funds.

Last item on agenda

Weiss' remarks were at the end of Tuesday night's board meeting and constituted the last item heard by the directors.

President Optimistic About 1976 Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Ford says the economic picture in 1976 will be bright enough to justify his running for another presidential term.

Ford returned to the capital in a heavy snowfall Tuesday night, obviously buoyed by a two-day trip to Atlanta. He had sought to promote his anti-recession package to a wide variety of southern leaders in politics, media, business and labor.

"The President feels it went well," said Press Secretary Ron Nessen.

Turkish Military Aid Expected to Resume

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Government officials say they expect a resumption of U.S. military aid to Turkey sometime before the suspension could cause significant damage to NATO's southern flank.

The State Department interpreted the act of Congress which requires the aid cutoff as taking effect at midnight tonight. Some congressmen had thought Congress meant midnight last night, but there was no formal challenge to the State Department's interpretation, extending aid another day.

Congress ordered that the aid, including credit sales, be suspended Feb. 5 today—but did not specify the hour.

Congress ordered the aid remain suspended until "substantial progress" toward a Cyprus peace settlement has been made and until President Ford can certify that Turkey would use the aid only for defensive purposes.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said the cutoff would be a "tragedy" and "a serious setback for our security interests."

But the consensus here in official circles is that both the United States and Turkey have a vital stake in continued cooperation and that the aid will be maintained after the present difficulty is sorted out.

Officials were particularly skeptical of suggestions that Turkey might pull out of NATO, or that the United States cut off three air bases it uses in that country.

They said Turkey's continued membership in NATO is vital to her defense, since the entire Turkish military establishment has been supplied by the United States, which has sent that country more than $3 billion in military aid since 1960.

Abandoning NATO and switching to another military supplier, even if one could be found, would be an extremely costly and time-consuming process for the Turks—something they would undertake only in the last resort after many, many months, in the view of officials here.

President Ford, in his Atlanta news conference, cited the rebate program as an example of how "good old American free enterprise" can help get the economy moving.

Good Stimulus

"The unusual and I think successful marketing technique shown by the automotive industry in the last few months, and the announcement that some of the appliance manufacturers are going to use the same techniques... will have very good stimulus, not only to the economy but to public confidence," Ford said.

In Europe, the U.S. dollar, shored up by the Federal Reserve and European central banks, gained strength against European currencies Tuesday.

On the New York Stock Exchange, stock prices were down slightly at the close after larger losses in early trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average, off more than 10 points at the outset, lost 3.37 at 708.07. Volume again was heavy with 25.4 million shares traded.

Federal Reserve Moves To Make Credit Easier

By RICHARD HUGHES

UPI Business Writer

The Federal Reserve Bank, the nation's money manager, says it intends to make more and easier credit available to fight the recession.

Effective today, the Federal Reserve made it cheaper for commercial banks to borrow "overnight" from the Fed's reserve funds.

In the third decline in as many months, the Fed lowered the discount rate on such loans to 6 1/4 per cent from 7 1/4 per cent.

Expansion Policy

"It is a signal by the Federal Reserve to the market place that it intends to pursue a somewhat more expansive monetary policy than it has heretofore," said Louis Olsen, chief economist at First National City Bank.

Olsen said other recent action by the Fed, including the lowering of the amount of cash banks must keep in reserve to cover deposits and the purchase of government securities, has had greater influence in creating more money for commercial loans.

Loan Demand Down

But he said, a more significant factor in declining interest rates has been the "winding demand for loans."

Welfare's Edward Maher: A Man of Principle

By SOL R. COHEN

Edward H. Maher, who became Connecticut's welfare commissioner Saturday, is a man of principle—living proof that money isn't everything in life.

Maher, a Connecticut native and a former Manchester resident, took a $9,000 cut in pay when he became welfare commissioner. He gets $33,000 a year.

Maher said he didn't apply for the welfare commissioner job but was recommended for it by several Connecticut people. He said he was surprised when the job, which he held until last Friday, was getting $42,000 a year.

The Maher family includes Mrs. Marian, the former Therese Kane, and sons Brian, Jeffrey and Gary. They resided on Chambers St. from 1957 to 1964, when Maher took a job with the New York State Division of the Budget, and on Richmond Dr. from 1966 to 1971, when Maher became UConn's vice president for financial affairs and director of administrative services at UConn Health Center.

Likes Coming Back

"Basically," said Maher Tuesday in Manchester, on a tour of the state welfare offices on W. Middle Tpk., "I liked the idea of coming back to Connecticut. My wife and I grew up in Connecticut and it was a chance to come back home. It was a convenient time and a good time to do so."

Maher said he looks forward to working with Gov. Ella Grasso.

"She's an inspiring person—and I wanted to do outstanding things—and I wanted to be part of a great time in Connecticut history," he explained.

Great Opportunity

He said also, "Being head of the welfare department is a great opportunity. True, I was getting more money in New York. However, I was still only a deputy. Here, I can help shape policy and have the pleasure of seeing some of my ideas take shape."

Presently, the Maher family has a home in Pelham, N.Y., a suburb of Albany. He plans to sell the residence and move his family to Connecticut—possibly again in the Manchester area.

Here he is shown acting head of the local office of the state's Public Assistance Program. She directs the operation of about 100 employees, including some assigned to the Children Services Program. Visits Manchester Office

Maher said he is studying reports of accumulated back payments due for medical and pharmaceutical bills.

"I'm assessing the situation," he said, "and I hope we can develop a plan for liquidating those bills."

He said also he's looking into reports that the department employees "I've met in these few days on the job. I find them dedicated, knowledgeable and sincere. I'm happy with them."

Sally Rand, 70, Still Strutting Her Stuff
CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) - Sally Rand is now 70 years old, a grandmother and still strutting her stuff.

Asked why she continues a 40-week-year tour schedule at age 70, she replied, "Because I love show business. I'm a ham and I really love that applause. And, I've got to stay in shape," she added. "This is a physical thing. People wonder why I just don't do a couple of weeks in Las Vegas each year. Well, if I don't do it every day, then I can't do it at all."

IMMIGRATION PEAK

CRANSTON, R. I. (UPI) - As many as 500 immigrants a day arrived in the U.S. in the peak years between 1900 and 1914, according to the American Automobile Association.

Some of the girls don't like it," Singer said. In addition to the girl who threatened to break her engagement, another said she would never speak to her boyfriend if he were permanently bald.

Muro drew little attention with the "Siwash look." But when Singer showed up bald for a wrestling meet, it was a different story.

THE COMMUNITY SPIRIT OF '76

By JOHN SIBUN

A grant from the Connecticut Humanities Council made possible the most interesting and meaningful Bicentennial program in the state to date.

Some thirty Connecticut towns met for a three-day weekend conference in January at Eastern State College whose Center for Connecticut Studies sponsored the event.

The gathering gave Bicentennial leaders the opportunity to meet with their peers and enjoy a free exchange of ideas for local planning.

The theme of the workshop was "Dissent in Revolutionary and Contemporary Connecticut." Lectures were given by Early American historians, followed by discussions to examine the nature of and reaction to dissent in Revolutionary Connecticut as compared to the nature of and the reaction to dissent in Contemporary Connecticut.

Participants were encouraged to include in their local planning some programs to reflect this theme and take the opportunity of examining pressing current issues, and, by this awareness, use the "Horizons" aspect of the Bicentennial program to resolve them.

To encourage the exchange of ideas and provide for anyone to speak out on urgent modern issues is why the Humanities Council sponsored the event. The council does not take a position pro or con, but concerns itself with the role of bringing together adult citizens and scholars in the humanities for discussion of current issues of public policy.

Marianne Barnaby, executive director of the council, immediately made herself very popular when she stated she had "money to give away." To many Bicentennial program planners this is most welcome news during these tight economic days. But it is important to remember that, among other considerations, to qualify the project would have to involve understanding of a current issue, involve the humanities, and be aimed at the school adults in fostering dialogue between academics, humanists and the general public.

Further information on the availability of a possible grant can be obtained by writing to Mrs. Barnaby, Connecticut Humanities Council, 287, High St., Middletown, Conn. 06457.

The question of who were the real dissenters of the Revolutionary War period came to mind at the conference. The British thought the Patriots to be the dissenters, while they, in turn, considered the Loyalists to be the dissenting faction. Perhaps the real dissenters were the Indians, many of whom had been reduced to begging as a means of getting by.

Therefore, it is interesting to note that the Indian is taken as active part in the Bicentennial celebration. The Navajo Nation of Arizona is one of seven in the country to be named as a Bicentennial project, to improve communications and the exchange of information among the 800,000 American Indians in the United States.

The proposed Indian projects COREY RETURNS HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jeff Corey, leading drama teacher in Hollywood, returns to acting with a role in "The Six-Million Dollar Man."

State Solons Line Up Behind Camp Safety Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Connecticut's congressional delegation has lined up behind a bill that provides $7.5 million to enforce safety regulations in the country camps throughout the country.

Rep. Robert N. Glavin and Toby Moffett, Connecticut Democrats, are among the more than 100 co-sponsors of the bill and are the latest to back the bill. A driving force behind the proposed legislation is Mitch Kurman, a Westport, Conn., furniture salesman who has been crusading since 1965 when he lost a son in a camping accident.

Therefore, it is interesting to note that the Indian is taken as active part in the Bicentennial celebration. The Navajo Nation of Arizona is one of seven in the country to be named as a Bicentennial project, to improve communications and the exchange of information among the 800,000 American Indians in the United States.

Lighter Side The Mystery Adviser Strikes Capital Again

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Let's play a game of "Who Said?"

Who said: "Mr. President, the CIA has a well-trained invasion force in Central America. If you will give us the go-ahead, we will land in Cuba at the Bay of Pigs and you will get credit for overthrowing the Castro regime?"

Who said: "Mr. President, the Viet Cong is about to overrun South Vietnam. However, if we escalate the war by sending in American troops, we can quickly turn them back and you will get credit for saving Southwest Asia from the Communists?"

Who said: "Mr. President, some of our boys got caught trying to bug the Democratic National Committee election. But if we play it close to the vest, nobody will find out that some of your top aides were involved and it will soon blow over?"

Who said: "Mr. President, Congress and the American people are afraid Nixon might be prosecuted. If you grant him a full pardon right away, it will greatly increase your popularity and get your administration off to a good start?"

Who said: "Mr. President, I don't know who said those things either, but whoever it was apparently is now in charge of drawing up economic game plans."

"Mr. President," the mystery adviser said last October, "the number one enemy is inflation. If you propose a five per cent surtax, you will put Democrats in Congress on the spot."

"If they approve the tax before the election, you will get credit for putting the lid on inflation. If they don't approve it, you can make it into a campaign issue."

"Either way, it will help the Republicans regain control of Congress."

Shortly after the election, the mystery adviser disappeared for awhile. But with the opening of the new Congress in January, he suddenly turned up on Capitol Hill.

"Gentlemen," he told the leadership conference, "President Ford has proposed a one-shot income tax rebate of up to $1,000 as an anti-recession move."

"This shows how badly he has misread the mood of the country."

"The people at this time are dead set against any part of government action to stimulate the economy, particularly a tax cut."

"They favor a wait-and-see policy that will let things run on the way they are at least until summer."

"That will give you plenty of time to draw up 335 different anti-recession programs of your own — one for each member of Congress."

STAMPS AND COINS

By RUSS MACKENDRICK

Time for a bit of coin. This triad is from the multicolored Nicaragua set of 15 — "The World's Greatest Opera Singers." It was released on Jan. 22, the date chosen to coincide with the appearance of Joan Sutherland in "La Traviata" at the Royal Opera House in Covent Garden.

Also on the same page, in color, is a set of six birds from the Cayman Islands. ("Where's that?" "Well, it's near Jamaica in the West Indies; and it's pronounced 'Kye-MAHN,' with the accent on the syllable."

It is announced that the Mail Order Section of the Philatelic Sales Division in Washington will be moving to new quarters and that a temporary delay in filling orders will result. (So what else is new?)

Saw "Get Christie Love" on TV and wondered what could possibly have been in that little stock book of stolen stamps to be worth $4 million. They are inflating inflation.

"Coin World Spotlights Gold." And that they did — with 14 rather boring pages. Some nuggets panned out: 1 — The Kruggerand is the most popular bullion coin. It contains a full tray ounce of gold — easy to figure. And the markup, if you can get one un-gimmicked, is only 8 to 14 percent above the bullion value. It is a real, honest-to-goodness coin, so a numismatist may acquire one without feeling let down.

2 — Dahlonaga, where the mint was, comes from a Cherokee Indian word meaning "yellow metal."

3 — The Josiah K. Lilly collection of gold is on exhibition at the Smithsonian — $5.5 million worth.

4 — They are still looking for the Lost Dutchman Mine in the Superstition Mountain area of Arizona.

The Manchester Philatelic Society will meet at Mott's on Feb. 11 from 7 to 10 p.m. It will be an envelope-stuffing night to prepare packets of stamps for the MANPEX door prize table.

Phosphate Detergent Ban Renewal Is Predicted

HARTFORD (UPI) — A proposal to renew a state ban on phosphate detergents will be approved this session, according to its sponsor, Sen. Louis Ciccarelli, D-Norwalk.

Ciccarelli predicted the bill would pass because of "a combination of a genuinely progressive legislature and new faces in the state Department of Environmental Protection."

In 1971 the legislature approved the ban on phosphate detergents but the 1974 legislature eliminated it just months before it was to go into effect on the advice of environmental protection officials.

The agency argued detergents were the source of only a small part of the phosphates found in Connecticut waters. It was easier, the officials said, to remove the phosphates from the water than to try to prevent the chemical from entering the water.

Ciccarelli said the legislature's reversal of its stand on the phosphate ban "was marked by some of the most intensive lobbying activity in the Capitol has ever seen."

He said several studies conducted since 1974 prove a ban on phosphate detergents helps to clear the waters of algae that rob other forms of marine life of needed oxygen.

World's Tallest Girl Has First Big Date

SHELBYVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — The tallest girl in the world finally had her first date during the weekend.

Nineteen-year-old Sandy Allen went out with Dan Gerber, 7-foot-2.

Sandy is 7-foot-6 and is listed in the Guinness Book of Records as the world's tallest woman.

Gerber, 22, traveled 211 miles from Florida, Fla., to take out Miss Allen after reading a newspaper article about her.

Despite the number of photographers and reporters meeting place since the 211 miles was too much for either to negotiate with regularly.

The date ended with a dinner in Indianapolis. Waitress Sandy Fisk said she served the following:

Miss Allen had three shrimp cocktails, three 8-ounce filet mignons, two giant baked potatoes with two oversized orders of french-fried mushrooms, a double order of onion rings and salad. For dessert, a double order of ice cream cake, a triple banana split, followed by another triple version of shrimp cocktail and two soft drinks.

Gerber had a shrimp cocktail, three filets, a baked potato, salad, two buckets of hot rolls, hot popcorn served in salad bowls, a double pie a la mode — washed down with 19 soft drinks.

The couple was accompanied by Dan's sister, Mrs. Judy Bryan, who drove him from Florida to Shelbyville for the date.

Also along was Miss Allen's 5-year-old brother, Mike Warner. He settled for a hamburger.

Each misdirected letter is delayed at least three days — and some keep getting the rounds as they are repeatedly sent to wrong addresses.

OPINION

Trade Imbalance

The nation might have enjoyed a bumper balance of trade of $14 billion in 1974, if it had not been for the drain of paying tripled prices for imported oil, according to the Department of Commerce.

And the frustrating side of it is that in 1974 we reduced our imports of foreign oil by an approximate 5 per cent, dropping from 2.3 billion barrels in 1973 to 2.2 billion barrels last year.

Payments for foreign oil, however, shot up from $7.8 billion to $24.6 billion. The resulting deficit of more than $3 billion was the second worst in our history.

Obviously the artificially inflated oil prices are a great threat to our future financial welfare, as well as extremely damaging at a time when we are fighting both diminishing inflation and economic depression.

There may be some occasion for extremely cautious optimism in the announcement that the OPEC nations have agreed in Algiers to meet with the consuming nations later to discuss the effects of their pricing structure on the industrialized world.

They have signified, however, that they would like the talks to be on the broad subjects of raw materials and development, rather than being confined to oil, as the United States wishes.

The balance of trade deficit was not a surprise. Everyone knew that the economy could not absorb such astronomical prices for oil imports and still maintain a beneficial trade status.

If we need any further goading towards a policy of seeking self-sufficiency this should supply it. While our present economic problems are severe, we must not lose sight of the primary goal of eventually developing all our energy from within.

Program Floundering

While our atomic energy program is floundering around in a maze of restrictions, environmental suits, and tremendously costly delays, France has almost completed a new type of nuclear power plant which will make it free of dependence on Arab oil and uranium imported from the United States.

French government engineers built the new plant in only five years and at a cost of only $140 million. Our research program, on the contrary, is expected to cost $10 billion and not be ready until the 1990s.

American designers and engineers say that the French plant does not have the built-in safety devices which would be insisted upon in an American plant. And they also say that the French are not faced with the high labor and materials cost of the United States.

There also is a much greater sense of urgency in France than here. France must import almost all of its oil while we still have a large but insufficient domestic supply.

We think the nuclear program delay in the United States is a scandal of inefficiency and environmentalist obstructionism.

America used to be known as the most technologically advanced nation in the world. But we may be losing our grip.

Remember that we abandoned the SST program only to have France fly a triumphal tour of its Concorde across the country last year.

Is our technical competence being frustrated by inordinate social and political deterrents?

The Sense of Urgency

NEW YORK — In the game of musical political chairs being played between President Ford and the Democratic majority in Congress, a fascinating reversal is taking place.

When once Mr. Ford seemed to be the bland do-nothing about the economy and energy, he has become the urgent hurry-up do-something-right-away activist, accusing the Democrats of lagging. And where once the Democrats seemed to be the couching activists, demanding that something be done right away, their leaders are now worrying about the economic effects of Mr. Ford's action plan, and are asking why all the hurry?

The Washington scene couldn't be crazier if it had the Smothers Brothers organizing it, or Alan Arkin and Jimmy Dean playing twin guardians of the law as adversary partners.

As between President Ford and Congress, despite sharp reversal of his economic approach several weeks ago, Mr. Ford has the advantage of having taken a highly publicized and generally approved stance and sticking to it. The Democratic leaders have the disadvantage of speaking with many voices, none of and shifting their ground pretty late in the game.

Take the three best-known Senate Democrats — Ted Kennedy, Hubert Humphrey and Henry Jackson. Speaking in San Francisco, Kennedy wants mandatory gasoline allocations and high taxes on big cars. Humphrey and Jackson both feel that the foreign import oil tax will weigh heavily on the economy, though people out of work and deep in recession.

As for making America less dependent on the Arab oil cartel, they want to know why it is so urgent right now, and whether it is worth the social cost.

Jackman admits this is a shift from his strong anti-cartel stance. But where everyone is shifting, and flexible response is the rule, why shouldn't it include him? Two quotes from Ralph Waldo Emerson may be in order. One is famous — that consistency is the hobgoblin on petty minds. By that test, the Washington politicians should rank high intellectually. The second is less known. Emerson was sometimes annoyed with the urgency of the millennial social reformers in Boston and Concord. "Why so hot, little man?" he asked them, speaking from his cosmic perch.

If we could be comic and detached about the oil crisis, we might put Emerson's question to Mr. Ford and Secretary Kissinger. But there is an overriding psychological fact that neither the Democrats nor the President can ignore. If you want the people to do something difficult and ask them for changed attitudes, you can do it only in a climate of urgency. Franklin Roosevelt is surely no hero of Gerald Ford, yet Mr. Ford's advisers must be studying the psychological atmosphere of F.D.R.'s First 100 Days.

Every President, every secretary of state, every Congress must work within a psychological climate. For example, it would be hard for Secretary Kissinger to put pressure on America's European allies to achieve some collective security toward the Arab cartel if the United States relaxes its sense of urgency at home. The plight of Great Britain is another case in point. After a round of talks in Washington, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told a press club audience that while heavy unemployment is usually seen as a cure for inflation, we cannot exclude the human element. True enough, and most Americans agree.

But the real question for Great Britain today is the swarm of strikes and the flight from the work ethic, which make Britain less competitive on the world market. Wilson has started talking in these terms at home, and among the trade unions and the left-wing press. But he is a latecomer on this issue. Little he has said in the past has prepared the people for the climate of urgent work effort which the British crisis requires.

The answer to Emerson is that we must be hot enough, at the right time, about the right things, to achieve what we have to. But the sense of urgency must operate within a larger frame of confidence without panic.

HI NEIGHBOR

By BURL LYONS

Today we are wrapping up a circulation subscription drive in which our news boys and girls have been scrambling for new Herald customers. The response has been terrific and as a result of their successful efforts, about 70 of our carriers will be guests of The Herald on a special bus trip and tour to New York City in March.

Among the highlights of the trip will be a tour of the U.N., boat ride to the Statue of Liberty and a cinema show.

Naturally everyone is pleased. Gov. Ella Grasso turned down the pay increase which was available to her by $100.

But we also like what happened in Maryland. There the voters had the opportunity to decide on whether the governor's pay should be increased and it was refused by more than 60 per cent of the voters.

While on the subject of money, 435 U.S. representatives and 100 senators earn $42,500 per year. They may also legally accept honorariums, adding as much as $50,000 to their annual income. Governors cannot accept honorariums.

Each member of Congress has a staff and usually one or more of its members makes as much as $35,000. In fact, the widely-known Wilbur Mills, pays his personal secretary $25,000 per year.

Our point is simply that perhaps the time is long overdue when the people, the voters, should be given the opportunity to set the salary schedule for their elected officials.

Our Sen. Ribicoff is determined to get a consumer advocacy bill through Congress. He introduced a measure late last month which was almost identical to the one which died in the 93rd Congress due to a Senate filibuster.

Key provisions of his bill include establishment in the executive branch of an independent, non-regulatory agency to advocate consumer interests in federal agency proceedings and resulting federal court proceedings.

The agency will employ an estimated 550 persons and its operation will cost initially $15 million. We shall oppose it just as we did the last measure. The thing we need to do in this inflation era is to create another government agency.

We would like to see Congress put a moratorium on all new federal programs and spending which aren't considered vital to our economic recovery.

A major contribution to inflation has been the growth of government faster than the growth of the over-all economy. Government at all levels now absorbs almost 35 per cent of the Gross National Product. It employs one out of every six workers.

At the federal level alone, the debt is some $490 billion and $107 billion was added in the past five years.

Needless to say, your children, grandchildren, and children in come, can look forward to the payoff.

A message to our businessmen and businesswomen: the Truth-in-Lending Act require that advertisements which aid, promote or assist directly or indirectly in the extension of consumer credit that is repayable in more than four installments must clearly state: "The cost of credit is included in the price quoted for goods and services" unless a finance charge is imposed.

We aren't so certain just what the amendment means and will seek an interpretation.

The measure also established the Equal Credit Opportunity Act which makes it unlawful for creditors to discriminate against any applicant on the basis of sex or marital status regarding any aspect of a credit transaction. That we understand clearly.

There is hardly a day goes by we don't receive at least one application for employment and other businesses are experiencing the same.

Most of the applicants are those who have majored in journalism and are facing the same difficult market as the teaching profession.

Driver Not Hurt When Car Flips

A 22-year-old Hartford woman wasn't hurt when her car rolled over at N. Main and N. School Sts. early today, Manchester Police reported.

Police said the woman, Cecelia M. Paloccha, was unfamiliar with the area and was apparently driving too fast when she lost control at the intersection.

The car, a Volkswagen sedan, skidded sideways and rolled over. It was heavily damaged and was towed from the scene.

Police didn't take action in the 12:30 a.m. accident.

A motel room at Fiano's Motor Inn, 100 E. Center St., suffered substantial damage Tuesday, police reported.

Authorities are seeking a motel guest who might have done the damage.

"Everything that could possibly be destroyed in the room was destroyed," police said. Mirrors, lamps, tables, beds, sinks, a glass door, counter, shower, and color television set were smashed, police said.

There was no dollar estimate of the loss.

Cars driven by David H. Brown of 29 Elmwood Rd. and Giovanna R. Burnham of Manchester Police included in a list of cars involved in a collision Tuesday afternoon at E. Center and Brookfield Sts. Minor injuries were reported. The Burnham vehicle was towed.

Arrests made or motor vehicle summonses issued by Manchester Police included:

• John F. Mulcahy, 42, of Wethersfield, charged Tuesday night with operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended. Court date is Feb. 18.

• Gaetan J. LeBrun, 22, of East Hartford, charged shortly after midnight today with operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended. Court date is Feb. 18.

• Rose M. Archer, 43, of 245 Adams St., charged Tuesday afternoon with misuse of marker plates. Court date is Feb. 18.

• Walter Szotka, 58, of Windsor Locks, charged Tuesday night with fourth-degree larceny in connection with a shoplifting complaint from Caldor Department Store, Burr Corners. Court date is Feb. 24.

Burglaries reported to police Tuesday included a break into a Treble Dr. residence and the theft of a $1250 slide rule.

Officials To Record Phone Calls

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso, signaling another element of the "open government" on which he campaigned last year, says high state officials must list all telephone calls they get and let interested citizens see the lists.

"It will be the policy of this administration to maintain, for public inspection, a continuing record of all telephone calls received by the offices of heads of all state agencies," she said Tuesday.

A memorandum sent out last week by Mrs. Grasso on the incoming telephone calls applied to "lead officials of all state agencies and assistants at the executive level."

The lists they keep will have to include the names of the caller and the called.

David Silverstone, consumer counsel of the Connecticut Public Utility Commission, said he sometimes was told of proposals for town employees and sometimes we're not," said Mrs. Ferguson. "We should be kept informed."

Mrs. Jackson remarked the proposed changes could have been part of the bargaining process for future labor contracts, especially since the latest already have been approved without the changes.

After Balliga Paganek asked who he intends to do when other town employees get the same early retirement, the police have, Town Manager Robert Weiss revealed they already have requested that the directors to designate someone other than Weiss to negotiate with town unions, "someone

Man is Hospitalized After Leap Off Bridge

Martin J. Butcher, 29, of 80F Imperial Dr. was listed in critical condition today at the Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Butcher jumped from the Kenesha St. bridge over Interstate 84 shortly after 1 a.m. today and landed on the expressway's median strip, police said.

Police and the Manchester Ambulance Service responded to a report of the incident from a Hartford Rd. resident who said he saw Butcher jump. Ambulance personnel administered first aid at the scene and transported Butcher to the hospital emergency room. He received emergency treatment and was then admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit with multiple injuries.

Ramsdell Asks $8,992,386 To Run Vernon Schools

VERNON

A budget of $8,992,386 has been proposed by Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, Vernon superintendent of schools. The proposal has to be reviewed by the school board's budget committee and the entire board before being presented to the Town Council for its action.

The figure reflects an increase of $669,523 over the current budget.

As is usually the case, Dr. Ramsdell had to "plug-in" a figure for salaries which are now being negotiated. The teacher salaries are in the final year of a two-year contract.

LARGEST NUGGET

CAIRSON HILL, Calif. (UPI) — The largest gold nugget ever found in California was picked up near the Calaveras County town. The nugget was 15 inches long, six inches wide, four inches thick and weighed 136 pounds.

The Natural Estate

The 46-lot subdivision, The Natural Estate, off Anderson Rd. and Goose Lane, was approved with contingencies, after being denied approval in September.

POWER PLANT

ORIOXA, Argentina (UPI) — The Argentine government will build a $1.7 million hydroelectric complex 100 miles from this industrial city. The plant is designed to produce 750,000 kilowatts of power.

Another contingency is that the developer show evidence of slope rights to PZC chairman Anthony Taniulo, and that a fence would be built around the pond during construction, to control flooding, and that a performance bond in an amount satisfactory to the town manager be posted.

Town Planner Ron Blake,

who attended the meeting Monday, also requested that street layouts be put on key maps.

Ryan told the commission

last night that a great deal of time has been spent planning the drainage system and that it is "very complete."

PZC member Edith Knight objected to the creation of a siltation pond, saying it would mean the town would have expensive upkeep for one person's gain.

Other PZC members disagreed, comparing it to the upkeep of a catch basin. The pond would be decided to the town in about five years, after construction is completed.

Lee noted that it would be most important to have the pond during construction, to control flooding, and that a performance bond in an amount satisfactory to the town manager be posted.

He noted that it might be used for a hockey pond.

Refuses to Eat

DUBLIN (UPI)— Irish Republican Army hunger striker Patrick Ward has refused to resume eating unless the Irish government meets IRA demands to grant political prisoner status to IRA detainees.

Ward's girl friend, Mary Lawlor, 26, said after visiting him in the prison hospital of the Carragh military camp Tuesday that he rejected her appeal to save his life by ending the 34-day hunger strike.

She quoted him as saying, "If anyone tries to order me off the strike without the demands being met I would tell him to go to hell."

Collision Probe Starts

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (UPI) — An Air Force spokesman said Tuesday an investigation into the in-flight collision of two jet fighter bombers over southern Vermont may take months and that details may never be made public.

Maj. Claude J. Bradshaw said it may be half a year before a crash report reaches the secretary of the Air Force, who will decide whether to release it.

Four Air Force officers based at Plattsburgh Air Force Base ejected moments before two F-111 jets crashed over Londonderry, Vt. late Monday night.

The survivors, who landed on lightly wooded mountains, were identified as pilots Capt. Larry L. McMillan of Chester, Iowa and Capt. John E. Rosenberger of Zelienople, Pa. and navigators Capt. Donald G. Vann of Evansville, Ind. and 1st Lt. James D. Kotton of Cleveland, Ohio.

No one was injured as a result of the crash, but a house and car were damaged on the ground.

Indians Charged

SHAWANO, Wis. (UPI) — Five of the Indians who took over a Roman Catholic abbey for 34 days, including the group's leader, have been charged with robbing or threatening the caretaker of the building during the occupation.

All the other Indians taken into custody at the end of the occupation were accused of lesser charges Tuesday or released.

Twenty-eight Indians were charged with disorderly conduct and trespassing, both misdemeanors. Nine minors were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Authorities who prepared the charges said the caretaker and two friends were robbed of cash and goods during the early hours of the takeover New Year's Day by five of the Indians. The caretaker and his family also had their lives threatened, authorities said.

Dollar Retreats

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The U.S. dollar, in the sixth week of one of its worst slumps, opened even lower on European exchanges today.

The price of gold rose $1.75 in Zurich to open at $175.75 an ounce and went up 30 cents in London to open at $175.25.

Paris bankers called the dollar's retreat a "technical reaction" and an adjustment on the market. The bankers said the slight decline was of little significance.

Hole in Shoe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As Alan Greenspan, chairman of President Ford's Council of Economic Advisors, sat on the stage at an economic briefing Tuesday, a large hole was plainly visible in the sole of his right shoe.

The picture recalled a similar photo of Adlai E. Stevenson that became a campaign symbol during one of the Illinois governor's presidential campaigns.

Maybe Greenspan is feeling the pinch between his $40,000 government salary and the far more lucrative New York economic consulting practice that he left. One reporter said, "I didn't notice the hole in his shoe. I was too busy looking at his $300 suit."

Named in Lawsuit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill's daughter Sarah was named in a lawsuit filed in federal court Tuesday by a Long Island art gallery. The gallery says Miss Churchill failed to fulfill a contract granting rights to reproduce some of her paintings.

The National Art Auction Gallery of Plainview, N.Y., charged in the suit that the daughter of Britain's wartime leader agreed in writing on Dec. 16, 1969, to sell the gallery the exclusive right to lithograph three of her paintings. It says she accepted $1,000 on account.

The gallery owners said Miss Churchill and another person named in the petition conspired to defraud them by making and selling copies of the paintings.

Will Present Awards

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Academy Awards for best movie writing will be presented this year by Pulitzer Prize-winning author James Michener, whose novels have formed the basis of four films.

Michener will be making his first appearance at the award ceremony when he hands out the writing Oscars April 8. He won the Pulitzer Prize for his "Tales of the South Pacific," which inspired the stage and screen musical "South Pacific." He also wrote the novels "Sayonara," "The Bridges at Toko-Ri," and "Hawaii."

"Bridges at Toko-Ri" became a movie and "Hawaii" inspired two films, "Hawaii" and "The Hawaiians."

Secret Ceremony

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UPI) — Actress Merle Oberon was married last week for the fourth time, in a secret ceremony to Dutch actor Robert Wolders, friends disclosed Tuesday.

Miss Oberon, 57, and Wolders, 38, were married by a Santa Monica Superior Court judge at a country club in a ceremony witnessed only by her children by her third husband, Francesca and Bruno Paglia.

Route 83 Fatality

SOMERS (UPI) — Daniel A. Zingle, 34, of East Windsor, was killed when his southbound car went out of control and crossed in front of an oncoming tractor-trailer truck on Rt. 83. Zingle was pronounced dead at the scene of the mishap Tuesday night. The truck was driven by Wesley W. Ralph, 40, of Springfield, Mass.

Exposure Killed Infant

CLINTON (UPI) — The autopsy of a newborn girl whose body was found Friday in a plastic bag behind an East Main Street shopping center indicates she died from exposure, police say. Funeral services for the infant were held Tuesday at the Beaverbrook Cemetery, with the Rev. Wilson Busick officiating.

Highway Department Gets Storm Drainage Projects

Manchester's Town Highway Department is scheduled to install or repair storm drainage systems in 23 locations over the next few weeks, Public Works Director Jay Giles told the Board of Directors Tuesday night.

The 23 projects—estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $300,000—are in addition to $2 million worth of storm drainage improvements approved by town voters last November.

None of the 23 highway department projects are included in the $2 million plan, although some of the needs were known before last November's referendum, Giles said. Those that were known were included in the referendum proposal because it was felt they could be accomplished by town personnel, he said.

Other projects in the new list were the result of complaints heard since the referendum, Giles said.

He said that if funds permit, some of the highway department work may be done by private contractors after the referendum projects are finished. The referendum projects, estimated to take three years, are to get under way this year.

Giles emphasized that the $300,000 cost estimate is very rough.

Tombstone Epitaph Bites the Dust

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The Tombstone Epitaph, the newspaper that covered the gunfight at the O.K. Corral as a routine local crime story, has itself been killed—by inflation.

The 85-year-old pioneer newspaper that built its reputation covering the likes of Wyatt Earp, "Doc" Holliday and the Clanton gang, will publish for the last time Feb. 28.

Harold O. Love, a Detroit attorney who bought the Epitaph a decade ago to preserve its place in Americana, said the financial pressures are too great to keep going. He said he was giving the right to the newspaper's name to the University of Arizona Journalism department rather than sell the historic weekly.

The Epitaph currently has a circulation of about 4,000, but 90 per cent of the copies are sold outside Tombstone.

The newspaper was founded by John P. Clum who in 1873 became the first civilian Indian agent in the Arizona territory.

The first issue came off the presses May 1, 1880, as the town began to acquire its reputation as a tip-roaring stop for cattlemen and silver miners.

Wyatt Earp served as the town marshal. Backed by his brothers, Morgan and Virgil, and the tubercular dentist "Doc" Holliday, he shot it out with the Clanton gang, killing three, one autumn day in 1881 at a corral that gave its name to one of the most famous gunfights in Western history.

The Epitaph stuck the story on Page 3 the next day. The newspaper carried the battle at the O.K. Corral under the headline "Yesterday's Tragedy, Three Men Hurled into Eternity in the Duration of a Moment." The Epitaph called it a "sad affair," but did not let the shootout crowd out the ads or social notes.

The Epitaph was regarded as "pro-Earp" in a political controversy that split the town over Earp's position.

Now He Knows

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — In the second-floor rotunda area of the State Capitol hang nine portraits — eight of 19th-century Michigan governors and one of a state senator elected in last year's election.

One Senate aide said former Sen. Harvey Lodge used to wonder aloud what he was going to do with the portrait.

"Some of his admirers solved the problem for him — sort of as a prank," the aide said. "They put it there to see how long it would be before it was recognized."

The portrait apparently has been up since early January.

Puzzle Solved

VIENNA (UPI) — Police were puzzled why a 15-year-old boy made a bomb hoax telephone call to a school.

Then the boy confessed his friend was being kept after school for misbehavior and he wanted to get him out.

Goldberg Named Town Director

The Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night named Jack Goldberg of 119 Winding Hill Rd. to the board — to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of John Tani. Both are Democrats.

Goldberg was nominated by Matt Moriarty Jr. with a second by Phyllis Jackson. His election was unanimous. He was sworn into office by his longtime friend, Manchester attorney Sanford Ploper. Witnessing the brief ceremony were Goldberg's wife, Barbara, and daughter, Elizabeth, 10. The Goldbergs have two other children — Susan, 24, and Barry, 19, both unable to attend.

Burns Ordered To Explain Data Deletion

By JUAN TAMAYO

HARTFORD (UPI) — Joseph B. Burns, Connecticut's transportation chief, has been given until Monday by Gov. Ella T. Grasso to detail his reasons for censoring a report predicting traffic tieups at a proposed racetrack in Wolcott.

Mrs. Grasso said Tuesday she directed Burns to explain after he admitted deleting certain highway information in the interests of promoting public transportation.

Mrs. Grasso also criticized the state Department of Environmental Protection for its sour relations with municipalities, and said she offered a woman a superior court judgeship but had been turned down.

Explaining why she ordered Burns to give her all the Wolcott traffic info by Monday, Mrs. Grasso said, "I am not suspecting, I am looking for vital information."

Burns said Monday he disregarded one of his staffer's recommendations to widen a 12-mile stretch of Rt. 89 to handle the track traffic because the report predicted the traffic problems would be minor.

The Wolcott proposal is the only track licensed in Connecticut by the state gaming commission, but several groups have said a track would be better suited in Middletown.

In criticizing the Department of Environmental Protection, the governor said the department has used "heavy hand" in dealing with towns and cities. It often acted "as though we were the superiors and the towns were the inferior."

"It's a matter of style," she said. "You'd probably get more with a little grace."

She said some of the blame for the sour local-state relations must fall on outgoing Commissioner Douglas M. Costle, but lower-level staffers in the department also should be held accountable.

The governor said a study will be done on the benefits of Connecticut's Resource Recovery program, in which state-funded plants would process refuse and sell it to utilities and industries as fuel.

Building Costs Up in January

The estimated value of Manchester construction last month was $1,547,182.

Construction was up 10 per cent from the previous month. The total for January of this year, compared to $150,014 for January 1974, last year's below-normal total was attributed to the previous month's ice storm.

January 1975 construction was at $1,547,182. Building permits were issued last month for a $180,000 industrial building on Colonial Rd., 6 single-family dwellings, 2 tool sheds, 3 signs, 35 alterations and additions, a $171,000 affidavit (additional cost) for a commercial project.

Members of grand juries in 17th century England, all men, were more often found participating in searches for criminals and witches than in a courtroom.

This Is Dental Health Week

(This is the third in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Herald, in cooperation with the Manchester Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 2-8.)

Our child isn't quite two years old, but we've been told that he should see the dentist. Don't you think he's a little young to visit the dentist?

Most children have their full set of 20 primary teeth by the time they are 2 1/2 years of age. These first teeth are very necessary for chewing, speech, and good looks. In addition, they help in proper jaw development.

Further, proper space must be maintained by healthy teeth in their normal position or the permanent teeth may come in crooked.

Because these primary teeth are so important to his future, your child should visit the dentist by the time all his primary teeth have erupted.

The first visit to the dental office is important because it sets the stage for building a lifetime of good dental care habits. The dentist and his assistants will try to make this visit as pleasurable as possible.

They will try to gain his trust and make him feel welcome.

The dentist will examine the condition of the child's mouth, and probably take some X-ray pictures. He may also clean the teeth and see if anything else should be done. Finally, he will suggest ways that you, the parent, can help to protect your child's oral health through daily care and diet.

Before you call for an appointment, it would be helpful to talk with the child about his visit to the dentist. Tell him the dentist is a friendly doctor who is going to help him keep his teeth and mouth healthy.

Here are a few pointers that may be helpful in planning your child's first visit:

- Make dental visits a fun adventure; treat them lightly.
- Don't bribe the child to go to the dentist or threaten the trip as a punishment.
- Do avoid letting your child know of any anxieties you may have had about dentists.
- Don't tell the child frightening stories about dentists.
- Finally, remember that the basis for developing and practicing good dental care habits is parental example, guidance and encouragement.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

We're For Grim, Grimm Fairy Tales

My husband and I raised our children by the books of Drs. Spock, Gezelle and Gimmol. By the time our last child was out of diapers all three volumes were well thumbed. In fact, Dr. Spock was being treated by masking tape.

Sometimes, however, we disagreed so completely with these authorities that we ignore their teachings and followed our own inclinations. For example, we read our kids the original, uncut version of the fairy tales, and we started reading when they were very, very young and impressionable.

I can still see the kids lying in their beds, eyes wide, mouths agape, as they listened to the perils of Hansel and Gretel, Snow White and Cinderella. They learned of a hard world where cruel mothers locked their daughters in dark towers, and where wicked fathers transformed their sons into frogs. Where children toiled long hours for a crust of bread and a cold pallet of stone for a bed.

Now, to offset these grim tales our children watch TV programs like Captain Kangaroo and Ding Dong School. They also saw their share of TV commercials where soft spoken mothers said things like "Don't worry about the mud on the kitchen floor, boys. I'll clean it in a jiffy with my new improved self-polishing wax."

I'm convinced that the kids needed this wide exposure. It certainly gave them a better perspective from which to judge their father and me. If their only models had been Captain Kangaroo and Miss Francine, we wouldn't have stood a chance!

Sometimes, they still think we're IMPOSSIBLE parents, just refer them back to Mr. Grimm and tell that they should thank their lucky stars they have us. I don't deny that we banish the whole bunch of them and their stereo to the basement. But what is that compared to the lot of poor Hansel and Gretel?

We also give out work lists on Saturday morning. But on Saturday had to work EVERY day and she had to scrub the inside of the fireplace.

Now she has an impossible father. He expected her to spin straw into gold!

THE FAMILY LAWYER

AWOL Employee

"Vacationism" sounded so irresistibly tempting to Aggie, a switchboard operator, that she stopped working five days early. Her supervisor, who had warned her not to leave, retaliated by having her fired.

In this situation, was Aggie entitled to collect unemployment compensation?

The unemployment insurance board said no—and, after a court trial, the judge backed up the board's ruling. The judge said Aggie was guilty of "voluntarily leaving the employment without good cause."

Generally speaking, a person cannot qualify for unemployment insurance if he is out of work through his own fault. The employee who is fired for "going AWOL" is usually placed in this category.

Even illness is not always an acceptable excuse for absence. In another case, a workman claimed that he had extended his vacation for an extra week because he was not feeling well. But he had not bothered to notify the company why he was staying home.

He too failed to collect unemployment compensation. A court ruled that it was his duty, even though ill, to at least keep the company informed.

Reasonable excuses, however, are certainly recognized. One woman stayed home from work for two months in order to take care of her critically ill husband. The company finally growing impatient, told her she was discharged.

Nevertheless, since she had faithfully kept her employer informed at all times, she was held entitled to unemployment insurance. The court said blaming the joblessness on her, considering the circumstances, would be "positively inhuman."

"Common sense," added the court, "must not be a stranger in the house of the law."

How to Save $380.80

Every bank tells you that you ought to save. The bank that listens tells you how. Become a brown-bagger. If you're eating lunch out every day, chances are it's costing you at least $1.50. A darn good sandwich brought from home, will cost you about 50c.

Cut down on the long voyage home. Try a variety of routes between your job and your home and settle on the shortest one. Even if it's only two miles shorter than the one you've been taking, you'll save about 60c a day.

Where you save matters too: To begin with, you should do all your banking in one place. (Just driving another mile to save at another bank will cost you about 30c each time you do it.)

In 1974 more people saved at CBT than in any other year. There must be a reason.

Connors Not No. 1 In Laver's Book

MIDGETS
Action at the East Side Rec last night saw Manchester State Bank nip Community Y, 27-26, and Professional Remodeling outdistance Manchester Police, 28-21.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Connors and Rod Laver have gone their separate ways after their 100,000 showdown in Las Vegas Sunday but the controversy still continues. Connors defeated Laver in four sets for the $100,000 purse but Laver insists he's still not convinced.

Laver, who easily handled Californian Jim McManus, 6-3, 6-4, in the opening round of the $64,000 World Championship Tennis Blue Group tournament at St. Petersburg, Fla., Tuesday, still won't concede the No. 1 rating to the brash youngster from Belleville, Ill.

PEE WEE
With Mark Simmonelli popping in eight markers, Groman's got past VFW, 16-14, last night at the Community Y. Mike Calabro and Billy Hill had seven and six points respectively for the losers.

"I'm not No. 1 now and haven't been for several years but Jimmy isn't either," Laver said. "He just doesn't play that many tournaments against big competition. He's a good player, his return of service is tremendous, but he hasn't proved himself the best."

In other action at St. Petersburg, top-seed Vitas Gerulaitis of Howard Beach, N.Y., also had no trouble disposing of Anand Amritraj of India, 6-1, 6-1. Also, third-seeded Ismail El Shafie of Egypt ousted Bob Mand of South Africa, 6-3, 6-3; seventh-seeded Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mt., Tenn., downed Jay Moore of South Africa, 6-2, 7-6, and fourth-seeded Alex Mayer of Wayne, N.J., defeated Australian Roy Emerson, 6-1, 6-2.

BUSINESSMEN
Placing five performers in double figures, Groman's subdued UAC Barons, 107-98, last night at Hilling Junior High. Ron Rhiordan (35), Frank Breen (18), Jim Purtillo (18), Mike Resonan (16) and Randy Smith (14) led Groman's while Joe DeMarco (28), Warren Louma (22), George Seamon (19) and Tom Vaughn were best for Barons.

Only Virginia Wade of England was forced to play three sets. She beat Laura DuPont of Charleston, N.C., 6-4, 1-6, 6-3. Francoise Durr of France blasted Jeanne Frevert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-0, 6-2 and Nancy Richey Guter of Lake Livingston, Tex., eliminated Dianne Frohmoltz of Australia, 7-5, 6-2.

In other first-round matches, Marie Louise of San Francisco beat Ilana Kloss of South Africa, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3; Kathy Kykendall of Miami beat Pam Teague of Los Angeles, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3; Mima Jandovic of Yugoslavia overpowered Betsy Nagelsen of St. Petersburg, 6-2, 6-1; Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, Calif., defeated Linky Boshoff of South Africa, 7-5, 6-0; and Ann Kiyomura of San Marcos, Calif., eliminated Valerie Ziegenfuss of El Cajon, Calif., 6-4, 7-6.

Also, Honda Civics outlasted Roberts Electric, 85-77. Rich Garrett led the winners with 29 points and Jack Lawrence and Jim Evans adding 17 and 14 markers respectively. Bruce Hence and Mike Polio had 16 pieces for Roberts with Clint Hence contributing 12 rallies.

Braves Halted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Of all the teams in the National Basketball Association, perhaps only the New Orleans Jazz have a slimmer chance of making the playoffs than the Philadelphia 76ers. After dumping the Buffalo Braves in overtime Tuesday night, though, the 76ers were feeling like real live contenders.

Bob McAdoo, the NBA's leading scorer, reeled off 39 points (25 in the second half) but the 76ers put the clamp on the rest of Braves and rallied behind Fred Carter and Billy Cunningham in the extra period to win 111-105, only their 2nd victory in 53 games this season.

Yale Denies Report To Back Pro Football

HARTFORD, (UPI) — Yale University has no plans to become part owner in a purported deal between the two professional football leagues to place a franchise in New Haven, according to Henry Chauncey Jr., Yale secretary.

Chauncey said Tuesday he was unaware of any plans by the World Football League to end operations in exchange for two National Football League franchises, and called the report "merely speculation."

The plan to bring a National Football League team to Yale Bowl was reported in a copyrighted story broadcast Tuesday by WFSB-TV sports director Ted Leitner.

Leitner and the station's New Haven sports reporter, Roger Simm, said that Chauncey confirmed that negotiations were under way but he could not say what percentage of the team would be owned by Yale.

New Welfare Deputy Favors Flat Grants

HARTFORD (UPI) — Carolyn Perry, appointed deputy Connecticut welfare commissioner, said today she fully supports the flat grant program but believes recipients may need larger grants to keep up with inflation.

Mrs. Perry, 56, who has spent more than 30 years in welfare work and will earn $25,000 in her new job, said one of her major goals will be to improve the image of welfare in the state.

Businessman Tells Of CIA Association

CHICAGO (UPI) — In 1962, Thomas J. Miner was named one of Chicago's outstanding young men by the Jaycees. That same year, he agreed to help the Central Intelligence Agency place an agent in Uruguay.

Miner, head of a firm bearing his name and specializing in public relations and advertising, disclosed his agreement with the CIA in a recent interview.

Miner said he was approached in 1962 by a man identifying himself as a CIA agent because he was one of a small number of Americans with business offices in Montevideo.

Knicks Down Lakers As Also-Rans Battle

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two years ago they played each other for the National Basketball Association championship. Tuesday night they met as a pair of struggling teams, each entering the game 10th in their respective division leaders.

The vicissitudes of basketball, a philosopher in sneakers once said, are indeed many, but for the New York Knicks and Los Angeles Lakers, they have pretty much been for the worse.

"Everybody gets fat on us this season," said Cazzie Russell after his 18-point second half explosion failed to rally the listless and confused Lakers and the Knicks scored an easy 109-94 victory.

Hearings Open on Safety Of Nuclear Power Plants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., today called safety the paramount concern in the development of nuclear power as a major component of the nation's energy resources in the next generation.

In remarks prepared for a hearing exploring the ordered shutdowns of more than half the nation's nuclear fission power reactors, Ribicoff spoke of a time when there may be 18 "right now 55 power plants generate only about 7 percent of the nation's electricity, but present plans call for 1,000 reactors meeting about 50 percent of our electrical needs in 25 years."

A ton of snow a minute!

Working at full capacity this Toro can haul a ton of snow a minute.

The key is two-stage construction. First an intake stage takes big bites of snow, then a hurling stage throws the snow up to 25 feet — left, right or straight ahead.

It's powered by an easy-starting 8-h.p. engine and all Toro products are engineered for safety and durability.

All in all, there are over 20 engineering features that allow you to throw up to a ton of snow a minute. So you spend a lot less time in the cold, cold snow.

New Quality Inn To Open Sunday

A two-level, 100-room Quality Inn Motel — under construction since last May — is scheduled to open Sunday on a site adjacent to the Steak Out Restaurant and The Colony on Rt. 33, Talcottville.

The motel, directly connected to the Steak Out complex, features a swimming pool, 80-seat meeting room, executive suite, bridal suite, and guest rooms with telephones, color television, and individually controlled heating and air conditioning.

The motel, convenient to Interstate 86 travelers at Exit 95 (Vernon Circle), also features full room service from the Steak Out as well as a custom-made menu of services such as ice, vending machines, and a guest laundry.

Owner of the motel is a general partnership headed by developer George Risley of Vernon. The operator is Bob Nob Enterprises, Inc., the parent firm of the Steak Out, headed by Mark Kravitz of Manchester.

Manager of the new motel is Joseph Budish, formerly northeast franchise manager for Quality Inns and most recently an independent motel consultant in New York City.

Architect for the new motel was the Fort Lee, N.J., firm of Medick, Langas & Feinen.

Firm Offers Rebates On Tire Purchases

The Jetson Tire & Rubber Co. of Montomeryville, Pa., is inspired by the rebate programs started by Detroit automobile manufacturers — has come up with a rebate program of its own.

From now through April 1, any buyer of Jetson steel-belted radial tires will be mailed a rebate of $12 per set of four tires by Jetson.

The local retailer for Jetson tires is Nichols-Manchester Tire, Inc., of 298 Broad St., Hilltown. The Tire Industry Safety Council of Washington, D.C. — an association of major tire manufacturers — released statistics it says will show that automobile tires are still a good buy, compared to other goods and services.

Tire prices are moving up more slowly than most other goods, the council said, while tire safety and dependability are increasing.

Established in 1949

By Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce

Ray's Army and Navy Stores were established in Waterbury in 1949 and in June 1973 the firm opened a store at 805 Main St., Manchester. The local store is managed by Christopher J. Dougan.

The store carries a complete line of retail sportswear, camping equipment and work clothes. There's a large selection of jeans, outerwear, and work and hiking boots. Surplus items stocked include merchandise ranging from axes to sleeping bags.

Ray's Army and Navy Stores was one of few local businesses which remained open during the severe ice storm crisis of December 1973. Although it was without power, the store provided stores, heaters, fuel and other emergency items to local shoppers.

The firm has been a member of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce since September 1973.

AT&T Denies Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American Telephone and Telegraph Co. has denied an antitrust charge filed by the Justice Department last year and asked a federal court to dismiss the allegations.

ATT lawyers Tuesday filed a 24-page response to the Nov. 20, 1974 government lawsuit which alleged that ATT monopolized the country's telephone services. The government antitrust suit was the largest in the nation's history.

ATT said the suit should be dismissed on grounds that its alleged monopolistic practices have had court approval under a 1956 settlement of a similar suit.

The Justice Department suit seeks to force ATT to divest itself of Western Electric and "some or all" of its Long Lines Department. It also included Bell Telephone Laboratories and 23 subsidiary telephone companies in the suit, but did not specify what action should be taken by ATT.

In its response filed in U.S. District Court, ATT said the government suit should be dismissed because the Bell System already is operating under a consent decree and final judgment reached with the Justice Department in 1956 in a New Jersey federal court. The agreement stemmed from a 1949 antitrust suit against ATT.

"The current complaint is plowing the same old ground inasmuch as it alleges the same course of action followed by the 1949 suit which was resolved by the 1956 judgment," F. Mark Garlinghouse, ATT vice president in charge of general counsel, said in a statement.

That judgment, according to Garlinghouse, contained no time limitation and it continues in effect until the federal court in New Jersey modifies or terminates it. He added that Justice has not sought modification or termination of the 1956 judgment nor has Justice charged the Bell System with any violation of any provision of it.

Garlinghouse said the basic structure of the Bell System was left unchanged by the 1956 agreement and did not require any spinoffs.

ATT strongly defended its present structure and operations, saying that it operates "under comprehensive regulation by federal, state and local authorities (and) reflects the considered will of Congress."

ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION

By JUAN SANCHEZ

Mike Pallein (left) and John DiDonato measure the diameter of a tree at the Times Farm Camp in Andover to determine the amount of lumber in the tree.

By STEVEN O. FISH
Last month a group of fifth and sixth graders from Bowers School took part in an outdoor education experience; the children and their teacher, Bob Borelli, spent two days at the Times Farm Camp in Andover.

The staff of the Center for Environmental Education (CEE) took part in the event which proved to be an exciting educational experience for the children. The CEE acted as a resource center and worked with Borelli in the development of a meaningful outdoor program for the students while they were at the camp.

The trip was arranged so that 19 students were brought to the camp the first day. It was felt that by limiting the number of students to this amount, the lessons that they would take part in would be better learned and more attention could be paid to each student by the instructors.

On the second day the rest of the children came out to the camp and also took part in some planned exercises.

The Times Farm Camp with its 290 acres offers a unique chance for school children to become acquainted with a variety of outdoor experiences. Valuable lessons in ecology, forestry, and wildlife behavior are just a few of the many.

Roy and Bob Honor Court Stories Not Typical of Average Attendee

Two terrifying tales told at a recent session of Honor Court held Monday evenings at the Manchester Police Station may have convinced many people with drinking problems that they are not alcoholics.

The tales were recounted Jan. 16 in The Herald just as Roy and Bob told them. The two men are members of Alcoholics Anonymous and come from a town south of Manchester.

Some local AA members, including several who joined AA after attending Honor Court, objected to The Herald's story. Anyone with a drinking problem less severe than Roy's might think he or she had a long way to go before needing help, said Dave, the man who runs the local Honor Court meetings.

"Roy's story is in the minority," Dave said. "At least 95 per cent of AA members have not experienced any of that."

AA leaders explained Honor Court and its average attendee recently.

Honor Court is one of the choices a sentencing judge has after the conviction of a person before him. If he suspects the person's offense was related to drinking, he may send him to Honor Court for at least six sessions.

Due to her drinking, her teenage son left home.

He went on to college, graduated with honors, and secured a good job. But she could not share his victories as he did not want her.

Fourteen years ago, she joined AA and has stayed sober since through Honor Court. She has spent many of the last years attending to her son and a daughter. Her children have accepted her love.

"AA is a way to live," Dave said. "Being sober is enjoyable and healthy. We stress hope in AA, not Skid Row."

Regarding your story in the Jan. 15 edition on the Manchester Honor Court, I would like to mention that I thought it was a good article. It explained quite well to the people what takes place at Honor Court and the general purpose for it.

The only thing I would like to say is that the stories told by Bob and Roy were quite tragic and probably rather difficult for the average alcoholic to identify with.

I would suggest more stories be written aimed toward the everyday drinker that is able to hold a job and sometimes hide their problem from the outside world.

The common alcoholic that doesn't realize he or she is an alcoholic is New York's first usually experiencing a serious drinking problem should be the individuals the news media should try to reach. And before it's too late and their problem turns into a tragic story as told in the Jan. 16 Herald.

GASLIGHTS BACK
NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI) — Gaslights are being returned to the streets of the historic city where they were first used.

The first of 86 lamps was installed on Pelham Street, reportedly the site of the first gas lamp in America which stood in front of the home of David Melville in 1805.

The gas lights, donated by friends and relatives living with severe problem drinkers.

Story Hour Reset

SOUTH WINDSOR
The Preschool Story Hour held the second Thursday of each month at the Avery Street Church in South Windsor is being rescheduled for Feb. 20, due to winter school vacation dates.

Because of the mid-year time change for South Windsor kindergartners, the story hour can accept four more four- or five-year-olds, beginning this month.

Parents may call the church at 644-8086 to register a child.

The preschool program runs from 9:30 to 11 a.m. the second Thursday of each month. The program includes a Bible story, related crafts and songs, games and refreshments. There is a fifty cent fee for each session to cover the cost of materials.

Parking Limited
South Windsor residents are reminded that there is no overnight street parking in effect through April 15. Any vehicle parked continuously between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 p.m. is considered to be parked overnight and the owner is subject to fine and car may be towed.

Benefit Dance

The South Windsor Friends of Music Third Annual Benefit Dance will be held on Friday, Feb. 28 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at St. Margaret Mary's Church, 150 Main St., South Windsor.

Proceeds will benefit the scholarship fund.

To insure reservations, payment must be made on or before Feb. 15, according to dance chairman Jane Myers.

Donation of $25 per couple. Please call 528-6166 for ticket reservations.

Monte Carlo Night
A Monte Carlo Night, sponsored by St. Margaret Mary's Ladies Guild and Father Rosenberger Knights of Columbus, will be held Saturday, Feb. 15 from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the church hall, 80 Hayes Rd.

Proceeds will be given to charity. Tickets are $7 per couple and include a light buffet, $3,000 in stakes and refreshments. The event is BYOB.

Prizes will be awarded to the highest bidder at the end of the evening. Tickets may be obtained from the following: J. Trusch, 644-0858 or J. Mitchell, 644-2030.

Area Police Two Men Robbed In Parking Lot Of Bowling Alley

SOUTH WINDSOR
South Windsor Police are looking for a dark-skinned male in connection with an armed robbery shortly after midnight last night in the parking lot at the 10 Pin Bowling Alley on Rt. 5.

Police said Lawrence DiBenedetto, 40, of Newington had been bowling, and when leaving found his car had a dark tire. Police said David F. Hockberry, 29, of East Hartford came out to help DiBenedetto change the tire when he was accosted by a man carrying a small gun. Police said about $200 was taken from Hockberry and about $400 from DiBenedetto.

South Windsor police are investigating a break into the Sudden Service Store on 250 Sullivan Ave. The break was discovered about 3:30 a.m. today by an officer on patrol. Police said entry was made by breaking a window in the front door, and six chain saws, valued at $1,300, were reported stolen.

VERNON
John O. Atwood, 17, of 173 Elm Hill Rd. Vernon, was charged Tuesday with escape from custody when he turned himself in at the Vernon Police Station.

Police said Atwood had been charged with illegal possession

Rockefeller Takes Hard Line on Congress

By CLAY F. RICHARDS WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller has dropped his self-imposed low profile image as vice president.

Surprisingly, Rockefeller's first major move as the 41st vice president was not in the domestic field — where President Ford had carried out a role for him — but on foreign policy.

The occasion for Rockefeller's move was a routine Republican dinner in New Jersey last week. The speech had been billed as a routine political pep talk, and both the 850-plus guests and newsmen were surprised when Rockefeller came out swinging.

His target was Congress, which he said has intruded in "dozens of areas" where the Ford administration's "emissary of peace" Henry Kissinger is trying to negotiate.

Sounding a little bit like the old cold warrior he used to be, Rockefeller said if Congress isn't careful, there will be war in the Middle East.

"The one thing this country has to dread is war in the Middle East," he told reporters later on Air Force II returning from New Jersey.

Rockefeller, who had previously confined his role to presiding over the Senate and making such ceremonial occasions as the truck driver of the year award, apparently that had allowed 38,000 Jews to emigrate from Russia. But now there are none, he said.

—The same bill which included a restriction aimed at Arab oil producers. The restrictions angered South American oil producers Venezuela and Ecuador, who pulled out of the spring meeting of Latin American foreign ministers.

This jeopardizes America's attempts to convince South American nations to improve relations with Cuba, Rockefeller said.

—Threats by Congress to cut off aid to Portugal has resulted in jeopardizing American air bases in the Azores. The bases are critical, he said, as a stopover for American supplies in the Middle East.

—The deadline set by Congress for cutting off aid to Turkey, Rockefeller said the cutoff not only threatens settlement of the Cyprus situation, but endangers our relations with Turkey, "the only strong NATO country that stands in the way of Soviet intervention in the Middle East."

"It's not a hard line I'm taking," he insisted. "It's a line like it is line."

"It raises a whole lot of issues we don't want to face, but at least by raising them, we know what will happen if we don't," Rockefeller said. "I wasn't trying to attack anyone, I was just trying to analyze the realities."

Skating Through Snow at Charter Oak. There is skating at Charter Oak Park, whether it is supervised or not. This scene was Wednesday night; the lights were on, but the ice was not cleared of snow. It matters little to this crowd. There was supervised skating there Tuesday, but Wednesday's storm supposedly wiped out skating again until the area is cleared. Park and Rec officials say that won't happen today, and the official word is "No Skating."
