Rockefeller Takes Hard Line on Congress

By CLAY F. RICHARDS WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller has dropped his self-imposed low profile image as vice president.

Surprisingly, Rockefeller's first major power move as the 41st vice president was not in the domestic field — where President Ford had carved out a role for him — but on foreign policy.

The occasion for Rockefeller's move was a routine Republican dinner in New Jersey last week. The speech had been billed as a routine political pep talk, and both the 850-plus guests and newsmen were surprised when Rockefeller came out swinging.

His target was Congress, which he said has intruded in "dozens of areas" where the Ford administration's "emissary of peace" Henry Kissinger is trying to negotiate.

Sounding a little bit like the old cold warrior he used to be, Rockefeller said if Congress isn't careful, there will be war in the Middle East.

"The one thing this country has to dread is war in the Middle East," he told reporters later on Air Force II returning from New Jersey.

Rockefeller, who had previously confined his role to presiding over the Senate and making such ceremonial occasions as the truck driver of the year award, apparently that had allowed 38,000 Jews to emigrate from Russia. But now there are none, he said.

—The same bill which included a restriction aimed at Arab oil producers. The restrictions angered South American oil producers Venezuela and Ecuador, who pulled out of the spring meeting of Latin American foreign ministers.

This jeopardizes America's attempts to convince South American nations to improve relations with Cuba, Rockefeller said.

—Threats by Congress to cut off aid to Portugal has resulted in jeopardizing American air bases in the Azores. The bases are critical, he said, as a stopover for American supplies in the Middle East.

—The deadline set by Congress for cutting off aid to Turkey, Rockefeller said the cutoff not only threatens settlement of the Cyprus situation, but endangers our relations with Turkey, "the only strong NATO country that stands in the way of Soviet intervention in the Middle East."

"It's not a hard line I'm taking," he insisted. "It's a line I like it is line."

"It raises a whole lot of issues we don't want to face, but at least by raising them, we know what will happen if we don't," Rockefeller said. "I wasn't trying to attack anyone, I was just trying to analyze the realities."

Looting in Peru Follows Riots

LIMA (UPI) — Army troops fired on bands of young looters who roamed through the downtown streets of Lima today in the aftermath of a police strike that escalated into full scale rioting.

There is skating at Charter Oak Park, whether it is supervised or not. This scene was Wednesday night; the lights were on, but the ice was not cleared of snow. It matters little to this crowd. There was supervised skating there Tuesday, but Wednesday's storm supposedly wiped out skating again until the area is cleared. Park and Rec officials say that won't happen today, and the official word is "No Skating."

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

No Free Rides

The sheer magnitude of the proposed nearly $1 billion a day federal budget is beyond most of us, yet it will affect each of us as taxpayers and as recipients of federal programs in some form or another.

It is this gap between the role of taxpayer and the role of recipient that the President was speaking about when he asked cooperation of Congress to help bring some "so-called 'uncontrollable' programs back into line."

But Congress faces a more difficult task than merely accepting presidential recommendations.

A case in point is the President's proposal to cut back $17 billion in federal spending, $6 billion of which affects retired people and low income people.

Even if the majority of congressmen were to privately agree that such a cutback would be the best in the long run for the nation's economy, it is doubtful they could or would publicly say so and more important vote to accept the cuts proposed.

The struggle really comes back to the towns like Manchester and the basic attitudes we espouse.

If we demand more of state and federal government, we increase the pressures for larger federal budgets.

But just as few congressmen will stand firm for what they think is right in the face of public opinion to the contrary, few towns will trim back their requests for state and federal aid. Instead, we will hear requests for more. We will accept more federal and state funded programs if for no other reason than "if we don't take the money, someone else will."

As people and towns we are agreeable pawns in any political game which promises more and more coupled with the implication that someone else will pay for it.

So when the President or anyone else talks about controlling the "uncontrollable" programs in our federal budget, state budget, or even town budget, what we are talking about is controlling our individual greed. No matter what political party you belong to, the fact remains governmental budgets reflect our collective fiscal responsibility or irresponsibility.

No president or Congress will balance a budget until we individually and collectively demand a balanced one, and until we, individually and collectively, make the unequal, unjust, and unfair individual and collective sacrifices needed to do the job.

Budgets represent what we have asked for somewhere along the line. If we find budgets not to our liking, remember we share in them to the extent our demands were accepted or our silence gave the demands of others more credibility.

We wish President Ford and Congress lots of luck in trying to bring the so-called "uncontrollable" programs in line. We are pessimistic though because there are still too many of us who are looking for a free ride.

As we search for the answer to our problems, however, we come face-to-face with the word charity. We cannot forget this word even when today it seems so necessary for us to look out for ourselves.

Charity, however, is not just a word used by Christians as a requirement of faith. In fact, to anyone who experiences Christian faith it is not a requirement, but an expression of faith. And, for us today, it goes even beyond the idea of expression.

For me it is the answer to our times. It will not be until we start giving to each other that our problems will start turning around. Giving not only our money to needy causes, but the giving of ourselves to our neighbor. Not until then will we know peace.

Diplomatic Immunity

Title: Charity

There are without a doubt many troubling occurrences happening around us. We have been saturated with the realities of depression, recession, inflation, pollution, and hunger. And, as we stand in the middle of what seems to be a troubled world, many I'm sure are confused.

As we search for the answer to our problems, however, we come face-to-face with the word charity. We cannot forget this word even when today it seems so necessary for us to look out for ourselves.

WASHINGTON — It happens regularly, usually once a year. Somebody gets mad about diplomatic immunity and makes a fuss — and nothing is done about it.

This time, it is the New York Post reporting that foreign diplomats at the United Nations had been handed more than 31,000 parking tickets in the past three months, of which more than 3,000 went to the Soviet U.N. mission. The Post said if the Soviets paid their fines for only one month, it would be $17,350 richer.

Diplomatic immunity exempts foreign officials from paying parking fines, although some settle up. But the Russians always protest when their own scofflaws are exposed. In a letter to the U.S. mission, the Soviets complained about "a definite hostile design" to hamper the work of the Russian mission.

New York should kick. Only certain U.N. personnel, beginning with the chief of delegation, are accorded diplomatic immunity. Others get it only if there is an agreement among their government, the U.S. and the U.N. But in Washington, immunity is extended to the envoy's wife, family and official entourage and, in some cases, to his servants.

In short, a foreign diplomat accredited to the United States can commit any crime — from speeding to murder to espionage — and go free. He can refuse to pay his bills, burn down the Capitol, or even, conceivably, assassinate the President, and no American court can touch him. Washington's only recourse is to declare the offender persona non grata and demand his recall. If an American conspires with a Russian to steal Pentagon secrets, he may be sentenced to life imprisonment, the Russian only to some tedious Moscow clerkship — for getting caught.

Americans everywhere are potential victims of diplomatic immunity. If a diplomat's car injures a plain citizen or wrecks the citizen's car, the diplomat cannot be taken to court but the person suffering damages must accept whatever compensation is offered by the insurance company — if the diplomat's car is insured.

Indeed, the American is lucky to get any insurance money. Paying damages is an implicit admission of guilt, and many diplomats refuse to make that admission lest they get into trouble back home. Several years ago, then Rep. Joel Brothill, D-Va., introduced legislation to make the U.S. government liable for claims against diplomats. Brothill argued that since it is the government that granted the immunity, it should pay the costs of a citizen victimized by immunity. The bill died in committee.

Merchants find it exceedingly difficult if not impossible to successfully sue a diplomat for nonpayment of a bill. The plaintiff must depend on the good faith of the foreign government involved, which is a somewhat risky business — especially in Communist and so-called "emerging" countries.

However, a French-born hairdresser had his revenge after spending six months trying to collect a $700 account from the wife of a French diplomat. He merely showed up at an Embassy party, handed his bill to the woman and screamed: "I want my money." He got a check the next day.

There was also the African diplomat who rented an apartment in a fashionable building. Ejection papers had to be served when the diplomat's wife persisted in cooking dinner over a campfire on the kitchen floor. The diplomat moved out, but refused to pay damages.

Unfortunately, as New Yorkers have discovered from their unhappy proximity to the U.N., the successful practice of the theory of diplomatic immunity depends largely upon an international gentleman's agreement devised to protect a diplomat's goings and comings in pursuit of his profession. That was all very well in the bad old days when courtesy to one's hosts was part of the rigid diplomatic code. Today, there simply happens to be a shortage of gentlemen.

DON OAKLEY

The Man-Made Food Shortage

The usual reason given for the world food shortage is that it is the result of population growth outstripping the growth of the food supply.

This explanation has achieved the status of dogma — something that is simply unquestioned — and has engendered all kinds of visions of an apocalyptic future by the prophets of calamity.

But the explanation is "patently and demonstrably false," says Irving Kristol, professor of Urban Values at New York University and a member of the "Board of Contributors" to the editorial page of the Wall Street Journal.

Over the past quarter-century, he points out, the world food supply has been growing almost twice as fast as population.

Then why the food shortage and the very real threat of widespread famine? There are three main reasons, he suggests: (1) Russia, (2) China and (3) India.

More specifically, it is the condition of agriculture and of agricultural productivity in these nations that is at the root of the matter — a condition that has only a little to do with geography or demography, much to do with economics and everything to do with politics.

Simply by projecting ahead the rate of economic development in Russia in the decades before the revolution, an economist would have predicted a far higher level of agricultural productivity than now exists in the Soviet Union.

The only reason the Soviet Union is importing large quantities of food rather than being a food exporter, claims Kristol, is that its political regime, for ideological reasons, has made it necessary.

The same is almost surely true for China, so far as we can judge from our knowledge about conditions in that country. If agricultural productivity in mainland China approached the level that prevails on Taiwan, China would not be importing grain and might even have a surplus.

India is perhaps the foremost example of the "population explosion." Yet the proportion of arable land to population in India is not much different from what it is in France.

Only a few years ago, India was close to becoming self-supporting in food. Then the government mucked up the situation by "a stubborn and doctrinaire insistence that the nation's economy be subordinated to a vague set of 'socialist' principles."

Agricultural prices at all levels were fixed so as to provide "cheap food for the masses," with the inevitable result that farmers lost any incentive to grow more food. Added to this has been an elaborate system of controls over business generally, so that all forms of economic enterprise are being smothered by a huge and vastly inefficient bureaucracy.

Not all the nations suffering a food shortage have brought it on themselves. Some are simply victims of droughts, floods, blight or war. To such nations, whatever their ideological complexion, we have a clear moral obligation to provide all necessary assistance, says Kristol. But the sum total of these instances does not add up to a world food crisis.

The fact remains that every country which has launched experiments in collectivized agriculture or detailed government intervention and regulation has witnessed a decline in agricultural productivity. Wherever individual incentives prevail and the free market predominates, there agriculture is most productive.

The intriguing question is why our scholars and scientists and journalists so resolutely shy away from these truths.

"I think the answer is not so hard to guess at," says Kristol. "There really are a lot of intellectuals in this world for whom the prospect of saying — or even seeming to say — a few kind words for capitalism is a fate worse than death."

State Won't Reimburse For Rent, Renovations

VERNON

If the Vernon Board of Education rents space for the school system's administrative offices it would not be reimbursed by the state for any of the rental charges or renovations, Dr. Robert Linstone, assistant superintendent of schools, said this morning.

Dr. Linstone said he, architect Richard Lawrence, and members of the ad hoc committee studying the matter of administrative space made a tour of the W. T. Grant Store in Rockville to see if it is suitable for such use.

The proposal to lease the store was made by Edward T. Smith, real estate manager for the store. The offer was made to lease the space for $25,000 a year.

The ad hoc committee, headed by William Houle, a member of the Board of Education, has been working on proposals to renovate the East School building on Park St. which now houses the administrative offices.

The building is in violation of several state safety regulations which must either be corrected or the building will be closed.

The ad hoc committee met earlier this week with Robert Langer of the state Education Department's Bureau of School Buildings to review the proposed renovation of East School.

Houle said Langer made it clear that the board will have to comply entirely with fire and building code requirements or get out of the building.

The ad hoc committee will be making a recommendation to the entire board Monday night. It is not likely that the Grant's offer will be considered due to the expenses that would be involved in renovating the building for school purposes.

Dr. Linstone said it would mean changing from a retail outlet to a public building and the cost would be substantial.

Houle said that subsiding space is money down the drain because it would leave the board without administrative space when the lease expires in 1983.

Architect Lawrence has estimated it would cost some $50,000 to bring the East School building into full compliance with state requirements. The state would reimburse the town 50 per cent of this cost because it is a town building.

SCENE FROM HERE

Philosophically Speaking...

By SOL R. COHEN

I was shoveling snow from our front sidewalk when a neighbor drove by. "Be careful," he shouted. "I'm always careful," I shouted back. He said I was talking about two different things.

He meant I should be careful not to exert myself too much.

I mean I shovel snow carefully — not haphazardly and never hit and miss or swish, swish.

With me, a sidewalk has to be completely free of snow — every part of it and not just a path through it. That's what I call careful shoveling. I do it with the same painstaking care an engineer gives to his projects.

So why am I so careless about shoveling the driveway? I don't know, unless it's because there's so much more of it.

Just as I take an engineer's approach to clearing a sidewalk, I take a philosopher's approach to cleaning the driveway.

More times than not, I shovel just enough of it so that when I back out with my car, its wheels make a path and follow it into the street. Then I go in and out of the driveway several times to widen that path.

I'll admit there's a hazard attached to my method. More times than not, my car skids into a snowbank. But, if one insists about being philosophical about things, one must assume the hazards, I suppose.

Once, when my son was home from college, I didn't even bother to shovel a path in the driveway. I left it for him to do.

When a couple of teenagers rang the bell and offered to shovel the entire driveway for a ridiculously low sum, I held firm.

"Sorry," I said, "My son is home from college. He'll do it."

Whatever made me think just because he was home from college and catching up on his sleep he'd shovel the driveway? After all, he's not an engineering major. In fact, now that I think of it, he's a philosophy major.

Town Directors Table Day Care Center Plea

One of the agenda items discussed Tuesday night by the Manchester Board of Directors, and tabled for more study, concerns a request from Manchester Community College and a companion request from the Manchester Community Services Council.

MCC, which sponsors a day care center at Center Congregational Church facility and students, wants town permission to utilize space for it in the Teen Center Building in the former Nike Site, now Manchester recreation area. MCC is offering to share maintenance expenses for the building and for the outdoor play area.

The Manchester Community Services Council is backing the MCC request and is recommending expansion of the Day Care Center. Under its proposal, the center would service the entire community, would guarantee day care services for 25 Manchester residents, would provide hot meals, and would provide medical and social counseling.

Handling arrangements for MCC is Herbert Bades and for the Community Services Council, Joy Van Cleef.

Because of the ramifications of the proposal, the expenses involved and the possibility the town may be required to be a partner in the day care center operation, the directors indicated they need more information.

They asked Bades to meet with Town Manager Robert Weiss, so that they might pinpoint the limits and the cost.

Clarification has been asked for an informal opinion by Town Counsel William Bronelli, relative to using the old Nike Site for a day care center. Bronelli declared it is his informal ruling the area was designated for recreation only when it was purchased for $50,000 from the federal government. His ruling is being disputed by the Community Services Council.

Art Professor Speaks To Cosmopolitan Club

Alexey von Schlippe, associate professor of art at the southeastern branch of University of Connecticut, will be guest speaker for the Cosmopolitan Club Friday afternoon.

His talk will be preceded by a dessert and coffee period at 1 p.m. in the Federation Room of Center Congregational Church.

Prof. von Schlippe's mini-lecture on art history from the Renaissance through the Impressionists will be illustrated with slides of master works of art.

In addition to teaching art history, art appreciation, drawing and basic design courses, von Schlippe also paints in oils and egg tempera. His work has been described as "Twentieth Century Romantic." He has exhibited his works in Munich, Hartford, Boston and New Haven.

A native of Moscow, von Schlippe spent his early years in Paris. He received his art degree in Berlin, and did advanced study in Rome and Brussels.

He speaks Russian, German, French, Italian and English. The artist and teacher came to the United States in 1954 and has been a member of the art faculty at Norwich Free Academy and at four branches of UConn.

Prof. von Schlippe has lectured at Yale, Fordham and Brown Universities, and at Connecticut College, New London.

Few Strides In Mass Transit

Boston to Hartford arrived two hours late, due to a small mechanical difficulty, the radiator fell off. This would have been almost tolerable, had they not repeatedly assured those waiting that with the delay the bus would arrive at 12:30. It arrived at 1:40.

In addition, three people sitting in the station missed their bus to Albany because the attendant neglected to announce Albany as one of the stops. The bus my friend and I were to take to New York arrived 15 minutes late. I had some difficulty opening the locker to get out my suitcase and asked an attendant for some help. He asked another attendant to take care of me, and he asked still another, while I stood there. I finally yelled that nobody was helping me and my bus was about to pull out. Clearly irritated at my having raised my voice, an attendant said to his friend (loud enough to be intended for my ears), "These people are such pigs," and grudgingly came to assist me. To make matters worse, the bus that I was told was "non-stop express" stopped in New Britain, and ended up arriving a half-hour late in New York.

This is clearly not the type of service or attitude that will encourage people to make use of mass transportation.

Voters Reject $2,000 to Study School Alarm

COLUMBIA
Virginia Carlson
Correspondent
228-9224

The expenditure of $2,000 for an engineering study of the renovation and design of a school fire alarm at Porter School was rejected by an unchallenged hand vote of 15-11. Fire Marshal Richard Davis said after the special town meeting, he will send a letter to the Board of Education with copies to the selectmen and fire chief, stating some action must be taken within two weeks concerning the system's renovation.

At that time Saunders said he felt the process of negotiations would be more effectively carried on in closed sessions. Members of the school board repeated requests for open sessions claiming "People who foot the bill want to have the information available," and added a degree of suspicion will result from closed sessions. Mrs. Smith asked if the CTA did agree to open sessions could someone call for executive session at any point where they felt it was very important for a closed session.

Supl. Clarence Edmondson said the school board will have no alternative but to take the money for the study out of the present school budget. Davis said he had been "lame" about the alarm system but "The time has come when I must take action."

This Is Dental Health Week

(This is the third in a series of five articles on dental health published by The Herald, in cooperation with the Manchester Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 2-4.)
My child's first permanent teeth seem to be coming in crooked. What would you suggest be done at this time?
The dentist may also recommend that you consult an orthodontist, a specialist in correcting deformities of the teeth and jaws.

However, good preventive dental care should start early. Regular dental visits, beginning when a child is about 2 years of age or when all his primary teeth have erupted, will help the dentist foresee and correct future problems.

The first step is to understand that malocclusion, the irregular alignment of teeth or overlapping bite, if left untreated, may lead to deterioration of the teeth and gums and to other disorders.
In many cases, no treatment is required. The tooth comes in crooked or rotated and corrects itself with the normal muscle movement of the tongue and cheeks. However, it is important to consult with the family dentist as early as possible as he is the only one who can diagnose the child's problem and decide on a course of treatment.

Improper alignment of the teeth may be hereditary or may be caused by accidental or environmental factors. Prolonged thumb sucking, mouth breathing or the habit of biting the lips or tongue may increase a tendency to a particular dental irregularity.
If a primary tooth is lost prematurely, a neighboring tooth may drift into the space, causing the permanent teeth erupt. Whatever the problem, however, your dentist can be of help. He may replace a missing tooth with a space maintainer, a device that keeps the teeth from shifting into empty spaces as they erupt.

Project HELP
Menus which will be prepared and served next week by members of HELP (Handicapped, Earning and Living Project), a program designed to train handicapped for employment in the food service industry at Manchester Community College, are as follows:

FROM YOUR NEIGHBOR'S KITCHEN
By VIVIAN FERGUSON

Mussels, known as moules in French, are not widely eaten in this country. Most New Englanders use them strictly for ball, especially when crabbing.
The mussel is a delicate shell with a thin blue-black shell which turns blue after steaming. It grows in all the oceans of the world but is best when it comes from cold waters. All bivalves, such as clams and oysters, must come from clean unpolluted water.
Whenever we go to Block Island, we pick our own mussels. They can be found at low tide attached by what is called a "beard" to rocks on the bottom of the ocean. Last summer, I was taught to find them deeply imbedded in the sand near eel grass when the tide was out. This is a little easier as you do not have to pull the mussels away from the rocks.
I buy mussels locally from the fish market which requires a couple of days notice. They are not kept on hand as mussels spoil rapidly and should be consumed the day you get them.
First, discard any broken mussels or any that are standing open. Unless you pick them yourself, you must be ruthless about this and will have to add the cost of the discarded mussels to that of the good ones. A little over five pounds cost me about $3.25.
Rinse the mussels off well under running cold water. If you have a sink sprayer, you can use that while the mussels are sitting in the sink. Then, scrub well with a good, stiff brush. A wire one is excellent but a vegetable brush will do. If any beard remains, remove it with a sharp knife. Some chefs add dry mustard to the water when cleaning. This is supposed to remove the barnacles but you can do that with a paring knife.
Now, put the mussels into clean cold water and let them sit there for a couple of hours. If any of them float on top, throw them out.
Mussels are very good steamed like clams. The only exception I make is that I do not put the mussels in the pan until I have prepared a court-bouillon of sorts and have brought it to a boil. Then, I put the mussels in, cover the pan, and steam about five minutes or just long enough for the mussels to open.
While steaming, you take hold of the pot and cover, shaking from time to time using an up-down motion. There are fancy recipes for mussels. First, I'll give you my easy method.
Vivian's Steamed Mussels
For about three pounds of mussels, put about ¼ cup dry white wine and ¼ cup cold water into a deep kettle. Chop an onion and a clove of garlic finely; add a little thyme or bouquet garni. You can also use bay leaf and parsley.
Bring the liquid to a boil; put in the mussels; shake the pan from time to time until mussels are open, about five minutes.
Serve the mussels in soup bowls with the broth poured over. Have crusty French bread on hand for dipping.
Optional: Before serving, add a little tomato sauce to the broth.

Ostomy Group Meets Monday
The Manchester Ostomy Association will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Conference Room C at Manchester Memorial Hospital. Directions to the assigned room will be given at the information desk.
The association is rehabilitation organization of patients with ileostomy, colostomy, and ileo-bladder surgery.
The guest speaker will be Mr. Lois Stout, home care coordinator at the hospital. She will speak on the care of ostomy patients after surgery.
Patients and their spouses or friends are invited to attend.

OBITUARIES

Sylvio J. Girardin, 59, of 147 Brookfield St. died Wednesday from an apparent heart attack while starting a snow blower to clear the driveway at his home. He was the husband of Mrs. Laura Cyr Girardin.

Mr. Girardin was born Oct. 29, 1915 in St. Quentin, V.B., Can., and had lived in Maine before coming to Manchester 18 years ago. He was employed as a carpenter at Pratt and Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford, before retiring in April 1974 because of ill health. He was a communicant of St. James Church. He is also survived by five sons, Ronald Girardin, Gerard Girardin and Richard Girardin, all of Manchester, Gilman Girardin of Norwich and Norman R. Girardin of Newington.

Padre Humberto Will Speak At ECHS Friday, Saturday

Padre Humberto, a former Mexican actor known as Humberto Almazon, filmmaker and academy award winner, will appear in person Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at East Catholic High School. After speaking to the audience about his life in a talk entitled "The Life of My Story," a full-length movie in color will be shown starring Padre Humberto and Ernest Borgnine in "Rain for a Dusty Summer."

The movie has recently been released on the West Coast and

Town Hastens to Meet Block Grant Deadline

Because of a deadline date for filing applications under the federal Community Development Block Grant Program, the Board of Directors will conduct a special meeting Friday to approve Manchester's application. Its meeting will be at 5 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

Manchester's application is for $470,000 for 1975-76 and adheres to a priority list of projects as recommended by its Community Development Advisory Committee.

Accompanying the application will be Manchester's Housing Assistance Plan—a requirement under the Block Grant legislation and also as recommended by the advisory committee.

AREA POLICE REPORT

TOLLAND
Adolph Fontanella of Stafford was admitted to Rockville General Hospital shortly after midnight last night with injuries suffered in an accident on Rt. 15 in Tolland. Hospital officials said this morning that Fontanella suffered multiple lacerations of the face and is in satisfactory condition.

VERNON
Carl M. Osuna, 34, of Windsor Locks was charged Wednesday with operating under the influence of liquor or drugs. Police said he was driving erratically on Windsorville Rd. He was released on a $250 non-surety bond.

ONE BID SUBMITTED FOR RESCUE TOOL
The Town of Manchester has received only one bid for furnishing its fire department with a Hurst Power Rescue Tool and, apparently enough, it is from the area distributor of the tool.

The American Fire Equipment Co. of Needham, Mass. offered to deliver the tool, a set of hydraulic shears and a spare 16-inch hydraulic hose for $5,012. Its price for the basic tool, without the two options, is $4,693.

The Board of Directors last month approved a $5,000 appropriation for the tool, which is capable of tearing a vehicle apart by hydraulic force. It eliminates the hazards of space.

The J.M. Benson Co. of Windsor, with a price of $2,010, is the apparent low bidder for furnishing and installing carpeting in several offices in the Municipal Building and in the Youth Services office in Lincoln Center. He bid is $261 for 85,000 square feet of carpeting and $1,119 for Lincoln Center.

Bids were received from seven suppliers, with the highest $2,737 from Peter J. Sayadoff of West Hartford. Although several Manchester suppliers were invited to bid, none did.

will soon appear in theaters throughout the country. The priest of only a few years says the change in his life occurred at the time he was presented with his academy award. An emotional feeling overpowered him, he says, filling him with the knowledge there was something greater than his acting career.

His tremendous need to communicate with people was what originally guided him to a career of acting, beginning with school plays, he says. But now, in his Christian mission as a priest, he is fulfilling that need more than ever, he says.

Padre Humberto has strong opinions about today's youth and their religious convictions. "The youth of the world are not anti-religious nor even anticlerical," he says. "They are only anti-phony! They respond to sincerity and spontaneity. They want to do something to make a better world."

"I was the black sheep of the family. My father was an architect, my brother was an architect, and my sister was a sweet, gentle, and domestic. But I was different. They hardly approved of my being an actor."

Many of Humberto Almazon's Hollywood friends attended his ordination to the priesthood at the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C., in 1968.

Witnessing the event were Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Ricardo Montalban, and Helen Hayes. Now, Padre's special missionary task is the development of adult vocation seminars.

THOUGHTS APLENTY BY LEN AUSTER

Scoring Record Nevertheless Contrary to what was earlier reported, Cheney Tech basketball star Tom LeCourt does not have 915 career points. The 5-10 senior backcourtman, however, does possess the school scoring record.

Including last Tuesday's game with Ellis Tech, LeCourt has 792 markers, far surpassing the old standard of 781 set by John Goodrow. In error, some of LeCourt's javvee points as a freshman were added, thus giving the higher count.

Three Cheers for Illing As many know, Cheney Tech is an all-male bastion. In many cases this season, rabid fans filled the role of cheerleaders — and did so splendidly. But that situation might be solved for the CIAC State Tournament.

Shog on Depth For the second year in a row, the Manchester High swimming team has been hurt in a lack of depth. The Indiana natators were 1-5 going into Wednesday's meet with Hartford Public.

Eagles Rebound The East Catholic basketball team's chances of making the first annual HOC Tournament are much brighter than a few short weeks ago. The Eagles vaulted into the picture last Saturday with their upset win over South Catholic.

Notebook Jottings Mike Nolen and Bill Poletti are no longer members of the East Catholic basketball team. Six-foot-three sophomore Jeff Kiernan was forced to leave the Manchester High javvee squad because of grades.

Celtics' Owner Schmertz Indicted On Bribery Charge TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Boston Celtics owner Robert Schmertz has been indicted by a New Jersey grand jury for allegedly bribing an Ocean County mayor to gain approval for a $200 million housing development.

Schmertz was indicted Wednesday along with Leisure Technology Corp. of Lakewood, the construction firm he formed in 1969, and Donald Safran, a Lakewood insurance consultant.

Schmertz, 48, of Lakewood resident who used part of his construction fortune to buy a share of the National Basketball Association Champion Boston Celtics in 1973, issued an immediate denial of any wrongdoing in his dealings with Manchester Township Mayor Joseph S. Portash. He also owned the New York Stars of the World Football League last season before selling the club to Portash, who is also a Charlotte, N.C., group.

Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch issued bench warrants for the arrest of Schmertz and Safran and a state spokesman said it is expected they would arrest or surrender today.

The indictment charged Schmertz and Safran with paying $31,730 to Portash in 1971 and 1972 to use his position as mayor and a member of the township's Municipal Utilities Authority to help them obtain approval from various government agencies for a 5,000 unit retirement village. The project is under construction in Manchester Township.

Portash, who is also an Ocean County freelander, was not indicted. The state said its investigation is continuing.

'Slow Moving' Celtics Fastbreak Milwaukee into Submission in NBA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Heinsohn is a man gifted with some kind of special vision. The coach of the Boston Celtics was verbose in his conviction that his team "didn't run at all" Wednesday night against the Milwaukee Bucks.

"We ran all our stuff the way we're supposed to but we forgot to run," Heinsohn said. "We played a very slow game."

"I don't know where he gets that," Bucks Coach Larry Costello said after his team had been beaten, 92-90. "I only wish we were that slow—or that we were as fast as his team is slow."

Portland, Jimmy Walker added 17 points for the Kings while Geoff Petrie topped Portland with 20. Bill Walton managed just six points for Portland.

Lakers 113, 76ers 110 Brian Winter's basket with 1:25 left put Los Angeles ahead to stay 112-110 in the second overtime period and the Lakers went on to score their 12th straight victory over Philadelphia at the Spectrum. The regulation game ended tied at 93-93 and the first overtime at 104-104. Gail Goodrich and Lucius Allen had 27 points each for the Lakers and Winters added 22. Fred Carter led the 76ers with 33.

Suns 107, Sonics 102 Dick Van Arsdale's career-high 46 points led Phoenix past Seattle, breaking the Sonics' five-game winning streak. Van Arsdale had 27 points in the second half and the win gave the Suns their third straight victory, equalling their longest win streak of the season. Fred Brown was high for the Sonics with 18.

Central Five Wins

Great scoring efforts by Rich Ortiz and Dan Jones powered Central Connecticut State College to an 86-65 decision over New Haven. Ortiz tallied 20 points. Jones one less in the hardwood City clash.

Other state college games last night found Kings College of New York handing Western Connecticut a 78-76 setback and Southern Connecticut trouncing Bernard Baruch, 122-82, for its fifth straight.

After a close first half, the 94 Blue Devils jumped from a 23-38 halftime lead to an early comeback and with seven minutes left held a 19-point margin over the Chargers 75-56. Andy Wilder led New Haven with 14 points. Kings College's Jerry Stoum scored a driving layup with 41 seconds left in the game to give his team the victory in Danbury.

Kings, 14-9, held the lead through most of the second half but had to rally again after the Colonials scored six points in a row to take the lead 74-72 with 2:32 remaining.

Kings' high scorer was Bob Welman with 20 points while Western, 8-9, was led by Ken Hudak with 25 points.

Shadow Foils Hull But Jets Still Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Being shadowed is nothing new to Bobby Hull, and when it's done right, the Winnipeg star is the first one to admit he's been foiled.

Hull was the only member of his line to get a point, drawing an assist on Mike Ford's first period goal. Richie Leduc matched it in the second period and then Al McDonough and Ron Ward scored within a 37-second span of the third period to win the game despite Larry Hovington's goal for the Jets in the last five minutes.

Robbie Florek, Michel Cormier and Dennis Sobchuk each had two goals and an assist as Phoenix broke a club record for goals. Runners goalie Gary Kurl took over the WHA goaltending lead by reducing his average to 2.79.

States Challenge Store Credit Policy

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The attorneys general in New Hampshire and Vermont have challenged a decision by financially troubled W.T. Grant, the nation's 18th largest department store chain, to boost minimum monthly payment for credit customers.

The change in credit policy apparently was prompted by the company's financial woes. "I'd say it was a significant factor in deciding to change the policy," company assistant secretary Carl Breyer said Wednesday from New York.

The New Hampshire attorney general's office has asked the firm to roll back the policy. And Vermont Atty. Gen. M. Jerome Diamond has sued the store chain for allegedly violating the state's consumer fraud statute. Jerome seeks an injunction against the increased minimum credit payments and a $10,000 fine.

The store chain, which last year recorded sales of $1.8 billion, had estimated losses of at least $175 million, Breyer said.

The shift in credit policy requires customers to pay 10 per cent of the outstanding balance monthly instead of 5 per cent.

Breyer said no decision has been made whether to alter the tighter credit policy, which took effect in November in Vermont, prompting a stream of consumer complaints.

The attorneys general in both New Hampshire and Vermont have taken similar positions on the policy change.

"From our point of view, making payment terms more difficult after a person already has taken out the credit, could be an unfair trade practice," said Attorney Richard Sebach, head of New Hampshire's consumer protection office.

"It's a change of the rules after the guy is already committed to playing the game."

Promoted

Robert E. Clark of Manchester has been promoted to assistant manager of policy operations at Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., Hartford.

A native of Dover, N.J., Clark graduated from the Hartford Institute of Accounting and joined the company last year as an assistant manager.

He served earlier in the U.S. Air Force for four years as a computer operator in Washington, D.C., Ohio, and the Philippines.

Clark, his wife, and daughter live at 18 Lawton Rd.

Firm Starts Rebate Plan

Reb Industries of Glastonbury, manufacturer of Glastonbury Gages, is giving its employees $100 if they purchase a new American-made car this month. Employees will receive $150 if the car is bought in Glastonbury, the company announced Wednesday.

Reb Industries is a leading manufacturer of cylindrical gages used for quality control inspection by precision machine tool, automobile, truck, aircraft/aerospace, and other metalworking manufacturers.

Fighter Sets New Record

A U.S. Air Force F-15 "Eagle" advanced tactical fighter, powered Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's F100 turbofan engine, has set eight unofficial world time-to-climb records during test operations at Grand Forks, N.D.

The F100 engines, in the 25,000-pound thrust class, are made in East Hartford. McDonnell Douglas Co. of St. Louis, Mo., is the airplane manufacturer for the F-15.

The F100 engine also powers the Air Force's new air combat fighter, the General Dynamics F-16.

Promoted

Gabriele Kovacs of Amston has been promoted to assistant operations analyst in the casualty-property lines department at The Travelers Insurance Co., Hartford.

She joined the firm in 1971 as a secretary and in 1973 was named operations assistant. She attended Lehman College.

Finast SUPERMARKETS

Market Plan Forum Topic

Strategies needed to meet the critical economic issues of the day will be explored in depth at an unusual region wide marketing seminar next month at the University of Connecticut.

Co-sponsored by the American Marketing Association and the UConn School of Business Administration, the seminar on "Strategic Planning in a Changing Economy," will convene March 12 at the Bobshop Continuing Education Center, Storrs.

Architects of the day-long session have recruited a panel of authoritative figures from campus, business and industry and expect to attract 100 participants from all over New England to the timely seminar.

The speakers represent a diversity of industries, including sellers of both products and services oriented toward industrial and consumer markets. Many of them have national reputations in their fields.

Registration materials and additional information may be obtained by contacting Professor Hempel at the UConn School of Business Administration's marketing department, Storrs, 06268.

Vernon Official Cited on Retirement

Andrew Tricario, second from right, who has retired after serving 15 years as an employee of Vernon, was honored at a dinner Wednesday night at the Colony in Talcoville. Mayor Frank McCoy presented him with a framed resolution from the Town Council.

highway foreman, and since the town governments were consolidated 10 years ago, he has served as director of public works. Besides the plaque, Tricario was presented with a purse of money and $1,500 was donated in his name to the Rockville High School scholarship fund.

School Bus Contract Signed

VERNON

A three-year school bus contract, which becomes effective July 1 and averaging about $600 more per year per bus than the current contract, was signed this morning by the Windsor Bus Service, Inc.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, Vernon superintendent of schools, signed for the Board of Education and Elmer Tricario, signed for the bus company which he owns.

The Herald

The contract also includes an escalator clause which states that the contract costs will increase or decrease automatically each year according to the Consumers Price Index with yearly increases limited to a maximum 10 per cent.

Father Joins Elvis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) - First Elvis Presley got sick and was sent to the hospital, and now his father, Vernon Presley, 59, has been hospitalized for a possible mild heart attack.

The older Presley joined his son in a Memphis hospital Wednesday after complaining of chest pains. He was taken to Baptist Hospital's coronary unit so that his heart could be electronically monitored.

Marsh Will Conduct CPR Course

Richard Marsh of emergency medical care. EAST organizes, directs, plans or assists in the planning of seminars for specialized emergency medical care.

The program, cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), has been developed by the American Heart Association. It will be offered in Manchester on a regular monthly basis during the coming year.

The CPR program is jointly sponsored by the Manchester Association of Independent Insurance Agents and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The program will be presented by instructors from the Emergency Accident-Illness Simulation Team, Inc. (EAST). Marsh is on the board of directors of EAST, and an assistant course coordinator for emergency medical technicians at Manchester Community College.

EAST was formed in order to improve the quality of

The CPR program is limited to 75 people per session on a first come, first served basis. The whole program is open to every family to have CPR training.

EAST also works to promote advancement of education in the field of emergency medical services for the public by use of community oriented demonstrations.

This year more than 3,000 people will lose their lives by suffocation due to an obstructed airway. If a member of your family choked or suddenly stopped breathing, would you know what to do? The CPR program will teach you what to do.

Kenneth Lappen, president of the Insurance Agents Association, Ed Stickey, commander of the VFW, and Kenneth Ostrinsky, chairman of the CPR program, wish to remind the people of Manchester and surrounding towns to take advantage of this lifesaving technique.

He Needed That
SULPHUR, La. (UPI) — The case on the docket was that of a man stopped for going 42 miles an hour in a 35 m.p.h. zone. When Judge E. W. Thompson asked how the defendant pleaded, Thompson got out of his chair, moved around to the other side of the bench and said "Gully, your honor."

Thompson returned to his chair and fined himself $17.50. "I felt I needed to be slowed down," Thompson said Wednesday.

WINTER SPORTS

Supervised coasting at Center Springs Park will be from 8 to 9 p.m. today.

Northview is open for skiing, and the hours are 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Park and Rec officials say skating is not allowed at Charter Oak Park or Center Springs Annex. They say the areas will not be cleared.

Some skaters, however, aren't waiting for clearing operations to take place. Today's front page photo shows skaters at Charter Oak, under lights, and on uncleared ice.

For outdoor winter sports information, call 643-4700.

Almost Made It
NEWPORT, Ky. (UPI) — Samuel Odeur almost got away with calling two police officers "pigs" when he was arrested for being drunk and disorderly Wednesday.

"He kept saying 'pig, pig' and (at first) I thought he was talking to Kenny," said Policeman Charles Johnson, referring to his partner — Patrolman Kenneth Pigg.

FBI Arrests Bank Officer

HARTFORD (UPI) — A former mortgage loan officer has been arrested by the FBI and charged with conspiring to misapply $170,000 of the funds of his bank, Hartford National Bank and Trust Co.

Thomas William Kelly, 40, of Bristol, turned himself in to the FBI in Hartford Wednesday.

Agents had sought Kelly since Jan. 22, when he and a Burlington real estate agent, James T. McMahon, 41, were indicted on conspiracy charges.

Arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Thomas F. Parker, Kelly was ordered held on a $25,000 bond previously set by a federal judge.

Jobless Rate Jumps One Point

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some 830,000 persons lost their jobs in January, driving up the nation's unemployment rate by a full percentage point to 8.2 per cent—the highest rate since 1941—the Labor Department said today.

With no relief in sight, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that a total of 7.5 million persons were out of work in January. Especially hard hit were the blue collar workers, whose unemployment rate rose to 11 per cent.

The Ford administration has predicted unemployment will reach 8.5 per cent this year and will average near 8 per cent over the next two years.

Highest Since 1941
The January rate, up from 7.2 per cent in December, far surpassed a 1958 peak of 7.5 per cent and a 1940 high of 7.9 per cent. The unemployment rate has not exceeded 8 per cent since 1941, a year in which the average annual rate was 9.9 per cent as the nation began to shake off the effects of the Depression and before it

Averages Forecast
Ford's budget message last week included predictions the jobless rate would average 8.1 per cent this year and 7.9 per cent when he plans to run for the presidency.

Hard Hit Areas
A 15 per cent unemployment rate was recorded in the construction industry; 10.5 per cent in the manufacturing industry and 10.2 per cent among agricultural wage and salary workers.

The bureau reported that blue collar workers "bore the brunt of these employment reductions" with some 1.7 million of them losing their jobs between September and January.

The January unemployment rate for adult men reached 6 per cent and the rate for heads of households was 5.2 per cent. Unemployment for nonwhites was 12.4 per cent, and teen-age nonwhites experienced a 41.1 per cent unemployment rate.

Northview Night Skiing

The snow this week was welcomed by Manchester's younger set, especially those who like to ski on the Northview run under the lights. Others take full advantage of other winter recreational facilities, too, and go ice skating and sledding. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Manchester HUD Block Grants Entitlement Cut by $507,000

By DOUG BEVINS
Manchester will receive a half-million dollars less than anticipated under a three-year federal community development program, but town officials intend to fight for the full amount announced last fall.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) — which administers funds under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 — has admitted a computation error which will reduce Manchester's three-year entitlement from $1,410,000 to $903,000.

However, Manchester hasn't been officially notified of the HUD error and town officials are proceeding with grant applications based on the original program of $1,410,000, Town Manager Robert Weiss said today.

But the spokesman said Manchester would be in a favorable position to apply for additional discretionary money — over and above the promised block grants — because the town has proceeded in good faith under HUD's original announcement.

Cotter's spokesman said the apparent error in Manchester's entitlement was made during computations of federal programs between 1968 and 1972. The block grants now being awarded are based on the amount of federal grants received in those five years, and Manchester was incorrectly attributed a federally-funded $845,000 water-sewer program which took place in South Windsor.

Correction of the computation error, however, doesn't mean that South Windsor will get more block grants. The spokesman explained that a complicated system of grant awards makes South Windsor ineligible for block grants, although that town can compete for the discretionary funds.

Other Errors
HUD's computation errors went beyond Manchester, the spokesman said, affecting several other Capitol Region municipalities.

Also due to incorrect attribution of 1968-1972 federal projects, West Hartford's community development grants will more than double in the three-year program. HUD's original announcement was that West Hartford would get $1,437,000, but revised figures place the three-year entitlement at $2,867,000.

Among other towns affected by HUD errors are East Hartford, whose grants increase from $1,217,000 to $1,220,000; and Hartford, where the grants drop from $38,825,000 to $30,801,000.

The Community Development Act signed into law by President Ford last August makes funds available to communities in four ways: First, the block grant entitlements based on previous federal programs; second, entitlements to towns over 50,000 population based on relative needs; third, discretionary funds available to towns under 50,000 population which aren't entitled to block grants; and fourth, special discretionary funds available under special circumstances.

It is the fourth category — the special discretionary funds — that Cotter's spokesman said may provide a remedy to reduction of grants expected by Manchester. There's a total of $80 million available nationwide in the special account, the spokesman said, but the rules for distributing the money haven't been written yet, and that may delay Manchester's application.

Under the proposed community development plan to be decided by town directors today, Manchester would spend $1,410,000 on a variety of projects including aid for housing rehabilitation, establishment of a multi-service center for the handicapped, and purchase of land for elderly housing.

Ford Meets Advisors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford meets today with senior advisors to discuss future strategy to counter powerful congressional opposition developing against his economy-energy program. He also is expected to attend the swearing in of former University of Chicago President Edward A. Levi as attorney general at the Justice Department. The President may spend a rare weekend at Camp David, Md., before flying to Houston Monday to promote his anti-recession package.

Booked for Murder

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Daniel Bedell was booked on suspicion of murder in the death of Nancy Atwater, wife of A. G. Atwater Sr., an heir to $10 million of the Wrigley fortune. Bedell was a night nurse for Atwater, who is a mentally incapacitated invalid. He allegedly beat Mrs. Atwater to death in her bedroom, then trussed up her body and stuffed it in a cement-filled oil drum. He led police to a junk yard where the oil drum was found. Police are under a court order not to discuss the motive for the slaying.

Grenade Sawed Off

MIAMI (UPI) — Without knowing whether it was live or not, a police explosives expert sawed a hand grenade off a girl's finger Thursday. The 12-year-old girl stuck her finger into a hole in the World War I grenade her parents used for a paperweight, then was unable to remove it. The expert, who sawed the grenade off in 15 minutes, said, "It's just part of the job. The grenade was not live, as it turned out."

Amendment Studied

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The Justice Department is trying to decide if a 1967 amendment to the Alabama Constitution allowing state officials to succeed themselves in office is legal. Early law change that might affect the minority voting rights must be submitted to the Justice Department. The 1967 amendment was not. Gov. George C. Wallace, who may be serving illegally, had no comment. Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley and Attorney General William J. Baxley also may be affected by the decision.

Lima Streets Quiet

LIMA (UPI) — The streets of Lima are quiet today, after two days of rioting that left at least 47 dead and another 60 or 70 hospitalized with injuries. There was an 8 p.m.-5 a.m. curfew and squads of soldiers patrolled the streets, after rampaging mobs sacked and burned numerous downtown businesses. The violence was triggered by a confrontation between striking police and the army.

Hamburger Culture Protested

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Communists in Sweden are saying "the hamburger culture is a danger to the working people." They believe such places as McDonald's and Carlisle should be closed, because the poor nutritional value of the food may endanger people's health. One spokesman said, "An alternative could be restaurants run by the city, serving non-profit food consisting of nutritious things."

Town Audit Shows Surplus of $132,827

By SOL R. COHEN
Manchester wound up its 1974 fiscal year with a General Fund surplus of $132,827 (the equivalent of about one-half mill on its tax rate), an official audit for the period ended June 30, 1974 indicates.

A check with the town controller's office shows $114,646 of the surplus unspent and still available as of today. When the Board of Directors adopted the current budget (last May), it didn't anticipate any 1974-75 surplus and didn't include any in its revenue estimates.

The audit report was submitted by Jerome I. Baskin and Co. of Manchester, the town's auditor for the past several years.

Fire District Surplus

The Town of Manchester Fire District wound up with a $112,667 surplus as of June 30, 1974. Of that sum, $30,127 is unspent and available today. $58,330 was used as revenue income for the current budget and $16,000 additional was appropriated for new projects — such as $6,000 for a rescue tool.

The Special Downtown Taxing District had a $23,338 surplus as of June 30, 1974, with all of it still available today; and the

Deficit Blamed on Policy

Baskin, in his commentary on the audit, blamed the Sewer Fund's deficit position "on the option given property owners to defer sewer assessments until such time as the property owner ties into the sewer system."

Noting, "The town does not always know when a tie-in has been made," he recommended an ordinance be passed, "making sewer assessments collectable, regardless of property owners having tie-ins."

Baskin repeated a recommendation he has made annually, for designating an

House Committee Okays Tax Reduction Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $20.1 billion tax reduction bill, including rebates of up to $200 for all taxpayers this spring or summer, has made the first step on a trip through Congress.

The House Ways and Means Committee, which must originate all changes in federal tax law, voted 28-5 Thursday night for a combination of $8 billion in 1974 tax rebates, $3.5 billion in 1975 personal tax reductions, and $3.8 billion in increased investment incentives and cuts for business.

More Than Ford Request

This was $4 billion more than President Ford requested in recession-fighting tax cuts.

Big business struck out, however, as the committee narrowly defeated a $1 billion bailout of financially troubled companies such as Chrysler and Lockheed, and voted to limit the giant American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to $100 million in additional investment incentives. $395 million less than AT&T would have received.

Ullman Victory

The bill, completed by the committee in less than four days, was a personal victory
