Israel Takes Hard Line On Disengagement Issue

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger brought back little new information or proposals from Cairo to advance negotiations for an agreement between Israel and Egypt, a senior Israeli official said today.

The official outlined Israeli policy on disengagement that went little beyond the hard public line Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin presented Wednesday to the Israeli Knesset.

Rabin told the parliament Israel will not give up the Sinai passes at Mitla and Gidi or the oil fields at Abu Rodeis unless Egypt irrevocably ends the state of war between the two nations.

First Phase Over

Kissinger ended his exploratory mission in Israel before flying to Jordan's Red Sea port of Aqaba to inform King Hussein of the progress of the peace talks.

He began his latest peace explorations Monday and has visited Israel, Egypt and Syria.

The high Israeli official echoed the earlier estimate of a high American official that the chances are no better than 50-50 that Kissinger will help work out an agreement on a second stage Israeli withdrawal when he returns to the area for the actual negotiations in March.

Kissinger to Return

The Israeli official added, however, that the real negotiations will not begin until Kissinger returns next time.

Kissinger met with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt Wednesday to see what concessions Cairo might make in exchange for Israeli withdrawals from the Sinai territory occupied by Israeli troops since the 1967 war.

The high Israeli official reported the secretary returned with little that was new, but he would not detail what Kissinger said.

Kissinger met Rabin and the Israeli negotiators for a final time this morning and then lunched with 78-year-old former Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, with whom he negotiated the earlier military disengagements between Israel and Egypt and Israel and Syria.

Bombs Exploded

Kissinger's meeting with Rabin came an hour after two bombs exploded in a vacant lot a mile from the secretary's hotel

The senior Israeli official said Israel will withdraw from the strategic passes in the Sinai peninsula some 150 miles beyond its pre-1967 borders and from the oilfields there only if Egypt agrees to end all acts of belligerency and the state of war regardless of what happens on Israel's other fronts with Syria, Lebanon and Jordan.

Alternate Withdrawal

Israel would withdraw from a lesser area of 19 to 31 miles not including the passes and oilfields in exchange for something less, the official said. The Egyptian concessions and commitment would have to be explicit, signed and public.

A third and unlikely option, the official said, would be a peace treaty signed and sealed.

In any case, the official said Israel wants to keep control of Sharm al-Shaikh at the southern tip of the Sinai along with a corridor to it and would not withdraw all the way back to the 1967 borders.

In answer to a question about whether Kissinger is indispensable to the negotiations, the official said the fate of nations did not depend on any one person, but that, equally, no one had Kissinger's knowledge of the area and access to its personalities.

Public Offices Closed Monday

Monday will be a day off for Manchester's state and federal employees. It is a legal holiday — Washington's Birthday.

All governmental offices will be closed, as well as banks, courts and post offices. There will be no mail deliveries — except for special delivery and perishables.

All public and parochial schools will be closed all week because of mid-winter vacations. Libraries will be closed all day Monday but the rec centers will be open in the evening. Refuse will be picked up Monday as usual.

Washington's Birthday is a traditional time for retail sales promotions and Manchester merchants are conducting sales today, Saturday and Monday.

Emergency phone numbers for municipal services Monday are: Highway, 643-5070; refuse, 649-1886; sanitary sewer and water, 649-9697.

$163 Million Needed

State Budget Based On Tax Increases

By ROBERT LAMBERT
HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut residents hoping to get their hands on the $200 million tax rebates promised by Washington may see them go into one pocket and right out the other.

Democratic legislative leaders will have to sell the public on the idea that the $163 million in tax increases recommended Thursday by Gov. Ella T. Grasso to balance a $1.438 billion "austerity" budget are worth the sacrifice.

Connecticut, struggling against the nation's worst economic crisis since the 1930's, faces austerity, financial sacrifice, trimmed services and higher taxes, the nation's only woman governor said.

Cupboard Very Bare
"The cupboard, to be sure, is very bare," Mrs. Grasso said.

She told a joint session of the legislature in her first budget message she made a valiant effort to save money and trimmed a quarter billion dollars in spending requests.

"There is no fat in this budget," the Democratic governor said.
Everyone will have to share new burdens to provide for the "continued operation of essential services," she said.

Key Elements
Key elements of her revenue package are hikes in the sales tax from 6 to 7 per cent, making it one of the nation's highest, and in the corporation tax from 8 to 9 per cent, and a 25 cents a pack cigarette tax. The sales tax would be expanded to include rentals and leases of personal property.

She also recommended increases in corporation and capital gains taxes and higher fees for motorists.

"The picture for all of us is not a pretty one," the governor, whose speech was interrupted by applause only once, said.

"For many, both in state government and outside, it will mean additional burden and sacrifice," she said. "It is that comes with these troubled economic times."

Up 3.7 Per Cent
Her first budget is 3.7 per cent higher than the present spending program, the smallest increase in the past 10 years, she said.

Mrs. Grasso, who held to her campaign pledge not to implement an income tax, however, was criticized by minority Republicans for having failed to hold the line on tax increases.

House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, said, "The governor's credibility has been tested and found wanting."

For Democrats, used to free-spending in more prosperous times, the financial realities mean an end to bold, new programs.

"There can be no rejoicing as we review and evaluate the programmed expenditures for this next fiscal year," she said.

Reaction to Grasso Budget Less than Enthusiastic Locally

By SOL R. COHEN

Reaction in Manchester to Gov. Ella Grasso's budget message Thursday night has to be described as less than enthusiastic. In fact, if any one word were chosen to best describe that reaction, it would have to be "disappointment."

Mayor John Thompson, a Democrat like Mrs. Grasso, said, "I'm disappointed. Although I recognize and appreciate the problems she has, I think the people of Connecticut deserve a more positive leadership."

"I believe," said Thompson, "if she were to call on the people to sacrifice, in order to provide for the poor and for those in need, they'd do so. I also want to point out that the $6 million in revenue-sharing funds she'll pass through to the towns is worth only $5.7 million today, because of inflation."

Appeal Urged
Thompson called on Manchester citizens "to appeal to our legislators, so that the entire $25 million in revenue-sharing funds be passed through to the municipalities — for providing more relief for education costs."

Thompson said one thing the municipalities don't need is "mandated new programs that will cost them more money to fulfill."

State Rep. Ted Cummings, who is also Democratic town chairman, remarked, "It was a terrible message and it fits the rotten times we're in but, for the situation we find ourselves in, it proposed a pretty balanced budget."

Balanced Approach
He described the budget as "a balanced approach in a difficult time — one that touches everyone and tries to place the burden where it'll hurt the least."

Cummings said Mrs. Grasso's proposals still leave the door open for the legislature to make changes, if it desires.

He noted, "She said nothing about increasing liquor taxes, or imposing the one cent increase in the sales tax in the current fiscal year, for example. It seems to me an increase in the sales tax to cover April, May and June might do away with her suggestion for short-term borrowing this fiscal year."

Not Cutting Enough
Nathan Agostinelli, who is Manchester Republican town chairman and who was state comptroller in the Meskill administration, said, "Apparently, she's not cutting the cloth to fit the pattern. Her strong indictment of the Meskill administration and her charges it left her with a deficit are, in my opinion, good conditioning for tax increases."

Agostinelli said he thinks Gov. Grasso could have held the line on tax increases but conceded, "Each administration has its own priorities."

Former State Sen. David Odegard, R-Fourth District, said, "My only reaction is

COEP Includes Health Care Education

By JUNE TOMPKINS

"The health services 'industry' is rapidly becoming the country's top employment field."

Mrs. Gerri Hoyt, R.N., makes this statement as she enthusiastically explains the health education phase of the Cooperative Occupational Education Program (COEP) in the Manchester schools.

One of two registered nurses hired by the Board of Education to train interested students in a health services program, Mrs. Hoyt has nothing but praise for the interest shown by the students, the acceptance of their services by the patients involved, and the cooperation of their employer (the students are paid by Manchester Memorial Hospital for their services there).

Voluntary Program
Purely voluntary, these senior students have chosen this type of occupation from many that are offered them for exploration under the COEP program.

After a girl volunteers (males are also permitted in the course, but so far none have volunteered) for the program, she is interviewed and screened before acceptance.

From September to November, the health services group spends the first three class periods every day in a hospital room set up at school learning the basics of patient care.

Before transferring their knowledge to actual application in the hospital, they are given a tour of the hospital.

Broad Experience
During their service there, the class rotates to each floor of the hospital.

From November to June, the health services investigators (for they are investigating a possible career to follow) serve at the hospital every school day from 7 to 9:30 a.m.

Always under supervision, the students apply their instruction in nursing theory and body systems.

Work Evaluated
Weekly, a department head, or nurse supervisor writes up an evaluation report on each student. The student can study the report and learn his strong points or his weaknesses.

If a student is not compatible with the phase of COEP he has chosen, he is checked out, released and given an opportunity to try another phase.

The entire COEP program is designed to give the student an opportunity to explore different careers in the hope of finding one that will turn into a permanent career.

What are the distinct advantages to the student?
What applies to the student in health services applies to most all the students in COEP.

Face-Lifting and Bust Building Are Vital to National Defense

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — No sensible person would quarrel with the concept of civilian control over the military establishment, but this arrangement does present certain difficulties.

Chief among the problems is the fact that the civilian overseers are not always well versed in military affairs.

Things that through civilian eyes appear unrelated to the defense effort may from a military viewpoint have strategic significance.

Face-lifting and bust-enlarging operations, for example.

In a recent news release, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., reported that plastic surgeons in the armed forces are performing almost 800 such operations a year.

Beneficiaries of the beautification program are, for the most part, wives of admirals and generals, he surmised.

Aspin indicated these findings had left him disquieted if not aghast. He said, "I thought military surgeons were supposed to practice military medicine."

As a member of the House Armed Services Commission, Aspin should have known that face-lifting and bust-enlarging have a direct bearing on national defense.

I can't get into too many details because classified information is involved, but two facts may be noted without breaching security:

—The material used in bust-enlargement operations is silicone.

—This is not the only reason silicone is a strategic material. It also is used by the military to seal rocket boxes on aircraft and tank engines; it stays flexible enough to reseat bomb-bay doors after they open at high altitude; and it is used to insulate communications cables on naval vessels.

Now suppose the Pentagon decided it would be prudent to stockpile a certain amount of silicone for emergency purposes.

And suppose it wanted to do this in such a way that the Soviet Union would not know the stockpile existed.

Well, the wives of our admirals and generals unquestionably are highly patriotic and undoubtedly could be counted on to volunteer as silicone repositories.

And what of the face-lifting?

Well, if large numbers of middle-aged military wives suddenly turned up exceedingly bosomy, the Soviets might get suspicious.

But if they had simultaneously face-lifts to make them look younger, the bust line expansion would not seem so unusual.

For reasons already stated, I dare say no more on this subject. And if Aspin has any regard for military security, he will drop it too.

Solar Heat Best Suited to Warm, Sunny Climates

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Home heating by sunshine may be leaving the realm of science fiction, but a leading researcher says most Americans should hold onto their oil furnaces for a while.

"I expect a big explosion in solar heating in about a year in the relatively warm summer climates," said Dr. William Shurcliff of Harvard.

"However, in the northern climates, especially where it gets very cold for sustained periods during January and February, the cost makes it prohibitive in the near future."

However, a State Department official says the government considers solar energy only a future possibility as a practical source of energy.

There are presently a little more than 100 buildings in the world heated by sunlight, Shurcliff said. He said his recent survey of more than 90 of them finds most were built using outdated methods.

The key to providing solar heating on a mass scale is making the initial expenditure above the cost of a furnace-heated home small enough that 10 years without heating bills would pay it off.

It is more practical in southern climates because of the absence of sustained periods of the cold, sunless days during which stored heat would have to warm the structure.

Solar heat is generated by storing water heated by the sun in a tank. The roof of the building is made of aluminum or galvanized steel painted black and covered by sheets of glass. The water is pumped between the glass and the metal, and runs into the tank, which is insulated to retain the heat.

Distribution of the heat is controlled by a thermostat through a radiator as in conventionally heated buildings.

The larger the size of the metal and glass covering, called the collector, the more heat able to be stored. Therefore, to heat a northern New England home, where prolonged periods of sub-zero temperatures and cloudy days are common during the winter, huge and extremely expensive collectors and storage tanks would be needed.

However, Shurcliff did predict use of a partial solar heating program in northern climates. He said that houses already equipped with furnaces could use them during the cold months, while depending on solar heating the rest of the year.

"Financially, solar heating can save money," Shurcliff said, "but the real value is that you don't have to worry about the oil company — or the Arabs — telling you there isn't any oil. Unless you live in a place where it is always cloudy, in which case solar heating is impractical anyway, you don't have to worry about your source of energy."

Shurcliff points to a solar home built by Ron Shore of Snowmass, Colo., as a possible breakthrough in making solar heating possible on a mass scale.

He said previously, most solar homes used thick aluminum with insulating passages that carried the water. But that costs about $20 per square foot, Shore, he noted, has developed a collector that uses extremely thin metal available in hardware stores.

Shore said his solar heating system cost $3,000 to build, but that he had been saving $100 a month on heating bills. The only additional monthly cost, he said, is a $2 electric bill to power the water pump.

'Confidence' Is Catching On

The winter of the automakers' discontent appears to be turning into an early and prosperous spring.

The big three of Chrysler, Ford and General Motors, plus the little one of American Motors, are all now offering cash rebates of between $200 and $600 to auto buyers in an attempt to lift the industry out of one of its worst slumps since World War II. As a result, sales in the past few weeks have made a decided turnaround.

Another big boost is coming from hundreds of other companies, from banks and major manufacturers down to golf shops and clothing stores, who have instituted employee or customer rebate or discount plans based on the purchase of new cars. These are in addition to those offered by the auto companies.

For instance, the Beloit, Wis., State Bank will reduce finance charges for new auto loans by $100, or around 20 per cent of the typical amount, and banks in other cities are offering similar incentives, Gulf and Western Industries is offering its employees $100. Ditto Irvin Industries, to any of its employees who buy a 1975 car or truck for which the company makes seat belts.

Falcon Golf, Inc., of Ferndale, Mich., will knock $200 off a set of golf clubs with purchase of a new U.S.-made car, and a clothing in Birmingham, Mich., is advertising a 10 per cent discount to anyone who has proof of a new car purchase, and the Detroit Red Wings hockey club will give two tickets to a home game to anyone who buys a new car from an area dealer by Feb. 28.

Sperry and Hutchinson Co. is giving 50,000 S&H stamps to any of its employees who buy a new car before March 31, and WPIX-TV in New York has announced it will run free television ads to promote auto sales.

The spark that ignited it all seems to have been struck last December when William W. Keefe, president of Warner Electric Brake & Clutch Co., and Rodney F. Ackerman, vice president of auto sales, were facing the bleak prospect of curtailing the company's output of air-conditioner compressor clutches for Chrysler and American Motors and laying off 10 per cent of their work force.

They decided to switch their attention from doom and gloom to searching for a positive idea that would perk up employee morale, help two major customers and stimulate business in local plant communities. They called it "Confidence in America."

On Dec. 16, Warner Electric proposed the program of cash rebates to Chrysler and American Motors. The rest is history.

It's estimated that more than 500,000 employees in the automobile and automobile-related industries — not to mention millions of consumers under the various auto company plans — are now eligible for rebates up to $700, with more companies joining the "Confidence in America" incentive program every day.

Bipartisan Policy Needed

There is great need for resumption of a working bipartisan foreign policy agreement between the Congress and the administration. The present impasse, with the secretary of state and the legislative branch seemingly each going independent ways, cannot result in coherent, consistent action.

Much of the failure to act with a reasonable degree of unity may be traceable to the existence of a Republican administration side by side with an overwhelmingly Democratic Congress.

And it is a Congress which is very close to veto-proof, with an abundance of first-term members, who have clearly shown a distaste for the establishment by their attacks on the seniority system.

Conduct of foreign affairs is vested in the Presidency and hence in the secretary of state, albeit with the advice and consent of the Congress.

But the direction of our foreign ef-orts should be made and agreed upon in advance. We should not have the demoralizing spectacle of the Congress undoing the efforts of the secretary of state and administration.

Two recent examples of this were seen in the most favored nation trade bill, which has been repudiated by Russia because of the Jackson amendment on emigration policies of the Soviet Union, and the cutoff of arms to Turkey, long an ally, because of lack of reassurance that arms which we supplied would not be used in Cyprus.

We consider both of these actions detrimentally to our foreign relations politically motivated and totally naive.

The point is that we cannot have an effective foreign policy unless Congress and the administration are in agreement on our international priorities.

Human Needs

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — What are the basic needs of human beings if they are to live out their lives with meaning? This is one of the questions that comes up persistently in all my dialogues with students during my teaching in the past few months both at Pomona and at San Diego.

Abraham Maslow wrote of the "hierarchy of needs." I don't believe needs are greater or lesser, as values are. All the rock-bottom ones are quite simply human imperatives. I am not speaking here of survival needs, like nourishment, shelter, clothing, bodily health. They are important enough, in the sense that unless they are filled the others become academic.

I speak rather of psychological needs —

— Security: Just as growth is not possible without freedom to make decisions, so it is not possible without the security which keeps fear and panic from overwhelming us. This sets the whole social environment of political and economic institutions, of systems of law, of the administration of justice. We sometimes take legal and police systems for granted. Certainly we must rage against their injustices and insist on equal justice for all. But if the frame and physical and psychic security were not there we would miss it sorely.

— Belonging: Human beings cannot live in isolation. They need not only a sense of the here and now but roots in history, in tradition, in soil and place. They need a sense of belonging not only to other human beings but to family and community, society, to the groups with which they work and strive, to institutions that will live after their own deaths and will give extension to their lives. This is human connectedness. When the connections are broken we feel estranged and out away.

— Selfhood: We cannot care about others unless we have a sense of self and know who we are as individual persons. — becoming uniquely oneself. This is important as an antidote to the pressures toward conformity, massism and the homogenizing of life. But the fact is that self doesn't exist when it is cut away from the whole web of relations to others. This is the meaning of the "identity" movements of our time, which seek to find selfhood by recognizing linkage ("black is beautiful," "sisterhood is powerful").

— Struggle: This is the human need we are most likely to overlook. The Greeks, with their agon, knew that human life is a constant wrestling, with others, with self. In every human life, as in every society, there is a need for experiment, risk, danger, hard ground. If young people don't find hard ground at hand they have to create it.

— Fulfillment: There is a need complete fulfillment, but there is a need constantly to press further toward the full human potential. I am speaking here of work and play, of caring, of loving, of erotic expressiveness, of the whole affectional life. If that life is stunted, if the needs for love are denied, then the personality grows narrow and mean.

I leave for the end two human needs that are in danger of being thrust aside in an individualistic society — belonging and belonging.

— Belonging: Human beings cannot live in isolation. They need not only a sense of the here and now but roots in history, in tradition, in soil and place. They need a sense of belonging not only to other human beings but to family and community, society, to the groups with which they work and strive, to institutions that will live after their own deaths and will give extension to their lives. This is human connectedness. When the connections are broken we feel estranged and out away.

— Believing: Not everything important in life is bounded by reason and the world of senses. There are realities that go beyond both and stretch the human being toward the transcendental and the sacred, toward what cannot be seen, touched and proved but is nevertheless essential to living and dying. No societies we know are without some form of religion, art and faith, which argues that they form deep human needs. A vacuum of belief becomes an inner emptiness.

— These are not instincts nor drives, as the terms are most often used. They are quite simply needs, and to formulate them is to suggest some of the meaning that clings to the lives of all of us.

Governor Delivers Budget Message

Gov. Ella T. Grasso asked recession-weary Connecticut to tighten its belts and pay additional taxes to balance an "austerity" budget of $1.432 billion. In her budget message last night, she asked for several tax increases including a one cent increase in the sales tax. (UPI photo)

State Budget

House Speaker James J. Kenney said, "If the governor, indeed any of us in the majority, had our druthers, the international, national and state economy would permit all of us to do much more than the realistic state of the economy permits."

Just paying the interest on past debts, $164 million, is the third largest single item of state expense and will amount to more than 11 cents out of every tax dollar, Mrs. Grasso offered little solace to hard pressed local governments beyond preserving existing levels of aid.

Potential Deficit
Mrs. Grasso said her Republican predecessor, Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, didn't help matters by leaving a potential deficit of $100 million for the current fiscal year. She said she has reduced the gap to $65.5 million but recommended that it be bonded through the short term notes to be repaid over five years. When Meskill took office four years ago, he inherited a $24 million deficit from the Democrats which he paid off by borrowing over a 10-year period. Although $8.8 million will go to pay higher salaries for some state employees, Mrs. Grasso said there will be no general pay hikes or even cost of living increases.

Welfare Increase
She said she has reduced the welfare rolls due to rising unemployment.

Other Tax Yields
The higher tax on cigarettes, from 21 cents to 25 cents per pack, will yield $12 million and an increase from 8 per cent to 9 per cent in the corporation business tax will bring in $17.5 million in new revenues, she said.

Fees for drivers licenses and auto registrations will be increased to bring in an additional $14.9 million. She also asked for the merging of the state General and Highway Funds, eliminating the earmarking of gasoline and highway user taxes exclusively for highways.

Rejecting proposals for an equalized education funding program, Mrs. Grasso raised school spending from $383.3 million to $376.6 million. The governor set capital expenditures for large construction projects at $17.9 million, the smallest since the early 1950's. However, there is a backlog of more than $1.5 billion in bonds authorized but not yet spent.

Aid for Towns
Municipalities will receive $388.8 million in state aid, nearly three times as much as 10 years ago and $6 million in added revenue sharing funds, she said.

The 1 per cent increase in the state sales tax is expected to bring in an additional $88 million in revenues, she said. The hike from 8 per cent to 9 per cent in the capital gains and dividends tax will produce an anticipated $39.6 million, she said.

Reaction to Grasso Budget

surprise. I didn't think I'd ever see anyone change his or her mind so quickly and about so many things after a successful campaign.

Same Old Gang Back
"It's clear what we have here is the same old gang from the 60s back again, doing the same old discredited things all over again."

Odegar insisted the budget could have been cut more, without the need for new taxes.

Growth Curtailment Feared
Said Kravitz, "There must be other means to practice austerity in order to meet the state's budget needs. Certainly, taxes which would curtail the growth of Connecticut business and industry aren't, in my opinion, the best means."

However, he disagreed with Gov. Grasso's recommendations.

Vernon Democrats Choose Lester Baum as Town Chairman

BARBARA RICHMOND
Lester Baum of Rockville was elected chairman of the Vernon Democratic Town Committee Thursday night and his wife, Devra, who has been vice-chairman, announced she will resign that position. The meeting also, on a second ballot, elected two deputy sheriffs, Jane McCarthy and Pasquale Deyorio.

Baum is replacing James Roche who resigned as chairman due to changes in his job situation. Baum has been active on the town committee and also headed the campaign for Sen. Christopher Dodd in Vernon. He also served as chairman of the Vernon Redevelopment Commission and was the signer of the contract that saw the project get under way and completed.

Mrs. Baum, who is also a member of the Vernon Board of Education, said, "As expected as possible I will resign as vice chairman." Prior to last night's election of her husband she had indicated if he were elected she would resign. There were eight persons who indicated interest in being named deputy sheriffs for Tolland County. High Sheriff Frank Curran told the town committee he would allow two deputies from Vernon.

Before the balloting started, one of the candidates, Lawrence Ierardi, withdrew his name. Also before the vote was taken, a letter was read from Sen. Robert Houley of Vernon asking the committee to be obligated to name a proposal concerning the naming of the deputies. He asked the committee to be obligated to name the deputies to present all of them to the high sheriff and to let him choose which two he wanted. He said that voting might turn into a popularity contest and the persons chosen will be working with Curran, not the town committee.

planned to be routed through a 15-inch pipe. Fill amounting to a two-foot depth for 12 feet is contemplated for the driveway. Mikok said he felt any work in a wetland area should be limited to the dry season. The commission will send a copy of the plan to Conservation Commission Chairman, John Hubbard showing the lots that are affected by the wetlands regulations. Commission members agreed to view the site as soon as weather permits. Chairman Salvatore Mastandrea said the zoning regulation under revision for the past several years are in the final stages of preparation for public hearings. Tentative plans are to begin hearings in April.

DeTolla said he supported Houley's recommendation because he feels Vernon should have more deputies. He said Curran owed a lot to Vernon for his being elected. It was agreed to send the remaining names to the high sheriff to be considered should there be vacancies. Baum said he will contact Curran to see if it is possible that more deputies could be named from Vernon. Leo B. Flaherty, Jr. said he thinks it is possible. On the first ballot the four top vote-getters were: Pasquale Deyorio, 20; Nicolina Therault, 19; Jane McCarthy, 13; and Arthur Garafalo 10.

On the second ballot Mrs. McCarthy and Deyorio were the top vote-getters and were declared the new deputies. Both winners thanked the committee for its support. Mrs. McCarthy, who has served as vice chairman of the committee, referred to Houley's proposal as a "mini-coup."

proval came after the investigation permitting duplex houses had been suspended. The court's decision provides that the permits be issued if the subdivision application conforms to other zoning, building and sanitary code provisions. Totten told the commission he does not feel it could make any stipulations relative to submission of a plan of development for the property in the Hebron Center Business Zone if the zone depth were increased to 1,000-feet as requested by Atty. Bruce Kalom on behalf of Aurelio Michael and the Hebron Development Corporation. Seniors to Meet There will be a meeting of senior citizens, Thursday, at 1 p.m. at the Glead Congregational Church in the social room.

meetings with the exception of the senator, representative, members of the Town Council and Board of Education. In the latter case they will be $8 required to attend one quarter of the meetings. Failure to comply with this rule would lead to the delinquent member receiving a letter asking he or she to resign from the committee. Jacobs expressed concern because, "Some members do not feel any responsibility to the committee and people who do not come to meetings or participate are unfair to the rest of the members who do."

Terminating his motion a well-thought out one, Jacobs said it would place a moral responsibility on each member to participate or drop out and would set up guidelines for those who join in the future. Robert Schwartz said he liked the intent of the motion but felt it should be modified to just start keeping attendance records and evaluate them next year. Flaherty said when the town committee was self-perpetuating something like Jacobs' proposal was needed, but he said it isn't needed now when the committee members are elected by all registered Democrats.

Chairman Baum, however, said even though Jacobs' motion did not pass, that he will have the secretary take the attendance at each meeting. Baum, noting he would like to start next November's election campaign with a full treasury, announced the committee will conduct an "anti-inflation" raffle in the spring. Tickets will be $1 and the first prize will be 50 pounds of steak. Flaherty and Nicholas Pawluk were named to take care of the legal aspects.

Edmund Gallagher, 30, of 972 Main St., Manchester, was charged Thursday with two counts of third-degree assault and when taken to the police station was arrested on a warrant issued by Common Pleas Court 19 charging him with issuing bad checks.

Police said the assault charges stemmed from the investigation of a disturbance at the home of Gallagher's estranged wife. He was released on a $500 non-surety bond. Walter Deane, 20, of 82 Eldridge St., Manchester, was issued a written warning for driving too fast for conditions in connection with a two-car accident at Vernon Circle, Thursday.

Police said a car driven by Betty A. Riley of Broad Brook was traveling south and was making a left turn and Deane was traveling north and the two collided. Ms. Riley was admitted to Rockville General Hospital for treatment of injuries and Deane was treated and released. All of those charged are scheduled to appear in Court of Common Pleas 19, Rockville, Feb. 25. Vernon Police said the traffic control signal at the intersection of Rt. 83, Regan, and Dart Hill Rds. is operating on caution until the state has the parts to fix it for regular operation.

School Budget Request Shows 14.18% Increase

COVENTRY

The proposed budget presented by the Board of Education by Dr. Arnold Elman, superintendent of schools, calls for expenditures of $2,740,316, a 14.18 per cent increase over last year's budget of $2,400,000. It provides continuation of existing programs, additions to the staff, extension of the Sequential Learning Program by one grade level and the addition of a new program in math in kindergarten through Grade 8.

Except for salary items the budget is up $213,277 over last year's and this 8.88 per cent increase is due largely to increased cost of fuel and utilities. Robert Schwartz said he liked the intent of the motion but felt it should be modified to just start keeping attendance records and evaluate them next year. Flaherty said when the town committee was self-perpetuating something like Jacobs' proposal was needed, but he said it isn't needed now when the committee members are elected by all registered Democrats.

Holly Argiros adds the last flowers to an arrangement at Krause Florist and Greenhouse on Hartford Rd., where she is employed as a floral designer. A Vernon girl, she had her first training in work with flowers at Rockville High School. (Herald photo by Pinto)

When a daughter was born on Christmas to Mr. and Mrs. George Argiros of Vernon 20 years ago, they named her Holly. It seems a most suitable name for a girl who has chosen, as her occupation, work with flowers.

Now a floral designer with Krause Florist and Greenhouse in Manchester, Holly got her start in floriculture at Rockville High School. Although enrolled in a business course, she got permission to spend two periods a day in the plant science courses taught by Neal Landers in the vocational agricultural department of the high school.

Before graduation in 1973, Holly started working out of school hours for Paul Buetner Florist on Burnside Ave., East Hartford, now operated by Paul's son, Robert. After high school she continued at the Buetner shop full time. She moved to the Krause Greenhouse last June. She has continued to learn from Mr. Buetner and Mr. Krause but feels deeply grateful to Neal Landers for the good start he gave her in growing and arranging flowers.

Holly also was following in the footsteps of her older sister, Suzanne, who had similar training in Rockville High School and worked at the Buetner flower shop for some time.

Perhaps 'Plant Doctor'? Holly thinks she would now like to keep her regular job with Mr. Krause but offer her services, outside of business hours, as a "plant doctor." She would make house calls, by appointment, to diagnose the ailments of plants that are not doing well and give advice on how to treat them.

Some of her no one who now offers such a service but she has many questions which she answers as best she can over the telephone. She realizes it is difficult, and sometimes impossible, to know what is wrong with a plant without seeing it.

When we called to get a picture of Holly at work, she was ready to start an arrangement planned to look well on an end-table. She had decided that the form of the arrangement should be triangle, widest at the bottom and tapering to a point at the top.

"She began with a cube of 'oasis,' soaked in water and fitting the white glass container she had chosen. The material is soft enough to permit a flower stem to be thrust into it and firm enough to hold the flower in place. The water will last for many hours.

Holly began with sprigs of boxwood and leather-leaf fern which she broke with her fingers from larger branches and placed to form a base for the blossoms which would stand higher. These were pink carnations, small lavender pom-pom chrysanthemums and, as accents, a few yellow daisies and small pink Sweetheart roses.

Come Long Distance The chrysanthemums were grown in the Krause greenhouse, but many flowers, at any season, must be purchased from a wholesaler. Some of them may have been grown as far away as Florida or California, even South America.

A busy season for florists is just ahead, with Valentine's Day to be followed by Easter, Mothers' Day and Memorial Day and flowers must either be grown or ordered from a wholesaler to fill the holiday demand. There are weddings and funerals at less predictable time and the florists must always be prepared for these occasions.

How's Business? How are the retail florists doing under difficult economic conditions? "Hurling," said George Krause.

He must buy not less than 50,000 gallons of fuel oil, Mr. Krause said, to heat his greenhouse and display area. The latest bill he paid was at 38 cents a gallon and his father remembers when oil cost 5 cents a gallon. Prices of other supplies and flowers are higher also and orders from customers are down.

Dying Child Will Visit Dream Spot

PEMBERTON, N.J. (UPI) — Blue-eyed Debbie Bogardus, 9, has a lot on her mind these days. She's going to Disney World. She doesn't know she's dying of leukemia.

Debbie, a third-grader whose short brown hair just touches her ears, goes to a Philadelphia hospital every day for treatment. Doctors offer little hope. They say she will probably die within a year.

But three neighbors say they're determined to give Debbie anything she wants in these last months. They've planned a fund-raising benefit Sunday, completed with cake sales, auctions and 12 bands.

The New York Jets and Philadelphia Eagles professional football teams gave two autographed footballs to auction.

"The committee will pay for anything Debbie wants to do in whatever time she has left," says one of the neighbors, Betty Nixon.

Most of all, that means a trip from snow-covered New Jersey to Florida, to fantasy-filled Disney World.

The Loveliest Oasis In Tunisia

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

NEFTA, Tunisia (UPI) — The bus topped a rise in the road and my first thought was that the bright band of green shimmering in the dull brown desert ahead was a mirage.

A few minutes later, however, we rolled into the oasis of Nefta near the Chott (salt flat) el-Djerid on the fringes of the Sahara deep in the interior of west central Tunisia. While no mirage, Nefta could offer the traveler the beauty and charm dreams are often made of.

The green is groves of date palms — about 250,000 in all — watered by 152 natural springs and countless deep wells which were bored in the mid-1950s. Our Touristic bus guide, Albert Tüsch, said Nefta is considered the loveliest oasis in Tunisia — if not all of North Africa — and its dates are among the finest anywhere.

It is quiet and serene and the tempo is more geared to camels than Cadillac. Modern fashions may be popular in Tunis and other major cities, but traditions are strong here, and the Berber villagers still dress in cloaks and robes like their ancestors, and women hide their faces from strangers.

Nefta was once a major stop for camel caravans crossing the trackless desert to and from Algeria, only a few miles away. The paved road from points north and east ends here now. But taxis by camel or four-wheel-drive vehicles can be arranged for those who would explore further.

Don't try to go alone. We took a drive into the Sahara in

Taiwan: The Home of The Tallest Buddha

Among the many tourist attractions on Taiwan is a Buddha reported to be the tallest in the world. It sits high atop a hill in a park called Pokusha accessible by a spiral staircase which leads to beautiful views of the surrounding countryside.

Located about 180 miles by air from Taipei to Kaohsiung at the southern end of this tobacco leaf-shaped island, and about 230 miles via a more interesting train ride.

There are also good roads, except during and shortly after the typhoon season, extending west to east over the mountains to lush east shore areas like Hualien and Ilan.

The flight from Taipei to Kaohsiung is just over an hour and it is a rapid transition from teeming commercial activity to the more languid life associated with the tropics. The people are more Taiwanese than Chinese and the economy is more of the bicycle era than Taipei's motorcycle-auto prosperity.

There are 775,000 people in Kaohsiung and there are excellent hotels plus exciting night life. The city streets are a mixture of bicycles carrying workers into town and tiny children eating from rice bowls alongside a mobil lunch wagon.

There are many things to see in and around Taichung, the Buddha being the most famous. There is the rose garden of Yuan Lin, 30 miles from the city; beautifully blue Sun Moon Lake, 2,506 feet above sea level and Taiwan's top honeymoon resort.

Back in the city, the provincial capital of Taiwan, there are fine restaurants featuring six different mainland Chinese cuisines and night life of every description.

Central Taiwan also offers Yu Shan, or Mt. Morrison, the island's loftiest peak at 12,959 feet. Mt. Morrison is higher than Japan's famous Mt. Fujiyama and is a favorite of mountain climbers.

Cross-island auto drives over the central mountain range and offers a splendid view of Taroko Gorge near Hualien. It is a canyon cut through solid marble and granite.

For those not wishing to stay too long in the Taichung area, Taipei is only three hours away by fast train.

The fountains and tourist rest stop, amid ornate aquatic gardens, are favored with a beautiful mountain background on the cross-island highway connecting eastern and western populated areas of Taiwan.

UConn Skein Ends at Five

NEW YORK (UPI) - Manhattan College has broken the University of Connecticut's five-game basketball winning streak.

The Huskies were upended by Manhattan Thursday night at Madison Square Garden in New York 77-69.
UConn trailed by as much as 17 points in the second half, but reserve Rod Bass caught fire and netted five straight shots in the final minutes to narrow the margin.

Most Connecticut teams fared better back on their own courts. Behind sophomore Owen Mahorn's career-high 24 points, Fairfield University upped highly regarded Boston College 80-74.

Sacred Heart, led by Tony Trimboli's 37 points, was never headed as it defeated Marist College 96-82 in Bridgeport.

In Hamden, Quinnipiac registered its eighth win in a row by demolishing Southern Connecticut 91-59.
Eastern Connecticut opened its record to 9-9 with a 96-61 win over the University of New Haven in West Haven.

The Australian National Women's Basketball Team made a clean sweep of its American tour by defeating South Carolina's best women college team 65-1 in New Haven.

Manhattan scored the first eight points of the game, but UConn fought back and took a brief two-point lead with about eight minutes remaining in the first half. It was UConn's last lead in the game.

Before an overflow crowd of 3,800 at the Fairfield gymnasium, the Stags, now 9-10, erased an Eagle 4-2 lead and were never headed. Six-foot-seven forward Ralph Rehn canned 14 points in the half to help the Stags to a 45-36 intermission lead.

The Eagles, now 15-6, cut the Stag lead to 73-69 with 3:19 left in game behind the uncanny shooting of 6-6 forward Bob Carrington, who scored a game-high 28 points.

Fairfield's Danny Odums celebrated his 22nd birthday by scoring 13 points, handing out eight assists and hauling in seven rebounds.

In Hamden, Quinnipiac, 13-7, scored the game's first eight points and moved to a 14-point spread with a 38-24 halftime edge. The Braves overwhelmed the Owls in the second half, leading by as much as 37 points with four minutes remaining. Harold Driver led Quinnipiac with 18 points. Roger Flaherty had 10 points for Southern, which slipped to 8-9.

Pacing Eastern Connecticut was Steve Martin with 20 points while teammate Ron Lavigne had 15. Barry Cunningham had a team-high 12 points for the Chargers, who slipped to 6-12.

The Pioneers, ranked second among New England Division 2 teams by United Press International, scored the first eight points of their game and led at the half 49-34. It was Sacred Heart's 17th win against only four losses.

Notre Dame squeaked by St. John's, 68-67, Thursday night in the second half of a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden. However, the box score showed the Irish's leading scorer, Adrian Dantley, with "only" 12 points below his average which ranks him third in the nation among major college scorers.

However, it was Dantley's free throw shooting that made the difference. He left to play that enabled Notre Dame to hang on for its 14th win against seven losses and Coach Digger Phelps said he was pleased with his star's performance.

"I thought he (Dantley) played a great team game," Phelps said. "He's one of the most dedicated players I've ever seen. He's turned into a team player this year."

St. John's, thanks to key walking violation by Dantley, had three shots at the winning basket in the final 21 seconds but failed to hit on any. Guard Frank Alagia's last-second jumper top the top of the key bounced off the rim as the buzzer sounded.

Toby Knight had 16 points for the Irish while Glen Williams had 14 to lead the Redmen.

In the first game of the doubleheader, Manhattan's George Bucsi scored 29 points and led the Jaspers to a 77-69 victory over Connecticut. Tony Hanson was high scorer for Connecticut with 25 points.

In other key games, seventh-ranked Louisville whipped Drake, 88-66, which got by Tulsa, 92-87. Holy Cross edged Providence, 69-68, Duquesne beat Marshall, 83-72. Furman defeated Richmond, 97-88. Fairfield beat Boston College, 89-74. Florida State topped Georgia State, 81-72. Southern Illinois beat St. Louis, 79-83, and Wichita

Third Place Next Goal For Indians in CCIL

By Len Aster
With a CIAC State Basketball Tournament berth safely tucked away in its belt, Manchester High's next goal is third place in the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League (CCIL). The Indians will make the first step towards that target tonight in East Hartford against Penney High.

Also on the local front, East Catholic has a non-conference test tonight in East Hartford against Holy Cross of Waterbury, Cheney Tech is idle.

Manchester, which can finish in a hall as far as Notre Dame and its basketball fans were concerned.

Finley Reduces Unsigned Group

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — At the rate Charles O. Finley is signing players who filed for salary arbitration, he may not have to show up at the American Arbitration Association office again. Less than 36 hours after arriving here for the start of the hearings, Finley, moving out of a whirlwind pace, signed four of the 10 Oakland A's players who sought third-party rulings and was further buoyed Thursday when an arbitrator ruled in his favor in the case of pitcher Ken Holtzman.

Today's arbitration schedule lists Rollie Fingers, but don't be surprised if Finley corrals his ace relief pitcher before the meeting takes place. Even before the hearings began Wednesday, it was revealed that the player front had been breached. Paul Lindblad, scheduled to be heard that afternoon, quietly signed for an estimated $55,000. Holtzman went through with his case that morning and 24 hours later learned that the arbitrator, John A. Hogan, had agreed with Finley's position. That means the left-hander, who won 19 games last year for the three-time world champion A's, will get $93,000 and not the $112,000 he sought.

Jets Tab Ward General Manager

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets have ended their long search for a replacement for Weeb Ewbank as general manager by reaching into one of the most successful organizations in pro football.

The Jets Thursday announced the hiring of Al Ward, vice president for administration for the Dallas Cowboys, to replace Ewbank, who announced his retirement last year after a half century in the game.

"I think the Jets job is among the best in football," said Ward, a former publicity director for the old American Football League and a member of a Dallas organization which had a playoff string of eight years snapped last season. "It's not easy to leave an organization like the Cowboys but this is very, very exciting."

Ward, 47, joined the Cowboys in 1965 and within a year was named assistant to President and General Manager Tex Schramm. He worked his way up to vice president of administration. He also has been public relations director for the Southwest Conference.

Jets' President Phil Iselein, vacationing at the time of the announcement, said Ward was selected from a group of over 20 applicants.

"In our search for a general manager, Al Ward presented the background and experience we were looking for," Iselein said. "Al comes to us from an excellent organization that has a tradition of winning. He has the highest recommendations from the most respected people in football and from Tex Schramm in particular. We feel fortunate at having a man of Al's capabilities join our organization."

Neither Ward nor Iselein was in New York at the time of the announcement.

Ward is expected to join the Jets in three weeks. His duties will include player contract negotiations, the booking of pre-season games, radio and TV contracts, administration of the front office and working closely with Coach Charlie Winter on trade and player development.

Ward will negotiate all contracts except one — Joe Namath's.

Sabres Topple Bruins

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Both teams described it as their most important game of the season. After it was over, Boston Bruins' Coach Don Cherry admitted "We were outplayed."

The Buffalo Sabres held the Bruins to 15 shots on goal and didn't allow high-scoring Phil Esposito a single shot as they defeated Boston 3-1 Thursday night in a rugged defensive battle.

The win moved the Sabres nine points ahead of the Bruins in the National Hockey League Division 4 and gave them the best record in the NHL. "I thought we were up," Cherry said. "But I guess Buffalo was up higher. No excuses. We were just outplayed — outplayed and outplayed."

Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith said his team certainly wasn't whalers this season have been Rick Ley, left, and Brad Selwood. Both were members of Team Canada last year in competition against the Russians. Tonight the Whalers entertain Indianapolis at 7:30 at the Hartford Civic Center.

'Bully Boys' Also Win With Show of Finesse

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Philadelphia Flyers are the "bully boys" of the National Hockey League but they also can win with finesse.

Marinero's Blades 1, Andre Lacroix scored his 27th goal and picked up two assists in San Diego's win over Baltimore. Lacroix tied a WHA record by scoring in his 16th consecutive game.

Nardighes 5, Roadrunners 3 Michel Parizeau and Marc Tardif scored a goal and three assists each to power Quebec over Phoenix. The victory over the West Division's second-place Runners increased Quebec's lead in the Canadian Division to six points over Toronto.

Likable Englishman Early Classic Leader

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — and it was tricky at times, but it didn't affect my game. In fact, I was quite happy with the weather. This would have been a great day in England."

It was an embarrassing day for the local chamber of commerce but more than 10,000 fans trooped out to Torrey Pines on a day better suited for duck hunting than golf.

There was little else he could accomplish in Europe after leading the British Vardon Trophy race four times, winning the Eisenhower Cup, the French Open and the Italian Open once plus playing on a Walker Cup team.

So, last year he decided to try his hand on the American tour. He finished second in the Monsanto Open and won $11,913 in half a dozen appearances. Then, he went to the PGA Qualifying School and won his card.

Oosterhuis, who is 26, stands 6-5 and weighed over 200 pounds, started out in the Phoenix Open this year and has been going ever since, even though he missed the cut in Phoenix.

He didn't play well enough in any of the next four events to distinguish himself but his game started to take shape last week at the Bob Hope Desert Classic in Palm Springs, Calif.

Thursday, on a cloudy and overcast day with a breeze blowing in off the Pacific Ocean, Oosterhuis' game came alive as he shot a six-under-par 65 to stroke his lead over Artie McNickie, Mark Hayes and John Schroeder in the opening round of the $170,000 Andy Warhol Open.

"I felt for the first time that I was playing the way I can," said Oosterhuis. "To this point I don't believe I have played my best. Oh, the wind was there

Lydall Abandons Interest In Buying Torrington Firm

Lydall Inc. of Manchester—a diversified manufacturer with eight plants in five states—is continuing to consider expansion by acquisition of other firms, but the company's latest interest has been abandoned.

Lydall President Millard H. Pryor said today his company has concluded that a financially troubled Torrington firm—the Fitzgerald Manufacturing Co.—wasn't worth what it would cost.

The Torrington gasket manufacturer has been in financial straits for several months. Last week, the New England Merchants National Bank of Boston, which holds a note for more than $400,000, took possession of the premises.

"We'd been looking at the company for a couple of months before the bank takeover," Pryor said today, "but we'd turned it down."

"When the bank took possession, they asked us to take another look," Pryor said. "We did, and concluded we weren't in a position to meet the financial requirements they needed."

"The business itself was pretty run down," Pryor said, "and it would cost too much to bring it back."

Pryor said Lydall acquisition of Fitzgerald made sense when Lydall first started looking at the Torrington company. The gasket manufacturer used materials similar to those used in some of Lydall's operations, he said.

Although consideration of the Fitzgerald Manufacturing Co. has been abandoned, Pryor said today Lydall has a continuing interest in new acquisitions and expansions.

However, Pryor said he doesn't foresee any expansion in the near future.

Lydall Inc. was created in 1969 when Colonial Board Co.—one of Manchester's oldest industries—merged with the Superior Steel Ball Co. of New Britain.

Lydall's five divisions make paperboard; fiberboard; specialty paper products; steel, carbon, and specialty alloy products; and hard magnetic iron ferrite powder used in making flexible magnets.

Lydall's preliminary earnings for 1974 were up 12 percent to 67 cents a share, despite a company change to a more conservative method of inventory valuation. The company's sales in 1974 totaled $27.6 million.

Dime Bus Ride Monday

One-way rides on Connecticut Co. buses will cost only ten cents Monday (George Washington's Birthday) in a state Department of Transportation promotion coordinated with sales events in many communities.

The last time a person could ride a Connecticut Co. bus for a dime was in 1950, the department said.

"We urge all Connecticut citizens to travel by bus on George Washington's Birthday," Transportation Commissioner Joseph Burns said. "It's a good transportation bargain."

Sad Saxes Will Play For Rotary

The Sad Saxes, a group from the Sphinx Temple Shrine Band who get together and play for the fun of it, will make one of its rare appearances outside of Shrine and Masonic functions at the Manchester Rotary Club's 35th anniversary Tuesday evening at the Manchester Country Club.

In the 1940's, Ed Dew of West Hartford asked his Sunday School class to go Christmas caroling and had the bright idea of having a group from the Shrine Band as instrumental background. Dew plays sax.

After the sing, the musicians joined in a jam session and enjoyed it so much they later invited other band members to join their informal sessions.

There are two Rotarians in the group of nine that will appear at the Rotary anniversary; Rog Driggs on fiddle, a past president of the East Hartford Club, and Gib Mather on trumpet, a charter member and past president of the Deep River Club.

Hal Turkington, managing editor of The Manchester Herald who plays tuba with the ensemble, says, "Our repertoire is limited to music of a sweet flavor; music with a beat, not beaten to death."

Dr. Bernard J. Sheridan, a charter member and past president of Manchester Rotary, will speak on Rotary International's 70th Anniversary which also occurs this month.

M. Kenneth Ostrinsky has prepared sound tapes of charter members who will not be able to attend Tuesday's meeting, and will also show a few slides of past Rotary events.

There will be a social hour at 6 with dinner at 7.

All charter members of the club and their wives have been invited to attend.

Students Donate To World Hunger

Students of team 7B at Iling Junior High School recently contributed $85 to the Manchester Council on World Hunger.

In a team effort, students denied themselves candy, ice cream, soda, and "all junk food" for a week. The money they saved was collected each day.

One boy "borrowed" a paper route for a week so he could raise money to donate to the fund. Other students also donated their earned money.

In the spring, the students of team 7B plan to join an eighth grade team to help raise more money for the hungry of the world. They plan to have a car wash, bake sale, and tag sale.

Mrs. Lee Whitesell, English teacher, organized the effort.
