Warmth Wilts Washington

James, Francis and Edward Spósito, all in their 20s and sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Spósito of 145 W. Center St. have been wanting to do something with snow all winter and seized the opportunity Saturday to create a likeness of George Washington. However today's warmth and sun quickly eroded the features of the nation's first president.

Iran Buys PanAm Stock

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the condition that Iran would not try to take over the airline or interfere with its defense commitments, purchase of a sizable share of Pan American World Airways by Iran has been approved. The deal must still be approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board. The State Department announced Sunday the U.S. government gave permission "in principle."

Hunger Strike Ends

DUBLIN (UPI) — Twelve Irish Republican Army prisoners, who went on a hunger strike at Portlaoise Prison Jan. 3, have ended their 45-day strike. Joe Cahill, the veteran IRA commander who negotiated on behalf of the prisoners, said the government had agreed to grant imprisoned IRA men "special prisoner" status. Within minutes of the announcement Sunday night that talks earlier in the day had resolved the dispute, the strikers began taking glucose and sugar.

Eritreans Quit Jobs

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — As many as 20,000 Eritreans living in Addis Ababa have quit their jobs and are returning to their native province. The military government has detained several hundred other Eritreans considered possible sympathizers to the rebel cause and purged both the air force and navy of possible Eritrean dissidents. The detained Eritreans were interned in camps in the south of the country.

Balance of Power Assessed

NORWICH (UPI) — Former Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban says assessments of the balance of power in the Middle East should not be confined to a count of warheads and airplanes. "We need to think hard about balance of power," Eban said Saturday. He suggested abstract matters such as the countries' moral vitality, scientific talents and tenacity for survival be included.

The Weather

Cloudy tonight with intermittent rain in all sections except rain and snow in higher elevations. Lowest temperatures in the 30s. Rain ending early Tuesday morning and partial clearing Tuesday. Geneva Talks Called Fruitful

GENEVA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko admitted differences today but said their Geneva talks were fruitful and that both sides are moving towards the removal of outstanding differences.

Kissinger and Gromyko, standing side by side, made statements to newsmen after five hours and 15 minutes of talks in Kissinger's hotel suite during which they tried to align their rival policies in the Middle East and on other matters. They had engaged earlier in sharp exchanges but made no mention of this today.

Gromyko spoke first, in Russian with English interpretation, and said of many issues discussed he and Kissinger found their views close and in some cases coinciding.

Positive Direction

"But I will not divulge a secret, and I am sure the secretary of state will agree, that there are questions on which our views do not exactly coincide," he said. "But it is necessary to work in the direction of removing these differences. The United States and Soviet Union have covered a great distance in a positive direction."

Kissinger, replying, said "I confirm the foreign minister's evaluation of our meeting." He said, "I shall report to the President that we are moving within the spirit of previous agreements."

Both men stressed the importance of the Vladivostok agreement in November between President Ford and Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev setting out guidelines for a new strategic arms limitation agreement. He said he and Gromyko had attempted to bring their views "into closer harmony" on issues where they did not coincide.

Off to London

Kissinger was flying almost immediately to London for talks with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and then flying to Zurich Tuesday noon for lunch with the Shah of Iran before going on to Paris that evening. Wilson flew back from Moscow today.

Ford Asks Americans To Show Confidence

ALEXANDRIA, VA. (UPI) — President Ford, celebrating the birthday of George Washington, urged Americans today to "demonstrate our confidence in our beloved nation and a future that will flow from the glory of the past."

Ford made the remarks following the unveiling of the Gerald R. Ford medallion plaque at the George Washington Masonic National Memorial. He is the 14th President to belong to a Masonic order.

Ford recalled that Washington, in a 1798 letter to the Grand Lodge of Maryland, led the order that he "conceived it to be the indispensable duty of every American...to come forward in support of the government of his choice, and to give all the aid in his power towards maintaining that independence which we have so dearly purchased."

"Such involvement by every American is as essential today as it was in George Washington's day," said Ford. "And I ask that we resolve together to honor George Washington and America by perpetuating the national heritage he engendered through the principles that guide our order: friendship, morality, and brotherly love."

The President spoke against a background of confrontation with Congress over his economic-energy recovery plan and the post-Watergate aftermath of skepticism of government in the land.

"As our nation approaches its 200th anniversary," Ford said, "we live in a challenging time. It was almost 200 years ago, in the darkest days of our War for Independence, that George Washington answered a question that is asked today. The question is whether things are as bad as some say."

"George Washington answered: 'We should never despair, our situation has unpromising and has changed for the better, so I trust it will again. If new difficulties arise, we must only put forth new exertions and proportion our efforts to the exigency of the times.'"

Directors Shift Meeting To Thursday Evening

The Manchester Board of Directors will meet Thursday (at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room) instead of Tuesday, as originally planned.

The two-day extension will permit the Community Development Advisory Committee to meet Wednesday — for considering a reshuffled list of priorities for a

The question was whether Russia would try to obstruct Kissinger's next step toward a Middle East peace agreement or help him. A senior American official said that so far the Russians had been neither very helpful nor notably constructive. Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev attacked Kissinger's mission last week in veiled terms.

Kissinger's first meeting with Gromyko Sunday night was described by informed sources as businesslike punctuated by some sharp exchanges.

Gromyko, wearing a dark suit, arrived promptly at 10.30 a.m. at the Intercontinental Hotel and was taken directly to Kissinger's top floor suite. Gromyko gave a gesture of mock surprise when he saw a group of waiting newsmen and television cameras, but he made no statement.

Before meeting Gromyko, Kissinger conferred for 20 minutes with Roger Gallopin, President of the Executive Council of the International Committee of the Red Cross.

MIAS Discussed

Gallopin assured Kissinger the Red Cross will continue its efforts to get some news of the 2,300 Americans still missing or unaccounted for in Indochina.

Frank Sieverts, a special assistant at the State Department dealing with those missing in action, attended the meeting.

Role of United States In Hunger Fight Debated

United Press International In the midst of inflation, recession and unemployment, the debate continues: Can and should the United States help feed the world?

The answer depends on whom you talk to. "The food situation on this planet has never been more precarious," the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame, said recently.

"We in the developed world are consuming almost a ton of food grains annually per person while the poorest barely subsist on 400 pounds a year. Some will say there is not enough money to help, but this rings false in a world that spends more than 200 billion for armaments each year."

United States Chided

He chided the United States for its nationalistic self-interest.

But others, such as George Reinhart, sociology professor at University of Alabama-Birmingham, are not so sure.

"I vacillate in my own opinion on whether we should help solve the world's food problem and so do many of my colleagues," he said.

"If the United States could sell all the food it could grow on the land not in use now, it might be worthwhile. But the hungry countries don't have enough money to buy the food much less to buy the other materials needed to help them make their own land usable. That means it would come out of taxes — ours," Reinhart said.

A Moral Question

"It raises a real moral question if it is better in the long run to raise the levels of other countries as high or at least close to our own and risk accelerating the crunches — energy shortages, food shortages and the like — so they will hit a cataclysmic end earlier."

Some argue the United States can help feed the world's hungry — but not alone. Dr. Walter Willis, Southern Illinois University-Carbondale, said he does not believe in putting every available acre of land into production because "our land is too valuable a resource. If we are talking about selling (food) for dollars, we are talking about a different thing. We can use some of those dollars to buy oil."

Export Expertise

Rather than attempt to become the world's breadbasket, Dr. Glenn Hall, dean of the University of Tennessee College of Agriculture, says the United States should export its expertise and technology.

However, he said, any program should be considered carefully to prevent creating more problems than solving, such as happens when advance technology is introduced too rapidly in a developing nation.

Willis said there was a need for a long-range plan of highly competent agricultural technical assistance. "Our legislators operate on an annual basis. We spend all our time putting out brush fires," he said.

Population Increase

To some, the answer involves more than agriculture. It must deal with the world's spiraling population increase.

"It just isn't in the cards for our (agricultural) productive effort to do anything to this (population) tidal wave...," James Bray, senior economist, Stanford Research Institute, said.

"Unless the United States dropped everything else — and giving it (food) away could really make a dent — the problem has got to be solved by population control and teaching undeveloped countries how to make it on their own."

nard Mussman, apparently took a commission on the sale, investigators said. Mussman is a silent partner with Meskill and Manafort in a $210,000 commercial building in Rocky Hill, which houses no state agencies.

Credibility Gap vs. Weekend Gap; Or, One Thing George Didn't Do

By SOL R. COHEN

Now that we're in the post-Watergate period we know the meaning of a lot of top-level phrases we once wondered about.

How many of us are there who don't know the meaning of credibility gap, or executive privilege, to name just two?

All right — so you know. So, let's see what we've got here.

What we've got is the very first president of the United States — the father of our country and the first of our chief executives to say, "I cannot tell a lie." Here's the revered George Washington making himself suspect — and all because he told everyone his birthdate. He said it's Feb. 22.

But, look what else we've got here. It's our Congress and our state legislature, comprised of sincere men and women always looking out for our well-being. These fine, upright, good and honest individuals tell us today, Feb. 17, is George Washington's birthday.

They say they know best and that it doesn't matter to them at all that all school books, all encyclopedias, all legal records indicate George Washington indeed was born on Feb. 22.

We'll grant you what these legislators say may have nothing to do with executive privilege, but we insist it has a lot to do with credibility gap.

But, say these shining examples for the youth of America, the credibility gap isn't important. What's important, they explain, is the weekend gap.

They're talking about a Saturday-

The consideration follows proposals made last Tuesday by the Board of Directors, which has a March 1 deadline for filing its applications for the grant.

Because the original priority list was for an anticipated $470,000 grant (lowered to $301,000 when the federal agency administering the funds discovered it had made an error in computation), the directors proposed a new list. They gave top priority to acquisition of land for housing for the elderly, next for a facility for the handicapped, and next ramps for the handicapped at public buildings.

It proposed low priority (in the first year of the anticipated grant) for improvements in the Downtown area and for revolving funds for providing loans for rehabilitation of property.

Manchester anticipates grants of $301,000 in each of the next three years and an undetermined amount in each of the following two years.

Sunday-Monday weekend for some and a Sunday-Monday weekend for others — a holiday for doing things and going places they can't anyway, because the energy crunch we're in tells them not to.

But wait a minute. If it's only the Monday holiday that concerns them, then what happened a few years ago when Feb. 22, the true Washington's Birthday, indeed fell on a Monday?

Was the holiday celebrated that day? Not at all. It was celebrated that year by law — hold on to your hats — the Monday before, Feb. 15.

The whole thing brings up an interesting possibility.

If George Washington's birthday legally is the third Monday in February, as federal and state laws say it is, and if George Washington were getting Social Security benefits today (maybe even supplementary payments and food stamps), he just might be receiving the following letter from federal officials:

"Dear Mr. Washington: It is with deep regret and sorrow we must inform you you must return all Social Security checks sent you since your retirement from active federal employment. Please call our Washington, D.C. office, so we may review your situation. Please save all pertinent papers for the audit we will conduct.

"In a routine check of the application you filed for Social Security benefits, we note you listed your birth date as Feb. 22, 1732. We note also federal and state laws pinpoint your birthday this year as Feb. 17.

"In listing your birth date other than what federal and state laws declare it to be, you have, in effect — and we hesitate to use the words but can find no others to fit the situation — perpetrated a fraud.

"As a consequence, you must forfeit all benefits received by you, plus all interest. We regret the statute of limitations prevents us from prosecuting you for fraud.

"We regret also that this country's millions of school children — at least until new text books are printed — will continue to read you were born Feb. 22, 1732.

"Shame on you for the sham, Mr. Washington!"

Scott's World:

Lucie Arnez vs. Lucille Ball

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lucie Arnez has waited all her 23 years to star in a television show, and what happens when her dream comes true?

The show will be seen March 1 opposite a Lucille Ball special with guest star Dean Cain. Lucille, of course, is Lucie's mother.

The mother-daughter confrontation is another example of network executive brilliance. Lucie will star in the title role of "Who Is the Black Dahlia?" on NBC. Lucie's special is via CBS. The time for both is 9 p.m.

"When mother and I first heard the news we roared with laughter," Lucie reported the other day. "But the more we thought about it the less funny it got."

"Mother even called CBS and begged them to change the time slot on her show. But they said the schedules had been made up and nothing could be done."

Lucie has no clout at all with NBC. Her moment of triumph is clouded by the certainty she will be clothed by her mother in the ratings.

"As if that weren't bad enough," she sighed, "our show is two hours long. The second hour is up against the Grammy Awards program. Oh, well. It could be worse, but I don't know how."

Lucie is a light-hearted girl with her mother's quick wit. From her father, Desi Arnaz, she inherited more talent as well as dark hair and eyes.

She continues to see her mother regularly, visiting the big family home in Beverly Hills for dinner where young Desi stops by, too. Lucie doesn't see as much of Desi Sr. who lives in Del Mar, Calif.

Lucie, as a young woman, is at the opposite end of the spectrum from Elizabeth Short, the pathologic young woman known as the Black Dahlia who was butchered in an unsolved 1947 Los Angeles murder case.

"I see 9,000 Elizabeth Shorts in Hollywood, trying to become starlets," Lucie said. "They're all from out of town, wide-eyed with curly hair, fancy clothes and too much lipstick. That's how the Black Dahlia was."

Lucie, a daughter of affluence with a soaring career, is actress enough to play the role convincingly — and bright enough to be grateful she never will have to travel the Elizabeth Short route.

Fond of Pickles
Thomas Jefferson had a special fondness for pickles. "On a hot day in Virginia," he wrote, "I know of nothing more comforting than a fine special pickle, brought up trout-like from the sparkling depths of that aromatic jar below stairs in Aunt Sally's cellar."

MCC-Planning Photo Contest and Exhibit

Photography 75, a competition and exhibition open to the general public, will be sponsored April 5-25 at Manchester Community College.

Prizes will be awarded to the top three entries in each of the two divisions. Award-winning prints and selected other entries will be hung in exhibition in the Stairwell Gallery, MCC Hartford Road campus, April 5-25.

Only Washington

It has always been difficult not to become maudlin, to resort to clichés, when talking about George Washington.

"The father of his country." "First in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen." Well-worn phrases like that.

As if by way of compensation, attempts are made from time to time to knock Washington off the distant, towering pedestal he occupies in American history and bring him down to our own size — or lower.

A few years ago, for example, someone made a humorous analysis of the painstakingly detailed expense account Washington submitted to the Continental Congress after the Revolution. While it showed that the general enjoyed his glass of Madeira, it hardly proved he was anything but a scrupulously conscientious public servant.

Disparaging reference is sometimes made to the fact that Washington was a slaveowner, a member of the aristocratic class — ignoring the humanitarianism of the man, especially when viewed against the context of the times in which he lived — ignoring the very real risk he took in losing everything he had, including his life, in a cause far from universally supported by his fellow colonists.

Such attempts to belittle Washington merely prove the opposite of what they intend. When this man is compared with some of the modern world's revolutionary "heroes" he never had a political or ideological opponent shot or imprisoned. He never sought power over anyone — indeed, shunned it. His legacy has been nothing but good.

Even with 200 years of hindsight to benefit them, historians can arrive at no estimate of Washington different from that of his contemporaries: Without him, there would have been no United States of America.

There is simply no other way of putting it.

As Americans approach the Bicentennial, as they restudy the Revolution and its aftermath, it is to be hoped that they will refresh their appreciation of this fact.

Only Washington kept the dream of independence alive in the dark days at the end of 1776, when at one point the Continental Army was reduced to a mere 800 men. Only Washington could have brought the long struggle to its successful conclusion.

Later, when the United States began its experiment under the Constitution, only Washington commanded the affection, respect and confidence needed by its first president to surmount the squabbling rivalries of the nascent political parties and see the infant nation well launched on its course of destiny.

Without George Washington, no United States. What more can possibly be said?

Easy Come, Easy Go

An interesting suggestion has been made to the effect that Uncle Sam might return to Connecticut taxpayers in the form of an income tax rebate, the State of Connecticut will pick up in the increase in sales tax, cigarette tax, and other tax hikes proposed in the state budget.

Since the first rebate check won't be in the hands of John Q. Taxpayer until late May at the earliest and perhaps not until August if we believe the IRS people who will be dispensing the money, the one cent sales tax increase, if the legislature approves it for the July 1 effective date, will erode the rebate one per cent.

Add perhaps another one per cent if the other tax increases are made and then start adding the monthly inflation increases and then...

They, wait a minute.

Congress better hurry up or that rebate will be spent on taxes, inflation, rising costs, etc. before we get it.

Ah, well, easy come, easy go, even if it is our own dough.

As a little sidelight, I might mention my grandson, Steven Schmetz, a kindergarten student at Verplank, who was quite instrumental in my attending. He arrived home from school one day with the names of Columbus' ships after one month of schooling. Grandma had more or less been turning the thought over in her mind but as the old saying goes, "Out of the mouths of babes."

Federal Workers Are Well Paid

WASHINGTON — There are column ideas one promises oneself to get around to some day. That day has arrived for an idea suggested last September by John D. Boente Jr., of the Pittsburgh Pacific Co., of Hibbing, Minn.

In a long, thoughtful and documented letter, Boente's thought is one whose time has come because President Ford has proposed a 5 per cent ceiling on a pay raise due federal government employees next Oct. 1. But there is every sign that Congress will reject the Ford plan and permit wage and salary increases expected to average 8 to 9 per cent that date. After all, most of the nearly 2,500,000 folks on Uncle Sam's payroll also vote.

The concept behind these periodic pay raises is that federal government workers' pay should be kept abreast of wages and salaries paid by private industry. Yet the cold facts show that the average white collar federal worker, nationally, now earns $12,815, and federal employees in the Washington metropolitan area earn an average $15,868. Both figures are well above the national pay average in private industry.

Thanks to friend Boente, some local specifics are available. He enclosed a study by the Minnesota Department of Manpower Services comparing median monthly wages of federal and private industry employees. The study showed that out of 33 positions, the median wage for federal workers in Minnesota was higher in 26 categories, the same in one category, and lower in only six.

As Boente put it: "Our system requires the average experienced typist in private industry to help pay the salary for an experienced typist in government earning 24 per cent more than he or she earns."

Liberals are masters at pointing to defense budgets that increase slightly each year in absolute dollars, and painting them as "bloated," when in fact each year the military retrenches further because of inflation while the Soviet effort accelerates and the gap increases. The liberals always fail to mention that the "social needs" they claim are unmet are the subject of an ever-increasing portion of the budget, with annual increases far outstripping inflation. A decade ago, in the pre-Vietnam era, defense spending was $47.4 billion out of a budget expenditure of $85.5 billion, or almost half the budget. Currently the annual defense spending is only $33.4 billion higher, but the overall budget expenditure is about $217 billion higher. Thus nondefense items increased by more than $18 billion — annually.

Edelin said the optimism dimmed to "concern" as the first day of deliberation passed.

Edelin, former chief resident obstetrician at Boston City Hospital, and his attorney and friend William Homans said they believed initially Judge James P. McGuire's charge to the jury would insure an innocent verdict. The judge told the jury manslaughter requires the death of a "person" which he defined as an infant "born live" and outside the womb.

To the defense this charge seemed to support their case since the prosecution throughout the trial claimed Edelin killed a baby which was "born or in the process of being born."

After the charge was very optimistic and in a light frame of mind because the charge was so specific and so great and supported their theory of asking men inside the tavern while he was patrolling Spruce St. When Meehan got out of his cruiser to check, occupants of the tavern refused to unlock the door, police said.

Meehan said he then returned to his cruiser and Wall ran from the tavern, verbally abusing the officer and attempting to tamper with the police cruiser.

Coventry Police Setup Describe for Columbia

Virginia Carlson Correspondent 228-9224 Another avenue was uncovered in the town Safety Commission's exploration of the needs for law enforcement here Wednesday.

Allen Sandberg, town manager for Coventry, was invited to speak on how law enforcement is handled there and the cost involved in a town which has its own police department.

With a population of almost 9,000, Coventry has a police force which includes a chief, lieutenant, six patrolmen, three full-time dispatchers and super-numeraries used as part-time dispatchers.

According to Sandberg, the town council appoints two constables. There used to be 16 constables who were elected and generally were constables "in name only."

The two constables serve as "keepers of the peace" at school functions, Sandberg said.

He noted the budget for the police department runs close to $150,000 with the majority going for personnel. He added that budget was not a major item at the town meeting last year.

However, at a public hearing on the general government budget in Coventry last year, some residents complained about the police department allocation, particularly since the department incurred a deficit of over $20,000 during the 1973-74 fiscal year, largely due to overtime salaries.

There are always at least two squad cars covering 100 miles of road plus the lake area and the population lives and is the scene of many problems. "The town must assess what regulations for their operation. Under it the chief of police would issue the permits for operating them after receiving approval from the health director of the town.

It would also require a public hearing before the permit is issued and it calls for compliance with strict health regulations.

The proposed ordinance has already caused some controversy among massage parlor operators and employees who feel it is violating their rights.

It sets forth the manner of dress of the employees and also requires that booths have transparent walls, the keeping of a daily record of all patrons and also would govern the manner of advertising the parlors.

Pacer is here! See it at your AMC Dealer today!

Ten good reasons to buy Pacer, the first wide small car:

- 1. Pacer is the first wide small car. (Wider than Chevrolet, Duster, Nova—even Granada!) You'll notice a big difference in room, ride and handling compared with conventional small cars. 2. Pacer's got an economical 6-cylinder engine and a 22-gallon gas tank. That's larger than any small car—so you can go a long way between fill ups. 3. Pacer is wider than any other small car so you get an unusual amount of room. In fact, Pacer gives you more leg room, front and rear, than the two-door Torino or Fury. 4. Pacer's passenger door is 3.6 inches wider than the driver's. So you can get in and out of the back seat that much easier. 5. Pacer's sloping hood, wide windshield and wrap-around rear windows give you room with a view. More visibility, in fact, than any other American-built sedan—large or small! 6. Pacer's wide stance and isolated suspension give you an incredibly smooth and stable ride. 7. Pacer's hatch opens wide as the rear seat folds down. This gives you lots of wide-open cargo space. 8. Pacer's quick, precise steering, and wide handle makes it steer and handle like a sports car. 9. Wide, wide coverage. Pacer is backed by all the benefits of the exclusive AMC BUYER PROTECTION PLAN.™ 10. Pacer Price $3299*

Starting Business Just as Easy As Planning Wedding

By GAY PAULEY NEW YORK (UPI) - Beverly Libes, businesswoman, makes the starting of one's own enterprise sound easy. All you need is money. Well, almost all. "Going into business is no more complicated than planning a large wedding," said Miss Libes. "I would hope that one day fathers would get wise and tell their daughters, 'We'll give you a choice - $5,000 spent on your wedding or $5,000 to start your own company.' "Setting yourself up is thinking and planning. You plan piece by piece and one day you've got it all together. "Miss Libes 'got it all together' in March 1973 when she decided that she had stagnated enough in dead-end jobs. The timing was right, for the feminist movement was in full swing and the business world was more conscious of women's talents. "Women's Lib opened a tremendous number of doors," said Miss Libes. "And many companies tried, and are trying, to do an honest job on equal opportunity legislation. "She first established Womankind Unlimited, advertising it in one New York newspaper as - "A personnel service founded by women searching for a better way. We treat you the way we always wanted to be treated." Womankind specialized in finding jobs at the secretarial level. As business grew, Miss Libes widened scope and formed Womankind Executive Resources to recruit women for middle and upper management jobs. Today a full-time staff of four, plus two consultants on finance and data processing, operate the business. Miss Libes said clients include several companies in the Fortune magazine top 500. "Where are the jobs, in a time of recession with a national unemployment rate of 8.2 percent, and when businesses are falling all around?" "Banks are good," she said. "Maybe because they have the money. So are sales, insurance, the financial world."

Bay State PUC Said in Shambles

BOSTON (UPI) - With Massachusetts facing requests for more than $50 million in utility rate increases, the Public Utilities Commission - which must act on the requests - is in shambles. The commission has been virtually incapacitated by a running battle with the state's new governor, Michael S. Dukakis. The dispute centers on Dukakis' plans to abolish the current seven-member commission and replace it with a three-member full-time board. The former chairman of the commission, Robert L. Meade, resigned two weeks after Dukakis was elected and more than a month before the governor took office. He remained a commissioner. Mrs. Barbara Eisenfeld was named by former Gov. Francis W. Sargent to replace Meade and she was elected openly with Dukakis on a number of occasions. One of the seven commissioners, Mrs. Paula C. Resig resigned last month when she was named head of Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti's consumer protection division. The major rate cases pending are: New England Telephone Co., $210 million; Boston Edison Co., $75 million; Massachusetts Electric Co., $2.8 million; New Bedford Gas and Electric Co., $13.3 million; Western Massachusetts Electric Co., $17.1 million; Cambridge Gas and Electric Co., $3.8 million, and Fitchburg Gas and Electric Co., $336,000. An additional $700,000 in rate increase requests is pending from water companies and bus lines. "It's bad and it's going to get a lot worse before it gets better," said Francis Hickey, executive secretary of the commission. "The requests are coming in faster than ever before."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chicago Bulls' Coach Dick Motta "wanted it bad," and Norm Van Lier, Bob Love and the Bulls' tough defense gave it to him.

They combined to produce a 114-109 triumph over the Buffalo Braves in the National Basketball Association's televised Sunday afternoon game. It gave the Bulls four straight victories and nine in the last 10 games.

It was a tough game for me," Motta said, "because Jerry Sloan wasn't here, and it was a TV game and we've got a good product and should make it good on television."

Van Lier took over Sloan's responsibilities of going to the boards to pick up the ball. It worked so well that Van Lier had an unusual 13 rebounds. He also fired 29 points, right next to the 31 which Love, the Bulls' season-long scoring leader, put in.

Van Lier played the entire 48 minutes and said, "It's all right. Monday is an off-day and a team rest."

The Bulls needed the point production from Love and Van Lier to fire the Bulls to a season-high 40 points, led by Buffalo by the league-leading scorer, Larry Bird, 37 points.

Dramatic Victory in Playoff For Snead in San Diego Open

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — You can pull out all the old cliches of golf — and live one fits J. C. Snead.

Sam Snead's now famous nephew is patient, plays well under pressure, is intent on being his own man, considerate to a fault, and best of all he knows how to play the game under the worst of conditions.

J. C. rolled all those virtues into one hectic hour and a Sunday and made them pay off in a dramatic playoff victory in the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

Snead didn't give himself much of a chance when the final round began Sunday, but as the afternoon rolled on so did his game. If you don't believe it, ask Ray Floyd and Bobby Nichols.

Those are the two veteran players Snead tied in regulation play at nine-under-par 279 and then he beat them in four holes of sudden death while fans screamed and a chilly wind whistled across Torrey Pines' seaside South Course.

Nichols, the defending champion and a pretty popular man with a record crowd of 27,000 who turned out for the windup of the sixth event on this year's PGA Tour, was the first to fall, taking a bogey five on the par four, 388-yard 15th — the first of the playoffs.

Floyd thought he had the title won and he rolled a 12-foot putt toward the hole on that same 15th, but the ball zipped across the face of the hole and just passed it.

Snead watched closely and then tapped in a four-footer to keep the playoff alive.

Slams Way to Victory

Jimmy Connors had to go all out yesterday to whip Vitas Gerulaitis to win National Indoor Tennis Championship and $10,000 in Salisbury, Md. The scores were 3-7, 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 6-0.

Tom Kite was all alone in fifth and won $6,970 while U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin, Billy Casper and John Mahaffey tied for sixth and won $5,253 each.

Johnny Miller, plagued by a cold all week, never was a factor and finished in a tie for 16th, seven shots off the lead.

The tour goes to Los Angeles this week for the Glenn Campbell-Los Angeles Open. Snead and Miller will be there. So will Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino.

Welfare Proposals Go to Legislature

COVENTRY
 Monica Shea Correspondent

Members of the Board of Welfare recently attended a monthly meeting of CALAGA (Connecticut Association of the Local Administrators of General Assistance).

Proposals by its legislative committee were discussed and opposed and will be presented to the state legislature.

The first of the seven proposals deals with the placement of children in the placement, rather than on the town.

Two proposals outlined the rights of towns to recover assistance the same as the State of Connecticut in cases where a beneficiary receives property and/or money from an estate or settlement of a claim.

Another proposal would eliminate the 10 per cent charge for hospital expenses to the town where the recipient resided the greater part of the preceding two years.

The fifth proposal deals with the necessity of the welfare commissioner to require annual review, reevaluation and promulgation of the standards of general assistance.

Two Persons Asphyxiated

COLCHESTER (UPI)—Two Colchester teenagers found dead in a car parked in a school yard were overcome by exhaust fumes, police said.

The bodies of James D. Green, 18, and Jocelyn Stula, 17, were found Saturday about 9:30 a.m. in the front seat of a car in the Hill elementary school parking lot.

Council Meets Tonight

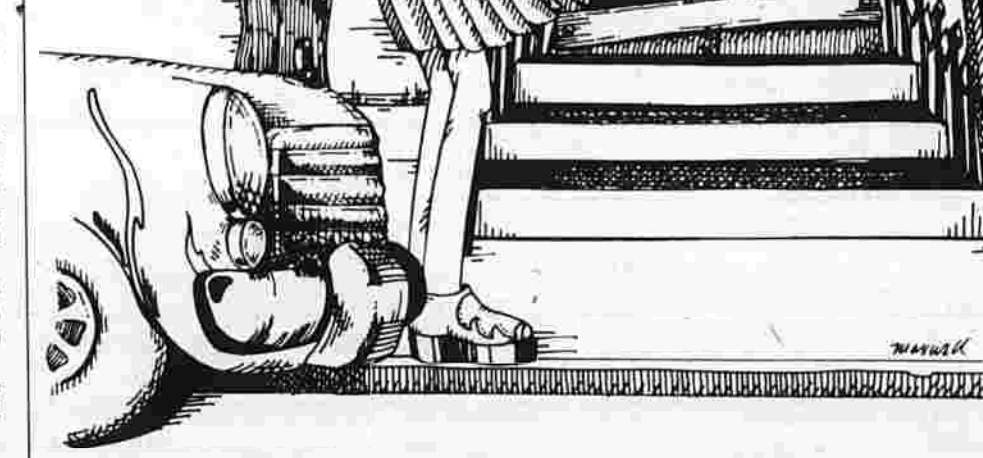

COVENTRY
 Monica Shea Correspondent 742-9495

Donald Hoies, deputy sanitation, and members of the Board of Health will attend tonight's council meeting to give an update of activities involving the state's abatement order and the abatement orders against Coventry homeowners.

Members of the Public Works Study Committee will submit their recommendations to the council. This committee was formulated to study the town's facilities and the report to the council on major needs in the public works department.

The council will also make appointments to the Parks and Recreation Commission and the Pension Board.

The meeting take place at the Board Room of the Town Hall and will begin at 7:30.

This night was made for vintage wine, sweet whisperings and a phone call ahead to be sure.

A phone call ahead can save you a lot. Time for one thing. And not a little embarrassment. But most important—money. Because that call costs so little.

You might want to wait for evenings, nights or weekends. They cost even less then.

So phone ahead. Phone south to see when the zoo opens. Phone north for the weather. Phone east to say "hi" to a friend. Phone west to reserve that table.

You save whenever you dial yourself without operator assistance. And these days, couldn't you use a little extra money?

Jim: "All mistakes made at the bridge table aren't costly. Sometimes they boomerang into winning scores." Oswald: "South's play was rather illogical, yet not completely so. Joe might well have doubled with the ace-king of spades a singleton heart and five diamonds to the ten. Incidentally, when you next see Joe suggest to him that he should rest with his laurels and not try any more doubles like this one."

Jim: "Joe led the spade king, looked over dummy and promptly shifted to the nine of hearts. Five minutes later South had gone up with dummy's ace of hearts, come to his hand with a club, led the three of diamonds and fished dummy's nine. East was surprised to find his ten of diamonds gathering in a trick, but not too surprised to lead a heart to his partner's king."
