Kissinger Needs Support

Returning from his Mideast task of trying to effect a transition to full peace from the cease-fire which he worked out, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger should have the support and best wishes of the United States and indeed all the world.

Whether he has that now is questionable, here at home, and in Israel, Kissinger critics have sprung up like fungus after a rain.

The opposition party in Israel is very critical of Kissinger's efforts, and does not believe that he has worked in the best interests of their country. We think their criticism ill-founded, however. In his attempts to work out a settlement the secretary has not been pro-Israeli nor do we think he has been pro-Arab. He has been pro-peace.

Too many of the Israeli leaders, with whom Kissinger had great rapport, are no longer in government. Former premier Golda Meir is a private citizen as is former foreign minister Abba Eban.

On the plus side, however, Kissinger seems to still have a close relationship with Egyptian Premier Sadat, which may be of great value in trying to continue his step-by-step approach to a lasting peace.

Secretary Kissinger has come under fire at home by Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas. Both are candidates for the Democratic nomination for the presidency in 1976.

Congress has not given Kissinger the support which he should have had, in our opinion, in our relations with Russia and with Turkey.

Yet, there is some spirit of optimism about his latest mission. It certainly cannot be much more difficult than his marathon effort which worked out the cease-fire with Syria after Egypt had entered into a similar agreement.

Kissinger has shown elasticity in his approach to the problem in the attempt that the United States is not committed to any one solution but rather is committed to a lasting peace.

The Israeli parliament had previously endorsed his step-by-step approach, rather than submitting the country to Geneva for solution.

If it should go to Geneva, Russia will be a co-chairman of the parley with the United States. And Israel cannot be unaware of Russia's hitherto cool attitude.

Israel has announced that it is amenable to possible concessions in the relinquishment of territory which it gained in the 1967 war.

But, of course, it expects a quid pro quo from Egypt and Syria.

Dr. Kissinger seems hopeful that his visit laid the ground work for agreements to be formalized into written accords on another trip planned for the middle of March.

The importance which President Ford placed on this diplomatic attempt may be seen in the fact that he went to the airport to see Dr. Kissinger on his way, saying "You have my support and the blessing of 213 million Americans."

It is to be hoped that the President's benediction was a signal to all concerned that Kissinger, in spite of his critics, acts with the wholehearted approval of the United States.

MAX LERNER

A Woman Leader

NEW YORK CITY — Having a woman as the leader of the Conservative Party — perhaps in time as prime minister — is more than a breakthrough in English political history. It is a breakthrough in the imagination and self-image of women everywhere.

The drastic suddenness of it heightened the drama. Overnight a woman MP — once minister of education — knocked the stuffing out of good gray Ted Heath, yachtman's cap, conductor's baton and all.

The London Times, tilting toward Whitelaw before the second ballot, compared Margaret Thatcher to a managing director of a firm and William Whitelaw to a chairman of the board.

A party in power, fighting over the spoils of office, might use a bland, conciliating chairman to keep harmony. But a party which has suffered successive defeats and is leaderless, discouraged, in disarray, needs a commander who will take the offensive until the other side is encircled and cut off.

Margaret Thatcher didn't win as a woman but as a warrior. Although the next general election may not come until 1979, she already fits the mood not only of the Tory MPs but of many of the people, who feel they are losing the decisive — perhaps final — battle of Britain and who want to see a sharp change in leadership.

The British voters, faced by a choice between a Heath and a Wilson, had called down a plague on both their houses — the one for his unimaginative rigidity, the other for his over-clever slipperiness, and both of them for their repetitive, weary American forces left Vietnam in 1973. Aid was not limited to small arms but highly sophisticated equipment was brought in and military advisers were kept there until Congress finally said "No."

This doesn't mean that Margaret Thatcher, as party leader, will be rigid and inflexible. She has been dubbed "right wing" because her field is money and because she has attacked the more extreme aspects of Harold Wilson's welfare statism. But nothing could be clearer about the British today than the fact that neither left-wing nor right-wing ideology will rescue them from their dire predicament.

Her problem is to produce more, work better, become more competitive on the world market. Mrs. Thatcher could not have won either of her votes without the support of her constituents — right and left alike — goes beyond the tired labels.

She is bound to be wary and moderate in feeling her way, as only those who are strong within can dare be moderate, since the weak have to lean on ideology as a crutch. But don't mistake her true bent and her long-range direction. It is toward the work ethic and the meritocracy that flows out of it.

A nation as huge and wealthy as the United States, with its vast resources and advanced technology, can afford some break with the tradition of work and achievement, although even in the United States the cracks are beginning to show. The British, whose break away from the work ethic has been sharper and started earlier, can afford it no longer. Hence, Mrs. Thatcher's slogan, which she has used recently in debate: "Back the workers, not the shirkers."

She is a hard woman, somewhat on the brittle side, and she will have to learn more about compassion and about caring and sharing as well as working. But she has precedents among heads of state. One was Queen Elizabeth, the greatest sovereign in English history, who gave her name to its most creative age. The other was Golda Meir, daughter of the Old Testament, toughly leader of the Jewish people in their time of trouble.

Women have broken down most of the distortions that typed their roles, except for the myth that they cannot hold and lead the highest power. Margaret Thatcher's crusade is against that final myth.

Suspicious Deal

WASHINGTON — Of the dapper, sly Martin Van Buren, Virginia's John Randolph once remarked: "He reared to his object with muffled oars."

Randolph might have been describing the operations of today's State Department and Department of Defense as their bureaucrats pick their way through the mazes of public opinion. A good example of the stealth employed to avoid the attention of a people made suspicious of military deals is the $7-million contract to outfit called the Vinnell Corp. of Alhambra, Calif.

The contract, approved by State and executed by the Pentagon, provides that Vinnell will train four mechanized infantry battalions of the Saudi Arabian national guard. Vinnell already has started to recruit what is expected to be a 1,000-man contingent of former U.S. armed forces members to do the job.

Obviously, State sees the contract as a good piece of foreign policy. But the muffled oars with which Peggy Bottom and the Pentagon approached their object suggest — to put it mildly — a fear of full disclosure.

Ideas Too Radical

A few weeks ago we suggested the federal government could infuse a few billion bucks into the economy real fast by just merely skipping a withholding or two out of the wage earner's paycheck.

We must frankly admit this idea has not stirred a ripple of support in the Congress or the administration.

And we must admit frankly we did not expect it to since it violates two cardinal political principles.

The first is never let anyone else get credit for a tax cut, this rebates must come from the government as directed by Congress and not from the payroll preparer at the South Manchester Harness and Buggy Whip Works.

But the second one is more subtle. It is the essence of Beardsley Rummel's contribution to modern economic theory. The withholding tax, if it is to work, requires that at no time does the wage earner have physical possession of the money to be withheld. It is easier to take away money one has never had.

Thus our plan for a paycheck or two without income tax deductions is not only subversive and unAmerican but anarchical since most workers would find out for the first time in their lives that there is quite a gap between take-home pay and what they really are paid.

It might even prompt revolution if this secret were revealed so it is obvious that our plan had to be dropped in the interests of national security.

But we are not to be denied. It seems these days of high unemployment has caught the U.S. and state employment services woefully unprepared. They do not have enough people to process claims with the result there are long lines at the employment offices.

Our thought is that perhaps the payroll clerk at the South Manchester Harness and Buggy Whip Works could issue the unemployment checks to those laid off since they have the records and information needed and could do so within the framework of a few rules from the employment office.

Darn it, there we go again proposing something that would take credit away from Congress or the government even though that unemployment money comes from the South Manchester Harness and Buggy Whip Works in the first place.

Well, we can only keep trying as we need something to do until that rebate check shows up sometime next fall. Maybe we can use it for a short trip out of town, if our creditors haven't run us there by fall.

To the editor: I wish to thank all of the people who signed and helped to pass the petition or the reprinting of grass at Lincoln Center. I also want to assure them that Mayor John Thompson's ridiculous accusation that I was politically motivated was completely untrue.

Maybe I should be flattered that Mr. Thompson thinks that I could move into Manchester only eight months ago and become so influential in the Republican party. As for my association with Carl Zinsler, he was a former neighbor of mine who I hadn't seen in 20 years but I decided to call to find out how many names I would need in order for the petition to be effective. Since that time, Mr. Zinsler has spoken to many other concerned citizens and he is the only one of the board members who has had the courage to say that maybe they should re-evaluate their position. Thus, he too, is being accused of political motivation. I was motivated, yes, but simply by pride in my home town and the hundreds of people my children and I spoke with while collecting the signatures for the petition.

Two other facts I feel should be made clear are: 1. The people at the handicapped workshop are not being paid a bus and there would still be ample parking in the rear for the 6-10 personnel. 2. There is absolutely no wage that the shop and

Patient Is Dying

To the editor: April 30, 1970, President Nixon told us that the "incursion" into Cambodia was not to expand the war into Cambodia but to hit North Vietnamese sanctuaries. I had not done this our "credibility would be destroyed."

June 2, 1970, we were told that the incursion was "the most successful operation of this long and difficult war." We were given assurances that we were not undertaking a long term military role in Cambodia. Yet there was massive bombing in Cambodia that continued long after American forces left Vietnam in 1973. Aid was not limited to small arms but highly sophisticated equipment was brought in and military advisers were kept there until Congress finally said "No."

The U.S. has spent 7 billion dollars on bombs and aid to Cambodia. More than 250,000 tons of bombs were dropped on Cambodia. This is 5 billion give or take a dollar, and Lon Nol has received in direct aid 1.36 billion dollars.

Now our plan for a paycheck or two without income tax deductions is not only subversive and unAmerican but anarchical since most workers would find out for the first time in their lives that there is quite a gap between take-home pay and what they really are paid.

Scouts Hear Homily On Success, Happiness

More than 250 Boy Scouts, Explorers and Cub Scouts and their parents attended the recent fifth annual Boy Scout Breakfast at the Army and Navy Club.

It was sponsored by the Algonquin District Catholic Committee on Scouting.

Padre Humberto Almazan celebrated the Mass, and his Homily was on his meaning of "Success and Happiness." He was assisted by Joseph Ball, Leo Brassard and James Creed, all seminarians at Holy Apostles Seminary in Cromwell.

A folk group of guitarists prepared the music for the Mass. They are, from St. Bartholomew's Church, Miss Ellen Burns, Miss Jamie Moriarty, Miss Sue Paglino and Miss Linda Lemieux; and from St. Bridget, Vincent Perry of Troop 157.

Michael Downs, Troop 382, St. Bartholomew's; and William Szarek, Troop 27, St. Mary's, were altar boys.

The First Reading was by Brian Motola, Troop 120, St. James. The Second Reading was by George Jones, Troop 382.

The Responsorial Reading was led by Robert Burns of Oak Pack 98, Buckley School.

Frank Demers and members of the Catholic Committee prepared the ham and egg breakfast, which was served by Senior Scouts of Troop 120, St. James.

Wesley Gryk, chairman of the Algonquin Catholic Committee on Scouting, introduced Carl Gustafson, chairman of the district, and Frank Ennis, district commissioner.

Nathan Agostinelli spoke to the scouts on the need for them to bring a friend along to join up in a scouting activity. He told the parents what a wonderful character-building program the

BUSINESS

Don't Forget The Labels

By State Department Of Consumer Protection. Misuse of consumer products often contributes to injuries that may require hospital emergency room treatment. Some types of misuse deserve to be emphasized since the most common feature of the product misuse accidents is the neglect to read and follow instructions and warning labels.

Improper Mixing — Some products are hazardous if mixed together. For example, chlorine bleach mixed with ammonia, toilet bowl cleaners or drain cleaners may release hazardous gases which can be strongly irritating to the user. Although chlorine bleach must be labeled clearly with a warning not to mix it with ammonia or toilet bowl cleaners, some people either do not read the label or disregard it. Serious injuries can occur when people put their hands into this kind of caustic mixture or breathe the poisonous gases.

Overuse — Some persons think that if a small amount is good, then a large amount must be better. In many cases that kind of thinking can lead to hazardous situations. Too much acid-type drain cleaners may eat away your pipes and some cleaners can produce toxic fumes. Always follow directions for use and do not use more than the recommended amount.

Haste — It's often tempting to race through preliminary steps in product use to get a job done. However, if speed means that you overlook a loose part on a power mower or a safety guard on a power saw, open a pressure cooker before it has been depressurized, or step on a ladder without leveling it — you can wind up with a serious injury. Taking time to follow all preparatory steps is good practice.

Lack of Maintenance — Failure to make repairs and lack of maintenance often contribute to injuries. Loose stair rails should be tightened, bad electrical plugs or insulation should be replaced and broken ladders repaired. Watch for warning signals such as electrical sparks, flickering lights or gas odors and call for qualified service immediately. Complex machines and gas and electrical appliances should be repaired by experts.

Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: "Of Consumer Concern," Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115, or dial toll free 1-800-942-2649.

Travelers Had Low Earnings

HARTFORD (UPI) — Travelers' Corp. says it experienced a major drop in earnings during 1974. The insurance firm said its consolidated operating income for 1974 dropped from $178.5 million to $127.8 million. Travelers' President Morrison H. Beach said, "The principal reasons for the decline in earnings were the unexpected record level of inflation experienced during the year, coupled with the slowdown in the nation's economy."

Fourth quarter income dropped from $54.6 million to $23 million, largely due to what he called a heavy amount of claim settlements.

Club To Present Hypnotist

Al Juster, professional hypnotist of West Hartford, will present a demonstration and lecture Wednesday at the Knights of Columbus Home at the Men's Night of the Manchester Junior Women's Club.

Juster's subject will be "Phenomena of Hypnosis."

An international buffet dinner at 7 p.m. will precede the program. Dishes will be prepared by club members.

Juster has toured the United States entertaining and demonstrating hypnosis. As a lecturer, he has appeared before many groups, including various medical organizations.

Nathan Agostinelli spoke to the audience, as in "The Story of Brigid Murphy."

Juster will also attempt to regress a volunteer from the audience, as in "The Story of Brigid Murphy."

Using volunteers from the audience, Juster will demonstrate several facets of hypnosis including group hypnosis, regression and waking hypnosis.

An attempt will be made to demonstrate the use of hypnosis in dieting, stopping the smoking habit, nail biting, memory improvement, as well as how hypnosis may be used in medicine and dentistry.

Snowstorm Didn't Stop Rotary Inauguration in 1940

By HERB SWANSON
Undaunted by a blinding snowstorm that piled 18 inches of snow, delegates from 20 Rotary Clubs from Massachusetts and Connecticut attended the Charter Night party and inauguration of the Manchester Rotary Club 35 years ago Feb. 20, 1940, at the Masonic Temple.

More than 300 Rotarians and their wives were present at the roast turkey banquet which began at 7 o'clock and was served by the late Osano, caterer of Manchester.

The new club was given an auspicious start on its charter night with several past and present district officers and James H. McConaughy, lieutenant governor of Connecticut, a past president of the Middletown Rotary Club, as principal speaker. Tony O'Bright's orchestra played during dinner and for dancing.

Tuesday, Feb. 18, Manchester Rotarians, their wives and guests celebrate the 35th anniversary of the club's founding with a banquet and entertainment at the Manchester Country Club. A social hour will begin at 6 followed by a steak dinner at 7. The charter president of the local club, Arthur H. Illing who is still a member of Rotary, will be one of the speakers.

Charter Officers
Ernest H. Bush was the charter vice president; Louis H. Martz, treasurer; and Rogers W. Perry, secretary.

Automobile Insurance Co., Benjamin F. Crebore, General Fibre Box Co., Stephen A. Dube, Folding Boxes, Inc., Melvin J. Hathaway, Lyall & Foulds Paper Co., Warner Murphy, Warner Murphy Co., Dean F. Noble, Interstate Commerce Commission.

Also, Aldo Pagni of Pagni & Gorman Insurance; William A. Perrett, Silver Lane Bus Co.; Emanuel Robbins, dental surgery; Sherwood J. Robb, Travelers Insurance Co.; Frank P. Sheldon, Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co., and Dr. Bernard J. Sheridan, dentist.

Rotary Foundation
Manchester Rotary also contributes yearly to the Rotary International Foundation which, in past years, has sent 7,453 high school and college graduates to foreign countries to study at a cost of $2,000,000. This year 450 students will participate. Each student selected for a scholarship must be able to speak, read and write the language of the country in which he selects to study for a year. All expenses for the year are paid by Rotary International and the students live with Rotarians in the country chosen. Students who have participated in the Rotary Foundation from this area and foreign students from nearby colleges and universities have spoken or been guests at meetings of Rotary.

Started Dawn Dance
The yearly Manchester High Dawn Dance which follows the Senior Prom was started by and is still sponsored by the Manchester Club. Interestingly, since the founding of Rotary, every Manchester superintendent of schools has been a member of the local Rotary Club.

Standards
Rotary also sets standards known as the "Objects of Rotary" which are to encourage and foster:
(1) The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;
(2) High ethical standards in business and profession; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society;
(3) The application of the ideal of service to every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life; as the Yale Glee Club which was the first major production at the Yale Glee Club which was the first major production at the President's Own Marine Band from Washington on two occasions, the West Point Glee Club, and the Russian Cossacks. A very successful Western Rodeo was presented in 1933. For the past nine years it has sponsored Antiques Markets that have attracted antiques dealers and buyers from all over New England. For the town's Sesquicentennial, a Products Show was presented in the Clark Arena at the high school. Two flea markets on Tolland Turnpike, across from Caldor's, and a Rummage Sale by Rotarians were other projects.

Rotary is known as a "classification" organization as only two men are admitted to each club from any recognized business or profession.

High School Will Sponsor Course Selection Inforama

A course selection inforama will be Feb. 25 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Manchester High School.

Department heads and teachers will be available to explain the course offerings in their departments for the next school year.

Parents and students will have an opportunity to ask questions and to discuss course objectives with faculty members present. Counselors will also be available to discuss specific course selections. Members of the administration will be in attendance to answer questions and interpret school policy.

"Future Business Leaders of America" will act as guides.

Some departments will have displays of equipment used and student projects related to courses.

The inforama is planned as an informational experience as students begin to plan their courses for next year.

In planning their courses, students will be asked to make a commitment to a program of courses that will not require changes.

Graduation requirements, courses for college preparation or career employment, and special options such as mid-year graduation should be reviewed prior to selections.

Entrance to the inforama will be from the cafeteria lobby.

Births, Deaths Drop Here

A one per cent rise in births and a three per cent drop in deaths were recorded in Manchester in 1974, but the number of marriages were almost exactly the same as in 1973.

Vital statistics released for 1974 by the town clerk's office show 1,468 births, 13 more than in 1973; 633 deaths, 19 less than in 1973; and 689 marriages, one more than in 1973.

Births had been dropping in Manchester until 1974. They were 1,820 in 1971, fell to 1,513 in 1972, and fell to 1,445 in 1973. Deaths had been rising until 1974. They were 693 in 1971, increased to 638 in 1972, and increased to 633 in 1973.

There hasn't been a pattern for the number of marriages the past few years. There were 679 in Manchester in 1971, then 618 in 1972, and then 688 in 1973.

There were 2.1 births for each marriage and 2.3 for each death in Manchester in 1974.

Edwards, Dicheter Advance To Merit Scholarship Finals

VERNON
E. Kenneth Edwards and Bronislaw K. Dicheter, seniors at Rockville High School, have advanced to finalists in the 1975 Merit Scholarship competition.

In addition, Craig W. Platt, who entered college after three years of high school, is expected to be named a finalist. After review of his college transfer, Martin Fagan, principal of the high school said.

Finalists have displayed outstanding academic ability and the potential to become the nation's future leaders. Less than one-half of one per cent of the seniors in the country's secondary schools, are chosen as finalists.

Dinner Theater
Tickets for the bus to take Vernon Senior Citizens to the Four Seasons Dinner Theatre March 16 have been sold out and the Recreation Department has decided to put on a second bus for the trip.

The show scheduled is "I Do, I Do." The package price of $10.50 includes, dinner, the show, transportation, and all taxes and gratuities.

Those interested may call the recreation office for reservations or information. Those tickets not purchased by seniors will be made available to the general public starting Feb. 24.

The department also has a limited supply of tickets for the concert to be presented Feb. 25 by the Glenn Miller Orchestra. These are available to senior citizens at a discount by contacting the Recreation Department.

Youth Retreat
The Senior High Fellowship of Union Congregational Church is spending part of this week at Silver Lake Conference Center in Sharon where a retreat is being conducted.

During the stay the young people will be exploring their own lives and their relationships with other people. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Brookes and the Rev. David Eusden, associate pastor of the church, are the planners and adult leaders of the retreat.

The Junior Fellowship is planning a grinder sale for Feb. 23. Orders must be placed by Feb. 20 and the grinders will be ready for pickup after the worship service Sunday.

Ham grinders will be $1.25 and salami, $1. They will be eight inches long. Orders may be placed by calling: Carole Levitt, 875-6639; Cheryl Apel, 875-7239; Billy Fox, 875-2104; or Tammy Brown, 875-8616.

Transports Meeting Canceled over Lack of Support

BARBARA RICHMOND
 A change of opinion by Toland's Town Manager John Harkins, and lukewarm reception by Vernon's Mayor Frank McCoy, have caused the Hockanum Valley Community Services Center to cancel a Thursday meeting on transportation for the elderly.

In a letter to 62 member organizations concerned with the transportation problem, John Chessa, head of the council, which is the area agency on aging, explained the availability of funding for the tri-town area of Vernon, Ellington and Toland, and urged them to give direction as to which way the council should move considering the reception given by the town and other organizations.

J. C. Thomas, community council planner, met with officials from the three towns about two weeks ago and made available funding for a tri-town transportation program for the elderly. The only way these funds are available are on a sub-regional basis such as the tri-town area.

After the meeting, Thomas said that Ellington and Toland had made minimal efforts towards transportation programs and that Vernon officials were not satisfied with the transportation program run by the recreation department.

In his letter, Chessa said:

6,000-6,001 Gold Card Holders

Mrs. Leonard Delaney of 123 Cooper Hill St. holds the Gold Card being presented to her and her husband on Valentine's Day by Wally Fortin, left, director of the Senior Citizens Center. Mrs. Delaney is the 6,000th Gold Card Club member, and her husband is the 6,001st. The card entitles them to discounts at stores honoring the Gold Cards. Mr. Delaney retired Jan. 31 from Hamilton Standards Division of United Aircraft Corp. in Windsor Locks. He worked there 32 years, the last 15 years as an inspector. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Tax Increase Pondered By 8th District Board

By SOL R. COHEN
 Faced with the increased expenses brought on by natural growth, and recognizing that inflation is affecting all costs of operation and services, the 8th District Board of Directors is considering hiking district taxes the next fiscal year.

It discussed the possibility of a tax increase last Monday night but postponed a decision to a subsequent meeting. Only District President Michael Masaro and Directors J. Edward McKee, Patrick Brown and Gordon Lassov attended Monday night. Not present were Districtors Walter Cervini, Dante Balboni and Willard Marvin.

The district's tax rate has remained unchanged since the 1973-74 fiscal year. It is at 2.5 mills, with 1.25 mills for fire protection and 1.25 mills for sewerage service.

A half-mill increase would bring about $27,000 more in taxes and a mill would bring about $34,000 more.

Tax Collector Mary Larina reported tax collections last year were up 10 percent, estimates of $1,700,000 for 1975, plus $90,000 in interest charges. The district's fiscal year ends May 31.

Mrs. Larina noted the district is having the same problems collecting delinquent taxes on motor vehicles the town is having. She blamed the growth in the delinquent personal property taxes on the parallel growth of apartments in Manchester — with many people moving in and out.

Other alarms in January were reported by Fleming Rd. to Robert Kelley, who operates Manchester Nursery & Greenhouses. The two-year lease denotes a change in plans. The district had planned to sell the structures for $900. The greenhouses are part of its abandoned sewage treatment plant.

The directors were informed of an order made in January by the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) — that the Hartford Electric Light Co. was given permission to charge non-residential users one per cent per month interest for bills unpaid 28 days after the billing date.

District Fire Chief Granville Lingard reported his men answered 12 alarms in January, with the most serious a fire in a four-family dwelling at 95 North St. The determined cause, he explained, were children and matches.

Science Today: A Slow Year for Earthquakes

By AL ROSSITER JR.
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — The earth was quieter than usual last year but the few tremors that did occur killed 5,369 people around the world, more than eight times the number of earthquake-related deaths reported in 1974.

Two dozen volcano eruptions also were reported but none was as dramatic as the 1973 eruption of Edzella in Iceland.

The largest earthquake recorded in 1974 occurred off the coast of Peru in August. It had a magnitude of 7.5 on the Richter scale and killed 78 people. But a tremor of lesser force struck northern Pakistan Dec. 28 and caused at least 5,300 deaths.

The National Earthquake Information Service at Boulder, Colo., said there were only 12 tremors classified as major during the past year and no "great" shocks with a magnitude of 8 or more. The norm for the world in an average year is 18 major and one great shock.

In the United States, earthquake activity was down sharply with 143 tremors reported in 22 states. This continues a steady decline during the past few years. There were 194 quakes in 1973, 282 in 1972 and 361 in 1971.

Scientists at the U.S. Geological Survey say such a decline is unusual because seismic activity tends to come in episodes. The years ahead are likely to be more active as stresses build up in the earth's crust.

Increased "restlessness" was predicted last year was the time by a team of survey scientists, adding to the hope that an earthquake prediction system may be developed in the next few years.

The year's most destructive volcano last year was the sullen and violent eruption of Agung in Indonesia, the Philippines. It reported this eruption was responsible for at least 20 deaths.

Builder Seeks Zone Change On South Rd.

VERNON
 E. S. Santini, a Vernon builder, will go before the Zoning Commission Thursday night to present a request for a zone change of 13 acres of land off South St. The commission rejected the appeal two years ago, but reversed the decision and the case went to the courts.

Santini proposed to build a multi-family development on the property and the original denial concerned questions about drainage in the area.

The decision was reversed after Santini's attorney said the rejection came after a 65-day period of appeal. He said that it should have been approved by "operation of law" because it was not acted on in the 60-day limit.

Mayor Frank McCoy and Building Inspector Francis McNulty then filed an appeal in the Court of Common Pleas against the Zoning Commission decision and the court ruled in favor of them.

In recommending the setting aside of the Zoning Commission's decision, Judge Arthur Williams said it was, "If for no other reason than that not enough members voted on the matter."

He said such a matter requires a two-thirds vote of the entire commission because the Planning Commission had recommended the rejection. He said only three members of the Zoning Commission voted to approve the request by default.

Santini has indicated he will not file any further appeal with the court.

He said the present residential zoning would allow about 30 homes to be constructed on the land in question.

AREA POLICE REPORT

COVENTRY
 Dennis Leary, 21, of Standish Rd., Coventry was charged Monday night with operating under the influence of liquor or drugs in connection with the investigation of a one-car accident on Rt. 31, Coventry.

Elizabeth Andreoli of Edgenere Rd., Coventry was charged with intoxication Monday night.

Both are scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, March 11.

HEBRON
 Glen Ervick of Marlborough was issued a written warning for driving too fast for conditions in connection with the investigation of a one-car accident on Rt. 66, Monday.

Police said Ervick was west-bound, lost control of his car, skidded off the left side of the highway and the car overturned.

Ervick, and a passenger in his car, Steven Violette, also of Marlborough, were taken to Windham Memorial Hospital, Willimantic, for treatment.

Brazilians Seek

economic progress whereas the Brazilians, operating in a different historical, cultural and nationalistic context, have opted to achieve economic goals first and the luxuries of free political activity and a free press later.

In connection with a free press, Brazil allows press criticism, Oliveira said, but the government can and does censor at times any news which it might consider detrimental to the success of the programs. There are also government-owned newspapers, and if editors have any question about a story they are to make inquiries before they print.

Press Freedom Limited
Oliveira, who managed a newspaper, seemed to accept this arrangement for the present, because he said there are those, especially the communists, who use a free press to combat the government programs which are improving conditions for everyone in Brazil. He is confident that once the economic objectives have been achieved there will be a full restoration of individual political freedom.

That the five-year plan is working in excess of expectations gives him reason to be optimistic. That the historic pattern of individual liberty in South America as a whole has been to the contrary may make outside observers perhaps more pessimistic.

While Oliveira and Bandeira spent only a few short weeks in Manchester and Connecticut, and while their interests were primarily technological, perhaps a long-term benefit of their visit will be a shift of today's enthusiasm for technology into tomorrow's enthusiasm for individual liberty.

Perhaps it is hard for citizens of the United States to understand this since we conceive political liberty as the basis for

Two Refuse to Testify Concerning Fugitives

HARTFORD (UPI) — Two feminists faced contempt citations today for not answering questions about two women, who are on the FBI's "10 Most Wanted" list, for murder and robbery.

Eileen Grasse and Marie Theresa Turgeon, of New Haven, were ordered to appear before U.S. District Court, Hartford, for refusing to testify after the robbery of the State Street Bank and Trust Co. in Boston. Their accomplices were apprehended.

They are charged also with theft of government property from a National Guard armory in Newburyport, Mass., Sept. 25, 1970, and the $6,000 armed robbery of the Bell Federal Savings and Loan Association in Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 1, 1970. The FBI said they worked in odd jobs such as cooks in restaurants and clerks at a health food store. They would live the life of the bright, well-educated young associates they were, the FBI said, and develop close friendships especially among feminists.

"They are not ordinary criminals," said Thomas R. Dugan, special agent in charge of the FBI in Connecticut. "Saxe and Power once lived with other 'working girls' in Hartford's Farmington Avenue area, a popular spot for many of the young women who work for insurance companies nearby, the FBI said.

The agency said before that they had lived in Windsor Locks, 10 miles north of Hartford and the home town of Gov. Ella T. Grasso. Afterwards they lived in Torrington, a factory town of 32,000 persons 25 miles west of Hartford.

School Officials Survey Damage

Highland Park School Vandalized

Highland Park School on Porter St. was vandalized last night and damages will run into several thousand dollars, police reported today.

The break was discovered this morning at 7 when Floyd Mitchell and George Miller, custodians, reported for work. The building had been locked at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon.

Many Windows Broken
The physical plant and equipment were damaged, said Ted Fairbanks, superintendent of buildings and grounds. He said 21 panes of glass and large plateglass windows were smashed and it will take several hundred dollars to replace them.

Police Detectives at the Scene
Police detectives at the scene said that at least two persons had to be involved. Fairbanks said, "They had to be in here for quite a while to do the damage they did."

Classrooms Ransacked
Six upstairs classrooms were ransacked and paper strewn all over.

The principal's office, the conference room and the main office were vandalized. There were visible signs that several attempts, without success, were made to start fires in various parts of the building.

Police Said Entry was Gained through a men's room on the main floor. A window was broken and someone crawled through, police said.

A liquor bottle was found in the east wing of the building, Fairbanks said.

No Alarm System
There is no alarm system in the school now, but equipment has been on order, is beginning to arrive and will soon be installed, Fairbanks said.

No disturbance was reported to police by neighbors.

All schools are closed this week for the mid-winter vacation.

"Repair work has to be done this week; we have to get the school ready for when it reopens (next Monday)," Fairbanks said.

A vulgar message was scribbled on an upstairs blackboard.

This was the second break at Highland Park School this winter. In the earlier incident, the principal's office was ransacked and minimal damage was reported.

Vandalism has occurred at other schools, too.

Egypt Suggests U.S. Guarantee Israel's Security

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew home today from a mission to the Middle East, where he brought an Egyptian proposal for an American guarantee of Israel's security and hopes for eventual lowering of oil prices.

Senior American Official
A senior American official in the Kissinger party said the United States is considering an Egyptian suggestion that it guarantee Israel's security against an Arab attack while peace talks are in progress.

Sadat Suggestion
The Egyptian suggestion was disclosed by President Anwar Sadat in the wake of his recent Middle East talks with Kissinger in Cairo.

Sadat's demand was for the United States to serve as guarantor against an Arab attack in exchange for an Israeli assurance that it would carry out some withdrawals from territory it seized during the 1967 war.

The ranking American official said the United States has as yet made no decision on Sadat's suggestion and would study it carefully. He did not spell out details of the proposal or say whether it would mean active U.S. military intervention in the Middle East.

Israel Wary
In Tel Aviv, government sources said Israel would not reject outright the proposal for a formal defense treaty with the United States but would be wary of entrusting its security solely to another power. They said Kissinger did not mention the proposal during his visit to Israel.

The sources said that though proposals for a formal defense treaty could be considered, they would be examined cautiously. They cited U.S. defense talks with South Vietnam, Taiwan and Turkey with Kissinger in Cairo.

A defense pact of similar nature with Washington probably would encounter wariness from the American and especially the Israeli public because "Israel would have to stake its security on the main on such a guarantee, given the past experience," one source said.

Rockefeller Told Of State Needs
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson Rockefeller, once a leader of the nation's governors, is on the other side of the table today. His old colleagues are telling the vice president that the nation is trapped between inflation in the cost of government and a recession in tax revenues.

After a day of hashing over their problems among themselves, the 46 participants at the 1975 winter meeting of the National Governors Conference go into an open session with Rockefeller, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, Budget Director James Lynn and William Seldman, President Ford's chief economic

The governors had invited Ford, but he sent Rockefeller, an active member of the organization in nearly 16 years as governor of New York. The governors will see the President at a Thursday White House dinner.

They may find more sympathetic listeners in an afternoon session with Democratic congressional leaders. The subject — "Priorities for Domestic Adjustment" — has not changed, but 35 of the nation's 50 state houses are held by Democrats.

He said falling gasoline tax revenues have made it difficult for many states to take advantage of the funds.

A number of governors said the states are running out of funds to pay unemployment insurance and that the federal loan program to replenish state programs required higher taxes on the very industries that are experiencing economic difficulties.

Republican Daniel Evans of Washington said the federal government should pay the full cost of any improvements in jobless pay programs.

Tornado Devastates Central Georgia
United Press International
A "hell of a tornado" steamrolled a central Georgia town Tuesday, crushing homes and businesses and leaving a trail of death and destruction and floodwaters chased scores of Alabamians from their homes.

A storm system touched off tornadoes in portions of the Southland.

One twister left at least one person dead and more than 100 injured in its rampage through the downtown district of Fort Valley, Ga. Authorities said 14 persons were seriously injured.

Emergency crews searched through a tangle of crumbling building, uprooted trees and sparking downed power lines early today for dead and injured.

"We've got numerous houses down and they're still digging in to see if we've got any people there," a Peach County Hospital spokesman said.

Police said some 50 homes and downtown businesses were damaged by the

Developing Nations Demand Overhaul of World Economy
ALGIERS (UPI) — The developing nations, inspired by the new power of the oil bloc, today demanded an overhaul of the world's economy to give them a 25 per cent share of industrial output.

Delegates from 104 developing nations ended a four-day meeting of the U.N. Industrial Development Organization this morning by calling for a radical transformation of the world economy.

Total Success Not Expected
Many delegates admitted the program has no chance of total success but others said they concede scant chance of success as just another plea for a handout.

Some delegates said the rest of the Third World — the developing nations — will learn a lesson from the success of the oil-producing nations in boosting petroleum prices.

The delegates said nations producing other raw materials must form oil-type cartels to increase the prices of their

Wants Listed
The developing nations want better aid terms, formation of cartels, nationalization of foreign investments, protection of exports, regulation of multinational firms and building of basic industries.

They concede scant chance of total Western acceptance of the program but want to change a system in which 104 nations with 70 per cent of the world's population produce only seven per cent of the global industrial output.

"This is industrial and technological slavery," Ibrahim Abdirahman, a former director of UNIDO, told the meeting.

Rotarians Honor Sheldon
Frank P. Sheldon, right, Wednesday night received the Paul Harris Fellowship Award for distinguished service to Manchester Rotary Club. Making the presentation is Richard T. Gallup of Moosup, Rotary district governor. It is the first award of its kind to be presented by the Manchester club, and it is named after Harris who founded Rotary International 70 years ago. Sheldon is a past president, charter member, and was co-chairman of the club's 35th anniversary celebration.

The Weather
Partly sunny this afternoon with the high in the mid to upper 40s, lows tonight in the mid 20s. Sunny Thursday with highs in the 40s. Chance of precipitation 10 per cent today and near zero tonight and Thursday.
