Tolland residents who are served by Rockville-Vernon rural postal service will be switched to the Tolland Post Office.

The move follows a recent survey in which the majority of those involved indicated a desire to change.

The change will come about July 1, at the same time that all Tolland residents will be notified of their house numbers. The street numbering project has recently been completed and will be included in the tax bills, expected to be mailed in June.

The survey, conducted by postal authorities, concluded that residents served by the West Willington post office prefer to retain that service.

Taxpayers Urge Big Budget Cut

HEBRON
Anne Dallaire
 Correspondent
 228-3267

The Hebron Taxpayers Association (HTA) urged its own budget on the Board of Education Thursday night and the Board of Selectmen Friday afternoon.

The HTA budget might save the town as much as $9,600, its members said.

The boards politely received the HTA suggested budget. But they gave little encouragement.

The school budget is mainly decided by the Central Office Committee (COC) of Regional District 8, First Selectman Aaron Reid said Friday. Hebron has only two members on the COC which has the final word on the education budget, he explained.

But the election promised to study the HTA budget.

Education Meeting
 At a special meeting of the Board of Education Thursday, the board, without a formal vote, approved the COC budget of $85,620.

Mrs. Anne Luke, a member of the HTA, asked why a log could not be kept showing the mileage driven to where and for what for each employee of the COC.

David Albee, board chairman, asked the administration to bring in a breakdown of the mileage incurred for the next board meeting.

Charles Barasso and Mrs. Patricia Mulligan opposed the COC budget as presented.

The HTA Budget Selectmen also stressed the number of meetings involved with the four boards of education which one or both of the supervisory persons must attend.

The HTA Budget
 The HTA also received a copy of the proposed 1975-76 budget for the COC drawn up by the HTA.

Mulligan asked the selectmen to pursue some of the revisions in the proposed budget.

attached as an alternate budget for the Central Office Committee for 1975-76.

Mulligan added, "This alternate budget would result in a net reduction of $9,600. This proposed budget does not offer staff reductions or any real reduction in services. This budget does require conservation management of time and materials on the part of our COC."

The HTA feels that the superintendent of schools should be given no raise at this time due to the continuing economic situation, and that the position of assistant superintendent, COC proposed salary at $4,000, should be eliminated.

Business Manager
 The HTA urges the COC hire an experienced business manager at a salary range of $16,000 to $18,000. It feels that the funds would be dispersed better if a business manager were retained rather than continue with two educational administrators.

Richard Zanini, assistant superintendent, told the board the COC does not need a business manager as there is no central purchasing with each of the four school boards handling their own buying. He said the boards are able to purchase at reduced costs through the Capital Region Educational Council.

Zanini also stressed the number of meetings involved with the four boards of education which one or both of the supervisory persons must attend.

Mrs. Luke and Robert Champagne told the board that copies had been distributed to the press and also sent to the Board of Finance for review.

Mulligan wrote, "In light of the present day economic situation, we are recommending the

Busing Plan Outlined For Hebron's Elderly

Father William Persing, chairman of the Commission on the Aging, outlined a proposal for public transportation for the elderly at the Board of Selectmen's meeting Friday afternoon.

The proposal was from J.B.C. Thomas, planner for the area Agency on Aging.

The proposal at the present time would include the towns of Glastonbury, Hebron, Marlborough and possibly Andover and East Hartford.

One Day A Week
 Bus service would be provided one day a week in each town. At the present time Glastonbury has the service. It has a 12-passenger minibus and if the service is expanded to the other towns a 26-passenger bus would also be purchased.

The committee had offered to review proposals from an aesthetic point of view and the Planning and Zoning Commission responded favorably to the idea.

The committee is looking for volunteers from the community to serve on the review committee.

Father Persing said the selection would be getting a declaration of intent, and asked them to consider the matter when they receive the letter.

Federal funding would be used. The cost to the town would be proportionate to the elderly in the town and Father Persing said it would cost about $500 to $600 a year on a three-year trial basis.

This would not have to be in cash but could be in labor.

Jobless Get More Aid

VERNON
Sorbonne

The Town Council okayed another $4,000 last week to boost the welfare budget to $31,000.

The added funds are needed to help unemployed persons from the time they lose their job to the time they collect unemployment compensation.

Mrs. Jean Pearsall, Vernon's welfare director, said there have been almost no additional requests for other reasons such as aid for dependent children.

She said she has had requests for more help with rising electric and fuel bills.

Mrs. Pearsall said she feels there are many persons who would be eligible for food stamps but who do not apply because they don't understand the program.

The stamps are not charity she said.

They are paid for but they allow a person to get more food for their money. Anyone with questions about getting the stamps should call her at her office in the Vernon Administration Building. The office is open each week day except Thursday.

Starting Thursday of this week the new suboffice of the unemployment compensation department will open in Rockville at the Nye St. firehouse from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Prayer Day
 World Day of Prayer will be observed by the Greater Rockville Unit of Church Women United, Friday at 7 p.m. at the Tolland Congregational Church.

The theme of the program will be "Becoming Perfectly One." On this day the area church women will join in the chain of prayer that spans the world to "declare ourselves One in the Spirit."

Area junior choirs, youth choirs, and folk groups will join in the service providing musical selections. The program will be open to the public.

CBT pays the highest interest on savings allowed by law at any commercial bank. But the law allows savings banks to pay you an extra quarter of a per cent per year on an equivalent account.

So, if you have to drive just a mile past CBT to make a $20 deposit at a savings bank, it'll cost you 30¢,* round trip, in auto expenses. And do you know how much you'll save? A nickel.

*According to The Automobile Club of Hartford — AAA, it costs at least 15¢ a mile to drive a car these days.
 Based on the annual interest for an equivalent savings or time account held to maturity.

In 1974 more people saved at CBT than in any other year. There must be a reason.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Who Was Derelict?

The statement of CIA Director William Colby that "Any mistakes by the CIA were few and far between, have been corrected, and in no way justify the outcry which has been raised" is worthy of a great deal of credence.

Appearing before a House subcommittee investigating charges against the intelligence agency, Colby protested that the spotlight being turned on the CIA might destroy its effectiveness as a surveillance and espionage body.

"Congress should not throw the baby out with the bath water," he protested.

The CIA is an agency run by human beings and as such is much likely to make an occasional mistake as any other governmental body.

But we cannot expect it to function with any degree of efficiency if its method of operation and undercover personnel are thrown into the spotlight of public scrutiny.

The Congress has a standing committee supposed to monitor the affairs of the CIA. If that group has been derelict in its duty, we need not destroy the agency to correct it.

Nor are we unduly alarmed by the fact that several congressmen came under the scrutiny of the agency because of their anti-war statements and fear that they were working with enemies of the nation.

We do not consider congressmen sacro-sanct. If anything they should be less inviolate than the ordinary citizen because of their nearness to the heart of government.

It should not be forgotten that Benedict Arnold was a valued general before America's revolutionary forces before he finally betrayed his country.

Watergate Punishment

NEW YORK - With the sentencing of the four men convicted in the Watergate trial we reach the end of a political drama from which the major actor has somehow dropped out.

It is a case of a "Hamlet" performance without Hamlet. As historical chance would have it, Richard Nixon was being given a dinner party at the home of Walter Annenberg, whom he had appointed as ambassador to the Court of St. James, on the same day that John Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Robert Mardian were sentenced by Judge Sirica to relatively severe jail terms. Not surprisingly, he had no comment on the fate of his fellows. With him, as with them, it was every man for himself.

Looking back at the whole story, the nation's preoccupation with Watergate never really focused on the fate of the men in the Palace Guard, but on Richard Nixon himself. It mounted as long as the theme of the anguished national debate was his guilt and his impeachment. With his resignation and Mr. Ford's succession it would have mounted again until the question of Nixon's fate in the courts would be settled.

Thus, the turning point in the national crime-and-punishment story was not the Watergate trial but President Ford's pardon of Nixon. With that pardon the storm broke, but in time also the Watergate preoccupation broke. The rest was anticlimax.

As the four defendants and their counsel lined up before Judge Sirica for sentencing, the unexpressed thought both inside and outside the courtroom was that there - but for the grace of Mr. Ford - stood Nixon. What clinched the conviction for four was the unswerving testimony of the telltale tapes. It would have clinched Nixon's conviction too, and their sentences were all along the major figure in the Watergate event: conviction; he was the major quarry in the tracking-down drama, and he would have been the major target of the trials and sentences.

There seems to be a widespread feeling that, despite the sentences, the four will somehow escape punishment. I don't think so. Certainly the appeals process may stretch out during this year and part of next, and conceivably Judge Sirica - who has been overruled at times in the past - might be overruled again. But the strong probability is that these men, once so powerful, will in fact have to serve out their minimum terms.

Three key figures among them - Mitchell, Haldeman and Ehrlichman - have reacted to their ordeal in the characteristic ways. Stress and punishment bring out the diverse elements of character structure. John Mitchell responded to his sentence with a jocular cynicism, noting that it was better than being sentenced to a lifetime with Martha, but the deadpan wisecrack couldn't conceal the bitterness. Haldeman, through his counsel, tried to shift the guilt to Nixon, falling back on the traditional defense of the inferior. He is still the line-and-staff technician.

The response which has evoked the widest national comment was Ehrlichman's, with his offer to do "alternate service" as a land-use lawyer for the Indians in the Southwest - an offer he has not carried out even though it was rejected by the court. It could be a smart public relations move, or it could be a sign of a genuine Dostoevskian conversion, or it could be the psychological future of a more introverted person, called Richard Nixon, above that of any of his Watergate associates. That is another story and a still unraveled one.

None of these major Watergate figures strikes us as characters from Dostoevsky. Most of them were extroverted personalities, riding high in their time of power, and doubtless plunged into gloom in their time of darkness, but scarcely material for deep conversion experiences.

Here again, the interest of most people does not lie in the psychological future of a more introverted person, called Richard Nixon, above that of any of his Watergate associates. That is another story and a still unraveled one.

Opportunity

To the editor:

Due to the demand for a fuel that is produced domestically and one less expensive than imported oil, those who claim wood and waste distillates can be used and mixed with other fuels to lower costs have opened the door to opportunity.

Business, social organizations and the general public, could join together to organize, finance and create a corporate structure for the harvesting and the collection of materials for distillation into fuel.

Prices established by fuel demands should make the venture not only self supporting but profitable and offer steady employment to many people.

Our national, state, municipal forests and watersheds have not been weeded of brush and brush litter, since Conservation Corps days in the early 50s. The weeding is badly needed, the fuel is badly needed. Unskilled and semi-skilled labor is a majority of the production requirements. Unskilled and semi-skilled labor constitutes a large proportion of the unemployed.

The needed weeding, the needed fuel, the availability of a corps of labor, a growing market for fuel products would make this corporate venture profitable in all respects.

All the New England states could develop private enterprise corporations, pool resources to set up a central distillation plant, form a marketing unit and establish a foundation for the accumulation of and the utilization of material that can be converted to usable hydrocarbons. Circumstances make a corporate effort of this type economically feasible to establish and as the circumstances continue its incorporation into the economic life stream is certain.

Any claims by the established fuel companies that they have the fuel problem solved are not true. Their best projections are for a 10 year minimum and by the end of that time the demand and need would be far and beyond their capacity to service with fossil fuels. Therefore the time is now and the before mentioned distillate corporation can be in full production in six to nine months and be adding its share to the public needs. This effort is needed now.

Certainly full advantage should be taken of this opportunity to utilize waste materials as growing public needs. Waste not, want not, a simple but true statement. True in the past, true in the present, true in the future.

To the editor:
A new dimension has been injected into town meeting deliberations dealing with future spending. We are all familiar with lobbying which, in the purest sense, is the art of persuading people to your point of view. This reaches all people paying taxes in a town. We Have A Choice

WASHINGTON - It could, of course, have happened in New York, Detroit, Newark or any other big city. Between 7 p.m. on a Tuesday and 4 a.m. on a Wednesday a period of only nine hours - five people are slain and three wounded in the Washington metropolitan area.

Firearms were involved in all but one of the grisly incidents. The exception was a fatal stabbing.

By a coincidence, Wednesday brought a news conference on Capitol Hill at which some people who know about the problem first-hand urged passage of a bill introduced in both houses of Congress by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Rep. Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y., to ban the ownership or possession of handguns or handgun ammunition by private citizens.

The advocates of this piece of legislation were Mayor Abraham Beame of New York, former New York Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy and former Washington Police Chief Jerry Wilson. None of these three men is a wild-eyed reformer.

But, the bill's chances of passage are slim. A similar measure in 1972 got only seven votes in the Senate, and Phil Hart suffered through a recall campaign in Michigan because of his sponsorship of the bill. It was another victory for one of the country's most powerful lobbies - the National Rifle Association and its non-member supporters.

Except for the NRA hierarchy, opponents of gun control are not necessarily unreasonable people. Most of them are concerned about their personal safety in a country that has become perilous for the law-abiding. They fear that if the citizenry is disarmed, there will be no protection from criminals who naturally will not turn in the weapons with which they earn their violent livelihood.

From a reader in Casper, Wyo.: "Many of us live in rural areas (and) we are dependent upon ourselves for protection against intruders. My wife and I both own a handgun with which we have never committed a crime."

Gary, as elsewhere in the country, we almost have anarchy. Just staying alive is an everyday preoccupation for us all, here in this jungle. And you would disarm us!" These are decent, reasonable people, and so are the hundreds of others who protest national gun control legislation. Their argument that would-be murderers, muggers and rapists will scoff at any firearms confiscation law is a valid one. Criminals do not obey the law.

So, although the Hart-Bingham bill is right in theory and I'd vote for it, there is a need for more realistic approaches to the problem. The current bill says for 180 days after the law becomes effective citizens may sell their handguns to the government for $25 or the fair market value, whichever is higher. After that, individuals could voluntarily turn in their handguns without compensation, and without being prosecuted. Violators would be subject to a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

Medi-Cues

Many people have problems with sleep, and they are worried about their health. However, there is such a thing as "imaginary insomnia" where people believe they "didn't sleep a wink" because they fail to distinguish between dreams and waking thoughts, between light sleep and waking which leaves an impression of long stretches of wakefulness.

A sleeping medication, when it is really needed and properly prescribed and used, can be helpful. Used continuously, perhaps in an addiction to it, it can even do harm. An over dose can be fatal. Sedatives and sleep inducers should be used for occasional relief and not as a perpetual crutch.

FOR BETTER SLEEP
Sleep is a natural process. Except when in pain or excessively worried, you'll sleep when you are relaxed to the point of feeling yourself sink into your mattress.

Leave your worries outside the bedroom. A tepid bath before bedtime is a sleep inducer for some; a glass of warm milk for others, and reading in bed for still others. Try them, they could work for you.

By SOL R. COHEN

Last Monday, Manchester Directors Phyllis Jackson and Vivian Ferguson resigned from the town's personnel committee citing frustrations over personnel matters.

They insisted, "In our opinion, the requirements of this position were tailored by the administration to fit the person appointed (Ms. Bauer). We cannot approve, nor do we consider this good for employee morale."

On Thursday, Weiss denied the application of Ms. Bauer to fill Ms. Bauer's position.

Today, Directors Jackson and Ferguson contended that "a commitment had been made to Ms. Bauer" and realigned their stand that "the town specifications were tailored to suit this person's work experience."

In a statement to the Board of Directors, with copies to Weiss and to the press, Directors Jackson and Ferguson said, "It has never been our intention to become involved in personalities, nor is our purpose to usurp the authority of the general manager."

Indians' Outside Shooting Game Runs Cold, Norwich Sends Locals to Tourney Sidelines

Of great concern to Manchester High prior to Saturday's Class AA Division play round test at Windham High was rebounding.

Finishing in a tie for third place in the high jump at the New England Interscholastic Track Championships staged last weekend at Medford, Mass., was University of Massachusetts freshman Joe Martens.

Martens, former East Catholic basketball and track star, cleared the bar at 6-5 to tie with Maine's Eric Lamm.

At the Class B Sectionals at the Coast Guard Academy, East's Mark Ertel took second in the high jump, Brian Foley placed second in the 600-yard run, and Steve Lajeski took third in the shot put.

Atrocius Ice Hurts Rangers - NEW YORK (UPI) - These home games are killing the New York Rangers. Well, maybe not killing, but certainly maiming.

The New York Rangers not only had former teammate Vic Hadfield lead the Pittsburgh Penguins to a 4-1 victory but the speciality of the house - atrocious ice conditions - cost the Rangers another front-line defenseman.

Last week, All-Star defenseman Brad Park suffered an injury that will sideline him until the playoffs when he hit a bad patch of ice.

Schoolboy Hoop Tourney - East and Branford Tuesday Night Foes - State Basketball Tournament action continues this week with one local and two area clubs still in the hunt.

East Catholic, a 56-45 playground round winner over Jonathan Law, tackles second-ranked 19-1 Branford High Tuesday night in a Class A Division first round test at Maloney High in Meriden.

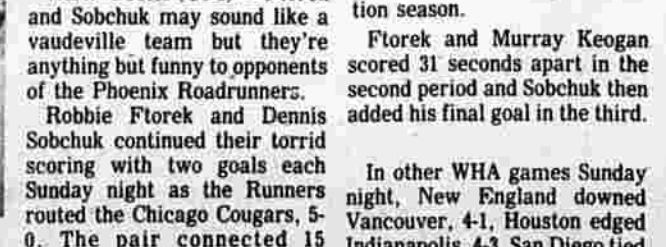

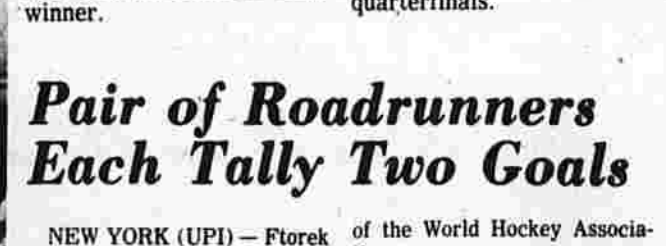

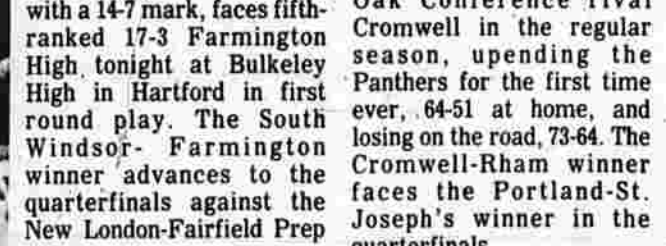

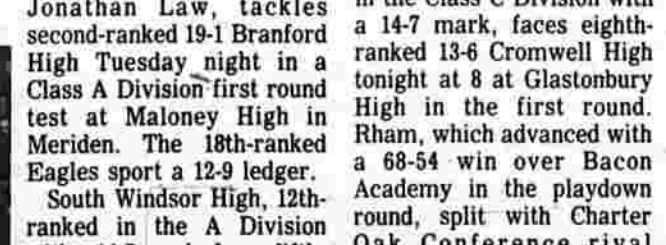

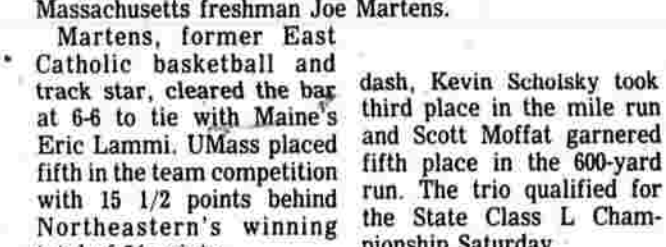

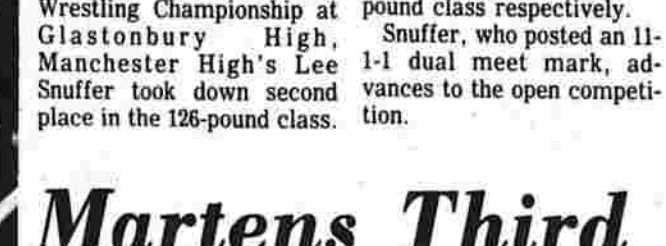

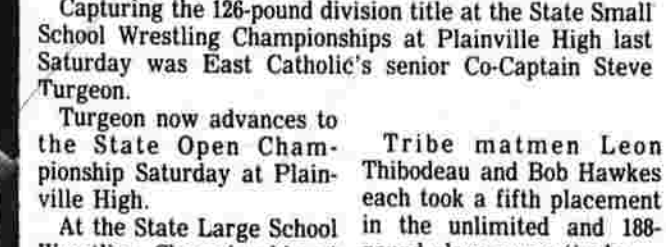

Rham High, ninth-ranked in the Class C Division with a 14-7 mark, faces eighth-ranked 13-6 Cromwell High tonight at 8 at Gastonbury High in the first round.

Pair of Roadrunners Each Tally Two Goals - NEW YORK (UPI) - Florek and Sobchak may sound like a vaudeville team but they're anything but funny to opponents of the Phoenix Roadrunners.

In other WHA games Sunday night, New England downed Denver 4-1, Houston edged Vancouver 4-3, San Diego tied Winnipeg 4-4, Minnesota beat Toronto 5-3, and Edmonton routed Baltimore, 7-2.

Murphy's Late Charge Snaps Victory Famine

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — As the threesome of Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Bob Murphy strode to the fifth hole Sunday, Nicklaus was 15 under par for the tournament and Murphy only nine.

"I felt like I was six strokes behind Jack Nicklaus and that is no place to be on a Sunday afternoon," said Murphy. But the pudgy, beer-drinking Irishman birdied the fifth hole, then mounted a charge that won him the $52,000 first prize in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf classic—his first win in nearly five years.

Murphy shot a 68 for a total of 273, one shot ahead of Pearce, who had 71 over the par-72 course, and two ahead of Nicklaus, who shot a 73.

Arnold Palmer, who had gone into the round three shots down to Nicklaus, carded a 74 and was six strokes behind Murphy. Miller Barber shot 68 and was fourth at 276. Lee Trevino shot a 66 and was tied with Hale Irwin (70) for fifth at 277.

Murphy had plenty of help from Nicklaus, who admitted giving away at least four strokes.

The tide really began to turn on the 12th hole, where Nicklaus "felt like I had the tournament in my pocket" after birdying the 9th, 10th and 11th holes.

"I had a chance to shut the door," he said after finishing third, two shots behind Murphy and a stroke behind Eddie Pearce. "I didn't shut the door."

Instead Nicklaus drew a seven-iron on the tee of the 189-yard par-three hole and belted it over the gallery and the cart path out of bounds for a double bogey five.

Nicklaus said, "I saw the marshal wave his hand like that, and my confidence went like that."

The Golden Bear, who has not won since the Tournament Players Championship last Labor Day, parred the next hole but he three-putted both the 14th and 15th for bogeys.

"When he three-putted on the 14th, I felt like it was my tournament to win," Murphy said later.

But the Brooklyn-born eight-year pro still had to put away Pearce, who stayed in it until the 18th and then hit his second shot to the lip of the cup for a birdie to tie Murphy.

The tie lasted only seconds, as Murphy laid a spectacular eight iron within two inches of the 17th pin for a birdie three. He then needed only a par on 18, which he got in routine fashion.

It was the first win for Murphy since the 1970 Greater Hartford Open, and he said it was a long time coming.

"In that time I probably finished second 15 times," he said. "I was beginning to wonder if I would ever win again."

Murphy was dressed in green and credited Irish luck for his eight iron on the 17th.

When someone suggested it could have bounced into the rough instead of to the pin, he said, "I guess when you're Irish they don't bounce the other way."

He said after the ball nestled on the lip of the cup, "Nicklaus said, 'Nice shot.' Arnold Palmer said what did you hit? I said, 'I hit a super shot.'"

Pleau Paces Whaler Win

HARTFORD (UPI) — A goal just 15 seconds into the game by center Larry Pleau set the tempo and the New England Whalers responded with a 4-1 World Hockey Association victory over the Vancouver Blazers Sunday night.

Goalie Bruce Landon turned in a sharp effort in his second start of the season for New England. Landon, who recently returned to the Whalers after a brief retirement, stopped 21 shots.

Pleau's goal was his 22nd and came on a tip-in of a shot by defenseman Brad Selwood from the right point.

Indiana Win Away From Big 10 Mark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bobby Knight called it. Last season, after Indiana had won the Conference Commissioners tournament for conference losers, Knight was outraged. As they tried to present Knight with a tournament trophy for which he had nothing but contempt, the Indiana coach found it impossible to be a truly gracious winner.

He could merely protest the fact Indiana had even been forced to compete in a runners-up tournament with "We're not losers."

Since that day last March, he has been right. Indiana's 28 victories this season all have looked remarkably like Saturday's easy 86-78 win over Ohio State.

The top-ranked Hoosiers, winning their second game since losing Scott May with a broken wrist, coasted comfortably through most of the second half with a 19-point lead before the Buckeyes made the final score a bit more respectable.

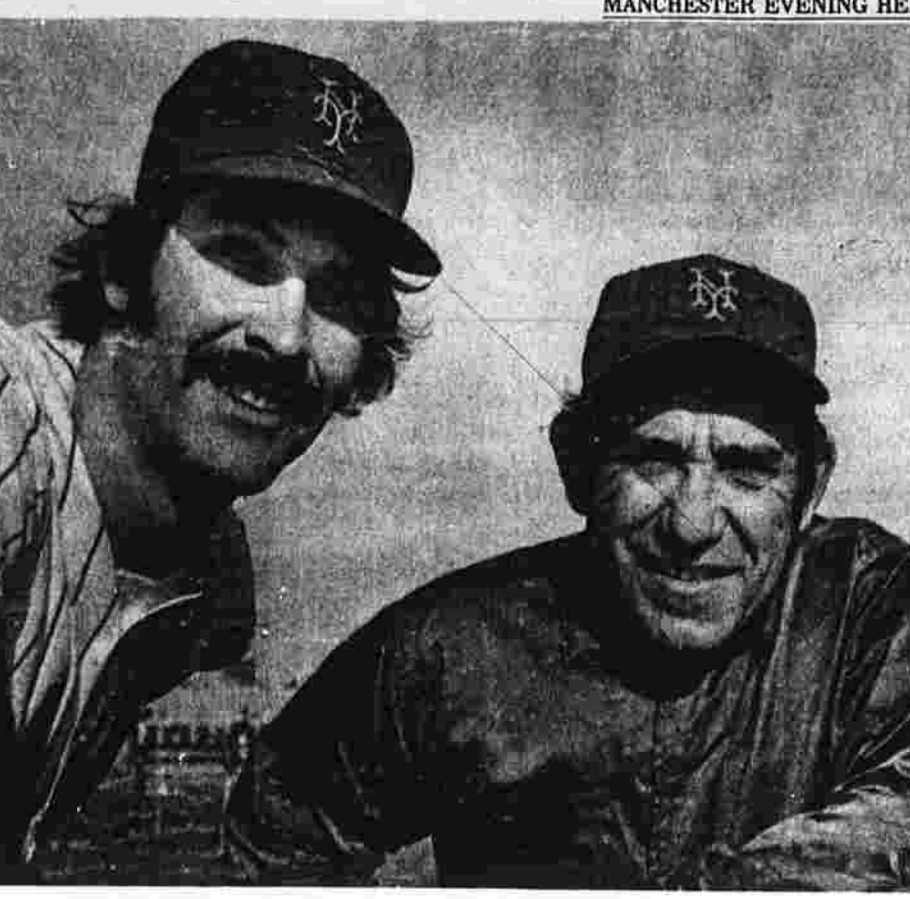

It was Indiana's 31st straight victory, including the three in last season's CCA tourney, and the Hoosiers can tie the record for consecutive wins for a Big Ten team by winning its next game.

Steve Green and guard Quinn Buckner led Indiana with 29 and 19 points and Bob Wilkerson had 14.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Maryland and third-ranked UCLA tuned up for post-season play with one-sided victories. The Terps, with a first-round bye in the Atlantic Coast Conference free-for-all, dumped it on East Tennessee State with an 104-77 victory behind 21 points by John Lucas.

UCLA clinched a tie for its ninth straight Pacific-8 title with a 93-59 triumph over Stanford. The conference tie virtually guaranteed the Bruins a berth in the NCAA tournament. Marques Johnson scored 15 first-half points to spark the UCLA triumph, while teammate Dave Meyers finished with 21.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lanky R.I. scored two goals Sunday night to set a National Hockey League record for goals over the Kansas City Scouts.

Manager Welcomes Newest Met to Camp. Dave Kingman, acquired from San Francisco, is welcomed into the New York Mets' spring camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., by Manager Yogi Berra. Kingman is expected to give the club the long ball.

Birds Bank On Palmer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles are readying a not-so-secret weapon to offset the New York Yankees' off-season acquisition of Jim "Catfish" Hunter — a healthy Jim Palmer.

No one, not even Orioles' always confident Manager Earl Weaver, is overlooking the fact that the Yankees greatly improved themselves this winter by winning the million-dollar "Catfish" Hunter sweepstakes. But what many optimistic Yankee boosters may have forgotten is that the Orioles still beat out New York by two games in the American League East last year despite getting an injury-filled year from Palmer, Baltimore's pitching leader.

Palmer, who because of arm miseries slumped to 7-12 last year after winning the Cy Young Award in 1973, pitched batting practice for the first time this spring at the Orioles' Miami training camp Sunday and looked impressive.

"He appeared real loose and threw hard without much effort," Orioles pitching coach George Bamberger reported. "You can't really tell how much until we start playing games, but right now I'm encouraged by Jim's performance."

Meanwhile, the Yankees, definitely a major threat to the Orioles' domination of the AL East after the winter acquisitions of both Hunter and rightfielder Bobby Bonds, have a leg at first base which will likely make a permanent designated hitter of Ron Blomberg.

Blomberg, who has been platooning in years past, had hoped to land a steady job at first base this year. That, however, was before manager Bill Virdon threw last year's DH, Roy White, into the first base sweepstakes which also include incumbent Chris Chambliss and recent acquisition Bob Oliver.

"It looks like this team has a chance to go all the way," Blomberg said, "so it's up to each guy to do the thing he can do best. I guess the Yanks feel the best thing I can do is hit and with three first basemen and Bonds in centerfield, I guess I'd better donate my power to charity."

Elsewhere around the Grapefruit League circuit, Boston Red Sox veteran slugger Carl Yastrzemski missed Sunday's workout because of a strained back muscle, while shortstop Mario Guerrero still hadn't reported — becoming the first Sox holdout since Sammy Yawkey in 1957.

Other notable unsigned players include Oakland Athletics' shortstop Campy Campaneris, reportedly asking owner Charles O. Finley for $100,000, Cleveland Indians' outfielder Oscar Gamble and their newly acquired first baseman Boog Powell; pitchers Andy Messersmith and Tommie John and outfielder Bill Buckner of the Los Angeles Dodgers; outfielder Dusty Baker, third baseman Darrell Evans, pitcher Max Leon and catcher Paul Casanova all of the Atlanta Braves.

Among those players agreeing to terms Sunday included California Angels' second baseman Denny Doyle and relief pitcher Dave LaRoche, acquired from the Cubs last Friday, plus Los Angeles Dodgers' shortstop Bill Russell.

Ashe, Stockton Triumph On World Tennis Tour

NEW YORK (UPI) — A pair of Americans, Arthur Ashe and Dick Stockton, are the latest winners on the World Championship Tennis tour, and for both it was simply a matter of refusing to fold.

Ashe, from Miami, dropped his first set to Dutchman Tom Okker, who was playing before an enthusiastic home crowd in Rotterdam, but rallied for a 3-6, 6-2, 6-4 victory in the Green group competition.

Stockton had to survive a tiebreak in the Red group final at San Antonio, Tex., to beat lanky Stan Smith, 7-5, 2-6, 7-6, for his first tourney success of the season, and even he thought he was finished at the start of the tie-break.

Smith did jump off to a 3-1 lead in the tiebreaker and was still ahead 6-5 before Stockton rallied.

Both Ashe and Stockton earned $12,000 for their victories.

After dropping the first set, Ashe jumped to a 3-0 lead in the second although Okker had a game point in each of the three games.

In the decisive set, the only service break came in the 10th game as Ashe ended the match. In Davis Cup action.

Tucker Bright Spot With Cougar Squad

Tops in percentage shooting, both from the line and the field, during the 1974-75 season with Manchester Community College was Tom Tucker.

The former Manchester High standout was one of the few bright spots in an otherwise sub-par season which produced just six victories in 25 starts.

Tucker, 6-3 and 190 pounds, earned 38 of 120 free throw attempts for a 78.4 percentage and from the field hit 152 of 339 tries for 44.9 percent.

The tall hoopster scored 402 points and collected 77 rebounds. His two-year scoring totals were 855 points and 15.6 points per game.

Tucker's credentials were impressive enough to earn a berth on the Connecticut Community College Athletic Assn. All-Star squad.

Only once in the last 23 games did Tucker fail to reach twin scoring figures. He averaged 16.8 points per game this season and averaged 7.3 rebounds. His free throw attempt and number of points from the 15-foot line were both new MCC records.

Radical Group Has History Of Violence

United Press International
The "Weather Underground" made its reputation as a violent radical group by planting bombs in major government and corporate offices, including the U.S. Capitol, the Pentagon and offices of International Telephone and Telegraph.

The people who apparently used a bomb or bombs to start a fire Saturday that destroyed a sponge rubber factory in a small Connecticut city claimed to be members of the left-wing group.

The Underground was last in the news when it claimed responsibility for the Jan. 29, 1975, bombing of the State Department and for planting dynamite in an Oakland, Calif., induction center.

The organization started as the "Weathermen" and was known for the wave of anti-Vietnam war violence in the late 1960s by radicals who broke with the Students for a Democratic Society.

Like many radicals, they wanted a drastic change in the American political and economic system. But unlike most, they believed the time was ripe for bringing the revolution to the streets.

The name Weatherman comes from a Bob Dylan song "Subterranean Homesick Blues" which contains the words: "You don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows."

Weathermen leaders went underground in 1969, splitting into isolated cells with no real headquarters. They set off bombs around the country, and gained a reputation for aimless violence with their bizarre "Day of Rage," a wild wind-dismantling rampage in Chicago.

On March 6, 1970, an elegant townhouse in New York City's Greenwich Village blew up, killing three members of the Weathermen. Police later found it was being used as a "bomb factory."

Over the years, the group has changed its name, first to "Weatherpeople," in deference to the wishes of female members, and then to Weather Underground. It has taken credit for a number of bombings around the country.

FBI Director Clarence Kelley said the Weather Underground has claimed responsibility for 19 politically motivated bombings in the United States since 1970, including the Capitol building in 1971 and the Pentagon in 1972. A number of the group's members are high on the FBI wanted list, Kelley said.

Rep. Cotter Proposes Oil Buying Monopoly
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., has proposed the creation of a national oil-purchasing monopoly in an effort to deal with skyrocketing oil prices and face off against Arab oil producers.

Cotter said Saturday he will introduce legislation this week, establishing a federal agency with the sole power to buy foreign oil on the basis of competitive bids submitted by oil-rich nations.

'Scared, Really Scared', Says Security Guard

HARTFORD (UPI) — "Scared, really scared," was the phrase security guard Roy Ranno summed up his feelings after being kidnaped by three men claiming to be revolutionaries, who then destroyed the factory where he worked.

Ranno, Al Hanley, a guard, and Robert Deloy, a boiler-maker, were kidnapped and blindfolded from the factory about an hour before explosions set it ablaze around 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Ranno said Saturday he was surprised by the men, who wore ski masks. The guard said the abductors were in the building and came on the workers from behind. He said the abductors repeatedly assured them they would not be harmed.

Ranno told UPI in a telephone interview from his Ansonia home that one of the abductors asked him "Have you ever heard of the Weathermen?" "I said, 'Just what I read in the papers.' Then he said, 'Well you're going to hear more about them,'" Ranno said.

Ranno, who has been with the factory for 24 years, said one of the abductors was armed with a pistol. He said the men put the employees into Ranno's car and drove them away.

Democrat Dinner Highlighted with Bailey Appearance

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic State Chairman John M. Bailey left his hospital bed to tell cheering Democratic supporters "When we draw together, we win."

Bailey, who has been hospitalized for three weeks for treatment of throat cancer, spoke in a flattering voice Saturday night to party faithfuls attending the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner.

His voice cracking and at times barely audible from the middle of the Hartford Hilton's banquet room, the 70-year old chairman said, "When we draw together, we win."

Seated on either side of Bailey at the Hilton were two of his other political proteges, former Gov. John N. Dempsey and Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff.

The festive occasion was somewhat marred by the absence of the Democratic town chairman of Hartford, Bridgeport and New Haven, who are feuding with Mrs. Grasso over patronage policies.

HANOVER, N.H. (UPI) — On most college campuses students head for the library to study assignments. At Dartmouth they are apt to head for the computer.

"We feel we're just as important a part of the education program as the library," said Thomas Byrne, assistant director for administration at the Merrill Computer Center.

One man computerized some lectures so they were self-teaching. This gave him two hours to lecture about things he never had time for before," Byrne said.

BASIC because of the work a decade ago by two Dartmouth professors—John G. Kemeny, now president of the college, and Thomas E. Kurtz, now director of Kiewit.

They did two things that have helped revolutionize the computer industry worldwide. They worked out a time-sharing program which allows many people to use a large computer at the same time, while it seems to each user he has exclusive use of the system.

And they invented a computer language, called BASIC, which lets computer users give commands in simple English instead of complex mathematical formulas.

"MIT had done some work on time-sharing. We tried to do a less expensive version," Byrne said.

Kemeny and Kurtz felt one reason it was impractical to have time-sharing programs in use in power-sharing programs. It is powerful because of its range of commands. With it, for example, you can edit texts, work in graphics and retrieve information.

BASIC uses self-explanatory word commands such as "stop, run, print, end, list, read, write, scratch, go to, sort." Another important word is "let," as in mathematical formulas like "let X equal Y."

General Electric picked up the time-sharing program, copied it around the country, and was so pleased it entered into a three-year research project with Dartmouth and the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The system has a library of 800 programs which can do anything from help design bridges to send out lower water bills to play word games with children—a good way to get them interested in using a tool which can give help in almost any field.

ELECTRIC SERVICE INTERRUPTION IN MANCHESTER

There will be an electric service interruption in Manchester on Tuesday, March 4, 1975. The interruption will last approximately 90 minutes beginning at 9:00 A.M. A list of the streets affected follows:

Tolland Turnpike (East of Oakland St. to Vernon town line)

Parker Street (From House No. 87 to House No. 1032)
