SST Fiasco Sequel

Another chapter in the tragic-comic history of the United States fiasco in the field of supersonic transports has been written with the announcement that the Environmental Protection Agency will permit flights of existing SST's into the United States on commercial trips.

There are 16 of the SST's which have been built by a French-British consortium and Russia also has an undetermined number of the planes.

The Concordes has made several demonstration flights into the United States and aroused much interest.

The United States has no supersonic transports, although we have been the world leader in commercial aviation for decades.

After spending more than a billion dollars on our SST, Congress killed the program by a close vote. It was influenced by environmentalists who propounded scientific theories that the SST would damage the ozone layer which protects the earth from the sun's rays and hence might be injurious to life on the planet.

Another argument which the environmentalist advanced was that noise of the SST's would be much worse in the vicinity of airports than present commercial planes.

There also were arguments that the nation had other priorities which took precedence over the SST and hence the program of development should be aborted. It was.

Recently we have been told that the theory of the destruction of the ozone layer was so much poppycock. It is somewhat similar to a more recent warning of scientific minds that the principal reason for tornadoes in the United States is that we drive on the right hand side of the road and hence set up air currents which are in the wrong direction for this hemisphere.

The noise of commercial airplanes has always been a nuisance near airports. But the noise factor has been much reduced from the level of early planes.

And as for other priorities, we were sending men to the moon and occupying a prime place in space, while Russia, France and Britain were outdistancing us in the field of commercial aviation.

The whole thing is reminiscent of early laws regarding railroad trains which required that a rider on a horse precede the train warning people and cattle that it was coming.

The United States aviation industry lost as many as 150,000 jobs through the cancellation of the SST program.

But far worse we may have lost our position as the number one commercial aviation nation of the world.

Applauds Chief

WASHINGTON — Predictably, sick jokes are being told about the Detroit Police Department, where its chief has set up a psychiatric unit to help policemen "before they explode, because when they explode somebody gets killed."

Well, I do not embrace the chic, mass fad for shrinks, but Chief Phillip Tannian is to be applauded for trying to deal with reality. With a population of 1.4 million, Detroit last year had 801 murders, the highest per capita murder rate in the United States. Moreover, in 60 per cent of all Detroit arrests — including those for minor traffic violations — a firearm is involved.

That makes the city a very tough beat for a cop, because the figures tell him there will be more than two murders committed every day of the year. Moreover, Tannian told a conference on crime in Lansing, Mich., there also were 6,000 "near misses" in 1974 — victims of serious assault whose lives were saved by the emergency staff of Detroit General Hospital. Put any of us in a Detroit policeman's uniform and we'd require some expert mind messengers to keep us sane. In pursuit of my trade, in Washington and elsewhere, I have encountered numerous cops who quit because they were afraid they were going nuts. The pressure to which they are submitted day in and day out is not to be compared with that suffered by a stockbroker or journalist trying to make ends meet, with a few bucks left over for an occasional Martini.

One reason the pressure is so great, said Tannian, is that crime in the United States has become professionalized...like nothing we have seen before in our history. It is Tannian's position that criminal professionals now have a commitment to crime as "a way of life" employed to earn a living, even at the cost of their own lives. He said, a substantial percentage of the murders are committed by professional "as a way of life," as are a majority of burglaries and robberies.

In short, crime is becoming more organized every day, while the nation's so-called "criminal justice system" limps along in the rear. Tannian doesn't even see it as a system. "It is a very disjointed process where a criminal who has been arrested goes from one little island of power to another," he complains. "I take the position that it's a failure...frustration will continue to grow, and there is a point beyond which there will be an explosion."

Tannian is talking about vigilantism, whereby the people arm themselves and go out after the criminal creeps on their own. Shortly, he fears that "vigilantism may become a battle cry. When you couple that with the tremendous increase in firearms ownership that gets pretty scary."

It's already pretty scary. According to testimony at Congressional hearings on gun control legislation, about 40 million handguns are privately owned in the United States. And in the past several years, the sale of such firearms has increased sharply to about 2.5 million a year. As Tannian put it, vigilantism can happen "if the situation gets bad enough and a majority of the citizens want something done about it and they're willing to pay the price."

It should go without saying that vigilantism is a threat to the commonweal. Vigilantism is taking the law into one's own hands and is therefore a crime. But if those Americans now crying out for the formation of posses to maintain law and order are wrongheaded, they are reacting to the pressure of the Republic's criminal "way of life" which Tannian fears is undermining his cops. They are saying, with Tannian, that our criminal justice system is a failure, that there is too much dallying, too many legalistic delays in bringing, say, a murderer to justice. No wonder Tannian has brought psychiatry into his department.

The girls and the Illing faculty advisers are to be our guests at the Sports Banquet in June and at that time our athletes and students will show our appreciation. Manchester High School and East Catholic will be fortunate to have the Illing ladies next year unless of course the enroll at Tech. We love them.

The Herald will publish a special edition April 26 with the theme: Manchester, As We Live, Work, Play and Serve.

We have had such editions the past two years, dating back to the 1973 Manchester Sesquicentennial, and they have proven extremely popular, particularly for mailing to friends and relatives elsewhere.

The edition will be composed of four sections, in addition to our regular Saturday issue for that date. A coupon for mailing copies elsewhere will be available in The Herald from time to time beginning around mid-March.

In keeping with our current circulation promotion campaign, the circulation department is putting together a trip to the Bronx Zoo for possibly later this month and a visit to the Shrine Circus in late April. Our news carriers qualify by bringing in new Herald customers. The campaign is meeting with good results and last Sunday several of our carriers were rewarded with a tour of New York City.

As part of other promotional campaigns, a reminder that The Herald's Travel Show entitled "Walt Disney World and Florida" is slated for tomorrow evening in the auditorium of Manchester High School. We have even been promised an appearance from Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck. Admission is free but tickets should be picked up at The Herald or from participating travel agencies.

We appreciate the several fine comments on the new Weekend publication which is now part of our Saturday edition. We believe that putting the television listings, features and stories of culture and art together makes for a more complete package. Our salute to Doug Bevin of our editorial staff who is in charge of the Weekend.

Nursing homes are much in the news these days. No business, including the news media, is immune to criticism.

The Croissants Are Coming!

WOBURN, Mass. (UPI) — The croissants are coming! But instead of grabbing muskets and rising in anger, modern minutemen should grab a mug of hot coffee and prepare to meet French bread instead of British redcoats.

FDA Expands Recall Of Television Sets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said Tuesday it is expanding the largest recall of television sets in history to include more than 5,000 additional sets of three different brands.

The FDA said the sets have the potential for leaking radiation at dangerous levels. For the same reason, the FDA had recalled 400,000 other sets in January.

The FDA also said, for the first time, that owners of all sets will be paid mileage money to bring the sets into appliance centers around the country for repairs.

The additional sets recalled involve about 2,500 sets made by Toshiba of America Inc., and are rolling their own dough and using imported implements in an effort to reach the American palate.

"We just couldn't find the American machinery to make the bread. It's made differently here," said Charles Fejoz, the bakery's assistant manager.

In many nations, long loaves of French bread are a common sight. They stick up like huge flower stems from glass jars in store windows, hang out of bicycle baskets and are tucked under the arm by small children heading home to eat. The popularity is attributed to the freshness.

Vi de France uses pure ingredients, unbleached flour and no preservatives. The goal is to have the bread eaten the same day it is baked.

If not, the bread if sent back to the bakery to be ground into crumbs for use as coating for fried foods.

Now comes the newest experiment — the croissant. It's a crescent shaped roll, pointed at the ends and fat in the middle. Up to 36 thin flaky layers of dough are rolled in each one.

Pessimistic

To the editor: After reading "Some Thoughts" in the March 8 forum, I too had some thoughts. First, one of amusement, then as follows. There is a difference in professional sports and major league sports. Put the Whalers among the Bruins, Rangers, etc. and see.

It has yet to be proven that Connecticut as such will ever support a pro team. Let the Whalers become a loser next year and see.

I wonder also how many bringing home $113 a week and usually less can worry about the Whalers when they have to live on this amount?

I wonder if the writer, at the high price of newspaper, could afford to look at a blank front page? No weather report, snow rain, sleet, killing frost, etc. (No Friday 13th edition) (Do you attend Whalers' games?)

Every day we see reports telling of school activities. "Highland Park School damage to run into thousands," windows smashed at Illing, senior high school wrecked by vandalism. I guess the bad guys win in the end. We have a school section each week to extol the schools.

Will you be kind enough to tell us how many new businesses are coming to Manchester? Do you know why? They are going to Zoffield, Vernon, etc. Take Main Street, there again the good guys are losers. This town couldn't support Grand Union or Butterfields with the loss of dozens of jobs. Concentrate on the good guys lady and lets keep our money in Manchester.

Don't hold your breath until prices of anything comes down, even meat prices. (Of course I don't notice these as I can't afford much meat.)

Thanks Illing Cheerleaders

Dear sir: I wish to utilize the Herald's forum so that I may publicly thank the cheerleaders of Illing Junior School. The Manchester School System should indeed be proud of these young and beautiful ladies.

As you know Cheney Tech presently is an all male school and of course, we have recently concluded a most successful basketball season. The cheerleaders at Illing volunteered their services to Cheney Tech's student body and its basketball team and represented Cheney at the tournament game held at Ellington High School.

The impact these young ladies had on our fans, parents, students, and players, has been fantastic and will always be cherished. They so easily got involved in the Cheney Spirit, a spirit that is understood by our loyal following.

Perhaps the most impressive part of the evening (as sad one as we lost) happened at 10:20 when the team bus returned. Several of the young ladies along with 20 or more Cheney students applauded the players as they disembarked. This was so beautiful and so touching. Emotions could not be controlled.

Historic District Defeated

COVENTRY
Monica Shea
 Correspondent
 742-9495

Both of the proposed historic districts in town have been voted down by residents in the proposed districts by a large margin.

Of the 55 1/2 ballots cast in North Coventry, the district received 30 yes votes and 25 no votes.

In South Coventry, 54 and one third votes were cast with 28 voting for the establishment of the district and 26 and one third voting no.

For a historic district to be formed at least 75 per cent of those in the proposed district would have to approve of the formation.

In North Coventry 41.62 votes were needed and 40.75 were needed in South Coventry.

John Scarbeck of the Historic District Study Committee said, "The committee will get together and make a decision on whether to try again. The town is so unsettled, and this contributed to the defeat. Originally when we started three years ago we had the votes when we asked people if they wanted to be in the district. When it came time to vote they had second thoughts. Actually, we were surprised by the outcome."

The votes were counted by the registrars of both districts.

There had been no vocal opposition to the North Coventry district and it was expected that this district would be formed, but the businessmen of South Coventry had objected being included in a district.

$408,723 Budget Asked To Run Andover Schools

Ron Dickerman
 The Andover Board of Education voted last night to present a budget of $408,723 to the finance board. The budget will be for the fiscal year 1975-1976 and is an increase of $18,000 over the present budget.

Most of the increase is due to the addition of a new first-grade teacher and repairs to the school, according to school principal David Kravet.

Kravet also told the board that 4th, 5th and 6th grade teachers from the elementary school will meet with Grade 7 teachers March 19. The meeting is part of the administrative program to coordinate procedures between the elementary and high schools.

Curricula and procedures at the two schools will be discussed. One change in procedure at the elementary school, the method of grading pupils, came about through these discussions, according to Kravet.

In the elementary school student work was graded by writing the number correct over the total possible with no percentage grade. The high school gave a percentage grade, such as 85%. Kravet said even though this is a small thing, it should aid the student in adjusting to the new school after leaving the elementary school.

To Buy Buses
 The board also voted to purchase two school buses with a seating capacity of 54, and a GMC rally wagon. The wagon will have a nine passenger capacity. The cost of the three vehicles will be around $28,000. The board was unable to get a firm price because it will be nine months to one year before the vehicles are delivered. Delivery price will depend on any increase or decrease between now and then.

Democrats Back Raich for ZBA

COVENTRY

The Democratic Town Committee at its meeting last night recommended Charles Raich to the Zoning Board of Appeals created by the resignation of Joseph Bastarach.

Raich is an alternate on the board and Sandy Bastarach was recommended to fill the position of alternate on the board.

These appointments must now be approved by the Town Council.

Harvey Barrette of the Paddle, Prop and Sail Club explained to the committee why his club wanted to have a slalom course installed on the lake. At its last meeting the committee had voted by an overwhelming majority to send a letter to the Department of Environmental Protection asking that permission not be granted for the course.

Warehouses Destroyed

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) - An early morning fire today destroyed three warehouse buildings of the Nutmeg Building Supply Co. on Bridgeport's east side.

Stewart Johnson, a director of Hemlock Point, told the commission that as long as LeMay does the job he has promised to do, Hemlock Point residents would have no problem with the filling operation.

Moore to Report
 The commission met with James Moore, its representative to the Winham Regional Planning Agency, to discuss his attendance at the agency meetings and a possible schedule for Moore to report to the commission.

When Moore was asked by a commission member why the Town Council was unhappy with his attendance, Moore indicated that there was a personality conflict between him and members of the Town Council.

The Town Council had originally asked the commission to review the appointment of Moore as its representative to the agency.

Moore will give quarterly reports to the commission in the future and would come to the commission anytime between these reports if there was something coming up that would be of particular interest to Coventry.

Moore told the commission that the agency would be meeting in member towns over the next year.

Moore also told the commission that he bases his votes on not only what is good for the town of Coventry, but what is also good for the region as a whole. He said, "I am not going to vote a certain way because that is the way that Manley wants me to vote."

Manley is the Town Council's representative to the WRPA. Moore indicated that he got plenty of feedback from Coventry people, some good and some bad.

The commission unanimously re-elected Moore as its representative for another two-year term.

Discuss New Regulations
 The commission met with Stuart Mahler from the Department of Community Affairs, who will be working with the commission to update the zoning regulations. Mahler told the commission that his first impression of the regulations was that there were inconsistencies because the regulations had been written and amended at various times.

Mahler will meet with the commission March 19, in a work session to get commission input into what the commission thinks the regulations should contain.

Mahler would then draw up new regulations with the assistance of Frank Connolly, town planner.

PZC Approves Filling In Lots at Hemlock Point

The Planning and Zoning Commission Monday evening granted the application of Leo LeMay to fill lots 3 and 4 of beach front on Coventry Lake in Hemlock Point.

The commission stipulated that a $1,500 bond must be given to the town to guarantee that the work will be done according to the stipulations, that all trees on the lot would be well to prevent their loss, a diversion ditch alongside lot 4 to eliminate be installed and maintained, vegetative cover by placed on the land and that the soil be placed on the filled land for two seasons.

A stone wall must also be installed in the front of the lot to prevent erosion into the lake.

Hemlock Point residents had objected at the public hearing when LeMay was making his application to the commission.

Stewart Johnson, a director of Hemlock Point, told the commission that as long as LeMay does the job he has promised to do, Hemlock Point residents would have no problem with the filling operation.

Girl's Hoop Team Has 9-0 Season

TOLLAND

Vivian Kennesson
Correspondent
875-4704

The Tolland Middle School girls' basketball team completed its first season with a 9-0 record, while the boys closed out the season at 9-3 tally.

The girls, under the supervision of coach Joanne Sugros, defeated Coventry, Ashford, Mansfield, Stafford, and Ellington, averaging 45 points a game. Karen Toppi and Sue Tuller, co-captains of the team, led the scoring with an average of 15.5 and 8.0 respectively.

Also helping out were Wendy Daell, Edna Nolan, Cheri Goetzhus and Teri Carter. Lori Kiliwicz, Patty McCarthy, Anne Mahoney, Jeremy Edmonds, Chris Amlberg and Joan Aldredacio provided backup strength on the bench.

Sugros attributes the success of the team to their superior defense and willingness to work as a team.

The boys, under coach Art Breault, averaged 54 points a game and mounted a well-balanced scoring attack. Rich DeFemia pulled down 200 rebounds and averaged 14 points a game. Jim Estey scored 12 points a game while Bert Czuchra and Neill Hoss averaged eight.

Paul Noonan averaged five points and showed a fine defensive effort. Glen Baker, Nate Blauvelt, Al Durand, Scott Hubbard, Dave Iseleb, Jim Klager, Eric Laforgue, Dave Skowronek, Jim Toombs, Mike Harrison, Will Dowdy, Bill Telf, Mike Cinge, Jim Gray and Rich Shadt provided the team's reserve strength.

South Windsor Fire Calls Increase

Judy Kuehnel
Correspondent
644-1364

The South Windsor Fire Department has responded to 257 alarms in the past year, according to the deputy fire marshal, Lt. W.H. Conley.

This represents a 30 per cent increase over the previous three-year average.

Alarms were categorized as follows: Structure 84; grass and brush, 78; motor vehicle, 42; mutual aid, 9; other, 44.

Over 41 per cent of alarms involved actual fires, of which only two resulted in property damage loss of over $10,000. About 60 per cent of all fires resulted in no property loss. They involved mostly fires of grass and brush.

Investigations revealed that 25 per cent of all fires were caused by abandoned or discarded material, 17 per cent were started by children and 17 per cent were caused by electrical short circuits and part failures. It was noted that 17 per cent of all fires were of a suspicious nature.

Responses not involving fires included: Motor vehicles excluded, 13 per cent; mistakem and accidental alarms, 10 per cent; public service calls, 8 per cent. There were two malicious false alarms reported.

The reason for the increase in alarms during 1974 could not be attributed to anything in particular. Fires in all categories increased proportionately, except that large-loss fires were down considerably from the previous year.

Cubs Learn Of Himalaya Climb

By Stephen Fisher

Jambhed Elavia, a 24-year-old Indian and presently a doctoral candidate in economics at the University of Connecticut, spoke of a recent expedition which he led into the Himalayas. Mountains before the Cub Scout Pack 68 of Vernon Thursday.

Speaking in the cautious tones that are garnered after more than 11 years of mountain climbing experience, Elavia demonstrated with the aid of color slides taken during the four-month expedition—the dangers of such an adventure.

Elavia came to the United States four years ago to pursue his graduate studies in engineering and business administration at the University of Connecticut. It was then that he joined the university's outdoor club, and in 1973 organized the first foreign expedition to probe the Parvati region of the western Himalayas.

This region, Elavia explained, forms a natural border between China and India. "Since the two countries don't trust each other, the region is of important strategic value to the military."

Because of the area's military value, the slides that Elavia showed the scouts had to be cleared by the Defense Department. A striking photograph also was accompanied by a Major from the same department.

State Reopens Bus Question

VERNON

The state Board of Education has rescinded its action backing the Vernon Board of Education in its decision to terminate busing for students going to the Lake Street School from the Boulder Ridge area off Tunnel Rd.

But the Vernon board, after hearing of this development, Monday night defeated a motion made by board member Robert Dubeau to resume transporting the children until a firm decision is made by the state. The motion was defeated 4-1.

Early in this school year the Vernon board voted to stop busing the Boulder Ridge students and the parents look to their complaint to the state board.

The state board conducted a hearing early in December and in February informed the parents that it voted to uphold the Vernon board's decision.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, told the board Monday night that he learned through a telephone conversation he made to Anthony Tedeschi, hearing agent for the state, that the board had decided to reverse its decision.

Dr. Ramsdell said the reason he did not know the reason why this action was taken but he did say the state intends to reopen the case and to appoint two other department members to review the information and look over the walking area in question. He said the state does not intend to conduct another hearing.

At the time of the hearing, Steven Marchant, chairman of the board's transportation committee, told the parents that the board felt no precedent had been set other than an informal agreement to allow the children to ride while there was space on the bus.

Transportation was terminated when the students returned from the February vacation. The parents contended that the sidewalks, installed by the town, are unsafe for the young children walking along Tunnel Rd. They cited heavy traffic, wooded areas, the fact the sidewalks were narrow, as some of the reasons.

Hearing Set on Bill To Aid Private Schools

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative proposal to give public aid to private schools has cleared a major hurdle and will be aired at a public hearing.

The bill allows local school boards to assist private elementary and high schools through a textbook loan program.

It was sponsored by Senate Majority Leader Joseph I. Lieberman, D-New Haven, and Rep. Vito M. Mazza, D-West Haven.

The legislature's Education Committee originally voted to kill the proposal, but Lieberman and Mazza prevailed on committee members to at least hold a public hearing on the matter. No hearing date was set.

Students Trying Classroom Lunch

HEBRON

The Hebron Elementary School is trying a new noon hour program. For the month of March the students will eat in their classrooms with the teachers.

This will provide an opportunity for close supervision, a quieter atmosphere, and an increase in time provided for lunch.

The school is trying the new lunch program for several reasons. Due to 1-1/2 minutes of time lost by the physical education program daily, because of the use of the gym for the lunch program; children feeling rushed to eat because of the closely scheduled flow of classes in and out; the noise level in the lunch room was difficult to keep down; the atmosphere in the lunchroom, with 200 students eating at each sitting was not the best for a related lunch hour.

Students and teachers generally report they enjoy the change.

Some of the students comment have been "it's quieter, more relaxing," "there's more time to eat," "music while you eat," "it's great, I love eating in a small group," and "you don't have to wait in long lines, it's fun."

Donna Roberts' and Todd Biskupiak's essays were selected to go on to the state contest.

Local prizes will be awarded to Hebron Elementary School students at an assembly March 14 at 1:15.

Between 45-50 essays were written and submitted to the club.

Fire Calls

The Hebron Volunteer Fire Department responded to 21 calls during February. The calls were 5 ambulance calls, 3 structure fires, 3 brush fires, 4 mutual aid calls, 1 car fire, 2 service calls, 1 false alarm, 1 chimney fire, and 1 search and rescue.

The department will conduct a special meeting on Thursday, at 7 p.m. at Company No. 1, to review the existing bylaws and make recommendations for change.

The department is applying for membership in the Tolland-Windham County Mutual Aid Ambulance Association.

Each member who has not been tested for heart and hypertension should do so as soon as possible. The necessary forms are available through the company captains and department secretary, Harvey Desruisseaux.

Tickets for the department's annual Ladies' Night, at Garden Grove in Manchester on April 5 for members only, must be purchased no later than March 15 from any committee members. Chairman Lt. Tony Pitrone may be contacted for any specific details.

The members voted to conduct a house-to-house visitation to circulate the letter relative to the new ambulance which was prepared by the Ambulance Purchasing Committee. The department hopes to have the calls done by the end of March.

Safety Essay

The Connecticut State Federation of Women's Clubs recently announced a "What Safety Means To Me" essay contest.

In conjunction with this, the Hebron Junior Women's Club has conducted a local "What Safety Means To Me" essay in Grades 4, 5, and 6 at the elementary schools in Hebron.

Winners were selected to receive a $5 first prize.

New York Legislator Revives Bridge Idea

NEW YORK (UPI) — A New York lawmaker is trying to revive a controversial bridge that would span the 15 miles of Long Island Sound between Connecticut and Long Island.

Assemblyman John Esposito, R-Queens Village, said the bridge between Port Jefferson, L.I., and Bridgeport, Conn., would cost $1 billion.

But it would create thousands of new jobs in the construction industry and save gasoline used by vehicles that now have to drive through New York City on their way between Long Island and Connecticut, he said.

That route cuts through the heart of Queens Village.

Esposito said the bridge would be built with federal funds and would generate tax revenues for the communities involved.

He called on Gov. Hugh Carey to start the construction work immediately, saying the bridge would cause only minimal environmental effects. The possible environmental complications of such a large bridge was one of the primary reasons for the abandonment of former Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's plans for a similar bridge in the 1960s.

Weiss Says He'll Report On Siebold Outside Work

By SOL R. COHEN

Town Manager Robert Weiss said today he is preparing a written report to the Board of Directors concerning charges Rec Director Melvin Siebold has been teaching junior college courses on town time during the past year.

The charges were brought Tuesday night by Directors Vivian Ferguson and Phyllis Jackson. Weiss replied Tuesday night he knew of Siebold's activities and had approved them, on the condition Siebold compensated for the lost daytime hours by working evenings in rec activities. He said Siebold has fulfilled the condition.

Mrs. Ferguson revealed Siebold taught recreation-administration classes at Post Junior College in Waterbury in December, January and February.

She said his schedule was 9 a.m. to noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays and 9 to 11 a.m. on Fridays. She said, also, the trip from Waterbury to Manchester is about 45 minutes, also on town time. She told Weiss she did not understand how Siebold could fulfill his town-required 35 hours per week with the teaching schedule he's followed.

Vernon Approves Principle Of High School for Adults

A program for a Credit High School Diploma for Adults was approved in principle by the Vernon Board of Education Monday night contingent upon approval of the budget and possible funding from the state.

If the program is instituted Vernon would be one of the first towns in the state to have it.

The program was explained by Ronald Kozuch, head of Vernon's Continuing Education Department with the assistance of John Ryan of Vernon who is a consultant for the adult education program of the state Department of Education.

Daniel Woodwich, chairman of the board's curriculum committee, explained that the purpose of the proposed new program would be to allow high school drop-outs to acquire a high school education or a specific skill.

He explained that the program is different from the High School Equivalency program which is actually a 10-12 week review. He said the proposed program is more extensive and would run 20 to 30 weeks, two to three nights a week.

The institution of the program would mean an additional budget item of $8,700, Kozuch, noting that he knows money is tight right now, urged the board to approve the program. He said "It seems a most opportune time to put money into a program that may help people get employment."

Ryan said the board would have to first make the commitment and then the state may be able to come up with some money to help support the program.

Kozuch said, speaking of the program, that the subject areas within the curriculum should be so structured that two major goals can be realized by any individual enrolled in the program.

He listed these goals as the acquisition of academic knowledge realized through the completion of a certain basic curriculum and the acquisition of a specific skill that would provide an adult with greater potential for employment.

He suggested that the basic academic program involve social studies, basic math, science, language arts, and vocational education. The units of credit would be based on the degree of skill and competency involved, he said.

Students enrolling, Kozuch suggested, should be 16 years of age or a member of a high school class already graduated.

However, he said, under certain conditions and by special permission, students under the age of 19, who have not graduated from high school may be admitted subject to administrative regulations.

Another suggestion made by Kozuch was that there should be an opportunity for the occasional youth who has passed the compulsory school attendance age to transfer to the adult school from this would seem advantageous to his or her future.

He said, "It is also conceivable that the needs of some students might best be served by part-time enrollment in both day and evening school. He suggested that a flexible policy to govern such transfers be explored.

As suggested criteria Kozuch also said no student should be granted a diploma unless he has completed a minimum of two courses toward a total of 16 credits in the Vernon Adult School Program.

Board member Robert Dubeau questioned if there is actually a need for such a program in Vernon and how many students could be taught under the proposed budget.

Kozuch said a survey was made four years ago of adults in the equivalency program as to whether they would be interested in extending their education on more than a part-time basis. He said there was enough interest at that time so that he considered the proposed program. He figures there would be about 25 in the program and the budget figures would accommodate that many.

He said there are about 6,000 persons in Vernon who do not have a high school education. He said of these, those below age 55 could be potential seekers of this program.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said the total education budget for the coming year is listed at $36,140. This includes $6,700 for the proposed program but not the $2,000 for a counselor as proposed by Kozuch.

Board member James Ledbetter said he does not feel this is the time to approve any new programs.

Another board member, Steven Marchant said, "In spite of my initial budgetary trauma, I feel this program falls in an area of what I would call a social action program, giving people an opportunity to help themselves and I'm in favor."

Dubeau said he was also concerned with the cost but added he was in favor of the concept of the program. He asked if maybe the system could phase into the program to cut the cost.

Kozuch was questioned as to the possibility of charging tuition for the program. He explained that if any state funds are involved the course must be given free to everyone eligible. A diploma awarded under this program would be called a Vernon Adult High School diploma.

The cost of $8,700 includes a

Thursday is 'Music in Schools Day'

Thursday is "Music in Our Schools Day," a national event that gives the public a good opportunity to get "on the inside" of the musical activities and training that exists in one of our schools.

This is the first such day and is sponsored by the Music Educators National Conference (MENC).

MENC is the 88-year-old, non-profit organization representing men and women who teach music in the nation's schools, colleges and universities. Stated goals are "an enlightened musical public and a vital musical culture" through the advancement of music education.

The public is invited to watch a musical undertaking in the making throughout the school day Thursday at Manchester High School.

Miss Martha White, musical director, has arranged a schedule of events related to their spring production of the musical "My Fair Lady."

The schedule is as follows:

- 8:45 to 9:30 a.m., chorus and choreography on stage in the auditorium.
- 9:45 to 10:30 a.m., rehearsal of chorus with leads and music.
- 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., members of the Manchester Civic Orchestra rehearse with cast and leads.

The entire day's program is planned to depict phases of musical theater as presented in high school.

The public is invited to attend at anytime during the day.

At Illing Junior High School, Music Director Ralph MacCarone will use the occasion to announce the upcoming production of "Tall Tom Jefferson," a musical history of our third president utilizing film strips made at the school, tableaux, and school musicians.

The school social studies department and audio-visual department will also participate in the production which will be presented May 9 as Illing's contribution to the Bicentennial.

NEWS CAPSULES

Payroll Expansion Alleged
 HARTFORD (UPI) - A Democratic legislative leader says former Gov. Thomas J. Meskill, a Republican, added 1,217 employees to the state payroll in his last six months in office.

Senate Majority Leader Joseph I. Lieberman, D-New Haven, said Meskill's action helped aggravate the budget woes now experienced by his successor, Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

"This generous hiring policy in the waning months of the lame duck Republican administration helped create the huge budget deficit we are now grappling with," Lieberman said Tuesday.

Meskill Vote To Be Close
 WASHINGTON (UPI) - A "squeaking" close vote was predicted in the Senate Judiciary Committee today on the nomination of former Connecticut Gov. Thomas J. Meskill to be a judge in the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York.

The nomination is opposed by the American Bar Association.

The ABA argues Meskill has insufficient legal experience to serve on the bench and cites his "awareness" of a real estate scandal during his term which rewarded friends with profitable state contracts.

Meskill, 47, denied any wrongdoing and swore his confirmation as a judge would bring no embarrassment to the Senate.

GOP Critical of Higher Tax
 HARTFORD (UPI) - Connecticut Republicans are accusing Gov. Ella T. Grasso of trying to force an income tax on the state by making existing taxes higher and more burdensome.

"These higher taxes are a major part of her scheme to get us to swallow the income tax in desperation," GOP State Chairman Vincent A. Laudone said Tuesday. Laudone predicted Mrs. Grasso would veto any income tax proposal, will offer "an income tax as a solution to our soaring taxes."

Girl Scalded to Death
 NEW BRITAIN (UPI) - Police say a nine-month-old girl was scalded to death when her mother let her in a bath tub with her two-year-old brother to go downstairs to borrow some cereal.

Mrs. Judy Koehler told police when she came back to the third floor apartment "just a few minutes" later at about 9 a.m. Tuesday her daughter Jessica was floating in a three-quarters-full tub and her son George, 2, was standing outside the tub.

DeSpina Blamed
 LISBON (UPI) - Portugal's left-wing military rulers have blamed former President Antonio de Spina for a short-lived paratroop uprising and suggested the U.S. ambassador should leave the country. President Francisco de Costa Gomes went on the air twice Tuesday to condemn the "counter-revolutionary adventure" and accuse army officers of trying "to create a division among the armed forces that could have led to a civil war."

Energy Compromise Pushed
 WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Ford administration and a key congressional committee hope to iron out major elements of a compromise on conflicting energy proposals before Congress starts its Easter recess March 25.

Getting basic details settled by then could clear the way for floor action on a national energy plan in mid to late April, first in the House and then in the Senate.

Military Pressure Increases
 PHNOM PENH (UPI) - Rebel gunners moved heavy gunfire into isolated government bases on the Mekong River today, stepping up military pressure on the embattled government of President Lon Nol.

District Capital Captured
 SAIGON (UPI) - Tank-backed Communist forces today captured the battered town of Dau Tieng, the fifth district capital to fall to the Communists in a five-day-old flareup of fighting across South Vietnam.

Auto Workers Recalled
 DETROIT (UPI) - The nation's three largest automakers have announced plans to recall more than 11,000 workers from open-ended layoffs in anticipation of a traditional spring upturn.

Hartford May Lose Funds
 HARTFORD (UPI) - Hartford may lose an estimated $24,127 in federal revenue-sharing funds because the city's population is thought to have declined by nearly 10,000 people in three years.

City officials and Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., are challenging the U.S. Census Bureau population figures and if successful could recover all or part of the loss. Until then, Hartford's allocation will be based on a population which declined from 158,017 in 1970 to 148,526 in 1973.

Cambodian Situation Dominates Ford Agenda
 WASHINGTON (UPI) - The deteriorating military situation in Cambodia dominated the agenda for today's Cabinet meeting.

President Ford asked Defense Secretary James Schlesinger to brief the Cabinet on the status of the beleaguered government forces in Cambodia. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger still was in the Middle East in search of an agreement between Israel and Egypt.

Ford met with Schlesinger Tuesday, but Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters there is no "crisis atmosphere" at the White House and that their Oval Office session was a general review of world trouble spots and the Pentagon budget.

Ford is keeping the pressure on for congressional approval of emergency military aid to Cambodia to bolster the government's position. "Speed at the moment is the most important thing," Nessen said referring to Ford's request for $22 million for Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Town Gets Good Report On Sewage Treatment

Manchester has received a clean bill of health on its operation of sewage treatment facilities, despite a continuing problem with relatively new equipment at the Primary Sewage Treatment Plant.

The latest in a series of plant evaluations by the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) concluded that Manchester's plant equipment is in good condition, records are in proper order, and the plant produces satisfactory effluent quality.

But the plant continues to have operating difficulties with its primary digester heating and mixing system, said Joseph J. Kosman, principal sanitary engineer for the DEP.

Town Public Works Director Jay Giles said the operating difficulties stem from initial installation of a new digester at the primary treatment plant. The equipment hasn't been doing all that it was supposed to do, Giles said, but the town has been able to operate the facility because of in-plant modifications made to the system.

"We've been holding our own," Giles said, adding that the town is still attempting to resolve the problem with the equipment manufacturer and the contractor who installed the equipment.

The matter hasn't been resolved, Giles said, because neither party has admitted responsibility for the digester not meeting specifications.

The problem lies with the digester's heating system, which is supposed to maintain a temperature near 100 degrees. It hasn't been maintaining that temperature on its own, Giles said, but town personnel modified other equipment to enable the operation to continue.

TOBACCO TAXES
 RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) - Taxes on tobacco brought in a record $5.8 billion to federal, state and municipal governments in the year through June, 1974, according to the Tobacco Tax Council. It says the average price for a package of cigarettes was 44.5 cents, with taxes amounting to about 20 cents a pack. The federal tax comes to eight cents, but state taxes range from a low of two cents in North Carolina to 21 cents in Connecticut.

COMMON PLEAS COURT
 Geographical Area 12 Cases disposed of by Judge John Fitzgerald during recent sessions of the court in East Hartford included:

- Robert J. Bodo Jr., 20, of 55 Wells St., operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, $150 and 30 days in jail. The jail term was suspended and he was placed on probation for six months. He was also ordered to make restitution to the owner of a car he struck with his car in Manchester Feb. 24 at the time of his arrest.
- George W. Johnson, 27, of Bridgeport, operating while license suspended, $100.
- Richard Kuhn, 34, of Andover, operating without a license, $15. The charge of failure to carry registration was nolle.
- John H. Potter, 19, of 129 Downey Dr., operating while under the influence of liquor, $150.

Bitter Debate Marks

political inuendo and insisted Mrs. Hubbard's involvement with the Lincoln Center controversy came from her concern only.

Town Manager Robert Weiss explained again the driveway will be one-way only (in from the north end of the building) and that the other entry (at the corner) will be closed and landscaped. He said an eight-foot buffer zone is planned parallel to Main St.

Weiss said about $5,000 already has been spent with another $5,000 anticipated for completion. He said an estimated $3,000 would be needed for restoring the area to its original condition.

Phyllis Jackson remarked, "I can't understand why this kind of pressure is being brought for restoring the area. It seems to me, when the Conservation Commission came before us, the matter was resolved and both groups agreed there'd be better understanding in the future."

"I'm amazed the commission is now taking the attitude it is. Nobody wants to see a mess at Lincoln Center—not the board and not the commission. We're all for beautification. This constant publicity is adverse to board operation—especially after we all agreed there will be liaison with the commission."

"I really believe we're being pushed into making a decision we don't want to make. At least wait and see how it looks when completed."

Pascal Prignano remarked, "The 1,100 signatures (requesting restoration) were from well-meaning but misguided town residents. It's premature for us to say we've made a mistake until we see the finished product. I, for one, am not admitting we made a mistake."

Noting Zinsser had voted against funds for a ramp at the Municipal Building, Prignano said, "The very same people who voted against providing a ramp for the handicapped, claiming it's costly and not needed, now want to spend $4,000 for a stinking blade of grass. That's what it all actually amounts to. I'm disappointed also in the Conservation Commission."

Zinsser insisted the petition from 1,100 signers, requesting restoration to the way it (the lawn) was deserves consideration. Robert Price remarked, "We're all talking about the way it was when, in reality, it wasn't all that good, with its raggedy lawn. What it was when it was an unkempt area. Let's see what the landscaping will do for it before we change things."

Mrs. Ferguson, the last to speak, said, "I find it extremely disturbing to find that when a person or group of persons step forward, as in this instance with petitions, they get such poor treatment. Whether it's political or non-political, whether the chairman or any other director agrees with them or not, they should listen to them. If not, let them resign from the board."

MANCHESTER

Leonard W. Belanger, 52, of 647 Imperial Dr., was arrested Thursday and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor or drugs in connection with a two-car accident at 10 p.m. at Spencer St. and Channing Dr., police said.

The car driven by Belanger struck the rear of a 1967 Buick driven by Irvin H. Glyde, 17, of East Hartford, police said. There were no injuries and minor damage, police said.

Belanger was released on a $100 non-surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court on March 25.

John A. Brown, 51, of 9 Westfield St., was arrested Tuesday and charged with failure to pass to the left of a parked car in connection with a two-car accident at 8:42 p.m. on Woodbridge St. east of Main St., police said.

The car driven by Brown struck the rear left of a car driven by Julie Ambrose, 17, of 28 Scott Dr., Vernon which was parked on the south side of the street, police said.

Injured were Miss Ambrose, her passenger John Spolick, 18, of 42 Woodbridge St., and Brown, police said. She and

Property Theft Value Shows Drop for Month

POLICE REPORT

A teen-age brother and sister were walking over the bridge on Prospect St. when they were surrounded by seven youths, police said.

The youths called them names and kicked bottles at them, they said. One youth grabbed a soda can from the girl and, from behind, struck her brother on the head, they said.

The youths then ran away. A police officer took the brother to Manchester Memorial Hospital where five stitches were required to close his wound, police said.

A window was shattered and a screen blown off, police said. No apparent damage was done to the building, police added.

Manchester Town firemen used smoke ejectors to close the basement room.

For the first time since July of 1974, the value of property lost in Manchester through thefts dropped below $400,000 for one month, the February police report to the town manager's office shows.

Stolen property totaled $33,800 in February.

In July, 1974 it was $35,647. In August it rose to $74,185, in September to $75,716, in October to $123,400, in November to $55,716, and in December to $61,543.

In this January, it appeared the property loss column might remain above the $40,000 mark. The reported losses totaled $48,318.

All the other items listed in the report started about the same at recent months with the exception of felony arrests.

Only 27 people were arrested in February and charged with felonies, more serious crimes.

The felonies arrest column has not listed any less than 58 were arrested in August, 1974. The low figure that was 35 in June, 1974.

$56,242 More Removed From Rham Budget

Nancy Foote, secretary of the Regional Board of Education met Monday night and took an additional $56,242 out of the proposed budget for 75-76. The latest cuts added to last week's reduction of $94,767 brings the figure for budget cuts to $151,009.

Members of the Regional District 8 Board of Education met Monday night and took an additional $56,242 out of the proposed budget for 75-76. The latest cuts added to last week's reduction of $94,767 brings the figure for budget cuts to $151,009.

Hebron board member Everett Graham has urged the board to make further reductions so that the new total will not be any greater than a 6 per cent increase over last year's sum of $1,009,817.

Items deleted in the most recent economy efforts are: a two-shelf book rack, $19.99; chairs, $360; file cabinets and stools, $240; reduced number of library books, $2,450; new 10-gallon fuel tank, $11,000; carpentry in the library, $5,500; brickling room, $2,500; and reparation of the band room, $500.

Also, a music reflector shell, $1,568; the summer social studies-art curriculum work, $700; reduction in the number of athletic officials, $737; reduction in interscholastic athletic transportation, $500; audio visual supplies reduced, $2,000; etching press, $650; and industrial arts small equipment, $2,000.

Also two of two new corridor aides, $4,202; math curriculum work, $700; 7th grade team curriculum work, $1,750; repair library carrels and chairs, $300; instructional supplies reduced by $7,418; and maintenance reduced by $2,850.

In the account for replacement of instructional equipment, three times as much was reduced: A.V. machinery, $1,630; basketball backboards, $1,000; and science equipment, $2,000.

A jumping pit for $600 was cut from the budget, utilities were reduced $1,800 and a P.E. whirlpool was cut for a savings of $700.

Instructional equipment for Home Economics was reduced by $1,250, the sum of $1,000 was cut from funds set aside to convert the girl's drying room into a training room and the proposal to cut the second of two new clerical aides was tabled until next week.

These cuts bring the present total budget to $2,039,249. The board will have to cut about $15,000 from this figure to reach Graham's suggested 6 per cent goal.

The Herald Area Profile

Kerkin Describes Teacher Program

VERNON

A proposed Alternate Graduate Program of Eastern Connecticut State College was explained to the Vernon Board of Education Monday night, by Albert Kerkin, assistant superintendent, but the board was not asked to take any action on it.

Kerkin said the proposed program is highly individualized to meet the assessed needs of each applicant. A person must be a teacher along with meeting all other entrance requirements before being accepted in the program.

Kerkin said the program is a very important step forward and has been endorsed by the Regional Superintendents' Group.

Kerkin was a member of an ad hoc committee formed to investigate this unique approach. Kerkin said this type of program appears to be a logical extension of the teacher training centers and in-service programs for newly hired teachers, Vernon participates in both of these programs.

Through assessment instruments the weaknesses of each graduate applicant would be determined, Kerkin explained.

He said the needs assessments would then be used to set up programs and there would be no set program or curriculum as such.

Intensive counseling would be built into the program and the local school system would be involved and should benefit as the teacher meets his needs and the needs of the school system.

The program focuses on the training of elementary teachers at the master's level. Kerkin explained that pressures for more flexible and relevant types of teacher education are growing.

He added that the current national trend toward performance-based teacher education and certification will place new demands for effectiveness and accountability on teacher education.

Tolland Charter Vote Set for April 17

Vivian Kenneson
Correspondent
Tel. 875-4704

The Board of Selectmen Tuesday set April 17 from 12 to 8 p.m. at the Hicks School gym for the charter revision referendum.

The Board received a letter from the Charter Revision Committee with its final report. The committee unanimously approved a change in section 5.10 from the title "civil preparedness director" to "civil preparedness director," as requested by the selection.

The CRC also said it voted not to adopt the selection's suggestion to change the zoning enforcement officer from appointment by Planning and Zoning Commission to the town manager. It did retain its recommendation that the agent be paid by salary rather than fees.

This decision rankled Selectman Stuart Joslin who said he felt it was not right that the selection be "overruled." He should be the governing body, not the zoning board or the CRC.

The proposed amendments are expected to be published by March 15 so that the referendum may be held 30 days later. The revisions will be effective if approved by 15 per cent of the registered voters, about 600, and when sent to the secretary of state's office. This should be in time for the annual budget meeting. It was in the charter wording that it did not allow voters to reject a budget that prompted the creation of the charter revision committee.

School Board
The Board of Education will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Education Administration Building.

The board will approve its 1975-76 budget for submission to the town manager on Thursday.

Also on the agenda:

- Regulations regarding students activity accounts.
- Policy statement on school suspensions.
- Report on smoking area in high school.
- Interim report on high school evaluation.
- Math replacement in the high school.

Maurice Stans Pleads Guilty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maurice H. Stans pleaded guilty today to a five-count misdemeanor charging campaign finance violations — the third former member of Richard M. Nixon's cabinet to plead guilty or be convicted in connection with Watergate.

Stans, who served as commerce secretary and later as chairman of Nixon's re-election finance committee, stood with counsel before U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith in a 25-minute proceeding.

Stans, who raised more money for a single political campaign than any other fundraiser in history, specifically pleaded guilty to counts of:

- Failing to register the details of a $200,000 contribution to a five-count misdemeanor charging campaign finance violations — the third former member of Richard M. Nixon's cabinet to plead guilty or be convicted in connection with Watergate.
- Receiving a $40,000 contribution in illegal corporate funds from Goodyear Tire and Rubber between March 9, 1972 and March 13, 1972.
- Receiving a $30,000 contribution in illegal corporate funds from GM on about March 21, 1972.
- Stans was released on personal recognizance and the sentencing date was left open at the request of his lawyer, Walter Bonner.

Don't Condemn All Fiddlers

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune, N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "Old-Fashioned Mother" concerning her daughter and boyfriend practicing guitar in her bedroom gave me mixed feelings. They may not have been doing anything "wrong," but if allowed, the bedroom might be a convenient place to visit for a bit of privacy.

I am married now, but when I was in high school, I had a similar experience. A girl in one of my classes offered to teach me how to play the violin. She practiced in her bedroom, so that is where the lessons commenced.

Her mother came in and told us that she was going next door for a little while. Nothing "bad" happened, but I confess, I felt very uncomfortable for no more reasons.

I'm glad that in this case there were no more lessons. I might add that a year or two later this girl had to get married.

OLD-FASHIONED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Your young classmate obviously did a little fiddling around. But why mistrust the entire next generation because of one violinist's accidental?

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for eight years and have two children. I used to have a really nice figure, but now I have absolutely no bust at all. I have been wearing padded bras so I'll look halfway decent in clothes.

I have been thinking about getting some silicone implants, but need to know more about it. How much does it cost? And how long does it take to fully recover from such surgery?

You see, my husband is going abroad for six weeks and I may want to surprise him with a new "me" when he comes back.

CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: The healing time varies with the patient, and the cost varies with the doctor. Talk to your own plastic surgeon. I seldom offer unsolicited advice, but in your case I'd make an exception, and urge you NOT to surprise your husband with a new "you."

If you're doing it for him, he may prefer the old "you."

DEAR ABBY: I am truly desperate. Never in my wildest dreams did I ever think that when I became a mother it would be the loneliest time of my life. I am so depressed that I can't even communicate with my husband anymore, and he is tired of hearing it.

Abby, I had even an inkling that motherhood was such a one-sided affair. I swear I would not have had a baby. I love my three-month-old baby very much, and I love my husband, too, but when does it all come together? It seems all I do is make formula and wash diapers now, and my husband and myself caring about each other comes last on the list.

Why did everything change so drastically? What I expected to be the happiest time of our lives has turned out to be a nightmare.

I have lost all my freedom, my husband (emotionally, so far) and my own identity. In spite of being a wife and mother now, I am still ME! I can't wait to go back to my job at the office.

I feel so guilty about the way I feel, but I can't help it. Please help me, Abby. I love my husband, but I have never been more miserable, and I don't want to lose what once was a good marriage.

LOST MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Please tell your doctor what you have told me. You are apparently suffering from "postpartum depression." It's not uncommon, and your doctor will help you get over it. Don't despair. Many new mothers have experienced the feelings you describe, but it need not last long.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 152 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

My Fashion Coordinators

I never have made the 10-best-dressed-women-in-America list. But then, I've never been mentioned on the list of the 10 worst dressed women either. For that fact, I am very grateful to my two teenage daughters.

It is my daughters who keep me from being a fashion disaster. They tell me what is "in" and what is "out" and what is just plain "gross."

They remind me that Bermuda shorts should be left in Bermuda, that white ankle socks disappeared with the litterbug, and that the only place for skinny high heels is a costume museum.

My daughters have gone through my closet with discernment. I now know that my navy slacks are too tight, my green slacks too baggy, that my brown tweed skirt is hopeless and (miracles of miracles) that my long black dress is positively smashing!

One one occasion, my daughters stopped me as I was about to leave the house with a "lutzy" pocketbook.

"What do you mean by 'lutzy'?" I asked the girls. They looked at each other and shrugged. "You can't define really 'lutzy,'" said Sara. "But that pocketbook has got to go!"

Frankly, I don't know how women who have no teen-age daughters manage to get dressed in the morning.

Not only are my daughters helpful in advising me on my wardrobe, they have taught me how to blow-dry my hair, how to apply blusher, and how, with the flick of a pencil, I can make my eyes seem deep and mysterious. Last Christmas they gave me a bottle of musky jasmine cologne and completely changed my self-image.

The girls have worked hard with me and I think they are making progress.

This afternoon I was shopping, all by myself, and spotted a red coat sweater with big brass buttons. It was very sporty. Very 1975.

"I think it's ME," I said to myself.

"I beg your pardon?" said the clerk. When I showed my sweater to the girls, I knew that I had used unerring good taste. They cooed and ached for a moment, fingering the fabric. Then they paid me the ultimate compliment.

Both girls asked to wear my new red sweater to school tomorrow.

Hoopsters Seek Marathon Pledges

The Cystic Fibrosis Superstar Basketball Marathon which will be held Saturday from 8 a.m. to midnight will be highlighted by a game between the staff of radio station WPOP and members of the West Hartford Police Department at 8 p.m. All games will be played in the Webster Hills School gym in West Hartford. Games are scheduled at one half hour intervals throughout the day. Teams of young players in the Greater Hartford area are seeking sponsors to pledge money for the team and their point score in an effort to raise money to help fight Cystic Fibrosis, a childhood disease. Young members of the various communities who have volunteered to help in this crusade against children's lung diseases will be canvassing their neighborhoods to ask friends, neighbors and local business people to make a tax deductible pledge for each point.

Meany Chides Simon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO president George Meany today accused Treasury Secretary William Simon of trying to deny tax relief to the poor so the rich can get big tax rebates to buy dishwashers, cars and color television sets.

Meany urged the Senate Finance Committee to ignore the administration's tax proposals and instead approve tax cuts of at least $30 billion, most going to low and middle income Americans.

Meany said his organization generally supports a House passed $21.3 billion tax cut bill, including rebates of $100 to $200 for almost all taxpayers, but feels the total cut should be increased to stimulate the economy and create jobs.

Meany appeared before the Senate's tax writing body on its last scheduled day of hearings on recession-fighting tax cuts. The committee is to begin writing its own bill, possibly bringing it to the Senate floor as early as next week—if a battle over ending the oil depletion allowance does not interfere.

Meany appeared particularly upset with Simon's testimony Wednesday that a greater proportion of tax cuts should go to taxpayers in the $10,000 to $50,000 bracket because they would purchase the durable goods which must be sold if the recession is to be brought to an end.

The administration's bill would grant a flat 12 per cent rebate up to $1,000, meaning those with more than $40,000 in income would get more money than the poor, who might receive only token payments.

Meany said Simon's written testimony contained a table showing only 19 per cent of families with incomes under $3,000 owned dishwashers while 74.8 per cent of families with incomes of more than $25,000 owned them.

MALE NURSES
NEW YORK (UPI) — More men are pursuing the expanding opportunities in industrial nursing, according to Dorothy M. Saller, executive director of the American Association of Industrial Nurses.

The number of men graduates of nursing schools almost doubled between 1970 and 1974, and a number of blue chip corporations now have male nurses on their payrolls.

Credit Union Merger Eyed

Members of the Manchester Teachers Federal Credit Union are considering a merger with the East Central Connecticut Teachers Federal Credit Union of Willimantic, to lower operating expenses and broaden services.

Members of each credit union have mailed ballots to vote on the proposed merger, and the results are expected in mid-April, according to Patrick Kelly, manager of the local credit union.

The Manchester Teachers F.C.U., chartered in 1958, now has a total membership of about 2,100 persons. The East Central Connecticut Teachers F.C.U. has about 375 members.

Membership potential of the combined credit unions would be close to 3,700 persons, Kelly said.

Kelly, outlining reasons for the proposed merger, said: "With the merger, the expenses of both credit unions, in consolidation, will be lower due to the sharing of data processing costs, personnel, and the general over-all expenses of the operation. "This will give the new operation the ability to broaden services and to better serve the members. "Currently, although Manchester Community College is eligible for membership in the Manchester Teachers Federal Credit Union, and Eastern Connecticut State College is eligible for

Cable TV in Danger?

BEDFORD, N.H. (UPI) — The burgeoning cable television industry is in danger of being driven out of business by established broadcasting interests, according to the legal counsel for the National Cable Television Association.

Stuart Feldstein said if legislation before the U.S. Senate were altered to require cable television (CATV) to pay royalties, the industry could not compete in the marketplace. He said the industry can't afford to pay royalties because it is small, young and in danger of being driven out of business.

Instead of requiring royalties, he said the cable television industry favored "one-shot compulsory licensing based on a graduated percentage of gross income."

"If the CATV must pay royalties for its relays, then TV manufacturers and persons using individual antennas should also be compelled to pay," Feldstein said. He criticized the Federal Communications Commission for requiring cable television to black out some syndicated programming.

Management Course Set

A 13-session course intended to help managers increase the effectiveness and job satisfaction of employees will be offered in West Hartford this month by the University of Connecticut.

"Human Relations in Management" will cover concepts of job enrichment, management by objectives, supportive supervision and participative management.

Classes will meet Wednesdays from 7 to 9:15 p.m., starting March 19 at UConn's Hartford Branch, 1800 Asylum Ave., West Hartford.

The instructor will be Richard T. Spear, industrial relations director for Skinner Precision Industries Inc. A manager with more than 30 years experience, Spear has held corporate responsibilities in training, policy development and manpower planning.

The course, offered by UConn's Office of Non-Credit Extension, will concentrate on practical and specific answers to real-world problems. Registration information may be obtained by contacting Extended and Continuing Education, Box U-568, The University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn. 06269, or telephone 486-3255.

Computer Tune-Ups Said Due

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — William E. Allen, auto industry entrepreneur, thinks the American motorist is ready for low-cost, quick-service tune-up stations where a computer analyzes engine performance and provides a simple printout for the customer.

Allen, formerly a marketing executive for Ford and Kaiser Jeep, has had two "Test & Tune" stations operating for the past six months in suburbs east of San Francisco.

"We are up to the break-even point," says Allen, who plans to open several more pilot stations and then franchise his system nationwide.

Allen said he got into the automotive testing field "because the world fuel situation will always be critical, and because exhaust pollution is going to be everyone's concern if they possess an auto."

Fuel experts say if every motorist in the country got a regular tune-up twice a year, it would save 3.8 billion gallons of gasoline.

What keeps them from it, Allen believes, is the cost, and the fact the average motorist has to rely on someone else to tell him what is wrong with his car — and this often results in more expense.

In the new Autosense analyzer developed by Hamilton-Standard, a United Aircraft subsidiary, Allen believes he has the equipment that will raise computerized auto engine testing to a new level of efficiency and practicality.

After studying earlier versions of computerized auto testing, Allen decided the Hamilton-Standard system, which was developed out of aircraft technology, was the first equipment "that made specialization worthwhile economically."

Autosense requires the attendant to attach a number of electronic leads to parts of the engine. The computer compares readings from these probes with engine specification data supplied by the car manufacturer. The computer then produces a printed sheet giving comparisons of the engine tested with the specifications.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Lottie M. Holbrook, 85, of 91 Chestnut St. died Tuesday at a Manchester convalescent home. She was the widow of Sidney Holbrook. Mrs. Holbrook was born Dec. 6, 1889 in Richmond, Va., and had lived in Manchester for 35 years. Before she retired, she was employed in the cafeteria department of the Manchester school system. She attended North United Methodist Church and was a member of Temple Chapter, OES. She is survived by two grandchildren, Wayne Longfellow of Bolton and Mrs. Lynn Knight of Livermore Falls, Maine. The Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., is in charge of arrangements, which are incomplete. The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Memorial Fund of North United Methodist Church.

ERA Repeat Asked in Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) - An Iowa legislator, acting at the request of two women's groups, has initiated formal action to rescind the state's ratification of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Thirty-eight states must ratify the proposed amendment before it can become law. Thus far, 34 have approved it. Iowa was one of the first states to ratify the proposed 7th Amendment, but Sen. Eugene Hill Tuesday introduced a resolution seeking to rescind Iowa's ratification. The amendment was originally approved by the legislature in March, 1972. Hill labeled the ratification "hasty and ill-considered" and said he was taking the action at the request of two women's groups opposed to the ERA.

Dear friends, Psychologists tell us that grief should not be suppressed, but should be expressed. Giving vent to grief is in itself healing. The tendency to hurry thru a funeral with a few impersonal sentences and prayers is a failure to understand either its purpose or the real needs of those who mourn," says Rev. Dr. Paul E. Johnson. Air Conditioning Failure Forces Passenger to Strip

CHICAGO (UPI) - Mary Thomas says an air conditioning broke down on Amtrak's "Panama Limited" from Chicago to New Orleans and it got so hot in her room that she had to take off all her clothes, piece by piece, during the 17-hour trip last summer. "I couldn't breathe," she told the Interstate Commerce Commission. "I was sitting there in the nude with just my shoes on." She was one of several witnesses to complain about service by the financially strapped National Railroad Passenger Corp., or Amtrak, Tuesday, the first of four days of hearings here by the ICC. Miss Thomas, 38, also said there was no cold water and the lights didn't work throughout the night. On her return to Chicago, she said she took an airplane.

Greenspan Forecast Revised Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Revising its earlier forecast, the administration said today that unemployment will probably climb above 8.5 per cent and may be 9 per cent before it starts going down late this summer. Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, offered the new and gloomier predictions to the Senate Budget Committee. "I would be surprised if we did not see unemployment in excess of 8.5 per cent," he said. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, asked, "would 9 per cent surprise you?" "I am not surprised by anything these days, Mr. Chairman," Greenspan replied. Five weeks ago, Greenspan predicted unemployment would not peak above 8.5 per cent and would average 8.1 per cent this year. It has held steady at 8.2 per cent the past two months. Greenspan expressed optimism the recession would "bottom out" this summer. However, Walter W. Heller, an economics professor and former chairman of the council in Democratic administrations, disagreed with Greenspan. In testimony before the Joint Economic Committee, Heller said, "So far, there is little to arrest and reverse the economy's sickening slide. I see no sign of the 'bottoming out' that President Ford thought he detected during his recent trip to Florida."

UConn Does Not Rate Bid

DOUGLASVILLE, Conn. (UPI) - Does the University of Connecticut basketball team deserve a bid to the National Invitational Tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden? Here's one man who has enjoyed UConn basketball immensely this season, as much as during the glory days of Toby Kimball and Wes Bialosuska, but the team did not earn a berth with its play down the stretch. The guess here is that UConn was extended the invite before its final three games, defeats suffered at the hands of Holy Cross, Boston College and Providence in that order. If UConn didn't flood the Garden with paying fans last year in its NIT appearance, and with the selection committee's knowledge of the support given the squad all season, the chances are the Huskies would have been passed up. The NIT needs support at the box office. The NIT may be a "loser's tournament" as North Carolina All-America David Thompson claimed as the reason his squad rejected a bid. UConn compiled an 18-9 non-conference record which is a fine .67 percentage but not earthshaking by any standards. The Huskies might even surprise and win but the chances for this to happen are slimmer than a pencil's shadow.

Controversy Grows on Grid Club

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) - Controversy grows over the Birmingham franchise of the World Football League (WFL) with the chance two teams could exist in one city in a league no one is sure will exist at all in 1975. Tuesday, William Putnam, owner of the 1974 Birmingham Americans, said he still had ownership of the team through Alabama Football Inc., and he was 80 per cent sure he would get the needed finances from a group of New York investors. League President Chris Hemmeter in January said he had been offered a franchise bid by Putnam. Hemmeter gave interested investors until mid-March to provide at least eight financially secured teams if there was to be a WFL 1975 and he is expected to reveal the league's situation at an April 4 meeting. Also Tuesday, Internal Revenue Service (IRS) officials began examining contracts of "Americans" players the IRS said would be auctioned off to pay back taxes the team owed, if the contracts are not found to be null and void as head coach and general manager Jack Gola predicted. Last week a group of Birmingham investors announced they had formed a group which would be a corporate partner, known as the Birmingham Valcans, which would be the city's franchise if the WFL is viable this year. The new group leaders discussed any connection with the 1974 franchise. Putnam said he and Hemmeter made an agreement which Hemmeter has not honored. Putnam said the WFL president promised him all debts of the Americans would be paid by a new franchise in the city and the league would give Putnam a new franchise within three years. "I quit pursuing the idea of getting financial backing after Hemmeter agreed to those two points," Putnam said. "But I am not on the track again."

Named to All-Star Team

Three members of the MCC basketball team were named to the North All-Star Squad, Curt Iverson, Tom Tucker and John Dabaw. According to Byron Trimble's office in the Hartford Civic Center, the proposed Hartford Bison's soccer team does not have any dates booked starting April 19 as indicated in a press release. The Civic Center managing director has yet to receive the rental fee, the office said yesterday and no tickets have been placed on sale. Several local soccer fans sought this information yesterday.

Scoring Champ

Fred O'Donnell's History Making Hat Trick Sparks Whalers Against Winnipeg, Bobby Hull

By Earl Yost

It wasn't billed as Manchester Night at the Hartford Civic Center last night when the New England Whalers entertained Bobby Hull and the Winnipeg Jets but it was just as well. Playing before the usual sellout crowd, 10,507, including hundreds from Manchester, the three transplanted local residents had a big hand in the victory in a tremendously fast, hard-hitting and interesting game. Handsome Fred O'Donnell placed himself in the record book with a hat trick in leading the attack in a 6-2 success. The three-goal showing was the first ever by a player in the Civic Center. Paul Hurley, former Boston College star, another Silk Towner netted the first Whaler goal to knot the count at 1-1 and goalie Al Smith was simply tremendous in the nets, especially against the bullet-like goals by Hull. Named the game's No. 1 star, the curly-haired O'Donnell was just that, and more. In addition to his scoring feat, he effectively checked Hull. Four of Hartford goal's six came while Hull and his Swedish mates, Ulf Nilsson and Anders Hedberg - were on the ice. The Jets' trio is the highest scoring unit in the World Hockey Assn. to date. O'Donnell's tallies were his 14th and 15th of the season while Hurley's was only his second.

"That's the first hat trick I've had since I was in Oklahoma City five years ago. I've got some real great linemates in French (John French) and Larry (Plea). I guess I was supposed to check and not score. I really wanted that third goal. I had good command of the puck and I knew that I could beat him (jet goalie Joe Daley)," he explained on his third tally while flashing his best winning smile in the Whaler locker room.

The Whalers are now 4-0 against Winnipeg this season and hold a commanding 17-point edge over Cleveland in their battle for a third straight Eastern Division title. Howie Young had given the Jets a first period edge on an unassisted goal at 13:27 but Hurley and O'Donnell both saw the red light flash signifying a goal 10 seconds apart in the second period, Hurley's coming at 14:27 and O'Donnell's first at 14:37. At 19:08 of the same period, O'Donnell tallied with Pleau and French getting assists. Hurley and Brad Selwood assisted on the second marker and Pleau and French handled the puck on Hurley's tally. Much to the delight of the crowd, O'Donnell completed the trick at 11:23 of the final stanza with Selwood and French assisting. Wayne Carleton and Selwood added the other scores. Young tallied both Jet markers, the second with 16:36 goal in the last session. O'Donnell's goal of the game was Fred O'Donnell and French, Coach Ron Ryan said. "We're ready for the stretch drive. We want that game Thursday night." Phoenix visits and the Road Runners are the only team that holds a season edge.

ICE CHIPS - Bobby Hull, the WHA's leading scorer, failed to add to his total but proved quite popular when he spent nearly 10 minutes signing autographs for youngsters and adults, before the game. Not too many stars take the time. Cantor Arthur Koret's voice singing the Canadian and National Anthem was described as "thrilling" by one fan. The Whalers haven't had to stage any promotional nights to get fans into the Civic Center and probably won't this season. Tickets are left for all home games except March 22 when Gordie Howe and Sons visit.

Despite Late Start Turgeon Made Grade

By Len Auster

Compact - 5-feet, 6-inches. Lightweight - about 130 pounds. Formula - high protein, low calorie. Workout - usually takes six minutes, sometimes less, in a small unbroken circle. Throw the concoction together, shake well, and you come up with Steve Turgeon, East Catholic wrestler who last Saturday took top honors in the State Open Championship in the 126-pound division. Making this even more remarkable, the senior honor student accomplished the feat despite being out of training the first month of the season. Turgeon suffered a hyperextension of the left elbow in a pre-season workout which necessitated total rest. "I couldn't even do any weight lifting, making it hard to remain in shape," the state champ admitted. "It was hard coming back."

But back he came, winning nine of 11 dual meet bouts with one draw. Seven triumphs were by pins. Turgeon's only setback was in his second appearance after the injury, that to Hartford Public's John Daniels. Daniels went on to win the 121-pound state open title and was named the outstanding matman in the state. "One of his attributes is that he has great balance. He's excellent on his feet. His opponents were, but whichever school 'wins' will gain a fine student-athlete, one of the 12 best in Connecticut in 1975."

He has applied and been accepted at the University of Connecticut and Lehigh and has been on a holding pattern at MIT. Each has a fine school of Engineering. Turgeon's career aspiration leaning in that direction. He hopes to continue wrestling in college. Turgeon's selection has been pinned down, as many thought it would be, but when the Assistant General Manager Mike Brown says McNally has a good chance of making the team.

"We liked him when we drafted him and we liked him after we brought him in," said Assistant General Manager Mike Brown of the club's fifth-round draft choice. "He punts and placekicks, too, and we think that in time he can be competitive in pro football in those areas."

Pro Boxing Show Scheduled May 10

By Earl Yost

Professional boxing will return to Manchester on Saturday night, May 10 after a lapse of more than a decade. Sponsor will be the Manchester Police Union. Sweeney said the all-pro card will be arranged by veteran matchmaker, Vito Tallarita of Thompsonville. Twenty eight scheduled rounds will make up the first card with a pair of four-round and six-round bouts plus a feature of eight rounds. Arnie Brower, local heavyweight, is being sought to headline the card at the Clarke Arena. Proceeds will be earmarked for youth programs in Manchester, Sweeney said.

Boxing, pro, amateur and semi-pro, thrived at one time in Manchester. The last pro shows were staged indoors at the State Armory and under the stars at Mt. Nebo. Builder Irving Stutch and Ron Penick were the last local men to promote the sport in the 1950s.

Mcnally Signs CINCINNATI (UPI) - Pat McNally, a 6-6, 210-pound wide receiver from Michigan, has signed a contract with the Cincinnati Bengals for 1975. The 6-foot-6, 210-pounder was a fifth round selection and the seventh player taken by the Bengals in the college draft earlier this year. Assistant General Manager Mike Brown says McNally has a good chance of making the team.

Marichal Agrees To Join Dodgers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Politicians aren't the only ones who make strange bedfellows. Ballplayers do, too, especially Dodgers.

Remember when Leo Durocher went from the Dodgers to the Giants and then back to the Dodgers? Or when Sal Maglie went from the Giants to the Dodgers?

Well, as the man on network television says, listen to this: Juan Marichal is now a Dodger.

Marichal, who in 1965 became Public Enemy No. 1 to the Dodgers when he walloped catcher John Roseboro with a bat, has agreed to a one-year contract with Los Angeles. Marichal had only a 5-1 record for the Boston Red Sox last season but has a 243-141 lifetime record in the major leagues and is viewed as a possible No. 3 starter for the Dodgers if Tommy John doesn't recover from surgery.

Dodger executives laughed off the wounds of 10 years ago when they announced the signing.

"Nobody hated Marichal more than I did when we competed against him and nobody hated Maglie more than I did before he came from the Giants to the Dodgers," said director of player personnel Al Campanis.

"It's all right for me to have Marichal on the team," commented Manager Walt Alost. "Especially if he still can pitch."

Alexander Wins In Rugged Match

NEW YORK (UPI) — Top-seeded John Alexander needed three sets to defeat unseeded Graham Sillwell in the first round of the $50,000 Xerox tournament at a WCT Red event at Landover, Md., and said "I didn't know if I was coming or going."

"I just couldn't seem to get my game together," Alexander said after defeating Sillwell, 6-7, 6-4, 6-4, Tuesday night.

Alexander won his first WCT title three weeks ago at Ft. Worth, Tex.

Second-seeded Marty Riessen suffered an arm injury and had to default to Eddie Dibbs, and Tom Germain defaulted to a 9-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox. Al Hrabosky singled home the winning run in the eighth inning to give the Cardinals a 3-2 win over the Kansas City Royals. Steve Blass, the Pittsburgh Pirates' 1971 World Series hero, was wild and ineffective as the Philadelphia Phillies scored a 7-5 triumph.

Loudd to Fight Drug Charges

BOSTON (UPI) — Rommie Loudd, the first black to become the owner of a professional football team, will fight extradition to Florida on drug charges because he will not be treated fairly, according to his attorney.

After surrendering to federal narcotics authorities Tuesday, Loudd was arraigned on a charge of illegal delivery of cocaine. He was released on $100,000 personal recognizance by U.S. Magistrate Willie J. Davis. Davis ordered Loudd, a defunct Florida Blazers of the World Football League, to remain in Massachusetts until a U.S. District Court trial is completed.

Attorney Robert Deutsch said Loudd's arrest was turned into a "nightmare" by a mysterious Orlando, Fla., conspiracy.

"We would fight extradition because there is no reason to believe that he (Loudd) would not be fairly treated in Florida," said Deutsch, who is also general counsel for the Blazers. He said the charges stemmed from a $18,000 nonpayment of $18,000 in state taxes.

He said Loudd was also indicted for embezzlement of state funds, a Florida law which has never been used against a bankrupt business. He said the charges stemmed from a $18,000 nonpayment of $18,000 in state taxes.

There is no allegation or proof that Rommie Loudd took anything from the Florida Blazers. As a matter of fact, there is evidence that Rommie Loudd never even took his salary, said Deutsch.

Loudd had surrendered to federal authorities earlier in the day.

Loudd was an assistant coach for the old Boston Patriots of the American Football League and stayed with the club until 1973, after the merger of the league with the National Football League.

Celts Play

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Boston Celtics will make their third and final appearance of the season tonight at the new Hartford Civic Center at 7:30 in a National Basketball Association contest against Phoenix.

The Celtics will travel to Hartford from Chicago where they defeated the Bulls Tuesday night 121-111 in overtime.

Tonight's game is a complete sellout.

Pro Basketball at Its Best As Celtics Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Motta made no apology today because his Chicago Bulls lost to the defending champion Boston Celtics 121-115 in overtime, a preview, perhaps, of things to come in the playoff finals next month.

"It was just like a playoff game," he said. "You won't lose very many games when you play like that—except you lose to Boston once in a while."

"It was the way basketball should be played and I enjoyed it, even though we lost. There were not very many mistakes. Both teams played good defense and still there were a lot of points."

"It's too bad it wasn't on national TV. I think Boston was up and so were we and they played their game as well as we did."

Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn declared the game was "simply great."

The Celtics, he said, had to play ball because the Bulls wouldn't let them do otherwise.

"The tempo got everybody going," he said, "and it started when the game tied at 121-121."

In the overtime, it was Havlicek and White who put the Celtics in front. Havlicek scored the first six points for the Celtics, who never trailed in the five-minute extra period, and White scored the next six. The overtime burst gave each of them 34 points for the game, a season high for White.

It was the sixth win in the last eight games for the Celtics and the sixth loss in the last seven for the Bulls, though Chicago retained its lead in the NBA's Midwest Division. The contest drew the second largest Bulls crowd of the season, 19,121.

Elsewhere, Golden State whipped Milwaukee 107-90, Washington ripped Atlanta 99-87, New York beat Phoenix 103-88, Los Angeles edged Detroit 95-94, Cleveland clipped each scored baskets in a span of 32 seconds. But John Havlicek scored twice in 28 seconds to tie the game and both teams failed on scoring chances in the final 12 seconds.

Boston got another chance when Van Lier was called for traveling as he tried to get the ball to Chet Walker with five seconds to play. Then in the brief remaining time, Havlicek had a shot from within his range and missed.

"We wanted Jo White to take the final shot," Heinsohn said, "but it went to Havlicek instead."

Warriors 107, Bucks 90

Rick Barry scored 14 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter to lead Golden State. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sat on the Milwaukee bench most of the game with foul trouble before fouling out, then lashed out in the locker room at referee Jerry Loeber.

"Tonight I'm going to speak out. I'll get the American Civil Liberties Union to defend my right of free speech in court," Abdul-Jabbar said. "Jerry Loeber sets a standard for ineptitude for referees that is unequalled. I think he is unqualified to be an official in this league. They fine you when you say things about officials but I think he stinks. I want you to understand," the 7-2 center said, "this is for quotes. I want to take the big step. I may need a lawyer. But that guy stinks. He's the most inept official of the league."

Bullets 99, Hawks 87

Phli Chenier scored a season-high 38 points to help the Bulls end a five-game victory drought in Atlanta. Elvin Hayes put in 20 points for the Bullets. Herm Gilliam led Atlanta with 18 points.

Knick 103, Suns 98

Earl Monroe fired in 25 of his 31 points in the second half and scored New York's last seven points in the final 7 seconds. Reserve Harthorne Wingo notched 17 points (15 from the free throw line), pulled down eight rebounds and blocked two shots in 29 minutes. Charlie Scott scored 30 points for the Suns, who played again without Dick Van Arsdale, Keith Erickson and Gary Melchionni.

Lakers 95, Pistons 94

Cazzie Russell sank two free throws with two seconds left to give Los Angeles the victory. Goodrich scored 25 points while Russell had 16 for the Lakers. Bob Lanier led Detroit with 29 points.

Pave 123, Jazz 114

Bobby Smith tossed in 28 points and Jim Chones added 27 as Cleveland snapped a seven-game losing streak. Chones also picked off 15 rebounds, and Pete Maravich, who hit on only six of 21 shots from the field, paced the Jazz with 23 points.

Suns 122, Rockets 117 (OT)

Tom Burleson's layup and slam dunk pushed Seattle into overtime and Fred Brown and Slick Watts scored four points apiece in overtime to lead the Suns.

Finley Strikes Back

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Charlie Finley says Reggie Jackson should go back and check his facts, he has them mixed up if he's under any illusion he was a free agent with the Oakland A's at a point due to improper contractual procedure.

Moreover, said the Oakland owner, Jackson agreed to salary terms during the particular period in question and then turned around and went back on his word.

"In the 15 years I've been in baseball, Reggie Jackson is the only player I've ever had who reneged on his contract once he said it was a deal," said Finley.

According to Jackson, he became a free agent under baseball law in the spring of 1973 when he was still unsigned by the A's and he did not receive written notice from the Players Association, and Miller, they were invoking the renewal clause in his contract.

Jackson said he consulted Marvin Miller, head of the Players Association, and Miller told him he was a free agent.

The reason he did not ask for his free agency at the time as the team's teammate Catfish Hunter did last fall, according to Jackson, was because he "didn't think it was the right thing to do" in view of the fact he had made a special request of Finley earlier in their negotiations.

Jackson said he had asked Finley to include a provision for deferred payment in his contract, and Finley had agreed to do that.

From his office in Chicago, Finley had an entirely different version of the episode.

"Reggie Jackson agreed to terms verbally for $75,000 on Feb. 27 of that spring," said the owner. "His salary the year before that was $60,000. After he agreed to these new terms, a contract for $75,000 was sent to him."

"I took the man at his word. The reason he didn't get any notice on March 10 was because there was no need for any notice. He had already agreed to terms. After a period of time passed, I called him and asked him 'where is your contract?' He said, 'I'll send it to you.'"

Rangers Struggle To Big City Battle

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's going to be pretty embarrassing for the New York Rangers if they don't finish ahead of the recent expansionist New York Islanders this year in the National Hockey League's Division I.

The struggling Rangers led the fourth of their last five games (the only win coming against Philadelphia City) Tuesday when they fell 6-3 to the Boston Bruins. But fortunately, the upstart Islanders also lost—4-2 to Detroit at New York—and so the Rangers still hold a four-point advantage over the Islanders' "other team" in Division I.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Atlanta, still hoping to beat out either the Rangers or Islanders for the final playoff berth in Division I, also lost, 3-0, to St. Louis to remain eight points back in the 137-123. It was the only game Vancouver tied Chicago for first in Division II in a 3-3 tie with Kansas City and Buffalo tied Los Angeles 2-2.

Blues 3, Flames 0

Yve Belanger earned his first NHL shutout and a two-minute scoring burst by leading the St. Louis Blues to a 3-0 win over the Vancouver Canucks Tuesday night. Belanger, promoted to the Blues from the second level, had 12 goals and 11 assists in 13 games last season, capped 22 Atlanta shots at the end of the shutout. He has a record of 5-1-2 in his first eight games as a blueliner.

Canucks 3, Scouts 3

Third period goals by Leon Rochefort and Don Lever, his second of the game with 4:52 remaining, enabled the Canucks to tie the lowly Scouts at Vancouver. Lynn Foss scored twice for Kansas City and Gary Crotsas got the other goal.

Sabres 2, Kings 2

Pete McNab scored his fourth goal in the last three games with 15:58 remaining in the third period Tuesday night to give Buffalo the tie and keep its lead over Toronto at a healthy 10 points in Division 4. Dan Kazak and Tom Williams got Los Angeles a 2-0 lead early in the second period and Gil Perreault scored the first Buffalo goal midway through the middle period.

Denver Clinches ABA West Title

DENVER (UPI) — Denver Nuggets Coach Larry Brown stood in the dressing room drenched with champagne and said he never had seen a team like his American Basketball Association Western Division winners.

"They are a team all the way," Brown said. "You can't single out any one individual on this club. They all play their hearts out and that's the reason we have been so successful."

The Nuggets assured themselves of the Western Division title Tuesday night when they whipped Virginia Tech 115-102. It was the only game played in the ABA.

Rookie forward Bobby Jones scored a career-high 31 points in the easy victory. The Nuggets led by as many as 27 points in earning their 55th win of the season against only 17 losses.

Ralph Simpson scored 23 points and Dave Robisch had 21 in taking Denver to its second divisional crown in eight seasons of play.

The celebration was a wild one in the Nugget locker room as players quickly used five cases of champagne. Brown was drenched by his players and former teammates.

"You have to credit everyone on this team," Brown said. "Look at these kids in here. They go out and play 100 per cent every time. Without them, we just couldn't be so successful. They're a complete team."

Chris Fenichel of Darien has drawn top seeding in the Connecticut State Boys' 16 and under Indoor Tennis Championships at the Manchester Racquet Club March 14, 15, 16.

Thirty-two boys from throughout New England will compete.

The hardhitting Fenichel was a semifinalist last year and ranked No. 11 in New England in 1974. Fenichel will be followed in the seedings by three players from the Boston area: Dave Boissevain, Michael Leach and Roy Andrews. Leach was first in the 14 and under age division last year. Eric Giosa of Westfield, is the highest seeded player from the Hartford area. Eric and twin brother, Paul, are also expected to be strong contenders for the doubles title. Tournament play starts at 8 o'clock Friday with singles and doubles final Sunday afternoon. Tennis enthusiasts are welcome to watch the action.

Station Finds Cher Too Revealing

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Station WCPO-TV's decision to take singer Cher "out of the air because of her eye-popping, see-through costumes has many persons applauding the station's courage "to stand up for the decent." But others are complaining about censorship.

WCPD Manager Bob Gordon, whose station is the local CBS affiliate, says he tried unsuccessfully to get permission to show "Cher" at a later time than 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

"I object to the total emphasis the lady seems to have on her way of dressing," Gordon said. "My thinking is the costume has a Las Vegas nightclub look to it. It seems to be a little too 'nightclubby' for that early time period."

But when the network said it was either 7:30 or not at all, Gordon banned Cher. A local independent station is now carrying "Cher" but the mail to WCPO keeps rolling in.

"God Bless Robert Gordon for taking off that naked woman, Cher, who is sinful in the sight of God. Mr. Gordon is a God-fearing man and now I hope he'll get those naked women off those 7-Up commercials," wrote one viewer.

"I, for one, do not care to have Mr. Gordon telling me what to watch. Leave it to Mr. Gordon to be the only self-proclaimed censor of 'Cher' in the country. My three cheers in for canceling the naked 'Cher' show which was to have gone at 7:30 p.m. Thank Gordon for a few who will not be afraid to stand up for the decent."

The Cincinnati Enquirer backed Gordon in an editorial, saying, "to its credit, WCPO should keep faith with the community."

Weinberger Chides Senate Liberals For Promises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger Tuesday accused Senate liberals of making "demagogic" promises to provide health insurance subsidies to unemployed workers and their families.

The senators in turn accused the Ford administration of "irresponsible" opposition to the legislative proposals.

Weinberger told a Senate health subcommittee that subsidies would be too costly, inequitable and impossible to administer.

"These (jobless) workers are being told the equivalent of 'let them eat cake,'" charged Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., called the opposition "incredible, indefensible and irresponsible."

"The administration knows the cost of these proposals is minimal when compared to the price this nation would have to pay for thousands of sick and untreated American workers," Williams said.

Weinberger angrily called Williams' position "demagogic and irresponsible" — promising citizens things government cannot deliver.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., three demanded Weinberger estimate how many jobless workers must use unemployment benefits to pay health insurance premiums.

"And for the third time I will tell you we do not intrude into the private budgetary decisions of people and ask them what they spend their money for," Weinberger retorted.

Cartel's Survival Said in Doubt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An international oil economist says survival of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries as a cartel is in doubt because of the sharp decline in world demand for oil.

Ironically, the decline results from the worldwide recession, which in turn results partially from OPEC's four-fold increase in prices in 1973.

Laif Olson, senior vice president of New York City's First National City Bank, said the falloff in demand is putting pressure on some OPEC countries to cut prices. Some minor price cutting already has occurred.

In the next six to 12 months, he told the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations Tuesday, OPEC will cut prices or cut production—or fall apart as a price-setting cartel.

He expressed doubt OPEC could withstand the strain.

Some members, such as Venezuela and Libya, depend on oil revenues and would be tempted to cut prices rather than cut production.

Others such as Saudi Arabia, a sparsely populated monarchy with no immediate need for its oil millions, might be willing to absorb deep production slashes to preserve the price structure.

Olson said storage facilities are brimming. Tankers are under instructions to move slowly and serve as floating storage facilities.

The falloff in demand results from global conservation efforts, from the inability of some countries to buy oil at the high price and from the worldwide recession and its resulting dropoff in industrial demand for oil.

In the United States, total industrial production since November, 1973, has dropped nearly 11 per cent. Olson predicted it would fall by 1 to 9 per cent more before the upturn begins late this year.

Held after Holdup

SHELTON (UPI) — An 18-year-old Naugatuck resident has been arrested after a high speed chase in Monroe in connection with the holdup Tuesday afternoon of a bank in Shelton.

Monroe police said they arrested Harold Duddy after a chase on Rt. 110, a short time after the 5 p.m. holdup of the Far Mill River Branch of the State National Bank on Rt. 8 in Shelton.

After taking an undetermined amount of money, the holdup man was spotted driving away in an auto whose description was flashed on the police hotline.

Police in Monroe, aided by state police, intercepted a car answering the description and pursued it for several miles before being stopped.

Early Latin Course To Be Tried

There are 14 students in the Latin I program at Rockville High School and 10 in Latin II. Staff members said Latin has to be offered in Grade 8 to compete with French and Spanish.

On request of Miss Lucille Kuhnly, science supervisor of the school system, the board approved two additions to the science curriculum. They are courses on the human body and plants and man. These would be non-college courses and the courses will probably be written in a summer workshop.

A request to institute a typing program at the Grade 8 level was approved in principle but the board voted against it for the coming year because the program would cost $6,000.

The greater part of the expense would be the purchase of typewriters for the classes.

It was recommended that the typewriters at Rockville High School, instead of being sold or traded in, should be turned over to the Middle School. The matter was tabled until adequate staff and equipment is available.

The board also approved the resignation of Mrs. Dorothy Ramsdell, former Grade 3 teacher at the Center Road School. Her resignation is effective at the end of the leave of absence she is on for the year, 1974-75.

The board also ratified the contracts of two new teachers: Gloria Hambach, a graduate of Eastern Connecticut State College to teach Grade 2 at Skinner Road School and Patricia Kania, also a graduate of Eastern, to teach Grade 5 (half time) at Center Road School.

My Thinking Machine

With the price of milk what it is and threatening to go even higher, it's painful to remember that only a few short years ago milk was only a quarter a quart in machines placed in strategic places.

That's the time I became convinced scientists were right when they predicted the time was coming when machines would be able to think for themselves.

In fact, the experience I had at the time convinced me the time already had come.

What happened was that I lost a quarter in a milk machine. Sure, I knew I could get my quarter back. No problem. All I had to do was prove it — the date on the quarter, two eyewitnesses, a signed statement, a notary public's affidavit and a paid look.

Well, I didn't feel like going through the whole bit. So, I forgot it. After all, what's a quarter to me anyway?

Everyone knows what a big spender I am. Even my favorite waitress knows it. Everytime I leave her a dime up she thanks me with, "There goes that big spender."

I repeat — so, I forgot about it, the quarter, I mean. Then it happened again. I lost another quarter in the same milk machine. Again I decided to forget about it and to forego the agony of repeating it.

After all, what's another quarter to me?

It would meet Reistrup's deadline were slim.

Despite the improvements we have made, the Amtrak deficit is still too high and must be reduced," Reistrup said.

In addition to $83 million in new authorization, Amtrak needs another $14.9 million previously authorized but not appropriated, the officials told the House Commerce Committee.

Asaph H. Hall, acting federal railroad administrator, and Paul H. Reistrup, president of the National Railroad Corp. (Amtrak) for only the past few weeks, pleaded for funds.

Amtrak is a public corporation formed to operate nearly all of the nation's railroad system.

They said the system estimates its operating deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30 at $25 million. A total of $24.7 million has been appropriated by Congress but the other $77.9 million is needed to keep the system going, they said.

To avoid drastic curtailment or even cessation of rail passenger service," Hall said, "the additional authorization of $63 million and a full supplemental appropriation of $77.9 million will be required by mid-April."

"We will be in a serious cash position after March 31 unless these additional funds are available," Reistrup said.

Because Congress plans an Easter recess — the Senate beginning March 21 and the House March 27 — the chances

Salt Domes Suggested For Crude Oil Storage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An economist and oil industry spokesman said Tuesday the United States could circumvent the threat of another Arab-oil embargo by storing oil in ancient underground salt domes.

James S. Cross, an economist who is vice president of the American Petroleum Institute, told a House subcommittee that API's emergency preparedness committee agrees with President Ford's idea of a national security storage of crude oil.

He testified prior to the House's expected vote today on whether to consider a motion to override Ford's veto of a measure to delay the import fee which he imposed on crude oil by executive order. The import fee was an initial step in Ford's energy conservation program.

any emergency-defense or economic — by adopting an adequate storage program. One potential source of oil to fill storage would be the Navy's oil reserve at Elk Hills, Calif., Cross said.

"The oil ... could be stored in salt domes along the Gulf Coast," he added. "The existence of this security storage might be enough, by itself, to deter any country from imposing an oil embargo — or even threatening such an embargo."

Robert E. Montgomery Jr., general counsel of the Federal Energy Administration, told the subcommittee that Congress should give the President powers to meet energy emergencies, but should not require him to do so.

Report From America

'Liberated' Woman Wants Out

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — By many standards, Diane Chechik was liberated: Wife, mother, homemaker and career woman, all rolled into one, for 2 1/2 years.

That's changed now. Mrs. Chechik, 38, sat in the seamy empty interior design, furniture and poster boutique she is giving up and told why.

The four roles she played had "simply exhausted" her "physically and mentally ... You can only play the roles so long without something happening."

She has had enough of that kind of "liberation." With two children in school, her career, her home and a husband in public relations, Mrs. Chechik decided that "being a perfectionist, I couldn't split myself in those ways."

By the time she finished cleaning the house, cooking, laundry, shopping, car pool driving, interior decorating and buying trips to Chicago, "it was one or two in the morning and I was so hyper I couldn't sleep."

To cut domestic corners, the Chechiks moved from the house they owned for nine years into a more maintenance-free, rented townhouse.

Her husband and children helped "as much as they could," but she thought she didn't have their "moral support."

"She couldn't afford to hire full time help, which she said was too expensive and hard to find. Then she began breaking out in hives. Mrs. Chechik's doctor said something had to go."

Her plan now is to return to work in seven years, after her youngest finishes high school. "You look in the mirror and decide priorities and values," she said. "I want to remember something of my children's childhood besides the hassles. I can't say to them in 10 years 'I want to sit down and be your mother, and now we can put up our feet up and have a Coke together.'"

Rhode Island's population decreased 11 per cent in fiscal 1974. Most of the drop was attributed to the pullout of U.S. Navy personnel from Newport and Quonset Point.

Guaranteed Income Idea Resurrected

By DAVID E. ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The current economic slump has driven some of the once most vociferous critics of federal programs to aid the poor into the welfare line themselves.

As unemployment topped the 8 per cent, with more than 7.5 million jobs, the embarrassment and dehumanization of unemployment and food stamp lines became grimly real for them.

At the same time it resurrected a lot of talk, especially among liberal social critics, about various plans for increased job guarantees or some form of guaranteed annual income.

Not much has been heard about a guaranteed annual income since Richard Nixon and Daniel Moynihan's version of it — the Family Assistance Plan — since it ended in Congress' wastebasket in 1972.

Yet there has been one major experiment with a guaranteed annual income, in the form of what is called a "negative income tax," that deserves more attention than it has yet received.

The program, called the New Jersey Experiment, actually took place in five communities in New Jersey and Pennsylvania over a three year period.

Under the plan, income subsidies of various amounts were given to some families whose work habits were then compared to a "control" group of families who received no subsidies.

Mary Corcoran, a research assistant at the Center for the Study of Public Policy in Cambridge, Mass., took a look at the New Jersey experiment in a recent issue of "Working Papers."

Corcoran concludes that the conventional wisdom which says the more money someone can get without working the less that person will work is not an accurate picture. In the New Jersey experiment, she said, "none of the NIT recipients cut back on work effort to any sizable extent. This is the New Jersey experiment's most striking finding."

Contrary to expectations, families who received "free" money did not work a great deal less than control families. Corcoran does not conclude, however, that the New Jersey experiment predicts how a nationwide negative income tax system might work.

In both Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the article noted, the negative tax experiment competed with generous welfare programs and the impact of these programs on the experiment is not yet known. Yet, Corcoran does conclude that the study at least indicates that "in America today, husbands will not stop working when an income guarantee is provided, at least at the benefit levels of the experiment in New Jersey."

No doubt the new millions standing in the unemployment line now already know that. But as Corcoran points out, "a striking deficiency of our welfare system is that it normally does not cover low-income families where the husband is employed full time."

"Perhaps the New Jersey evidence will alleviate fears that covering these families will induce the husbands to stop working."

While the New Jersey experiment hasn't answered all the questions about how a national guaranteed annual income might work and what it would mean for the labor market, its results have been suggestive enough that it seems the time is right to ask whether or not the nation should be pursuing a policy of putting an income floor under its own people as well as under foreign oil.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 200,000 cans of pimientos, clam bisque and lobster bisque have been recalled by the Food and Drug Administration because of possible underprocessing.

The FTC said the recall is precautionary and that no cases of illness or food poisoning have been reported involving the three products.

The agency said under-processing could result in growth of harmful bacteria. It said all cans should be returned to the place of purchase.

The pimientos, 200,000 cans imported from Spain and distributed nationally, were sold under three brand names: "Pomona Sunshine Whole Pimientos," "Blue Plate Whole Pimientos" and "King Pharr Fire Roasted Whole Pimientos."

The "Blue Plate" and "King Pharr" brands were packaged in 4 and 7 ounce cans bearing the code No. R.E. 39,494. The "Pomona" brand was packaged in 7 and 14 ounce cans and carries code No. R.E. 3025.

The bisques, 11,000 cans of the lobster and 1,600 of the clam, were manufactured and packed in 10 1/2-ounce cans by the A.M. Look Canning Co., Waltham, Maine.

The lobster bisque was sold under several brand names including "Salt Water Farm" and "Old Starbridge." Both suspect products also were sold under the brands — Atlantic, Empress Seafoods, House of Stevens and Weatherlane Farm.

The clam products carried a one-line code starting with the letter "Q" or a two-line code beginning with the letter "Z". The second line reads 0097.

The lobster cans have either a one or two line code beginning with the letter "W". The second line also being 0097.

BOOK REVIEWS

Mary Cheney Library Adds New Books

By JOAN HANAUER United Press International Meeting at Potsdam, by Charles L. Mee Jr. (Dvsn, $3.95)

This is the story of how the leaders of the victorious nations in World War II met in the German town of Potsdam and "rescued" discord from the threatened outbreak of peace, as the author writes in the prologue.

Stalin, Truman and Churchill (replaced in mid-meeting by Clement Attlee) bickered and argued trying to work the best deal for their individual countries. Never was any pretense made of mapping an overall peace plan based on fairness and aimed at easing the national tensions that lead to war.

The author, editor of Horizons magazine, masterfully exposes the bumbling and selfishness of the leaders as they maneuver for advantage. Quoting liberally from the text of the meetings, he also draws on diaries and other documents and observations made by participants in the meetings. The result is a stark, exciting narrative of two weeks that shaped, or misshaped, the postwar world.

There is much that is monumental in this book. The western world is literally being hatched out and doted out among the Big Three leaders. Germany is divided; size and content of reparations are fought over; Truman and Churchill dicker over whether to tell Stalin about the successful testing of the atomic bomb. The drama of those two weeks needs no heightening. The facts themselves serve.

The insights into the attitudes of the Big Three are endlessly fascinating. Mee writes that Churchill came ill prepared yet assumed the initial negotiations with rambling, bombastic discourses. One of his aides worried that the British Prime Minister was giving in too readily to Stalin.

Truman, thrust into the U.S. presidency only a few months before, surprises many by his directness and sensible toughness. Stalin we learn less about, but his weak attempts at humor tell something about him. Attlee, arriving late, never quite manages to get into the conversation. This is a book that should not be missed, about a drama with all the elements of high tragedy that dwindle to mere pathos at the end.

The Promise of Joy, by Allen Drury. Doubleday, $10. Allen Drury fans will find what they expect in his newest Washington novel, the sixth and final of the political saga that began with the prize-winning Advice and Consent and encompassed 50 major characters and "3,000 pages of dramatic events," as the publisher boasts. This time Orrin Knox lives to become president and wrestles with the possibility of atomic war between Russia and China. The usual combination of congressmen, statesmen and journalists support or sabotage his efforts.

Samuel Johnson, by John Wain. (Viking, $12.50) Johnson.

BUYER'S billboard

By MICHAEL J. CONLON WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vitamins are a big and growing business and the following question from a reader in Casper, Wyo., probably is on the minds of many Americans who consume them: "Is there a major difference in effectiveness between synthetic vitamin E and natural vitamin E? An acquaintance of mine told me that, based on her experiences, synthetic vitamin E did nothing for her, but natural vitamin E did wonders for her energy."

"She has taken vitamin E for four years." Health food stores and others who promote vitamins tend to think the natural product is best — rose hips as a source of vitamin C, for instance. But the Food and Drug Administration says there is absolutely no difference between synthetic and natural vitamins. In fact the agency has proposed a regulation that would forbid any vitamin from claiming on its label or in advertising that its "natural" origins made it better than the same vitamin from synthetic sources.

In an attempt to find an objective third-party opinion on the question, we consulted Dr. Aaron Altschul, professor of community medicine and international health at Georgetown University in Washington. He sided with the FDA, saying there is "no question" but that a vitamin is a vitamin, regardless of the source. The chemical structure is the same, regardless of where it came from, he said. What it boils down to, we suppose, is that if you really think you're getting more out of a natural source vitamin, and can afford to pay the higher price for it, it's not going to hurt you. But bear in mind there are many medical experts who say you're being taken, so far as the price goes. You've also raised another issue by mentioning vitamin E.

The vitamin is still subject of much debate. A study by the National Research Council released in 1973 concluded that most Americans get enough of it in the average diet and taking more of it in capsule form was useless. The vitamin is widely distributed in cereal grains and animal fats. Americans take in two thirds of the vitamin E they need from salad oils, shortening and margarine, with the balance coming largely from fruits and vegetables.

The NRC study also said there was no evidence the vitamin prevented male impotency or sterility, and it warned that self-treatment for serious symptoms could be dangerous. One researcher reported recently, however, that there does appear to be some link between the vitamin and the aging process, but even he was too unsure of what the findings meant to say the vitamin would keep anyone young.

A reader in Allentown, Pa., writes: "Several years ago we bought ready-made canvas awnings from Sears. Last year we tried to buy replacements but couldn't. Sears no longer carried ready-made canvas awnings. We wrote to the main store in Philadelphia for the name and address of the manufacturer who made them for Sears. The only reply we got was a standard reply, and no information. We cannot afford custom awnings. Could you find out who made the awnings for Sears, or at least the name of a company that sells directly to the public?"

It turns out you will be able to buy them from Sears again after all. The company headquarters in Chicago tells us that as of March 22 they are listed in a special supplemental catalogue. That catalogue is called the "J Flyer." You should ask for it by that name and in it you should be able to find the awnings. A company spokesman told UPI Sears backed off of the awnings because they had supplier problems and this had not been offering them in their general catalogue for "several years."

Directors Delay Vote On Sharing Road Cost

Chivalry Lives

By SOL R. COHEN
Pending a study of allegations Green Manor Construction Co. is dragging its feet in completing roads in its projects, the Board of Directors Tuesday night tabled action on the town's cost share for extending Progress Dr. in Green Manor's Industrial Park.
Henry Goodstein, representing the Northfield Green Condominium Association board of directors, cautioned the directors not to accept Ambassador and Esquire Dns. into the town system until Green Manor brings them up to specification. He called attention to the poor condition of the roads and expressed concern about their completion.
He said the condominiums have been owned by the association since last July and Green Manor's involvement consists mainly of fulfilling its commitments.
Town Manager Robert Weiss explained why the town pines Ambassador and Esquire Dns. of snow, even though they aren't town streets. He said it's done as a courtesy to the residents—not Green Manor—and to make certain fire equipment and other services can

SAFE LIVING

MANCHESTER PUBLIC SAFETY COMMITTEE

The Connecticut Safety Commission plans to submit 25 bills relating to traffic safety to the 1976 General Assembly. Here is a condensation of the more important bills:
* An act concerning safety education.
* An act concerning dis- obeying the signals of a police officer.
* An act concerning penalties to motorists attempting to evade police officers.
* An act concerning removal of the ignition keys in an unattended vehicle.
* This proposal will make it illegal to leave keys in a parked vehicle and require that brakes be set and wheels turned toward the curb when the vehicle is parked on a grade.
* An act concerning the operation of a motor vehicle while under the influence of a liquor or drug.
* This proposal will specifically prohibit driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs or both, setting a limit of 0.10 per cent of alcohol in a person's blood. It will also clarify procedures for testing the same.
* An act concerning traffic control signals.
This bill clarifies our present law which may be interpreted to permit motor vehicle operators to pass through red signals.
* An act concerning speed restrictions.
This proposal will strengthen Connecticut's speeding laws and provide a maximum posted speed limit provision.
* An act concerning operation and equipment of bicycles.
* An act concerning removal of bicycle laws into conformance with the Uniform Vehicle Code.
* An act concerning motor vehicle operators with defective vision.
This proposal will require agencies dealing with the blind to submit the names of blind persons to the Health and Motor Vehicle Departments. It will help the Motor Vehicle Department in its licensing.
All of these proposals are intended to give legal backing to common sense practices that have proved their value in other states in reducing accidents and injuries. We urge that you contact your legislator and express your opinions, hopefully your support.

Ella Arnold, 16, of 48 W. Main St., Rockville, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant issued by Common Pleas Court 19 charging her with breach of peace.
Police said the arrest was made in connection with a complaint of an incident on a school bus. Miss Arnold was released on a $250 non-surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 19, April 1.
SOUTH WINDSOR
South Windsor Police are investigating a break discovered Tuesday at Mike's Service Station, 953 Sullivan Ave. The break was discovered by an officer on patrol.
Taken was a 1961 Harley-Davidson motorcycle. Police said the cycle was not registered. Police said they are not sure of the value of it, but it was not a junk.

Wesleyan Students May Form Union To Protect Rights

MIDDLETOWN (UPI) — Wesleyan University students may merge into a union tonight to fend off what they say are attacks by the faculty on their decision-making powers within the university.
While possible student strikes or withholdings of tuition payments have not been discussed at length, student leaders say the establishment of a union "implies the right to pull off that kind of thing."
The student's concern grew after Wesleyan faculty voted Tuesday to dissolve the university's Senate and turned down a proposal for equal student-faculty representation on two committees.
The Senate, where the students had equal membership with faculty, made final decisions on such matters as the university's curriculum and student discipline. That authority will now rest with the General Faculty Meeting, which has no student members.
Senior Bruce Tobey, a student member of the Senate, said the students' powers at the university have been eroded steadily in the past few years.
"Apparently it's been assumed that student interest has died away," he said.
Russell Murphy, associate professor of government, said the Senate was abolished to streamline Wesleyan's governing process, and he denied the move meant a restriction of student powers.
Tobey said the possibility of a student strike or other protests received "lots of response" at a student meeting Tuesday night, after the faculty had voted to eliminate the Senate.
"These are possible options," he said, "a union such as the one we are talking about implies the right to pull off that kind of thing, but I would prefer to talk things out."
"They may listen with this kind of muscle behind us," he said.
Murphy said the faculty had voted unanimously to eliminate the Senate. "There were too many structures around here," he said.
"It was a useful experiment at the time" in student participation, he said, "but it didn't work."

Science Today: Stimulation Maintains Body and Mind

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — One of Britain's leading medical sports experts says it is more important to add life to years than years to life—and proper exercise will help most people achieve this goal.

In "Fit to Play," a booklet written for the Family Doctor unit of the British Medical Association, Dr. Ian Adams makes the point that in middle age any exercise helps, "though there are better things than golf—a stationary indoor bicycle, for example.

"Middle-aged adults need regular exercise for the maintenance of good posture and joint mobility, for the preservation of strength and stimulation of the circulatory system," he wrote. "It is a basic biological principle that stimulation maintains and disuse accelerates the deterioration of mind and body.

"People's life span is gradually increasing and it is important that the later years should not be spent as a shuffling staggering body."

He wrote that in the control of obesity any exercise is better than no exercise but prolonged gentle exercise is better than short, sharp exertion.

"In the prevention of heart disease the exercise has got to be sufficient to stimulate the heart to beat about 50 per cent faster than normal," Adams said. "This requires exercise of an intensity which is sufficient to make you slightly short of breath and develop a sweat."

"This encouragement of exercise does not include exercises such as 'the father's race' at the school sports where inactive fathers not wanting to let their sons down and forgetting their own ego may produce an explosive effort with disastrous results.

"Exercise is important in maintaining health and in delaying the aging process but it has to be undertaken on a regular basis to be of use. With the passing of time the body becomes adapted to reduced requirements and deterioration sets in.

"Consequently the safety margin between capacity and possible temporary demands, such as having to push your broken-down car, will progressively narrow. An important aim of regular exercise is to achieve a condition that is well above that required for your routine work."

To accomplish this he suggested 10 minutes day twice a week on a static bicycle with the goal of producing a pulse rate greater than 150 beats per minute after five minutes exercise—the point at which slight sweating and breathlessness usually occur."

He said simple back and stomach exercises should be added to this program to tighten back muscles and to sagging abdomen.

Adams also said it was important to closely supervise tall and skinny or fat youngsters engaging in contact sports and to keep all adolescents from taking on too much athletic activity.

Ex-Governor's Wife Given HEW Contract

BOSTON (UPI) — The wife of former Gov. Francis W. Sargent has been given a $3,500 contract with the regional office of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Robert Fulton, regional HEW director, said Jessie Sargent's contract is for 35 days. It averages $100 per day. Fulton said it is a standard rate for consultants.

"She will be trying to develop processes through which various private service organizations and consumer organizations can feed evaluative information back to the regional office about how they perceive HEW programs are operating," he said.

"She was suggested (for the job) by someone who had worked with her at the State House."

Fulton said there was no one on the current staff who could do the job. The contract expires June 30.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. My husband is younger than I am, so I started getting a monthly Social Security benefit on my own work record when I was 62. When he reached 65, I started getting a wife's benefit which I thought would be half of his monthly benefit. It is less than that. How come?

A. Your monthly payment is permanently reduced because you started getting Social Security benefits before 65 and will get benefits over a longer period of time.

Q. I know my children can get Social Security benefits on their father's work record, but what happens if I become disabled or die? Can they get payments based on my work?

A. Yes. Under the law, children are considered to be dependent on both parents, and can get benefits when either parent becomes disabled or retires or dies after having worked long enough under Social Security. Also, the surviving parent's earnings or other income does not effect the children's benefits.

Q. My husband was seriously injured in an auto accident, and the doctor says it will be a long time before he can go back to work. How long should he wait before he applies for Social Security disability payments?

A. He should not wait. People can miss out on some disability payments if they delay applying. Back payments can only be made for up to 12 months. You husband can get information about applying for benefits by calling or writing any Social Security office.

Q. I will be retiring in a few months and would like to get some idea of what my monthly Social Security check will be. Is there some way I can figure this out?

A. You can get a free copy of the booklet "Estimating Your Social Security Retirement Check" by contacting any Social Security office. It tells you how to estimate the amount of the monthly checks that you and your dependents may get. You should apply for Social Security benefits 2 or 3 months before you reach retirement age so your monthly checks will start on time.

Q. My husband and I are going to retire in a few months. I have been employed most of our married life. Can I get Social Security benefits on both my husband's work record and on my own?

A. If you are eligible for benefits on two work records, you can be paid a monthly amount equal to the higher of the two benefits, but not both. When you apply for benefits, the people in the Social Security office will tell you which benefit amount is higher.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Waterskiing And The Law

The growing popularity of waterskiing has led to an increase in the number of accidents—and an increase also in the number of lawsuits. What are the basic legal rules that apply?

To begin with, the person piloting the towboat must exercise the special care called for by this particular sport. Consider a case: A man towing a youthful skier slowed his boat, allowing slack to develop in the rope. Suddenly he shoved the throttle to FULL SPEED AHEAD. The boat leaped forward and threw the skier into the water, causing him to suffer a painful injury. In a court hearing afterward, the boatman was ordered to pay substantial damages. The court said he should have foreseen the likely consequences of his sudden acceleration. Responsibility rests too on other persons who happen to be boating in the vicinity. For example: A man in a speedboat kept following right behind a young woman on skis. When she lost her balance and fell in his path, the speedboat ran her down. This man likewise was held liable later in court. The judge said he had negligently created an extra hazard for the skier. Of course, the skier as well is obliged not to take needless chances. In another case a man on water skis was well aware that another boat was moving nearby. On an impulse he tried to cut across the wake of his towboat. But he capsized directly in front of the second boat, which dealt him a fatal blow. In the litigation which followed, the court held that the victim himself had been guilty of negligence. He should have shown better judgment, said the court, than to undertake a dangerous maneuver with another boat in the immediate offing.

House Rejects Spending Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House, for the third time, has turned down a request by President Ford for further cuts in the 1975 federal budget. This was the third time Ford has tried and failed to get Congress to agree to a limit on spending on certain programs since the law was enacted. The House has approved trimming only $30 million from the federal budget, although Ford has requested budget reductions totaling $2.8 billion.

SUPER SPECIAL OF THE WEEK!

GROUND BEEF

59¢ LB. LOWEST PRICE IN YEARS!

BUT REMEMBER: There's more to Food Marts good ground beef than just the low, low price. Always at the peak of freshness, pleasingly pink - not bright red, not dingy grey - ground in small quantities, and more ground as needed. Just a little fat, not alot - we lightly blend fat with lean to make ground beef that doesn't shrink when you cook it. You get full-bodied flavor, freshness - and fine value, too.

World Economy's Challenge Is Meeting Interdependence

By RICHARD HUGHES UPI Business Writer. NEW YORK (UPI)—The world economic order is in a state of change unequalled in magnitude in the history of mankind. Inflation, recession, raw materials shortages, land and water scarcities and food starvation are apparent, to a greater or lesser degree, throughout the world. These powerful forces are bringing changes in the standard of living that mean dramatically different things to different people. It means a child in India who would starve to death if he were a businessman in Japan who would entertain lavishly will do it moderately. It means a worker in America who buys a new car every three years will do it every four. A new car every fourth year instead of every third certainly does not equal the magnitude of death instead of life. And herein lies the paradox. The four-fold increase in oil prices has been disruptive to industrialized nations but it has not yet brought disaster and most economists now believe it will not. But the shortages—and higher prices—in foodstuffs and fertilizers can mean the difference between life and death for millions of people. A three-year drought in India has reduced its domestic food production to dangerously low levels and raised its dependency on more expensive imports, a dependency that is critically high even in normal times. India needs 115 million tons of grain a year to feed its population of 574 million, but the nation can expect to fall seven to 10 million tons short. Thousands already have died of malnutrition. Recent estimates of grain production indicate there will be a greater world supply than originally anticipated and this will bring some relief to the food-starved developing nations. But the economic problem of higher prices remains. "As in the case of petroleum, the developing countries had come to depend on cheap grain imports to supplement their own production, and implicitly on grain stocks in the exporting countries," Hollis B. Chenery, a World Bank economist, says. "With hindsight it is now clear that they overestimated the increased productivity stemming from the 'green revolution,' relied too heavily on continued availability of cheap imports, and devoted insufficient resources to an environmental destruction that we can no longer afford," Chenery estimates it will take at least five years to make up "for the lags in fertilizer capacity in agricultural investments in the developing countries so as to balance supply and demand, restore stocks, and bring food prices down to more normal levels." This means, says Chenery, the wealthy countries of the world will have to do with less foodstuffs and fertilizers needed by poorer countries that cannot constrain consumption further. Except for the few developing nations that have been able to exploit their rich sources of raw materials, such as Nigeria has with oil, the gap between the rich and poor nations has widened not narrowed. And the poor are getting impatient. Those that are rich in resources are attempting to band together to control commodity markets in the manner in which the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has controlled the world market and price of oil. OPEC's 40 per cent increase in crude oil prices brought within a year the biggest transfer of wealth in history and magnified—but was not the root cause of—worldwide inflation and, in many industrial nations, recession. Although not as dependent on imported oil as other industrialized countries, such as Japan and Italy, then United States nonetheless relies on foreign sources for approximately 38 per cent of its crude supplies. It is enough to cause a serious trade imbalance and bring about serious public debate about energy self-sufficiency or, at least, insulation from foreign manipulation. But at what cost? "To become independent you have to pay a big price," says John G. Myers, economist for the Conference Board, an independent business research organization. "To become completely self-sufficient is an unreasonable goal. You could do it but it would be silly to try. The price to be insulated is very high, too, extremely expensive. Do we want to go that far? That's the choice." The alternative, Myers and other economists say, is to reduce consumption and to force the inevitable change in a high standard of living based on cheap energy and cheap raw materials. When raw materials become scarce and expensive, says E. Patrick McGuire, a Conference Board economist, there are two things that can be done. "You either replace them or don't use them." For example, he said, Americans need to abandon their tendency to buy a new car when the odometer on their old model turns 50,000. "It means an environmental destruction that we can no longer afford," McGuire said. It may mean Americans will have to drive their cars four years instead of three. Americans, too, will have to restrain their overwhelming passion for new products. In the recession economy, U.S. industry already has "stalled or abandoned" development of new consumer products, a survey by McGuire showed. "Where proposed new products would require materials already in short supply, or where their production would require use of facilities now fully committed to meeting existing demand, there is even less motivation for continuance of the effort," according to McGuire. One toiletries producer learned about the petrochemical shortage the hard way. The company had gone as far as establishing a national distribution system for a new shampoo only to discover it could not get enough plastic to bottle it.

Kerner Has Lung Tumor Removed

CHICAGO (UPI)—The cancerous tumor removed from the right lung of former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner is the type commonly found in cigarette smokers, according to doctors. The tumor, one inch in diameter, was removed along with the upper third of the lung during a three-hour operation performed Tuesday by Dr. Arthur Haeblich at Illinois Masonic Medical Center. Kerner, released from federal prison only last week, was reported in stable condition early today. Haeblich said there was no apparent evidence the cancer had spread. If further tests confirm that, he added, the 69-year-old former governor and U.S. Appeals Court judge has a 50-50 chance to live five years. Kerner was paroled from the federal penitentiary at Lexington, Ky., Thursday after doctors discovered a spot on his lung. He had served seven months of a three-year sentence stemming from a 1973 conviction in a racketeering bribery scheme. Haeblich said the type of cancer Kerner suffered is called squamous cell carcinoma and is found in 75 per cent of all lung cancer patients. "Practically everyone who has this type of lung cancer is a smoker," he told a news conference.

Escaped Murderer Sought

MIDDLETOWN (UPI)—State police today sought a mental patient accused of killing a family of three in New London 12 years ago. Authorities said Nicholas Ukraine escaped at about 1:30 a.m. from the Connecticut State Hospital in Middletown after a patient from the facility in the company of a patient from Haven, Ukraine was accused in 1963 of shooting Robert Reidy, a mailman, and his wife and son.

Buckley Career Days Hit With Pupils

By MAL BARLOW Principal Vincent Hamzi of Buckley School on Vernon St. gives his wife, Doris, credit for suggesting the idea. How about a program on their adult careers, she asked? "Rather than have companies come in to talk, we invited parents of the school children," he said. Teachers spoke about job interview techniques before the day. Committees set up by the student council took care of the publicity, decorations, hosts and hostesses, and clean-up. "It's the first time we've attempted anything like this at the elementary level," said Mrs. Walnum.

STAMPS AND COINS

By RUSS MACKENDRICK

This is a chuckram, front and back — who knows which? It is a silver coin out of Travancore that must have been carried in a pillbox. The Indian Head cent came along for sizing.

There were several of these chuckrams on a bourse table at the CCO Coin Club and Mike J. (a Herald newsboy) and I each bought one.

I promised to get the dope on it and found first of all that the price was right. Whitman's "Coins of the World" lists it at $1.75. It ought to be the smallest coin anywhere, but wouldn't that Guinness book on records have to queer it with a story about an Indian state gold "pinhead" weighing only one grain? This monster chuckram runs five or six grains.

It is described under the heading "Anonymous, Undated Coinage (18th to 19th Centuries) ... Curbed lines and pellets. Rev. Nandipada symbol." (Am still looking that one up.)

Travancore, on the southwestern tip of India, has been known for centuries as the original source of black pepper.

This was the spice Columbus was looking for when he discovered the New World.

The level of literacy in Travancore is the highest in all of India and they are also famous for having the world's third oldest postal system. (China and Persia come first.)

They issued their own postage stamps from 1888 to 1949 and there is a nice pictorial set shown in Scott's with values from one to 14 chuckrams. Mike, the next thing to look for is a gold "fanam" from this area. It is about the same size and design as our chuckrams, so let's go.

A recent Monitor has a half page on Monaco's stamps. They say that Prince Rainier supervises the creation and production. He gives his approval at every step or the stamp doesn't appear. He is a collector himself and has the country complete — about 1,100 issues. "Country! Do you know how big it is? 370 acres!"

No more talk about expensive stamps — here's an offer in Linn's — 700 sets, 3,900 different, for $37.95. Trucial States, but so what? Also this ad, just as it's written: "Canadian Common Junk mix 50 cents a pound postpaid." I sent for two pounds of this treasure-trove — it can't be all bad.

For Collectors of the Cute: Hungary (Magyar Posta) has issued a set of seven "Young Animals." There are kittens, a baby calf, colt, piglet, white woolly lambkin, and a flo-eared pup looking glum over the name of his stamp "Canis familiaris."

The Salem Poor stamp is due on March 25. It does not refer to a disadvantaged group in a Massachusetts city. Mr. Poor, first name Salem, was a black militiaman who was avowed a brave and gallant soldier at Bunker Hill. The stamp is one of the four in the Contributors to the Cause set. The others: Haym Salomon, banker; Sybil Ludington, messenger; and Peter Francisco, who shouldered a 1,000 pound cannon during a battle.

The Connecticut Philatelic Society News tells us of the Middletown show at the Sons of Italy Hall on March 16, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be a special cachet and cancel, exhibits, postal substitution, auction, dealers, and refreshments.

Also on the same news-sheet is a "President's Corner" piece by Otto Schaffing. He has a very good tip for stamp investors. It seems that our Scott's catalog sometimes lags a year or two behind its foreign counterparts in catching the overseas price trends.

So become acquainted with Gibbons, Yvert, Michel, Facit, Sassone, and others if you really want to know what's flying.

Dodd Democrats Guest

Congressman Christopher J. Dodd, D-Second District, will attend the fourth annual dinner-dance of the Democratic Club of Manchester, Saturday at the K of C Home, Main St.

Dodd, son of the late Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, is a freshman congressman, elected last November to the seat vacated by Republican Robert H. Steele when he ran unsuccessfully for governor.

First District Congressman William R. Cotter was invited to the dinner-dance but because of a previous commitment said he cannot attend.

The event is a sell-out, with about 200 persons holding tickets. A highlight of the evening will be the installation of new officers, with Irene LaMay the new president, succeeding James Holmes.

Christopher J. Dodd

The Sisterhood of Temple Beth Tefilah will conduct a joint meeting with the Temple Mens' Club on Monday at 8 p.m. at the synagogue, 465 Oak St., East Hartford. Howard Dickstein, family counselor, will discuss "Family in Crisis." Various phases of modern family problems will be presented and discussed.

The Presbyterian Church will have a prayer meeting and Bible study tonight at 7:30 and a Bible study Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at the church, 43 Spruce St.

ABOUT TOWN

Al-Anon family groups will meet tonight at 8 at Second Congregational Church parish house, 385 N. Main St.; Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pathfinders Club, 102 Norman St.; and Friday at 10 a.m. at the South United Methodist Church campus. Alateen for the 12- to 20-year-old children of problem drinkers will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pathfinders Club. The family groups are open to friends and relatives living with severe problem drinkers.

GOOD DEED
COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Eight fraternities and sororities at the University of Missouri last November gave up homecoming decorations and initiated fundraising campaigns, getting $2,757 for charities.

Chaplain Breakfast Speaker

The Rev. Russell E. Camp, chaplain of Somers and Enfield Correctional Institutions since 1953, will be guest speaker at the Men's Communion Breakfast Sunday at 7 a.m. at Center Congregational Church. The guest speaker was a YMCA secretary for 10 years before studying for the ministry. He was ordained in 1945 and has served as pastor of Congregational churches in Stafford and Allston, Mass. Tickets for the breakfast may be obtained at the church office or by calling Edward Bushnell, 649-1947.

Tax Rate Rise Averages 4.4 Mills

Manchester's General Fund tax rate (exclusive of its fire district tax rate) has gone up 11.40 mills since the 1967-68 fiscal year — an average of 4.4 mills a year.

It has gone from 37.90 mills in 1967-68 (the year the last revaluation took effect) to 49.30 mills in 1974-75 — a 30.6 per cent increase for the seven years.

During the same period, the tax rate for the Town Fire District went from 3.52 mills in 1967-68 to 5.70 mills in 1974-75 — an average of 0.31 mills a year or a 2.18 mills and 62 per cent rise for the seven years.

The combined 13.58 mill increase means a property owner with a house assessed at $20,000 is paying $271.60 more in taxes this year than he was paying seven years ago.

From a combined 41.62 mills (General Fund and Fire District) in 1967-68, the tax rate went to 45.8 mills in 1968-69, to 49.1 mills in 1969-70, to 51.24 in 1970-71 and to 53.72 in 1971-72. It stayed at 53.72 in 1972-73 and was cut to 52.01 in 1973-74. It then rose to 55 mills in 1974-75, the current fiscal year.

The tax rate for the Special Downtown Taxing District was at 6 mills in 1967-68 and remained so until 1971-72, when it went to 8 mills. It stayed at 8 mills until the current (1974-75) fiscal year, when it was raised to 12 mills.

Foreign News Commentary

Cambodia's Outlook Dismal

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Cambodian Communists have proclaimed the "inevitable" fall of Phnom Penh and in the dismal facts there seems nothing to dispute them.

President Ford appeals to Congress for an urgent $222 million in further military aid for the besieged Lon Nol government but bases his appeal more on moral grounds than any hope of more than a delaying action.

A Gallup poll shows that eight out of 10 Americans oppose further military aid, fearful of a reinvolvement of American forces in the Indochina war. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is described as reluctant to enter negotiations with the Cambodian insurgents because he has nothing to negotiate with.

And in Phnom Penh President Lon Nol feels it necessary to invite newsmen to observe his morning stroll to prove he has not fled the country.

Even more than in South Vietnam, the Cambodian war is accepted as a civil war with Khmer pitted against Khmer in the battlefield, with American funds and weapons supporting the Lon Nol forces and the Soviet Union, China and North Vietnam providing similar support to the insurgents.

Whether or not the Lon Nol regime is as shot through with corruption as charged, there seems no doubt that the insurgents, though outnumbered, are better disciplined and fight with more conviction than the reluctant soldiers of the regime.

Strangely, despite five years of war, the men who will wield power in Cambodia when the in-surgers take over remain a shadowy group.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk remains their mouthpiece but real power is within a group known as the National United Front of Cambodia. It is a far left-leaning, Communist-dominated organization whose membership ranges from Sihanouk himself to peasant groups and outright bandits.

Two men are expected to hold most of the power in any government formed in Phnom Penh. They are Khieu Samphan, who currently directs the day-to-day war in Cambodia, and Ieng Sary who flies between Cambodia and high level conferences in Peking. Of the two, Khieu Samphan is better known but still is a mystery man.

A long-time thorn in the side of Sihanouk, Khieu Samphan was ordered jailed in 1967 by Sihanouk and was widely believed at the time to have been executed. He is a Paris-educated economist who was named defense minister by Sihanouk in 1970. Some in Phnom Penh believe he is a look-alike and is not the real Khieu Samphan.

His influence extends to all areas of so-called "liberated" Cambodia. He is believed to be in charge of pacification, recruiting and propaganda as well as battlefield operations.

Even less is known about Ieng Sary who suddenly showed up in Peking in 1971 and received a hero's welcome from Sihanouk and Chinese leaders.

Sihanouk himself is expected to have no real role in any new government that might take over.

The insurgents have refused to negotiate with any of the top leaders on the Lon Nol regime, making even a negotiated surrender difficult, and even more difficult a decision on any U.S. future role in Cambodia including humanitarian acts to relieve starvation.

House Formally Delays Vote on Oil Tax Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House formally voted Tuesday to put off consideration of President Ford's veto of the oil tariff delay.

The measure was sent to the House Ways and Means Committee, which originally drafted the bill that called for a 90-day delay in Ford's order to impose fees totalling $3 a barrel on imported oil by April 1.

The vote to refer the vetoed measure to the committee was 364-57.

Republicans who demanded last week that the House vote on the veto rather than putting it off reversed their stand today, supporting delay of the measure and complimenting Democrats for an apparent effort to compromise with Ford over differing energy proposals.

"This is a matter (the energy problem) so important that we cannot afford to play politics with it," said House Republican Leader John Rhodes. Rhodes last week said referring the vetoed bill to committee rather than voting on it "is like putting a gun to the President's head."

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, noted that Ford voluntarily suspended the second and third stages of the oil fee for 60 days as a gesture of compromise with Congress.

Ullman said, however, his committee could call up the measure at any time, indicating that if Ford reimposes the fees the vetoed bill would be brought back to the floor for a vote.
