Weiss Cuts $118,400 From School Budget

By SOL R. COHEN
Town Manager Robert Weiss is recommending a $13,202,508 school budget for Manchester in 1975-76. It represents a $118,400 cut from the $13,320,908 budget submitted by the Board of Education.
The $13,202,508 recommended by Weiss is still $1,102,508 above the current school appropriation and represents a potential 3.75-mill increase in the General Fund budget.
In a letter to Allan Thomas, school board chairman, Weiss explained that the $118,400 cut from the school budget is the same $118,400 proposed for new programs or for improving programs. The school board had placed the $118,400 under its category, "Items with Discretion."
Weiss has to the middle of next week to submit to the Board of Directors his proposed budgets for all town departments and services. The board will have to April 7 to conduct a public hearing on Weiss' tentative budgets and to May 7 to adopt its own budgets and tax rates for 1975-76.
Failure to meet the May 7 deadline will make Weiss' recommended budgets and tax rates the legal ones.
If permitted by the town charter, Thomas has requested a second meeting between the Board of Directors and the Board of Education (the first was held March 9) to discuss the school budget.
It has been scheduled for Monday at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.
In his letter to Thomas, Weiss said it was with real reluctance that he cut the $118,400 the school board recommended for improvements.
"In preparing the (General Fund) budget for this year," wrote Weiss, "I am submitting a budget that will generally maintain the present level, or a reduced level, of services in those operations under my control."
"I feel that the Board of Directors will want to give more than usual consideration to level of services in all operations, in order to make the tough policy decisions incumbent upon them in arriving at a final budget."

Mixed Future Seen In Nation's Economy

United Press International
The nation's economy is showing mixed signs of future recovery and worse difficulty.
In a series of economic reports and developments:
—The Labor Department said the inflation rate held at 0.6 per cent in February, as food costs rose 1.2 per cent but other goods and services increased 0.8 per cent. The 0.8 per cent increase matched the January rise and translates into an annual adjusted rate of about 5 per cent, compared with 12 per cent last year.
—The purchasing power of a typical worker declined last month 0.3 per cent from January and 5 per cent from a year ago.
—The Commerce Department said corporate profits dropped 14 per cent in the last three months of 1974 to an annual rate of $8.9 billion after taxes. It was the biggest decline in 17 years.
—First-time claims for unemployment compensation under various government programs fell 2,600 to 596,200. Economists view the recent weekly declines as a sign that the worst period of worker layoffs has passed.
—General Motors, expecting small car sales to pick up, recalled nearly 4,000 workers from long-term layoffs after April 1. An undetermined number of other workers in component plants also will be brought back to work. Chrysler Corp. said it will have 900 fewer workers on indefinite furloughs.

Spring Has Sprung, But Has It?

By United Press International
The swallows were nesting in Capistrano, dogwood trees and jonquils were in bloom, and geese were winging north today as spring made its 1975 debut.
But Willie Smith of Murphysboro, Ill., wasn't convinced.
"For one thing, says Smith, the snakes and woolly worms aren't out yet. And spring won't really arrive until they appear."
"It's beautiful weather now, but we're going to have some more very bad winter weather later — and more snow," the 76-year-old southern Illinois naturalist said.
Smith operates the American Museum in Murphysboro, Ill., and has been predicting the weather for 60 years through observation of wildlife and plants.
"The purple martins'll be here soon, and that's a good sign. But when the warts and moccasins and the woolly worms come out, that's when spring really starts," he said.
The lilacs were budding and the jonquils were in bloom in southern Illinois and geese on their northerly migration were flocking to state preserves.
The rain-swollen James River threatened to flood Richmond today for the fourth time in six years.
Richmond officials began removing a few families from the most threatened areas near the James. Businessmen in the city's low-lying east end spent most of the day boarding up their shops and loading goods.
The Mississippi River and its tributaries also were out on their annual spring rampage, flooding more than 1.3 million acres of lowlands in Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas and prompting Winona, Minn., officials to hire workers to fill sandbags in case the mighty Mississippi gets uppity.

Mayor Asks Fast Rebate From State

Manchester Mayor John Thompson has urged the state to reimburse communities for special education immediately rather than waiting a year and called for full funding of the program.
Speaking for the Connecticut Conference of Mayors and Municipalities, Thompson Thursday told a legislative committee that the program costs for the communities have risen in three years from $8.8 million to $17 million.
The current system imposes a serious burden on local communities and makes planning difficult, he said.
"They are forced to either not provide the programs, which is against the law, or to 'lend' millions of dollars to the state," Thompson said.
He called for gradually changing the reimbursement dates over a three-year period to make the payments current. Thompson said the current reimbursement formula should be increased from two thirds to three quarters next year and to 100 per cent in fiscal 1977.
"The state mandates these extraordinary expenses and the state should pay the full cost," he said.
"Full state funding is the best way — and probably the only way — to achieve the standard of special education services which every qualified student should receive in Connecticut," Thompson said.
Unless the state picks up the cost, the burden will fall on local taxpayers, he said.

Senate Tax Cut Vote Expected by Saturday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, after agreeing to slash the oil depletion allowance, is moving toward passage of a tax cut of $31 billion or more. The proposed cut would include one-time payments of $100 to all Social Security recipients.
Final passage is expected by Saturday at the latest, but the bill still must be reconciled with a $19.8 billion House bill.
The final bill definitely will contain rebates of 1974 taxes, to be mailed automatically to all taxpayers in May or June. The final rebate will be between the 12 per cent, $40 maximum in the Senate bill and the 10 per cent, $20 maximum in the House bill.
The Senate bill had been tied up for three days in arguments over oil taxes and Social Security benefit increases. It broke out of its legislative logjam Thursday afternoon with passage of a compromise oil tax package which could cost oil companies $3 billion or more.
Money-losing corporations and home buyers also received bad news Thursday. A $1 billion tax break for failing corporations was dropped from the bill, and a tax credit for home purchases was limited to buyers of new homes only.
Many of the Senate's tax cuts — including the $100 payment to all 33 million recipients of Social Security, Railroad Retirement and Supplemental Security Income — could face serious trouble in the House-Senate conference committee.

Ford Aide to Oversee CIA Probes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has decided to empower his special intelligence adviser, Philip W. Buchen to oversee the growing number of investigations into the CIA and other intelligence agencies, White House officials said today.
They said Ford will appoint a new counsel to assist Buchen plus a deputy to the assistant as well as more aides to handle the work load.
Ford considered and then discarded a suggestion he appoint a special deputy, or, as one White House aide said, a "super-ombudsman" to take direct control of all intelligence agencies.
Such a post would have meant the end of William E. Colby's commanding position over the Central Intelligence Agency.
White House officials said the amount of work in sifting which CIA and other in-

Mail Was Opened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During a 20 year period beginning in 1953, the Postal Service cooperated with the CIA in an illegal mail opening operation concentrated on mail between the United States and Communist countries, according to House testimony made public today.
Getting the warheads was a major intelligence victory for the CIA, the Post said, because it verified that Soviet subs carried nuclear torpedoes.
A high intelligence source told UPI Thursday that "sensitive staff" was recovered in the controversial salvage operation despite some charges the attempt was not worth its multimillion dollar cost. That source, however, did not say exactly what was recovered.
Chief Postal Inspector William J. Cotter outlined to the House Civil Liberties subcommittee last Tuesday the details behind a Central Intelligence Agency mail surveillance project that inspected mail going to and from the Soviet Union and China, among other countries, between 1953 and 1973.
Cotter said he ended the project shortly thereafter.

Panel Okays A Judgeship For Meskill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee voted 8-6 today in favor of the confirmation of former Connecticut Gov. Thomas J. Meskill as a federal judge.
Meskill was nominated to the Second U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals by former President Richard M. Nixon as one of his last official acts.
Meskill's nomination was approved by the committee when Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., joined the six Republican members of the committee in supporting the former governor.
Six of the nine Democrats on the panel voted against confirmation. Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., was not present for the vote. Under committee rules, Byrd could vote later but it would make no difference in the final result.
Eastland said after the meeting that it would be at least a week after the Senate returns from its Easter recess before it can vote on the nomination.
Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., one of the Democrats who voted against confirmation, said an FBI report on Meskill's possible connection with a state leasing scandal had been "inconclusive."
Tunney said there was no way to tell who had been telling the truth about the real estate scandal.
Meskill has denied any wrongdoing in connection with the affair.

Nations Agree to U.S. Oil Plan

PARIS (UPI) — The world's industrial giants have united behind an American proposal to keep oil prices high enough to stimulate the development of other energy sources.

They adopted a minimum-price oil policy by a 170 vote Thursday at the second and final day of the International Energy Agency conference. Sweden abstained.

The agreement was aimed at encouraging the development of nuclear energy, tidal and solar power and the conversion of industrial wastes and sewage into fuel.

The members of the four-month-old agency still have to decide what minimum price to press for when they meet with final day of the International Energy Agency conference. They gave themselves until July 1 to come up with a figure.

The current price of oil is around $11 a barrel. The consumers were expected to propose a minimum price in order to combat a possible move by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to cut oil prices to preserve their markets in the West.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had threatened to boycott the scheduled consumer-producer conference if the industrial countries failed to map out a minimum-price policy.

The chairman of the agency, Etienne Davignon of Belgium, and Enders both said the consumer countries would resist producer demands to discuss all raw materials, not just oil, at the April 7 meeting.

He said he would recommend U.S. participation in the April 7 conference.

Just as Sundays are "little Easters," every Friday is the day of the Lord's Death (whose anniversary we celebrate a week from today).

Friday is a time for recollection of God's almighty love and of our own need for penance. When the Song of Songs proclaims that love is "strong as death, deep waters cannot quench love," it sings not merely of true human love which exceeds the bonds of mortality, but of divine love which is infinite and eternal.

There is no limit to which and beyond which God's love will go in expressing its boundlessness — even death. How mysterious His love...and how enabling, when we contemplate its inexpressible reality! The kind of penance (change of heart) which it inspires in us is a similar selflessness and generosity.

To be loved is to feel worthwhile and to seek to be worthy of that love; to be loved infinitely is to be "divinized" and to rise to heights of magnanimity.

Fridays are special days for recognizing, even in an often grubby world, how truly wonderful is our humanity and for rededicating ourselves to its nobility.

FISH Must Disband, Lacks Help

VERNON

BARBARA RICHMOND Reluctantly, the executive board of Tri-Town FISH, has agreed to terminate the FISH program in the three-town area of Vernon, Tolland, and Ellington.

Mrs. Ruth Salt, chairman, today cited the lack of volunteers for both driving and manning the telephone as the prime reason for termination of the program.

In 1968 FISH was instituted and called the Rockville Chapter of FISH. The name was just recently changed to Tri-Town FISH to better get the area it served.

Last fall a plea was made for help to keep the program going. FISH basically provides emergency help for anyone who needs it.

In the fall an emergency meeting was called to discuss the fate of the program and only five of the 77 members of the organization appeared. Those five members were reluctant to take any action at that time so all members were polled by telephone to see if they wished to continue to serve.

The poll which resulted in enough members saying they would still serve as drivers or to answer the telephone served to encourage the executive board to start to proceed with setting FISH in operation again. Service had been terminated for several months.

The bylaws were updated and plans were being made to re-incorporate. Then a check was made to alert the volunteers that plans were being made to resume operations on March 3 and to set up a work schedule and many of those who said they would be willing to work backed down on their promise for various reasons, making it impossible to keep the service in operation even on a part-time basis.

The organization has received financial support from churches and individuals, mainly to pay for the phone service and other incidental facets of the operation such as insurance for the drivers.

The executive board is grateful to those who did offer support either financially or by

When all of the bills incurred are paid, the executive board will return the balance of the money to those who donated it.

Fraud Charged In Candy Sale

TOLLAND (UPI) —

A 28-year-old Stafford Springs man who organized door-to-door candy sales for a "charity" called Project 70s Inc. has been arrested for engaging in fraudulent disbursements and missing donated money.

State police Thursday arrested Albert A. Gotta and his sales manager, Michael Gotta, also 26 and of Stafford Springs. Gotta was charged with risk of injury to a minor after a 13-year-old boy's parents complained to Hartford police that Gotta continued to let the boy sell candy after the boy's parents complained.

Project 70s own report listed $177,218 in candy sales for the first half of 1974, with the cost of candy at $67,533, and contributions of $10 to the Heart Association and $1,000 to a New Haven area drug rehabilitation center.

The Connecticut Department of Consumer Protection, which began the investigation, found that Project 70s recruited children from poor homes to sell candy in their towns, letting them keep 15 to 20 per cent of its price.

Salaries and expenses amounted to $28,737 for that period in the first six months of 1974, and an operating deficit of $8,223 was claimed, according to the report.

Town Fights To Keep Rails

SOUTH WINDSOR

Judy Kuehnel Correspondent

In its fight to keep Rail Line 685 through South Windsor, the Town Council has passed a resolution calling for the continuation of rail service.

The council has threatened to institute a suit seeking in an injunction to prevent elimination of the line.

Meanwhile, Congressman William Catter (D-1st District) has submitted a report to the United States Railway Association (USRA) claiming that line 685 "is profitable."

In a letter to Thomas Hieber, local rail service planner, Catter said line 685, which runs through East Hartford, South Windsor and into East Windsor, is not a money losing proposition.

Catter said a survey of East Hartford users of the rail service (as yet incomplete) "reveals that eight companies with facilities lying between East Hartford and South Windsor generated 2,748 cars in 1973."

One facility in East Windsor generated 200 cars in 1973, Catter said. "Together these users generated 2,948 cars which, when added to the 1,662 cars your report (the USRA's) attributes to users in South Windsor, means the line actually had a volume of 4,610 cars."

"Since your report on this line states that recovery of costs would require approximately a 126 per cent increase in traffic (to 3,740 cars), it is obvious that the traffic this survey has identified is far in excess of that needed to make the line profitable," said Catter.

The East Hartford and East Windsor traffic contribution to line 685 by the partially completed survey is identified in a list Catter submitted to Hieber.

Catter also submitted a survey of 1973 traffic in South Windsor which "reveals that users received or shipped 1,836 cars instead of the 1,662 cars reported in your analysis," said Catter.

"While all data is not yet in and some figures may in fact change slightly in rechecking, the volume of traffic excluded from your analysis is so overwhelming as to make the outcome of a re-analysis obvious — Line 685 is profitable," said Catter.

In its resolution to the USRA the council urged it to include line 685 in the northeast railway continuation and rehabilitation program.

The council said that through its Economic Developer and the Economic Development Commission, it (council) has provided up-to-date information regarding the use of this rail.

Councilmen said the town, over the last few years, has developed over one-half million square feet of industrial and commercial space which is dependent upon the availability of rail services.

Also, 28 present users in town have documentation showing evidence of 1,833 cars used in 1973.

Officials said the elimination of this track would cause the loss of 268 jobs; six firms to move out of state; six forced to close and seven to substantially cut down operations.

The resolution states that the town will lose $198,000 in taxes, equal to two mills, and the state will lose corporation and sales taxes at a time when the state is "in a deficit position and the town has not been eligible for federal assistance because of the federal cut-back on previous height programs."

Councilmen said the business community and the council "are horrified and frantic that if this railway is abandoned, South Windsor would be so severely hurt economically, it would have a multiplying effect on our lives, causing financial disaster to our tax structure."

Officials added elimination of the service "would leave us no alternative but to eliminate services that are considered vital to the community."

OPINION

Let Resignation Die

We hope the motion calling for the resignation of Town Manager Robert Weiss is soundly crushed at the next meeting of the Board of Directors.

government. That's the type of government Manchester doesn't need. There's too much politics being played today, under the town manager form of government, as both parties look ahead to the November election.

The Higher Math Of Education Costs

The parents of a child now 10 years of age can expect to spend more than $30,000 for their offspring's four-year education at a state university and more than $53,000 at a private university — assuming a "conservative" 7 per cent inflation rate.

If the figures are shocking for a 10-year old, consider what they will be for today's toddler. Again based on an annual 7 per cent inflation rate, the four-year cost of an education at a state university 18 years from now will be $56,160, requiring an annual savings, starting right now, of $1,860.

Without question, inflation has become the major factor in planning for educational expenses," says Edwin E. Gatewood Jr., vice president of the Oakland Financial Group, Inc., personal financial counselors in Charlottesville, Va., and Southfield, Mich., which made the study.

Educational costs may vary, as will the return expected from investment dollars. But the point is clear that the total outlay is likely to be staggering. What may not be so apparent is that the rate of the rising cost of education may exceed the current after-tax return on savings.

The company has assembled a table projecting the probable future costs, including room, board, tuition and miscellaneous expenses, of a four-year college education based on present costs at state universities ($4,000 a year) and at private institutions ($8,000 a year).

The Search For An Antidote To Crime

WASHINGTON — A friend was mugged the other day and stripped of his wallet and other valuables but not before he managed to get a good look at his assailant. Hustling to the nearest police patrol, he succeeded in setting a search in operation within minutes.

Appreciation

One is trying out short stays in prison on the theory that the emotional shock of a sentence is what deters crime — not long incarceration. Lengthy periods behind bars, the theory runs, may be counterproductive and serve only to turn a beginner into a hardened criminal.

ANDREW TULLY

Crazy

I'll tell you what will happen to him. English is the natural as well as official language of America. The kid can be a physicist or chemist or finger-painting genius, but if he can't speak at least passable English he will be unable to communicate his genius to would-be employers, and will end up working as a street cleaner until he takes a crash course in the language of American business, industry and education.

Stone's argument is that our public schools are ignoring minority pupils, notably the Spanish-speaking minority. As a result, he claims, the high school dropout rate of these students "has soared to over 50 per cent. Only 4 per cent go on to college, compared to Puerto Rico, where over 90 per cent go on to college. The difference? Language mastery."

Maybe, but Stone stands indicted for irrelevancy. Spanish is Puerto Rico's "native" language. Naturally Puerto Rican students would do better in their native habitat. So would Germans in Germany, French pupils in France, Russians in Russia. In all those countries, an English-speaking student would be expected to learn the country's language if he desired to earn a decent living after matriculation.

Obviously, if Chuck Stone had his way, public school teachers would first have to learn a new language: I am not sure that it happens to the pupils who are declared "The minority is always right."

MAX LERNER

Time Of The Assassins

NEW YORK CITY — The flap over the CIA assassination stories — if valid — raises two questions. The first: Who was in charge of the store — the CIA or the President? And whichever was — this is the second question — what are the ethics of such assassination politics, and at what cost were they pursued?

What happened is still shrouded in hearsay gossip and mystery. CIA director, William E. Colby, after this formal report on the CIA infractions of his charter, added an oral fill-in for President Ford about the CIA plans for assassinating heads of state, but is said to have denied that anyone had in fact been killed.

Yet there are dark stars out of Washington about the deaths of Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic and of Patrice Lumumba, the Congolese leader, and about such targets of unsuccessful assassinations as President Duvalier of Haiti and Premier Castro of Cuba.

In Western democracies as well as in tyrannies, the heads of governments have often found themselves caught up in plots. It seems to go with the territory of the use and abuse of power, and it is particularly the disease of intelligence services. When men finally achieve power, after lust for it long, they run the danger of confusing themselves with God and assuming that human lives are theirs to dispose of.

They rationalize it in a number of ways — by national interest or security, by reason of state or reason of history. But whatever the term used, it is still killing.

Ambulance Fund Voted, Bulldozer Rejected

ANDOVER

Donna Holland Correspondent 646-0375

The Board of Finance approved requests totaling $2,500 and rejected a request of $8,000 for an ambulance fund.

A request of $8,000 by the Board of Selectmen for a bulldozer was rejected by a 3-3 vote. It will not be brought to a Town Meeting.

David Yeomans, first selectman, said the selectmen wished to purchase the bulldozer presently being rented by the town.

Yeomans told the finance board he anticipated additional use of the dozer which would make buying the machine a better financial deal for the town.

He said the bulldozer is rented on an as-basis and when there is heavy use of it the town is charged more. He said the company would allow 50 per cent of rental fees, $4,500, to go toward the purchase price.

Yeomans said that was the agreement when the town first rented the machine although there was no intention to buy it at the time.

In January Robert Post, a recently elected candidate for first selectman, charged the selectmen with entering into an agreement with the rental company to lease the bulldozer with the understanding the town would purchase it at a later date.

Yeomans said that was the agreement when the town first rented the machine although there was no intention to buy it at the time.

Generator

The Board of Selectmen and the Board of Finance approved a request from Cliff Massey for a $2,000 appropriation for a generator.

The item will be included in the next town meeting.

The 15 kw generator (15,000 watts) is mounted on skids. It is powerful enough to use with the firehouse, Bolton Center School or the building at Herrick Memorial Park.

The selectmen directed Massey to check other models available for a price of $17,000 for a generator.

Outdoor Phone Considered

The phone company would put a sign under the state trooper sign denoting a phone.

He said the town would probably have to leave the building's porch light on.

The representative said if a monthly income of $35 was reached the phone company would convert the phone to a commission type.

Mr. Riley said the resident trooper did not think it was a good idea because he said he knows there will be trouble with vandals.

The telephone company representative said moving chairs to the town would be waived if it would provide a plain piece of plywood on which to mount the phone.

Post Asks Early Notice of Mill Rate

ANDOVER

Robert Post, candidate for first selectman in the upcoming May election, has requested townspeople be informed in advance of the projected mill rate before they either accept or reject the budget at the annual May Town Meeting.

Post formally made the request in a letter sent to John Yeomans, chairman of the Board of Finance.

Post said that when residents vote on the budget they do not know what the mill rate will be.

He said he would like the rate published in all newspapers. He said he would also like the amount in the reserve fund as of July 1, 1975 and the amount as of April 15 published.

Post said, "I think the people have a right to know, if the budget is passed as presented, how the town will be affected financially."

Grant Sought For Special Education Study

COVENTRY
Monica Shea
Correspondent
742-9495

The Board of Education, by a 4 to 1 vote with one abstention, has agreed to join with six other towns in seeking funds to plan for the initiation, expansion or improvement of special education programs in the towns.

The 18-month grant is actually being sought by the Mansfield Field of Education and the town of Coventry is committed to the planning process and not to any future use of the program.

The grant would be used to devise methods in which towns could reduce some of the costs of special education such as transportation, and to identify children in need of special education as well as to achieve better personnel for special education.

Board member Sue Brainerd voted against the town's inclusion in the planning grant because of the town's past experience with another regional program called Ancillary Service Center, which deteriorated into a limited program and not to any future use of the program.

The director and did not go into programs to help the special education students.

Dr. Arnold Elman, superintendent of schools, assured the board that the intent of the grant was to see if the town could streamline existing programs and to develop a mechanism for knowing what other towns are doing.

John Lewis, chairman of the board said, "I think regionalization of things like this are good. Towns this size can't always afford some programs."

Dr. Elman reported to the board that he had received complaints from parents on the number of half days that the students were having because of the in-service days scheduled for teachers.

Presently in this year's school calendar there were 14 in-service days scheduled and Dr. Elman recommended that the board schedule only 10 for next year.

The board, reacting to a request from Carl Hicking, named the Coventry Grammar School library the Arthur Vinton Memorial Library.

Vinton, a long-time resident of Coventry was killed last summer when he was crossing Rt. 4A at his home.

He was one of the town's first school bus drivers, a member of the building committee, for the Robertson Grammar School and the first president of the North Coventry Volunteer Fire Department.

He also served as selectman and a legislator from Coventry.

Arrangements will be made with the principal of Coventry Grammar School to set up a special exhibit in the library honoring Vinton.

Town Plans Move Against Junk Autos

COVENTRY
Monica Shea

Ernest Wheller, the Coventry zoning agent, has been instructed by the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals to clean up the motor vehicle junk yards scattered throughout the town.

State statutes as well as Coventry's zoning regulations specify "that two or more unregistered or inoperative vehicles and/or parts stored deposited on a parcel of land constitutes a "Motor Vehicle Junk Yard."

In view of this Wheller recently denied permits for junk yards to be open in town.

Wheeler said, "These denials have resulted in many citizens questioning the reasons why junk vehicles are allowed all over town. Consequently, I am requesting all persons, including garages and service stations, to eliminate any such conditions within the next 30 days, or call me on necessary actions to be taken, prior to the issuance of citations for zoning violations."

The citations, if not honored (conviction necessary), could result in fines from $10 to $100 per day; or if the violation is willful from $100 to $250 for each day the violations exist, or imprisonment for not more than 10 days for each day such violation continues or both.

Violation citations will also be issued for trailers, house trailers, and mobile homes which are forbidden in town without a permit.

Fair Reservations Open

HEBRON

It is new reservation time for local organizations to reserve space at the "Big H", 5th annual Hebron Harvest Fair, Sept. 4, 5, 6 and 7 at the Lion's Club Park, Rt. 85, Hebron.

The "Big H" is sponsored by the Lions Club. Last year's fair drew over 45,000. As has been the case in previous years, preference for booth space is given to local groups and individuals.

The job was then re-designated and a Rhode Island man was recommended to the council for the position. That man said adverse publicity about his qualifications made him question whether he could work in Hebron and he withdrew from the position.

Reservations chairman Robert I. Tipper has mailed letters to all who participated last year announcing a deadline of April 30 for reservations and that booth space will be delegated on a first come, first served basis.

Applications along with a $10 deposit, or any inquiries relative to the booths, should be addressed to Tipper, Main Street, Hebron, 228-9217.

Learn from Mistakes Leon Zapadka of Woodland Gardens talks to a group of vegetable gardeners at the Lutz Junior Museum Tuesday evening, told me before the talk that he would make these points. Gardeners tried vegetables last year, he said, made some mistakes that they will not make again, and ought to have excellent results.

Locating the garden provides the first chance for a good or a poor decision. The garden should be on a slope that faces south, if possible, or certainly on a slope that is well drained and has the maximum of sunshine. If the soil is naturally heavy, some sand can be tilled into the top six inches. If it is naturally dry, a layer of peat moss, an inch or an inch-and-a-half thick, can be spread over the top before tilling.

He is hoping that gardeners had their soil tested in the fall and know what chemical elements it lacks. If not, as a rule of thumb, he says five pounds of ground limestone to 100-square-foot of garden is a good idea.

These additives are all tilled into the ground and "a fair application" of rotted cow manure, if available, or dried cow manure which can be bought in bags, can be tilled in, too. This will provide nutrients through the season.

"Hot crops," such as tomatoes, peppers and eggplant, can be started now in flats in the house and set in the garden by May 15. "Some cold crops" can be started outdoors earlier and as soon as the soil is dry enough to be worked, onion sets can be put out. These are onions that were started from seed last year, but grown only part way to maturity. They'll start new roots and tops when planted now and finish their growth this year.

In about two weeks it should be time to set out lettuce plants, started indoors, and at the same time the crops of the cabbage family, including cauliflower and Brussels sprouts can be transplanted to the garden.

Peas are an early crop, and some gardeners may have started them already. Mr. Zapadka thinks it is just as well to wait until April 1.

GARDENING

Growing vegetables at home will be a serious undertaking this year for many gardeners, to judge from reports of companies that sell seeds. Demand for vegetable seeds started early and has continued strong.

The seed industry, caught last year with shortages of some kinds of seeds, is better prepared this year. More seeds of vegetable varieties were produced in 1974 and have been packaged now for sale. Shortages are not anticipated by local retailers.

No matter what the label on your seed packets, the chances are the seeds were grown by one of several tremendously large operators on the wide, flat, irrigated fields of California. Seed production, locally, went out of business after a final burst of activity during World War II.

Seed companies buy in wholesale lots from essentially the same sources. Then they weigh, or measure, or sometimes even count the seeds into the individual packets with their own name printed on the front.

In the trade, this year's demand for vegetable seeds is being compared to the Victory Garden explosion of World War II. The motivation of the buyers is different, however.

They are not trying to help win a war. They are trying to grow vegetables at lower cost than they would have to pay at a downtown market or a roadside stand and they are confidently hoping that their home-raised vegetables will be of superior quality and freshness.

Locating the garden provides the first chance for a good or a poor decision. The garden should be on a slope that faces south, if possible, or certainly on a slope that is well drained and has the maximum of sunshine. If the soil is naturally heavy, some sand can be tilled into the top six inches. If it is naturally dry, a layer of peat moss, an inch or an inch-and-a-half thick, can be spread over the top before tilling.

He is hoping that gardeners had their soil tested in the fall and know what chemical elements it lacks. If not, as a rule of thumb, he says five pounds of ground limestone to 100-square-foot of garden is a good idea.

These additives are all tilled into the ground and "a fair application" of rotted cow manure, if available, or dried cow manure which can be bought in bags, can be tilled in, too. This will provide nutrients through the season.

"Hot crops," such as tomatoes, peppers and eggplant, can be started now in flats in the house and set in the garden by May 15. "Some cold crops" can be started outdoors earlier and as soon as the soil is dry enough to be worked, onion sets can be put out. These are onions that were started from seed last year, but grown only part way to maturity. They'll start new roots and tops when planted now and finish their growth this year.

In about two weeks it should be time to set out lettuce plants, started indoors, and at the same time the crops of the cabbage family, including cauliflower and Brussels sprouts can be transplanted to the garden.

Peas are an early crop, and some gardeners may have started them already. Mr. Zapadka thinks it is just as well to wait until April 1.

Bicentennial Units Consider Fireworks at Wickham Park

A trial run of a fireworks display sponsored by both Manchester and East Hartford is planned for Wickham Park on the town line May 17.
Members of both bicentennial committees in the towns met Thursday night at the Veteran's Memorial Clubhouse in East Hartford to continue joint talks on 1976.
All of the nearly 50 people present from both towns expressed excitement over the fireworks plans. They were all confident solutions could be found for the many problems involved, said Mrs. Carol Kuehl, secretary of the Manchester committee.
A crowd of nearly 70,000 might come to the display, which would be held this year depends on how well the two committees can work out the many details involved, Mrs. Kuehl said.
They all agreed there is no place as suitable as the park.

Kings Edge Closer To Bulls in NBA

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Detroit and Milwaukee took the NBA's Midwest Division series, the Chicago Bulls figured to breeze home with the first place finish in the club's history.
Not so—at least not as long as Kansas City-Omaha Coach Phil Johnson has his Kings playing the best basketball since the franchise was moved from Cincinnati for the 1972-73 season.

Princeton Wins Oregon Reaches NIT Semifinals

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coach Dick Harter thinks the Oregon team can "go all the way" in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament but realizes the Webfoots will have their work out for them Saturday when they take on Princeton's whirlwind offense in the semifinals.
I said when we came here that we had a good chance to win it," Harter said Thursday night after Oregon advanced to the semifinals with a 68-59 victory over Oral Roberts.
Oregon's defense will have to be at its best against Princeton, however, because the Tigers showed their many passing and shooting skills when they demolished South Carolina, 86-67, in the second game of Thursday's doubleheader.

Hockey Fun Again, Desjardins Claims

NEW YORK (UPI) — Goalender Gerry Desjardins, who recently jumped from the World Hockey Association back to the National Hockey League, says there's a world of difference between the two leagues.

"It's fun playing hockey again," he says. "When the fans didn't come in the WHA, you didn't get paid. I don't worry about my pay check here. I can concentrate on going out and playing hockey."

Desjardins went out before the usual slugging Buffalo Sabres crowd of 15,000—compared to the "2,000 to 2,500" when he was with the WHA Michigan Stags—and stopped all but three of the 41 New York Rangers shots Thursday night to lead the Sabres to a 6-3 victory.

Desjardins joined the Sabres on a one-year contract for $1 million, a record for most losses in an NHL season. The defeat was the 61st game and broke the New York Islanders' record of 60 established in the 1972-73 season.

Yanks, Texas in Beanball Feud

NEW YORK (UPI) — Opening day isn't very far away, and it wasn't necessary to consult a calendar to find that out.

You know the season will be starting soon—in 18 days, to be exact—when people stop asking if the pitchers are ahead of the hitters and ask instead why they're throwing at them.

That's what happened Thursday at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., when the New York Yankees and Texas Rangers had the spring's first beanball feud.

Bill Virdon, the New York manager, and Jeff Burroughs, the Texas rightfielder and American League MVP last season, wound up wrestling on the ground after Ranger pitcher twice threw close to Elliott Maddox of the Yankees. Maddox, a former Texas player who left the Rangers embittered by the treatment he got from Manager Billy Martin, said he had been warned "through the grapevine" before Thursday's game to "hang loose."

The word was passed to him that Martin was mad over a story that appeared in a Fort Lauderdale newspaper last week. The story quoted Maddox as calling Martin a liar for allegedly promising to play him a lot in exhibition games last spring. Maddox played very little and finally was sold to the Yankees on March 23.

In the first inning Thursday, Texas starter Jim Bibby, a former roommate of Maddox, hit the Yankee centerfielder on the left shoulder with a pitch. The next time Maddox batted, in the third, the bat "slipped" from his hands and wound up halfway to the mound.

Then in the sixth, a pitch by Stan Thomas sailed over Maddox's head.

The fight that apparently had been building occurred in the seventh when the Yankees' Mike Wallace decked Texas second baseman Dave Nelson with a pitch.

NFL Meeting

Player Pact Comes Up

HONOLULU (UPI) — A player contract for the coming National Football League season is still a big question mark with the owners' Management Council still waiting for the NFL's last contract proposal.

Management Council General Manager John Thompson told the team owners Thursday that the Rozelle Rule, or option compensation proviso, was still the big divisive issue. Others are length of contract, management's pension contribution, pre-season pay, arbitration and agency or union shop. The players' last contract expired Jan. 31, 1974.

Thompson said the club owners still want to bargain on all the issues but the players want to exclude the Rozelle Rule, letting it go through a court test instead.

Hall-of-Famer Medwick Dies

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Hall of Fame Joe "Ducky" Medwick, a member of the "Gas House Gang" with the St. Louis Cardinals, died early this morning of a heart attack.

Medwick, 63, walked into Bayfront Medical Center at about 10 p.m. Thursday night complaining of chest pains. Dr. Stan London, the Cardinal team doctor, was summoned and he recognized it immediately as a massive heart seizure. Medwick died between 3 and 4 this morning.

Medwick, a right-handed hitting outfielder who played in major leagues from 1932 to 1948, was serving here as hitting instructor for the Cardinals' minor league teams, a position he held since 1966. Just one night before his attack, Medwick had attended the Florida Governors Dinner along with other Hall of Famers.

Medwick received the nickname "Ducky" from a female fan while he was playing with Houston of the Texas League. She noticed the way he waddled, and the name took.

A savage ball hit Medwick, compiled a .224 major league lifetime batting average with the Cardinals, Brooklyn Dodgers, New York Giants and Boston Braves. He had a total of 2,471 hits with 205 homers and 1,383 runs batted in.

Abuse of Regs Doesn't Mean Change Needed

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislator says he opposes automatically changing state bidding procedures just because state officials have neglected and abused them.

Starlifter Crashes
TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — An Air Force C141 Starlifter carrying 16 persons crashed late Thursday night in the Olympic mountains 40 miles northwest of Seattle.

An Air Force C130 located the crashed plane with electronic equipment at 2:45 a.m. PDT (5:45 a.m. EDT) today, but poor weather prevented a visual sighting of the plane, according to Capt. Cary Stevens at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois, which controls all search missions for downed Air Force craft.

Farm Bill Veto Due
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed an emergency farm support bill which critics claim would make American consumers pay $495 million more for milk and other dairy products.

An administration spokesman indicated President Ford would veto the measure in its present form.
