

Farmers Take Steps Toward Conservation

TOLLAND COUNTY and are interested in the goals of the district, Strong said. He said, "There is a greater need for local participation in funding the district to meet increasing requests for service."

Using one or more dollars of their own money to match federal funding, 150 Tolland County farmers installed some $81,000 worth of conservation work on their farms, a report of the Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District states.

The district, headed by Norman Strong as chairman, was established in 1946 as an entity of the state. Its purpose is to promote soil and water conservation work through voluntary participation of land users.

The farmers using Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) funds, among other things, planted 96 acres of permanent seedlings, and improved another 230 acres of seedlings, established 10 multi-purpose ponds, installed underground drainage to serve 75 acres, planted 4,300 acres of winter and summer cover crop, and carried out seven pollution abatement practices.

Under the Rural Environmental Conservation Program (RECP), 30 county farmers, matching funds at least dollar for dollar, established $2,700 worth of conservation work on their farms. This work included planting 18 acres of permanent seedlings, 45 acres of forestry work, installed 7,400 linear feet of access road for woodland fire protection, and four diversions serving 18 acres.

The report said two long-term agreements were signed extending through 1976. Under these agreements two farmers established plans for work to be done during that period. The funds will be available as the work is completed.

This portion of the report was made by Mary Koelich, county executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Laurence Small of the board of supervisors, reported projects in Columbia, Coventry, and Mansfield have been approved and included in the Eastern Connecticut Resource Conservation and Development Project area.

In Columbia land drainage at Porter School will cost $20,000 and this cost will be equally shared by the town and the state.

In Coventry, roadside erosion control and critical area treatment to cost $19,500 will be paid partially by the town, which will pay $13,150 and the state will pay $6,350.

In Mansfield, a recreational pond now under construction at a total cost of $92,613 will be paid for with $70,000 from the government and $22,613 from the town.

The board of supervisors is made up of seven voters, one of whom is responsible for program development and application of promoting conservation programs in the county.

Financial support is maintained through contributions made by individuals, groups and towns who receive services.

Egg Hunt Set At Henry Park

The Vernon Recreation Department will sponsor its annual Easter Egg hunt on Good Friday, at Henry Park. The hunt will be in two divisions. Children in kindergarten and pre-schoolers are to be at the park at 10:30 a.m. and those in Grades 1-3, at 1:15 p.m.

The Recreation Department will be assisted by Vernon Brownie Troop 150 and Vernon Girl Scouts, cadet troops 11 and 29.

A six-foot "rabbit" will assist the Girl Scouts in hiding the eggs and will present a special prize to each child taking part in the hunt.

The department is making arrangements to hide 1,500 eggs which will be decorated by the Brownies. Among these eggs will be about 75 "golden" eggs which will be good for special prizes of Easter baskets.

Children attending should bring some type of container in which to carry the eggs they find. Only those in the proper age groups will be allowed to enter the area where the eggs are hidden. Parents and older brothers and sisters will be requested to stay behind the ropes.

King Faisal Assassinated

King Faisal

BEIRUT (UPI)—King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, the most moderate of Arab leaders and one of the world's most powerful monarchs, was assassinated today by a demented nephew in the midst of a Moslem religious ceremony.

His death threatened the Middle East with a new crisis that could have unforeseen effects on future oil prices.

Faisal—a world traveler who once tipped a Boston taxi driver with a $2,000 wristwatch—had been both prime minister and foreign minister. He was succeeded to the throne by his younger brother, Crown Prince Khalid, 62, who had served as first deputy prime minister.

Saudi Arabia's official Radio Riyadh, monitored in Beirut, said the 70-year-old Faisal was shot several times by his nephew Prince Faisal bin Musaed. The shooting occurred while the King, the spiritual leader of Saudi Arabia, was holding court on his gold upholstered chair in the mirrored hall of his palace on the occasion of the birthday of the Prophet Mohammed.

The broadcast said the prince was "mentally unbalanced, had acted on his own and was not driven by anyone." It said the prince approached the king to express his greetings and that "when he got near the king he fired several shots at his majesty and wounded him." Robert attendants, each bearing giant scimitars, apparently were too surprised to act.

A sobbing announcer said later Faisal died in a hospital of his wounds.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, a friend of the monarch who conferred with him only last Wednesday, rushed to the State Department the moment he heard the news. A State Department spokesman called the death a great loss to the American position in the Middle East.

U.S. military personnel in the Persian Gulf area already had been on ready status and the Pentagon said the assassination prompted no immediate change.

All radio stations in the Arab world interrupted their normal programs to announce Faisal's death and immediately switched to readings of the Koran, the holy book of Islam. Many went into official mourning, and a meeting of the Arab League Council in Cairo considered action against Israel was suspended.

The Arab nations had hailed Faisal as a leader of the oil producing states which imposed an embargo during the 1973 Middle East War, a move that dealt a devastating blow to the Western economy. Saudi is the third oil producing nation after the United States and the Soviet Union.

The oil embargo quadrupled oil prices and meant Saudi Arabia earned $29 billion last year by selling one-fifth of all the oil consumed by non-Communist countries.

The Western nations of Europe expressed fear for the future of their oil supplies and France expressed concern that the Arab market would increase tensions in the Middle East. The overriding fear in the West may be that who squandered billions on high living and succeeded by a left-leaning ruler over Israel, faced with a breakdown of the Kissinger negotiations with Egypt, also 1973. An official source called the murder a reminder of the instability of Arab regimes and warned that if a leftist regime took over in Saudi Arabia there could be a shift to what later became the Arabian-American Oil Company, more familiarly known as Aramco.

Faisal abolished slavery after gaining the throne and completely revamped Saudi Arabia's governmental structure. He used the oil riches to build Saudi Arabia, not himself, and opened roads and hospitals, spurred women's education, introduced television—and banned movies. He also restored diplomatic relations with Egypt. Ibn Saud had broken relations after he sent troops to Yemen to fight with the loyalists against rebels sponsored by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Faisal was a deeply ascetic, religious man, gaunt-faced, hawk-nosed, seldom seen in public. He always dressed in the flowing ceremonial robes of a desert prince.

Mayor Promises Action Tonight On Demand for Weiss Ouster

By SOL R. COHEN
Pro or con action definitely will be taken tonight on a motion seeking Town Manager Robert Weiss' resignation, Manchester Mayor John Thompson said.

This motion was tabled last Tuesday by a 5 to 4 vote, with Democrats Thompson, Pascal Prignano, Matt Moriarty Jr., Robert Price and Jack Goldberg voting to table; Republicans Vivian Ferguson, Jack Zisser and Hilary Gallagher voting by Democrat Phyllis Jackson was joined against tabling.

"Last week," explained Thompson, "we asked for more time to consider the charges—because of their serious nature. We've now had that time and we're ready to vote."

Tonight's meeting is at 7:30 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room. In the event of an overflow crowd, arrangements have been made to move the meeting to Woodruff Hall of Center Congregational Church.

The motion asking Weiss to resign was made by Mrs. Ferguson and seconded by Mrs. Jackson. It cites lack of board confidence in the manager.

Director Ferguson and Jackson, although they didn't split out a list of particulars, charged Weiss with violating the town's merit system in one instance and poor judgment and impropriety in another.

Specifically, they charged Weiss with tailoring the application specs for the position of personnel supervisor to fit the qualifications of Elizabeth Bauer, whom he appointed. The appointment has been withdrawn by him at her request.

In addition, they charged poor judgment and impropriety when Weiss permitted Rec Director Mel Siebold to teach at Post Junior College and Manchester Community College during daylight hours at pay and to collect $1,500 in annual fees for coaching the Manchester Rec Swim Team (an activity co-sponsored by the town) during nighttime hours.

Weiss repeatedly has denied the allegation he tailored the specs for personnel supervisor and has insisted he appointed Miss Bauer on the basis she finished tops in examinations by a three-man oral board.

He has defended his action in giving Siebold permission to teach on the explanation Siebold made to the town in evening rec programs.

By a 2 to 1 unanimous vote last Tuesday, the town directed Weiss to instruct Siebold to give up his MCC teaching job, effective immediately.

It postponed, pending more information from Manchester Rec Swim Team activities, a proposal to deposit all fees paid by club members in the town's General Fund and disburse payments for expenses in the same manner.

In reply to the request for more information, Stanley Hopperstead, president of the club, has furnished each director with a history of the club and an explanation of its fees.

The club, he explained, was conceived in October 1968 as a town activity with each family in the program paying a $5 per month fee. The program was conducted (and still is) at Manchester High School and Bennett Junior High School pools.

In October 1973, when the town decided it could no longer fund the program and pay the coaches from the fees, the program's Parents' Club agreed to take the fee to $7 per month per family and to pay coaches fees and all other expenses, with the town continuing to furnish the facilities.

At present, Hopperstead said, the club has 61 families (involving 96 children) in the program, with priority always given to Manchester residents.

He said Siebold is being paid $5 an hour for coaching and that he has been receiving about $3,000 a year. A substitute coach for him every Wednesday evening and at some meets also receives $5 an hour.

Some Directors Fear New Plan Will Lessen Control, Services

By MAL BARLOW
Losing its doctor and gaining another layer of government appeared to be the key fears of some town directors in the question of a two-town health district with Windsor.

Town directors met Monday night at the Municipal Building with the Windsor town council to discuss the issue.

Mayor Robert Smith of South Windsor helped get serious discussion started when he admitted his town wants and needs the health district.

"If you have some good reasons for not working together, let's lay them on the table," Mayor Smith told Manchester directors.

Manchester Mayor Jack Thompson prefaced his remarks by saying he is in favor of the district.

He employed Dr. (Alice) Turek less than two years ago," he said trying to bring out a complaint against the formation of the health district.

"We envisioned a full-time director given by a nurse practitioner who would only cost half the salary of a doctor. The nurse is trained to spot problems which are then referred to a doctor, he said.

Dr. Walter M. Schardt, a member of Manchester's advisory board of health, said his board is in favor of the district.

Dr. Schardt said he is behind a "desk." Dr. Schardt said, "She has great concern for people who are not being cared for."

"These physicals are not all that routine. Some children in this town never see a doctor."

"I don't want to see a doctor out of our school system," he said.

But he added that Dr. Turek's contact with the program of town physicals can continue and the district also be set up.

"Nothing but good can come out of this," Dr. Schardt said noting the large amounts of state aid for health districts.

Kraatz noted Manchester's current health budget is $112,162. The proposed budget for next year is $130,940. The district's budget cost to Manchester would be $127,000 minus about $45,600 in state funds. This means Manchester would pay $4,000 less next year in the district for $45,000 in services, Kraatz argued.

Directors Carl Zisser and Vivian Ferguson both spoke of the loss of control over the town's health services.

"If we don't want to do whatever the health district's board wants, we can get involved in a law suit," Mrs. Ferguson said.

Zisser said, "We gain only a few thousands by the state grant. But we lose autonomy."

"We are locked into this for at least three years," he added referring to the commitment the town must make when joining a health district.

Mayor Smith noted the five Manchester seats on the seven-position health district board proposed.

"You will get what you want," he said.

Dr. Schardt added, "I don't see that we'll give up control. The final okay on budgets and services comes from you."

A motion to reject membership in the health district was made March 4 by Mrs. Ferguson. Action on it was tabled pending Monday night's meeting.

A vote on the motion is now scheduled for the Tuesday, April 1 meeting of the Manchester directors.

Arabs Mourn Death of Faisal; West Shows Concern for Peace

By United Press International
The Moslem world mourned the death of a "pillar of Islam" today and Western nations wondered about the effect of the assassination of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia on the twin problems of oil and peace in the Middle East.

Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba and Libyan leader Col. Muammar Khadafi were celebrating the birthday of the Prophet Mohammed at the Tunisian city of Kairouan, one of Islam's holy places.

Radio Tunis broadcast the news of Faisal's death and said, "The Moslem nation is mourning. It has lost one of the pillars of Islam."

Egypt, which received financial help from Saudi Arabia in the Arab wars against Israel, said President Anwar Sadat will lead the Egyptian delegation to attend Faisal's funeral. The Middle East News Agency said Sadat telephoned the assassination of King Faisal and his brother Prince Sultan to convey Egypt's condolences.

In Western nations, the concern was about Middle East peace.

A State Department spokesman said the assassination could prove to be a "great loss to the United States" efforts in promoting peace in the Middle East.

In Vienna, Austrian Foreign Minister Erich Bock said, "I am shocked by the news of this criminal act. I only hope it will not spoil the continuation of Saudi Arabia's peaceful development."

French government officials expressed concern that the murder, coming two days after the collapse of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's peace mission, may dangerously increase tensions in the Middle East.

Faisal's death marks the disappearance of the head of one of the most pro-Western regimes in the Arab world, officials in Paris said.

French radio reports said the Saudi Arabia. He was the man who coined the phrase that one million Arabs should give their lives in order to destroy Israel."

Restitution Arranged For School Vandalism

Arrangements have been completed with the parents of the youths involved in the Highland Park vandalism for restitution for damages done to the school on Feb. 18.

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy told the Board of Education Wednesday night that the parents had made financial settlements.

The two youths involved are Mark Melley, 18, of 328 Ferguson Rd. and Michael R. Caldwell, 18, of 12 Alice Dr.

The final bill for damages was $2,826.11. Kennedy said this figure represents about a 500 reduction from the initial estimate because one motion picture projector was found to be repairable rather than having to be replaced.

The parents of one of the youths involved gave Dr. Kennedy a check for $1,463.06, which represents the complete payment for one-half of the damages.

The family of the other youth initially requested that he be allowed to work off his responsibility for restitution of one-half of the damages, said Kennedy.

Restitution Arranged For School Vandalism

He said he indicated this arrangement would be unsatisfactory to the school district.

Last Friday, Dr. Kennedy received a check for $1,018.05 from this family. He agreed to make arrangements for this youth to work off the remaining $450 of his debt.

Dr. Kennedy said he made these arrangements in light of the relative economic positions of the families involved and in consideration of what would be possible for restitution either by civil court action or insurance payments.

Dr. Kennedy said he has received support for these arrangements from the town council.

The $450 to be worked off by one of the youths is at the same rate the administration pays for like kind of part-time work done by students in the summer, said Dr. Kennedy.

This settlement, said Dr. Kennedy, represents completion of the restitution for the damages done in this case and is in conformance with policy of seeking restitution for all damages done to school property by acts of vandalism.

Dr. Kennedy commended the parents of the youths involved for their responsible actions in the matter of restitution for the damages done in this case and is in conformance with policy of seeking restitution for all damages done to school property by acts of vandalism.

The cases of Melley and Caldwell are scheduled to be heard today in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford.

Illing Has Jazz Assembly

Looking over what makes the sound of jazz are Glenn Thomas, left, and Bert Pina. Playing the vibraphone during a warm-up session is Robert Gatten, a member of the Contemporary Jazz Quintet of the Hartford Symphony Orchestra who performed at a jazz assembly Monday at Illing Junior High School. The event culminated a seventh and eighth grade study of the history of jazz. The students saw how today's jazz is intensified by the use of electronic instruments and the rhythms of Latin-American and rock music. The program was arranged by Illing's music department: Ralph MacCarone, Betty Lou Norden and Renee Germaine.

There's More to Brynner Than Just His Bald Head

By JUNE TOMPKINS
It bores Yul Brynner to talk about his bald head. He considers queries about it trite. If his fame in show business depended on his style of haircut, he would look for something else.

So said Yul Brynner during a press conference Monday at the Hartford Hilton where he is staying during his Busnell appearance this week in "Odyssey." (He said he has been shaving his head for 25 years.)

His black and white lattice-patterned tie was all that relieved his completely black business suit and shirt.

"I always wear this tie for the photographers' benefit so they can use it for focusing," he told the reporters present.

"Odyssey" opens tonight at the Busnell and plays through Sunday.

"It should be called 'An Instance in the Life of Odysseus,'" said Brynner, "for that's what the story is, not the whole Odyssey which would take ages to perform."

The musical play is contained in a two-hour one-act production. It opened last December on the West Coast. Brynner said it should reach the New York stage in late October.

Dr. Eversole is director of bands at the University of Montana and Jersey City State College before coming to UConn.

UConn Group To Perform

Music Professor James Eversole will lead the University of Connecticut Symphonic Wind Ensemble in a free concert of music at Jorgensen Auditorium Thursday at 8:15 p.m.

The program will include Dr. Eversole's transcription for concert band of a Bach chorale, along with selections by Debussy, and Handel.

Dr. Eversole, a UConn professor of music since 1967, is currently working on an opera based on an American subject.

Dr. Eversole was director of bands at the University of Montana and Jersey City State College before coming to UConn.

Star Trek Fans Form Club

Proof of the enthusiasm generated by the show comes at its conventions and lectures.

Leonard Nimoy, the Vulcan with pointed ears named "Mr. Spock" in the show, appeared recently at the University of Hartford to give a lecture. About 2,000 fans attended.

Weiss said, "Nimoy spoke of Star Trek's impact on the world of science fiction."

Over 10,000 Star Trekkers attended a four-day Star Trek convention in New York City in February, Weiss said.

Many Star Trekkers attended the four-day science fiction convention held last week at the University of Connecticut in Storrs. The whole first day was devoted to the TV show.

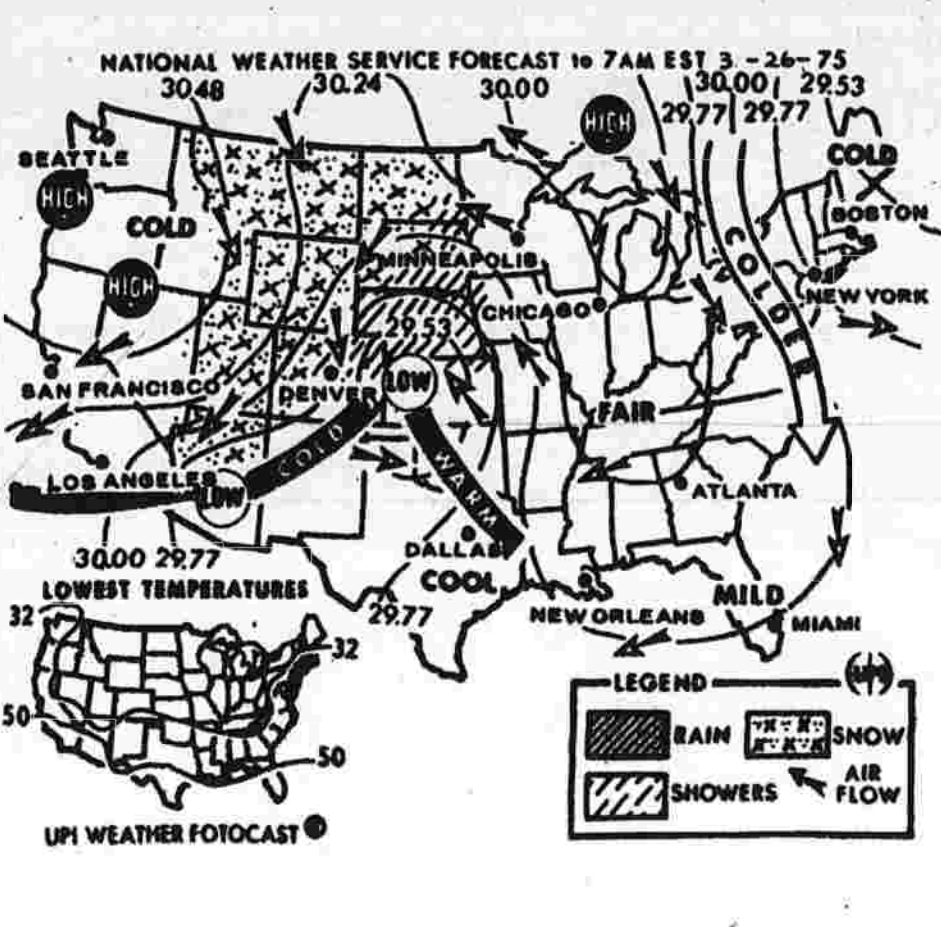

The Hartford club plans its first monthly newsletter, "Star Trek on the Air," Weiss said.

To join, Weiss said, people can send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Star Trek, P. O. Box 723, Manchester, Conn. 06040.

Your Pride Justified, Denison Tells Council

By FLOYD LARSON
"In my first three weeks here, I have found you and the council and the community more than justified in the pride you have in the staff and programs of Manchester and Middle College College."

Dr. Denison, president, told the MCC Regional Council Monday night. It was his first meeting since Dr. Denison assumed the presidency March 1.

"I have been especially pleased," he continued, "with the high caliber of the staff and its dedication to the college who are doing so much despite limited facilities. You can be and should be truly proud of the faculty."

"The remarks led to a discussion by several council members that were summarized by Dr. Merrill Rubinow of Manchester, a council member who said, 'I, for one, feel that Dr. Denison, with his outsider's point of view might be just what we need in these times. It appears likely we are faced with limited state help for a few years and perhaps our new president can help us impart to the community in some way that the action is here. We need vision and boldness if we are to meet the community college's goals.'"

Dr. Denison also pointed out that he felt it is necessary for the college to initiate a staff review process to evaluate performances and attempt to weed out some staffers who may not be up to the standards required. But other than this indication that there may be a few MCC staff members not up to his

Whiston Delays to Fall New Main St. Building

Merrill Whiston of Manchester hasn't changed his mind about building a new project successful.

"Downtown people complain about dilapidated buildings, but they don't do anything. And then they wonder why Main St. isn't perpetuating itself."

Whiston said, "I'm planning a one-story, 8,000-square foot building at 613-619 Main St., the site of the burned-out Sheridan Building."

The plans are drawn and ready to go," Whiston said, "but we're waiting for a better interest rate and better tenant interest."

"With a building of substantial cost, about $300,000, we can't put it up without proper financing and support."

The big drawback is finding tenants," Whiston said. "We'll have to do a hard sell, and I don't think that would be necessary."

Whiston, disappointed about the lack of tenant interest so far, criticized downtown professional people and businessmen for their complaining about the deteriorating downtown area and their reluctance to help make a new project successful.

Whiston is sole stockholder in Multi-Circuits, whose chief business is the manufacture of printed circuit boards.

The 613-619 Main St. property, purchased by Multi-Circuits last November for about $18,000, was the site of the Sheridan Building, which was severely damaged in an October 1971 fire. The building was razed later.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Sharing The Blame

It is to be expected in the wake of the breakdown of negotiations between Israel and Egypt, despite the efforts of U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, that each side blames the other. But if we go beyond the automatic blame making stage we might find it partially the fault of this nation also. For example, Israeli insistence on a guaranteed assurance from Egypt that it would not attack Israel may seem to be a bit bullheaded. But, what was the alternative? Several months ago, it was suggested that the United States might be the guarantor of Israel's security but this was rejected by Israel. Why? Could it have been that Israeli leaders anticipated American vacillation in the Far East and saw ominous threats to their future in the action by Congress in cutting off military aid to Turkey but not Greece because of the Cyprus situation? Could it be the real reason Israel demands a guarantee from Egypt is that it does not relish the idea of becoming the Middle East's equivalent of Cambodia? This is not to say the United States must remain in Cambodia or South Vietnam keeping its credibility for forever its word is to be maintained. The credibility comes not from disengaging ourselves from a losing proposition in which there are valid reasons to change our policy but the manner in which it is taking place. The active intervention of Congress into making foreign policy, as it did in the case of Turkish aid and is currently doing in the case of Cambodian aid is dictating cut-off dates, casts a shadow on any commitment the administration might try to make in the Mideast to accomplish a peace settlement. Despite the current display of bipartisanship for Dr. Kissinger's efforts,

Passover Significance Endures

By David Hendin

Passover is probably the most beloved of all Jewish festivals. This holiday (the first night of which is March 26) celebrates freedom — the value most cherished among Jews, indeed for all men, for thousands of years. Passover is thus referred to as "The Festival of Liberation." The heart of the Passover celebration is the Seder dinner. The feast is a religious service held in the home, and all family members participate. Aside from traditional dishes and unleavened bread, called matzo, the mainstay of the Seder (which means "order" in Hebrew) is the epic tale of the enslavement of the Jews in Egypt by the Pharaohs, and the Jews' subsequent escape to a 40-year wandering and then arrival in the promised land. The name Passover comes from the traditional belief that God had to bring 10 plagues on the Egyptians before they would consent to let the Jews out of bondage. Each plague was more severe than the last, but the Egyptians refused to leave the Jewish people. Finally, the 10th plague, the killing of the firstborn, was brought upon the Egyptians. To signal the Angel of Death to spare their firstborn, Jews were instructed to place an "X" in lamb's blood on their doors. The Angel of Death noted the markings and passed over the Jewish homes, thus the holiday became known as Passover. The tale is told every during the holiday as instructed in the Talmud, authoritative ancient book of Jewish tradition, which calls upon all fathers at Passover to "recite the story to your son, saying, 'I am telling you this because of what the Lord did for me when I came out of Egypt.'" This year's Passover celebration may be more significant than many in the past. A striking parallel may be drawn between the ancient Jews seeking freedom from Pharaoh, and the Jews seeking freedom from the oppressive governments of Syria and the Soviet Union. The ancient Jews wandered 40 years in the desert. Today's Soviet and Syrian Jews have little luxury of wandering anywhere — even within their own borders. The movements are restricted and they are under police surveillance. They are subject to severe economic restrictions, special identification cards marked with the word "Jew," denial of higher education and the right to practice their chosen professions. In ancient times the promised land was largely unoccupied. Today it is a modern nation. It is estimated that it costs more than $25,000 to bring a Soviet Jew to Israel and help him become established. The cost is largely borne by citizens of the world, Jews and non-Jews alike. During the Seder service for the past several years many families have recited special prayers for the oppressed Jews of the modern world. This year many more will do the same. The festive Passover meal will end with children and their parents singing medieval Hebrew nursery rhymes. This additional participation by the youngsters is not unintentional, for Passover is basically a festival for children. It is a holiday designed to help them learn about God and cherish the basic rights of equality and freedom, rights celebrated not only for Jews but for all men of all races and religions.

More for Our Billion

Reports that the federal government will be spending $1 billion a day in the 1976 fiscal year have been exaggerated. Based on the proposed budget, the actual rate of spending, says the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, will be $1 billion every 25 hours.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

- How To Raise A Crook
1. Begin from infancy to give the child everything he wants. The way he will grow up to believe that the world owes him a living.
2. When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. He will encourage him to leave out phrases that will blow the top off your head later.
3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is eighteen and then let him decide for himself.
4. Avoid the use of the word "wrong." It may develop a guilt complex. This will condition him to believe later that he is arrested for stealing a car when he is persecuted.
5. Pick up anything he leaves lying around — books, shoes, clothing. Do everything for him so he will be experienced in throwing the responsibility onto others.

Immature Thinking

To the editor:
Your recent editorial about the resignation motion puts forth the theory that we have to keep the town manager, no matter how bad, in order to prevent a future fight against the strong mayor form of government. It seems to me this is very immature and illogical thinking, because each issue should be decided on its own merits. In fact, if anything would help the strong mayor government, it would be the continuation of support for a town manager who is not doing a competent job. If the town manager form is the best government, it must have the ability to change and improve the system whenever necessary, otherwise it defeats its own purpose.
By what right do you dictate to the people what is the best form of government for them? Aren't citizens and taxpayers allowed any opinions? I thought this was still a Republic.
How does it come a "Get Weiss Movement" to list facts, figures and ask questions? We can question the President of the United States and force his removal from office when there is suspicion of wrong doing but our town manager is not so amenable and an open-minded administrator. We make no judgment on the two charges lodged against Mr. Weiss but we cannot believe he would deliver a sermon and these things were in my mind.

Endorses Weiss

To the editor and to the Manchester Board of Directors, and to the Citizens of Manchester:
The organization of the Handicapped, wish to take this time to make it known that we endorse keeping Bob Weiss as town manager. We do this because we believe that the town manager has realized with those of the heads of major corporations that you ignored one part that is not the same. When heads of major corporations make a mistake, they are also the owner, therefore they are paying the bill. The owner of the town's business is the taxpayer and the citizens are the shareholders. Also the one who pays the bill has the right to call the tune. This is supposed to be government of the people and by the people — "the people" should only be a select few.
In your business, if one of your department heads were given permission not to do his job and to earn money on your time, would you say you didn't mind? If one of your men created a job for a friend and they hired someone not qualified for the position would you pay the bill with no reprisals? If you found your help treating your business this way, would you trust them in the future?
Town government is big business and believe me no business can be run this way if it wants to stay in operation and neither can the town afford to be.
Mrs. W. White

Vote of Confidence

To the editor:
It appears that the members of the Board of Directors who asked for the town manager's resignation have not given the motion enough serious thought. Mrs. Jackson stated that "The charges are serious and well thought out" and yet they have both been resolved.
Both Bauer has asked Mr. Weiss to recede his appointment and to deny his answer. By a unanimous vote, the board has put an end to Mel Siebold's teaching career. The problems could not have been as serious and well thought out as Mrs. Jackson stated if they could both be resolved in the same night. It seems to me that the board has been very fair and has always had the interests of the town and the employees in his decisions.
As president of the Municipal Employees Group, which represents approximately 75 town employees, I have had a great deal of close contact with Mr. Weiss. These contracts have ranged from negotiating new contracts to settling grievances. I have found the manager to be very fair and has always had the interests of the town and the employees in his decisions.
One of his "weaknesses" is supposed to be in dealing with the employees. Let me assure everyone that Robert Weiss is no pushover as has been implied. In fact he has taken a hard approach on many occasions that went against the interests of the group I represent. I respect Mr. Weiss very much for his fairness and frankness. It makes it much easier to deal with a man who lets you know where you stand right at the onset of a meeting. Robert Weiss is such a man. If he knew that our proposals would be taken as a vote of confidence that the Board of Directors would not approve of these proposals then we were denied them. How can anyone state that he does not deal with the employees of the town effectively or that he doesn't have the best interests of the town in mind?
This whole horrendous episode started with the resignation of the Personnel Committee. In my opinion, as well as others, this was a mistake. It did more harm than good. The committee had hindered labor relations between the town and MEG more than once. Some of their decisions

Disturbed

To the editor:
I am very disturbed with the tactics and accusations which look place at the last town board meeting. It seems like a witch hunt was formed to get Town Manager Robert Weiss out.
I think we are very lucky in Manchester to have such a capable and honest man working for us. He has done many good things for our town. When one makes many decisions, one is apt to make some mistakes, but this certainly does not make for the latest treatment he has received. It would be a great loss for Manchester if Mr. Weiss would leave us.

"Sure, this one might make an interesting study, but is the subject RIDICULOUS enough?"

Open Forum

To the editor:
I very much regret that the resignation of the town manager is even being considered. Bob and his wife have been good neighbors who have been doing kind things for other people ever since they came to Manchester. As a public servant, he (Mr. Weiss) has kept in touch with every project suggested for the good of the town whether large or small. The editorial of March 21 entitled, "Let Resignation Die," expresses my feelings exactly.

Objective Appraisal

Dear sir:
General Manager Weiss may or may not have done wrong. However, many of us taxpayers believe that an objective appraisal of his performance would definitely indicate that the manager's rights far outweigh his wrongs.

Disagree

To the editor:
I wish to publicly express my dismay over the attack on our town manager by certain members of the Board of Directors.
In my role as an educator and as a member of many community organizations, I have had numerous occasions to discuss matters with Mr. Weiss. I have always been grateful for his intelligent concern and cooperation. I hope there will be an outpouring of citizen support for our town manager and that these disgraceful proceedings will be ended promptly.

State Bank Lists a Bad Year

The depressed national economy, inflation and recession added up to a bad year for the Manchester State Bank in 1974, Chairman Andrew Anasidi Jr. has announced. The bank finished the year with a loss of $201,739 despite a record year for profits from bank operations. Anasidi said in his report to stockholders that the bank's losses were due to a combination of factors. "The chain of events during the past few years lends little to little criticism. I believe that the 'Golden Rule' ('do unto others as you would have them do unto you') is very appropriate in this matter. I would expect others to respect the responsibilities assigned to me and make me accountable for my actions. All of us have, from one time to another, had to pay for mistakes we have made. It is in this spirit of charity that I support those town directors who are attempting to make government in Manchester accountable to the people. Unless we exercise caution remains essential. Of Consumer Concern Here's State Advice On Giving to Charity

By State Department Of Consumer Protection
The Connecticut law concerning Solicitation of Charitable Funds, administered by the Consumer Protection Department, offers consumers some protection with respect to their charitable donations, but personal caution remains essential.
Some general guidelines for charity giving are listed:
Don't contribute without having the solicitor show identification for himself and the charity. Generally charities supply cards or letters for identification purposes.
Avoid contributing to a charity you know nothing about. If you don't allow yourself to be pressured into making a contribution. If you do contribute, do it by check if possible.
Don't feel you have to make a contribution on the spot; ask for literature about the organization soliciting the check if it is unknown to you.
Don't let the name of a charity confuse you; ask for literature about the organization which will have a reassuring, hard luck story for your personal satisfaction, find out from the charity how it benefits those for whom it is collecting funds.
The Solicitation of Charitable Funds Act requires charities soliciting in this state to register with the Consumer Protection Department. Exemptions from registration are listed in the statutes under 17 classes of organizations and include public libraries, veterans' organizations and auxiliaries, volunteer fire companies, historical societies and certain others.
Charities covered by the Connecticut law are required to register with the Consumer Protection Department annually. Financial reports are required from them three months after the close of the fiscal year. The annual report to the department consists of a financial statement and a balance sheet indicating the

Medi-Cues

BURSITIS
Bursitis derives its name from the Latin word bursa, meaning purse. Medically, a bursa is a thin sac or pouch located around a joint, and containing a small amount of lubricating fluid. The purpose is to aid in making joint movement smooth and gliding. This delicate structure is subject to painful inflammation - bursitis.
The most common cause is excessive or improper use of the adjacent joint. It is so common that it has put "Tennis Elbow" and "Housemaid's Knee" into the language. However, the bursa deep in the shoulder are the most commonly affected.
Primary treatment is complete rest for the joint in a sling or on pillows. That is easier prescribed than followed. The doctor has other means for relief without immobilization.

The Bolton Junior Women's Club will hold its third annual Easter Egg Hunt Saturday at 1 p.m. at Herrick Memorial Park.

The hunt is for children up to 10 years of age. It is for Bolton children only.

The Bolton Volunteer Fire Department is donating the eggs and they will be cooked by Fiano's. The St. Maurice Council Knights of Columbus is donating candy.

Help is also needed from club members in dyeing the eggs on Friday, March 22 and in hiding the eggs Saturday morning.

Help is also needed in supervising the children during the hunt.

Those who can offer help are asked to contact Mrs. Andrew Pinto.

School Comments
In his monthly report to Board of Education members Raymond Allen, superintendent of schools, shared his observations relative to everyday functioning of the Bolton school system.

Allen said the administrators, professional staff, secretarial, custodial and maintenance staffs are all working hard and doing a good job.

He said information coming from the community gives him the impression it is becoming more and more aware of the schools are here to serve their children in the best way they possible can.

Allen said, "With that conviction on the part of the community and with the conviction we can only do our best in the schools if we have the support and cooperation of the total community we see more and more of the kind of support we need."

The superintendent said many teachers and administrators are communicating both verbally and in written form to parents, not only when there is misbehavior or something negative to discuss, but also concerning

Dump Issues Before Town

There will be a special Town Meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Andover Elementary School. The town meeting was originally scheduled for Thursday night but the Board of Selectmen changed it to Wednesday.

Residents will hear a report from the disposal area study committee after which they will vote on whether or not the Board of Selectmen should notify Bolton that its use of the area will cease no later than June 30, 1976.

Residents will be asked to authorize the selectmen to contact with Bolton for its use of the area from July 1, 1976 through June 30, 1976 at a fixed cost to be arrived at by the selectmen and to renew the contract each year unless the selectmen deem it is not in the best interest of the town or the town withdraws authority from the selectmen.

Those present at the town meeting will be asked to approve amending certain ordinances pertaining to the disposal area.

Residents will hear a report from the law enforcement study committee after which they will be asked to adopt an ordinance providing for the appointment of constables by the first selectman in lieu of constables being elected.

Townpeople are going to be asked to request the Board of Finance make a study of all salaries of elected officials.

Residents will be asked to approve not more than $8,000 for an emergency medical care vehicle, paid for out of revenue-sharing funds.

Residents will be asked to approve an additional appropriation of $8,000 to the present fiscal budget for the purchase of a bulldozer.

The item has not yet been approved by the Board of Finance and unless it is, it cannot be acted upon at the town meeting.

Residents will also be asked to approve an additional appropriation of $500 to the present fiscal budget for use of a recreational field.

David Yeomans, first selectman, was expected to ask the Board of Finance to reconsider its decision against purchase of a new rented bulldozer for the town because of a vote.

The finance board met in executive session Monday to discuss the requested budgets for the town.

This morning, John Yeomans, chairman of the board, said, "Nothing was done about the bulldozer, nothing was said really."

Half Million Out In Unpaid Taxes

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnel
Correspondent
643-1364

South Windsor officials are still attempting to collect some $385,497 in unpaid taxes before the fiscal year ends June 30.

Big property and business owners are the holdouts of officials said, and in all some $252,138 in total revenues are owed the town under one figure of the 1974 law and $133,359 in taxes owed prior to Jan. 1, 1974. This added to the $385,497 brings the total to more than a half-million dollars.

This figure is compared to $305,000 in outstanding revenue at this time last year, said Edward Moniz, collector of revenue for South Windsor.

He said about $180,000 more is due this year than was due at this time last year and that the town is now trying to contact the large taxpayers in arrears before it sends out delinquent tax notices by April 4.

After that date the town will issue tax warrants and place liens against properties.

The more outstanding tax owners are:

Achenbach Realty, $23,000; Sal Amato, Inc. (Pleasant Valley Apartments), $87,000; Lippman Builders, $6,200; A.F. Peaslee Inc., $5,872.

Both Amato and Peaslee are in bankruptcy, Moniz said.

Initially Achenbach owed $46,000, but paid the first half of it in December, Moniz said.

The problem is that the town actually winds up waiting for its money because its interest penalty rate is much lower than a bank's. Therefore, the bank gets its loan paid back faster than the town does.

State Scholars
Twenty-four South Windsor High School seniors have been named State of Connecticut Scholars for 1975.

The students are: Elizabeth Bohlys, Francis Demarais, Mary Dillon, Paul Doocy, Barbara Edlund, Lynn Erenas, John Fisher, Paul Galetta, Raisa Heikoff and Kathryn Krepcio.

Also, Clifford Lange, Katherine Larive, Mary McCarthy, Clifford Richardson, Randall Sabia, Gail Sancho, Jolly Schubert, Jill Shavel, Rosemary Simon, Karen Stone, Mark Staiger, Nancy Uzemblo, Thomas Walek and Judith Willis.

Kowalski Tells Stand On Constable Dispute

ANDOVER
Donna Holland
Correspondent
646-0375

Andover's three constables, led by Chief Constable William Kowalski, are asking townpeople tomorrow to reject a recommendation of the law enforcement committee that constables be appointed rather than elected.

Calling the issue "a small part of government of the people, by the people, and for the people," Kowalski issued a statement about the history of the controversy between the constables and the selectmen.

Arguing that the selectmen and the majority on the law enforcement committee are working toward the appointment of a resident state trooper, Kowalski said the residents of Andover have twice turned down such a proposition.

Kowalski said the selectmen became upset by that decision and by the townspeople's vote to purchase and equip a cruiser for the constables.

Since that vote, Kowalski said, the selectmen have had differences of opinion.

One of the differences involved the time the cruiser was purchased, Kowalski contends the purchase was delayed five months which resulted in a higher cost.

Kowalski also argues that the selectmen claim credit for submitting to the townspeople the current year's budget which provides for the cruiser when, in fact, it was the constables' proposal.

Another source of controversy, according to Kowalski, is over use of the cruiser. He said it should be used only for patrol.

He said First Selectman David Yeomans requested keys to the cruiser, saying it should be available for other municipal business.

Another point of contention, according to Kowalski, was that Yeomans told him he should not drive the town vehicle unless he had a letter from a doctor indicating his health would permit driving.

Later Kowalski said Yeomans handed him a letter telling him not to drive his own car on a public highway because he was a hazard on the road and not to drive any vehicle on the highway in performance of town business.

Kowalski said, "The active constables in town are doing a very good job of taking care of the cruiser in all respects and we don't need help from the selectmen or law enforcement committee who know absolutely nothing about what the constables are doing for the town."

Tomorrow night's meeting is scheduled for 8 at Andover Elementary School.

Ali Toys with Wepner Before Registering TKO

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali said, "I did enough to get by," did just that Monday night in his heavyweight title fight here.

Ali toyed with challenger Chuck Wepner for most of the 15 rounds of his title fight before battering the 6-foot-8, 225-pound luger salesman from Bayonne, N.J., to the canvas in the last 30 seconds of the 15th round, winning on a technical knockout, before 14,875 fans and a closed circuit television audience.

"All then lay on the floor of the ring before getting up and leaving."

"There were too many fools jumping into the ring, I laid down on purpose," Ali said.

Ali said he would next fight European champion Joe

Bagner, then maybe meet Joe Frazier again. "If he can come up with $10 million."

Ali, who was ahead on a card of the two official scorers and referee Tony Perez, decked Wepner with a right to the jaw and Perez then stopped the fight.

"I had to stop it," said Perez. "He was out. I counted to nine and he fell back down again."

Perez said he stopped the fight with only 19 seconds remaining because, "I would have felt I would have been responsible for something disgraceful" if he had let it continue.

Ali fought much of the fight on the ropes, as he did against George Foreman in Africa.

"I laid on the ropes and let him do his thing," said Ali. "I let him tire me out. Only he didn't tire so quickly."

Ali hammered away at Wepner's face with a quick left jab and scored heavily with several combinations. Wepner ended the fight with one eye swollen shut, the other eye cut and a bloody nose.

Wepner attempted to keep in close to Ali and pound at the body. However, he did little apparent damage.

"I did enough to get by," said Ali. "You don't see any cuts or scratches."

Ali said Wepner, who picked up $100,000 for the fight while Ali earned $1.5 million, was a "good fighter."

"He was better than you (the media) gave him credit. Foreman was easier, Norton was easier."

Ali also complained about what he called Wepner's rabbit punches and said Perez allowed Wepner to get away with them.

"He (Wepner) hit me on the head, then he (Perez) yelled at me," said Ali. "He is a dirty referee. I never want him to referee another one of my fights."

Wepner indicated he would like to fight Ali again.

"I made a couple of mistakes in the fight I would like to fix up," said Wepner. "Maybe I was not getting off soon enough, trying too hard to land that right hand, and, yeah, I'd duck a little more."

"He's a great champion, a great fighter. I feel no shame to lose to a man of his stature. How many guys do you know who went 15 rounds with Muhammad Ali and who were still in there punching at the end."

Tough Customers

Literally beating its opponent in the Midwest Regional final of the NCAA Tournament was the University of Kentucky. The Wildcats physically punished previously unbeaten and No. 1 ranked Indiana to advance to the semifinals March 29 in San Diego.

Kentucky had motivation on its side against Indiana. The Hoosiers in the third game of the year trounced the boys from the Bluegrass State and might have taken them too lightly. But Kentucky under Coach Joe B. Hall has turned things around while Indiana lost 6-7 Scott May with a broken arm, a handicap which proved too much to overcome last Saturday.

The other three clubs which advanced to San Diego are surprising Syracuse, Louisville and (who else) UCLA. The Bruins meshed against Arizona State while Louisville dented Maryland to death to advance. Syracuse, not supposed to be that good, is good enough however to be supported by the elite.

The semifinals in San Diego pit Syracuse and Kentucky in one battle and the teacher and pupil in the other. Veteran Johnny Wooden handles the UCLA reins while Dennis Crum, who learned plenty under Wooden, guides Louisville's fortunes. The latter should be an interesting matchup.

Each club packs a potent lineup, as indicated by the weekend scores. But it will be defense and desire which should decide the issue. Going on this assumption, it should be Kentucky over UCLA for the national championship. The Bruins have the horses but the Wildcats have the mules and as everybody knows, a mule packs a harder wallop than a horse.

Keen Observation

Although the New England Whalers are currently in a mild slump, it is one team to watch out for in the WHA playoffs. That's the observation made by the Houston Aeros' Gordie Howe.

"They (the Whalers) aren't healthy now. I could see that my old roommate Webby (Tom Webster) is playing hurt. When the Whalers get healthy, they're the team we're going to have to worry about," the former NHL star observed.

Despite the string of losses, New England is still very much alive in its fight for the playoff position. The Whalers have 81 points compared to Quebec's 84. Houston has a virtually unreachable 98 points. Teams with the most points get the favorable home ice advantage and that's what New England is shooting for.

Two University of Connecticut basketball stars will receive awards at the New England College Basketball Awards Banquet to be held April 3 at the Sheraton-Lincoln Inn in Worcester. Sophomore Tony Hanson will be honored for his selection to the All-New England Division I team and Joe Whetton, freshman out of East Catholic, will receive an award for being New England Division I statistical leader in free throw percentage. John McKeon, a standout on the diamond at East Catholic, is a member of the Dartmouth College varsity baseball team. McKeon, a sophomore, is a southpaw winning first baseman. The Town of Manchester has a strong UConn flavor. There are 1,131 alumni and 554 students presently residing here according to figures released by Joe Soltys, UConn sports information director. Phil Levesque, a 6-7 forward from South Windsor, has been named co-captain of the 1975-76 University of Hartford basketball team. Levesque is also a pitcher on the Hawks' diamond squad.

New England Division I Blaney Selected Top Coach

BOSTON (UPI) — George Blaney, a former star at Holy Cross, has been named UPI New England Division I ball coach of the year in Division I for guiding his alma mater to its best season in 13 years.

Blaney, who had led the Crusaders to their last playoff berth in 1961 as a player, coached Holy Cross to a 24-8 season in 1974-75 that included a berth in the ECAC regional playoffs.

The 36-year-old coach's success came in his third year at Holy Cross after three seasons at Dartmouth. Blaney, I've ever had," said Blaney who played on the Crusaders' last 20-game winning squad that won the National Invitational Tournament in 1961.

Champ Muhammad Ali stands over foe Chuck Wepner heads to canvas in 15th round.

Ali Wrong About Foe

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — There sat the champ, Muhammad Ali, cocky as ever, trying to muster enough energy to defend his world heavyweight title against Chuck Wepner, the notorious bleeder.

Ali, who hardly trained for his bout with Wepner, was just getting warmed up in his dressing room before Monday night's travesty. He needed all the encouragement he could get, even if most of it came from himself.

The titleholder, who expected the liquor salesman to be such a hard-nose. But he was.

"He kept coming back," Dundee said of Wepner. "He used every trick in the book against Muhammad, including trying to kick him with his right leg. You gotta give the guy credit."

"Our man gave Ali a damn good fight, the kind of fight he never expected," trainer Al Braverman said. "He needed all the encouragement he could get, even if most of it came from himself."

Norton Slugs Quarry Out of Fight Game

Norton, a devout practitioner of positive thinking, used a dozen or so left jabs to deliver a fistful of negative thoughts to Quarry, who was battered into retirement Monday night after suffering a fifth-round technical knockout in their scheduled 12-round elimination bout at Madison Square Garden.

"I'm never gonna get cut again in the ring," said Quarry, whose face was a bloody pulp when referee Johnny LoBanca stopped the one-sided affair at 2:29 of the fifth round.

Eight stitches were needed to close the cut inflicted over Quarry's right eye by Norton in the third round. The 29-year-old California Irishman also was bleeding from cuts over his nose and in his mouth while his left eye was swollen shut.

White Norton, unmarked except for some of his opponent's blood which had rubbed off on parts of his body and around the waistband of his blue velvet trunks, put in his claim for a third and "rubber" match with champion Muhammad Ali. Quarry was being consoling by his handlers and his mother, who leaned over her son in the dressing room and kissed him.

A photographer was snapping pictures of Quarry while he was being administered to by a doctor and the beaten fighter warned the picture taker, "you better stop right now before I take a swing at you. I'd like to go out with a little dignity."

"I see no future for him in the ring," said Quarry's manager, Gil the heavyweights title picture and left perennial contender Jerry Quarry with a face only a mother could love.

Norton, a devout practitioner of positive thinking, used a dozen or so left jabs to deliver a fistful of negative thoughts to Quarry, who was battered into retirement Monday night after suffering a fifth-round technical knockout in their scheduled 12-round elimination bout at Madison Square Garden.

Eight stitches were needed to close the cut inflicted over Quarry's right eye by Norton in the third round. The 29-year-old California Irishman also was bleeding from cuts over his nose and in his mouth while his left eye was swollen shut.

White Norton, unmarked except for some of his opponent's blood which had rubbed off on parts of his body and around the waistband of his blue velvet trunks, put in his claim for a third and "rubber" match with champion Muhammad Ali. Board Hears Plea for Extra Teacher

By JUNE TOMPKINS

A plea for an extra teacher at the Kenney St. School was heard by the Board of Education Monday night during a public comment session which preceded the regular meeting of the school.

Mrs. Marie McGuire of 580 Wetherell St. asked the board to consider a fourth grade teacher next year to accommodate the increased enrollment in that class.

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy said the board's financial resources would be known until May when the final approved budget will be released.

Those present at the comment session were reminded of the public hearing on the proposed school budget to be held April 7 at 8 p.m. in the Wadswell School. At this time, Dr. Kennedy said, the Board of Directors will listen to the public's comments in support of the proposed school budget.

During the superintendent's progress report on the Kenney and Filling Junior High School building projects, Dr.

Kennedy told the board the contractors have moved into the old trade school building. It should be completed by early June, he said.

Plans are for the contractors to move into the Barnard Building by the end of this school year, said Dr. Kennedy. Completion of the new building at Benet is expected by the beginning of school next September.

At Filling, 90 per cent of the steel work on new construction is completed, said Dr. Kennedy. The latest completion date is March 1, 1976, he said.

Acting on a proposal by Paul Greenberg, chairman of the building and sites committee, the board authorized the committee and administration to work with the town citizens and civic groups on a beautification program on the grounds at Benet.

In other business, the board voted to request the Board of Directors to authorize Dr. Kennedy to make application for reimbursement for the purchase and installation of an intra-school communication system for Bentley School for the approximate cost of $8,500.

The board approved five personnel actions.

The resignation of Mrs. Miriam Kelleys, a former teacher at Wadswell School for six years, was approved. She plans to retire.

Leaves of absence were granted to the following for child rearing purposes:

- Mrs. Jean Lambert, a social studies teacher at Benet Junior High School for 7 1/2 years.
- Mrs. Nancy Clon, a second grade teacher at Bowers School for four years.
- Mrs. M. Lynn Space, a math teacher at Benet Junior High School for four years.

Mrs. Karen Follett has been appointed to teach business education at the Manchester High School, effective immediately. She received her B.S. degree from Central Connecticut State College and is doing graduate work at Trinity College. She has been teaching at Southington for the past year and a half. She lives in Plainville.

Budget Not Out of Line: Thomas

By JUNE TOMPKINS

"The total dollars we have asked for is not out of line," said Allan Thomas, chairman of the Board of Directors, when he addressed the Board of Directors Monday night.

The school board met with the directors in a last effort to convince them the school board's budget should be accepted.

The school board submitted a budget of $13,320,903 in February.

Town Manager Robert Weiss cut $118,400 from it in his budget proposal to the directors. The last week, Mr. Weiss' proposal is still $1,102,500 above the current school budget of $12,100,000. It is nearly 10 per cent higher.

Mr. Weiss has through Wednesday to submit the budget of the rest of the town to the directors.

The directors have to April 7 to hold a public hearing on all the budgets. They have until May 7 to adopt their own budget and tax rates to pay for it.

About the tax rate, John Yavis, chairman of the school board's finance committee, said the full board budget would not add 3 1/2 mills. This is the hike the town would need to cover the nearly 10 per cent higher school budget.

Increased school funds from state and federal grants may keep the mill hike less than three mills, he said. He is hoping for even better, he said.

Thomas said, "There are so many unknowns in our state, in our economy."

Monday night's session was the second joint session between the boards on the school budget. The first was held March 6.

The directors do not say how many of them will vote on the school budget at either session.

High Court Dismisses Abortion Conviction

By JUNE TOMPKINS

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Supreme Court today dismissed the attempted abortion procurement conviction of a Bridgeport man who was originally charged with murder in the 1969 abortion death of a woman.

The court said the conviction of Patrick W. Menillo, 46, on one count of attempting to procure an abortion was obtained under Connecticut abortion statutes which are void and void as a result of the historic U.S. Supreme Court decision of Jan. 22, 1973.

The case was argued in attention in legal and judicial circles when the Connecticut Supreme Court ruled in a 1970 precedent-setting decision that persons charged with capital crimes must apply for bail and "void" as a result of the historic U.S. Supreme Court decision of Jan. 22, 1973.

Grasso Says Assembly Morally Obligated To Balance Budget

By JUNE TOMPKINS

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today that the legislature has a moral obligation to return a balanced budget for next year.

Mrs. Grasso, also a Democrat, told lawmakers that in the past lawmakers have been present in the legislature with overly optimistic estimates of revenue. The governor is required to present the lawmakers with a balanced spending program in her budget message.

"There is a very real moral obligation," she said. "What is traditional is that revenue estimates have become inflated."

On another matter, Mrs. Grasso said she will meet with her finance committee, Jay O. Tepper, and legislative leaders on what steps can be taken to reimburse communities for taxes lost on low-income housing.

Leaders in New Haven and Hartford have complained that the state has failed to pay more than $1 million in payments in lieu of taxes, and other communities are due money as well.

Under the program, the state reimburses communities about $50 per housing unit.

Mrs. Grasso said she did not ask legislative leaders to make sure that public hearings were held on several measures to limit the scope of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling permitting abortions.

The legislature's Public Health and Safety Committee, under prodding by Senate President Pro Tempore Joseph J. Fasino, D-Hartford, brought eight bills up for a hearing Monday.

Although the committee had decided not to hold hearings, the Right to Life Committee put heavy pressure on lawmakers to air the issue.
