OPINION

Yes, They Will Go Away

When you were young and a neighborhood bully was picking on a younger brother or sister the reaction was immediate and almost instinctive. You went to the rescue, usually in a red rage, and corrected that situation in vehement fashion.

America used to be like that. It was the land of the underdog. People automatically pulled for the downtrodden, the ones with the least chance of success. We were a nation of warm hearts. Today we might be called suckers.

Something happened. We became a nation of people who didn't want to get involved. What was happening was none of our business unless it touched us personally. It became a day when the philosophy might be expressed, "let him take care of himself."

There was revolution a few years ago when Kitty Genovese was stabbed to death on the streets of Brooklyn and neighbors heard her screams, even looked out of the windows, but did nothing. It wasn't any of their business.

Several months back a woman driving on a mountainous California road went over an embankment. She lay trapped in her car for several days. A man walking in the area answered her call for help. He told her that "any woman who was driving on that road deserved what she got."

In Cambodia and South Vietnam, we are seeing a free people being overrun by a communist government, in spite of their valiant efforts.

Yet public opinion polls say that a majority of Americans are not in favor of extending more aid to them, even in the relatively small amount requested.

Have you seen the pictures of the Khmer Rouge rockets landing in market places in Phnom Penh, on civilian targets, and leaving those pitiful bundles of bloody clothing lying in the streets, where a few moments before there had been men and women.

As South Vietnam is slowly being swallowed by the Red dragon to the north, the streets of Saigon are filled with fleeing refugees, with no home, no food, and only a shred of hope. Cambodians, too, are fleeing into Saigon.

But a majority of the American people do not seem to want to continue to aid them. They say, it is none of our affair. We have done enough for them. No further involvement, even economically.

There is an attitude of, "the problem will go away if we just ignore it," and that is correct.

It will go away. And so will free Cambodia. And so will free South Vietnam. And so will those pitiful little people that we see pictured in their great distress.

They will go away and no problem to us...nor, sadly, to themselves, either.

'Medical Mechanization'

Americans may complain about the assembly-line aspects of modern medicine, as well as its cost, but it is precisely the trend toward "medical mechanization" that offers one of the best hopes for keeping costs down without reducing the quality of care.

The operating room, one of the hardest pressed areas of the hospital, has been successfully turning to automatic devices and disposable supplies.

For example, throwaway needles and syringes are replacing reusable that require expensive labor to clean and re-sterilize. Many hospitals are also switching to disposable scrub suits and surgical drapery, which substantially reduces laundering expenses.

The electric cautery, now widely accepted, cuts operating time and eliminates the use of dozens of expensive sutures. And where suturing is necessary, the surgical stapler has emerged as probably the most significant time and cost saver.

Surgical stapling instruments stitch automatically using tiny stainless steel staples. A surgeon can simultaneously place the equivalent of 86 silk sutures with one application, reducing operating time by as much as 50 per cent.

The use of surgical staplers is increasing rapidly. One maker estimates that close to 100 million patients have been "stapled" since it introduced its surgical stapling line in 1967.

With costs anywhere from $30 to $100 an hour to run an operating room today, any device that saves $40 or $50 an hour is good news. In addition, "stapled" patients are said to heal faster, have fewer postoperative complications and go home sooner.

A Soft Line On Prostitution?

WASHINGTON - Left-leaning Democratic liberals of the Bella Abzug persuasion left their recent Chicago conclave cheered by the opinion of well-known pollsters that the people are looking for radical answers to national problems. But is the country really ready for a Presidential candidate who takes a soft line on prostitution?

I ask because Pollster Louis Harris apparently based his conclusion on replies to certain questions his outfit asked of those interviewed.

Commentation

Dear Sir: In behalf of the citizens and businessmen of South Windsor, I want to thank the South Windsor Chamber of Commerce for appearing at the Interstate Commerce Commission meeting in Westfield, Mass. 21 to speak in opposition to the abandonment of the U.S. Railway Association Preliminary System Plan of the Highland Arms Route which runs through our most highly developed industrial land.

This is the type of work that goes unmentioned and which is so highly valuable to the community.

The South Windsor Chamber of Commerce, with Roland Aubin as director and William Barcomb as president, has spent many hours on this project and should be highly commended. Sometimes it is most important that citizens and groups such as the chamber speak out.

One retailer told us the other day that the purchase of shoes remains strong in the Easter fashion parade but as far as dresses, spring coats, sport coats, suits, are concerned, families simply don't dress up for Easter as they did in days past.

Not surprising, though, is that when it comes to shoes, women and children are usually the outfit first, and dad is the last if the budget permits. Oh well, the great majority of dads wouldn't want it any other way; that's what makes us so great. Right, ladies?

One thing hasn't changed, however. Easter is still viewed as the number two toy selling season by most manufacturers, with Christmas, of course, first. The demand for Easter baskets, stuffed animals and the like, remains strong.

Since we now have a law on the books that prohibits smoking in public buildings, if the proper signs are posted, we can't help but wonder why the legislature doesn't take a good, hard look at the number of schools that are still smoking areas for students to smoke. If one can't smoke during a meeting in the Town Hall Hearing Room, why should a student have the right to go to a designated area in a public school building and puff away to his or her contentment?

Just out is a study by the Newspaper Advertising Bureau which reveals that two out of 10 purchases made by readers looking through the classified or want ad section of newspapers came about not because readers were looking for an item but they came across it while going through the ads.

In 70 per cent of the families surveyed, one or more members read the classified section and the most popular column is miscellaneous for sale followed by, and it's not surprising, help wanted.

There is the prediction that while new car dealers may be worried over the plight of the automotive industry, readers looking through the classified or want ad section of newspapers came about not because readers were looking for an item but they came across it while going through the ads.

In 70 per cent of the families surveyed, one or more members read the classified section and the most popular column is miscellaneous for sale followed by, and it's not surprising, help wanted.

It seems that more people are striving to join the ranks of newspaper columnists these days. The latest is Nancy Thurmond, the 28-year-old wife of South Carolina's veteran Sen. Strom Thurmond. She is the mother of three children, ranging in ages from 10 months to four years, and she passes along tips on child rearing under a column titled "Mother's Medicine."

Something to think about: Work expands so as to fill the time available for its completion. The thing to be done swells in importance and complexity in a direct ratio with the time to be spent.

Diamond in the Rough One night a young boy stood under a street lamp swearing loudly. Dr. Homer Schultz, who believed in the limitless possibilities of boys when they are seeing under the rough exterior some great potentialities, he invited the boy to join his Sunday School class. The boy promised but failed to keep his word.

Dr. Schultz kept after him until finally he began to come; but he was still bull-headed and irrevocable. Constantly he asked questions that no one could answer. Behind these tricky questions the teacher saw great intelligence. Time passed.

Then one day Dr. Schultz asked, "How would you like to go to college?" "More than anything in the world," the fellow replied.

He became a student at Northwestern

University and made good. Later he became a professional ball player with the Chicago White Sox.

One Sunday afternoon he heard the Gospel preached in Chicago's Skid Row. He was convicted of sin and converted to Christ.

Who was the boy in whom the Sunday School teacher made such an investment? BILLY SUNDAY, the world-famous evangelist whose faithful preaching and ministry, resulted in multiplied thousands finding NEW LIFE in Christ.

Computer Aids Legislators in Preparing Budget

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) - New Hampshire legislators should have extra days to work on budget changes this year, financial crisis because the state computer will be doing the adding, subtracting and typing.

Under the old budgeting system, he explained, if one small item in an agency's budget was changed, that section, the whole agency budget, and ultimately the entire state budget had to be re-added by hand to find out what individual changes would mean.

What the FTC has proposed is a ban on television commercials for toys, prizes or other premiums connected with products where the giveaways are unrelated to the merits of the product or services being promoted.

The promotions covered would be television commercials only, and only those aimed at children under the age of 12 used on programs whose audience likely would be more than half children in that age group.

That all sounds familiar. But it looks as if nothing much is going to happen very soon to change it. The one area where something is happening -- at the Federal Trade Commission -- has been moving so slowly that we hate to guess how many months or even years it will be before you see results.

Board Approves Two RHS Trips

VERNON

The Vernon Board of Education Monday night granted permission to the Rockville High School football team to play a game at Dennis-Yarmouth High School in Yarmouth, Mass., next September.

The board also granted permission to the Rockville High School Band to make a side trip to Washington, D.C. in connection with a trip it will be making to Philadelphia, Pa., to perform in a concert.

The request for the football team's trip was made by Michael Simmons, head football coach. Permission from the board was needed because the team will be staying overnight.

The board was told that the only expense involved will be the $80 for the bus which is the amount spent for transportation for any away game. Other expenses, about $16 per student, will be met by the team itself and with a donation from the Booster Club.

Each team member will be paired off with a member of the Yarmouth team and will stay at that member's home and stay overnight. Following the game, which will be at 10 a.m. on Sept. 13, lunch will be served by the Dennis-Yarmouth Booster Club. The team will return to Vernon about 7 p.m. that night.

In connection with the request concerning the band, Edwin DeGroot, director, said he wrote several months ago to see if there was a possibility that the band could perform at the Kennedy Center of Performing Arts. He said he received a call last week asking if the band would like to come to put on a concert in the foyer of the Kennedy Center.

He said this concert could take the place of the practice session planned for before the Philadelphia concert. He said this would cost about $500, but the money is available because it was decided not to have the band participate in the adjudication festival to be in Danbury.

The board also voted to participate in the "Youth For Understanding" program and to waive tuition fees for up to three foreign students.

Superintendent Dr. Raymond Ramsdell said the request to participate in the program was made by Mrs. Glen Bonderman. It is a one-way student exchange program with students from foreign countries spending a year in school in this country but no reverse program for Rockville students.

Tuition fees run about $1,400 a year. Dr. Robert Linstone, assistant superintendent, said the exchange students would be counted in the enrollment toward the town's Average Daily Membership (ADM) grants.

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnell

Al Juster may be a famous hypnotist with many accomplishments to his list of credits, but he had at least one skeptic in his audience before the St. Margaret Mary's Ladies Guild recently.

Although I'm nowhere near an authority on hypnotism or hypnosis, Mr. Juster left me with too many doubts to feel I had truly been given a remarkable display of the subconscious.

For example, not one of the six volunteers he took from the audience fell under his spell — much to Mr. Juster's dismay — although he did say the conditions in the rectory basement were not ideal, with the telephone ringing and the improper lighting.

When one member of the audience allegedly fell under Mr. Juster's spell, the rest of his performance centered around her — his only subject.

However, one had doubts when, after being taken back to age 6, the woman was asked to write her name on a piece of paper.

I could not help but be confused by the fact that while regressed to first grade age, the woman printed, in a child-like manner, her married name, rather than her maiden name. Perhaps there is an explanation.

Mr. Juster put his subject through various acts — had her take her shoes off and not be able to find them, had her fall fast asleep when he shook her hand, decline to eat a green cookie (it was St. Patrick's Day) until she asked his permission, "Mo-o-o" when asked "have you seen the handsome bull?" and various other stunts.

I am still unclear as to what is necessary training for hypnotists as Mr. Juster's answer to the question left me with more doubts than before it was asked.

Because I had planned to take notes, I was careful not to fall under the hypnotic spell when group hypnosis was attempted. My fears were unfounded.

I did go to the performance with an open mind, as did all the 50 women in attendance. For the most part everyone raved about how wonderful Mr. Juster's act was and how much they loved the show.

As I said, Mr. Juster had at least one skeptic following his show, but one out of 50 is not a bad average.

ENERGY WORLD

By JERRY MCGINN SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Not many years ago, wildcat oil drillers and even more sophisticated oil company crews barred off that bothersome gas which separated them from a new strike of oil.

Who knows how many billion cubic feet later, the meddlesome, lighter-than-air stuff was found to be more useful than that.

It was harnessed into pipelines, and millions of persons now pay for it to light their stoves and heat their homes. The same natural gas that used to light the Texas skies at night is cooking more and more each year, with no foreseeable respite in sight.

So now, energy explorers are turning to the ground again, deep beneath the earth's crust, in hopes of finding more gushers — not of oil, but of scalding steam to turn the turbines no longer able to afford ever-rising costs of all fossil fuels.

The heat of the earth's interior — better known as geothermal energy, increases an average of one degree per 70 feet.

But throughout the world, thousands of geothermal 'deposits' — trapped pockets of percolating rocks and water heated from somewhere near the earth's epicenter — are closer to the earth's surface than the norm, waiting, as it were, for the right technology to be developed to harness them cheaply.

With the new national emphasis on energy self-sufficiency, the money to provide that technology is now available. One such series of deposits, the Salton Sea area of the Imperial Valley of California, has been subjected to the most extensive study of any undeveloped deposit in the country.

A 36-mile-square portion of deposits near Niland, Calif., is high in salinity (salt content) and is hotter than most known deposits, 570 degrees Fahrenheit.

Because of its uniqueness (hotter and saltier), scientists from University of California working the site under a $24 million Atomic Energy Commission grant, are developing the deposits in hopes of unraveling the difficulties involved in providing efficient geothermal energy for conversion to electricity.

"Preliminary results show a 60 per cent greater efficiency for making electricity than is now possible," said Dr. Roy Austin, Project Director for Livermore Laboratories. "Our aim is to tailor nozzles and turbine blades specifically for harnessing the total flow of liquid and steam from a geothermal well." Austin said current geothermal installations in Mexico and New Zealand use only the steam fraction to generate electricity. "They discard the liquid, which we plan to harness as well."

This hot, pressurized liquid contains more than one-third of the available energy, Austin said. "It is an extraction of the energy from the total geothermal flow, using equipment designed specifically for that purpose, that is expected to boost efficiency up to 60 per cent."

Austin said the preliminary results are from the first of five test chambers now on the line. The other four are expected to be in operation by summer.

A successful total flow system developed for this high-temperature and high saline source could easily be adapted to the more common low temperature low salt deposits.

Austin said a pioneer 10 megawatt power plant is expected to be on the line, churning generators, by 1979, powered solely by the infinite source of the earth's heat.

Vernon Discusses East School, Board to Decide Fate Monday

BARBARA RICHMOND

The Vernon Board of Education on Tuesday night to make a decision on how best to provide administrative space for the school system but the special meeting ended still leaving a big question mark.

Before adjourning, the board agreed to meet again next Monday and hopefully to answer all unanswered questions and to take a vote as to whether to renovate the old East School for that purpose or to plan to build a new building.

The special meeting was called to allow representatives of the Town Council, the Permanent Building Committee, and the general public to air their views on the subject and those views differed considerably.

At the start, William Houle, chairman of the school board, brought those present up-to-date on the subject. The East School was, up until last June, used for administrative business offices, and classrooms.

In June the board voted to terminate its use for classrooms and phase the students into other elementary schools. It then approved the concept of having all supervisory personnel under one roof. The 26 supervisors moved in during the summer.

Houle was chairman of the ad hoc committee appointed to study the administrative space problem and that committee recommended to the board that the East School be renovated as a permanent solution to administrative space. The board tabled action on the matter. The committee also studied alternate solutions such as building a new building or leasing space.

The committee has been working with the Manchester architectural firm of Lawrence & Associates and that firm has estimated that the cost of renovating East School would be about $120,000 exclusive of fees and any new equipment that might be needed.

Robert Hunt of the Northwest Neighborhood Association, a group of Rockville residents working toward improving the center of town, made a plea for renovation of East School, noting the historical value of the 19th century building and the undesirable effects on the center of town if the building is not renovated for use. He presented a petition bearing the signatures of about 300 names of people who share his sentiments.

Robert Wehrli, a councilman and also chairman of the Permanent Building Committee, offered a different view. He said the cost of renovating would run about $600,000 and the cost of putting up a new building only about half that much.

He said if the East School is renovated, the board will end up with an old building that has high ceilings, wide corridors, and one which will be difficult to heat and maintain. He said in his opinion the $600,000 for renovation is an excessive price tag.

He envisioned the new building to be of one-story design which will not require installation of an elevator as will the East School in compliance with state law. He said it would be easy to heat and maintain and would have a lower price tag of $300,000.

A week ago the state and local fire marshals issued an abatement order in connection with the occupancy of the East School. Many violations of the state safety code were cited in the order and the board was given until June 15 to complete preliminary plans toward conforming with state code and until June 15, 1976 to complete alterations.

Wehrli told the board his proposal for new construction did not call for tearing down the East School. He suggested it could be used for storage of school supplies.

Kenneth Bellinger, a Rockville resident and businessman and a member of a group of businessmen formed to work toward revitalization of the center of Rockville, termed the East School "an elegant building." He cautioned that a new building would just be cinderblocks and hardtop. He said another vacant building in the center will just be more opportunity to worry about more massage parlors and X-rated movies moving in.

Councilman James McCarthy questioned the benefit of having all supervisory personnel under one roof. Prior to last June this personnel was scattered around in various schools wherever a board's biggest maintenance liability is with the newer school buildings.

He said it is the hope of the board that if the renovation program is the route taken that it may get further financial assistance through the National Register of Historic Places with which the project is registered as a prerequisite to applying for federal funding.

Board member Robert Dubou said the decision to keep all of the supervisors under one roof was not a unanimous one of the board but he personally feels the decision was a good one. He said there is a subtle, but distinct cost savings besides being more efficient.

Architect Richard Lawrence, to a question asked by Bellinger, said it would be less expensive to heat the two-story building than a one story building of the same square footage. He said if East School is renovated it is the plan to lower the ceilings and put insulation in and to narrow down the corridors and change the old central wide staircase.

Board member Steven Marchant, who is an advocate of building a new building said, "I think we are faced with a situation that a lot of people in town have their economic backs up a wall and I wonder if there would be justification for spending $600,000."

Architect Arnold Lawrence said he asked for budget estimates from three contractors based on drawings and specifications his firm prepared. These three estimates ran $289,000, $530,000 and $381,000.

Marchant asked the board to reaffirm its stand on centralization of supervisory staff now that it has had a year's experience with the situation. Dubou said he would be in favor of the motion but because all board members were not present at last night's meeting he was not in sympathy with those who were not at the meeting. No action was taken on the motion and it was agreed to continue discussion at next Monday's meeting which will be at 7:30 p.m. at Syke's School.

He listed some things he feels Rockville is holding. One of these was town administrative offices and the "fast growing Rockville General Hospital." He also said Rockville can support only a small regulated shopping area in a non-competitive business. He said if you use that building for storage "you'll just be putting another nail in the coffin."

Councilman Morgan Campbell also spoke in favor of renovation. He said "It would be wasteful to tear down a building which is such a vital part of the community. I don't think dollars alone should be the reason."

Mary Glenn, who noted she is a resident of rural Vernon, not Rockville, said she enjoyed coming to Rockville and its "Victorian" flavor. She said there is beginning of transition back into what should be considered a part of "our heritage." She urged the board to maintain and use the building.

Houle said he asked Stanley Roesler, director of administration what the mill impact would be in connection with the $600,000 renovation project (one-half to be funded by the state).

He said Roesler said taking into account a 10-year bonding program, the first year of construction would cost $20,000 or .0133 mills; the second year of the project it would cost $42,000, $30,000 of which would be on the principle and $12,000 in interest or 0.288 mills. He said the maximum annual mill impact over the next years would decline until the bond is retired in the 11th year.

Houle said he would concede that it would be more costly to heat the 17,000 square feet that would be in the renovated East School but said as far as maintenance is concerned, the

Dr. Lintone said the supervisors now have a central homebase and it makes it easier to conduct meetings. He said before they had to come from various schools and it cost the town money because they are paid mileage.

He said the large number of personnel is due to the fact that Vernon is a regional center for retarded children and state programs demand supportive personnel.

George Rynn, a local business executive and member of the Northwest Neighborhood group expressed strong feelings against using the East School building for storage. He said the windows would be boarded up and another derelict building would be created in Rockville. He said this would generate further costs in the form of demanding more police and fire protection.

He listed some things he feels Rockville is holding. One of these was town administrative offices and the "fast growing Rockville General Hospital."

He also said Rockville can support only a small regulated shopping area in a non-competitive business. He said if you use that building for storage "you'll just be putting another nail in the coffin."

Insurance Executive Indicted

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI) — An executive of the subsidiary of a Hartford, Conn. insurance company has been indicted in an alleged scheme to siphon nearly $700,000 from his company.

Keith Flannery, an executive of the Triumph Insurance Budget Co. was indicted Tuesday on charges of conspiring to process false premium payment forms submitted by two New Jersey insurance brokers.

The brokers, Floyd M. Paladino and Bradford H. Cox 3rd, both of Wayne, have pleaded guilty to state and federal conspiracy and fraud charges and are awaiting sentencing here and in Connecticut. They were named as unnamed co-conspirators in the indictment against Flannery handed up by the Bergen County grand jury.

Deputy Attorney General Alfred L. Genton said New Jersey would begin extradition proceedings against Flannery.

Joins Firm

Thomas P. Vaughn of Manchester has joined F. M. Fay Associates Inc. of Brook Brook, which handles and services all lines of insurance. Vaughn will be involved in personal and business insurance as well as contractor surety bonds.

He was previously supervisor of the Adams Casualty and Surety Co.'s Hartford branch office and department.

Vaughn lives at 95B Sycamore Lane with his wife, Susan, and their two children.

Town Savings Bank Dedicated to Service

By Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce

From the day the Savings Bank of Manchester first opened its doors in 1905, the bank has been dedicated to the promotion of family service. Officers and staff are committed to community involvement and to building a Greater Manchester.

The dedication is evidenced in the growth of the bank to nine offices and in constant expansion of the bank's mortgage lending and personal loan capacity.

Realizing that many people cannot transact their banking business during a regular work week schedule, the Savings Bank of Manchester pioneered Saturday morning banking hours. All offices have evening hours as well.

Procedure in House Delays Road Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A procedural move in the House has delayed for three states the opportunity to apply for $2 billion in recently released highway construction funds, a subcommittee chairman complained Tuesday.

Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., chairman of the House surface transportation subcommittee, told reporters that legislation-affecting Vermont, Connecticut and New York-was due for consideration by the House this week.

But the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee has asked for a look at the measure, he said, and now has more than two weeks to review it before sending it to the Rules Committee for floor clearance.

"I fail to see why this is needed," said Howard, who had sought speedy passage of the projects.

The measure approved by Howard's subcommittee and its parent Public Works Committee was designed to allow state environmental impact statements to serve instead in determining the effects of the projects.

Weiss Ouster Motion Rejected

Weiss denied the allegations pertaining to the appointment of Miss Bauer as personal supervisor. He insisted she was appointed after qualifying in examinations conducted by professional outside experts. At Miss Bauer's request, he withdrew her appointment but said she'll continue as acting personnel supervisor until her governmental internship ends in August.

He defended his action in giving Siebold permission to teach, but conceded it would have been wiser if he had conferred with the Board of Directors - for a policy determination. He insisted Siebold had made up the time he lost during the day on his own job by working nights in job programs.

On March 11, by a 9 to 6 unanimous vote, the board directed Weiss to instruct Siebold to give up his teaching post at MCC immediately. Weiss said he followed the directive and that Siebold has given up the post.

State Auditors Suggest Check on Computers

By ROBERT LAMBERT, HARTFORD (UPI) - Only an expert could say for sure whether Connecticut is getting its money's worth in computer services. And state auditors think it is about time the state gets one to appraise the $15 million a year data processing program.

Bringing the age of electronic wizardry to Connecticut's sprawling bureaucracy was supposed to reduce the mountains of paperwork, but computers labored and brought forth only mixed results. "The technology is so sophisticated, state auditors said in reviewing the state's computer operations, that Connecticut would have to hire its own experts just to keep an eye on the experts hired privately."

"The calling of this resignation," she said, "was not done in an emotional roar, as has been written, nor was it done with hasty thought. It was called for because we reached the end of our patience. There really seemed no alternative but to ask for this resignation."

In a policy statement, "on behalf of the Democratic majority," Thompson spelled out several recommendations for the board to follow from now on. The policy statement was approved by a 7 to 0 vote, with Mrs. Ferguson and Gallager abstaining.

Thompson recommended a review of all personnel policies and procedures - to insure an equitable civil service system for the town and its employees. He recommended a "non-partisan Civil Service Commission" to administer the town's merit system and to adjudicate complaints.

The adopted policy statement directs Weiss "to re-assume responsibility for the supervision of personnel services" and to return Miss Bauer to her former internship status. It recommends Weiss should review specs for the position of personnel supervisor in order to upgrade the requirements for the job.

He Wasn't On It - Again

I've got this friend who always considers himself well-dressed but who never has received the recognition he claims he deserves.

So, you can imagine how he felt last weekend when Fashion Foundation of America announced its 38th annual "Best Dressed Men" list and he wasn't on it.

Then he turned his attention to Sen. Edward Kennedy and Outy Sark (a Scotch whisky) president Edward Herrigan, also newcomers to the list.

'Safety Town' Funds Sought

Among the public hearing items to be aired Tuesday by the Manchester Board of Directors is a proposed $1,100 appropriation for a miniature "Safety Town" for kindergarten and first grade children.

Funded by a state Department of Transportation grant, the program would instruct the children in all aspects of traffic safety. A miniature town would be constructed, complete with traffic signals, walk lights and even miniature vehicles for the children to operate.

Legislator Argues County Government Abolition Premature

HARTFORD (UPI) - At least one Connecticut politician says the state may have acted prematurely in abolishing the county system of government.

"The recent trend of creating a crazy-quilt pattern of different regional district lines for the planning and delivery of different governmental services is an administrative nightmare," Sen. Lawrence J. DeNardis, R-Hamden, said Tuesday.

Ironically, Connecticut got rid of county government 15 years ago just at the state was on the threshold of an explosion of regional problems and needs, DeNardis said.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

I'm For Easter Bonnets

Last year in church on Easter morning, I suddenly realized that something was missing. The lilies were on the altar in fragrant abundance. The voices from the choir loft never sounded better. The minister was resplendent, with white panels on his robe. But, as my eyes looked over the congregation, I realized there wasn't a single Easter bonnet anywhere.

I don't know when it happened, but the Easter bonnet, that glorious expression of joy, has disappeared.

The Easter bonnet was more than just a mere hat. It was a highly individualized creation. Little girls wore bonnets with long gooseneck streamers trailing down their backs, and elastic bands beneath their chins.

The year my daughter was in the third grade, her class made Easter bonnets for their mothers. Mine was a magnificent creation of yellow crepe paper flowers, with a bumblebee perched on top. I didn't have the courage to wear it to church (and still feel guilty about that) but I wore it during Easter dinner and for years it perched on the lamp on my dresser.

Now, the latest report from the fashion experts in New York is that the Easter bonnet is coming back.

Hallelujah! I hope it comes to stay.

Let the fashion experts do as they please with hemlines and necklines and waistlines, but this time — I hope they'll keep their fashion-conscious-fingers off my Easter bonnet!

Membership Drive in Progress

Sustaining membership enrollment for the Connecticut Valley Girl Scouts is now in progress. Robert Bonner, president of First Federal Savings in Manchester, is the local chairman.

Manchester-Bolton Association has 55 registered troops serving 1,200 girls ages 6-17. Working with these girls every week are 191 registered adults.

Girl Scouts is a non-profit organization and as such receives support from United Fund. The amount the United Fund contributes is not sufficient to continue the many varied programs of scouting.

Families of Girl Scouts and former friends of scouting are being contacted to support the program. A contribution of $10 or more enrolls one as a sustaining member, but lesser contributions will be accepted. Gifts to scouting are tax deductible and may be paid in installments, if desired.

Bonner is being assisted by Mrs. Roger Gray, Mrs. Oscar Placco, Mrs. Joan Goodwin, Mrs. Richard Porteus, Mrs. Ernest Kearns, Mrs. Bernard Anderson, Mrs. David Thompson, Mrs. John Handy, Mrs. Richard Day, Mrs. Edward DeSignore.

Also, Mrs. William Preston, Mrs. George Caouette Jr., Mrs. Morgan Witt, Miss Paula Sanchini, Mrs. Donald Mackenzie, Miss Sandy Bayles, Mrs. Roger Knath, Mrs. John DeQuatro, R. Kelly, Miss Linda Sanchini, Mrs. Reginald Christensen, Mrs. Shirley Smith.

Also, Mrs. John Hilling, Mrs. Richard Hagenan, Mrs. Paul Ducharme, Mrs. Frederick Young, Mrs. Arline Swanson, Mrs. Arnie Brower, Mrs. Norman Lamare, Mrs. John Sheets, Mrs. Judy Sumner, Mrs. Virginia Butterfield, and Mrs. Lawrence Cassels.

Those not contacted who would like to be a friend of scouting, may contact any of the workers or Bonner.

DEAR ABBY: With reference to the reason an aunt cannot marry her nephew, but an uncle can marry his niece: It originated in Jewish law.

The principle of consanguinity (close blood relationships) forbids sexual relationships between very near kin. An aunt would be in close blood ties with one's father, therefore a sex relationship would be forbidden according to this logic.

On the other hand, a niece is a step down in the blood lines, and therefore not as close—therefore sex with her would be permitted. This is why a man may not marry his aunt, but he may marry his niece!

Incidentally, while Judaism is a patriarchal society, all blood lines go through the mother. For example, in an intermarriage, the religion of the offspring is determined by the religion of the mother. Therefore, in all blood line relationships, the closeness of the woman determines the decisions.

When I was at the Seminary we used to remember the law through the following joke. It is well-known that often couples quarrel and a man may be moved to strike his wife. If he hit his niece, it is not so bad. But, how would it look if he hit his aunt?

RABBI BERNARD S. RASKUS

DEAR RABBI: Thank you for the explanation. Frankly, I don't think it would "look" any better for a man to hit his niece than it would to hit his aunt. And with Women's Lib gaining muscle, a man who hits any female had better look out for himself.

DEAR ABBY: I have waited for too long to write this letter, but I am finally going to get this off my chest. I am sick of listening to people complain about plumber's rates. No other professional earns his money working in such damp, unsanitary and uncomfortable conditions. A plumber has no set hours. He works from early morning until late at night, and when he finally does get home, his clothes are black, his boots are soaking wet, and he smells like a sewer.

A plumber is called upon to unstopped up toilets, dirty, greasy sinks, and he has to crawl under houses where snakes, spiders and rodents lurk.

Why does everyone think that a plumber is overpaid?
PLUMBER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: After reading your letter, I'm going to give my plumber a bonus next time I see him.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about the woman who prepared so well for her husband's death that she ended up with a lover while her husband continued to live, reminded me of something that happened over 50 years ago. I knew the people involved.

A woman we knew well became very sick. The doctor said she couldn't possibly live, so her husband gave away all her clothes.

Well, she recovered, bought all new clothes and outlived her husband by 20 years.

TRUE STORY

DEAR STORY: There's a common moral in both those stories: "If you don't want it to rain—always carry an umbrella."

DEAR ABBY: What's a nice girl like you doing writing a column when you can belt out a song like you did on Dinah Shore's program?

Chicago Strengthens Position, Houston's Hopes Fade in NBA

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Chicago Bulls strengthened their hold on first place in the NBA's Central Division with a victory over Houston last night.

The Rockets' 112-94 loss was their ninth in the last 10 games but Egan pointed out that Cleveland also lost and his club remained only a game behind in the loss column with a chance to play the Cavaliers head-on.

Egan was particularly upset by the officiating, something which seems to be especially common around the pros this season.

The game was close for the first half, but the Bulls outscored the Rockets by 10 points, with Bob Love contributing 13 of his game-high 29 points in the third quarter.

final second layup missed. Pete Maravich had 36 points for the Jazz while Archibald had 40 for the Kings.

TOLLAND
Tolland's net Grand List is $57,837,304, released by Town Manager John Hartke to the Board of Selectmen Tuesday. The net figure represents a $3,125,989 gain over last year, representing 5 1/2 per cent increase. The net figure is also higher than the gross released by tax assessor Walter Lawrence earlier this year. The Board of Tax Review upped the gross figure of $57,254,972.

The selectmen Tuesday appointed the auditing firm of Haskins and Sells for the fiscal year 1975-76. This is the same firm that did the last audit.

The selectmen established a biennial fund in the amount of $500, which will be funded by a contribution from the Savings Bank of Tolland. Recently deceased Donald Morganson was president of the bank and was the biennial committee chairman.

The Board of Education will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Education Administration Building.

New business on the board agenda include presentations by Tolland High School principal Roy Nierendorf to enlarge the girls' sports program; early dismissal for employable 16-year-old undergraduates; report on plans for the band exchange concert with Springfield, Vt.

Sprenkel Would Apply Surplus to Budget

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnel Correspondent
644-1364

South Windsor Town Manager Terry V. Sprenkel's proposed 1975-76 budget is up $1,046,006 over the present fiscal budget, but can actually come out to less than the present budget if revenues and surpluses are applied to it.

Sprenkel released his new budget Tuesday. He said "estimated revenue" total $919,632, leaving the town with a $2,811,247 net general administration budget. This would total $1,928,972 more than the present budget.

However, on top of this Sprenkel is recommending a $200,000 surplus be applied towards the tax base, leaving the net budget at $2,411,247, or $73,027 less than the present budget.

Sprenkel said the surplus funds are from accounts not used up by the end of the fiscal year, June 30. He also said some of the surplus is due to some investments made by the town treasurer, who has invested in some treasury bills.

Sprenkel is recommending $250,000 be put in the Capital Reserve Account, but that these funds be allocated towards Buckland Rd. improvements and the Norton Lane sanitary sewer connector.

The Capital Reserve Account has been a controversial issue in town this year, with residents petitioning to deplete it and use the money towards the tax base.

Generally the Town Council allocates two mills into the budget - worth about $400,000 this year, based on the present tax structure - and applies some of the funds towards improvements.

Residents claim the money is banked, or excessive, and that some of it should be spread over the tax needs, lowering the demands on the taxpayer. Councilmen refute this claim and say the money is already earmarked before it is placed in the fund, and sits only long enough for the various jobs it is earmarked for to be completed.

"To apply two mills to this account would mean putting $400,000 in it this year," said Sprenkel. "I recommend the Capital Reserve Fund be kept at its present $250,000 level and that the money go towards Buckland Rd. and Norton Lane projects."

Major increases in the budget consist in the areas of: Fire protection - water; pollution control - chemicals; pension and insurance; pollution control and utility costs; Social Security.

Figures on these areas are not yet available in Sprenkel's synopsis of the budget.

Sprenkel said that while the categories do not allow for any council reductions, since the charges basically regulated by Public Utility Commission rate schedules or actuarial experience.

Sprenkel has deleted two major staff positions once proposed: a town engineer and economic developer.

However, he is recommending the economic developer position be filled during the half year, saving the town six months' salary.

Residents Asked For Views On Tolland Plan

Vivian Kennesson
Correspondent
875-4704

The proposed 1985 comprehensive plan of development, first released in April 1972, was aired at a public hearing Monday attended by about 50 residents.

Planning and Zoning Commission chairman Tony Tantiello stressed at the onset of the hearing that the commission was looking for public input. Vice chairman Douglas Hatch briefed those present on the plan in its present format and said the present PZC has many ideas for changes which it hopes to get going on quickly, with the help of new town planner Ron Blake.

The commission collected brief questionnaires filled out by attending residents. Questions such as reaction to the proposed plan; should emphasis be on speed or the best plan possible, and areas of preservation of rural community; community shopping, services, and recreational facilities; population growth; and industrial site expansion.

The map available was prepared based on existing manmade and natural resources and on soil conditions. Areas of high density residential were questioned by many residents.

Other depictions on the map are: medium density residential, future sewer district, low density residential, existing commercial, existing and proposed industrial, proposed town center - neighborhood centers and service centers, existing and proposed open space, existing and proposed schools, and an historic district on the Green.

Hatch explained that a plan is intended to be a "dynamic vehicle" to change with the times. Tantiello acknowledged that things have already changed since the plan was conceived in 1972.

Dennis Davy of S. River Rd. suggested the PZC adopt the plan with modifications such as reducing the town holding capacity from 50,000 to 25,000 and extending the projected 1985 population of 16,700 to 1990. He also suggested a building moratorium until a plan is approved.

Ray Markunas, chairman of the Sewer Commission, said he feels the overall plan is "fairly good," but noted that neither his commission nor the sewer study committee was involved in any way with its preparation.

The proposed plan shows Rt. 195, east of I-94, as open space, a town center and medium density residential. Chet Bloniarz of Rockville owns 12 acres on Rt. 195 which is now zoned commercial, and he questioned the reasoning of the change. Actually, when a proposal to revert the zone was brought up in 1973, most property owners were quick and vocal in their opposition.

Ms. Carol Butterworth, education board member, questioned the proposal for neighborhood schools. She noted projected population figures in the original report are now out of line. Ms. Butterworth agreed to supply correct, and lower, population figures as requested by PZC member Bob Hopkins.

Board of Selectmen chairman John Burokas suggested residential areas off exit 101 of I-94 would bring a much greater return on taxes if zoned commercial or industrial. He also questioned the high density designation around the Green. Burokas noted that this was the first chance that selectmen have had to see the plan and a map. Other selectmen present were Kevin Cavanagh and Ed Moskey.

August Loehr told the commission that the Rockville Fish and Game Club objects to part of its property, off Fish and Game Rd., zoned as high density residential, saying the land should be retained as open space. Loehr also noted an obvious error on the map. He agreed the corner of Rt. 30 and Browns Bridge Rd. is high density, as well as "multiple family" residential.

Plan Objectives. The objective of the plan, as seen two years ago, is to maintain a rural identity through preservation of natural environment; to achieve orderly and balanced fiscal stability through appropriate mixes of new development; and to serve as a guide to officials and residents in making decisions involving the development of the town.

The development concept included eight or more centers designed to satisfy the needs of the ultimate population.

Centralized shopping, employment, entertainment, education and recreation center is proposed south of the Rt. 72 interchange with I-94.

The goals for commercial and industrial development are to eliminate strip commercial and to encourage new businesses responsive to the town's needs. The plan proposed to attract limited industry to broaden the economic base, offer local employment, and provide balanced growth.

Existing commercial zones should be reduced to areas presently occupied by businesses, and future commercial development should be subject to conditions established in a "planned business district."

Other phases of the map offer guidelines for residential development, community facilities, open space and recreation, historic, road systems, and housing needs.

Some of the recommendations incorporated in the plan have either been already begun or accomplished. A housing project for elderly received a grant of $40,000 and ground should be broken this year; the middle school has a new addition; the schools provide space for recreation, fine arts, and craft programs sponsored by the Board of Recreation and Arts of Tolland.

Also, a new garage for the town has been built off Old Post Rd.; the fire department has expanded participation in the Mutual Aid and has added new equipment; the dump now uses compaction techniques; zoning regulations now require a minimum of 10 per cent of land for development be set aside for open space.

New zoning regulations now provide tax abatement for open space less than 20 acres, and an historic study committee appointment is pending.

Court Ruling May Broaden Use of Conspiracy Laws

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court Tuesday, in a 5-4 decision, expanded the power of government prosecutors to attack organized crime through the much-criticized conspiracy laws.

Writing for the majority, Justice Lewis F. Powell said federal gambling laws permit charges of both conspiracy and the gambling itself against five or more persons, although gambling requires mutual participation of those charged with the conspiracy.

The conspiracy decision affirmed the conviction of eight Pittsburgh men who also claimed the evidence against them came from illegal wiretaps. The court declined to consider the wiretap issue.

The ruling limits use of the 125-year-old Wharton Rule. Often applied to crimes such as adultery, the rule says that if the main crime requires the participation of those who conspire to commit it, there can be no conspiracy charge.

Since adultery requires willing cooperation of two persons, for example, the same two cannot be also convicted of conspiracy.

Several circuit courts of appeals have applied the rule to gambling laws, holding that since gambling requires the cooperation of several persons, they cannot also be charged with conspiracy.

Powell said the rule should be limited to where "the immediate consequences of the crime rest on the parties themselves rather than on society at large." He said Congress, in passing the 1970 Omnibus Crime Bill, intended to give the Justice Department tools to battle organized crime, which often is financed by illegal gambling revenues.

"And Congress specifically utilized the law of conspiracy to discourage organized crime's corruption of state and local officials for the purpose of facilitating gambling enterprises," Powell said.

Foreign News Commentary: Britain's Wilson Takes a Gamble

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In asking Britons to vote for or against membership in the European Common Market in the first referendum in their history, Prime Minister Harold Wilson is putting on the line not only his reputation as Britain's most adroit politician but also very possibly the future of his labor party.

After a year of bargaining with the eight other members of the Common Market in an effort to improve Britain's position, Wilson has recommended to the British people that they vote to stay in the market in a referendum now scheduled for around June 19.

The issue has split the Labor party and in an effort to limit the damage as much as possible, Wilson is seeking to cut short the debate and to advance the date of the referendum by up to a month.

His greatest opposition comes not from the Conservative party which took Britain into the Common Market in January, 1973, but from labor leaders and the big unions upon which his party must depend for voting and financial strength.

Eight members of his 23-man cabinet oppose him on the issue.

Wilson won election a year ago partly on his pledge to renegotiate the terms of British membership in the market. At a market summit meeting in Dublin March 10 and 11 those negotiations were completed. They reduced Britain's contribution to the market budget, and, in a major concession by the European partners, agreed to permit the sale of New Zealand butter on the continent. It was a victory for Wilson but it forced him off the neutral position he had maintained toward the market. That position had enabled him to prevent a major party split.

Wilson's own position toward the market had not been a model of consistency. As an opposition leader he had been lukewarm at best toward the market. As prime minister, prior to his defeat in 1970, he had been an enthusiastic supporter. Once more in a position of opposition after British entry in 1973, he denounced the terms as humiliating.

Now once again, with the stakes high, he finds himself supporting it.

As of today, opinion polls show less than a majority of Britons in favor of retaining membership in the market, with the "don't know's" holding the balance.

But such is Wilson's reputation as a vote getter that it also is expected that a final count will keep Britain in the market. Even so, Wilson has copped his position. A vote against will not force his government to resign.

Vernon School Board Asks Fire Safety Measures at High School

In view of recent findings by the State Fire Marshal's office, the Board of Education voted Monday night to ask the Permanent Building Committee to re-evaluate a request for magnetic hold open doors and fire detector devices in the corridors of the Rockville High School in connection with the expansion program now under way.

The board was told last night that the high school was inspected by the fire marshal's office and was found to be in violation of some fire safety laws.

The inspector, in several instances, criticized the fact that doors into corridors were "wedged" open and this is against the fire safety code.

When planning for the expansion of the high school, the board asked to have the magnetic doors and smoke detector devices installed. Such doors would remain open until smoke was detected and then they automatically close.

Board member James Boettcher said he was perturbed with the building committee. He said it had a budget to live within and the board committee asked that these items be retained and the committee chose to ignore the request. He said he has no idea if the committee intends to reinstate these items.

He added that if the doors are included in the expansion program, one-half the cost will be paid by the state, but if they are installed later the town will have to pay the entire cost.

Robert Langer, plan reviewer of the Bureau of School Buildings, State Department of Education, informed Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, of the violations cited.

Dr. Ramsdell itemized the violations and said many of them have been corrected. One of these was the fact that wire glass was missing in the

Measures at High School

A fire alarm pull box was not properly operating. Langer said Dr. Ramsdell said this had been corrected and is in the process of being restored.

The recent check made by the fire marshal's office and with local fire marshal William Johnson, was on Feb. 20. The check before that was made Nov. 10, 1971. Langer said it appeared that most of the violations noted in his 1971 report apparently had not been corrected and that "the present structure is not being maintained in a proper manner especially at a time when construction is being carried on within and adjacent to the said structure."

Langer said if all of the violations noted in the 1971 report are not corrected the building project will be deemed ineligible for state funding.

In his report to the board, Monday night, Dr. Ramsdell said most of the violations have now been corrected and personnel at the high school has been cautioned to keep the corridor doors closed.

Dr. Ramsdell said there was a criticism about gymnasium equipment being stored in the corridors and this has been corrected.

A complaint that 24 gallons of flammable liquids and the storage of combustible items noted under the west stair-tower, has also been corrected.

Rivers Sees Need For Dump Study

Leon Rivers, Democratic candidate for first selectman, said, "The town has reached a point in time in which it must do a careful study of its present and future disposal area needs."

"The present situation (Bolton's unpaid bill to Andover due to past inadequacies) must be resolved, hopefully through a mutual agreement with the town of Andover."

"We are presently researching several sites for which approval from the Department of Environmental Protection is being sought."

"To date it has given approval for two of the suggested sites and approval for the others is expected."

"Within the next few weeks we hope to go to the townspeople with a choice of sites."

Voter Sessions

The registrars of voters will hold four voter making sessions before the upcoming May town elections, the first of which will be Saturday from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Two evening sessions will be held, the first on March 31 and the second, April 7. Both will be from 7 until 9 p.m.

The final day to register in order to vote in the May election is Saturday, April 12. It will be an all-day session from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m.

At each of the four sessions a voting machine will be set up so as to instruct anyone interested in its use.

In addition to the sessions persons eligible can be registered by the town clerk daily from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Everyone who resides in town and is 18 years of age is eligible and, if foreign born, a naturalized citizen is eligible as there is no residency requirement.

Bolton registrars are William Houle and Virginia Assard.

Bottle Bill

The Bolton Democratic Town Committee passed a resolution in support of HB 5049, the bottle bill, at its recent meeting.

Aloysius Ahearn, state representative of the 56th district and a member of the committee, urged support of the bill.

He said, "Americans are the most wasteful people in the world. A good bottle bill will conserve energy, increase jobs in the state, reduce litter along highways and in dumps and be a giant step toward turning away from our wasteful, throw-away attitude."

When asked if the bill would raise consumer costs, he said if a bottle is returned three times, you break even. He said most bottles can be reused ten or more times, so prices can actually be lowered.

Ahearn is one of 28 co-sponsors of the bill.

A public hearing on the bill was held March 25.

School Sports

Girls chosen for the all-star basketball team include Karen Lalouette, Kathy Moore, Sharon Hoar, Sherry Richardson, Karen Manning, Jean Carpenter, Gayle Hoffman, Monique Barnard and Darby Barnard.

In their first game against Horace Porter School in Columbia the girls were defeated.

Mark Jensen was high scorer of the year with 40 points.

Election Plans

Plans for the upcoming May elections were discussed by members of the Democratic Town Committee at their recent meeting.

Candidates for office will be going door to door to meet residents the weekends of April 12, 19 and 25.

Maureen Houle, chairman of the committee, said Democrats will be competing against Republicans in a donkey basketball game April 19 at Bolton High School with proceeds from the game going to the Bolton Scholarship Fund, Inc. (BSF).

Because of the game the committee's April meeting will be held April 11.

The committee will hold a book, bake and tag sale April 19 at the green at Bolton center from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. In case of rain the sale will be held inside the Town Hall.

Gertrude Vogel, committee member and a director of the fund, asked the committee if it would be willing to pay a share of the cost to send a boy and girl from the high school junior class to Laurel Girl's State and Boy's State for one week.

Mrs. Vogel said the scholarship fund had paid the cost over the last several years but would rather it be paid by other organizations.

The Republican Town Committee and the Bolton Junior Woman's Club are also being asked to help support.

Members of the committee agreed that familiarization students with American government and encouraging their interest was a worthwhile aim and voted to pay a share of the cost.

Runner Up

Bolton High School student Carol Stevenson has been named a runner-up in this year's Hood recipe contest.

Miss Stevenson entered a recipe for Crescent Meltaways. Members of the school's home economics II class entered the contest.

It is sponsored by Hood each year for high school students in the New England states.

Each student has to develop a recipe for entry as part of his study of the use of dairy products in the diet.

Plant Sale

The Quarryville Junior Ancient File and Drum Corps of Bolton will hold a plant and bake sale Saturday from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Highland Park Market in Manchester.

Variance Granted

The Zoning Board of Appeals granted a request for a side yard variance for an addition to the farmhouse on Notch Rd.

The request was presented by Douglas Cheney, chairman of the Public Building Commission.

The decision was unanimous. The 14½-foot variance was granted for the north side of the property.

If the building inspector, Calvin Hutchinson, determines the addition does not conform to front and side yard requirements, a new application for a variance will be submitted to the appeals board.

It was inadvertently reported that Morris Silverstein disqualified himself from the hearing because he is chairman of the Board of Finance.

Silverstein disqualified himself for personal reasons.

Passover Celebration Begins Tonight

Passover, the Jewish Holiday of Redemption, will begin tonight and will continue for eight days through Thursday, April 4. Of these eight days, only the first two and the last two days are observed as full holidays. The date of the holiday is determined by the moon, the first night having to coincide with the full moon. The Hebrew date is the 15th of Nisan. Passover was ordained in the Bible to commemorate the Exodus of the Israelites from Egypt following centuries of enslavement and oppression. In Bible times the holiday began with the offering of the paschal lamb and with feasts celebrating the Exodus. After the destruction of the Jewish State 2000 years ago and the abolition of sacrifices, the paschal offering was omitted from the celebration, but the family feasts were retained and they have continued to the present day. On the evening of the first and the second days, families still get together to celebrate the greatest event in the history of the Jewish people, the liberation of their early ancestors and the beginning of their nationhood. This celebration is called Seder and consists in the retelling of the story of the Exodus at the dinner table before the meal is served. The story includes the wanderings of the Patriarchs, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; the descent to Egypt by Jacob and his sons; their enslavement by Pharaoh and their liberation under the leadership of Moses. During the meal, symbolic foods are tasted to recall the events of the Exodus. The Matzoh, a flat and unleavened bread, is a reminder of the haste with which the Israelites had left Egypt. The maror, or bitter herbs, symbolize the bitter plight of the enslaved. The haroset, a mixture of fruits and nuts resembling mortar, recalls the bricks which the Israelites were forced to make in Egypt, and a green vegetable is a reminder of the springtime when nature is on the verge of redemption and liberation. While Passover has always been a reminder to the Jew of the freedom of his own people, the holiday has transcended the national and religious boundaries and it has become a symbol of the liberation of all mankind from slavery, oppression and from all the forces that diminish the image of God in man. Holiday services will be held at Temple Beth Shalom, tonight at 6, Thursday at 1 a.m. and 6 p.m., and Friday, at 10 a.m. and 8:15 p.m.

Solon Proposes Limits On Various Tax Sources

HARTFORD (UPI) — While some Connecticut lawmakers call for a state income tax, one legislator has proposed a measure to keep unlimited taxation "out of the unruly hands of politicians." Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven, told the Finance Committee Tuesday he was drawing up a graduated income tax package that included reducing the sales tax and creating a statewide property tax system. And, Sen. Lawrence J. DeNardis, R-Hamden, outlined a revenue proposal he said would take taxes "out of the unruly hands of politicians" by limiting the amount of money that could be raised from each type of tax. At the same time the Connecticut Conference of Mayors and Municipalities said the state's method of school financing must be changed to equalize educational funding. The conference said an equalized funding formula was needed to pump more state aid into poorer communities to meet the rising cost of education. DeNardis said limits should be set on the amount of taxes that can be derived either by the state or municipality on various sources of wealth — including property, income, sales and business taxes. DeNardis told the legislature's finance committee Connecticut needs a Fair Share Tax Structure and Revenue Policy Commission. The commission, composed of state and municipal leaders, would work on both the state and local level to set limits on what percentage of taxes could be set on sources of wealth. Under DeNardis' proposal, property taxes could not exceed 40 per cent, income taxes would be limited to 20 per cent, sales taxes limited to 20 per cent and business taxes to 10 per cent. Committee Chairman Sen. Audrey B. Beck, D-Storrs, said the committee hopes to have a revenue package ready for action in mid-April. The mayor said a new school aid formula was needed to provide a minimum level of state assistance and at the same time guarantee no town should lose aid. "A Robin Hood scheme which takes directly from the wealthier towns to aid the poor is not politically feasible and it is not fair," the conference said in a statement for the legislature's Education Committee. "No town, even the most affluent, can shoulder the property tax increases which would result from the taking away of state aid," the conference said. A study group earlier this year recommended a school funding equalization program, but it has been given little chance of gaining approval because of the state's financial woes. The State Supreme Court is considering an appeal of a Superior Court ruling brought on behalf of two Canton youngsters that the present system of school finance is unconstitutional. The arrest was on a bench warrant obtained by Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormley Jr., who acted on the advice of the Elections Commission.

Ex-Solon Charged With Violating Election Laws

HARTFORD (UPI) — Former Rep. Eugene A. Migliaro, R-Wolcott, is free without bond today following his arrest for allegedly violating Connecticut election laws. Migliaro was arrested Monday and booked at Bethany state police barracks on a charge of failing to designate a principal campaign treasurer in his unsuccessful 1974 re-election campaign. Released on his own recognizance for an appearance at Waterbury Common Pleas Court Thursday, Migliaro is the first person arrested under Connecticut's Watergate-inspired campaign reform laws. The arrest was on a bench warrant obtained by Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormley Jr., who acted on the advice of the Elections Commission. Just returning from New York and Toronto, they have many great new ideas. Stop In and Say Hello Tel. 646-8821 • 649-2806

SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. I earned $3,000 from January 1974 to June 1974 and then lost my job. On July 1 I became 62 and retired. In August I was called back to work and earned $1,100. Do I have to pay Social Security taxes on these wages?

A. Yes. As long as you work in a job that is covered by the Social Security Act you must pay Social Security taxes. The fact that you retired or are now 62 is of no consequence. If you have not, as yet, filed for Social Security benefits you should do so at once. You may be entitled to benefits for 1974 even though you worked most of the year.

Q. I get monthly Social Security retirement checks. Because I earn a little over $2,000, I have to file an annual report of my earnings with Social Security. Since I will become 72 in July, will I have to file an annual report for 1975?

A. Yes. It's true that there is no limit on how much people 72 and over can earn without any reduction in their Social Security benefits. No annual report will be required for 1975 and later years, however.

Q. I get Social Security payments as a widow. I do not work but I own an apartment building. Does my rental income count toward the $2,520 a year that I can earn before Social Security payments are reduced?

A. No. Only wages and self-employment income count toward the Social Security purposes. Rental income will not affect your cash benefits unless you are a real estate dealer.

Q. I will be 65 soon and am working only part time. I am afraid that I will lose my job if my employer finds out how old I am. Can I apply for monthly Social Security benefits and Medicare without my present employer finding out?

A. Yes. You can. When you apply for benefits the people at the Social Security office will ask you if you mind if they contact your present employer about wages for this year. If you do not want them to contact them, they won't.

Q. I'm 65 and for several years I've been getting monthly Social Security payments based on my late husband's work record. Now I'm planning to remarry and the man I'm marrying is getting monthly retirement checks. After I'm married, will I continue to get payments?

A. Yes, you'll continue to get monthly checks after your remarriage. But the amount of your monthly checks may be affected. Visit your Social Security office to notify them as soon as you remarry.

Fulbright Has Backing LITTLE ROCK (UPI) - Former Sen. J. William Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat, now has the backing of the home state Republicans.

An Arkansas GOP spokesman said Tuesday Fulbright should be named president of the Board of Trustees of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The spokesman said the recommendation will be forwarded to the Republican National Committee. He said Fulbright was recommended because of his past academic background and his longstanding support of the arts.

Suit Filed NEW YORK (UPI) - Broadway impresario David Merrick says he, not Paramount Pictures, had production rights over the movie "The Great Gatsby."

Merrick Tuesday filed a $7.5 million breach of contract suit against Paramount saying he obtained rights to make the movie in August, 1971, and at the same time assigned them to the film company.

He said a separate contract assigned him to produce the film. Merrick now charges Paramount "substantially prevented" him from producing the movie and made it impossible for him to take on other assignments by delaying the start of work on the picture from August, 1972 to June, 1973.

Defends Action NEW YORK (UPI) - Columnist Jack Anderson says he printed the story of the Central Intelligence Agency's partial recovery of a Soviet submarine because at stake was "not American secrets but Soviet face."

He said he decided an appeal by CIA Director William Colby not to print the story "Colby told us it would be 'rubbing their noses in it' to let the American people know."

"What was at stake in publishing, then, was not national security but international etiquette, not American secrets but Soviet face..."

Spring Is Late CHICAGO (UPI) - Spring is a little late this year in the upper Midwest and the northern Plains. A windy snowstorm left 30 inches of new fall snow and snowdrifts of up to 16 feet.

In northern Illinois record flood levels on the Rock River forced more than 1,800 persons from their homes in the Rockford area. And in the Freeport, Ill., area, the Peconia River climbed a 17-foot flood crest to drive more than 500 others to solid ground. The floods caused an estimated $10 million damage.

Blames CIA AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) - While saying "I'm sure the CIA will disavow ever knowing me," Robert Elmer Kleasen put the blame for charges of murder against him squarely on the intelligence agency. Kleasen who is charged with murdering two Mormon missionaries, says their bodies into tiny pieces and tossing them in a slaughterhouse, said he is being framed because he defected as an undercover spy. He accused the FBI of planting evidence against him.

Mounties Face Probe OTTAWA (UPI) - A 39-page manual used by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police's training branch in Ottawa Tuesday was brought before the House of Commons by an angry lawmaker, who demanded an investigation. The manual promotes using brainwashing, lies, deceit and sexism, in dealing with suspects.

Mamie Hospitalized FT. GORDON, Ga. (UPI) - Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, widow of President Dwight Eisenhower, was listed in "stable" condition today at Ft. Gordon Medical Center where she was taken for treatment of a bowel ailment.

Mrs. Eisenhower, 77, was hospitalized Tuesday "for evaluation and treatment of bleeding from the bowel," a hospital spokesman said.

Pay Phones, Too AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) - State Rep. Rayon Faucher, who has been fighting to ban pay telephones in Maine, is now carrying his campaign to outlaw pay telephones.

Saying "no one should be paid by a dime," Faucher filed a bill Tuesday to permit persons to reach an operator without having to deposit 10 cents.

Fields Sentenced WASHINGTON (UPI) - Marshall Fields, convicted of crashing a car into the White House gate, has been sentenced to 18 months in jail.

He was sentenced Tuesday after a federal court jury declared it was deadlocked on the question of his sanity at the time of the incident last Christmas Day.

Fields was convicted last week of destroying government property by crashing a car through the northwest White House gate. At the time, he was dressed in Arab clothing and threatened to blow himself up.

Groups Request Monitoring HARTFORD (UPI) - A labor union and a citizens group today urged the legislature to help them create a consumer unit to monitor electric, gas and telephone companies and control rate increases.

The United Auto Workers and the Connecticut Citizen Action Group promoted a "Residential Utility Consumer Action Group" to be controlled by "consumers themselves" and funded voluntarily through utility channels.

Under the proposal, utility companies would provide a check-off card with each monthly bill through which customers could choose to contribute an amount to support the consumer unit.

The unit would have a board of directors made up of lawyers, economists and other persons elected by public contributors, and the directors would hire a staff.

"It's time utility customers see some of their hard-earned dollars going to argue their case before the Public Utilities Commission," Leonard F. Dube of the UAW told the legislature's Regulated Activities Committee.

"Now part of each consumer's bill pays for the utility company to hire lawyers who monthly bill through which customers could choose to contribute an amount to support the consumer unit."

Learning Good Dental Health

The between-meal snack can be a hazard to good dental health. These second grade students at Highland Park School prove otherwise at a "non-sugar snack party" featuring carrot sticks, celery spears, cucumber chunks, orange sections, peanuts and cheese cubes.

Bennet Students Hear About Pakistani Life

Continuing the list of foreign persons who have been addressing seventh grade students at Bennet Junior High School, the most recent was a native of Pakistan.

Mrs. Nasreen Kakli, originally from Punjab, Pakistan, spoke to the group about education, diet, and arranged marriages in her country.

Dressed in her traditional Punjabi costume, she told the young students most villages in Pakistan only have grammar schools. The larger cities have high schools which go as far as the tenth grade.

She said Pakistani food does not offer much variety. The main staple is wheat in West Pakistan and rice in Bangladesh.

The group was particularly interested in the topic of marriage. Marriages of Pakistanis are arranged for couples who have never met nor seen each other.

Mrs. Kakli said the average marriage age has risen from 14 to 20 years old. The divorce rate is extremely low, she said.

Mrs. Kakli has recently become an American citizen and lives at 149 Strawberry Lane. Her six-year-old daughter attends Kennedy St. School.

In conjunction with the class's current study unit on world cultures, Jay Stager will speak to the group Thursday about the various religions of India. He will show slides of his recent trip to that country.

Parents of students attending the school, students of students making application to the school, and parents interested in vocational-technical education are invited to attend.

A brief assembly program will begin at 7 in the auditorium and will be followed by shop and classroom visitations.

Staff members will be present to answer questions regarding admission policies. Refreshments will be served in the student cafeteria.

Poll Shows Most Americans Ignorant on Powers of Local School Boards

CHICAGO (UPI) - Most Americans are ignorant of the powers of their local school boards and the role it plays in school affairs, Gallup study commissioned by National School Boards Association.

"We found widespread ignorance and confusion," said Dr. Irving Crespi, executive vice president of the Gallup organization.

Crespi said that the study shows 63 per cent of American adults and 48 per cent of parents cannot name anything their local school boards have done during the past year.

If also found that only 50 per cent of adults know the difference between school boards and school administrators, 24 per cent think the two are the same and 28 per cent say they don't know if there is a difference.

The study indicated that the public does not think school boards should have as much control as they do over school affairs. Only 31 per cent think the board should have authority over hiring of teachers and only 19 per cent think the board should make decisions on textbooks and disciplinary matters.

But Crespi said most people surveyed had a favorable image of the school board and thought school board members were average people interested in education.

He said Midwesterners are more likely than Easterners, Southerners or Westerners to give such a favorable characterization to school board members in large cities are more likely to describe school board members as politicians, he said.

Dr. Harold V. Webb, executive director of the National School Boards Association, headquartered in suburban Evanston, said the study results are "ominous" for those who believe in continuing the American policy of local control of schools through citizen school boards.

Webb said the national study "indicates that public opinion can easily be swayed by those who might wish, for whatever motives, to wrest from school boards control of aspects of public education."

Webb said the national study was the first ever made on public attitudes toward the governance of public education.

Hamilton, a high-school teacher, came back from summer vacation sporting a new mustache. Informed that he was violating the rules of the school, Hamilton, who is a member of the school board, refused to shave it off.

Result: the principal fired him.

In short order Hamilton went to court to protest. And the court held that he was entitled to retain both the job and the mustache. Describing the principal's action as arbitrary, the judge said:

"There is no indication that mustaches had caused, or were likely to cause, any disruption or disturbance; no indication of any health or sanitation problem; no indication of difficulties of any kind."

Most courts are inclined to take a similar attitude with regard to both mustaches and beards. They say schools cannot impose a "dress code" on teachers unless it has some reasonable relationship to the welfare of the school.

However, one court took a different view of a rule requiring teachers to wear neckties. In this case, the school board argued that a teacher could exert greater influence on students if his appearance was impressive.

And the court, noting that neckties were "conventional attire for those in positions of leadership," decided to uphold the board's position.

What about tardiness? One teacher was late for class almost half the days of the school year. Fired for shirking his responsibilities, he insisted in court that discharging him was too drastic.

But he offered no excuse at all for his chronic tardiness. Again, the court upheld the action of the school board.

"Such conduct," said the court, "without sufficient reason constitutes wilful neglect of duty."

Judge Declines To Make Ruling On Bias Charge HARTFORD (UPI) - A federal judge has declined to rule on a suit filed by a white student that claims Sears Roebuck & Co. refused him a summer job because he is white.

U.S. District Court Judge Joseph M. Blumenthal heard arguments on the suit filed by Alan R. Hollander of Pomona, N.Y., a senior at Wesleyan University, but reserved judgment on the case.

Hollander, representing himself, said a Sears recruiter discriminated against him when the recruiter visited Wesleyan in December, 1973, seeking students for a special summer training program for minorities.

Sears claimed in its briefs Hollander was turned down for the minority program but added that he had been offered a job under a regular summer training program.

Hollander claimed the Sears representative refused to interview him for a job.

Yeomans Criticizes Board of Finance

David Yeomans, first selectman responding to the Board of Finance not reconsidering the town's purchasing a bulldozer said, "I regard it as unfair that the people will not be given a chance to choose."
Yeomans said $8,000 to purchase the bulldozer presently being rented by the town was unanimously approved by the Board of Selectmen.
He said they asked for reconsideration for two reasons. First because the finance board rejected the original request by a close vote.
The second reason is the cost to the town over the long run will be less if the donor is purchased and not rented.

SOUTH WINDSOR

Bernard T. Kelley, 17, of 20 Robert Rd., Vernon, was charged Tuesday with third-degree criminal mischief in connection with a complaint that someone was driving around the Starke Jr. playground area and causing damage.
Kelley was released on his promise to appear in court in Rockville on April 22.
Howard D. St. Pierre, of 310 Hartford Turnpike, and a passenger in his car, Dana Dombek, 17, of Vernon Center Heights, Vernon, were treated last night at Rockville General Hospital for injuries suffered in a one-car accident on Tunnel Rd.

Chamber Opposes Hike In State's Sales Tax

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors has gone on record in opposition to the proposed increase in the state sales tax April 1.
In a letter to Gov. Ella Grasso and the Manchester area legislative delegation, directors expressed the thought that the tax increase will meet with strong resistance on the part of the consumer and will in turn sharply affect retail sales. They also expressed the thought that such purchases, which might normally be made in Connecticut, are likely to be made out of state.
Burl L. Lyons, chairman of the board of the Chamber, said directors also stated their opposition to some of the other tax proposals being considered in the new budget which, if adopted, are likely to result in more unemployment and a depressed business climate.
The letter made the suggestion that perhaps a seminar of selected business leaders with members of the executive and legislative branches of government might be the beginning toward developing a taxation program which would enable Connecticut to move forward and hopefully not impose a severe hardship on any single segment of the economy.

Lindsay May Petition PZC For Change in Liquor Law

Developer Albert Lindsay of Manchester is considering an application to the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) to change liquor serving rules to allow a new full-service restaurant on downtown Main St.
Lindsay proposes to build at 12,000-square-foot mini-mall at 83-85 Main St. with half of the space to be occupied by a liquor-serving restaurant. The building will be closed on Friday for several months. Lindsay told the PZC Monday night, awaiting town action on liquor rule amendments.
Lindsay, appearing before the PZC to explain his plans and seek guidance on the controversial liquor issue, didn't specifically say he'll propose his own rule change.
But he said Tuesday he's consulting with his attorney about the possibility of petitioning the PZC to ease restrictions on liquor establishments.
Indications are that Lindsay will work with Town Planner J. Eric Potter to draft a zoning regulation amendment which would remove distance restrictions from liquor rules in the Central Business District (downtown).
"We're looking for some method to be able to put a full-service restaurant, with liquor, on Main St.," Lindsay said Monday night.
The PZC has been debating possible changes in the liquor rules for nearly a year. One proposed regulation amendment, never acted upon, would have eased restrictions for "bona fide restaurants with inside seating capacity of not less than 200."
That proposal, drafted by Potter, was designed to allow establishment of new "quality" restaurants in town, but PZC members had mixed reactions to the plan and it never went to a vote.
Existing zoning regulations prohibit any liquor outlet (except for grocery stores selling beer) within 1,000 feet of another liquor outlet or within 200 feet of a college, school, church, charitable institution, hospital, or library.
In recent months, intermittent discussion by the PZC has revolved around easing of those restrictions either in specific zones (such as the Central Business District) or by defining different types of liquor outlets (grocery stores, package stores, taverns, restaurants, etc.).
PZC members hearing Lindsay's development plans Monday night seemed impressed by the proposal, and Vice Chairman John Hutchinson told Lindsay that the PZC has informally agreed to reopen discussion on the liquor rules.
The commission agreed Monday night, however, to postpone discussion of the rules until Chairman Alfred Sieffert returns. (He was out of town Monday.)
Lindsay's plans envision a three-story mini-mall including the restaurant and a variety of small specialty shops, at the site of the burned-out Kronick property on the east side of Main St.

Manchester Couple State's Only Army Recruiting Team

Once Upon a Stage, by Charles and Louise Samuels. (Dodd, Mead, $10) Television and film extravaganzas have so dazzled our senses that vaudeville seems as mythological as King Arthur's Round Table. Yet in the 1920s vaudeville, with its unassuming comedy and dance acts, was the nation's dominant form of entertainment. In this charming book, the authors bring back that era with perky anecdotes of such bygone favorites as Will Rogers and Fred Allen. A marvelous trip down Memory Lane.

royal victims of the French Revolution of the 1790s. The author, a respected historical writer, seeks to repair the images of the fated pair in this sprightly dual biography. Working from as much original material as he could unearth, he sets out to show that Louis was an involved, aware monarch and that Antoinette was far from a frivolous female. Fine, engrossing historical writing.

A Manchester couple has been assigned as Connecticut's only Army recruiting team and is one of the few in the country now on recruiting duty.

Sgts. Susan and John Blair, of 178 New State Rd., started recruiting in the Hartford area only two weeks ago. Although Mrs. Blair is working at the Enfield Recruiting Station and her husband is at the Army's Hartford office, they have already worked as a team in counseling prospective applicants.

According to the couple, recruiting is one of the biggest challenges they have had since joining the Army.

Said Mrs. Blair, "We've been having great success in working together, mainly in talking with other couples who are considering enlistment. They have a lot of misconceptions about husbands and wives getting split up in the service and want to ask someone who knows first-hand about living conditions for couples."

Mrs. Blair noted that in the last six months in Connecticut, four couples have already enlisted and at least half a dozen others are considering joining.

The Blairs, who are both 22, have been married less than a year. They met while stationed at Ft. Carson, Colo. Mrs. Blair, a native of Wisconsin, enlisted in 1973 as a clerk-typist after attending Eau Claire College in her home state. Her husband, originally from Georgia, attended North Georgia College and joined in 1972 to work as a radio teletype operator. Both have signed for three-year enlistments.

Because they wanted to work more directly with the public, they first applied for recruiting duty last summer. After appearing before a special selection panel in Colorado, they were notified of their positions this fall.

Sgts. John and Susan Blair of Manchester

Although they frequently work 12 to 14-hour days, the long hours don't bother the Blairs. Another of the reasons they requested recruiting duty, said Blair, was "because it doesn't seem like work to us to talk to people about deciding what career to choose."

After March 16, the Blairs will be among the few husband and wife teams to attend the intensive Recruiting and Career Counseling Course at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Town Will Buy Soccer Shirts

Fiction

The Arthur Daley Years, edited by James Tuite. (Quadrangle, $10) A collection of deft, highly human newspaper columns of the late Pulitzer Prize winning reporter for the New York Times. Daley covered the pantheon of sports heroes, from Knute Rockne to Roy Campanella, and possessed a special genius for evoking their personalities and the drama of their sports.

Okay, Everybody Up the Social Ladder, by Patricia Cappella. (Pyramid, $1.50) A society columnist writes breezily, amusingly and informatively of how to improve one's social position -- and she claims everyone wants to -- in New York or Podunk. Some of her advice, such as how to organize a charity benefit, is on the detailed, handbook side.

James and John Stuart Mill, by Bruce Mazlish. (Basic Books, $16.95) This is a definitive study of the utilitarian philosopher and his philosopher-economist son by a leading exponent of psychohistory. The analysis of the younger Mill's relationships with women and his championing of women's rights is particularly fascinating in the light of their mid-Victorian setting.

Louis and Antoinette, by Vincent Cronin. (Morrow, $12.50) History has been hard on Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, the

Before you buy a battery, check its cold cranking power for help in starting your car . . . and reserve capacity for accessories. Group 24C for most American-made cars.

High Voltage means straight-through-the-partition cell connectors deliver more initial starting power than an otherwise identical battery with up-and-over cell connectors.

Battery Guarantee
 If Battery proves defective due to electrical failure and will not hold a charge, we will replace it free of charge within 90 days of purchase; after 90 days we will replace it with a new battery charging only for the period of ownership.
