The Hartogs Case

NEW YORK CITY — It isn't as world-shaking as the fallow of Kissinger's peace mission or the collapse of the South Vietnam defense bid, in its own area of a professional code which goes back to the start of the Freudian tradition.

One is reminded of Auden's "public faces in private places." The private face in the private place is different. It is common knowledge in therapy circles that erotic relations with patients are growing in number.

One thing the huge $500,000 damage award against Hartogs will do is to make the offending therapist much wiser, and also bring a deluge of other malpractice suits in its wake.

The central question is, of course, not one of law but of professional ethics in therapy. There is a well-known letter from Freud to his Hungarian disciple, Sandor Ferenczi, chiding him for kissing and fondling his female patients as an experiment in the therapeutic technique.

Major corporations are attempting to salvage a sunken Soviet submarine in the Pacific Ocean last year.

In his massive biography of Freud, Ernest Jones is nasty about Ferenczi, more than hinting that his effort to try his new method was part of a deteriorating mind, due to the effect of penicillin anemia on his central nervous system.

TOWN OF MANCHESTER, CONNECTICUT

March 25, 1975

TO: BOARD OF DIRECTORS
FROM: R. B. WEISS, GENERAL MANAGER
SUBJECT: Tentative Budget and Budget Message
Fiscal Year Beginning July 1, 1975

The General Fund budget that follows presents a program of operation reflecting a continuation of Town services at or below the present level. To maintain the level of service will require a budget totaling $21,997,731 or an increase of $1,617,012 compared with estimated expenditures for 1974-75, or $1,933,195 compared with the approved budget as of December 31, 1974.

The General Fund budget categorically breaks down as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Category, 1974-75, 1975-76, Increase. Rows include General Government, Board of Education, etc.

In addition to the above, the Fire District will require an increase of .8 mills to fund its budget which also reflects no added personnel. The Sewer budget will require an increase to .25% of the water bill to maintain the required service level.

The tax increase required to maintain the present level of services does not satisfy me and I am sure the Board of Directors will want to examine possible service cut backs in order to reduce the mill rate.

Our Grand List showed a lower than normal increase and the freeing of various categories of property taxes with inadequate reimbursement by the State further compels to increase our property tax rate.

We are estimating overall Revenue Sharing receipts at the same level as in the current year. This could change either up or down but we will not know what our allocation is until late April.

We have allocated $675,000 of these funds for general fund operation, down approximately $50,000 from last year, and $475,000 on capital projects - up from $411,000 last year.

COMMENTS ON FACTORS AFFECTING REVENUES

The overall Net Taxable Grand List for October 1, 1974 shows an increase of $4,440,538 above the October 1, 1973 Grand List. At the 1974-75 General Fund tax rate of 49.3 mills, this represents an increase of $218,918 to the General Fund. In a similar manner, the Grand List increase for the Fire District Special Fund amounted to $4,599,286 which would produce an additional $25,987 in tax revenues (The Fire District Special Fund Grand List increased more than the combined Grand List because of a decrease in the Grand List in the Eighth District.)

Public Law 74-334 - State of Connecticut reimbursement for exempted personal property, is expected to produce increased revenues of $175,000 for the General Fund and $19,000 for the Fire District Special Fund. Overall, revenue items in the State and Federal Source categories, both non-educational and educational related, show increases over last year's budgeted amounts.

On the other hand, interest on investments is expected to be about $50,000 lower due to lower interest rates which are expected to continue into 1975-76.

Taking everything into consideration, revenues for 1975-76 from all sources other than taxes and Revenue Sharing are expected to be about $167,000 above comparable estimates in the 1974-75 budget.

For fiscal year 1974-75, we expect actual revenues to be close to estimates. One revenue source, the State of Connecticut Grant for Special Education was received in an amount $120,000 above the estimate. This one amount has helped balance out several areas where revenues are expected to be below the estimates as you will see in Tax Revenue Detail.

We have incurred unforeseen expenses which have made this year a difficult one. Among these were the $60,000 appropriated to rebuild the Woodbridge Street Bridge, a similar amount for increased Street Light costs and generally increased costs for utilities, fuels and chemicals.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS - CURRENT

The following capital improvements are recommended to be funded from Revenue Sharing funds. Your attention is directed to the six year capital improvement budget for further detailed information.

Travel Film At Bushnell

Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Ralph Franklin will narrate his full-color travelogue, "The Canyon," at Bushnell Memorial Hall, Hartford.

The film includes a photographic sequence of the Grand Canyon from sunrise to sunset. Call 246-6807 for time schedule.

Other events coming to the Bushnell:

April 7 to 12 - Jane Powell stars in "Irene," direct from Broadway. Earl Wilson calls it "the season's musical sensation, the corniest, hammiest, but most pleasing show in town." Curtain is 8 p.m. Ticket information: 246-6807.

April 8 - The Bushnell Morning Lecture Club presents Ray Bolger at 11 a.m., speaking on "Ray Bolger's World." Admission is by series membership only.

The morning lecture series concludes May 9 with Joshua Logan, speaking in place of the late Martyn Green. For information, call Alice Chambers, 527-3123.

Dinner Theaters

The musical comedy "Applause" starring Dorothy Collins will be held over through April 27 at the Coachlight Dinner Theatre in East Windsor. For information, call 522-1266.

Tonight is the last performance of "I of I Do!" at the Four Seasons Dinner Theatre in Higganum. Beginning Wednesday, John Dunne stars as the blind boy in "Butterflies Are Free," a romantic comedy, which plays through April 27. For information, call 345-8515.

The musical comedy, "Tom Jones," opens Tuesday at the Chateau de Ville in East Windsor, and will play through April 27. For information, call 525-1488.

Musical Events

Musical events in the area will include the weekly Capitol Concert Series in the Hall of Flags Thursday at noon. The Norwalk Youth Symphony will perform classical and pops selections. The event is free to the public.

Local connoisseurs soon will have a chance to compare the calibre of University of Connecticut student performers with that of students from the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y.

Sunday at 8:15 p.m. in Von der Mehdert Recital Hall the UConn music department inaugurates a series of guest recitals by students from Eastman as well as other regional music schools.

The premiere performance will feature violinist Richard Stout, violinist, and Thomas J. Lymentull, pianist.

Four members of this year's crop of "Musicians From Marlboro" will offer a concert of uncommon chamber music at UConn's Jorgensen Auditorium Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. Call 486-4226 for more information.

Monday, Frederick Black, tenor, with Lily Brissman, pianist, will present a faculty recital at 8:15 p.m. in Von der Mehdert Recital Hall.

Thursday, Richard Parke, tenor, will share billing with Leonard Seeber, pianist, in a faculty recital at 8:15 p.m. in Von der Mehdert Recital Hall.

Student and faculty recitals are free to the public.

Through April 27

The Hartford Stage continues its current showing of "Afternoon Tea" through April 27. For information, call 525-4258.

Jazz Society

The Hartford Jazz Society will present the three Heath brothers, Jimmy, Percy and Al "Tootie" Heath, with Stanley Cowell and Ted Dunbar on April 6 at 8 p.m. at the Sheraton Tobacco Valley Inn, Windsor. (Exit 305, Bloomfield Ave., on I-91)

Tickets are available at the door. For information, call 242-6886.

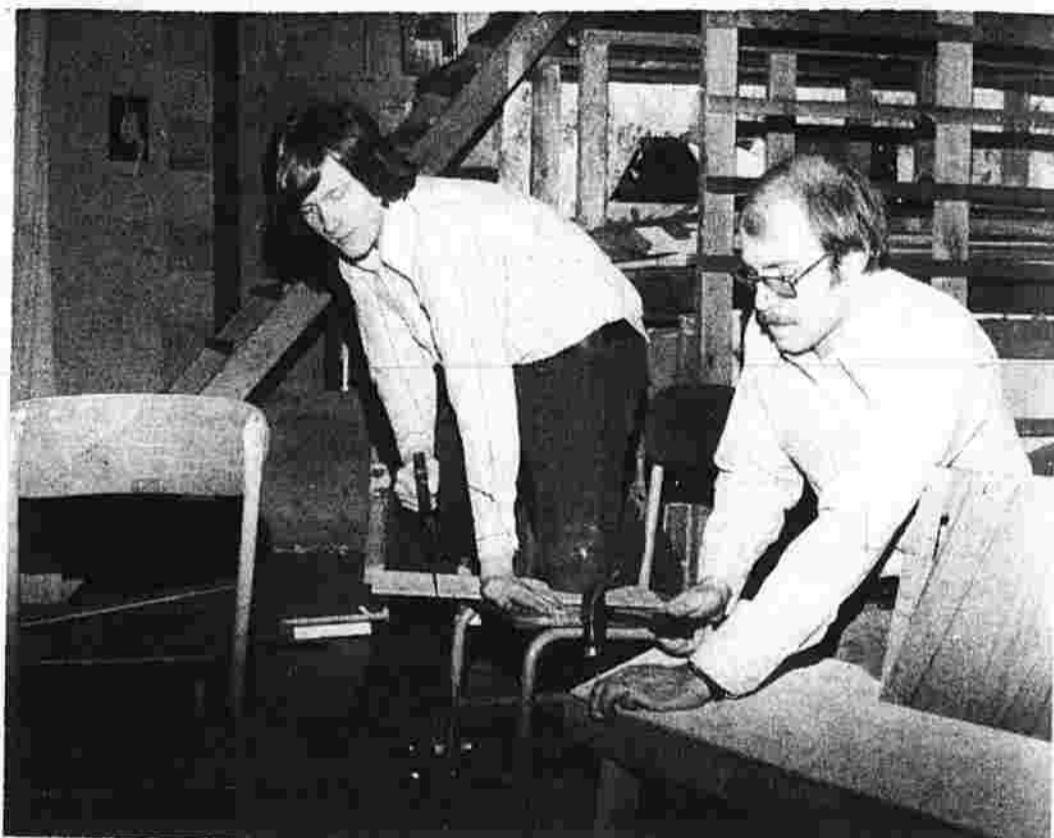

Voice Recital

Ileana Tefpers Petersons, mezzo-soprano, will present a voice recital April 5 at 7 p.m. in the Manchester Community College auditorium on Bidwell St.

The event is sponsored by the Latvian Rota Chorus of Connecticut.

Miss Petersons has starred at the Stockholm Opera in Sweden. She has also sung in opera in Germany, Denmark and England. This is her first visit to the United States.

The public is invited. There will be a free will offering. For information, call Mrs. Ara Bramanis; 646-4843.

Behind the Scenes at MHS

It's the work behind the scenes that helps to make a successful play. Here, Stewart Flavell saws paneling while Lee Potterton pounds nails into a section of a set for "My Fair Lady." Manchester High School students are busy working on production and rehearsals for the musical which will be presented Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door. Atheneum Schedules Exhibition

An exhibition of drawings by California artist Bruce Conner will open at the Wadsworth Atheneum Tuesday.

Conner is internationally known as a sculptor and filmmaker, but his drawings, while perhaps less widely seen, form an important segment of his work and have become increasingly significant as a cumulative commentary on his artistic preoccupations.

The period covered by the exhibition is from 1955 to 1972. Most of the works are small in size although many are monumental in impact, and two are done on objects - a drum head and a standing world globe.

There are 55 drawings in the Atheneum exhibition and they will remain on view through May 11.

Conner's drawings must be seen at close range for their full content to be perceived. Densely packed fine pen lines often almost completely obliterate the white background, and images or designs first emerge as mere traces before the eye begins to delineate all of the patterns therein.

For most of 1982 Conner lived in Mexico where he absorbed much of the symbolic culture of that country. Mandalas and other ritual shapes have become an important element in many of his drawings because of that experience.

Conner was born in Kansas in 1933 and has lived in San Francisco since his 24th year, except for the year in Mexico and two years in Boston from 1963 to 1965.

One-man exhibitions of his work have been organized by, among others, the Philadelphia Institute of Contemporary Art, the Robert Fraser Gallery in London, the Swetzoff Gallery in Boston and Martha Jackson Gallery in New York City.

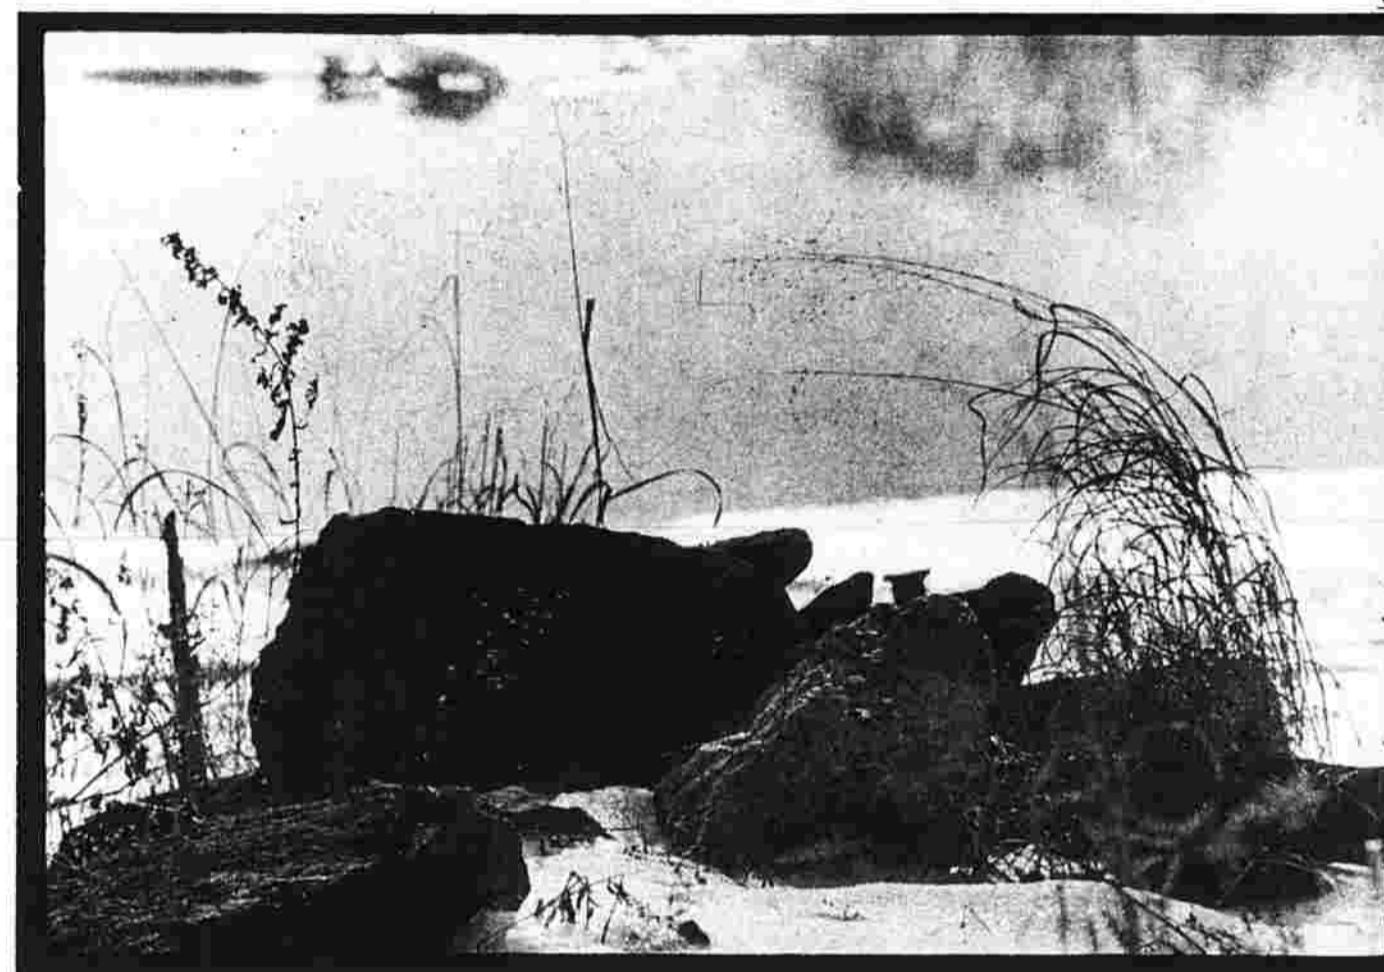

The exhibition may be seen during regular museum hours, Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Suggested museum admission fees are $1 for adults and 50 cents for 12 to 18 years. Children under 12, museum members, and scheduled tour groups are admitted free.

Lecture Topic Is Beethoven

"The Changing Image of Beethoven, 1770-1975: From Musician to Demi-God" is the subject of a lecture by Dr. Alessandra Comini slated at the University of Hartford Tuesday at 11 a.m.

Dr. Comini, author, professor and lecturer, has presented her discussion of Beethoven before the American Musicological Society and the American Historical Association.

Her lecture, free to the public, is sponsored by the Hartford Art School and the university's history department. It will be held at East Hall.

A panel of three judges has been named to select photographs for the first photography competition-exhibition at Manchester Community College.

Named were Sylvian Ofiara of Manchester, Roland Chirico of South Windsor, and Joseph Naylor of Manchester.

Ofiara, former chief photographer of The Manchester Evening Herald has been involved in photography for more than 30 years. He is now photography instructor and director of photography services for MCC.

Chirico, assistant professor of English at MCC, teaches journalism in the school's media curriculum.

Photography has been his avocation for several years.

Naylor, whose vocation has been photography for many years, operates his own studio in East Hartford. He is an instructor of professional photography at the Rhode Island School of Photography.

Judging in the MCC competition-exhibition is scheduled Monday. Deadline for print submission was today. The show opens in MCC's Stairwell Gallery at 146 Hartford Rd. next week and runs through April 25.

The event, split into Junior and Senior categories, is being coordinated by Ofiara and Robert Manning, director of the Stairwell Gallery.

Circus Coming In May

The 104th edition of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus is coming to the Hartford Civic Center May 6 for 12 performances through May 11.

Mail orders for circus tickets—priced at $4, $5, and $6, with a $1 discount for children under 12 for weekday shows—are being accepted at the Civic Center box office. The address is Hartford Civic Center, Hartford, Conn. 06108.

The circus is produced by Irvin and Kenneth Feld, and is staged and directed by Richard Barstow. Features in the extravaganza are Charly Baumann and his Royal Bengal and Siberian Tigers; the Same! Mixed Animal Act from the German Democratic Republic; and the world-famous flying trapeze artists, The Flying Gaonans.

Also appearing will be dozens of trained animals, a group of talented clowns, and Michu, the world's smallest man.

"The Middle Age Blues," a one-hour special, is in production for RKO General Television, operator of New York's WOR-TV (Channel 9). The show will examine two 40-ish men,

TOM POSTON

Shakespeare Theatre Features Tom Poston

Popular actor and comic Tom Poston will appear as a featured member of the American Shakespeare Theatre's acting company during the upcoming 1975 Repertory and Student Audience Seasons.

Poston has been cast as Friar Lawrence in "Romeo and Juliet," which will run during the Student Audience Season, April 14 through June 6.

Repertory season audiences will see Poston as the Fool in "King Lear," with Morris Carnovsky in the title role. The Shakespearean tragedy starts the summer-long repertory season May 17 directed by Michael Kathn.

Poston will also appear as Simon Stimson in Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," which joins the Shakespeare Theatre repertory June 10.

Poston, well known to television, stage and film audiences, first won national prominence as the forgetful man-on-the-street on "The Steve Allen Show," for which he received an Emmy Award.

A free subscription brochure is available by writing the Shakespeare Theatre, Stratford, Conn., 06497, or by calling 375-4457.

'Broadway Magic' Offered At ECHS April 11 to 13

East Catholic High School will present "Broadway Magic: A Salute to the American Musical" on April 11, 12 and 13 in the high school auditorium.

This year, ECHS is presenting a musical revue which will include many Broadway favorites. The show salutes Broadway, tracing back 60 years of American musicals.

Some of the best remembered musicals to be highlighted in the revue include "No, No Naniette," "Gypsy," "The Music Man," "Hello, Dolly!," "Company," and "Funny Girl."

"Hair" and "Pippin" are two contemporary shows which will be represented in the production. Well known composers represented include Cole Porter, Irving Berlin, George Gershwin, Rodgers and Hammerstein, Jerome Kern and Leonard Bernstein.

Presenting the show numbers will be a large chorus, a small group of solo performers, and a dance corps.

Stan Kenton, pianist and composer, starred all day March 20 in a jazz workshop at Glastonbury High School, attended by more than 600 high school jazz players throughout the state.

During the afternoon, 21 high school stage bands performed and received constructive criticism from members of the Stan Kenton Jazz Orchestra.

The event was climaxed by an evening concert present by Stan Kenton and his band. Also featured was the Manchester Community College Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Robert Vater, MCC music director and coordinator of the event.

88-Year-Old Top Banana Still Leaves 'Em Laughing

By JAMES V. HEALION

EAST WINDSOR (UPI) — Meet Harry Conley, a show business profile in courage, who has been leaving them laughing for almost a century. He's 88 and still going strong.

Not many in the audience at the Chateau de Ville dinner theater would ever guess that the cane he uses isn't a prop. The man with the funny hat and colorful clothes is paralyzed on one side.

A stroke disabled him for 16 months, but he refused to be discouraged and one day not long ago he picked up the telephone and said, "I'm ready to go back to work."

He is an original cast member of "This Was Burlesque," a ribald, rollicking musical in its 14th year which is based on the recollections of Ann Corio, an Aphrodite of the runway, who fled Hartford High School "after three fast weeks" in the 1930s.

"They wouldn't let me in the drama club," the "Queen of Burlesque" said, her beautiful eyes still blazing at the memory. "I got mad and took off on my own. I was 15," she said.

Conley ran away from his Pittsburgh home when he was a teen-ager, astonishing a concert hall audition at the turn of the century with his lilting "Honey Boy, I Hate To See You Leave Me." He got the job as a singing waiter, his first pair of long pants, and a derby, to make him look older than his 14 years.

He later sang in operettas, including "Rose Marie," and Sigmund Romberg's "Blossom Time," one of the most successful ever written, toured the vaudeville circuits as a headliner, playing the Palace not once, but two and three times a year.

And he was a top banana for Billy Minsky, a N.Y. World reporter who left the news business for the comparative safety and success of burlesque after his sensational disclosures in the famous police payoff scandal known as the Rosenthal-Becker case.

Conley's most enduring act consists of browbeating a stage wife. He does it with machine precision and it still gets the laughs today that it drew when he stumbled on it 50 years ago in Cincinnati.

In his clear, ringing voice he asks the hapless wife, who never says a word, a series of questions, and as he does it he raises timing and delivery almost to an art form.

"What the hell's going on?" he barks from under his hat. "I put you out in the cornfield as a scarecrow, and look what happens!" The crows, he bellows, "brought back every kernel of corn they stole in the past two years!"

Another consideration in the skit's success might be Conley's funny-but-not-too-funny clothes, and the great hat he wears, a sort of 10-gallon with a sawedoff brim. Producer Mike Todd liked it so much that in 1951 he had it blocked before every performance of "Peep Show," then a Broadway hit.

Keeping one's clothes this side of being hilarious involves an old burlesque rule quoted by Maxie Furman, 64, a comic's comic, and a star of the show who has been working at being funny for more than 40 years. "Don't get your clothes funnier than your jokes," Maxie said.

He met his wife, Edith, 33 years ago after a show in Union City, N.J., a mecca of burlesque. He walked into a restaurant and some women she was with said, "There's Wilbur," Conley recalls, smiling. That was his skit name.

"I can't be idle," he says, vowing to never retire. For those thinking of retiring, he says, "Keep going until it's forced. Don't sit there and look out the window."

Another top banana on the bill is Steve Mills, 82, of Warwick, R.I., a funny man and great star of vaudeville whom Minsky biographer Rowland Barber describes as "another Chaplin in a time when there was no place save burlesque for another Chaplin."

Mills said he was playing the Winter Garden Roof one time when "Harry Conley came to steal one of my scenes for the Minsky's."

Word got around about Mills' performance on its own merits but also because Conley was able to duplicate it so well. "Harry did me a great turn," says Mills. "J.J. Schubert called me into his office and offered me a five year contract."

Listen Kids! Take Cycling Seriously!

Bikes: Transportation, Not Toys!

Since 1972, more bikes have been sold than cars.

Just about half the American people (nearly 100 million) are now cycling and that number is growing.

Kids all along have known that cycling is great, but now, bike happy adults account for at least half the total number of cyclists.

Teachers Teach Bike Safety

There was a time when bike safety education was given little attention at school. Now this important subject is moving into the classroom. Teachers are teaching the rules of the road.

More Bike Lanes

More tax money is being used to build bike lanes along streets and highways.

Tougher Laws

Local police officers are being more strict about enforcing bike laws. Children can no longer think they are too young to get a warning or even a ticket from an officer.

How About Bike Registration

While many cities have voluntary bike registration, some experts think this should be required. The state of California does have state-wide registration.

1. Since most kids don't carry any identification, registration would help identify them if they were hurt.
2. Since identification would be much easier, registration would make kids more careful about their bicycle conduct.
3. Registration would cut down on the number of stolen bikes and help identify the ones that were taken.

Doing a wheelie in the road is dangerous!

A bike safety instructor told The Mini Page:

"Most kids have the idea that a bike is a toy, and they play with it when they drive. Bike driving is serious business. When driving in the street, all kids must remember that a bike driver has the same responsibilities on the road as a car driver. Bike drivers must obey the same laws as car drivers."

Bike lanes are springing up all over the country. One kind of bike lane runs along a busy city street. The best kind of lane would be one that is separated from the street by a row of trees.

Registered bikes won't have car size license plates, but it might be a good idea!

Book Review: "noses and toes"

"noses and toes, an up and down and in and out book", written and illustrated by Richard Hefter, a Strawberry book distributed Larousse & Co., New York, 1974.

"Pears on bears,
"Bears in chairs,
Pairs of bears with chairs going up the stairs."

Funny rhyming verse with simple words in big print and pictures in bright colors make this a book that young beginning readers will enjoy looking at, giggling over and reading all by themselves.

Richard Hefter is an artist and designer who has written and illustrated many books for children. Another great beginning book is "an animal alphabet," Mr. Hefter lives in New York with his wife and son.

SADDLE: Adjust to body and tighten all nuts.

WHEELS: Eliminate wobble. Tighten wheel nuts and oil bearings.

REFLECTOR: Must be visible for 300 feet.

COASTER BRAKE: Does it brake evenly? Unless you're an expert, have it adjusted by a service-man.

CHAIN: Check for damaged links. Secure snug fit. Clean and lubricate frequently.

PEDALS: Lubricate and tighten pedal bearings and spindle. Replace worn pedal treads.

CRANK HANGER: Keep clean and greased. If it wobbles, have service-man make adjustments.

TIRE VALVE: Inspect often for leaks.

TIRES: Inflate to correct pressure. Remove imbedded metal, glass, cinders, etc.

SPOKES: Replace broken ones promptly.

LIGHT: Must be visible for 300 feet.

FORK BEARINGS: Lubricate.

HANDLE BARS: Adjust to body. Tighten and keep it well down in fork.

WARNING DEVICE: Be sure it works properly.

What About a Flag?

A bright colored flag on a high aerial can help motorists spot bike riders. However, experts warn that a flag does have some safety drawbacks. It can catch on a sign or car radio aerial as the rider whizzes by. At certain speeds, a flag, whipping in the wind, can cause the rider to lose his balance.

Super Sport: George Medich

George (Doc) Medich has just the right medicine for the New York Yankees baseball team -- strong pitching. Last year Doc supplied that. He won 19 games for the Yanks in his second full season in big league baseball.

In the off-season, Doc attends medical school at the University of Pittsburgh. He plans to become a doctor when his baseball career is over.

While in undergraduate school at Pittsburgh, Doc was a good tight end on the football team.

When he isn't studying or pitching, Doc likes to fish.

Picking Your Bike

When picking your bike, remember to sit on the saddle, place the ball of one foot on the lower pedal, grasp the handlebars as though you were riding, and check the following:

A. The leg with the foot on the low pedal is bent slightly at the knee when the ball of the foot is pressing on the pedal.

B. The seat should be parallel to the ground.

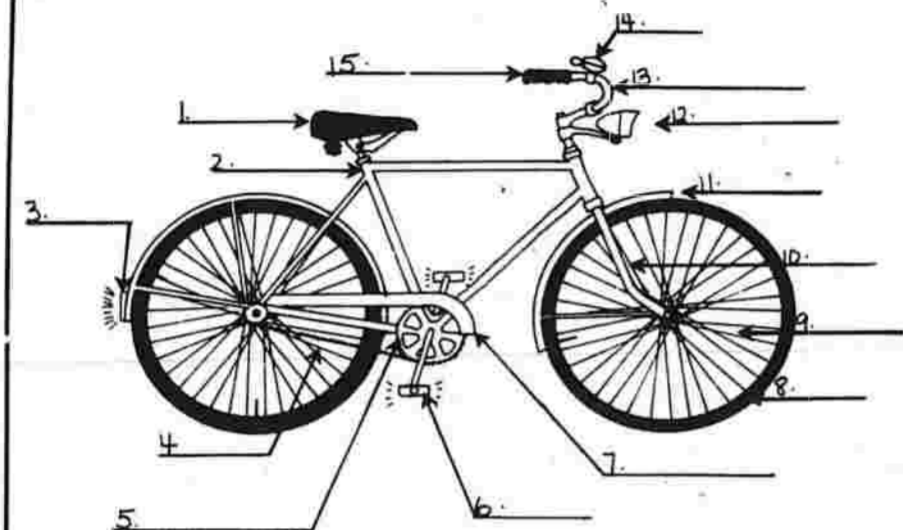

C. The upper part of the body is bent slightly forward.

D. The handlebar grips should be at right angles to the handlebar stem.

Bike-a-thons Raise Money

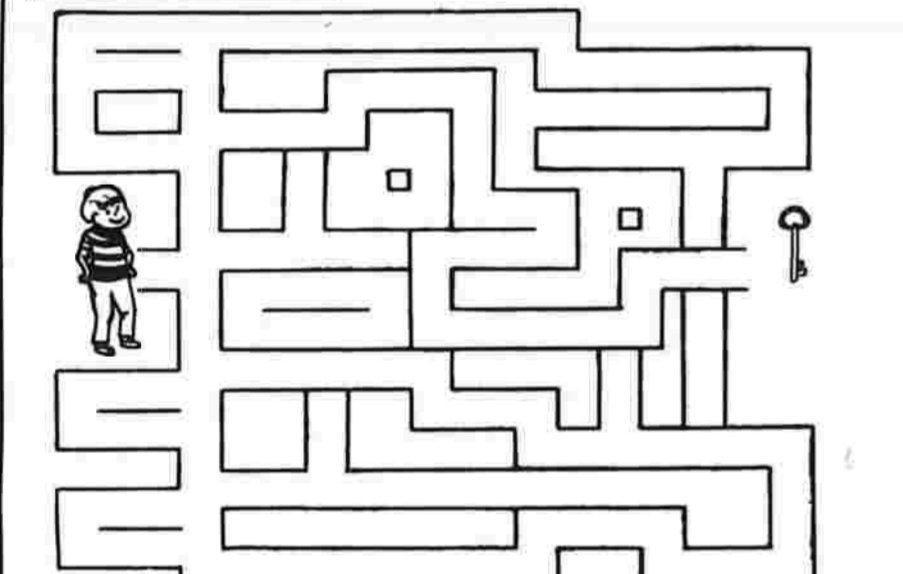

Bike-a-thons are a very good way to raise money for worthy causes. Each of the volunteer riders has a sponsor (usually some local business) who agrees to pay a certain amount for each mile pedalled. The above bike-a-thon raised money for crippled children.

Ask Kleiner
By DICK KLEINER

DEAR DICK: I was curious about how actors and actresses become famous or well-known stars. Did most of them work hard at it at acting school or just happen to be discovered by some producer or director? — FRANK SHOLES, Mobile, Ala.

There are a few overnight successes but they are quite rare. Most stars get there by dint of very hard work and long years spent slaving over a hot script. Many have gone to acting school. Many haven't. Those that haven't usually studied in the practical schools of summer stock or little theaters. I believe most stars deserve their stardom.

DEAR DICK: Why has Jeopardy been taken off the air? In my opinion, it's the only quiz show worth watching — it takes brains to win on that show, not just a whole lot of silly hoopla. — MRS. W.B. JOHNSON, Hastings, Neb.

Maybe that was Jeopardy's problem — too much brains and not enough silly hoopla. It's silly hoopla that makes the world go around, unfortunately, not brains. Anyhow, there is a syndicated nighttime version of Jeopardy which is still on — ask your local station to buy it. It was the daytime version on NBC which was dropped.

DEAR DICK: My family and I have been watching the reruns of Mod Squad. Can you tell me whatever happened to the principals. We never see them on other shows. — MRS. MIRIAM HERMAN, Del Mar, Calif.

From left to right, Michael Cole is active — he just shot a Police Story, among others. Clarence Williams III went back to New York and hasn't been heard from again. Leggy Peggy Lipton had a baby and got married (to Quincy Jones) and is being domestic these days.

DEAR DICK: What ever happened to "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs"? Why hasn't it ever been shown on TV? I have children and grandchildren who have never seen it. — HARRY ORNER Montoursville, Pa.

The Disney people keep "Snow White" and their other big cartoon features locked up and bring them out for theatrical showings roughly every seven years. TV? No, not while they can keep showing them in theaters once in a while. The plans are to release "Snow White" again this coming Christmas. Watch for it in your local theaters.

DEAR DICK: I saw a movie on TV some weeks back — "All the King's Men," with Broderick Crawford. Was that show based on the life of the late Huey P. Long of Louisiana? — MRS. K.J. PEMBERTON, Copperas Cove, Tex.

That great movie was based on Robert Penn Warren's magnificent novel. Certainly, Warren took Long as his inspiration, his starting point. It did not follow Long's life and career literally but there is no doubt that Long was the prototype of the book-movie's protagonist.

First Graders at South School Give Impressive Performance

By MAL BARLOW

The 25 players of Manchester's South School first grade put on an impressive performance of "Let's Go Fly A Kite" Tuesday on the school's stage.

They remembered their lines without the usual hesitation this reviewer is accustomed to in the lower grades.

The play is a take-off on "Mary Poppins", an English story made into a popular children's movie by Walt Disney.

The Martin School first graders walked from Dartmouth St. to the South School on S. Main St. for the 10 a.m. performance. They found it well worth the walk in the morning damp.

About 80 parents and friends of the players came for the 1:30 p.m. performance and were just as pleased.

The part of Mary Poppins was convincingly played by Lisa Miller. Samuel Chaput gave a shining performance of Mary's friend, Bert.

Melissa Cook and James Lacey played the naughty children, Jane and Michael, who get taken care of by Mary.

The penguin song and dance was a marvel as done by Christopher LaVigne, Christopher Davis, Raymond Juleson, and Douglas Farmer.

The bees sang a pretty song with the robins. The bees were played by Carolyn Barry, Kristin Ferraioli, and Susan Alpert. The robins were Beth Ann Churchill and LaJuana Jones.

The chimney sweeps stepped lively during a thrilling dance routine. They were played by Scott McFarland, Scott Mandeville, Aaron Cook, and James Patrick.

The children's mother and father were Susan Congdon and Robert Killian.

Robert Chaloux was the constable. Passersby were Richard Houle, Christopher Marti, Claudine Whiston, and Melinda Waterman.

Susan Moriarty narrated the show. She introduced everyone by name and part. Mrs. Bailey provided piano music and guidance.

The background for the play was painted by the players. Mrs. Bailey said each player planned to cut out what he or she had done after the play.

"They were so good," said Mrs. Bailey after the last performance.

Mrs. Bailey had teaching uppermost in mind throughout the production of the musical.

For many weeks their singing instruction has been the play's songs. Their art instruction has included the painting of the play's mural.

They worked on their writing and penmanship as they wrote out invitations to the other classrooms in South School. There is a Project Concern class, a second grade and a third grade in the little school.

And they practised clear and loud speech in order for everyone in their audiences to hear them.

"At recess, they were singing the songs," Mrs. Bailey said. "Pretty soon, every child could recite the whole play. They knew everyone's parts."

"The most amazing thing to me was that they didn't need any help on stage," she added.

"They were coming on and off stage, changing positions, changing the lighting and changing for the two scenes. I had to stay out front and play the piano."

The young players also kept quiet during the performances of the others. They kept on stage but behind curtains.

About the only interference with others doing their parts may have been the moving of their lips as they mouthed each other's parts.

All 25 children in the South School first grade attended school Tuesday despite several problems.

An hour before the morning performance, the children came to Mrs. Bailey and said, "There's a big problem. Chris Marti is not here."

Chris was to play a passerby and say, "Jolly good. See you later Bert."

But Chris finally walked in the door and the whole class cheered him loudly.

Scott McFarland, a chimney sweep, almost missed the show also. He was ill.

In fact, Scott left the stage after the afternoon performance to see his pediatrician, Dr. Robert Breer.

Kathleen Bailey, 13, won credit from Mrs. Bailey for helping her write the play. They also collaborated last year on a "Sesame Street" play for Mrs. Bailey's first grade.
