Fleeing Toward Saigon

Thieu Ouster Reported Key To Cease-Fire Negotiations

SAIGON (UPI) — Senior Communist diplomats said tonight the Viet Cong will enter into immediate negotiations for a cease-fire if South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu is ousted. "They are ready to stop the fighting immediately," a leading Communist diplomat with close ties to the Viet Cong military delegation in Saigon told the UPI. "I am sure that if Thieu goes the PRG (Provisional Revolutionary Government) will enter into immediate negotiations," the diplomat said. "The PRG is very interested in negotiating."

With the Communist peace feelers, no major Communist advances were reported today in their offensive that has swallowed up most of South Vietnam. Streams of refugees and army stragglers still poured into Saigon and the city government issued shoot to kill orders and other stringent regulations to keep control of a chaotic situation. Military authorities announced that the curfew in Saigon was being moved ahead one hour from 10 p.m. to 9 p.m. effective tonight. In the Mekong Delta city of Can Tho, 75 miles southwest of Saigon where Australian planes flew in 1,800 refugees Wednesday, the curfew was moved up to 8 p.m. from 10 p.m.

Thieu's fate was increasingly in doubt. He was in disfavor with some military leaders who blamed him for the debacle that has delivered three-fourths of South Vietnam to the Communists without a struggle.

Reports Wednesday said the generals had given Thieu three days to resign. The Council of Generals met throughout the day to discuss action — only the second time in three years the generals were known to have met in a group.

There was pressure from the Saigon senate, from Buddhists, from militant Roman Catholics and from outside sources for Thieu to step down. Today in London, Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said there was a possibility the U.S. Congress would be more favorably disposed to aid South Vietnam if Thieu quit.

Another Communist diplomat said, "Negotiations which would bring about some sort of coalition and elections would be the cheap way to victory."

The diplomats said, however that the Viet Cong would likely press for a decisive battle for Saigon if President Thieu remained in office. There were similar official statements Wednesday in Paris by members of the permanent Viet Cong delegation there who said Saigon could even come under artillery bombardment.

The Communists indicated that the three-party National Council of Reconciliation which was provided for in the Paris peace accords but was never put into operation might be the vehicle for the peace negotiations.

There have never been substantive talks between the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong — and there has been no formal contact between them since April of 1974 when Saigon called off the weekly meetings in Saigon and Paris.

The shoot to kill orders already have been carried out in some areas. The commander of the III Corps — the Saigon area — used firing squads Wednesday to execute a number of unruly troops.

Military sources said the troops of the Saigon government were abandoning their positions faster than the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units could capture them.

The sources also disclosed that an entire 10,000-man division of Communist troops had "disappeared" from Tay Ninh Province 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

They said military intelligence officers had no idea whether the troops had gone into neighboring Cambodia or were moving toward the capital.

The Saigon government had fewer than 5,000 troops blocking the Communist march along the South China Sea toward the capital.

Half of them were fighting around Xuan Loc, 38 miles east of Saigon, in an attempt to re-open vital Highway 1.

The others were concentrated in and around the capital. Military sources said the North Vietnamese had pushed the front lines to less than 100 miles from Saigon by midday.

The other Communist threat came from troops arrayed in a wide arc from west to north of Saigon.

Orphans Arrive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Fifty-two Vietnamese orphans arrived in the United States Wednesday night after a flight of 16 hours and 53 minutes. The pilot of the World Airways cargo jet that brought them out of South Vietnam defied traffic controllers' orders in Saigon not to take off, and some 500 other orphans had to be left behind. The children, ranging in age from three months to eight years, are waiting at 6th Army Headquarters in The Presidio to meet the families that previously adopted them.

Looking For Work

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Convicted Watergate conspirator John D. Ehrlichman is looking for work and a place to live in New Mexico.

The former presidential aide, who has grown a beard, has been staying with friends and has been seen at several restaurants in the city, the Santa Fe New Mexican reported Wednesday. The newspaper said Ehrlichman hoped to find work in "public service." He is free while appealing his conviction.

Cambodian Fighting Fierce

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government reinforcements moved into an area along the capital's defense line today where Communist-led insurgents pushed to within five miles of the city by overrunning a government position at a dike. There was heavy fighting north, northwest and south of Phnom Penh, all of it clearly heard in the capital. More than 60 rockets and 105mm artillery shells fell in Phnom Penh from dawn Wednesday until morning today. Rebel troops Wednesday captured seven positions east, west and south of the besieged capital.

Favor Rent Deposit Bill

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Citizen Action Group today testified in favor of a measure to end what the group regards as widespread refusals by landlords to return residential deposits to tenants.

Bruce Dorpalen, a CCAG spokesman, said he has been contacted by organizations in Hartford, Stamford, Bridgeport and New London citing problems tenants have in getting their deposits back.

"The unscrupulous practices of some landlords amount to downright theft," Dorpalen said in a statement prepared for the legislature's State and Urban Development Committee.

Rematch Requested

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Farmer John McAdams, the owner of Brimmer, a 4-year-old cow, has asked the National Weather Service for a rematch of weather predicting. Brimmer, in an 80-day match, led the way by as much as 21 points before the NWS won in the last round. It just goes to prove that cows, like the government, can forecast weather correctly — at least some of the time.

Fischer Stripped of Title

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — The International Chess Federation today stripped American champion Bobby Fischer of his title and gave it to Anatoly Karpov of the Soviet Union. Karpov, the official challenger, won the title by default because Fischer refused to play him on the federation's terms. Fischer had submitted a set of proposed rules changes, but the federation accepted it only in part.

WPI Drops in March

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spurred by lower farm prices, the nation's Wholesale Price Index dipped 0.6 per cent in March for its fourth straight monthly decline, the Labor Department reported today.

It was the first time since 1963 that the index declined for four consecutive months. The index, which usually forecasts short-term future moves in retail prices, has made a dramatic turnaround this year.

The WPI for March was 170.4, 12.5 per cent higher than a year ago, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

No Military Aid

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., is willing to spend money to help Indochina refugees, but not the war effort.

He said he is "against any further military aid to Southeast Asia." Pastore said he "wouldn't resist feeding the people and taking care of the refugees. But that would have to be done through an international agency," such as CARE, religious organizations, or the International Red Cross.

New York City Offices Damaged by Time Bombs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Powerful time bombs exploded outside the offices of a bank and two insurance companies before dawn today. A Puerto Rican revolutionary group that killed four people in a January bombing took credit for the blasts.

The bombs shattered plate glass windows and awakened hundreds of people in midtown Manhattan. No one was seriously injured, however, and damage to the buildings was not severe because the explosives were placed at sidewalk entrances.

A fourth bomb, apparently discarded by the bombers because its timing device was about to detonate, exploded in a trash pile outside a snack-food restaurant.

A man walking nearby when one of the bombs went off was knocked to the ground and slightly injured. Four firemen were treated for cuts they received while clearing away fragments of broken glass from window frames.

The first three bombs exploded at the headquarters offices of the New York Life Insurance Co. and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and a branch office of Bankers Trust Co.

The fourth explosive was tossed to the ground in the neighborhood of the bank branch. Police and fire officials said, "Perhaps the bombers had one timed device that was about to go off and, knowing that, they just tossed it out the window of their car."

A man with a Spanish accent called the Associated Press at 12:52 a.m., less than 35 minutes after the explosions, and said, "This is the F-A-L-N. We just threw three bombs. You will find a communication in a telephone booth at 88 St. and Lexington Ave."

Discretionary HUD Funds Unavailable to Town

By SOL R. COHEN

Exactly one month ago, Town Manager Robert Weiss predicted Manchester had a good chance to receive $150,000 in federal discretionary funds, under the Housing and Community Development Act. He acknowledged only $500,000 was available in the entire State of Connecticut.

Consequently, the Board of Directors authorized an application for the funds, with $100,000 of it for a revolving loan fund for downtown housing rehabilitation and $50,000 for sewer improvements downtown. A formal application was submitted to the Hartford area office of HUD (the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development).

The board has learned none of the $150,000 requested is available for Manchester. It was told only $250,000 in discretionary funds is available for 23 towns in the Hartford area.

The application for the $150,000 was in addition to a $301,000 federal block grant promised Manchester for 1975-76 under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. Originally, Manchester had been told it would receive $470,000. Review of the federal formula used in determining grants revealed to HUD it had made an error in computation and it lowered the sum to the $301,000 figure.

In letters to the 29-member Citizens Advisory Committee which helped develop Manchester's Community Development Plan, Weiss said the Manchester application "was considered to be exemplary in the region" by the Hartford area office of HUD and by the City of Hartford's Economic Research and Development Committee, which is assigned the task of reviewing applications.

The City of Hartford committee, comprised of Councilmen Nicholas Carbone, Richard Suisman and Richard Brown, added the following comment to its favorable review.

"We note that, while Manchester does have a very broad range of housing opportunities and is a very attractive community to families of all income ranges, it continues to have a very low minority population.

"We would hope that the town would address the question, in view of the characteristics of the town, as to why it contains such a low percentage of minority population and what efforts the town can undertake to improve this situation.

"We would further hope that the town will address itself to a greater degree in the needs of low and moderate income families, besides the elderly, who might be expected to reside in the community in the future."

President Expected to Assess U.S. Southeast Asia Policy

By HELEN THOMAS

UPI White House Reporter
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — President Ford emerges from a golfing vacation today to hold a news conference, make a speech and confer with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The nationally televised news conference in San Diego (at 3 p.m. EDT) was certain to produce pointed questions about U.S. policy toward its Southeast Asia allies now on the verge of communist takeovers.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen indicated Wednesday that Ford is prepared to make his first public assessment of the effects of the North Vietnamese blitzkrieg sweeping down on Saigon.

Nessen indicated in answer to a question that the White House would not call the Vietnamization policy a failure. "Vietnamization was intended to turn the fighting of the war over to the South Vietnamese supplied by American material help until they could afford their own weapons," Nessen said. "It was designed to remove all American troops, which it did. It was designed to live up to the Paris Peace Accords and get the prisoners back, which it did."

Ford also was scheduled to address a conference on his economic and energy programs and to eat supper with Navy recruits in the giant San Diego naval base before flying back to his Palm Springs vacation house tonight to meet with Kissinger.

The President goes to San Francisco Friday for a working luncheon with nine Western governors and a side trip to the Geysers, a geothermal power source, 130 miles north of the Golden Gate.

Ford had a dual purpose in the helicopter trip to the Geysers — first, to demonstrate as he did on his Monday visit to the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum reserve his drive for Congress to pass a national energy program by May 1 and second, to announce his selection of former Wyoming Gov. Stanley Hathaway as interior secretary.

Hathaway, a Republican will succeed Rogers C. B. Morton who was named commerce secretary.

April Blizzard Strands Thousands in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — An April blizzard howled across Chicago Wednesday night, leaving city streets deserted, shutting down the world's busiest airport and turning the nation's busiest expressway into a ghost road of stalled cars.

When it was over, eight persons were dead and thousands were stranded.

Eight persons died of heart attacks while attempting to shovel snow, push stalled autos or hike to shelter from their stalled cars.

The city crawled out from beneath a one-foot shroud of snow today and, informed the worst was over, set about the task of making the paralyzed city run again.

All city schools were closed today, as were most suburban schools, and some businesses.

Traffic was still jammed up on Chicago area expressways, posing a nightmare to morning rush hour motorists. But city workers pushed aside hundreds of stalled cars and plowed away the snow and glare ice in an effort to make highways passable.

O'Hare International Airport, shut down Wednesday for only the third time in history, remained closed as crew workers started clearing airport runways. An airport spokesman said one runway would be open by around noon.

Thousands of travelers were stranded at O'Hare.

By late Wednesday, the O'Hare Hilton Hotel was booked full and the O'Hare Travelers' Aid office was swamped with persons looking for a place to spend the night.

"You'll just have to find the most comfortable chair," Travelers Aid workers told them.

About 5,000 persons spent the night at the snowswept airport.

The Chicago Blackhawks hockey game with the Kansas City Scouts scheduled for Wednesday night was postponed. The Scouts were unable to fly into Chicago and were diverted to Indianapolis and left stranded.

Blinding, wind-driven snow and sleet produced massive traffic jams on major expressways. Some exasperated motorists, stuck in heavy snows, left their cars parked helter-skelter along the expressways and sought refuge from the storm.

Most expressways looked like parking lots, and city streets were desolate.

The storm came less than 48 hours after the March 31 deadline for removing studded snow tires.

Nearly 1,000 students were snowed in at

Would-Be Poet Says Inspiration Hard to Find Despite Setting

DERRY, N.H. (UPI) — An unpublished poet living in the weathered clapboard farm house where Robert Frost spent his lean early years says inspiration is hard to find.

Lawrence (Larry) Shaw, Democratic candidate for reelection, said, "It is sad that section time a political party decides to credit itself with the accomplishments of many volunteers."

Shaw was responding to claims in the Republican party platform issued over the weekend.

The volunteers were Bolton residents first, working toward improvements for their town and party affiliated second, if at all, the Democratic hopeful said.

He said up to and including the present the town has not been able to afford the services that have been provided by many volunteers.

Without these volunteers many programs in our town government and education would not be, he said. Let's give credit where credit is due, Shaw said.

In actuality the idea came from the school administration with the formal request for a study of the feasibility of the idea coming from the Parent Teacher Organization."

The People's Choice Award, went to Scott Rhodes for "Farm Truck." Robert Origan, free-lance photographer, judged the photography classes.

The Republican Women's Club Award for the color went to Penelope Heavlin, West Willington, for "Laura" and to Jack Bynes, Coventry, for his black and white "Men of Manhattan."

Best of Show Rappe Award for student art went to Ann Lebejko, Norwich, for her oil "Maine Landscape."

Because of the large number of entries in the student art class, the following six students won second place awards: Richard Lyon, Mansfield, Brett Hussey, Bolton; Michael Monney, Norwich; Roy Kinzen, Plainfield; Douglas Fitch, Coventry and M. Vasington, Storrs.

The show and sale was organized by Clara Hladky, general chairman; Olive

The Herald Shaw Chides GOP, Praises Volunteers

Lawrence (Larry) Shaw, Democratic candidate for selection, said, "It is sad that election time a political party decides to credit itself with the accomplishments of many volunteers."

Shaw was responding to claims in the Republican party platform issued over the weekend.

The volunteers were Bolton residents first, working toward improvements for their town and party affiliated second, if at all, the Democratic hopeful said.

He said up to and including the present the town has not been able to afford the services that have been provided by many volunteers.

Without these volunteers many programs in our town government and education would not be, he said. Let's give credit where credit is due, Shaw said.

Shaw citing examples: "Republicans credit themselves with the idea of a playground, including a softball field, at Bolton Elementary School, in actuality the idea came from the school administration with the formal request for a study of the feasibility of the idea coming from the Parent Teacher Organization."

"Republicans claim credit for the proposal for an emergency rescue service truck. In actuality the service truck is the offspring of hours of discussion by the many volunteers in our volunteer fire department."

The Zoning Board of Appeals approved a variance for Ernest Reed of Bolton to allow him to operate a screening plant and excavate up to the adjoining property line at his gravel bank on Long Hill Rd.

The appeals board granted a variance to the lot size and coverage requirements of the town zoning regulations to John Guadino of Lake Rd. in order for him to build a garage on his property.

Egg Hunt
There will be an Easter Egg Hunt Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Robert Post.

Post said 800 eggs will be hidden for the fifth annual egg hunt. There will be an old fashioned egg roll and hayrides.

About 80 prizes will be awarded. The hunt was originally scheduled for March 29 but had to be canceled because of the weather.

I disagree that our comprehensive plan of development (by Brown, Donald and Donald) should be updated and pursued because the town's future was planned in 1971 at a cost of over $10,000 and minimal, if any, use of the plans has been made. ## Clash Ahead

A head-on clash is brewing between the goals of equal opportunity employment, affirmative action programs, and one of the 10 commandments of labor, that when a work force has to be reduced because of depressed business the newer workers are let go before the older ones.

Militant women's groups and minorities have been successful in having their members employed in type of work where they had previously not been represented. It all came under the heading of equality and affirmative action, which is a euphemism for preferential treatment.

Before the present economic depression became felt, many members of minority groups, including women had been employed under pressures of federal regulations. You have seen advertisements stating that the employer looking for workers was "an equal opportunity" employer. In addition there was often federal pressure for so-called affirmative action hiring.

Now that a depressed economy has made it necessary to reduce work forces in many businesses and industry, those hired last are the first to be let out. Since the drive to hire minorities has been fairly recent, a large proportion of those losing their jobs are classified as belonging to minority groups.

They are protesting losing their jobs as unfair, since they are minority people and are deserving of the special treatment which the government has been urging that they receive.

In the ranks of labor, however, through custom and long observance, the seniority system has traditionally protected the jobs of older workers, as well as their choice of jobs in many industries.

Labor has felt, with much justification, that the more years a man had on the job working for a particular company, the greater his security should be.

The rule was not capricious but was based on experience and reasoning. All things being equal, the older worker should know his job better than the newer employe.

Further the older employe presumably had greater family responsibilities. He was more likely to have children, sometimes a large family, and a layoff to him, or her for that matter, would be a greater hardship than on a younger person who was possibly single and had fewer people depending on him.

In many industries seniority has meant not only tenure but choice of preferable jobs. In railroading, for instance, a job opening was bid with the oldest man having first choice and so down the roster. Likewise an older man preferring a job held by one of less seniority could "bump" the younger man and take the job.

If the government attempts to tamper with the seniority system in organized labor, no matter how sociologically worthy their efforts may be held, we predict that they will run into an impenetrable wall of custom and precedent.

'Taint Funny, Magee'

Few things scare us more than when a politician tries to be funny.

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Boston, has proposed the Bay State abolish the month of June.

His thinking is that because the governor wants to take funds earmarked for June to pay April and May expenses, this potential gap in revenues can be overcome merely by eliminating the month from the calendar.

Now this may not be as silly as it sounds for by using June money for April and May bills, you are using the so-called "rob Peter to pay Paul" principle.

This principle has long been used in government and one of its more adroit applications is when we rob July to pay June, thus dipping into the next fiscal year's money for this year's bills.

Thus Rep. Frank's rather silly suggestion to drop June appears to be a dead issue. Without June, there would be no need to tap July money, thus upsetting the whole apparatus of bureaucratic high finance.

But before laughing the concept off as a big joke, don't forget the other side of the coin. If you can drop months, you can add months, which means those heavy revenue raising months like April for Uncle Sam and July for most towns.

Since it is apparent that government cannot balance budgets or keep them in balance within the framework of the traditional calendar, obviously the answer is a year of 13 tax collecting months to support a 12-month spending year.

This has been done from time to time. Instead of calling it tax month or something like that, we call it a surcharge.

So don't laugh when politicians make jokes. Too often they are on the taxpayers which includes almost all of us.

Grave Decorations

In regard to the article recently published in The Manchester Herald about the notice to cemetery lot owners to remove winter grave decorations by March 31, a friend of mine whose husband is buried at St. Bridget's cemetery visited her husband's grave Easter Sunday to remove the Christmas basket but found instead it was gone.

She also saw the other decorations, Christmas and Easter, were gone too. These baskets were taken off before the March 31 deadline. These baskets, plants, do not cost a few pennies but they do cost several dollars.

I do not think this is all done by pranksters but if it is, more police patrol needs to be done. If it is done by the superintendent of the cemetery the basket on each grave should be marked when it is removed and returned to the owner by placing an advertisement in the paper for three days, then after that time if the plants are not picked up, you can destroy them.

any deadline. I checked with the cemetery office and they stated the plants were removed when they moved the grass. These plants cost about $4 each. Mr. Harrison, I don't think you would appreciate a basket or plant that you put on a grave of your loved one, removed by someone other than you or your family.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Weak and helpless and hopeless, mankind is in need of the transforming power which comes to those who put their trust in Christ. Men have less need of alms than of spiritual renewal, less of charity than for strength for self-support. It is the duty of us all to stretch out the right hand in loving ministry, to offer relief and express sympathy, but to do so in the name of Jesus Christ, and to inspire faith in Him who alone can heal and save.

Kissinger and Tragedy

NEW YORK CITY — Scarcely a single secretary of state since Charles Evans Hughes — perhaps since John Hay or even Thomas Jefferson — would talk of a foreign policy event as a "Greek tragedy" and then go on to define the concept. That is what Secretary of State Henry Kissinger did in talking with correspondents on his plane after his failed Middle East mission, and again in briefing congressional leaders.

He defined the nature of a Greek tragedy: "When both sides, each following the laws of its own nature, produce consequences destructive of both." It may go back to his massive senior honors thesis at Harvard on the meaning of history — to Spengler and Kant rather than to the Metempsychosis who was the hero of his first book.

But it can be of small solace to either the Israelis or the Egyptians to be told by the man each had pinned his hopes on that in following the laws of their nature they would both be destroyed.

There is an element which makes the tragedy seem even more fateful. Kissinger refuses publicly to assess the blame for his failure of diplomacy, but he has said in closed session that the Israelis should have been more flexible. Yet he adds that Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin couldn't have conceded more without suffering the downfall of his government. The Israeli people were edgy, and the opposition parties were waiting for a sign of weakness.

Yet President Anwar Sadat also showed himself inflexible, perhaps for similar reasons. The Israelis refused to withdraw the last four or five miles from the Mitla Pass in the Sinai Desert without a clear statement of Egypt's "nonbelligerency." But it was Sadat who stopped short of making the statement. The heat was on him from the PLO and the more militant Arab states. He may well have feared an assassination fate such as caught up Israel with King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, or else a left-revolutionary military coup.

While Kissinger has no real substantive reason, he may have a tactical reason for seeming to tilt the blame toward Israel — to get credit with Sadat and the Arabs which he will sorely need at Geneva.

He had another tactical objective — to point to the lack of congressional support as a factor in the larger collapse of American policy. This was a bitter hour for him. He used it for a call to a more un-

ANDREW TULLY Fuel Adjustment Has Been Abused

WASHINGTON — Suppose American shoppers had had $10-billion more to spend on consumer goods in 1974? The economy would be in a lot better shape," replied a White House economist.

The question was not asked merely to produce a statement of the obvious, but because it just so happens that nearly $10-billion in rate increases were granted to electric and gas utility companies last year. This total amounted to more than all the rate increases granted in the previous 25 years, according to a survey released by two Senate Government Operations subcommittees.

Two examples cited by the report showed the impact on the consumer's pocketbook. Utilities rates in 1974 were increased in the District of Columbia by 1,400 per cent, and in Maryland by 750 per cent.

It came as no surprise to learn that so-called fuel adjustment charges accounted for a whopping $6.5-billion of the roughly $10-billion total. Fuel adjustment increases are now a common clause in most utility tariffs, and in most states can be added to utility bills without prior review. The idea is to relieve the problem of "regulatory lag" caused by prolonged rate increase procedures in a time of fuel-cost crisis.

Indeed, the two investigations already have uncovered conspiracies by businessmen and, maybe, organized crime syndicates, to overcharge electric power companies, hospitals, schools and consumers by anywhere from $1-billion to $5-billion. One example of what has happened is the case in which the price of oil was raised 300 per cent as it moved only a few miles from a refinery to a fuel storage terminal.

Well, the answer already is at hand. The fuel adjustment concept ruddy well has been abused, at least by some oil suppliers in America the quondam beautiful. The U.S. Customs Service and the Federal Energy Administration have been investigating the scandal, and both outfits say that frauds by oil suppliers probably have cost consumers millions of dollars in the last 18 months.

Indeed, the two investigations already have uncovered conspiracies by businessmen and, maybe, organized crime syndicates, to overcharge electric power companies, hospitals, schools and consumers by anywhere from $1-billion to $5-billion. One example of what has happened is the case in which the price of oil was raised 300 per cent as it moved only a few miles from a refinery to a fuel storage terminal.

Nor, it seems, have all utility companies been merely fall guys for this fraud. Said an FEA official: "It's beginning to look as if some utility people were involved in the receipt of bribes from fuel suppliers as a payoff for buying fuel at fraudulently inflated prices. Some hospital and school officials also may have been on the take."

Already, the FEA has started ordering some oil suppliers to roll back prices for utility companies as compensation for illegal price gouging during the Arab oil embargo. The first such order charges a supplier with overcharging the Georgia Power Co. $70,000 for boiler fuel. The refund must be paid over the next three months, and the FEA said it "hopes Georgia Power will pass this along to its customers in the form of lower prices."

A spokesman for the FEA said the $3-billion overcharge figure could be too high, "but it's not an unrealistic figure." He noted that the FEA had ordered rebates of $630-million in petroleum overcharges alone in 1974, and the total conceivably could go as high as $2-billion as a result of the two-pronged investigation. "We're taking the oil industry apart with a fine-tooth comb," he proclaimed.

That's fine. I trust the entire industry will not be indicted out of hand, that the two probes will separate the crooks from the honest dealers. But what the adjustable fuel charge already has cost consumers $6.5-billion, a body has a right to smell toward a war of destruction, but America, too.

Truth and Security, A Delicate Balance

This country is currently engaged in an orgy of airing in public the somewhat tawdry inner workings of its espionage and intelligence apparatus.

It could only happen in America, and maybe a couple of other democracies. And for the distress it may be causing many people, both in and out of the government, it has to happen once in a while if we are to continue to be able to call ourselves a democracy.

A blue-ribbon panel is looking more or less searching into the activities of the CIA over the past decade or so. There are charges that the agency illegally spied on civilians active in the antiwar movement and that in its rightful sphere of operations, foreign intelligence, among other things it plotted the assassination of certain heads of state, though apparently none of the plots was carried out.

It has been revealed that the CIA maintained "covers" on the mail of thousands of Americans and that in some cases, including one congressional correspondent, the correspondence was illegally opened and the contents copied.

There is much more, some of it involving the FBI and Internal Revenue Service: illegal wiretaps, attempts to infiltrate certain groups, blackmail of politicians, etc.

The latest sensation was the revelation that the CIA spent $350 million to raise part of a sunken Soviet submarine in the Pacific, and interestingly enough there was more concern in Congress over the cost of the project than over the fact that the secret was exposed in the press.

The significance of all this is not to be found in the actual revelations themselves, in the extent of this country's intelligence operations, in their successes or excesses.

It is the fact that despite the kind of world we have been living in throughout the cold war era, the United States has preserved a pretty fair balance between human freedom and the governmental secrecy necessary for national security in that world.

The truth — or some of it — eventually comes out in a democracy. At least some of the excesses and mistakes are exposed, and presumably we learn something from them. If nothing else, we have been shown once again the fundamental difference between ourselves and our ideological adversaries.

While the headlines blazoned the story of the submarine all over America, the Soviet press, which exists solely as an arm of the government, was forced to remain absolutely silent.

The Russian citizen had never been told of the loss of the submarine, and never would be. At least not if the families of the 70 drowned seamen ever learned what happened to them, and not because any real matters of security were involved (the Soviets don't even report commercial airplane accidents).

Because he is kept in ignorance of what his government does, the Soviet citizen is spared a lot of worry. But he pays a terrible high price for that kind of bliss.

Truth is always hard to find, and something ever harder to live with. But it remains our greatest strength and most potent weapon.

The fact that the very term "illegal," which implies a standard of legality to measure it against, is still operative in this country suggests that we are still a healthy distance from totalitarianism. Can anyone imagine the head of the Kremlin's KGB being called to defend himself before the Russian counterpart of a congressional committee?

If the Founding Fathers could come back today, they would be less astonished to learn that the government they established has sometimes abused its powers than that after nearly 200 years Americans still place the highest premium on truthfulness and open dealing, still demand the highest standards of conduct on the part of their leaders — in short, still cherish freedom.

On this day in history: In 1906, the Pooey Express postal service with riders leaving St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento, Calif., at the same time.

In 1865, the Union Army occupied Richmond, Va., — onetime capital of the Confederacy.

In 1962, the federal government ordered New Orleans to integrate the first six grades of public schools.

In 1971, President Nixon said he would review the case of Lt. William Calley, given a life sentence for his role in the killing of civilians in Vietnam.

A thought for the day: Russian novelist Ivan Turgenev said, "I agree with no man's opinion. I have some of my own."

State Upholds Vernon Refusal To Bus Boulder Ridge Students

A decision to deny bus transportation for students going to Lake Street School from the Boulder Ridge area was reaffirmed by the State Board of Education Wednesday.

In effect, the state board was upholding action of the Vernon Board of Education which voted, in February, to terminate transportation for the Boulder Ridge students when there was no longer extra space available on the bus.

The students in question live within the legal walking limits set by the state but had been allowed to ride on the bus as long as space was available.

When the local board announced this transportation would be terminated, parents of the students called for a hearing with the local board and when the board voted to stick with its original decision, the parents appealed to the state board for a hearing.

The parents contend that walking conditions along Tunnel Rd. are extremely hazardous and presented their case at the state. Bruce Wilson and George Flemming represented the parents' group.

The state vote at Wednesday's meeting was 4 to 3 to deny the transportation because of the lack of "undue hazard."

The state had stationed investigators along Tunnel Rd. to check the children walking to school and they said they found no undue hazards but did recommend that a utility pole and a mail box now located on the walkway, be removed to permit better pedestrian flow.

Anthony Fedeschi, the hearing agent who conducted the state hearing on the matter, said he revisited the location more times than he has for any other case and after doing so he said he concluded that an undue hazard does not exist.

The parents still have recourse to appeal the state's decision in the higher courts.

80-Year-Old May Be A Mom

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My attention has been called to a recent inquiry in your column by a newly remarried lady in her 80s who wanted to know what the chances of her becoming pregnant were at this time in her life.

She has competed in a national dance competition in Miami this past summer. Her repertoire also includes choreography for, and lead roles in, the Sinfonietta Summer Theater for Youth's Musical Productions.

These are rare cases, but they did happen. All women should be made aware that there is a 100 per cent reliable "safe" device.

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago, my father died. (Mother had died before him.) While he didn't leave a great fortune, everything of value was divided evenly among my two brothers, my sister and myself.

Now the brother who has the collection has a terminal illness. He has only one child—and he is adopted. Have we waited too long in this matter to do anything? What do you advise? The coin collection is worth several thousand dollars, but of course a good family relationship is priceless.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, and my wife of four months is 15. I married her because she said she was pregnant. She wasn't. Now she admits that she just said she was pregnant because of our marriage, I had to quit school and get a job in a factory.

Ten-month old Kathryn Smith should live to be a very old lady if the studies of Lyza Metchnikoff are true.

Metchnikoff was a French bacteriologist of Russian birth. He won the Nobel prize in 1908. Working at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, his research indicated to him that premature aging could be caused by bad bacteria when contained in the large intestine.

The scientist knew that the Bulgarian people lived to ripe old ages into 90's and the 100's despite a life of hard work. He states in his book "The Prolongation of Life" that "the good health and long life of the Bulgarians was due to the curdly fermented milk that they consumed in great quantity."

Metchnikoff was absolutely positive that the bacilli in yogurt killed the poor bacteria in the human system. He felt that the large amounts of vitamin B in yogurt helped in keeping the human intestinal system healthy.

Yogurt appeared in France in 1500 only because of the illness of Francis I who was king. The French ambassador to the court at Constantinople said he knew of a Turkish doctor who could effect miraculous cures. The king had about given up himself, as well as his physicians, and was ready for any attempt to save him.

The doctor from Turkey came to Paris accompanied curiously by a herd of sheep and goats. The king, of course, recovered, and the French named the miraculous substance "lait de brebis" or "milk of eternal life."

Phoenic Building Probe Possible

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso said a criminal investigation may be sought into allegations the state failed to get fire code violations corrected before buying the Hartford commercial building. Public Works Commissioner Robert A. Weinerman said the state ignored the warning and bought the building from Allan Schaefer and Harry Gampel to house Greater Hartford Community College. The Phoenic Building was built in 1950 as an office structure, but under the state fire code it must meet more stringent standards if it is to be used as a school. The college has since last fall under conditions prescribed by the fire marshal's office that a two-man fire watch be maintained at all times. On another matter, Mrs. Grasso said she favors, recently public works projects which would help stimulate the badly hit Connecticut construction industry. The projects were authorized in previous years, but never undertaken. Mrs. Grasso said she supports the request of House Speaker James J. Kennedy, D-Hartford, for a federal and state investigation into any criminality in Connecticut's property leasing scandal. She said she was waiting for a report from Attorney General Carl Ajello on what action should be taken in Connecticut. The attorney general does not have criminal jurisdiction, but can recommend a criminal indictment if he believes one is warranted.

Lawyer Sued Over Bonus Promises

HARTFORD (UPI) — Attorney L. Patrick Gray, former acting FBI director, is representing 119 non-commissioned Navy officers who promised bonuses of $2,000 to $6,000 to re-enlist before Congress changed the bonus law. The petty officers represented by Gray in U.S. District Court are stationed in the Great London area and are among 28,000 officers in the Navy seeking $310 million in bonuses. Under the old law, Navy enlisted personnel with four years of service were paid extra "variable enlistment bonus" money and given special educational training for re-enlisting for two years. Congress last May extended the required re-enlistment period to three years, and Andy Martinez, who is representing the petty officers, said voids the old bonus contracts under the War Powers Clause of the U.S. Constitution. Lawyers for the petty officers contend Congress acted under its fiscal powers and cannot breach a Navy contract. Petty officers in Virginia won a similar suit, which the government may appeal, and another bonus lawsuit is pending in California. Gray, a 59-year-old former submarine commander, was defense lawyer in a naval court of inquiry in Portsmouth, N.H., for Lt. Cmdr. Stanley Hecker, skipper of an escort vessel to the USS Thresher on a test run, killing 129 men aboard.

Legislature Validates Marriages

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut House has validated an unknown number of marriages and other acts performed illegally by a Putnam justice of the peace. Roderic Altman, a Putnam deputy sheriff, resigned as justice of the peace Feb. 6 when told he could not legally hold both offices. The bill would legalize the work he performed during his four-year judicial tenure. At the electronic teleboard lit up with the vote on the bill, it appeared the majority of the legislators had voted against the bill, but after a round of laughter they switched their votes to approve it. The lone exception was Rep. Robert M. Walsh, D-Hartford, who said he had good reason to vote against the bill. "I've been married and divorced twice. I didn't have any of those persons involved in this giving their approval to my marriage," he said with a smirk.

Dance Planned At Country Club

Milford Man's Conviction Reversed

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Appeals Court here Wednesday reversed the Vermont narcotics conviction of Raymond Johnson of Milford, Conn. Johnson was convicted in the U.S. District Court in Vermont after a jury trial last June of conspiracy to import two bags of methamphetamine into the United States from Canada. The jury also convicted Stephen Lowe of Walpole, N.H. Johnson and Lowe were arrested by U.S. Customs officials at the Higgate Springs entry port in Vermont while returning from St. John, Que. Evidence showed Lowe left the motel in St. John where they were staying to meet with his methamphetamine supplier in Montreal where he purchased the drugs for $3,000. "There was no evidence to show that Lowe had ever informed Johnson that he was using, and selling methamphetamine," the appeals court said. "There is not an iota of evidence to connect Johnson with Lowe's acquisition, concealment, importation, use and sale of methamphetamine," the court ruled.

The boy, who suffered minor injuries, was hit by a vehicle driven by Patricia A. Reid, 32, of 29 Glenwood St. No charges were lodged.
Other accidents Wednesday included a 10 p.m. collision on W. Middle Tpk. involving vehicles driven by John J. Kurnick, 20, of Hartford, and Richard J. Murphy, 28, of Middletown. Kurnick was charged with failure to grant the right of way, and Murphy was charged with reckless driving. Court date is April 15.

Milwaukee Wins Day Off, Pistons Gain Playoffs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Lanier can take a day off now. He earned it. He also earned the Detroit Pistons a wild-card playoff berth Wednesday night, carrying the load despite a tremendously sore left knee. The big center scored 26 points in a 97-89 win over the Midwest Division-leading Chicago Bulls' vengeance for "we played our way in this year," a beaming and relieved Coach Ray Scott of Detroit said, "You can't say we backed in."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Both Henry Aaron and the fans of Milwaukee are more than ready for the start of a new baseball season. Aaron, who already holds the career home run record of 733, unleashed his first homer as a Brewer Wednesday as Milwaukee coasted to a 5-1 exhibition victory over the San Diego Padres at Sun City, Ariz. Steve Busby, also making his last exhibition appearance before his opening day assignment, was a lot more impressive as he allowed only two scratch hits in five innings when Kansas City blanked the Chicago White Sox, 5-0, at Sarasota. Flubby will open for the Royals against Nolan Ryan and the California Angels Monday night. Hal McRae hit a two-run homer for Kansas City, which also got hitless relief pitching from Doug Bird and Dave Leonard. In other exhibitions: Rick Monday hit back-to-back homers off Don Sutton and Mike Marshall to lift the Chicago Cubs to a 9-4 victory over Los Angeles... Gary Thomasson, with a homer and a single, figured in two San Francisco rallies as the Giants overcame California, 6-4... a 12th-inning error by Darrell Evans paved the way for an unexpected run that allowed Baltimore to edge Atlanta, 1-0. Doc Medich ran up his fifth consecutive victory and ended a four-game Yankee losing streak for the third time this spring as New York beat Texas, 6-2... Grand slam homers by Otis Brown and Alan Bannister in consecutive innings powered Philadelphia to a 13-10 triumph over Boston... And catcher Mikey Pate won a single in the third game Houston a 2-1 victory over St. Louis.

Cneney Rallies in Sixth Inning, Downs Bacon in First Game, 3-2

By Len Auster

Many firsts have been logged at Cheney Tech this school calendar year. In the fall, a cross country team was fielded for the first time. That outfit produced a winner. The 1974-75 basketball squad qualified for the State Tournament for the first time in six years with 12 victories, the most in school history. It's far too early to make wild forecasts but the baseball team could follow the mold. Yesterday, the Beavers presented first-year coach Jim Krome his first triumph with a come-from-behind 3-2 verdict over Bacon Academy at home in the season opener for both clubs. It was the first time in Cheney history it won its opening test. The triumph also equaled last year's win total when 13 losses were absorbed. Basketball stars Tom LeCourt and Tom Foran, along with veteran hurler Pete Ostashev, played key roles for the Beavers. LeCourt drove in the first run with a two-out single in the fifth inning and pitched forward well defensively at shortstop. The Technen were charged with one error, compared with an average of almost seven miscues per outing in 1974. Foran, senior first baseman playing organized ball for the first time, had the big hit in the sixth frame, a sharp single up the middle driving in the winning run. He also handled several difficult chances flawlessly. Ostashev went the route in notching the victory. The stocky right-hander struck out six, walked two and scattered six hits in giving up one earned run. Starter and loser for the Colchester-based Bobcats was southpaw John Wotus. He yielded just four hits, which Cheney put to judicious use. Wotus fanned eight and walked five in going the distance. The Bobcats took a 1-0 lead in the top half of the second. Kevin Riley singled with two outs and came around to score when Carpenter hit. Mike Bowling's fly to left center offering glanced off the top infield. The Beavers' next test is April 11 at home against Prince Tech of Hartford. Six of Cheney's first seven games are on friendly soil.

Celts Preparing For Washington

BOSTON (UPI) — "We'll talk about it tomorrow. Right now it's just one thing at a time." That was Boston Celtic coach Tom Heinsohn's response Wednesday night to questions on the upcoming match between his Celtics and the Washington Bullets. He was satisfied, for the moment, to think about the Celtic's 95-92 win over the Buffalo Braves (Thursday) which extended for at least two days Boston's chances for the best record in the NBA. Boston has been slowly closing on the Bullets, who have led the league in winning percentage much of the season. Late last week the Celtics briefly held the top spot before Buffalo beat them Saturday. "We've got a practice tomorrow (Thursday) morning, and then we'll discuss it. You may not believe it, but we haven't even thought about it," asserted Heinsohn. "Washington presently leads by a 1/2 game, and the Celtics could reverse the situation with a win here Friday night." "How could we look past Buffalo, when they beat us the last time out?" said veteran Celtic John Havlicek, who scored 23 points Wednesday night. "It was well Boston did concentrate on Buffalo, because the Braves, appearing victorious, were being beaten for the Atlantic Division title by Boston, nearly ruined the Celtic hopes. After a tense, defensive first half, Buffalo claimed a slim 43-42 advantage. Boston came out for the third period determined to assert itself and grabbed the lead, 58-54, after 5:31 of play. Buffalo guard Randy Smith, who gave Boston problems most of the game, scored 18 points in a 12-point Braves' outburst which set the Celtics back 66-58 at 8:49 and 68-66 entering the final period. Boston remounted its efforts and carried the fourth quarter on sheets of determination. Don Nelson scored 10 points, Havlicek 9 and Dave Cowens 8 in Boston's final surge. The game remained in doubt, however, until Cowens ended it at 10:45. "We played well and nothing distinctive happened in the last quarter, they just scored more than we did. "I thought they went to Cowens mostly down low, and that helped determine it. Don Nelson scored 10 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. MacAdoo, who scored a game high 25 points is at a disadvantage against someone as strong as Cowens." "We were just really up for this game and it showed in the way we kept trying, kept coming back," was Heinsohn's explanation.

Tech in Danger of Losing Its Athletics to Austerity

By LEN AUSTER

The athletic program at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School is in danger of being eliminated, Gov. Ella Grasso's proposed budget for education is approved by the Connecticut General Assembly in its present form.

A request of $289,000 by the Bureau of Vocational-Technical Schools has not been allocated in the education budget for fiscal year 1975-76. Unless it is restored, it would mean "all varsity sports eliminated. We withdraw from all leagues and withdraw all commitments accordingly," says a report forwarded by the bureau.

Besides the elimination of athletic programs at all state technical schools, the cut would also mean no substitute teachers, no money for replacement or new equipment, and the Evening School would totally be closed. Thirteen of the state's 16 vocational-technical schools had the Evening School program canceled in February.

The program at Cheney Tech for adults was halted four years ago under the Meskill Administration.

"We've already been told from above that this means the sports program would be canceled," John Garofalo, Cheney director, said. "I've been approached by a number of our coaches who said we will have athletics even if there is no money. But I think this is a dangerous precedent working for nothing. On the professional staff, we are unclassified without any job security."

One area hard hit without the $289,000 is the classroom. Without funds for substitute teachers, teachers from within the school itself would have to fill in for absent colleagues. This, Garofalo feels, could present a safety hazard in certain areas.

"I know the state is in dif-icult straits and I'm not criticizing her (Gov. Grasso) who she inherited it, but I feel she is not getting bad advice. I attended a conference in Massachusetts and that is what they have and compare to what I have makes me sick. This school deserves better. The money should not be elsewhere. Historically we've done the job," Garofalo commented.

The Evening School, according to the report by the Bureau of Vocational-Technical Schools, would have served between 15,000 and 20,000 adults. Nothing about substituting it has been forwarded by the bureau.

"I think there's a definite need for it based on the telephone calls we've received here alone," Garofalo said.

In its present form, the education budget does not allow for new equipment.

"The cut means no new equipment, no textbooks, no supplies. That's no way to run a school. Why take it out on the kids? We're running obsolete equipment while public schools have new equipment. We're the ones who are supposed to prepare kids for industry and yet we're the ones who are criticized."

"I visited the East Hartford high schools Feb. 13 and I drooled over what I saw. They had new equipment paid for by state and federal funds. What I saw in the schools also infuriated me. In one shop area at Fenney, there were only eight students while here we would have about 42 students using it. The equipment was far superior. At East Hartford High, they have eight shop areas only one student was using it. They have about 9,000 square feet of carpentry shop space while here we have only 2,000 square feet. They (East Hartford) are supposed to start a co-op with us but I'm not holding my breath."

Something minor, but also important, would be hit by the budget cut. Driver education would not be offered because of no funds for a teacher, although driver education is required in all schools by state law.

In regards to the Cheney athletic program, even in prosperous times the school was never a wash in money, according to Garofalo. For the school calendar year 1974-75, Cheney was allowed $5,000 by the state for its sports program. This was the first, and maybe the last, year it was done. This covered such costs as transportation, equipment, referees, umpires, balls, and normal operating costs. In the past this was taken care of by the Student Activities Fund into which every student pays $10.

The sports budget for this year at Cheney is $7,500. Of this amount, $2,700 is paid out as salaries to coaches. If the proposed education budget is adopted, this latter amount is not taken care of. And it cannot be taken care of out of the Student Activities Fund, according to Al Skinner, student council advisor.

"According to the bylaws, the activities fund can't pay for services rendered which are paid for and are the responsibility of the state," Skinner explained. "Why it might be is that the state is saying it is no longer its responsibility (to pay coaches' salaries). But even so, the kids can't afford it."

"As far as the coaches go (Skinner is the tennis coach), I'm not sure where we stand. We'll go this spring assuming we're paid, but after that... We're taking our chances, I guess."

At present, the sports program is in real jeopardy. So are other services. Without substitutes, regular teachers won't have time in some instances to prepare for their own classes. And without the proper equipment, Cheney Technical School won't be able to do the job it's assigned to do—to get students prepared for trade, skilled jobs.

For every student accepted at Cheney Tech, two applicants were turned away. And it could get worse.

Garofalo's sentiment is: "Why are we being penalized? Maybe it's because no one knows we're around. And if we are doing the job, why not double our size?"

Water Main Bursts at MCC; Worker Promptness Praised

Personnel of the Manchester, Town Fire Department and the Town Water Department are being praised by Manchester Community College officials for prompt action early this morning in preventing serious damage to a campus building from a water leak.

A 12-inch water main near the administration building was ruptured and MCC personnel, including Herbert Bandes, dean of admissions, attempted to shut off the water but didn't have the right wrenches.

The water main enters the campus from Bidwell St. and ends at a hydrant on Wetherell St.

At 12:13 a.m., Bandes called the town fire department. Deputy Fire Chief Jim McKay responded with four men but first called the water department's emergency number. Darrell Howey, its work coordinator, responded with the firemen. At 12:30 a.m., the main was shut off and the flow stopped.

By 1:30, a crew of four men from the water department were on the scene. They discovered that an 8-foot section of the main had split. By 7:30, the section had been cut out and replaced and water service was restored. The trench they had dug then was filled in.

Bandes, in a call to the public works department, praised the speed and efficiency of the men who responded. He said he will follow up his call with appropriate letters to town officials.

Because the water flow was away from the administration building, there was no damage to its foundation.

At Conference

Dr. Robert E. Richardson, professor of English at Manchester Community College (MCC), will attend a three-day conference of the Danforth Foundation, April 4-7 in Chicago.

The Danforth Foundation is an educational and philanthropic organization which awards fellowships to graduate students intending to become college teachers. Dr. Richardson was named a Danforth Fellow in 1960. The foundation financed most of his graduate study in literature at Princeton University, from which he received his doctorate in 1967.

Dr. Richardson teaches composition, speech and literature at MCC. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Richardson of 145 Chestnut St. He and his wife, for former Marilyn Ford of Manchester, live at 67 Phelps Rd. with their four sons.

Washington Window A Turned Off Globe

By RICHARD G. CROWLAND

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A visitor to President Ford's Oval Office noted the electric-lit globe given the chief executive by his National Security Council staff.

It was unlit. The plug had been pulled and the globe was dark.

It is, perhaps, the state of the world as viewed from the Oval Office. The lights were going out all over the globe for traditional postwar American foreign policy.

President Ford, up to his neck in six months of combating domestic woes, was discovering a world of problems perhaps even more difficult to solve than recession and inflation at home.

How Ford handles the domestic, economic and energy problems may well determine his political future. How he handles the new state of America's foreign affairs could well determine the nation's future. It's that serious.

Situations as well as personalities that have been constant factors in international affairs for a generation are no more.

Even at home in Washington, Ford, unique for a post-World War II president, is enduring a Congress that says no to once unchallenged White House foreign policy leadership. The lawmakers have chopped foreign aid and, most dramatically, thus far rebuffed Ford's requests for military aid for South Vietnam and Cambodia.

A swirl of the 18-inch diameter transparent Lucite globe in the Oval Office can show the geography of the new foreign scene and the new war for Ford.

—The Middle East: The onerous touch of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger failed to produce Israeli-Egyptian progress toward peace. Ford himself says this failure makes war more likely and criticizes the Israelis, once the almost unquestioned ally, for inflexibility and short-sightedness. Egypt, so recently wooed by U.S. diplomacy, calls for solidarity with even radical Arab regimes.

—Portugal: Only two years ago the only U.S.-European ally to aid American emergency jet airlift of arms to Israel during the latest Middle East war, is now in the hands of leftwing military officers. Portugal may even open its strategic Azores to the Russian naval forces once tracked by U.S. bases on the Atlantic islands.

—Indochina: The domino theory is proving its existence, with Cambodia all but Communist-controlled. South Vietnam falling half under Communist control since January and Thailand saying it wants U.S. bases out.

—Turkey: This once almost bitterly anti-Soviet eastern anchor of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military alliance openly questions the value of its American ties because of the Congress-dictated cutoff of weapons supplies following the Turkish invasion of Cyprus. The Russians are wooing Ankara. U.S. servicemen stationed at bases in Turkey are advised strongly not to go into the streets in uniform.

—NATO: Britain cutting its forces still again. France continuing to keep its forces out of NATO control. The Dutch debating whether to even keep their military. The West Germans grumbling about having to pay so much for so many in the alliance.

Bennet Renovations Ahead of Schedule

New construction and renovations at Bennet Junior High School are well ahead of the original schedule. Barring any unforeseen problems, the entire project should be completed in time for school opening next fall.

Members of the Town Building Committee Tuesday reviewed the progress at Bennet and Illing Junior High Schools, and also construction progress for the Regional Occupational Training Center and "All Bennet," renovations at the old trade building should be in the hands of the committee in a few weeks, said Phillips.

The committee is reviewing bids on wall drilling, Regional Occupational Training Center. Work will start as soon as a decision is made, said Phillips.

The final working drawings of the center are being inspected by the committee. It hopes to have them completed by Tuesday.

The architects have received the survey plans for the new fire station on the corner of Main and Elm streets. The final drawings should be in the hands of the committee in a few weeks, said Phillips.

At Illing, all the structural steel is in place, aligned, bolted and welded. The exterior masonry wall of the cafeteria addition in the front of the building has been started. The entire job is progressing according to schedule, said Phillips.

Foreign News Commentary: Politics, Strategy In The Red Sea

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The kidnaping of the French ambassador to Somalia brings into focus another facet of the intensifying struggle for control of the Indian Ocean and the oil supply routes.

Coincidental but linked with the overall picture was Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's weekend announcement that the Suez Canal will be reopened early in June, shortening the trip from the Persian gulf to oil-hungry Europe by some 3,000 miles.

Terrorists seized Ambassador Jean Guery as he left church in the Somalian capital of Mogadishu. But while the kidnaping occurred in Somalia, its background and its cause lay in the neighboring French African possession of Afars and Issas, formerly known as French Somaliland.

And as ships renew their passage through the Suez Canal both Somalia and the territory of Afars and Issas take on new significance.

Both are keys to the entrance to the Red Sea and therefore to the canal.

The Djibouti is the port of Afars and Issas, just across the narrow Bob-el-Mandeb straits from South Yemen. From Djibouti, French missile ships and long-range antismarine aircraft maintain a constant patrol of the straits and fan out into the Indian Ocean.

Farther along the coast toward the African tip lies the Somalian port of Berbera, where the Russians are reported expanding and modernizing the military airport in French Somaliland.

When the Western powers resumed Somalia's bid for $10 million to $15 million worth of arms credits in 1963, the Soviets came forward with $30 million in credits with no strings attached.

Today's Somalian Soviet-trained army of 17,000 men has several hundred armored vehicles, SAM-3 rockets and an air force of 34 Russian-built MiGs.

Soviet military advisers and technicians in Somalia are estimated at 2,500.

South Yemen also has several hundred military advisers, some MiG and other military equipment. Cubans are said to be in command of a party militia and East Germans of the secret police.

As to the tangled politics of northeast Africa, socialist Somalia has territorial claims against both neighboring Ethiopia and Kenya. In the Territory of the Afars and Issas, it has tribal links with the Afars. The nomadic Afars have their tribal ties with Ethiopia. In general it may be said the Afars have favored continued ties with France and the Issas have sought independence reportedly with encouragement from Somalia.

The kidnaping of Ambassador Guery identified themselves with an outfit calling itself the "Front for the Liberation of the French Somali Coast."

Whalands Know Historic Homes

BRENDA W. ROTZOLL
AMHERST, N.H. (UPI) - At least one member of New Hampshire's State Historical Preservation Review Board knows historic preservation from the ground up.

Ruth Whaland and her husband laid the supporting masonry work when they had to replace the sills under one of the six homes they have lived in and restored.

The Col. Robert Means house overlooking "The Plain," Amherst's name for its town common, is the seventh house the Whalands have owned and the sixth one they have lived in and restored.

Daniel Webster used to dance there after practicing law at the court house, and several times the night on the hall table after over-mimbling.

Mrs. Whaland keeps Webster's portrait hanging in the hall now. "I thought it was appropriate to have him there where he slept," she grinned.

The Means House numbers 14 rooms exclusive of bathrooms and an exclusive of the five-hour attached outhouse. Why five? The Whalands have no idea.

The house has Indian in the merely old to the historic - from the wall to cover the window, on the first floor. "There are so few houses left with Pine" monographs on historic dwellings, as a perfect example of the Federalist period of American architecture.

Weyerhaeuser might have been influenced by what went on inside the house, too.

New Hampshire's only President, Franklin Pierce, was married in the front parlor to Means' granddaughter, Jane Means Appleton, in 1834.

In those days Amherst was the Shire Town for Hillsborough County. The Court House, now the town hall, stood across the street. Area gentry would gather at the Means House for balls. One wall of an upstairs bedroom was hinged at the ceiling so that it could be swung up, and room and hall combined into a ballroom.

Someone Blew It, Says One Victim Of Sewer Backup

"You can't blame this on the system," said Joseph O'Hare of 71 Birch St.

"Somebody blew it," he said.

O'Hare and his wife, his landlady and neighbor, Mrs. Anna Deyorio of 69 Birch St., and Al Gioielli of the Lasingo Tailor Shop at 73 Birch St. were all victims of a sewer backup Friday morning.

Raw sewage gushed out of their toilets for nearly two hours due to a block in the main sewer line just west of their homes just before 10 a.m.

Despite making many phone calls to town departments and town officials, a sewer department crew did not arrive until 11:45 a.m.

Town Manager Robert Weiss and Charles Fuller, assistant to the chief of operations in the sewer department, both said there was not a long delay from the time the sewer person was notified of the block.

Weiss said crews arrived one hour after the sewer treatment plant was informed.

"This is normal response time for after hours or holiday problems," he said.

Fuller said that when the proper number was called, the trouble answering did have trouble reaching an off-duty crew. He called Fuller at home when he got a crew together and on its way in five minutes, he said.

O'Hare said Mrs. Deyorio made their first phone call before 10 a.m. She was told someone would be sent out, he said.

When no help arrived, she called the Manchester, Town Fire Department, which recorded her call at 10:28 a.m. They arrived at 10:30 a.m. but were not equipped to clear the blockage.

At this time, the victims of the sewage block began calling and asking for help. Even the fire department made a call.

Mrs. O'Hare said she dialed

Orphans Dead In C5A Crash

SAIGON (UPI) — A U.S. Air Force C5A Galaxy transport plane carrying 306 persons, most of them Vietnamese war orphans bound for the United States on the first flight of President Ford's emergency Operation Babylift, crashed and burned here today while attempting an emergency landing.

At least 178 of those aboard the mercy flight were killed, the U.S. Embassy said. Embassy spokesmen said at least 100 children and 15 to 20 adults survived the first crash of the world's largest plane.

The plane was bound for its first stop at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines and President Ford had planned to greet personally the orphans when they arrived in California.

The crash sent a wave of shock through the United States where hundreds of families were awaiting to adopt the 2,000 orphans to be brought there on the military airlift. A White House aide, awakened at the presidential quarters at Palm Springs, Calif., described the crash as "unbelievable and shocking."

South Vietnamese troops quickly sealed off the crash site, an area near the Saigon River which is under partial Communist control. The plane was a mile and a half from the airport when it fell.

Many of the dead were children who had been strapped to the floor of the transport, which arrived here earlier today from the Philippines carrying artillery pieces and ammunition for the hard-pressed South Vietnamese troops struggling against Communist forces near the city.

Earlier this week, U.S. AID officials refused to allow the same group of orphans to board a World Airways charter plane because they felt it was unsafe to fly with the youngsters strapped to the floor.

It was the first crash involving a passenger plane at Tan Son Nhut, which at the height of the Vietnam War was one of the world's busiest airports.

The area of the crash was partially controlled by the Viet Cong, but there was no indication the C5A had been shot down. Initial reports said the plane had reached an altitude of 37,000 feet when the door blew off — a similar type of incident which caused the crash of a DC-10 near Paris in March, 1974.

The C5A immediately lost pressurization, and the pilot tried to return to Saigon. About a mile-and-a-half short of the airport, the plane smashed into some muddy rice paddies, and fire apparently broke out in a wing when a fuel tank ruptured. Huge clouds of black smoke could be seen in the air.

The first airlift of 52 orphans to the United States arrived Thursday in San Francisco aboard a privately owned World Airways DC-8 to a country touched by the plight of the millions of refugees fleeing a Communist offensive. Adoption agencies throughout the nation were swamped with requests for Vietnamese children.

Thursday, President Ford announced he was earmarking a special $1 million fund to fly out 2,000 orphans by military aircraft. Today's crash — the first involving a C5A — was the first flight of the plan called "Operation Babylift."

U.S. officials in Washington said they were dismayed by news of the crash but there were no plans to discontinue the flights.

Thieu Plans New Cabinet

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said tonight the South Vietnamese cabinet has resigned and will be replaced by a new administration. He blamed the United States for the loss of more than half of South Vietnam to the Communists.

Prime Minister Tran Thien Khiem is being replaced by Nguyen Ba Can, chairman of the South Vietnamese National Assembly, who will form a new Saigon administration, Thieu told his nation. The four-hour address broke his silence over the massive Communist gains in the past month.

Can, considered one of the most astute politicians in Saigon, has been chairman of the assembly since the latest congressional elections in 1972. He is regarded by politicians as a rightist and supporter of Thieu.

The change of administration came after the Saigon regime claimed to have cracked the second plot in a week for a coup against Thieu and U.S. Army Chief of Staff Gen. Frederick C. Weyand said he is sure fully Thieu's military efforts to combat the Communist offensive.

Thieu said: "The American people as well as the American Congress must see now that they have got to do something for the people of South Vietnam to keep from earning the label of traitors."

He said that with reduced U.S. military aid it was clearly impossible for South Vietnam to maintain control of the entire country.

"We might say that the direct battlefield situation which recently occurred came, of course, through weakness," Thieu said. "But you also have to admit that the spirit of the people of South Vietnam has been undermined for more than a year since they saw the United States not only did nothing to help but contributed to it by allowing the Communists to infiltrate here.

"The loss of support has caused a loss of morale. The United States has not been replacing military supplies and equipment on a one-for-one basis as agreed in the Paris agreement.

"We saw 500,000 American soldiers go to war with $30 billion a year. We have a million soldiers but much less money. We now need to see whether America will meet its commitments to South Vietnam."

"We did not know what American aid would be coming in the next two or three years. How could we not be influenced by that fact? How could we trust the Americans?

"I hope the people of America and the American Congress will see our need and the consequences of the actions over the last two years. Help us more effectively to protect our nation from Communism. It is up to them to the people to maintain their self-confidence, retain their calmness, remain alert, avoid panic and insist they obey the government and administration.

"Thieu pledged a determined stand to defend the remaining portion of South Vietnam. He swore over and again in the rambling speech that he would never agree to any coalition with the Communists nor any recognition of a second Vietnam existing within South Vietnam.

Before Thieu's speech, senior Communist diplomats told UPI the Viet Cong is willing to stop fighting and begin negotiations immediately, but only if Thieu is replaced.

On the war front, Communist gunners today fired rockets into Can Tho, the Mekong Delta's largest city, 75 miles from Saigon.

8.7 Per Cent Are Jobless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment soared to 8.7 per cent in March, a jump of 0.5 per cent that meant nearly 8 million Americans were jobless, the government said today.

Unemployment increased by 500,000 during March, and 3.1 million over last August, according to statistics released by the Labor Department. The unemployment rate reached its highest level since 1941.

The large increase was expected after President Ford predicted in San Diego Thursday that there would be "some discouraging unemployment figures," and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon predicted joblessness will hit 9 per cent by summer.

It was the third consecutive month the unemployment rate has been above 8 per cent.

Some segments of the population were hit harder than others.

The jobless rate for blue collar workers rose from 10.8 per cent in February to a record 12.5 per cent in March. The unemployment rate for construction workers rose sharply from 15.9 per cent in February to 18.1 per cent in March and the rate for manufacturing workers rose for the 10th consecutive month to 11.4 per cent.

College Projects Built Illegally

HARTFORD (UPI) — Nearly a quarter of a million dollars was spent illegally for parking lots, paving and building renovations at Central Connecticut State College, UPI has learned.

Connecticut's watchdog auditors said the man responsible for the violations was Dr. Cletus A. Clow, who had been fiscal officer at Central and then was elevated to the Board of Trustees of State Colleges, which oversees the four state college campuses.

Three projects worth $109,800 for parking lots and paving at the campus, located in New Britain, were awarded to contractor Angelo Tomasso Jr., a close friend of former Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill.

Clow was cited last December for spending $100,000 to renovate the board's offices without proper authorization from the Connecticut Department of Public Works.

Auditor Leo V. Donohue said the irregularities don't reflect on the quality of the work and the projects were properly put out for bid.

Donohue said the state required the Department of Public Works to approve any improvement project costing more than $25,000. And, he said, no purchases may be made, except in emergencies, without purchase orders submitted through the state comptroller and the director of purchases.

Purchase orders for two of the three contracts given Tomasso were not issued until some time after he had completed the work, the auditors said.

The projects, all in excess of $25,000, were carried out without the approval of the Connecticut Public Works Department, as required by law, Auditor Henry Becker said.

In their latest findings, forwarded in a letter to Gov. Bill Grasso, the auditors reported uncovering a total of $139,000 spent in violation of state law for the parking lots, paving and the renovation of a library building.

The auditors said $30,000 was spent for building materials to renovate Willard Hall, a campus library building which had just before Meskill left office. Donohue and Becker informed him more than $100,000 was spent illegally to renovate Barman Hall, Meskill's home town, which was issued after the work had been completed.

The billing totaled more than $200,000.

Two other late purchase orders were given to Henry Goldsmith and Co. of New Britain for carpeting at $805 and to P and S Door Co. of Meriden at $736.

Wind, Rain & Snow Blasts New England

By United Press International

The worst storm of the winter dumped up to 33 inches of snow on northern New England today. Sixty-mile-an-hour winds whipped up five-foot drifts. Flooding in coastal areas and along rivers caused the evacuation of some homes and damage to an 18th Century lighthouse.

At least four fatalities were attributed to the storm, including three college students on a field trip who were killed in a car-truck crash on a rain-slicked road in Sutton, Mass.

There were hundreds of minor accidents. Cars were abandoned on unplowed roads throughout the three-state triad. Thousands of homes were left without electricity. School classes were canceled.

Blizzard warnings were posted as snow continued to fall — and more was forecast.

Ship Sinking Off New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Liberian tanker laden with fuel oil split in half and was sinking in the Atlantic Ocean today, the Coast Guard reported. The fate of its 36 crewmen was not immediately known.

A spokesman said a Coast Guard helicopter reported at 9:54 a.m. that the 267-foot tanker Spartan Lady had split in half and the stern section of the ship was sinking.

The spokesman said the ship sent out a distress signal at 8:10 a.m. that it was "breaking up" in rough waters of the Atlantic Ocean about 150 miles south of New York City.

Most of southern New England was drenched by a torrential rain. But some areas of the three southern states received snow.

The northwest corner of Connecticut got seven inches of snow Thursday night and today, while the rest of the state got a lot of rain — as much as two inches in some places.

Wind gusts produced scattered power outages throughout Connecticut. Minor flooding covered some roads and disabled some cars, but there were no injuries reported here.

Two inches of rain in southern New Hampshire swelled the narrow Piscataquog River, causing flooding in the
