Budget Hearing Tonight

By SOL R. COHEN

By tradition nationally, today is the first day of the baseball season. And by tradition locally today is the last day for conducting a public hearing on the town manager's proposed budgets and tax rates.

Unlike the baseball season, which can be delayed by bad weather, Manchester's public hearing won't be delayed. It will be held at 8 tonight in the Wadwell School Auditorium, Broad St.

Even before tonight's public hearing, contradictory opinions have been expressed by persons involved in the budget-making process.

Mayor John Thompson, a Democrat, offered little hope the Board of Directors can cut into Town Manager Robert Weiss' proposals the General Fund tax rate be raised 5.5 mills and the Fire District tax rate be raised 0.80 mills.

Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings, on the other hand, has predicted Weiss' proposals definitely will be cut. He hasn't predicted by how much.

Today, the three Republicans on the nine-member board issued a statement which insists, "It is imperative that the taxline be held." They said they'll participate in budgets workshops toward that end—holding the taxline.

They stated, "We are deeply disappointed in Mayor Thompson's statement he foresees a five-mill increase in setting the current budget. While the Republican stand will require careful and intense study, it is the only approach that can be taken at a time when most householders are experiencing considerable difficulty in balancing their own budgets.

"We consistently hear talk of 'tightening the belt,' yet there is no true belt-tightening," continued the GOP statement. "The town must do the same as the householders. When rising costs and inflation affect the home, something has to be curtailed. Perhaps a new appliance isn't purchased, the house doesn't get painted that year, and there may be no meat on the table. How then can the tax rate increase be justified, especially to those of limited means—such as the elderly?"

Saigon Resumes Orphan Flights

SAIGON (UPI) — The Saigon government said today that "Operation BabyLift" will go on and Vietnamese orphans will be allowed to fly out of the country to new homes in the United States and other countries.

Deputy Prime Minister Phan Quang Dan announced resumption of the evacuation of orphans only hours after it was halted.

He said the government would make sure all orphans leaving the beleaguered nation would be adopted.

Resumption of President Ford's emergency babylift program came after pressure from officials of the United States, Canada and Australia—the three countries directly involved in the evacuation—was put on the Saigon government, U.S. Embassy sources said.

The Weather

Considerable cloudiness and breezy this afternoon with the highs in the mid to upper 40s. Some chances of brief flurries or showers. Low tonight in the mid 30s. Fair Tuesday with high in the upper 40s. Chance of precipitation 20 per cent tonight and 10 per cent Tuesday.

"We are making a conscientious survey of the budget, so the people of Manchester will not have another worry to add to their economic burden. It is imperative that the taxline be held."

The Manchester Property Owners Association, which also is opposed to a tax hike, has issued a call to its members to attend tonight's public hearing and voice their opinions.

In addition to recommending the 5.5 mills tax hike for the General Fund and the 0.80 mill tax hike for the Fire District, Weiss is proposing a 25 per cent increase in sewer-use charges. He proposes to peg them at 125 per cent of water fees. They now are at 100 per cent.

Weiss is recommending a $21,997,731 General Fund budget and a $1,602,601 Fire District budget for 1975-76. They are up $1,995,236 and $202,601, respectively, over the current budgets.

He is recommending also a $475,000 Capital Improvement Program of 11 projects for 1975-76, with the sum to be financed by revenue-sharing funds.

Another $675,000 in revenue-sharing funds is being proposed by him as income to the General Fund.

The Board of Directors has scheduled budget workshops for April 14 and 15, both at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room. Additional workshops will be held on available nights.

The board has to May 7 to adopt budgets and set the tax rates. Failure by it to act by that date would make Weiss' recommendations the legal ones.

A review of the tax rates since 1967-68, when Manchester's last reevaluation took effect, shows the General Fund tax rate up 11.40 mills and the Fire District tax rate up 2.18 mills in the seven intervening years.

The General Fund tax rate went from 37.90 mills to the current 49.30 mills and the Fire District tax rate from 3.52 mills to the current 5.70 mills. They average out to a 1.63 mills yearly increase for the General Fund and a 0.31 mills yearly increase for the Fire District.

Jay Robert Sheridan Arrives At New Home in Connecticut

ENFIELD (UPI) — A nametag on one wrist of the 3 1/2-month-old baby boy said Jay Robert Sheridan. A tag on the other wrist said Phan Van Hung.

Decked out in a red, white and blue suit provided by his new family, Jay Sheridan, born in South Vietnam last Dec 19, arrived home to 32 Tyler St. at 9:30 p.m. Sunday, becoming the state's first infant arrival from Indochina.

Robert Sheridan, 33, a South Windsor insurance agent, and his family of five applied to HOPE rescue mission for a baby nearly three years ago.

"And he might as well have been born here," Sheridan said with the smile of a proud father.

Carol Sheridan, 32, leaning back in her chair with her four other children gathered around her, said she let her husband be first to greet the baby because "I got to see all the others first."

"Our son is in perfect health," she said. "I read the physician's report from Vietnam."

She said the black, bushy-haired baby was heavier at seven pounds than she expected. It cost the Sheridans $1,500 to bring Jay over, one-third of the sum going for plane fare.

The family decided to adopt an orphan after watching a television special on the Vietnam War, and Robert Sheridan said the baby was their gift from God.

"He's one of us," he said. Clutching his new son in his arms, Sheridan explained to a houseful of relatives, friends and press how for the second time in less than a week they might have lost the child.

The family got a telephone call last Wednesday that Jay could be expected within six months. A call Thursday told them to expect the baby any day. The Sheridans heard Friday morning that a plane carrying 243 Vietnam war babies to the U.S. had crashed.

"We didn't find out until late Friday that Jay wasn't on that plane, and that day I shuddered every time I walked past our nursery," said Sheridan.

Keeping his bright black eyes focused on his new father's tie, Jay Robert greeted the crowd graciously without a whimper.

The baby arrived in New York at 5:27 p.m. Sunday on a Trans World Airways flight that brought 52 abandoned orphans from the war-stricken country. While waiting at Kennedy International Airport, the Sheridans heard that 25 of the babies were left off in Seattle for health reasons. At the end of the long car ride, Jay Robert arrived at the warm ranch house containing two cakes, gifts and an orange-and-brown "Welcome Home" sign colored in with crayon by the youngest of his new brothers and sisters, who is three.

President Seeks Funds For Viet War Victims

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — President Ford called today for a firm American commitment to help orphans and other civilian victims in South Vietnam. He did not call for military aid.

In an address prepared for delivery to the National Association of Broadcasters in Las Vegas, Nev., and released here, the President for the third speech in a row omitted calling for even the $300 million in emergency military aid for Saigon he earlier labeled as urgent.

"I am now preparing a report on international policy which I will present before a joint session of the Congress on Thursday. We are re-evaluating our foreign policy. I will not go into details today.

"But I will certainly put high on my agenda a firm American commitment to provide humanitarian aid to the helpless civilian victims — including orphaned children — of the war in Vietnam," Ford said.

Ford was ending his nine-day work and play holiday in California, leaving his Palm Springs resort for the Las Vegas appearance. He planned to return to Washington tonight.

He was scheduled to deliver the speech at 4:45 p.m. EDT.

The President in his Las Vegas speech omitted mention of the arms aid. Only in a San Diego news conference before the three speeches did Ford call for the $300 million aid proposal and say he might even ask for more.

As in other speeches, Ford also stressed:

• Congress must not spend beyond the level of a $60 billion budget deficit. "If there is runaway spending by the government, we will again be caught up in a destructive inflationary spiral."

• The $24 billion tax cut was needed, but too little was done for the middle class.

• "There is little doubt that those who will get a temporary benefit from the new tax cut law (those Ford calls the 'low income taxpayer') will wind up footing the bill through inflation unless Congress acts more responsibly on spending."

• The time for increasing welfare programs has ended. He said if social spending rises at the current rate, "by the year 2000 one-half of the nation will be producers and supporters of the other half."

Ford stressed that despite the woes of Vietnam, "now or in the future, let no potential enemy of the United States be so unwise to wrongly assess the American mood and conclude that the time has come when it is safe to challenge us. Let no ally or friend believe that our commitments will not be honored."

The Rainy Day Has Come For State Budget Makers

By DONALD E. MULLEN

United Press International
State governments are cutting back on services and trimming their budgets.

In state after state, the combination of inflation and recession has cut into income. Coupled with newly elected legislatures' spending promises and cries of anguish from state budget directors that there's no money to pay for them, many states are teetering over a sea of red ink.

A survey last fall showed there was approximately $4.1 billion in surplus money scattered throughout the states.

A new April survey shows a paper surplus of about $3.6 billion, with some of it already spent through overly optimistic tax cutting and building programs and some earmarked to cover upcoming deficits.

Texas is a good example. Last year Texas had a projected $1.5 billion surplus. In April it has dwindled to $750.6 million, with the appropriations bill for the next two years not prepared.

The vanished Texas surplus is blamed on sagging tax revenue and the deepening recession, plus emergency spending bills passed by state legislatures.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock, in justifying his surplus estimate, said, "I'm not going to go out with a witching rod to find something that's not there. If the legislature is going to dance this session, somebody's going to have to pay the fiddler."

In contrast, a lot of states, if not prosperous, generally are healthy.

The fuel shortage and rising coal prices have helped Kentucky and West Virginia both keep $125 million surpluses.

California has an estimated $552 million surplus, with hopes of holding on to most of it in the next budget year. Minnesota has an estimated $400 million surplus, and Oklahoma, with increasing gas and oil income, an estimated $190 million in extra cash.

Other states with solid surpluses and generally healthy economies are Montana, Kansas, Hawaii, Iowa, Indiana, North Dakota and Arkansas.

But for many states, it is a fight to find money to pay the bills.

Massachusetts with its high unemployment and sagging income faced a deficit that could go as high as $425 million.

"Look, the state is broke, dead broke," said Gov. Michael Dukakis. "When you're broke you can do two things: You can go to the taxpayers—who themselves are not doing too well—and ask them to cough up some more. Or you can cut. We're going that second route just as hard as we can."

New Jersey has an estimated $487 million deficit and must find the funds to balance a bare-bones budget. Connecticut, with the highest sales tax in the nation—7 per cent—has a projected deficit of $90 million.

Florida is trying to meet a $232 million revenue deficit by cutting spending and dipping into its capital reserve fund.

Congress Begins Attempt To Keep Reins on Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time, Congress will try to drop its haphazard spending methods and set an over-all goal for the federal budget. This year it will be a deficit.

President Ford gave his version a week ago on television. After signing into law a tax cut larger than he wanted, he stood before a chart and, with a graphic sweep of the arm, drew the line on a deficit of $60 billion.

He said neither he nor the economy could stand for more.

Until now, Congress spent money without consideration of an over-all total or its effect on the economy. Only at the end of a fiscal year could the size of the resulting deficit be seen.

But last year, Congress voted to fix spending and deficit (or surplus) totals in advance.

Starting today, the House and Senate Budget Committees, chaired by Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, will draft resolutions proposing spending and deficit targets. The Democrats who control Congress are almost certain to vote for more deficit spending. The best guess is that the congressional deficit will exceed Ford's $60 billion by $10 to $20 billion.

No economist in or out of government is disputing the inevitability or the need for a deficit in fiscal 1976, which starts next July 1.

Any attempt to limit spending to match receipts, shrunken by the recession, would trigger a depression—and result in a still bigger deficit.

By law, House and Senate resolutions are to pass by April 15 and variations reconciled by May 15. If the act works as intended—and skeptics question whether Congress can exercise such self-discipline—a second resolution must pass Sept. 15 trimming away at excesses.

If appropriations exceed targets, the resolution would instruct spending committees to make cuts or tax writing committees to enact laws to raise new revenues.

If neither course were followed, members of Congress would be compelled to vote to increase the deficit, a politically difficult vote to cast. Such votes were avoided in earlier days, when deficits just "happened."

The law has a trial run this year. Since there wasn't time for a wholesale revision of Ford's proposed budget, the resolutions will focus on over-all totals rather than their components—the size of the pie rather than the size of the slices.

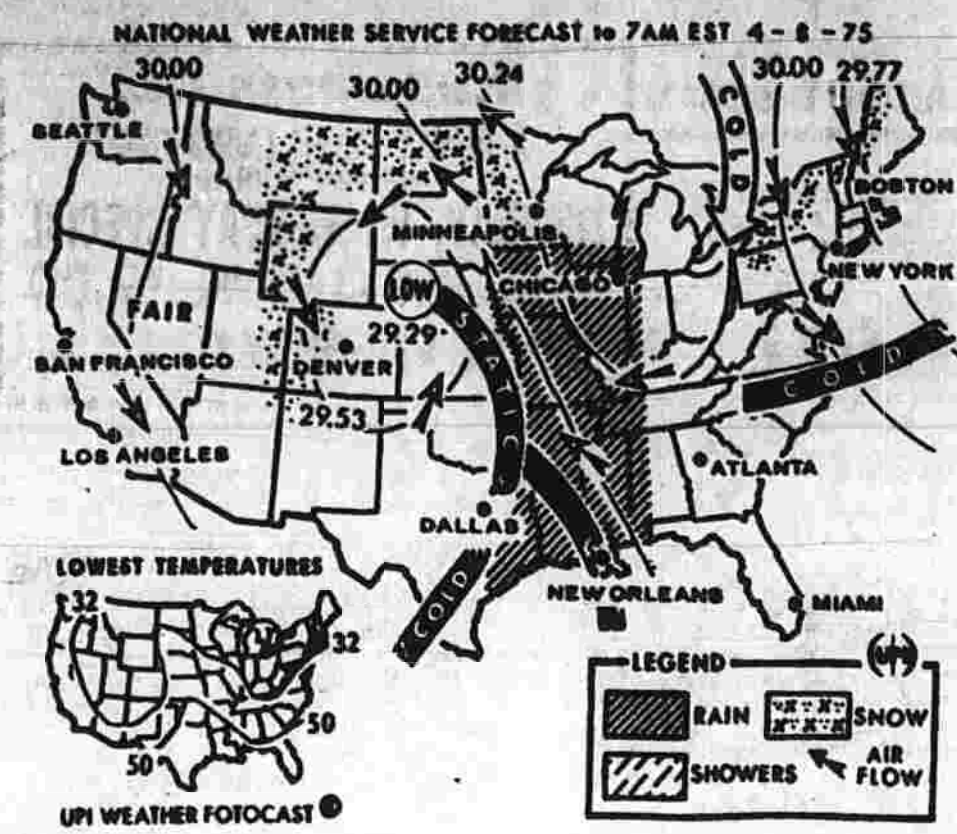

Tuned Out

Obviously this bicycle rider was enraptured with whatever music he was getting on his radio head-set as he wheeled down Oakland St. Saturday. He ignored Herald photographer Steve Dunn's pleas to stop so he could get the rider's name. While the music made the ride more comfortable in the snow flurry, there might be a possible hazard in other bicycle riders following this example since the radio screens out almost all outside noises, including other traffic.

United States World's No. 1 Arms Merchant

By Congressional Quarterly WASHINGTON — The United States sold more jet fighters, tanks, armored personnel carriers, aircraft engines, missiles and helicopters overseas in 1974 than any other nation, including the Soviet Union.

Although the Ford administration defends the transactions as a way of maintaining "close relationships" with friendly nations, increasing numbers in Congress are concerned with the foreign policy implications of the 25-year-old arms sales program.

More than half the weapons sold by the Pentagon and defense contractors in 1974, for example, were purchased by nations in the volatile Middle East region. Iran alone bought $4-billion worth of weapons last year, while Saudi Arabia contracted for a $900-million package of military equipment.

Pros: Gives Us Leverage The Ford administration and weapons dealers argue that the sales help supply allies who cannot produce needed equipment, give the United States leverage over recipient governments, help preserve regional balances of power and bolster the internal security of purchaser nations.

Don't Laugh

WASHINGTON — Could the Republican Party find happiness in embracing a 1976 ticket of President Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan?

So the talk continues about Reagan as Ford's running mate. Nobody is clear about how this could be managed, but the answer is obvious. Ford would have to persuade Rockefeller to withdraw, and then either open the vice presidential balloting or throw his support to Reagan.

It is significant that after the dinner, and a 15-minute private Reagan-Wallace chat, the two men agreed Reagan's appearance was mutually beneficial. Wallace did himself no harm among conservative Democrats who like Reagan's style by greeting Reagan in his introduction as a man who was "among friends."

On the grey and rainy dawning of Easter, some 400 persons gathered at East Catholic High School, welcomed by the triumphant and joyous hymns played by the Salvation Army Band.

Beginning their watch in darkness, the silent worshippers watched the dawning light brighten on the cross until the whole auditorium was filled with radiance and the joyful hymn "He Lives."
Over 300 gathered after the service for Christian fellowship and a continental breakfast in the school cafeteria. Special thanks to Elaine Holcomb and her family, to Annamay Potocki, Irene Goss and to Sr. Joan Farley of East Catholic for her generous assistance. Thanks also to The Folk Group from St. James and Norman Norden who directed the ecumenical Men's Chorus. It was a warm and lovely day in spite of the weather.

Clothing Appeal
The clothing supply of Church World Service which provides clothing and blankets for people caught in natural and manmade disasters all over the world has decreased almost 40 per cent while the overseas requests have almost doubled. The needs of victims of hurricanes, floods, famine and war have emptied the warehouses.

Desperately needed and all good used clothing for men, women, and particularly children, baby clothes, blankets, quilts, comforters, and uniforms for doctors and nurses.
As you clean out your closets, pack all clothing, blankets (and kits, layettes you have made over the winter) in sturdy cardboard boxes. Tie securely. Print your name and address on each box and the number of pounds.
Ten-cents a pound pays for all the costs of getting it to the people who do desperately need it. Deliver boxes to the rear of Concordia Lutheran Church ground level classroom door. Your money will be left in the church office.

May 3 is the last day for leaving clothing.
Emergency Pantry
Volunteers are still needed to staff the pantry. If you are willing to give several hours once a month please call the pantry coordinator, Irene Goss, 649-0974. We thank all of you who are still bringing in food.

World Hunger
The 8A students of Iling Junior High School are holding an all-day bake sale and car wash and tag sale will be in front of Iling, and the bake sale at Kings and DeLa. Please support these young people in their effort to help others.

Dial-A-Ride
Starting today the Town of Manchester, with the assistance of the use of a van from CRT in Hartford, will provide dial-a-ride shopping assistance for the elderly.
Volunteers are needed to help with the driving and the shopping. Please call 649-5381, Ext. 214, Mary Ellen Nemergut, our Vista volunteer, for further information.

Who's Wearing The Pants?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What's with Mel in Bellevue? Is he crazy? He says pants on women should be declared valid grounds for an uncontested divorce... I found very practical on my job because I do a lot of stretching and bending and stooping...

DEAR ABBY: I'm with Mel. I'm a woman who is tired of pants, but I can't find a decent looking dress anywhere... My husband says I've got the best looking legs in town, and I'm not about to hide them if I can help it...

DEAR ABBY: Where does Mel in Bellevue get off saying that all women look terrible in pants... Well, I have news for Mel. He should try wearing a dress in town in the winter... He'd freeze his fanny off...

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to cast my vote FOR women in pants. I happen to be a pretty good looking dish—at least that is what I have been told... I'm a natural blonde, and people have told me I should get into the Marilyn Monroe look-alike contest...

DEAR ABBY: I'd like pants for two reasons. (1) It has cut my hoisery bill down to nothing. (2) My husband and I wear the same size, so it's increased my wardrobe by 50 per cent.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope... For Abby's new booklet, "Who's Wearing the Pants? Want to Know?" send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20c) envelope.

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnel
Correspondent
644-1364

The case against the Board of Tax Review (BTR) by 12 Main Street homeowners has been continued in Superior Court another week.

Lawyers for both the town and the homeowners have been directed to file written briefs with the court by this week.

Based on the contents of those briefs, the court was to make a decision on whether BTR hearings will have some sort of permanent policy from which to go by, both now and in the future.

The case stems from tax assessment hearings now going on in Town Hall.

South Windsor went under reassessment this year and, as a result, almost 500 residents have appealed their assessments to the three-man BTR.

Normally, with only about 12 appeals before it, the BTR holds one or two hearings each March. Those hearings are held before the entire three-man board.

This year, however, because of the huge number of cases before it, the BTR has extended its hearings by one month, as is allowed by law.

Also, the BTR is offering residents the option of a one-on-one hearing in which one resident may appeal to one BTR member.

They have filed suit seeking an injunction against the one-on-one option. If successful, it could probably mean South Windsor's new assessments would be delayed by one year, until the BTR has had an opportunity to review each case before it.

Two weeks ago the town went to court and at that time they case was continued until April. Town Attorney Tom Dennis has stated that apparently no precedent exists and therefore the matter will be up to the court.

Hearings Tuesday
The South Windsor Capital Improvements Committee (CIC) will hold a public hearing Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Town Hall Council Chambers.

At this meeting the CIC will outline its recommendations for the town's capital improvement needs for the next five years.

Residents are urged to attend to speak on the issues and recommendations.

Sewer Use Charges Hearing Topic Today

VERNON
A public hearing on proposed sewer user charges will be conducted at 7:30 tonight in the Administration Building prior to the regular meeting of the Vernon Town Council.

At the council meeting two weeks ago, Mayor Frank McCoy recommended that the charges for both Vernon users and out-of-town users remain the same as the current charges.

Vernon charges are set by ordinance and out-of-town charges by resolution. The resolution needs no public hearing.

While the charges are not sufficient to meet actual costs of operating the sewage treatment plant, Mayor McCoy said once the proposed new plant is constructed, all charges will then have to be evaluated.

During the regular council meeting, action will be taken on the ordinance and the resolution.

Also during the council meeting, a report will be heard from the fire protection subcommittee which has been studying fire department needs for the past year.

Councilman Thomas Benoit requested the report, noting it is necessary before the council can act on the fire department budgets.

The mayor will discuss a request of the Tolland County

Open House Marks 'Week of Young Child'

The Chestnut Hill Preschool at Emanuel Lutheran Church will have a "Drop-In" Tuesday from 1 to 2:30 p.m. in observation of the Week of the Young Child. The event is open to the public. Chestnut Hill Preschool is a new preschool that opened last September for 3-, 4-, and 5-year-olds in the neighborhood. A full day care center, it is set up for a short daily schedule of 2½ hours with a specially designed curriculum, planning and creative activities.

The co-directors and teachers of the school, Mrs. Sandra Midge and Mrs. Carol Mahlstedt, call the school "not too structured nor too loose." It offers an environment of both for children.

The school has various morning sessions from Monday through Friday from 9 to 11 a.m., with a total of 24 children in each class.

Beginning next September, there will also be afternoon sessions.

Assisted by Mrs. Joanne Miller, the teachers' philosophy is to provide a preschool setting that is educational, developmental and creative, one in which a child can learn through play and gross interaction.

Taiwan Mourns Death Of Chiang Kai-Shek

TAIPEI (UPI) — Taiwan mourned the death of Chiang Kai-shek today, but his successors apparently had no intention of abandoning the generalissimo's policy of hostility toward the Chinese Communists on the mainland.

Chiang, 78, died of a heart attack Saturday night, Taiwanese officials announced publicly on Monday, April 6, 1975, in a "solemn and grand" state funeral would be held for him on April 16.

The death of the former president visited Chiang's suburban residence at the Forest of Scholars Sunday, where he was treated for cuts on his forehead and released.

President C.K. Yen, a 70-year-old economist, said he was treated for cuts on his forehead and released.

The real power, however, stayed with Chiang's widow, the Premier Chiang Ching-kuo, who has been running the Nationalist government since 1972, when his father was incapacitated by illness.

Yen and Chiang have promised to continue to honor his generalissimo's 23-year rule.

struggle to recover the Chinese mainland, but diplomatic observers are pointing out that the premier probably would not intend to fulfill the promise.

Communists led by Mao Tse-tung have proclaimed that they are the successors of Chiang Kai-shek, and are claiming that they are the successors of Chiang Kai-shek, and are claiming that they are the successors of Chiang Kai-shek.

Peking diplomats said the American public probably would not maintain his father's policy of hostility to the Communists. As recently as last Thursday, the young Chiang vowed never to talk peace with the conquerors of the mainland.

The ad hoc funeral committee for Chiang, who was converted to Christianity by his American-educated wife, would be followed immediately by a traditional Chinese service.

A 30-day period of official mourning would be proclaimed Sunday. All places of entertainment were closed and government employees were to observe today for the fallen leader.

McCoy Budget Tightens Spending

VERNON
In keeping with his budget message to the Town Council, Vernon Mayor Frank McCoy, in his budget recommendations, has tightened the purse strings on spending for any items he feels not absolutely necessary at this time.

The mayor said his budget recommendations bear in mind the current economic problems of the nation and of our residents; therefore, capital improvements and new equipment are at a minimum.

Before presenting the proposed $5 million general government budget to the Town Council, the mayor went through all budget requests submitted by department heads, and deleted items he felt to be extraneous this year.

The major item in the budget is the purchase of a two fire-pre-ejector engine, one near the firehouse at West and Aye Streets and the other by the Vernon Center Firehouse at Rt. 30 and West St. The mayor deleted both.

A request of the public works department for $35,000 in the purchase of two dump trucks was also deleted. In the public works budget for maintenance of public buildings, a request for $18,000 for building an addition to the rear of the police station which was also deleted.

This was to be a shell of concrete blocks to house cruisers and for storage.

Also deleted was a request in the ambulance budget for an appropriation of $10,500 for the purchase of a 1973 Cadillac ambulance to replace the 1969 one now in use. The ambulance budget for the town was $400,000. This included regular and overtime pay for 28 patrolmen; 7 dispatcher-clerks; 5 sergeants; and 1 secretary-policewoman. This included the salaries for school crossing guards total $70,000. Most of the major items in the budget are ones over which the mayor has no control. These include $106,050 for pension insurance, $90,799 for group insurance, $126,000 for municipal liability, $17,000 for telephone, $679,000 for interest on a new debt, $175,000 for principal payments and $40,000 for capital reserve fund.

Hearings on the proposed general government budget and the $8 million proposed education budget will be conducted early in May and the annual budget meeting will be May 29.
