Robert D. Lannan has a tight grip on the hand of his wife, Roxann, as he takes the oath this morning making him acting police chief of Manchester. He will become chief May 1, the official retirement date of James M. Reardon. Administering the oath is Town Clerk Edward J.

Tomkiel. Town Manager Robert B. Weiss, right, announced his selection of Lannan as chief to succeed Reardon, second right.

Weiss Taps Lannan For Chief of Police

By MAL BARLOW

Manchester's fifth police chief since the local department was founded at the turn of the century will be Robert D. Lannan, Town Manager Robert B. Weiss announced this morning.

Weiss announced at a press conference in the hearing room of the Municipal Building that Lannan was his choice "for the most critical appointment a town manager makes."

Lannan, who will be 45 on May 5, was sworn in as acting chief this morning by Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel. Police Chief James M. Reardon will officially retire as of May 1, Weiss said. He has been taking vacation time since Feb. 28.

Lannan's salary as chief will be $18,333.90, the lowest set for the position and the figure recommended for it by the Board of Directors. The high for the position is $22,000.

Lannan placed first in exams for the chief's position conducted by the state personnel department, Weiss said. A dozen men had applied for the job, four of them from the local force.

Lannan joined the local force as a patrolman in 1957. He was promoted to sergeant in the patrol division in 1963 and to lieutenant-shift commander of the patrol division in 1968.

In 1970 he became the first director of the Manchester Regional Police Academy following his return from the FBI Academy. Lannan was the first local officer since the 1940s to attend the FBI Academy.

Since June, 1974, Lannan has been shift commander of the patrol division.

"Chief Lannan will provide outstanding leadership to one of the top departments in the state carrying on the excellent work started by Chief Reardon," Weiss said.

Weiss noted Capt. George P. McCaughey's work as acting chief during the weeks since Reardon left his office in February.

"He has done an excellent job as acting chief. He has served in that capacity well also in the past and has done well. I'm most appreciative," Weiss said.

Reardon attended the morning press conference and added his praise of Lannan.

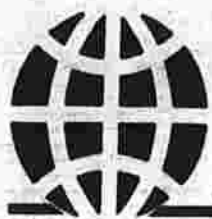

"I'm extremely happy about this, more so since Bob started with the Manchester Department," Reardon said.

"I'm happy to pass the reins over to a man who has been trained in the department."

Reardon noted Lannan's extensive police training and recalled a story that Lannan said he could not deny.

"It was about 14 years ago when we sat in my driveway late one night. I told him he was assigned to the municipal police

Bradley Better

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, was said to be "much better" today, but there was no indication as to when he would be leaving UCLA Medical Center.

Bradley, 82, was hospitalized March 17 after suffering a cerebral stroke. He was operated on for a brain tumor on March 26 and was released from the intensive care unit four days later.

Job Programs Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — United Steelworkers President I.W. Abel said it is time to do jobs that should have been done 10 years ago "now that we have the manpower, skills and ability."

Abel, addressing the annual George Meany Awards Banquet Saturday, said, "Congress and the administration cannot think the job has been done by passing the tax refund bill," Abel said.

Abel said among the best ways to provide jobs included rebuilding the U.S. railroads, constructing rapid mass transit systems for the large cities and developing solid waste disposal programs to recycle raw materials and save energy.

Xuan Loc's Defenders Push Back Communists

SAIGON (UPI) — Government forces expanded their perimeter around the provincial capital of Xuan Loc today despite continuous shelling attacks and heavy antiaircraft fire from Communist troops, field reports said.

Both sides were moving reinforcements toward the flattened city 38 miles northeast of Saigon on Highway 1. A South Vietnamese Air Force A37 Dragonfly jet bomber was shot down by a ground-to-air missile and swarms of resupply helicopters around Xuan Loc flew through intense groundfire.

Government forces also scored gains on Saigon's southern approaches. Field reports said they reopened Highway 4, the vital Rice Road through the Mekong Delta this morning, pushing Communists from the outskirts of Can Tho, the major city in the region.

UPI correspondent Charles R. Smith reported from Xuan Loc that field commanders said the North Vietnamese had been pulling back rather than engage elite paratroopers and that the defense perimeter around Xuan Loc had been enlarged.

Huge Chinook helicopters flew in ammunition and other supplies, including food and medicine, and then left for the nearby Bien Hoa and Long Binh bases jammed with refugees.

The chopper crews tossed loaves of bread and cases of noodles to crowds of refugees who could not get aboard the helicopters, Smith reported. He said the evacuation of the war homeless was well organized considering the heavy fighting around Xuan Loc.

President Nguyen Van Thieu presented his "War Government of Union" cabinet in ceremonies at Independence Palace in Saigon and vowed to fight the Communists to the end. He emphasized "this is not a government of transition with the view of going into coalition with the Communists."

The 30-man cabinet headed by Prime Minister Nguyen Ba Can is the largest in eight years and the first headed by a civilian.

Thieu said the Vietnamese people and army were "very encouraged" by President Ford's intention to seek more military and economic aid from the American Congress "in face of the Communist aggressive peril."

The president said the new government had four major tasks: to defeat the Communists, prepare counterattacks to retake lost territory, "stabilize the rear in all aspects" and strengthen the fighting spirit of the South Vietnamese people and army.

East Haven Parents Picket City Hall

EAST HAVEN (UPI) — Public school teachers and students were locked out of school and angered parents picketed City Hall today as the Board of Education stood fast by its position that it was broke.

About 95 teachers and a handful of students tried to enter the town's eight schools despite the School Board's announcement last week they would be closed. The teachers signed lists to prove they had tried to work and the students went home, said Joseph Riccio, president of the teacher's union.

It was the first time in the recent history of the state that a municipal school system declared itself insolvent and shut down.

Mayor Frank Messina's offices in City Hall were picketed by a number of parents and citizen groups irate over the school closings, but Messina blamed the board of education. "If budgeting limits are established in any department, then it is up to that department to pare down its requests within its own structure to meet the amount of dollars it gets to operate," he said.

"I can't see why the Board of Education is any different from any other department," he said.

Riccio said he and other officers of the East Haven Education Association were to meet later today with the Connecticut Education Association to discuss ways of forcing the School Board to reopen the schools.

The issue may be resolved Tuesday, when school officials are due in New Haven Superior Court to answer a complaint against the closings by town officials.

The School Board vote to close the schools after the Board of Finance denied it a $333,000 appropriation to meet its operating budget for the remainder of the school year. School board members said they feared they could be held personally accountable for the schools' debts.

Hicks Rebuked

BOSTON (UPI) — City Councillor Louise Day Hicks, speaking at Women Veterans Day ceremonies, reiterated her position against court-ordered school busing — and was rebuked for it.

Mrs. Hicks, the principal speaker Sunday, called forced busing an infringement of the rights and "fundamental human freedom of parents to send their children to neighborhood schools."

Robert Grocchia of Oxford, Mass., a member of the American Legion's Executive Committee, said his group disclaimed the remarks as inappropriate for the occasion.

Black Cotton Queen

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The Memphis Cotton Carnival has its first black queen, Debra Trammell, 21, of Memphis. She will reign over Cotton Carnival festivities May 3-10.

Miss Trammell was chosen by lot from eight candidates at a crown and scepter coronation ball Saturday.

"I think it's wonderful," Miss Trammell, the nominee of Lincoln American Life Insurance Co., said after her selection.

ABA Making Last-Ditch Effort To Defeat Meskill Confirmation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in a decade, the American Bar Association (ABA) is opposing a judicial nomination sent to the Senate by its Judiciary Committee.

Not since it successfully opposed John F. Kennedy's nomination of Francis X. Morrissey to the U.S. District Court in Massachusetts has the ABA sought to defeat a presidential nominee who failed to win its endorsement.

Former Connecticut Gov. Thomas J. Meskill — nominated Aug. 9, 1974, one of Richard M. Nixon's last acts as President — has been the ABA target since being offered for the U.S. Court of Appeals for Connecticut, Vermont and New York.

Meskill, 47, a conservative Republican, won confirmation by the Judiciary Committee on a close 8-6 vote March 12, and the Senate could take up the nomination this week. Approval seems probable.

However, the ABA has launched a nationwide campaign to defeat confirmation, calling its action "extraordinary" but necessary because the former two-term congressman and small-town mayor is "manifestly unqualified" to serve in the $42,000 a year lifetime post.

In a March 28 letter to delegates, top ABA officials detailed their grounds for opposing Meskill and asked that senators be contacted in an effort to defeat the nomination, originally suggested to Nixon by Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn.

The letter was followed by ABA passage

April 7 of a strongly worded resolution, urging Senate rejection of Meskill, who has no experience before an appeals court and little experience as a trial lawyer. Copies of the resolution were sent to President Ford, each senator, and others.

The ABA's letter, signed by Lawrence E. Walsh, president-elect; Bernard G. Segal, past president; and John A. Sutro, past chairman of the ABA's federal judiciary committee, stressed it has "long been dedicated to seeking appointment of only qualified persons to federal positions."

"Here the nominee has no significant professional experience or expertise in the law. Clearly he lacks basic professional qualifications required for the proposed post. In addition, other grave questions pertaining to the judgment and candor of the nominee and his concern for propriety remain in doubt."

"This is the first time in 10 years that the ABA has opposed a judicial nomination reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee," they wrote. "We believe, however, that extraordinary action is dictated in this case."

Not only was the association concerned about Meskill's lack of legal experience to work on one of the busiest courts in the land — which handles many complex cases in New York City — but the ABA criticized a state property leasing scandal that smudged Meskill's four years in office.

The ABA trio said that a Connecticut legislative panel looked into the state's leasing practices and "found them reprehensible." Close friends of the GOP administration got profitable, though legal, state real estate contracts.

The ex-governor has denied any wrongdoing. But his testimony before Congress sharply differed with other key witnesses, including a top state Republican legislative leader — and Meskill's own public works commissioner.

Weicker, who won national attention with vocal outrage at the White House during the Watergate scandals, has battled to get his man confirmed — through day-long hearings and lengthy delays that forced President Ford to submit the nomination twice.

Weicker maintained the "stress" endured by Meskill during the confirmation hearings would make him a better judge, "when he sits there and has people without power standing before him..."

Not only has the freshman senator rejected the ABA's critical assessment of Meskill, but he has underlined Meskill's political background in urging approval of his man — even though he disagrees with him philosophically.

"I recommended Tom Meskill to the President to be a judge of the second circuit because his living of the law as an elected official has been of the excellence the law so desperately needs," Weicker testified last Sept. 17.

The court's reasoned judgments actually could use "the reality that is the daily experience of the politician," according to Weicker, who made Meskill his third choice for the important court. Two other nominees were discarded.

Not only has Weicker stood firmly behind his man during the ordeal of delay and four days of somber hearings, but he has gained key support: Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, Connecticut's veteran Democrat.

Ribicoff, a former governor himself, withheld any endorsement of Meskill prior to last fall's election in which he sought a third term. Since then, he has said flatly in some circles that he will vote to confirm the ex-governor — because inquiries into the leasing scandal failed to turn up any illegality on Meskill's part.

The question of Meskill's qualification for the court goes unanswered.

So, despite the ABA's strenuous opposition, Meskill faced the Senate this week with important backing — and the prospect of a confirmation that would turn the powerful bar group's first opposition in 10 years into a major defeat.

Busy Night Ahead For Town Officials

Meetings are scheduled for tonight by three Manchester agencies — the Board of Directors, Board of Education and Conservation Commission.

The Board of Directors' meeting, actually, is its first full-scale review of the budgets and tax rates being proposed for 1975-76 by Town Manager Robert Weiss. Present at tonight's budget workshop — to be held at 7 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room — will be town department heads, on call to answer questions.

The directors will conduct another workshop Tuesday night, also at 7 in the Hearing Room. Other sessions will be scheduled as available. The board has to May 7 to adopt budgets and tax rates for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Weiss is recommending a 5.5-mill increase in the General Fund tax rate, an 0.80 increase in the Fire District tax rate and a 25 per cent increase in sewer rates.

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy will give a progress report on Iling Junior High School construction when the Board of Education meets tonight at 8 in the board rooms. He will also discuss activity plans for the last week of school.

The Citizens Advisory Committee will present proposed plans for the Washington and Bentley School projects.

The board is expected to approve final plans for the Regional Occupational Training Center.

Wetlands, open spaces, and old newspapers are on the agenda for tonight's meeting of the Conservation Commission at 7:30 in the Municipal Building.

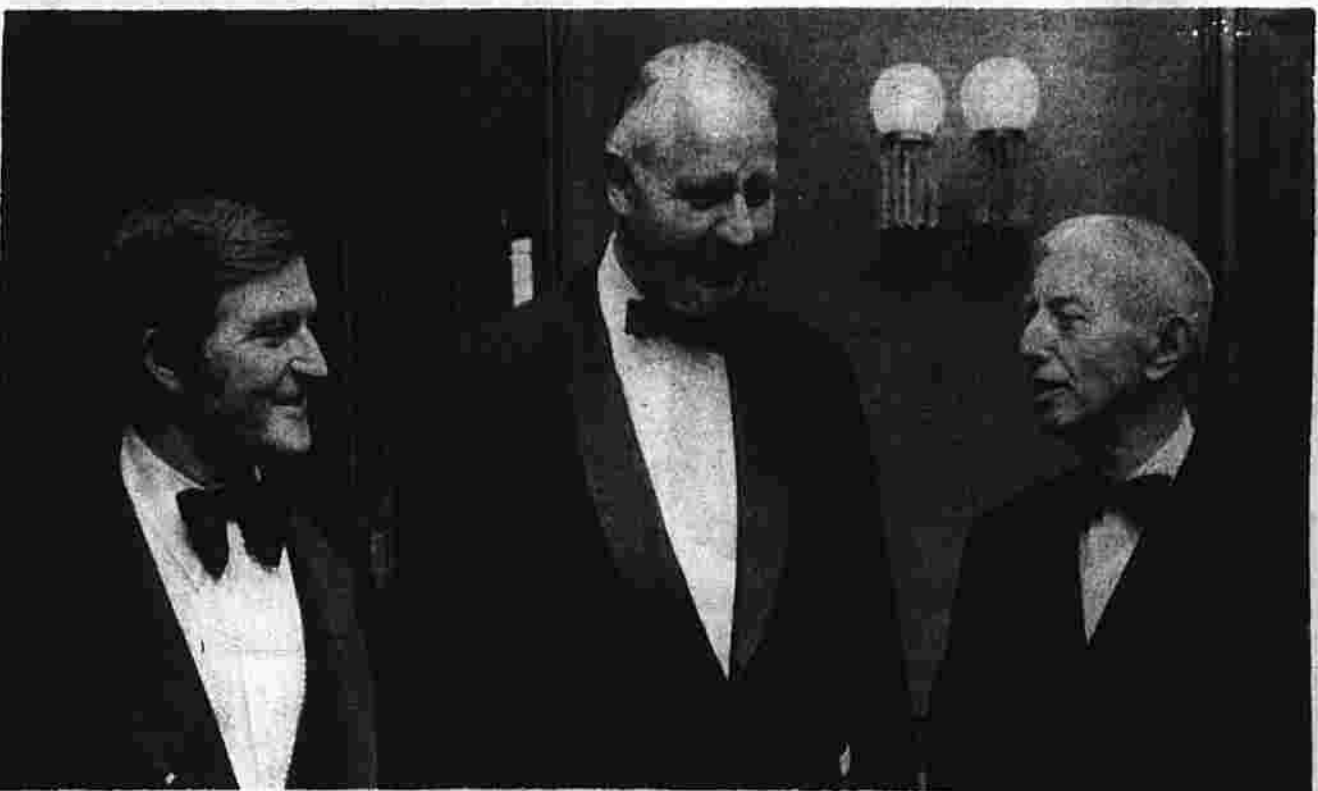

The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) gave the conservationists a proposed regulation on wetlands. It would govern the use of land to within 50 feet of town waters and waterways.

The planners want the commission's thoughts on the new rule.

The PZC also has asked the commission to comment on a new Open Space and Acquisition Development Plan. It will replace the old Open Spaces Program.

The lack of success with the newspaper collection program has bothered the commissioners. They will plan a campaign Monday night to pick up the paper pickup program.

Other agenda items noted by Chairman Terry Parla include: Hilliard Pond, glass collection, more power lines proposed by the Hartford Electric Light Co., and new members for the commission.

Kravitz Honored with Award

Mark Kravitz of Manchester (left), recipient of The Marine Club of Hartford's Community Service Award, talks with Navy Secretary J. William Mittendorf (center) and Adm. Hyman Rickover at a formal military dining-in Saturday night at The Hartford

Club, Kravitz and Dan Lufkin were presented the award by Mittendorf. Kravitz, a native of Malden, Mass., is president of The Steak Club Inc. During World War II, he served as a naval pilot. He has been active in many civic and fraternal organizations and is former executive director of the Shade Tobacco Growers Agricultural Association. The Saturday night dining-in wound up two days of ceremonies, keyed to the American Bicentennial, which involved top military brass.

Vernon Proposes Learning Center

If the Vernon Board of Education approves a recommendation of the Adult Education Department, a proposed adult learning center will be established on the first floor of the former Connecticut Bank & Trust Building on Elm St., Rockville.

The cost of renting the space would be $500 a month. The building is now owned by Union Congregational Church. The rent charge would include heat, electricity, insurance, and custodial fees.

This would be paid by the State Department of Education along with the other costs to run the program. Like all programs which employ federal or state funds, the program will be contingent upon the availability of funds.

The proposal is to be submitted by George Keenan, regional director of Adult Basic Education; Ronald Kosch, director of Vernon's Continuing Education Department; and John Ryan, director of adult education for the State Department of Education.

The purpose of this learning center would be in complete accord with the Adult Education Act which provides for programs of instruction that will enable adults to continue their education to at least the level of completion of secondary school and make available the means to secure training that will enable them to become more employable, productive, and responsible citizens.

The educators feel that adults who do not possess a high school diploma are excluded from entering retraining programs as well as from initial training programs to develop saleable skills necessary for employment.

They also feel these adults are without credibility to encourage their children to continue their education; lack self-confidence and have a poor self-image because they have not achieved the educational minimums established by society; and are without the necessary credentials to continue their formal education on the college and university levels.

If established, the center will offer courses in general English, general mathematics, U. S. History, and general science.

Woman Gets Post In Development

SOUTH WINDSOR

Judy Kuehnel, Correspondent, 644-1364

The South Windsor Town Council has appointed the first woman to the Economic Development Commission (EDC), following her unanimous support from the Democratic Town Committee.

Claire Nizankiewicz, 34, 3 Alpine Dr., has become the first female EDC member in the commission's 10 years of existence.

Mrs. Nizankiewicz, a homemaker and former Town Council clerk, received the council's endorsement Monday night.

She will fill an unexpired term ending Nov. 30, 1977.

The EDC post became vacant recently when former Chairman Roland Aubin resigned and EDC member Joseph Colasanto took his place.

Mrs. Nizankiewicz has taken Colasanto's place.

"I'm kind of excited," she said, following her appointment.

"I don't really feel it's important being the first woman on the EDC so much as being a member of it."

Mrs. Nizankiewicz said that before she makes any proposals she first wants to watch the operations of the EDC. She said that while she has had no experience with industrial development of any kind, she has always been interested in the EDC's function, especially in South Windsor, since moving here from Massachusetts.

Mrs. Nizankiewicz has been a member of the Democratic Town Committee for 10 years, during which she has served as secretary.

BUSINESS

Pioneer Reports Strong 3 Months

Pioneer International Corp. of Manchester has announced improved operating results for the first quarter ended March 31. Net sales were up 15 per cent and net income climbed 30 per cent, the company said.

The company said first quarter sales totaled about $6 million, compared to about $5.2 million a year earlier. Net income for the first quarter was $240,000 (13 cents a share), compared to $196,000 (10 cents a share) in 1974's first quarter.

David N. Abrams, Pioneer's chairman and president, said the favorable operating results reflected the company's centralized approach to marketing, financial responsibilities, and management.

The almost-record first-quarter results were also attributed to Pioneer's participation in several major commercial and government programs.

Abrams said he envisions through its operating divisions, as noted as the world's leading manufacturer of parachutes, recovery systems, and related equipment.

The firm's advanced research and development division places engineering and technical personnel in the industry to meet specialized requirements. The Fever Gage division provides gauges for use in the precision metals industry.

Firms Report Sales, Income

Hartford National Corp., the parent firm of Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., has announced earnings of 84 cents a share for the quarter ending March 31, compared to earnings of 80 cents a share a year ago.

The company said its subsidiary, HNC Realty Co., experienced first quarter losses. Earnings of the principal subsidiary, the bank, were up substantially.

Managers

Leo Cook of Vernon has been named area manager for Agway in Connecticut and Rhode Island, succeeding Fred A. Rose.

Cook, who lives at 21 Christopher Dr., has been assistant operations manager for Agway's eastern division office at West Springfield, Mass. He has been with the firm since 1960 and has served in many capacities, including store manager and area farm sales manager.

Agway is a farm supply and food marketing cooperative owned by 113,000 farmers in 12 northeastern states.

Engineers Meet

The Hartford Engineers Club will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Gengras Planetarium of the Children's Museum of West Hartford. The program will feature "Asteroids — The Mystery Planets."

Unemployment Claims Down in Manchester

Claims for unemployment compensation filed in Manchester for the two-week period ending April 5 averaged 3,331, down 5.1 per cent from the previous reporting period, according to the state Labor Department.

Of the total, which includes claims filed at the Vernon sub-office, there were 168 initial claims and 3,163 continued claims.

Extended benefit claims accounted for 49 of the total, and 24 claims were attributed to seasonal closings. The percentage of women filing claims was 33.4.

Throughout Connecticut, claims were up 1.3 per cent, to a total of 129,064. More than 9,000 were initial claims.

Besides Manchester, offices with decreased claims were Ansonia, Waterbury, Danbury, New Britain, and Danielson. In-

Glastonbury Is Firm Base

Hydro-Dyne Inc. is a new firm formed in Glastonbury to serve water pollution control and waste treatment markets in Connecticut and Western Massachusetts.

The firm—headed by Richard Balzarini, Robert Upton, and Howard Gross—sells and services equipment for water treatment plants and pump stations.

It also serves the commercial and industrial plumbing and heating-ventilating-air conditioning market.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION Wrong Approach

The crisis in the medical profession caused by exceedingly high malpractice insurance premiums, or inability to obtain such insurance with companies reluctant to write it when they have found it unprofitable, has been widely published.

Likewise attention has been called to the very high percentage of malpractice awards which goes to the attorneys for those bringing such suits under the system of contingency fees.

A contingency fee in the legal profession is when a lawyer agrees to take a case for a percentage share of the verdict. If he wins the case he may get a very high fee. If he loses he gets nothing.

The principal sufferers in this situation are the patients, the general public, who are certainly faced with higher medical costs since the doctors must get the money to buy malpractice insurance from that source.

A move has been started in California to have an initiative placed on the ballot in the next general election which would limit the fees which lawyers might collect in a malpractice suit of 10 per cent of the amount of the verdict.

The initiative attempt seems to be the creation of two doctors, but it has already gained the support of the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

A full page advertisement has been published with a form for signatures to place this initiative on the ballot, if sufficient people can be induced to sign.

The advertisement quotes cases in which lawyers have received exorbitantly large fees in malpractice suits. And certainly there have been such cases.

However, the reasoning behind this attempt of the medical profession to reduce the incidence of malpractice suits is erroneous.

The thought is that if malpractice suits are made less profitable for lawyers that their incidence will decrease. And that is probably true. But that does not mean that the reasons for malpractice suits will decrease. It merely means that it will not be possible for a person to sue, since he will not be able to get a lawyer to take his case, unless he has the money for a substantial fee.

A lawyer who takes a malpractice suit on a contingency fee is gambling that he will win the case, and hence the chance of its being lucrative has to be greater than in an ordinary fee case, where his money is guaranteed from the beginning. He may leave the suit with nothing.

Thus the 10 per cent limitation in contingency cases is unrealistic and would merely have the effect of keeping out of court many malpractice suits which should have a judicial determination.

Many victims of malpractice are found among poorer people, who do not have the money to guarantee a fee to a lawyer and yet are justified in seeking a settlement.

We agree that malpractice suits have grown completely out of hand, but this is a wrong approach and is a case of one profession fighting another, with little thought given to the patient, or public.

A more reasonable approach might be a sliding scale in contingency fees, where by a lawyer would get a larger percentage in small verdict cases but a much lesser percentage in extremely large verdicts. And perhaps a ceiling might be put on how much a lawyer might receive in such suits.

Wouldn't it be a nice approach if a joint committee of the American Bar Association and the American Medical Association met to work out a solution which would consider first the welfare of the public?

Shaky Financing
The problem does not stop there, however. The huge draw on the system placed its financial structure on extremely shaky footing. Seven states — Connecticut, Vermont, Washington, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Michigan and Massachusetts — as well as Puerto Rico, have already drained their own unemployment funds, accumulated through taxes on employers, and have turned to the federal unemployment trust fund for loans. Unless the labor market picks up, the Labor Department predicts that another 23 states may have to borrow before the end of fiscal 1976.

WASHINGTON — As the nation slides deeper into the worst economic slump since the Great Depression, its system for aiding the unemployed is facing the severest challenge in its 40-year history. Instead of their regular paychecks, more than six and half million jobless workers were collecting unemployment benefits at the beginning of March.

And despite emergency legislation approved in December 1974 giving unemployment workers up to a year of benefits, at least 250,000 are expected to exhaust their eligibility by the end of June. Unless there is a turnaround in the economy, those numbers are expected to grow even larger in succeeding months.

Together with a million or so jobless workers who for one reason or another could not qualify for compensation, those so-called exhausted would have no alternative but to use up whatever savings they might have and then turn to welfare to sustain themselves and their families.

Documents to the states to lengthen their regular benefit period. Another major provision is establishment of a minimum federal benefit standard equal to half a worker's average weekly wage up to a maximum of two-thirds of the state's average weekly wage — a level that few states currently meet.

The department's proposal, however, was rejected by the Office of Management and Budget, presumably, Department officials said, because it would break President Ford's injunction against new spending programs.

The package is currently in limbo. Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop is reassessing the proposal and is expected to appeal directly to the White House for approval of some sort of reform package. But the departmental proposal already is generating debate in affected circles. Most labor organizations say it does not go far enough. The AFL-CIO for instance, would prefer a higher benefit standard and coverage for all farm workers, domestics and state and local government employees.

Employer groups, such as the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, generally oppose federal benefit standards but they recognize the need for financial reform.

Key features of the package include increases in the employer tax rate and the taxable wage base, extension of coverage to approximately two-thirds of all farm workers and a substantial number of state and local government employees, and in-

Buckley PTA Offers Programs

The Buckley School PTA will meet tonight at 7 in the school auditorium. At 7:30, the parents are invited to attend one of the following programs: In the auditorium—a separate meeting for parents of Buckley fifth graders. Two representatives from Iling Junior High School will explain what's ahead for these children. Miss Judy Tremble, seventh grade counselor, will be one of the representatives. A slide program will be presented.

In the cafeteria—a meeting with pre-kindergarten parents to explain preschool screening and how the parent can help prepare a child for kindergarten. A panel will include Vincent Hamill, school principal and monitor; Mrs. Joan Youngs, teacher; Mrs. Jennifer Tait, social worker; Philip Griffin, psychologist, a speech and hearing representative; Sister Ruth Ann Brighton, learning disabilities. In the library—"What's going on at Manchester's schools? Is there any real education any more? "What's It All About?" will offer some answers from the teachers by means of a multi-media presentation of education as it really is in Manchester.

Ms. Judy Rolis, an elementary teacher, and Lee Hay, a secondary school teacher, will be available to answer questions. A number of slides to be shown on the program were taken at Buckley School. Refreshments will be served.

NEW YORK (UPD) — Goodwill Industries, located in more than 150 cities, gives handicapped persons an opportunity to learn how to be useful and to earn money at the same time by training them to refurbish merchandise that is donated to the organization. The items — which include clothes, home furnishings and toys — then are sold in Goodwill shops. Recently, however, donations have fallen off due to the economy.

OPEN FORUM

To the Editor:
Once again it's budget time with the usual pros and cons of justifying huge board of education increases. Nationwide, articles and editorials are telling of the reversal in education from new, experimental programs back to the traditional and from loosely structured classes returning to the time-tested, orderly method.

Yet, local budgets continue to reflect the innovative, care-all system of education. Parents continue to demand a wide variety of teaching methods and programs to satisfy a child who ranges from the exceptional or gifted to the slow or unmotivated. The answer by the boards of education should be: "Parent, what is your responsibility?"

Detailed attention to special needs of a youngster seems to me to be a parental obligation and not that of the schools. By alleviating the parent's struggle, the budgets make the elderly, single and business community take on the financial burden.

What of the hundreds of dollars that a child reflects as a tax write-off. Shouldn't parent use some of this money to develop or enhance a weak or strong point in their young?

Such a tax is nothing more than a gimmick to open the doors to more spending rather than to come to grips with the real issue of responsible money management which is the only sound way

ANDREW TULLY CIA — Press Relations

WASHINGTON — In Havana in 1968, just before the ascension of Fidel Castro, every American reporter knew a certain diplomat, worked for the CIA. Nobody said so in print.

Which is by way of a reply to CIA Director William E. Colby, who told an Associated Press meeting in New Orleans the other day that the media has a responsibility to protect the government's intelligence operations.

Recently, perhaps, the press has been guilty of publicizing a few CIA secrets better left unreported. By and large, however, reporters and editors over the years have accepted the responsibility now urged upon them by Colby. We are, after all, on the same side, and most journalists recognize the CIA's urgent need to protect those of its people involved in cover operations.

Still, it was timely of Colby to remind us all that some recent revelations of CIA activities have caused considerable concern among certain cooperative foreign officials. They now wonder whether they can safely continue to pass on sensitive information to the agency. A friendly

Foreign diplomat, for example, would be sacked by his government forthwith if the media called attention to his cooperation with the CIA.

Indeed, sometime during the past year a foreign country, is equipped with a new, oriented ministry barely escaped with his life after a foreign journalist (not an American) made inquiries among neutral diplomats in Moscow concerning the man's alleged involvement with a woman staffer at the American Embassy.

The man was a defector-in-place, that is a Soviet citizen who used his job to do espionage errands for the CIA. His story can be told now because he has escaped to a foreign country, is equipped with a new identity, and has enough money in a Swiss bank account to live comfortably the rest of his life.

To his contact, the technician one night suddenly announced that he was under suspicion. The contact arranged an emergency meeting in a subway train. As the train rattled its way under Moscow's streets, his spy submitted details. He had blackmailed the rest of his life. So he strangled the security officer, and dumped his body in the trunk of the car. Then he drove the car to an unused quarry several miles away and pushed it over the side. He walked four miles to a bus station, rode back to the parking lot to pick up his car and drove home.

The agent figured he had a little time. The security officer's car, he said, would not be found for several days. "But I can't stay in Moscow longer than another week," he said.

In Washington, the CIA disagreed. Thirty-six hours later, the spy was safe in a neutral country. But it had cost money and effort, plus the loss of an efficient and dependable agent. And the nosy foreign journalist who started all the trouble is persona non grata in that small compartment of CIA occupied by officials with the "need to know."

Clods Put Feet In Big Mouths

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune U.S. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Thank God someone wrote in to say she had had it with clods who always ask handicapped people, "What happened to you?"
I am engaged to a handsome, 24-year-old man who lost his left hip and leg to cancer surgery. He wears a prosthesis, but it doesn't function like a real leg, and he must also use crutches and has a lot of difficulty getting around.
I never fails, no matter where we go. Some idiot will come up to him and ask, "What happened to you?"
When he tells them, they reply that they know about a dozen people who had the same thing and most of them died from it. This is the God's truth. We have gone to restaurants and have had drinks come up and fall all over us slobbering and crying about what a pity it is to see such a good-looking young man in such a terrible shape.
Believe me, we have taken to staying home lately rather than to go out and run into such stupid numbskulls.
Please ask parents to tell their children to be a little more considerate of handicapped people. They've suffered enough.

ALSO HAD IT WITH CLODS

DEAR ABBY: The annual "POOR ME" award should go to "Had it with Clods." She (or he) wrote, "The next time you see a handicapped person, don't ask, 'What happened to your legs? What happened to your arm? What happened to your face?' Just keep your mouth shut, and leave us alone!"

"Had it" appears to be suffering from a disability far more serious than physical. An emotional one. Unfortunately the "leave us alone attitude" is exactly what the physically handicapped do not need. They need more attention when it comes to building designs, education, employment, medical assistance and housing. The tendency to divorce the physically disabled from the mainstream of life is one of their biggest problems.

I am an active, 50-year-old, single paraplegic, and I sure as hell don't want to be left alone. I want to live, learn, work and play. And I enjoy flirting with the opposite sex just as any other redheaded, healthy grandmother would—I just do it from a fast-rolling wheelchair.
PEGGY BENDERICK, RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR ABBY: I have the perfect solution to the "clod" who asks, "How did you lose your leg?"
Simply say, "I will tell you if you promise that you will not ask another question about it." "It was bitten off." Now—no more questions from WINTER HAVEN, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more "clod" letter? I have a friend who has one leg and a marvelous sense of humor. Someone once asked, "Chum, how did you lose your leg?" He replied, "I didn't lose it where it is!"
OAK PARK, ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "had it with Clods," the handicapped person who resented being asked about his (or her) handicap.
I, too, have a handicap that shows — arms, legs, face. But unlike "Had it," I am not resentful of strangers inquiring. My handicap is part of me, although admittedly, probably the least important part of it. But if someone is sufficiently interested to ask, why shouldn't I answer politely and calmly? To pretend that the handicap doesn't exist, and to expect others to be unrealistically, I think it's even more important to answer them calmly and kindly. They obviously need to be shown an example of gracious behavior.

ABOUT TOWN
Novena of the Miraculous Medal and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be celebrated tonight at 7:30 at the Church of the Assumption, S. Adams St.
Bethany Group of Center Congregational Church will have a sewing session Wednesday in the Robbins Room of the church after at 7:30.

Charles Smith of Hartford lends a helping hand to Abraham Wasserman of Manchester as he boards the dial-a-ride bus being used to service elderly shoppers.

Dial-a-Ride Offered to Elderly

The Town of Manchester, in conjunction with the Community Renewal Team of Greater Hartford, will provide dial-a-ride shopping assistance for elderly shoppers.
Every Thursday will be shopping day with the call-in on Monday and Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon at 646-5015. People will be transported on Thursday to a shopping center in close proximity to their home. About 160 persons per month are expected to be served. Discounts have been arranged with food and drug stores and eating places in these shopping centers.
Discounts are available in several of the stores upon presentation of the Senior Citizens Center Gold Card. This card may be obtained at the Senior Citizens Center, 43 Linden St., from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. These cards are to be used only when the elderly person is purchasing goods for his or her own consumption.
Coordinated with this program will be a grocery delivery system for those elderly who are physically unable to do their own shopping. Call-in hours are the same time as the shopping assistance program. On Wednesday afternoon a volunteer will pick up a detailed shopping list from each shut-in person. Delivery of groceries will be Thursday afternoon. Every effort will be made to recruit volunteers from volunteer agencies in the town to assist the program.
More information on the program, which is now in operation, can be obtained from the Human Services Department of Manchester, 646-5281, ext. 214.

Scouts Mark Bicentennial Saturday

Members of 29 Manchester Girl Scout Troops will participate in the Connecticut Valley Girl Council's initial celebration of the Bicentennial, "Heritage '75," Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Hartford Civic Center.
They are among the 4,000 girls and adults who will participate in the celebration attended a weekend workshop last fall at Timber Trails Camp where various colonial crafts and ways of life were demonstrated. Each troop selected an area of interest, and since then the scouts have been preparing for the celebration.
Folk arts and dancing, hand arts, ethnic heritage, camping, tobacco growing, colonial living and Indian lore are some of the areas to be explored during the program.
Brownies are painting murals for the event, and they will present a program of singing, dancing and the "Sensory Trail," during the celebration.
Those under the age of 18 will be admitted free, as will all registered Girl Scouts. The non-scout donation of $1.50 will help meet the expenses of staging the event.
A drawing will be conducted hourly, and a parent may win a week at a resident camp, or two weeks at a day camp for his/her daughter.

Beta Sigma Elects New Officers

Mrs. Mike Tine of Wethersfield has been elected president of Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.
Other elected officers of the Manchester chapter are Mrs. Jay Wolfe of 43 Esquire Dr., vice president; Mrs. Steve Van Meter of 136 Hamilton Dr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Phil Popenhausen of Windsor Locks, recording secretary; and Mrs. Rod Stoelklin of Newington, treasurer.
The chapter also selected its "Girl of the Year," and her name will be revealed on Founders Day.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Paulina Guerra, an exchange student from Chile, visited Junior Troop 696 at Trinity Covenant Church. She told of scouting and living conditions in her native country. She presented World Friendship pins and badges to the girls.
Junior Troop 614 and Brownie Troop 646 of Wadsworth School had an intertroop activity and worked on hospitality.
Junior Troop 612 of Martin School entertained Brownie Troop 618 of South School with a play. The girls had made their scenery and costumes. The world circle of friendship was played.
Brownie Troop 662 of Green School, under the leadership of Mrs. Richard Mackenzie, Mrs. Richard Thompson, and Mrs. Raymond Wilcox, adapted "The Cookie Tree" by William Blake into a puppet show.
The girls made the puppets and their costumes. Parents participated in making the scenery and stage.
They invited the Nursery School from South United Methodist Church to see the performance. It was well received and they were asked to present it to Unit A at Green School.
The girls also took puppets, stage, and supply of cookies to the Manchester Memorial Hospital and presented it to the Pediatrics Ward.

National Food Day is April 17 On Food Day, as the world examines its food situation and obligations, we at Stop & Shop are also re-examining priorities and needs. Through our publication, Consumerism, our forty-six Consumer Boards, and our Department of Consumer Affairs professionals, we continue to focus attention on nutrition information, and a continuing program of consumer helps to improve family health.
At Stop & Shop we believe it is crucial that a National Food Policy be established in this country. A critical part of such a Food Policy should be a National Nutrition Policy.
We believe that a nutritionally adequate diet should be the right of every American. Further, we think it essential for all Americans to have the necessary knowledge to effectively exercise that right.
We will do all we can to further both goals. It's another part of getting your Stop & Shopsworth.

OBITUARIES

John J. Kucz
VERNON — John J. Kucz, 81, of 7 Linden Pl. died Saturday in a local convalescent home. He was born Dec. 26, 1894, in Poland, and came to the Rockville section of Vernon in 1906 where he lived most of his life. He retired in 1950 from the Mt. Stevens and Sons Co., Rockville. He was a member of St. Joseph's Church, Rockville. Survivors are 2 sons, Edwin L. Kucz of Rockville and John A. Kucz of Ukiah, Calif.; 3 daughters, Mrs. John Lemek and Mrs. Edwin Boczar, both of Rockville, and Mrs. Frank Leach of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; 17 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. The funeral is Tuesday at 8:15 a.m. from the White-Gibson-Small Funeral Home, 65 Elm St., Rockville, with a Mass at 9 a.m. at St. Joseph's Church. Burial will be in St. Bernard's Cemetery, Rockville. Friends may call at the Ely Funeral Home, 514 Second St., Rockville, tonight from 7 to 9. There will be a prayer service at 8 p.m.

Richard Wilson

One way to burglar-proof your home is to get friendly with your neighbors. They'll report suspicious strangers while you're away.
Secure double-hung windows with 1-inch-thick nails set into holes you've drilled in the window frames where they meet, so that the window can't be opened. Wait to open the window for ventilation! Drill a second set of holes a "tite" higher in the top sash.
Special locks are available for casement windows, at replacement for the standard lever action.
Make sure the front door is secure and solid. Tighten your door lock.
To secure the back door, mount metal brackets on the door frame and drop in the brackets. Works like a "tite" lock.

Jack Nicklaus Plays His Best Under Pressure, Fifth Masters 15th Major Golf Championship

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, Masters champ for a record fifth time, has more fun winning golf tournaments when the pressure is on him right up to the final shot. "I don't consciously let up when I get a big lead," said Nicklaus. "But, somehow, when I get way out in front, I guess I don't seem to have a killer instinct." Since Nicklaus likes that kind of pressure, he couldn't possibly have had any more fun than he did Sunday when he achieved his 15th major championship, another record. He won by only a stroke over both Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller and either or both of them could have thrown the Masters into an 18-hole playoff today by sinking birdie putts on the final hole. Nicklaus had led the Masters by five strokes. But Saturday, just as he did two weeks earlier when he threw away a six-stroke lead to Weiskopf in the Heritage Classic, Nicklaus had an off round and found himself a stroke behind Weiskopf at the start of Sunday's play. As he did in the Heritage, he came roaring back in the final round to win, his third victory in his last three tournaments. But Nicklaus admitted he had doubts Sunday.

"I didn't feel right on the practice tee," he said. "I couldn't get with it. Then, I hit my first tee shot poorly and I didn't know what to expect." He shouldn't have worried. He birdied three of the next four holes to pull into a tie with Weiskopf and the Ohio State alum had handed the lead back and forth until they were three holes from the finish. That's where Nicklaus sank a 40-foot putt. When Weiskopf, playing with Miller in the final two some just behind, three-putted from 85 feet, the "Golden Bear" was not to be caught again. "I had thought I was going to let the tournament get away from me a couple of holes before," said Nicklaus. "But I thought I could make that putt. It's a silly feeling on a 40-foot putt, but I really thought I could make it." "I knew with Tom back on the tee watching me (it was a 100-yard hole) that he was going to have a time playing the hole after I'd made a two. It turned out I was right. It was a two-shot swing, and the tournament."

Nicklaus, 68-67-73 the first three days, had a 4-under-68 Sunday for a 12-under 276 that had been bettered only twice in the 38 previous Masters. Ben Hogan had a 274 in 1953 and Nicklaus set the record of 271 when he won his second Masters title in 1965. Nicklaus received $40,000 for winning the Masters. That raised his earnings for this year to just over $140,000 — but he's still $24 behind Miller, who got off to a fast start on the Western portion of the tour. Weiskopf, winner the previous week at Greensboro, got $21,250, as did Miller, and took over third place on the money list at more than $12,000. Nicklaus now points for the U.S. Open which will be held just outside Chicago in June, but he gets a bit pipped when people want to talk about his chances of winning pro golf's first "grand slam." "We go through this every time I win the Masters," he said. "It's a possibility but not a probability. If I should happen to win the U.S. Open and then I should happen to win the British Open, then, yes, I'd have to say my chances going into the PGA Championship would be good." "Of course," he added with a grin, since all other grand slam contenders have already been eliminated for this year. "I like my odds better than anyone else's."

Nicklaus plans to devote this week to business and family, then play in Tournament of Champions next week. "After that, I'm going on a fishing trip in Mexico, which I do every year, and the only other tournaments that I know I'm going to play for sure before the Open are at Memphis and Atlanta."

Old-Fashioned Superstition Couldn't Help Tom Weiskopf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Even a little old-fashioned superstition couldn't help Tom Weiskopf. He showed up for the final round of the Masters Sunday dressed in purple. Many of the other contenders like to wear green for the last day. They figure that if they should be fortunate enough to win, their outfit will look nice with the green jacket the winner receives. Not Weiskopf. "I've worn green three times and I've never won three times," he said. "I decided to wear something that clashes with green." Now he has finished second four times.

"I tried as hard as I could," he said. "I know one thing, I believe it — I will win this golf tournament some day." Weiskopf, leading by a shot, and Johnny Miller, trailing by four, had different outlooks on their second-place tie and near miss. Miller, who had been 11 shots behind with 36 holes left and only survived the cut by two strokes, admitted before starting the final round, "I really can't expect to win." But he lacked a 66 onto his third round 65, and those were the two best rounds anybody ever shot in succession at the Masters. "At least, I think I proved to a few people I can play other places besides Phoenix and Tucson," said Miller, the author of a 61 in each of those early-season tournaments, which he has won the last two years. "It had to be

Connors Brushes Off Talk

DENVER (UPI) — Jimmy Connors says he'll rather brush his teeth than answer John Newcombe on television. Connors qualified for the $60,000 World Championship of Tennis Denver tournament Sunday with a 6-4, 6-1 victory over John Fort of Mission Viejo, Calif., while Newcombe made a nationally televised announcement saying he was bowing out of the Denver tournament.

Connors and Newcombe meet April 26 in Las Vegas in a $250,000 Challenge Match, for the television rights. Newcombe announced March 4 he would play in the Denver WCT tournament to get in shape for the challenge match. But Connors decided last week he also wanted to play in the Denver tournament. "I feel a moral responsibility to the sponsors of the challenge match) to withdraw from the Denver tournament," Newcombe said Sunday from San Antonio, Tex. "There was sort of an unwritten rule that Jimmy and I not play before we meet in Las Vegas." Pro Hockey Roundup
Stanley Cup champions were losing to the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 in the first game of their best-of-seven National Hockey League quarterfinal playoffs when he told his team candidly that if they put on pressure in the final period of the Leafs would be "too tired" to cope. That's exactly what happened. The Flyers, known for their challenging type of hockey, really put on the pressure in the final period and the Leafs, exhausted from their just-concluded series with Los Angeles, wilted as Philadelphia scored four goals to win 6-3. Rick MacLeish scored three goals to pace the Flyers attack but it was goals by Reggie Leach and Garry Woodson which together with the Watson win in a 16-second span of the third period that turned the game in favor of Philadelphia. In other NHL quarterfinal playoff action, Montreal defeated Vancouver 6-2, Buffalo topped Chicago 4-1 and Pittsburgh edged the New York Islanders 5-4. In World Hockey Association quarterfinal playoff action, Minnesota routed New England 8-3 and Cleveland downed Houston 5-1.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — It was the quiet after the storm Sunday when the Minnesota Fighting Saints beat the New England Whalers 8-3. Friday there had been street fights and a host of penalties. Sunday 10 penalties for a total of 26 minutes were called on each team. Saints coach Harry Neale was pleased, both with the peaceful game and its outcome. "An 8-3 win is just the same as a 3-2 win in overtime," Neale said after the game. "It only accounts for one win." It did, however, put Minnesota ahead 2-1 in the best-of-seven playoff series. Neale was extremely happy with his power play line which has played in streaks this year but "seems to have gotten it together for the playoffs," he said. "We made them play our game," Neale said, "and they weren't willing to put out the effort to meet us. More often than not we'll win in that situation." Minnesota jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first period on power play goals by George Morrison, Terry Ball and Fran Huck. The Saints added two more tallies in the second period by

Pearls of Wisdom Spoken by Shero

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coach Fred Shero's words to his Philadelphia Flyers Sunday night turned out to be pearls of wisdom. # School Board Asks $20,853 To Cover Unexpected Costs

TOLLAND
Vivian Kenneon
Correspondent

The Board of Education, in a prepared news release, has announced it will seek $20,853 from the Board of Selectmen to cover unexpected costs for the current fiscal year.

Repair costs to the high school lawn, damaged by vandals, will be $428. A fence added to Hicks School to prevent children from climbing onto the roof costs $340. An inadequate water system at Parker will be increased at a cost of $2,500.

Better ventilation to exhaust hazardous fumes from the graphics room at the high school will cost $2,850. Repairs to the roof of the Education Administration building cost $524.

Boilers at three schools must be replaced to more efficiently burn fuel oil. Over the long haul, this should save money. Also, smoke monitors should be added to comply with the clean air law. The total conversion will cost an estimated $14,000. Also, the cost not covered by insurance to replace the boiler at Hicks will be at least $300.

The board also wants that the school of the newer part of Parker school will have to be repaired or replaced, but a cost estimate has not been received. It is waiting for the department on "strong odors" at the middle school which may mean a problem with the Hicks septic system.

The board will submit items that can be classified as improvements to the state Department of Education and, hopefully, it may reimburse the Board of Selectmen by 50 per cent.

Proposed Budget Hearings
The proposed education budget hearing will be tonight at 7:30 in Tolland High School. The education budget as proposed by Town Manager John Harkins is $3,170,323 and reflects a $63,544 cut from what was requested by the school board.

Red Artillery Grounds Bombers

SAIGON (UPI) - A large part of South Vietnam's fighter-bomber force was grounded today by a Communist artillery attack against the country's major airbase at Bien Hoa, military sources said.

The sources said Communist gunners temporarily closed the F5 strip at Bien Hoa, 14 miles northwest of Saigon, with 20-round barrages from powerful 130mm guns.

The runway used by the F5 Freedom Fighter was so cratered by the attack the jets were not able to take off. The F5 requires a longer runway than the other jet fighter-bomber from the Vietnamese Air Force, the A57 Dragonfly.

Bien Hoa—the headquarters for virtually all of South Vietnam's jet attack planes—was also hit with mortar fire and Communist commandos blew up a bomb

Guerrillas Battle Militia in Beirut

BEIRUT (UPI) - Palestinian guerrillas and right-wing militia battled in the streets of Beirut today with grenades and machine guns in the third day of the worst Lebanese civil strife in two years.

Six bomb explosions knocked out store windows in Beirut and police said 100 guerrillas were killed in the fighting.

The explosion came as Premier Rashid Solh conferred for 75 minutes with

President Says Nation Will Be Wiser

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Ford said today that the United States will emerge from its ordeal of "heroic sacrifices and great disappointments" in Indochina a stronger and wiser nation.

"Other countries have had brilliant leaders," Ford said, "but no other country can point to two centuries dedicated to expanding and perfecting a continuing revolution in a free society."

He said he was confident the fighting would not spread "because it only serves to aid the enemy (Israel)."

Line-By-Line Review Of Budget Started

By SOL R. COHEN

If the Manchester Board of Directors is going to cut into the budgets and tax rates being proposed for 1975-76 by Town Manager Robert Weiss, it will have to do it the hard way—a line-by-line review by departments.

That's the knowledge the directors came away with Monday night, after conducting their first budget workshop—a four-hour review of the police, fire, tax collector, assessor, data processing, and department and general services budgets.

Town Manager Robert Weiss, when he recommended budgets that would raise the General Fund tax rate by 5 mills and the Fire District tax rate by 0.80 mills, had said, "The budgets reflect a continuation of town services at or below the present level. The increase in expenditures requests reflects inflationary forces or contractual agreements over which we have very little control."

Each mill represents about $200,000 in the General Fund budget. That's how much the directors must cut from the budget for each mill it might reduce in the tax rate.

They learned Monday night it won't be easy and might require shirt-sleeve sessions after the early morning hours between now and May 7—the deadline date for board action.

Since Weiss' proposed budgets and tax rates were released, Mayor John Thompson acknowledged cutting them might be at the risk of cutting town services; Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings promised there will be cuts; Republican Directors Vivian Ferguson, Carl Zinner and Hillary Gallagher said they'll work to hold the taxline and Democratic Director Phyllis Jackson said she, too, is aiming at holding the taxline.

Last week, the three Republicans asked Weiss to re-assess his proposals and to submit new ones that would hold the line on the tax rate.

Monday, Weiss replied to the request in a written memo to the three, with copies to the other six directors.

"The decision to cut services—thereby reducing the mill increase—is clearly the responsibility of the policy-making body, the Board of Directors," wrote Weiss.

"As you know," he added, "I stand ready to supply whatever information is needed to aid the board in making its decisions—in these difficult economic times."

He repeated comments in his budget message, that his proposals maintain town services at their present level and that, with the exception of one school crossing guard for Oak St., a lab technician in the water department (a federal requirement), and a carpenter at the Nike Site (funded by Emergency Employment
