Mrs. Robert W. Boulais

Linda Jean Rhodes of Rocky Hill and Robert William Boulais of Lexington, Mass., re-enacting the event on the Lexington Green 200 years ago today which marked the beginning of the American Revolution. President

The Rev. Arthur Weil of Rocky Hill performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white silk organza gown designed with high neckline, Empire bodice, long sleeves applied with Venice lace, lace applique skirt edged in lace and terminating into a chapel-length train. Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a lace headpiece accented with satin ribbon.

Mr. Boulais is employed as an assistant underwriter at Travelers Insurance Co.

Red Coats Fire at Minutemen

The British Red Coats fire upon the Minutemen at Lexington, Mass., re-enacting the event on the Lexington Green 200 years ago today which marked the beginning of the American Revolution. President

Vernon School Re-Creates American Revolution Start

By BARBARA RICHMOND "The British are coming...the British are coming," was the cry wafting through the halls of the Vernon Center Middle School Friday as the students re-created Paul Revere's ride and the famous battle of Lexington and Concord.

The re-enactment was just 200 years to the day of the famous midnight ride on the 18th of April in 1775. It was part of the school's observance of the country's Bicentennial celebration.

Down the hill to the rear of the school came the famous British red coats advancing slowly on foot. From the south came Paul Revere riding his horse and noticing the two lanterns burning in the steeple of the North Church (they even had that set up on the school roof) he rides up and down the country side sounding the alarm that the British were coming and seeing his duty done, "rides off to Concord."

The school's athletic field was the battle ground. The red coats have been marching all night to a drummer's cadence but as they reach the "village green" they find a grim band of Minutemen ready to do battle. "Muskets" are fired, the red coats retreat and the battle that brought independence is over.

And that's the way it was in April 1775 and April 1975. Kevin Baker rode as Paul Revere. Minutemen were: Rick Martino, Glenn Edwards, John Swart, Kevin McCarthy, Phil Gonsolves, Jon Burnep, Ed Balchunas, Francis Yost, Ted Diebolt, Scott Tedeschi, and Brad Ingraham. Also: Tod Spofford, Darron Walton, Brian Fisher, Paul Ricard, Jim Bellingheri, Bruce Bouchard, and Bob Berger.

Red coats were: Dean Hathaway, Alan Nelson, Peter Hopkins, John Dougenik, Kathy Crouse, Debby Simon, Lorna Owens, Tom Valkenel, Steve Eichacker, Tom Wilson, Kathy McKone, John Ostrowski, Pat Coughlin, and Fred Dellino. Drummers for the British were Ron Joy and Dawn McKinley.

No bystanders or police were injured. Police said the sniper, tentatively identified as Frank Murphy, about 28, shot himself with a .42 caliber automatic revolver as officers attempted to talk him into giving up.

Murphy was taken to a hospital, where a spokesman said he died at 11:20 p.m. of a gunshot wound to the mouth.

Grasso Defended

HARTFORD (UPI) — A national feminist politician says Gov. Ella T. Grasso would have drawn criticism whether she appointed few or many women to high government posts.

PLD leaders have said they will not decide on attending until invited by Moscow and Washington. The United States has not recognized the PLO and Israel opposes any negotiations with the organization, calling it a terrorist group.

The sources said that during his three-day visit, Fahmi will stress the need for increased Soviet military and economic aid to strengthen Cairo's position at Geneva.

Hard Times Fray Edges Of State Budget

By ROBERT LAMBERT HARTFORD (UPI) — The state's top financial officer says hard times have already frayed the edges of the balanced budget proposal Gov. Ella T. Grasso offered to the legislature.

Finance Commissioner Jay O. Tepper said Friday increased expenditures and lowered revenue estimates — both due to the economic recession — have put the $1.4 billion budget in the red by $41 million.

One major expense is an additional $24 million for unexpected increases in the state's welfare load. The state's declining economy, Tepper said, is expected to mean $30.7 million less in revenues.

President Launches Nation's Bicentennial Observance

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — President Ford joined thousands of people today to celebrate the 200th birthday of the American Revolution at historic North Bridge where "once the embattled farmers stood and fired the shot heard 'round the world.'"

The President, accompanied by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., gave brief remarks before 60,000 persons who crowded on the grounds where Minutemen fired the first fatal shots at British troops, April 19, 1775. Kennedy's daughter Caroline was with them.

Ford was joined by Sir Peter Ramsbotham, British ambassador to the United States, in wreath-laying ceremonies to honor the three British soldiers and two Minutemen killed here in battle.

The ceremonies took place at the famed Minute Man statue depicting an embattled farmer — one hand on a plow, the other gripping a musket.

The President then went to Lexington, some eight miles away, to participate in similar ceremonies on the village green where eight Minutemen died.

The number of people attending various activities to officially begin the nation's bicentennial varied through the morning hours. Concord and National Park officials estimated about 40,000 were on the Lexington Green for the ceremony.

About three-fourths of that crowd had drifted away by dawn, only to be replaced by a new influx of visitors, including many families with children. Park police at one point estimated that about 200 persons per minute were entering the area.

Traditional dawn ceremonies were disrupted briefly by a mass of people on the North Bridge were participants had to march.

National Park Service personnel finally cleared pathways and the events went off as scheduled. They included the recitation of Dr. Samuel Prescott's ride — he carried the message to the Patriots after Paul Revere was captured — the raising of the flag and firing of the dawn salute by the Concord Independent Battery.

Authorities said there were no conflicts. The Manchester Bicentennial Commission will conduct a ceremonial flag raising and certification ceremony at 11 a.m. Monday at the Center.

The event is scheduled at the flagpole in front of the Municipal Building.

Sniper Kills Self

NEW YORK (UPI) — A man who was said he was "tired of living" fired sporadically into the street for 90 minutes from his fifth-floor Brooklyn apartment Friday night, then killed himself, police reported.

No bystanders or police were injured. Police said the sniper, tentatively identified as Frank Murphy, about 28, shot himself with a .42 caliber automatic revolver as officers attempted to talk him into giving up.

Murphy was taken to a hospital, where a spokesman said he died at 11:20 p.m. of a gunshot wound to the mouth.

Coastal City Falls

SAIGON (UPI) — The coastal city of Phan Thiet, which South Vietnamese forces had hoped to establish as a beachhead for counter attacks, fell to tank-led North Vietnamese troops today.

It was the 19th province capital taken over by the Communists. And in Saigon a Viet Cong spokesman said orders were given April 4 to Communist troops to prepare for an attack on the city. He said, however, "I regret to say I cannot know or say in advance the date of the uprising or fight in Saigon."

He reiterated the VC was ready for peace negotiations — if President Van Thieu was removed from office.

Resistance Reported

SAIGON (UPI) — The first official indication that resistance to the rebel takeover of Cambodia was being met with armed opposition, came today. It was reported that attacks on several provincial capitals have been without by troops loyal to the former Cambodian government.

A clandestine short-wave broadcast monitored in Saigon ordered all resisting troops "on the fronts in various towns and provincial capitals" to lay down their arms and surrender. The Khmer Rouge imposed a news blackout Friday and no official word has come from the country since then.

Accompanied by 15 chaperones including 2 nurses, 60 members of the Round Table Singers of Manchester High School are on their way today to Hawaii for a week's concert tour.

On the day of the beginning of the nation's Bicentennial, the group will work as they fly to the Pacific. Much of the time in the air will be spent polishing up the numbers they will perform in six concerts.

Their itinerary includes concerts at the following: Punahoa High School, St. Louis High School, Alomana Shopping Center, Arcadia Home for Retired Persons, Ilika Mall, and Kamehameha High School.

Their trip also includes a Hawaiian luau on Oahu and a trip to Pearl Harbor.

This is the second concert tour the Round Table Singers have made to Honolulu. For their public appearances, the boys will wear their colored shirts and the girls will wear their long red gowns.

The projects sponsored by the group to help fund the trip netted $60 apiece for the participating members toward their total cost.

Complete travel and concert arrangements were made by Charlotte White, a Manchester public school teacher, who will also be with the group.

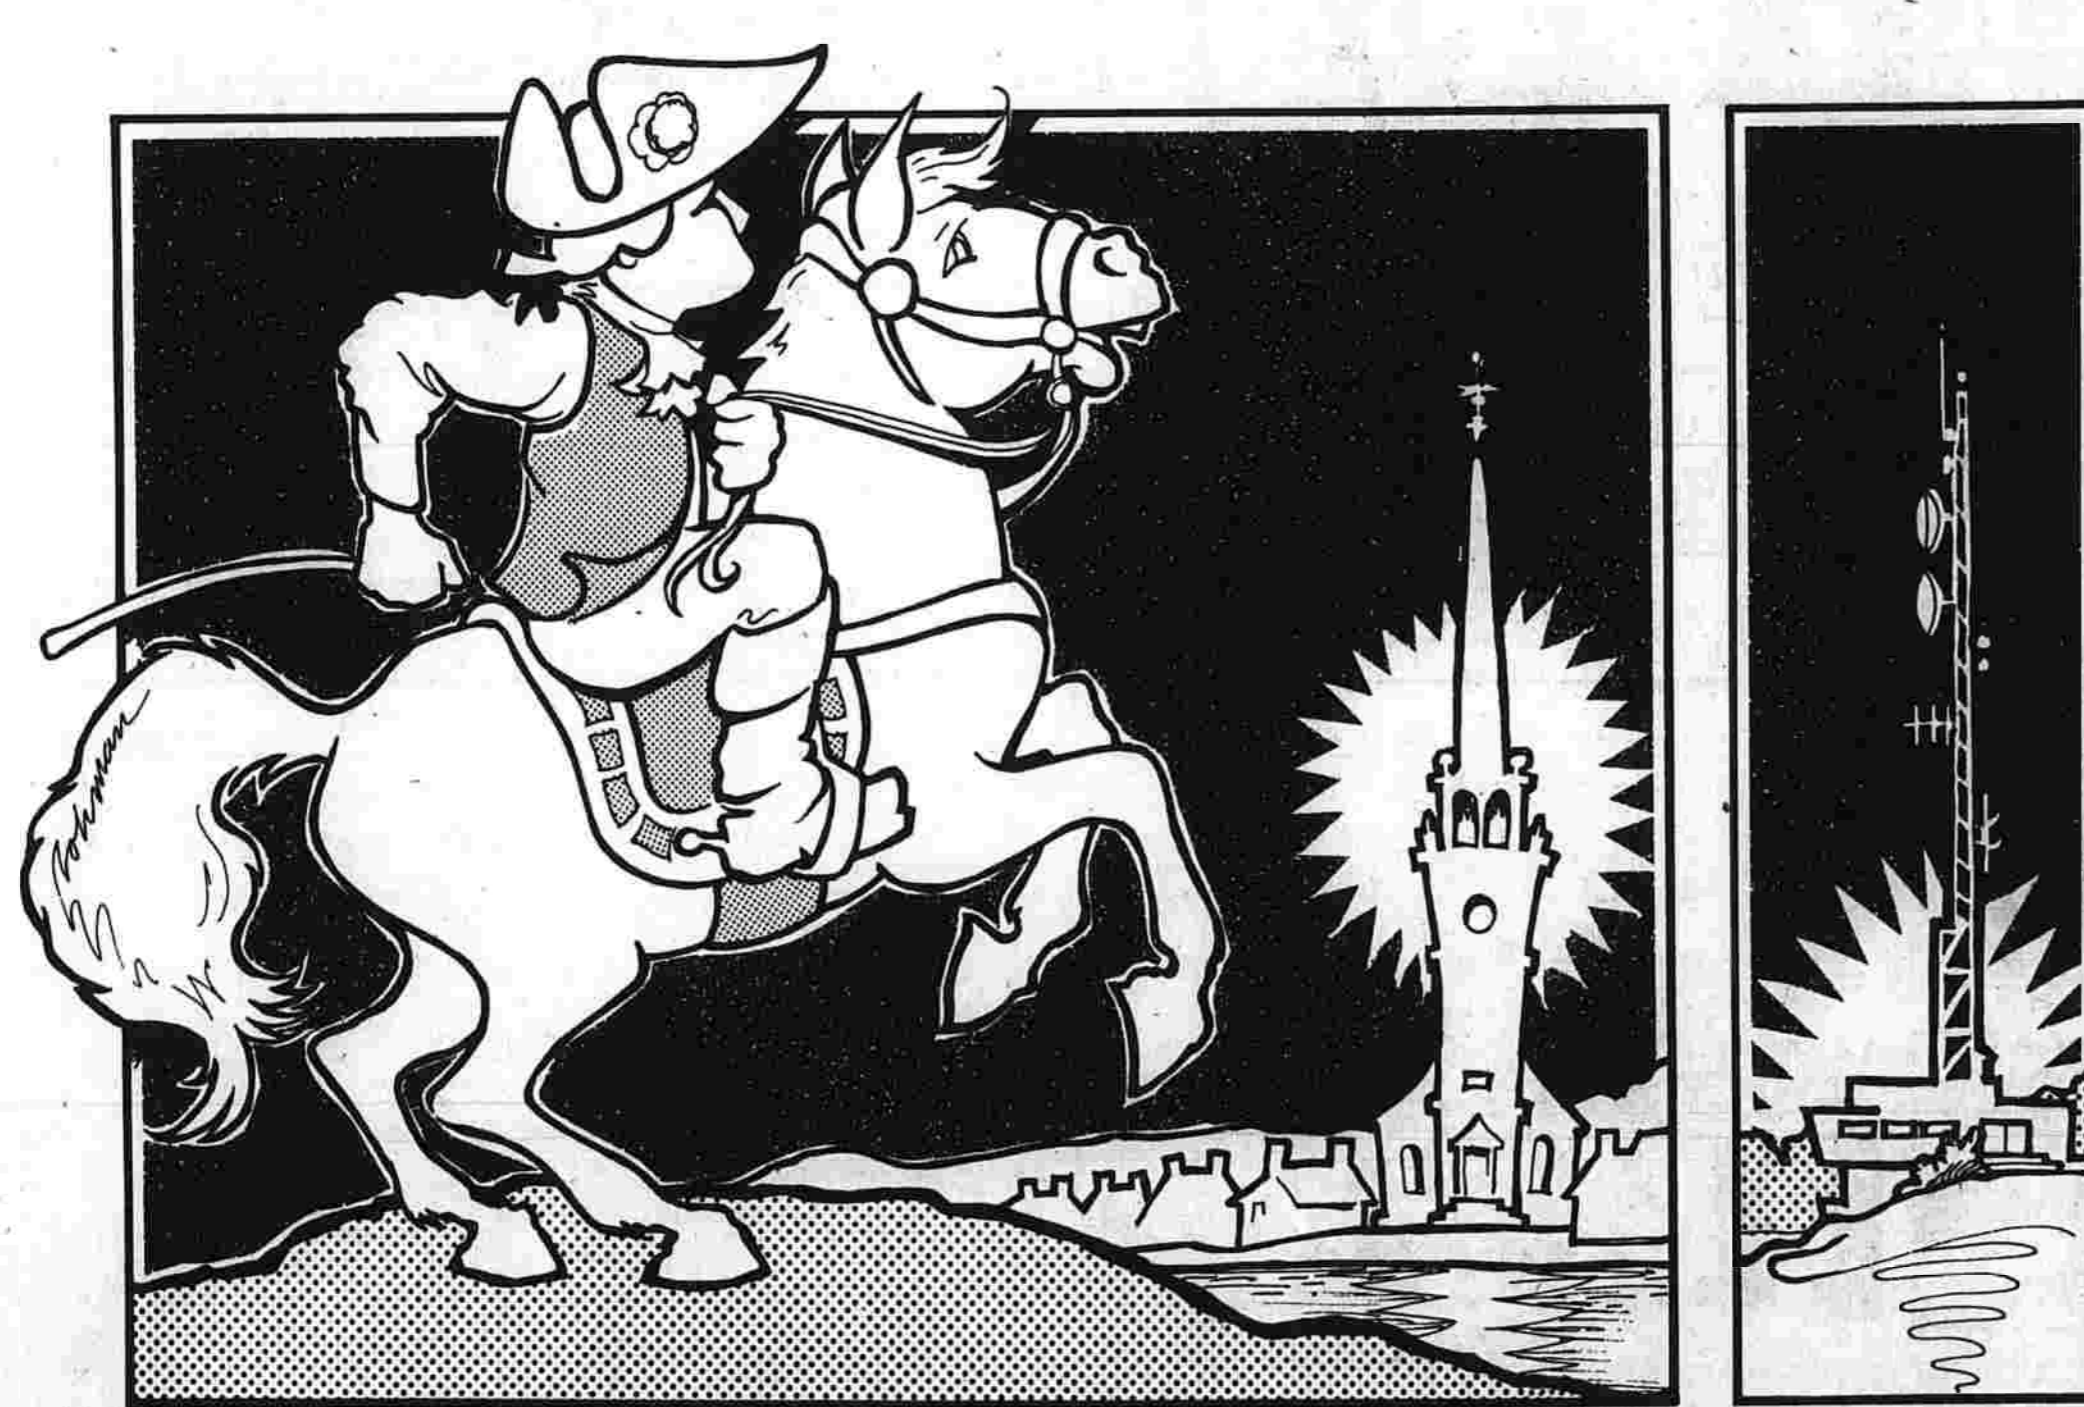

The traveling troubadours will return next Sunday.

Rehearse Hawaii's State Song

Wearing new colorful luau shirts, some of the male members of the Round Table Singers rehearse "Hawaii Pono," the state song of our 50th state, as Martha White directs. NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

By WALLY FORTIN

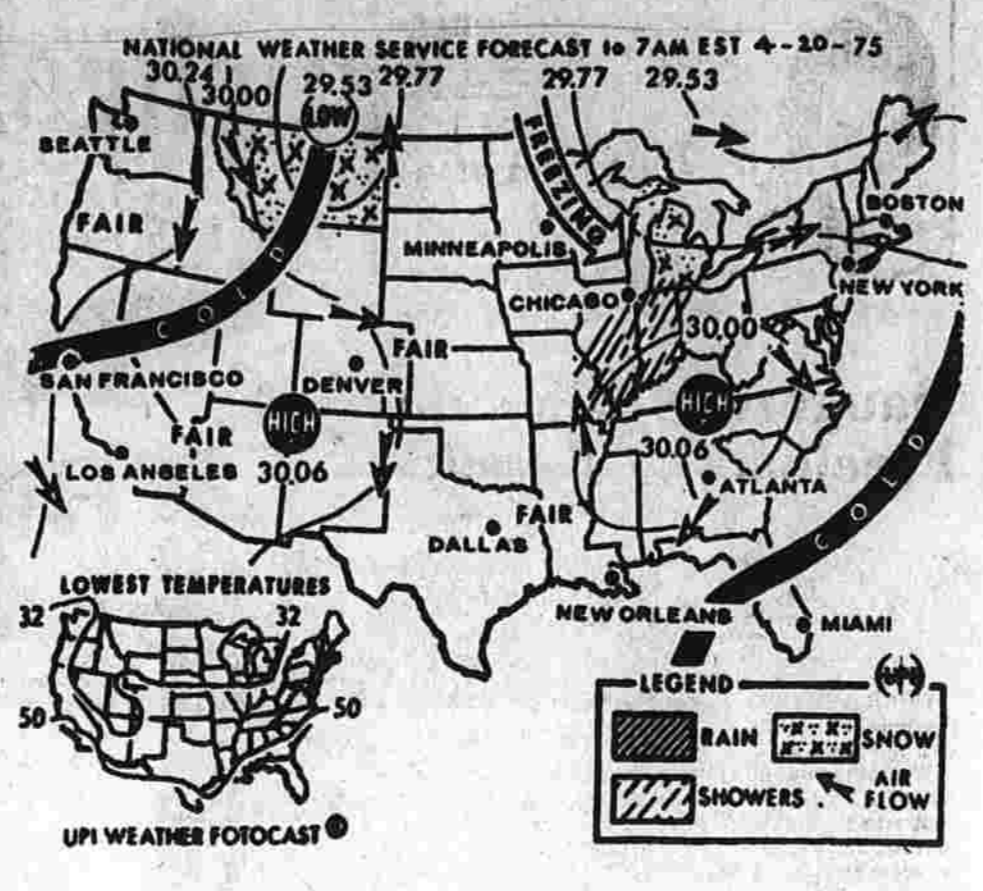

Hi there. Here we go again with the happenings around the Center. I think I have some good news for you folks who are going on the Woodward trip. We did a little further checking around, and if my figures are right you will be getting a nice box lunch for the long ride down, and might even find that you'll save a buck or two from the stated cost of the whole trip.

On Wednesday morning we had 10 tables for pinocle with the following winners: Gladys Seelert, 589; John Phelps, 575; John Derby, 562; Florence North, 561; Robert Schubert, 556; Grace Weininger, 546; John Gally, Cecile Benson, 540; Lee Steinmeyer, 537, and May Tivan, 534.

In the afternoon we had 20 players for our bridge games. Now I'm wondering where all you bridge players are? We have some wonderful people, and great players show up every Wednesday afternoon, but I'm sure there are many more members who know how to play bridge, so we are sending out an invitation to you to come and join us for an enjoyable afternoon of playing some top notch bridge.

The winners this Wednesday were: Marjorie Reed, 4,600; Marjorie Kayser, 3,720; Martha Rockwell, 3,440; Lucella Horton, 3,340; and Jack Owen, 3,180.

Dear Abby Daughter's Dilemma: Freeloading Parents

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My parents used to fight about money all the time, and now I can see the same thing happening in my own marriage.

DEAR BITTER: Wrong! Money is not the root of all evil—it's the lust for money that's the root of all evil. When marriages fail, it's easy to blame money.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old, newly-married girl with a problem I can't handle.

OBITUARIES

Michael Tluck, 84, of 563 Center St. died last Friday night at a Manchester convalescent home. He was the husband of Mrs. Katherine Suchansky Tluck. Mr. Tluck was born Oct. 5, 1890 in New Hartford and had lived in Manchester for more than 28 years. Before he retired in 17 years ago, he was employed for many years as a loom fixer and weaver at Cheney Bros. He was a member of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church. His is also survived by a son, Andrew Emil Tluck of Manchester; three daughters, Mrs. Henry (Katherine) Klein, Mrs. John (Anna) Klein, and Mrs. Hans (Susan) Bonn, all of Manchester; a sister, Mrs. George Winkler of Cinnamson, N.J.; and eight grandchildren. The funeral is Monday at 1 p.m. at Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church. The Rev. Charles Kuhl, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in East Cemetery. Friends may call at Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Sunday from 6 to 8 p.m. The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Memorial Fund of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church.

POLICE REPORT

MANCHESTER Recent arrests include: • Dennis J. Julian, 28, of Windsor, arrested today at 12:05 a.m. on Main St. and charged with reckless use of the highway by a pedestrian, police said. He is scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford May 6. • Gary C. Mitkus, 30, of 103 Congress St., arrested today at 2:43 a.m. at Center and Olcott Sts. for with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, police said. Court is May 6. • Two Rockville teenage girls, ages 14 and 15, concealed $75 worth of women's clothing in a shopping bag at King's store in the Parkade Friday, police said. They were charged with third-degree and fourth-degree larceny each, referred to Juvenile Court, and released to their mothers. Recent incidents investigated by police include: • A large, heavyset prowler in the backyard of a Primer Rd. home at 11:10 p.m. Friday ran when the resident turned on outside lights and released a dog, police said. • A 1969 Chevrolet station wagon owned by Joseph Henderson of 141 Waranoke Rd. was stolen Friday afternoon from a parking lot on Green Rd. • A High St. home was broken into Thursday. Missing are savings bonds, two birth certificates and the deed to the house. • Vittner's Garden Center at 1 Tolland Tpk. was broken into sometime Thursday night. Missing is about $80 in cash. • A 16-year-old girl passed out in the Manchester High School gym Friday night during a dance, police said. She was taken by ambulance to Manchester Memorial Hospital where she was revived and admitted she drank a half pint of brandy. VERNON Two masked young men armed with shotguns knocked on the back door of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sadonis Sr. of 52 Prospect St., Vernon, Friday at 8:30 p.m., police said. They answered the door and the men rushed in. The men demanded and were given an undetermined amount of money, police said. They fled on foot through woods at the rear of the home, police said. Vernon Police are now looking for two white males of slender build in their teens or early 20s. Richard E. Castle, 28, of Bristol was arrested Friday and charged with third-degree assault, police said. He allegedly punched a person in the face at 98 W. Main St. during a fight, police said. He was released on $200 non-surety bond for Common Pleas Court 19 in Rockville May 13.

Members of the Emma Nettleton Group of the church will be guests for the evening.

Manchester Week in Review Lannan Named Police Chief

Manchester Police Lt. Robert D. Lannan became the town's fifth police chief Monday, topping the list of noteworthy events this week. Lannan succeeds retired Police Chief James M. Reardon. Lannan was named to the post by Town Manager Robert Weiss, who said the 44-year-old lieutenant placed first in oral examinations conducted by the state Personnel Department. Twelve men had applied for the job, four of them from the local force. Lannan, sworn in Monday by Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel, said he doesn't plan any major changes in the local police department.

Other People In other news of Manchester people this week: Mark Kravitz, president of The Steak Club Inc., was presented a community service award by the Marine Club of Hartford in formal military ceremonies last Saturday. Harry F. Smith was appointed director of Camp Kennedy for 1975, succeeding David Moyer, who resigned after two summers in the post. Smith held the job for 8 of the camp's 11 years. The Republican Town Committee elected Elsie Swenson vice chairman, Harriet Haslett recording secretary, and Patricia Lawrence corresponding secretary, filling vacancies created by resignations. In other politics, Manchester Democrats announced Gov. Ella Grasso will attend the May 24 testimonial dinner-dance for seven "Honored Manchester Friends." Several hundred guests attended a Sunday reception to honor Mrs. Bernice Maher, retiring teacher and chairman of the social studies department at Bernet Junior High School. Dr. John Basile of West Hartford, a founder of the Manchester chapter of UNICO, received the first Civic Illustrious Medal given by UNICO. An inventory of the estate of the late Andrew Ferguson, who died Dec. 17 at the age of 98, placed the value at $815,038 as of the date of his death. Estimates are it is worth about 20 per cent more today.

budgets and tax rates being recommended by Town Manager Weiss, it will have to be a line-by-line, hard-look review. Directors have until May 7 to adopt budgets and set tax rates. Manchester officials learned this week that the town has been turned down in its request for restoration of $169,000 cut from anticipated Community Development block grants for 1975-1976. The federal Department of Housing and Urban Development said the money couldn't be restored although HUD had made calculation errors. Plans Approved Other news highlights this week: The Manchester Housing Authority approved architect's preliminary plans for 40 units of elderly housing on Spencer St., and submitted the plans to the state Department of Community Affairs for review. The project may get started this fall. Town officials learned that one third of the Hockanum River Linear Park will be passable soon. The section will run from Tolland Tpk. to N. Main St. Plans were finalized this week for the annual Manchester Jaycees' Miss Manchester Scholarship Pageant, scheduled to start at 8 tonight at Manchester High

Coroner Reports On Three Deaths

Hartford County Coroner Irving L. Aronson today released reports on auto accident deaths of three people in Manchester at the end of November. Jennifer Travis, 5, of 121 Carriage Dr. died Nov. 25 as the result of being struck by a pickup truck on Carriage Dr., he said. He found no criminal act. Rosemary Spinello, 19, of Bristol died Nov. 28 and John S. wing, 21, of Rocky Hill died Nov. 30 as the result of injuries suffered in a two-car, head-on collision on Olcott St., he said. The collision and subsequent deaths are due to the criminal acts of Ewing, Aronson ruled. Ewing was found to have been driving too fast, failed to keep his car under control, and was driving while "presumably intoxicated," Aronson said. The Travis girl's death occurred at about 3:45 p.m. when she rode a tricycle out of a driveway and into the path of a truck driven by Ronald L. Poharski, 32, of Lebanon, Aronson said. Poharski had difficulty seeing the child as the tricycle is low to the ground, he said. Aronson warned parents of small children about riding in

Her Last Day

Miss Manchester 1974, Linda Levack of South Windsor, displayed her talent at the organ during Miss Manchester Scholarship Pageant last year.

She will relinquish her title tonight when a new Miss Manchester 1975 is crowned.

The pageant will begin at 8 p.m. in Bailey Auditorium at Manchester High School. Tickets will be available at the door. The pageant is sponsored by the Manchester Jaycees.

Miss Levack, daughter of Mrs. Russell Levack of South Windsor, was selected second runner-up to Miss Connecticut and received preliminary awards in both swimsuit and talent competitions.

She is a senior at Central Connecticut State College, where she is majoring in languages.

Children Sought For 'Gypsy' Roles

The University of Connecticut's Nutmeg Summer Playhouse is looking for nine young performers for its June production of "Gypsy." The show will be the opening production of the Nutmeg's 19th season on June 10.

The musical's director, assistant professor George Bunt, says he is looking for "adorable and precocious" children who look 9 or 10 years old for the following parts:

"Baby June." For this role, the show needs a blonde girl who can sing well, tap and toe dance, twirl a baton, and do a full split.

"Baby Louise." For this role, the girl should be brunette, and sing and dance well including some tap dancing.

In addition, the director is looking for four wholesome-looking boys who are 9 or 10 years old who can do some tap dancing, and a boy 9 years old or younger who can play the accordion and sing.

Also, Bunt is looking for two girls 9 years old or younger who can either do acrobatics or twirl the baton. They should also be pretty and be able to sing.

Anyone interested in having their children audition may contact Bunt at UConn by calling 486-4025 Monday, Wednesday or Friday between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

One Act Plays at MCC

Struggling through psychoanalysis is Danny Svirk on the psychiatrist's couch, while Sandy Tuppeny does the analysis. John Gustafson, assistant professor of English at Manchester Community College (left), directs the scene during a rehearsal of "If I'm O.K., and Yr O.K., Then ...," one of two plays being presented at the college next week.

"An Evening of Two One-Act Plays" is scheduled Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the MCC auditorium on Bidwell St.

Miss Tuppeny, a Vernon resident, is a part-time MCC student, a registered nurse, and is seeking an M.S. degree in psychiatric nursing. Svirk is a full-time MCC student and has appeared in other college dramatic productions.

"The Tiger" is the other one-act play on the program. Judi Pansullo and Brad Zervas will play the housewife and the postman.

General admission to the performance is $1.50. Student admission is 50 cents. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Collectors display their wares on the lawn and wait for a prospective swapper to come along.

Will Anderson, author of "The Beer Book," at center, shows Mr. and Mrs. Rydel photos of various beer cans.

Can Fans Bubble With Enthusiasm

Things really come to a head when beer can collectors get together.

Unloading boxes of cans bearing such unusual names as "Cloud Nine," "Duke," "Foster's Lager," "Keg Ale," and "O'Keefe Ale," collectors converged on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rydel Jr. of Manchester.

The Rydels, who moved here from California last year, have been collecting beer cans for several months and now have close to 3,000 in their collection.

Rydel, who is assistant to the materials manager at Pratt & Whitney in East Hartford, has lined the walls of his large recreation room with shelves on which he proudly displays his collection.

What began as a hobby has almost become a way of life with spare time spent seeking out beer cans and traders willing to swap.

The Rydels are members of the Beer Can Collectors of America (BCCA), a 3,000 member group dedicated to preserving and collecting obsolete, unusual, historical, and attractive beer cans. According to Rydel, it is estimated in the United States alone there are some 20,000 different beer cans.

The couple's children, Sherry, Lori and Joe, help their parents scout out unusual beer cans during family vacations and visits to area flea markets.

"Most of the well-preserved cans I keep, but I also save some for trading," Rydel said.

Members of the BCCA are not interested in making money. Organization bylaws forbid them from buying or selling empties, although they do buy full cans.

Beer can collecting stimulates a lot of interest and many a romance has blossomed when collectors get together.

One young couple exchanged letters regarding the availability of certain beer cans for several months. They finally met at a swap session in Lake Geneva, Wisc. and discovered each other.

Another young man, a collector himself, met his prospective bride while collecting beer cans in Delaware. They married and his bride, who up to that time had little interest in beer cans, is now as avid a collector as her husband.

Beer can collecting draws people from all walks of life.

Bob Kelley of Somerville, Mass., is a high school math teacher. The 27-year-old collector says he only has about 400 cans in his collection, because, as he explained, "I won't add a can to my collection unless I've opened the can and tasted the beer myself."

He got his chance earlier in the fall at the Rydel home when he bought a 30-year old can of Newweiler beer for which he paid $4.50.

Making a wry face as he sipped, much to the delight of his fellow collectors, Kelley said, "It's pretty bad."

Another local collector is John Elliott of 24 Woodbridge St. who along with his daughter, Rachel, set-up a table loaded with cans and waited for an interested swapper to come along.

Trades are also made through the mail and collectors are always on the lookout for beer cans as they travel throughout the country.

"We seek out old lovers' lanes and favorite fishing spots," one collector said.

"We dig for beer cans and amazingly enough some of those we find are very well preserved."

Rydel admits he is still looking for some 1950 Rheingold cans, but to date hasn't been able to locate them.

"Sometimes they are found in attics where people stored them years ago and have since forgotten about them," he said.

Collectors from as far away as Washington, D. C., Delaware, Rhode Island, Long Island, N.Y. and Massachusetts joined the Rydel's for the day-long event.

Some arrived in vans brimming with beer cans, while others carted box after box of cans into the backyard and set them up for all to see.

The hobby, which is growing in popularity day by day, now boasts close to 6,000 members in three clubs throughout the country.

Mrs. Rydel collects trays and coasters from different breweries and has many colorful items in her collection which also decorate the recreation room.

"I can remember when we used to hid them, now we line the walls with them," she said with a smile.

Will Anderson, author of "The Beer Book," which contains designs and pictures of various cans and is an aid in identifying different cans, was also on hand with his collection.

So all non-collectors remember—that beer can you discard as trash, may well be another man's treasure.

Irish Poet Offers Reading at College

Thomas Kinsella, considered by many to be Ireland's foremost poet, will present a poetry reading at Manchester Community College Monday (10 a.m. at MCC's music room).

Kinsella will read from his own works. Although best known for lyric poetry, his reading will include contemporary personal comments on the troubled political situation in his homeland.

The reading is open to the public.

Kinsella has published 11 books of poetry and has translated several collections of poems from Gaelic. He is director of Cuala Press in Dublin and is founder of Peppercanister, a small private publishing enterprise.

He has been professor of English at Temple University, Philadelphia, since 1970.

Kinsella's appearance at MCC is one of 13 he is making on the Connecticut Poetry Circuit, sponsored by the Connecticut Foundation for the Arts.

Getting Ready for the Birthday-Do! Fluffing up Cities and Schools

Across the country, many cities and schools are sprucing up as a part of the Bicentennial celebration.

Some factories are cleaning up the air and water around them because government laws have forced them to do so.

All of this clean-up effort will help to make our country a more pleasant place to live and to visit.

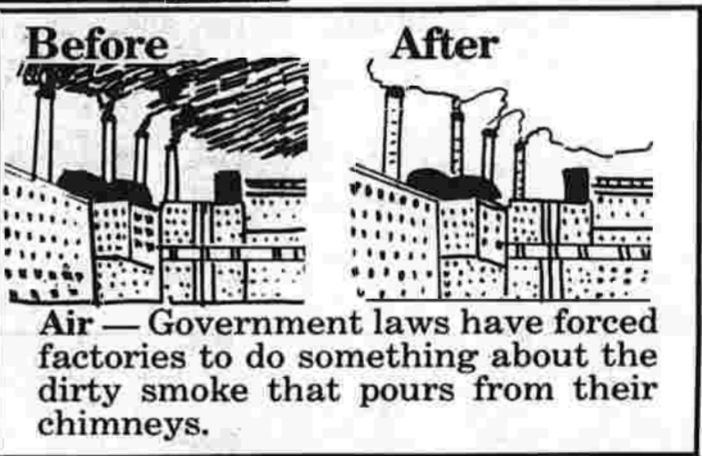

Can you look and tell the difference in these "before and after" pictures?

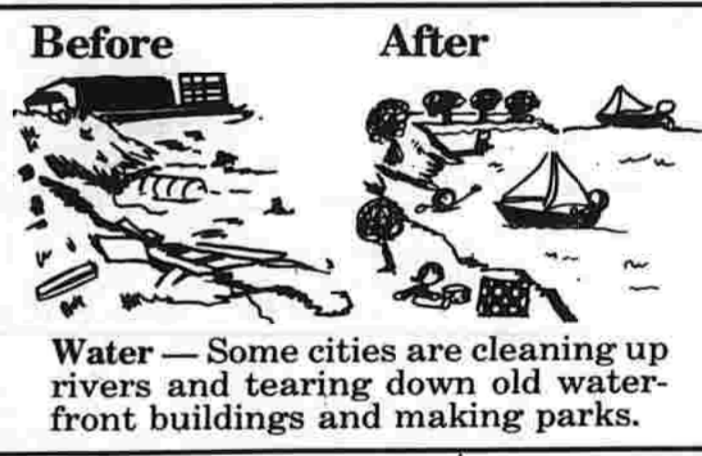

Many children are planting trees and flowers and making beauty spots around their schools.

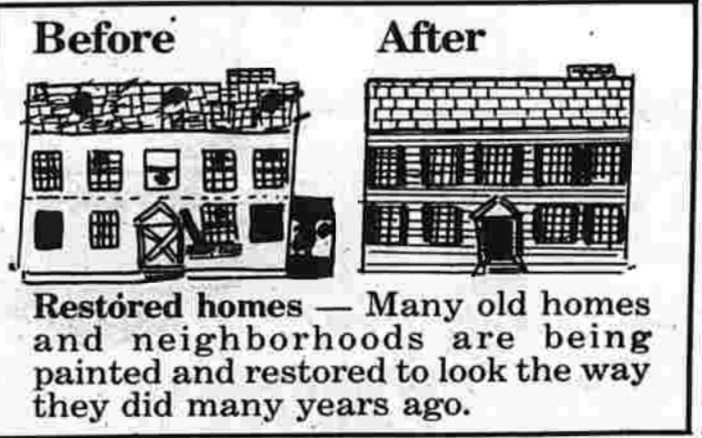

Kids can help a lot by sprucing up the world around them. By the way, how neat did you leave your room today?

Air — Government laws have forced factories to do something about the dirty smoke that pours from their chimneys.

Water — Some cities are cleaning up rivers and tearing down old waterfront buildings and making parks.

Restored homes — Many old homes and neighborhoods are being painted and restored to look the way they did many years ago.

Spruced-up downtowns — Many cities are cleaning up their downtown sections. Some are blocking off traffic and building malls.

SNACK PACK JACK'S TALL TALES

BACK IN THE SUMMER OF FORTY-NINE I WAS DIGGING FOR GOLD IN MY SECRET MINE.

MY DICK STRUCK SOMETHING SHINY AND BRIGHT! TO SEE IF IT WAS GOLD, I GAVE IT A BITE.

IT WAS BUTTERSCOTCH! NO I'M NOT LYING! I'D DISCOVERED THE WORLD'S FIRST BUTTERSCOTCH MINE!

THAT BUTTERSCOTCH THERE WAS SO CREAMY AND GOOD I MADE IT INTO PUDDINGS AS FAST AS I COULD.

THEN I PUT IT IN A NEAT LITTLE CAN, AND THAT'S HOW SNACK PACK BUTTERSCOTCH PUDDINGS BEGAN!

Greenbelts Are Nice

Two cyclists enjoy a greenbelt.

One kid wrote: "I feel that a greenway is a step forward for man and nature."

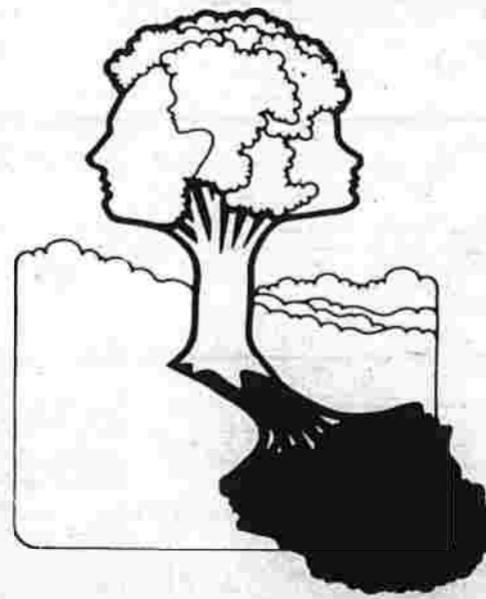

Whenever possible, many cities are planning or planting greenways around and through their cities.

Greenways or greenbelts are strips of land, sometimes a half mile wide, planted with shrubs and trees. These strips join shopping centers, parks and schools.

Greenways are nice. They give people a pretty touch of nature in the middle of a city. They enable hikers and bike riders to go from one place to another without having to cross streets and highways.

Besides making the world a prettier place, greenways help in other ways. Plants break up sound waves and make cities quieter. Plants cut down on erosion or keep soil from washing away. They make places cooler in the summer and help in winter by blocking the wind. Plants also are dust traps and cut down on air pollution.

The Green Survival

Maybe you have seen "Green Survival" bumper stickers and signs in your city. This is a nationwide program sponsored by nurserymen to encourage every person to do what they can about the environment.

Maybe you can plant trees or vines or even terrariums to help to make our world a better place to live. Stop and think. What have you done green lately?

Attention teachers: A new 40 page booklet "A Better Place to Be" has just been published by the Johnny Horizon Program. The booklet carries more than 100 suggested environmental projects for the elementary school children. Write: U. S. Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. Order number 2400-00805. COST: $1.25 per copy.

Super Sport: Mike Marson

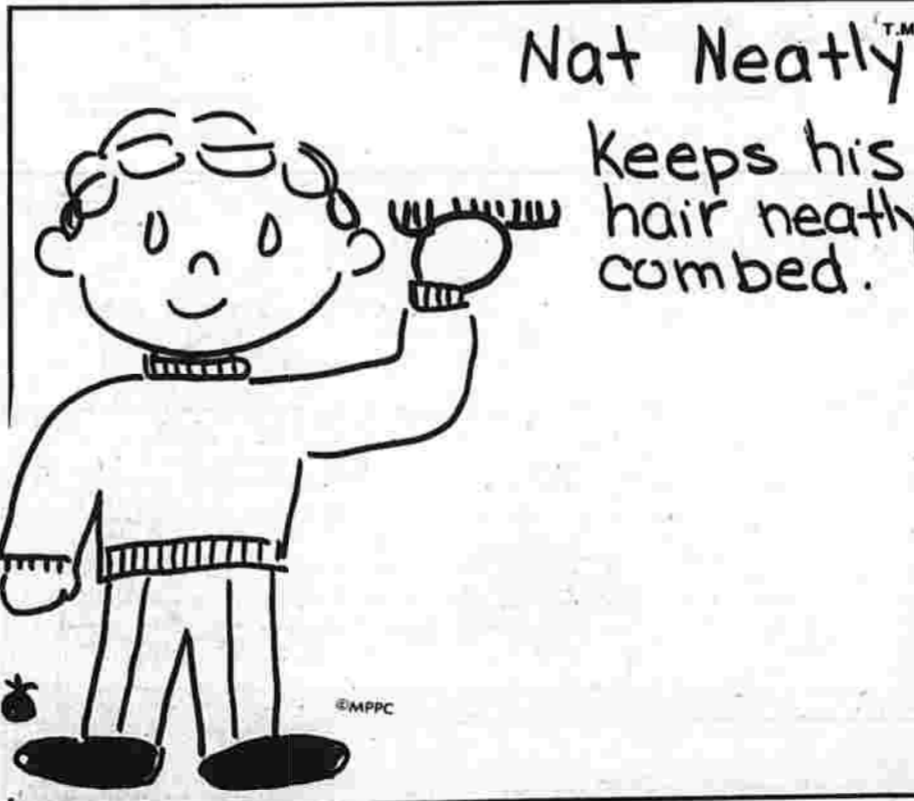

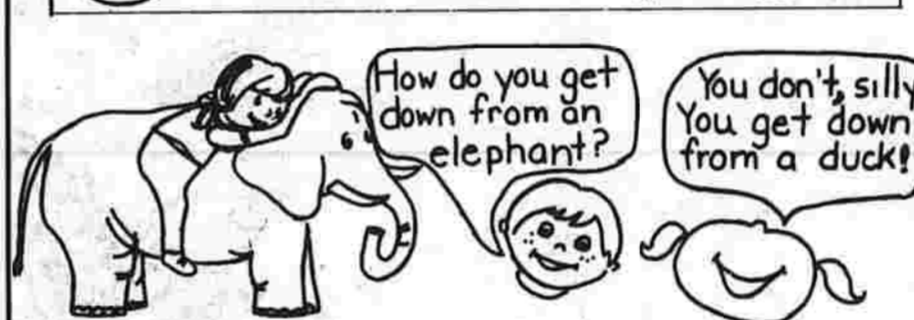

Mike Marson of the Washington Capitals is a leading scorer in the National Hockey League.

He is the first black to make a NHL team in 15 years.

He started playing when he was about ten years old. A native of Toronto, Canada, he grew up participating in football, soccer, baseball and track and field. His mother died when he was young, and his father raised the family of five children.

Marson is 5'8" and weighs 200 pounds. He played pro hockey in Canada before coming to the United States. He enjoys sports and writing.

The Colonial Times

Life in Philly was no Dilly

We often think of today's problems as something new. A look into life in Philadelphia in the 1700's shows us that city life was not all fresh air, clean water and uncluttered streets.

Traffic - Streets and alleys were narrow and hardly wide enough for the many carts and carriages that traveled around the city.

Water - Poor drainage caused stagnate pools of water in many areas.

Air - The burning of coal and wood that everybody used for cooking and heating caused smogs much like those we have today.

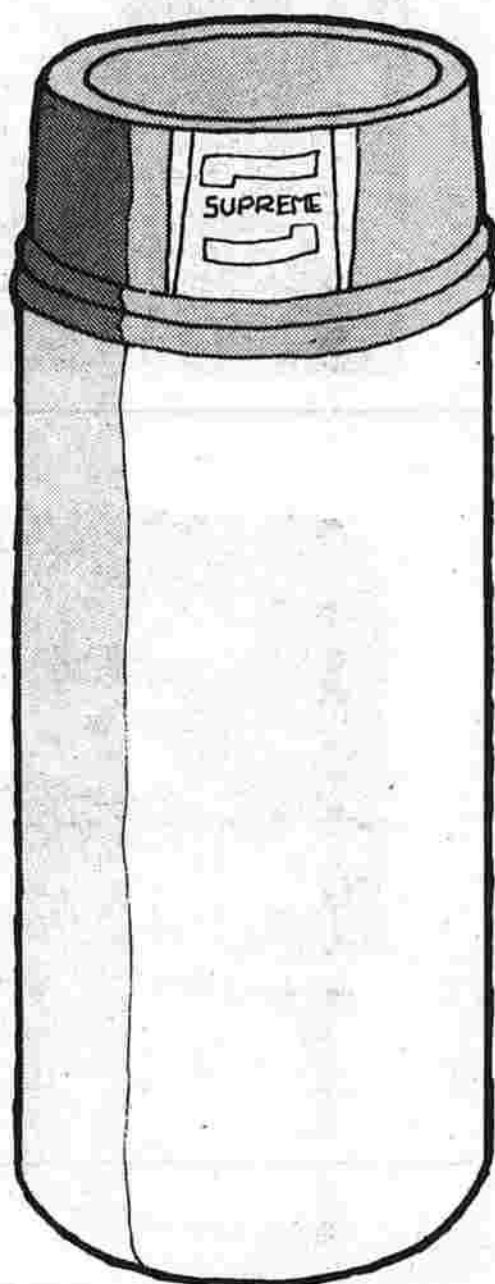

Sanitation - Rubbish strewn in alleys caused health problems and attracted rats.

Law and Order - Because of poor street lighting and a limited city police force, muggings and assaults were problems.

Noise - The cries of peddlers and the clatter of traffic brought many complaints.
