World News Summary

Ford Supports A Strong Navy

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — President Ford said today more congressional cuts in defense spending will endanger national security.

"However good their intentions, those who claim that America is over-armed and over-spending on defense are dead wrong," he said in a speech for the annual Navy League convention.

Ford said the Russians are challenging the U.S. Navy in waters where America once ruled the waves.

"Soviet naval units now freely roam the world's seas, circumnavigating the State of Hawaii in the Pacific and operating in the Gulf of Mexico."

Heavy Tremor

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A heavy earth tremor hit southwestern Mexico today with a force that rattled this capital. There were no immediate reports of serious damage or of casualties anywhere.

All reports were that the force of the quake struck off Mexico's Pacific coast and not on it.

Leader Ousted

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — The man who ruled Honduras for more than a decade was in disgrace today, stripped of his power for refusing to answer questions about a bribe.

The military's supreme council ousted Gen. Oswaldo Lopez Arellano Tuesday and named Col. Juan Alberto Melgar Castro as the nation's new chief of state.

Jail Uprising

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — A dozen hostages were seized and a cellblock taken over at the Joliet Correctional Center Tuesday by more than 200 convicts. Five hours later the hostages were released and the rebel inmates surrendered, after the warden agreed to two of their demands — one to stop the scheduled transfer of three inmates to another prison facility and the other, safety for the rebel inmates.

During the uprising one inmate was killed, presumably by other convicts, and eight other persons injured. The dead inmate's body was discovered when authorities gained access to the convict-held cellblock.

School Violence

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Black students, enraged by a racial slur chalked on a gymnasium wall, today battled white students with fists, belts, and chains for nearly two hours at the high school in this resort playground.

Three students — all whites — and a city policeman were treated for injuries at a local hospital, and police reported at least four arrests before the brawling ended.

Quints Arrive

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The latest in multiple births was quintuplets born to a woman taking fertility drugs. The three girls and two boys were described by doctors as "normal and quite lovely babies."

They were born late Tuesday afternoon at General Hospital and are the first children for Mr. and Mrs. Mark Levy.

Joint Committee

Egypt and Syria, buoyed by a pledge of total support from Saudi Arabia's King Khalid, announced in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, today they have formed a high-level committee to coordinate military and political moves against Israel.

A communique stressing coordinated action was issued in the royal capital at the end of two days of summit talks in which Khalid renewed his slain brother King Faisal's pledge of total support of Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Hafez Assad of Syria in their fight against Israel.

U.S. Airlift Shifts Bases

By United Press International
The United States shifted its airlift of Americans and endangered South Vietnamese from the overburdened Philippines to the U.S. territory of Guam today. The evacuation from Saigon brought complaints in both destinations and reports of food hoarding.

The first group of 219 refugees arrived today at Andersen AFB on Guam aboard a military-chartered DCB from Saigon. A spokesman said as many as 131,000 refugees were expected to pass through Guam in the next few weeks.

A U.S. official in Saigon said the number of Americans left in South Vietnam should be down to about 1,500 today. President Ford ordered the evacuation to get the number down to about 1,000.

So far 7,000 refugees from Saigon — Americans and their Vietnamese families — have been handled at Clark AFB in the Philippines. About 4,000 evacuees arrived at Clark Tuesday in the heaviest day of the airlift.

Three jetliners were flying to Travis AFB, Calif., today with 778 persons, most of them Vietnamese or Cambodian refugees. Another plane with 340 persons was scheduled to arrive at the base Thursday.

The ratio of South Vietnamese to Americans aboard the evacuation flights appeared to be running at about 20-to-1.

State Department spokesman Robert Anderson said in Washington the Ford administration was discussing with foreign governments and international organizations prospects for relocating some of the South Vietnamese refugees evacuated.

On Guam, there were reports that many of the 85,000 residents of the island, which is only 30 miles long and 4 to 9 miles wide, were hurriedly buying food and hoarding it.

The Guam legislature expressed concern over the sudden influx of Vietnamese refugees and demanded assurances from the federal government of enough food to feed the newcomers, strict security for the refugees and safeguards against health hazards.

In other Vietnam developments today: An explosive device blew up in a crowded Vietnamese market in downtown Saigon at dusk today, killing or wounding more than six persons and spreading panic in a city ringed by Communist troops.

The North Vietnamese army was so close to the city that South Vietnamese commanders moved the government's last warplanes out of Bien Hoa today in advance of an expected Communist assault against the base, only 14 miles north of Saigon.

South Vietnam appealed today for a cease-fire and negotiations to give the Viet Cong a share of power in the South Vietnamese government.

Maj. Phuong Nam, the Viet Cong press officer in Saigon, said he hadn't yet seen the government offer and that there would be no official comment until the Communists had studied it.

Intelligence reports of the number of enemy troops in Vietnam in 1967 were intentionally kept low even in reports to President Lyndon Johnson, according to secret documents made public Tuesday in New York.

For the first time in two years, North Vietnam has announced the fate of some American servicemen who disappeared during U.S. combat missions in Southeast Asia. The three men named in a Hanoi radio broadcast Tuesday were all killed in action.

Tough Campaign Succeeds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Connecticut Gov. Thomas J. Meskill has won the hardest campaign of his life — a lifetime appointment to the Second U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The U.S. Senate Tuesday voted 54-36 to approve Meskill. The Senate Judiciary Committee had voted 8-6 March 12 in favor of the nominee's approval.

Meskill's supporters said his career as a small-town mayor, congressman, and governor qualified him to sit on the federal court, which serves Connecticut, New York and Vermont.

His opponents said Meskill was unqualified to serve on the court, which is regarded as second in importance to the U.S. Supreme Court. One reason, they said was he had never argued a case as a lawyer at that level.

Former President Nixon nominated Meskill on Aug. 9, 1974, one of Nixon's last acts of office.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., said he had known the nominee since boyhood and predicted Meskill would be "competent and a good judge."

"I reject the contention that you either have to be a legal scholar or trial judge to serve on the circuit court," Ribicoff added.

But Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said Meskill's "lack of legal qualification does not warrant his appointment on what many consider to be one of the most prestigious courts in the U.S. circuit."

Tunney said it was the first time ever he opposed a President's judicial nomination.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., called Meskill's political background "exemplary."

Sen. Lowell R. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., Meskill's sponsor, Tuesday attacked for the second day in a row the American Bar Association's opposition to the nominee and the ABA's "lobbying" against confirmation by the Senate.

"That's prosecutor, judge and jury all rolled into one," said Weicker, who proposed Meskill's name to former President Nixon.

Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and James Abourezk, D-S.D., both opposed Meskill.

"We know now he was preoccupied," said Hart of Nixon, urging Senate rejection of the nominee so President Ford could submit another name.

"We say you can do vastly better than this, Mr. President," said Hart, leading the opposition at that point.

Abourezk said personalities had clouded the issue of Meskill's distinct lack of sufficient legal experience to serve on one of the nation's busiest courts.

"He's not qualified to be a federal appeals judge," he said, citing Meskill's record as a lawyer who handled what previously have been called only "municipal cases."

Tunney raised the issue of the Senate Judiciary Committee's investigation of a real estate leasing scandal in Connecticut during Meskill's term.

He said the results of the inquiry into a scandal in which Meskill's friends benefited from lucrative state real estate contracts were insufficient to prove the ex-governor did anything wrong or unfair.

The scandal issue should be "put aside, as far as I'm concerned," said Tunney, who has been one of Meskill's leading opponents during five days of hearings by the committee scattered over the past six months.

Arguing Meskill's lack of legal experience, Tunney termed him a "nice man," a "good politician." But he said the Second Circuit Court is no place for him to receive his training as a judge.

"There are far better people for service on the Second Circuit, far better people," said Tunney, who predicted that Meskill "would not be able to pull his weight."

In Connecticut, today's reaction to the confirmation was mixed.

One of Meskill's toughest critics — State Sen. George Gunther, R-Stratford — called the U.S. Senate vote "an atrocity."

State House Minority Leader Gerald Stevens, R-Milford, said the 54-36 vote for Meskill was a rebuff to the American Bar Association's intense lobbying against the former governor.

Sen. Lowell Weicker and former Gov. Thomas Meskill chat at the Capitol Tuesday after Meskill was approved by the Senate to be a judge in the Second Circuit Court of Appeals.

Civil Servants Might Win Political Rights

HARTFORD (UPI) — Municipal employees will be allowed to bargain for the right to engage in partisan political activities, if Gov. Ella T. Grasso signs a bill sent to her Tuesday.

The bill, given final clearance by the House 79-60; also would give town and city workers the right to negotiate the procedures for promotions of civil service employees.

Rep. George Ritter, D-Hartford, said the measure in effect would amend all town charters that contain bans against political activity by town workers.

The issue of employe politicking then would have to be resolved between the municipal workers and local officials at the bargaining table.

In the past, Ritter said, the trend has been to ban political activity for fear local officials could pressure town employees to work on their election campaigns, under threat of losing their jobs.

He said bans have recently come to be regarded as infringements on the employes' rights to seek public office and work for the candidate of their choice.

A proposal now under study by the house would eliminate all restrictions on political activity by state employes.

In other action, the House approved the following proposals:

- Certifying persons as dental hygienists after they have completed a two-year, on-the-job training program under a licensed dentist.

- Loosening a number of restrictions on small loan companies and credit unions that are experiencing financial difficulties because of high interest rates.

- Directing the state corrections commissioner to study the effectiveness of community-based rehabilitation programs in comparison to programs offered in prisons.

- Ordering employers to give prior notice when they intend to stop paying an employe's disability compensation benefits.

- Ordering the state to honor debts on property it condemns as a nuisance, such as stolen cars and gambling houses.

- Hiring a horse race track judge and three Jai Alai court judges at $40 a day to rule on jockeys' and Jai Alai player's complaints against each other.

J. WESLEY PHILLIPS
...Seventh Grader

A Desire to Learn ...

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — J. Wesley Phillips, like most seventh graders in the city's public school system, can figure the area of a cylinder or the interest on a bank deposit compounded daily for any part of a year.

But Phillips, who will be 87 in June, is Lubbock's oldest elementary student.

"I quit school in the fifth grade, but since I re-enrolled in January (1974) I haven't missed a day of classes," Phillips said.

Phillips moved with his parents to the West Texas Plains in a covered wagon in 1898, and except for brief visits he has never left the area.

His education is part of the Adult Learning Center financed by federal funds to help educate students of all ages up to a high school level. Phillips first retired at 65 as a carpenter's helper and again at 80 as a lawn mower repairman. His wife died in 1971 and four years later he learned of the adult education classes.

"I think the program is wonderful and would recommend it to any senior citizen — but most won't listen to me," Phillips said.

An 86-Year-Old Seventh Grader

He returned to school because he likes math and wants to improve his knowledge of it. He has decided when he finishes his seventh-level math book he will buy an electronic calculator.

"I used to be a good speller," he said. "I got headmarks at least once a week."

A headmark, Phillips explained, was a nickname given to a student for advancing to the head of the class roll for spelling the most words correctly.

"But it's gotten away from me over the years. I can't even write a decent letter now. It's a little harder than math, but I'm working at it."

"I get up and fix my own breakfast before school," said Phillips, who wears a suit and tie every day to class.

"I used to drive my own car to school, but a few weeks ago I moved to an apartment about two blocks away so now I just walk."

"We can go at our own speed and in the subjects we like or feel we need. I can't wait to get through Book 7 in math and get my calculator."

Manchest' Evening Herald OPINION Beating A Dead Horse

Sen. Henry Jackson, Washington Democrat, is beating a dead horse, in our opinion, in his charge that the United States made secret agreements with the Thieu government in South Vietnam in connection with the signing of the Paris peace accords which were a necessary preliminary to withdrawal of our armed forces from that country.

Any military action by the United States in response to the blatant violations of the Paris accords by the North Vietnamese was rendered impossible by the law passed by Congress in August 1973 outlawing any further military activity by this country in South Vietnam.

Sen. Jackson's pursuit of this matter at this time is certainly not in the interests of the United States, nor helpful to the administration which is in the process of restating our foreign policies, not only for Southeast Asia but for the rest of the world.

Where Insurance Benefit Dollars Go

In 1973, women were the chief beneficiaries of all life insurance policies in the United States. Which is nothing new - they have been ever since the idea of life insurance started as a means of protection for widows and children.

Institute of Life Insurance statistics show that in nearly 7 out of 10 ordinary policies on which death payments were made, the direct beneficiary was a female.

Congressional Quarterly Report Home Buying Credit

WASHINGTON - If you're planning on taking advantage of the tax break Congress has provided for new home buyers this year, you should be aware of its limitations.

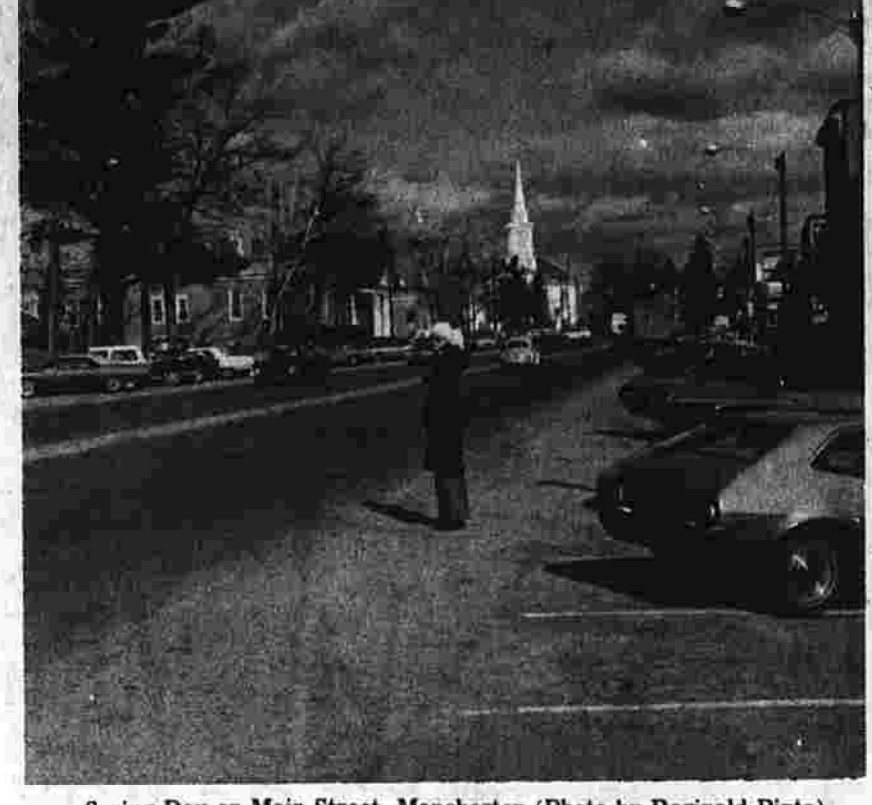

The tax credit, which was written into the emergency tax cut bill President Ford signed into law last month, allows the buyer of a qualified home to subtract 5 per cent of the purchase price from his federal income taxes. If he buys a $40,000 home, for instance, his tax saving would be $2,000 - the maximum allowed by the law.

But in order to hold down the federal government's cost while helping sell off the nation's 600,000 inventory of unsold new housing, Congress placed a number of restrictions on use of the tax credit.

Congress narrowed the home buying credit until it applied only to existing new houses that are bought this year and occupied no later than 1976. It also denied any unexpected windfall for taxpayers who had taken possession of a new house before the Senate Finance Committee first proposed the credit on March 12.

As a result of that narrowing process, the bill allows a tax credit for buying a home only if:

Construction began before March 26, the day Congress cleared the tax cut bill. The purchaser agreed to buy the house by signing a binding contract before Jan. 1, 1976.

Best Solution

The following seems to be the best solution for the Board of Directors with regard to the Manchester Swim Club.

1. Allow the club to continue with its present administrative and financial set-up. After all, it operates entirely from the dedication and volunteer time of interested citizens yet is open to all Manchester residents who qualify. It would be idiotic and expensive for the town to establish the network to run such a club and keep the detailed time records vital to each swimmer. To say nothing of transportation, entries, etc.

This Saturday's Herald will contain four special sections revolving around the special edition since late January. It is a pictorial which points with pride to life in the City of Village Charm.

Regular subscribers to The Herald will receive the special edition at no extra charge. Copies will also be available for mailing to friends and relatives and they can be ordered by telephoning the circulation department or completing the handy coupon that is appearing in The Herald almost daily.

In our continuing promotional campaign, several of our newswomen and girls attended the Shrine Circus as a reward for obtaining new customers. Shortly, you are likely to see news of East Hartford appearing in The Herald. We launched a circulation campaign in East Hartford a couple of weeks ago which is gaining momentum.

Congratulations to Fred Nassiff of Nassiff Arms Inc. for his splendid spruce-up job on the outside of his building. We would like to see more Main Street merchants follow suit in this springtime of clean-up, paint-up and fix-up. In the case of absentee landlords, maybe a letter from the town or the Chamber of Commerce might lend some encouragement.

We are a bit more than disappointed that Sen. Ribicoff and Rep. Cotler have announced that in the future they won't disclose their income sources and tax figures.

Watergate has all but been forgotten and we are back to politics as usual. What are they hiding by not disclosing their income sources?

Not too long ago, Gov. Grasso told a member of the press, "I didn't say that at all, why don't you pay attention when I talk?" The same could be said of President Ford in his hour-long conversation with CBS on television the other evening. Too many commentators aren't satisfied with just asking the question, they also want to provide the answer.

Something to think about: The Lord's Prayer has 56 words. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address has 266 words. The Declaration of Independence has 298. The Ten Commandments have 300. A recent U.S. Government order setting the price of cabbage has 26,911 words.

In 1941, thousands attending the "America First" rally in New York City heard Charles Lindbergh say "it is obvious that England is losing the war; The noted aviator opposed American entry into World War I. ### RHS Work on Schedule

VERNON
Progress on the Rockville High School addition is completely on schedule, Robert R. Wehrli, chairman of the town's Municipal Permanent Building Committee told the Town Council Monday night.

He reported that the site utilities, including storm sewers, domestic water service, and fire water service are substantially complete.

He said some items in this area, in relation to the water service and fire service, are unfinished. The drive and parking areas are being prepared for paving.

Wehrli said asphalt plants are expected to open soon and paving will start, ending parking problems that exist due to the construction.

The area for the new tennis courts is being prepared but a slight delay is anticipated due to the necessity of moving the courts 15-20 feet north, Wehrli explained.

In the Industrial Arts area, the steel roof deck is in place and exterior masonry walls are 75 per cent complete, he said, but no interior partitions have been started.

All underground utilities have been installed in the new library area and under-slab fill has been put in place and graded, Wehrli said, and the erection of the steel is now completed and in the science wing preparation is being made to set up the steel framing.

In the classroom wing below the new science wing, some alterations have been started. Wehrli said ceilings have been removed and plumbing and other utilities are being installed in the ceiling space.

He said in this area some difficulty has been experienced in trying to keep the roof water-tight since the column tops have been exposed for more time.

The classroom wing in the new addition is scheduled to be ready for occupancy in January, 1976.

An ordinance revising charges for inspections of septic tanks and wells will be reviewed at a public hearing scheduled for May 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Administration Building.

The charges for the inspection fee paid for the services of the town sanitarian performed at the time of installation of a new septic tank system will be increased from $15 to $25 under the proposed ordinance.

The charges for the inspection fee to be paid for his services at the time of installation of a new well will be $15.

Mayor Frank McCoy told the Town Council Monday night that considerably more time is spent on such inspections than the amount of money paid for the work.

Bidding Waived for Sewer Work

VERNON
On approval of the Town Council Monday night, bid procedures on sewer excavation work were waived to allow the town to seek a lower bid for an extension to service four homes fronting on Wapping Wood Rd.

Cammissa Construction Co. was to do the work at a cost of $16,000. Cammissa later asked for an additional $2,500 plus 15 per cent for the removal of trees, shrubs and fences in the new easement to service the four houses. A. Richard Lombardi, the town's consulting engineer said.

Cammissa also asked for $100 for the installation of each of three manhole covers because of the increased cost of these units.

Lombardi explained that the specifications for the work said it would be accomplished at a cost for the materials plus 15 per cent with the labor to be included in the cost of the pipe installation.

YGOP Sets Golf Tourney

COVENTRY
Monica Shea Correspondent
The YGOP fourth annual 18-hole golf tournament will be held on Saturday, May 3, rain date Sunday, May 4, at the Skungamung River Golf Club, Folly Lane.

Tournament starting time is at 7:30 a.m. and persons interested in playing may call the golf club at 742-9348 for starting times. Starting times, however, are not necessary to play in the tournament.

Scoring will be by the Callaway system which allows a tournament to be scored without the player having an established handicap.

There are $200 worth of merchandise to be awarded to the first four gross and the first four net winners. This year as last year, there will be a low gross and a low net prize for winners.

By using the Callaway system, women are also eligible for the regular prizes. The YGOP hopes that this addition will attract more women golfers to the tournament.

There will also be a chance to play in the hole-in-one contest and a greens driving contest. These add extra interest to the tournament and a raffle is held for door prizes that are donated by area merchants.

The entry fee for the tournament is $6.50 which includes greens fees. Refreshments are available at the club.

Last year over 60 golfers participated in the tournament, including six women.

Merger Complicates Vernon Towing Problem

Problems still exist within the Vernon Towing Association and Mayor Frank McCoy was asked by the Town Council Monday night to have Police Chief Herman Fritz at the next council meeting to hopefully resolve the problems.

Councilman A. Richard Owens told the council that the nine towing services making up the association met and agreed to a set of 11 rules but when they came back from Chief Fritz there were 13 rules.

The association which had been in existence for several years, was recently dissolved and a new association was set up to include only Vernon towners. Up to that time the only out-of-town towers involved was Town Line Auto which is just over the town line in Tolland.

Several months ago Royce

Autobody of Ellington asked to be included in the old association. He was denied permission and he filed a suit against the town.

When the new association was formed to include only Vernon towners, Royce joined in partnership with the Bug Barn service in Vernon, thus legally avoiding exclusion from the association.

Town Attorney Abbot Schwebel explained that an additional rule, which calls for vehicles being towed to be towed to a Vernon garage, arose because of Royce's agreement with the Bug Barn. When the Bug Barn gets the call on the rotation basis, he has agreed to call Royce to do the towing.

ATY Schwebel said this means the car is taken to Ellington making an additional towing charge. He said while he cannot quarrel with the legality of the partnership, he does question the cars being towed out-of-town.

Owens also said Town Line which is not in the association now, was called on one occasion recently when there was an accident involving a tractor-trailer truck. No one in the association has the proper equipment to handle large vehicles.

Anyone involved in an accident has the right to have any towing service called he wishes but if the police are asked to call a service they do it on a rotation basis within the association.

Councilman Thomas Benoit commented, "It seems to be we are flitting around with private enterprise. I think when the chief gets back from vacation this should be resolved. I think we are bordering on real serious problems. It seems to be a legal point of one attorney against the other."

Mayor McCoy said he thought the problem was resolved when the new association was formed but Royce has been able to legally avoid the intention of the council's ruling."

Campus Flies Peculiar Flag

TORRINGTON (UPI) — A peculiar looking red-white-and-blue is flying at the University of Connecticut branch campus in Torrington. The 1775 "Cambridge flag" replica has a British Union Jack where the stars should be.

Carried by patriots into the battle of Bunker Hill, it was an "official" colonial flag before Betsy Ross designed her 13-star flag in 1777.

The 3-By-5-foot ensign will fly under the present stars-and-stripes and the state flag daily for about three months.

Hebron Residents Ask About Zone Change

Ann Dallaire Correspondent 228-3267

The Planning and Zoning Commission continued its public hearings last Thursday at the Hebron Elementary School to consider the adoption of revised zoning regulations...

Many residents on West St. attending the hearing asked the commission members if there was a contemplated zone change on West St. Salvatore Mastrandrea, commission chairman, told the residents...

Anthony DonArora of West St. asked the commission if the area could be changed from R-1 zone to R-2 zone due to the problems the people have in the area.

Charles Eaton, commission member, said that a petition must be brought in and then a public hearing held before any change can be made.

DonArora said he would get the petition immediately.

A sense of frustration was the feeling most often displayed by the approximately 200 persons attending a recent hearing on the Board of Education budget.

Residents wanted to cut the music program, the sports program and the Sequential Learning Program.

Other residents spoke in favor of retaining these same programs.

The budget as presented represents a 9.7 per cent increase over last year's budget.

major legislation left for consideration in the remaining 45 days of the session. He said this includes consideration of the bottle deposit charge and the ban on flip-top cans; a ban on discrimination against homosexuals; and a major revision of the state's right-to-know laws giving the public access to government records and meetings.

In the fiscal area the legislature must pass a tax and spending program for the coming fiscal year, "one certain to be marked by increased taxes and cuts in government programs," Burke explained.

He said the legislators must determine how to fund the new bankruptcy Unemployment Compensation Fund, and will probably increase tax rates on employers and eliminate benefits for those who quit or are fired from their jobs.

"Also, high on the list for legislative consideration are proposals for more effective utility regulation and a program for preservation of farmland by the state's purchase of future developmental rights," Burke said.

Turning to the area of criminal law, Burke explained that the General Assembly will decide whether to transfer serious juvenile offenders, over 14 years of age, to Superior Court for trial if they are unable to be treated in new facilities to be constructed in the Department of Children and Youth Services, and also whether to impose fines only for the possession of one ounce or less of marijuana.

Scholarship Fund Drive

TOLLAND Vivian Kennesson

The Tolland High School Scholarship Fund will hold its 5th annual fund drive May 3. The fund goal for 1975 is $8,000. Approximately 100 students in three-man teams will cover 29 routes.

Money collected during the drive will be distributed in June as scholarships and awards to members of the present senior class.

A free concert by the high school band and cook-out sponsored by the senior class will be held after the canvass from 4 to 7 p.m. for returning canvassers who have completed their routes.

Anyone who would be willing to drive the canvassers should call the high school at 872-2561 and leave his/her name.

SCHOOL BUDGET DRAWS FIRE

and this would cost about 6.5 mills in added taxes.

The prospect of the increased tax was what upset those attending the hearing.

Several residents were very annoyed by the teachers' demand for a 14 per cent increase in salaries, and told the board that has it not only had a responsibility to the students to provide good teachers but also a responsibility to the taxpayers.

Some residents even requested that the board tell the teachers they were employed, said "I could argue for or against any number of programs."

CHANCES SLIM FOR NEW PROGRAMS THAT CARRY PRICE TAGS; BURKE

VERNON The dominant themes of this legislative session are the economy, energy, consumerism and open government," Vernon's State Rep. Martin Burke told Rockville Rotarians at a noon meeting Monday.

Burke, whose topic was "Major Legislation of the 1975 General Assembly," said, "The common denominator of all bills is that if a proposed program carries a price tag, then it probably will not be enacted into law."

The Democratic legislator said, "The major bills passed thus far in the three-month-old session were the increase in the sales tax at seven per cent effective April 1, 1975, the repeal of far trade laws, and the permitting of advertising of prescription drugs by pharmacies."

He outlined some of the

Vernon Students To Eat 1776 Meal

VERNON

Students in the Vernon public schools will literally "get a taste" of living in colonial days when on May 22 their noon meal will consist of 1776 fare.

On the menu for that date will be hunter's stew, journey bread and butter, apple pudding with whipped cream and the usual milk.

Mrs. Virginia Benson, cafeteria's director, explained that the hunter's stew was brewed all winter. She said the pot was kept going by adding stock as fast as the stew was eaten and the fire never went out under the giant iron pot.

Into the stew went whatever was available such as turnip greens, cabbage, collards, beans and other vegetables tossed into the pot along with spices and meat caught by the hunters such as venison or fowl including duck and pheasant.

She said the liquid from the baking tin, placed stanted along the camp fire. The apple pudding was a forerunner of what we now call Apple Brown Betty. It was a popular dessert because apples were plentiful and easy to keep during the winter. Homemade bread or biscuit crumbs were used as the base of the pudding and cream was poured over the top.

SCENE FROM HERE

By SOL R. COHEN

'There's Really Nothing To It'

I've got this friend who does the grocery shopping for his wife. He claims that's how he beats the high prices and stays within the limits of his budget.

I asked him, "What does your wife do while you're shopping for groceries?"

He replied, "Oh, nothing much. She whistles away her time looking for a new dress."

Shopping at the supermarket has never been a chore for me. I drop my wife off and go home. After an hour of watching TV, or visiting with neighbors, or even taking a nap, I pick her up, load the bags in the car, drive home and help her carry the groceries into the house.

"What's so tough about shopping for groceries?" I always ask.

"My shopping is usually limited to the 'bring home some...' telephone calls I get."

I remember one time — a couple of years ago — when my wife had something important to do and couldn't go grocery shopping.

I had to make a choice — do the shopping or starve.

Well, anyone who knows me knows I really didn't have a choice. I hate to starve.

So, armed with a list and an aisle-by-aisle, shelf-by-shelf road map, I went grocery shopping.

Actually, it wasn't so bad, especially after I bumped into five men I know — three shopping alone and two checking up on their wives. The two with their wives kept asking, "What do you need that for?"

I found out later the three men shopping alone spent half again as much on their orders as their wives were in the habit of spending. I joined their club.

To get back to my shopping. Between talking to the people I met and doubling back for the items I missed, I took two hours to complete the chore that takes my wife an hour. That in spite of her excellent directions.

I learned something invaluable, however — how to get directions to a particular aisle for a particular item.

After discovering how few people could direct me correctly to an item, I changed my battle plan. I asked for directions by categories — like flour and cake mixes, for example, when all I wanted was bicarbonate.

Don't laugh. If you bought some of the things I did, you'd need bicarbonate, too.

I'll never forget the look on the face of a woman who had directed me to the diet sodas when she saw me buying shoe laces.

Well anyway, with the help of my wife's list, the store manager, my friends and some strange women, I finally finished my grocery shopping.

I checked out my purchases, making sure the boy who packed my bags transferred the tomatoes from the bottom of one bag to the top of another, wheeled the cart to my car and loaded the groceries in it.

As I was driving out of the parking lot, I noticed four women giving me dirty looks.

I worried about it all afternoon, before coming to the only logical conclusion.

It had to be because I returned the grocery cart to the store.

Lorinsky-Miele

Christina Ann Miele of Manchester and Steven Allan Lorinsky of West Hartford were married April 19 in Temple Sinai in Newington.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Miele of 392 E. Middle Tpke. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lorinsky of New Britain.

Rabbi Marc Brownstein of Newington performed the double-ring ceremony. Bruce Hector of Southington was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported organza with white flowers and leaf lace designed with fitted bodice, lace appliques encircling the waist, mandarin collar, cuffed Bishop sleeves and A-line skirt extending to a full chapel-length train. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was bordered in lace and attached to a Camelot cap. She carried a nosegay of white marguerites.

Mrs. Larry Lorinsky of Norwich, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, was matron of honor. She wore an apricot jersey knit gown designed with Empire waist, V-neckline, caplet sleeves, full skirt. She wore a matching picture hat with grosgrain band and bow streamers. She carried a basket of assorted daisies.

Miss Karen Granato of Wethersfield, the bride's cousin, was bridesmaid. She wore a blue and apricot floral printed voile gown designed with scooped neckline, fitted bodice, long fitted sleeves with kerchief cuffs, and full skirt. She wore a matching picture hat and carried a basket of mixed daisies.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Lingering Death

During a hectic New Year's Eve party, Pete fired a bullet into Eddie's back. For 24 months, Eddie lingered in the hospital. Finally he succumbed.

Could Pete be found guilty of murder?

"A court said no, even though he could be punished for a lesser offense. The court invoked the 'year-and-a-day' rule of the common law, which says there is no homicide unless death follows the injury within that period of time."

First, laid down centuries ago, this rule continues in effect in most states. The idea is that after more than a year has gone by, it is just too difficult to tell whether the original injury or some later complication was the true cause of death.

Recently, however, a few states have done away with this specific time limit.

In a Pennsylvania case, 13 months had elapsed between a gunshot wound inflicted by the defendant and the demise of his victim. Yet the court upheld the verdict of murder in spite of the year-and-a-day rule.

"The reason for the rule," explained the court, "lay in the primitive state of medical knowledge at the time. A modern rule should be based on current knowledge."

In some cases, of course, it is clear that an original injury was not the cause of death.

For example:

A man stabbed a bartender in the shoulder, inflicting a flesh wound that—under ordinary circumstances—would not have been fatal. But the doctor who treated the victim was so negligent that death did indeed ensue.

Could the original stabber be found guilty of homicide? Plainly not, ruled a court. The court said he simply had not taken the victim's life.

Democrats Will Honor Their Own on May 2

Democrats on all Manchester boards, agencies and commissions—including the Board of Directors and the Board of Education—will be guests of the Democratic Town Committee May 2, when it sponsors an annual meeting and party in their honor. It will be at 7 p.m. in the Student Lounge of Manchester Community College.

"This is our way," explained Democratic Chairman Ted Cummings, "of expressing our gratitude to those members who have given so generously of their time to our community on behalf of their party."

Cummings pointed out, "With the exception—like humans who receive nominal pay—and that not even enough to pay for all the tickets to events they are asked to buy—all of these people are volunteers. Even school board members are volunteers. They are elected, true, but they don't even get the nominal pay the directors get."

During the May 2 session, each chairman will have the opportunity to express his or her group's achievements and problems over the past year and to present plans and ideas for the future.

"Volunteerism is on the upswing in the United States," said Cummings. "In Manchester we've never been short of volunteers to do the many thankless—and, many times criticized—tasks that need to be done in a town this size. We don't spring too often, but we're doing so May 2 at MCC."

Banana Drawback

A Filipino experimenter found that humans who ate bananas appealed to mosquitoes. The insects apparently crave two chemicals found in the fruit as well as in blood, and are equipped with sensitive detectors that enable them to sniff out faint banana odors in sweat.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

I'm Not In the Driver's Seat

My husband and I are in the process of seeing our second child through driver's education class. Everyone told us it would be easier the second time around and it is. But, not much. Our responsibility, as the parents of a driver-in-training, is to see that our driver gets lots of on the road experience to supplement her sessions with the instructor. The instructor has several things that we don't have. He has two sets of brakes in his car. He has an unshatterable nervous system. And, he has an objective attitude toward our daughter. (He has never seen her drive her bicycle kamikaze style.) Last Saturday, it was my turn to be chauffeured around town by our fledgling driver. I put on my seat belt, including the shoulder harness, and crossed my fingers tightly in my lap. "Now Sara," I said taking a deep breath, "I want you to anticipate EVERYTHING out loud. Let me know that you see the stop signs, the children playing 'ball,' the lights at the railroad crossing. That way it will be a pleasant ride for both of us. And remember — no radio!" "You're too much, mother!" said Sara rolling her eyes heavenward. She backed the car slowly out of the garage, down the drive, and into the street, clearing the telephone pole by a good three inches. "You thought I was going to hit — didn't you?" she said triumphantly. Now, I haven't driven with my daughter in two weeks and was genuinely surprised at her progress. She remembered her directional signals. She applied the brakes smoothly. She kept both hands on the wheel even when she was talking. And, she didn't hug the soft-shoulders. At the end of our ride, my stomach knotted a little as she drove the car into the garage, but she deftly guided it into place, dodging the bikes and the fertilizer spreader. "Sara," I said as I removed my seat belt, "that wasn't bad. You're getting to be a better driver every day." "Thanks," she grinned. "And ma, you're getting better, too. You didn't grip the door handle. You didn't brake with your feet. And not once, on the entire ride, did you close your eyes and say — 'Dear God, help us!'"

No Diet, No Baby Husband States

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: An acquaintance of ours is well-bred, refined, extremely well-educated and informed. He would be wonderful company if only he would give somebody else a chance to talk. Whenever this man is in a gathering, he dominates the conversation. How does one deal with such a person—short of telling him off?
FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Avoid him. He may be extremely well-educated and informed, but he is neither well-bred nor refined. The person who comes into your company and hogs all the conversation is no less a hog than the person who comes to the table and eats all the food.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for two years and are ready to start our family. The problem is my wife's weight. She is 5 ft. 3 in. and weighs 160 pounds. I have told her that unless she loses at least 20 pounds, I am not going to impregnate her! With all the problems women have during and after pregnancy, I think I'm doing her a favor by insisting that she lose some weight before becoming pregnant. My wife thinks that I am being unreasonable, but I am sincerely concerned about her health as well as the health of the baby. Three months ago I laid down the law, "No diet—no baby." So far she hasn't lost an ounce, and she doesn't even try. What do you think about this?
INDIANA

DEAR IND: While your attitude makes sense, your problem is far "heavier" than 20 pounds of blubber. Why is she punishing you? And why are you punishing her? Don't let baby make three before you are sure you have a reasonably stable marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very beautiful daughter who absolutely refuses to go out with a fellow unless he is at least six feet tall.

DEAR MOTHER: She's short on brains.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me where I can get a blood test for V.D. in the Waterbury, Connecticut area. It must be strictly confidential since I am married.
WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Phone your county public health department, and they will advise you.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Courier Firms Ship Goods Once Carried by Railroad

NEW YORK (UPI) — Erosion of U.S. passenger train service in the past 20 years has brought change far beyond the obvious differences in means of travel.

People, of course, are more dependent on airlines, buses and private cars to move about, but the disappearance of local passenger trains also has brought change to the way business firms ship their goods.

The prices charged by these firms seem high compared to what railway express and parcel post cost years ago, but business firms say their services are fast and reliable and the fees reasonable.

Take Parulator's armored tractor-trailer service. "It isn't a big business yet but it's growing," says Charles Flynn, Parulator senior group vice president.

A number of new business firms called courier companies have sprung up in the last few years to handle business that once moved entirely by passenger train. Some of these companies, such as Federal Express of Memphis, handle small parcels overnight on their own planes.

Others, such as United Parcel Service and Parulator Services Corp., use common carrier airlines and bus lines and those railway passenger trains still running. However, they pick up and deliver in their own trucks and tend to do an increasing volume of long haul express service in their own trucks and trailers.

The prices charged by these firms seem high compared to what railway express and parcel post cost years ago, but business firms say their services are fast and reliable and the fees reasonable.

Another specialized courier business which performs a service once provided by railroads is the delivery overnight or in a few days of fashion dresses or hangers in trucks—no packing and unpacking. Gilbert Carrier Corp. of New York is a leader in this field.

Performing Groups Set Dates For Bicentennial Programs

Several performing dates have been established by towns for celebration of the nation's Bicentennial. Civic group representatives met Tuesday night at the Municipal Building with Fred Blish, Bicentennial program coordinator, and Ralph Macaroni, program chairman.

Macaroni, also chairman of the band shell committee, described the construction of the shell which will be located in Center Springs Park.

He said it will have a concrete floor and cinder block walls about eight feet high from which the walls will curve to make the shell.

The shell will be 29 feet high at the peak, 66 feet wide in the front narrowing to 30 feet wide in the rear, and 30 feet deep. There will be an entrance to the stage on both sides as well as two small rooms at the rear of the structure for dressing rooms, or band rooms.

The portable loud speaker system will be stored in the Central Firehouse at the Center when not in use, Macaroni said.

Macaroni said the band shell should be completed by May 1976 with a performance in it in early June. The shell season should extend to mid-September, he said, of each year.

The cost will be about $80,000 to $100,000, he said. Macaroni said a wooden model of the band shell will soon be completed for public display.

The committee hopes the townspeople will unite to support the shell through donations. The Gilbert and Sullivan Workshop has set aside $150 from the proceeds of its recent production to go toward the band shell.

The Little Theatre of Manchester announced one of next season's four scheduled plays would be devoted to a Bicentennial theme.

The Silk City Chorus has set Jan. 17, 1976, for a program comprising a musical history of the United States.

A Bicentennial Ball will be held May 8, 1976.

'Jail on Wheels' at Tri-City Plaza

BARBARA RICHMOND
Standing as a grim reminder that crime does not pay, the "Jail on Wheels" is stationed at Tri-City Shopping Plaza, Vernon Circle, all this week.

The mobile jail is a project started in 1947 by the late J. Edward Slavin, high sheriff of New Haven County, who devoted most of his adult life to crime prevention education. The unit is now the property of the J. Edward Slavin Foundation, Inc. with headquarters in Clinton. It is designed especially to impress upon young people the consequences of committing crimes. Admission to the unit is free but adults are invited to contribute to the support of the foundation.

On one end of the unit is a replica of a stark jail cell and on the opposite end are very realistic replicas of the electric chair used in the old Wethersfield State Prison and one of a gas chamber. The unit also has several pieces of crime detection equipment such as a lie detector machine, an intoximeter to test the alcoholic content of blood, and a teletype machine which immediately transmits all information police need concerning a suspicious person, stolen cars and such.

In glass cases along the walls are some 400 police badges and patches collected from police departments throughout the United States where the mobile unit has appeared.

Added to this collection is a badge and patch from the Vernon Police Department. It will be in a special frame in the case while the mobile unit is in Vernon.

On the outside of the unit is the warning, "Stop that crime... you can't win." "Breaking the law means punishment and grief," John E. Slavin Jr., a director of the foundation said.

According to the late Sheriff Slavin, the intent of the unit is well worth seeing and it might just make young people think twice about committing a crime when they see their prospects might be confinement to that stark jail cell... or worse.

Sewer Assessments Revised, Bills Going Out

VERNON
Revised sewer assessments for corner lot owners in the Merline Dr.-Skinner Rd. project were approved by the Town Council Monday night. The bills will be mailed out immediately with a due date of June 1.

At a March 24 public hearing on the assessments, homeowners involved spent about five hours airing their gripes about the method of assessment. Particularly vocal were homeowners with corner lots.

A. Richard MacDonald, chairman of the council's sewer subcommittee, said in most instances assessments on corner lots were adjusted. He explained that corner lots have sewers only on one side while others have them on both sides, and the committee took the average of the two sides. He said in some cases taking the average wasn't a good method of computation.

He said his subcommittee reviewed, one-by-one, all of the complaints and spent about 50 hours doing so. "The lots were adjusted," he said, "at willily-willy," he said. He added, "No matter what we did someone would be unhappy."

Councilman Thomas Dooley questioned Town Attorney Abbot Schwebel as to how it would be handled if a homeowner challenged his assessment. Atty. Schwebel explained that the state statutes provide that once an assessment is made it has to be paid. MacDonald said that general taxation makes up the difference.

Burokas Asks More Crime Data

TOLLAND
Vivian Kenessey
Correspondent
Board of Selectmen Chairman John Burokas Tuesday complained to Town Manager John Harkins that the monthly police report does not provide enough detail, such as the type of crime activity in town.

Harkins said that he does not get a copy of the daily report Resident State Trooper Harry Tomasek files with the State Police Barracks, but that this information will be available in the future.

Selectman Helen Wanat stressed that more publicity on the surge of housebreaks in town would alert all homeowners.

Selectmen also questioned Harkins about the proposed budget item of a second resident state trooper, asking for a comparison to a second full-time constable with training at the Heriden State Police School.

Harkins said the two are not equal, pointing to the training, experience and education behind a state trooper. The town pays 80 per cent of the trooper's expenses and comes with a uniform, weapon, and vehicle. The town also has the auspices of the state police behind a trooper, such as lab facilities, radio, maintenance, etc.

Selectman Ted Palmer noted that a resident state trooper position is considered one of the better jobs, one an applicant must earn.

The present resident trooper works a five-day week and a second trooper would assure the town a 7-day coverage, and longer hours.

Harkins noted that the constables serve a very important function in the town, and are the "general eyes and ears" of the state police.

Roads
Selectmen expressed concern about the decrease in the town roads budget. Selectman Stewart Joslin said "we had to keep heating buildings when costs rose and oiling roads is as important." Palmer suggested that Harkins assess the complete road situation and come

By MICHAEL J. CONLON, WASHINGTON (UPI) — A type of spray paint gun on the market for only a few years is being linked to serious injuries, some of which have even resulted in amputation of fingers.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission says the problem results because the paint is ejected at high speed with such needle sharpness that it can penetrate the skin and cause tissue injury. Even something that appears as harmless as a pin prick can spread paint under the skin, causing infection.

The gun involved is referred to as an airless type. It depends on the pushing of a piston-type device to pressure the paint out of the machine, instead of on an air compressor.

The commission said it conducted six in-depth investigations of injuries associated with the devices. Four cases, three of whom were professional painters, suffered partial or total finger amputation as a result.

The agency said two types of guns are involved: large capacity units used by professionals but available to consumers, and small capacity guns called cup guns, which sell for about $100 each.

The commission said consumers should not rent such guns without written operating instructions, and should read the instructions carefully. In addition, it said users never should try to unclog the nozzle while the machine is in use.

A recent letter carried here complaining about premiums in cereals and other products aimed at children prompted this comment from Brady, Tex.

"All she has to do is stand up as a parent and refuse to let her children purchase that brand of cereal. By asking the government to stop the placement of such toys in cereal she is admitting that she is not a strong enough parent to control her own children, and she is taking the right of choice from the rest of us."

"If people agree with her, and stop buying the cereal, you can rest assured that the trinkets will disappear."

"The same holds true for advertising on children's television. Simply stop purchasing the products advertised. Even more drastic, stop watching the television. We lived without television for many years. We can certainly do it again."

"We consumers have complete control over the money we spend, and usually a very wide choice as to the products we buy. We simply need to use that power wisely. As a consumer I retain the right to buy what I please, when I please, and without the interference of the federal government."

It probably would be easier to boycott a certain brand of cereal than it would be to stop watching television. While your comment on the power of the consumer are well taken, the fact is many parents are either not at home or busy when their children are being exposed to the kind of premium offers in television commercials which the government is interested in controlling.

If you have studied snow tires on your car there are 28 states where it is illegal to keep them on during the summer.

According to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., Illinois, Utah and Washington require such tires to be removed by March 1. An April 1 date applies in Iowa, Michigan, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, West Virginia and Wisconsin. The deadline is mid-April in Delaware, Kansas, Ohio, Nebraska, North Dakota, New York, Oregon and Pennsylvania; May 1 in Alaska and Arizona; and May 31 in Montana.

Eighteen other states allow studded tires all year, but they are banned completely in Louisiana, Minnesota, Mississippi, and all places, Hawaii.

Pass on your comments, suggestions and complaints. We'll answer as time and space permit. Write to Buyer's Billboard, CPT, 215 National Press Building, Washington, D. C. 20045.

Town Short $12,000 of Cancer Goal
The Town of Manchester still needs $12,000 to fulfill its goal of $25,000 in the 1975 Cancer Crusade campaign, Carl Zinsner, local chairman of the drive, has reported.

Noting the drive is at the halfway point and the amount raised is about half of the goal, Zinsner called on all community members to participate in "this annual raising" appeal aimed at wiping out cancer.

"As we head into the balance of the campaign," said Zinsner, "we urge the public to heed the problem of cancer, a disease which claims 975 persons each day — one life every one-and-a-half minutes. We must adopt the challenge of cancer and devote our dollars to eliminating it as a threat to life."

Noting Cancer Crusade volunteers in the house-to-house special canvassing industry canvasses haven't been able to visit every family and office in town, Zinsner said, "We're depending strongly on those who haven't yet been contacted to mail in their contributions, in order to keep the cancer fight going strong."

He said contributions may be mailed or brought to the American Cancer Society office at 227 E. Center St.

Boone Stars in Film South Church To Show

"The Cross and the Switchblade," starring Pat Boone, will be shown Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p.m. at South United Methodist Church.

Tickets, which may be purchased at the door, are $1.50 for adults and $1 for children and students.

The film is adapted from the Rev. David Wilkerson's best seller of the same title. The film portrays Wilkerson's one-man crusade among the narcotic-ridden gang fighters in New York City's ghettos.

Proceeds from the showings of the film will be sent to Youth Challenge of Greater Hartford, an outreach of Teen Challenge, which has just recently suffered the loss of its building due to a fire.

On May 9, the Rev. Mr. Wilkerson will speak at a rally in the Clarke Arena of Manchester High School. The rally is being sponsored by the David Wilkerson Youth Committee.

NO REFUND
ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. The reason given was that the rebate doesn't actually reduce the sales price used in figuring the tax.

Ford Calls War Over, Asks Unity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford debated today whether to give up his request that Congress approve $72 million in arms aid to Vietnam in a war in which he has declared America's role was finished.

To the standing ovation and cheers of 6,000 Tulane University students in New Orleans Wednesday night, Ford called the Indochina conflict "a war that is finished — as far as America is concerned."

On the way home he told reporters aboard Air Force One his arms aid request, "Well, it's still up there in Congress. It will depend on the circumstances when I get back . . . if there is a significant change we'll have to reassess it."

What Ford called "a fluid situation" included the mood of Congress. In a session that lasted until early today, the House voted to authorize $27 million for humanitarian aid and evacuation costs. The Senate passed a $250 million version. No arms aid has been approved for what administration officials privately admit was a military loss cause.

He had proclaimed an end to U.S. participation in a lost war. His four-day emergence in one statement about the war: "I had mixed emotions. That's not the way I wished it had ended. But you have to be realistic."

Ford said he sensed in making the speech that he was ending an American era. "I think so, yes. After all, it's been a pretty long era."

Ford called meetings this morning with aides including Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. Aides said Ford was receiving prebreakfast briefings on the situation in Vietnam. These included both the South Vietnamese government's military plight in and around Saigon and the state of the evacuation of Americans and allied South Vietnamese.

At Tulane he said Vietnam, for Americans, was finished. It was time for something new.

"The time has come," the President said, "to look forward to an agenda for the future, to unity, to binding up the nation's wounds and restoring it to health and optimistic self confidence."

SAIGON (UPI) — President Tran Van Huong's efforts to form a peace coalition government acceptable to the Communists bogged down today in bickering between followers of Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh and Senate President Tran Van Lam.

There was a general lull in ground fighting as the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese apparently held up their expected assault on Saigon until formation of a government with which they can negotiate a cease-fire.

Fund-Raising Planned For Town Music Shell

By MAL BARLOW
Formal plans for the fund raising needed to build a music shell in Center Springs Park began Wednesday afternoon in the office of Town Manager Robert B. Weiss.

Members of the Manchester Bicentennial Committee met with several town leaders to begin the formation of a fund-raising group to build a music shell.

"It will take at least $80,000 and as much as $100,000 to build it," Weiss said.

Ralph Macaroni, chairman of the bicentennial music shell committee, and Mrs. Carol Kuehl, its secretary, reported on their progress to date.

The shell will be on the north shore of the Sligo Brook in the park facing the sliding hill. This is considered the best spot and the one to least interfere with current uses of the park.

The shell will be a permanent structure. The base will be 66 feet wide in front and the peak will be 29 feet high. The base will be made of concrete. The walls will be made of brick up to eight feet from the base and the remainder will be wood.

The group in Weiss' office Wednesday selected the members for the fund-raising committee.

The first meeting of the special committee will be May 14 in the evening at the Army and Navy Club on Main St., they agreed.

Other members of the group meeting Wednesday were: Michael Dworkin, president of the Manchester Park Merchants Association; Ernest Turek, park department superintendent; Walter Senkow, town engineer and designer of the shell; Jay Giles, public works director; Mrs. Suzanne Flocken, executive vice president of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce; and James Fogarty, emergency coordinator.

Chiefs' Disciplinary Power Curbed

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut House has approved a bill removing the authority of police and fire chiefs to dictate the disciplinary procedures of their departments.

The senate gave final approval to a bill shortening from 10 to five weeks the period persons must work before they can qualify again for unemployment benefits.

The house measure now goes to the senate. It would allow firemen and policemen to negotiate disciplinary procedures through collective bargaining.

Supporters of the bill hailing the measure said that in view of Connecticut's high unemployment rate, persons affected by repeated lay-offs and business closings should be given a better chance to collect unemployment benefits.

The senate also gave initial approval to a measure changing the way workers are compensated for injuries on the job.

Present laws call for workers to be compensated according to their weekly wages before they were injured and the bill would tie injury payments to the prevailing wage in the industry in which the persons worked.

The legislature's Labor Committee said the proposal would protect workers who are injured at an early age.

The representative also approved a measure giving state employees laid off an extra $5 a week for each of their children enrolled full time in a school. The present payment is $10 dollars per child.

The house turned down a bill to allow teachers who quit voluntarily to collect unemployment compensation benefits after a four-week waiting period.

Opponents of the bill pointed out municipalities pay the unemployment benefits for town and city employees out of their budgets and the bill would force municipalities to spend large amounts of funds for unemployment compensation for teachers who resign.

Gay Bill Dead
HARTFORD (UPI) — Fearful of harmful influences on school children, the Connecticut House of Representatives has rejected a bill banning public works employment discrimination against homosexuals.

The argument that the measure would give legal backing to homosexual teachers, who could influence the sexual preferences of their students, appeared to carry the day Wednesday as the lawmakers voted 67-60 against the bill.

"I do not feel that sexual deviates are the kind of people we should employ to teach your children and my grandchildren," said Abijah Fox, R-Greenwich, who opened a 90-minute debate on the measure.

The bill passed the senate last week with a comfortable margin.

Supporters of the bill quoted medical and psychiatric reports showing young children could not be influenced into becoming homosexuals by adult homosexuals, their parents or social conditions around them.

"The question is whether all citizens are equal before the law," said Rep. Irving Stohler, D-New Haven, who also said the measure did not violate God's law but rather corrected errors in human laws.

Rep. Aloysius Ahern, D-Bolton, a

Eight Arrested in Shelton Explosion

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Eight persons, including the president of a large Ohio firm, were arrested today in the March 1 explosion and fire which destroyed a $14 million sponge rubber product plant in Shelton, the FBI said.

A 10-count federal indictment named 10 suspects with conspiracy, violation of federal bombing statutes and interstate transportation in aid of racketeering.

The FBI said two more persons were being sought by agents who began making arrests in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Tennessee early today.

In addition, nine of those named in federal indictments were named in Superior Court warrants issued in Bridgewater on charges including arson, kidnapping and conspiracy in the fire bombing of the Sponge Rubber Products Co. factory.

State's Attorney Donald Browne said the warrants, handed over to state police, were signed late Wednesday by Superior Court Judge George A. Saden.

Among those arrested was Charles B. Moeller, 46, of Stevensville, Ohio, president of Ohio Descriptive Products, the parent company of the Sponge Rubber Product Plant.

Also arrested was David N. Bubar, 47, of Memphis, Tenn., a Baptist minister and psychic who predicted the catastrophe before it occurred at the plant. He was described as a spiritual advisor to Moeller.

Bubar was the subject of the book, "You are a Psychic," and is a native of Blain, Maine. He had been pastor of the Stanton Baptist Church, Stanton, Tenn., but resigned in 1969 in order to utilize his astonishing clairvoyant abilities," according to the book.

The federal grand jury indictment charged the men with transporting dynamite, detonating cord and blasting caps by truck from Pennsylvania to a plant. The explosion and fire at the factory destroyed the building but there were no injuries.

Others arrested were Ronald D. Bettes, 32, and Peter Bettes, 54, of Butler, Pa.; Donald L. Connors, 40, a truck driver who allegedly shipped the dynamite, also of Butler, Pa.; Anthony A. Just, 48, of Greensburg, Pa.; John W. Shaw, 28, of Pittsburgh; and Michael J. Tice, 22, of Boyers, Pa.

Agents said they were still seeking Albert R. Coffee, 43, and Dennis Charles Tiche, 28, president of a chemical company in Boyers, Pa.

Terrorists Seize West German Envoy

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Four terrorists armed with automatic weapons shot their way into the West German Embassy today and seized Ambassador Dietrich Stoeker as hostage. They threatened to shoot the military attaché unless police withdrew.

There were reports of some injuries as a result of the shooting and initial reports said one person was killed. Police kept all administration officials privately admit was a military loss cause.

More than 100 specially equipped riot police officers surrounded the building on Stockholm's embassy row minutes after the first alarm went out at 11:49 a.m. The nearby British Embassy was immediately evacuated and the terrorists fired their submachine guns sporadically at the police and newsmen, sending them ducking behind cars for cover.

Police said that in addition to the ambassador and the military attaché, Lt. Col. Andreas Baron von Mirbach, other hostages were also believed to be taken.

Police said three men and a woman apparently took part in the embassy attack, and said they suspected the assassins also carried high explosives. They were German anarchists who called the Baader-Meinhof urban guerrilla group.

The German news agency DPA received an anonymous telephone call at its Stockholm office shortly after the occupation.

Cong Threat Spurs Evacuation

By United Press International
Thousands of American and Vietnamese evacuees poured into the U.S. military base on Guam today in an accelerated airlift endorsed by the reported movement of Communist anti-aircraft missiles toward Saigon.

The Soviet-made SAM missiles could close Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base — and the airlift — if Communist anti-aircraft teams get to within 20 miles of the capital. The airlift was first directed to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

But after 4,000 evacuees arrived Tuesday — bringing the total number at Clark to 7,000 — the flights were switched to Guam, a tiny U.S. territory.

The official reason for the switch was the overcrowding of facilities at Clark. But American sources said the Philippine government feared a large influx of refugees would settle around Manila.

In Washington, Rep. Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House International Relations Committee, told

Trotter Block To Make Way for Parking

Until a couple of months ago, this Manchester-owned three-story building at 91-93 Center St., to the west of the Central Fire House, housed 10 tenants — one in a store, the others in apartments. In addition, two other stores had been converted to offices for the town welfare department and water and sewer departments. The tenants moved out, the town departments were re-located to Lincoln Center and the building is only a pile of rubble. It (known as the Trotter Block) and another town-owned building at 9 Trotter St., are being demolished by the D&M Demolition Co. of Wethersfield under a $4,150 contract. D&M will fill-in the basements and top-grade the area (a little under an acre). Then bids will be sought for paving the area — to provide additional parking spaces for Municipal Building operations. A town-owned dwelling at the southeast corner of Oakland St. and Sheldon Rd. (139 Oakland St.) also was slated for demolition. Instead, the Board of Directors authorized possible sale of the property. Bids will be opened Tuesday for purchasing the building and land. An alternate bid being sought is for purchasing the building only and removing it to another location. (Herald photo by Barlow)
