Town Man Up At Aetna Life

James C. Hamilton of Manchester has been promoted to director of financial reporting in the life division of Aetna Life & Casualty, Hartford.

Hamilton holds a master's degree from Yale University. He joined Aetna in 1967 as an actuarial student; he became senior actuarial assistant in 1971, assistant actuary in corporate planning in 1972, and associate actuary in the life division last year. Hamilton is a member of the Society of Actuaries. He lives at 14 Kennedy Rd.

James R. O'Meara

Realtor Firm Adds O'Meara

James R. O'Meara of Manchester has joined the local real estate firm of Daniel F. Reale, Realtors, at 175 Main St. He'll be involved in residential, commercial, and industrial properties.

O'Meara has several years of experience in the real estate and insurance fields. After majoring in physiology at St. Michael's College, he joined the John Hancock Insurance Co. as a sales representative and later became supervisor of training sales personnel. Before becoming associated with Reale, O'Meara was with another local real estate firm.

Dr. Paul K. Schick

Doctor Given $96,000 Grant

Dr. Paul K. Schick, formerly of Manchester, has been awarded a $96,000 grant to study the role of blood platelets in thrombosis. The grant is from the National Heart and Lung Institute of the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. Schick, a hematologist, is assistant professor of medicine at the Medical College of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia. Dr. Schick practiced internal medicine in Manchester from July 1965 to June 1969. He and his family now live at Merion Station, Pa.

Fourteen years ago, Dennis Santoro of Manchester decided that his ultimate goal in life would be to own his own business. Realization of his dream moved a step ahead 14 years ago, when Santoro — assistant manager of Regal Men's Shop downtown — started a specialty import operation in his off hours. And the dream will be fully realized next week, when he opens his own specialty shop, The Lion's Den, at 563 E. Middle Tpk.

The new store is billed as "a one-of-a-kind gift shop for men." It will feature unique and unusual gifts for men, and will include items from Africa and Turkey which Santoro acquires through his part-time import business, Paraphernalia Ltd.

Even though Santoro will have two operations going, he doesn't plan to give up his job at Regal's, which he took almost nine years ago. So he'll just be in The Lion's Den evenings, and his family will cover for him during other business hours. Joining Santoro as partners in the new venture are his mother and stepfather. His wife will also help out at the shop. Santoro doesn't feel uneasy about starting a new business in Manchester despite the ticklish national economy. He says his astrological forecast has satisfied any doubts about financial success of the establishment. Santoro said he always has

Court Admits 36 Attorneys

The U.S. Supreme Court has approved the applications of 36 Connecticut attorneys seeking admission to practice before the court, the Connecticut Bar Association has announced. Manchester area attorneys among the 36 are Craig F. White of Coventry, Keith E. Fry of St. Finley St., and William A. Roberto of East Hartford.

White is associated with the Manchester law firm of Garrity, Walsh & Diana. Fry is employed by Turbo Marine Systems of Farmington. Roberto is a partner in the firm of Roberto and Farr of East Hartford.

Promoted

Lawrence M. Dobb of 35 Chestnut St., Manchester, has been promoted to superintendent, group pension administration, at the home office of Aetna Life & Casualty, Hartford. Dobb joined the company in 1972 as a technical analyst in the group pension administration department. He became plan revision representative in February 1973, plan revision specialist in September 1973, and superintendent, special administration services, in 1974.

OPINION

A Good Start For State Dialogue

Whether the speculated layoff of state employees as a budget balancing measure comes about remains to be seen.

Yet, the mere mention of this possibility is having a healthy effect which could improve productivity in state government and save the taxpayers some money.

The other day the governor and leaders of the Connecticut State Employees Association met to discuss alternatives to possible layoffs.

In other words, state employees, through their leaders, were giving their suggestions on how the cost of state government might be reduced thus saving their jobs.

Obviously, the cost-saving finger was pointed to other areas of government, such as the state's much-criticized computer leasing operations, while maintaining state payrolls at present levels was vigorously defended.

The significant thing is that the employees union is looking for ways to save tax dollars and is to be commended for it.

But just as it can be pointed out there are frills in other aspects of state government, we think the CSEA must know there are probably some frills in the form of deadwood and/or unneeded workers on the state payroll.

The suggested early retirement of elderly workers has some appeal but does not address itself to the problem facing the state. Should layoffs become necessary, the state must be highly selective in the cuts in order to maintain maximum efficiency. To retire early some of the more experienced workers could result in a slightly larger dollar saving but might prove more costly in the long run by depriving the state of productivity and efficiency that generally goes with long experience.

Despite our misgiving on this particular matter, we hope the CSEA continues to make cost-saving suggestions, not only now when the financial pinch is acute but in the future when things are better economically. Nothing contributes more to sloppy management than prosperity.

We think this exchange between the governor and CSEA leadership is a good start. Hopefully, it is the beginning of an intelligent attempt by those in state government to face up to the realities of our time.

And we would hope that all others who have a stake in state government will do the same. It may be that those not so closely involved with CSEA, as its members and leaders, can see ways where state employees might be better utilized to cut the cost of government.

One of those realities is that in hard times there can be no elite among the working people. This means state workers should not be automatically insured against layoffs when non-state workers are not.

Morally

Unconstitutional

Rather than wait for someone else to cry "foul," we will.

The lottery proposal by some legislators to raise $5 to $7 million for public school aid so that current $250 per pupil allowances to rich towns won't have to be cut is unfair.

It has been long established that it is unconstitutional to use tax monies to support church-connected schools so many of these schools have long relied on lotteries to supplement tuition charges.

We think it is morally unconstitutional for the state to start competing with these nonpublic schools with a special lottery twice a year.

If tradition is any indicator, it won't be long until public schools will be sending architects to the drawing boards to design bingo parlors.

We think the legislature should laugh this lottery idea right out of the legislative halls.

It is bad enough that the quality of public education must be dependent upon political whims.

It would be disastrous to make it dependent on the uncertainties of a game of chance.

Instead of dreaming up instant lotteries, perhaps what is needed is some instant economy.

Gentlemen: I am writing to you as a means of passing on information about one of your former residents. His name is Mr. Gilbert Parks, and he was a member of 8th District and Utilities Fire Dept. (Volunteer) from 1941-41. He was a captain for about five years in this department.

He is presently convalescing from a stroke at Swabholm Nursing Home 2900 Central Avenue, St. Petersburg, Fla. I have spoken to him frequently and it would be most encouraging for him to hear from any of his old friends in Manchester.

I trust you will print this letter so that all interested parties might be aware of his present situation.

ANDREW TULLY Female Drivers Are Better

WASHINGTON—These days, polls tell us what we think about everything and so it is not surprising that their proprietors consider it their duty to issue annual pronouncements on male drivers versus female drivers. What is impertinent about these polls is that they consistently conclude the male is a more trustworthy operator of the family monster.

I suspect most of those polled are males, who react in the American tradition which says every man is a kind of latter-day Barney Oldfield, with stepped-up reflexes. The tradition is nonsense, of course. My poll of one individual, namely me, reveals that all driving should be turned over to the real experts, named women.

In this ruling, I defy the common male attitude toward women drivers. In testrooms and road stores, male commentators on important issues always sigh heavily and agree that balls of feminine fluff don't understand cars, are emotionally unequipped to handle them and besides, aren't very bright.

Baloney. Men merely mouth the conventional party line, learned as boy babies in their high chairs. In essence, the line goes back to the old saw that woman's place is in the home and that she shouldn't be trusted with anything more complicated than an electric toaster.

I let pass the argument that most males shouldn't be trusted even with an electric toaster, except to note that in this house all such friends in mechanical form are turned over to the lady in residence for diagnosis and treatment. The point I desire to make is that women generally are better drivers than men because they are conservative by nature.

As a sex, girls drive more slowly and observe traffic laws with more fidelity. Possibly they are afraid of cars. They're Baileys or Fords but they take advantage of them and do something nasty. But that makes them more discreet in handling them; they seek to stay on good terms with the creeps.

Women are better drivers because they have more patience. The average male blows his top in a traffic jam because he considers it a personal affront. Out of sheer pique he is apt to stomp on the accelerator and shear off his neighbor's fender to teach the world a lesson. If he's on a strange road and misses a turn, watch out. That return he makes could pile up cars a half-mile back.

Women are better drivers, also, because to them driving remains an adventure. They realize a car is temperamental and mischievous and that it enjoys practical jokes, like running out of gas or smashing a headlight for no discernible reason. After his first few years at the wheel, the average male often finds driving a bore. The result is his driving becomes perfunctory, and pretty soon he's absent-mindedly pulling out onto the boulevard without checking that car bearing down on him from the right.

All men are geniuses, but most of them unfortunately don't know north from south, and when piloting a car in strange territory become hopelessly lost and red in the face. For me, an excursion across the Potomac to Alexandria is a terrifying experience and if there were not someone named Molly sharing the front seat I would unerringly wind up in Minsk, Russia.

Dolls do have occasional accidents, and I sing not their praises when they sneeringly beat me to a parking space. But I have noticed they err only when there is another female in the car. Not even a male could make a proper left turn into traffic with some girl briefing him on the current marital status of the president of the PTA. But I offer a solution for this perilous situation. Just pass a law, Congress, saying not more than one woman to a car.

Who Influences America?

NEW YORK CITY—We suffer from a plague of questionnaires. What three people do I admire most in all the world? Who are the five most important women in the United States? Were Lee Harvey Oswald, James Earl Ray and Sirhan Sirhan alone in killing their respective targets? What are the worst disasters ahead for the next 10 years? Ditto the next 25?

It is a mild form of idiocy. It swells the morning mail, seems based on the loony theory that you can sort out history in rank orders and decide the truth of an issue by using the post office.

The U.S. News and World Report, which rarely prints nonsense, breaks its rule once a year with the results of a questionnaire to a thousand "men and women of distinction," on "Who Runs America?" It gives the first and second teams of 10 each. Gerry Ford comes first and House Speaker Carl Albert 10th on the first team, raising the question whether either man runs his respective domain or is run by it.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, of course, is second. Then come the two economic czars, Arthur Burns and George Money, who presumably run money and labor, then Nelson Rockefeller, followed by Chief Justice Warren Burger, who runs his majority on the Supreme Court. The come Sens. Ted Kennedy and Mike

DON OAKLEY

Another Baby Boom in America's Future?

Projections about where Americans are headed, in terms of numbers, are being revised in the light of recent government statistics.

From January through August of last year, the birth rate continued the steady decline that began about 1970. Then in September, even as the economy began its nosedive, the birth curve suddenly began rising and continued to rise in October, November and December.

The result, according to the National Center for Health Statistics, was that for the year as a whole, the birth rate was up 1 per cent over 1973.

The actual increase was small, however—25,000 more babies born in 1974 than in 1973—and population watchers point out that the rise was due to an increase in the number of women of childbearing age rather than to an increase in the average number of children per family.

A more complete picture of U.S. population trends is expected when the National Commission for the Observance of World Population Year, established by executive order on Jan. 17, 1974, makes its report to the President next June.

At present, the picture is a cloudy one. Last year, despite the fourth-quarter upsurge in births, the U.S. population of some 213 million grew at a rate of only seven-tenths of 1 per cent. But low as that rate is, it continued it would mean a Manfield, and then Walter Cronkite, who doesn't run anything except the powerful CBS News program. The way Cronkite sticks out from the rest suggests what is wrong with the list as a whole. The other nine men exercise varying degrees of power, while people like Cronkite exert influence. Political and economic decisions may be made by people sitting in the covert as well as overt seats of the mighty. But you can't get at them by questionnaires and straw votes—the great currents of thought and opinion and try to track down who has helped shape them.

Avoiding the obvious question of who in the past influenced the American foreign policies, take as an instance the legal currents of today. The Supreme Court majority that Chief Justice Burger commands must reckon with the great movements of thought in the law schools, on capital punishment, on abortion, on pornography, on executive privilege. There are a half-dozen legal scholars, notably the late Alexander Bickel, without whose critical scrutiny of past courts and decisions the present trend toward a legal centrism would be impossible. Yet when President Ford, speaking at the Yale law school, promised a crackdown on the punishment of serious crimes, he met a cool reception. His audience was skeptical of deterrance theories, whether by the death penalty or imprisonment.

Take two other areas. There are no blacks and no women on the U.S. News list, yet what happens in the thinking of black intellectuals today in the battle between separatism and integration, between hard-core and soft-core revolution. There is a somewhat similar struggle in the women's movements, between the separatists and the humanists.

When Susan Saxe announced, after her years in the Weather Underground and her recent arrest in Philadelphia, "I am a lesbian, I am a feminist, I am an amazon," it was clearly meant for quotation in the future. But one asks what intellectual influences in the immediate past and present can account for the shaping of so bleak a militancy?

Q. Wilson, we can look for "a general and persistent reduction" in crime because the crime-prone youthful component of our population will be proportionately smaller.

Tracks Into Trails The hard times that have lately battered the iron horse, while bad news for the railroad industry, present the nation with a unique opportunity, says a presidential factfinding body.

There are about 200,000 miles of abandoned railroad lines in the United States, many of them passing through scenic and picturesque landscapes. According to the Citizen Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality, these unused roadbeds could be inexpensively converted into a vast network of backpacking, bicycling, jogging, horseback riding and cross-country skiing trails.

Once a right-of-way is acquired—and they're available at bargain prices—the actual construction of a trail would be a relatively simple matter, the committee says in a recently published booklet, "From Rails to Trails."

All the while, the U.S. population of some 213 million grew at a rate of only seven-tenths of 1 per cent. But low as that rate is, it continued it would mean a

Rehearsal for Vernon Concert Tonight

Dr. Gerald Mack, director of choral activities and associate professor of music education at Hartt College of Music at the University of Hartford, was guest conductor of the Rockville High School choir Wednesday as they went through the paces in preparation for the spring concert to be tonight at 8 in the Middle School, Rt. 30. Dr. Mack will direct several numbers and the choir will also do several others under the direction of Miss Eileen Sullivan, their regular director. Several choir members will sing solos and Miss Karen Nicholas, also a member of the choir, will be featured in a piano solo performing one of her own compositions. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Scholarship Applications Open

SOUTH WINDSOR

Donna Holland Correspondent 644-0375

The South Windsor Friends for Music will again award a scholarship to a graduating senior who intends to major in music next year. To be considered, a student must be accepted at an accredited college as a music major.

Former graduates currently enrolled in college as music majors are also considered. Applications are available at the high school music and guidance departments and when completed should be submitted to Richard W. Haggett, scholarship committee chairman.

In addition to providing annual scholarships, Friends for Music has raised over $20,000 in the past three years to help provide band uniforms and social group attire and to support their worthwhile music programs in South Windsor schools.

Cancer Tests The Mobile Cancer Control

Unit will be in South Windsor the week of May 12.

The program which is part of the "South Windsor Unites Against Cancer" Crusade, will provide free Pap tests and breast examinations.

Appointments are necessary and can be obtained by contacting Beth O'Brian, special services, 644-2509 during next week.

The clinic will run from May 12 from 5-8 p.m. in the Society for Savings Bank downstairs community room. Margo Sillman will show a movie on cancer awareness. The mobile unit contains all supplies necessary for setting up two examining areas and travels throughout the state providing services for local women.

Fund-Raiser The final fund-raising event in the "South Windsor unites Against Cancer" crusade will be held May 17. A dinner dance at Ellington Ridge Country Club has been chosen to wrap up the 1975 campaign.

A buffet dinner will begin at 8 p.m. with dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. to the sounds of "The Sunshines."

Reservations are at $25 per couple and can be made through Ginny Darrah 644-9411 or Marilyn Pugliese, 644-8684.

Rham Scheduled Career Days

Nancy Foote Due to the lack of space, a different format will be used this year. All participants will be in the gym and will talk with students informally rather than presenting formal speeches in the classroom. Students will attend this program during their study hall periods. Teachers may excuse students from class to attend or may take entire classes to the gym for the program.

The main objective is to provide firsthand information to students about a variety of occupations. Emphasis has been expanded this year to include information on immediate employment as well as future career opportunities.

Dear Abby

She Wants Bump Back on Nose

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old unmarried woman. My father is Jewish, and my mother is Irish. I have always looked more like my father because I have the same little bump on my nose that he has. I never minded the bump because I love my father very much, and I never did get along with my mother.

DEAR LOVES: You DID have your head examined and were advised to do what you want to do about your nose. So do it.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I weighed 400 pounds. My life was hardly worth living. In fact, I planned to commit suicide after reaching the age of 21. (I was going to take heroin.)

DEAR HAPPY: You make it sound so simple. After considerable research, I learned that gastric-bypass surgery which proved so successful for you, is not for everyone. There are risks involved. Those who are interested should discuss it with their physicians.

DEAR ABBY: As a police officer, may I say something to the man who objected to women wearing pantsuits? Not one victim of the rape cases I have handled was wearing a tailored pants suit. One was wearing a slinky pajama sort of thing; the others were wearing either skirts or shorts.

Darling-Fortier

Fern Mariann Fortier of Rockville and Donald Lee Darling of Seabrook, Mass., were married April 19 at the First Congregational Church of Vernon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Green of Vernon. Mr. Darling is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Darling of Seabrook, Mass., formerly of Seabrook.

The Rev. John Lacey officiated at the afternoon ceremony. Mrs. Jean Taylor of Cheshire was matron of honor.

Scott Darling of Seabrook, Mass., was his brother's best man. Ushers were Joseph Suchecki of Vernon; Thomas Joyce of Westport, Mass. and 11. Wilbur Clark of U.S. Air Force, Arlington, Mass.

A reception was held at The Colony in Talcottville, after which the couple left on a trip to New Hampshire and Vermont. They will reside in Quincy, Mass.

Mrs. Darling is employed by The Greenery Nursing Home in Brighton, Mass. Mr. Darling is employed by Filene's in Boston.

Finance Board Favors Budget of $2,253,297

HEBRON Anne Dallaire The Board of Finance in executive session Tuesday night voted to present a recommended budget of $2,253,297 to the annual budget meeting May 12 for the 1975-76 fiscal year.

The recommended budget includes $445,556 for general government, $900,000 for the Board of Education and $907,741 for the town's share of the Regional District 8 budget.

The $445,556 for the general government is $55,138 less than requested and $40,255 less than the current year.

The reduction over the current year is due to a substantial reduction in amounts recommended for capital outlay and appropriations to reserve fund.

The insurance account is increased from $100,000 to $125,000. The increase of $25,000 over the requested amount. The increase will cover placement of additional town officials under Workman's Compensation and provide for anticipated increases in municipal rates.

The board also recommended that $6,100 for truck equipment, $2,000 for police radio equipment and $1,350 for firehouse capital maintenance be taken from Revenue Sharing Funds.

It is also recommended that $13,000 for the resident trooper and $2,000 for police protection be financed by Revenue Sharing Funds.

Revenue Sharing Funds in reserve ($24,959) for the proposed expansion of the Town Office Building are left untouched in the recommended budget with the intention of using them at a later date to cover the cost of major repairs on the Hebron Elementary School roof. The estimate for roof repair work is $81,775.

The Board of Education Budget recommended at $900,000 is an increase of $63,000 over the current year but a reduction of $68,810 from the board's budget request for 1975-76.

A visit to the elementary schools by the assistant principal, the director of pupil personnel and the seventh grade teachers is planned for May 6 in Andover, May 7 in Marlborough and May 8 in Hebron. All visits are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

At this time the Rham staff will distribute reports on the proposed Regional Budget and materials, including transportation and placement, heating oil and all supplies and materials.

The amount the town will pay to the Regional District is dependent on adoption of the proposed Regional Budget at that board's annual budget meeting called for 8 p.m.

Revenues for the support of schools next year are estimated at $445,975 and general revenues at $141,959 plus $24,450 to be taken from the Revenue Sharing Funds. This leaves $640,913 to be raised by taxes. The $24,450 estimated will result in an estimated gain in operation for the year of just under $3,000.

The finance board voted to cancel its meeting scheduled for Thursday night and to hold a special meeting May 12 immediately following the annual budget meeting.

Also it was voted to recommend to the town meeting that next year's taxes be payable in one installment if the amount is under $100 and all other taxes be paid in two installments.

Copies of the recommended budget will be available in the office of the town clerk no later than Wednesday.

Rham Board Acts On Personnel, Orientation

Nancy Foose The Rham Board of Education has voted to accept three resignations and appoint the following replacements: Geraldine Post for 4 1/2 hours per day in the cafeteria, and student, Claire Hand for 3 1/2 hours per day in the cafeteria. The board also voted to accept the resignation of Janice Wax, a teacher of Earth Science.

The schedule for orientation of incoming seventh graders to the Regional High School from Hebron, Andover and Marlborough was announced.

190th instructional day which is June 20. Tennis Courts The board discussed possible methods of supervising the summer use of the tennis courts. Superintendent David Cattanch mentioned the problem of people wearing improper foot gear and the fact that some players fail to give up the courts after they have been using them for one hour.

The administration will investigate the possibility of allowing some person or parents to give lessons at the Rham courts for which a fee would be charged and having them provide the supervision for the free tennis playing time.

The board gave its approval for an overnight survival exercise planned for May 16, 17 and 18. The activity will involve 60 students in grades 9-12 and 10-12 adult chaperones.

The property of George Alden in Hebron will be used for the three-day exercise. The objectives of the week end are to expose the students to principles in the dynamics of group behavior and to cause students to relate their experiences during the exercise to concepts, ideas and principles dealt with in classroom activities.

The board voted to accept Clifford Pierce as a tuition student in 11th grade during the next school year.

Funds, Food Raised for World Hunger

More than $600 and 14 cartons of nonperishable food items were collected during a recent World Hunger Week observance at Bennett Junior High School. The $600 will be donated to Manchester Council on World Hunger, and the baby food and types of food the students enjoy themselves will be given to Manchester's Emergency Pantry at Center Congregational Church. Through the World Hunger Week was organized after students watched a film on hunger in Africa and India as part of Mrs. Leo Hogan's social studies program, the entire student body became involved in the project, Mrs. Hogan said. Teams were organized, captains chosen and activities planned, initiated and carried out by the students, Mrs. Hogan said.

Navy Certifies Sub As Being Seaworthy

NEW LONDON (UPI)—The Navy has certified a seaworthy nuclear attack submarine USS Greenling despite several alleged defects reported by crewmen. The vessel returned Thursday to New London after two days of testing and will leave for a five-month cruise in the Mediterranean after an indefinite stay for "material repairs" which the Navy would not describe in detail. A crewman said the alleged defects include faulty hydraulic steering and diving systems, dangerous green gas leaks and erratic gauges vital to nuclear reactor operation, according to some crewmen. The Greenling failed a series of sea trials in mid April because the largely inexperienced crew responded improperly to drills and emergency conditions. With its squadron commander on board, the submarine left New London Tuesday and underwent tests Wednesday.

Legislature Approves Three For Judgeships

HARTFORD (UPI)—Three members of the administration of Gov. Ella T. Grasso have been approved for Common Pleas Court judgeships by the Connecticut Legislature. The legislature Thursday approved four men for the court, all nominated by Mrs. Grasso. The only nominee who ran into some opposition in the secret balloting was C. Perrie Phillips of Hamden, the state's personal commissioner. Phillips, a former Central Intelligence Agency employee, was endorsed 78-22 in the House and 30-1 in the Senate. Those approved with little opposition were Harry Hamner of Vernon, deputy secretary of state, A. M. Toro of Waterbury, a lawyer in the secretary of state's office, and Mary Fitzgerald Aspen, a Hartford lawyer.

Housing Bill For Handicapped

HARTFORD (UPI)—A measure requiring that 10 per cent of state assisted housing units be designed for the use of physically disabled persons is awaiting Gov. Ella T. Grasso's signature. The state Senate sped the bill through final action Thursday to get it to Mrs. Grasso's office on Awareness Day, called to dramatize the problems faced by the handicapped in their daily activities. Earlier, Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian and Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer rode around the Capitol in wheel chairs to get a first hand impression of the difficulties in getting around.

Racial Bias Complaint Dropped

HARTFORD (UPI)—The Connecticut Real Estate Commission says federal action has been sufficient and it will not pursue a complaint against 43 Hartford area real estate brokers accused of practicing racial discrimination. Executive Director James F. Carey said Thursday a U.S. Justice Department consent decree with the 43 agents will be enough to enforce fair housing statutes. The commission, Carey said, will not take administrative action and is satisfied with the effect of the decree in reducing racial discrimination in housing. The Justice Department failed to find any basis for criminal action against the agents, he said.

Refugee Convoy Delayed

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (UPI)—The convoy carrying the first of 610 refugees out of Cambodia have not arrived at the Thai border as yet, and the French ambassador is expected to meet with Khmer Rouge officials this afternoon to determine what has happened. The refugees were trapped in Phnom Penh when the city fell two weeks ago. Some reports said the vehicles in the refugee convoy may have run out of fuel. Red Cross doctors and French diplomats planned to take the refugees, many reported to be in "deplorable health," the 170 miles to Bangkok in air-conditioned buses.

Navy Ends Evacuation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The evacuation of Vietnamese refugees ended today and Navy rescue ships headed out into the Pacific. Officials, in announcing that at least 18,000 refugees had been evacuated, left open the chance more seaborne stragglers might be picked up off the Vietnam coast. One official said it will still be in the air where the ships will go where the refugees will be unloaded.

Health Care Crisis

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A group of some 200 anesthesiologists allowed their group malpractice insurance to lapse Thursday in protest of higher rates, precipitating a crisis in eight northern California county hospitals. The largest obstetrics unit in San Francisco was shut down, hospital admissions were reduced to just those considered patients necessary, the most critical patients were transferred to unaffected hospitals and layoffs and a four-day work week were cited in some hospitals. Local medical societies set up emergency telephone centers to handle referrals for those in dire need.

Cad But No Rapist

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Thursday said cable television personality Martin Evans, is not a rapist though he may have been a cad. The judge dismissed charges against Evans, saying the woman prosecuted but using the apartment, where the seduction took place, illegally. Evans was found guilty of criminal trespass with sentencing set for May 23. He could be sentenced to a maximum five-year jail term.

Dollar Opens Higher

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The U.S. dollar opened higher on European foreign exchange today. Gold's price advanced to $2,345.00 after closing Thursday at $2,340.00, a 15-week low against the dollar. In Amsterdam, the only other European foreign exchange market besides London open on May Day, the U.S. currency began the day at 2.475 Dutch guilders, up from Thursday's close at 2.455. Elsewhere, the dollar opened at 2.3810 German marks in Frankfurt against Wednesday's 2.370.

Costly Substitute

STORRS (UPI) Firemen at the University of Connecticut have been paid at least $130 in overtime because two fire extinguishers which would have cost $6 each to refill were not refilled, a UConn fiscal officer said. Harry J. Hartley said Thursday he has made available $300 to put in working condition all the extinguishers on campus to avoid any repetition of the costly substitute. The two extinguishers were used April 25 to put out a small science laboratory fire. A chemistry lecturer said he asked to have them replaced by refilled extinguishers but was told they would be replaced by a fireman and a firetruck extinguisher.

Pot Penalty Changed

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—The New Hampshire House voted Thursday to make possession of less than one ounce of marijuana a simple violation rather than a misdemeanor. Possession of less than one ounce of marijuana would be a violation, which under state law calls for a fine of up to $100. Possession of one ounce to one pound of marijuana would be a misdemeanor (maximum fine $1,000, maximum jail term one year) for the first offense, and a felony for subsequent offenses.

Torrington Man Shot to Death

TORRINGTON (UPI)—James Holsworth, 37, was shot to death Thursday night in the trailer park where he lived on Norfolk Road, police said. Mary Ann Holsworth, 28, the victim's wife, was charged with the shooting and held on $100,000 bond for a court appearance today.

Members of the Manchester Junior Women's Club will meet Saturday at 8 a.m. in front of Cavey's Restaurant on 45 E. Center St. where they will board a bus for the club's annual trip to New York City.

A bicycle safety inspection will be sponsored by Cub Scout Pack 538 Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Robertson School parking lot. The inspection is open to the public.

The Manchester Rod & Gun Club will conduct a Cleanup Day Sunday beginning at 8 a.m.

Land Trust Will Hear Talk By Wildlife Photographer

John E. Swedberg, senior wildlife photographer for Massachusetts, is the speaker for the third annual dinner of the Manchester Land Conservation Trust Inc. (MLCT) May 15. Harvey Pastel, chairman of the MLCT program committee, made an announcement. After the dinner at the Manchester Country Club, Swedberg will show his film "Symphony of Life." He made the film on the shores of Quabbin Reservoir in Massachusetts. Swedberg has long been a hiker, hunter and fisherman. Photography gradually became an important part of his outdoor work. His foremost hobby soon became motion picture wildlife photography. His films are the result of 20 years of hunting with a camera. Some are used in the National Geographic TV show, "Winged World."

Consumer Advocate Alleges Deception In Bank Advertising

DARREN (UPI)—The president of the Media & Consumer Foundation says the state banking and consumer protection commissioners should investigate what he terms "deceptive photography of three of the largest banks in Connecticut." Francis Pollock says the Union Trust Co. and its advertising agency, Madison & Feldman, "have chosen to utilize cheap tactics of the fly-by-night."

Democrats Honor Members Tonight

About 100 persons are expected at tonight's annual meeting and reception for Democratic members of all Manchester boards, commissions and agencies. The event will be at the Student Lounge of Manchester Community College. The Democratic Town Committee annually honors "those members of the party who have given so generously of their time to the community." During the meeting portion of the evening, each chairman of a board, commission or agency will express his or her views of accomplishments and problems of the past year, plus ideas and plans for the future.

POLICE REPORT

MANCHESTER Two Manchester youths, 14 and 16, allegedly stole a car Monday at 7:15 p.m. on St. James St. struck the parked car of David B. Stuck of 573 Bush Hill Rd., police said. Police later found the Johnson car on Park St. party on the sidewalk, police said. Court is May 20.

• Elaine Farnsworth, 28, of 11 Wine St., was charged Wednesday with allowing a dog to roam, police said. Court is May 19.

The stolen car of Thomas A. Stecko of 27 Grove St. was eastbound on Tolland Pk. Thursday at 2:25 a.m. when it was driven off the north side of the street where it struck guard rails there, police said.

The driver left the scene. The car, a 1968 Mustang, was towed away. It had been stolen sometime after Stecko parked it in front of his home at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, police said.

A Hackmatack St. home was broken into Thursday evening and the house gone through. Missing are a portable radio and a dozen chocolate chip cookies from a cookie jar.

In Manchester, the car struck a guard rail fence on Spring St. at Highland Park.

Sgt. Patricia Graves and Det. Susan Gibbons were driving on police radio car on W. Middle Tpk. near Main St. when they spotted the stolen car. They were on another case at the time but started following the stolen car.

The car went south on Main St., west on Myrtle St., south on Linden St., west on Locust St., south on Church St. and east on Park St. The women kept police cruisers alert to the car's movements in order to get a block set up. But they were able to stop the car themselves on Park St. just short of Main St. and arrest the boys.

The front end and right side of the car were damaged but it was still operable.

• Albert Falco, 54, of East Hartford was arrested Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the West Side Package Store at 865 Center St. and charged with sale of liquor to a minor, police said.

Two boys, age 14 and 15, bought liquor from Falco, the owner of the store, police said. Court is May 19.

• Dana W. Wolcott, 28, of East Hartford was arrested Thursday at 11:15 p.m. on Congress St. and charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and operating an unregistered motorcycle, police said.

• Mark E. Johnson, 21, of 16 E. Eldridge St. was arrested Wednesday and charged with evading responsibility in con-

MHS Band on Weekend Concert Tour

The Manchester High School Band is accomplishing a "first" today.
It is the first time the group has gone out of the state for an exchange concert.
It might not have been so important if it were not for a newly formed and as yet unnamed group of parents whose prime concern is the welfare of the MHS band.

Concerned with future musicians in the school system, the parents group wants to set up a music bank where instruments can be loaned out at no cost for students' use for learning and enjoyment until the child reaches high school.
Any parents interested in joining the group may attend the next meeting May 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the MHS cafeteria, or call Joseph Tripp, 646-2272, for further information.

Last Ghost Gone for Hank Aaron

NEW YORK (UPI)—For Henry Aaron, the last ghost is gone, and for Caliph Hunter, too, too is the $3 million monkey on his back.
Aaron, who last year supplanted Babe Ruth as baseball's all-time home run king, surpassed the Babe's last great slugging record Thursday by driving in a pair of runs in the Milwaukee Brewers' 17-3 rout of the Detroit Tigers. This is a good ballclub. I'm just glad to be here next to so many good-looking young kids like Robin Yount."

He was released on a $50 non-surety bond for appearance in court in Rockville on May 27.
Raymond Spelman, 20, of 24 Thompson St., Rockville, was charged Thursday night with intoxication in connection with the investigation of a complaint that someone was hanging out on a street sign. He was released on a $50 non-surety bond for appearance in court in Rockville on May 27.

Celtics Await Bullets

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Celtics have been beaten at home and they've been beaten away. In 2-0 in their NBA semifinal series against the Washington Bullets, they've got little time to come up with some way of keeping from being knocked off.

Blind Man Wants Help
Rick Gown reports a Manchester blind man is anxious to start training for the Five Mile Road Race in November and would like someone to run with. Anyone interested could call the Rec Department office, Gene Moriarty, local sportsman and owner-operator of Pocumtoshouse Lake Camps in Alexander, Maine, recently caught and released a 145-pound tarpon off the East Florida coast. He checked the catch three times before setting it loose. Moriarty used a 15-pound test line. The world record for a tarpon is 283 pounds. Veteran stock car racer Ed Flemke of New Britain is driving one of the three Manchester Sand and Gravel-owned cars this season. Jerry Dougie, driving Len Ruben's stock car out of Manchester, topped first place in New York last weekend. Brad Streuter, former Manchester High and Keene State College soccer goalie, is a back-up goalie with the Rhode Island Oceaners in the American Soccer League. Bill Detrick, varsity basketball coach at Central Connecticut State College, for 16 seasons, has been named winner of the Central's Alumni Association's annual Distinguished Service Award. He was a member of the class of 1950. Soccer clinic for coaches and players will be held Sunday at Loomis School in Windsor starting at 2. Pro stars will serve as instructors with Benny Brewster directing the program.

Egan to Caracas
HARTFORD (UPI)—Pete Egan, all-time top scorer at University of Hartford, will play this summer for Caracas of the Venezuelan National Basketball League. Egan, 6-foot-5 All-American, leaves May 25 and expects to be back about mid-August. Hartford coach Gordon McCallough said the Venezuelan league requires no long-term commitments, as do European leagues. Egan has received letters of interest from several American pro teams, he said.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL
said the AL Cy Young Award-winner Hunter, who gave the Yankees some anxious moments in his first few shaky starts this year. "The key to the game was the first inning. If you give Palmer the lead, he's throwing strikes at you."
After bailing himself out of a two-on and one-out situation in the first, Hunter was staked to a two-run homer by Thurman Munson in the fourth and a three-run double by Ron Blomberg in the sixth.
In other major league games Thursday, Houston beat San Diego, 6-3, the Chicago Cubs out of the New York Mets, 5-2, and St. Louis at Pittsburgh was postponed in the National League. In the American League, Texas shaded the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, Boston edged Cleveland, 2-6, and Kansas City outlasted California, 11-0.

Red Sox Hang on to Win Lee .500 Pitcher With .750 Brain
BOSTON (UPI)—Bill Lee maintains he's "a .500 pitcher with a .750 brain." The zany Boston left-hander demonstrated his point Thursday afternoon on a thinking man's play that helped the Red Sox to a 7-5 hang-on win over the Cleveland Indians. The victory was Boston's second in eight games.

Super Attraction Fails at Box Office
NEW YORK (UPI)—Funny thing about the Big Town's new super baseball attraction—most caught on to it yet. New York Yankee says that the games between the Yankees and the Baltimore Orioles, one of the most attractive competitive series in recent New York sports history, are unlikely to be big at the box office.

Many Winning Derby Tickets Go Uncashed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Human nature being what it is, a surprisingly large number of people who come to the Kentucky Derby never cash their winning parimutuel tickets, preferring instead to hold them as souvenirs.

"The Secretariat Derby and last year's 100th Derby were the two biggest souvenir derbies we have had in modern history," Filburn said. "Who knows? The tickets still out could increase in value a great deal as collectors items in years to come. Look at what happened with comic books."

Filburn said that even in the 1972 Derby won by Riva Ridge, an estimated $6,500 worth of winning tickets are still uncashed.

"Our records go all the way back to the 1928 Derby when Reigh Count and they show that year one $5 ticket and one $2 denomination are still out—probably lost, but maybe being held as souvenirs or family heirlooms," he said.

Thoughts Aplenty

Ode to Modern Ball Player

Hamlet in Shakespeare's play had his own soliloquy. There should be one for the modern player.

He ridicules his opponent in victory, looking upon the vanquished with scorn, yet feels it distasteful when the shoe is on the other foot. In defeat, the modern ball player stubbornly refuses to shoulder the blame. He places it squarely on the nearest scapegoat—usually the coach. He is perfect. He is flawless. Or is he?

Ever wonder why a coach packs it in and calls it quits when he is at the zenith of his profession?

UCLA's legendary basketball coach John Wooden retired after winning his 10th NCAA championship, an unheard-of figure previously. In his farewell remarks the bespectacled Wooden said this past season was the most enjoyable one for him coaching. Notice he didn't say most talented.

Why does a coach after completing a 10-8 or 9-9 or even a 3-0 win-loss season say it was the most enjoyable? Probably because he was working with intelligent individuals who followed instruction and more importantly listened without fighting every step of the way.

Many, not all, of today's modern ball players have attention spans which would justify a seven-year-old.

Why does a coach, as Durocher states, Cedeno won't work at his profession. He won't make the sacrifice needed to make it all the way to the top.

MCC Splits Twinbill

Manchester Community College had hoped to clear up the two-team race for the Division III title by splitting a doubleheader against Northwestern Community College, but came out of it right where it was — a half-game behind.

Manchester won the first game, 5-2, in a game that was a close contest. The Cougars took the second game, 5-2, yesterday at Walker Field in Winsted.

High Golfers Cop Matches

Chalking up two victories yesterday in CCTL play at the Manchester Country Club was Coach Tom Kelley's Manchester High squad.

The home team blanked Windham High of Williamfield, 5-0, and turned back Enfield High, 4-1. The overall record is 4-2, 3-1 in the league.

Medallist ladies went to Duffy Leone of Manchester with a four over par 76. Jim Wigen and Mike Riggott each carried 32 and Kurt Hasselt added an 87 round for a commendable team score of 327.

Education Today: Teaching Problem Solving

PATRICIA McCORMACK, UPI Education Editor, in the typical high school, students working on projects together normally select their partners. They may work well together—too well. And therein lies a problem.

"They don't learn much about peers who don't exactly suit them," Robert G. Heyer said in an interview.

The Minneapolis, Minn., tutor and UPI's Teacher of the Year has a better idea.

And he puts it to work in the ninth-grade physical sciences course he runs at Johanna Junior High in the Mounds View School District in St. Paul.

Heyer said the course actually is a series of problem-solving situations. At the start of the school year he assigns each student a number.

The partners and team members are selected by the number system.

"Every lab period—where the problem-solving goes on—a each student moves up to a new number," he said.

"It's a beautiful system. You have shy boys who sometimes have to work with bolder girls. You have low reading ability students who sometimes must do a lab report with a fast reader.

"The students, not all being matched perfectly, get insight into others' problems, strengths and weaknesses. They help one another—and all the while they're learning about how to get along with all kinds of people—which is one of life's vital skills."

The 1975 symbol of thousands of outstanding teachers in the nation's schools, Heyer is described as a teacher who "relates to all types of students, including those turned off by school."

The annual search is sponsored by the Council of Chief State School Officers, the Encyclopaedia Britannica companies and the Ladies' Home Journal.

"The really best teacher probably never will be the teacher of the year," Heyer said.

"That is because most selection programs currently are based on a lot of outside the classroom activity, too."

"The marks of the best teacher—with the emphasis on best—would be two.

"One—a teacher who puts the classroom instruction ahead of everything else.

"Two—a teacher who is concerned that each student find out and develop his abilities and talents.

"There are many, many teachers like that."

Heyer figures the nation is getting over the notion that one is a failure unless he goes to college.

"We've been in a bind about that," he said. "And the ones who didn't go to college had this no-good feeling.

"We're now working toward a concept that no matter what job—a profession or a blue collar vocation—the important thing is that a person be doing something that is fulfilling for them."

Unless that is done, according to Heyer, "we destroy their self-esteem and do very bad things to individuals."

"We need to convince every young adult that he has something to offer," Heyer said.

"In building this self-esteem of the unsolved problems is how to glamorize jobs that don't require a college education."

Chamber Completes Spring Memorial Trees Plantings

Spring planting of memorial trees was completed this week by the Chamber of Commerce Environment & Beautification Committee.

This spring's memorial tree event represents the 19th semi-annual planting since the program began in October 1965, and 388 trees have been planted at 48 locations.

Dr. Stephen G. Romeo, committee chairman, said 21 Kwanzan cherry trees, as part of the program's flowering tree trail concept, were planted at several locations along Center St., Center Park, the parklet at Center and Cooper Sts., the parklet at McKee and Center Sts., and the expanse at Center St. and W. Middle Tpke. in front of Howell Cheney Tech.

The flowering tree trail was developed in 1972 with the objective of creating plantings of various flowering trees along all major thoroughfares of the town.

Donations of $5 or more should be sent to the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce at 257 E. Center St. Checks should be made payable to the Memorial Tree Program.

The name of the donor and the name of the person memorialized should be noted.

Tree plantings and donors are acknowledged in The Herald. Donors are listed first and the person memorialized is in parenthesis.

Cut in School Budget Focus at Vernon Hearing

BARBARA RICHMOND
A public hearing last night on a proposed $14 million budget, encompassing the Board of Education and general town budget, focused mainly on a requested $450,000 cut from the education side.

The hearing was called for 7:30 p.m., the time it was to start, there was standing room only in that room so the meeting was moved to the Sykes School Auditorium.

People coming into the hearing were handed flyers put out by the Vernon Taxpayers Bureau Inc. which calls for more cuts in the proposed budget.

"We need a complete change in Vernon government officials now. Vote to reduce our tax mill rate to 45 mills. The maintainers can do it easily. If there is a recess do not go home that is when they put the budget over and take your tax money," this was a footnote on the flyer.

It urged the public to protest taxes, cautioning that higher taxes add to the inflationary spiral. It said "A payout for teachers is better than layoffs" construction of the high school addition was not needed and warned, "Like a plague your government is exploding."

During the hearing the council came under fire for the requested $450,000 cut from education budget and when the hearing opened Councilman James McCarthy caused some uproar when he asked that persons who speak indicate if they are identified with the school board in any way.

To this came shouts of "Why We're citizens too." Mayor Frank McCoy then informed those present that this was just a request and no one had to honor it if they didn't wish to.

William Graver questioned the rationale of the council's request. He said the education budget of $9,850,000 represents a 10 per cent increase. "And we are all aware that inflation is running higher than that, so that seems to be justified."

Mayor McCoy explained that the town's general budget is up about 7.7 per cent. He said some $700,000 of this is interest payments, mostly for school buildings, and that's part of the rationale.

One woman reminded the council that Vernon raises 103 of 109 towns in per pupil cost. She said Vernon spends $992 and the state average is $1,147. "I'd be willing to pay a private tutor to maintain the quality of education or to raise it rather than have it lowered," she said.

Frank Cornell had a different opinion on this, noting, "The expenditure on education and the value of it doesn't have correlation."

Marie Herbst, a taxpayer and former member of the school board, said she opposed the cut in the education budget noting she felt, "It was very arbitrarily taken."

"Schools are no longer educational institutions, they are social institutions," she was referring to questions asked as to why a motorcycle course was included in the budget. "If that course will save one like then it's worth it, just like the speech and drama course," she said, "I consider the $450,000 cut is a direct slap at salary negotiations."

"I urge all of you to look very carefully at this budget, I'm not opposed to cuts but I am opposed to cuts done in just this manner," she said.

William Hoile, chairman of the school board, then stepped into the education picture. He said that the school board's insight into the education budget, "which seems to be the focal point of this meeting."

He explained that the school board's insight into the education budget with no increase in programs. He said while we are $100 in per pupil cost, we are not $100 in the quality of education we are giving the children.

With charts he explained to the audience just where the education money goes and the 7.2 per cent for salaries was the largest cut of the "big Next was purchased services at 8.8 per cent; supplies and materials, 6.3 per cent; employee benefits, 4.4 per cent; capitol outlay, 1.4 per cent and other objects, 3 per cent.

The teachers do not affect us...I'm speaking as a citizen and I'd rather see taxes increase to help education. The $450,000 cut is not a realistic figure, she said.

Another woman said she failed to see where a 10 per cent increase in the budget would give the children a better education.

Superintendent Dr. Raymond Ramsdell has gone through the budget with an eye toward coming up with the requested cut

House Approves Voters' Amendment

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut House of Representatives has approved two proposals for amendments to the state constitution that would ease voter registration.

The Senate Thursday killed a bill to require service stations to post prices on large signs and allow voters to register by mail.

The constitution now bans voter registration by mail with the exception of members of the U.S. Merchant Marine, religious groups and federal employees and their dependents.

Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer said the amendments were needed to bring Connecticut's voter regulations in line with existing federal laws and regulations expected to be approved soon.

The proposal on the residency and literacy requirements was approved by a vote of 179 to 109.

Mrs. Schaffer said the amendment allowing more widespread registration by mail was needed to conform state laws to legislation that would allow any person to register by mail, expected to be approved by Congress.

Sen. George Gunn, R-Stratford, an opponent of the bill requiring large gasoline price signs, said they were needed to determine the price of gasoline.

Opponents charged the large signs would jeopardize federal highway funding and would do nothing for the consumer.

In other action, the House gave initial approval to bills: Banning discrimination against persons who refuse to participate in abortions on moral grounds, but only when they have filed a prior written notice that they would object to abortions.

Allowing hitchhiking on all Connecticut roads with the exception of limited access highways such as the Connecticut Turnpike and the parkways.

Lifting bans on dredging and dumping on the harbors of New Haven, Stamford, Bridgeport and Norwalk, and leaving it up to the state Department of Environmental Protection to regulate such activity.

Giving workers who complain of unfair labor practices the right to appeal to the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities even after labor mediators have entered the cases.

Giving commercial banks the same 40-year savings ban as the same 40-year mortgages for 90 per cent of the worth of the real estate involved.

Community College Offers Reduced Summer Schedule

Manchester Community College (MCC) will offer a reduced summer session of 44 credit and 11 non-credit courses this summer. The reduction is the result of a decision by the Board of Trustees of Community College of Connecticut.

The MCC summer session will run June 23 to Aug. 1, with classes held Monday through Thursday. Basic and advanced courses will be available to all. Students may register for the summer session by mail or in person.

Anyone wishing the summer catalogue or further information may call the community services division at 646-2137, or the summer office at 646-4900, ext. 265.

GARDENING

By FRANK ATWOOD

One of the most reliable and loveliest of our early spring-flowering bulbs is the scilla. The flowers are a brilliant blue and, with proper conditions, flowers continue to appear in April year after year. Scillas drop to the soil after the flowers have faded and the plants multiply and spread.

Conditions for the scillas seem to be ideal at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Smith on Hartford Rd. since a bed of scillas has been blooming there each spring for many years. It must be a good 20 feet across. The flowers were there when the Smiths became the owners of the home 21 years ago and were started by the Charles Cheney family who lived here.

Coming ahead of them in the spring are snowdrops, and growing later than the scillas are bloodroot, Jack-in-the-pulpit, white trillium, lily-of-the-valley and ferns. Mrs. Smith will follow instructions that came with the bulb for putting the plant outdoors for the summer, with the pot sunk in the garden, when it should grow some fine, flat, sword-like leaves and store up energy for another winter.

Brought into the house before cold weather and kept without water for a time, the bulb should flower again next year.

Easter Lilies
The Easter lily is another plant that sometimes lives and it is planted in the garden with the hope that it will grow again. It often does. The early spring scilla was ready to set out seedling plants as soon as Memorial Day is past. The members have learned from experience that people allowing Memorial Day exercises at this location can hardly avoid trampling the flowers if they are set earlier. The flower bed will be the same size and oval shape as in other summers. Tall white clematis will stand in the center with white and blue petunias in the next row. The varieties will be White Paleface and Blue Mercury.

Next will come First Lady hybrid marigolds, a clear light yellow, the blue Salvia and then Diamond Jubilee yellow marigolds.

The soil will be prepared by the Department of Parks and Recreation. The garden club members will do the planting and the weeding on a schedule which gives all volunteers a chance to work.

Foreign News Commentary:

A New Asian Testing Ground

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

South Korea may be the next testing ground for U.S. determination in Asia.

Militarily the test could come in South Korea itself where the United States still maintains 28,000 troops nearly 22 years after signing of the Korean armistice. North Korea President Kim Il Sung has hinted at a possible South Korean President Park Chung Hee has said he expects it.

Diplomatically, the test could come in the United Nations where those flag the U.S. troops in South Korea are maintained.

Recent resolutions introduced into the United Nations General Assembly last year had indicative results. This year presents a different picture, with a Communist victory in Cambodia, new leftist governments in Africa and a specifically as "United Nations bases."

French diplomats in Asia are selling Paris they take seriously a warning issued by Kim Il Sung during a recent visit to Peking that the time has come for the Americans to depart from Asia and for Pyongyang to reunify the two parts of Korea.

That the South Koreans are taking it seriously is demonstrated by Park's defiant assertion that his forces are prepared to resist any aggression from the north and by reports from Seoul that both Park and his political opposition are seeking ways to bolster national security in the wake of the American defeat in Indochina.

It is considered possible that, despite bitter differences arising from Park's iron rule of South Korea, heart-to-heart talks soon may take place between him and opposition leader Kim Yong-Sam.

Neither side bothers to conceal their alarm over events in Indochina.

Opinions differ on the reasons for Kim Il Sung's visit to Peking, his first time out of North Korea in more than a dozen years.

A communique issued at the end of his visit supported the idea that he was in the student parking lot of Brookfield St. Students are reminded to enter the building through the entrance to the cafeteria lobby adjacent to the student parking lot.

Hebron Drops Curbs on Agriculture

Anne Dallaire Correspondent 228-3267

The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) announced at its Public Hearing Wednesday night that RI and RI3 districts will stay residential agriculture.

Residents Monday night had opposed the new proposed regulation, saying that Hebron is mainly an agriculture town and felt that the proposed regulations would affect the characteristics of Hebron that attracted most of the PZC members on the "stringent regulations" they set forth to adopt regarding the housing of livestock.

The new regulations call for three-acre minimum parcel for each horse with one additional acre added for each new horse. The teachers do not affect us...I'm speaking as a citizen and I'd rather see taxes increase to help education. The $450,000 cut is not a realistic figure, she said.

Another woman said she failed to see where a 10 per cent increase in the budget would give the children a better education.

State Police Head Says No One Sought Data

BOLTON
Donna Holland Correspondent 646-4375

LI. John Watson, of the State Police Department, said that as commanding officer of Troop K only he has the authority at this level to release specific information on crime in Bolton.

LI. Watson said there have been no requests made to him for any criminal statistics.

The statements were in a letter to Michael O'Connor, chairman of the police study committee.

At a public hearing in April when police protection was being discussed O'Connor said he visited the Colchester barracks where he was told he could not see any records pertaining to Bolton as they are not open to private citizens.

LI. Watson read the published reports of the hearing and responded to O'Connor by a letter which he has a copy of the letter which they read at their last meeting.

LI. Watson said, "May I inform you that I would be more than happy to provide any information that is available, requested by the chief executive officer of the town." The selection took no action on the letter.

Richard Morra, first selectman, said no one asked him to get the information.

In October Mrs. Virginia Butterfield attended a selectmen's meeting and asked the selectmen to request from the State Department of Health, Tony Visconti of West St., asked if the regulations will be in the hands of the PZC or will the taxpayers get to vote on the proposed regulation? Visconti was told that the commission had the final say on the regulations.

Mastrandrea said he hopes citizens will feel free to submit any of their ideas to the commission members and that the commission will not adopt the regulations until they have studied them thoroughly.

Visconti said "It's a shame more residents don't come to these hearings. It was noted that there were a total of 17 residents of which five were commission members, four elected officials, and three were newsmen.

The Planning and Zoning Commission will be reviewing the proposed regulation at a later date.

Gregory Appears at ECHS Sponsored by MCC Senate

By DOUG BEVINS
Radical comedian Dick Gregory lambasted politicians, the wealthy, the CIA and the FBI in a lengthy "performance" at East Catholic High School Thursday night, highlighted by his allegations that the CIA was involved in the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Gregory's appearance, sponsored by the Student Senate and Cultural Program Committee of Manchester Community College, lasted well over two hours and drew an audience of about 200.

Little escaped from Gregory's banter: His targets included not only CIA and FBI, but also school busing, the war on crime, interstate highways, sugar prices, the gasoline shortage and energy crisis, the American Revolution Bicentennial, and the press.

Gregory's major theme throughout the evening appeared to be an alleged top-level conspiracy to manipulate the American people. The most dramatic parts of his talk involved charges that government agents were responsible for the Kennedy assassination, the Patty Hearst kidnaping, and shooting of Gov. Wallace, and a variety of other incidents.

Regarding the Kennedy assassination, Gregory claimed that it was impossible for Lee

Harvey Oswald to have acted alone in November 1963 in Dallas. He said evidence in the famous Zapruder film—an amateur movie of the assassination—clearly contradicts findings of the Warren Commission.

Displaying photographs he said had been suppressed by the government, Gregory charged that such CIA notables as E.

Howard Hunt were in Dallas when Kennedy was assassinated. He said the Zapruder film shows that several shots were fired at Kennedy from various locations, not just the one shot allegedly fired by Oswald.

Gregory claimed that Kennedy was killed because he was trying to break up the CIA. He said the truth will eventually come out, but it will hurt a lot of people, including the Kennedy family.

Other Gregory comments included: On the result of Watergate—"Now we have both a president and vice president that weren't elected by the people. If that happened anywhere else in the world it would have been called a coup."

On Vietnam—"The only reason we're not still in Vietnam is that Watergate sent Nixon back to San Clemente."

On crime—"The only way we're going to stop crime is start at the top, with the Mafia, and work down."

On the press—"The news media have been manipulated. The Washington Post didn't expose Watergate because of the story, but because it hated Nixon."

Gregory predicted a worldwide food crisis within the next year, calling hunger the biggest problem in the country.

Jay Stager, member of the conservation commission, walks the Lewie Farm where "victory gardens" may grow vegetables this summer. He will take interested townspeople on the same walk late Sunday afternoon. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Stager Leads Sunday Tour Of Free Garden Plots Site

By MAL BARLOW

A water pump, a backhoe, and many willing workers are all that is needed to create free garden plots on a town-owned farm, said Jay R. Stager, member of the Manchester Conservation Commission.

The commission raised the question of "victory gardens" on town land last fall. Such garden plots helped Manchester people eat better for less during World War II.

Public Works Director Jay Giles offered the former Frederick Lewie farm of 33 acres off Finley St. for the gardens. Lewie was a long-time employe and assistant superintendent of the Town Highway Department. He died at age 69 in 1963, Giles said.

Lewie's will said the town could use the land for recreation, parks, and watershed for the Porter and Howard Reservoirs. Garden plots like these are okay, he said.

The town has done nothing with the land except raze an old home and a barn which were on the site where it touches on E. Middle Tpke.

A well on the site would need a pump in order to supply the garden plots, Stager said. A hand pump might do the job if there are not too many plots taken, he thought.

But a motor driven pump is more likely and may prove an expensive obstacle to getting the gardens started, he said.

How to pay for the motor is another problem. Both Giles and Stager said they do not want to go to the Board of Directors with a large request for funds at this time.

If that problem can be solved, many of the small trees and brush growing on the flat sections of the farm will have to be pulled up with a backhoe, Stager said. Then the land can be plowed.

After that, all that will be needed are willing farmers, he said. All interested people are asked to meet with Stager Sunday at 4 p.m. in the parking lot behind the Municipal Building.

At the meeting, those attending will consider the obstacles and determine if they can be overcome, Stager said.

A tour of the farm will also be made after the meeting starts, he said.

Giles promised to "do whatever we can" to help the farmers get started. He noted the town's help may be limited due to busy spring work schedules for his different departments and a lack of loose funds.

Giles guessed that as much as two acres could be set up on the farm near the well. Much more land is available if there is interest.

Much of the farm cannot easily be turned back to farm use due to the tree growth, he said. The farm is the only feasible site for the garden plots owned by the town, Giles said.

Stager noted "victory gardens" supplied townspeople with vegetables during World War II. Several pieces of town land were used then including what is now Manchester High School's Memorial Field.

Boston plowed Fenway Park this spring setting up 400 plots. They are all taken, he said.

South Windsor has run a popular garden plot program.

Manchester Community College set up a summer school program that provides both free land space near the soccer field on the campus and basic instruction, said Stager, a member of the MCC faculty.

If the plots on the Lewie farm are not enough for demand,

Stager said they will be offered on a first come, first serve basis.

DOT To Resume I84 Link Work

The state Department of Transportation (DOT) is asking several consulting firms to submit proposals to complete a legally mandated Environmental Impact Statement on the so-called Interstate 84 connector in Manchester and East Hartford.

Transportation Commissioner Samuel Kanell said the new method of selecting an environmental consultant is being used to finish the environmental study which was under way but canceled when he took office.

The I-84 collector, on the drawing boards for a decade and said to be at least another five years away from completion, would link the Manchester segment of I-84 at Spencer St. to the Wilbur Cross Highway (I-86) at Simmons Rd. in East Hartford.

A DOT spokesman said work on the first environmental study was stopped when Kanell assumed his post earlier this year. The intent was to finish the study with DOT resources, the spokesman said, but it was determined that the department should not do it.

Kanell also announced that the new method of seeking proposals is being used for another environmental impact report—on the proposed Interstate 291 from Rocky Hill to Farmington.

Gardner Issue Creating MCC Campus Controversy

By DOUG BEVINS

Alleged "dismissal" of a Manchester Community College English lecturer by the college administration is creating controversy on campus and has provoked a student and faculty drive to reinstate the lecturer.

The controversy revolves around lecturer James W. Gardner Jr. of Manchester, whose annual contract hasn't been renewed. No reason has been given by the MCC administration for its decision, and Gardner is seeking to resolve the issue through several channels.

Gardner, who has taught at the college since 1969, said he was verbally notified April 16 that his career at MCC would end with the completion of the current spring semester. He said he never received written notice and has never been told the reasons for the decision.

College President Ronald Denison, who apparently made the decision, said, "There's a difference of opinion on an administrative decision." Denison declined to discuss the reasoning behind the decision.

"He wasn't fired," Denison said. "His contract was a one-shot deal, for September to June, and it carried no commitments beyond June."

Gardner, whose lecturer contract has been renewed annually since he joined the MCC staff, maintained that there was an understanding he would be teaching this summer and fall at the college. He said there were no indications he wouldn't be rehired until he was told April 16.

The main issue in the case—which has prompted a student-led rally Monday at 11 a.m.—appears to be the timing of the notice to Gardner and the lack of written reasons for the action.

Gardner's colleagues in MCC's Division of Humanities and Communication Arts say Gardner faces a job dilemma because he was informed so late in the current semester.

Gardner said he is entitled to a 12-month notice of dismissal and the reasons for dismissal because he is classified as a special appointee, having been a lecturer longer than the customary two-year period for lecturers.

Administrators disagree, maintaining that Gardner is a lecturer and lecturers, who don't accrue tenure, don't have to be notified of reasons for dismissal.

The administration apparently isn't required to give reasons for dismissal of lecturers, but Gardner has retained an attorney to file a grievance and request written reasons for the action.

Gardner's attorney, Robert Hirtle of Hartford, also intends to present Gardner's case to the state Board of Trustees of Regional Community Colleges Monday night.

Gardner said he hopes the matter can be resolved through normal college channels, but added he is prepared to go to court if necessary.

"I'm very hopeful this can be resolved soon, before the summer session," Gardner said. "The reputation of the college for fair play and openness is at stake."

The student and faculty support growing for Gardner includes the student-sponsored rally Monday and the establishment of a legal defense fund for Gardner by his colleagues in the humanities division.

A resolution to support Gardner is reportedly being prepared for consideration by the entire college faculty.

A news article and editorial in this week's edition of the college's student newspaper, the New College Press, questioned the administration's decision on Gardner and criticized the system of lecturers' contracts.

Before coming to MCC, Gardner taught at Trinity College, the University of North Carolina, and the University of the Pacific. He holds a B.A. degree from Emory University and an M.A. degree from the University of North Carolina, and expects to receive his doctorate this year from the University of North Carolina.

Under the will of the late Grace Robertson, four funds were set up: Two to provide aid to a boy and a girl for continuing in high school, and two to provide financial assistance to a boy and a girl attending college.

The Eaton-Reed Scholarship is available to any senior or graduate of MHS who is furthering his/her education. This scholarship was established by the late Edith Eaton, a long-time resident of Manchester and teacher in the local school system.

Applications for these scholarships are available in the guidance office. Completed applications must be returned to the guidance office by June 15. Scholarship recipients will be chosen before July 1.

Stassen Wins INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Harold Stassen, the perennial losing candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, has won a victory in court.

It was disclosed Thursday that Stassen won dismissal this week of a speeding ticket. Stassen was arrested six months ago for allegedly doing 82 miles an hour on an interstate highway.
