Friends of Children Launches Sale to Aid Vietnam Orphans

By ALICE EVANS

The four orphanages operated in Saigon by Rosemary Taylor were empty when the Communists took over the city Wednesday.

The Vietnamese children from the orphanages were on the last baby-lift plane which left Saigon last weekend.

That is what Mrs. Lois Barnes of 64 Kenneth Dr., Vernon, area representative for Friends of Children, said. For the past 18 months, she has been working daily to collect supplies and funds for the sick and orphaned children in the four orphanages and an intensive care unit in Saigon operated by Miss Taylor.

"All the children are out, but Rosemary and the staff are still there as far as we know. We all are very concerned. We also don't know what has happened to the handicapped and retarded children in one of the orphanages. They were to be evacuated to Australia, but with the civilian mail from Saigon coming to a stop, we just don't know," Mrs. Barnes said.

Mrs. Barnes feels there is some confusion in the mind of the general public about the adoption of the Vietnamese orphans. "The fact is that nearly all the children who have been evacuated were assigned to families who have been waiting a long time for them," she said. "Adoption of a child from overseas is a long and expensive procedure," Mrs.

Barnes said. This is something she and her husband Stanley learned when they wanted to adopt a Vietnamese child so that it could have "a greater chance for the future in our country," but were unable to find a way to process the request. "Every time, we wrote an agency, we got a form letter back," she said.

Through a friend, they learned of the Open Door Society and after a year-and-a-half of waiting, became the proud parents of Stephen, a little boy from Korea. Two years ago May 31, the couple also has two daughters, Becky, 7, and Cindy, 6.

Mrs. Barnes was on hand to assist in caring for the 42 Vietnamese orphans who recently were housed in Stamford before continuing to their new homes in Germany and France.

The children ranged in age from one month to one year and included survivors of the Air Force baby-lift plane that crashed near Saigon April 4, Mrs. Barnes said.

"It was a deeply moving experience for me. Having the unique opportunity to hold, to cuddle and to love these precious little children, the victims of war, has had a profound effect on me," she said.

"In general, although there was evidence of the lack of proper nutrition and some skin problems, the children were content and seemed to enjoy the tender loving care given by the volunteers," she said.

Mrs. Barnes along with Mrs. Heather

Dunlap of 318 Redwood Dr. and Mrs. Jean Scott of Cross St. has been showing slides to friends and organizations and to people having baby showers for the Vietnamese orphans in an effort to raise funds and supplies for the orphanages, and later, for the evacuation of these children.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church recently donated $2,500 to Friends of Children, Inc., for the children in Rosemary Taylor's orphanages after seeing one of Mrs. Barnes' presentations.

Friends of Children, a non-profit organization based in Darien, was formed to promote the well-being of orphaned, abandoned, sick, injured, refugee and otherwise needy children of Vietnam. It has helped support the children in Miss Taylor's four orphanages and intensive care center in Saigon, and later, to provide funds for the evacuation and re-location of these children, Mrs. Barnes said.

"We still urgently need funds to pay for the expenses incurred during the evacuation and re-location of the orphans," Mrs. Barnes said.

To raise these funds, the organization is having a sale of note paper. The notepaper on pale blue quality stock can be ordered from Mrs. Barnes. The drawing on the paper depicts a Vietnamese child reaching out with a bouquet of flowers. There are 12 notes with matching envelopes available for $1.75 plus a mailing charge of 75 cents a package.

Cong Demands Return Of Ships and Aircraft

By United Press International
The Viet Cong rulers of South Vietnam have demanded that nations harboring Vietnamese refugees return aircraft and ships in which they fled.

The move appeared particularly aimed at Thailand and threatened a crisis in already strained U.S.-Thai relations.

Thousands of Vietnamese arrived in Thailand aboard 129 U.S.-made warplanes and other aircraft following the fall of Saigon to the Communists earlier this week.

The United States claims ownership of the planes on the basis of aid clauses prohibiting transfer of military equipment to other governments.

In repeated broadcasts Friday, The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese demanded immediate return of the planes, ships, and "dozens of tons of gold and other property."

North Vietnam's official Vietnam News agency, in a broadcast on Hanoi Radio, accused the United States of trying to "steal" the aircraft.

The broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, said

"the revolutionary government has declared that it reserves for itself the right to recover this property."

The Thai government, sensitive about relations with its new Communist neighbor, seemed unable to decide who owned the planes. Thai officials first said they would return the aircraft to the Viet Cong but later said they may belong to the United States.

Thailand, which accused the United States of failing to fulfill its obligations in Indochina, recently announced there would be a massive withdrawal of U.S. forces from the country. Thailand is the last country in the area where the U.S. maintains troops and air bases.

Normal communications with Saigon were out for the fourth straight day but the French government said in Paris its Saigon Embassy reported foreign residents are in good health and are being well treated.

The embassy, which communicates via radio transmitters, said the situation in Saigon was returning to normal.

In Hong Kong today, the New China

News Agency reported that Prince Norodom Sihanouk, titular head of Cambodia's new Khmer Rouge government, sent Viet Cong leaders a message from Peking Wednesday congratulating them on their victory.

NCNA, quoting the Khmer Rouge news agency, reported Sihanouk said Cambodia would cooperate in reunifying Vietnam. But the message did not say what form the cooperation would take, the agency said.

Viet Cong broadcasts reported a rapid series of moves designed to reorganize South Vietnam into a full-fledged Communist state.

Saigon radio said 3,000 workers seized the headquarters of the Confederation of Labor, the umbrella organization for South Vietnam's unions. The broadcast said the confederation would be replaced by a "liberation trade union."

The new regime has already nationalized all farms, factories and businesses in the country and ordered the suspension of all published material not authorized by the new government.

Ford Says Refugee Funds Won't Last

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Ford administration says it is rapidly running out of money to finance the care and resettlement of South Vietnamese refugees.

State Department spokesman Robert Funseth said Friday the administration urgently needs the $327 million requested of Congress by President Ford for refugee relief.

Funseth said that so far 117,500 refugees, about 7,000 of them Americans, are known to have been evacuated by the U.S. air and sea lift or fled on their own.

He said another 13,000 South Vietnamese, many of them students, were in the United States when Saigon fell and must be taken care of.

Funseth said the United States will keep its doors open to any more Vietnamese refugees who turn up.

President Ford authorized immigration officials to admit to the United States some 30,000 refugees at sea in an armada of fishing boats and other Vietnamese vessels. They are headed for the American Naval Base at Subic Bay in the Philippines.

Funseth said that the administration very much regretted the refusal of the House Thursday to appropriate the $327,000 requested by the President for refugee assistance.

The House debate indicated the bill was rejected mainly because it still included Ford's requested authority to use military forces in the now-completed evacuation of refugees from Saigon. Many members felt that authority was no longer needed and might erode other laws limiting presidential war powers.

Scatter Refugees
CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (UPI) — Refugees from Southeast Asia will be scattered around the country to avoid creation of a large colony in one place and to spread the impact on local economies. State Department officials said Friday.

None will be relocated to areas of the highest unemployment, they said.

The policy will be to avoid creation of a Vietnamese colony like the "Little Havana" of 350,000 Cuban exiles that formed in Miami, said Ambassador L. Dean Brown, head of the relocation task force.

Instead, he said, the government will try to duplicate its experience with the 200,000 refugees from the 1956 Hungarian revolt, who were gradually spread throughout the country, creating no recognizable economic impact.

"Obviously, we are not going to send the Vietnamese refugees to areas of high unemployment," said Paul Hare, an aide to Brown. "I believe only one in five of them will have to enter the job market. The remainder will be dependents."

Hardline Protestants Winning Ulster Votes

BELFAST (UPI) — A Protestant coalition, pledged to keep Roman Catholics out of the government, surged far ahead of moderates today in elections for a constitutional assembly to map Northern Ireland's future.

With nearly half the results in, the hardline Protestant coalition ran more than 2-1 ahead of a mixed opposition of Catholics and middle of the road groups.

Computers projected the United Unionist Coalition would emerge with a majority of 14 in the 78-seat assembly charged with drawing up formula for a government in which Catholics and Protestants share power.

Authorities said the final results of Thursday's balloting were expected today. It was the sixth election in 2 1/2 years in the British-run province where Protestants outnumber Catholics about 2-1.

Catholic leader Gerry Fitt, leader of the Social Democratic and Labor Party, predicted continued strife if the Protestant coalition emerges with a majority.

Coalition leader William Craig, of the Vanguard party, greeted the figures by saying, "Power sharing with the Catholics is just not on our agenda."

More than 1,000 persons have died in six years of political and religious strife involving Protestants and Catholics, British troops and local security guards.

Britain took over direct control of the province last year when Protestant militants broke a first attempt at power-sharing.

Moderate Catholics charged the provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army intimidated their voters to keep them away from the polls.

The IRA, which has called a cease-fire in its war to overthrow the British in Northern Ireland, urged a boycott of the election, calling it a "useless exercise in an artificial state controlled by an artificial majority."

Two gunmen Friday shot and fatally wounded a Protestant bus company official in Belfast. Police said the gunman asked for the victim by name at his bus depot, forced him to lie down and shot him several times.

Greenspan Sees End to Recession, Only Slight Gain in Employment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisors said Friday there is evidence that the recession is coming to an end.

But Greenspan predicted that unemployment would improve only very slightly by the end of the year, and he said that inflation probably soon will rise to a 6 to 7 per cent rate rather than the rate of less than 4 per cent in March.

Greenspan's upbeat but cautious predictions were given to the House-Senate Economic Committee.

Greenspan was castigated by committee chairman Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and others for the administration's opposition to a number of programs to stimulate the economy. But Greenspan cautioned that the "risks of reigniting inflationary pressures" remains too great from further increases in the federal deficit.

The Gross National Product — the output of all goods and services in this country — may be slightly lower in April than March, Greenspan said, but should pick up later in the year.

While avoiding a hard prediction, Greenspan said he felt "comfortable" in saying that the annual GNP growth rate should be 7 per cent by the end of the year.

"There are some distinctly hopeful indications to be found in recent statistics," he said. "The evidence suggests that the recession is coming to an end — and pretty much on the schedule we suggested in the Economic Report."

"The evidence is still tentative, but it tends to support the view that the economy will stabilize to a very large degree during the second quarter of this year."

Greenspan said signs of recovery were not limited to the United States. "We are now beginning to see similar evidence in Japan and Germany," he said.

Greenspan said the bottoming out of the "collapse of late 1974" came about "sooner and more decisively than we had any reason to expect." Consumer spending rose in the first quarter of the year and the recent tax reduction should reinforce the recovery in retail sales later this spring and summer, he said.

As for unemployment — which reached 8.9 per cent of the work force in April — Greenspan said there would be little or no improvement through "the latter part of 1975 and into 1976," and that the rate would be only "a shade under" the present rate by the end of the year.

Maine Picks Honeybee, Pays Respect to Vole

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Honeybees and yellow-nosed voles were discussed Friday in the Maine Senate.

The chamber passed a bill designating the honeybee as Maine's official insect. A vole resolution took more of the Senate's time.

Sen. Neal Corson, R-Madison, introduced a joint resolution requesting the Department of Inland Fisheries and Game to place "no less than three, nor no more than six, signs along the chairlift at Sugarloaf Mountain, these signs to read 'Warning, Vole Crossing,' and to be of sufficient size to be clearly visible to persons utilizing the chairlift."

According to the Fish and Game Department, he said, Sugarloaf Mountain is one of three known locations in Maine where the yellow-nosed vole lives and the rodent is on the department's unofficial list of potentially endangered wildlife.

Amid great applause, the Senate passed the resolution and sent it to the House. Corson explained he introduced the measure because of the "sublime inanity" of the environmental protection and regulation panel for protecting the vole when it granted a development permit to a ski area in March.

The vole, closely related to the lemming and the muskrat, resembles a stocky field mouse.

Corson said the Maine Land Use Regulation Commission issued a permit to the Sugarloaf Corp. for a double chairlift and related ski access trails on condition the resort area "maintain, protect, or improve in perpetuity the alpine habitat of the yellow-nosed vole (microtus chrotorrhinus)."

Corson said when he first saw a copy of the permit he thought it was a joke. He said LURC felt the chairlift "could have a potentially severe effect on local wildlife populations."

Corson said if the department is so concerned about the vole it ought to post the cautionary signs.

"LURC has often demonstrated its ability to make a mountain out of a molehill," Corson said.

"The Land Use Regulation Commission has finally succeeded in making a molehill out of a mountain," he said.

Gang Fight Erupts, Several Youths Hurt

A fight between about 200 Manchester and East Hartford youths erupted Friday night at the parking lots of McDonald's restaurant and Marshall's clothing store off W. Center St., police said.

Police refused to give more than sketchy details of the fight due to intensive investigations now under way.

Police received a call at 11:25 p.m. that a large fight was in progress at McDonald's.

When five officers and a sergeant arrived, they found about 200 youths about high school age fighting each other. Sixty or more were armed with baseball bats and rolled belts.

They had smashed in the windshields on many cars.

Police said they saw that several youths were injured. But they were taken away with friends as the officers broke up the fight.

McDonald's closed early, police said.

No arrests were made at the scene. Early reports indicate it may have started in an East Hartford restaurant.

Orthodox Easter Due This Sunday

DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer
For some six million Americans and Canadians, Easter is yet to come.

That is because Orthodox Christians still compute the date for Easter on the basis of the Julian calendar, in use at the time of the first Ecumenical Council at Nicea in 325 A.D.

For Orthodox Christians, Easter this year will be Sunday, May 4.

Lent, or the Great Lent, as the Orthodox say, began on Monday, March 17.

That first day of Lent is called "Kathari Defensio" — the Monday of cleansing and purification.

The faithful of the church, according to Orthodox officials, are required on that Monday to begin a moral and spiritual "catharsis or purification."

WINGS OF EVENING

Cliff Simpson
By CLIFF SIMPSON

Up in Vermont a new minister arrived in town. After a Sunday or two he decided to visit the church school. He talked to each class, asking questions to find out what they were learning.

In one class he pointed to a little boy and said "Who broke down the walls of Jericho?"

The startled pupil blurted out, "I didn't!"

Perplexed, the minister glanced at the teacher who assured him, "That boy is very honest. If he says he didn't do it, I am sure he didn't."

Later the teacher brought the question to the Board of Education. They discussed it briefly, decided to pay the damages and hush up the whole matter.

Administration Costs? One of the frequently quoted charges against relief administration. Evidence for this was given in a recent study made here in our state. However, if you want to help the hungry of the world there is one way to avoid the high cost of getting your money to the places where it will do the most good.

Many of you know that every cent given to the Manchester Council on World Hunger is passed on to some agency. An individual in our community has volunteered to pay the administration costs locally. For example, there was an expense of about $30 for the Mayor's Breakfast held in Coxsack, and this he paid. You might be interested further to know that 80 per cent of the money sent out of the area goes to help people become self-sufficient.

The Heifer Project From time to time in this column I present specific causes in the fight against world hunger in case some of you prefer to send contributions directly.

The Heifer Project uses only ten per cent of its funds for administration. A heifer is given free with the provision that its first calf must be passed on free to another needy person.

When my wife and I were in northern Japan we visited an Agricultural Center headed by a Japanese who had graduated from the Yale School of Agriculture. Church World Service had started it all with a gift of $100,000. Now it is self-supporting and has its own heifer project in the region north of Morioka. This form of relief is self-perpetuating.

Leaves Christ — And Me Christ has no hands but our hands To do His work today; He has no feet but our feet; He is not to love anyone. As long as we remain in this life we can still deceive ourselves, think that we love by our own will, that we love independently of God. But we like to see madmen striking out hands to clap the moon reflected in the water." George Bernard Shaw, "The Diary of a Country Gentleman" (Act II, Scene 1).

What if our hands are busy With other work than His? What if the sinner's gospel, Where his allotment is? What if our tongues are speaking Of things His lips would spurn? What if our hearts are closed, Unless from Him we learn? Annie Johnson Flint

Master Derby Given Shot at Upset Following Late Weather Forecast

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — A late change in the weather forecast brought good news for local favorite Master Derby, but bad news for the other 100,000 people expected to attend today's 101st Kentucky Derby.

Farm's Master Derby has won himself a good many races and is given a better chance of upsetting 24 favorite, Foolish Pleasure, on an off track.

The horses most likely hurt by the weather forecast are Diabolo and Avatar, accustomed to the concrete-hard racing strips of California.

In loving memory of Lillian Highter, who passed away May 3, 1974. Always a silent heartache, Many a silent tear, But always a beautiful memory Of the one we loved so dear. God gave us strength to bear it, And courage to face the blow, But what it meant to lose you No one will ever know.

Important To Be Nice, May Fellowship Told

By ALICE EVANS

"It's nice to be important, but it's more important to be nice," the Rev. Ronald Fournier, co-pastor of Emmanuel Church, told the 100 women from Manchester's Christian churches gathered Friday noon at Emmanuel Church for the local celebration of Church Women United's May Fellowship Day.

Expanding on the celebration's theme, "Open to Live Fully," he said that the church's future as he sees it lies in its willingness to be open to small groups and an increasing concern for individual lives.

"I don't know why small groups work, but they do. They turn people on, opening them up to live more fully," the Rev. Mr. Fournier said.

Suggesting that what people proclaim in their churches on Sunday does not always relate to what they practice in their lives during the week, he said, "During the Easter season, we made the strangest claims, but we don't believe half of what we say."

"If we Christians believe the Gospel as it's preached, we better believe what it says," he added.

Pastor Fournier said the Easter glow cannot be maintained forever on the faces of all Christians. "We have all had our share of trouble since Easter. But if our hearts are tuned into our resource, the Creator, there is a shining glow that radiates from that heart at all times," he said.

"Today we come together representing different traditions. There are times when we celebrate our traditions and there are times when we celebrate our unity and spirit of the community. May Fellowship Day is just such an occasion," Pastor Fournier said.

The responsive reading led by Mrs. Max Schubert centered around the theme of the celebration. It was divided into three categories: "We Give Thanks," "We Want to Be Open," and "We Want to Trust." The scripture taken from Luke and John was read by Mrs. James E. Elliott.

A "Fellowship of the Least Coin" collection was taken during a salad luncheon, which preceded the worship service. The committee for the celebration included Mrs. Schubert, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Robert Eldridge, Mrs. Robert Gordon, Mrs. Walter Fuss and Mrs. Carol Kittle.

Classical music losing ground

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jazz, ethnic, and rock music is gaining ground over classical tunes in music education programs, according to Dr. Gunther Schuller, a composer and president of the New England Conservatory of Music.

Dr. Schuller said quality is the only criterion important in determining what to teach students today.

"Music educators are opening up their vision from the 18th and 19th century narrow European view of classical music to include all kinds of music to serve all kinds of people, such as jazz, rock and other forms of popular music," he said.

Gunther, a New York-born composer who has performed with the Metropolitan Opera and New York Philharmonic Orchestra, said there is a greater awareness now about music and educators are getting away from the elitist idea the only valid music is 19th century European.

African music, for example, seems primitive, but it is very complex, he explained.

He said there is no technological system to help people determine the quality of music because there are subtle nuances which cannot be translated by any kind of computerized technology.

"Determining music quality is a matter of philosophy, dedication and concern about our youth," he says. "It is a question of not looking for formulas or systems but to one's self. The trouble with systems is that they perpetuate themselves and you get locked in."

Beat generation is exhibit topic

An exhibition which explores the many facets of the Beat Generation as it emerged in artistic expression is at the Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford, through June 1. Entitled "Poets of the Cities: New York and San Francisco, 1950-1965," the exhibition is on view in the museum's Austin Gallery and Avery Court.

"Poets of the Cities" comprises more than 60 paintings, assemblages and sculptures by such leading artists of the period as Robert Rauschenberg, Jasper Johns, Jackson Pollock, Claes Oldenburg and Louise Nevelson.

Photographs of the urban artistic life will also be displayed along with sound documentation.

The show was organized by the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and Southern Methodist University and has also been displayed at the San Francisco Museum of Art.

A series of gallery talks, open to the public without charge, will take place in the "Poets of the Cities" exhibition galleries on the following dates: Sundays, May 4, 11, 18 and 25 at 2 p.m.; and Wednesdays, May 7 and 21, at 12:15 p.m.

Singer and poet Gloria Tropp and musician, will perform Tuesday, May 8, in the exhibition galleries. The Tropps appeared in the first showing of the exhibition in Dallas last fall as part of a series of performances by Beat Generation artists.

Atheneum hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Suggested museum admission fees are $1 for adults and 50 cents for 12 to 18 years. Children under 12, museum members, and scheduled tour groups are admitted free.

City's arts festival has 'sponsored art'

Sponsored Art, a collage of artistic representation, will again be a major attraction at the fifth annual Greater Hartford Civic and Arts Festival May 31 to June 8 on Constitution Plaza, Hartford.

Its form and shape are delineated by a multiplicity of contributors.

Under the aegis of Sponsored

Art, Hartford's senior citizens display paintings and crafts; the artwork of handicapped and institutionalized individuals reach a public forum; and liturgical music and art are enjoyed by an ecumenical audience.

The festival's Sponsored Art committee is headed by the Rev. Mr. Ronald Woodruff, rector of St. James Episcopal Church in West Hartford, who brings order to the wide spectrum of talent and activity.

Sponsored art serves as an outlet for recognition to those who rarely exhibit, festival sponsors say.

More information is available from the festival office at 250 Constitution Plaza, Hartford, tel. 525-4451.

Sponsors of the festival are the Retail Trade Bureau, the Greater Hartford Arts Council, and the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce.

Circus due this week

A procession of ponderous pachyderms, high-stepping horses, clever camels, and an astonishing assortment of educated animals will signal Tuesday's opening of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus at the Hartford Civic Center.

The Greatest Show on Earth will play 12 performances, May 6 to 11.

A traditional "animal walk" through the streets of downtown Hartford is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

"The Waltons" series on CBS-TV has been renewed for a fourth year.

Guest artists appearing in the concert are Talivaldis Paups, tenor; Miss Sirikka Johnson, flutist; Miss Claire Putsche, lutenist; Walter Grzyb, organist; and Jonathan Worley, guitarist.

Club members performing on the program are Mrs. Mary Stewart, contralto, and Miss Janet Morris and Mrs. Janette Wodal, sopranos.

Stars don't give a hoot about the PATSY awards

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Nominees were announced this week for the PATSY awards, the only show business prizes about which the stars don't give a hoot—unless, of course, an owl should win.

PATSY stands for Picture Animal Top Star of the Year, awarded by the American Humane Association.

Nominees include Higgins, the lovable mutt who starred in the title role of "Benji," and Tonto, the cat in "Harry and Tonto."

Higgins won the television PATSY back in 1966 for his sterling performance in the unforgettable "Petticoat Junction." Now he has moved up to the movie PATSY.

Tonto is a newcomer whose partner Harry, Art Carney, won the Oscar this year. In feline circles it is believed Tonto carried Carney in the film.

None of the animals nominated in this 25th annual renewal of the awards has stooped to buy ads in the Hollywood trade press or otherwise attempted to curry favor with the humane people.

Neither have they hired press agents. Pitted against Higgins and Tonto for best performance in a feature film are a horse named Stranger (Mame), a dog who answers to Josephine (Island at the Top of the World) and a Brahma bull (For Pete's Sake) who answers to anything he pleases but is known as Bologna.

PATSYs are non-discriminatory. Categories are not broken down by sex. That is to say, there is no mare-horse or goose-gander distinction. The best animal performance in a television series category is packed with four dogs this year and Elsa, the lion who bombed out in "Born Free."

The canines are Joe (Run Joe, Run) Farouk (Chase), Sam (Apple's Way), Bridget (Lucas Tanner).

Note: Elsa won best feature film PATSY in 1967 for "Born Free."

Most interesting division this year is the best animal performance in a commercial. The nominees include a deer, fox, chicken and cougar, along with three dogs and a team of six horses whose names unaccountably were overlooked.

Lassie, whose show has long been canceled, was removed from consideration after eight straight wins in the 1960s. Officials tried to make it an honorary gesture but it made a mockery of the television category.

But the old girl, bless her, is back this year in the commercial category plugging her own brand of dog food.

The final category, best animal performance in an individual television program, is an insult to some of the nominees. An entire pack of coyotes is in the running for its work in "The Indestructible Outcasts." Not even a family name.

Like the Oscars, Emmys, Grammys and all the rest, the PATSY Awards will be nationally televised. The hosts, in the absence of Greta Garbo and George C. Scott, will be Betty White and Allen Ludden.

Anna Jarvis Loved Her Mom.

How Mother's Day Got Started

Mother's Day is May 11th.

"What Miss Jarvis had in mind was a hand written love letter to your mother, not the printed card," said Mrs. Procter. Mrs. Procter's grandson, Bill Little, hands her a note he has written himself.

"When she was younger, Miss Jarvis was wealthy. She was very generous with her money and spent a fortune on the Mother's Day idea. She traveled around the world making speeches. She wrote a lot of letters to the people in Congress. She died poor and blind in a rest home outside of Philadelphia." (In 1914, thanks to her efforts, President Wilson proclaimed the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day in every state.)

Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia started Mother's Day in this country.

To find out more about her, The Mini Page interviewed her close friend and companion for 10 years, Mrs. Ivan Procter, who now lives in Raleigh, North Carolina. When the two first met in 1905, Mrs. Procter was 15, and Miss Jarvis was 30.

"We're going to start Mother's Day," said Miss Jarvis, and they did!

"On the second Saturday in May, we would stand on a street corner with a huge tin washtub full of carnations. When people walked by, we would ask them to wear a red carnation if their mother were living and a white carnation if she were dead. Then we would ask them to write a letter to their mother, even if she lived in the same town."

Anna Jarvis.

Her Mother

"Miss Jarvis was very pretty and had a lot of style. She always wore a hat and gloves when she went out. As a young girl she planned to marry, but was left standing at the altar by her fiance. She never looked at another man. She always felt that her mother was her best friend."

Jeff is 24 years old. He grew up in California and attended Long Beach Junior College before becoming a pro ball player. In his leisure time, Burroughs likes to fish. But more than anything, he likes to hit.

SNACK PACK JACK'S TALL TALES

IN CHESHIRE, ENGLAND ONCE I SAT, LUNCHING WITH A FROWNING CAT.

"THIS FROWN," I SAID, "THIS MOOD YOU'RE IN," "WHERE'S THAT FAMOUS CHESHIRE GRIN?"

"DESSERT," HE MUMBLED THROUGH HIS FROWN. "THIS SAME OLD THING HAS GOT ME DOWN."

I SAID, "TRY SNACK PACK PUDDING, GOOD AND SMOOTH, WITH A TASTE THAT'S GUARANTEED TO SOOTHE."

HE DISAPPEARED, BUT WHERE HE SAT, THERE REMAINED THE GRIN OF A CHESHIRE CAT.

This is "Be Kind to Animals Week." This is a special week sponsored by the American Humane Association. This group encourages people to treat animals with kindness. They are concerned that millions of unwanted dogs and cats are born every year. They want pet owners to have their pets operated on so they cannot have more babies. Doris Day, the famous actress, is the 1975 Kindness Chairman for "Be Kind to Animals Week." Miss Day has many pets. She is devoted to animals.
