Project HELP Instructors Praised at Graduation Rites

"Teaching, as you all know, is a very satisfying experience but teaching within the Project HELP (Handicapped Earning and Living Project) Program is truly overwhelming," Fred A. Ramey Jr. said in welcoming graduates, faculty, parents and friends to the Project HELP commencement Tuesday at Manchester Community College.

Ramey, director of the Business Careers Division at the college, is the Project HELP food service director. His assistant is Richard E. Vizard, assistant director of the division.

Speaking at this, the sixth graduation for the Food Service Program and the second for the Building Housekeepers Program, Ramey commended the program instructors, Edward Mongeau and David Northrup, and said, "They have played a major role in the training and job placement of the graduates."

"We have had 83 food service graduates and 23 building housekeeper graduates since Project HELP was initiated," he said.

Project HELP is designed to train educationally handicapped students for a variety of occupations.

The food service program is jointly financed by the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation and the college. The 200-hour training program requires students, under the direction of Mongeau and three assistant instructors, to prepare luncheons, serve, and clean up following the luncheons served three days a week at the college.

The building housekeeper program, financed by DVR trains the handicapped for employment as commercial housekeepers in hotels, motels, convalescent homes, hospitals, state agencies, and other suitable employment.

Northrup and his assistant, Emily Steere, use college facilities to reinforce housekeeping techniques learned at the Mansfield Training School under the supervision of Raymond Davis, the training school's executive director.

Governor Orders Project Review

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today she has asked her Task Force on Construction to review all authorized bonding projects with an eye towards stimulating the state's sluggish economy.

In recent years, the Connecticut Legislature has approved more than $1 billion in construction projects which have never been carried out. The governor said she asked the task force to report back to her by mid-summer. The governor met with the group Tuesday.

Health District Proposal Rejected by Directors

By SOL COHEN

As had been predicted, the Board of Directors Tuesday night rejected a proposal to create a Manchester-South Windsor Health District. The vote was 5 to 2 and was on a motion tabled since March 4, when it was offered by Republican Vivian Ferguson.

Joining Mrs. Ferguson in voting to reject were Democrats Phyllis Jackson, Pascal Prignano and Robert Price, and Republican Carl Zinsner. Voting for the Health District were Democrats John Thompson and Jack Goldberg.

Republican Hillary Gallagher and Democrat Matt Moriarty Jr. didn't attend Tuesday night's meeting. Gallagher is on vacation. Moriarty was recuperating from Monday's news that his wife, Jo-Ann, had given birth to a boy—to join the four girls in the family. The board voted its congratulations and best wishes.

The board rejected two other proposals under consideration — an ordinance to regulate group homes and an ordinance to regulate massage parlors.

Both rejections were by unanimous vote. Both actions were recommended by Town Counsel William Bronnell.

In his report relating to a group homes ordinance, proposed by the Human Relations Commission, he said, "I cannot help but note there has been no showing of any real necessity for the passage of an ordinance such as the one proposed, and that the ordinance, as proposed, would result in additional expenses to the municipality in connection with the application, licensing and inspection procedures referred to in the proposal."

He said the question of group homes already is a matter more peculiarly in the province of the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals, rather than the Board of Directors.

"Indeed," he pointed out, "should the Board of Directors elect to consider and adopt such an ordinance, the Planning and Zoning Commission would then have to amend the zoning regulations to provide for such uses within any or all of the various zones."

He noted, "The Planning and Zoning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals are charged under the General Statutes and the town charter with the regulation of property usages within the limits of our municipality."

On the subject of an ordinance to regulate massage parlors, Bronnell said, "The problem can best be controlled by police investigation of complaints. State statutes exist now for regulating conduct in establishments. They can be enforced without the need for a new ordinance. There are enough laws on the books already for enforcing unlawful conduct."

Bronnell said there won't be any state legislation passed in this session for regulating massage parlors.

Whatever legislation was being considered was tied up in committee and won't be voted upon, he said.

He said the nonaction is on the basis that a regulatory law might be unenforceable, or even unconstitutional. He noted several local ordinances in the state already are being challenged in the courts and that the key issue in most of them — public health and safety — may prove unenforceable.

Three Cambodian Vessels Sunk In American Retaliatory Raid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American aircraft today sank three Cambodian gunboats and damaged about four others in apparent retaliation for the Khmer Rouge's failure to release the captured American merchant ship Mayaguez, the Pentagon announced.

A Pentagon spokesman said the action was taken because there were indications the Cambodians intended to remove captive Americans from the ship, which was seized Monday in the Gulf of Siam.

American aircraft had been "receiving fire" for some hours before the gunboats were attacked, the spokesman said.

"There were indications that the Cambodians appeared to be attempting to move captive U.S. crewmen from the ship and from the island of Koh Tang to the mainland," Pentagon spokesman Joseph Laitin said.

He said the container ship Mayaguez remained anchored off the island. The ship has a crew of 39 Americans.

Laitin said the attacking U.S. aircraft first gave warning — but he did not indicate how — and then "began efforts to block this movement."

"Three Cambodian patrol craft were destroyed, about four others were damaged and immobilized," he said.

Laitin said one of the damaged Cambodian boats succeeded in reaching Kompong Som, the port on the Cambodian mainland about 35 miles from the island of Koh Tang.

He declined to answer any questions. Laitin said the first of the Navy warships ordered to the Gulf of Siam, the destroyer escort Holt, had arrived in the area of Koh Tang island.

Some 1,100 U.S. Marines meanwhile were in Thailand awaiting orders from President Ford on the United States' next military move. And the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea was steaming toward the area.

Laitin said U.S. aircraft had been fired on by the Cambodian patrol boats for several hours before the attack order was given. The United States had been maintaining 24-hour a day surveillance over the Mayaguez.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he was told by "an old friend of mine, the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet," about the situation. Goldwater, quoted in the Atlanta Constitution, said the Cambodians "have some of the hostages on shore, we know that much."

He also said the officer told him Ford "is ready for strong action."

A contingent of at least 800 Marines began arriving at U Tapao before dawn in Thailand (5:50 p.m. Tuesday). Pentagon sources said a total of 1,150 Marines would be flown to the air base. In addition, the aircraft carrier Coral Sea with a half dozen support ships was steaming toward the ship.

"There'll be a lot of artillery around there," said one Pentagon source. They were sent despite Thailand's repeated insistence it would not allow the use of American bases for a confrontation with Cambodia, its neighbor to the east. The Thai government is trying to reach an accommodation with the new Communist government in Phnom Penh.

"We will protest because that (the Marine arrival) is not what we want," said Thai Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj said. "If they send Marines," a spokesman said later, "some action" would be taken, but he did not specify what kind.

The armed forces could be used to retrieve the captured merchant ship. But some officials indicated the show of force may be intended more to persuade Cambodia to give up the ship peacefully.

Administration sources said Ford also was seeking the diplomatic help of China, which is believed to have some influence with the new Communist government in Phnom Penh.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Tuesday there would be no deal with Cambodia, such as the one made with North Korea in 1969 for the return of the captured spy ship Pueblo. The United States at that time admitted "a grave act of espionage" and got the crew returned after 11 months captivity.

The White House has repeatedly denied the unarmed Mayaguez is a spy ship. The vessel did carry supplies for U.S. military bases in Thailand among its general cargo, but the Pentagon said it was not under military charter and carried no weapons.

State Union Leaders Apparently Fail To Get Worker Pay Raises Restored

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso and labor leaders demanding restoration of pay raises eliminated by the state budget ended their meeting today apparently without any agreement on the issue.

The group of about 20 leaders representing a coalition of state employee unions and labor groups from the private sector walked out of the governor's office, some appearing grim and frustrated, and went into a private session.

Mrs. Grasso would only say the meeting, which ended about 11:30 a.m., was "a complete, frank thorough discussion."

The union representatives said they would hold a news conference when their private conference ended. There was no indication how long the conference would last.

Mrs. Grasso said prior to the meeting Tuesday "I am going to listen, but there is no money for their raises in the current budget."

The coalition earlier announced it was polling the combined membership of about 100,000 workers to see whether there was significant sentiment for a strike.

The labor leaders said a strike could be averted if Thomas Lyon, president of the Connecticut State Employees Association, got some satisfaction at the meeting.

Lyon planned to ask for a pledge of no layoffs, restoration of automatic pay raises and promotions, cost-of-living increases in pay for active and retired employees and continuation of present retirement benefits.

He was also seeking collective bargaining and political activity rights for state employees, binding arbitration of municipal labor disputes, more state financial aid to municipalities and repeal of a law which lets municipal officials get immediate court injunctions against teachers' strikes.

Mrs. Grasso said it was "premature" to discuss what action she would take if the employees violate state law and go on strike.

The legislature last week voted to withhold any anniversary pay raises or promotions for employees because of Connecticut's fiscal condition. There had been talk of employee layoffs but they apparently have been ruled out.

Senate Majority Leader Joseph I. Lieberman, D-New Haven, said he had not seen much sentiment for a strike among rank-and-file workers.

"Our objective was to protect jobs," he said. "State workers are getting laid off in Massachusetts and taking salary cuts in Rhode Island."

"I think we did pretty well," Lieberman said.

Israeli Patrols Clash with Lebanese

By United Press International
Israeli patrols entered Lebanon and traded artillery fire with Lebanese gunners for the third consecutive day today, a Lebanese military spokesman said in Beirut.

Lebanese Foreign Ministry sources said Lebanon would file a complaint on the clashes with the U.N. Security Council. Government sources also said President Suleiman Franjeh met with Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat today, although it was not known whether their talks centered on the fighting in the south.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the fighting began when gunners in Lebanon fired mortar shells at the Israeli frontier settlement of Shula.

A command spokesman said Israeli troops patrolling the border fired back at the Arab mortar positions. There were no reported casualties in the fighting.

A military spokesman in Damascus said Lebanese artillery twice drove back Israeli army forces in south Lebanon.

He said gunners fired at an Israeli force that entered the village of Aita el-Chaab, about 1 1/2 miles north of the border. He said Israeli troops searched two houses and "seized some of their contents."

Ninety minutes later, four Israeli patrols crossed into the same area and came under Lebanese artillery fire for one hour, the spokesman said.

The spokesman said Israel ground forces crossed into southern Lebanese Monday and Tuesday, raiding frontier villages and seizing Arabs accused of helping the guerrillas.

A military spokesman in Beirut said the Israeli raiders blew up a house Tuesday and kidnapped three persons. He said the Israelis blew up a restaurant and took five captives Monday.

The raids appeared aimed at preventing possible guerrilla attacks on May 14, Israel's 27th anniversary, or during the Jewish holiday of Shavuot, which begins Thursday night.

Defense Minister Shimon Peres said Tuesday Israeli troops were on alert because of mysterious Jordanian troop movements along the cease-fire lines.

Peres told army officers in the occupied Jordan valley that Israel was keeping close watch on Jordanian tanks and infantry carrying out maneuvers on the hills and plains east of the Jordan River.

"The Israeli defense forces deployment along the Jordan is the deterrent which prevents Jordan from advancing her forces toward Jerusalem," he said.

He said the Jordanians' motives were unclear but it was apparent Amman was bringing itself into line with Syria's tough anti-Israel policies.

Israel's ruling Labor party Tuesday opened a foreign policy debate expected to lead to proposals for Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin to present to Israel Ford in Washington next month.

Foreign Minister Yigal Alon told the party caucus in Jerusalem: "Israel is ready to make significant concessions on a basis of mutuality, but only if there is progress toward peace."

Training Center Bids Well Below Estimates

Bids for construction of the Regional Occupational Training Center in Manchester, opened Tuesday night, were extremely close and well under the estimated $1.4 million project cost.

The apparent low bidder for the project — with a base bid of $1,087,456 — was the J. S. Nasin Co. of Willimantic.

The Town Building Committee has scheduled a special meeting next Tuesday (7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Building) to review the bids and consider awarding a contract.

A total of 15 bids were submitted by contractors offering to build the training center at the northeast corner of Wetherell St. and Hillstown Rd.

The difference between the apparent low and high base bids was about $160,000.

All the bids include prices on six "deductible alternates," which town officials say could make a difference on who gets the contract.

The "deductible alternates" include options on granite curbs and other items, parking, lightning protection, and three items not originally included in the construction specifications: Distributive education equipment, automotive equipment, and major kitchen appliances.

Estimates of construction time varied 18 months to 16 months on the bids. Nasin's estimated completion time was 12 months. Officials hope to have the training center in operation by September 1976.

The second low bidder was Custom Concept Builders of Simsbury, with a base bid of $1,089,000; the third low bidder was the Charles Jewett Corp. of Glastonbury, with a base bid of $1,106,881.

The training center, approved by Manchester voters in referendum last November, will be built by the town and paid for by the state after it's finished. It will serve mentally retarded and multiply handicapped adolescents from Manchester and 15 surrounding towns.

The bids were opened Tuesday night at the Court of Common Pleas courtroom, 239 E. Middle Tpke., by Maurice Ptas, the town's director of general services.

Architects for the training center are The Lawrence Associates of Manchester.

STAMPS AND COINS
By RUSS MACKENRICK

This Liberian five-dollar piece is the largest silver coin ever struck at—guess where—the United States Mint. It should come as no surprise that our mint is working for a foreign country, as this has been going on for years. Over a million pieces each have been produced for 14 nations from Australia to Venezuela.

The coin shown here is 42 millimeters in diameter; the Eisenhower and other recent silver dollars are only 38.1 mm. It is one of a seven-coin proof set—all to be made at the U.S. Mint. The front, as you see, carries their national animal, an elephant, plus a map of the country. The back shows a coat of arms, the date, and the motto: "The Love of Liberty brought Us Here," together with a ship symbolic of the freed American slaves setting there in the early 1820's.

Liberia was the only independent Negro republic in Africa until 1897. Noted earlier for rainfall and rubber, they have become the leading exporter of iron ore on the continent.

What really beggles the imagination about the coin is the fact that with a population of only a million and a half and a coastline of 350 miles, they are listed as having the world's largest fishing fleet. The gross shipping tonnage under Liberian registry is thirty-three million—away ahead of Britain, U.S. or Japan.

Before you exclaim, "Mon Dieu or Lieber Gott—What a nation of seamen!" be informed that ownership is elsewhere. The Liberian tax structure and lenient regulations make it a favorable spot to put a ship under a "flag of convenience," and much of the new construction since WWII has adopted this easy out.

Rearing its ugly head again is the question of "protecting" the designs, legends and insignia of the USPS. The sponsor of the bill avows that the idea is to make a buck or two by licensing toy-makers and advertisers. He notes wistfully how well the Forest Service has done with their Smokey Bear. It would be a shame if philatelic groups couldn't use stamp-related designs for their cachets and metal dies without getting into hot water.

The same day we get the 1776-1976 coins, that is, the Fourth of July, there will be first day ceremonies in Washington, D.C. for a quartet of 4-cent stamps showing Revolutionary uniforms: Army, Navy, Marines, and Militia. The stamps co-tenants again, like the Mineral Heritage issues, were designed by Edward Vobeil of Westport, Conn. He has had a long-time hobby of collecting uniforms, so the pictures should be authentic.

Picked up a U.S. Postal Service Bicentennial Philatelic Passport at the Main Street window ($2). The idea is that if

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS
By WALLY FORTIN

Hi! Where have you been? Our Big Week is rolling around; however, we haven't seen you around and we sure miss you. Oh well, we still have some action left as tomorrow is our big roast beef dinner and then we will be honoring our volunteers for the past season. The afternoon will end by some super entertainment by our "Sunshiners." The group of local talent has been really rehearsing long and hard, and I'm sure their show will be worth seeing.

Then we'll hop into Friday, and the highlight of the day will be our setback and military whist games at the Community Y. The games will start at 7:30 p.m., and our bus will start out to pick you up at 5:30 p.m. At this writing we still had a number of tickets available, so I believe that we will be able to sell some at the door. This means we will allow non-seniors a chance to join us.

Sports Banquet
So far we had our Senior Golf Tourney at the East Hartford Golf Course on Monday morning, and on Tuesday afternoon we had our Senior Bowling Tourney at the Parkade Lanes. The results of both events will be published in Saturday's column because the results were given out at our Sports Banquet which was last night after our column went to press.

Setback Results
The happenings here at the center starts with our setback games on Friday afternoon. We had 53 players and the lucky winners were:
Mabel Wilson, 146; Wesley Frost, 139; Peter Frey, 126; Albert Ouellette, 127; Cecil Benson, 126; Elmer Swanson, 124; Thomas Murphy, 119; Joseph Windsor, 118; John Gottschalk, 117; Martha LaBate and Ann Fisher, 116; Gus Gull, Frances Pike, and Karl White, 114.

TOLLAND
VIVIAN KENNESON

In the wake of a rash of adverse publicity regarding the construction of the Gehring Rd. firehouse, Town Manager John Harkins reported to the Board of Selectmen Tuesday that the job is progressing as planned.

Harkins noted the project dates back to October 1973, when preliminary plans were drawn and the architect, Galliber & Schoenhardt selected. He said the fire department felt the site, on the corner of Gehring and Apple, was particularly desirable because of a pond. The construction is part of the fire department's five-year plan.

Tolland voters approved a $107,000 appropriation for project last November and final plans were presented to the selectmen in March. Over 19 bids were received for the construction with the bid awarded to Innovations, the low bidder at $82,990. Cost of the land was $10,000; architect fees, $9,000; building, $87,000, and contingency, $2,000.

Harkins said there have been two change-orders since the plans were made. One was for underground public utility wires at a cost of $460. The other, at the suggestion of building inspector Frank Merrill, was with concurrence of the town manager, was for virgin soil footings rather than compacted fill, at a cost of $1,229.

Harkins said the contractor is not too happy with the amount of earth work required; however, it is up to the contractor to make these determinations before putting in a bid, he said.

Commenting on the wet site, Harkins said it probably isn't the best site in town, but many housing sites have had more problems that this and have been corrected. The leaching field will require special attention, and "We will give it special attention." The septic design and installation is being done by the contractor and will be a separate item, under the supervision of sanitarian Harley Emmons.

Although the fire department has a letter from the previous P.Z.C. dated November 1973 saying it did not require an appearance at that commission since municipal buildings are exempt from local regulations, the fire department did present plans to the present commission last month, and received approval on its plans.

Fire Chief Ron Littell said this morning he is pleased with the progress of the firehouse. He said his department studied and analyzed the site, which the architect selected, for a long time. He also mentioned that cement trucks have been stuck in mud at the site.

Bridge Completed
Harkins reported that the bridge improvements over the William-Hick River off South River Rd., have been completed.

The bridge will open with an official ceremony either Thursday evening or Saturday morning, Harkins said. Olender Construction did an excellent job, and final inspection by the town consulting engineers has been completed.

Dog Pound
Harkins said the bids for the dog pound, to be located in the rear of the town garage site, will go out soon. Town employees will construct the roof and perform other work as required. The foundation will be started this week.

Among the agenda items will be the consideration of where to make the budget cuts of over $60,000, as recommended by administrators.

Other items are a candidate to be named for appointment to the Regional Council of Manchester Community College; report on student parking at the high school; cost comparisons of operating schools; high school evaluation report; and a spelunking trip.

Selectmen Delay Fund Vote For Reimbursement Data

School Board To Discuss Budget Cut

TOLLAND
VIVIAN KENNESON

The Board of Education will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Education Administration Building.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie has applied to the state for a 50 per cent reimbursement for $10,970 for building improvements, which include: a fence at Hicks School to keep children off the roof, $46; installation of a smoke monitor at Hicks, $2,187; new burners in two boilers at Hicks, $5,811; new burner in the boiler at Parker, $2,904; and increased water supply at Parker, $8,260.

Other improvements in the $27,000 request are: a new ventilation system in the chemistry, electronics, and graphics lab at the high school, $10,150; installation of a deluge shower and eye/wash in the chemistry lab, $200.

Selectman Kevin Cavanagh questioned the only board member present, Carol Butterworth, on the ventilation system. He and Stewart Joslin, both former members of the Board of Finance recall an appropriation to the school board several years ago specifically for this item. Ms. Butterworth was unable to reply to this and several other specific questions put by the selectmen.

The selectmen also expressed the opinion that someone more versed in the specific requests be present at a future meeting.

Town Manager John Harkins also reported a letter from school business manager Dave Hopsell proposing that a concrete structure be constructed, by Monroe Bus Co., at the town garage site for servicing buses. The 48 by 16 foot building would include a 12 by 12 foot office, and would cost approximately $3,125 to build.

BOOK BANNED
BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The Argentine Writers Society has asked the government to cancel a decree that resulted in the banning of a book by Cuban independence hero Jose Marti.

Marti was killed in 1895 while helping lead the Cuban struggle for independence from Spain. The Writers Society said the ban on Marti's book, "Cuba, Our America and the United States," is an attack on freedom of expression.

Bolton Signs Contracts With Teachers, Custodians

Donna Holland Correspondent

The Board of Education has signed contracts with the Bolton Education Association (BEA) and the Bolton Custodial and Maintenance Association (BCMA).

Negotiations with the teachers began in December 1974. A two-year contract was signed with a salary reopener clause for the beginning of the second year.

The teacher's salary results in an over-all increase of 7.8 per cent, some teachers receiving more and some less.

Negotiations for the school board were handled by Marly Breslow and Robert Thornton. Negotiations for the BEA were handled by Patricia Bankel, Janis Keresky, Muriel Dickinson, Marion Nicolay, John Marino and Fred Audette.

A two-year contract with a salary reopener clause for the second year was signed with the BCMA.

Negotiations for the school board were handled by Andrew Manegga and Louis Cloutier. Negotiations for the BCMA were handled by Raymond Palmberg and James Veitch.

As required by state law the teacher's contract has been filed with the town clerk.

According to the law, "The terms of such contract shall be binding on the legislative body of the town unless such body rejects such contract at a regular or special meeting called for such purpose within 30 days of the filing of the contract."

Interim Committees Authorized For School District Changeovers

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut House has approved emergency procedures for operating regional school districts in the event courts rule some existing representation systems unconstitutional.

Regional District 8, which is made up of Andover, Hebron, and Marlborough, is one of the districts affected.

A Connecticut Superior Court judge ruled late last year school systems where officials are not elected through the "one-man, one-vote" rule were operating illegally. The decision is being appealed.

Many regional school systems elect their boards of education through weighted voting schemes designed to prevent larger towns in the region from dominating smaller towns.

Each of the three towns in Regional District 8 has three representatives on the school board, but Hebron students make up about half the enrollment at Rham High School.

If higher courts uphold the rejection of the weighted voting system, the measure approved by the House would order the school systems to organize a special committee to handle the interim affairs of the interim.

The committee would then develop a plan for electing members to the regional school board that would meet the courts' requirements, and supervise its enactment.

The legislation will probably be discussed by the Rham board when it meets Monday.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Tough Job Ahead: Staying Within Budget

Evidently the only common agreement concerning the state's budget and new tax increases to balance that budget is that no one is happy.

Maybe this is for the better as it has been our experience that the adage "easy come, easy go" is all too true in government today.

The reason budgets are so large today is that in the past, in times of prosperity it has been relatively easy to raise taxes. The federal government, with more money coming in, was as generous as it could be with the only delay being the red tape involved. In fact there have been instances where more federal money has been appropriated than could be spent.

Budgets are but a prelude to spending.

We now have a state budget which is an attempt to set a maximum spending level for the next fiscal year. We now have increased taxes in various forms to bring in, it is hoped, the money to meet budgeted expenditures.

The initial crisis of adopting a budget and passing needed tax revenue bills is behind us.

But both could be meaningless unless the administration does keep spending within budget limitations.

We think Gov. Ella Grasso fully intends to do that but we know temptations to juggle budgets are great and the pressures for her administration to do so will be great.

The pressures will mount if the state of the economy worsens because this will mean revenues may be short of estimates.

However, the pressures to break the budget that we fear most may come if the economy picks up and revenues start to exceed estimates.

This is the situation which is fertile for paying off political debts.

But as much as these debts may be moral commitments by the administration, its overriding moral commitment is to the state of Connecticut.

Any windfall revenues which may arise out of economic recovery in the state should be allocated to debt retirement and tax relief. The time to remedy the political debt deficit will be in the next budget.

Over the next fiscal year, the people must be vigilant and insist that the budget which is costing the state an additional $200 million be honored, not only in adversity but also in prosperity.

If it is not, the whole budgeting exercise is a hoax upon the people.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF ELDERLY HOUSING?

MAX LERNER
Horse God And Sea Lizards

NEW YORK CITY — The beautiful horse-god and a worshipping adolescent boy who drives a blinding spike between his eyes. Two lovely, glistening lizards risen from the sea, and a human couple picnicking on the beach who have an encounter with them. These seem far removed from the things that hobble us in these frenzied days yet they are the stuff out of which the two best plays of the past year were fashioned.

Sometimes prize juries serve as a healthy second verdict to correct the distortions of the hurried first verdict of the critics. This is true of the Pulitzer award to Edward Albee's delightful comedy, "Seascope," which was neither a critical nor box-office success but was nonetheless an event in the American theater of ideas. Peter Shaffer's "Equus" on the other hand, also a play of ideas, was a stunning success from the start, and there are few who would dissent from the Tony Award which made it the play of the year.

Equus is not a religious age, and there are few plays about the gods, but "Equus" is one. The boy in the play — a stable boy who loves horses — has blinded five of them with an iron spike. A psychiatrist takes on the task of discovering why, and of bringing the sick, tortured boy out of his near-catatonic state. The play is thus, on one level, the familiar one of a psychiatric unraveling.

With delicate skill the psychiatrist uncovers the story of a boy brought up wretchedly by indifferent parents, who has taken early memories of sacred pictures and transferred them to a horse, into whom he pours the adoration of an adolescent's awakened sexuality. The iron spike is the boy's way of blinding the horse-god whom he feels, at a crisis moment, that he has betrayed.

The psychiatrist has learned, from his vacation trips to Greece, the lesson of the polytheism which the world has largely abandoned: that life is only possible through thousands of local gods — who invest its daily events with a sacred quality. The play is thus a lament for the lost gods, and for the death of belief and heroism in our society. The doctor sees that the boy has a passion more fervent than his own, that such a passion can be destroyed but cannot be created by doctors, and that the worst thing we do is to strip the worshiper of his belief as we strip the general from life.

Albee's play about lizards and humans, in a quieter way, is equally unparalyzing about what modern civilization has done to the more primitive life-stuff with which we started.

As we listen to the discontents of the middle-age middle-class husband and wife on the beach, and then to the exchange with the lizards — bringing their age-old innocence and their naive wisdom out of the sea — we find that evolution hasn't carried the race very far. It doesn't seem to have yielded the human couple the satisfactions, or even the true communication of the prehuman one.

There are no gods to be possessed by in the Albee play as there are the horse-gods and the lizards in the Shaffer play. Yet we put the two plays together, something strikingly similar emerges. Just as we need gods, as celebrations of Nature and therefore of the natural in ourselves, so we need to embrace again some elements of the spontaneous in the early prehuman history which we have since lost or overlaid.

I am glad that Albee has resisted the pressure of his critics to stereotype or repeat his earlier work. As I watched the surge of anger in the male lizard, when he felt that his female's honor had been questioned, I thought of the critics who have lauded Albee with not being angry enough in his later plays.

He cares deeply about honor and dignity, about what the Yankees do in their viciousness to dehumanize man. That is the paradox in the play. He is not so proud of the lizards in order to reject the human, but to rediscover "beneath the trappings of the 'civilized'."

HI NEIGHBOR

By BURL LYONS

Since the Town of Manchester's "austerity" budget for the new fiscal year won't permit lead pickup next fall, we have received a number of telephone calls from residents on how to dispose of leaves, as well as some directors, but you will be reading more about that between now and November.

In getting rid of the leaves, there are these suggestions: "Pile them in your garbage can. You will probably have to buy extra cans anyway since there will only be once-a-week garbage pickup. You can probably purchase garbage cans for nearly the same price as lead bags."

"Let the leaves into the street and when the street sweeper comes around once a year, he'll have a real sweeping job."

"Let the able-bodied men drawing welfare pick up the leaves with the use of borrowed town or government vehicles. Perhaps one of the civic clubs can pay for the cost of gasoline."

"Haul the leaves to some open field and have a 'townwide' burning ceremony in calling proper recognition to the new 1975-76 fiscal year budget."

"These are just a few of the better suggestions that I have heard of. There will undoubtedly be others between now and fall."

With the new state budget, Connecticut very likely will climb the ladder at least one notch in the highest state and local taxes per capita.

The average American paid $577.08 in state and local taxes in 1973, the latest year for which figures are available. New York had the highest with a record $894, followed by California with $739 and Connecticut with $727.

Though town directors and the State Assembly are going to take more away from you, Congress is going to give you a pay raise; but remember, at least come next year, that what Congress gives it can also take away.

Under new federal withholding tables that went into effect May 1, your take home pay should go up slightly as part of the tax cut bill passed by Congress.

There are many weeks of special observances in the calendar year but three this week deserve special mention.

It is National Hospital Week and a good time for us to pause and reflect on the current place of the hospital in our society.

Sunday is International Shrine Hospital Day and while most of our residents are more familiar with the Shrine hospital at Springfield, the theme throughout the nation is the same: Children are accepted regardless of race, creed or color; if you can't pay you cannot enter, if you can't pay you can enter.

Saturday is Armed Forces Day and it is one of those rare times when Americans aren't engaged in some type of armed hostility.

It is a time for all of us to reflect, though, on the many servicemen who are still missing in Southeast Asia and those who lost their lives in that battle.

Among them are 56 American and foreign reporters who were killed while covering the war or are still missing. The American people paid a high price for the conflict in which 55,000 Americans died.

Some congressmen have petitioned the FTC to compel companies to prove statements in advertising dealing with environmental, political and public policy issues.

Two fellows were sitting around discussing merits and otherwise of their wives.

Smith said, "You know, my wife tells me every night she dreams that she married a millionaire."

Jones replied, "You're lucky. Mine thinks that in the daytime."

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Nathan was a prophet. When the nation's leader, King David, became involved in adultery, lying, and murder, Nathan appeared at the court to do his thing, to "prophesy."

He did not go into a trance, mutter strange sounds, or do his weird prophetic dance, as some other kinds of prophets often did.

He did not predict the coming of the Messiah, even though that is what prophets are supposed to do.

He did not foresee the end of the world, when God would relieve His suffering saints.

He gave David a message from God, a message so blunt that David was driving to his knees in repentance. Had Nathan not so acted, David would have continued to manipulate his people at will, the monarchy in Israel would have degenerated quickly into the dispolism so stated among other Near Eastern countries.

Captaincy Considered For Police

Judy Kuehnel Correspondent 644-1364

The South Windsor Town Council may approve a $15,000 police captain position in the 1975-76 budget, although no decision has been made as to when the position would be filled.

The position, which would be new in town, is budgeted for the second quarter of the fiscal year.

Town Manager Terry V. Sprinkel said a test would be ordered before the position is filled.

No commitments have been made, according to the town manager, and whether the town will add an extra patrolman to the force once the captain's position is filled is still undecided.

TV SETS NEW YORK (UPI) — There are more television sets than bathtubs in American homes.

A survey by RCA shows there are now some 121 million color and monochrome television sets in American homes, or more than the number of bathtubs, automobiles, washing machines or refrigerators in use, and not far behind the ubiquitous telephone.

They will present the most recently made film on the subject which will answer questions.

Refreshments will be served.

COVENTRY

The Bicentennial Commission recently submitted an interim report to the Town Council along with the information that West Lewis, has resigned as chairman but will continue to be a member of the commission.

John Hertzell, originally vice chairman, will replace Lewis as chairman.

The commission reported that 300 silver bicentennial medals have been struck and 6,000 bronze medallions.

The medallions are for sale and may be purchased by contacting any member of the commission.

The commission has been planning and working to leave the community with something permanent that would be a legacy of the Bicentennial and its working to restore two colonial buildings.

Work on the Brick School is progressing and the 1976 building is being furnished as it originally was used and as an place for exhibits and meeting place for community organizations.

The first Town Office, also known as the 1976 building is being renovated and decorated in its own period and will serve as bicentennial headquarters through 1978, then as a meeting place for community organizations.

The commission also hopes to be able to offer financial aid to the Coventry Historical Society and the Nathan Hale Ancient Piles and Drums in its efforts to build a drum shed which would serve as a community center and be available to other local groups or individuals for a nominal fee.

The commission indicated that its greatest obstacle to rest was the lack of community supply and the disappointing attendance at the dedication of the Bicentennial Plaque and the somewhat limited interest by Coventry residents in the Coventry Bicentennial Medal. More than half the medals sold have been mailed out of the state.

Freedom Fighter Dies

One of the world's most indomitable warriors against injustice and inhumanity, whether of Communist or Fascist origin, Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, is dead at 83 in Austria.

A fighter for freedom all his life, the Cardinal gained his greatest prominence when he became a fugitive to the American embassy in Budapest after Communist tanks had crushed the shortlived revolt of the Hungarian people. He was to live 15 years in that embassy as a guest of the United States.

The Cardinal had a long history of fighting for individual rights. As a young parish priest he was imprisoned shortly after World War I by Hungarian Communists.

In 1949 he was jailed and tortured by Communists and sentenced to life imprisonment. He had been jailed during World War II for protesting against slaughter of Hungarian Jews by the Nazis.

He was freed from his life sentence by Hungarian sympathizers during the brief Hungarian revolt. It was then that he fled to the protection of the U.S. embassy.

For more than half a century the name Mindszenty stood as a symbol of the fight of an individual against oppression from any quarter.

His death ought to be a reminder to us that the fight for freedom and individual liberty and human rights is never ending. Joseph Mindszenty fought that fight all of his 83 years.

Dear sir: The war in Indochina ended quickly and as we look at the shape of the world to come, I find that the only real tragedy of the war is that for the first time in the history of the world, the American government had an unfounded and immoral war.

The American people are suckers and we are going to pay the price for years to come.

We are taking refugees by the tens-of-thousands and from a humanitarian viewpoint we should receive the Nobel Peace Prize for Humanity, however, we should simultaneously receive the Chupue of the Century Award as well.

Why are we playing Mr. Nice Guy for the world in the middle of a race that as far as we were concerned ended two years ago?

Vernon Schedules Soccer Tryouts

Boys aged 10 through 12 and those aged 13 through 15, are invited to try out for soccer teams which will participate in the Connecticut Junior Soccer League this summer.

Donald Berger, recreation director, said Vernon will be represented by at least two and possibly three teams. Tryouts for boys 10 to 12 years of age will be at a later date, subject to the adult supervision available, Berger said.

Boys in the specified age groups wishing to try out for teams must register at the Recreation Department office in the Little Fish Building, Henry Park, between 4 and 7 p.m. on Wednesday and from 4 to 6 p.m. on Thursday and Friday of next week. A parent must come with the child to fill out the registration forms and sign them.

A schedule of practices will be announced with the league

Rockville Hospital Plans Orientation for Children

A series of programs designed to provide young people with the opportunity to become acquainted with Rockville General Hospital will be instituted May 28 at 3:15 p.m.

Robert C. Boardman, administrator of the hospital, said the program will be for area children aged 6 to 12 who belong to organized groups such as Brownies or Cub Scouts.

It is felt that the children should become familiar with the workings of the hospital before there is a need for their admission.

A film will be shown and several staff members will participate in a "Show and Tell"

Recruiter for Army To Use School Space

A request to use space in the Vernon school system's administration building to set up an Army recruiting office was granted Monday night by the Board of Education.

Capt. James Durbin explained that the recruiting office had been set up in the Rockville Post Office but due to a change in Army policy and funding, the post office can no longer be used.

Dr. Raymond Ramdell, superintendent of schools, told the board that there is space available in the administration building. He said this is the space which was used by the Vernon Adult Day School program which has been moved to the Union Church annex.

Capt. Durbin said he has had eight recruiting stations but he wants to reduce the span of control and consolidate some of the stations to give the best recruiting service possible for the Rockville area.

The motion to allow the use of the administration building was made by board member Steven Marcham, with the provision that the officers realize that it might be a temporary arrangement.

Durbin commented, "We are working hard to build you all a good volunteer Army."

Runaways Urged To Call Home

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 Chicago Tribune-CT, News Synd.

DEAR ABBY: Because I read in your column about that toll-free number, which allows runaway kids to call to let their parents know they are O.K., I re-established contact with my parents, went home and had the most wonderful Easter in my life. (I'm a 19-year-old boy who dropped out of school and hit the road 15 months ago.) Will you please run that item again, Abby?

LUCKY IN ILLINOIS

DEAR LUCKY: With pleasure. Runaways, dial 1-800-231-6946. An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the U.S. and convey a message from you. ("I'm alive, don't worry about me" is typical.) There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your call will not be traced, and the only question asked of you will be: "Do you need anything?" If you do, you'll be told where you can obtain it for free. No attempt will be made to bring you home, regardless of your age. Runaways, please forget the past and call that toll-free number now. Let somebody else know that you're alive. You will sleep better tonight, and so will they.

P.S. This wonderful program originated in Texas and has been adopted by 37 states! It's staffed by volunteers, including some grateful runaways who have come home.

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a very attractive man. We hit it off immediately, and I could get serious about him, but he told me something about himself that made me begin to wonder about him. Please don't laugh, because this is serious. He does need help! He is otherwise normal. Do you think I have a problem?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Yes. But the problem is with you, not him. Needing help is wonderfully relaxing. It calms the nerves, occupies restless hands, keeps smoking, and gives one a sense of real accomplishment. And neither sex has a monopoly on that!

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with "Red-Faced," who wrote to say that she was embarrassed to watch some of those TV commercials with her boyfriend. I've been in sales and advertising for over 50 years, and I recently became uneasy watching certain TV commercials with my daughter and son-in-law. I think the media is going out of bounds with some of the products they advertise. If the "red-faced" young lady will go to the public library and ask for an up-to-date copy of "Advertisers' Register," she will find the names and addresses of all major companies listed with the brand names they produce and the names of their executive personnel. She should then write a letter to the president of the company telling him why she thinks his advertising is offensive. It will be far more effective than writing to the F.C.C., as you recommended.

T.W.T.: TEXAN

DEAR T.W.T.: Thanks for the suggestion. Others have written to tell me that writing to the F.C.C. to complain about offensive TV commercials was a waste of time.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a log, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

South Windsor may have a museum if plans to move a 200-year-old pre-Revolutionary war home to the site of the former community center materialize. The idea, termed a Bicentennial project by the Bicentennial Commission and the South Windsor Historical Society, was recently presented to the Town Council. The home has still not been identified by officials until arrangements with its owners are complete. It is expected to be donated to the Bicentennial Commission and the Historical Society. The house is a two-story wood frame structure, large, and needs only minor restoration, according to Bicentennial Commission Chairman Russell Bursam. The work would be done gradually by the society. It is also proposed that the basement be used for small group meetings, such as scouts and clubs. South Windsor has been without a community hall for such activities since the community center located on old Main St. was destroyed by fire in 1973. Since then the town has been attempting to determine what to do with the land. Approximately $130,000 has been placed in a special account toward the development of a community center or the renovation of a building to be used as a community center. This money is insurance money from the original community hall. Officials from the South Windsor Chamber of Commerce have expressed interest in donating the architectural work, if the proposal to move the 200-year-old home materialize. The Bicentennial Commission and the Historical Society are expected to meet Thursday and the project will be discussed then. The next step is the gathering of estimates to move the house and the construction of a new foundation at the Main St. site.

Stans Fined $5,000 For Campaign Crimes

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, Richard M. Nixon's chief fund raiser in 1972, was fined a maximum $5,000 today but received no jail sentence on a five-count misdemeanor involving campaign funds.
U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith could have sentenced Stans, 57, to five years in prison. But the judge noted a five-count misdemeanor involving campaign funds.
Stans stressed to reporters that his crimes were merely technical violations of the law and that he believes has been cleared of any "Watergate wrongdoing."
"Believe I have been fully exonerated of any improper activity," he said. "These are technical matters on which I have operated and I believe I have vindicated my plea to the Senate Watergate committee in 1974 to give me back my good name."
The other two Nixon cabinet members who crossed the law were former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, convicted in the Watergate cover-up, and former Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, who pleaded guilty to withholding information from a Senate subcommittee—a misdemeanor.

Young Relief Ace Gets Acquainted

NEW YORK (UPI) - To most anyone other than Frank Robinson and his Cleveland Indian teammates, Dennis Eckerley is probably still looked upon in baseball circles as a reliever.
American League batters, however, are slowly becoming acquainted with the 20-year-old right-hander. So far, they've drawn a blank.
Latest to be introduced to Eckerley were the Minnesota Twins, who saw their bid to overtake the Indians Tuesday night choked off by the rookie right-hander yet to be tagged as an earned run.

Not to be overlooked was the way K.C. Jones, coach of the Washington Bullets, conducted himself on the bench in the series against the Boston Celtics that teeve featured.
The Celtics was just the opposite of Tom Heinsohn of the Celts who reminds one of a youngster who doesn't get his own way. Chico Vejar noted that Don Nelson of Hartford, who won his 10th straight pro fight against Joe Pageek, Rivera here last Saturday, took a cue from his manager using the number system. ANAHEIM (UPI) - Nolan Ryan didn't give up a hit until a leadoff seventh inning single by Bobby Bonds and finished with a two-hitter for his seventh win of the season Tuesday night in shutting out the New York Yankees 5-0 for the California Angels.
Improving his record to 7-1 and lowering his ERA to 1.94, Catcher Tom Egan led off the California seventh with only the second triple in his 10-year big league career and scored on Morris Metzger's single. Nettles came in from second with two out in the inning after a sacrifice by Billy Smith and an intentional walk to Mickey Vernon. Smith also delivered bases loaded double down the leftfield line off reliever Sparky Lyle for California's last two runs in the eighth.

Lucky Holtzman Enjoyed Himself

OKLAID (UPI) - Ken Holtzman finally got lucky and boy he enjoyed himself.
The hardluck Oakland A's left-hander made a rare relief appearance Tuesday night against the Boston Red Sox and wound up the winning pitcher even though he pitched to only one batter.
"Where have I been?" he asked after the A's had wrapped up a 9-1 victory over the Red Sox to stay a half game ahead of Texas in the American League West.
"Who do you figure this game, but I'm not complaining. This is partial retribution but I've got a long way to go to get even."
What Holtzman means is that he needs a few more "lucky" victories to make up for a half dozen games he pitched this year where he was the loser or wound up with no decision even though he had held the opposition to two or less runs.
The Red Sox had kayped Glenn Abbott with four runs in the fifth inning to let the score and Rick Burdison, who had doubled in three runs, was on third with two out when Holtzman came in. Carl Yastrzemski was the man Holtzman had to face and he wiped him out on three pitches.
"I can remember them," said Holtzman, "but I'm not going to look like the staff leader for whom the Pittsburgh Pirates have been searching.

Long NBA Season To End for One

OKLAID (UPI) - The 1974-75 National Basketball Association season comes to an end tonight for either the Chicago Bulls or the Golden State Warriors.
The clubs meet in the seventh and final game of the Western Conference playoff series with the winner going on to play the Washington Bullets for the NBA title and the loser going home and calling it a season.
The game will be televised nationally, starting at 6 p.m. PDT with no local blackout and odds makers list the Warriors, who got up off the floor in Chicago Sunday to tie the series at three victories each, as slight favorites.
"it has been an excellent series between two outstanding teams and all we can do is give it our best," said Warriors Coach Al Attles Tuesday after running his team through a drill and then retiring to view films nationally.
No one is surprised the Bulls are where they are at this late date. Before the season started everyone figured they were a cinch to make the playoffs and had a shot at the championship.

He Didn't See One That Night

I've got this friend who swears this is a true story and I have no reason not to believe him.

It's about the "Sounds of the City (of Village Charm)" and what brought it all about is a remark he heard by a woman commenting about the recent murder in broad daylight, on Downtown Manchester Main St.

"Things like this don't happen in a town like Manchester," is what she said.

My friend's story covers an hour-and-a-half - the length of time it took him to walk the six miles from Exit 92 of the Wilbur Cross Parkway to his home, off Rts. 6 and 4A and past Manchester Green.

Reluctant to challenge the "no hitchhiking" law and even more reluctant to find his name in the Police Report, my friend decided to walk home - Center St., E. Center St., and E. Middle Tpke. after Manchester Green.

A few minutes into his walk, he was passed by a car being driven at a high speed. The car skidded to a stop, was backed up and stopped when it came parallel with him.

He reached the Green and started on the last leg of his journey. Stopping for a beer at his favorite tavern, he found the place crowded with young people.

His next two observations were interesting and quiet. First, he saw what appeared to be a Teddy Bear dangling from an overhead wire.

He continued on his way but to jump to avoid "several hot-rodders," exiting at high speed from the parking lot of an adjoining drive-in.

A couple of blocks further east, he passed another residence where an argument "or shouting match" was in progress.

When he came to the Center, the Post Office turned red and a car heading west had to stop. A second car behind it also stopped and two men jumped out, ran to the first car and, using loud and abusive language, challenged the driver and passenger to a fight. The two locked their doors and refused.

Meantime, a line of about a dozen cars were stopped, with horns blaring and people shouting. "Let's go. The light changed. Three times before the first car moved. The two men from the second car got in their vehicle and followed.

During all this, my friend noticed several youths across the street, dancing and drinking on the sidewalk outside a "packed to capacity" cafe.

My friend continued on his journey. A few blocks further, he passed another residence, where an argument appeared to be in progress. He saw a man rush out of the house, jump in his car and back it out of the driveway. My friend had to jump fast to avoid being hit.

He continued his trip. In a parking lot serving a group of stores he saw and heard a youth practicing hot-rodding in what appeared to be a souped-up car. "He was glad to get out of hearing range of the screaming tires."

His next two observations were interesting and quiet. First, he saw what appeared to be a Teddy Bear dangling from an overhead wire. Then he saw "a beautiful sight," among the predominantly ugly sights and sounds of the night. He passed a home with the windows divided into panes of glass and with handsome knick-knacks exhibited.

He reached the Green and started on the last leg of his journey. Stopping for a beer at his favorite tavern, he found the place crowded with young people. His behavior was good, but their language "brutal," he recalls.

His last observation, before reaching his home, was of two youths in two cars, "racing like cheetahs."

However, around the corner it was something else again. He saw a car with the entire roof covered with beer cans and near the car about a dozen youths - male and female - performing acrobatic feats.

"Like cheer leaders," is how he recalls it.

Head Start Notes Tenth Anniversary

National Head Start Day is today, which is the tenth anniversary of the Head Start Program.

This event will honor the nationwide Head Start program for pre-school children from low-income families.

To celebrate National Head Start Day locally, the Manchester Head Start will have an open house Thursday from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Head Start will sponsor a fair Saturday at Orford Village from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. featuring crafts made by children of at tremendous speed on the recently widened highway." He remembers saying to himself, "It's lucky traffic's light."

So, I asked him. "What impressed me the most," he said, "is that, in that whole six miles, in that whole hour-and-a-half, I didn't see one police car. Sure, they could have been ahead of me or behind me. I see police cars all the time in Manchester. I didn't see one that night."

Parliamentary Tactic Delays Marijuana Bill Action to '76

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today she made clear to Senate leaders her opposition to a bill decriminalizing the personal use of marijuana.

But, Mrs. Grasso said, she did not orchestrate the demise of the measure in the Senate, which Tuesday postponed consideration of the measure until next year.

Sen. Lawrence DeNardis, R-Hartford, charged that Mrs. Grasso was behind the bill's defeat in order to protect her ambitions for future national office.

"His clairvoyance never ceases to amaze me," Mrs. Grasso said.

She denied again that she has her eyes on the vice presidential spot on the Democratic ticket next year.

Mrs. Grasso said she did make her position clear to the Senate leaders.

"I let them know just about what you and I have been discussing," she told newsmen.

Proponents of the measure were ready for debate, but before they realized what had happened, the proposal was dead.

Sen. David H. Neiditz, D-West Hartford, who had helped draft the bill, made the motion to defer it to the next legislative session. Without objection by any senator, the bill was removed from consideration.

DeNardis, realizing too late what happened to his proposal, tried to bring it back for floor debate, but was overruled.

Neiditz said later he didn't think there were sufficient votes for the bill and he wanted to avoid bitter debate.

"I knew we didn't have the votes," Neiditz said. "I didn't want to harden positions. I knew the votes weren't there."

DeNardis said he believed Mrs. Grasso was behind the maneuvering to avoid a politically embarrassing bill.

Washington (UPI) — Already in the fund-raising lead among 1976 Democratic presidential aspirants, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., raised $108,125 Tuesday night in Washington's first big presidential money soliciting gala.

The funds raised by Jackson from 1,489 dinners will be matched dollar-for-dollar by the federal treasury under terms of the 1974 campaign finance reform law.

Jackson and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama are met by the law's requirement for raising $100,000 in 20 states to qualify for matching funds to be used in the 1976 presidential primaries.

MHS Senior Fills Vacancy On Commission on Aging

By SOL R. COHEN
Manchester High School senior John W. Mrosek of 143 Boulder Rd. Tuesday night was appointed by the Board of Directors to the Commission on Aging. He will fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Mary Willhide. His term is to November 1977.

A Republican appointee, Mrosek is believed to be the youngest Manchester resident ever named to an official town board, agency or commission — other than the Youth Commission.

Mrosek is student representative on the Manchester Board of Education. He will attend Clark University, Worcester, Mass.

Another Republican appointee, Mrs. Mary Comp of 97 Hollister St., was named to the Human Relations Commission, to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Naomi Peck. The term expires November of this year. Several other appointments were labeled.

Mayor John Thompson praised the contributions of youth and its "positive and constructive thinking" and proclaimed today "Head Start Day" in Manchester, as it is in the state and nation; and proclaimed Saturday and Sunday "Manchester IOH Days."

IOH (Instructors of the Handicapped) conducts sessions each Sunday afternoon in the Manchester High School Swimming Pool.

Thompson urged the public to attend IOH's Open House Sunday afternoon at Manchester High School.

"We read so much of the bad things our few trouble makers do; it's time we recognized the many good things the majority of them do," said Thompson.

It is for those town residents who wish to file comments, complaints or suggestions on any subject in the board's jurisdiction.

Bid Waiver Puts Town In Leaf-Bag Business

Thanks to a bid waiver signed Tuesday night by the Board of Directors, the Town of Manchester will be back in the leaf-bag business again in a few weeks.

The bid waiver permits the town to buy its bags for resale at cost from Arco/Polymers of Chicago. The waiver was required because the bags are slightly smaller than specified in an advertisement for bids. They are slightly smaller also than the bags sold two years ago by the town at $2.25 for a box of 50.

These bags (dark green in color and in tear-off rolls) will sell at $2.25 for 30, tax included. They are included.

The bags are an over-run of an order for Kansas City, Mo. The first shipment (about 200,000 bags) is expected in a few weeks. The town is guaranteed 400,000 bags and may get as many as 600,000.

They will be on sale in the town's firehouse. Announcement of their availability and other details will be forthcoming later.

The USS Pueblo: Still in North Korea

By LAWRENCE OLSEN
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — On a cold winter day in 1968 off the coast of North Korea the tiny electronics intelligence ship USS Pueblo bobbed into an international maelstrom when Communist gunboats fired on it and forced its surrender.

The Cambodian seizure of the unarmed American cargo ship Mayaguez and its 39 American crewmen Monday occurred just as unpredictably and evoked memories of that capture more than seven years ago.

North Korean gunboats seized the Pueblo, crammed with sophisticated electronic intelligence gathering equipment, on Jan. 23, 1968, claiming the vessel had penetrated the Communist nation's 12-mile territorial limit to carry out spy activities.

Then U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk described the incident as "in the category of actions to be construed as an act of war." But despite that, the Pueblo became the first American warship since 1807 to suffer the insult of being boarded in peacetime by foreigners on the high seas.

Before Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher and his surviving 81 crewmen were released after 11 months of captivity and torture, the Communists demanded and received an American admission of intrusion — one which the U.S. immediately repudiated.

While the men were kept in a prison near the North Korean capitol of Pyongyang, the incident became a nagging issue in America as private and unsuccessful talks dragged on between the U.S. and the Communists.

Individuals formed committees to pressure the government to take "necessary" action to free the men, while the question of blame for the seizure and what was to be done about the crew became an issue in the 1968 presidential campaign.

Some, including the Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom who formed the "Remember The Pueblo Committee," advocated a hard line approach to the seizure that included taking the ship by force if necessary. Others, like then-Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., urged the State Department to "seek justice" before the World Court.

During their capture, the Pueblo crew became the victims of a concentrated application of physical and psychological torture that included the threat of execution until "confessions" were signed by Bucher and others that the Pueblo's spy mission had taken them into North Korean territorial waters.

The men also became the instruments of a concerted propaganda campaign on the part of the North Koreans to portray as humane the treatment received by the crew and support the claim that the "confessions" were willingly offered.

Photographs were circulated showing some of the men pointing to maps and talking with journalists while tables piled with food stood in the foreground. The crewmen, in turn, used sign language in group photographs later translated by deaf-clubbers to spell out a message of "help."

The ordeal did not end when Bucher and his crew walked into South Korea on Dec. 22, 1968. A five-admiral Navy court ended a three-month inquiry in 1969 by recommending that Bucher and his executive officer, Edward R. Murphy Jr., be tried before a court-martial.

What is your breakfast worth?

Maybe more than you thought. Possibly less.

But to be sure that you're getting your money's worth here are a few things to consider before your next shopping trip.

Cereal cost?

Cereals can vary quite a bit in price. That's where unit price tags come in handy. Use them to compare the cost of regular and fortified cereals: Sugared and non-sugared types. Ready-to-eat cereals and the kind you cook. Remember, the hot cereals expand in cooking and may be a better value than you think. And remember, natural cereals are heavier than flakes or puffs, so compare the number of servings per package in addition to the cost per pound.

Cereal Type	Price Range Per Pound
Ready-to-eat cereals (ex: Kellogg's Corn Flakes, Cheerios, Wheat Chex)	.65 to $1.17
Sugar-coated ready-to-eat cereals (ex: Fruit Loops, Cocoa Krispies, Sugar Frosted Flakes)	.89 to $1.51
Natural cereals (ex: Alpen, Heartland, Natural Valley Granola)	.85 to .99
Hot cereals (ex: Reg. Quaker Oats, Mix 'n Eat, Cream of Wheat)	.47 to $1.23

(Figures from current shelf prices, May 7, 1975 for all Stop & Shop Stores)

Health cost?

Consider your cereal's contribution to your health. Is it really nutritious? Each package carries information to help you decide which cereal is your best value, nutritionally. Read it carefully. You need bulk in your diet, too. And the more refined a food product becomes the less bulk it contains. Whole grain cereal (such as Quaker Rolled Oats, Wheatena, Alpen, Kellogg's All-Bran, Grape-nuts, puffed wheat, shredded wheat, Wheaties and Wheat Chex) are less processed and contain more of the roughage your family needs.

How about sugar?

The ingredients are printed on the package in order of their weight. If sugar is listed first or second, that means sugar is a predominant ingredient. So, compare again... and try to choose a cereal with a little less sugar. The more sugar, the more empty calories your children eat. Caution them not to snack on cereal. With no milk to wash down the sugar, they increase its build-up on teeth, and, the risk of cavities.

Catholic Women Hear Msgr. Farrell Thursday

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph E. Farrell, former pastor of the Church of the Assumption, will be guest speaker for the Manchester Council of Catholic Women Thursday at 8 p.m. in the hall of Assumption Church.

Msgr. Farrell is the founder and administrative director of Resurrection House, a halfway house for male alcoholics in New Britain.

Msgr. Farrell was appointed pastor of St. Mary Church in New Britain in 1962 after serving at Assumption Church. He received his title as Monsignor the following year.

In 1968, Msgr. Farrell resigned as pastor of St. Mary Church to start a Friendship Center on Elm St., New Britain, where the homeless alcoholic may come for food and friendship.

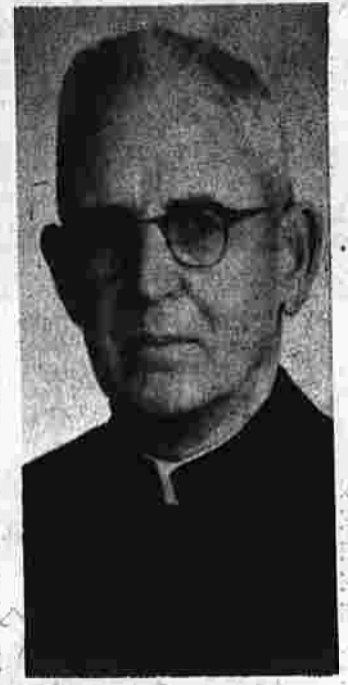

In 1972, he fulfilled his dream of starting a halfway house for those suffering from alcoholism in the establishment of Resurrection House in the former convent of St. Mary parish.

The purpose of Resurrection House is to provide a home for individuals, suffering from alcoholism, who are employable, but who need an intensive program of counseling and supervision when not at work.

In the six-month program, men are resocialized and rehabilitated so they may be gradually restored to society and, in some instances, reunited with their families.

Msgr. Farrell was chosen by the New Britain Press Club as its man of the year in 1972 for his devotion to church, community and fellow man.

Last year, Msgr. Farrell and

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph E. Farrell

John P. Conlin, then chairman of the board of directors of Resurrection House and presently administrative assistant there, were honored for their contribution to the field of alcoholism.

Msgr. Farrell lives at the Resurrection House but keeps active in the affairs of Friendship Center.

Hostesses for the event are Mrs. Walter McNally and Miss Frances R. Idzkowski, representatives to the council. Mrs. Catherine Conkling, a parishioner of Assumption Church, is the outgoing president of MCCW.

Healy Negotiating for Purchase Of Vacant Grant's on Main St.

The publisher of a five-week-old Manchester weekly newspaper surprised the Board of Directors Tuesday night by announcing his company, the Sundex Corp., has purchased the long-time vacant building at 811-821 Main St.

Raymond Healy, president of Sundex Corp. and publisher of the Manchester Observer, said he paid $125,000 for the building formerly occupied by the W.T. Grant Co., that he plans renovations estimated at $140,000 and that he will locate his newspaper operation there.

There is no confirmation of the purchase by any town official. The owner of record is Abraham Druckman of New York City.

Druckman, contacted by telephone at his New York City home today, said he has successfully completed negotiations with the Manchester Observer for sale of the downtown Manchester building, although the building hasn't been sold.

Druckman said a closing of the deal is scheduled Friday in New York.

About $26,000 in back taxes is due on the property and Town Counsel William Bronelli has instituted a tax foreclosure action.

Tuesday night, Healy asked the directors to waive payment of the overdue taxes, "or at least some consideration for a building standing vacant so long." He insisted it's unfair to levy taxes on such a dilapidated building.

Healy then delivered a tirade against the board, the manager and the mayor. He asked for permission to use a high-powered tape recorder at all board meetings, so that an accurate record can be had of all board proceedings and the public be kept informed. He said he won't appear at any more board meetings and will assign reporting them to his reporters.

None of the directors had any comment — during his appearance or after he left.

Bronelli told the board he will pursue action on the tax foreclosure and assured the directors there's no danger of any tax loss to the town. The eventual action, he said, could be a court order to sell the building at auction.
