SS Mayaguez Rescue Operation Completed by Marine Force

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Helicopters flying after dark today rescued a Marine assault force from under heavy Communist gunfire on Koh Tang island off the Cambodian coast, the Pentagon said.

Pentagon spokesman Joseph Laitin said the last helicopter took off at 9:10 a.m. EDT from the little island and landed 10 minutes later on the deck of the carrier Coral Sea about 10 miles out in the Gulf of Siam.

Laitin said military officials believe that helicopter carried the last of approximately 200 Marines put on the island Wednesday night as part of a successful military effort to free the American merchant ship Mayaguez and its crew of 40 Americans from their Cambodian captors.

At least one Marine, and maybe two, died in the day-long battle and "many" were wounded, the Pentagon said.

Laitin said the destroyers Holt and Wilson, both steaming less than 1,000 yards off the shore of the island, would continue a search for any Marines left behind until a count could prove that all had been rescued.

The successful night-time rescue — riskier than the one the Pentagon had hoped to carry out in the fading hours of the daylight — took place after initial attempts to send helicopters in for the Marines were repulsed by heavy Communist gunfire from the island.

Some of the wounded were evacuated early, and indications were that at least eight wounded were among those Marines still on the island. But the Pentagon said the assault force was "not pinned down."

President Ford, carefully observing the chief executive to explain to Congress any military action, today officially sent to the Senate and the House his report of his successful order to retake the Mayaguez.

Ford's two-page letter did not substantially go beyond his earlier public statements but summarized the use of force within 48 hours of the first action as required by the legislation.

Marines boarded the Mayaguez from an American destroyer at mid-morning Asia time (Wednesday night EDT) and others were landed on the island in two waves by helicopter. Three helicopters were lost and two damaged in the assault.

The Mayaguez crew — 40 Americans and five Thais — were later released by the Cambodians in a fishing boat under a white flag.

Defense Secretary James Schlesinger at an early morning news conference called the operation "entirely successful" and paid tribute to the "professional skill" of the Marines.

Ford drew strong bipartisan praise from Congress for ordering the rescue after diplomatic efforts failed to get the ship, captured in international waters Monday.

Presidential aides said the use of American warships, aircraft and Marines underscored his promise that the United States will not retreat from potential adversaries following debacles in Cambodia and Vietnam.

More than 12 hours after the island assault at 7:20 p.m. EDT Wednesday, the Pentagon reported that several attempts to remove a force of nearly 200 Marines by helicopter had been beaten back by communist ground fire from the island. But the Pentagon said the Marines were "not pinned down."

President Ford ordered the recapture of the Mayaguez Wednesday night after two days of diplomatic relations failed and the Khmer Rouge government in Cambodia refused to return the ship.

After air strafing sunk three Cambodian gunboats Wednesday and drove others away, Marines boarded the Mayaguez near the tiny island of Koh Tang 30 miles off the Cambodian coastline. The vessel was unoccupied but there was warm food still in the galley.

The Marines were landed on Koh Tang by helicopter and Navy fighters bombed an airfield on the Cambodian mainland in an effort to forestall any Cambodian air support to the island, Schlesinger said. 17 Cambodian airplanes were destroyed, many of them small craft.

The attacks Wednesday night, Washington time, apparently convinced the captors to release the crewmen. A Thai fishing boat with a white flag flying approached the destroyer USS Wilson. The fishing boat carried the 40 American and five Thai crewmen.

The Mayaguez was towed out of the area and it boilers restarted to resume the voyage to Hong Kong.

"I have now received information that the vessel has been recovered intact and that the entire crew has been rescued," Ford said in personally announcing the results of the attack shortly after midnight. "The forces that have successfully accomplished this mission are still under hostile fire but are preparing to disengage."

Ford today prepared a formal report to Congress on the operation as required under the 1973 war Powers Act. He informed congressional leaders before he took the action and generally has

Car Retrieved from Globe Hollow

Station wagon driven by Cynthia Keating of Glastonbury is raised today from Globe Hollow Reservoir, where it landed after 12:20 a.m. accident. Miss Keating, 18, told police she was forced off S. Main St. by an oncoming vehicle; she wasn't hurt. The car took down about 130 feet of chain-link fence before stopping, submerged in about 20 feet of water. The car was raised at about 10:30 a.m. by Moriarty Bros. David Ozimek, a Moriarty employe and certified SCUBA diver, borrowed equipment from Innerspace Divers Supply to get at the vehicle. Investigation is continuing. (Herald photo by Bevins)

Senators Approve President Ford's Handling of Cambodian Incident

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senators from both parties today praised President Ford's handling of the Mayaguez incident, saying the action should strengthen the United States' image abroad.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he gives the President "high marks." Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine said the outcome "should be satisfying to all of us." Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he was grateful that Ford showed enough "guts to do what he should have done."

The accolades came hours after Ford announced on nationwide television that the American merchant ship Mayaguez, which along with its 45-man crew was seized by the Cambodians Monday, had been freed by Marines during a wide-scale military operation that involved airplanes, helicopters, ships and troops.

"I must say I give him high marks for the way in which he handled it," said Jackson, who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976. "The President deserves high marks and I would be the first to commend him. He did basically the right thing."

Goldwater said he approved President Ford's actions.

"It's the only thing he could have done."

"I'm glad he did it because this country needs an indication of strength and leadership in the President's office and he's finally come through with it."

"I think other nations are going to leave us alone and having not done what he did every little, as I say, half-ass nation in the world would be taking shots at us. And I think now there's going to think twice before they try it."

"I thank God we have a President who has show guts enough to do what he should have done," Goldwater added.

Jackson and Goldwater were interviewed on the NBC Today show.

Muskie and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, both said they were "gratified" by the outcome of the operation.

"I think that their (the crews) safety and recovery should have been and was our first objective and the outcome should be satisfying to all of us," Muskie said.

Church said he thought Ford "acted wisely under the circumstances and is to be commended for the direction he gave to the crisis."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield told reporters: "I'm just relieved it's turned out as it has. It's over with apparently."

"I think that President Ford is very much against a re-involvement in Indochina, and I'm sure that, watching him last evening, this decision was a very hard one for him to make."

Panel Says Experts Believe Deficit Can Be Absorbed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress' Joint Economic Committee says 20 of 28 experts it polled believe the financial markets can absorb a $75 billion federal deficit without the ruinous consequences foreseen by Treasury Secretary William Simon.

That word came as both houses gave final approval Wednesday to a resolution committing Congress to a budget of $367 billion and a deficit of $68.8 billion in fiscal 1976, which starts July 1.

Backers of the resolution say the congressional budgetary targets carry a lot more economic stimulus than President Ford's budget.

Republican Charles Whalen of Ohio, one of the few members of his party to support the resolution, says it will result in an unemployment rate in 1976 a full percentage point below the 8 per cent level the administration has forecast.

The congressional deficit exceeds the $60 billion deficit which Simon claims is the outward boundary of prudence.

Simon and chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve say a bigger deficit would crowd private borrowers from the credit markets, pump up interest rates, abort recovery, rekindle inflation and ultimately lead to an even more severe recession.

But 20 of 28 economists and financial experts said the markets could accommodate deficits of up to $50 billion in the current fiscal year and up to $75 billion in fiscal 1976.

Five disagreed and three were uncertain of the consequences.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, has complained that Congress was hoodwinked by all the talk about the danger of deficits and should be prepared to accrue a $100 billion deficit if that is what it takes to get America back to work.

Overseas Reaction To Mayaguez Mixed

By United Press International
A London newspaper said today the United States was justified in military action to rescue the SS Mayaguez and its crew from the Cambodians, but foreign ministers of five Southeast Asian nations were reported deeply concerned by the action.

"The Americans were justified in going to the limit to rescue their men and their ship," the Daily Mail of London said.

"But nothing can quite wipe out this final insult to American pride in Southeast Asia. Before the defeat in Vietnam, a handful of Communist gunboats would never have dared to seize a ship belonging to the mighty United States."

The Times of London said, "This time it would be difficult to blame the United States administration for what occurred."

"This was clearly an act of piracy—indeed, being carried out by the naval forces of another country, an act of war—which no government could ignore," the Times said.

The Guardian newspaper, however, said President Ford's decision to use force may have been hasty and reckless.

"Far from intimidating the Khmer Rouge, it may have pushed events bloodily out of control," the Guardian said.

In Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, however, an official attending the meeting of foreign ministers of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations said the diplomats viewed "with grave concern" the recapture of the Mayaguez and crew by U.S. Marines.

Thailand's foreign minister, Chatchai Choonhavan, briefed the diplomats on the Mayaguez affair, which strained Thai-U.S. relations, but refused to comment to newsmen.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik told newsmen, "We are very unhappy over the developments and it is something which is causing us great concern."

Filipino delegation sources said Philippines Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo was particularly concerned that the American military intervention had taken place at a time when the foreign ministers were discussing ways to maintain peace in the region.

Theater Workshop Set By Tri-Town Players

The Tri-Town Players will sponsor an open theater workshop/discussion Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Lottie Fisk Building in Henry Park, Rockville. The public is invited to attend.

The workshop will focus on the production aspects of community theater. Making presentations in various areas will be Dr. Donald L. Murray, professor of dramatic arts at the University of Connecticut; Jess Goldstein, an instructor in costumeing at UConn; Mrs. J. Robbins of Vernon who has worked in public relations; and J. Alan Rice of Manchester, who has studied directing and acting under Broadway actor Arnold Moss. Moss will be the narrator Sunday for the Manchester Civic Orchestra's performance of "Return to Life" by Berlioz at the Vernon Center Middle School.

Murray will discuss problems in scene design and stage lighting. He has designed lights and sets for numerous productions at UConn and elsewhere. He has served as a lighting consultant for various high schools.

Refreshments will be served. Admission is free. For further information, call J. Alan Rice at 647-9298.

Herald Newsman Doug Bevins is on the scene when it happens and where it happens

"Versatility" is the word used most often to describe Herald newsman Doug Bevins. In his four years with The Herald, he's written about almost every subject that has surfaced in and around Manchester.

It's often said that a reporter has to know a little about everything, but Doug Bevins isn't satisfied with just a little. When he writes about something, he goes all the way to make his story the most complete and understandable article possible.

A glimpse through his files shows the variety of stories he's handled — from banks, block grants, and business; through highways, libraries, and police; to sewers, television, storms, and zoning.

He's even dabbled in politics, theater reviewing, and travel writing. But reporting isn't his only task at The Herald. When necessary, he fills in as an editor and as a photographer. He's editor of The Herald's new weekly entertainment magazine, Weekend, which appears each Saturday.

But he doesn't go much beyond that. He's never sold an advertisement, and he doesn't know how to run the printing press. Chances are he never will, because he's too busy helping make The Herald one of Connecticut's best newspapers.

Lydall St. Sewer Issue Awaits Report of Study

By SOL R. COHEN
 Pending a report and recommendation from its 11-member "Blue Ribbon" Sewer Study Committee, the Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night tabled action on a request from First Hartford Realty for sanitary sewers in Lydall St.

The proposal is for a public hearing item May 8 and, between then and Tuesday, the abutting property owners had been briefed on the plans and the possible cost by Director of Public Works Jay Giles.

The proposal is for constructing the sewers under a Developer's Agreement. First Hartford would pay the entire cost — estimated at about $6,000 — and would collect from those who tie into the system within 10 years of its construction. These tying in after 10 years would pay the town.

In both instances, the abutting property owners would be assessed under a front-footage formula, estimated presently at about $19.25 per front foot.

Last week, when the directors said they'd refer the proposal to their "Blue Ribbon" committee for a report and recommendation, Leonard Seader, one of the committee members, removed himself from any participation. Seader is a vice president of First Hartford Realty.

In reporting on his meetings with 10 or 15 of the 20 abutting property owners, Giles said there wasn't much opposition to the sewers but considerable opposition to the method of assessing.

The proposed sewer would start at Esquire Dr., would run to Vernon St., where a 150 foot spur would be constructed northward on Vernon St., then continue about 500 feet easterly on Lydall St. to a 60-unit condominium village First Hartford is constructing.

Joel Janenda, counsel for one of the abutting property owners, repeated his remarks of a week ago.

He charged the assessment formula is unfair and inequitable and an arbitrary method of deciding who benefits and who doesn't benefit.

He said First Hartford Realty will benefit the most, yet would recoup its cost in full — by adding sewer-installation costs to the sales price for each of the 60 condominium units and by being reimbursed by the 20 abutting property owners, providing they tie in within 10 years.

Janenda recommended a 60 to 20 split in the formula for front-foot assessments, with First Hartford Realty paying three-quarters and the 20 abutting property owners the other quarter. He recommended "a hard look at who is benefitting the most" before the board takes any action.

Town Manager Robert Weiss warned Janenda's recommendation, if followed, would set a bad precedent and could be the cause for disputes (on the basis of benefit) whenever and wherever sanitary sewers are constructed.

Weiss recommended affirmative action for construction of the Lydall St. sewers. He said permission for the construction wouldn't establish a formula for assessments of the Lydall St. sewers. He said the board, however, decided not to act. Instead, it voted to table action until the "Blue Ribbon" committee reports.

Police Report Rise In Property Thefts

Actions reported by the Manchester Police Department for the month of April stayed about the same in most areas as in March, said Chief Robert Lannan in his monthly report to the town manager.

Property thefts increased from $59,968 to $69,448. Property recovered stayed about the same at $19,249.

Arrests for both felonies (with a maximum penalty of over one year in prison) and misdemeanors dropped to 154 from 157 in March. There were only 96 such arrests in April, 1974.

Since the addition of the two-man traffic control division, there have been changes in the traffic charges. Moving violations jumped to 262 from 151 in March and 61 in April, 1974.

Non-moving violations (parking mostly) dropped to 198 from 696 in March. There were 245 in April, 1974.

Warnings for traffic violations (parking mostly) dropped to 26 from 50,016 in March and 50,305 in April, 1974.

Totals for assistance rose to 2,213 from 2,144 in March and 1,893 in April, 1974.

Complaints about animals rose to 151 from 122 in March.

Ellington To Revive July 4 Parade

Things are shaping up for Ellington's first July 4 parade in many, many years under the guidance of the Bicentennial Commission and a committee headed by Daniel McKeever who will be parade marshal.

At a meeting Wednesday afternoon, McKeever outlined some of the plans and called for participation of individuals and groups from area towns not planning to have a July 4 parade this year.

While making plans for this year's activities McKeever is thinking about bigger and better plans for the July 4, 1976 parade which will be the real bicentennial celebration.

The Rev. Sheldon Smith of the Ellington Congregational Church, has been working for months putting together and training an Ellington Train Band much like the one that trained on the green 200 years ago. This will probably be the band's second public appearance as it is planning to participate in the Memorial Day parade next weekend.

McKeever said plans are to have the parade form at the firehouse on Rt. 286 (Main St.) to march west to the traffic cross-over opposite the Congregational Church, turn right and travel west along Rt. 140, (Maple St.) and march down to Highway Rd. where it will disband.

The line of march will run 1.3 miles, McKeever said, adding it will probably be the longest distance marched in Ellington in a number of years.

McKeever especially made a plea for all townspeople to participate in some way in the parade's activities which tentatively will include a picnic lunch and all kinds of games, to start after the parade ends.

Concerning the theme of the parade, McKeever said he wants to first "provide for rekindling the spirit of patriotism among the townspeople."

He said, "This will be a day of commemoration of our nation's great heritage." He expressed the hope that having the July 4 parade will set a precedent for years to come.

The following persons will be coordinators of the various units: Mrs. Peg Cardin of the Ellington Junior Women's Club will have charge of floats; Mrs. Marjorie Brady, representing the Ellington Women's Club, will coordinate the bands and other musical groups; Ronald Stomberg, representing the Ellington Volunteer Fire Department, will oversee getting other departments to participate in the parade.

Bernard Stein, representing the American Legion of Ellington, will have charge of getting military marching groups to participate in the parade and to promote a campaign to get townspeople to fly a flag, especially starting Flag Day, June 14.

Mrs. Elaine Woudby will coordinate the Brownies, Junior Girl Scouts, and cadets; Dana Wilcock, the Cub Scouts; Herbert Setzer, Boy Scouts; and Kathy McDuff, political participants.

John Roberts will have charge of the Reddington Rock Riding Club; Gordon Getchell, antique cars; and Leonard Johnson, recreational activities already submitted a request to the state to close the roads leading into the center of town until after the parade is finished. He said Kingly Whitum, head of the Park Committee, has promised to put the athletic field in shape before parade day.

Anyone wishing further information about the parade should call McKeever at 872-8373 or 872-8374 or Mrs. Sally Vaughn, chairman of the commission.

Bolton Sets Guideline For Study of Curriculum

Donna Holland
Correspondent
446-0375

Guidelines concerning the functioning of the Bolton school system curriculum council have been established.

The guidelines are being shared with the staff of Bolton's three schools so that everyone will understand the council's functions as well as the responsibilities of its members.

The functions of the council are:

- 1) To provide overall direction and coordination in curriculum development, implementation and evaluation for kindergarten through Grade 12. Within the first function, emphasis is given to the need for a close working relationship between the council, kindergarten through Grade 8 curriculum leaders, Grade 9 through 12 department heads and representatives of additional responsibility areas.

- 2) To give particular attention to articulation between curriculum areas and consolidation of curriculum areas where possible and feasible.
- 3) To assess, to recommend areas for curriculum revision and to provide a three-year curriculum development schedule with budget implications.
- 4) To assess completed curriculum revisions and to submit them with recommendations to the superintendent.
- 5) To recommend to the superintendent in-service programs for curriculum implementation.
- 6) To keep the professional staff and the community aware and informed of its work. Particular emphasis is to be placed on council members' responsibility to keep school staff informed of its work and to have teachers' questions, concerns, problems, channelled through council members to the total council.

Council members for the 1975-1976 school year are Slegnar Blamberg, chairman, Maureen Simons, Laura Socchewicz, Joseph Shanahan, Kenneth Roy, John Eagles, Joseph Fleming and Raymond Allen.

Parish To Elect Officers

BOLTON

St. Maurice Church parish council will hold elections at the Sunday evening mass and the Sunday morning masses to fill seven vacancies on the council.

There are 12 candidates seeking a seat on the council. Each vacancy is for a two-year term.

The candidates are Janos Decsy, Bill Minor, Alice Maylew, Bernice Bailey, Maureen Mozzer, Marie Peters, Vi Sobol, Ray Lamaine, Ray Coccon, Hank Poier and Gerard Dauterel.

Special Education Good, Costly Kerkin Tells Vernon School Board

"Vernon is in pretty good shape as far as providing special education programs mandated by the state but there still remains the fact that the programs are expensive for towns to run," Albert Kerkin, assistant superintendent, told the Vernon Board of Education Monday night.

Kerkin said there is quite a bit of confusion as to just what special education means. He said the state requires that each public school system provide education for all children. It also requires that the "exceptional" children must be educated from age 3 through 21.

He explained that exceptional means a child who is unique in any way which would require special programming. "This exceptionality is determined by educational, psychological, and medical records," he said. He added that the state mandated programs cover a wide span of categories.

And that the local board review, annually, the progress of each student receiving special education in any private school or on request of the state board secretary submit these reports to the state board.

William Houle, chairman of the Vernon board, asked Kerkin to explain how the town is reimbursed for these special education programs. He noted that at least one member of the "true condition, progress and needs of special education in town and regional boards of education."

The new legislation also requires local and regional boards to file reimbursement claims for annual audit by state auditors.

Unless certain conditions, determined by the secretary of the state board, no additional children primarily requiring special education will be placed in a private school, agency or institution outside the state.

Some of the exceptions would be if no public or approved private state facility is available which could reasonably provide suitable special education programs for such children:

Harkins Commended On Town Report

The Board of Selectmen Tuesday accepted the 1975-76 annual Town Report, with a commendation to the town manager for a job well done.

John Harkins, in turn, thanked Debra Quatrelle for editing the document, and his wife, Joan, for her drawings.

He said that the report, which was circulated to every family with the delivery of a weekly newspaper, cost less than last year.

Cliff Williams complained the size of the report made it awkward to store with his past issues, and questioned the omission of the assistant town clerk's name. Harkins apologized for the omission, which he said was one of three. Barbara Danforth commented it was the "most interesting" town report she's seen.

The selectmen made four appointments to the Tolland Health Council, all recommendations by the council. Appointed were: Phil Nangle, Ro Smore, Judi Goldstein, and Irene Candito.

Also, on a request of the council, the town manager will contact several area towns to begin discussion of a health district.

In other notes to the selectmen, Harkins said 16 students have been declared eligible for employment and are working in various capacities for the town.

Improvements have been started at Crandall's Park, including improvements to the upper ballfield, and the moving of a small building from across the street to be used as concession stand. The former stand will be used for storage.

Five catch basins and 1,257 feet of underdrain were installed along Metcalf Rd. Bituminous concrete will be installed shortly to complete the project.

The state Department of Transportation has selected the Hockanum Valley Community Services Council application for forwarding to the Urban Mass. Transit Administration. The application was one of fourteen selected from 36 applications. The approval will mean the gift of a small bus to transport elderly and handicapped persons in the tri-town area of Tolland, Ellington and Vernon.

Tolland Club Women Win Art Awards

Vivian Kenneson
Correspondent

The following members of the Tolland Junior Women's Club were winners at the recent Fine Arts competition at the state convention: First place, Luette Wuschner, children's clothing; Judy Goldstein, pottery; Second place, Barbara Broski, stitchery; Third place, Sue Williams, toys and games.

The home life committee and the education committee of the club were awarded certificates of merit from the Connecticut State Federation of Women's Clubs for activities in the divisions of home safety and communications.

Invalid Stickers
Members of the club's safety committee are distributing stickers to the homes of invalids in town. The stickers are to be applied to the outside window of the individual's bedroom to alert firemen in the event of a fire.

There are additional stickers left for the bedrooms of children up to age 12 which can be obtained by calling Bobbi Sullivan at 875-3068 or 872-3365. The stickers should be applied so that the "C" is visible on the outside of the home.

The club's conservation committee recently held a clean-up day, concentrating on the grounds surrounding the municipal buildings. Work included raking, clipping, and removal of underbrush.

Members of the TJCW, as well as members of its bowling club, will attend the annual banquet May 20 at Fiano's in Bolton.

Included in the evening's activities will be the installation of new officers, announcement of committee chairmen for the coming year, and the awarding of bowling trophies.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION

Ford Action Proper

We salute President Ford for his decisive action in freeing the SS Mayaguez and its crew Wednesday. This action, had he waited for full congressional approval, would have been increasingly difficult or impossible with each passing day.

Our only thought is that if the action had been taken immediately after the Cambodian capture, the toll of two dead Marines and several wounded might have been less.

Unlike his predecessors, President Ford has limited options. He cannot commit U.S. forces to an actual confrontation for more than 60 days without a declaration of war and Congress could order a halt to use of force sooner.

Also in question was the legality of using any military force in Southeast Asia due to a congressional order to former President Nixon to end U.S. involvement in Indochina by Aug. 15, 1973.

The real limiting aspect on presidential options in situations like this is the change that has taken place in presidential-congressional relationships.

Prior to the Gulf of Tonkin incident, a President could do what he felt he had to do to protect U.S. lives and interests even if it meant use of force. Congress would accept this before, during and after the fact, because there was a dialogue between the administration and congressional leaders under a rather loose but effective heading called bipartisan foreign policy.

Thus the late President Eisenhower was able to land U.S. troops in Lebanon to avert—rightly or wrongly—a war in the Mideast.

The late President Kennedy was able to plan and abort the Bay of Pigs fiasco. Again rightly or wrongly.

And before them, almost every president in some form used U.S. troops, rightly or wrongly in retrospect, in the conduct of U.S. foreign policy or the defense of U.S. interests abroad.

But they did it without any 60-day limits, without immediate congressional criticism, and without fear that their actions would be undercut by political opponents before the action could be completed.

Thus President Ford faced an ever shrinking choice.

He now faces inevitable criticism for hesitating and will be criticized for acting too soon.

For in essence, the Mayaguez Affair was an attempt to resolve an international law violation crisis by a committee composed of too many men and too many ambitions and too many cautions.

The issue clearly sets out the very thing our forefathers knew for a fact when they placed the day-to-day conduct of foreign affairs in the hands of the President. That fact was that Congress, no matter how erudite its membership, as a political body cannot act quickly and unanimously in these situations. Historically, it has never been unanimous in its declarations of war.

President Ford tried to speak softly by seeking diplomatic solutions through the Red Chinese and wave a big stick by sending the Marines to Vietnam.

But unfortunately, the Cambodians knew only too well that the muted voice of today's President is due to a congressional muzzle and the ability to swing that big stick freely hinges not on presidential decision but on congressional concurrence.

It is apparent that when President Ford saw such congressional concurrence would be delayed, he opted to act not in the context of congressional restraints but in the overriding national interests which are inherent in the Constitution.

The Mayaguez Affair has been successfully concluded. The question remains whether some future incident will fare as well under a President not willing to act until the Congress concurs—if any Congress ever fully concurs with administration conduct of foreign policy.

We think the only reason the Cambodians hijacked the Mayaguez was because they felt President Ford could not and would not do what was done. They were wrong.

Mediator's Lot Unhappy

An editor whom we know once said humorously, "The Democrats won't speak to me and the Republicans hate me. I must be doing a good job." There was a lot of wise understanding beneath the humor.

Our role in the Middle East has in much this kind of a middle position. Unhappy is the lot of the mediator.

Much is heard and read of a slant towards Israel, or a slant towards the Arab states, as interpreters and commentators try to read our intentions.

President Ford speaks of "even-handedness" towards the uneasy nations of the region. And that, of course, is exactly the position which we should take.

This is not to suggest or hope that taking a position of equal understanding in the Middle East will make us more popular there, either with Israel, or the Arab states. But popularity is a long way from justice and that is what we should strive for.

In the past if we had a slant, it was towards Israel. The idea of the Jewish people having their own national state in the land of their forefathers was appealing.

Too, Israel had many strong and influential friends in the United States who supported the new country financially and also were able to furnish strong support for the infant country.

The Arab oil embargo, however, awakened many to the fact that we had a large stake in those countries and that self-interest would make it advisable and practical for us to have an amicable relationship with them.

This new concept does not and

Need Land Use Plan

Dear Sir:

I would like to reply to Virginia Dieth's letter of May 7 concerning the Urban Development Corporation. Land is the most pressing problem facing us today. If we do not have a clear-cut plan for land use, the threatening megapoles of Boston-New York-Washington looms into view. The UDC will help create and, more importantly, implement this plan.

If we leave planning to the town Zoning Commission, whose zoning restrictions try to limit housing per acre, the inevitable result is a sprawl city, a mass of housing developments with no centers for shopping and industry. If we continue our present pattern of low density, meaning single family housing, there will be no open space left for public enjoyment.

What we need is high density housing, apartments, condominiums and the like. If we put a lot of people in one place instead of a lot of people spread out all over, there will be open space left to enjoy, to be set aside for recreation and parks. This does not mean over crowding or jamming as many people into as small a space as possible but simply putting more people in less space. In the Boston to Washington area we have approximately 100 people per square mile. In the Netherlands, there is 318. Most of Europe is high density housing, leaving open space for public use, parks and recreation.

I feel the UDC would not be rampaging around destroying Connecticut's beautiful landscape. Instead it would be helping to preserve it through a statewide land use plan.

Zippy a Part-Time Painter

Famed performing chimp Zippy wound up painting the merry-go-round at Saratoga (N.Y.) Kaydors Park when he arrived there looking for a show business job. It was all a part of the park's recent opening promotion, and Zippy soon lost his disappointed look and returned to his usual fun-loving antics. (UPI photo)

Veteran Tolland Teacher Supports Principal

The Board of Education Wednesday received a letter from veteran teacher Daniel Sheehan in defense of Tolland High School principal Roy Nierendorf, who, it was recently made public, was encouraged to submit his resignation at an April 23 executive meeting of the board.

The resignation was not accepted, due to a vote, with chairman Robert Dean casting the vote to accept the resignation and creating the tie. The resignation reportedly was prompted by advice of the school superintendent, but neither minutes nor those involved expand on the reasons for the action.

Shea said many of his colleagues agree with these observations, whether or not they like the man personally. Sheehan clarified that his letter was not solicited, a charge being made of other persons who have taken a stand in Nierendorf's defense.

Shea said that although he doesn't always agree with Nierendorf's rules, and doesn't know what kind of principal he will ultimately make, he feels he should be given a "decent interval" in his new job with assistance, not hindrance from the board. He noted further that Nierendorf is "the most honest man I've ever met, in education and out, he never passes the buck."

There are 66 spaces allotted for students, and 46 are eligible for students in the Cooperative Work Experience program. Mrs. Gowen said the space should be sufficient for the CWE and students in two other categories, including those who have jobs at 2:30. However, cars continue to park in additional areas.

A report on student parking at the school was presented to the board by Nierendorf and assistant principal Eleanor Gowen. Abuses of the parking privileges are apparent by the presence of more cars than allotted spaces in the lower parking level, minor thefts and car damage.

Industrial Potential Discussed

TOLLAND VIVIAN KENNESON The Tolland Economic Development Commission Wednesday hosted a luncheon/public forum to about 20 persons representing area bankers, developers, businessmen and industrialists.

Guests included Board of Selectmen chairman John Burokas, selectmen Ted Palmer and Kevin Cavanaugh; Furlong Flynn of the Savings Bank of Tolland; Neil MacKenzie of Connecticut Water Co.; George Russell of Conn. Light and Power; and John Mason of Bissell Insurance Co.

Seminar, Open House Highlight IOH Weekend

Mayor John Thompson has declared today through Sunday as Instructors of the Handicapped Weekend.

A seminar and an open house have been scheduled as part of the special observation.

The Instructors of the Handicapped (IOH) is a group of local high school students who teach the mentally and physically handicapped to swim.

The IOH will present a seminar tonight at 7:30 at Community Baptist Church designed to better acquaint the 80 instructors of IOH and the interested public with what Manchester has to offer the handicapped and mentally retarded, and what needs still remain.

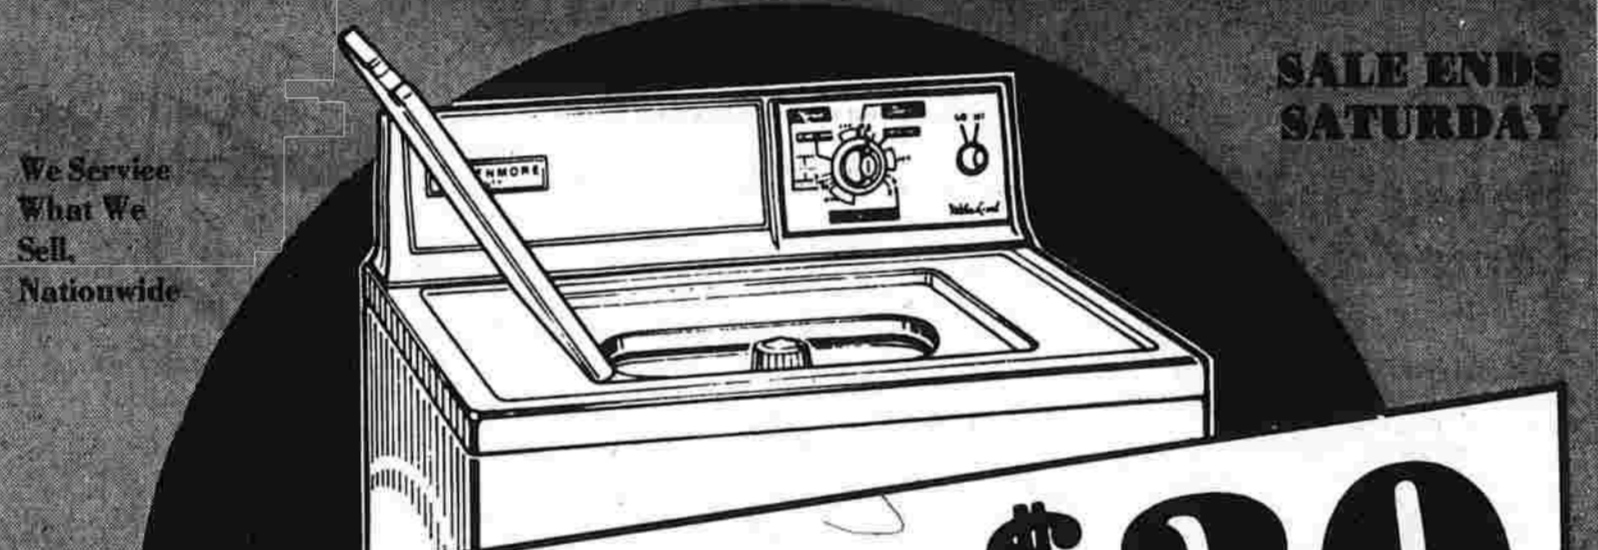

Seven speakers will be featured for the seminar. Three will deal with the handicapped. They are: Mrs. Vivian Ladabouche, placement supervisor with the state employment service; Steven Thal, vocational rehabilitation counselor for the state; Frank Vaccaro, a member of the Organization of the Handicapped.

Speakers on mental retardation are: Mike Marino, rehabilitation counselor for Manchester, Andover, Bolton and Coventry; Norman Fendell, director of special education in Manchester; Martin Legault, director of group home placement for Mansfield Training School; James Bracken, director of residential care at Mansfield.

There will be group discussions dealing with education, employment, and the social and recreational aspects of both the mentally retarded and physically handicapped. Sunday will be the annual IOH Open House, at 1 p.m. at the MHS pool.

There will be three 20-minute classes of local students. Nearly 91 per cent of all newsweds decide together on their honeymoon destination, according to a 1974 survey.

Chamber Will Coordinate Bike Safety Program

VERNON

The Board of Directors of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, agreed Wednesday to take over coordination of a bicycle safety program and to give up to $150 for the purchase of safety seals to put on bicycles after they are tested by the Vernon Police and found to be safe.

William Moquin explained the way to insure a bicycle meets the safety standard is to have it tested by the police. Two areas will be set up on May 31, one at the Tri-City Shopping Plaza, Vernon Circle, and the other to the rear of the People's Savings Bank in Rockville center.

Announcements concerning the safety check will be made in all of the schools and Moquin said it is expected there will be a minimum of 1,000 bicycles checked during that day and there will probably be a makeup session at the police station, later.

Greater Rockville C of C Objects To Recruiting by Hartford Chamber

BARBARA RICHMOND

The Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce is "very aggressively" trying to solicit membership from the Greater Rockville area and the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce strongly objects.

The letter further stated that the Hartford Chamber has worked aggressively, recently, with state and local government to create a more favorable climate of taxation and to alleviate other problem areas as a means of both retaining existing industry and providing a strong basis on which to actively recruit new commercial and industrial enterprises compatible with the region's social, economic and environmental goals.

Members of the business community in the Tri-Town area have received notices that the Hartford group will, during the next few weeks, be conducting an intensive membership drive as "a means of broadening its base of support and participation."

Seven or eight years ago the local chamber group briefly considered joining the Hartford Chamber. The Rockville Chamber was undergoing some financial problems at the time and was considering disbanding.

The Herald

Bike Hike For Retarded Set Sunday

Judy Kuehnel Dr. Robert Goldman, superintendent of South Windsor schools, has been named honorary chairman of the "Bike-Hike for the Retarded '75," scheduled for Sunday, from 1-6 p.m.

He said while the idea is not new, the approach is different and he questioned whether it is ethical. Another board member, Lawrence Halpern said, "The way I see it, it's the Hartford Chamber's device to assist itself with its budget."

Each of us has limited our active membership solicitation to our own specific geographical area. In our instance we encourage the towns of Vernon, Ellington and Tolland. We would consider our active solicitation beyond our borders, in neighboring Manchester, South Windsor or Enfield, for example, a breach of trust. The reverse is also true."

He said he would be happy to have his "Action Team" of volunteer salesmen, join the Rockville Chamber in a sales campaign to solicit memberships in both groups.

Howard Wolfanger, a member of the board, and who took over as president about the time, told the board Wednesday that the objective at that time was to have the Rockville Chamber become part of the Hartford Chamber.

He told Puzatto, however, that "You should know that metropolitan regional chambers do exist throughout the country and that this 100, or more, metropolitan chambers, including Greater Hartford, have membership from the entire metropolitan area. This is true, without exception, in every metropolitan area of the country," he said.

He explained that it has been his groups' policy for a number of years to solicit membership from firms that have a regional concern as well as to encourage them to belong to their local chambers wherever one exists.

He assured Puzatto that the Rockville Board expressed the hope that this will terminate the matter and that any further solicitation will cease.

Lone Dog Will Attack Chicks

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thirty lashes with a nasty old chicken feather for saying that dogs will kill only when they are in pairs or packs. Where did you ever get that idea? It's not true. One dog alone will attack and kill chickens, other animals or even people.

DEAR BILL: Thirty lashes with a chicken feather isn't enough. Make it a dog leash. I got the idea that dogs will only kill in pairs or packs from those veterinarians. And I have a bone to pick with them!

DEAR ABBY: Please tell the young girl whose boyfriend was always late that I had the same trouble with my boyfriend but married him anyway and couldn't be happier.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter, a young woman who had been living with her boyfriend for two years wanted to have a big church wedding. You replied in your column that it was in poor taste since they had been living together openly.

DEAR VIEW: A couple should indeed have the kind of wedding they want. But if they choose to live together openly for two years despite their parents' protests, why should they expect their parents to foot the bill for a lavish, 300-guest extravaganza?

Johnson-Granata

Mrs. Harry W. Johnson

Jeanne Marie Granata of East Hartford and Harry Walker Johnson of Manchester, were married May 2 at St. Mary's Church in East Hartford.

The Rev. William McCarthy of St. Luke's Church celebrated the nuptial Mass and performed the double-ring ceremony. Bernice Farmer of East Hartford was organist. The church was decorated with baskets of mixed flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory Empire waist gown of plain de sole designed with silk illusion bodice and sleeves applied with Alencon lace trimmed with pearls and sequins, and a chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a lace Juliet cap and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with baby's breath and apricot-colored roses.

Mrs. Johnson is employed in the business office of St. Francis Hospital in Hartford. Mr. Johnson is employed as assistant manager at Anderson-Little in Manchester.

O.C. tells his grandchildren about the first of their ancestors in a direct line with the same family name who came to America. He was William (we call "the first"). He had a son born in England in 1614 who followed to America soon after his father (we call him William "the second"). William's wife, mother of William II, died on the voyage to America. William I arrived at Roxbury in 1634. After 9 or 10 weeks he moved and settled in Cambridge. He said he came to be with his minister the Rev. Thomas Hooker who preached in Cambridge and was there in 1633. However, when the Rev. Mr. Hooker went to Hartford Colony in 1636 William remained in Cambridge. Rev. Hooker came from Country Essex, near Chelmsford, England, so probably William did also though we have no proof of that. William married his second wife, Susannah. She died at Cambridge Oct. 16, 1650. Immigrants were arriving in the colonies as fast as they could get passage on ships. There were waiting lists waiting a chance. They came from many countries, but in New England mostly from Old England. When the Pilgrims arrived at Plymouth in 1620 there were more than a thousand English living in Maine. In his church confession William said he was apprenticed when very young, so probably learned a trade. In Cambridge he went into business and may have been a merchant before in England. A Cambridge Church book entry in 1648 shows paying him for a "belroe". In 1658 he owned a house in Cambridge and bought and sold other properties and farm lands over a long period of years. He shared in at least one division of common lands. His house was at the southwest corner of what was then Spring and Crooked Ways, later named Mount Auburn and Holyoke Sts., a short distance south of Harvard Square. His neighbors and most intimate associates were the most eminent leaders in social, business, and civil government. Apparently he was some guy. In 1660 he was a "freeman" of the church and voter on a group of 18 to vote upon and exact laws for the Colony. He moved to Boston and joined the First Church in 1650. Was on Middlesex County Court in 1652-1653. He married his third wife Elizabeth to whom he willed his estate. Exact records not found but he died between Feb. 17, 1665 and April 28, 1666. Age from 74 to 80 years. No grave stones found for him or Elizabeth. Burial place not known. Had but one child, a son William II born in England to his first wife. This son William came to Cambridge with or about the same time as his father and spent the rest of his life in Cambridge. Because his life reveals much of the colonial conditions of that time we can review it later.

District's Tax Levy Put High on Agenda

When the Eighth District board of directors meets Monday for its scheduled monthly session, one of its top agenda items will be a decision on a recommended tax increase for 1975-76. It was the consensus of the directors Monday, at a special meeting, the budget it is recommending would require a 4-mill tax rate up 1.5 mills from the current levy. A decision was tabled until next Monday pending answers to questions. Whatever budget and tax rate the board recommends will be voted upon June 25 at the district's annual meeting. The June 25 annual meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., at Bentley School, Hollister St. As of the 1970 census, 111 of the 254 Texas counties were "dry" for sale of alcoholic beverages.

Field of 10 Horses For Preakness Run

BALTIMORE (UPI) - A field of 10, headed by Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure, was expected to be entered today for Saturday's 100th and richest running of the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico.

If all 10 of the centennial running of the second, the thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown will have a gross value of $10,000 with $100,000 of that going to the winner.

John L. Green's Foolish Pleasure, coming off his 14th length victory in the Kentucky Derby which swelled his lifetime earnings to $673,515 and was his 11th win in 12 lifetime starts, figures to be facing six of the 14 horses he beat at Churchill Downs May 3, including Avator and Diablo, the second and third place finishers, respectively.

Prior to the Derby, Avator and Diablo had done all their running in California and for the Preakness they will be joined by another California-based colt, Native Guest, the lightly raced son of Raise a Native who has won all four of his starts, including the El Dorado Handicap at Hollywood Park on the same day Foolish Pleasure was winning the Kentucky Derby.

Because he was not on the original list of horses nominated to the Preakness, Native Guest's owner, William A. Levin, will have to pay a supplementary fee of $10,000 in order for his horse to start.

Another supplementary entry will be Master Derby, the winner of the Louisiana Derby and Blue Grass Stakes, and fourth in the Kentucky Derby.

Other Derby also-rans taking another crack at Preakness Pleasure include fifth place finisher Mike, Prince Thon Art, who came in sixth, and eighth-place finisher Bold Chaparral.

Rounding out the field are Sing, a six-length winner of last Saturday's Preakness Prep who was forced to skip the Derby because of an injured leg.

Cooling Off Period Sing Set for Preakness and Buckland Farm's Just The Time who will run as an entry with Native Guest.

Foolish Pleasure will be attempting to become the 10th Triple Crown champion in U.S. racing history and his trainer, Leroy Jolley, claims that the what a Pleasure-Fool Me Not colt is more than ready for the next leg of his challenge.

The biggest unknown in the field for the expected record Preakness crowd of some 70,000 along with the millions of viewers who will watch on television (CBS) could be unbeaten Native Guest.

"Before we shipped here last week," said trainer Bobby Frankel, "Mr. Levin and I discussed every aspect of the trip. We realize we would be traveling 3,000 miles, would have to put up $10,000 to run and that would be asking Native Guest to go 1-3/16 miles for the first time. But we have a lot of confidence in this colt so we decided to come. I don't know if we all the country to lose, either."

Marine Fishing is good on the south side of Fishers Island, off Greensport, Long Island, two to three miles south of Faulkner Island, and four to five miles south of Brantford Reef.

Stripes are providing excellent fishing in the mouth of the Connecticut, Thames and Housatonic Rivers, and at Sealside Park in Bridgeport.

Good catches of brownfish are being made at Brook's Reef and at the Cove and the Call. Note: The minimum length for striped bass is 16 inches measured from the fork to the tail to the tip of the snout.

Ali Working Hard for Lyle

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - John L. Johnson ducked into the ring as another man ducked out. As he straightened up, John L. threw a hard left at Muhammad Ali and caught a face full of glove in exchange.

The heavyweight champion was starting his sixth consecutive round without benefit of rest Wednesday in a flamboyant semifinal workout for Friday's defense against Ron Lyle.

Angelo Dundee granted his pleasure as Johnson and Ali went at each other. "A tough work just now is what Ali needs," said the trainer. "Look at him. Look at his waist."

The sweat ran down smoothly over Ali's glistening, oiled torso. The rubber tire ripples present when he went almost in entire 15 rounds against willing but inept Chuck Wepner in March are gone.

All had been 22 1/2 for that weigh-in and will probably scale about 220 for Lyle but the weight is different. It is more solid, which can make the punches harder and make his call of an eighth round knockout more than possible.

Earlier in the day, at what should be called Ali's "fun time," the champion had gone once again through the comedy routine that delights people who

SLOW PITCH SOFTBALL

Backed by a 14-hit attack, Hosty capped Crispino's 8-5, last night at Robertson. Miles Boutlier had three singles and Joe Errardi and Bob Guerin two apiece for Honda. Lyle Eastman chipped in with a double and single. For Crispino's, Bruce Tracy and Dave Hasselt each had a triple and two singles. John Domenick stroked two triples, Greg Vincoo two singles and Gordy McCombe homered.

Lyle endured the show but could only say, as those who have never seen or heard it before. This time he used King, the hardly self-defending promoter, as his stooge. Ali cuffed King, wrestled him and shoved him about while delivering a round-by-round prediction of how he was going to whip Lyle, ending with a rolling eye impression of the challenger collapsing on cue in the eighth.

Pinson on Hit Spree

NEW YORK (UPI) - Now less than 300 hits away from the hallowed 3,000 mark, Vada Pinson admits that time-and opportunity-may be running out.

"We've got a situation here called Pinsonitis," Pinson said Wednesday night after hanging out four hits, including a game-opening home run, to boost his career total to 2,701 and help the Kansas City Royals defeat the Detroit Tigers, 4-1. "I don't play that often so when I do get in, I'm definitely going to have to get my hits."

Pinson said he fully supported Truett's stand that social peace in his province was more important than staging the games.

Scramble One in Right Hand...

I see by the papers people are greatly worried about law and order these days and claim justice tempered with mercy has succumbed to just plain mercy.

Well, after what happened to me and my dozen of eggs, I'm convinced "Big Brother" is watching over us almost all the time. I'm convinced also, crime doesn't pay, the truth will out, and good will prevail over evil in the end.

Since this is only the beginning of my story and not the end, I'll fill you in.

It all happened when I went shopping for a couple of items, one of them a dozen eggs.

So, armed with the discount coupon out of the newspaper, I headed for the egg counter in the supermarket.

Now, as almost all of you know, buying eggs in a supermarket is a most bewildering experience — something like buying tooth paste. The eggs marked jumbo are large. The ones marked extra large are small. The ones marked large and the ones marked medium are whatever you want them to be. None are marked small.

To get on with my story, I forgot what size I was supposed to buy. So, I opened a carton here and a carton there and inspected them for size. About the fourth carton, I squeezed one of the eggs just a trifle too hard. You guessed it. The egg broke in my hand.

Refusing to panic, I hurriedly closed the carton, placed it back in the case, grabbed the first carton in sight and headed for a check-out counter. I didn't care whether it was jumbo, extra large, or whatever. What mattered was I was a scowflaw.

The escape occurred while guards assigned to keep watch over more than 100 prisoners placed in a corridor during the inspection were called away to break up a disturbance in another tier of the sprawling prison, which holds some 3,000 inmates.

By early today, police had recaptured six of the fugitives. Policemen, canine units and officers armed with shotguns and automatic weapons searched a wide area of the city for the remaining fugitives, who included four men facing trial for murder. All were described as dangerous.

Two persons were taken hostage by a group of three fugitives near the prison. John Trent, 31, Chicago, had stopped at a taco stand a few blocks from the prison to pick up his nephew, Tim Collins, 14, when the escaped inmates grabbed Tim and forced their way into the car.

"The said they came from Cook County Jail," Trent said. "My nephew asked if they just got released and they said 'No, we just busted through the wall.' After that I didn't look back."

"One said they'd have to kill him because he's not going back to that place," said Collins. Trent said, "Thanks for the ride, honkey, and get out."

Neither Trent nor his nephew was injured. Prison officials said the escape began when 107 prisoners were rustled from their cells for a surprise cell inspection for contraband.

They were taken to a corridor and held. While the prisoners were in the secured corridor, prison officials said, a fight broke out between two inmates in another tier of the prison and all but one guard was pulled away.

During that time, the escaping prisoners made their way into a utility room which apparently was left unlocked and used steel bars to break through some glass blocks and bricks surrounding the window. Using pillows found in the laundry to muffle the sound of breaking glass and bricks, they exposed a 10½-by-15½ inch hole between the window bars and the wall and slipped through.

They then walked along the wall to the fence, peered back a section of fencing and slipped into a construction area that was unwatched by tower guards.

The escape was not discovered until the remaining prisoners were brought from the corridor back to their cells. Among the prisoners still at large was William Hardy, who is serving time in a Washington, D.C., prison and was returned to Chicago to stand trial for murder.

Carter Opposed to Wallace as Nominee

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Southern Democrat Jimmy Carter Wednesday said he opposed Alabama Gov. George Wallace as the Democratic presidential nominee and could only support him under "some circumstances."

The sandy-haired former governor of Georgia, campaigning for president in New Hampshire, the state with the nation's first 1976 presidential primary, said he would neither support nor share a ticket with Wallace.

Carter told newsmen "under some circumstances" he could support Wallace, if for example, conservative Ronald Reagan, ex-governor of California, was the Republican nominee.

Carter was here to open his New England presidential headquarters in downtown Concord.

He opened the day campaigning at century-old mills in Manchester, the state's largest city and a Democratic stronghold. Carter greeted the workers saying "Hi. I'm Jimmy Carter from Georgia. I'm going to be your next president."

One middle-aged man at the Gutman Kessler Shoe Co. told Carter the nation needs a man in the White House who has "strength of character."

The man told Carter that Congress stinks, Washington stinks, and added, "If you're strong enough I'll help you."

Carter later told a prayer breakfast of 200 religious and business leaders in Manchester, America needs to restore private morality in public government.

"As businessmen we should never treat our customers on Monday morning...with any less truthfulness...than we learned on Sunday in a place of worship," he said.

Carter told about 150 students at Concord High school he opposed treating our customers on Monday morning...with any less truthfulness...than we learned on Sunday in a place of worship."

"I'm not in favor of busing children to distant schools against their wishes," Carter said. He, unlike Wallace, could do more than just send a message to Washington.

People are ready to send more than a message to Washington, they are ready to send a president to do something," Carter said.

Science Today: The View from Outer Space

AL ROSSITER JR., UPI Science Editor WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency has published a catalog listing 35,000 Earth pictures taken from the Skylab space station. It tells you how to buy them and what you can do with them.

The chances are excellent that your home town is included in one of the shots taken from an altitude of 280 miles during the 171 days the orbiting laboratory was manned in 1973 and early 1974.

The space station's special array of Earth resources cameras covered almost all of the 48 contiguous states and many other parts of the world.

The pictures provide a broad look at tens of square miles of land and sea at a time. They give a repetitive overview of an area that can't be matched from the ground or even from airplanes.

The Skylab Earth resources photographs were produced from a set of six cameras which record the view below as seen in different wave lengths of light and by a powerful telescopic camera. Skylab's Earth resources instruments also brought back 45 miles of magnetic tape recording data gathered by the station's electronic ground scanners, but all this data have not been processed.

These patterns differ widely from place to place and are the tangible expressions of his ability to cope with local topography, climate, soils, natural vegetation, water supply, social organization, urbanization and industrialization," the book says.

Pictures in infrared light are particularly valuable for showing vegetation vigor and type, areas of recent construction, strip mining activities, soil moisture and for mapping bedrock and drainage. Other photos provide excellent, inexpensive ways to update cultural details such as roads, transmission lines and residential patterns on maps which are frequently out of date before they are printed, the space agency said.

The book, illustrated with color and black and white pictures, is called "Skylab Earth Resources Data Catalog" and is for sale for $12.50 by the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. NASA said the Skylab photographs cost $2.00 for an 8x10 inch black and white print and $7.00 for a color print the same size.

In land resource management, for example, Earth resources pictures are valuable for showing how man is altering the natural environment to fit his needs.

Financial Actions Okayed By Directors on Tuesday

By SOL R. COHEN
The Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night approved the following financial actions, all by unanimous votes:

The directors indicated they are considering making public the names of delinquent taxpayers.

The board tabled a request from the town treasurer pending an explanation — authorization to open savings accounts in the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co., Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., Manchester State Bank, First Federal Savings Bank and United Bank and Trust Co.

The board authorized the superintendent of schools to apply for $4,250 state reimbursement toward the $8,500 cost of a communications system at Bentley School.

Swim Club Policy Tabled by Board

By SOL R. COHEN
Pending a report on how many members of the quasi-public Manchester Swim Club are from out of town, the Board of Directors Tuesday night tabled a town policy relating to its operation.

He mentioned such analogous activities as Senior Citizens, Little League, Police Department Special Services and Student Activities.

The policy would spell out the board's position on extra pay for department heads when they participate in semi-public activities involving town facilities, and the disposition of fees collected by semi-public organizations.

He mentioned such analogous activities as Senior Citizens, Little League, Police Department Special Services and Student Activities.

Pentagon Unscrambling Reports Of Casualties

Students Wait Turn to Donate Blood

Students at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational-Technical School wait their turns for donating blood. The Bloodmobile visited the town's three high schools this week, and collected 224 pints of blood. The monthly quota is 150 pints.

By WARREN L. NELSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) - A full day after the last of a 160-man Marine assault force was plucked by helicopter from Koh Tang island in the Gulf of Thailand, the exact extent of casualties was not known. Fourteen GIs were believed missing.

Jarvis Estate $7 Million

By SOL R. COHEN
The late Alexander Jarvis, who died Sept. 30 at the age of 71, left an estate worth about $7 million at the time of his death, an 84-page inventory filed in Manchester Probate Court indicates.

Land Trust Given Parcel

By MAL BARLOW
A small piece of natural wetlands at Adelaide Rd. and Porter St. is being given to the Manchester Land Conservation Trust Inc. (MLCT), officers announced during its third annual dinner Thursday night.

House Votes Mandatory Silent Prayer for Schools

By ROBERT LAMBERT
HARTFORD (UPI) - All public schools would have to hold a period of "silent prayer" before classes under a bill sent to the Connecticut Senate today amid objections it violates a U.S. Supreme Court ban.

Ritter said that as a boy, he felt "out of it" in school because the children were required to say the Lord's Prayer, which was alien to him.

Three Groups Back Public Data Bill

HARTFORD (UPI) - Three public interest groups are backing a bill to broaden the rights of Connecticut residents to look into government operations.

Senior Citizens Win Applause
