Kissinger-Gromyko Talks Begin

VIENNA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger made his post-Vietnam diplomatic debut today, going through the social niceties with his Austrian hosts before superpower talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Many Mayaguez Crewmen Heading Home Today

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Half the crew of the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez began heading home today, bonuses in hand and capture by Cambodian Communists behind them.

The 10,000-ton freighter — with new crew members replacing the departing sailors — steamed out of Singapore at noon on a 1,200-mile trip to Hong Kong.

Sea-Land, owner of the Mayaguez, gave each of the crew members a $1,000 bonus when the ship arrived in Singapore Saturday and offered the sailors free flights home.

Lee Carroll, Sea-Land's Singapore representative, said 20 of the 40 crewmen accepted the free flights and new sailors arrived Sunday to replace them.

"A few of them have homes in Manila and Tokyo so they will be leaving today and tomorrow," a spokesman for Pan American Airways said. "But most of them are flying to the West Coast."

The airline spokesman said the rest of the crew will fly Tuesday for San Francisco. Delays in getting paid forced them to miss a flight Sunday night.

The Mayaguez, held four days by Khmer Rouge forces, was captured Monday 60 miles off the Cambodian mainland. The drama culminated in U.S. Marines landing on Koh Tang, a small island in the Gulf of Thailand.

(Defense Secretary James Schlesinger said Sunday new figures showed three Marines and two airmen were killed, 16 missing and up to 80 wounded in the battle on the island. He said the tally was not final.)

The captain of the Mayaguez — Charles Miller of Fountain Valley, Calif. — told a news conference Saturday the Mayaguez freed the crew because of U.S. military action.

Miller said all his men were gassed and three suffered shrapnel wounds when U.S. planes tried to stop the Khmer Rouge from transferring the crew to the Cambodian port of Kompung Som.

"I don't blame the pilots; they were only trying to keep us out of Kompung Som," he said. "They wanted us returned to the vessel."

Crewmembers were cheerful when they talked to newsmen. Most said they were not bitter about the incident.

"I hope any time any prisoners get taken they get treated as well as we did," Herbert McDonald of San Francisco said.

"They fed us their food then ate what was left."

Gromyko, an old diplomatic hand aware of American sensibilities, was expected to skirt the Indochina issue and sound out Kissinger instead on U.S. policy in the Middle East.

The foreign minister was said to seek word whether the United States would support the Kremlin's call for a resumption of full-scale Middle East peace talks in Geneva.

Gromyko flew in from Moscow this morning and was met by Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky and Foreign Minister Erich Bielka.

In a statement to newsmen Gromyko said: "I have come to Vienna to discuss with the Secretary of State of the United States questions of mutual interest to the two countries. There are quite a few of such questions. We will have no difficulties to find enough questions to talk about."

Gromyko said "We are prepared to hold these talks in a constructive spirit. We hope for the same attitude from our partners."

The Soviet Union has stepped up calls for new talks in Geneva since the collapse of Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy in the region two months ago.

A senior U.S. official with the Kissinger party said the secretary would tell Gromyko little, wishing to wait until President Ford meets next month with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

The senior official said, however, Kissinger would try to nudge Gromyko into winding up work on a Soviet-American treaty limiting offensive nuclear arms.

President Ford and Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev began discussions on the treaty last November at their summit meeting in Vladivostok.

Kissinger hoped his talks with Gromyko would speed up discussions in Geneva on the technical details of the treaty, the senior U.S. official said.

If all goes well in Geneva, Kissinger would fly to Moscow to get the treaty into good enough form to be completed by Ford and Brezhnev at their summit talks in Washington next fall.

United States Expresses Regret In Note to Thailand Government

BANGKOK (UPI) — The United States expressed regret today over "misunderstandings" with Thailand about the recovery of the American freighter Mayaguez.

But the Thai government said it still plans to recall its ambassador in Washington to protest the use of U Tapao Air Base in Thailand by a U.S. Marine assault force.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Edward Masters delivered a diplomatic note to Thai Foreign Minister Chatchai Choonhavan in an attempt to defuse the crisis.

"The United States regrets the misunderstandings that have arisen between Thailand and the U.S. in regard to temporary placement of Marines at U Tapao to assist in recovery of the SS Mayaguez," the note said.

The foreign minister told a news conference the note "could be considered a formal apology," but the Thai government still plans to recall its ambassador in Washington to protest use of the Marines.

The note said the United States sent Marines to U Tapao for use in the Mayaguez operation because "speed of action was essential."

"Actions and public statements of the new Cambodian regime indicated to us that any delay in recovering the ship and rescuing the crew could have had the most serious consequences," it said.

Hundreds of protesters demonstrated outside the U.S. embassy today for the third day in a row, sentencing President

Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to death in a mock trial.

Two thousand demonstrators burned an effigy of Uncle Sam in front of the U.S. embassy Sunday, tore down the eagle emblem outside the gate and replaced it with a vulture.

Release of Americans In Laos Is Delayed

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Three Americans being held in a central Laotian town remained under house arrest today but were allowed some limited freedom. A cabinet-level delegation being sent to secure their release was delayed once again.

The coalition government, meanwhile, slapped strict restrictions on travel inside and outside the country, according to a communique broadcast over national radio.

U.S. sources said that the situation in Savannakhet, 180 miles southeast of here, remained unchanged with the three Americans, including the senior U.S. official in central Laos, Stanford J. Stone, being allowed some freedom, including movement around the town under escort.

The cabinet-level delegation headed by Interior Minister Pheng Phongsavong, had still not departed for Savannakhet to negotiate with the demonstrators for the release of the Americans. Demonstrators holding the three are demanding the ouster of several rightwingers in the local government, as well as an end to all U.S. aid operations in the area.

The U.S. Charge d'Affaires, Christian Chapman, met with ranking members of the coalition government over the status of the delegation, but apparently could not get any answers on the cause of the delay, which has now lasted three days.

Informed sources said that the delay may have been caused by preliminary negotiations now going on. These sources say that the government delegation won't travel to Savannakhet until most details are ironed out, so that Pheng will only have to formalize a settlement.

The travel restrictions ordered by the government applied to travel both inside and out of the country.

According to the government communique, all persons wishing to travel from one province to the other within the country have to receive permission from the joint police.

Portuguese Troops Used To Disperse Maoist Crowd

LISBON (UPI) — Troops tossed teargas and fired shots into the air early today to disperse a Maoist crowd trying to prevent the transfer of prisoners accused of a counter-revolutionary plot.

Members of the outlawed Maoist party said the protest was organized because they wanted left-wing army officers who held the prisoners to form a peoples court and execute the suspects.

The army officers issued a statement through official channels calling on the public to join the country's soldiers in a nationwide manhunt for other "reactionaries" involved in the alleged plot.

The soldiers in a light artillery regiment stationed near Lisbon airport agreed to transfer more than 20 prisoners to military police following negotiations with the armed forces chief of staff, Gen. Carlos Fabio, and the military security chief, Brig. Otelio Saraiva de Carvalho.

As troops moved the prisoners from the

Pedal Bikes for Blind

Lined up and ready to go with Joseph Blette, with beard, leading in front, about 35 Bennet Junior High School students are about to start on a 20-mile Bike-A-Thon to benefit the Greater Hartford Chapter of the National Federation of the Blind of Connecticut. Blette, who is legally blind, led the group Sunday from Bennet Junior High School to East Hartford and back to the Town Hall. Other than a girl who fell off her bike and another incident of a blown tire, there were no mishaps. About $310 was realized in pledges. This is the first event of this kind in the nation to benefit the national organization. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Ford To Veto Bill On Strip-Mining

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has decided to veto federal strip mining legislation because it would reduce domestic coal production and force the United States to import more oil, White House sources said today.

Congress was expected to move to override Ford's veto later this week.

Ford "pocket vetoed" a nearly identical strip mining bill last December after Congress had adjourned for the year, leaving it with no override possibility.

White House sources indicated Ford's reasons for vetoing the current legislation were almost the same as last time.

They noted that a reduced domestic production of coal would force the United States to import more oil. Also with less coal available, utility prices might be increased as much as 18 per cent, the sources added.

The White House had scheduled a morning briefing by Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb to announce Ford's decision but later delayed the session. There was no official word when the decision would be announced.

Four Accused of Arson To Be Arraigned Today

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Four of the 10 men charged in the firebombing of a Shelton sponge rubber plant last March were due in U.S. District Court today to enter their pleas.

Scheduled to appear were Anthony Just, 48, Greensburg, Pa., Michael Tiche, 22, Boyers, Pa., Peter Betres, 54, Butler, Pa., and Donald Connors, 40, Braddock, Pa.

The four, who live in the greater Pittsburgh area, were named in a nine-count federal indictment that ranged from conspiracy to firebomb the Sponge Rubber Products Co. plant to transporting explosives across state lines.

Also named in the indictments were Charles D. Moeller, 48, president of Sponge Rubber's parent firm, and his spiritual adviser, the Rev. David N. Bubar, 46, a self-proclaimed psychic from Memphis, Tenn.

Moeller pleaded innocent to the federal charges last week and Bubar is fighting extradition from Memphis. Nine of the 10 men named in the federal indictments, excluding Moeller, also were named in state indictments.

Just was indicted on state charges for the kidnapping of two security guards and a boilerman at the Sponge Rubber firm, who were taken away from the site shortly before the firebombs exploded near mid night March 1.

The Weather

Mostly sunny this afternoon with high temps in the 70s and 80s. Clear and mild tonight with lows in the mid to upper 50s. Sunny and warm Tuesday with highs in the 70s and 80s, cooler along the sound.

Coast Guard Suspends Sea Search

NANTUCKET, MASS. (UPI) — The Coast Guard has suspended a search for three men missing since Friday after a collision between a 484-foot Liberian freighter and a fishing boat.

Numerous Coast Guard apparatus and civilian craft combed the area of the crash 63 miles southeast of Nantucket Island for more than two days.

Two of the crew, rescued by the freighter shortly after the collision, were returned home safely. The body of another crewmember, First Mate Edward Gleason of New Bedford, was found Saturday.

The 72-foot fishing vessel Eugene H., sailing out of New Bedford, and the Liberian bulk cargo carrier Grand Justice collided in dense fog Friday.

Officials listed crewmen missing as Capt. Larf Larsen, 3 Arch St., New Bedford; Maynard McCarthy, 9 South Chestnut St., Fairhaven and Ron J. Foley, 3195 Acushnet Ave., New Bedford.

State Workers Divided On Strike Question

HARTFORD (UPI) — State employees are divided over whether to launch a general strike for higher wages, an official of the Connecticut State Employees Association official says.

Edward Gallant, executive director of the association, said Sunday that preliminary results of a CSEA survey indicated "smoldering resentment" against the lack of salary hikes, but no agreement on a strike.

Gallant said he hopes the survey will be finished by Wednesday, when he and others representing state workers are to meet with Gov. Ella T. Grasso to discuss the wage issue.

The union chiefs met with the governor and Democratic legislative leaders last week to impress upon them the need for salary hikes. Mrs. Grasso had ordered no salary increments for state workers to keep a recession-hit budget in balance.

Gallant said the survey figures he received indicated no clear feeling for or against a possible strike. He said full results of the survey will be released later this week.

"In some agencies where we have preliminary reports we find that there is 100 per cent who just want to walk out in sheer anger and disgust," he said.

Weekend Mishaps Kill Eight Persons

By United Press International

At least eight Connecticut residents died in mishaps over the weekend, including three in a head-on collision in Preston Sunday and two on motorcycles. A ninth died Sunday of injuries received in a May 5 fire.

Gayle C. Cormier, 18, of Willimantic, and Ronald C. Gachinsky 38, of Norwich, died, along with Lena Cormier, 7, at about 3 p.m. Sunday when the cars they were driving collided at Spicer Road and Rte. 2 in Preston, state police said.

The three were pronounced dead at the scene, while four others were sent to Backus Hospital in Norwich in critical condition.

Keith A. Middlebrook, 16, of Sharon, was killed at about 4:25 a.m. Sunday when his southbound car went off the left side of Rte. 41 in Salisbury and struck a tree, police said.

Joseph Labbe, 7, of New Britain, drowned at about 1:30 p.m. Saturday after falling into a water-filled hole at construction site on the Rte. 72 extension through New Britain, police said.

Lisa Thurlow, 2, of Canterbury, was killed at about 11:40 a.m. Saturday when a Canterbury man who had been visiting her parents backed his car over her in their driveway, state police said.

Jeffrey D. Boehn, 21, of Willton, died at Norwalk Hospital at about 2:30 a.m.

base, the soldiers were attacked by youths who tried to break open the doors of the armored cars to gain possession of the detainees.

The artillerymen issued their communique only hours before the military's 240-man assembly held a controversial meeting that military sources said could cause a severe split in the ruling Armed Forces Movement.

The sessions were being held at a naval base identified "with the military's left-wing across the Tagus River from Lisbon to discuss the creation of a Cuban-style mass movement and a revolutionary tribunal for political cases."

Military sources predicted the meeting would pit extreme leftist officers dominating the government against moderates opposed to increased Communist influence.

The government-run national radio said Sunday a leftwing artillery unit discovered a "vast fascist organization with links to determined foreign agencies and restricted cells in some military units."

"We are in contact with other colleagues in units all over the country and they are keeping vigilance," hourly radio broadcasts said. "We appeal to all people to keep vigilance and help discover more reactionaries."

Posters plastered throughout Lisbon said a leader of the conservative Social Democratic Center party and a Supreme Court judge were among the suspects.

About 150 leftwing demonstrators marched on the American embassy Sunday, calling for the expulsion of U.S. Ambassador Frank Carlucci and an unnamed Central Intelligence Agency agent.

The protesters painted a red swastika on the embassy wall and pasted up posters demanding the arrest of two moderate army officers in suburban units.

Witnesses reported unusual military activity on the outskirts of the capital, but an official spokesman refused comment on reports the armed forces were on full alert.

The military government, which reported putting down a rightwing coup attempt last March, has moved steadily left since coming to power a year ago.

The government held a nationwide election last month on the first anniversary of the coup that ended a half-century of rightwing dictatorship.

The moderate Socialist and Popular Democratic parties led the voting for delegates to a constitutional convention. The Communists finished a distant third.

Scott's World: Clint Climbs

By VERNON SCOTT

"I looked around for a director who was also a mountain climber," he said, grinning. "There aren't too many people. So I decided to direct it myself. "Doing the climbing was a matter of personal challenge," he said in his Universal Studios office. "I wanted to get the audience up on that mountain with me. "I trained in Yosemite for a week, and then I went to the Elger in Switzerland and a week before we started shooting. That's a frightening mountain. "We worked a lot on the 8,000 foot ice-covered vertical north face of the mountain. Physically, it was the hardest thing I've ever done. At the end of every day's shooting I was physically and emotionally wrung out from exposure and the effort of climbing. "I didn't want to do that. It wasn't a matter of macho. Who needs that? The only way to tie in the actor realistically is to shoot him in medium shots so the audience knows who he is. "Nobody goes for the old close-up of the star, then a quick cut to a long shot of the stunt man or double doing the dangerous work. "You play on the senses of an audience with the danger and excitement. They know the difference. "Eastwood directed the adventure thriller in which he plays a hired killer for an international spy ring.

Two Music Groups Perform With Professional Poise

MICHAEL ORFELI Having lived in Manchester all my life, I thought it rather odd to receive a call from the "Welcome Wagon" just recently.

The orchestra met the challenge of the music with good control and over-all sense of direction, with only a few unsteady and rhythmically awkward transitions. Both the flute and oboe players are to be commended for their very tasteful performance in this piece which, at times, gives the players a good workout.

The program began with Mozart's Symphony No. 32 in G, a work in three movements. Typically Mozart, it gave the string section a chance to explore its rich, well-disciplined style, as well as providing a challenge for the French horn in its upper register.

This was followed by the more contemporary music of the one-time Yale professor, Paul Hindemith, known for composing rhythmically and harmonically complex works.

Gardner Takes Case To Trustees Tonight

James Gardner of Manchester is to present his case to the state Board of Trustees of Regional Community Colleges tonight in his continuing attempt to remain an English lecturer at Manchester Community College.

The trustees agreed to hear Gardner's case earlier this month, but the informal presentation was postponed.

Gardner, who has taught at MCC since 1969, was notified April 16 that his annual lecture contract would not be renegotiated beyond the end of the current academic year.

He unsuccessfully petitioned MCC administrators to hear his case, and many of his students and colleagues joined in the effort to have him rehired.

MCC President Ronald Denton, who declined to hear Gardner's grievance but agreed to informal meetings (which were never conducted), has stood firm on his decision not to rehire Gardner.

Gardner maintains that he is entitled to more than two months' dismissal notice and he should be given the reasons for dismissal. Administrators disagree.

Gardner's case is to be presented to the state trustees in Hartford tonight by his lawyer, Robert Hittle of Hartford.

Two Ceremonies Needed For UConn Class of '75

STORRS (UPI) — Nearly 5,000 students received degrees at the University of Connecticut's 22nd annual commencement, at which two ceremonies were required to accommodate the large number of graduates.

More than 200 Comm Law School graduates received their degrees Sunday night during a program featuring a speech by Paul Freund, noted Harvard law professor.

Dr. Homer D. Babbidge Jr., former UConn president and now master of Yale's Timothy Dwight College, was the principal graduation speaker Sunday.

Dr. Jill Conway, president-elect of Smith College, Mass., delivered the traditional charge to the graduates.

Babbidge, president from 1962 to 1972, warned them that rising criticism of big business, government and education is being misdirected.

"It'll behoove us to criticize the big guys who make a profit from automobiles or oil or from food merchandising or whatever," Babbidge said, "when they have done so only by giving us what we thought we craved."

District Board Acts On Its Budget Tonight

Eight District directors will pick up tonight where they left off last Monday — action on a recommended budget and tax rate for 1975-76.

Being considered is a 4-mill tax rate — up 1.5 mills over the current levy. Although it was the consensus of the board last Monday the hike is necessary, action was delayed a week, pending more information on estimated expenditures. Apparently the estimates remain the same and the mill rate is expected to be recommended.

OPINION

Hathaway Should Be Confirmed

Former Wyoming Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway, who turned down a federal district judgeship to allow his name to be put into nomination as Secretary of the Interior by President Ford, must sometimes have regretful second thoughts about his decision.

In his senatorial pre-confirmation hearings he has been pilloried by practically every environmentalist group in the country and by some of the liberal press beginning with an uninformed attack in the New York Times.

Hathaway served eight years as governor of Wyoming, and could probably have been easily elected for another term had he chosen to run. He was elected in both contests with the help of many voters of the Democratic party. Hathaway is, of course, a Republican.

In his years as governor he was as vigilant in protection of the environment of Wyoming as was practical. But of course "practical" does not enter into the vocabularies of the environmental zealot.

With a population of about 350,000, Wyoming has had a conspicuous export — its young people who graduated from the state's only university and could not find employment at home because of lack of jobs.

The governor rightly encouraged development in the state to meet this need and the economic needs of a small population state which is still a great treasure trove of minerals, including enormous coal deposits.

He may have had the notion that with a great energy shortage in the United States he was performing a national service by favoring and encouraging development of the state's mineral resources.

OPEN FORUM

Legitimate

The account in the May 6 Hartford Times of the Manchester Community College mini-rally for fired lecturer James Gardner contained the following:

"Both Gordon and Gardner mentioned a third 'radical' professor who is leaving the school. They said Roger Dionne, who teaches writing, resigned before he could be fired."

I bitterly resent Messrs. Gardner and Gordon's slanderous statements. I resigned at the end of the fall semester for many reasons, not the least important of which was that I could not in good faith continue to work in the same institution with Mr. Gardner, his supporter Mr. Valer, and other teachers who, in my judgment, twisted the truth for their personal ends and often made a mockery of higher education. There was never any question in anyone's mind that I might be fired. To the contrary, I had received tenure and a promotion shortly before I made my decision to resign.

Furthermore, I am convinced that in dismissing Messrs. Gardner and Gordon the administration was not attempting to get rid of so-called "radical" teachers, as Mr. Gardner and the company would have us believe. Nor was the administration launching an attack on the Humanities or academic freedom. Mr. Gardner did not bring the Humanities to Manchester Community College. How furious that he allowed such patent nonsense to be said about him at the rally. Rather he brought a sassy mishmash of pseudo-philosophical bombast and quasi-humanistic sophistry that were a possibly ingenious smoke screen for what I considered plain lateness and irresponsibility.

There were, in my view, quite legitimate reasons for the dismissal of Messrs. Gardner and Gordon. The administration's discretion in not making some of these reasons public is perhaps to be admired.

Town Council Also The Jury

Several weeks ago, Mike Pesce, superintendent of roads in the town of Hartford, was fired by the Town Council. The firing was described in generalities in a letter sent to him, at his request, to be open to the public as it is his contention that he did nothing to warrant him being fired. The meeting was Monday, May 12, and due to the length and nature of the testimony, has been continued to Wednesday, May 21.

The meeting May 12 was to shake one confidence in justice. It has to be one of the biggest by Attorney William Hall, who is the partner of Abbot Schwebel, town attorney. It is interesting to note that the first thing brought out at the meeting was that Attorney Hall, the moderator, just happened to be representing the Town Council. It's quite a trick to be impartial when you are representing one side.

Since the Town Council had fired Mr. Pesce, Richard J. Cromie, attorney for Mr. Pesce, called Rose Fowler, chairman of the Town Council as a witness. Attorney Hall, the impartial moderator, refused to allow Rose Fowler, or any Town Council member to testify. This presented an interesting point and one had to wonder how justice was possible if the very council who fired Mr. Pesce via a vague letter was now refusing to testify and state what, if any specific charges they had. Moderator Hall felt it should be this way. The meeting progressed without any testimony from the Town Council.

Mr. Sandberg, town manager, did an outstanding job in testing and stated flatly he was against the firing of Mr. Pesce. The Town Council which was not allowed to testify was, however, allowed to cross-examine Mr. Sandberg over the objection of Attorney Cromie. Mr. Cromie's objection was obviously overruled by the moderator. As Mr. Cromie so clearly stated, Mr. Hall would let the council testify but would allow them to act as prosecutors. And so went the meeting for the rest of the evening.

I am certain the same 50 people who turned out May 12 will again turn out in Mr. Pesce's defense Wednesday, May 21. Hopefully, the hall will be overflowing. Mr. Pesce is, from the evidence presented, innocent of all charges, however, the Town Council is the jury plus has the moderator on its side.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Prayer is a force as real as gravity. As a physician, I have seen men and women whose therapy has failed, lifted out of disease and melancholy by the serene effort of prayer. It is the only power in the world that seems to overcome the so-called "laws of nature."

The occasions on which prayer has done this dramatically have been termed "miracles." But a constant, quieter miracle takes place hourly in the hearts of men and women who have discovered that prayer supplies them with a steady flow of sustaining power in their lives.

MAX LERNER

Driveabout

NEW YORK CITY — What do parents do when their children have grown up and are scattered around the country, even around the world? They wait, somewhat wryly, for the phone calls and letters that come so infrequently, and they try to arrange travel plans to get a glimpse of the wayward ones, and catch up with their news, their growth, their psyches, their minds, and then they call home to tell them they did, and Adam arrived — pretty gaudy and shaken — but he had his mother to nurse him for almost a week, and she had her son to talk with.

When we left him, somewhat patched up, his plan was to drive back to San Francisco, well or not, with a Mexican friend for company. They took a leisurely pace on their trek, and it was 10 days before this particular worried father heard the expected voice on the phone, saying that he felt almost like his old self. Now Adam is back at work, with his carpooling, ready to drive back soon to the East Coast for a summer more of work before he starts school again.

Some years back there was an unforgettable Australian film "Walkabout." The Lerner experience with this has been mostly out of it, but not lack of his anxieties. There are times when the nuclear family really works, and when the roaming adolescent is glad to have one to fall back on. Our 18-year-old, Adam, has spent most of his year-away-before college working in California. He then took a month driving through Baja California and Mexico. Luckily I had a talk to give in Acapulco, and we made a date with Adam to meet him there.

My feeling is that our young people, in their deepest selves, want to be tested on hard ground, somewhere, somehow. The breakaway from the family, to find this hard ground, usually comes after the college years. But an increasing number of the young feel that it comes too late, that there are more crucial testings of self than college and that they need to discover things about themselves that they can later bring to their more formal education. They argue that the breakaway years should precede college, which can start when they are 20 or 21, on the proposition that you learn from books and classrooms and seminars only what you are prepared to learn, after having had your early in-lings with a different kind of life game.

I am not prepared to argue against this, although I think our experimenting with the idea should be slow, starting with the year before college, and later adding another year before graduate or professional school. Adam's driveabout, in Mexico and twice across the continent, added to his workabout for a year, may be the equivalent of the Australian boy's walkabout for his modern city counterpart.

Adam is the third of our three sons who, in one form or another, have tried for a work-travel-school mix. Others are doing something of the same. I don't know what it is going to mean for the total life cycle of their generation. But one thing is clear: The developing young people are not going to wait until the bright college years are over before they get a taste of what will stretch and temper them in harsher ways.

Ivory Tower Mouse

WASHINGTON — In the newspaper business, they call it "Afghanistanism." The term refers to an editorial or column which takes a vigorous stand on a foreign issue which could not possibly anger or annoy anybody within a thousand miles of the newspaper's circulation area.

Derek Bok, president of Harvard University, our last other academic figure, has joined the club. At a time when America has enough serious problems to satisfy the most assiduous members of the club, and Bok and his colleagues have turned in a report on New York's other day, labored mightily and gave birth to a typical ivory tower mouse.

To wit, they joined voices in condemning reported "violations of the most elementary human rights" in Chile. They cited the case of the head of the State Technical University down there, saying they understood he has been "held under inhumane conditions" since the 1973 military takeover.

If true — and it probably is — that's terrible. No decent American can challenge the good educators' mass indignation. But it does seem that college presidents and their various tutorial flocks spend their time more fruitfully lending their intelligence and concern to the worries now besetting the Republic.

For one thing, Bok & Co.'s righteous statement was issued on the same day the Drug Enforcement Administration reported that the flow of cocaine, marijuana and hashish into the United States is at record levels. The DEA also warned that heroin imports could increase from present reduced levels to a new record high.

That kind of bad news should be given higher priority by the academic world than what is happening in Chile. An awful lot of those drugs find their way onto college campuses, and if I were Derek Bok I would force myself to let Chile wait for another day or so, meanwhile coming out with a statement saying I found the DEA report disturbing and that I would redouble efforts to crack down on Harvard's young hoppers.

To be sure, the Chile statement was in the form of a message to the Organization of American States' Human Rights Committee, and academic propriety should rally around their fellows everywhere. But one gets the impression that Bok and

ZBA To Reconsider Peterman Conversion Application

Barney Peterman's application to convert a five-family house on Union St. to a four-family house will be reconsidered tonight by the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA). Peterman's request — which was rejected in March — is the last of eight items scheduled for public hearings. The hearings start at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room. Peterman is seeking a special exception from town zoning regulations to convert the Union St., which is in a Residence C Zone. He also seeks relief from provisions of the conversion regulations. Peterman's petition failed after a March 18 public hearing because of inconclusive ZBA voting. Four affirmative votes are required for approval and the ZBA vote to approved the request was 2-2. The ZBA doesn't usually reconsider applications until one year has passed from the date of the original application, but board members agreed to the second hearing last month. There were indications that the ZBA might have considered evidence not presented at the public hearing when it voted on the application. Board Chairman Bernard Johnson said he received a confidential letter from Town Planner J. Eric Potter in which he (Potter) commented on Peterman's

Bolton School Calendar Adopted Despite Objections of Teachers

Donna Holland
Correspondent
646-0375

The Bolton Board of Education unanimously adopted the school calendar for the 1975-76 school year at its last meeting after school superintendent Raymond Allen recommended it and a group of teachers objected to it.

Allen explained to the board that he had asked for input from the teaching and administrative staff of all Bolton schools about the calendar.

He said there was disagreement between the staff at Bolton Elementary and Bolton Center schools and the staff of Bolton High School.

Allen said it was impossible to please everyone. He had attempted to talk to the teachers but as their reasoning was apart they decided to attend the school board meeting to voice their objections. The biggest objection to the proposed calendar was the winter recess which will begin on a Thursday and end on a Tuesday.

Allen said his primary focus when preparing the calendar was the students. He said the staff and area communities are considered. He said Bolton particularly considers the Vernon school system where the town's special education students go.

If all goes well and there are no snow days or unforeseen circumstances Bolton schools will be dismissed June 11, 1976. Allen said the earlier closing would allow more flexibility in family vacations, an earlier start to the summer reading program, and a better chance for high school students to get summer jobs.

Speaking for the teachers Thomas Sheridan, math teacher, said they felt their in-pull to the superintendent was not reflected in the proposed calendar. He said they felt little resentment about the February vacation.

He said it was the general opinion of the teachers three days would be nearly lost trying to get the students working after vacation. He said it was educationally unsound to shut school down for a week.

Sheridan said the teachers also felt the spring vacation should follow Easter, not precede it.

Mrs. Thelma Friedman, Grade 2 teacher, told the school board members many of the teachers enjoyed skiing and February was one of the best months for it.

Philip Robenheimer, Grade 5 teacher, told the board many things upset the teachers. He said the input of the staff of the elementary and center schools, which is the majority of school personnel, was not considered. He said there was no compromise between the administration and the staff.

Robenheimer said it was disruptive to the education system to end a week on a Wednesday and begin a week on a Wednesday. He said the school might also see absenteeism that otherwise might not be.

Allen said he had to emphasize the fact teacher input was considered. He said he resented the implications by the teachers it wasn't.

He said he doesn't ask anything of the staff just for the fun of it.

Board member Andrew Maneglia said it was the superintendent's responsibility to present a proposed calendar. He said by law it was the superintendent's duty to adopt a calendar.

William Vogel, chairman of the school board, said the calendar might perhaps be inconvenient for many people for vacation closing.

There will be seven four-hour sessions days for curriculum and in-service programs and or vacation closing.

Businessmen Favor Improved Police Protection

BOLTON
Donna Holland
646-0375

Bolton businessmen responding to a questionnaire distributed by the police study committee apparently feel more police protection is needed in town.

Of the 74 surveys distributed to businessmen and institutions 19 were returned by private businesses, three by the town government and one by a religious institution.

The committee feels the percentage of responses was too low to furnish adequate information from which to draw many firm conclusions.

The responses returned were overwhelming. From businesses stocking salable goods, especially automobile businesses. The committee feels those businesses are particularly susceptible.

The responses represent a "minimally" reliable representation of business and institutional opinions and concerns.

The businessmen were asked if they had been confronted with some type of nuisance or crime. An overwhelming majority, 91 per cent, had been.

When asked what types of crime they had been confronted with, the answers were vandalism, 74 per cent, burglary, 68 per cent and trespassing, 46 per cent. Five also complained about noise pollution on the main route.

Seventy-eight per cent of those answering said they have called for police assistance in the past two or three years.

Brownies Fly Up
Grade 3 Brownies recently received their Brownie wings and Girl Scout pins in ceremonies at the Bolton Congregational Church Chandler Hall.

The wings were presented by Brownie leaders and the pins by Junior Girl Scout leaders.

Those who became Junior Girl Scouts are Christine Adams, Carolyn DelSignore, Jacqueline Daly, Joanne Kowalshy, Ann Hoffman, Marianne Lemire, Deborah Marshall, Christine Pellerin, Mary Siena, Sherry-Lyn Noel, Lydia Oylan, Annette Scotella, Maria Jean Matrick, Jennifer Warner, Giovanna Allocca, Shari-Lyn Arsenault, Candice Butterfield, Carol Cavanagh, Karen Linder, Laura Schlitz, Lisa Schmidt, Jennifer Stephens, Anne Taylor and Sherri Vataroni.

Leaders Needed
Brownie Troop 616 that meets each Wednesday at Bolton Elementary School from 3 until 4 p.m. is in need of a co-leader for the 1975-1976 year.

Junior Girl Scout Troop 668 which meets each Tuesday at St. George's Church from 6:30 until 8 p.m. also needs a co-leader.

The Cadette Girl Scout Troop that meets each Tuesday from 7:30 until 9 p.m. needs assistants.

Anyone wishing to volunteer her/his services in the community's scouting organization should call Elleen DelSignore, 643-4965.

Oh, Heaviest of All
The heaviest of all invertebrate animals is the Atlantic giant squid, "Architeuthis Princesi." The largest specimen ever recorded measured 36 feet overall (head and body 20 feet, tentacles 35 feet) captured on Nov. 2, 1878 after it had run aground in Tackle Bay, Newfoundland. Its eyes were 9 inches in diameter.

Those answering felt more protection was needed over the weekends and at night more during the day.

Most of the businessmen said their insurance had not been adversely affected because of crime in the area. Three had increased premiums and one respondent said insurance was a real problem for him.

Reasons given by 78 per cent for not having an alarm system were: High cost, not needed, might not be anyone to answer it. When asked for additional comments the businessmen called for more patrol and protection good, keep lights on and buildings occupied at all times, publish crimes, quicker and more severe criminal process, join with Coventry and Vernon police for night protection and willing to pay a reasonable amount for continual police surveillance.

At a police study committee meeting in January, Robert Peterson, resident state trooper said every business in town would invest in an alarm system, the town wouldn't need any police help.

Some of the committee members question whether or not an alarm installation alone would solve the problem.

Survey Seeks Jobs For Ex-Prisoners

A survey of potential employers in the towns of Vernon, Bolton, and Ellington will be conducted this summer by the Vernon Jaycees with the approval of the board of directors of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce.

The survey will be made in connection with the Connecticut Jaycees Institutional Assistance Program which is designed to help those who have been released from prison or jail, to become productive members of the community.

Ray Vella, of Enfield, director of the program, spoke to the board at its meeting Wednesday. He said, "86 per cent of those who have been released will come back to their community and they can try to become productive citizens or they can turn back to crime."

This summer businesses and industry will be surveyed to determine the attitudes of potential employers and to see what types of jobs may be available.

It was emphasized that the program in the three-town area will involve only Vernon people who have been in jail or in prison and are returning to their hometown.

This type program is not a new one, Vella said. It has been started in other towns throughout the United States. Some are under different names but all have the same intent.

The United States Chamber of Commerce operates these programs under the title of "Marching Citizen Power to Modernize Corrections."

It was pointed out that most authorities agree that the lack of meaningful employment opportunities has been a major contributing cause to the rising crime rate and the high rate of recidivism, and in turn, the increasing cost of crime.

It was also noted that ex-offenders with better paying jobs are much less likely to return to a life of crime than those with no jobs, part-time jobs, or lower-paying jobs.

Vella said hopefully the Jaycees can encourage potential employers to work with the corrections department to make those people more available to the type of skills needed.

The program will not involve any public relations campaign but interested potential employers will be supplied with a list of former offenders who are seeking re-employment, if they request it.

It was reported to the Board of Education that vandalism occurred during the April vacation.

There were four large windows at Bolton High School and two windows at Bolton Center School smashed.

It will cost $200 to $300 just for the replacement of glass.

The health department of Bolton Elementary School and Bolton Center School reported there were 14 injuries to students during the month of April.

The injuries ranged from a broken tibia requiring a cast to a student who fell on his elbow and required a cold pack.

The accidents all occurred during regular physical education classes.

The phys ed teachers are aware of the accidents and are restructuring their activities to improve student supervision and safety efforts.

Andrew Maneggia, board member, pointed out a lot of time is given to developing curriculum, but there isn't much time given to developing physical education activities and asked if it would be possible to arrange an in-service program for the phys ed teachers.

School Superintendent Raymond Allen said a number of parents called and voiced their complaints.

He said the number of activities would be held to that which the teacher could properly supervise.

He said the injuries would be included in the monthly report to the school board from now on.

Penny Fair Bolton Elementary School Grade 2 students recently held their second annual penny fair.

Games of chance and skill and fortune-telling booths were constructed by the students. Popcorn and lemonade were offered for sale to the Grade 1 students invited to the fair.

At the end of the day the students had a much better understanding of the economics of providing goods and services and realizing a profit for their labors.

The profit earned from the fair was used to buy animal food to feed animals at the Willington Game Farm where the Grade 2 students went on their class trip.

The Town Council tonight will review the performance of Town Manager Allen Sandberg.

This became an item on the council agenda after it became public that Councilman Al Carilli had asked for Sandberg's resignation several weeks ago. The request was signed only by Carilli.

Reaction Varies to Approval Of Health Education Program

SOUTH WINDSOR
Many South Windsor residents stand bewildered in the wake of the Board of Education's recent approval of the Health Education and Human Development Curriculum.

Some are apprehensive about its implementation in the school system, while others wonder "what's the fuss all about?"

More than 100 persons jammed the library of the South Windsor High School - some to hear for the first time the pros and cons of the program - and others to continue the long debate regarding certain aspects of the controversial curriculum which takes its sex education.

With the Democratic majority winning, the final vote of 5-4 fell along party lines. Some who spoke were concerned about the small segment of sex education included in the program while others felt that that could be handled objectively, but expressed concern for areas regarding personality development.

Ron White of Miller Rd., father of three children in the school system asked if "we want a public institution suggesting or inferring a behavioral pattern or a particular personality?"

Rabbi Neil Kaminski, strongly in favor of the program and a member of the guidance committee, said "I think when we speak of a school system that does not teach values we are kidding ourselves. When we teach Social Studies we are teaching good citizenship. That is a value."

"I believe this is a curriculum that tries to be objective. We are not trying to turn out a particular personality. We want the child to understand himself. I do not believe this is a curriculum which will morally, emotionally or intellectually damage anybody."

Rabbi Kaminski said he felt the "rights of the majority" were in question. "The children of South Windsor are entitled to a 20th Century education," he said.

Marie Murphy, who asked to be put on record in favor of the curriculum, said she felt the school board and committee officials did a "shamefully inadequate" job in informing the public regarding the contents of the curriculum.

Final LAIC Meeting Scheduled for Tonight

BOLTON
Donna Holland
The final meeting of the Bolton Legislative Assistance and Information Committee (LAIC) before the adjournment of the House of Representatives in June will be tonight at 8 at the Town Hall.

Aloysius Ahearn, state representative from the 55th District, will meet with interested residents. He believes an important function of a representative is to help people understand the issues before the legislature and to hear their views.

Grant Davis, chairman of the Bolton LAIC, urges people to attend tonight's meeting. Among topics to be discussed at tonight's meeting are a proposed bill for the establishment of spaying and neutering clinics for cats and dogs.

Ahearn said, "We have here an unusual opportunity to do something that is important to the community without costing the state a cent because the initiation of the clinic will be privately funded."

Bulletin Board
The Board of Selectmen will meet tonight at 8 at the Town Hall.

The outlined fence at the baseball field has been installed by the Public Works Department with the Recreation Department assisting in laying out the fields.

McCoy Shows Concern For Youth Work Rules

Concerned with the shrinkage of state funds for summer employment, Mayor Frank McCoy has written to Sen. Lowell Weicker, Congressman Christopher Dodd, the Capitol Region Council of Governments, and the U.S. Department of Labor.

Mayor McCoy said the Town of Vernon has had about 40 students working on a part-time, 10-hours-per-week program. One of the requirements of the program is that these students have income within family income limitations.

This program, he said, will be continued through the summer and perhaps be expanded to double the number of positions but income limitations will still be in effect.

During the past five years Mayor McCoy has successfully obtained money from the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) for the Summer Opportunity for Youth program as well as having money in the local budget for youth employment.

He said this year funding from DCA may be in doubt and there may be no funding for the hiring of young people from moderate and middle income families.

In his letter to government officials and groups, the mayor urged that at least 50 percent of the funds be made available for the hiring of these young people.

The mayor described the practice of hiring just those from the lower income families as a "blatant discriminatory practice." He urged that changes be made to correct this practice.

He said these moderate and middle income families, for the most part are working people who are being successful in keeping off the public assistance rolls, but are not getting by.

He explained in his letter that children of these families are as deserving of obtaining part-time summer work as are the ones of extremely low income or welfare families.

"It is my firm conviction that guidelines should be changed on these programs to allow at least 50 percent of these funds for employing children of these moderate income people," the mayor said. He strongly urged from DCA may be in doubt and there may be no funding for the hiring of young people from

Seniors Want to Serve Rather Than Be Served

The senior citizens of the tri-town area of Vernon, Tolland and Ellington want to be served by others, rather than being served by others always do for them.

During Saturday's conference the senior citizens broke up into two discussion groups to air their feelings concerning help and being helped.

This was the message that came across at a conference for the elderly conducted Saturday at the Northeast School in Rockville.

The attendance of 40 persons was small compared to the attendance two years ago in Ellington when hundreds of senior citizens turned out to air their frustrations. At that time the biggest problem noted was the program of country music was presented by Glimence Stevens and Rowena Graci.

The Rev. John Mortimer of the Rockville Methodist Church, moderator of the program, summed up the Saturday meeting by noting that the emphasis was on the elderly as individuals and their relationship to other people.

He said the elderly have their happinesses and their frustrations but most of all they want to feel needed.

Concerning the prior transportation problem, the elderly said they are pleased that there is a strong possibility that there may be a bus in service in the three towns later this summer, which will provide transportation on a regular basis.

At the present time each town has a bus service but these trips are somewhat limited to special occasions.

The reception line for a double wedding starts with either the mothers of the brides, followed by their fathers, or the parents of the older bride, followed by the parents of the younger.

Computer Fits Dialysis to Patient

The new method was figured out entirely by mathematical theory and medical science has joined in an experiment that promises greatly improved treatment for persons suffering from kidney failure.

Kidney failure occurs when the vital organ breaks down from a variety of causes and causes its work of removing urea from the bloodstream. The result is a buildup of dangerous urea, normally eliminated by the kidneys in a person's urine, which can lead to serious illness and even death.

The treatment today is fairly simple, although time-consuming and expensive: hemodialysis — putting the patient's blood through a machine that removes the urea.

Most patients are routinely put on an artificial kidney machine for six or eight hours at a time — but now two researchers have found a way to make the treatment fit the patient exactly.

James Sizer of Vernon was his brother's best man. Ushers were Michael Petrone of Ellington, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Jeff Sizer of Vernon, the bridegroom's brother, and Larry Kasevich of Enfield.

Frances Michele Misseri of East Hartford and Michael Edward Tamin of Manchester were married May 17 at St. Bridget Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Joseph Misseri of East Hartford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tamin of East Hartford.

The Rev. William Slack of St. Bridget Church officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with baskets of mixed white flowers. Mrs. Barbara Murphy was organist and soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a slim line crepe gown with lace-trimmed midriff and train. Her fingertip veil was trimmed with matching lace and attached to a pearl-trimmed headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations. Her gown and veil were of the same fabric as the bridegroom's suit. Her attendants were made by her mother.

Miss Diane Misseri of Danbury, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a light yellow floral organza gown and carried a basket of white flowers. The bridegroom's best man was William Slack.

Moochers Make Many Folks Mad

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune & News Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column about people who were always mooching rides, and these moochers were called "schmorrs."

I would like to know what term came from. We are one of the 300 families in the United States with the name of "Schnorr," and we object to the use of our name with such a meaning.

We hope that the Schnorr families in Oregon, New Mexico, Illinois and all the other states feel we do and that you get 199 more letters of protest. Thank you.

THE SCHNORRS OF ARIZONA

DEAR SCHNORRS: The verb "to beg" is "schmorren" in German. From it comes the noun, "schmorrs"—which means "a beggar, a pauper, a moocher, a moocher, a chiseler, a bum, a drifter, or a borrower. It can also mean a compulsive bargain hunter, bargainer or an impudent indigent."

The above information was "schmorred" (borrowed without permission) from "The Words of Yiddish"—a delightful and authoritative book written by Leo Rosten.

DEAR ABBY: I have also had a letter with schnorrs who mooch rides. But when an acquaintance calls and asks if I'm going to a certain affair and I say I am, she immediately asks, "May I ride with you?" Then what do I say?

My greatest objection to these free-loaders is the loss of my personal freedom of movement. I can neither arrive nor leave an event at my own convenience. And I can't choose the route I will take. Even though I may be downtown shopping, I must leave my home because one habitual rider lives near me.

I must also wait until the end of the affair, or until my riders have finished visiting with their friends—not a chance of leaving a few minutes early to stop at the market or do a few errands because I must deliver my riders to their homes promptly.

My car is a two-door. One hefty free-loader who had trouble getting into my back seat said, "When you get a new car, will you please get a four-door?"

I wish I had had the nerve to say, "Like fun I will. My next car will be a two-seater!"

WHAT TO DO?

DEAR WHAT: Some people actually enjoy providing others with rides, but since you so obviously consider it an imposition when they're asked, simply say, "I may not be leaving from home" (I've, you may not, Dr. "I may not be going directly home afterward.") (Also true.)

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a Mama's boy. Mama lives 1,500 miles away, but she writes to Sonny regularly three times a week. And Sonny calls her every Sunday. (He even asks her how he should vote.) He is 41 and has a Mama's boy in 79. I know she can't live forever, but what happens to a Mama's boy when Mama is no longer around to tell him what to do?

DEAR SICK: It's still a Mama's boy at 64, he missed the last boat to adulthood, so he'll probably look for another "Mama." And thank you're here.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Indians on Hitting Spree, Raise Average and Record

By Len Auster

After four games of the 1975 scholastic baseball season, Manchester High had a team batting average of .342 (39 for 114) in the last three tilts.

Since then, the Indians have raised that standard 34 points to a more respectable .402, swinging at a torrid 342 (39 for 114) in the last three tilts.

Saturday at Kelly Field, the Six Towers socked 12 safeties, including two-run homers by Jack Maloney and Ray Sullivan, to outlast CCLC foe Manchester, 7-5.

With the victory, Manchester improved its record to 10-3, good enough for sole possession of second place in the league. The Indians resume CCLC action today at 3:35 visiting three-place holder 9-4 Enfield High.

Face-setting Concord High is 12-2. The Christians finish their league schedule against Enfield Wednesday and Hall High Friday. Besides Enfield, Manchester visits East Hartford High Wednesday and hosts Windham High Friday. For the Indians to win the league title, which eluded them by one game in 1974, the obvious is in black and white.

Sullivan's homer with Rick Nicola aboard over the right centerfielder in the eighth gave the locals a 3-3 edge.

The Falcons, held hitless the first three frames, grabbed a 2-0 lead in the top of the fourth. Keith Patenaude walked and lefty swinging Bob Desjardis deposited a Ballard fast ball over the right centerfielder for the markers.

Two errors sandwiched a run, struck out by two runs in the ninth and had the tying run at the plate in the person of Bruce Ballard. 3-2, got Jones' foul out to catcher Maloney to end the game.

Falcon starter Bill Pelota walked Nicola on four pitches, prompting his removal. But reliever Malmann met with little success.

He attempted to pickoff pinch runner Ray Gilha but his leg went wild moving the runner to second. Gilha took third on Sullivan's fly out to deep center and Odell tied it lining a single ball over the right centerfielder.

Warriors Head Home With Lead

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) - It was westward home today for the surprising Golden State Warriors who are reloading a quick advantage over the favored Washington Bullets with a 101-95 victory in the opening game of their NBA championship series.

The Warriors accomplished their third come-from-behind playoff triumph Sunday by rallying from 14 points down to win on Washington's home court. The next two games will be played at San Francisco's Cow Palace Tuesday and Friday before the shutdown returns.

Glenn Mike Riordan summed it up for the Bullets before their departure to California: "The win is a big plus for them. They need the schedule working for them."

Golden State coach Al Attles agreed after the Warriors surged to victory in the final period when rookie reserve guard Phil Smith racked up 10 of his 20 points.

"We've eliminated any home court advantage in this series," he told newsmen, then pointing to the ceiling, added, "Our guys are going to have to come from behind to eliminate the Chicago Bulls in the last two games of the Western Conference title playoffs and a half-time 54-46 as they shot only 36 percent from the field compared to 51.2 per cent for Washington."

"But even though we were 14 points down, I was optimistic," Attles said. "I reminded them they'd been behind before and that they should play good defense and get the ball down the court fast."

"There are no 15-point plays in this game," he continued. "You can never make it all up on one spectacular play. It's just chip, chip away until their lead is gone."

The tactic worked as the Warriors pulled to within a point of the Bullets at the end of the third quarter, then steadily drew ahead in the final period. The contribution from the Golden State bench was a major factor in the last half even while Rick Barry led all scorers with 24 points. Smith came off the bench when starter Butch Beard got into early foul trouble. In addition to his 20 points, he blocked three shots, shot two assists and came up with seven rebounds at both ends of the court.

He and four other Golden State scorers, Derrick Dickey, Charles Dudley, George Johnson and Jeff Mullins - produced 44 points compared to only 15 from Washington's reserves.

Attles commented: "We think we probably proved today that we can play anyone on our league. Our bench did it today just like they did it in our playoffs against Seattle and Chicago. "The bench and our patience, our keeping our head and not panicking - that's what's making us a good team."

Cougars Downed In CCCAA Finale

By Chris Blake

Riding a crest of CCCAA flag fever into yesterday's championship game, Manchester Community College saw its dreams go by the boards as Housatonic Community College of Bridgeport flexed its muscles for six runs in the third inning to methodically trounce the Cougars, 9-3, at Middletown's Palmer Field.

The win puts the wraps on Housatonic's second consecutive CCCAA crown.

Manchester's route to the finals was paved Saturday when the locals pulled out a heart-stopping 7-6 win over Northern Division nemesis Northwestern Community College. Housatonic stopped the Cougars in the seventh, knocking out Pioneer starter Mark Rebillard. In the four-run uprising, Tom Leison drove in a pair with a single and Panchera and Larry Morrison drew bases loaded forcing two runs in the fourth tally coming in on a passed ball.

MCC wins up with a 10-6 record, 9-3 in the CCCAA. Housatonic's record is 25-12 overall and 10-1 in the loop. The champion Hawks are ranked second among New England junior colleges.

Housatonic used leg power in the first two innings to score single runs but power look over for finesse in the third as the Hawks raked MCC starter and locked Rich Babe for six runs, sending Babe to an early exit and his first loss against six wins.

Two triples by Tom Andros and Bill Biagioni, were the big blows in the inning before Dan Pagnoni, who saved the win over Northwestern, came in and dominated the fire. Pagnoni walked just one run, in the fifth, but the damage was already done.

Montreal Mayor Fears Bigger Olympic Deficit

MONTREAL (UPI) - Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau leaves this week for a top-level Olympics conference in Europe, fearful wild strikes at the 1976 site will increase an already forecasted $250 million summer games deficit.

The 2,000 workers at the Olympic park have joined some 50,000 men at sites throughout Quebec in protesting government plans and subsequent negotiation to stop scandal-ridden construction unions.

The Montreal Olympics Organizing Committee (COJO) said last week, however, that the Olympic village site would reopen today and the main stadium complex on Thursday, with police providing protection for workers who want to return. Both have been closed since May 1.

"I hope the walkouts won't have an effect on time, but they will have a definite effect on cost," Drapeau said Sunday.

"What has not been done will have to be done at extra cost. But with regular production from Canadian workers, it shouldn't be too high."

Latest estimates, released last December, show the commissioned engineering study put Olympic costs at $653 million, with $338 million for construction and $73 million for administration.

NATIONAL FARM

Victory Saturday at Bowers Field was achieved by Moriarty Brothers, 2-0, over the Medics. Ken Ferry, Vince Purnaghan and Phil Malinoski paced Moriarty's with doubles. Phil Foreman and Steve Reagan clubbed triples for the Medics.

The job can be done. There's no doubt. The moment the workers go back to work and there are no more strikes, the job will be done."

American Eagles Have Edge Over McLarens in 500 Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) - The American Eagles will have a 167-edge over the British million-dollar Indianapolis "500," with the second fastest lineup ever set for the holiday grand prix.

The 33-car lineup and although there was plenty of qualifying time available, only three cars were "bumped" by faster machines over the weekend.

Ten cars of makes other than the Dan Gurney-built Eagles or the racing McLarens also made the field, which averaged 196.45 mph in the time trials, compared with a record 192.229 two years ago before engine and stabilizer wing restrictions reduced the speeds. This year's average is 2.5 miles faster than last year.

Mario Andretti became the sixth former Speedway champion to qualify for the 59th annual race, but the speed of 196.45 left him in the eighth fastest overall.

Andretti, the 1969 race winner from Nazareth, Pa., missed the first weekend of the trials to race in Europe.

All four weekend qualifying days saw near perfect weather conditions.

Twenty-seven cars were powered by basically identical engines - the four-cylinder Drake-Offenhauser. Only three are equipped with eight-cylinder Ford's, one known as the Ford V-8. Three-time winner Art Jimenez's five-cylinder engine is now named and who modified them, sits on the pole and will enter the 200-lap chase at the man to beat.

The starting field will get one final chance for dress rehearsal practice in Thursday's embargo race. Then the 2 1/2-mile oval will be closed until Sunday's noon (EDT) race start.

Green Honored

NEW HAVEN (UPI) - Rudolph Green, captain of Yale's football squad last season, has been selected to receive Yale's highest athletic recognition, the William Neely Mallory Award.

Green, a halfback from Fort Worth, Tex., started every game for the Bulldogs last season on the varsity and led the 1974 Ivy League football title with Harvard.

Ailing Casper Wins $30,000

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - The room said he felt weak, but Billy Casper, along with nine of his 10 children, were sick the first part of last week and what he didn't need most in the world was to play four days of golf.

He tried to cancel his appearance at the New Orleans Open, but tournament officials never returned his telephone calls.

He arrived in New Orleans on a midnight flight from Salt Lake City, got a little rest Wednesday and played the first round Thursday. During the round he said he felt weak, but he thought he could continue.

He led the first round, and then the second, and then the third and when it was all over Sunday, Billy Casper had won his 51st pro golf tournament - the $150,000 New Orleans Open - finishing with a 17-under 271.

He won the tournament with some of the most consistent scoring he's put together in many years. The difference between his best and his worst round was only four strokes - a 68 on Saturday and a closing round of 70. He shot a 67 Thursday and a 68 Friday.

He won the tournament - the second time he has won the New Orleans Open - with a two-stroke advantage over Englishman Peter Oosterhuis. The win was worth $30,000. The last time he won here, in 1958, he collected $2,800.

"We've come a long way, baby," he said, hoisting the winner's check.

Casper, who started the final round four strokes ahead of Oosterhuis, shot even par in the first four holes Sunday before the fifth, birdied the sixth, birdied the ninth, birdied the 11th, 12th and 13th and shot even par from the 14th through the 18th.

Larry Wadkins finished third at 12 under, followed by Boblynn at 11 under, and Steve Melnyk, Don January and Larry Hanson all at 10 under.

"It was harder playing today because the putter let me down," Casper said. "Oosterhuis, who also played with remarkable consistency, finished with a final round of 68 following rounds of 68, 69, and 69."

"I hit some wild shots today," he said. "But I managed to get it up and down."

Raymond made the 7,000-yard par 72 Lakewood Country Club course soggy the first three days of the tournament, but it dried out Sunday.

"The greens were much better, firmer," Casper said. "I putted faster and were more confident and was had to make an adjustment. Today, it skidded around. You had a very interesting time."

Flyers' Dave Schults Uses Muscle Jim Schoenfeld of Buffalo Covers Up Puck

Clarke Buzzed Sabres For 2-0 Playoff Edge

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - The Philadelphia Flyers have such nicknames for each other as "The Hound, Big Bird, The Hammer, The Pig," but they ought to start calling Bobby Clarke "The Great."

As usual, Clarke was buzzing all over the ice Sunday as the defending Stanley Cup champions defeated the Buffalo Sabres, 2-1 to take a 2-0 advantage in the National Hockey League finals.

On the Flyers' first goal at 8:24 of the second period he passed behind the net to Reggie Leach and pushed it in past goalie Jerry Desjardis for the first score in the nationally televised game.

Then after the Sabres had tied at 2:18 of the third on a goal by Jerry Kobak, Buffalo's promised "big surprise" at the game, Clarke was at it again. The Flyers defense took it from there, again with the aid of Sabres' tenacity, but held off desperate Sabres' attacks, limiting Buffalo to only three shots on goal for the entire third period.

Flyers' coach Fred Shero had one comment after the game regarding Clarke's play: "Clarke always plays good," he said simply, and called the fourth fought contest "one of the best games I've seen in years as far as effort."

The Sabres have not beaten the Flyers at the Spectrum in their five years in the league and Smith lamented, "we still can't get the puck in." But he added, "hopefully things will work out better at home Tuesday night when the best-of-seven series resumes in Buffalo."

$600 Cadillac option free w/ every Beetle.

One of the many improvements on the '75 Beetle is fuel injection. The same type of fuel injection you'll find on a Cadillac.

Only on a Cadillac, it's a $600 option.

On the Beetle, it's standard. Even more amazing, with a Beetle you can use both leaded and unleaded fuel. Whichever fuel you use, the Beetle's fuel injection meters it precisely so that the engine runs more efficiently.

To help insure that the entire Beetle runs more efficiently, you also get a free computer analysis at the first 15,000 miles.

And every Beetle is covered by the Owner's Security Blanket, the most advanced car coverage in the world.

So now you don't have to be rich to own fuel injection.

The new '75 Beetle with new fuel injection.

Now through June 1st. Drive A Cool Bargain! Air conditioning on any 1975 Custom Beetle* $225 installed. At participating dealers.

Hang on to your four trumps

Jim: "It did require some good play by South. Clubs were opened and continued. South discarded a low spade on the second club and another low spade on the third club in order to hang on to his four trumps. Now it didn't matter what was played next. South was sure to take the last ten trumps and score a well deserved rubber bonus."

Oswald: "It was a good decision. Five club tricks would have ruined three trump. Two spades and a club would do. Four hearts made rather easily."

Envoys Agree to Talks On Arms, Mideast Peace

VIENNA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko ended two days of talks today with an agreement to meet again soon to discuss nuclear disarmament and the Middle East.

"We agreed to meet again in the near future," Kissinger told newsmen at the end of a six-hour meeting today at the Soviet Embassy.

A smiling Gromyko nodded agreement. Kissinger and Gromyko spoke to newsmen under the trees in the front yard of the Soviet Embassy before Kissinger went to the airport to fly to the west German capital of Bonn on his four-day tour of Europe.

"We had very useful discussion," Kissinger said. "The atmosphere was cordial." He had said before the start of today's meeting that the two men made some progress in their first round of talks on a treaty limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

Kissinger said at his next meeting with Gromyko the two would discuss in detail this treaty, prospects of peace in the Middle East, and other topics of mutual interest.

"I agree with what the secretary has said," Gromyko said.

Extricating Trapped Driver

The "jaws of life" tool in the center is pulling a dashboard away from the car's injured driver, Robert T. Werfelman, 48, of 300 South St., Vernon Monday about 1 p.m. on I-86. It is being run by unidentified members of the Manchester, Town Fire Department. The car which struck Werfelman's car is flipped over and in the background. It had jumped the guard rails at the left and landed in the westbound lanes into Werfelman's path, state police said. Wearing the white, fireman's hat at left is Deputy Chief William Stratton. Cambodian Gunboat Mutiny Reported

BANGKOK (UPI) — The crew of a Cambodian gunboat believed to have been involved in the seizure of the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez has defected to Thailand, government sources said today.

The sources said the gunboat arrived last week at Sattahip, 100 miles south of Bangkok, dropped anchor off the Gulf of Thailand port and the crew asked for asylum.

The crew told officials in a Thai boarding party that the ship had taken part in the capture of the Mayaguez May 12 near Koh Tang, an island off the Cambodian coast.

One government source said the Cambodian vessel was later moved to a Thai navy base at Sattahip, the port serving the U.S. run U Tapao Air Base.

Government sources said Thailand, anxious to maintain good relations with the new Communist leaders in Cambodia, was unsure what to do about the defection.

U.S. officials refused comment.

The Washington Post said the crew threw the Captain overboard before sailing to Thailand and pledged allegiance to the former Cambodian government.

The newspaper said the Thai government, in an attempt to avoid acknowledging the incident, painted over the Cambodian markings on the ship and hung a Thai flag from the mast.

PZC Eases Liquor Restrictions For Central Business District

By DOUG BEVINS

A zoning regulation amendment to ease liquor restriction in Manchester's Central Business District (CBD) will go into effect June 1, the Planning and Zoning Commission voted Monday night.

The commission voted 4-1 to grant a request from Barbara H. Lindsay, which removes distance restrictions for different types of liquor outlets in the CBD.

The commission majority, voting to approve the application, reasoned that the new liquor rules will provide badly needed help for the decaying downtown area.

The long dissenter, commission member David Paris, favored eased restrictions downtown but maintained that there were unresolved issues created by the new regulation.

Paris unsuccessfully tried to persuade other commission members to reconsider wording in the new regulation, and he suggested that the new regulation define groups of similar liquor permits instead of listing each type of liquor permit allowed downtown.

Mrs. Lindsay's amendment, subject of a May 5 public hearing, specifies 12 classes of liquor permits and removes restrictions for establishments with different classes of permits.

The existing zoning regulations prohibit any liquor outlet within 1,000 feet of another outlet, or within 200 feet of a college, school, church, hospital, library, or charitable institution.

In nearly two hours of discussion before Monday night's vote, commission members debated the need for a change in regulations and the possible influx of many new liquor outlets downtown.

Commission members agreed that free enterprise competition will probably eliminate any overloading of the CBD with liquor establishments.

The amended zoning regulations clear the way for Mrs. Lindsay's husband, Albert, to apply for a liquor license for a proposed restaurant at 881-883 Main St.

Lindsay is planning a new "mini-mall" building at the site, with a full-service restaurant as the major tenant.

The commission decision to ease liquor restrictions in the CBD indicates that the downtown zone is considered as a unique, isolated area. Last year, the PZC rejected an amendment which would ease a restriction for the entire town.

There was some feeling at Monday night's commission meeting that eased restrictions should now apply to all of Manchester, but in a different form than recommended by Town Planner J. Eric Potter last year.

Potter's proposal would have removed all distance restrictions for "bona fide" restaurants with inside seating capacity of not less than 200.

A new proposal to ease rules for the entire town doesn't appear likely in the near future, although commission members indicated that they'll keep studying such a plan.

Commission members favoring the Lindsay amendment Monday night were Chairman Alfred Sturtevant, Joseph Swenson, Ronald Gates, and alternate William Bayer.

Vice Chairman John Hutchinson, the only other commission member to preside over the May 5 public hearing, was unable to attend Monday night.

W.R. Johnson Named President of SBM

William R. Johnson of Glastonbury, executive vice president of the Savings Bank of Manchester, has been named president of the bank, effective Aug. 1.

Johnson, who has been with SBM for 20 years, will succeed Everett J. Livesey, who is retiring after heading the local bank since 1954. Johnson was named to the post Monday by the bank's executive committee.

Johnson, 52, joined the bank in its mortgage department in 1955. He was elected assistant treasurer in 1957, secretary in 1962, and secretary-treasurer in 1965. He became vice president and treasurer in 1968 and was named executive vice president and treasurer in 1971. He will continue to serve as treasurer and director of the bank.

He is a graduate of Wilbraham Academy and Middlebury College, where he also received a degree in economics. He is also a graduate of the Graduate School of Savings Banking and has completed courses at several schools of special studies.

Johnson serves as director of the Savings Bank Housing Corp. and Savings Bank Life Insurance Co. He is vice president and director of the Hartford Mutual Investment Fund.

Locally, Johnson is director of Northeast Data Comm Inc. and the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce. He is past president and director of the Manchester Kiwanis Club and the United Way of Manchester.

He also serves on the mortgage committee of the Savings Bank Association of Connecticut, and is a member of the infor-

Ex-Prime Minister Sato's Condition Extremely Serious

TOKYO (UPI) — Former Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato lay unconscious and near death today after a quill-covered straw mat in a Tokyo Gelsa restaurant where he was felled by a stroke while attending a meeting of business leaders.

Sato, 74-year-old statesman who helped transform postwar Japan into an economic giant and then won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1954, was reported too critically ill to be removed to a hospital.

Prime Minister Takeo Miki and other high figures of Japan's conservative political world streamed past the improvised bed in the traditional Shinkiraku restaurant in downtown Tokyo where Sato collapsed Monday night.

Sato's personal physician, Dr. Yasushi Ueda of Jikei University hospital, said that Sato's condition was critical and had worsened. He said Sato's blood pressure had dropped, and that his pulse had increased from 80-90 Monday night to 100-106 this morning.

Two Injured Seriously Rescue Tool Needed to Free Driver from Crushed Car

By MAL BARLOW

Two victims of a violent, head-on collision on I-86 Monday are in hospitals today recovering from serious injuries.

Hilda E. Wickens, 56, of Lowell, Mass. was still listed in critical condition late morning at St. Francis Hospital with head injuries and fractured ribs, a spokesman said. But her condition has stabilized compared to Monday.

Robert T. Werfelman, 48, of 300 South St., Vernon was still in serious condition at Manchester Memorial Hospital this morning, a spokesman said. He suffered multiple bone fractures including bones in both legs.

State Police of the Hartford barracks described the accident as follows:

Mrs. Wickens was driving a station wagon in the eastbound lanes of I-86 entering Manchester at about 12:45 p.m. She lost control of the vehicle at a curve in the highway within sight of the W. Middle Turnpike bridge over I-86.

The station wagon struck the guard rails in the center, flipped over them, and struck the car driven west by Werfelman.

Manchester Patrolman James Meehan was the first officer on the scene and he radioed for ambulances, the fire department and State Police. The highway is under the control of the State Police.

Ms. Wickens was removed from her vehicle without difficulty and rushed by Manchester Ambulance to MMH. Due to her head injuries and unstable condition, she was transported later to St. Francis Hospital.

Werfelman was stuck firmly in his vehicle. Town firefighters brought to the scene and the recently purchased Hurst Rescue Tool, often called the "jaws of life," were used to free him.

Deputy Chief William Stratton described the use made of it by his men:

Werfelman was pinned by both legs. There was gasoline fuel all around the injured man who appeared to need medical attention as fast as possible.

The firemen pulled out the Hurst tool which operates without sparks, banging, or flame. It is powered by an electric generator.

The tool popped open the passenger door. Then it cut the door post and windshield post.

It then pulled, using chains, the dashboard away from Werfelman. The men could then pull back his seat and the tool pulled the steering wheel from him.

The whole job was done by 1:35 p.m., roughly about 40 minutes from the time the men arrived at the scene, Stratton said.

Stratton had high praise for his men and the tool.

Gov. Ella Grasso Reiterates Stand Against State Levy for Pay Raises

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today said she will not resort to new state levies in her battle with state employees threatening to strike because of the lack of proposed wage hikes for them.

Mrs. Grasso also said she felt it "proper" that the Connecticut Senate Monday approved a resolution officially welcoming South Vietnamese refugees to the United States.

"I don't expect to be looking at any more taxes," she said when asked whether the Senate decision may impose new taxes to cover the expense of providing raises to state workers.

Mrs. Grasso did not comment on the items to be negotiated Wednesday at a session with state workers' unions, but she said a plan offered by the unions had failings.

The unions had said Connecticut could get the $8 million it needs for salary hikes by withholding employees' contributions to the retirement fund, to be put back when the state is in better fiscal condition.

"Some of the figures are inflated and some are just not feasible," Mrs. Grasso said.

The governor also denied news reports that she had criticized President Ford's handling of the Mayaguez incident as "foolish," but said recent disclosures about the military action may bear out some of her comments at the time.

"I did not criticize the Ford Administration," she said, "but the news we've been reading in the newspapers might bear out some of my comments."

Mrs. Grasso, the daughter of Italian immigrants, was criticized harshly two weeks ago when she said she could not extend Vietnamese refugees an official invitation to Connecticut because the state already has high unemployment.

The governor said today she has sent a personal contribution to a charity group providing assistance to the refugees.

Mrs. Grasso also said the state's Piper Navajo aircraft should be taken to Bradley International Airport and put alongside the "people mover." Both projects have been labeled "boondoggles" by the governor. Former Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill paid more than $250,000 for the airplane last year but an auction over the weekend drew a high bid of $125,000. Meskill ordered construction of the $4.5 million "people mover," a self-guided shuttle from the main building to a parking lot less than half a mile away.
