Operating under Church World Service, the project tries to help people in areas throughout the world to better themselves by providing animals for them to raise and breed. The class conducted a car wash Saturday to raise funds to purchase the goat. Later, the young people and their families had a petting and a brief service dedicating the goat and sending it on its way to Trinita. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Ford Pledges U.S. Support To NATO, European People

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Ford flew here today on the first leg of a six-day European trip with a promise of unwavering American support for "my NATO colleagues and the people of Europe."
He said the Atlantic alliance against communism has stood strong for 26 years and "detente with the East can only proceed on a foundation of strong and secure alliance defenses."
Ford and his wife, Betty, were greeted by Belgium's King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

American Support Pledged To Farm Fund for Hungry

PARIS (UPI) — President Ford has pledged American aid in creating a $1 billion-dollar-a-year farm fund to help feed the world for the rest of the 20th Century, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today.
"The global problems in food are a central moral and political challenge," Kissinger told the 24-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. "A world order in which tens of millions starve and millions more are undernourished will never be accepted as just."
"Unless we act now, the world may face a series of increasingly unmanageable food crises over the next quarter century," Kissinger said. He hailed a proposal by oil-producing nations to create food to finance food production in poorer, developing countries.

"It is fitting that the purpose of my first trip to Europe as president of the United States is to participate in a NATO summit," said Ford in remarks prepared for delivery on his arrival.
"I have come to tell my NATO colleagues and the people of Europe: —That our great alliance remains strong. To guarantee that vitality, we must vigorously address the problems of energy and the economy — are linked to our relations with other nations."
"That NATO is the cornerstone of U.S. foreign policy and has the unwavering support of the American public and of our Congress."
"I am that committed to this alliance will not falter."
"It is in this spirit that I will meet with my colleagues in NATO to discuss issues of direct concern to the peace, security and prosperity of our Atlantic community."
In a brief ceremony at Andrews Air Force Base, Md. before leaving on his six-day, four-nation trip, Ford pledged the United States' cooperation in reducing the chances of conflict and promoting the well-being of all peoples.
"This trip to Europe has great significance for all Americans," Ford said. "We live in an inter-related world in which domestic problems — including the issues of energy and the economy — are linked to our relations with other nations."
One of the most important meetings during the trip will be with Sadat in Salzburg, Austria early next week. The meeting — described by Ford as having the goal of "achieving a just peace in the Middle East" — is expected to play a key role in the President's announced reassessment of U.S. policy in that area.

School Bus Drivers Honor Picket Line

NORWALK (UPI) — School bus drivers honored picket lines by teachers today as officials opened elementary schools for the first time since the walkout began Thursday.
The drivers at County School Service Inc. refused to cross picket lines to get to their buses to transport the elementary grade students to four hour sessions.
School officials, using substitutes and volunteer parents to conduct classes, called on parents to drive their children to 16 elementary schools in the system.
Negotiators for teachers met with the Board of Education for nearly three hours Tuesday and rejected the table another contract offer by the board.
The board offered teachers two one-year contracts, in effect breaking in half the two-year contract rejected by the Common Council two weeks ago.
Each one-year pact contained the same salary schedule as in the two-year package as a unit, which called for a 5.9 per cent increase the first year and 6.1 per cent the second.
Bruce Mellon, president-elect of the Norwalk Federation of Teachers, said the NPT wants assurance from the council that it will not reject an agreement if the union accepts one and returns to work.
"We will not return to work until the council passes a resolution on nonrejection," he said after the meeting. "We want a two-year package to go down on an entire unit. We really cannot leave something of this magnitude to a probability of what the council may or may not do."
Asked why the board made its offer of two pacts, Robert Aldrich, president of the board, answered, "To distinctly separate the issues involved in this year's contract and the issues in next year's contract, and on that basis, the teachers should return to work."
City officials said Tuesday they need respect citations against NPT leaders for refusing to allow teachers to return to their jobs.

BUSINESS

Of Consumer Concern Handle Food Properly

By State Department of Consumer Protection
Cooking for a crowd can be a lot of fun when you're in the mood for company. It's a chance to explore and experiment with those new recipes that can lead to a special touch to the event.
You'll need to do some careful planning, however, since handling large amounts of food also involves certain risks. Food prepared in advance must be stored properly and this is sometimes difficult when the refrigerator is overcrowded. Also, if you serve the food buffet style it may stand for a long time on the serving table. Improper handling of the food for a crowd can make your party truly unforgettable, but not for the reason you would expect. Bacteria, which could cause food poisoning needs the right combination of time and temperature to grow and create a problem.
Here are tips to help avoid trouble when feeding a crowd: Keep hot foods hot (above 140 degrees). Bacteria grow best in lukewarm foods so keep foods such as seafood, poultry and cooked meats hot by using an electric hot tray or chafing dish if possible. Those small candle warming units may not keep foods hot enough. Don't let these foods stand at room temperature for more than two hours.
Keep cold food cold (below 40 degrees) — cream pies, puddings, seafood salads and many other dishes made with eggs, fish, meat and poultry need to be kept cold. Avoid putting large quantities of these food out at one time.
In planning, figure the refrigerator space you'll need to store foods, and keep the refrigerator temperature at 40 degrees F. If your refrigerator doesn't have a thermometer, purchase a unit would be a good investment.
Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: Of Consumer Concern, Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115, or dial toll free 1-800-842-2649.

Elementary School Principals Shifted

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Three changes in Manchester elementary school principalships will become effective next school year.
Robert E. Heins, principal of Robertson School, will become principal of Washington School.
Walter C. Roth, principal of Washington School, will be assigned as principal of Verplanck.
William F. Freeman, principal of Verplanck School, will become principal of Robertson School.
The central administration of the Manchester public schools is of the opinion that changes in administrative assignment from time to time are beneficial for a school system. School Superintendent James P. Kennedy said a new assignment provides challenges that often renew the individual and the school community.
Heins, who has been at Robertson School for 13 years, besides being an experienced principal, has also had much experience in school building programs. He led the Robertson School through two such programs.
When and if an addition and alteration program begins at Washington, Dr. Kennedy believes Heins would be a good resource.
Roth will bring his 17 years of experience at Washington School to Verplanck.
Freeman has been at Verplanck School for 11 years.
Dr. Kennedy said he is convinced these reassignments will be in the best interest of the school system and the persons involved.

NEWS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

By WALLY FORTIN

Hi everyone! Well, Wally and the gang are back home and things are getting back to normal. We weren't going to write a midweek column, but then decided we did have a few things to remind you folks of.

Friday we had 60 people playing bingo, and in the afternoon we had 11 tables for set-back with the following winners:

Ether Anderson, 134, Joseph Windsor, 129, John Gally, 127, Paul Schmitt, 123, Mabel Wilson, Roy Durey and John Phelps, 120, Mina Reuther and Michael DeSimone, 118, Martha LaBate, Wilbrod Messier, and Betty Jesanis, 115.

Monday we were closed for the holiday.

On June 2 the first gang will be leaving for Wildwood. We would like you here at 8 o'clock in the morning, no later.

Two New Events

On June 9 we will be registering for two events. The first will be a trip to the Goodspeed Opera House. We have only 50 tickets, and we are going to eat at the Cielton House. We have a choice of three cold entrees, and three hot entrees, and the price is $13. This includes busfare, admission, and a meal.

On June 9 we will register for a Red Sox ball game. Wally has 40 tickets for the June 25 game. More on the price of this game.

Trip Vacancies

We have some last minute openings for the Wildwood trip because of illness in several families. There are openings in the first and second week, so if you are of a mind to go on this worthwhile trip, please come to the Center as soon as possible. Next Thursday we are going to have a wonderful Fun Day with the seniors putting on their own show again. We will all be in on the act, so come and have an enjoyable time. Helen Flavell and Eve Warner really are doing a great job.

Our shuffleboard seems to be picking up steam, so come over to practice for awhile. Soon we will be able to get teams formed and we can have a tournament. We want to send our heartfelt condolences to the families of Henry C. Rhodes, Julius A. Rau, and Mrs. Katherine Shannon who passed away over the Memorial Day weekend.

BOOKS

The Proteus Pact, by Geoffrey St. George. (Little, Brown, $7.95) In this engrossing espionage tale of World War II, a German scientist, horrified by the cruelty of the Nazi regime, decides to sabotage his secret weapons project with the aid of British Intelligence. But the British is suspicious and, as tension builds, one of their number is suspected of being a spy. A sophisticated, satisfying espionage novel.

Supernatural on Stage, by Richard Huggert. (Taplinger, $8.95) Considering the superstitions that pervade the theater, it's a wonder any play even makes opening night, no less financial or artistic success. And opens superstitions he calls "irresistible lunacies" that make theater superstitions appear "as sane and sensible as a provincial vicar's." The book, complete with name-dropping descriptions, makes light-hearted, amusing reading.

On June 2 the first gang will be leaving for Wildwood. We would like you here at 8 o'clock in the morning, no later.

Two New Events

On June 9 we will be registering for two events. The first will be a trip to the Goodspeed Opera House. We have only 50 tickets, and we are going to eat at the Cielton House. We have a choice of three cold entrees, and three hot entrees, and the price is $13. This includes busfare, admission, and a meal.

On June 9 we will register for a Red Sox ball game. Wally has 40 tickets for the June 25 game. More on the price of this game.

Trip Vacancies

We have some last minute openings for the Wildwood trip because of illness in several families. There are openings in the first and second week, so if you are of a mind to go on this worthwhile trip, please come to the Center as soon as possible. Next Thursday we are going to have a wonderful Fun Day with the seniors putting on their own show again. We will all be in on the act, so come and have an enjoyable time. Helen Flavell and Eve Warner really are doing a great job.

Our shuffleboard seems to be picking up steam, so come over to practice for awhile. Soon we will be able to get teams formed and we can have a tournament. We want to send our heartfelt condolences to the families of Henry C. Rhodes, Julius A. Rau, and Mrs. Katherine Shannon who passed away over the Memorial Day weekend.

BOOKS

The Proteus Pact, by Geoffrey St. George. (Little, Brown, $7.95) In this engrossing espionage tale of World War II, a German scientist, horrified by the cruelty of the Nazi regime, decides to sabotage his secret weapons project with the aid of British Intelligence. But the British is suspicious and, as tension builds, one of their number is suspected of being a spy. A sophisticated, satisfying espionage novel.

Supernatural on Stage, by Richard Huggert. (Taplinger, $8.95) Considering the superstitions that pervade the theater, it's a wonder any play even makes opening night, no less financial or artistic success. And opens superstitions he calls "irresistible lunacies" that make theater superstitions appear "as sane and sensible as a provincial vicar's." The book, complete with name-dropping descriptions, makes light-hearted, amusing reading.

STAMPS AND COINS

By RUSS MacKENRICK

"Whaddya mean, we demonetized one of our coins?"

"That's right, in 1876 the government knocked the prop from under the trade dollar."

"Whaddya mean — trade dollar?"

Here it is, an 1873 date, the first year of issue. This type of coin was last struck in quantity in 1876. A few proofs were made legally through 1883. Several more, 1884 and 1885, have turned up but, as nicely worded in a Wayne Raymond book...

In the early days of the U.S. Mint they had to import silver, but by 1873 the output from Nevada's Comstock Lode was enormous and there was an incentive to market this in coinage.

However the whole thing blew. Silver bullion became so cheap the trade dollar circulated as money rather than as a commodity, and the Chinese didn't go for it all that much. It was demonetized — declared no longer legal tender — in 1876, and in 1878 it was swamped by a flood of Morgan dollars weighing only 412 1/2 grains, but backed by gold.

The commemorative stamp for Bunker Hill will be ready at Charlestown, Mass. on June 17. It is a wide-plated, five-color affair in vertical format showing a rather gruesome section of the Trumbull printing.

Muggy Weather Inhibits Communication

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some days ago I became intrigued by a researcher's discovery that muggy weather inhibits "meaningful adult communication."

At the end of the human body that tingle when touched by a member of the opposite sex. "From what we now know, muggy weather causes the erogenous zones to retain moisture at a greater rate than other areas of the body. As a result, they begin to mildew."

Garafolo, who readily stresses to his students the need for higher education and especially the need to acquire specific skills, admits that as a youngster "this education jargon had little effect on me."

School Dropout Now Tech Director

By BETTY RYDER

Now he practices what he preaches — but he didn't always.

A warm, dynamic man, John Garafolo dropped out of school during his high school years, related to his studies later, went on to receive a college degree and is now director of Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School in Manchester.

John Garafolo reflects on the future of Cheney Tech as he gazes out his office window at the school on W. Middle Tpke. (Herald photo by Pinto)

As a young man with no definite goal, he enlisted in the Army and served in Korea and Japan. "Later, while working in a factory, he met his wife who was then attending college."

"Following an industrial accident, and while I was recuperating at a rehabilitation center, I was going crazy without anything to do. It then I decided education was the right course for me."

"I attended Boston University and finished four years of college in three years. I started in 1952 and finished in 1955. 'I never thought I could do it. My G.I. Bill benefited me. It expired, and I had no idea of becoming a teacher.'"

"But he graduated and was teaching at the Rocky Hill Junior-Senior High School. Now several years later, he is completing his third year as director at Cheney. He and his wife and two sons, Joseph 14, and David 6, live in Tolland."

"Kids should enjoy coming to school, and most of them at Cheney do. Even during the bad weather when other area schools are closed we have had kids walk close to 12 miles just to come to class."

"About 97 per cent of the students here come from the eighth grade. Cheney draws students from other area schools and the boards of education in their respective towns reimburse the school for transportation."

"While Garafolo hopes to encourage students into a challenging career and a beneficial life, he admits with a grin 'It took me 22 years to find out what I wanted to do.'"

"Obviously the interest in technical schools has increased. In the ninth year we can only accommodate some 120-130 students. We have had over 400 applications for admission."

"Then we sit down, evaluate each application, and make a selection. At present, we can't handle too many learning disabilities," he added.

check with the instructor and try to find a way to accommodate them and still give them the proper instruction," he said.

"I guess I'm just a hip nut," Garafolo says of himself. "If the boys upstairs (his superiors) help, and I have the tools, we certainly can do the job."

This determined educator would like to see Cheney have tennis courts, participate in team competitions, conduct concerts, etc.

"We (at Cheney) are community-minded and have great rapport with the town's Recreation Department and the senior citizens. Our gym has been used by some of them for certain functions."

An outspoken man, Garafolo says perhaps he is considered by some of his superiors as a "pain in the neck" especially when he voices some recommendations that he feels will benefit the students and lessen the burden of overcrowded classrooms.

He is a man quick to accept a challenge, has strong convictions, and no doubt would like to face the challenge of building his own school someday.

Perhaps the plaque in his office which best sums up his philosophy reads: "I'd rather live life 50 years as a tiger than 100 years as a chicken."

House Group Begins Drafting Bill To Extend Coastal Fishing Limits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of a House subcommittee plan to begin drafting legislation next month to extend America's fishing jurisdiction from 12 to 200 miles off the coast.

The bill will be aimed at protecting seriously depleted fish stocks and dealing with foreign fishermen who compete in U.S. coastal waters with highly sophisticated gear.

"We are, frankly, not satisfied with the result of the law of the sea conference on this subject," he said. "So, we are moving toward vigorous markup sessions in the near future."

"We will enact a 200-mile bill in the next few months — clearly before the end of the year," Leggett said. "And I know of no voice that has risen to challenge that statement."

The subcommittee plans to begin to mark up a bill in June, preparing a final draft in July for passage in early fall. The Senate passed a 200-mile fish-limit bill last year, putting pressure on the House to follow up.

"We will enact a 200-mile bill in the next few months — clear-

OPINION

Why Just For Presidents?

Before we get too far along into the morass of a presidential preference primary in Connecticut on a go-it-alone or regionally coordinated basis, we would like to raise just one question.

If a presidential primary is so desirable from the view of involving the people directly in the selection of a presidential nominee, why not have a full-fledged primary so that the people could be involved directly in the selection of candidates for U.S. senator, representatives, governor and so on down the line to constable?

Of course there is a difference between a presidential preference primary and direct primary for the lesser offices. The direct primary is binding on political parties while the presidential preference primary has all the virtues of appearing democratic yet doesn't commit a political party to the "people's choice" unless he or she can, among other things, win help others on the ticket; or attract money, lots of money, to the party coffers.

Let us not delude ourselves into thinking the political parties of this state are "opening their doors" to broader voter participation.

On the contrary, by limiting the primary election circuit to a non-binding presidential-circus every four years, they are really serving self-interest.

All a presidential primary does is give political parties an excuse for public exposure via a personality contest, thus diverting public attention and scrutiny from party philosophy and dogma.

For example, it is comforting for party leaders to have, according to a fairly recent count, a dozen men actively seeking the Democratic party nomination in weekend forays into New Hampshire, Vermont, and on the talk shows.

But it is disturbing to us that none of these men is really saying anything and if they did, we'd venture the party would disclaim it as a "candidate's right to express his own views," since the Democratic party is a "great umbrella" under which many divergent views can be advocated.

Poppycock. The good people of Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and ad infinitum are not going to pick either party's standard bearer in 1976. If each state has a preferential primary and the candidate emerging victorious goes on to win the nomination it will be coincidence, not influence, that brought it about.

As for Connecticut, we would prefer a vigorous debate on possible fiscal solutions to our state and local governmental problems rather than a pack of personified smile buttons handing out political tracts and shaking hands on the street.

We sincerely believe the real solution to our problems lies not in the next occupant of the White House but in how we, the people, can exercise a more direct influence in local and state party structure.

The presidential primary is not the answer. We suggest that perhaps a direct primary might be, if the political parties sincerely wish to open their doors to the people.

After we have a direct primary system for local and state elections, perhaps then a presidential primary might have some merit if done nationally on the same date and made binding on the political parties.

WASHINGTON - Washington is a city of mirrors - the political actors watching the media elite, the media watching the actors, each group watching both itself and the other in the mirror of history.

It may be - as reported - a way of reassuring allies and warning off aggressors, thus sending a message to the world. But in the communications revolution we fall into the fallacy of seeing every decision as a signal we are communicating to someone.

The lengthening shadow of the Mayaguez incident still hangs over the city. But both the elites grasp only part of its meaning. The sharp American military response is seen, by the Administration and its opponents alike, as a message sent to the world about American toughness in meeting its commitments. It is that. But just as important as how other nations view America is how America perceives reality and how it sees itself.

There was a good piece by Meg Greenfield in The Washington Post about how the inbred Washington elites see the American people as somewhat "out there," in the vast spaces of the hinterland, thus turning real people into abstractions.

There are more shocks ahead for America - the impending additional increase in oil prices by the oil cartel, the Geneva conference on the Middle East, the tussle over the SALT talks, the question of what will happen in the crunch to South Korea.

The attempt was made before but without satisfaction so we will try again. We would like to see the town board of directors proclaim an open collar or no necktie season in Manchester from say June 1 through Labor Day.

There are limitations on what both the subscriber and advertiser can pay in this day of high inflation. The other remedy is to do everything one can to reduce the cost of production.

We find the results of a poll of businessmen attending the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States a bit more than disturbing. They rated freedom of the press last among nine values or conditions necessary to carry this country through the next 10 years.

Most economists point out that the decline in consumer confidence is continuing but if there is to be a general business pickup it depends heavily on increased consumer spending.

While back in one of our editorials, we made a tongue to cheek comment that with a name like Dukakis, the governor of Massachusetts, he might be descended from Lithuanian, Latvian, Polish, Czech, Estonian, Hungarian, etc., ancestors. We knew the governor is an American of Greek parentage.

Learning Program Iling Students Work With Bowers Students

By JUNE TOMPKINS There are eight Iling Junior High School students currently involved in a learning program with elementary students from the Bowers School.

Called "Student Working with Student," the pilot program has been a successful one utilizing junior high students working at the elementary school under the direction of the classroom teacher, said Mrs. Fitchy Kahn, school social worker.

The school social department at both schools has coordinated this program, believing that all people need to feel good about themselves, are able to make contributions to others, and that a program such as this is mutually beneficial to both age groups.

Parents of the junior high school students have met to share in their children's experiences. Mrs. Kahn says Bowers students are cooperative and gaining in self-esteem.

Students from Iling in the programs are Terry Alexander, Ronald Gevery, Robert Viterito, Alan Ringstone, Linda Litten, Diane Litten, Thomas DeCiantis and Nick Maroti.

Mrs. Kahn says they are availed eagerly each week by their friends at Bowers. Other schools have expressed an interest in expanding this program and both Mrs. Kahn

Five Bay State Colleges Pulling Off a Miracle

Dr. Truman said during the last academic year nearly 6,000 semester courses were taken away from the home campus. Fifty-seven semester courses were taught by faculty of the home campus.

Schools involved are Smith, Amherst, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Hampshire College, and Mount Holyoke College. Dr. Truman said, "Typically," Dr. Truman said, "a student won't take more than one course at another school during a semester."

What about grading? The teacher grades according to the system used at the school giving the course. It can be translated to conform to the home school's grading system, if different.

There are these other five college services: -Meal Interchange any Five College student need only present an ID proof of participation in a meal plan to the Food Service Office at another college to obtain lunch free.

-Five College Calendar and Newsletter. The newsletter is quarterly and the calendar of events is monthly, listing rich offerings in lectures, concerts, art exhibits and other programs.

-Five College Radio. Dr. Truman said the program of cooperation does not save the schools money, enabling them to reduce tuition.

"It has reduced the rate at which costs were going up," he said. "It has provided a way to stretch the academic program without costing more."

"No money changes hands. If we borrow a teacher from another school, for example, the home school pays."

Dr. Truman said informal student and faculty exchanges among four colleges have recommended the establishment of the fifth college. It was formalized in 1951 with the creation of the Hampshire Inter-Library Center.

In the late 1950s, a committee of the five colleges was formed to be centrally located to take advantage of resources at the existing institutions.

TOLLAND School Maintenance Funds Put on Agenda

The Board of Education officially requested an appropriation of $24,781 from the Board of Selectmen last night, which would be used for several maintenance projects in the four town schools.

The Board of Selectmen tabled the request as it had done previously, agreeing to put it on the agenda for a public hearing at their next regular meeting June 10.

The state department of Education has agreed to pay half of the cost of each of the requests with the exception of a $345 item for installation of a chain link fence around the roof of Hicks Memorial School, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie learned Tuesday.

The state aid will amount to $11,936 reducing the town's share to $12,845.

School board chairman Robert Dean pleaded the board's case, receiving backup assistance from Dr. MacKenzie and from Louis Zwingenstein, head of the building and maintenance department for the schools.

The Board of Education does not have the money in its approved budget for the repair item which runs the gamut from installation of three oil burners at Hicks and Parker Schools to ventilation of the graphics, science labs and lecture hall at the high school and the expansion of the water supply at Parker School. Dean explained any attempt to take the money out of the school budget for next year would "come back to haunt us next February...we can't absorb it into our allotment."

The selectmen may not be able to either.

"Our financial status is not able to cope with the extra amount," John Burakas, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, told Dean, suggesting instead the school board use a probable $24,000 windfall education grant forthcoming from the state lottery for education under the GTE bill approved by the legislature last week.

Dean then attempted to use the surplus of the annual town meeting over a year ago to provide the school board with any surplus funds from the 1974-75 town budget.

The surplus was a paper one which swelled to $80,000 only to shrink to $20,000 when the selectmen changed accounting methods, opting to go on a modified accrual basis on the advice of Town Manager John Harkins and the town auditors Haskins and Sells. The $20,000 itself was never more than paper money, according to Harkins, although Selectman Stewart Joslin claims it is a real surplus and reminded the board of that opinion last night. Joslin placed Dean on the defensive for not requesting the surplus earlier, prompting the School Board chairman to remind the selectmen that the board cannot use funds mid-year for starting new programs.

"We didn't have a crisis for that money before now," Dean explained, adding the windfall Blue Cross refund was used to cover the areas "where we were burning."

In addition to Burakas, several of the selectmen including Ted Palmer, Helen Wannan and Ed Moskey voiced reservations over the request, which cannot be acted upon until a public hearing on the appropriation request is held.

Two weeks ago, the selectmen also discussed the same request, but voiced frustration at the failure of the Board of Education to provide someone to answer their questions, reminded this week.

The possibilities of using money from the Hicks Memorial School Trust Fund to cover part of the project costs for that school was ruled out by Dean, while Dr. MacKenzie told the selectmen he was getting a written set of guidelines for use of the fund's $4,400 annual interest from the fund's trustees.

Communications

Dean placed emphasis on the need for closer communication between the two boards, and the selectmen agreed to a request from Dr. MacKenzie earlier in the evening, to send copies of the selectmen's agendas, meetings and periodic financial reports to the school board members.

But the action prompted some questions in the selectmen's minds. While not objecting, Joslin questioned "I wonder what they want to do with them," while Palmer murmured "Maybe they should spend a little more time with their own."

Sanderson Asks PZC Trio To Disqualify Themselves

COVENTRY

Monica Shea

Mark Sanderson of Brigham Tavern Rd. Ext. last night challenged three members of the Planning and Zoning Commission and asked them to disqualify themselves from dealing with his application for a sand and gravel bank operation because they live in the immediate area.

The three members, Roslyn Kornfield, Tony Walsh and Craig Wallace, all declined to disqualify themselves at this time.

Wallace lives right next door to the area and Mrs. Kornfield and Walsh live nearby.

Sanderson, who owns about 180 acres is proposing to sell off the sand and gravel in a five-acre parcel and to use the money to go into farming. Sanderson is presently an attorney.

Sanderson told the commission that he would build a road off Brigham Tavern Rd. into the property to remove the gravel.

The operation would be screened from the road and no more than two acres of the land would be cleared at any one time.

After two acres was cleared the top soil would be replaced on this portion of the project and would be seeded and mulched to prevent erosion.

Sanderson also indicated to the commission that he would install a sedimentation pond to catch any additional water runoff caused by the digging, and that this pond would be used in the future as a watering hole for cattle to be pastured on this five acres.

Sanderson said, "The purpose of the rezoning is to make this area an eye-appealing as well as because my home will overlook the area. I also plan to plant trees along the edge of Brigham Tavern Rd. after the operation is completed."

The work would be completed in three sections and the total operation shouldn't take any longer than four months, he said.

Sanderson said, "Right now the hill serves no purpose, it is over four feet in height, and by taking off the hill it should improve the safety of the road. I will fence the area if need be to protect the safety of the children who might be attracted to the area."

Sanderson also agreed to limit the hours that the trucks could haul gravel if that was a stipulation of the commission.

Ernie Wheeler, zoning agent, told the commission that he guessed that there were between 700 and 1,000 loads of gravel on the site.

The gravel would be hauled by Brigham Tavern Rd. to Rt. 44 and from there up Rt. 32.

A report from Gravitool and Fuss, town engineer, recommended that the pond be at least four feet deep and be long and narrow rather than oval and run from east to west. The firm also recommended that all roads in the area be inspected before and after the operation to determine if any damage had been caused by the excavation.

The engineers also recommended that a bond of $45,000 be posted by Sanderson to insure the reclamation of the site and any possible future road repairs.

Sanderson's neighbor, Dave Rappe, went on record as being in favor of the operation.

Another area resident, Joseph Kornfield, sent a letter

Cohen Resigns Committee Post

South Windsor
EDDY KERNEL

What was planned as a routine South Windsor Board of Education special meeting at which budget cuts were to be made Tuesday night resulted in the resignation of Democrat David Cohen from the board's Personnel Policies Committee.

Cohen, who held the post for three years, did not give specifics surrounding his resignation either today or Tuesday night.

His resignation, which was accepted by the board, still stands, followed a lengthy executive session at which the school board presumably discussed current negotiations between the teachers and the school administration.

At one point during the routine segment of the meeting, Cohen made a motion for the board to approach the Town Council and request the council reinstate $150,000 of the $201,000 the council cut from the board's initially requested $9.9 million budget for 1975-76.

Cohen argued that in light of the Town Council's new total budget, raising some $200,000 more than last year, with no tax increase planned for residents this year, the council can afford to grant the school board more of the funds it initially cut out.

However, the school board did not go along with Cohen's motion and it died on the floor in a 4-4 vote in which Cle Decker, chairman of the board, did not vote.

Earlier in the evening the board agreed to about $177,000 of Superintendent Robert Gold-

Old Tax on MVs Waived by Town

TOLLAND

The Board of Selectmen agreed Tuesday night to waive $7,600 in outstanding motor vehicle property tax bills, placing the debts on the suspense list.

The selectmen were reluctant to write off the debts however. Some of the unpaid taxes date back to 1968, but most occurred in 1973, the result of townspeople moving out of state without paying the second installment of their motor vehicle taxes to the town before they left.

There are no reciprocal agreements between states regarding the payment of local car taxes, and it would probably cost more to take the debtors out of state than the cost of the bill.

The selectmen asked Town Manager John Barkins to investigate the possibilities of putting a collection agency on the project, to see if it would be a profitable venture.

Tax Collector Earl Beebe has already dunned debtor's friends and relatives still residing in town for the addresses of those still owing money without receiving satisfaction, according to the town manager.

People moving within the state have to pay the local taxes or they find themselves unable to renew their drivers licenses, under state law.

All tax bills under $100 have to be paid in the first payment period, according to town ordinance. The selectmen have talked of increasing this minimum, but generally felt it could pose a hardship to taxpayers who own several cars and other items of personal property such as campers and boats, each of which is billed separately.

Although the $7,600 was transferred to the suspense list, it is merely a bookkeeping transaction.

Golf Program
The Tolland Recreation Department has made arrangements with Shanganag River Golf Club of Coventry, for a new summer golf program for young adults in Tolland.

Conrad Dwire of the recreation board said the program will consist of six weeks of lessons by Lou Galasso, a professional golfer, at a fee of $6, payable at the time of registration.

Valley Y Picks Swim Teachers

Mrs. Patricia Garrott of Rockville and Mrs. JoAnn Conti of Manchester, will direct the Indian Valley YMCA swim classes this summer.

The classes, to run eight weeks, will be conducted at the Rizzo Pools at Vernon Circle and registrations are being accepted at the YMCA office, also at Vernon Circle.

Mrs. Garrott is a certified YMCA aquatic instructor and is qualified to teach and certify swimmers in the National YMCA aquatic program. She is certified as a pre-school swimming specialist and water safety instructor for the American Red Cross.

For three summers she worked as senior swimming instructor for the New London Recreation Department. She is a graduate of the University of Connecticut and was a member of the Synchronized Swim Team there for three years.

Mrs. Conti has taught YMCA swimming at Camp Takodah, in New Hampshire. She is certified as a Red Cross senior lifesaver; is an undergraduate at Keene State College and participated on the Keene State swim team. She teaches first and second grade at the Winchester Elementary School in Winchester, N.H.

A limited number of volunteer assistant instructors are invited to assist with the programs. They should be at least 14 years of age and possess good swimming skills. Applicants should call the YMCA office for interviews.

Lombardi Heads Vernon Youth Hockey Association

VERNON

A Richard Lombardi of Vernon has been installed as president of the Vernon Youth Hockey Association for the 1975-76 season.

Other officers installed were Richard Weeks, vice president in charge of administration; Dale Martin, vice president, traveling teams; Boyce Burdick, vice president, house leagues; Mark Peterson, secretary; and Joseph Tringali, treasurer.

The association anticipates an enrollment of about 300 youths aged five through 16, for the coming season. Each enrollee will have an opportunity to play on an organized team as well as receive necessary instruction in developing his skating and hockey skills.

Lombardi plans to give emphasis to the need for further strengthening the program during the coming year, through increased ice time and increased participation by all involved, including the parents of the youths enrolled.

He said special emphasis will be placed on fund raising activities in an effort to minimize the cost to each participant.

Foreign News Commentary:

Japan Ponders Role

PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The sudden ending of the war in Indochina has forced Japan into some rethinking about its own position in the future of Asia.

The last of the U.S. forces on the southeast Asia mainland probably will have been withdrawn within a year, and the area is restructured Japan will have to decide the role it intends to play.

Japan's only current defensive alignment is with the United States and expected to continue that way.

President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger have reaffirmed emphatically the U.S. commitment to the mutual defense treaty linking the two nations.

But Japan also recognizes that it is a focal point in the big-power struggle between China and the Soviet Union for influence in Asia.

Taking up the various points one at a time, the present Japanese attitude is to maintain a low profile in southeast Asia.

One Japanese official has described Japan's intended contribution to that area as "modest."

The defense of Japan and the surrounding area involve more the U.S.-Japanese relations.

Japanese voters still have a distinct distaste for any move which might smack of a return to the country's former militarism. This applies not only to nuclear arms but to conventional armament as well. Japanese self-defense forces still are 30,000 men short of their authorized strength.

But Japanese leaders also recognize that any war involving the United States and another major power in all likelihood quickly would become global.

The U.S. 7th Fleet is a formidable force in the Pacific, including three aircraft carriers. Even so, U.S. strength might not be such as also to keep open the merchant shipping lines.

Dear Abby

Kid Votes No To 'Crib Lib'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 10-years-old and recently heard of a new group called "Kid's Lib." Kids say that voting, drinking, smoking and many other activities should be legalized at age 12. My class talked about this and about 80 per cent said, "This is cool."

Abby, here's what I think: Kids don't have enough judgment to do any of these things and they aren't old enough to drink and smoking are bad for kids, especially younger teenagers.

What do you think?

T.L. OBJECTS

DEAR T.L.: I think you've got a good head on your 10-year-old shoulders.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, who is 25, is a nurse. She is engaged to a 23-year-old doctor. He is from India. We are Irish Catholics. The young man was educated in England. He is well-mannered, quiet and from a good family (who is in India), and he plans to remain here and practice medicine.

Our problem is how our friends and relatives will react. Will they accept him? He is very dark. Will he be considered black?

Do you know what people's feelings are about white American girls dating and marrying people from India? Are our friends going to look down on him?

We would like to have a nice church wedding, to which he agrees, but are people going to criticize us?

They both seem to know what they are getting into. Can you help me?

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: According to official records, the number of deaths and injuries from fire has reached epidemic proportions.

In order to educate the public in fire prevention and control, the U.S. government has made some fascinating demonstrations available.

For instance, government agencies have constructed table-top-sized model homes that actually go up in flames from overloaded electric wiring. They also have graphic demonstrations that show how the flames of flaming liquids travel great distances, causing explosions and fires.

These demonstrations make tremendously interesting programs for schools, organizations and industries, and are perfectly safe in the hands of trained personnel in the fire department.

Fire departments that have or have access to such units are happy to present them in public demonstrations. All an interested group needs to do is call its local fire department and request this program.

J.E. BROWN, CHIEF PANAMA CITY BEACH, FLA.

DEAR CHIEF: I hope your letter lights a fire under the program chieftains of service clubs throughout the nation. And readers, please don't wait until Fire Prevention Week—which isn't until next October!

CONFIDENTIAL TO SISSIE: Don't place so much emphasis on age. If a man looks young, he's young. If he looks old, he's old. It's his looks, interesting—smile.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped 20c envelope.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

I just came back from taking my final exams at the Community College and all I can say is...wow!

A final exam is a devastating experience, particularly for someone like me who hasn't even SEEN one of those little blue exam books for years (and years and years).

"I forgot how hard it is to sit in a straight-backed chair and just think for two hours. And I've forgotten the unnatural sounds of an examination room, the scratch of pencils, the shuffling of papers, and every now and then fingers drumming on a desk, and a long deep sigh.

When I reached home after my exam, supper was ready and everyone was waiting in the kitchen.

"It was terrible," I said dropping my notebook on the table with a thump.

"Oh, c'mon, I'll bet you got an A," said Tom.

"No, I mean it! I didn't even get to the last question."

"You probably did better than you think," said Sara.

"Worse! I was so scared that my brain hasn't thawed out yet."

"Remember, an exam is only part of the course," said Kate.

"It's a third of our mark and I probably got zero."

"Don't worry, ma," said John giving me a nice pat on the shoulder. "Dumb mothers are the best kind."

"I'm with John," agreed my husband.

The kids had made a beautiful supper - spaghetti, salad and Italian bread. By the time I'd eaten I was feeling more philosophical and looked around the table at my family with a nice warm feeling. They really had been very decent about my exam. Not one of them had said, "If you'd studied harder, you would have done better!"

I vowed that I would try to be more understanding of them in the future.

After all, as a student, I have an unfair advantage over my children.

When their report cards come home, the envelope is addressed to me and the contents become general knowledge in the household.

When my report card comes home it will also be addressed to me. But THAT is as far as it has to go.

Waters Marks 45 Years As Elevator Operator

By SOL R. COHEN

Most politicians claim they know all the ins and outs of government—after only a few months in office.

A few weeks ago, Waters celebrated his 45th anniversary as an operator of the State Capitol's east elevator.

Waters was only 16 in 1930, when he took a job as messenger and relief operator in the State Capitol.

Washington Window: Credibility, Legitimacy, Authority

ARNOLD B. SAWILAK WASHINGTON (UPI) - During the late 1960's, a number of American social scientists began agonizing about the loss of credibility, legitimacy and authority by the national government.

What they were saying in their special jargon was that an increasing number of Americans (1) didn't believe what their government said was true, (2) didn't consider its actions to be legal, right or representative of their wishes and (3) didn't feel a need to do what the government asked or ordered them to do.

This obviously was a serious business. Many concluded that they were witnessing the collapse of viable government in the United States.

Looks for 50. Waters, who resides on Bissell St. in Manchester, has his sights set on 1980, when he will have 50 years service.

some change and it might not be so bad. The occasion for examining this possibility is the aftermath of the Mayaguez affair.

It is necessary to look no farther back in history than 1964 to illustrate the point: The vote on the Gulf of Tonkin resolution that committed U.S. military might to Vietnam in August of 1964 was 414 to 0 in the House and 88 to 2 in the Senate.

Others sharply criticized the use of the Air Force and Marines without exhausting all diplomatic avenues, including intervention by the United Nations.

Q. I was going through some old papers and recently came across the doctor's bill for treatment I received in August, 1974. Is it too late to send in a Medicare medical insurance claim for this bill?

A. You should contact your Social Security office for information on how to have your name changed on your record. This is especially important if you are employed. After you're married, your employer should report your earnings to Social Security under your married name.

Q. I've been getting monthly Social Security benefits on my father's record, and I started college last fall. Will my payments stop during summer vacation?

A. You can continue to get Social Security payments during your vacation period provided it is not more than 4 months. But you must have been a full time student before the vacation period, and you must plan to continue full time attendance after the vacation, and you remain unmarried.

Q. I started getting Social Security Income payments last year. Do I have to file an application for these payments every year?

A. No, but Social Security will review your case to re-determine your eligibility and payments amount. You will receive a letter from Social Security telling you when it is time for your re-determination.

These dissenters might be wrong, but if they are right they are doing the majority a greater service than themselves.

It will take the testimony of scientific public opinion polling to verify the impression, but it seemed that the President probably had the majority support of his constituents.

But that did not keep those who disagreed with Ford's action from speaking out in the most explicit terms. Some people, to judge by letters to newspapers here, frankly doubted the government's statement that the ship was peacefully plying the sea lanes and was set upon for no reason by "pirates."

News Analysis: After Vietnam — New Look at Asia

"We of course are saddened by the events in Indochina. These events, tragic as they are, portend neither the end of the world nor of America's leadership in the world."

He concluded at a news conference that Cambodia's seizure of the American merchant ship Mayaguez was immediately perceived in Washington as an unwanted but crucial first test of U.S. resolve.

States can recover without serious harm from the collapse of a major policy effort, such as the American involvement in Indochina, if it demonstrates a strong will to act.

Auto Industry Has All Assembly Plants Going

DETROIT (UPI) - The auto industry opened all 58 of its North American car and truck assembly plants Tuesday for the first time since last November, but sagging sales kept about one of every four auto workers off the job.

The holiday-shortened week began with all of General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. assembly plants in operation but with 162,765 workers still idled.

That is the lowest figure for the industry since the week of Dec. 9.

Ford Motor Co., which had been cutting back production while other automakers kept their plants open, announced last week that it would operate all 23 of its car and truck assembly plants this week after closing six plants last week.

It marks Ford's first full production week since March 24.

Ford's total worker layoffs dropped by more than 15,000, leaving the No. 2 car company with 19,700 workers idle—the first time the figure has dipped below 20,000 since last Nov. 11.

GM, which is operating all 24 of its plants for a 10th consecutive week, still has 165,000 workers on open-ended layoffs. Chrysler has reduced its open-ended layoffs to 37,500 and AMC still has 85 of its 24,000 blue collar workers idle.

Layoffs peaked at 275,130 during the week of Feb. 3, when 57 car and truck assembly plants were closed.

The full production week followed announcements by Big Four carmakers last week showing new car sales lagging 28 per cent behind mid-May figures one year ago. The figure, like successive 10-day sales reports during the past few months, reflected a 14-year low.

The four major carmakers sold 190,262 new cars in the May 11-20 period versus 249,394 the same period last year. Industry analysts said the overall sales figures were slightly better than they predicted before the sales reports.

Trade Group Asks Probe Of Waste Authority

HARTFORD (UPI) - Gov. Ella T. Grasso and the legislature have been asked to investigate the Connecticut Resource Recovery Authority and to suspend the signing of new contracts in the $250 million program until alleged irregularities are cleared up.

The request from the Connecticut Solid Waste Association, an organization of independent state garbage haulers, follows a UPI disclosure that Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormley is already investigating some aspects of the program along with other complaints in the environmental area.

The haulers, whom a "squeezed out of business" out-of-state firm, "sent Mrs. Grasso a lengthy critique of Connecticut's solid waste program, established by the 1973 legislature as a quasipublic agency largely free of governmental control."

"There are many serious questions that are raised by the entire operations of CRRA and their current policies," the association said in a letter to Mrs. Grasso.

"These questions, in the opinion of some people, border on illegal or improper activities on behalf of an agency which is responsible for a very important area of state government," the letter obtained by UPI said.

The association through its president, Pat Sparagna of Stamford, told Mrs. Grasso it has detected "a serious policy departure" from what the CRRA was intended to be.

The system was sold, they said, as "environmentally sound, providing maximum recovery of materials, at the lowest cost to the taxpayer."

As it is being run now, the haulers said, CRRA's programs "threaten to provide for even more serious environmental problems, increased costs to the taxpayer and a reduced amount of recovery of valuable natural resources which could be provided through other means, more successfully, at lower costs."

Spokesman Carroll J. Hughes said the haulers organization has reviewed the program over several months and "uncovered a number of questionable practices, mostly in the awarding of noncompetitive contracts to out-of-state firms."

He told UPI the association asked Mrs. Grasso for a State Police investigation as well as a review by the legislature's Program Review Committee in conjunction with the state auditors.

"What really shocks some people in the association is that nothing has been put out to competitive bid after the initial, master contract was awarded," Hughes said.

"Connecticut Resource Recovery Authority is putting people into business, like SCA Inc., which has the contract for setting up the authority. They are not a Connecticut corporation," Hughes said.

"We want a halt to the signing of any new contracts," he said. "We have found that contracts that are supposed to be on file with the state treasurer are not available."

Candlewood Lake Defense Associates of New Fairfield, an environmental group, last March asked the legislature to void all contracts in the CRRA, citing conflicts of interest among companies in the solid waste program.

It took several hours of parliamentary procedure to undo the mischief.

Sperm Whale Now Official State Animal

HARTFORD (UPI) - After a long contest, the sperm whale has finally overcome the white-tail deer, the grey squirrel and even man himself to become Connecticut's state animal.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso Tuesday signed the bill making the whale official state animal.

Backers of the measure sought to dramatize the plight of the giant mammals, which have been hunted in vast numbers, and to recognize the role whaling played in Connecticut history. The legislature rejected proposals championing deer and squirrel.

At one point, the Connecticut Senate voted in a lighthearted moment to amend the bill by making man the official state animal.

Tired Twirler

The Manchester League of Women Voters has joined 560 local leagues throughout the country in concurring with the National League's energy conservation position.

Manchester League President Althea Potter explained, "The new position states that energy conservation must be a part of any national or state policy on energy. In addition, public understanding and cooperation are essential to the success of any program. To that end, we agree that citizens should be involved in the difficult choices that must be made."

The energy conservation position recognizes that economic consequences must be taken into account, costs and hardships must be distributed as fairly as possible without bearing unduly on the poor, and environmental impact must be considered.

Coinciding with the Manchester League's position, the program for its annual meeting tonight will concentrate on "Nuclear Energy - Blight or Blessing."

The speakers will be Richard M. Dowd, director of the Office of Planning and Research, state Department of Environmental Protection; and John Cagnetta, manager of Generation Technical Services for Northeast Utilities.

The annual dinner-meeting will be at The Colony, Talcottville. The dinner, at 7:30, will be preceded by a business meeting for members and a social hour for guests, both at 6:30. Late reservations may be made with Mrs. Gloria Weiss, chairman of arrangements.

Italy May Reform Holiday Calendar

ROME (UPI) - One of the most radical of all possible Italian reforms—a reform of the holiday calendar—may be in the making.

Unless politicians develop cold feet at the last minute, nine of the nation's 17 annual holidays may be moved to Sundays, going away with as many long weekends.

It is no small business. The proposed reform would change the habits of the average Italian family. It could boost industrial production by millions of dollars a year. Business and church-state relations are involved.

As things stand now, in a country that has been holiday-conscious since the days of ancient Rome, there are 13 religious and four civil holidays on which shops, schools and offices are closed and those working get more than double pay.

"What the calendar does not show is what Italians call 'bridges'—the extra days off they take semi-legally, sometimes under pretense of illness—to fill the gap between say, a Friday holiday and a Sunday.

There are eight such 'bridges' in 1975, for a total 12 days other than official holidays.

Under a bill prepared by Labor Ministry experts, nine holidays would be shifted to the nearest Sunday and workers would be compensated by the addition of nine days to their yearly vacations.

"This would result in a more balanced distribution of days off during the year and, above all, do away with 'bridges,' adding a dozen days worth of production each year.

Hotels and restaurants would lose some off-season weekend customers, but the longer regular vacations would result in a much-needed extension of the peak season, now confined mainly to July and August.

The Industrialists Confederation is understandably keen on the idea. Labor spokesmen have said they do not oppose it in principle.

The Vatican has a say in the matter because the 1929 church-state concordat pledged Italy to recognize religious holidays. It says it is willing to discuss the subject.

"The Holy See is available for a revision of weekday holidays," Vatican spokesman Federico Alessandrini said recently.

He cautioned that the changes "cannot concern feasts rooted in Christian conscience and customs, for instance, Christmas and Assumption Day.

The proposed reform would comply with this condition. Holidays that would be left untouched include New Year's, Easter Monday, Assumption Day, All Saints Day, Christmas and St. Stephen's, as well as the civil holidays of May Day and Republic Day.

The Cherokee Nation, aligned with the Confederacy, was the only slave-holding community to abolish slavery during the Civil War.

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

Among the most interested spectators at the recent ecclesiastical trial of an Episcopal priest charged with disobeying his bishop by allowing an improperly ordained woman to preside at Holy Communion were some Roman Catholic women.

The women believe that the outcome of the controversy in the Episcopal church could well have some bearing on what happens within Roman Catholicism.

Although no one is holding their breath in expectation of women's ordination to the Catholic priesthood, voices urging such a move are getting stronger and more militant.

One of the defense's witnesses in the Episcopal trial, for example, was Dr. Rosemarie Radford Rutherford, Roman Catholic theologian.

Mrs. Rutherford testified that despite the official church's rejection of the idea of women priests, there was a growing consensus among Catholic theologians favoring ordination of women to the priesthood.

Pope Paul VI recently reiterated the church's official stand against the ordination of women noting that they did "not receive the call to the apostolate of the Twelve and therefore to the ordained ministries...."

"We cannot change the behavior of Our Lord nor His call to women," the Pope said, "but we must recognize and promote the role of women in the mission of evangelization and in the life of the Christian community."

While the Pope's statement seemed to many to even more firmly close the door on an Episcopal priest charged with disobeying his bishop by allowing an improperly ordained woman to preside at Holy Communion were some Roman Catholic women.

Going to Jail
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former executives, who pleaded guilty to directing the $2 billion Equity Funding swindle either are or will be serving prison terms soon. Co-founder and company President Stanley Goldblum, also reputed mastermind of the fraud, checked into the federal prison at McNeil Island, Wash., last Thursday. And former executive vice president, Fred Levin and Samuel B. Lovell surrendered at Terminal Island federal prison Tuesday. Nine other former executives are scheduled to report this week to Terminal Island or to the federal prison camp at Lompoc, Calif.

Mauldin Attacked
CHICAGO (UPI) — Pulitzer Prize-winning cartoonist Bill Mauldin suffered a broken nose when he was attacked while photographing illegally parked cars at a party for Mayor Richard J. Daley's son Tuesday. Attorney Thomas D. Flanagan, 37, surrendered to police and was charged with simple battery in connection with the assault. Flanagan's lawyer, Sherman C. Magidson, promptly filed a counter-complaint and an arrest warrant was issued charging Mauldin with battery, although Magidson refused to elaborate on the complaint.

Work Without Pay
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Brooklyn Eye and Ear Hospital is faced with a $1.2 million operating deficit and an immediate need of $100,000 in cash. So in order to keep the hospital open, doctors and other staff members Tuesday decided to work without pay. A spokesman said $8,000 in donations had been made by hospital employees and area residents, but much more is needed.

32 Killed
DIBBLE'S BRIDGE, England (UPI) — In the worst road disaster in British history, a bus smashed through a stone parapet on Dibble's Bridge Tuesday and plunged 25 feet to a field below. The male driver and 31 women passengers were killed. The 14 surviving passengers were rushed to nearby Airedale Hospital, but doctors said many had severe injuries and were not expected to live. Firemen used acetylene cutters to slice through the twisted metal and extricate the dead and injured from the wreckage.

Americans Freed
VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Student demonstrators and Communist troops relinquished control of the U.S. aid compound today and freed three Americans they had held prisoner inside for the past week in what U.S. officials called an outrageous violation of U.S. rights.

Truce Shattered
BEIRUT (UPI) — An outbreak of clashes has shattered the fifth truce in a week of guerrilla militia fighting and intensified pressure for a new government to quell Lebanon's worst crisis since the 1958 civil war.

St. James School Forms Foundation

A foundation has been established to help assure the security of St. James School's position in the community. The St. James School Foundation, Inc., is for the purpose of maintaining the strong position the school has enjoyed within the community, the parish, and the diocese, said William D. O'Neill, president of the St. James School Board of Education. O'Neill said this is not an emergency measure, but an insurance measure designed to meet an emergency. Money donated to the foundation will be invested in such a manner that the expenditures will be limited in purpose to school expenses, he said. Limiting the amount of the annual draw by the foundation's bylaws will allow the fund to grow. It is hoped many of the St. James alumni of the past 50

Students Tell of Measures To Improve School Grounds

By JUNE B. TOMPKINS
Information on school tie-ups was the only public comment heard by the Board of Education Tuesday night at its meeting in the Manchester High School library. Bill MacLean, senior class president and a member of the student assembly, told the board how members of the student assembly had worked toward the improvement of the grounds around the school. With $80 donated by the student assembly, and with the help of Frank Philomena, senior class secretary, MacLean described the wood and cement frames they had constructed for outdoor eating pleasure and the successful maintenance of the area. Board Chairman Allan Thomas expressed the board's appreciation for "everything the students have done toward slicking up the school." A tour of the school was taken by the board members before the meeting. Student board members John Mrosek, senior representative, and Mickey Simon, junior representative, presented the results of their pilot program, a presentation of anti-vandalism in Bowers and Martin Schools.

Mrs. Edwin D. Foster of 358 Woodbridge St., regent of Britanna Chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, and Mrs. George MacKay of 3A Thompson Rd., regent of the British Isles Chapter, will represent their chapters at the National Daughters of the British Empire in the U.S.A. luncheon Thursday at the Hotel Billmore, New York City. The chapters were hostesses for the recent state board meeting in Waterfield.

By MICHAEL J. CONLON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress appears on the verge of abolishing fair trade laws, a move that will result in either millions of dollars in consumer savings or runaway monopolies, depending on which side you believe. The situation produced this letter from a reader in Chipewa Falls, Wis. "I have a question that is perplexing me. I have been reading of efforts to do away with fair trade laws, which would abolish manufacturers' ability to set the retail price of a product, and eventually this would benefit the consumer with lower prices for some products in some areas. "But I also read about the manufacturers putting the lines on cans, etc. so that a computer checkout reads the prices and automatically rings up the consumer's bill. "Since the manufacturer prints the labels and since I don't see how the retailer can change the labels, doesn't this actually circumvent any efforts to abolish fair trade laws? I would appreciate any comment you would have on this. "The two things really have nothing to do with one another. All the line code on a label does is identify the specific product. The retailer then adjusts the individual in-store computer to ring up whatever price he wants whenever that code is read by the computer at the checkout stand. "If a grocer wants to charge 59¢ for a can of corn, for example, he simply programs the computer to ring up 59 cents every time the code for that particular size and brand of corn passes the checkout stand scanner. "If next week he wants to raise the price to 69 cents, he simply reprograms the computer. "In any case, the change in fair trade laws is not likely to have a great impact on groceries, which are the main retailers involved in the coming boom in computer checkouts. "Legislation to end fair trade laws in the 34 states which still have them is pending in both the House and the Senate. The Marketing Policy Institute, which represents the manufacturers of fair trade items, calls the outlook dark for its constituents. It claims the abolition would be anticongress because small stores would be driven out of business, especially in the appliance industry, by big firms which can wage price wars. "President Ford claims the move would save consumers $2.1 billion a year in lower prices. Senate backers of the move say no one really can calculate the savings but it might be from $1.5 to $2.1 billion.

Council To Discuss Rejected Budget, New Vernon Town Meeting Needed

At a special meeting called for Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Administration Building, the Vernon Town Council will discuss the Board of Education budget which was rejected at the annual budget meeting last week.

The $8,521,000 education budget, reflecting a $338,000 cut made by the Town Council, was turned down in a 2-1 margin of those attending.

The school board and the Vernon Education Association both called for rejection of the budget before the meeting. School board members and school administrators have indicated they could live with a $200,000 cut, if necessary.

The education association is still negotiating teacher salaries and these negotiations have ceased until a final budget figure is arrived at.

The council will have to set a date to call a special town meeting to act on the education budget. The regular annual meeting approved the $4,960,000 general government budget with little discussion.

The town charter calls for an annual budget meeting and this has already been held and adjourned so another meeting will presumably be a public hearing is necessary it will probably be conducted just prior to the special meeting, depending on the resolution the council adopts Thursday night.

Those attending the annual meeting were mostly in favor of increasing the education budget. The only way this could be done was by rejecting the one presented. The annual meeting can reduce but not increase a budget.

Mayor Frank McCoy has indicated he does not intend to recommend that the budget be increased, noting that the $338,000 cut was already a very large compromise. The council originally asked the board to reduce its budget by $60,000.

In order to allow the tax collector time to prepare and mail the bills, before the due date of July 1, it is necessary to have a firm budget figure.

The council usually sets the mill rate immediately following the annual meeting but was unable to do so because of the partial rejection of the budget.

Mill Rate To Be Set Tonight

SOUTH WINDSOR

The South Windsor Town Council is expected to set a new mill rate of 33.3 tonight. This figure represents close to a one mill drop due to Tuesday's announcement of the $202 million Grand List figure.

According to Assessor Bert McNamara, the final Grand List figure is expected today with a few minor revisions. The $202 million figure represents an increase of $75 million. Much of the increase is due to the revaluation of property much of which is up 100 to 200 per cent.

The town's net taxable property resulted in the following totals: Real estate, $170,108,305; personal property, $20,004,000; motor vehicle, $11,984,900.

The Grand List figure had been expected earlier but was held up because of the 400 appeals before the Board of Tax Review concerning new property assessments.

The Board of Tax Review was first granted a 30-day extension in April and another this month to complete its appointments.

Still pending is a Superior Court lawsuit filed by Main St. homeowners and challenging the manner in which the review board conducted its appeal cases. This is not expected to affect the final Grand List figure, however.

New Flag for School

Orchard Hill School students display the school's new flag. Designed by fourth grade student Melissa Miller, the flag will be flown in front of the school in South Windsor.

Getting Ready for the Show

Barbara Cook of East Hartford takes the "curlers" out of Dee's ears as she grooms him for a dog obedience class presented at the Lake Street School in Vernon. The program was put on by the Nathan Hale Obedience Club. "Dee", a standard poodle, has, over his five-year life span won many championships. He, and several other champions performed for the school under the sponsorship of the FPO as part of the humanities program. (Herald photo by Richmond)

Ramsdell Says Many Not Registering For Kindergarten

VERNON

To date some 500 children have been registered for kindergarten classes in the Vernon school system and Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent, believes there are still many more who should be registered.

He said the birth rate five years ago shows about 600 children born who should be entering kindergarten next fall. He said some of these families may have moved out of town but he doesn't believe that 100 could have moved.

It is imperative that these children be registered and screened prior to the opening of school in September, Dr. Ramsdell said. He urges parents who have not registered their children to do so by contacting the elementary school nearest their home, no later than June 4.

He further explained that another consequence of late registration could possibly be that the school nearest the child's home could be completely filled and the child would have to be assigned to a school having room.

In order to be registered for kindergarten a child must be five years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1975.

'Promise of God' Theme for School

"The Promises of God," will be the theme of this year's Vacation Bible School at Trinity Lutheran Church, Meadowlark Rd., Vernon. The school will start June 30 and end July 11.

Classes will be Monday through Friday with the exception of July 4 when class will be canceled.

The Bible school is open to all children of the towns of Vernon, Tolland, and Ellington and there will be classes for preschoolers through Grade 6.

To be eligible for enrollment a child must have reached age three by last January and not yet in Grade 7 by September of this year.

Early enrollments are encouraged as the number of children accepted has to be limited due to class sizes. Registrations are being accepted at the church office, 875-2170, any weekday up until noon or by calling 875-6156.

The Rev. Donald J. McClean, pastor of the church, said the school is Christ-centered and Bible based. Each day's activity will include songs, crafts, snacks and outdoor recreation.

Every child will receive a learner's book and a handcraft project box. All teachers are volunteers and there is no charge to the children but those wishing to make a contribution to help with services or costs, are welcome to do so.

Double Jeopardy Protection Extended to Juveniles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A unanimous Supreme Court Tuesday extended to juveniles the guarantee against double jeopardy — being tried twice for the same crime.

The opinion by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said it is unconstitutional to try a minor in adult court and again in juvenile court for the same offense.

The decision follows a pattern of recent years in which the Court has extended to juveniles the same rights accorded to adults. The only major one not so far accorded is the right to jury trial.

In another case, the Court agreed for the first time to decide whether hair length regulations violate freedom of dress.

The Court will hear arguments and render a written opinion in the appeal involving hair length regulations for police in Suffolk County, N.Y.

The decision in the juvenile case affirmed a ruling by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which struck down a dual prosecution of Gary Steven Jones, convicted of robbery in adult court in California, after a juvenile court had found him guilty and transferred the case. Heading toward the end of its current term, tentatively scheduled for June 16, the Court also:

—Ruled 8 to 1 that federal courts cannot block congressional subpoenas of bank records to obtain information about depositors.

—Agreed to decide whether a private employer violates the 1964 Civil Rights Act by excluding pregnancy from a disability protection plan for employees.

—Let stand new government regulations drastically cutting the amount of exposure to vinyl chloride permitted for factory workers.

—Ruled 7 to 2 that Congress has power to limit salary increases for state employees.

—Let stand new government regulations drastically cutting the amount of exposure to vinyl chloride permitted for factory workers.

Rail Route Abandoned To Nature

SHARON SEXTON CONFLUENCE, Pa. (UPI) — In the heyday of the railroad, John Cominsky ran many a freight train through the rolling hills of the Allegheny Mountains, moving eastward along the Voughougheny River, past the white rapids at Valley Forge was that in 1778, butler was selling for the equivalent of $2.40 a pound in today's money. Tea sold at $4 a pound, The World Almanac reports.

But the heyday of the railroad is over, abandoned to the harsh realities of refinancing, bankruptcy and rail abandonment.

Cominsky took the Western Maryland Railway passenger train on a final run through the 12-year-old right-of-way this month. The 60-mile stretch will be turned back to its natural state.

Although the railway add its crew are leaving, Cominsky says he is happy that the hills, the lush forest, the mayapple and mountain laurel will not be unappreciated.

The Western Maryland, which decided it could no longer afford the cost of maintaining the track, has begun legal procedures for deciding the land to the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy for development into a mountain trail for hikers and bicyclists.

Cominsky, a 28-year veteran of the railways, is taking the end of the 60-mile Confluence, Pa., to Hancock, Md., run in stride. He has come to accept the financial pressures brought to bear on the railways.

"Like any other industry, this one is so modified you can't even remember what it was like when you started out," Cominsky said.

He has seen many of the changes — desialization, the longer trains, and then longer cars.

The railroad — already has begun ripping up the old ties and rails, and the Conservancy has begun sketchy plans for the trail. The River Gorge Trail, according to Conservancy members, will be one of the longest and most beautiful "railroad trails" in the country.

Railway ordinances require that the maximum grade for all right-of-ways be less than 3 per cent — a three-foot rise in 100 feet — ideal for cycling.

The Conservancy, which is now looking to the state or National Park Service for financial help, says it is also considering some type of transportation through the right-of-way by some "indefinite," possibly electric, vehicle.

Nature groups are considering building camps along the trail so that hikers can stop along the way and enjoy canoeing or rubber raft rides in the white rapids of the Voughougheny.

The completion of the hiking and bicycle trail is two to four years off. But nature enthusiasts can begin walking on the trail as soon as the tracks are torn up.

For the Western Maryland, times won't change much — just locations. It will continue to wind its freight trains along the B&O tracks opposite the river.

Pension Funds Shifted To Aetna, New Banks

By SOL R. COHEN

In a move aimed at improving the investment returns of Manchester's $3.1 million Retirement Fund, the Pension Board voted Tuesday to withdraw the entire fund from Hartford National Bank and Trust Co. management effective July 1. Hartford National has managed the fund since 1969.

The board voted to deposit $1 million of the fund with the Aetna Insurance Co., at a guaranteed rate of 8.5 per cent before expenses. Under the agreement, the return may go up, but not down. The $1 million deposit also is guaranteed.

The board voted also to place 90 per cent of the remainder of the fund under the custody and trusteeship of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. and the other 40 per cent under the custody and trusteeship of the United Bank and Trust Co.

The Pension Board will meet with representatives of the two banks to explore plans for managing existing investments and potential rates of return.

Withdrawal of securities from Hartford National's management only means a change in management, and doesn't mean a mass change in holdings, the Pension Board pointed out.

All the votes Tuesday were unanimous. Abstaining from the vote on depositing $1 million with Aetna were Fred Geyer, board chairman, and John Norris — Geyer because he works for Aetna, Norris because he is an insurance agent.

The actions culminate about nine months of study — in English of the water department, in finance of the insurance companies, and other people in the business of managing retirement funds.

Geyer said the returns under Hartford National management have averaged out to about 5 per cent a year. He estimated the $1 million deposited with Aetna could grow to $1.5 million in five years and that the other $2.1 million might increase proportionately. He said a determination will be made on investing town and employee contributions to be received in 1975-76.

The pension ordinance restricts investments in common stock to 75 per cent of the fund. There aren't any restrictions on fixed investments.

The Pension Board Tuesday approved a $22 per month disability pension retroactive to January 1, 1974 for Claire Hughes, formerly of the data processing department.

At the request of Town Manager Robert Weiss and on the recommendation of Health Director Dr. Alice Turk, the board approved a disability pension for Thomas Monahan, absent without pay from his post as chief building inspector. Approval still is subject to formal reports by Dr. Turk and Monahan's personal physician.

Board chairman, Fred Geyer, said it is doubtful the directors would approve added benefits.

Plaques Available

The American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Connecticut has announced that the State of Connecticut commemorative plaques and the Coat of Arms of the United States of America are now available through the town Bicentennial committees.

Each town Bicentennial committee will use the funds raised by the plaque program to provide funding for its Bicentennial project. The plaques are engraved, full color reproductions of the Coat of Arms, mounted on satin finished, 5x7, natural wood shields. Groups or individuals interested in obtaining plaques may contact their local Bicentennial committees or write to: "Bicentennial," P.O. Box 1975, Manchester, Conn. 06040, or by calling 649-1570 or 647-9725.

House Votes for Jail Terms In Crimes Involving Guns

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut House Tuesday approved a measure mandating one-year prison terms for persons convicted of certain felonies while having or claiming to have a gun at the time of the crime.

Two other measures, offering low-cost mortgages to city dwellers and providing welfare assistance to unemployed parents, also were passed by the lower chamber and sent to Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

The House also approved two bills on the subject of housing. One bill would restrict its mortgages to nine major cities in the state as approved by lawmakers who said it offered a much-needed shot in the arm to urban areas.

They said cities are suffering from declining property tax revenues, and the mortgages would revitalize urban areas by providing funds for housing construction and rehabilitation programs. The measure would eliminate existing limits on the earnings of families applying for Housing Finance Authority mortgages.

Opponents of the measure said it was discriminatory because it offered no help to Connecticut's 168 smaller towns and suburbs.

Rep. Clyde O. Sayre, R-Waterbury, said a statement of purpose attached to the bill — stating the decay of urban centers and the attractiveness of the suburbs — was a prelude to a statewide zoning plan.

In 1974, a state police recorded 611 speeding arrests and 166 arrests in non-speeding violations during the holiday weekend.

State Police Ticket 1,017 Motorists

HARTFORD (UPI) — State police ticketed 1,017 drivers on speeding charges last Memorial Day weekend, roughly 64 per cent more than during the holiday weekend last year, and increased other arrests as well.

About two-thirds of the speeding pinches were made with 12 radar units, which were in operation all weekend, police said.

Troopers gave out 544 written warnings for alleged traffic violations and made 340 arrests for non-speeding violations, 15 of them for drunken driving. They investigated 182 accidents.

In 1974, a state police recorded 611 speeding arrests and 166 arrests in non-speeding violations during the holiday weekend.

West Running Raises A Disappointing $295

Andy West's 100-mile run to raise money for the Newington Children's Hospital netted a disappointing $295 in contributions, officials at Manchester's Howell Cheney Technical School report.

West, 18, ran almost nonstop from noon Friday to 11:30 a.m. Saturday at Cheney Tech, taking per-mile pledges to benefit the hospital.

Cheney Tech Director John Garafalo said that the $295 raised was disappointing.

"People didn't realize what he did," Garafalo said, praising West, a junior at the school.

Garafalo said many persons reneged on their pledges.

NATO Ships Arrive in Lisbon

LISBON (UPI) — Eight NATO warships shipped to Lisbon without incident today but their arrival provoked a Communist splinter group to charge they represented a "threat of invasion" and to call an anti-Atlantic alliance rally.

The NATO presence came as the Socialist party ended for the time being its boycott of Portugal's Communist-backed government to attend a vital meeting on the future of Angola and Communist workers seized control of a Roman Catholic radio station.

The NATO squadron presents a danger, a maneuver of intimidation and a real threat of invasion on our country," the Popular Democratic Union, a small but active Trotskyite group, said in flyers calling its members and supporters to an evening rally.

"We don't want to be a football kicked around by the two super powers," it said, repeating its opposition to continued membership in the Atlantic Alliance by Portugal's revolutionary Armed Forces Movement.

About 200 demonstrators turned out in Porto, the nation's second largest city, on the eve of the NATO ships' arrival shouting "Portugal out! NATO out! Death to Traitors!"

The frigates and destroyers, including the destroyer USS McDonnell, cruised into the harbor at midmorning and berthed along the waterfront for replenishing and shore leave after a two-day NATO exercise.

The first North Atlantic Treaty Organization naval visit since Feb. 7 to this increasingly left-leaning nation, but there were no demonstrators there to greet the ships.

Refugees Begin Arriving at the Gap

FT. INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. (UPI) — Federal officials building an instant refugee city promised local government officials Tuesday night that an influx of Vietnamese refugees will not disrupt the way of life in this central Pennsylvania farm valley.

The 519 Vietnamese arriving today at the Gap — at this site is known locally — are the first of 15,000 refugees expected within 10 days.

Gen. James Cannon and Richard Friedman, the Army and federal government officials in charge of setting up the refugee camp, told nearly 100 local government officials they had nothing to worry about.

While local residents may not welcome the refugees with open arms, many of the local officials who had been anxious apparently were convinced

Ford Explores Issues With Leaders of NATO

BRUSSELS (UPI) — In a nonstop round of revolving-door diplomacy, President Ford explored major NATO problems with one allied leader after another today and said he hopes to have "some success" at breaking the Middle East stalemate before his European trip is over.

Ford offered no quick solutions — and got a hint from the Turks not to meddle too much in the Cyprus affair — when he opened his NATO summit visit with a round of one-on-one talks with leaders of the troubled Western alliance.

Ford conferred successively with the government heads of Luxembourg, Greece, and Turkey, lunched for two hours with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and came out of the lunch to find Denmark's Premier Anker Joergensen waiting on the sidewalk for his scheduled meeting.

Portugal's Premier Vasco Dos Santos Goncalves came next to discuss what role his extreme left-leaning military government expects to play in NATO. In all, Ford conferred with some 15 heads of state and government leaders before addressing the formal afternoon opening of the two-day NATO summit.

The black limousines rolled up to the well-guarded doors of Ford's U.S. Embassy residence all through the day, bringing yet another NATO government chief and another set of bodyguards to meet the President.

Two security men in green fatigue uniforms watched the residence through binoculars from a neighboring rooftop. Secret servicemen and Belgian police patrolled the walks outside.

Making his first visit to Europe as President, Ford stepped right into the role of peacemaker and troubleshooter by holding back-to-back meetings with Prime Ministers Constantine Caramanlis of Greece and Suleyman Demirel of Turkey, whose nations have been on the brink of war since last summer's Cyprus fighting. Ford offered America's good offices as an intermediary and quickly found out how tough the Cyprus problem can be.

"You cannot say progress was made in these meetings," Arthur Hartman, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, told newsmen after Ford met for 80 minutes each with Caramanlis and Demirel.

"The President expressed our desire to be as helpful as we can to move (Greece and Turkey) toward a peaceful solution to the Cyprus crisis, Hartman said, but offered no further details.

Turkish sources said Demirel felt that Ford would only complicate the Cyprus

Beirut Fighting Ends Under New Government

BEIRUT (UPI) — Premier-designate Rashid Karami began work today to clear the "atmosphere of violence" left by a month of street fighting that terrorized Beirut and claimed hundreds of casualties.

Life in the Lebanese capital returned to near-normal. Most banks, businesses and small shops reopened for the first time in over a week and traffic streamed through the streets.

Security officials said fighting broke out briefly before dawn but was quickly checked by joint Lebanese-Palestinian patrols. Two persons were injured, one seriously, in the clash.

Scattered sniper fire still rang out as Karami began putting together a cabinet of "national unity" to rule a nation divided between Christians and Moslems, leftists and rightists, guerrillas and nationalists.

Security forces with orders to shoot snipers on sight tracked two snipers in areas of earlier heavy fighting, officials said.

President Suleiman Franjeh Wednesday asked Karami, a seven-time premier, to form a new government. Within an hour, most of the fighting ceased. Security forces killed two snipers and a Palestinian guerrilla died down.

But the last day of clashes claimed 24 casualties, raising the toll for eight days of urban warfare to 94 dead and 520 wounded. A week of fighting last month claimed 450 casualties.

Sanford Enters Race To Challenge Wallace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Declaring it his duty to challenge George Wallace and "show the nation that the South stands for more than the politics of fear," former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina today entered the race for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

Sanford, now president of Duke University, said he would resign after months of campaign preparation. In a 17-page statement, he urged voters to "reinstatement the American Revolution."

"I promise a bold campaign and a bold administration, determined to put into practice again the radical promise of the American Revolution," Sanford said.

Sanford, determined to talk sense and issues openly and candidly, pledged to make the government join the people in the fight against inflation and aspirations, the 58-year-old Sanford said.

Referring to the Alabama governor, who is expected to make his own formal announcement soon, Sanford said: "My mission in life is not to eliminate the George Wallace from the political scene. However, I came up at the same time in similar climate, region and crucial time, and it is my responsibility to challenge him."

"I expect to be running for the presidency with a positive program," Sanford said, "but I have a duty also to show the nation that the South stands for more than the politics of fear."

Sanford, who came to political prominence in North Carolina as Wallace was rising in Alabama in the 1960's, is nearly two inches of rain in six hours.

Tornadoes Swirl Through Texas

By United Press International
Tornadoes swirled across sparsely populated areas of the Texas Panhandle today for the second day in a row, but there was only slight property damage and no one was injured in the two-day onslaught of twisters.

Tornadoes were reported at Goldsmith, Midland and near Plainview, Tex., today, but none caused any damage.

Nine twisters raked the Lone Star state Wednesday, but only minor damage was reported.

The funnels swooped down out of powerful thunderstorms which raced across the area, dumping heavy rains and pelting wide areas with hail — some of it the size of baseballs.

Heavy thunderstorms stretched from western Kansas into western Texas today and heavy rains fell in northwestern Texas. More than two inches of rain fell at McAllen, Tex. Goodland, Kan., reported nearly two inches of rain in six hours.

Way Cleared To Pave Lincoln Center Lot

An easement agreement which permits immediate completion of the controversial Lincoln Center parking area and driveway has been signed by representatives of the Town of Manchester and Congregational Church.

The easement was necessary because part of the area is on church property. The agreement, filed in the town clerk's office and bearing a May 27, 1975 date, was signed by Town Manager Robert Weiss for the town and Church Moderator Richard A. Thomas.

It gives the town permission to utilize the church property needed for the parking lot and driveway and requires the town to assume all expenses for the construction, maintenance, insurance and lights.

The agreement states the church will be harmless from all actions, will be permitted to use the area at all times and will be provided with 10 parking stalls along the church building for its exclusive use.

Business Indicator Index Up Sharply in April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading economic indicators, a sensitive barometer of future economic trends, recorded its biggest one month gain ever in April, the Commerce Department said today.

Using a revised format designed to discount the effects of inflation, the index surged 4.2 per cent last month.

Eleven of 12 indicators which comprise the index increased. The money supply was the only indicator that failed to rise in April.

Last month's record rise followed a 1 per cent increase in March, the first consecutive two month gain in a year. Prior to March, the index had declined for 11 straight months.

Since the index is valued as a guide to shifts in the economy, another major source of upward movement would be "strong evidence" that the recession had hit bottom or would do so soon, a Commerce Department economist said.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's top economist, cautioned against over-optimistic analysis based on the two-month rise.

But he quickly added: "The size and breadth of the... increases in the leading indicators is encouraging and consistent with other evidences suggesting that recession has reached bottom."

Through the years, the index has shown an uncanny ability to reverse direction

Legislators Hold Firm In Pay Hike Dispute

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic legislative leaders said a meeting with state employ union representatives produced no change in position on the question of pay hikes for state workers.

The union officials have threatened a strike by the state's 40,000 state employees if their demands for salary hikes and collective bargaining rights are not met.

The leaders and union representatives met for two hours last Wednesday with no conclusive result. The union officials said they plan to meet with national representatives late today to discuss the deadlock.

Majority Senate Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven, said although he was willing to talk to the state employ groups, the question of the pay hikes is a dead issue.

Arthur House Chosen White House Fellow

Arthur H. House, a native of Manchester, is one of 14 new White House fellows welcomed recently by President Ford.

He is the son of Connecticut Supreme Court Chief Justice Charles S. and Mrs. House of 150 Westland St.

The fellows were chosen in a six-month selection process from 2,307 applicants.

This is the 11th group chosen under a program begun in 1964 to select outstanding persons between the ages of 23 and 36 to work for a year at the White House and federal departments. House is 33.

Joining the World Bank as a member of the Young Professional Program, he worked as an economist and program officer, and traveled extensively in Asia and Africa prior to his assignment on the policy planning staff.

He has written articles for several newspapers and journals. He was guest editor of the editorial page for The Herald in September 1971. He worked as a commentator for public television in Boston.

New Hampshire Scrambling To Hold Primary Spotlight

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The scramble to hold the nation's first 1976 presidential primary intensifies today as New Hampshire counters efforts to take the national spotlight away with a New England regional primary.

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson vowed to sign into law legislation to insulate New Hampshire's traditional showcase primary from the threats of neighboring, more liberal states. The bill automatically sets the primary in the nation's sixth smallest state one week before any date selected by any other New England state.

Seventy miles away in Boston, representatives from the five remaining New England states discussed a proposal for a regional presidential primary designed to soften the importance of the historically unpredictable contest in conservative New Hampshire. In the past two presidential campaigns, the primary here upset expectations, boosting former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., in 1968 and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., in 1972.

If Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont and Connecticut set a regional England states discussed a proposal for a Massachusetts official said, New

Garbage Truck Death Ruled Accidental
MORROW (UPI) — Timothy Black, 25, a retarded resident of Martin House whose body was found crushed to death in a garbage truck May 20, died accidentally, according to police.

Residents in the vicinity of the Shoreline Road facility said Black frequently played in the trash dumpster at Marvin Elementary School, police said Tuesday. Police say he apparently fell asleep in a garbage can and was crushed in the truck.

Police described the accident as follows:
A car was seen by police heading east on the turnpike from Main St. at a high rate of speed almost collided with the cruiser. The car skidded 170 feet sideways, began pursuit.

As the officer pulled onto the turnpike, a second car driven east at a high rate of speed almost collided with the cruiser. The car skidded 170 feet sideways, began pursuit.

Within 15 minutes of the firing, police arrested the two youths in their car.

Police confiscated the pistol. Tomlinson was released on his promise to appear in court June 16. The other youth was not charged.

• Rudy R. DePetro, 21, of 59 Walnut St., charged today at 1:30 a.m. at Arch and Walnut Sts. with breach of peace and interfering with police.

He was released on a $500 cash bond posted by his father. Court is June 9.

The Herald erred Tuesday in reporting the arrest of Dreda A. Hendsey, 38, of 623 Main St. She is the proprietor of Peppino's Restaurant at 623 Main St. and was charged Monday with allowing a minor to loiter on liquor permit premises.

The error was in reporting that police found a 15-year-old youth sitting at the bar in the restaurant. The youth was sitting on the bar side of the restaurant but was sitting at a table along the wall opposite the bar, police said.

The Herald reported the error.

• The Bowers School on Princeton St. was broken into Sunday in the early evening. Police went to the school after a neighbor reported a window being broken. No one was found inside the school. No internal damage was done.
