Region on Defensive In Energy Debate

NEW CASTLE, N.H. (UPI)—A director of the New England Council said New England legislators are outnumbered and on the defensive in the national energy debate.

And the lawyer for the council said it is unfortunate Congress has been presented a "poorly conceived" plan from President Ford to alleviate the energy dilemma.

Paul London, director of the research office, told the mid-year meeting at this seacoast town it is "convenient" to blame the Northeast region for not having refineries and not developing offshore oil.

"By blaming us for our dependence on oil, it is easier to pretend that higher energy prices in the region are the region's own fault," he said.

"People are looking for a scapegoat, and we are it," London said from a regional point of view it is better for gas-oil prices to rise, than to increase heating oil and power generating oil prices.

"Gasoline, heating oil, and electricity all might be called necessities," he said, "but the necessities even further probably exceeds the hardship of reducing auto use," he said.

James Hostetler, Washington counsel for the group, said Congress will "stand or fall" on the energy issue.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller has been the owner of a 4,000-acre ranch in Venezuela since 1953.

Manchester Evening Herald OPINION Binding Arbitration

The unthinkable has become the actual in Santa Barbara County, California, where all firemen have struck in a labor dispute and have left the county without regular firefighting personnel.

To add to the severity of the situation firemen barricaded fire stations, let air out of the tires of fire trucks and in some cases removed engine rotors and crossed wires making equipment inoperable until mechanics had been brought in to repair the machinery.

It became necessary for the county sheriff to remove all trucks from the fire stations and bring them to the county parking lot so that they would be available in the event of a fire.

Another result of the strike has been the cessation of interstate airline service to the county airport. Firemen manned the airport fire trucks which were on standby there in case of an emergency.

The Santa Barbara incident is a significant step-up of the growing number and intensity of strikes which are actually against the public. In this one, of course, the degree of potential harm is much greater than it might be in the case of a teacher strike, or garbage-men walkout, or street cleaner strike.

The firemen left the county without protection against dangerous fires which might damage or destroy property or cause large loss of life. Their actions in crippling firefighting equipment by deflating tires and tampering with the mechanisms of the trucks was, of course, reprehensible and inexcusable.

However it exceeds only in degree the strike of doctors protesting high malpractice insurance premiums or of policemen who have staged sick-ins.

A Good Gesture

One of the nicest gestures we've known of in some time was that of a group of Cubans, all former refugees who fled to the United States, who visited the Vietnamese refugee settlement at Camp Pendleton to bring this latest wave of people comfort and assurance of what they can look forward to in the United States.

It has long been a therapeutic principal that no one can deal better with those who have undergone a recent traumatic experience than those who have earlier suffered a like experience and have lived through it.

Many paraplegics have been given new hope by counseling and talking with others who have lost the use of their limbs. No one can talk to an alcoholic as well as a person who has had similar experiences and has overcome them.

And many women suffering from the physical and psychological trauma of a breast removal have buoyed up by meetings with other women who have undergone a like incident and have returned to a normal life.

Thus, it was undoubtedly very heartening to the Vietnamese to talk with people who a decade ago were refugees from their native land, in a foreign country, and bewildered by new customs, harried by fears and homesickness.

Tales of the experiences of the Cubans and how they rose above their travail must have been inspirational to the Pendleton refugees, who are undergoing the trials and rigors of resettlement with all its myriad problems.

The example of the Cubans, who are becoming very good citizens so rapidly, should be taken by all Americans as an indication of what we should have known all along. Like our own forebearers, these refugees can become mighty good Americans.

YES, WE HAVE ONLY ONE SMALL PROBLEM — I WANT A BIG, CHURCH WEDDING — AND HE WANTS TO BREAK THE ENGAGEMENT!

MAX LERNER

A New Age of Anxiety

NEW YORK CITY — It is time we rethought the cliché about generational distance. The young people I saw at the commencement in which I took part this year — the last at Queens University in the City University of New York — were not much different from their families in their thinking. Despite Thomas Wolfe's "You Can't Go Home Again" they have come home again — come home to share the anxieties of the family, its lean years if not its fatted calf.

They also share again the old family rituals of graduation. They are not out to show their parents how different they are. There were no black armbands this year, no open abstention from the exercises. They wear their caps and gowns, and what is underneath — sometimes jeans, sometimes slacks or skirts — is not too outrageous. The kids don't mind their parents taking pictures, and they even take pictures of each other. It is also worth noting, incidentally, that in most universities seven or eight out of 10 of the graduates with high academic distinction are being carried off by women.

It wasn't an easy set of graduating classes to talk to. The stormy mood of the mid- and late 1960s, and of 1970, when a commencement speaker could win applause by cursing the war and poverty and the pillaging of the environment, is gone. The mood of 1971 and '72, with its hopes for a victory of left populism with student bent, went glimmering with the snows of George McGovern's presidency. The angry, anguished Watergate commencement years — 1973 and '74 — are no more. Even the post-Watergate mood can no longer credibly be sustained. The public flaying of Nixon, and the conspicuous display of civic virtue, are no longer adequate pegs on which to hang a talk to the young.

We use up themes fast in the United States, almost as fast as commencement speakers in the media. The people embrace a new theme, until the speakers and commentators squeeze it dry, and then it becomes a rind to throw away. One characteristic carries over from the '60s — the impotence of the young with moralizing by their elders. To "tell it as it is" is no longer put in those words, but it is nonetheless there. Another theme is the suspicion that the whole society is a rigged game. Much has changed over the past 10 years, but that hasn't. If we were to respond to the mental set of the graduating class, and if you came down hard on secrecy and surveillance and gave them your own version of the paranoia they feel, they would assent strongly. But even this paranoid sense of pervasive conspiracy all around us isn't the monopoly of the young. At this point every generation shares it. That is one thing the graduates and their parents can agree on.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
God's spirit is at work in you. He wants to change you, to give you a better life, to make you better. You can rely on Him and His work in your life. Jesus did not leave you on your own to work things out. God's word promises: "God is at work in you for His own purposes, and He puts both the will and action into you."

HI NEIGHBOR

By BURL LYONS

During the past few years, a considerable share of our time has been spent aboard commercial airliners. We have heard the trials and tribulations that confront the other guy but always figured it couldn't happen to us.

Yesterday, we returned from what was to be a pleasurable vacation excursion to the Far West. No, there was nothing wrong with the flight, but when we landed eight days ago in the West, our luggage didn't. It hasn't arrived yet, either in the West or back at Bradley.

You don't get too excited the first day because you figure that some how, in some fashion, your suitcase will catch up with you. About the second day the tension starts to mount and it builds with each passing day. To begin with, this particular airline contains a small travel kit containing a two-day supply of all the needed necessities such as a razor and an unheated comb. It doesn't include a hairbrush or a comb.

Every 24 hours we were given a clothing allowance up to a maximum of $25 provided we had documented receipts. That works pretty well for the first two or three days until you realize you have to get something to put the dirty clothes in or if you wish to visit a laundry — some type of suitcase to store the clean clothes.

We also discovered that at airline counters a lot of the folks work less than five days and then often staggered hours. If we had $100 for every time some employe said he was sorry, we could take a real vacation. Each day we would telephone or visit the airline counter in person. We seemingly always had to explain the situation to a different person. We would have been better off to cut a record and played it each time we made a telephone call or a personal visit.

The questions were always the same. What flight were you on? What day did you leave and from where? What was your final destination? What type of suitcase is it? What do you have in the suitcase?

All the questions were easy to answer except for the one, "What's in the suitcase?" We'd reply clothes, and don't you think that's normally what you would expect to find?

But the retort would be, "Yes, but how many shirts, what color, how many socks, what color, how many trousers, what color, how many pairs of shoes and what color and was there anything else?" Well, hell, man, we don't pack our own suitcase; the little woman does that. It's all I can do to repack it, let alone pack it in the first place.

We learned something, though: after a suitcase is lost for seven days, the FBI takes jurisdiction because of possible theft.

On our last day, we received this bit of encouragement. "Some 95 per cent of the lost bags are recovered, sometimes it takes weeks, sometimes months, but in most situations they are found. Then we were given a claim blank to fill out which is about as long as our arm."

It's kinda like being in the Army. We are grateful for the experience but we wouldn't want to go through it again.

But before you take that vacation airline trip, make sure your name is on the outside of the luggage. It's something we were going to do for years but never got around to it. That's no guarantee your luggage won't still go astray, but it might be a bit easier to locate.

STAMPS AND COINS

By RUSS MACKENDRICK

These are sketches of NENA's new medal. It will be issued in bronze, silver and gold-filled on the occasion of the 31st Conference and Convention of the New England Numismatic Association in Boston this fall (Nov. 7, 8 and 9, at the Copley Plaza).

The medals will be of the usual half-dollar size. The one in gold, the first they've had like this, will be available only if ordered before the first of August, 1975. Mary W. Mullin, P.O. Box 4, Newton MA 02188.

NENA is our regional group in numismatics. New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania have themselves what they call GENA. Acronyms are everywhere.

The convention in November will be a place to see exhibits, hear speakers, bids at auction, and in many other ways enlarge your numismatic scope. There will be special programs for juniors. The dealers' bourse will have 46 units — up from 33 last year.

The cost of membership in NENA is only $3, and for this you get the satisfaction of contributing to the cause; and also you will receive a sprightly little magazine, the NENA News, edited by a Manchester collector, Sally Kirka. Mrs. Kirka is one of the five regular directors of the association and has just accepted the job of general chairman of the convention and conference to be held in Hartford in 1977.

Although there is an interlocking membership, the Manchester Coin Club that had a show at the K of C Home last Sunday is not the same as the Central Connecticut Coin Club. Instead they are more of a numismatic-gourmet organization that meets and eats at members' houses. One of them remarked that they may not be the biggest hobby group around, but they certainly are the best nourished.

Coin World brings us word of a new coin-snatching champion. They hasten to explain that this has nothing to do with the unethical practice of whipping an item of merchandise from a dealer's bourse table. Instead it is an athletic event — very much a far side issue of numismatics.

Have your arm bare, then bend it at the elbow and hold the forearm up to make a flat place for some coins — and snatch, hoping to nip them all in mid-air.

The previous champ, according to Guinness, was a fellow in England who snatched 39. Now the New Orleans Times-Picayune has reported through CW on a city resident who did the trick with 40 quarters.

If you saw in Linn's that the Postal Service calls for special "lobby drops for local postmark acquisition" and you haven't noticed any around here, be not alarmed. All mail from this town does get a Manchester postmark except for the holiday pick-ups which are hastened to Hartford for the not-so-good USPS 900 cancel.

Surprise: The chief examiner of the Postal Rate Commission has recommended that the letter rate be dropped to 8 1/2 cents instead of being boosted to 12 cents. He wants junk mail to pay more, and also suggests upping the federal subsidies to the service. Great ideas!

The U.N. is celebrating its 30th anniversary with the release on June 26 of four stamps and two souvenir sheets. The design is like three little hoofers getting into routine. One of them is bearing the U.N. flagpole on a hip acquisition" and you haven't

Canal Reopening Creates Problem

LONDON (UPI) — Two pairs of pajamas, a towel and a pair of shoes arrived in London this week — eight years after being mailed from Pakistan to a man named Nawazish Ali.

The parcel they were in was part of a consignment of mail aboard a ship that sat in the Suez Canal from the 1967 Middle East war until last week when the canal was re-opened. Postal officials examined the 39 bags of letters and 4,000 parcels from Pakistan and found that virtually all had survived the delay intact.

Among the items was a set of hockey sticks, a gross of scissors, a wooden dog and a variety of other objects in addition to Mr. Ali's pajamas.

"Our problem now is to find all these people," a Post Office spokesman said. "Many of them will have moved away from their old addresses since 1967. If we cannot locate them, perhaps we will have to give all the things away."

Church in Bolton Receives Memento from its Namesake

An alms basin was presented to St. George's Episcopal Church in Bolton from its namesake, St. George's, in Bolton, England.

The alms basin was presented to the Rev. John Flora III by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Barber of Bolton, England.

The church in England officially closed this month due to financial difficulty. It was consecrated in 1796 and will now become a center for classical music. Upon learning of the closing Father Flora wrote and asked for something "to remember the church by."

The basin and a picture of St. George's in England were brought to Bolton by the Barbours. They are the parents of Raymond Barber of Tolland. The Raymond Barbours are members of St. George's. The inscription on the alms basin reads "while we have time let us do good unto all men." On the center of the plate are the letters I H S, the Greek abbreviation for Jesus. It was inscribed in 1881.

The plate was originally given to St. George's in England on the occasion of the appointment of a vicar.

In May 1958 the Rev. Donald Greene began calling on Bolton residents with the idea of establishing an Episcopal mission in town. On Sept. 26 of that year the congregation he assembled held its first meeting for worship in Bolton Elementary School.

At that meeting it was decided to name the local church after St. George's in Bolton, England.

The English church is the oldest parish in Bolton, Conn. St. George's in Bolton, Conn. was built in 1862. The parish hall was added in 1967.

The present pastor has been at St. George's since December 1972.

A reception was held for the Barbours to thank them for bringing the alms basin and picture to Connecticut.

Bolton Woman's Club Plans Get-Together

Donna Holland Correspondent

The Bolton Woman's Club will have an informal get-acquainted night at Herick Memorial Park Thursday at 8.

The BWC was formerly the Bolton Junior Woman's Club. A vote of club members changed it from a junior woman's club to a woman's club.

The main difference between the two is there is no age cutoff in a woman's club.

All women are invited to the get-acquainted night to learn more about what the club does and its hopes for the future and to meet club members.

Club members are urged personally to contact their neighbors and invite them.

It has been hired to represent the Talcottville Church in the Rockville bicentennial parade in 1976.

Dear Abby

Abby's Not Bald She Tells Seaman

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There is scuttlebutt among my shipmates that Dear Abby is really a cigar-chewing, bald-headed boiler salesman in Cleveland, Ohio who moonlights by writing a column.

Is there any substance to this accusation?

MERCHANT SEAMAN

DEAR SEAMAN: No way, mate! I'm a non-smoking, genuine female with hair growing on my head and no grass growing under my feet.

DEAR ABBY: One of my friends has a baby who is a little doll—very bright and good-natured. My friend and her baby are living with her parents.

Abby, I am not sure how to bring it up—I hope to God there is no—but that baby will be a year old next week, and he can't sit up at all. He just lays on his back or stomach and kicks his little legs around. I'm afraid something is wrong with his spine.

My problem is I'm afraid to mention it because the baby's mother doesn't seem to think anything is wrong, and I guess her parents don't, either. (They say he's "lazy.")

I have a baby girl the same age, and she is all over the place. I just don't know what to do, Abby. If something is wrong with that baby's back, the sooner they get him to a doctor, the better, right? Should I bring it up? And, if so, how do I do it without sounding tacky?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Tell your friend of your fears and don't worry about sounding "tacky." It would be a kindness. And if she hasn't had her baby checked by her doctor recently, she should do so once.

DEAR ABBY: Recently, my daughter was riding her horse along a country road. A car approached her from the rear and the well-intentioned driver blew the horn. The driver of the car stopped, administered first aid and kept repeating how sorry he was. He simply didn't know the basic rules that apply to riding around on a horse.

You would do a great service if you would publish the following:

1. A loud, sudden noise will cause a horse to run forward blindly.

2. Never walk within six feet of the rear of a horse. He may kick.

3. Don't accelerate a motorcycle when passing a horse.

4. Young horses are more unpredictable than older horses. They are extremely strong and often dangerous. Never buy a young horse for an inexperienced young rider.

5. Never pet a strange horse. He will sense your nervousness and may bite. If the owner gives permission, you may treat a horse to a raw carrot (not sugar), extended on the palm of your hand.

PHOENIX HORSE LOVER

DEAR READER: Thank you for sharing some horse sense with my lovers.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Write to write letters: Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20c) envelope.

ON SECOND THOUGHT

By JAN WARREN

On Surviving A Class Trip

If there is a heavenly ledger up there somewhere—and I should say "No" to the like to think there is—then this morning the angel in charge put a gold star next to my name.

Believe me, I earned that star. I just got back from chaperoning 35, fifth and sixth graders to a fine arts concert at the Bushnell and frankly, TWO stars would not be an excessive reward.

The concert series is the only school trip where mothers and children go alone. There is no teacher to turn to when things get rough. It's just us and them and the poor bus driver.

After the trip, I collapsed on the steps of the school with the other mothers and compared experiences. Some interesting facts emerged.

We agreed that we'd rather chaperone 200 girls than two boys. And, that boys with angelic faces and long eyelashes were the ones to watch out for.

We agreed that boys should be bribed before they are allowed on the bus. And that paper clips and elastic bands are lethal weapons.

We agreed that when someone says "We'll suffice if we can't open the bus window," you let them suffice.

And since the group is seated in the auditorium, we agreed that "No" should be the answer to everything except a request to go to the bathroom.

In particular we felt you should say "No" to the following questions: "May I get a drink of water?" "Make an airplane from my program?" "Say hello to my friend George from West Hartford?" and "Sit on my feet so I can see better?"

We also agreed that as chaperones we should spread out among the kids, despite the natural feeling of wanting to stand, divided we fall.

We were pleased to find that our own children were models of good behavior and thought it significant that they asked that we NOT chaperone the next trip.

The most amazing thing was the kids—apparently by osmosis—absorbed some of the music. On the ride home they recited the name of every composer on the program. And, just to show us how smart they were, a group of boys in the back of the bus whistled the New World Symphony—all the way to Manchester.

So I wasn't a lost morning. The kids learned something. And the other mothers and I became fast friends (bartering experiences to that to people.) I'm not making any promises, but next year if they ask me to be a chaperone again, I may say yes.

Somebody has to do the job. And to be honest with you, I need all the gold stars I can get to go to the bathroom.

Tobin-Ryan

Sandra Jean Ryan of Manchester and John Francis Tobin Jr., both of Manchester, were married May 24 at St. James Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ryan of 53 Strickland St. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mrs. Mary Tobin of Middletown.

The Rev. Louis Cronemie of St. James Church celebrated the nuptial Mass and performed the single-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white gladioli and daisy posies. The folk group of St. James Church performed.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a Quiana crepe gown designed with an Empire waist, long fitted sleeves, a high neckline, A-line skirt terminating in a chapel-length train. Her hairpiece was a matching chiffon hooded chapel-length train. She carried a bouquet of miniature white carnations, baby's breath, and greens.

Miss Kathy Neukett of Manchester was maid of honor. She wore a blue halter gown designed with high neckline and a hooded bolero jacket. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies with baby's breath and greens.

Miss Pat Tufel of Manchester was bridesmaid. Her gown was identical to that worn by the honor attendant and she carried yellow daisies with baby's breath and greens.

John P. Ryan II of Manchester, the bride's brother, was best man. Ushers were Donald Ryan, Paul Ryan and Kenneth Ryan, all of Manchester, and brothers of the bride.

Seamus Little of Rockville was ring bearer.

A reception was held at The

Mr. & Mrs. John F. Tobin Jr.

Colonial in Talcottville, after which the couple left on a trip to Cape Cod, Mass. They will reside in Manchester. Mr. Tobin is an occupational therapist assistant by the State of Connecticut at Connecticut Valley Hospital in Middletown. Mr. Tobin is a laborer.

A Family Affair

Cpl. Allison E. Kuehl of 74 Mountain Rd. is sworn in as a second lieutenant in the Women's Army Corps by her father Lt. Col. (Ret.) Donald Kuehl, USAF. Lt. Kuehl's commissioning took place at the ROTC headquarters at Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam, N.Y. from where she graduated with a B.S. degree in chemical engineering. She is presently waiting for orders to report to Ft. McClellan, Ala.

In particular we felt you should say "No" to the following questions: "May I get a drink of water?" "Make an airplane from my program?" "Say hello to my friend George from West Hartford?" and "Sit on my feet so I can see better?"

We also agreed that as chaperones we should spread out among the kids, despite the natural feeling of wanting to stand, divided we fall.

We were pleased to find that our own children were models of good behavior and thought it significant that they asked that we NOT chaperone the next trip.

The most amazing thing was the kids—apparently by osmosis—absorbed some of the music. On the ride home they recited the name of every composer on the program. And, just to show us how smart they were, a group of boys in the back of the bus whistled the New World Symphony—all the way to Manchester.

So I wasn't a lost morning. The kids learned something. And the other mothers and I became fast friends (bartering experiences to that to people.) I'm not making any promises, but next year if they ask me to be a chaperone again, I may say yes.

Somebody has to do the job. And to be honest with you, I need all the gold stars I can get to go to the bathroom.

CIA Guilty of Abusing Powers

 But the report also stressed these "plainly unlawful and improper" activities are matters of the past—mostly of the Cold War and the anxious 1960s—and that "the great majority" of domestic activities by the agency over the course of its 28-year history were within the law.

The report results from a five-month investigation by a panel of eight men, mostly former government officials, headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and appointed in January by President Ford following publication in the New York Times of stories alleging "massive" violation of the law by the CIA.

The commission interviewed 51 witnesses and took 2,900 pages of testimony.

The report, as President Ford announced, said nothing of the CIA's alleged role in assassination plots against foreign leaders. The commission sent what it learned on that to Ford, who forwarded it to Attorney General Edward Levi for possible prosecution. Levi's office said the attorney general was giving it personal attention.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said his Senate intelligence committee would probe beyond the Rockefeller report and make a "full disclosure" of political ends." Specifically, the report told of CIA activities in the area of—Controlling human behavior.

For 10 years, from 1953 to 1963, the CIA tested LSD and other hallucinatory drugs, sometimes on unsuspecting subjects. The purpose was to control possible use of behavior-influencing drugs administered by an enemy.

In 1953, an Army employee was dosed without his knowledge while attending a meeting of CIA people working on the project. He developed side-effects and was sent to New York for psychiatric treatment. "Several days later, he jumped from a 10th story window of his room and died."

The CIA used other methods to study "possible means for controlling human behavior."

These explored the effects of radiation, electric shocks, psychology, psychiatry, sociology and "harassment substances." No details were given.

—Keeping tabs on dissidents. Over six years, a special group known as "Operation Chaos," a staff that ultimately numbered 32, compiled 13,000 files, including files on 7,300 Americans, and including the names of 300,000 persons and organizations in a computerized index. The purpose was to find out if foreign forces financed the antiwar movement. Little evidence of foreign involvement was found.

One "Operation Chaos" agent became involved as an adviser in a congressional election campaign and furnished headquarters with reports on behind-the-scenes campaign activities.

"Operation Chaos" was isolated in a vaulted basement area of CIA headquarters at Langley, Va., under security measures which "were extreme, even by normally strict CIA standards."

With the information it gathered, the CIA prepared 3,500 memos for internal use, 300 for the FBI and 37 for the White House. The operation was terminated by CIA Director William Colby on March 15, 1974.

Solons Reaffirm Need For Congressional Supervision of CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sens. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., and Howard Baker, R-Tenn., today repeated their support for creation of a permanent joint congressional committee to oversee U.S. intelligence and law enforcement activities.

Both senators said Congress should not wait for a Senate committee investigating CIA activities to complete work before forming the new watchdog committee. The Senate committee is headed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

"The need is obvious," Weicker said in remarks prepared for debate on the Senate floor. "It has been obvious ever since the misdeeds of Watergate became known."

"The litany of CIA and FBI abuses is overwhelming," he said. "What we need now is to act on the facts before us."

"To delay the establishment of such a committee until March, as some have mentioned, is unacceptable," Weicker said.

Republican Leaders Accuse Democrats Of Bowing to Labor

HARTFORD (UPI)—The ranking Republicans of the state legislature called the 1975 session a disaster and accused the Democratic majority of caving in to special interests, notably labor.

The labor movement and the victories it gained in the session were the prime targets of the attacks leveled Tuesday by Sen. GOP Leader Lewis B. Rome, R-Bloomfield, and House GOP chief Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford.

"They had a fantastic year at the Capitol," Rome said of the session. "The gold-leafing on the dome may be just yellow paint."

Stevens, who said it has the worst session he had seen in his nine years as a lawmaker, said the session had fallen short both in terms of the substance of bills approved and the mechanics of the process.

The Milford Republican said many of the bills were written by special interest groups with little input from legislators, and he singled out for criticism a measure giving collective bargaining rights to state employees.

It was written by Jay Tepper, who doesn't know what he's doing," Stevens said. Tepper, a Democrat, is Connecticut Finance Commissioner.

Rome and Stevens spoke during the traditional GOP Tuesday luncheon, chaired by outgoing State GOP Chairman Vincent Laudone of Norwich. Laudone has said he will not seek re-election as state party chief this summer.

Bicycle Hazards Concern Police

COVENTRY
 Monica Shea

In light of the two recent bicycle-auto accidents this spring, Chief of Police Robert Kjelquist has issued a reminder to all bicyclists that specific rules exist to prevent accidents in town.

Bicyclists are cautioned to observe all traffic rules, to keep in a single line and to the right, to watch out for cars pulling out into traffic, to slow down at an intersection, to look both ways before crossing, not to ride double or weave in and out of traffic, and to have a white light in front of the bike and a red reflector or light in the rear fender of the bike for night riding.

Chief Kjelquist said, "If these rules are followed, accidents will be prevented, and you can perhaps save your life. You owe this to your parents as well as to yourself."

The chief also issued a reminder to parents that it is their responsibility to see that youngsters are trained in the proper operation of a bicycle and to motorists that they have a responsibility to drive carefully when bikes are on the roadway.

Exhibits
 Samples of the Bicentennial exhibition recently given at the Robertson Grammar School are now on display at the Historical Society cabinet in Town Hall.

All of the items on display are the work of the fourth graders who have recreated colonial times with arts and crafts.

Included in the display are corn cobs, corn husks and apple dolls, samplers, and various processes used by the colonials in the making of paper.

Record on Sale
 The Coventry High School Music Department is taking orders for an LP record album recorded live at the recent Coventry-Rockville, Maryland Exchange Concert.

Reservations
 Any senior citizens who wish to participate in the last luncheon at Coventry High School Friday must make reservations by Thursday and may do so by calling Mrs. Elsa McKusick at 742-6542.

This is the last scheduled meal until fall, and to date the pilot program has been a success with about 25 seniors attending each meal.

Board Splits Over Cable TV

Apparently unsure of the potential for cable television, Manchester directors split along party lines Tuesday night in deciding to seek help to use the new medium.

Directors voted 5-3, with Democrat Matt Moriarty absent, to authorize the town to get training services from state colleges and apply for a $15,000 state grant to buy TV equipment.

Funds Released For School Work

By JUNE TOMPKINS

The Board of Education learned Monday night from Paul Greenberg, chairman of the building and sites committee, that the Town Building Committee has agreed to release $5,000 for site work at Bennet Junior High School and $25,000 for equipment at Iling Junior High School.

Help on landscaping at Bennet has been promised from the Conservation Commission and the beautification committee of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Some of the students at Bennet have also volunteered their help.

Construction progress at both Iling and Bennet is right on schedule, Greenberg said. He had toured the renovated old trade building and said it was "remarkable what could be done with an old building."

The building should be completed in about two weeks.

Joel Mrosek, a junior at Manchester High School, was introduced to the board as the new junior board member.

POLICE REPORT

MANCHESTER

A boy about age 13 walked into the office of Stevenson's Exxon at 405 Main St. Tuesday morning while the attendants were busy. They suspect he opened the cash drawer without allowing it to ring and removed $120 in tens.

An attendant stopped into the office just after the boy left. He found the drawer open and the cash gone.

The boy was about five feet tall, 100 pounds, thin build and long brown hair. He rode away on a black, homemade bike without fenders.

Someone broke into the warehouse at Allied Protective Alarm Co. at 118 Elm St. Monday night and stole 1,000 yoyos.

The owner of the warehouse contents and president of Allied, Ken Spector of 38 Hamilton Dr., told police he has had problems with youths in the area of late.

Attempts were made Tuesday during the day to steal two cars in the parking lot at the Finast market off Spencer St.

The cover of the ignition on a 1972 Chevrolet was popped off. The thief could not start the car.

A bolt was screwed into the ignition on a 1971 Plymouth without starting it.

Tarleton State University in Stephenville, Tex., has established an Institute of Gerontology, which will cooperate with nursing homes, hospitals and social work agencies in providing training and services for care of the aged.

Project Concern Under Question

SOUTH WINDSOR
Judy Kuehnel Correspondent 644-1364

A reservation was expressed at last night's meeting of the South Windsor Board of Education about continuing Project Concern, now entering the second year of a two-year contract with Hartford.

announcement by officials that South Windsor tuition rates would be cut back to $700 per student, from $726.

Regarding the tuition problem Mrs. Cushman said, "I'm disappointed the administration (Hartford Project Concern officials) indicated to us a year ago there would be no trouble financing the program, and in fact there is trouble because the federal government decentralizes its funding for busing children to the suburbs."

Installation of the South Windsor Young Wives will hold their installation banquet tonight at the East Hartford Holiday Inn. Cocktails will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The new president will announce other committee chairman.

There are 37 pupils now participating in the program in South Windsor.

Visiting Hour Limit Stressed by Hospital

VERNON

Visitors at Rockville General Hospital are reminded that visiting hours were changed in December and are still in effect. The new hours were instituted for the benefit of the patients to insure more rest periods during the day.

Hospital officials said apparently many visitors are not aware of the change in visiting hours and continue to come to the hospital during rest periods.

The hours are as follows: Bessell I (surgical) and Bessell II (medical), from 12:30 to 2 p.m. and from 4 to 8 p.m.; maternity, from 2 to 4 p.m. and 6:30 to 8 p.m. with the fathers' hour observed from 8 to 9 p.m. in pediatrics, parents may visit at any time and all others may visit from 12:30 to 8 p.m.

Its agenda includes administrative reports and recommendations, committee reports, financial summary, approval of policies, consideration of facilities if seventh and eighth grades are withdrawn from Regional District 6, and suggested policy on balancing class sizes.

The meetings are open to the public.

Betty to Mexico. WASHINGTON (UPI) - Betty Ford may attend the International Women's Year Conference in Mexico City, an aide says.

Sources say she is being urged to deliver the main address for the United States. The President's wife has been a strong advocate of the Equal Rights Amendment, and her attendance might soothe women's groups upset at the naming of State Department official Daniel Parker to head the U.S. delegation. They say a woman should head it.

Mrs. Ford expects to make a decision later this week on the June 19-20 meeting. Sources say she is being urged to deliver the main address for the United States. The President's wife has been a strong advocate of the Equal Rights Amendment, and her attendance might soothe women's groups upset at the naming of State Department official Daniel Parker to head the U.S. delegation. They say a woman should head it.

Drunk Driving. LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Charles Young, UCLA chancellor, was charged Tuesday with misdemeanor drunken driving. Young's car crashed into a tree near the campus Sunday, and firemen had to pry him from the wreckage. He was hospitalized with a broken jaw. The city attorney's office dropped a hit-run charge for lack of evidence. No arraignment date can be set until after his release from the hospital.

The city attorney's office also brought misdemeanor drunken driving and hit-run charges against the No. 2 official of the district attorney's office, Chief Deputy District Attorney John Howard, whose car collided with another auto Wednesday. Under local procedures, the city attorney prosecutes misdemeanor cases and the district attorney's office handles felony charges.

FBI Hunts Panther. SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The FBI is officially looking for Huey Newton. The founder of the Black Panther Party was accused Tuesday in a criminal complaint of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, a charge which puts Newton under federal jurisdiction.

U.S. Atty. James Browning Jr. said Newton had felony charges pending against him in Alameda County and had forfeited $42,000 in bail by leaving the area. Browning said the federal charges, which let the FBI into the case, were based on the testimony of Newton's attorney, Charles Garry, who said on June 2 in Alameda County Superior Court he had received a telephone call from Newton in Havana.

Newton is charged with the murder of Kathleen Smith, who was shot on Aug. 6, 1974, and died in October. "I am not at all surprised that my name was in their files," added Hayakawa, who retired as president of the CIA last year. "That's their job."

A report on CIA activities Tuesday said Hayakawa was one of 12,000 to 16,000 persons which the CIA kept files on to "assess risks posed to CIA offices, recruiters, agents and contractors by upcoming demonstrations and other dissident activity."

Debating Price Hike Extent. LIBREVILLE, Gabon (UPI) - The world's oil-exporting nations have agreed on the need for a price rise to make up for inflation but they're still debating the extent of the increase. "Yes, we want a price increase for our oil," Iraqi Petroleum Minister Fayeh Abdul Karim said. "It is justified."

His remarks summed up the attitude the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries today on the last day of talks in this West African city. Delegates at the three-day conference said the oil ministers have agreed to raise the world's fuel bill when OPEC's six-month-old price freeze expires Oct. 1. They said the increase is needed to compensate for what oil nations insist has been a 30 per cent rise in the cost of industrial goods bought by OPEC nations from the West.

Springtime in the Rockies. DENVER (UPI) - It was January in June, with a little bit of March and April thrown in here and there. Foot-deep snows turned summer vacation resorts in the Colorado Rockies into ski havens Tuesday, nearly 1 1/2 feet of rain virtually transformed Sora Lake, Tex., into a real lake, and high winds and tornadoes ripped other parts of the Lone Star State.

More than a foot of snow fell in the high Rockies west of Denver, Colo.

Teacher Supports Deputy Chief Plea

By DOUG BEVINS
Manchester's Board of Directors might favor appointment of a deputy police chief in town if they observed organizational problems within the police force, a Manchester High School teacher said Tuesday night. Elgin Zatursky of 20 Finley St., who teaches law and order at the high school, told directors they should visit the police station and reconsider their decision to reject Police Chief Robert Lannan's request for a deputy chief. Zatursky pointed out that most other town department heads have assistants. There are three deputy chiefs in the town fire department; there are two assistant superintendents in the school system, and there are assistants for the town manager. Zatursky, who said his law and order class brings him to the police station very often, said a deputy chief position isn't unusual for police departments of the same size as Manchester. "There should be an intermediary between the chief and the captains," Zatursky said. "You can't expect a captain to serve as a good acting chief," he said, pointing out that Patrol Capt. George McCaughey, who has been able to act as chief when necessary, is retiring. Zatursky was the only member of the public speaking on the police issue at Tuesday night's directors' meeting.

Board Will Fund One Shanti School Student

The Manchester Board of Education will fund tuition for one student in Grades 10 to 12 next year at the Shanti School, a regional alternate high school for the Greater Hartford area. An information session for interested students and parents about the school is scheduled Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 110 at Manchester High School. Shanti School officials will explain the program and answer questions. Applications are available in Room 110. Final acceptance of the Manchester student is determined by a lottery which will be June 20 at MHS. Previous academic level performance is not a criterion for admission. Shanti School is sometimes referred to as a school without walls. It focuses on relevant, community-centered education and provides an opportunity for flexibility and individualization of programs. Students devise their own curriculum according to their interests and goals. Students who are selected to attend must have parental permission and provide their own transportation. The school is located in the railroad station in Hartford, although many of the student studies and activities take place in various areas of the community.

Half the Lies He Tells Aren't True

Tom Moore may be only 28 to everyone else he's been telling, but for his wife Susan and sons Peter, 9, and Jeremy, 5, he's really 32. The whole neighborhood around 38 Strong St. found that out Wednesday, and so did Tom when he returned home and was greeted by that sign. Moore is a volunteer fireman with the 8th District. Susan said she had help from neighbors making and hoisting the sign. (Herald photo by Dunn)

New Hampshire Election Dispute Debate To Begin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate is finally getting down to debate on New Hampshire's disputed election, but the most crucial vote is days away. Under a time table agreed to on Wednesday, the Senate decided the controversy over New Hampshire's junior seat in the chamber would be considered every afternoon starting today. But not until next Tuesday at 5 p.m. will the most important decision come up: Sen. Lowell P. Weicker's motion to declare the seat vacant and split the entire dispute back to New Hampshire. "The last time his idea was considered, in January, the weight of the Democratic majority crushed it, 53 to 39. But Weicker now maintains some Democrats may be swayed to send the dispute back when they see how "confusing" the issue has become. In trying to determine who actually won the Nov. 5 election, the Rules Committee deadlocked on 35 issues. Most of the tie votes were on key legal questions involving ballot tallies and alleged voter irregularities. Republicans backing Louis C. Wyman's two-vote claim to the New Hampshire seat say that citizens of the state should have the right to determine who is going to represent them. "Voting by senators would almost have to be emotional, and therefore partisan," said Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz. But Democrats supporting John A. Durkin's challenge of Wyman's claim to the seat maintain that the Senate is bound by the Constitution to judge the election dispute. Wyman first won the election by 355 votes, but he was stripped of his victory when the President told the Senate that the White House disapproved of his election. Participants at today's meeting included House Speaker Carl Albert, Democratic leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill and Chairman Al Ullman of the Ways and Means Committee. Republicans included Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and House GOP leader John J. Chafee. Ullman, who is chief author of the legislation, said after the vote that what is left of the bill might still comprise "the centerpiece for an energy concept." Ford had been planning to devote his

Passengers Safely Flee Burning 747 Jetliner

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — A $25 million Air France 747 was destroyed by fire at the Santa Cruz International Airport here 32 minutes after the 392 passengers and crew slid down exit chutes to safety. Officials said four of the 374 passengers aboard were slightly injured in the rush to leave the jumbo jet after all four of its engines caught fire as it was making a 2:30 a.m. departure. The passengers and 18 crew members fled through emergency and main exits which opened automatically when the blaze broke out, airport authorities said. The plane, Air France Flight 193 from Bangkok to Tehran, Tel Aviv and Paris via Bombay, was taxiing for takeoff when, midway through its ground run, the pilot suddenly braked and announced over the intercom: "The engines are afire." Airport officials said as soon as the plane screamed to a stop, the passengers and crew scrambled through the exits and were clear of the aircraft in five minutes. Firefighters rushed to the burning plane but airport officials said the flames were beyond control and the big jet was destroyed in a matter of minutes. Airport authorities said the 142 passengers who joined the flight at Bombay were sent home while the remainder were lodged in Bombay hotels. Officials said the fire damaged the main runway, rendering it unusable for at least four days while clean-up repair operations are under way. Incoming flights were cancelled.

Election Law Violation May End Mrs. Gandhi's Political Career

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was convicted today of automatically stripping Mrs. Gandhi of her seat in parliament and bar her from holding public office for the next six years. The Allahabad High Court found the 58-year-old prime minister guilty of two election law violations during the 1971 campaign in her home state — Uttar Pradesh. Justice J.J.I. Sinha ruled that Mrs. Gandhi illegally used her personal secretary to campaign for her and government officials to arrange election meetings. But the judge cleared her of charges she bribed voters with gifts, provided free transportation to polling stations and spent more than the legal $5,000 in campaign expenditures. Mrs. Gandhi's lawyers promptly asked for a stay of the order pending an appeal to the Indian Supreme Court in New Delhi. The judge granted a 30-day stay, letting her remain in power. The conviction, if upheld, would automatically strip Mrs. Gandhi of her seat in parliament and bar her from holding public office for the next six years. The stunning decision in Allahabad, Mrs. Gandhi's birthplace 400 miles southeast of New Delhi, climaxed the first trial of a prime minister in India's 27 years of independence. Mrs. Gandhi, daughter of the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, appeared in person before the court last March in a dramatic attempt to save her political life. Her election in Rae Bareilly, her home district in Uttar Pradesh, was challenged in court four years ago by Socialist leader Raj Narain, the main rival in the 1971 balloting. The prime minister, riding a crest of popularity in the wake of India's 1970 war victory over Pakistan, defeated Narain by 110,000 votes — an overwhelming 2-to-1 majority. "Justice Sinha has upheld the high traditions of the Allahabad High Court and enhanced the prestige of the judiciary," a jubilant Narain said after the ruling. Sinha's decision caught Western diplomatic observers by surprise. One analyst had said earlier she "would have no trouble" winning the case. The prime minister gathered with her top aides in New Delhi after the ruling to discuss procedures for filing the appeal. Mrs. Gandhi, who was first elected prime minister in 1966, won a second five-year term in the 1971 election. She was scheduled to face reelection again next year. Mrs. Gandhi was hailed as the "Goddess of Victory" after the two-week war. But successive droughts and political corruption have since tarnished her image. Mrs. Gandhi improved India's relations with the Soviet Union but crushed Communists at home with an iron fist when they got in her way. Her government put down Communist food riots in Kerala in 1968, stamped out Maoist protests in West Bengal in 1971 and broke a 1974 railway strike by Socialists.

Ford, Rabin Talks Center On New Peace Initiative

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today began a final round of talks with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin on a new initiative for peace in the Middle East. Rabin was expected to urge Ford to begin deliveries to Israel of F15 aircraft, Lance missiles and other weapons it has been asking for in recent months. All told, it is seeking in military equipment and economic aid a record $2.5 billion. At a White House dinner Wednesday night, Ford assured Rabin of the "United States' strong and continuing support of the State of Israel." In a toast to his guest, Ford said that when they had last met in Washington nine months ago, "We agreed that it was in our mutual interest that efforts to maintain the momentum of negotiation should succeed and that it would be a tragedy if they failed." Ford added, "We recognize that stagnation would be most unfortunate in our search for peace. We meet today to ensure that this does not occur. With perseverance, we shall succeed." He conferred with Secretary of State Alexander Haig and Defense Secretary James Schlesinger on Israel's military shopping list. Further arms aid to Israel has been held up pending Ford's reassessment of U.S. Middle East policy.
